

Sheriff Asks Commission For More Staff

By DORIS CHERRY

Lincoln County Commissioners got together for a special meeting and adopted a modified Roberts Rules of Order.

Unsatisfied with the lack of any formal rules after their first meeting Jan. 4, commissioners conducted the special meeting Wednesday to establish some rules or order for meetings and to review co-op and school bus road agreements presented by road manager Bill Cupit.

But before the meeting was over, it turned into another discussion of remodeling the jail and sheriff's department and the sheriff's request for more staff.

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane, when he came to the portion of the meeting allowed for reports from elected officials, referred to a memo he sent commissioners about the proposed remodeling/additions to the sheriff's office and his need for additional manpower to run the expanded office. McSwane said his department is not serving the public's needs with the current manpower. One main worry was when the Enhanced 911 system is installed, there will be a greater need for more staff in communications or dispatch.

He also proposed moving the sheriff's office to a modular building set up in the courthouse parking lot or a different building in Carrizozo, instead of remodeling the current facility.

In his memo, McSwane requested five additional employees. However, a first priority would be a receptionist. "I believe I am not serving the public as they come in the sheriff's department properly," he said.

Now there is no receptionist in the office, and people usually go to the dispatcher for help. However, dispatch is obligated to law enforcement, fire and other emergency agencies and cannot always take care of the public in the office. At times, a deputy has been called in off the streets to help the public in the office.

County manager Andy Wynham said he had not yet made a formal public presentation on the proposed expansion/remodeling of the jail-sheriff's office area because he planned to do that at the Feb. 2 regular meeting. Then he was going to ask for approval of the remodeling plans, drawn by architect Wayne Andrews of Albuquerque. Last year, after McSwane turned the jail over to the commissioners, Wynham began working on plans to remodel the jail and the sheriff's office. Wynham said he knows what is needed for the jail, and he had two primary areas of concern in the sheriff's office—poor working area for the deputies and dispatch in poor condition.

He estimated the proposed expansion would cost $190,000.

Wynham was anxious to get the jail work done so he asked commissioners to allow him to proceed on the jail portion of the remodeling if disagreements about additional sheriff's staff ties up the sheriff's office remodeling.

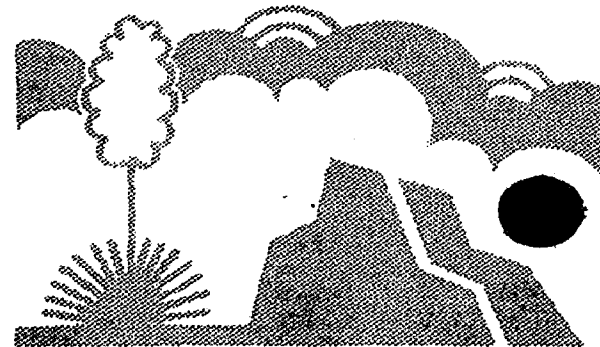

Wynham said the personnel issue was a political one last year and if nothing was done in the sheriff's office, McSwane would still ask for additional personnel.

Commissioner Wilton Howell thought the personnel issue needed to be addressed. He also saw McSwane's concern about the proposed plans, primarily a proposed Sally Port at the northwest side of the jail/sheriff's office complex which would make it difficult to access the sheriff's office after regular working hours. "The plans look similar to Otero County's (Sheriff Office), Howell said. He gave an example of trying to access the Otero County sheriff's office after hours, where he had to call from a pay phone to be allowed access.

Commission chairman Monroy Montes said the discus-

CARRIZOZO MAYOR CECILIA KUHNEL (left) talks with John Underwood, state representative for Lincoln County Wednesday, Jan. 13. Underwood talked with constituents in Carrizozo, Capitan, Ruidoso and Corona, telling them of his plans and hearing their needs and concerns.

Underwood Listens To Citizen's Concerns

By DORIS CHERRY

Revision of DWI laws and ethics will be major issues of this legislative session.

District 56 representative H. John Underwood, who represents all of Lincoln County and parts of Otero and Chaves counties, met with some 10 people in Carrizozo, Wednesday, Jan. 13.

Reaction to a tragic auto accident on Christmas eve where an alleged drunken driver crashed into a car killing its driver and her three children has prompted a new outcry to make lowered blood alcohol limits, close all drive up windows, raise taxes on alcohol and make tougher mandatory sentences for DWI offenses, including forfeiture of vehicles of repeat offenders.

Underwood did not agree with all terms of the DWI reform which will be presented by state attorney general Tom Udall. In Underwood's opinion closing drive up windows will only hurt the "mom and pop" businesses and not provide an answer to the DWI problem. New Mexico leads the nation in DWI related traffic deaths.

Currently in New Mexico one out of three vehicles on the road is driven by someone drunk.

Carrizozo police department head Charlie White asked not for DWI reform, rather to enforce the DWI laws on the books already. White, a victim of an accident caused by a drunken driver several years ago, said stricter laws and closing drive up windows are not the answer.

In his 18 years of law enforcement he had arrested more than 200 DWI offenders, all of whom received no penalties. It would be more effective if an offender realized he would get 30 days in jail and a $300 fine on the first offense, White said.

By enforcing current DWI laws, taxpayers would not have to spend another nickel on new laws.

Underwood said the current laws are discretionary rather than mandatory, which leaves it up to the judge to determine whether or how long a jail sentence will be and the amount of a fine. The "good ole boy network", as Underwood termed it, keeps the jail time to a mini-

Carrizozo School Receives Clean Report From State

By RUTH HAMMOND

Carrizozo Schools accreditation for another three years was discussed Friday by the Department of Education team who conducted the on-site accreditation survey three days last week. The team conducted an Exit Meeting and gave a brief overview of areas on non-compliance as well as strengths they found at the school. A written report will be sent to the school in 40 to 80 days.

The school received a clean report with few areas of non-compliance. The team chair, Chlo Mingo, said the Exit Meeting is just another step in the process for the state to recommend accreditation.

The team was pleased with the reception they received from students and staff and said the halls were "dripping with creativity." They were especially pleased with the program for three and four-year-olds as well as the preschool story hour. The "good press coverage" was also mentioned.

General management procedures and policies were very good overall. The state will ask Carrizozo Schools to "clean up" some technicalities concerning the open meetings act. Minutes of school board meetings were reviewed and it was found the minutes do not state whether the superintendent makes recommendations prior to the board taking action on certain matters as is required by state law.

The board will be asked to refrain from interacting with administration and the team said the board needs in-service training on board duties. Some of the board policies were missing even though the policy is good and may cover too much.

LCSWA May Pursue Revenue Bond Issue

By DORIS CHERRY

Finances worried members of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority at their meeting Tuesday.

Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) members informally agreed that they should pursue a revenue bond issue to finance their portion of the proposed regional joint landfill with Otero County Solid Waste Authority (OCSWA). The bonds would be financed with revenues from the environmental gross receipt taxes now collected from businesses in all county municipalities and Lincoln County.

The special taxes, which had originally been passed to purchase assets and start up operations for LCSWA trash collections, were diverted by members a few months ago so LCSWA could become a player in the regional landfill. LCSWA and OCSWA members negotiated and reached an agreement for each to pay half the costs of the landfill permit process, to be done in three phases.

"The financial obligations could cripple the authority," said LCSWA attorney Robert Beauvais.

Beauvais asked if any member had serious concerns if LCSWA did not go through the procurement code for a financial advisor. Beauvais recommended employing The Principles, Eppler Guerin and Turner Inc. of Albuquerque, as bond counsel since that company did considerable work on a revenue bond that LCSWA wanted to pursue to begin operations. The company proposes to do the bond advisory work and charge a fee only if the bond issue is approved.

MRS Is Not A "Dead" Issue

Dr. Robert Walters, member of the MRS Advisory Committee to the Ruidoso Village Council, returned from a Jan. 5-6 meeting of the Nuclear Waste Technical Review Board in Arlington, VA., to report that the Mescalero MRS project is far from "dead". Presentations to NWTRB by Mr. Charles B. Lempesis, Chief of Staff for David H. Leroy, Nuclear Waste Negotiator, and by staff of the Office of Civilian Radioactive Waste Management of DOE, indicate Leroy is continuing efforts to reach an MRS siting agreement with the Mescaleros, and he expects to be able to send an agreement to Congress by the end of 1993.

DOE/OCRWM, in a policy shift outlined by outgoing DOE Secretary James Watkins in a letter to Senator Bennett Johnston (D-LA) in mid-December, meanwhile will

Warth Is New SNMEDD Head

Frank Warth, Mayor of Capitan, was elected President of the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District, at its 22nd annual meeting held in Roswell on Friday, Jan. 15.

Warth has been Mayor of Capitan since March of 1990, and has served on the SNMEDD Executive Committee and Board of Directors. He is also Co-Chairman of the Lincoln-Otero County Solid Waste Authority and represents southeast New Mexico on the Statewide Solid Waste Task Force.

Other officers elected were Fred Alvarez, Chairman Eddy County Commission, Vice President; Joe Velasquez, Chaves County Commission, Treasurer.

In his first action as new president, Mayor Warth appointed Michael Nivison, Mayor Village of Cloudford; Randy Owensby, Councilor City of Hobbs; and Ernest Thompson, Mayor, City of Artesia and immediate past president of the District to serve with the elected officers on the Executive Committee.

The Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District represents Five Counties in Southeast New Mexico (Chaves, Eddy, Lea, Lincoln, Otero).

CAPITAN FHA MEMBER Meaghan Vinson is the FHA State Vice President of Inspiration and Recreation. She was elected to the office at the Regional FHA meeting in November. She is one of two officers elected to represent Region I for New Mexico. On Jan. 15-17 Vinson and all other new state officers met in Glorieta with their advisors to plan this year's state meet and installation slated for March 24-27, also in Glorieta. Meaghan's duties include helping to run the state meeting, the Star Events competition, being in charge of the National Program Student Body for the 1993-94 school year and attending the National Leadership Conference in July in Anaheim, CA. Meaghan and other Capitan FHA members will compete in the District Star Events on Feb. 20, at NMSU in Las Cruces. Members plans to compete in Illustrated Talks, Life Situations, Job Interview, Parliamentary Procedure, Baked Goods and Artistic Decorations.

sion was sending mixed signals. The commissioners had just approved Wynham's proposal to reorganize the manager's office to avoid hiring a person to fill a job vacated recently.

"The focus is to expand the jail and sheriff's office for better working conditions," Montes said.

McSwane disagreed and said he would hate to be put in a $200,000 building then be unable to provide service because of the lack of manpower.

Montes suggested McSwane reorganize his staff to fill slots in the office. McSwane said he could take four men off the streets or shut down the suboffice and take a deputy or two off the streets. He said he now needs an additional secretary, a dispatcher and possibly two more deputies. All along, McSwane said he indicated there would be a staffing problem, and his request now was nothing new.

Commissioner Bill Schwetmann asked for an appointment to review the plans and the facilities as they are now to get the project moving. "We've got to take care of the citizens of Lincoln County," he said.

McSwane said that was the time to talk about the problems instead of waiting until Feb. 2 when the plans would be approved.

Wynham said he was disheartened that his intentions were misinterpreted when all he was attempting to do with the plans was to benefit existing employees.

McSwane said he thought Wynham's intent was honorable, however, his problem was the need for additional staff. Montes closed the discussion abruptly.

Early in the meeting, commissioners adopted a modified Roberts Rules of Order which will allow Montes, as chairman, to vote since he is elected from a district and needs to represent his constituency. Also the modified rules will prevent minor technical violations from invalidating actions of the commission. Wynham will act as Parliamentarian.

Road manager Bill Cupit presented a report on school bus routes and co-op roads projects listing priorities for both categories. He sought a consensus from the commissioners in order to begin work on applications for state funds to be submitted Feb. 12.

Cupit met with school bus drivers from all county school districts and explained the school bus route program. After the visits he listed 26 requests for work on non-county bus routes and 22 on county bus routes. Of these he made the driver prioritize those in most need.

Last year, the commission passed a resolution to provide maintenance on school bus routes, however, those had to be identified by the Road Review Committee. Cupit asked that the resolution be modified to allow him to visit the road and determine the need for work, because the work sometimes needs to be done immediately. With the Road Review Committee any visits have to be published.

Wynham will redraft the entire resolution without the road review section and bring it for approval at the Feb. 2 meeting.

Cupit presented a bound and very readable report listing road department improvements, stockpiling of needed items; purchase and leasing improvements; areas needing continued improvement; priority projects for the next five years—candidates for state co-ops broken into categories for cattle guards, bridge replacements, low water crossings, paving and chip sealing, base course and caliche; itemized state co-op projects proposed for 1993-94 and cost for each and a final page listing the estimates to upgrade and pave 3.9 miles of the road from Sierra Blanca Regional Airport to Ft. Stanton.

Cupit said the biggest improvement in the road department was getting a secretary. "We were in the dark ages when I arrived," Cupit said. "Since Kim (Roper) has come on, it has turned out to be like my own business, with a goal to satisfy the customer, the taxpayer."

Cupit said he looks for savings for the taxpayer, not politics.

The road department is also producing a monthly computer print out which shows what work has been done in the past month.

There was considerable discussion about the paving of certain roads. Cupit would like to pave certain high traffic roads, or ones with considerable snow removal, however, the county owns no paving equipment nor any equipment to maintain paved roads.

Schwetmann recommended the county not accept any paved subdivision roads if it cannot maintain paved roads.

One road that all agreed needs to be paved is the 3.9 miles from the airport to Ft. Stanton. Of that the county owns 1.2 miles, the state owns 1.8 and .9 miles belong to the Village of Ruidoso. To excavate, prepare and pave the road Cupit estimated would cost $679,447. Dub Holt presented a petition asking for the road to be upgraded. The road and improvement to the Lincoln County Fairgrounds are two requests for funding sent with Rep. John Underwood to the state legislature.

The county currently maintains the entire 3.9 miles of the road at a cost of about $2,550 a year.

Cupit received a go ahead to apply for state co-op funds (60 percent state share, 40 percent county share) to upgrade and widen the Dump Road near Capitan at an estimated cost of $105,000. The state will pay up to $62,534 of that amount. The proposed school bus route project (state share 100 percent) will be to double chip and seal Sun Valley Drive in Alto at a cost of $48,000. The proposed County Arterial Program (CAP) (75 percent state share, 25 percent county) will be to single chip and seal of Cedar Creek Road in Ruidoso, for seal and restriping of the airport road; culvert and concrete for Baber's Loop; a culvert with concrete on Transwestern; low water crossings with culverts and concrete in two locations on Alamo Canyon Road and low water crossings on O-Bar-O road, for a total of $186,848. The state will pay $135,110 of that total.

Cupit will prepare an application for the state funded projects for approval at the Feb. 2 meeting.

In other business, commissioners:

—Passed a resolution asking that the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture not close the Lincoln County Soil Conservation Service Field Offices in Capitan and Carrizozo. The offices have more Great Plains contracts than any other office in New Mexico. According to Hollis Fuchs, office coordinator, the offices have heavy rangeland work loads, however, it appears that most recommended office closures were biased heavily against those dealing with rangelands. The resolution requests assistance of the New Mexico U.S. Congressional Delegation in assuring the offices will remain open and adequately staffed.

—Passed Resolution 92-22 creating a citizen participation plan for the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program.

—Authorized Wynham to schedule a public hearing to consider a new Fair Housing Ordinance as a requirement for the CDBG for housing rehabilitation for low income families.

—Approved Wynham's request to reorganize the manager's office to reassign three current employees and not refill a position vacated by finance officer Leon Eggleston. Instead, Wynham assigned Charlene (Punkin) Schlarb as finance officer at grade 22, Roddy Taylor as purchasing/contracts administrator at grade 17, Patsy Sanchez as planning technician at grade 17 and administrative assistant Martha Guevara to grade 22. Wynham said all have taken on added responsibilities and deserve the grade increases. He also submitted job descriptions to match the new positions.

—Approved a resolution authorizing the application for a Beautification grant to provide summer jobs for local youth.

—Met in closed session at the first of the meeting to discuss personnel.

—Accepted copies of draft minutes from county clerk Martha Proctor. She will try to send the minutes to commissioners before the meetings to allow them time to review them and make revisions. She also invited commissioners to visit her office and see the new shelving units. She also gave commissioners copies of the Open Meetings Act and asked that they be aware of the act, since that awareness in the past few years has been one reason the press has been so good to the county commission.

—Heard Wynham announced he and the Senior Citizens Center Advisory Board hired acting Senior Citizens Director Cheryl LaBelle to be director of the senior centers. Things are going well, Wynham said, with attendance up in Carrizozo.

—Considered an invitation by Miller Hudson, the Mescalero Tribal Council's Monitored Retrieval Storage facility study coordinator, to visit a nuclear power plant. Montes and Howell indicated interest in the offer.

aggressively pursue siting an MRS facility either on a military reservation or other Federal lands. This second prong of DOE's new two-track approach is designed to avoid complications presented to MRS siting efforts by opposition from state governments and citizens in areas of proposed siting.

Walters, who also met January 4 with Congressional staff members, reported New Mexico's Congressmen and Senators continue to oppose siting of MRS in the state. However, their unanimous support of a call for Congressional investigation of DOE/OCRWM's radioactive waste management system and economic responsibility was not assured. In December, Ruidoso Village Council sent a resolution to Governor Bruce King, asking his support and endorsement of a call for Congressional hearings on the matter of DOE's waste management policies and costs.

According to Walters, Alex Flint, Legislative Assistant to senator Domenici, stated Congressional review of these matters at this time would not be desirable. Legislative staff for Congressmen Skeen and Schiff were unavailable January 4, so their response to the call for Congressional action is unknown. Walters said the Technical Review Board and others in Washington seemed sensitive to the issue of forced taxpayer funding of disposal of radioactive wastes generated by private utilities.

LCSWA May Pursue . . .

"Time is truly of an essence," Beauvais said. By employing The Principles, bonds could be sold within 90 days of approval.

Beauvais, LCSWA chairman, Frank Warth and vice chairman Ron Wicker were to talk with OCSWA executive committee members about such revenue bond financing Wednesday. Specifics of who would be responsible for the payback on such a bond would have to be worked out with OCSWA. None of the municipalities or the county in Otero have passed the special environmental gross receipt taxes. That also will be a reason for employing a bond counsel.

Beauvais predicted the costs to get the landfill to the permit application stage by April 1993 will range from $300,000 to $500,000, "without turning a spoonful of dirt on the site (landfill)."

Aside from the regional landfill, Ron Wicker worried the authority will have cash flow problems in the next few months because LCSWA is now picking up trash in the county, but has yet to send out its first billings to county households. Currently LCSWA clerical staff has no way to itemize the costs-revenues from each area—Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Capitan and the county. Software to allow such itemization has been ordered and is expected to be installed into the authority's computer soon.

When the software is in operation, the costs-revenues from LCSWA's recycling program will be examined.

Wicker and Warth also worried the recycling program is not producing enough revenues to support itself. While recycling coordinator Kerry Krumseik presented a positive report on the increased participation in the recycling program by residents and visitors, Wicker wanted to know how much it cost to produce the $313 received for recycled glass, $700 for recycled newsprint, $129 for recycled steel cans, $477.59 for recycled cardboard and $183.50 for white paper.

"We may be losing a lot of money, we need some cost/benefit ratio for the recycling program," Wicker said.

"It (recycling) may die from costs alone," said Warth.

Beauvais warned Krumseik not to expand the recycling program until authority members know the costs.

After worrying about costs, member Dave Dale discussed the possibility of increasing salaries for the manager, recycling coordinator and secretary/receptionist/bookkeeper. The suggestion was tabled until budget discussions in April.

While money may be a problem for the proposed joint landfill with OCSWA, siting may become another issue.

Bob Fish, representative of the Prairie Dawg Motorcycle Club, asked members to consider another state land site near to the one proposed for the landfill, but on the east side of Highway 54 (which is adjoining the proposed site).

Fish said his club conducts motorcycle competitions three times a year nearby the proposed landfill site, and they worry that blowing trash and disturbance of the vegetation to cause blowing dust will become problems in the area.

Fish presented petitions signed by his club's members and others who use the area for motorcycle riding asking LCSWA and OSCWA to relocate the site now, before further testing is done.

However, because of the time constraint to locate and construct a regional landfill that will affect some 40,000 people by Jan. 1994, members agreed that they should support the proposed site.

"It's like a jail or methadone center," said Beauvais, "any place we put it (landfill) people will bitch."

Fish was told that the time his club should voice opposition to the site is during the public hearing period for the permit provided by the New Mexico Environment Dept.

—Approved a 30-day period for county residents to apply for a variance to the county collection fees, to begin after the first Class C construction landfill to prevent blowing paper and other trash.

—Signed joint meeting proxies for the next six months, which allow LCSWA to have a quorum.

mum if any, and fines low. One reason for no or little jail time is the cost in terms of jail space and personnel.

To effectively enforce current DWI laws and possible stiffer future DWI laws with mandatory jail time will require more money. "The problem is money," Underwood said.

He also said computerization of the courts would allow judges to keep up with DWI offenders. However, New Mexico voters turned down a request to allow the legislature to seek bonds to pay for such court automation.

"It's tough to talk money and society taking care of its own problem," Underwood said.

White said that the court could collect enough in fines to pay for the additional jail space and personnel needed to enforce the current laws.

"Close the loopholes in the current laws," White said.

Carrizozo Trustee Harold Garcia, who owns a bar with a drive up window, is a member of the New Mexico Liquor Retail Industries Association. He said people who own liquor establishments will be trying to defend their livelihood. He agreed with White that the current DWI laws are not enforced and that should be addressed before new laws are made.

Currently, taxes on the liquor goes for treatment for DWI offenders. However, what money isn't used for treatment goes into the state's general fund. Garcia considered that to be an abuse of the purpose of the taxes. If liquor is taxed more, Garcia worried customers will drive out of town to stores which will sell their liquor cheaply to attract customers.

Garcia advocates a control of all liquor prices in the state, regardless of the merchant, so all will have to sell at the same price. As for drive up windows, Garcia said the retailers do not mind reducing their hours. But he pointed out that on Sunday, when there are no package sales, DWI is still a problem.

"Give current laws a chance to work," Garcia said.

White suggested money from liquor taxes not be put into the general fund, rather filter down to little communities like Carrizozo for manpower. "All the cities cry they don't have enough (law enforcement) manpower—I have no manpower."

Garcia said drinking and driving is a social problem. He also pointed out a proposed reform, favored by the liquor industry, which will prohibit the minors being served in bars. Currently it is legal for adults to buy liquor then give it to an accompanying minor in a bar.

"Let's be realistic," Garcia said, "that alcohol is a legal drug."

Underwood also told about his work the last six months on a legislative ethics bill which he will co-sponsor with Speaker of the House Ray Sanchez. The 65 pages of the bill will seek to redo campaign financing reporting, disclosure and other questions. The bill would also require lobbyists to register who they truly represent.

On the most part, Underwood said, most of the recent items in the news about lobbyists are exaggerated. Most lobbyists try to maintain their credibility with legislators in order to maintain their effectiveness.

The ethics bills will be one of the biggest things in New Mexico politics and Underwood believes it will pass 99 percent intact as proposed.

Carrizozo Mayor Cecilia Kuhnel asked about any proposed reform of the state's antiodonation clause in the constitution. She said the clause hurts rural communities because they are unable to attract responsible industry.

Underwood said there was a proposal to modify the clause at the last session, but it died in a senate committee. He is supportive of amending the clause in order to encourage economic development through tax credits and so on.

County commissioner Stirling Spencer asked that Underwood look for any "clean" industries out of Santa Fe, such as prisons or facilities such as Fort Stanton Training School and Hospital. Underwood said he would watch for such and knows that Senator Pete Campos (representing Lincoln County) would do the same.

"I'd like to market us a little in Santa Fe," Underwood said. He asked that a labor study be sent to him about the town.

Carrizozo resident Patsy Sanchez asked Underwood to promote Lincoln County as good movie country.

Other discussions included the Malpais, and the need to upgrade Highway 380 across it.

Underwood said he would place emphasis on the highway upgrade on the Malpais.

He also plans to seek help in upgrading Highway 54, especially north of Carrizozo, because of the heavy truck traffic.

Underwood invited all to contact him in Santa Fe, or to visit him there.

"I hope to make the next 60 days (of the legislative session) as beneficial for this part of New Mexico as possible," he said.

Underwood said a bill locator service will be available at the Ruidoso Public Library which will provide information on bills to the public. The county clerk's office in Carrizozo also will have a record of what bills have been passed.

VOTE FOR THE CAPITAN MIDDLE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Your vote is vital to the future of Capitan Schools. The School desperately needs extra classroom space to maintain quality education.

Your vote for the $1.3 million bond issue on Tuesday, Feb. 2, will help Capitan Municipal Schools construct a needed facility for mid-school grades 6-8. Money from the bonds will be used to design and construct a 15,000 sq. ft. facility with seven classrooms and science and computer labs, administrative office space and bathrooms. The extra classrooms will provide enough space for the current student population, and the design will allow for expansion.

Capitan Schools ask voters to help preserve the schools' quality education by providing enough classroom space to maintain current student/teacher ratios shown by test scores to provide education above the state norms in most cases. Capitan's addition of the Head Start program for four year olds also creates a demand for space. Building a middle school will provide additional rooms for the 6-8 grades and will open up classrooms in both the elementary and high school. At present enrollment, there will be 63 sixth graders at Capitan School in the 1993-94 school year, 52 seventh graders and 40 eighth graders, or 155 students in grades 6-8. With that enrollment, the proposed middle school would have 22 students per classroom. Projections for the 1994-95 school year show 37 sixth graders, 63 seventh graders and 52 eighth graders.

Capitan Schools have grown 70 students in the last two years.

A positive vote for the bond issue will cost property owners 96 cents of taxes for each $1,000 of taxable value of their property in 1994. Taxes will decrease in 1995 to 71 cents per $1,000 value. In 1996, current outstanding bond debts from previous projects will retire. From 1996 through the retirement of the middle school bonds in 2002, taxes will go back to their 1992 level. That means someone with a $60,000 home, assessed for taxable value at one-third that or $20,000 assessed will result in about $19.82 more in taxes in 1994.

Is the MRS sword of Demosthenes still hanging over our heads in Lincoln County or isn't it? First you read it is, then you read it isn't, then you read it is. What is an interested person to believe?

New Mexicans through the years have had more than a nodding acquaintance with atomic and nuclear matters. We haven't been radiated out of existence yet!

It's amazing that since hardly anyone wants a nuclear waste dump site anywhere near populated areas, especially resort areas, that the possibility of an MRS on Mescalero Apache Reservation property is still a viable plan. Isn't ours a government by and for the people, not government in spite of the people?

The atomic bomb was born not too far from this country. In fact, the shock wave and flash of light when the first bomb was imploded at White Sands was seen and felt in the area, especially in the Carrizozo area which was the closest to the site.

The Manhattan project which developed the bomb had Los Alamos laboratory involved, along with the University of Chicago and other entities.

When Walker Air Force Base was alive and well out of Roswell, nuclear weapons were stored there. Atlas missiles circling Roswell (two in Lincoln County) in their 10-story silos in the early 1960s had nuclear warheads. Yes, we know about nuclear. We even know about nuclear hysteria, witness WIPP and MRS plans.

Not all nuclear is bad. Many years ago we accompanied General Patrick Hurley of Santa Fe to Lincoln, Nebraska, where he addressed a National Water Conference. General Hurley was a former ambassador to China and a former secretary of war. He was intrigued by the possibilities the nuclear age held for the world. He had vision, far beyond his time.

In Nebraska we listened closely to what the general had to say about water and atomic energy. We reported at length on the general's remarks upon return to New Mexico because water is so important to this arid state.

General Hurley envisioned a series of pumping stations between the Great Lakes and the southwest. Each would be powered by small nuclear power plants buried deep in the ground, each self-contained and able to generate its own fuel supply. Via a series of canals and pipelines, the southwest would be turned into a veritable garden. What wouldn't Los Angeles give for such a water supply? The concept remains viable.

Back when that speech was made, about the same time, Southwestern Public Service Co. flew a number of news people to Minneapolis for a National Energy Conference.

We listened to speakers say that fossil fuels in essence would last only another 50 years. Well, we still are producing oil, but the day will come when petroleum will vanish. We are mining oil.

Today we hear about solar energy, reverting to the vast coal reserves in this country, and other plans to replace oil as an energy source. But, such planning seems to us to be half-hearted. The future probably involves further harnessing of the atomic bomb to benefit mankind.

But, where do we store the radioactive residue from such usage? New Mexico is on the leading edge of that controversy. It's a question our new president will have to get involved in, surely.

Nuclear energy certainly isn't going to vanish from the earth. And New Mexico is tied into that industry whether we want it or not.

Perhaps we just need more visionaries like General Hurley to offer ideas, solutions and alternatives.

Clyde Shults, formerly of Carrizozo and residing in Portales, passed away on Friday, Jan. 15, and his services were held there Monday, Jan. 18. He was 96 years of age. Mr. Shults was employed in the Carrizozo School System and he and his family were valued citizens in Carrizozo.

very costly and the federal share of the funding is very important. I am very pleased that New Mexico received continued funding."

The Hazardous Waste Management program is funded under the Resource Conservation Recovery Act, which provides for the inspection and permit administration of facilities that transport, dispose of, or store hazardous waste.

The Underground Injection Program is funded under the Safe Drinking Water Act. The program involves the correct disposal of saltwater that rises from the ground as a result of the retrieval of oil from wells. The water must be safely injected far enough underground to protect against the contamination of drinking water. It also involves the injection of water into oil wells, increasing the amount of oil that could be retrieved.

SANTA FE—First they wanted to take away our guns. Now they want our pickups. What's this nation coming to?

Since the 1975 Arab oil embargo disrupted gasoline supplies, Congress has been trying to push down fuel consumption by increasing fuel economy in American cars. And we've succeeded quite well—doubling fuel efficiency in passenger cars from 14 miles per gallon to the current 28 mpg.

But Congress may not be through. For the last few years, some members of Congress have been seeking increases to as high as 45 mpg.

How would that increase be achieved? According to some, the only solution is to "downsize" all vehicles. That's how most of the current fuel economy increases happened.

It isn't just passenger cars that will be affected. The 1975 law, termed the Corporate Average Fuel Economy act (CAFE), applies to nearly all vehicles.

That means pickups won't be able to handle the heavy-duty jobs over rough roads on New Mexico's ranches. It means the construction industry won't be able to get some of the right sized vehicles for its jobs. It means smaller vans that senior citizens and the disabled won't be able to use, smaller recreational vehicles that won't be able to pull boats, snowmobiles and other equipment, and smaller mini-vans that can't carry little league baseball teams.

Are you getting the idea? The thought has frightened enough people that a national coalition has been formed to oppose making vehicles any smaller in this age of downsizing everything in sight.

Of course the most frightened are those who may suffer big financial loss. The auto industry, steel industry and oil industry lead the list. And there are others.

Automakers and dealers fear consumers will hold onto their old cars because of the comfort and because new cars will cost more due to advanced technology requirements and use of lighter weight materials.

The steel industry doesn't like the sound of lighter weight materials. In the last round of downsizing required by CAFE standards, 500 pounds of steel was dropped from domestic cars, leading to a 20 percent drop in steel production. Industry officials predict another 45 percent cut in automaker steel use could result from passage of the new CAFE proposals.

The oil industry is fighting increased fuel efficiency out of fear its production will be cut. But the numbers don't back that up. Reduced motor vehicle operating costs have encouraged more and faster driving. The result has been increased gasoline consumption.

Many in the insurance industry are also fighting the increased standards because of safety considerations. They say vehicle downsizing since the '70s already accounts for about 2,000 additional highway deaths every year.

These industries have joined with organizations of consumers, seniors, recreationists, (including the Sled Dog Sports Federation), farmers, ranchers, contractors, and business groups to form the Coalition for Vehicle Choice.

It's a national group, organized to lobby Congress, but chapters are being formed in many states. Veteran Santa Fe lobbyist Bob Gold has been hired as coordinator of the New Mexico coalition.

Gold says this state is a natural to be concerned about smaller vehicles because of our topography and our agricultural, tourist and recreation economy. Already 15 organizations representing over 19,000 members have joined the New Mexico coalition and Gold expects many more.

The group will inform New Mexicans of the consequences of the proposed CAFE legislation, make direct contact with the state's congressional delegation, and analyze any legislative efforts in New Mexico that may have a similar effect as the federal proposals.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR—The last public secondary school I taught in was 70% minorities. Minority youths whose parents were not bilingual and many of them were migrants. These young people did not stay in school because they loved the classroom. They came because in football they found hope and equality. They came because in Voc-Ag they found a way out of the poverty cycle. Last year one of these sons of parents who did not speak English called to let me know he was to receive his B.S. from Texas Tech that spring. School was that young man's way to achieve the dreams that we as Americans all share. However, he attended high school because of the extra-curricular activities, fortunately he was well educated enough in regular classes to enroll in a Southwest Conference school and graduate.

It is okay if you accuse me of dangling carrots in front of youngsters. I am just for what works. Go ahead and call a rebounding track, a weight room or new junior high a delusion of grandeur or even a carrot, because they are. But they are also the marks of quality education, education that retains marginal students and helps them to reach their goals.

Shame on me if I vote no in the Capitan bond issue; taxation is a great privilege in the hands of a democratic people, especially if a new junior high can be provided to add the aspirations of endangered youth. Shame on me if I vote no to those youngsters and parents who know that school is their greatest hope. Vote yes on February 2nd.

RANDALL ROBBINS, Capitan.

EDITOR—This letter is written regarding the overcrowding at Capitan Schools and the upcoming Bond Election. In May of 1992, Capitan Schools sent out a Quality of Education Survey with each child to be completed by the parents and returned to the school. The need for a middle school was addressed in the survey and only 17% of the 186 people surveyed disagreed that a Middle School was needed. This prompted the administration and school board members to initiate a steering committee comprised of community members, teachers, administrators, architects, and financial advisors to plan a building which would cost the taxpayers the minimum amount. As a concerned parent, I attended one of the meetings, I was very impressed with the concerns of the committee members regarding what was in the best interest of the students, as well as all residents within the school district.

It is important to keep in mind that the primary purpose of the Capitan Schools is to educate all students. There are many reasons why a Middle School would benefit our students. First, every classroom is at capacity, and we are a growing school district. In the school year 1994-95, with no growth figured in, we will have 253 students in the elementary, 155 in the middle school, and 163 in the high school. Also, students at the middle school age (12-14) have a difficult time adjusting to leaving the elementary school setting and suddenly finding themselves facing students up to ages of 18. The middle school years are the time when these children face many physical and social changes. Therefore, it is advanta-

The Other Side

By Owen Russell

When we first gained the benefit of having several dumpsters parked across the street from our house, a real problem developed from people passing by and making deposits which didn't quite make it into the depository. After raising a ruckus with much shouting and effective use of expletives in ordinary conversations, and making selective threats, we finally encouraged some of the people to be more careful and got the mess cleaned up a bit, and my dog starved to death. Is this an example of unexpected consequences?

Speaking of unexpected consequences, we are probably going to get some from the legislature this year in DWI legislation. So far, none of the proposals appear to offer much relief from the problem, just more scab-scratching, but the nostrils are flared and we are going to get something whether we want it or not. It is too bad that the driving force has to come from an incident that would not be affected by any of the things being tried.

The momentum for this attempt for legislative action comes in great part from the publicity generated by the Christmas Eve collision in Albuquerque in which a mother and her three daughters were killed by an intoxicated driver. The driver of the other vehicle has not yet been convicted of anything so any information is still subject to dispute, but if the facts are as reported in the news media, none of the legislation, either presently in force or proposed, would have prevented the accident. The report of a blood alcohol concentration of .10% obtained from the individual some 5 hours after the accident indicates he was very drunk at the time of the collision plus he was driving the wrong way on the interstate at 90 miles per hour. What this says to me that although alcohol may have in some way contributed to the situation, it was really his aggressive behavior that brought about the situation, and aggression is the result of a combination of factors, most unrelated to the consumption of alcohol.

Really, there are only three factors which are the cause of most automobile accidents. These are 1), aggressive driving habits, 2), inattention, and 3), mechanical failure. It is true that alcohol tends in some people to contribute to aggressive behavior, but it is also true that alcohol leads to inattention in others, so it is a factor to be considered, but only that. We should try to remove the dangerous drivers from the road, and alcohol is only one of the factors involved, and probably not the most important. We are surely trying to make the roads safer and concentrating our attention and resources on a single factor is not the way to do it.

I believe it was Edmund Burke who said that the representative of the people, in addition to his duty to be diligent, also has a duty to use his judgment and not bow to the opinions of his constituency. What is meant by this statement is that our representatives are expected to become informed on the issues and to make the right decisions, whereas the opinions of the public are very often based on factors unrelated to the issues.

and it neither has the time nor the interest to become informed to the extent necessary to make the decision. Pressure groups become very well informed on narrow points of an issue, but the representative is expected to consider all sides of the matter and, with good judgment and wisdom, act accordingly. This again raises the age-old conundrum of whether we should choose our representatives on the basis of ability or campaign promises.

At any rate, I hope our legislators do the right thing. The issue is being presented to them and they should do something about it, not just sweep it under the rug by trying to do more of what hasn't worked in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith have been going back and forth to Albuquerque a lot lately. Their daughter, Dolly Hausner has been laid up with some back problems.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Holleyman had out of town howlers stay with them for a few days last week. Bob Drake, his nephew, Dave Collins and Dave's son John Paul all came in from Haskell, Okla., to try their luck. John Paul was very proud to be the lucky one going home with a respectable 4 point.

Special education had three areas of non-compliance, 1) issue of transition which must be included in IEP where children are tracked through the years and should be able to work when out of school, 2) notifying parents and informing parents of their rights, and 3) the least restrictive environment for children who have handicaps. Also lack of documentation sufficient to meet requirements. These areas of non-compliance are not unusual.

Team member Rosco Vaughn, state supervisor of Agricultural Education, said the vocational plant was excellent for a school this size. He suggested replating missing tools and repairing some items.

Vaughn suggested greater utilization of the facilities and presented options for Carrizozo school to consider, including combining programs, offering classes to the community such as computer classes in the evening, and sharing vocational facilities with other schools.

Vaughn noted that Carrizozo graduates perform well at universities in New Mexico and Texas as well as in other states. He said the school needs a replacement plan in place to upgrade equipment a little at a time.

It was suggested the school install hard drives in the Mac Classic computers and obtain more software. The team mentioned the school has a "real knack for acquiring grants" and suggested the school ask for technical assistance.

Superintendent Jimmie Banks responded to the remarks and said the school will continue to strive to do better.

Letters

geous to group these students together and remove them from the more mature students.

We do have students enrolled in Capitan Schools from other school districts. However, there are also many students from the Capitan district who attend school in Ruidoso, Hondo and Carrizozo. If we were to send all our out of district students back to their district, and take all of those back who are now attending schools outside the district, we would not gain much ground.

The Capitan School District has had a steady growth increase for many years, and why shouldn't it? Many people move to the Capitan area because it has an excellent school system and provides an atmosphere and quality instruction so students can learn and excel. This steady growth increase has now caught up with us, and there is no more room in our school for growth. It is time to face the fact and provide a remedy. The remedy is the building of a new middle school.

There has been some talk about the student-teacher ratio in Capitan Schools. One reason the students of Capitan Schools have continued to receive individual attention is because the administration and school board has vowed to maintain a low student-teacher ratio. The problem is that we continue to grow in size each year, with students from our own school district. However, when the administration studied the need for a new middle school, in all fairness, they did not figure in any new growth. They took the students now enrolled in Capitan Schools and used that student count to establish the number of students who would be enrolled in any given grade through the 1996-97 school year. With those figures, we must have additional classrooms to handle the student count in the future.

I asked many questions which I am sure other citizens have wondered. Why could we not use the gym for classrooms? Why could we not use portables? Why? Why? Why? I too, went to the school to see for myself, and the sad truth is we have simply nowhere else to go. Every classroom is full. What used to be a small meeting room for the School Board is now a classroom. The gymnasium (both of them) are holding gym classes almost every period of the day. The implementation of the Headstart program also takes an additional classroom. The use of portables was thoroughly discussed and it was decided it would not be a sound economical move with all factors considered.

I must say that like other citizens, one big concern was any unnecessary raising of taxes. I did find out some very helpful facts. Assuming the bond election is successful, a property owner with $60,000.00 of property value (established by the County Assessor and usually less than market value) and a taxable value (one third of property value) or $20,000.00 would see a tax increase in 1994 of less than $20.00, in 1995 of approximately $15.00, and in 1996 the taxes would decrease back to what the District's taxpayers are currently paying. Although the computation is somewhat difficult, it is interesting to note that we are currently receiving funding in two areas, a jr. high/high school, and an elementary school. With the building of a separate middle school, we will be eligible for funding in three areas.

If you have questions regarding the bond election, please do as I did, take the time to contact the administration of the school and ask them to explain the needs of the school to you. I know you will see, as I did, that we are fortunate to have such a concerned group of administrator, teachers, and board members, who are looking out for the best interest of not only our children, but our grandchildren as well. Please, remember to vote YES on Tuesday, Feb. 2, 1993 for this very IMPORTANT bond election.

FREDA McSWANE,
Capitan.

EDITOR—For over 60 years Americans have been led to believe by the media that we have a two party system but in regard to the most important issue in every election, the economy, both parties have been committed to maintaining the power to coin and regulate money in the hands of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank, the international bankers. So essentially, in regard to the only issue that will determine whether we will live or die, we have a one party system. (an actual dictatorship)

In future elections let us, the electorate, forget about party loyalty and elect only those candidates that are committed to putting the power to coin and regulate money back into the hands of congress, the people's servant. This is what the constitution demands and what our government officials have been violating forever.

THE NATION'S CONSCIENCE,
CORNELIUS U. MORGAN,
Baltimore, MD.

P.S. When the crunch comes down and starvation and pestilence pervades the land, these hungry starving mobs will start to roam the streets seeking those responsible for their plight. Their primary targets will be these corrupt politicians that they are responsible for electing to office. These congressmen may be able to barricade themselves in their offices in Washington but they will have to come home sometime.

If these mobs are famished enough, they may dispose of these satanic helpers in a way that is more characteristic of our African brothers and sisters. Won't you publishers and editors that have led to them for generations be next on their agenda? After all, there is only so many congressmen to go around.

Will New Mexico be the state to lead our beloved people out of the wilderness or will you publishers and editors be left out in the cold at the mercy of these raging mobs?

Grizzlies Take Corona 88-32

The Carrizozo Grizzlies, ranked 10th in state, started their district season with an easy 88-32 victory at Corona. The Grizzlies used great defensive pressure that held the Corona Cardinals to zero field goals in the first half as they opened a 40-14 halftime lead.

Blas Herrera came off the bench to lead the Grizzlies (8-2, 1-0 3A) with 17 points, 4 rebounds and 4 steals. "The whole team played well tonight but Blas really got us going. Herrera is really starting to shoot the ball well," said Coach Kenneth Butts.

The game started out slow with Carrizozo missing several easy shots that allowed the young Cardinals to stay in the game. But in the second quarter the Grizzlies took charge and outscored Corona 29-12.

Carrizozo's pressure defense that resulted in 32 steals was led by Senior Mike Barela, 7 steals, 7 assists, 4 points. Coach Butts said, "Mike played his best game of the year. Besides the assists he had no turnovers, he is really coming on."

Bryan Turnbow, senior, dominated inside with a season high 19 rebounds and chipped in 12 points. "Bryan does a great job for the team every game. If he is not scoring, he seems to pickup more rebounds," stated Coach Butts.

Also scoring in double figures was senior Heath Rickman, 13 points, 7 rebounds, 3 steals. Junior George Vega, the teams second leading rebounder, also had a good all around game scoring 6 points, grabbing 9 rebounds and adding 4 steals and two assists.

The Grizzlies bench had a strong performance, scoring 44 points and grabbing 31 rebounds. Besides Herrera, Carrizozo got strong games from seniors Scot Brown, 10 rebounds and 4 points, Cory Collins 6 points and 8 rebounds, Nathan Portillo 7 points and 4 assists and junior Jon Vallejos 6 points and 5 rebounds.

"My second five is as good as my first five. They may not start but they play the same minutes as the starters," said Butts.

In his second year at Carrizozo Coach Butts responded, "I have 10 players that I can count on. We have won several games in the fourth quarter when we have worn down the other team. To be a Class A team with 10 qualifying players I definitely think we have an advantage over teams at our level."

Butts said that the main reason for his teams good record is the team's defense giving up only 53 points a game. While the offense is averaging 72 points a game.

"The team is finally starting to understand my defensive philosophy. I have probably one of the best defenders in the state in senior Anthony Archuleta (9 points, 4 steals). He seems to get us going with his defensive pressure and the other boys pick it up and together we play good team defense," said Butts.

Others playing well in the game were junior Davin Epperson, 4 rebounds and 3 assists and Billy Sheehan with 4 points.

The Grizzlies varsity play two home district games this week. They host Mountainair Friday night starting with JV at 4:30 and Vaughn Saturday night starting with the junior high at 4:30.

Turnovers and Fouls Trouble Lady Tigers

The Capitan Lady Tigers basketball team finished second in the Reserve Mountainair Tournament last weekend.

The Capitan girls lost to Cliff 57-42 in the final game Saturday.

Overall, said Tigers coach Norman Cline, the girls played well in Reserve. The team has improved its man-to-man defense a great deal and played that defense in all three games.

Foul trouble and too many turnovers in the Cliff game hurt the Capitan girls. Cliff has a strong ball team and has been to the state basketball tournament repeatedly.

The Lady Tigers began the tournament by defeating Quemado 43-28 in the first round Thursday. Tycie Traylor was top scorer with 11 points. Tammy Payne scored nine and had seven rebounds. Stacey Gowen scored eight points and had six assists. Kelly Cox scored six and grabbed four rebounds.

The girls overwhelmed Reserve in the semi-final Friday, 55-38. Payne scored 17 points, many in the final quarter. She also grabbed 14 rebounds. Traylor scored 12 and made six rebounds. Catherine Sidwell scored 10. Gowen scored eight, made three assists and grabbed nine rebounds. Cox had three assists.

"Our shooting was off in the game with Cliff," said coach Cline. The girls also got into foul trouble early in the game and there were too many turnovers, which hurt them. Kelly Cox was in top form however and scored 18 points. She grabbed nine rebounds.

"Kelly had a real fine ball game," Cline said.

Payne also helped out with her nine points and 12 rebounds. Sidwell scored five points and grabbed eight rebounds.

The Lady Tigers defeated the Hondo Lady Eagles 98-17. Tuesday night in Hondo for their first district game.

In other action Capitan boys lost to the Hondo Eagles 40-39. It's back home for the Capitan girls Friday night when they play the Loving girls at 6 p.m. in Cummins gym.

Saturday, the girls travel to Lake Arthur.

Lady Grizzlies Defeat Corona In District Play

With Jessica Estrella leading the way, the lady Grizzlies defeated Corona Saturday night 40-25. Jessica found the hoop for 17 points followed by Katie Hightower with 10 points. Estrella also played good defense bringing down five rebounds.

Sarah and Amy Funk connected for four points each followed by Naomi Vallejos and Keri Shafer with two points each. Linda Pilley got in the record book with a free throw.

Amy Funk came up with five rebounds and four steals on defense. Katie Hightower stole the ball four times. Lynette Hernandez, Keri Shafer, Sarah Funk and Linda Pilley showed they could play defense with three steals each.

Carrizozo improved its record to 1-0 in district play and 3-7 on the season.

The lady Grizzlies are at home this Friday night against Mountainair, and Vaughn on Saturday night. Coach Kay Patterson takes her girls to Capitan on Jan. 28. —By BARTLEY McDONOUGH

CARRIZOZO SCHOOLS CLIPBOARD

A weekly school column from Carrizozo Municipal Schools that serves as a bridge to parents, businesses and community groups who welcome knowing more about their school. News about student, staff, and board members will be highlighted.

LASERDISC CURRICULUM—With the majority of today's students growing up in a television and video game world it seems natural that producers of educational products would capitalize on this technology. Optical Data Corporation sponsored a recent videodisc-based curriculum that fosters students' curiosity and increases their comprehension. With the development of curriculum taught via laserdisc, the walls of the classroom are pushed back, letting students experience the marvels of science firsthand.

Science teacher Mariann Patterson and Michael Booty were in Socorro on Monday to attend a regional science workshop on educational videodiscs and multimedia products and how they can be integrated into this school district. Polly Chavez, Dept. of Energy (DOE) science aide accompanied the teachers to the workshop. A multidisc videodisc player allows the science instructor to control the videodisc by using either a wireless remote control, included with the player, or an optional barcode reader. The player can be connected to any video monitor or television.

With the laserdisc program, "Windows on Science" for primary and intermediate grade level, students spot the first wisps of a funnel cloud forming in the sky; learn the mysteries of the human body and much more. "The Living Textbook",

ACCREDITATION HIGHLIGHTS—In the course of his on-site Dept. of Education accreditation visit, Sid Gould said he saw a number of exemplary programs. Among them: full day kindergarten, high percentage of gifted students, preschool library hour, 3-4 year old integrated (DDS/regular) education, professional development participation, ski program open to children with disabilities, National Honor peer tutoring (had not heard or seen this project in other districts) and the "very noticeable involvement of parents" encouraged. "Looks very rosy," Gould summed up at his oral report at the exit meeting on Friday.

Gould was one of four team members who spent three days at Carrizozo Schools. Clo Mingo, team chair, gave an accreditation overview at the entry meeting Wednesday of that week, kicking off the process. Gould was in charge of special education records. Margaret Rutz oversaw district management. Rosco Vaughn headed vocational education findings. Mingo and Gould paired off to observe classroom studies and according to Mingo had the "fun part...meeting teachers and students."

Rutz revealed at the exit meeting that very few areas of non-compliance were logged. She credited management with total commitment to quality in compiling materials for evaluation on curriculum, well-maintained board documents, personnel records, and random student files. "Everything was right where it belongs. These people know their jobs," Rutz complimented at the exit meeting. The 3-year accreditation cycle includes evaluation of management, basic, vocational, and special education. The oral report presented findings and were limited to on-site review. The official written report will follow in 40-80 days.

Vaughn said he gave the highest rating he gives to vocational areas. He commented on "great facilities" (computer lab, home ec foods lab, wood and ag shops). He gave recommendations on curriculum. In Mingo's exit report she noted the enthusiasm of the well-mannered students; the district's knack for acquiring grants, the good use of calculators in math, the support of Region IX, spacious buildings, remodeled areas, and the public relations via the school's articles (column) in Lincoln County News that keep school patrons abreast of weekly school activities.

In his response, Supt. Jimmie Banks, listed the district's continuing priorities; to achieve and maintain constant communication and cooperation between the board, administration, staff, students, parents and community; to establish long term goals and plans for further campus improvements; to review every board policy in order to revise and/or adopt policies that reflect the basis for educating students; and to explore possible ways to get the educational benefit from the district's budget.

NMSU-A Has Financial Aid Forms

Alamogordo, N.M.—The Financial Aid Office at New Mexico State University at Alamogordo has received the 1993-94 financial aid forms, and they are available at the NMSU-A Student Services Building. NMSU-A urges students to file their applications as soon as possible. Students who need assistance with filing and preparation of the forms may attend one of the Financial Aid workshops that are scheduled at the NMSU-A campus, Alamogordo High School, and Tularosa High School. Workshop dates can be obtained by calling the Financial Aid Office at 439-3710.

BANKING CAREER—"What do you do with the money?" was the question in every student's mind as the manager of United New Mexico Bank was interviewed recently. Scot Shafer was questioned by 5th and 6th graders as part of their semester-long career unit, a class project of teachers Ruby Armstrong and Bryan Wetzel.

Shafer visited with the students last Friday and told the students about such banking functions as checking and saving, interest, loans, safe deposit boxes and bonds. He described various jobs performed in the bank as "service jobs" and told the students that a pleasant personality—not a math genius—was the most important job qualification. He related the historical origins of banking and recalled an anecdote about a famous bank "robbery."

Wetzel's math studies will tie in with the career unit when the students learn to compute simple interest and learn how to open savings and checking accounts. The career projects will also incorporate science in various presentations scheduled. Armstrong says that an upcoming field trip to the courthouse will expose students to the different governmental offices. A visit to the commissioners room and jail facility is planned.

Polly Chavez is the Carrizozo Schools news coordinator.
