

Ruidoso Renews Chamber Contract

By Doris Cherry

Every dollar collected by any type of lodging in the village of Ruidoso is subject to a Lodgers' Tax.

The use of Lodgers' Taxes, strictly regulated by state and local policies, is limited to promotional or advertising or for facilities promoting the village such as visitor's or civic events centers.

The village of Ruidoso has a contract with the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and provides Lodgers' Taxes to the chamber for operation.

Nearly all the chamber's budget is funded by the Lodgers' Tax funds.

Chamber director Joan Bailey appeared before the Ruidoso council Tuesday night, asking for the third year's extension on the seven-year contract with the village. She asked for a 7.8 percent increase for the visitor service center which has been very busy and she announced a change in the way a $12,000 administration fee is accounted.

"We're a very busy chamber," Bailey said. "Business is so good, we hope it's in part due to our marketing plan."

Bailey explained the 7.8 percent increase for the service center will provide funds to upgrade the 15 year old phone system and to fund the replacement copier which already had made 9,000 copies in its one month at the service center.

Bailey's request took more than one hour of discussion before councilors agreed to extend the contract but hold the dollar figure to $34,000 for contract services.

Some of the confusion during discussion arose over a $12,000 administration fee which Bailey, at the state Department of Finance and Administrations advice, moved over to contract services out of the advertising/promotional budget line item.

Wednesday, in a telephone conversation with THE NEWS, Bailey said the $12,000 is not in addition to her current $29,700 a year salary, rather it is part of that salary. Bailey told councilors that she now spends some 30-35 percent of her time dealing with the advertising.

Bailey's time is well worth the money, chamber president Paul Crown indicated to councilors. Since Bailey deals with all chamber advertising directly, the chamber no longer uses the Phil Price Advertising Agency, at a savings of $17,000 last year and at least $24,000 this year.

The savings in advertising was what convinced councilors who agreed to approve the one year extension at the budget figures. In the 1993-94 Lodgers' Tax budget $200,630 will be set aside from Lodgers' Tax collections for advertising/promotion. Lodgers' Taxes are estimated to be $302,000 for the 1993-94 fiscal year.

"Because everything is looking so good in Lincoln County, we're projecting the Lodgers' Tax to be higher this year," Bailey said.

Of the $302,000 expected,

Carrizozo Accused Of Selective Enforcement

By Ruth Hammond

"Why not clean up the whole damn town?" was a question posed to Carrizozo Trustees as they faced a full house Tuesday. A standing room only crowd filled the town hall conference room for the regular council meeting.

Most of the people attended the meeting because of the agenda item concerning the old gas station at the corner of 12th Street and Highway 54.

Trustees heard both sides of the old gas station issue; that the former Ortiz Brothers

Chevron Station has sentimental value and should not be demolished; and, that the building is an "eyesore" and if the town feels so loving to this family (Ortiz) then, "why not tear the building down and put up a plaque?"

Trustees also heard accusations of "selective enforcement" of local ordinances and were asked to clean up city properties before "pointing fingers."

BillieJean Nunnally had requested the matter of the old gas station be placed on the agenda for the June 8 meeting.

Nunnally and her family recently bought the old motel directly behind the old gas station and plan to add little shops in the motel units in addition to donating space for the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce office.

Nunnally began her presentation by reading a nine-page letter she had hand delivered to trustees earlier in the day.

The letter referred to more than 50 people making comments to her family about their work on the old motel. Nunnally stated more than 80 percent of the people expressed concern over the derelict gas station property, both as a public hazard as well as an embarrassment to the community as it is both the first and last impression a person is left with driving through Carrizozo.

Nunnally's letter states "Vagrants have been observed sleeping and eating in there (the old gas station) and one business owner stated people were constantly using the bathroom facilities despite the fact they are not operational."

Nunnally's letter continues: "Numerous residents expressed discontent with the city administration and the fact that they had failed to follow through on past complaints about the property

Applications Accepted For Rental Assistance

The Region VI Housing Authority will accept applications for the Section 8 Rental Assistance Programs (Certificate/Voucher) on a mail-in basis for Lincoln County from: July 1, 1993 through December 31, 1993.

Applicants will need to contact the Authority at the address listed above, or phone (505) 622-0881 to request an application.

These programs assist low-income families in making their monthly rental payments. Any individual(s) or group(s) who will be unable to submit an application(s) during this time period must contact the Authority offices for the procedures in requesting a waiver prior to the date of December 31, 1993. There will be no exceptions.

A family that is already on the PHA's Section 8 waiting list does not need to reapply as the waiting list serves both the Certificate/Voucher Programs.

A family that is on a 1937 Act Public housing waiting list will not lose its place on that waiting list by applying for the Certificate/Voucher Program.

Welcome To New Capitan School Superintendent

By Doris Cherry

Capitan Schools' new superintendent Diana Sonnamaker moved into her office Monday.

Sonnamaker was hired last month by a unanimous vote of the Capitan Board of Education.

Sonnamaker comes to Capitan after 20 years in the Hobbs School District. Her last position with the Hobbs District was Assistant Superintendent for Personnel, which she held for six years. There she oversaw 900 employees.

Sonnamaker is originally from Albuquerque where she graduated from Valley High School. She earned her BA in math education from New Mexico State University and began teaching 7th and 8th grade Math in the Hobbs district. She said she enjoyed teaching junior high age students, because they were so unpredictable—a child one day and a grown up the next.

Sonnamaker returned to NMSU to earn a MA in guidance counseling. Then she attended University of New Mexico in Albuquerque to become a certified education diagnostician and to earn an administration certification. Her first administrative position was director of special services overseeing special education, counselors, nurses and so on in the Hobbs District, which has an enrollment of 8,600 students.

Ruidoso Gives Humane Society 50-Year Lease

By Doris Cherry

Governmental boards and commissions in New Mexico will have to alter the way they conduct business after June 18

Enactment of two bills by the state legislature this year amended the Open Meetings and Public Records laws. Ruidoso Village Council heard about the changes during its regular bimonthly session Tuesday.

Village attorney Patricia Ortiz provided copies of the two laws to councilors, but none were provided to the press.

Ortiz spent the least amount of time explaining the Open Meetings amendments. The major change to the Open Meetings Act is the requirement that government bodies shall take action only on items appearing on the agenda, except for emergency purposes.

Another change is that minutes of the meeting must now state that the matters discussed in the closed meeting were limited only to those specified in the motion for the closed session.

The state attorney general, district attorney or individuals can challenge public bodies if violations of the open meetings act are alleged. The burden of proof is on the challenger.

Ortiz spent the most time discussing the Public Records amendments. Known as the Inspection of Public Records Act, it defines state policies concerning the public's right to inspect public records of any governmental body.

"We can accept oral requests (for public records)," said Ortiz. That will alter the way the village now responds to public records requests. The village recently revived an old policy requiring persons wanting public information to make a written application for the materials. Also, the village limited the time employees can spend researching public records, because of numerous information requests.

"The village no longer has to create public records," Ortiz continued. Employees do not have to go into a computer to pull out numbers, in effect creating a new public record. But the custodian must produce records in existence. The village cannot charge a research fee. A copy charge of up to $1 for an 8 by 11 inch page will be allowed.

Under the Act, a person must be named custodian of the records. Clerk Tammie Maddox was designated as that custodian. If someone makes a records request from any employee but Maddox, that request must be forwarded to the custodian, Ortiz said.

The custodian must act upon any written request for public records within three

Capitan Chamber To Clean Fairgrounds

Capitan Chamber of Commerce members Monday made plans for the 38th annual Smokey Bear Parade July 3.

Members agreed to print a parade entry form in the LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS on June 10, to avoid any questions of where an entry form can be obtained. Additional forms are available at Capitan City Hall. Members agreed to extend the return date to June 22.

A member reported he has asked a county car dealer to loan the chamber a convertible for the parade grand marshal and lady.

Three members of the chamber will serve as judges. Jack Johnson will organize and line up parade entries. Mayor Frank Warth will coordinate traffic control and insurance.

Member Chuck Johnson will recruit some young people to carry the parade banner.

The grand marshal and lady will receive corsage and boutonniere.

When members came to discussion about selecting grand marshal and lady, member Dorothy Smith asked that a list of past grand marshals and ladies be compiled and available for next year. The list will allow the chamber to select someone who has never before been honored.

After discussion, members agreed to ask Grady and Marjorie Eldridge to be the grand marshal and lady for this year's parade. The couple are long-time ranchers in the area north of the village. Members agreed the grand marshal and lady need not be village residents.

June 19, chamber members will gather at 9 a.m. at the Bingo Hall to make parade accessories.

At 8 a.m. Saturday, June 26, the Lincoln County Fair Board will have a clean up at the fairgrounds. The board asks anyone who can to come out and help.

Members also were given a quick run down on the other activities planned the July 4 weekend (see related parade article).

days of receipt. If unable to respond within three days, the custodian may return to the requestor a written notice when she plans to respond to the request.

The custodian may also deny a request. However, the custodian must provide written explanation why the request was denied, within 15 days. If no written explanation is provided within the specified time limit, the requester may take the denial to district court to seek a writ of mandamus, injunction or other remedy. "Only for failure to have the written denial returned in the time limit," Ortiz said.

The court can award damages, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees if it finds the denial was a violation of the Act. In response to Councillor J.D. James question, Ortiz said the state laws concerning public records and meetings are automatically adopted by the village on June 18, even though the village now has a different policy.

The copy of the Act provided to THE NEWS by councillor Ron Andrews states the act is public policy of this state, that to provide persons with such information "is an essential function of a representative government and integral part of the routine duties of public officers and employees."

The custodian has no penalties for failure to respond to an oral request. Written requests do not have to state the reason for inspecting the records. The requester may deem the request denied and may pursue remedies available in the Act if the custodian does not permit the records to be inspected in a reasonable period of time.

Actions to enforce the Act may be brought by the attorney general, district attorney in the county of jurisdiction or a person whose written request has been denied.

Also in the Open Meetings amendments, governmental bodies will now be allowed to participate in a meeting by means of a conference telephone "when it is otherwise difficult or impossible for the member to attend the meeting in person, provided that each member...can be identified when speaking, all participants are able to hear each other at the same time and members of the public attending the meeting are able to hear any member of the public body who speaks during the meeting."

Agendas for public meetings must be available to the public at least 24 hours prior to the meeting. The government body may take action only on items listed on that agenda, except for emergency matters. Emergency matters are defined as unforeseen circumstances that, if not addressed immediately will likely result in injury or damage to persons or property or substantial financial loss to the public body.

Also provided to councillors and the press Tuesday were copies of the Department of Finance and Administration regulations regarding travel expenses, especial those governing the Per Diem and Mileage Act for public officials and municipal employees. Regulations were updated in October 1992, and some of those regulations concerning the amount of per diem will become effective July 1, 1993.

In other business, councillors:

—Approved consent agenda items: Extension of the agreement with All American Plumbing and Heating for services; Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Supply Association request for easement to Eagle Creek Wells, and agreement with Ruidoso Municipal School District for lease of land for use of the soccer fields.

—Approved a restaurant liquor license for beer and wine only for Pizza Rio Partnership, owners of Cafe Rio on Sudderth Drive. There were no protests.

—Gave the Humane Society of Lincoln County a 50 year lease of village property at its shelter location on Gavilan Road, and accepted the proposal from the society to expand its facilities. Councillors credited the society for being an asset to the village and being a bargain in terms of services rendered to the village in animal control. Councillor Shaw declared a possible conflict of interest because she serves on the society board. Her fellow councillors unanimously voted she should be allowed to vote on the action.

—Discussed changing the name of the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport to include the word Ruidoso. Discussion was closed when airport manager Lloyd Wayne said the airport recently received $4,500 worth of brochures, all with "Sierra Blanca Regional Airport."

—Accepted the mayor pro-tem's appointment of Bill Scurry to the Planning and Zoning Commission, Leroy Noel to the Extra-territorial Zoning Commission, and Randle Wagner to the Personnel Board and Utility Dispute Advisory Committee.

—Awarded the bid for janitorial services to Aetna Building Services for a total of $2,092 a month.

Smokey Bear Parade To Honor Lincoln County

"Beautiful Lincoln County" will be honored in the 38th Annual Smokey Bear Stampede Parade, July 3, in Capitan.

The parade is one of the highlights of the Smokey Bear Stampede July 2, 3 and 4. Several new events have been added to the list of activities, which will lead up to Smokey Bear's 50th Anniversary celebration next year.

The Smokey Bear Stampede parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, July 3 at the west end of the village on Smokey Bear Boulevard (Highway 380.) The parade, with the theme "Beautiful Lincoln County," is sponsored by Capitan Chamber of Commerce.

Some new categories have been added to the parade, with each category receiving first, second and third place awards. A $100 cash prize, provided by Friends of Smokey, will go to the best band or musical group.

Parade categories are band, float, pedestrian, equestrian, best dressed cowboy, best dressed cowgirl, antique motor vehicle, classic motor vehicle, tractors, decorated motorcycle, decorated bicycle and others. Groups need to indicate which category they will be in and the number in the group.

Other awards will be given to the most original, a Chamber award, Lincoln County Fair Queen.

Grady and Marjorie Eldridge are this year's grand marshal and lady, to honor their long-time work in the community.

Parade entrants need to fill out the form included in today's issue of THE NEWS and return it to Capitan Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 441, Capitan, NM 88316 by June 22. Additional forms are available at Capitan Village Hall.

The parade is open to any group, individual or organization.

The parade is a big part of the Smokey Bear Stampede July 2, 3 and 4. The Smokey Bear Stampede Rodeo will open the three-day holiday at 7 p.m. July 2 in the Lincoln County Fairgrounds Fletcher Hall arena. A dance will follow in the exhibit hall.

Saturday, July 3, opens with a pancake breakfast at Capitan Senior Citizens Center from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.

The 13th annual Smokey Bear 10K and Fun Run begins at 8 a.m. on State Road 247, north of Capitan. Runners will cross the finish line by the bank building on Smokey Bear Boulevard.

The parade begins at 10:30 a.m. and a barbecue, sponsored by the Lincoln County Fair Association, begins immediately after the parade at the fairgrounds.

A live band will be performing on the lot next to Capitan Shell, where other vendors will be located.

The afternoon of July 3 will be filled with plenty to do. The first Wildfire Chili Cook-off, sanctioned by the International Chili Society, will begin in the afternoon at the fairgrounds and will feature chili cooks competing to be called the best. For old time rodeo action, a ranch rodeo presented by Bill Bennett begins at 1 p.m. at the fairgrounds. Following the ranch rodeo will be the Cowboy Dinner Theater from 5-7 p.m. at Capitan School. The dinner will feature entertainment of the country type, with western tune, cowboy poetry and old time folk ballads.

The evening of July 3 will close out with a performance of the Smokey Bear Stampede Rodeo at the fairgrounds, and a dance afterwards.

On July 2, 3 and 4 there will be an Arts and Crafts Show, sponsored by the Capitan FHA and Yearbook Staff. Another crafts fair, sponsored by the Capitan Handmaidens, a charitable group, will be going on at the old city hall.

The Smokey Bear Rodeo and dance will close out the weekend's activities with a performance at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 4. The dance follows the rodeo.

Parade entries are due by June 22.

Alonso Presented Plaque

Former Ruidoso mayor, Victor Alonso accepts a plaque of appreciation from friends at a surprise appreciation dinner May 20. Some 40 guests were on hand at Don Victor's Restaurant, which Alonso owns, to wish him the best.

Welcome New

About a year ago, Sonnamaker said she decided to look at retirement as she had only five years left. She started coming to the Ruidoso area about three to four years ago, liked it and had started to look for land. She found what she wanted in the area between Capitan and Ruidoso and it so happened it was within the Capitan School District.

"Then the (Capitan superintendent) opening came across my desk," she said. As a teacher she had a desire to be in a one-room school district.

When considering a superintendent's job, she never wanted one for a big district. Instead, she wanted to be in a small district, where she could know everyone in the community.

"Opportunity was knocking," she said about the Capitan job.

Sonnamaker's daughter, Kristy, will relocate with her mother and will be enrolled in the 9th grade.

"I was impressed with the people," Sonnamaker said about visiting Capitan Schools when she came for an interview in May. She was impressed with how the teachers were comfortable coming into the hall to talk with the school board members. "That was wonderful," she said.

"Everybody is so friendly," Sonnamaker said.

Sonnamaker invites everyone to come visit her at her office.

Sonnamaker will be on hand at the 7:30 p.m. Capitan Board of Education meeting tonight, Thursday, June 10, in the school library. Everyone is invited to attend the meeting.

Carrizozo Accused

and enforce clean up or demolition as they had on the old Girard Hotel and the Prehm building."

Nunnally's letter refers to articles printed in the Lincoln County News during the past five years with specific quotes of News articles concerning the old Girard Hotel and actions taken by the town council. The letter also referred to articles in the News concerning action taken by the town council about the condition of the old gas station.

The old gas station was owned by David Ortiz when the town received a complaint about the building in July 1991. The town signed a resolution asking to have the property improved and sent the resolution along with a letter to Ortiz.

Ortiz had the underground fuel tank removed and cut weeds around the building and covered broken glass. According to Nunnally's letter, trustees did not accept that as sufficient.

The old gas station is now owned by Neo and Juanita Vallejos of Carrizozo.

Nunnally requested the town trustees enforce the correction of the condition of the property or "If the building cannot be repaired in accordance to the Uniform Building Code, including sanitation facilities, complete window replacement, a new roof, etc., that the building be ordered demolished and that the time table the law affords is abided by."

"This is not just an old gas station," Carrizozo resident Glen Ellison responded. "It is the Ortiz Brothers Chevron station." Ellison told of different people in the community buying gas at the station and rebuilding engines there through the years.

Gary Lovelace of Carrizozo said, "I think we need to start at square one." He then asked when the wall fell out of the old city hall building on Central and added, "Let's clean up the city and then point fingers." He said the old city hall building is the most dangerous building.

Lovelace also said there are a "bunch of buildings" that people need to be notified about and, "Let them know you are not going to push it under the table. If people want to spend $10,000 to fix up a $100 building, let them."

"Nobody needs to point fingers or this community is not going anywhere," Lovelace said. He mentioned that he had given quotes to tear down some buildings in town but never heard from the people again.

Jim Selby offered to help anybody with anything in town such as old buildings or the weed ordinance.

Jody Serrano of Carrizozo said the old gas station was an "eyesore" and suggested if anyone wanted to pay homage to the Ortiz brothers they should put up a plaque. "I wish to hell they would go tear it (the old gas station) down," Serrano said.

Neo Vallejos told the council work has been done on the old gas station and said he plans to fix it, put a roof on, and eventually re-do the windows. "I know I should have started sooner," Vallejos said.

Mayor Cecilia Kuhnkel asked Vallejos, "You said eventually. When?"

Vallejos answered, "When I can. I need to work. I made up my mind to fix it."

Nunnally told trustees, "I don't want to see it tore down if it can be fixed."

Vallejos said he was "going to fix it (the building) and mentioned, 'just because people want it tore down for parking...'"

Trustee Harold Garcia asked if the town is being put in a contractual situation of the seller and buyer.

Nunnally said her family had made an offer through a real estate agent to buy the old gas station. Nunnally said her family planned to tear down the building and put a sign welcoming people to Carrizozo and then donate the property to the town.

Nunnally said she had never met Neo or Juanita Vallejos and later in the meeting Garcia introduced them.

Garcia also asked Nunnally questions about her letter.

He said he wanted to table the matter for time to talk to the town attorney and officials in Santa Fe. "I don't think we can tell Neo what to do with his building," Garcia said and noted that the old gas station building condition had improved 2,000 percent in a week.

Nunnally said, "If you will check with Santa Fe, you will find you are responsible."

Garcia and Nunnally disagreed on several of the issues and at the end of the meeting Garcia apologized to Nunnally for anything he might have said in anger.

Nunnally said she was willing to let the matter drop and not bring it before the town council, "the only reason we continued is because we were verbally threatened this week. For three days we received threats that something would happen if it was not pulled from the agenda."

"If anyone else threatens you and we can be of any help, let us know," Garcia said.

Garcia also asked that the town ask the town attorney if what the town sends to a property owner is binding on a new owner. He listed other things he wanted the town attorney to answer concerning the situation.

After hearing both sides of the matter for two hours and 24 minutes, trustees tabled taking any action concerning the old gas station but did agree to notify owners of seven other properties their properties need to be cleaned up or demolished.

Resolutions with legal descriptions of the seven properties will be presented at the June 22 town council meeting for approval.

Al's Musings

By AL STUBBS

If the new home building picture is any indication, the economy in Ruidoso is anything but stagnant. April building permits covering Ruidoso proper and Alto show some $2.6 million in permits for single family dwelling alone.

And another surprise - not all of the permits for new homes were for Alto. A number are planned for Ruidoso proper, in Enchanted Hills, Jack Little Drive, Willie Horton, Spring Canyon Road, Timberline in Mt. View Estates, Willie Horton Drive, and McBride Drive.

A number of new homes are planned for the Alto area, however. Single permits range up to $277,000. That's a bunch of money.

Several residents planned substantial outlays for building projects other than new homes. The permit for one addition on Main Road totalled $165,000. An addition at the Flying J Ranch came in at $40,000. One commercial reshingling job in Midtown was listed at $18,000. Shingles don't come cheap anymore.

Home builders were in a drought for a number of years in Lincoln County. Maybe the worm has turned. Now where did that saying come from? We can use all the good news we can muster these days. There's enough bad news.

There was terrible news in the Four Corners area when a mysterious disease hit some 19-20 people with nearly a dozen fatalities.

Americans today aren't familiar with infectious disease, epidemics which are deadly and which quickly kill young and old alike.

In essence we were provided a feel for what people in the dark ages went through when unknown diseases swept through populations. Thank God, ours was restricted; it could have been much worse. Our parents and grandparents told about the great flu epidemic of 1918 when countless people died across the nation. The New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell was hard hit. Local women there volunteered as nurses; there was only one fatality. Lincoln County was sparsely settled at that time, but the flu epidemic no doubt took a heavy toll here, too. Polio was a scourge for centuries. No more.

It all goes to show how fragile life is; there are no real guarantees we'll reach a ripe old age. Hang loose.

Perhaps there is a modicum of good in all disasters. The disease epidemic in the Four Corners region might help us city slickers better understand the Navajo way of life and Navajo religion.

Larry Calloway, Albuquerque columnist, talked to noted mystery writer Tony Hillerman about the Navajos. Hillerman, former editor and journalism professor, situates most of his novels on the Navajo reservation. He has in-depth knowledge of their ways and religion and is respected by the Navajo nation, we're told.

Hillerman cited disrespectful media intrusions on the Navajo Nation.

"The traditional Navajos don't like to talk about the dead, especially in the first four days, and here comes a reporter asking all sorts of questions. It's not only rude, it violates their religion... so reporters have to have a whole new set of thoughts on that score," Hillerman told Calloway.

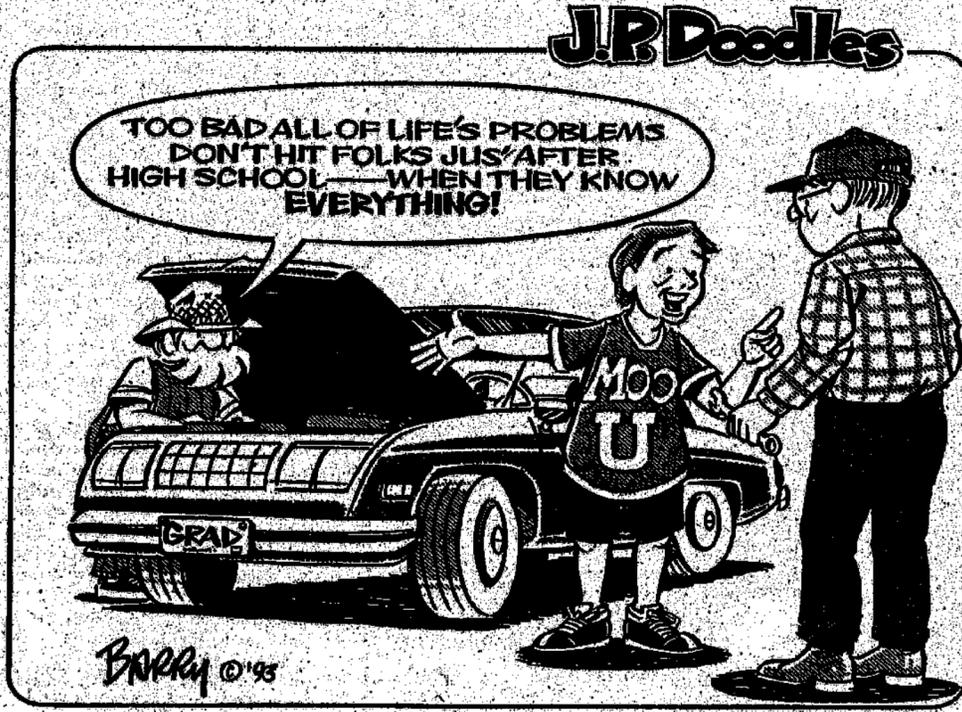

Reporters, Hillerman said, tend to be urban people, and they don't know how to behave around people who are not urban.

Hillerman told one New York reporter that Navajos live with death, and they're less likely to get panicky about it than someone in your average New York City newsroom.

Hillerman is uniquely qualified to assess the current situation between the media and Navajos. He's long been on both sides of that fence.

Divergent aspects of village life was in evidence at village hall in Ruidoso, Monday afternoon. Planning and zoning was dealing with knotty issues in one room, while the lodgers tax committee was weighing money requests in another one.

Following those two meetings, the cemetery board gathered for a session. Hope they put all issues in all three meetings to rest.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—New Mexico: Land of Mystery.

It's not a promotional ad that state Tourism Secretary Mike Cerletti is likely to put in the national media. But he would be pretty accurate.

With more than our share of UFOs, hidden treasure and mutilated cattle, New Mexico has two new mysteries on its hands: the Mystery Illness and the Mystery Sound. It's enough to keep Unsolved Mysteries busy full time.

Hordes of researchers have swarmed throughout Northern New Mexico in the past few weeks looking for clues. But there haven't been many. Mostly scientists have decided what the mysteries aren't. It may be they should pay more attention to the locals.

Early in the search for the Mystery Illness, Navajo elders and medicine men told scientists they thought it had something to do with this being only the third year this century that pinon nuts have been available year-round.

The researchers, throwing every bit of technology they had at the mystery, discovered that the last three years have been very wet, which produced more pinon nuts, which produced more rodents, which are suspected of carrying the illness. Apologies are now being made to tribal elders and medicine men.

In Taos, scientists from Los Alamos and Sandia national laboratories and the University of New Mexico have been stringing wires through chamisa, trying to detect the Mystery Sound. So far about the only conclusion they have reached is that the Sound isn't a sound.

Since the Sound isn't acoustical, it must be either seismic or electromagnetic, scientists say. And they can find no reason for it to be seismic. The area isn't near any known seismic activity. And it doesn't have anything to do with high voltage power lines. The areas with the strongest readings are far from power lines.

The group's findings are expected sometime around the end of the month. Rep. Bill Richardson still thinks the Sound, low-frequency hum, is defense-related despite frequent denials from the Department of Defense.

Richardson doesn't think the Defense Department is trying to hide anything. He figures there are so many projects being conducted in New Mexico that the right one hasn't been checked yet.

Richardson hasn't heard the Sound yet, but he now believes it's there. "At first I just thought it was some of my more colorful Taos constituents," Richardson says. But then he started hearing from "mainstream constituents" and sophisticated listening equipment started getting readings.

Taosenos have come up with some creative explanations for their mystery sound. One is sure the vibration is coming from high-tech equipment used by aliens to bore underground tunnels.

As with the Mystery Illness, one of the lead scientists working on the sleuthing project says all ideas must be given some consideration. "It's fairly arrogant for us to believe that we know everything there is to know and everything there is to measure," says Horace Poteet. "Until an answer is embraced, anyone's guess may be as good as those of the experts."

Scientists aren't the only ones swarming through Northern New Mexico. Media coverage of the two mysteries has been heavy and not appreciated at either location.

On the Navajo Reservation reporters have run smack into cultural taboos against talking about the dead. But it hasn't stopped them from trying anyway. Media are now being banned in some parts of the reservation.

In Taos, Catanya Saltzman, who along with her photographer husband first reported the Mystery Sound, has quit doing interviews because they are wearing her down.

But there is one group of people who disturb the Saltzmanns even more than the media. Some of their neighbors also hear the Sound but deny it. They want to sell their land and fuss at the Saltzmanns because they are lowering property values.

First Annual Arts And Crafts Fair June 12-13

The first annual Arts and Crafts Festival of Ruidoso will be held June 12-13 in the newly completed Ruidoso Civic Events Center. More than 150 artists and craftspeople will fill the main exhibit hall and foyer with original art, limited edition prints and handcrafted items. Hours for the show are Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Mel Prather, organizer for the upcoming event, said booths to the show had been full for several months. "We've been pleased with both the quality and variety of individuals applying for booth space. Artists such as Kenneth Wyatt of Tullia, Texas, and David Brownlow of Fort Worth will be representative of the artists on hand."

"In addition, there will be a good variety of well-known crafters," he continued. "They will be featuring everything from dried floral arrangements and wreaths to original crystal jewelry."

Talking about the makeup of the show, Prather said participants would be offering clothing, pottery, stained glass, quilts, cedar chests, tote painted furniture and wall hangings. Others will exhibit original clay sculpture, tree spirits, antique replicas of antique cars, miniatures, and toys.

Also scheduled to be on hand are crafters with belts, ceramics, bolos, pewter, baby cradles, rocking horses and chairs, soft sculpture and painted porcelain. Potpourri, hair bows, calligraphy, porch swings, patio furniture, original jackets and fishing rod holders will also be available, as well as wind chimes, candy, purses, spice mixes and painted glass.

Carrizozo Airport To Be Studied

LAS CRUCES—The Carrizozo Municipal Airport is one of 31 airports statewide to be studied this month in a New Mexico State University assessment of aviation's impact on the New Mexico economy.

NMSU will send more than 5,000 questionnaires June 7-20 to large and small businesses, government agencies, and airport tenants, said NMSU geography head Robert Czerniak.

The study will estimate the direct and indirect benefits of each airport including jobs, sales revenues, and wages associated with aviation-related services. Researchers will use complex mathematical modeling and computer simulation techniques, Czerniak said.

Czerniak encourages questionnaire recipients to fill out and return the surveys to the university. For more information, contact airport planner Vicki Taggart at 646-5755.

The Other Side

By Owen Russell

I made a few remarks last week about war veterans that I have since received some defensive comments about. As I stated, I did not intend to belittle the individuals veterans or in any way criticize their actions during their periods of service, but I have some questions about celebrating the glories of combat to preserve the memories of those who participated in one. I agree we rightfully should commemorate those who gave their all in defense of our way of life, but there is nothing more than a defensive reaction that is somehow intended to justify the individual events that each serviceman experienced and allows those who did not participate to share in the spirit of the enterprise. However, I have met very few veterans who were proud of what they did. There certainly is a feeling of pride in being a part of the process, but there is little glory to be found in the individual things that were done to accomplish it. To illustrate, we are so proud that we killed 43 of the enemy on our last raid, but there is not a one of us who will even talk about it being our bullet that killed one of them. In fact, out of three major conflicts, (WWII, Korea and Vietnam) I have only met one veteran who bragged about the people he had killed in combat. Generally, the actual infliction of damage is suppressed, and is not something the individual wants to discuss, probably because it is a horror he cannot resolve. In fact, very few extemporaneous war stories have anything to do with actual combat. Somehow, this part of the war is never spontaneously discussed.

Actual: That which is as it was.
Hypothetical: That which might be if it was as it is.

I wrote these definitions last night with good intentions. They illustrated a concept I wanted to talk about, but I am having a difficult time today after having slept on it remembering the exact concept I was intending to illustrate with these weighty statements. It has something to do with the conflict which exists between group behavior and individual goals, but I'm having problems stating what my exact premise is, however I have never let such sloppy thinking get in my way before, so here goes. Maybe what I am trying to talk about will somehow slip through the cracks anyhow.

An example of what I am trying to discuss may be found in the criminal law area. Crimes are defined as being those types of conduct that are prohibited in promoting the general interests of the community. This is fine, but once it is determined that an individual has committed some act which has been determined to be harmful to the community, what are the best interests of the individual? Are they identical to the best interests of the community? Should the punishment fit the crime or the person convicted of the crime.

Another example may be in the old concept of the father desiring his children to not have to go through what he did to get where he is, but this protective attitude may in fact prevent his children from being prepared to reach his level. "I don't want my children to have to go through what I did, but I know they will have to pay their dues before they get there, because you never really learn until you have experienced the situation.

These definitions also portray the conflict found in groups that require new members to experience certain types of adversity to become a member. Fraternity hazing is a good example of this practics. It clearly accomplishes no useful purpose and in fact may be harmful or dangerous, but the tradition lives on because those who have survived it feel that newcomers must suffer through it to gain the status of a member.

Oh, well. So much for that.

FORT STANTON:

FACTS and FICTION

By BETTY JOINER

Correction of Jane Terrells name from last writing. I had it as Twirl. Sorry Jane. Just one of the mistakes I'll make.

School is out for the summer and many students are working at different jobs here on the Fort.

Mike and Freda Hainer had visitors from Sacramento, Calif., for two days. Elena Gonzales and Pat Aguirre, from Los Salazaras, came and had a good time, including dinner at the Wortley in Lincoln, barbecue parties with friends Louis Padilla and Adolfo Gomez. These ladies danced salsa throughout New Mexico on vacation.

Adolfo Gomez had an accident with the Camp Sierra Blanca work release bus. He apparently rammed the bus in the side with his pickup truck as it passed through Capitan. Fortunately no one was hurt bad.

Neal Montes is recuperating from a head-on collision with another car on Haley Hill. Covey Patterson, driver of the other vehicle apparently tried to pass a truck and hit Neal head-on.

Another head-on collision happened when James and Gwenda McDaniels were coming and going on their ranch road and hit each other. So glad all of these were not fatal.

Seventeen Capitan Senior Citizens traveled to Lake Arthur last Friday for a pool tournament. Nineteen men and four women competed against each other for beautiful trophies. Molly Mason won 2nd place and won one of the beautiful trophies. Gertrude Huey, Elaine Layman, and Lucy Padilla made the trip and cheered for the pool players. Breakfast was enjoyed at Denny's and a nice lunch at the Joy Center in Lake Arthur.

Evelyn Garvey has been gone for about 10 days. She attended several graduations of her many grandchildren.

Lisa Crenshaw Annala reports they have ordered the portable arena for White Oaks and she is receiving many donations for the upcoming Lincoln County Pony Express Race. A trail ride is planned for June 19. Join the riders and ride your horse over Barber Springs Trail or drive picturesque road to Mills Ranch. Donations of $10 for single or $15 for a family will benefit the race. The trail riders will be leaving White Oaks at 10 a.m. and end up at Opal Mills Ranch where an underground cooked dinner and cold drinks will be enjoyed by everyone. For further details call 354-2211 ext. 227. Leave a message. Reservations appreciated.

Many of Lisa's and Scott Annala's family and friends attended their wedding on May 15 in Ruidoso. We all wish this couple many years of happiness.

Francis Saiz has enjoyed her daughter and new granddaughter, Mykala Kasandra Saiz, who was born on Mother's Day, May 9, and weighed 7 lbs. 9 oz. in Albuquerque. Uncle Rudy and John Saiz are proud of the new arrival too! Congratulations!

Be sure and attend the Grady Le Memorial Roping this Saturday, June 12 in Capitan. A beautiful saddle will be given away to the winner.

Tom and Nancy Guck, Barbara Beckley, Faye Wornach and Betty Joiner met at the Smokey Bear Restaurant last Tuesday evening to finalize plans for the Capitan Alumni reunion. Anyone needing more information can contact Tom or Barbara.

The Lincoln County Ranch Rodeo group met the same night at the Smokey Bear Restaurant.

Nearly a 100 people attended the American Merchant Marine Memorial on May 22. I am receiving many letters daily to be cancelled with the special cancellation. Four different postcards were printed this year to help with the cost of the upkeep of the cemetery. If anyone is interested in obtaining one of these, Vic and Jean Schaefer at Box 870, Ruidoso, have them for sale at 70 cents.

Della and David Bonnell have been in Houston, Texas where they were welcoming a new granddaughter. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bradley of Springs, Texas, are the proud parents of the new little girl. She was named Krystyn Alyse Bradley, and weighed 7 lbs. 9 oz. and was born on May 21. Everyone is doing fine and glad the big day was finally here. Krystyn arrived on the birthday of Della's youngest sister's birthday, Edie Lawrence. Great-grandmother Louise Joiner is very proud of the new arrival also. Dave and Della enjoyed themselves taking care of the new baby and all the good tomatoes, cantaloupe, and fruit. They said they didn't realize how dry New Mexico was until returning from the beautiful Texas area.

Sunday was a LCRS playday. Hope to have the results next time.

Carla Briggs recently celebrated her birthday. She went to Carlsbad and helped her Mom with a garage sale over the weekend.

Lu and Gene Parker spent the weekend in Raton, N.M. Hope the rains come before next Friday. Adios.

Longbotham Named Scout Volunteer

Lee Ann Longbotham was recently honored as Volunteer of the Year at the Girl Scout Council's annual recognition dinner held in Ruidoso, N.M.

Keynote speaker was LaRae Orullian, National President of Girl Scouts of the USA. Ms. Orullian, a banker from Denver, visited Southeast New Mexico to honor the volunteers in Zia Girl Scout Council.

The program featured Girl Scouts from Lincoln County.

Carrizozo Swimming Pool Opening Delayed

By Ruth Hammond

The Carrizozo Swimming Pool will not open for at least another two weeks. The state requires a certified lifeguard be on duty before the pool can be inspected and water can be put in the pool.

any applications for the positions of certified lifeguards by June 8. The town will advertise for applications for the positions again.

In other business during the June 8 town council meeting trustees heard a request from Randy Horn of Southwest Disposal for an increase in rates.

Southwest was asking the town to implement an increase of 11.6 percent based on the consumer price index.

Trustees agreed pay 8 percent which will take effect Aug. 1.

The town will consider amending the ordinance pertaining to the amount customers pay for the trash service. Public hearings must be scheduled before the town can consider final adoption of the ordinance.

Rates at the transfer station will be increased 11.6 percent effective June 19.

In other business, trustees heard the report presented by Bill Murry of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM.)

Murry said the Valley of Fires Recreation area west of Carrizozo had 10,128 visitors during the month of May with excess of $2,200 in fees collected for that month.

Murry encourages local businesses to use the bulletin board that has been installed at Valley of Fires. The information can include the business name, address and phone number as well as a brief synopsis about the business. The information should be given to Murry or Albert Najar at Valley of Fires to be placed in the locked bulletin board.

Valley of Fires needs retired people to act as campground hosts during the months of June and July. Anyone interested should contact Murry or Najar.

Murry said the remote Rio Bonito campground had 3,185 visitors in May. He told about the riparian work that is being done as well as the natural petroglyph trail in that area.

Several trustees and the mayor confirmed they will take the guided tour of Fort Stanton cave June 17. Murry gave the board a list of things they should bring for the trip which will include approximately four hours underground.

Police chief Charlie White reported the town may have help from the National Guard to remove the debris from where the wall fell out of the old city hall building on Central Ave.

White said he had contacted the National Guard and that the town needs to get on the list. He thought he might hear from them this week and said maybe the National Guard could be in Carrizozo within 30 days.

Trustee Harold Garcia asked White to document dates and times of all calls as well as the individuals White talked to about the situation.

Town foreman Faustino Gallegos said there is sawdust and pieces of wood in the town owned building that had housed Log Lam (the old ice plant behind Four Winds Restaurant.)

The sawdust and/or wood will be given to anyone who wants it. Anyone interested in the sawdust or wood should contact city hall.

Bids for the 12th Street improvement project are due July 8. The bid will be awarded July 13.

Trustees approved resolution 92-08 pertaining to the open meetings act which reflect several changes made by the state legislature this year.

$56,670 is transferred to the Civic Events Center operation. The chamber is budgeted to receive $296,330 this coming fiscal year. The figure includes $30,000 to be provided to special events which request funds.

During discussion councilors were concerned about the lack of an audit of chamber funds for the last fiscal year, which is a provision of the contract. Bailey took full blame for the lack of an audit. She said Ronnie Hemphill, CPA, who also conducts the audit for the village, is scheduled to conduct an audit of chamber books next week.

"I dropped the ball on this one," Bailey said.

Councillor Ron Andrews said he has received few complaints about the chamber in the last 18 months to two years and credited that to the work by Bailey and Crown and the chamber board. Councillor J.D. James said the chamber this past year has operated more efficiently, smoothly with better accountability than in the last five years.

In other business, local real estate agents will be asked to provide proposals for a six-month agreement to sell the Hall/Brown property located next to the Grindstone Canyon Dam. Only one bid was submitted to purchase the property for $61,987. The 5.4 acres and 1,700 square foot log cabin are appraised at $110,000.

Councilors rejected the single bid and after discussion voted to have a request for proposals for the six-month sales agreement.

When new Parks and Recreation director Debbie Joe Almegierre was introduced, she asked councilors to not sell the Hall property, rather make it a part of the Grindstone recreation area.

Almegierre was raised in Ruidoso and graduated from Ruidoso High School in 1979. She earned her BA and MA in recreation at New Mexico Highland University and worked for four years in the "barrio" of West Dallas. "As far as working without money, I can do it," she said.

Councilors approved a special canopy liquor license to the Win, Place and Show to allow the liquor establishment to serve alcoholic beverages in the parking lot during its 11th annual Welcome Back Horsemen barbecue.

After a closed session on threatened litigation, councilors voted to hold a public hearing June 29 on the amendment to the special events ordinance.

A proposed ordinance tabled from the last meeting was again tabled, until the June 29 meeting. At the request of attorney Alan Morell, who represents four certified wrecker services in Ruidoso, the council considered a proposed ordinance which will require any non-license wrecker service to obtain a state Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity.

Instead of protests from building contractors about enforcing the ban on non-rated wood shake shingles in new construction into the three-mile Extra-territorial Zone around the village, the village has received favorable comments. Village zoning director Cleatus Richards said he was comfortable that the village has enough legal structure to enforce the ban in the ETZ. Wood shake shingles will be allowed on new construction if they are treated and meet the ICB ratings for flammability.

In other business, councilors:

-Voted to begin work sessions at 6 p.m. instead of 5:30 p.m., at the recommendation of councillor J.D. James.

-Adopted an ordinance, which had no public comment, amending the dedication of the one-half of one percent gross receipt tax. The tax was dedicated in 1987 to provide funds for the village to acquire the old municipal airport. Since, the tax has exceeded the needed funds to pay off the bonds used to acquire the property. Instead of the surplus funds being used at the new airport, councilors chose to amend the ordinance to allow the excess funds to be used in upgrading the municipal sewer works.

-Heard a report about the recent New Mexico Municipal League meeting from Shaw.

-Heard a report that a survey has been made of the upper portion of the Two Rivers Park and will be made available at the next regular meeting.

-Met in closed session to discuss threatened or pending litigation, acquisition of real property and a report on possible litigation on the River Trail.

Councilors also took action to proceed as directed in the closed session regarding labor relations to check with the New Mexico Municipal League and in absence of a lawsuit there, to proceed with attorney Dan Bryant. All but James voted yes on the motion.

The last action taken for the night was to set the June 29 public hearing on a proposed amendment to the special events ordinance to clarify language on special liquor licenses for outside sales.

CAPTAN NOTES

By Pauline McGarry Whittaker

All kinds of bear stories have begun to circulate. One which is quite old but always new—some little girl named Goldilocks was not being watched very closely by her mother was spotted jumping over the door—she said she had eaten a little bear's porridge and had slept in his bed and was awakened very frightened when the three bears came home.

The latest is a real bear was spotted up by the school by some children. The children were very excited and an unidentified woman called the village hall to report the sighting of the bear but the bear had disappeared by the time the authorities reached the scene.

Josie Trujillo told me about her brother, Eddie Montoya, who was the person who climbed the tree and retrieved baby Smokey Bear. Montoya was working at the Block Ranch when Rangers were getting volunteers to fight the fire when Montoya volunteered along with Josie's husband, (Shorty) Hilario Trujillo. Montoya handed Smokey Bear to the Ranger. Montoya was never mentioned in the story.

The UPS has moved to Mike's Chevron Station. You may take your packages to the station to be processed.

The Jiggs and Ewell Sidwell family is having a family reunion June 19 and 20 at Loma Grande.

Sarah Ewald, alternate delegate for the Methodist annual conference at the Baptist Convention Center in Glorietta, was accompanied by Tom and Pat Broom. The Methodist Church has welcomed a new minister from Odessa, Texas.

Whatever happened to Michael Flanagan?

Flanagan graduated from Capitan High School in 1989 and traveled for one and one-half years having worked as a volunteer on Hurricane Hugo for seven months. He is presently managing the A-Frame Ski Shop in Ruidoso during the winter and manager at Jet Ski Rentals in the summer at Elephant Butte.

Whatever happened to Karrie Runnels? Runnels graduated in 1991 from Capitan High School having been active in all sports as well as having the lead in the plays put on by the drama department. She attended New Mexico Junior College at Hobbs and transferred to the College of the Southwest at Hobbs.

She plans to be an elementary teacher. Runnels plans to marry Mark Vinson of Eunice, N.M., Aug. 7, who is in the oil business. They plan to live in Eunice. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Runnels, the granddaughter of Lou Runnels (Bonita Lou) and the great-granddaughter of Lulu Runnels.

Patsy Reinard

Patsy Reinard Announces For Congressional Seat

Patsy Reinard, well known Socorro attorney and businesswoman, today announced her intention to seek the Democratic Party nomination for the House of Representatives seat now held by Joe Skeen in New Mexico's Second Congressional District. Reinard has practiced law in New Mexico for 14 years, and together with her family operates real estate and agricultural businesses.

Reinard grew up on a northern Minnesota farm and worked her way through college and law school. She is the mother of eight children. Her oldest daughter, Lt. Heidi Hupp, is a graduate of Socorro High School and the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Reinard's husband, Donald Wolberg, is a geologist.

This is her second campaign for the Democratic Congressional nomination. Although she lost in 1992, Patsy Reinard posted an excellent showing in the primary and is generally acknowledged to have won each of the seven public debates during the campaign. Her style of determined grass roots campaigning in shopping center parking lots, public forums, town meetings, union meeting halls, and fiestas was widely noted. She intends to use her early declaration to get off to a running start in her bid to win the Party's nomination. Her campaign will be based on bringing the issues directly to the District's voters. In her view, the region and the Nation have yet to confront a growing list of problems that include the budget deficit, a very weak national and regional economy, intrusion of government into our lives and pockets, and everyone's need for access to medical care.

Reinard says, "My supporters feel that we need a Democrat with a sane economic program, one that takes into account western rural values and lifestyles, the needs of small business owners, ranchers, loggers, miners and jobs, jobs, and more jobs. Quality education and medical care are investments in the Nation's future. No other candidate nominated by the Democratic Party would have the broad bipartisan support needed to defeat Joe Skeen in the 1994 elections."

Reinard is committed to the expansion of economic opportunities in the Second Congressional District, especially improving the viability of the District's agricultural and mining industries. The region's natural resources can be developed and sustained without loss of environmental

LCLWV Hosts State Convention In Alto

Lincoln County League of Women Voters recently hosted the state convention of the League of Women Voters at LaJunta Guest Lodge in the Alto area.

The election of officers for two-year terms was the culminating activity of a busy two-day convention. Lincoln County League of Women Voters, participating in its first convention, hosted special pre-convention activities on May 21. The activities were well attended and provided opportunities for delegates to become acquainted with the amenities in the Ruidoso area.

The home of Inez Tanner was the setting for a cocktail party on the first evening. League delegates were treated to a "Friday night on the town" and were able to dine at a restaurant of their choice. Many delegates had never before been to Ruidoso and were quite impressed with the "wonderful places, food, climate and scenery," a League spokesperson said.

On Saturday, county commissioners Bill Schwettmann and Stirling Spencer and state representative John Underwood lunched with the league members.

A high point of the convention was the Saturday evening performance of "The Harvey Girls" by Jean Jordan.

Officers elected were president Dorothy Gardner, Albuquerque; vice-president Kathy Brook, Las Cruces; secretary Betty Lou Lebeda, Los Alamos; treasurer Sybel Comette, Santa Fe.

At the close of convention Sunday morning, many of the visitors were making plans to return to the area for future visits. "It seems our visitors have discovered a rare jewel in Ruidoso," said Lincoln County League president Genevieve Sewell. "It's the same one all of us have discovered! We are pleased to share it with others."

The League of Women Voters is open to anyone who is a registered voter in Lincoln County and who is interested in governmental affairs.

Storyteller To Visit Hondo School June 25

A very special lady will be coming to Hondo School library this summer, June 25, bringing some of her old friends with her. Estefanita Martinez will bring tales of Rabbit, Coyote and other wily creatures.

Estefanita was raised at San Juan Pueblo, where she still lives, and learned the tales from her grandfather. Her native language, and the original language of these tales, is Tewa. She was well into middle age, however, when a linguist studying Tewa taught her how to write the language. That, in turn, led to linguistics courses and a change from being a custodian at one school to being a teacher at another, the San Juan Day School, where she established a bilingual program. The native language and the native stories had both long seemed invaluable to her. Her concern for the language resulted in the San Juan Pueblo Tewa Dictionary, while her love for the tales led to her documenting and translating them in, eventually, three Tewa/English readers for children. (There is even some "culture swapping" in the readers with the inclusion, in Tewa, of old standard fairy tales such as "Goldilocks and the Three Bears.")

"TV has taken over," Estefanita has said, and these stories are a way of trying to right the balance, to get back something of what her own childhood was like, listening to her grandfather's stories during the long winter nights in the pueblo. A child is supposed to have once said that he liked radio better than television "because the pictures are better." That, too, is one of the lasting charms of these stories, such as the endless adventures of crafty Rabbit and always hungry (and always frustrated) Coyote, among the prickly pear and sage along the Rio Grande.

In an afterword to her book The Naughty Little Rabbit and Old Man Coyote, Estefanita leaves us with these words:

"My grandfather taught me all the stories I know. He always said, 'You should give of yourself whatever it is you have, whether it's material things or some kind of knowledge.' Because of my grandfather, storytelling has always been a part of my life. Each time I tell a story, I pass on to others a little bit of the gift I received from him. I hope you will do the same.

"Take the story that I have told you and tell it again, even though it means changing the location or adding something extra to juice it up a little. Then you too will be sharing the gift with others."

Estefanita's friend Eileen Carroll is very pleased to accompany her on these visits, believing that we are our memories and that Estefanita will be a part of the stories that others tell in the years to come.

County 911 System Applies For Grant

Lincoln County's 911 emergency calling system is moving along.

According to Bernie Reimann, Lincoln County 911 District Board chairman, the grant application for the two primary Public Safety Answering Points (PSAPs) has been forwarded from the Lincoln County 911 District Board to the Department of Finance and Administration (DFA). An agreement draft from QTE West for an enhanced emergency number service was received by the 911 board. It was screened by DFA and county legal advisers and awaits signature by county representatives.

A formal agreement is drafted and awaits approval to allow Ruidoso Police Department PSAP to route all 911 calls until the time when the PSAP at the Lincoln County Sheriff's office in Carrizozo becomes operational. The PSAP will be installed in Carrizozo after the sheriff's office is remodeled.

Johnnie Romero has been appointed the PSAP coordinator for Ruidoso Police Dept.

For additional information about the 911 system, call Reimann at 354-2918.

County 4-H To Compete At National

Eleven Lincoln County 4-H members attended the State 4-H Wool Judging Contest in Roswell on June 2. They comprised three teams that competed against other New Mexico counties. The contest consists of four classes in which team members evaluate and rank four individual fleeces of similar "grade" or fiber diameter. Ranking is based on size, weight, and clean fiber content of each fleece. Additional factors considered are uniformity of grade and length, fiber strength and quality. Junior and senior team members are required to give both written and oral reasons to the officials explaining why they placed each class as they did. Also, team members judged two "rail or line" classes of ten fleeces each. The 4-Hers must classify each fleece according to fiber diameter, length and percentage of clean wool fibers present within a specified time period.

Team members were: Novice, (age 9-11), Mary Beth Bond, Carrizozo, Bryan Hightower, Carrizozo, Jack Rose, Corona, Dustin Sultemeier, Corona.

Junior (age 12-13), John Gnatkowski, Corona, Jessica Rose, Corona, Robert Shafer, Carrizozo.

Senior (age 14-19), Debbie Bond, Carrizozo, Callie Gnatkowski, Corona, Katie Hightower, Carrizozo, Keri Shafer, Carrizozo.

The Novices placed third, the Juniors second and the Seniors first in their respective age groups. In addition, several team members achieved individual honors in the contest. The Senior team will attend the National 4-H Wool Judging Contest in Sonora, Texas on June 17.

Sheep and wool production is a vital part of the economy of Lincoln County. New Mexico Wool is nationally known for its quality. Population of 465,000 head of sheep in New Mexico; and a population of 65,000 head in Lincoln County.

Corriente CowBelles

The regular meeting of the Corriente CowBelles was held recently at the Smokey Bear Restaurant in Capitan with 10 members present.

It was announced that scholarships were presented by Corriente to seniors Tammy Payne and Kyle Traylor at the Capitan High School graduation.

A scholarship will be presented to a continuing college student at the 5th annual Grady Le Eldridge Memorial Team Roping to be held June 12 at 9 a.m. at Fletcher Hall Arena in Capitan. Information concerning the roping can be obtained by calling 354-2504.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY
FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATION
Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations

AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency
ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY:
Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed modified base (100-year) flood elevations (BFEs) shown on the preliminary revised Flood Insurance Study (FIS) and Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM) for your community. These BFEs are the basis for the floodplain management measures that your community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). The proposed BFEs modify the BFEs shown on the presently effective FIRM for your community.

DATES:
The period for comment will be 90 days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in your community.

ADDRESSES:
The preliminary revised FIS and FIRM showing the proposed modified BFEs and their delineations are available for review at the Village of Ruidoso, Village Hall, 313 Creekmeadows Drive, Ruidoso, New Mexico.

Send comments to:
The Honorable Victor Alonso
Mayor, Village of Ruidoso
P.O. Drawer 69
Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:
Mr. William R. Locke
Chief, Risk Studies Division
Federal Insurance Administration
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Washington, D.C. 20472
(202) 648-2767

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:
The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of modified BFEs in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Public Law 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4901-4128, and 44 CFR Part 67.4(a).

These BFEs, together with the floodplain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the NFIP regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean your community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their floodplain management requirements. Your community may, at any time, enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. These proposed BFEs will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents. Pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 805(b), the Administrator, Federal Insurance Administration, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed BFE determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A BFE determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The BFE determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these BFEs. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the BFEs prescribe how high to build in the floodplain and do not prohibit development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement of itself, it has no economic impact.

Proposed BFEs along flooding sources studied by detailed methods are shown on the preliminary revised FIS and FIRM. Lessees and owners of real property in the Village of Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, are encouraged to review the FIS, FIRM, and related materials at the address cited above. The flooding sources studied by detailed methods are:

Local Dance Group Organized

THE SANTA RITA DANCERS, a group of Carrizozo school students, perform Hispanic folk dances. The 39 dancers are in kindergarten through 7th grade. The older dancers performed at a Cinco de Mayo assembly at Carrizozo Schools. All dancers performed La Marcha de Zacatecas and La Raspa at the school's annual Spring program. Other May performances were at Fred Chavez Park following a Confirmation ceremony by Bishop Ricardo Ramirez and at a pollack meal honoring fiesta queen candidates Anita Aldaz and Julie Gallegos.

The dance group was organized by Polly Chavez for Santa Rita Catholic Parish and future performances at the church's fiesta in July. Dance instruction helpers are Lucia Vega and Carmen Ramirez. Several of the mothers and grandmothers of the dancers have assisted Chavez during practice and performances. Ninth grade students who volunteer their help include Amanda Baca, Tammy Means, Michelle Samora, and Amanda Najar.

The group will practice new dances beginning this week. Dance members are Miguel Najar, Anthony Epperson, Simon Beltran, Melanie Whittaker, Amber Vallejos, Libby Sambrano, Holly Schlarb, Melissa Nava, Julie Sambra, Lisa Dugger, Renee Rael, Veronica Pacheco, Stella Brewer, Cereia Sambrano, Adam Means, Jeanette Nowak, Kimberly Vega, Christopher Vega, Ariel Vallejos, Maggie Ventura, Bianca Baca, Christopher Vallejos, Katie Ventura, Adrian Zamora, Justine Beltran, Monique Morales, Monique Jiron, Steve Rowan, Sonya Vega, Stephanie Brewer, Nathan Chavez, Brandon Morales, Lynn Nowak, Samantha Portillo, and Sofia Ramirez.

Lynette Hernandez Attends (HOBY) Leadership Seminar

Lynette Hernandez recently attended the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) Leadership Seminar representing Carrizozo High School. Lynette joined more than 100 other young leaders representing as many high schools throughout New Mexico, June 4-6 at the Holiday Pyramid in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Women's and Men's clubs as well as businesses and personal donations provided HOBY sponsorship to ensure that the seminar would be a rewarding experience for Lynette.

HOBY Leadership Seminars focus is to bring together a select group of high school sophomores with emerging leadership ability so that they can interact with groups of distinguished state and local leaders of business, education, media, government and other professions to gain a better understanding of the problems, frustrations, challenges and rewards existing in today's world so that they can be part of tomorrow's solutions. The goal is to provide the youths a unique forum for learning about the American incentive system and democratic process and for broadening their understanding of their own leadership potential and quest for self development.

"The HOBY seminar was an exciting, yet informative experience. I would like to thank the Carrizozo Woman's Club for sponsoring me as the Ambassador for Carrizozo High School, says Lynette." Her parents are Mary and Manny Hernandez of Carrizozo.

The Hugh O'Brian Youth

Foundation was established by the popular actor Hugh O'Brian following a visit to Africa where he was inspired by a meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

"One of the things Schweitzer said to me was that the most important thing in education was to teach young people to think for themselves," O'Brian says. "From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believe in youth and the American dream, I started HOBY to seek out, recognize, develop and reward outstanding leadership potential among our nation's youth."

quality. She believes that small business is the real source of new jobs and provides the economic backbone of the Nation. Business must not be held back by needless over-regulation and regressive tax policies. In her view the Democratic Party must respond to the desire for less, not more, government and the need to reduce the burden of Federal spending and debt.

Reinard was an early opponent of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). In her view, NAFTA is a short-sighted and poorly considered give-away of American industrial wealth and jobs.

Reinard intends to kick off her campaign with a barbecue in Socorro on Sunday, June 13.
