

Ruidoso Can't Agree On Hotel

By Doris Cherry

Ruidoso Village Council chambers resembled a melodrama Tuesday when more than 100 people crowded the room to make comment during a meeting called especially to discuss the old airport property lease to R.D. Hubbard.

Requested by councillor J.D. James, the meeting erupted more than once into name calling, hissing and booing. Old emotions over the use of the old airport land came out. But after more than two and a half hours of citizens giving mostly kudos for Hubbard's extensive investments in Ruidoso and area, councilors came to the same conclusion as the previous Tuesday night—a split vote on extending the 1989 lease agreement between the village and Hubbard. The split vote effectively killed the motion made by councillor Jerry Shaw to extend the lease agreement to December 31, 1994, with a building permit to be issued by July 1, 1994, with all terms the same, except the hotel will be downsized from 250 to 125-150 rooms.

During a closed session of the June 8 regular council meeting, councilors discussed the lease of the old municipal airport land to All-Hub Inc., of which Hubbard is a major stockholder. The lease, or agreement, expires July 1. Under the terms of an addendum to the original agreement, All-Hub agreed to forfeit the $100,000 letter of credit to the village if a hotel was not built in the area between the Links of Sierra Blanca golf course and the Ruidoso Civic Events Center.

No hotel has been built due to a number of economic conditions on Hubbard's part. However, Hubbard remains interested in building a resort hotel on the site, and has requested an extension to the agreement, with some changes. He has proposed to finance a hotel, but with only 125-150 rooms, not the 250 in the agreement.

Councilors came to the same vote on extending the lease on June 8 as they did Tuesday night. In a roll call vote, councilors Shaw, Frank Cummins, and J.D. James were in favor of the extension. Councilors Ron Andrews and Bill Karn and mayor pro tem Barbara Duff voted no to the extension as presented in the motion. Since the council has no mayor, there is no one to break the tie and a split vote effectively kills the motion.

The vote prompted Shaw to say, "We're right back to where we were...there is really no change, they don't want a hotel in Ruidoso." Hubbard's attorney Don Dutton stormed out of the room. The crowd also was not happy and most started to leave the council chambers. Some said, "wait until election day," others voiced loud boos as they began to leave.

But Duff called the crowd back, to let Andrews explain why he and the hers voted nay. Andrews claimed the original agreement for the

Yard Sales Are O.K. In Capitan - For Now

By Doris Cherry

Yard sales are free to hold again in Capitan—at least for a month.

"We will not enforce the ordinance on garage sales until we have another meeting," said Capitan Village Mayor Frank Warth Monday in response to protests of the new village business registration ordinance. And at 6:30 p.m. July 12, trustees will consider and take public comment on an amendment to an ordinance adopted just last month.

Last weekend Capitan police closed some yard sales because they did not have permits, as required by the new village business license ordinance. That action, and protest of the business license ordinance by a flea market operator, prompted citizens to fill Capitan Village Hall for the trustees' meeting. The citizens asked that the ordinance be amended to delete the permit and fees charged for yard sales and flea market vendors.

Steve Reich, who is trying to establish a flea market in the village, protested the $5 special vendors' fee. He said the fee was an extra charge to his clients.

"The city has more to gain by having the vendors here," Reich said. Reich asked if the village would charge $5 a day for persons selling items on consignment or in an auction. Reich said trustees did provide him a one month waiver on the special vendor charges for his clients.

Reich read a letter complimenting his flea market location and another from a Lincoln County Sheriff's Deputy about how a flea market helps keep crime down by keeping criminals away from residences which otherwise might have had yard sales.

Ordinance 93-10, which established business licenses and fees for special vendors permits, was adopted by trustees last month. When the new law took effect, protests began. The original proposed ordinance included a $5 a day fee and permit requirement of persons conducting yard sales. Flea market vendors were classified under exhibitions and special events, where vendors were to be charged $5 a day up to five days, with a $25 fee minimum.

During consideration of adopting the ordinance trustees had argued against the yard sale fee and the special vendor's fee.

When the final "clean draft" of the ordinance arrived at village hall it included the section requiring the yard sale permits. And police began enforcing the ordinance when it took effect.

At the village meeting Tuesday, a resident who did not identify himself, said that the only way he knew about the ordinance was from the LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS article of May 14 which stated persons wanting to hold yard sales could obtain a permit at

Capitan School Budget Accepted

With no changes or revisions from the New Mexico State Department of Education, Capitan Board of Education unanimously accepted the tentative 1993-94 budget for Capitan Schools.

In a short 40-minute session June 10, board members first welcomed new superintendent Diana Sonnamaker who took over her office June 7. Then the board quickly moved on to the budget.

L.C. Cozzens, who helped draft the budget again this year, went through the budget. He said Santa Fe sent back the tentative budget with approval and no changes. In the budget teachers received an increase of seven percent and non-certified employees also got raises.

With a total of $4,831,492 in revenues available to the district, the school projects it will expend $4,625,452. Teachers salaries at Capitan School range from the low of $22,000 for 181 working days for a teacher with a BA degree and no experience to $34,400 for a teacher with a Master's Degree and more than 45 hours of continuing credits and 20 years or more of teaching experience.

Athletics will be appropriated some $78,042 of the budget to pay for coaches salaries and benefits; $20,000 for student travel; $9,200 for general supplies and materials; $9,000 for capital outlay for fixed assets under $500; $1,800 for

Carrizozo School Hires Principal

By Ruth Hammond

Carrizozo Schools will have a new principal. Former school principal Joe Price resigned this year after two years as Carrizozo Municipal Schools principal and a total of 25 years service to schools in New Mexico.

The Carrizozo School Board voted Tuesday night during their regular meeting to hire James "Jim" Bayless as the new principal.

Bayless has taught social studies at Tularosa High School, served as department chairman, coached football, track and baseball, and sponsored the Indian Club and Bible Club in Tularosa the past two years.

He completed his B.S. in education from New Mexico State University, completed his M.A. in counseling at Ball State University, completed all requirements for educational administrator certification through Southwest Texas State University in 1990, and started course work on a Ph.D. in educational administration, with a minor in bilingual education, at New Mexico State University in 1990.

Bayless graduated from Carlsbad High School, completed his A.A. at New Mexico Military Institute, completed squadron officers' school, completed air command and staff college, completed air war college, and completed studies in foreign languages, Spanish and Italian, at the University of Maryland.

Bayless will assume his duties at Carrizozo School Aug. 2.

The school board also hired coaches and sponsors for the 1993-94 school year. Kenneth Butts was hired as head football coach, boys varsity and junior varsity basketball coach, summer weight program, and computer coordinator.

Tom Moffett was hired as girls varsity and junior varsity basketball coach, assistant football coach, and high school and junior high track coach.

Kay Patterson was hired as coach for varsity, junior varsity, and junior high volleyball, junior high girls basketball, and high school cheerleading sponsor.

Veronica Baca was hired as annual coordinator and junior class sponsor.

Bryan Wetzel was hired as junior high boys basketball coach. Peter Aguilar was hired as junior high football coach. Ruby Armstrong was hired as junior high cheer-

Lewandowski Is New Trash Boss

After a closed session to select a new manager on Thursday, June 10, members of the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) hired Joseph R. Lewandowski for the position of general manager.

Lewandowski comes to the authority with extensive experience in integrated solid waste management. He formerly was general manager of Southwest Disposal Corp. of Alamogordo, and oversaw trash operations in Lincoln County, which contracted with the company before the formation of LCSWA.

LCSWA reviewed the 11 applications for the job, and interviewed finalists Maurice Gudgel, Neil Selman, Kerry Krumsiek and Lewandowski. Harold Mansell was also a finalist but was unable to come to the interview because of previous commitments.

He was, according to a press release from LCSWA, given full consideration as were all the applicants.

Grand Jury In Recess Once Again

The Lincoln County grand jury convened again Monday in Carrizozo to hear more on the allegations on state representative John Underwood.

However, the jurors again recessed and left Carrizozo by mid-day Tuesday--without making a decision.

According to district court clerk Margo Lindsay, the grand jury will reconvene on Monday, June 28.

NEW HORIZONS DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER Board of Directors honored Rene Burton (seated) with a gift certificate June 18. Rene is retiring from her position as accountant at New Horizons, where she has worked since July 18, 1983. Prior to that she served on the board of directors and was one of the original board members responsible for establishing New Horizons in 1979. Board members from left: president Phyllis Schlegel, Archie Witham, Andy Wynham, assistant director at New Horizons Mary Funk, and board member Paul Baca.

lease of the airport land for a resort hotel was with W.S. Davies Corporation, which Hubbard later bought out, and expired in July 1989. Legal opinion from the New Mexico Municipal League and Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) was that the village should negotiate a new agreement.

To give an extension to the 1989 agreement, to Andrews was a violation of the state procurement code. He made a motion, which passed with all but Shaw voting yes, asking for legal clarification whether the 1989 agreement and subsequent three addendums are still viable. "If this is a dead lease, we go back to the negotiating table," Andrews added to the motion.

But all the questions of legality bothered Shaw, who asked why in the six previous times the lease agreement was sent to DFA there was no questioning about its legality. "It (the lease) was always okayed and the lease extended two times," Shaw said. "I think it's strange timing."

Andrews said he, nor the other two councilors, were not against Hubbard's hotel proposal. He agreed the village needs a hotel to complement the civic center and to draw conventions.

Most of the speakers during the meeting supported Hubbard's investment projects, including the proposed hotel.

"Hubbard's the only player we've got," said resident Johnny Durham. "But it looks like we're trying to run the guy off." The fact that Hubbard is the only person wishing to invest in a resort hotel in Ruidoso was pointed out over and over. Ronnie Paulger, former chairman of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County said the corporation cannot find an investor for such a hotel project. He advocated renegotiation of the lease agreement with Hubbard.

Dan Swearingin, a critic of the 1989 lease, urged the council to work out a viable lease with Hubbard. "Let's get on with it," he said.

Bill McCarty, long time resident and major developer, credited Hubbard for his investments in the village, without asking for help. McCarty asked the council to mend some of the cancer that was growing to split the town apart. "Work together...that's what made this little town," McCarty said.

Other persons expressing similar sentiments about Hubbard were former councillor Al Junge, realtor Cindy Lynch, director of the Hubbard Foundation Jim Stoddard, Links of Sierra Blanca Golf Course head pro Michael Hicks, businessman Tom Batton, merchant Herb Brunell, business woman Gwen Harrison, Leo Martinez a California transplant, Al Davis another California transplant, former part owner of Ruidoso Downs Race Track Carolyn Henson, Museum of the Horse employee Glen Barrow, new residents Bill Jones and C.R. Hicks.

Links manager Jeff Miller told of the intangibles brought to the village by Hubbard's investments—employees, high school golf team which won first in the state this year, advertising of the golf course and village and the gross revenues at the golf course. James later in the meeting said the golf course grossed $994,779.62. Of that the village received $35,190.34 in gross receipt taxes and the state received $32,579.02 in gross receipt taxes. This year, estimates are the Links will gross over a million dollars.

Resident Genevieve Sewell expressed concern over the lease of $2,000 a year for 50 years which equals to $12.50 an acre per year. She referred to a petition drive to call a referendum to allow Ruidoso voters to decide what was to be done with the old airport land. She asked for more concentration on the civic center.

Resident Corrine Swearingin expressed views similar to Sewell's.

After everyone who wished had two minutes to comment, the crowd pressured the council to take a vote on the Shaw motion. Duff had been reluctant to allow a vote because the meeting was called only to discuss the lease.

An amendment to include a two percent gross for the village on any revenue from gambling in the proposed hotel, made by Karn, was killed on a 1-4 vote.

Andrews tried to table the vote to extend the lease until the regular council meeting, but he was angrily called down by the crowd. A motion, however, cannot be tabled.

And councilors were unable, according to Robert's Rules of Order, to bring the original vote on extending the lease back up during the same session.

Councilors at the end of the meeting agreed to call another special meeting about the lease agreement if necessary.

The agreement between the village and Hubbard expires July 1. According to the terms and addendums of the lease, Hubbard will be liable to forfeit $100,000 to the village for not having a hotel under construction.

Give Sewing Machine Tender Loving Care

By Betty McCraight
Lincoln County
Home Economist

Does sewing have your sewing machine in constant use? If so, you may need to take time now to give it some Tender Loving Care.

The sewing machine presser foot, tension disc and feed dog need regular cleaning, as does the bobbin chamber. A small brush helps lift away lint and dust. Use the brush that came with your machine or a soft paint brush. Or, a few bursts of air from a can of pressurized air will make short work of removing hard to reach lint and dust.

Open the throat plate wide or remove it and dust all of the lint out of the bobbin chamber. The cover plate over the feed dog should also be removed to clean away lint that has collected under it. Check your machine's use and care booklet for other points to clean.

After lint and dust have been removed, apply one drop of sewing machine oil where one metal part moves against another. Check the instruction booklet for all points to be oiled—remember, some new machines do not call for oil so be sure to check.

Avoid over oiling; it gets sticky and collects dust. Wipe away excess oil or take time to wash off the machine using a washcloth and warm, soapy water. This will insure against getting oil stains on articles being made. Then, remember to keep your machine covered when it is not in use to prevent dust and lint from collecting.

Check the point of the sewing machine needle to determine if it is dull or has a burr. Burrs are often caused when the needle hits a pin as you sew. You will probably want to change the machine needle if you have sewn as many as eight hours with it or if it has a burr. A dull machine needle will cause fabric being sewn to snag or it may break threads along the seamline. Such breaks usually result in holes along the seamline after the garment has been worn and laundered a few times.

In other business the board approved the Chapter I budget of $79,919 for the 1993-94 fiscal year, which is a "big cut" from previous years.

The board approved the pay request submitted by Ned's Plumbing and Remodeling for work on the school's compliance with the American's with Disabilities Act (ADA) and also approved beginning phase two of the project.

School superintendent Jimmie Banks announced the school FFA Chapter won four awards in Las Cruces; the FFA Safety Award, the over ten percent growth award, excellent chapter award, and the chapter president's award.

Banks displayed a retirement plaque that will be presented to Joe Price.

The board reviewed sections of board policy 500 and plan to finish section 500 at the next regular board meeting July 20.

A special board meeting will be held Monday, June 21 at 6 p.m. for review of the budget for the 1993-94 fiscal year.

The one hour 18 minute board meeting included a 44-minute closed session to discuss limited personnel matters prior to hiring the principal, coaches and sponsors.

Banks told the board the closed session was placed on the agenda only if it was needed because of new rules which take effect this month. The new state rules will not allow agenda items to be added at a meeting.

Yard Sales Are

no cost. Permits had to be obtained in advance of the sale.

A resident asked how persons wanting to obtain a permit to have a yard sale could do so on Saturday and Sunday, the day people often decided to have a yard sale at the last minute.

"The ordinance does not say that," Warth replied. He told the resident that the trustees held two public hearings on the ordinance before it was adopted.

Trustee Leroy Montes said, "At the time we all agreed to delete the garage sale permit. It was my understanding we deleted the charges for the (yard sale) fee."

As for the licenses for the individual flea market vendors, Montes agreed that it was a type of "double licensing" since Reich already had a business license to operate the flea market. Trustee Gilbert Montoya echoed Montes' sentiments about the situation.

Warth worried about the vendors paying state gross receipt taxes, but Reich said flea market vendors do not need state tax numbers.

The ultimate question of the night was why the village government must always take the negative attitude. A resident, Joe Crosno, claimed he was threatened with fines—another negative attitude.

Crosno eventually asked trustees why violations of all ordinances must wait until a complaint is made for police action.

Police officer Lance Zink said he has to witness a violation to file a complaint. But he defended his actions of upholding village ordinances. "No one filed complaints, but I took care of garage sales," Zink said.

Finally, after discussion from numerous people, especially about the yard sale permit and fee, trustees agreed to hold a public hearing at 6:30 p.m. Monday, July 12, to consider an amendment to the newly passed ordinance which will strike any fee or permit for yard sales and to strike the $5 a day license fee for flea market vendors.

Until trustees take action on the amendment, the yard sale and flea market permit and fee section of the ordinance will not be enforced.

Trustees held a public hearing prior to the regular meeting Monday, to take residents' comments on two ordinances and a liquor license to Hotel Chango.

Trustees passed Ordinance 93-11, imposing a 1/16 infrastructure gross receipts tax. The tax will allow the village to recoup some of the gross receipts lost subsequent to action taken during the New Mexico Legislature this year. The taxes may only be used for village infrastructure which includes streets, water lines and sewer.

Ordinance 93-12 sets a $1 judicial education fee added to every fine imposed through the municipal judge.

No protests were filed concerning the beer and wine license application made by Jerrald Flores owner of Hotel Chango restaurant and all requirements were met. Trustees approved the license unanimously.

Dr. Bernhard Reimann updated the 911 emergency phone project now underway. A grant for equipment has been approved by the Dept. of Finance and Administration, Reimann announced.

He said the system has proven difficult to put into action. A needed remodeling of the sheriff's office in Carrizozo will delay installation of that portion of the system. Until it is installed Ruidoso will handle the 911 calls. Reimann explained that the 911 calls are instantaneously transferred to the main 911 computer in Albuquerque, then within microseconds are transmitted back to Ruidoso which will transfer the calls to the Sheriff's office in Carrizozo. Once the system is installed in Carrizozo, the emergency calls for Capitan and Carrizozo area will be transferred to the sheriff's office.

GTE Telephone System signed a formal agreement with the county last week, and the entire 911 system has a target start up date of July 1. However, the lack of a formal agreement between the sheriff's office and Ruidoso Police Department may delay the start up date.

Reimann also said the lack of rural addressing in the county will have delayed the "E" or enhanced version of the 911 system. The E-911 provides information about the caller and the location from which the call originates. Without rural addressing such a system is not feasible.

Compliments were given to Reimann and the county 911 advisory board for all the work done to bring the emergency system to Lincoln county.

Warth reappointed, and the trustees accepted, the Planning and Zoning Board of Joe Geometz, Dorothy Smith, David Posley, Sam Sparks and Joyce Jones.

Warth also reappointed, and the trustees accepted, the current cemetery board of Lois Aldridge, Dorothy Smith, Francis Shaw, Wayne Mason and Jim Malcolm.

Warth updated the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) project now underway. The constructed wetlands sewage treatment is now 24 percent and plans are to begin planting the wetlands by the end of August and be in full use by September. Construction bids for the other CDBG project, for fire hydrants, will be opened July 8. The village has $219,000 for about 38 new hydrants, which will hopefully lower fire insurance rates for its present "6" rating.

Warth will attend the Community Development Council meeting Friday in Santa Fe to see if the village will receive the $378,283 requested to upgrade 4th Street.

Trustees referred Greg Horst's request for a vacation of a utility easement on a lot in Hideaway Hills subdivision to be considered at the June 29 planning and zoning board meeting. The P&Z board will make a recommendation. Horst wanted trustees to approve the vacation so he could close a real estate transaction before next month's meeting.

Trustees met in closed session for personnel and litigation.

employee travel and training and other charges and $9,400 for other contract services.

Non-instructional support, which includes band, FFA and FHA, was appropriated a total of $20,918. That includes $9,000 for student travel, $1,000 for employee training and another $1,000 for employee travel; $2,000 for general materials and supplies, and $6,750 plus benefits for activities salary increments.

The final budget will be approved later.

The Chapter I and II budgets also were approved at $99,889 and $11,308 respectively.

The board accepted the resignation of music director Dick Valenzuela and elementary secretary Stella Valenzuela. Dick has accepted the director of music position at St. Pius School in Albuquerque. Also accepted was the resignation of librarian Mary Weaver.

The board then voted unanimously to employ Todd Proctor as Vo Ag instructor and FFA advisor and Becky Angel Borowski as librarian.

Board members also approved the Open Meetings Act Resolution which sets the date and time of meetings, and notice policy. Meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. during daylight savings time months and 7 p.m. during standard time months, on the second Thursday of each month.

Notice of times of the meetings will be posted at the post office and office of the superintendent of schools.

Special meetings may be called upon three days' notice. Emergency meetings can be called only under circumstances which required action on less than three days' notice to protect the health, safety, or property of citizens or the interests of the Capitan Municipal schools. The board will avoid emergency meetings if practicable. Notice of an emergency meeting must be made within 24 hours of the session.

From seven proposals for auditor for the 1992-93 school year, board members accepted the recommendation to employ Rice and Associates of Albuquerque.

Board members also commended the elementary students who made the honor roll all four periods last school year. They are: Kenny Stahl, Brandon Beavers, Brandi Dickerson, Aubry Volquardsen, Jessica Neal, Doug Smith, Amber Goodloe, Melanie Hail, Jena Clayton, Boni Hazel, Annalise Haussler, Casey Helms, Cody Glass, Kyle Look, Chris Hail, Jesse Lee Wright, Codi Montes, K'rin Autrey and Amanda Bird. The students will each receive a $50 savings bond.

The board adjourned by 8:10 p.m. after which Sonnamaker and board members Beverly Payne and Russell Shearer left for the 14th annual New Mexico School Law Conference in Albuquerque.

Study To Determine Impact

Sierra Blanca Regional Airport is one of the 31 airports that will be included in a study to determine the impact of airports on local and state-wide economies, an official of the state highway and transportation department's aviation division said.

The $114,000 study, funded 90 percent by the Federal Aviation Administration with the remainder of the balance funded by the state transportation agency, started June 7. Results of the study can be used by public officials and economic development agencies to assist them in guiding and promoting aviation's growth and development.

Among the 31 airports to be studied are Carrizozo Municipal Airport, Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, Alamogordo White Sands Regional Airport, Roswell Industrial Air Center, and Socorro Municipal Air-

In The Service

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Francisco S. Jimenez, son of Maria d. Morales of Alamogordo, recently returned aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, homeported in San Diego from a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Persian Gulf as the command ship of the battle group.

The 1989 graduate of Alamogordo High School joined the Navy in June, 1989.

While the cost of living has increased dramatically, at least the cost of calling your friends to complain about it hasn't.

It has a familiar ring to it. Food costs up 21%. Housing costs, 25%. Medical costs, 46%. And cable TV costs, 51%. But your local telephone service has gone up just 3%* And with GTE, the quality and service you receive is perhaps the most cost-efficient and reliable you can find. So, if the economy has you a little out of sorts, remember you can always count on the great value of your GTE telephone service.

Al's Musings

BY AL STUBBS

Virgie Alonso is one smart lady. The wife of former Ruidoso Mayor Victor Alonso decided to return to college after raising a family. She was graduated this spring with a double major from New Mexico State University.

In golf a person sets a course record. Virgie Alonso sort of set a different kind of course record at NMSU. She was graduated with highest honors with straight A's in all of her subjects.

Her double major was in sociology and Spanish.

If you don't live on a ridge in these mountains, in the Ruidoso area, there is one thing missing—terrific sunsets. The greenery makes up for the loss.

Former flatlanders, however, do kinda miss the glorious sunsets of West Texas, the plains of New Mexico and the skies over the San Andres, etc. Often the beautiful sunsets are enhanced in West Texas and plains of New Mexico by dust particles in the air. Dust makes red clouds redder, we do believe.

Sandstorms are something we don't miss by being a "mountaineer."

We recall a couple of sandstorms that even today gives us a dry throat. We were visiting friends in Levelland, Texas, when one of those famous West Texas sandstorms came out of nowhere and peeled the paint off vehicles. Visibility dropped to 20 feet. A shampoo couldn't get all the sand out of your hair.

Another was out of Roswell at an open house on a Sunday afternoon. A wealthy family had just finished a country Mexican-style mansion near Midway complete with chapel and ballroom.

The public was invited. We went to take photos for the newspaper as we recall.

Well, one of those famous New Mexico (yes, we have them, too) sandstorms struck with a vengeance. We hastened to get back in the car to head home. The engine started, but the car wouldn't move. That New Mexico sand had clogged the wheels to where they froze and wouldn't turn.

Nope, we don't miss that kind of weather. But, even on the plains the "normal" good dry weather is preferable over excessive humidity.

Anyway, you can't pry us out of these hills. We can check on sunsets while visiting on the plains and by driving to a ridge or via camcorder. Ridge residents have the best of both worlds, except for wind. We won't get into that.

The Rev. Craig Cockrell, pastor of the Community United Methodist Church in Ruidoso, would make a good juggler. He has many talents, including musical ones.

The church has a fine handbell choir, with Cockrell as one of the musicians.

In most instances, musicians in a handbell choir have a bell in each hand which they ring according to the music.

If the choir is short a person or two, someone has to fill in. Craig may have three or four of the larger bells in front of him; he has to juggle the bells, making sure he sprightly picks up the right bell to sound the proper note.

He's a good preacher, too. And, vocalist and guitarist. The handbell choir gave a sterling performance Sunday under direction of Vic Sweet, retired California high school band leader. Vic filled in for Ann McCoy, handbell choir director.

Forty-plus middle and senior high school students, all members of the New Spirit Singers, gave an inspiring performance recently one evening at the First Christian Church. The singers hail from the Village Presbyterian Church in Prairie Village, Kansas. Seeing and hearing these fine young people gives us new hope that good is still most prevalent in the world.

Editor's Note: This will be Al Stubb's last column for the Lincoln County News. We have enjoyed his weekly "Musings" and wish him the best in his new ventures.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—New Mexico's Palace of the Governors has survived another attack—the most damaging in its 383-year history.

At 2 a.m. one night last week, a 14-year-old boy, out joyriding with a friend, lost control of his mother's four-wheel-drive power wagon and tore out a 70-foot section of the Palace's portal. Damage is estimated at $250,000. Fortunately the building itself was unscathed. Valuable exhibits on the other side of the six-foot-thick walls were unharmed. The burglar alarm didn't even go off.

Nonetheless, it was the most damage in the building's history. In 1680 revolting Pueblo Indians routed the Spanish colonists with a siege and sent them packing south of the border.

Twelve years later Don Diego de Vargas and an overwhelming army convinced the Pueblos occupying the building that leaving without a struggle would be a very good idea.

During the Civil War, 170 years later, Confederate troops briefly took over the Palace until their army was ambushed east of town at Glorietta Pass. No damage was done to the building during either change of hands.

But a 14-year-old "Plaza Rat," as Santa Fe kids who hang out downtown at night are called, managed to do more damage to our former state capitol building than four armies had accomplished.

Officials from the Museum of New Mexico, which operates the Palace, said it should take only about two weeks to repair the damage that affected about a third of the block-long portal. But before the work can be done it must be approved by the state Property Control Division, the Office of Historic Preservation, the Museum of New Mexico and the city Historic Design Review Board.

That effort could extend until sometime into the next century.

When any structure in Santa Fe's Historic District is remodeled or repaired, it must utilize existing materials. For example when brick floors become too worn after decades of traffic, the bricks must be turned over—not replaced.

Historic purists must have been upset to discover that the collapsed portal revealed red brick from a 1917 facelift, red painted sheet metal from a later renovation, and plywood from a 1985 repair of roof leaks. Presumably, all those materials are now "historic" and must be incorporated into the repair job, no matter how badly damaged.

In partial defense of the young man, who was driving without permission and without a license, officers decided he was free of drugs and alcohol and properly remorseful. At the scene and later that day, the youngster apologized to the people and City of Santa Fe; the Indians, who have sold under the portal for centuries; and the tourism industry.

"I've grown up on the Plaza," he said, "and I took a chunk out of our history."

In another tribute to young people of today, many high school graduating classes across the state, spontaneously organized prayers at their graduation ceremonies during the past few weeks. A U.S. Supreme Court decision last year determined prayers at public school graduations are unconstitutional.

But a concerted nationwide effort attempted to circumvent the ban by advising school officials they didn't have to intervene if students independently decided to pray.

That's just what happened in many ceremonies throughout the state during the closing weeks of May. And the first week in June, the Supreme Court let stand a ruling that allows student-led prayers at graduation ceremonies in three states.

The student prayers do raise the question of how eager the students would be to pray if it weren't prohibited.

But then these students had just come through final exams during which student prayers, although silent, are likely very prevalent. No need to end such a good habit so soon.

Lincoln County Beef Producers Are Recognized

Lincoln County beef producers were recently recognized for their efforts to help teach our nation's children about the importance of good environmental caretaking. Through checkoff dollar investments, local beef producers joined with producers from across the country to fund the development of an educational kit entitled, "Caretakers All," which received the top public relations award at the National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA) national awards competition, held April 19 in Orlando.

Designed for use with third and fourth grade students, "Caretakers All" is a six-lesson program that addressed such topics as soil, water and plant conservation, recycling, environmental interdependence and personal responsibility. Written by elementary school teachers and reviewed by experts in environmental education, soil conservation and beef production, "Caretakers All" won the NAMA "Best of Show" competition after

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To All Carrizozo Alumni—As you might have read in the weekly calendar of events in our local newspaper The Alumni Association is planning the reunion beginning June 25-27, 1993.

We have heard from a number of out of town alumni members planning to attend. We want them to feel welcome and to make their visit to Carrizozo a memorable one. However, we cannot do this without the participation and attendance of our local alumni. We are extending a special invitation to each of you to attend the activities scheduled. Our dues are only $5 a year and this money is used for scholarships of graduating seniors whose parents (or parent) is a member of the alumni. Without your dues and your help we are going to have to dissolve our alumni association because the burden is too great for two or three people. We have decided to have the reunions every other year due to the work and expense involved. We could use your help with registration, dance and the dinner. Also your suggestions and input are very welcome.

We are expecting graduates from the classes of 1933-43 and 53. Hopefully, others that we have not heard from.

Please come. Help us to show our out of town guests a good time and welcome them to "Friendly Carrizozo". We have lots to offer with your help.

Thanks to each of you.

ROY DOW,
MARGO LINDSAY,
JOAN MEANS.

EDITOR—I see where the silly season is here again. I'm referring to the annual war on weeds and the attempt to turn Carrizozo into the garden spot of the universe. Barring divine intervention, this is unlikely to occur. The weeds will win, as they always have, and things will remain much the same. Some of us do what we can but others do nothing. The weeds on the lots along Hwy. 54 across from where I live haven't been cut in at least five years.

Every few years some newcomers arrive and begin boasting about all the great things they are going to do for our town. After six months or a year, most of them slip out of town, under cover of darkness, without paying their bills. We've seen this too many times so pardon us for being skeptical. This town can definitely use some new blood, so lets hope the more recent arrivals turn out to be the genuine article.

As a Carrizozo native (1935) and fourth generation citizen of Lincoln County, I feel that I have some knowledge of this area and I would like to add several observations.

The Other Side

By Owen Russell

Did you hear the one about the traveling salesman and the farmer's cute little... Oh, forget it! It wasn't funny to my grandfather's generation, so why should I think things are any different now? Besides, pig jokes are out of style.

It is all quiet on the western front this week. I must be slipping, because this is the first time in a long while that I haven't had to dodge an irate customer/friend/acquaintance on my way to the pork barrel. It has been said that those you please will retain fond memories of you but will be unable to recall why, but those who are not satisfied will know very well why they can't forget your face. This must be my week for fond memories, which means I must tread very softly into the future because this may be the lull before the storm. I haven't changed my behavior in any significant way and in the past I have been much more productive in cultivating adverse emotions.

I thought a few weeks ago one of the problems with President Clinton's selection process for appointees to federal positions was that he was picking women with fluffy hairdos, but Ruth Ginsberg doesn't have one, so things are looking up. Although she is probably a bit older than some would consider appropriate, I think she will add to the Supreme Court and will surely be confirmed by the Senate if she can oversee the fact that Jimmy Carter liked her. There may still be some around who are a bit suspicious of Jimmy's friends.

I am in the process of planting lawn this week. Of course, we investigated the possibility of putting in turf, but when the estimate was presented, I, in one of my saner moments, decided I could save all that money and do it myself. So, as the rototiller churned up rocks, I embarked on my latest time-saving project. Saturday afternoon was spent raking the rocks out of the yard and preparing the soil for seeding, which was accomplished in good time with the expenditure of only about two gallons of iced tea. But, as all of you who have encountered a similar experience know, the more you rake, the more rocks there are and the larger the acceptable rocks become. When I first started, I was grooming the ground very well, but as the afternoon progressed my standards took a decline and by evening, anything under two inches remained, which is about the same time we ran out of iced tea, and patience.

Then, Sunday morning, I assembled our brand new handy-dandy broadcast spreader, which any third grader with a hammer and pair of pliers can do without difficulty but is hopelessly confusing to a college graduate, and I proceeded to fertilize the first little patch to death until I finally got the machine adjusted. (In the event the distribution of the material being spread appears too liberal, adjust the escape hatch to produce desired results, which will usually occur after the first bag is wasted.)

When it came time to scatter the seed, I took matters into my own hands and parked the new-fangled contraption in the street and instructed the dog to divert traffic in its direction, and proceeded to broadcast the seed out of a large mixing bowl, which worked out very well. If that grass don't grow, it ain't because there wasn't enough seed planted! Then I commenced with the straw-scattering process and spread a liberal portion of this sneezy, dusty, musty moisture trap over the area, which finally covered up most of the rocks, and headed for the showers. Now, with only a daily sprinkling of water to keep the straw in place and visions of the future enjoyment of a home-made horticultural environment within which to enjoy a mint julep, I am so proud of myself that I will pay anything the gardener asks for the installations of turf on the next pasture I improve.

FACTS and FICTION

By BETTY JOINER

Hot, dry, weather has been making everyone miserable. Rain is needed everywhere you go.

The many ropers that showed up for the Grady Le Memorial Roping didn't seem to mind the hot dusty weather at all. Michael Fish was the winner of the beautiful saddle given for the high money. Cody Wilson, who recently won a saddle at Tully's arena roped at Capitan too. These young ropers are getting tough to beat. Congratulations to you both!

Ken Schear, Dick and David Coy, James McDaniels, Jay Eldridge, Darry Herd, Grover

Hall, and Waddy Hobbs were a few of the workers making sure the roping went off as fast as possible.

Brent and Kelly Racher, Tammy Payne, Kyle Traylor, Eric Fuchs, and Rachel Lacy were the recipients of the scholarships the Corriente

CowBelles give each year to new graduates and continuing graduates. Betty Browning stopped in this morning and reported that Wanda Lacy had called from the National Collegiate Rodeo finals in Bozeman, MT. Rachel Lacy had just roped her first breakaway-calf and had a fast time of 2.6. She was winning the round and hopes to win the title. Seventy-six other girls were vying for this title against Rachel. She is representing NMSU of Las Cruces rodeo team, Know Ken and Wanda are really proud of their daughter.

Chris and Peggy Lamb moved a load of furniture to Big Springs, Texas over the weekend. They have bought a home there. David Cunningham has taken Chris's place, looking after the cattle.

Todd Proctor was happy to hear he will be the new ag teacher for the upcoming year in Capitan. Todd is a former graduate of Capitan High School.

Tammy Payne, Della Joiner, Jared Martin, and Jennifer Montoya are some of the employees working at the Alto Country Club this summer. Steve Sanchez, who took Al's place is doing a good job working with these students.

Willie Hobbs helped out at Alto post office Monday and Tuesday, of last week. Many people have been called for jury duty with several trials coming up. Mary Gourley was one of the lucky ones. Check in at the Capitan post office. Mike has done it again. He has put up some wall hangings with neat memorabilia on them. Check out the new "Hank Williams" stamp and the new rock and roll booklet, which contains Elvis Presley, when there or at any other post office.

Results of last weeks

playday are as follows:

Little Britches: Boy, Brand Franklin.

Lead Class: Girl, Kayla Roberts; Boy, Kevin Parker.

Six thru eight: Girl, Dusti Franklin; Boy, Kaland Salazar.

Nine-twelve: Girl, Shannon Salazar; Boy, Court Franklin.

Thirteen-eighteen: Girl, Michelle Payton; Boy, Drew Smith.

The turnout for these playdays just keeps increasing. Many sponsors have donated buckles and helped the organization in a big way. Remember to buy your ticket for the saddle they raffle off and thank the offices for the many hours they spend to make this successful.

Remember the Lincoln County Pony Express trail ride that will be this Saturday, starting at White Oaks at 10 a.m. Opal Mills ranch will be the end of the ride with a good dinner prepared for $10 donation.

Eddie and Gwen Jones spent a week in Utah vacationing last week. They rented a houseboat and toured the Rainbow Arch, which is one of the seven wonders of the world.

Robbie Ruppells and his new wife recently moved to Mead, Kansas, where Robbie is employed.

Everyone was wondering why all the flags were flying last Monday. Everyone was joking "Flag Day" What else?

Elaine and Billy LaMay and Jo Townley are proud grandparents of a new baby girl born June 11 in Milton, Florida. The baby was named Amanda Jordan. The parents are Micki and Kirt Martin. Kirt is stationed in the Navy in Florida.

CAPITAN NOTES

By Pauline McGarry Whittaker

Jo Blazer, Angie Provine and Alice Phelps attended a "Team Building" seminar in Albuquerque on June 8 for the New Mexico Extension Homemakers. It was very informative and will give the Capitan club several goals to work for in the next few years. The Extension Clubs are dedicated to improving family life and assisting in community affairs. The Capitan Club has recently donated $250.00 to aid 4-H children attend summer camp and $50.00 to aid Megan Vincent on her FHA trip. The Capitan Club will be selling cold and hot drinks and baked goods on July 3 at the old city hall.

Capitan is a buzz again with activity. Dr. Phillip Shelley has arrived bringing the field school of archaeology from Eastern New Mexico University. Alton and Pauline Whittaker with the Hitchin' Post Lodge are delighted to have their home filled with 24 students for the month.

Patricia Grassie and children Lauren and Jason, the daughter and granddaughter of Billie and George Elkins, returned from Brazil. Grassie said, "the diet there is responsible for very few obese people. Diabetes, cancer, and heart trouble is not as prevalent as in the United States." I asked, "What do they eat that seems to control such illness?" Very little desserts, meat about once a week, beans and rice every day, and lots of fruits and vegetables," she answered. She and her husband were in Recife, Brazil for seven years and Maceio, Brazil, the last two years. Her children were fascinated with McDonalds and the freedom to play on the grass when they visited her parents in Roswell.

George and Billie Elkins have been driving from Roswell for 10 years. Elkins is a practicing psychologist and also a preacher. We will miss his not coming to the Church of Christ each Sunday to conduct our worship. Leslie Earwood will be the resident preacher. He and his wife Delores have had a home here for many years but have recently moved to Capitan permanently. They come from Carlsbad.

Freddie Powell is back in town. Powell flew in from Portland, Oregon where she worked under a grant. Her duties were to investigate the needs of elderly people living in small hotels in the lower part of downtown Portland.

Powell worked for Fort Stanton as a licensed practical nurse (LPN) with the residents there. She is visiting her sister-in-law Buntzy Richardson and her many friends.

The tournament originally was scheduled for June 18 and 19.

Volleyball action begins at 6:30 p.m. in the old gym at Capitan School each night of the tournament. There will be a $40 entry fee per team. Depending on the number of teams, there will be pool play Friday. Tournament matches begin after the pool play establishes the bracket Friday and concludes Saturday.

The tournament is open to anyone, regardless of age or sex.

For more information call Pam Allen at 354-3121 or send entry fee and team name to Pam Allen, Box 127, Capitan, NM 88316. Deadline to sign up is June 23.

Tiger Boosters are also sponsoring a summer volleyball clinic for students who will be in grades 4 to 12 this fall July 12-16.

Clinic coaches will be Jerry Heackia and Dalton Overstreet, volleyball coaches at Eastern Arizona Junior College, whose teams won the national junior college volleyball champion in 1992.

Clinic participants will be grouped by grades. The elementary group, for students who will be in grades 4, 5 and 6, will practice from 8-9:30 a.m. each day of the clinic. Students who will be in grades 7 and 8 will meet from 10 a.m. to 12 noon each day, and the high school division meets from 1-5 p.m.

"This is a marvelous opportunity for young people to work with these coaches," said Capitan volleyball coach Pam Allen.

Enrollment deadline is July 1. Call or write Pam Allen for an application.

Beef Backers Award Goes To Outpost

Imagine a bar where the beef outsells the liquor and the most popular item on the menu is non-intoxicating. Sound too good to be true? Think again, then, because at the Outpost Bar and Grill in downtown Carrizozo, beef is the star of the show and the number one product.

Outpost owner/operator Harold Garcia added a green chili cheeseburger to the menu of the Outpost about 13 years ago. The high quality and tastiness of the burger have become legendary in southern New Mexico and have put the Outpost and Carrizozo on the map in many foreign countries.

Because Garcia and the Outpost have done an outstanding job in marketing and merchandising beef, the Canyon CowBelles have named the Outpost the first recipient of their Beef Backers Award.

"We really appreciate what Harold is doing," related Cow-Belle Anne Ferguson. "He is selling a high quality product which merchandises beef in a positive way. We feel like we are partners in the business of selling beef."

The secret to the success of the green chili cheeseburgers is really no secret at all. "We don't cheat on quality and we try to buy the best," related Garcia. "We buy the best hamburger we can, the best lettuce and tomatoes and onions, and put them on the best bun we can buy. Sometimes when prices are high it is tough to get good quality, but we still go for the very freshest, best tasting burger we can produce."

The key, Harold relates, lies in the beef. The hand-pressed hamburger patties are a generous five-and-a-half ounces each. The Outpost uses from 50 to 60 pounds of hamburger a day in the making of their southwestern flavored sandwich.

The Outpost doesn't do much advertising and relies on word of mouth to build their customer base. "It took a while to build our reputation," related Garcia. "But we make a consistent product so that people will know that the hamburgers will always be good. As a result we've got steady customers from quite a few states and many foreign countries. Some Germans stopped by just the other day.

They told us that they had eaten here five years ago and the green chili cheeseburgers is the same burger that they had remembered."

Garcia continued, "We got cards and letters from people who are fans of the burgers. We even get phone calls on occasion from people who are thinking of us and wishing they could come in for a burger."

Garcia was born and raised on a farm and holds both undergraduate and graduate degrees in agriculture. He and Fay and their three sons are still involved in a family ranching business in Colorado as well as being in the retail end of the business through the Outpost.

"Beef is my favorite food," attests Garcia. "You just can't beat a good old-fashioned hamburger."

Canyon CowBelles agree with Garcia and thank the Garcias for their partnership in the beef business.

Payton On NMSU Dean's Honor Roll

LAS CRUCES, N.M.—New Mexico State University branch campuses in the College of Human and Community Services announced the students who were named to the Spring 1993 semester dean's honor roll.

Karen Ann Payton from Capitan was named to the dean's honor roll. To be named to the dean's honor roll, a student's grade point average must rank within the top 15 percent of the college enrollment. The student must be carrying a minimum of 12 hours on a regular grading schedule. Pass/fail courses do not count.

Canyon CowBelles "Man Of The Year"

By CAROL WILSON

Canyon CowBelles proudly honored one of their own when they named rancher Stirling Spencer as their 1993 CowBelle Man of the Year.

Spencer, owner/operator of the historic Bar W Ranch, is well known in Lincoln County. His quick wit and kind nature make him a standout in any crowd. He is the kind of man that children and puppies just seem to gravitate towards. (Haven't we always heard that dogs and kids are a good judge of character?) Spencer's dedicated service as Lincoln County commissioner and people-oriented values have won him the respect of those who aren't fortunate enough to know him personally.

Spencer's great-grandfather, William C. McDonald, served the Land of Enchantment as our first elected governor. William C. would be proud to know that four generations later his great-grandson is continuing the tradition of meritorious service in the public arena. One of his strengths is his tenacious stance for his beliefs, regardless of the popularity of the issue.

"Stirling is a public servant in the truest sense of the word. He dedicates a great deal of his time and resources for the public good," stated fellow rancher Rex Wilson. "Additionally, Stirling will fight the battle until it is over. He doesn't leave anything half done."

Others who have worked with Spencer agree with that assessment. "Stirling is a man you can take at his word," noted Andy Wynham, county manager. "He follows through with what he says he will do."

"You can count on Stirling to express his opinion," agreed Martha Proctor, county clerk. "He never stays on the fence. He goes after what he believes in and shoots straight."

Proctor also appreciates Spencer's defense of personal rights and initiatives. "Stirling stands up for the citizens' right to control their own lives and property instead of imposing more control by government agencies," she noted.

"He is a strong defender of personal rights," concurred Wynham. "He believes in states rights and separation of power, but first and foremost comes the right of the individual."

While serving as commissioner Spencer earned the nickname "Scrooge" because of his conservative attitude in spending Lincoln County taxpayer dollars. "His values demonstrate his feeling that people should take care of themselves whenever possible," noted Proctor, "but he has compassion and helps those who sincerely need help. You just won't find a kinder, more generous man."

As clerk of the commission, Proctor has observed Spencer at work. She recalls that Stirling "always represents what he feels is best for the welfare of the citizens of Lincoln County, even if it isn't the best option for him personally." In his two-and-a-half years as commissioner, Spencer hasn't missed a single meeting...he even checked out of the hospital where he was being treated for a broken leg to attend one meeting.

The Lincoln County Commission is just one of Spencer's obligations. He has served on the Lincoln County Historic Commission, is active in the Coalition of Counties, and People for the West, and is New Mexico's representative to the Western Interstate Region of the National Association of Counties which works on issues common to western states. He is on the board of directors of both the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association and the Production Credit Association.

Back at the ranch, this progressive minded rancher can often be seen soaking up the New Mexico sunshine as he motorcycles around the ranch shirt-less in shorts and tennis shoes. Spencer is an avid flyer who enjoys piloting his green and white airplane for business and pleasure and has found it to be a quick and efficient way to check watering spots on the ranch.

"Stirling exhibits a distinct pride in being a rancher," noted Proctor. "He understands the progressive and modern methods of ranching while appreciating and respecting the old-timers' ways."

Ranchers who know him attest that Spencer continually seeks to improve the production rate of the Bar W and the consumption quality of the beef produced there. He keeps himself updated on the latest research and statistics to ensure the all-around success of his ranch and cattle.

"He is certainly down-to-earth and believes in working for what you get," attests Wynham. "There isn't anything false about Stirling."

GRASS FARMERS and RECYCLING MACHINES

To keep grasslands healthy, fresh and strong, the grass must be periodically clipped or harvested. It's a lot like mowing your lawn. Harvesting the grass is the job of the grass farmer.

Since people can't eat grass, the grass farmers use special machines to harvest the grass and turn it into something people can eat. They use Mother Nature's Recycling Machines.

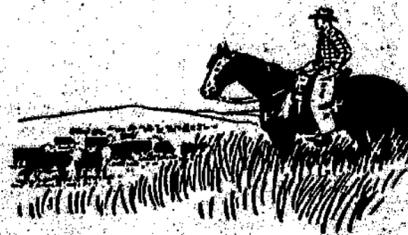

Grass farmers, of course, are America's cattlemen. And Mother Nature's Recycling Machines are cattle.

The recycling machine is, itself, the ultimate recyclable: Ninety-nine percent of a beef animal gets used to benefit humans. In addition to providing healthful, delicious beef, cattle provide by-products used to produce other edible products such as ice cream, yogurt, candy, mayonnaise, pasta and cake mixes. Cattle also provide a variety of pharmaceuticals and medicines and cattle by-products are used to make consumer products from bandages to boots and plastics to photographic film.

The ranching industry (including cattle and sheep) generated approximately $19,709,620 of direct gross output in Lincoln County in 1992.

The local economic activity generated from the livestock industry in Lincoln County represents $32,268,215 per year.

AROUND CORONA

Crown CowBelles met Thursday June 3 in the ranch home of Lanita and Jerry Rasak. There were 12 members present with two guests, Cristi Lynn Gensler and Katelyn Guinn. Wanda Duke was co-hostess. The luncheon featured Cajun beef and corned beef.

The CowBelles enjoyed a guided tour of this new home with its display of collectibles, the view of the Galinas and Capitans from the deck, the infant rose garden and the aviary where a golden Pharaoh pheasant stole the show.

Vice President Sabra Davidson presided. Loreta Proctor showed the quilt tops. JoAnn Proctor is having pictures developed which ticket chairman Jeanene Gibbs will mail out with the tickets. The quilts will be put in frames at the home of Robin Pfeiffer so that quilters may stop in at intervals to stitch for a time.

Mrs. Pfeiffer, Muriel Pounds and Mrs. Proctor announced the men nominated for Man of the Year. A vote was taken and the winner will be announced.

Betty Ann Bell spoke about the library and her interest in reading. She urges friends of the library to consider giving a book or money as birthday gifts and to continue giving books as memorials. For more information on these projects Mrs. Bell will be happy to help. Crown voted $20 to buy the 1992-93 national winner a book written and illustrated by children and published by Land Mark Publications. Watch for the title and name of author in the six to eight year division.

The next meeting will be at 6 p.m., July 10 at the home of Lee and Clint Sultemeier. The hamburger fry will be for families and will honor the Man of the Year.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Wade, Bosque Farms, and Marjorie and Jerry Cozzens, Anchorage, Alaska, were visiting with friends here one day last week. They were enroute in their motor homes to spend a few days in Claunch.

Mrs. Mike Kessler and daughters, Julie, April and Amy, drove to Roswell Monday afternoon to see Renee's father, Joel Ware, who was spending the week with his father, Gus Ware.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pope, their son and daughter-in-law stopped one day the first of the month to renew acquaintances and to look around the old home place. Mrs. Pope is the former Patsy Ruth Cox. The son has retired from the U.S. Navy and is now working with computer software. His wife is an R.N. All now live in Amarillo.

Mrs. Pauline McCloud spent the weekend in Deming with cousins and other relatives for a family reunion and reception honoring Isabel and Nick Teague on their fifth wedding anniversary.

A large group of youngsters and oldsters enjoyed listening to Estefanita Martinez tell stories of her childhood in her native San Juan Pueblo. She had the children speaking in Tewa and she taught them string stories. Mrs. Martinez was accompanied by Ellene Carroll of Storytellers International. They gave Mrs. Martinez a blue carnation which referred to her Indian name Blue Water. They served refreshments of fruit, crackers, vegetable, dips and punch. There will be another storyteller program in September.

CowBelle Theme Is Beef For Father's Day

Canyon CowBelles met June 2 at the home of Knollene McDaniels with 15 attending. CowBelle Man of the Year Stirling Spencer and all fathers will be honored at the Flying J Chuckwagon June 17 (today) at 6 p.m. CowBelles thank Stirling for the support he has given and the outstanding job he is doing for their industry.

The theme for June is "BEEF FOR FATHER'S DAY". Remember that beef certificates make excellent gifts!

CowBelles are proud to have the Outpost Grill win the local recognition for supporting the beef industry. They with their terrific green chili cheeseburgers have also nominated the Outpost for the Beef Backer Award on a state level and hope they will win state approval too! Keep up the good work!

CowBelles were sad to hear that Tom and Patricia Broom have left the community, but hope they will be happy in Marfa, Texas. The group presented Pat with a CowBelles Recipe Book to remember us by.

Donna Cox gave a report on the Ruidoso CowBelles. It looks like CowBelles still need to generate a little more interest before a local chapter can be organized there.

Anne Ferguson reported on the Grazing Fee Hearings with Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt and also set up committees for the Ranch Tour coming up September 11. CowBelles are hoping as many members of the U.S. Legislature will come and join in this great endeavor to show them their way of life in the great American Southwest and the important role agriculture plays in keeping small rural communities alive and going.

A committee was set up to write and publish the CowBelles own Conservation Round-Up type newspaper to distribute to the Lincoln County schools again next year. CowBelles look forward to having a great beef booth at the Smokey Bear Stampede in Capitan July 3.

The next meeting will be July 7 in Nogal. Congratulations Stirling Spencer, CowBelle Man of the Year, THE OUTPOST, Beef Backer Award Winner, Happy Father's Day and remember to "THINK BEEF"!

Senior Citizens View Big Blast

Carrizozo Senior Citizens went in two vans to the northern portion of White Sands Missile Range last Thursday to witness "Operation Minor Uncle" and to tour Defense Nuclear Agency (DNA) operations.

Minor Uncle was a huge high explosive test consisting of 2,440 tons of a mixture of ammonium nitrate and fuel oil (ANFO) mixed and pouted into a 72-foot diameter fiberglass hemisphere.

The purpose of the test was to simulate a 4-kiloton nuclear detonation and its blast and shock effects on various systems and equipment, as well as to study the basic physics of blast/shock propagation and damage effects.

"It was an extremely impressive event to witness, even from our viewing area about 4.6 miles from the blast site," Bill Meeks said.

Extensive briefings by DNA officials were provided during the countdown, and ear plugs were handed out prior to T=0, when the blast was initiated.

"Initially, we could see the flash of the huge blast growing quickly into a boiling vertical column of dust and gasses as the ground shock and air shock waves raced across the desert floor, causing dust to rise into a ground fog," Meeks said.

"We first felt the ground shock waves, followed by two loud distinct "Booms" as the air shock reached us. Most of us were so busy watching the blast grow we had forgotten to sound effects which took 25 seconds to reach us, so we were really "shocked" and surprised when they hit us."

Following the blast, we were given extensive tours of Trinity site, the site of the very first nuclear blast, McDonald Ranch, and a new facility, a nuclear THERMAL/BLAST SIMULATOR, that is only now under construction at Stallion. This facility will be able to simulate the intense thermal shock, as well as the air blast, of a nuclear weapon burst.

"The Defense Nuclear Agency provided a first-rate guide and briefing, along with a bus to ferry us around the range. Col. Smith, our guide was extremely capable and personable. We really appreciated his concern for our comfort, welfare, and enjoyment during the visit."

Satellite TV Service To Begin Early 1994

Penasco Telecom Systems of Artesia is pleased to announce they have entered into an exclusive contract to provide Direct Broadcast Satellite (DBS) television programming/service to the rural households in Eddy, Chaves, Lincoln and Otero Counties. Penasco Telecom Systems is a subsidiary of Penasco Valley Telephone Cooperative, Inc.

This service will be provided through a joint venture of Penasco Telecom Systems, National Rural Telecommunication Cooperative (NRTC) and Hughes Communications, the largest operators of satellites in the world. The new satellite television service is to be offered starting in early 1994.

The DBS service will utilize new state-of-the-art technology incorporating the United States' first "high power" (120 Watt) direct-to-home satellites service. The two Hughes Communications satellites will operate in the "KuBand" in a "stationary" orbit at 101 degrees west longitude. This will allow consumer homes to use a small 18" satellite dish which is mounted in a permanent position on the consumer's residence. Once the dish is locked in place, consumers will never need to adjust it.

The DBS service will be capable of carrying approximately 150 channels of high quality cable programming, pay-per-view movies, sports and other information/entertainment/education channels. The high powered satellites will incorporate digital compression which significantly increases the channel capacity of the service. The digital signalling will allow Penasco Telecom Systems to provide high-definition television (HDVT) video quality and compact disk (CD) quality audio/sound.

Even more exciting is that the entire digital home receiving system consisting of an 18" satellite dish, addressable decoder box and universal remote control unit, will be available for approximately $700.00. The simplicity of the components will allow many consumers to install the equipment themselves. The home receiving system will be available through direct purchase, monthly lease or lease purchase. The home receiving system, being manufactured in association with RCA, will be available from Penasco Telecom Systems at various selected area outlets. Penasco Telecom Systems will provide a complete installation and repair service to interested customers.

The basic programming package will offer "Best of Cable" channels including premium choices such as HBO, Cinemax, Showtime, etc. These channels will be available at monthly charges comparable to cable TV prices. Some of the basic programming package channels already secured include The Family Channel, The Nashville Network, Disney Channel, CNN Headline News, Superstation TBS, etc. It is anticipated the basic package will include a full compliment of programming choices plus the major networks. In addition to the basic "cable type" programming, there will be a very wide range of pay-per-view movie selections, sports events, major attractions (concerts, etc.) and special interest channels such as educational, vocational and entertainment included in the programming line-up for viewer selection. Penasco Telecom Systems will be the exclusive provider of this programming package in the rural areas of the four counties mentioned previously.

First, a majority of people in this town are Hispanic, a fact that seems to elude some. So why is it that they are the first property owners to be singled out for code violations?

If strictly and equally enforced about half the buildings in town could be condemned.

And what do our latest saviours hope to gain by attacking the Ortiz and Vallejos families, two old and respected families who have contributed so much to this community over many decades?

Has anyone noticed how Hispanics appear to be excluded from certain jobs? One local dispatcher is a minister of Lord, which would appear to be a full time job and another lives somewhere out on the Llano Estacado, closer to Roswell than to here.

In a town where many live on limited incomes, or are forced to leave town to find jobs, why are newcomers favored over locals and Anglos over Hispanics?

Back to the weeds. Many people in this town are elderly and infirm and it takes all they have to climb out of bed in the morning, let alone spend their days in the hot sun cutting weeds. (Although some still do.) Nor do many of them have the funds to hire anyone.

You call for positive suggestions, here's one. Round up some of these juveniles who sleep most of the day and stay up all night getting drunk and vandalizing property, and put them to work cleaning up the town. Youths from solid families will do this on their own, but those less fortunate might need a little encouragement in learning the work ethic. Maybe some of the local businesses, churches and local government could come up with some funds for this purpose.

I would also like to commend the local police, who appear to be doing a good job, although they really need another officer to provide coverage during the early morning hours, when the night crawlers abound.

"Caretakers All" takes Top PR Award

"The beef industry is very proud of the fact that NAMA has recognized our efforts to produce a top-notch program. NAMA is known as the leading marketing organization for American Agri-business and has more than 2,200 members," explains Dina Reitzel, Executive Director. "We are also delighted by how much teachers and students appreciate the program. Through 'Caretakers All', children examine a variety of environmental issues and learn that American cattle producers are committed to protecting the environment and to providing humane care to animals. What's more, 'Caretakers All' teaches students how they, too, can better care for their own communities."

"Beef checkoff-funded programs continue to impress our country's top marketing professionals," says Meat Board Chairman Robert N. Rebholz. "The funding and hours invested by our industry to develop materials such as 'Caretakers All' truly serve to provide consumers with accurate, research-based information."

Sheriff's Report

Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwans, several of his deputies, officers from the White Mountain Task Force (WMTF), along with assistance from the U.S. Forest Service, White Mountain Search and Rescue, and Lincoln County Sheriff's posse, combed a forest canyon in the Ruidoso area Monday and found 115 pounds of marijuana in kilo-sized bales.

According to Gonzalo Cordova, WMTF director, the marijuana was found in compact bales and broken bales, none of which were packaged. The marijuana has an estimated street value of $115,000.

2 cloves garlic, crushed

1 tsp each dried thyme leaves and paprika
