

County employees to receive pay hike

By DORIS CHERRY

Lincoln County is in good financial health.

Because of prudent, conservative spending in the last few years, Lincoln County Commissioners Stirling Spencer, Bill Elliott and Monroy Montes voted to give all county employees a six percent raise beginning July 1.

Commissioners hashed over another version of the budget for the next fiscal year at a worksession Tuesday afternoon. The county plans to spend 6.8 million from July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1993 to provide the various county services. Revenues are estimated at $6.4 million.

Finding the county with an easy $1.9 million in the general fund ending cash balance, department heads urged commissioners to approve a raise for all county employees. While some elected officials wanted as much as a 10 percent raise, all wanted a minimum of five percent.

"We don't need to moan and groan, because we're in good shape," said county manager Andy Wynham. Not many New Mexico counties are in good fiscal shape. Mora and Socorro Counties are broke and Valencia county has cut back on work hours and employees, said Spencer.

County clerk Martha Proctor commended the commissioners for its conservative budget and good cash balance, which has left the county in a healthy financial situation. Commissioners and Wynham credited the departments heads who chose to cut their budgets.

"I'm the luckiest county manager in New Mexico," Wynham said.

Also because of the conservative spending, commissioners have not had to impose the entire three mills they are allowed by state law. Rather they cut back to just one mill, for roads. The mill equals to one dollar of property tax for each $1,000 worth of taxable property.

While most departments had no changes from previous budget sessions with commissioners, Sheriff Jay McSwane requested another deputy to begin a D.A.R.E. program in the county schools, a part-time jailer and part-time dispatcher, a step increase for the records coordinator and a raise, to equal 65 percent of his salary, for his administrative secretary. McSwane said the funds for the D.A.R.E. deputy could be offset by a state grant. D.A.R.E. provides drug and other substance education to students by having an officer in the schools one day a week.

Commissioners went along with the part-time jailer and dispatcher, to provide some badly needed compensation

Capitan cable price increase

By DORIS CHERRY

Capitan residents who subscribe to the cable television will pay 15 percent higher basic monthly rates.

Paul Crown, owner of Lincoln Cablevision which has a franchise with the village, requested the rate increase in order to add more stations and replace the Country Music channel. While most at the Capitan Trustees meeting Monday night had no problem with the service Crown's company provides, they wanted better reception.

But Crown said he could only provide a signal as good as the equipment he had to pick it up. He now has two satellite dishes located on village-owned land in the Mount Capitan Subdivision and planned to install another if the rate increase was approved. With it he would add Discovery, Country Music TV, C-SPAN and USA Network in addition to the 12 channels already available.

Trustee Gordon Ross voted no to the rate increase request, but the vote carried with the other three. The 15 percent increase will amount to an additional $2.12 to the basic monthly rate effective July 1.

What started as a request for funding to help purchase dispatch equipment for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept. ended up as a campaign debate.

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane requested the Capitan Village Trustees provide $8,000 this one time to help upgrade the dispatch equipment at the sheriff's office in Carrizozo. McSwane made an identical request last year. He justified the request because the village police and emergency crews are dispatched from the Carrizozo office where last year a recording system was installed that improved records storage. U.S. Forest Service personnel are also dispatched from the sheriff's office after 5 p.m.

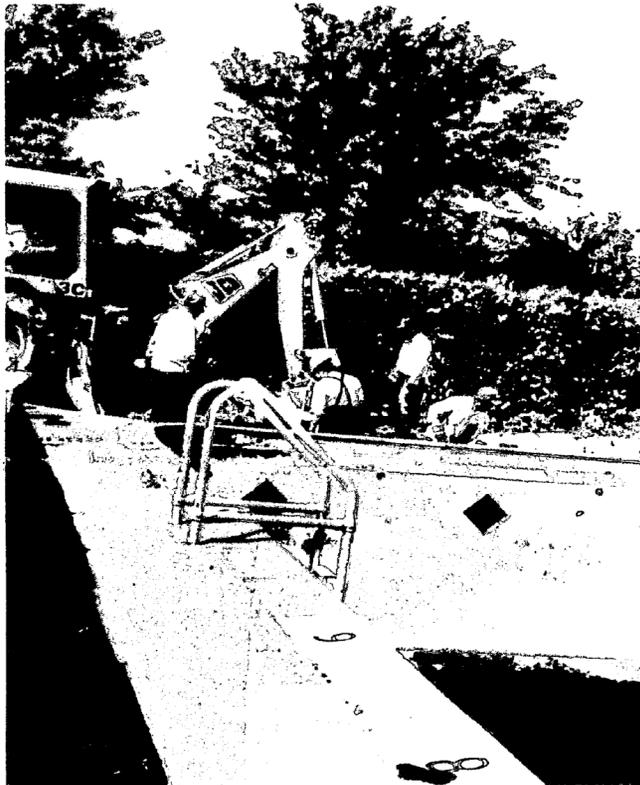

But Mayor Frank Warth argued the county gets $35,585 from the village in the form of Capitan property taxes already. While he agreed to put the request in the budget hearing, Warth thought the county should do something for the village for that $36,000.

McSwane also reminded his deputies were currently assisting the village with law enforcement while one of its officers was in training.

Trustee Leroy Montes agreed with Warth the county is not providing much for the property taxes.

When discussion got around to the E-911 system to be installed sometime in the future, the campaigning began. Sheriff's candidate Jimmie Luna agreed with McSwane the sheriff's department needed cooperative money from the municipalities it serves—but for a Lincoln County Communications Center. He proposed to consolidate all dispatches—

CARRIZOZO TOWN CREWS tear out the damaged decking at the town swimming pool—preparing for a long season of hot summer days and cool splashes. Lincoln County Commissioners appropriated funds to help the town repair the pool, the only such facility on the west side of Lincoln County. The deck will be replaced with new concrete and plumbing will be repaired.

Trustees say 'Work or else'

By DORIS CHERRY

Carrizozo Trustees sent a message to their chief of police this week — come back to work or find your job vacated.

Trustees Harold Garcia, Eileen Lovelace, Patsy Vallejos and Doug Whittaker, mayor Cecilia Kuhnle, town clerk Carol Schlarb and town attorney Robert Beauvais met mostly behind closed doors this week in two different sessions to discuss the police situation.

Chief of Police Choncho Morales recently took a leave of absence on a workman's compensation claim and the man hired to become the second policeman quit only two days after he started, leaving the town without a policeman. Lincoln County Sheriff's Deputies and New Mexico State Police have covered the town since the situation began last month.

On Monday, May 11, town clerk Carol Schlarb called a special meeting for personnel. She requested the meeting be held in closed session. When the meeting was called back into open session, mayor Cecilia Kuhnle announced the situation with the chief of police was discussed. The mayor was to write one last communication to Morales requiring him to return to duty. If he did not return or respond on or before Friday, May 15, the mayor would declare the police position abandoned.

Also Monday, mayor Kuhnle said the meeting was called at Schlarb's request to deal with personnel matters of allegations that were made disparagingly against her by former police officer Gene Knutson. Since Knutson was not present at the session, Kuhnle deemed the allegations unfounded and the clerk completely exonerated.

Tuesday night, following a closed session held during the regularly scheduled town meeting, Kuhnle proclaimed she had not to date received the formal letter of resignation she requested from former police officer Gene Knutson, and she declared the police position vacant as a result of abandonment.

Also in closed session trustees reviewed the one application in response to the adver-

Domenici staff to be in Carrizozo

"Staff members of the U.S. Senator Pete V. Domenici will be present in Carrizozo at the Lincoln County Courthouse, County Commissioners Room on Wednesday, May 20, 1992 from 10 a.m. to 12:00 noon. Anyone who is experiencing difficulty with a federal agency who would like Senator Domenici's assistance is welcome to visit with the Senator's staff. Additionally, anyone who would like to convey an opinion to the Senator is welcome to do so."

Maritime ceremony planned

A ceremony to honor merchant marines and military veterans will be held at Fort Stanton Cemetery May 22 at 10:30 a.m. National Maritime Day is May 22.

The cemetery this year will have two new additions, lovely anchors that will make most appropriate additional memorial monuments.

The anchor from the US Maritime Reserve Fleet at Beaumont, Texas weighs 10,000 pounds and was made available through Captain Warren Leback, head of the Maritime Administration in Washington, DC. The anchor came off a World War II Victory Ship.

The 1,000 pound Fisherman's anchor came from Taos. It belonged to a retired sea Captain who died recently. His widow made the anchor available to the cemetery.

A group of American Merchant Marine Veterans from Albuquerque plan to attend. The public is invited.

Grizzly athletes honored

Carrizozo Grizzly Athletes were honored at their annual sports banquet Tuesday.

The highlight of the evening was the naming of seniors James Silva and Cheryl Hightower as the Greatest Boy and Girl Grizzly, based on their participation in sports, academics and citizenship.

The award followed guest speaker Alamogordo High School head football coach, and former Carrizozo coach, Darrel Bode and awards in the individual sports.

Bode reminisced over his football career, started in Carrizozo in 1959. He took many in the audience back in time when the football field had a 15 percent grade and teams flipped coins to see which would get the "uphill and downhill" side of the field. He credited the late Truman Spencer for providing funds to construct the current field and the cinder track. He also remembered head Coach Bernie Laabs to whom the field was dedicated.

CARRIZOZO PRINCIPAL JOE PRICE PRESENTS the Greatest Grizzly boy and girl awards to seniors James Silva and Cheryl Hightower for their participation, scholarship, leadership and citizenship. The award was begun in 1974 and names entered through 1978. Price asked those gathered at the sports banquet for information about other Greatest Grizzlies since 1978. The students' names will be added to the plaque which will be displayed at the high school.

During his tenure at Carrizozo Schools, Bode had several state champions and he predicted the school would continue to produce winning teams. He acknowledged Hightower for being named to the KOAT-TV Top Gun award.

Bode attributed the student athletes' successes to the people of Carrizozo and their work ethic. "There are a lot of good people here, the parents are responsible and believe in work. They have pride in who there are."

He said the young people in smaller schools have better manners and more respect than those in large schools.

Bode encouraged the students to constantly strive to be better in their lives.

He remembered Bobby Dan

Crenshaw, one of the best athletes he's ever coached. It was Crenshaw's values that made him a success.

"This old world needs athletics, the only place where there is control and discipline."

Following Bode's speech, coaches honored their teams and gave out special awards. Junior high and high school

The Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) street paving project moved toward reality Tuesday when the bid to do the actual paving was awarded to Armstrong Construction. The opening of the three submitted bids at 2 p.m. Tuesday was conducted by Ted Asbury of Andrews, Asbury and Robert Engineering Firm of Albuquerque, design engineer. Also present were Curtis Schrader and Tony Elias of the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District which is administering the CDBG project. Armstrong Construction's $174,419.50 bid was the lowest of all three and accepted by trustees Tuesday night.

Also Tuesday night during open session, trustees hired Guy Archuleta and Leslie LaRue Archuleta as lifeguards for the town swimming pool. The town hopes to open the pool on Saturday, May 23. Repairs are underway at the pool now. The fire department by-laws were again tabled.

Trustees met in a budget worksession Wednesday night.

The 1985 graduate of Carrizozo High School, Carrizozo, N.M., and 1990 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, M.D., joined the Navy in May 1985.

Stewardship Award for Richard Montoya

Richard Montoya, a Hondo School graduate, San Patricio native, and son of Juan and Eva Montoya, was honored recently by the United States Forest Service.

He won the 1991 Stewardship Award for the entire Southwest Region which includes both New Mexico and Arizona.

Because of his patience and diplomatic abilities he successfully organized several opposing groups to work on a common problem of erosion that was creating many difficulties. Montoya had campers, ranchers, road construction officials, oil and gas execs, and the Forest Service working together to combat major erosion and deep cut gullies.

That was quite a victory and though it took him seven years, the end result has prevented further deterioration of land and streamside vegetation.

Montoya and his wife, Denise Concha of Taos, now reside in Cuba, New Mexico where Richard works as a Range Conservationist.

He graduated from Hondo High School in 1974, and NMSU at Las Cruces in 1978. He joined the Forest Service team upon graduation and has been in Cuba for the last eight years.

Richard returns to the family ranch in San Patricio as often as possible.

To apply, the students need to write a paragraph defining their needs, goals, and qualifications for the scholarship. The application and grade point verification should be submitted to Willa Stone, Box 484, Capitan, N.M. 88316, by June 1. The scholarship will be awarded at the Corriente CowBelle's annual team roping scheduled for June 13.

Shannon Conley selected for Trailblazers III

Shannon Conley, a Girl Scout from Ruidoso Downs, has been selected for a national Girl Scout event, Trailblazers III. Shannon is one of 24 Girl Scouts chosen throughout the country for the session.

Trailblazers III is part of Girl Scouting's "Wider Opportunities" program. Girls travel beyond their circle of family, friends, and local community to explore their own interests and try new skills in new environments.

"Girls have unique needs and interests, different from boys and different from one another," said Mary Rose Main, National Executive Director, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. "The extensive choice of wider opportunities ensures that every girl can find something which reflects her personal interests, rather than trying to fit into someone else's mold."

Shannon will spend a week at The Timbers Girl Scout Camp, in Traverse City, Michigan preparing for the second half of her trip. This part of the trip will involve hiking and primitive camping on South Manitou Island in Lake Michigan.

cheerleaders were recognized and awarded letters.

In volleyball, coach Kay Patterson presented the most valuable player award (voted on by all players) to Micha Schlarb; most improved player to Amy Funk and coaches award to Cheryl Hightower. Patterson said the girls gave her one of the best seasons she ever had and predicted the volleyball team would win next year. She also thanked Christetta Butts for her assistance during the volleyball season and her coaching the junior high volleyball team. The junior high team only lost two matches, one to Capitan. Butts also predicted the young girls would beat the Capitan junior high team next year.

Football coach Michael Booty expressed his thanks to the team and the fans for their great support. After naming off players named to the all state teams, he announced Damien Luna was the most improved player of the year. Lee Najar was the most valuable player (voted on by his fellow players).

Patterson recognized the girls varsity basketball team and all district players. The most valuable player (defensive) was Cheryl Hightower and (offensive) Jessica Estrella. The most improved player was Amy Funk and the coaches award went to Natalie Chavez.

Boys varsity basketball coach Ken Butts said that three-fourths the reason for the great season was attributable to former coach Ron Becker. The team ended the season with 23 wins and three losses, 8-0 in district and host of the regional tournament.

The regional final against Loving will be forever in Butts memory. "It was the best game all year," he said. Although the team did not win the state tournament, and lost in the first round against champions Melrose, Butts would not have changed one single thing about this season.

The defensive player of the year award went to Coby Sims (also voted on by the players). The coaches award went to James Silva and Justin Portillo. The most valuable player award went to Raphael Chavez, who had just received a letter of intent to play basketball for Chatham, State College in Nebraska.

Butts also gave his "Greatest Grizzly" award to Christetta Butts—his wife for her assistance and coaching during the year.

Golf coach, or driver as he called himself, Joe Price recognized golf team of Bryan Turnbow, Heath Rickman, Billy Sheehan and Davin Epperson.

A first-time honor for a high school sports banquet was given to Chad Patterson in the sport of cycling. Coach Galen Farrington, of Ruidoso, said the sport is fairly new to high schools in the southwest, and nearly nonexistent in New Mexico. Patterson was awarded with patches signifying his participation in several cycling races. A second award had only been given twice to a high school student in the state—the Century Rider of the Year.

To qualify for the Century Rider, Patterson had to compete in and complete at least three 100-mile cycling races within the year. Farrington said Patterson has cycled at least 5,000 miles in training in the last year, hoping to qualify for nationals. Patterson is a member of the cycling team with students from Ruidoso, Hobbs, Alamogordo and Las Cruces.

The sport is costly and is not subsidized by the schools, requiring a great commitment from the cyclist. "You are a winner by participating," Farrington told Patterson and all other athletes at the banquet.

When it came time to honor the track team, coaches Butts and Booty were highly animated. "I couldn't believe Carrizozo won the state meet," Butts said. Even when the points were tallied at the state meet in Albuquerque, Butts could not believe his team had won the championship. But it did and the trophy was proudly displayed with all the others won by the school's teams during the year.

From football to track, Carrizozo boys teams had only five defeats to Class A schools. "It was an exciting year," Butts said. This was Butts' second year of coaching high school sports.

The banquet culminated with the presentation of the Greatest Grizzly award. The Greatest Grizzly plaque, started in 1974, showed the winners until 1978. Principal Joe Price said he knew the award had been given since 1978, and asked for information about the winners from the audience which filled the new Grizzly gym.

Greatest Grizzly girl was Cheryl Hightower and Greatest Grizzly boy was James Silva. Both participated in all sports throughout the year.

Price closed the banquet by thanking the parents and patrons for their tremendous bunch of kids.

"The kids in Carrizozo are probably the best behaved kids I've known in my 25 years in education," he said.

The banquet dinner was prepared by Fred Serna and served by members of the Grizzly Booster Club.

Grizzly track team earns state title

What a finish for first-year Grizzly coach Ken Butts!

His Grizzly track team brought home the championship trophy from the state Class A track meet at the UNM stadium in Albuquerque Friday and Saturday, the first time in recent Grizzly history.

The dynamic team of James Silva, Anthony Archuleta, Coby Sims, Lee Najar and Lee Roy Zamora ran, jumped and threw its way to the state title. The Grizzlies' first-, second- and third-place finishes earned the points needed to shut out second-place Texico and the teams from 22 other Class A schools.

Najar won the 100M dash with a sprint of 11.27 seconds. Silva won the long jump with a leap of 21 feet, 3 1/4 inches.

Lee Roy Zamora was second with his javelin throw of 170 feet, eight inches.

Silva was second in the 110M hurdles with a dash of 16.26 seconds.

The 400M relay team of Silva, Archuleta, Sims and Najar was second with a run of 44.64 seconds. The boys finished second in the 800M relay with their run of 1 minute 34.37 seconds.

Najar was third with his 200M dash of 23.56 seconds.

And Silva finished third with his 42.05-second run in the 300M hurdles.

Grizzly track athletes Jon Vallejos, Val Reyes, Alfonso Lucero, Chris Barela and Cory Collins also competed at the state meet, but did not place.

LISTEN UP CARRIZOZO!

When a young teen gets pregnant, it can be a problem — for her, her family, the father, their child — for everyone. Here's why.

Young parents are less likely to finish school and develop income-producing skills. Because her family, school, and community may not be supportive, a young mother is less likely to seek emotional or medical help early — so chances of a poor birth outcome increase.

The cost in terms of young mother's future, income support expenses, her child's health, and possibly a lifetime of care is enormous and we all pay.

But we can all help reduce this cost. By being aware of the problem. By making our children aware of the price of an early pregnancy, or a birth when there has not been early and regular prenatal care. By watching this important program.

If you observe a bunch of old folks wandering around old Lincoln town next Wednesday, say "hi" to them. They will be feeling a bit decrepid. The 1942 graduating class of Roswell High School will be transported to Lincoln for a walking tour of the town and lunch at the Wortley. Alice Bryant is scheduled to address the group.

Fifty years? Where did they go.

We're not sure we want to be seen with the bald-headed, overweight and wrinkled people who will make up the reunion tour group. But, then, as a member of that graduating class, we have a few wrinkles and thinning hair of our own. Confession, someone said, is good for the soul.

A former Lincoln resident, Bill Shreengost, young Bill's dad, will be speaking to the grads that same evening at a dinner meeting in Roswell. Bill, we believe, currently lives in Santa Fe. Bill was vice president of the 1942 graduating class. Under his name in the high school annual were these words: "A magnetic personality that drew even the snail from its shell." Bill was a good friend. We envied him a little; he drove a Model A convertible with a rumble seat while in high school.

Another former Lincoln County resident who maintains a place below Ruidoso Downs, Walt Wiggins, says he will attend the reunion for a day of two. Walt, who formerly had Wiggins Art Gallery on Mechem, currently lives in Santa Fe. He has a gallery there. Walt was publicist and PR person for Ruidoso Downs Race Track in its infant years, old timers will recall. He and Ray Reed worked together. Gene Hensley owned the track at that time.

Walt, unfortunately, has been in ill health recently. He and Roynel spent some time in Lincoln County this week.

One of the star athletes of Roswell High School in 1942 and a member of that graduating class, is a Ruidoso resident. He is Ben Kelly, seen most mornings playing tennis in School House Park with Wilbur Conley, formerly of Roswell, and others. We expect to see Ben at reunion activities.

Under his name in the high school annual are these words: "Zeus looked up to this athlete, fit to become a king."

In 1942, the Roswell High Coyotes football team won eight games, lost one and tied one in district play. Kelly was team captain, all district back and all state back.

In basketball, the Coyotes won 14 and lost five. The team won district for the third time in succession. Kelly was the high scorer frequently. He played guard.

The Coyotes defeated Capitán 43-23 that year. Glen Dennis, formerly of Lincoln, was on that Coyote team.

Gayle Armstrong Stokes, who with her husband, Dewey, have a place at Alto, is a 1942 graduate. We expect to see her at reunion events. We have something in common. We were born the same day the same year way back when" our folks lived across the street from each other in Roswell. She is from the Armstrong and Armstrong contractors family which is doing the resurfacing of Sudderth Drive. Armstrong does good work. Sudderth is again velvety smooth. The senior Bill Armstrong, Gayle's brother, used to commute daily from the Honddo Valley to his offices in Roswell.

We worked for Armstrong and Armstrong at one time for a short time. It was the brief time from the first year of college to induction time in the Army Air Corps. We drove a dump truck 10 hours a day, six days a week for Armstrong while runways at Walker Air Force Base were being built. Those were the good old days. Pay, as we recall, was 55 cents per hour. Times have changed.

County pay hike . . .

time for the full-time jailers and dispatchers, but they balked at the pay raise, step increase and extra deputy. They told McSwane when he had the grant money for the D.A.R.E. deputy to come back to them for consideration.

As for the secretary's pay raise, commissioners discussed that in closed session for personnel, but were against such an increase.

The step increase was viewed unfavorably by Wynham, who said such action was not wise at budget time. Rather he proposed to review the entire employee matrix and compare it with similar sized counties sometime this summer.

Three new vehicles for the department were budgeted.

All other departments, except one fire department, showed no changes to their conservative budgets.

Bonito Fire Dept. protested a change in its submitted budget. All funds for the fire departments come from the state fire marshal's office, based on submitted department budgets. While most departments elect to allow the county manager's office to prepare the budgets, Bonito Fire does it's own. The county chose to subsidize the Bonito Fire insurance and adjusted the department's budget to reflect that.

The fire department budgets were sent to Santa Fe already. But Bonito Fire Dept. Chief Howard Puckett was upset about the change which occurred without his presence, and sent two department representatives to convey his message. Lester and Yvonne Lanelli told commissioners Puckett had sought legal advice over the change in the Bonito budget and found it could lead to a felony charge.

"I'm offended you came to this hearing," Wynham said. He opined the situation could have been handled administratively with a few calls.

Spencer said Puckett should contact the county manager directly about any budget problems in the future, rather than spending money for legal advice. Elliott suggested the fire department foot the entire $7,000 bill for insurance in the future.

"Remember all equipment belongs to Lincoln County and we have to protect it," Elliott said.

The final budget will be considered and approved by commissioners at their regular meeting Tuesday, May 19. The budget will be sent to the Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) in Santa Fe for review and approval.

Over 78 percent of Americans are high school graduates.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Cultural Affairs Director Helmuth Naumer is juggling two hot potatoes—the Quintcentenary Commission and the "Hear New Mexico" messages for travelers along New Mexico's highways.

This column is too short to handle both so we'll start with the highway messages.

A few months ago the Cultural Affairs Office issued a request for proposals for 20 recorded messages by a nationally-known celebrity explaining our state. The messages are beamed from low-frequency transmitters on designated stretches of highway marked by blue and white highway department signs.

The signs advise travelers to tune to 530 AM for a recorded message. At least two news reports have listed the setting as 510, but the AM dial doesn't go that low.

The New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau has taken exception with three of the messages—aired near Socorro, Clovis and Tularosa—for blaming farmers and ranchers for ruining the bosque, guzzling the Ogallala Aquifer and driving the Mescalero Apaches from their homeland.

The Bureau seems most upset about the "overgrazing" charge. Naumer says the segment doesn't accuse today's ranchers of overgrazing. The comment with which the ranchers take exception refers to a past practice. Naumer says the reference to overgrazing might be de-emphasized or eliminated if his office ever redoes the tapes.

The Bureau's network is obviously good, but it's not working at 100 percent. Another message says overgrazing turned the grassy plain in the Taos Valley to sagebrush. And a segment airing near Carlsbad says overgrazing was one reason for the end of the cattle boom of the late 1800s.

The Bureau has written to fellow rancher, Gov. Bruce King, asking that the offending segments be taken off the air. The Bureau offers to recut the messages if he feels are inaccurate "using the voice of a native New Mexican announcer."

King says he wants the opportunity to look at all the scripts. That's a good idea. The Farm Bureau should do the same. Few defend farmers and ranchers more enthusiastically than this column. And although I found a strong environmentalist leaning in many of the messages, they are well-written, well-researched and fairly well-balanced.

The message citing irrigation for depleting the Ogallala Aquifer ends by saying, "Wisely, many farmers in the region are experimenting with more efficient means of water delivery and with crops that demand less irrigation."

The segment citing overgrazing as a factor ending the cattle boom also blames it on "strict land laws." In fact that entire segment is a glorification of the cowboy.

The 20 messages were written by a former state historian and an author nominated for a Pulitzer Prize for his sympathetic portrayal of a New Mexico rancher in River of Traps.

The danger in Gov. King censoring segments one interest group finds offensive is that others could easily demand equal treatment. Several segments mention Indian attacks. Others talk about the Spanish taking land from Indians and about the vicious attack on Acoma Pueblo. Two segments mention the United States invading Mexico to take the territory from New Mexico to Wyoming. And one message mentions wealthy Anglos who took land from Hispanics years ago.

The messages aren't upbeat tourist promotions—but they weren't prepared by the Tourism Department. This was a project of the Cultural Affairs Office to take factual "museum-type" messages to travelers through our state. They are highly interesting and should entice tourists to see more of our state. Admittedly, the messages aren't the fluff one expects to hear promoting local sightseeing and shopping.

So why not change the messages regularly? Ask the Farm and Livestock Bureau to record some of them. It has a professional broadcast operation that would record segments free of charge. Have the Tourism Department record a set of messages. And have the Cultural Affairs Office record additional segments.

It's a great idea. I want to hear more.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR—More than one burning question smolders in the ashes of the Los Angeles riots. One is, how did they manage to lose a trial when 78% of Americans knew the defendants were guilty even before the trial? On the other hand, maybe it was sheer brilliance on the part of the defense.

For one thing, the DA's men chose not to put Rodney King on the witness stand. Not a move that is apt to build sympathy for King. To the contrary, the move could have generated suspicion. It likely did. Maybe they had no choice. After the trial was lost, prosecutor Terry White is on record as explaining, "From that (from putting King on the stand) we would never have been able to recover." That does not sound good for King. It seems a strong point for the defense.

It now appears that the defense beat the DA's men with their own film clip. Over 30 times the clips were shown the jury. Oftentimes the film was shown a frame at a time with narration by experts. Whatever the prosecution expected the film clip to do, it apparently did not do. But, you can be sure that it played a major role in the riots, in the fires, and in the murders.

But, all is not over yet. There is still President Bush and the Civil Rights Commission. Then there is the forthcoming presidential election in November, and, the President could use a little boost from the biggest electoral state. It could be quite a boost. If the President plays it right, he just might ride those film clips to four more years in the White House.

The Other Side

By Owen Russell

She turned out to be the prototypical blond joke. You know, the one who furnished the standard for development of the concept, but before the huge had been worked out.

We were spending a few days in a strange town recently, and after dinner the first night there, we went out to explore the available night life. ("Night Life": What parents do that their children shouldn't, or when parents behave like they would expect their children to. In either case, strange things happen after dark in a strange town.) This one bar we went into was loaded with college professors who were vigorously discussing their student's grades. It seemed a bit dull to me since I hadn't experienced the range of grades they were talking about, most of mine having been in the mid to lower range, but the conversation was more interesting than it was in the place we had just come from, which consisted mostly of "I wonder when the waitress will realize we haven't yet been served?" Several other comments that were heard were, "this looks like a good place to start a bar", and "where do you think he spent the money his father gave him for music lessons", and "it's a good thing her mother didn't see her in that dress", and the like.

I choked down three beers that night because that's how many bars there were, and none held our part of the crowd for a second round.

You note I started this last item with the phrase "we did it". This is an old and timeworn technique of journalism which is apparently designed to allow your readers to share in the author's experiences, but it is sometimes carried too far. An editor friend of mine was once describing his vacation, and he said, "We had such a good time until it rained, and my socks needed changing, but we were able to do so without any difficulty since we had packed enough to encounter most emergencies." "However, since we experienced such a crisis because changing socks is so hard to do with only two hands, and we could have used some help, I sincerely hope my wife and family can go with us next time. "If we hadn't of been by ourselves, we might have gotten them on the right feet, but you know how difficult some tasks are without the services of a navigator".

My old lawyer friend, E.S. Whatshisname, Esq., told me the other day a client had asked him to do a divorce on a contingent fee basis, but he said he had to refuse not only because the State Bar frowns on such practices but because of what he could see coming. "It was apparent to me", he said, "that the outcome was going to be that she got the house, he got the bills, and I was going to get the kids, and I had been acquainted with that family too long for that." "That sort of a division of marital bliss was just more than the average bear could stand." Besides, since I didn't participate in the accumulation, why should I receive all the benefits? "I now had a better understanding of what the phrase 'just say no' means, and I took advantage of my opportunity."

After that tirade, I thought it was the better part of valor not to mention to him that I had a brand new litter of kittens at my house.

Someone once said, "The silent majority is going to rise again, and everything will be different". I don't see how, though, because the silent majority is the group which elects all our public officials, since it seems that most of those who publicly express their preferences say something like, "I wouldn't vote for that turkey in a million years".

Nature study for county 5th graders

Local fifth graders got a day under the cool pines of Cedar Creek and some quick lessons on how to conserve our natural resources recently.

New Mexico State Forestry (NMSF) and the U.S. Forest Service (USFS) sponsored the two-day Conservation Days at the Cedar Creek Campground near Ruidoso recently. Fifth graders from Capitan, Carrizozo, Hondo and Ruidoso spent one of the two days at the campground where representatives from several agencies gave talks and hands-on lessons on conservation of natural resources.

Students from the different schools were mixed together, then broken into small groups which visited stations where the representatives gave their 20-minute lessons. Students learned how to determine a tree's age at the tree measurement station manned by Cameron Martinez and Clay Garrison from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) and found many of the trees in the campground to be about 100 years old. They had to run for tree branches then correctly identify them at the tree identification station manned by NMSF representative Barbara Luna and Bill Duenling.

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS (BIA) representative Cameron Martinez shows fifth grade students from Ruidoso and Capitan how to determine a tree's age by measuring it. Martinez was one of many agency representatives who presented short talks on various forms of conservation at the 1992 Conservation Days organized by the New Mexico State Forestry Office and US Forest Service.

Marty Tagg and Rita Moots from the USFS instructed the students why there are laws prohibiting the taking of ancient Indian artifacts at the archaeology station.

Preserving soil was Soil Conservation Service rep Greg Haussler's station. Howard Shanks from the RC&D and Robert Schmidt, interagency biologist helped out with the instruction.

New Mexico Game and Fish officers Don Hanson and Ron Moore told the students about the need for managing wildlife.

USFS representatives Steve Makowski, Bill Tucker, Tom Guck, Ira Castor and Diana Person; Ruidoso Fire Dept. representatives Roby Hall, Justin Shaw, Chet Southard and Jerry Paiz and Bureau of Land Management representative Dusty Voss gave students a look at fire engines and lessons on fire management and precautions.

Steve Daly from the BLM manned the station on watershed management.

Joe Kurmasick from the USFS volunteered his time to help with the students.

Lynn Hutchinson from the NMSF and Peg Crim from the USFS coordinated the event.

Upper Hondo Soil and Water Conservation District helped offset the cost of the buses to transport the students to the campground.

Capitan, Carrizozo, Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and the county—into one central dispatch, in order to save money.

McSwane argued the various law enforcement departments are traditionally "territorial" and the only way a centralized dispatch would work was with an impartial private contractor, which would cost more for each municipality.

Presently, the dispatch staff in the sheriff's office is essential to the operate and maintain security for the jail, he said.

Luna said a feasibility study would show whether a centralized dispatch would work, so money would not be thrown away. But McSwane replied that feasibility studies cost money. He concluded that his request was not to be yearly, rather one time to help defray the equipment costs.

Trustees appointed Debra Cummins as their new clerk/treasurer.

Trustees Montes, L.C. Cozens, Gordon Ross and Gilbert Montoya unanimously approved the appointment of Cummins by Mayor Warth. Cummins has served as deputy clerk and will replace current clerk Jan Starnes who will move to Roswell with her husband who was transferred.

Cummins will begin June 1.

Trustees also heard a request from Pam Tafoya from Capitan High School to help organize a youth center. A group of teens from the school began discussion about a center as part of an English assignment. The assignment has grown into a project sponsored by English teacher Linda Marr, and teachers Diane Riska and Hazel Poissott. The group is connected with "Lifeguards."

Tafoya said currently the area youth have nothing to do and often drink or do drugs. Many drive to Ruidoso and she worried that someday someone will be injured or killed while driving home. Her group wants to find a location for youth activities. The school has offered use of the gym.

She asked for permission to use the old city hall so parent- and sex education classes could be given for the 11 pregnant girls at the school.

Village attorney Robert Beauvais cautioned trustees to be aware of the anti-donation laws which prohibit giving a donation of cash to any such group. To provide a facility would be acceptable.

Police officer Lance Zink said from what he has seen around town, he supports a youth center.

Tafoya concluded she did not want to see the problem worsen when she returns to the village as an adult.

In other business, trustees: —Heard the mayor proclaim May 3-9 as Municipal Clerk's Week.

—Approved the Procurement Resolution which puts village purchasing practices on line with state codes.

—Heard County Commission District 4 candidates Don Dutton and Bill Swettmann ask for support in the upcoming primary election.

Capitan sports season ends

Crown CowBelle executive board met Thursday morning, May 7. Then all members went to the school lunch room for lunch, then back to the board room for the regular meeting. There were 15 present and guests, Shorry and Walter Gensler Jr. Frances Fuller was hostess for the afternoon snacks.

Copies of the beef cookoff recipes and Farm Journal were distributed.

President Sholley Frost introduced school Supt. Langan who discussed SB9. This is the two mill property tax levy to be voted June 30. The district passed this levy last year but due to a technicality it must be voted again. This means $80,000 a year to the district for three years, 1991-94. Parts of Terrance, Socorro and Lincoln Counties are in this school district. He explained how much of the bond money has been spent, how much is left and earmarked and what uses are planned for the money from the two mill levy. The State Highway Dept. has a 60/40 grant for paving three parking lots. There are roofs to be replaced, corrections in the heating system, replacing the football field lights with low density high power units, upgrading the computer system with four or five systems, the old computers to be sent over for use in the elementary grades, repair and stucco rock walls and pave the track, among other things. It is not to be used for salary increases.

Tod Pinnol, FFA advisor, introduced district winners in speech who will be going to state competition next month. Bill Post spoke extemporaneously on "What Has a Cow Done to you Lately?" He compared cattle methane to emission from wet lands and rice paddies. He stated that a lack of food is not a problem but distribution is. He wondered how nuggets of information could get transformed into bundles of misinformation.

Randy Lueras gave his prepared talk on "Water-Friend or Foe." He discussed pollutants, chemical, bacterial and others.

Mrs. Post will accept the CowBelle $75 scholarship and attend the "Ag in the Classroom" seminar at NMSU June 15-17.

Sue Maness, quilt chairman, reported that one quilt is ready for binding. The second quilt will be put up in the home of Helen Porter where anyone may stop in for a quilting session. Mrs. Porter, chairman for Beef for Father's Day, stated that at Corona Trading Co. a chance will be given for each pound of beef purchased there. There will be a drawing a day or two before Father's Day for a first prize of a $25 beef certificate and a second prize of a $15 certificate. She remarked that volunteers are needed for the cemetery cleanup since several of the men have health problems.

SAN PATRICIO'S BILLY JOE Herrera, staff member at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School and partner, Connie Chavez are shown dancing at Carrizozo Art Fiesta, a school sponsored event. Chavez, a resident of Roswell is a bilingual education instructor at Nancy Lopez Elementary.

Dancing at Art Fiesta

"Dancing can be fun, beautiful, artistic, and diverse," James Smith, master of ceremonies, told the crowd at the Art Fiesta at Carrizozo Municipal Schools. "Tonight we will try to demonstrate to you just how artistic and diverse dancing can be." Smith is a junior at Carrizozo High School.

The Mariachi sound of Roswell Folklorico echoed throughout the gymnasium at Carrizozo Schools, creating an unforgettable evening of sights and sounds. Group leader Frank Herrera told show goers about the background of the culture and origin of the dance style.

Other former Hondo dancers who entertained and added to the cultural experience of the May 1 Art Fiesta were 1979 Hondo Fiesta King Jerome McTeigue; Laura Gomez McTeigue; Connie Chavez; 1974 King Billy Joe Herrera and Yvonne McTeigue, Zumwalt.

Carrizozo Schools also had on display the work of art students in kindergarten through 12th grade. The art show, held in conjunction with the dance performances, included work done by art students this school year. The best work of the exhibit will be displayed at this year's Lincoln County Fair and the State Fair in Albuquerque.

Dancers at the Art Fiesta included Carrizozo 4th graders and cousins Lisa Dugger, Renee Rael and Holly Schlarb performing a dance routine to the tune "Ice, Ice Baby." Their choreographer was Christetta Butts.

Melissa Craine, Wendy Nowell, Vanessa Rollerson, Nikki Taylor and Kari Wallace of Alamogordo tapped and jazzed their way through two dance numbers. The dancers are students of Cathy Busby at the Cathy Busby School of Dance at Alamogordo.

Carrizozo 5th graders got the audience into the "swing of country music with the "Cotton-Eyed Joe." The toe-tapping dance was performed under the direction of teacher Wini Wilmore.

I guess you are wondering who the blond was. Well, I really don't know, because this was a chance encounter and I was only acquainted with her for a short time and at a safe distance, and didn't get an opportunity to discover if first impressions were valid, nor do I recall her name, nor would I admit it if I did, and she was not the one I met in the college bar. (I wonder if anyone is buying this one.)

Sheriff's report

About 5 p.m. Wednesday, May 6, Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane hurried to the scene of what was first reported as a possible homicide in the Corona area.

The incident turned out to be a vehicular homicide when police found Tommy Cordova, 22, Belen, was killed when he was thrown out of a truck driven by Johnny Garcia, 27, Albuquerque. According to the first responding New Mexico State Police (NMSP) officer Scott Tammaro, the men had just been released from the Southern New Mexico Correctional Facility in Las Cruces. They had been on the bus headed north through Corona when the incident began.

Ernest Lueras in Corona called the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office in Carrizozo at 4:55 p.m. May 6 and reported two drunken men had been dropped off the greyhound bus in Corona. About two minutes later the subjects allegedly stole a vehicle at Mulkey's impound lot and headed north on Highway 54 to Duran.

At 5:19 p.m. Vaughn Police Dept. advised of an accident with injuries on Highway 54. An ambulance was dispatched from Vaughn.

At 5:29 p.m. a Torrance county deputy requested a medical investigator at the accident scene. At 5:48 p.m. a Lincoln County Deputy advised the state police had a prisoner and a confession to a homicide.

Tammaro said Cordova was killed when Garcia lost control of the stolen truck when he tried to make a right turn at a high rate of speed. Cordova was thrown out of the vehicle and crushed by the truck. At first, officers believed Cordova was shot because two spent shells were found inside the cab of the truck. But the responding medical investigator ruled the man died as a result of being crushed and drug by the vehicle.

Garcia left Cordova at the scene of the accident, but was later stopped by state police. He was charged with three felony counts of leaving the scene of an accident involving injury or death, receiving or transporting stolen motor vehicle, homicide by motor vehicle (great bodily harm) and he was cited for no driver's license. Garcia was booked into the Torrance County Jail on the charges.

State police officer Tammaro, Sheriff James McSwane, Torrance County Sheriff Bobby Chavez, Torrance County undersheriff James Klein, Lincoln County Deputies Gilbert Sambrano and Lerry Bond and two other New Mexico State Police responded to the incident report. Tammaro credited Klein for his services above and beyond the normal line of duty in helping with the investigation.

Monday, May 11, New Mexico State Police released information about the incident after Cordova's next of kin were found.

MAY 4
 3:06 a.m.—Southern Pacific Railroad dispatcher reported a one vehicle accident with injuries south of Oscura. The vehicle was in the ditch and an 18-wheeler was at the location and it appeared there was an accident. NMSP was notified and a deputy went to the scene. The deputy ascertained the injured man was taken to Tularosa by the driver of the 18-wheeler. From there NMSP sent out an ambulance.
 10:58 a.m.—a wrecker was dispatched to the White Oaks turn-off on Highway 54 to tow a vehicle belonging to three subjects who were in police custody.

3:02 p.m.—Carrizozo ambulance was dispatched to a Carrizozo residence.

MAY 5
 5:39 a.m.—a Tinnie resident reported vandalism to mailboxes by a valley subject.

MAY 6
 8:35 a.m.—Capitan High School requested an officer to take a report of a theft. A deputy responded.

10:17 a.m.—an alarm sounded at a Highway 48 Alto area residence.

10:52 a.m.—Capitan City Hall requested an officer at a second street residence, where a person was possibly trespassing. The responding deputy advised the man had consent to enter the residence to get some tools.

4:40 p.m.—an accident with injuries was reported north of Capitan. The subject was brought to a cafe in Capitan.

4:46 p.m.—a breaking and entering was reported at the Yogi Bear Trailer Park.

5:06 p.m.—a Capitan woman reported a neighbor's dog almost bit her. The German shepard would have bit her if she hadn't had a hose in her hand.

Capitan talent

KLAY JONES, accompanied by his dad Ken Jones, sings cowboy songs at the Capitan Talent Show. Klay was voted second place in the recent show.

From cowboy songs to rock-n-roll and modern dance, Tuesday night's Capitan Band and Chorus annual talent show was a lot of fun.

After 16 acts, judges voted the dance duo of Veronica Roybal and Anna Auchmoedy who called themselves Take "2" to be the best of the show. They performed a medley of dance from rock-n-roll, the twist, to the current steps.

Joni Autrey's rendition of "Respect" was voted second and Klay Jones, accompanied by his dad Ken Jones, singing cowboys songs "Cowboy Logic and Reincarnation" was third.

In keeping with Cinco de Mayo, Krystal Roybal sang "Hey Baby, Que Paso," and the classic "Andale."

Kyle and Josh Jones performed a medley on guitar and fiddle, Marlo Maroon sang "Down at the Twist and Shout."

Brooke Leigh Holland performed her first piano piece,

"The Fairies Harp" and Annalise Haussler danced to "Locomotion."

Tawyna Reynolds sang the popular "Wind Beneath My Wings" from the movie "Beaches," Amalia Sanchez also sang, "From a Distance."

Girls in the Hodd (Kelli and Stephanie Hester) danced to "Under Pressure," Leslie Lock recited "Mother Doesn't Want a Dog" and Shelby Gowen sang and danced to "Stand by the Jam."

The Old Kids on the Block Return (rock band) closed out the show with their rendition of "I Fall to Pieces, Living in the USA and Bang a Gong." The Old Kids consisted of Capitan staff, music teacher Dick Valenzuela, art teacher Jerry Rice and maintenance supervisor Nick Pacheco, Elliott Topper, Tom Billingsly and Elizabeth Smith.

Matt MacVeigh was the "incidental comedian" who provided several dumb jokes. Mary Shanks was emcee.

Members of the audience were given a chance to judge the talent show entrants. On the program was a ballot which allowed the audience to score each on a scale of 1-10. Results were announced later in the week.

The Capitan Music Department left for Dallas Wednesday night. The group had planned a trip to California, including Disneyland, but music instructor Dick Valenzuela changed plans after the riots in Los Angeles. With the change of plans, the music department will have money left over from their numerous fundraisers.
