

Ruidoso Arts & Film Commission Abolished

by Doris Cherry

The old Ruidoso Arts and Film Commission is out the door.

Despite a willingness on the part of the Ruidoso Arts and Film Commission (RAFC) to do whatever the village wanted, Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday unanimously approved an ordinance which eliminated the commission, and the village transportation board.

But in an act of saving face, councilors unanimously approved an amendment to the ordinance, to write a new ordinance to create a different Arts and Film Commission.

Mayor Jerry Shaw said the village endorses what was done by the current RAFC. But problems with the group over meeting place, staff liaison and handling of funds led Shaw to call for the elimination of RAFC. Similar problems with the transportation board, which had not met in many months, were also given in support of the ordinance which abolishes the two village sanctioned groups.

Shaw said the Ruidoso Friends of Music does similar things as the RAFC and suggested the two groups "meld." Councillor J.D. James said he found out that Friends of Music goes "hand in hand" with RAFC, despite the few comments made about the liaison of the two groups at the last regular village meeting. Councillor Barbara Duff said the Ruidoso Friends of Music is similar to the Ruidoso Friends of the Library which works with the village sanctioned Library Board.

Jerry Perry, chairman of the now defunct RAFC, said the Friends of Music was formed by Paul and Barbara Westbrook for their Pops Concerts, and is separate from the RAFC. Perry said he felt the RAFC is doing something for the community by championing the arts, considered the third reason why people visit Ruidoso. He also listed the many events sponsored by RAFC since it began in 1991. Perry asked why the village could not afford a staff member to work with the RAFC. "We're part of the village," Perry said.

Shaw said that a year ago a letter was sent to all village boards and commissions concerning directives and guidelines. Since then RAFC has not met the guidelines.

Perry finally said the RAFC would compromise and do anything the council wanted it to do, including meeting at village hall, numbering tickets for events to provide an accounting trail. But he questioned why these problems were not an issue before. "Thirteen months is a long time to wait to hit us with it," Perry said.

Perry also read a letter from Barbara Diehl Westbrook stating her regret that the RAFC would come into politics. She wrote that it is a sad day when the city council voted out the arts. RAFC is behind all the arts in Ruidoso, not just a select group.

Councillor Frank Potter said there were benefits of having the RAFC sanctioned by the village--RAFC gained 501C3 non-profit status and was covered by the village insurance umbrella. His major problem was the ordinance which created the RAFC had no substance to it, which was the village's fault.

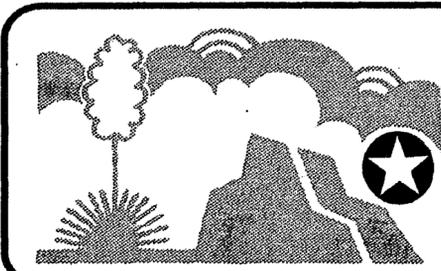

Potter then told of an art show at the Museum of the Horse, at which he is employed, representing 30 artists from throughout the community. There are 14 art galleries in Ruidoso. "Art is a major industry in Ruidoso," Potter said.

Potter proposed a board which will represent all artists and musicians. Potter said he would only support such a board if the current RAFC was disbanded, then come back with a restructured board, with a broadened perspective of the arts in Ruidoso. "This ordinance needs redrawing," Potter said.

Duff supported the RAFC by telling of the good publicity given Ruidoso because of some RAFC projects, especially the

Ruidoso Will Consider Hotel Lease Proposals

by Doris Cherry

Once again it is motorcycle time in Ruidoso.

Ruidoso Village Council was on its guard Tuesday night when it considered, and denied, a request from Cochera Cantina to allow alcohol to be served in its parking lot.

Two years ago there was an incident at a Ruidoso liquor establishment which was serving alcohol on its parking lot during the motorcycle rally. The severity of the incident, which included the use of knives and gunfire, led to the village council passing a strict rule which prohibits the issuance of a special dispensers permit for liquor establishments to serve alcohol in their own parking lots.

The rule was tested Tuesday night when Shami Mills, representing Cochera Cantina, asked that the special dispenser's permit be approved along with the special events permit for the Huns motorcycle club Festival. It will be the third year for the Huns festival, which has had no incidents.

Councillor Frank Cummins

said the council formed a committee in 1991, which worked hard to come up with solutions. He did not want to start changing it now, specifically for the motorcycle rally. "We need to stick with the policy," Cummins said.

Harlan Mills, of Cochera, said the business would control the event with security at a one to 30 ratio. "It's totally wrong to say we can't have (the outdoor event) just because its a motorcycle group," Mills said. He added that the rule was made that no special permits go out for any event held outside a liquor establishment and he cited a recent permit given to a midtown liquor establishment. Shaw said the event at the Win Place and Show was a long time tradition.

Councillor J.D. James, who did not favor the Cochera request, said he will vote no on the WPS request the next time it comes up to the council. He then said he would support the event at Cochera if no alcohol was served outside.

Wellwoman Healthcheck Tomorrow In Carrizozo

Public Health Nurse Theresa Luna has announced the Lincoln County Health Office will conduct a Well Woman Healthcheck Sept. 17 from 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the health office in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

Services offered will include mammograms and PAP smears. Women of all ages are urged to call 648-2412 for an appointment.

Women over the age of 40 should get a breast examination from a nurse or doctor once a year and practice breast self examination each month in order to detect any changes in the breast. Medical personnel will teach women how to do a monthly breast self examination.

Low cost mammograms will be available for women over the age of 40 and for women of all ages who are high risk, for example who have close family members who have or have had breast cancer.

Luna stresses that a healthy woman is good for her family and herself and regular check-ups are necessary for a woman.

"The Well Woman Healthcheck will make it possible for women to receive these important examinations at a low cost," Luna said.

Brochures explaining the program are available at the health office in the courthouse. All brochures are printed in Spanish as well as English.

Prices for the examinations will be based on income. Women should contact Luna at 648-2412 for more information concerning the individual cost. Medicaid recipients will qualify for the Well Woman Healthcheck, probably at no cost.

Posters will be placed in locations around town to publicize the Well Woman Healthcheck. Appointments are necessary. Call 648-2412.

Irrational State Mandate Difficult To Understand

By RUTH HAMMOND

The New Mexico Health Department has mandated that the residents/clients with developmental disabilities at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School be moved from that facility.

This irrational mandate is causing heartache for families of the people with developmental disabilities who will be removed from their home at Fort Stanton and more often than not put in a place with non-caring providers.

More than 33 percent of the people with developmental disabilities at Fort Stanton have been in community placements in the past. The placements did not work at that time and it is more than probable the community placements will not work again even though the "experts" guarantee success "this time."

The horror stories of community placements are not rumors. Court records reveal that people with developmental disabilities have been put in jail. Parents have been called late in the afternoon by providers and told to "come and get your child or he/she will be put out on the street at 5 o'clock today." The child in this situation may be 40 or 50 years old with the mentality of a three-year-old. The parents may be in poor health and unable to care for their adult child with developmental disabilities. The parents may live in the same community or across the state. Either way, the parents are faced with the uncertainty of not knowing if their child will be alive when they get there.

Parents fear the same thing will happen again now that the New Mexico Health Department has mandated that the residents at Fort Stanton be moved from that facility. The difference is that ALL clients leaving Fort Stanton will be forced to stay in community settings regardless of the treatment they receive. These clients will NEVER be allowed to return to their former home at Fort Stanton, where trained staff have cared for them for years.

The entire situation came about when a parent was unhappy with her son's treatment at the Los Lunas Hospital and Training School. A class action suit was filed in federal court against Fort Stanton and Los Lunas. (The reasoning behind naming Fort Stanton in the federal court case is difficult to understand.)

The "class action" meant that all clients at Fort Stanton and Los Lunas would be affected whether they wanted to be parties in the court case or not.

The result was that Federal District Judge James Parker ruled that the state of New Mexico was to provide community placements for clients who have been recommended for community placement. The ruling did NOT state that Fort Stanton should be closed.

Now the New Mexico Health Department has mandated that the clients at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School be moved to communities. (The New Mexico Health Department's mandate is difficult to understand.)

Capitan School Holds To No Tobacco Policy

by Doris Cherry

Capitan Board of Education held to its no tobacco policy Thursday, despite a protesting petition with 175 names.

Last month the board passed a school policy that prohibits the use of any tobacco product by anyone on school property, including school buses and cars. The policy created a controversy with some district patrons and student. Soon a petition calling the policy an "infringement on individual rights," and other objections, was drawn and circulated in the community.

John Paul Sedillo, 1960 Capitan High School graduate, presented the petition with the 175 names to board members Tom Trost, Beverly Payne, Russell Shearer and Jack King. Sedillo said he was a non-smoker, but when he read about the no tobacco policy in the newspaper "it struck a wrong nerve with me." The policy went to the core of constitutional rights and the rights of privacy, Sedillo added.

Sedillo said it took two weeks to get the 175 signatures on the petition. The petition which disagrees with the no tobacco policy, listed four reasons for the protest: the board has no authority to impose rules and regulations on the general public, parents of students or faculty members if the regulations are part of current statutory law; the public, parents and faculty were not informed of the issue being an agenda item and were not given appropriate opportunity to voice their opinion; parents who smoke have as much right to attend school functions as non-smoking parents; those opposed to the decision request an opportunity to voice their opinion.

Their opportunity came during the Thursday meeting. Sedillo said he researched the state statutes and found nothing that gives the board authority to impose rules for the general public, just authority to impose rules and regulations for kids. Sedillo was very concerned that the school had the right to prohibit the public from having tobacco in their vehicles. "We have a right to be free in our own cartage," Sedillo said.

Trost said the school has no right to prohibit tobacco products from being in the general public's vehicles, nor can it search the general public's

He began working on the project in 1987 and it was fully opened in 1992. Donations for the Travelling Masonic Lodge were received from the state lodge with help from Carrizozo Lodge #41. vehicles. That was not part of the policy, nor its intent, Trost said. He assured that the general public's cars will not be searched.

Sedillo asked the board where its compassion was, making people go off grounds to smoke or dip. He said a smoking area could be allowed somewhere outside, rather than the humiliation imposed on smokers now. "It's not the American way," Sedillo appealed.

Sedillo concluded that the board is not a law making body, rather its duties are administration and supervision of the school system. He asked that the board rescind its decision to impose the no tobacco policy. He provided copies of the state statutes which define school board duties.

Trost responded that the board, subject to the regulations of the state school board, can impose rules on school property. The board supervises and controls all property belonging to the school. "That is what we did," Trost said. "We set a policy controlling this school district and our property here."

Trost said the school board cannot stop the public from smoking, but it can impose rules that say the public cannot smoke on school property. Trost cited the board's power as given by number eight on the same state statute given by Sedillo.

As for informing the parents, and other members of the public, Trost said no actual information was given to students or parents about the no smoking policy on the August 12 board meeting agenda. Trost said the policy was discussed during the July meeting, and was publicized in both local newspapers.

Trost said the main reason for the policy is to set an example for kids. He spoke of the surgeon general's warning about use of tobacco and the effects of second hand smoke.

As for compassion, Trost said he was very compassionate for non-smokers who have to be in crowded places with smokers, and for students who have to smell the tobacco breath of teachers. "Teachers are examples," Trost said.

Trost pointed out that some of the signers of the petition are students. High school principal Darrell Stierwalt said the school does have the right to search students.

Resident Roy Baca and at least two others voiced complaints against the policy. "I don't think it's right," Baca said.

Board member Payne concluded the discussion by reading a passage from the publication Education Reporter regarding the balance of rights of students, teachers and employees who smoke with those who do not. "The total ban on smoking is the strongest and safest statement a board can make to show it does care for its students and employees,"

Payne read. "I think that says what we believe in," she said.

The board did not rescind its decision and Capitan Schools remain Tobacco Free.

Capitan High School now has an official rodeo team. The board unanimously approved a proposal to recognize a rodeo team as a team sport for students in grades nine through 12. The team will represent Capitan High School at rodeos sanctioned by the New Mexico High School Rodeo Association, and to which members must also belong. No coach will be provided by the schools, nor will the school be responsible for any of the expenses incurred. Rodeo team members must maintain a 2.5 grade point average, higher than the 2.0 for all other school sponsored events.

PFA sponsor Todd Proctor and Joanne Washburn worked on the proposal and will work with the team. Proctor said the rodeo team will give students more options for school sanctioned activities.

Superintendent Dianne Sonnemaker talked with the New Mexico Activities Association, which had no problem with the rodeo club and supported it for Capitan Schools. "They said any activity which brings a closer feeling to the high school is supported," Sonnemaker said.

Since some Capitan students are already involved in New Mexico High School Rodeo Association events, recognition of the rodeo team will allow those students to make up their missed work, without being penalized.

School bus contractor Frank Silva and driver Kathy Chapman asked the board's help in eliminating a dangerous bottleneck in the driveway which provides an exit for school-busses on the school grounds. They showed a video tape of the bottleneck which showed considerable congestion by vehicles coming into the driveway which is suppose to be one-way during certain hours.

At one time discussions were to straighten the driveway when the new mid-school is constructed. But Sonnemaker said that will be an option to the bid, and will only be done if there is enough money left from the main construction.

Silva and Chapman, who is the state bus drivers' supervisor, will work on the problem and bring recommendations to the next meeting. Trost suggested a committee of Silva, teachers, administrators and New Mexico State Police officers.

Computer equipment for the library, and uplink into a Novell Network with access from the whole school, was purchased from best bidder Ben Rose of Hobbs with SB9 moneys.

Board policies updating and adding to those concerning employees' sick leave, sick leave bank, family and medical leave act of 1993 and the board attorney were approved. Copies of those policies are available from the superintendent.

Gretchen Becker was hired as part time speech pathologist and the resignation of high school custodian Frank Sidwell was accepted.

The next regular board meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 13. The Wednesday date is because of a game set on Thursday, October 14, the regular meeting night.

Fair Board To Meet

The Lincoln County Fair Board meeting was changed from Sept. 15 to Sept. 22 because many people will be attending the state fair.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

JUDI CHRISTOPHER after doing reflexology on registered quarter-horse Brownie in Ruidoso. James Townsend calls Judi often to do reflexology on his horses.

Girl Jockey To Gold Rush

Judi Christopher is a petite blonde in a profession different than any you might imagine. She started as a girl jockey and now works on horses and people to alleviate tension and minor aches, pains and strains. In her spare time she is an artist, having painted in watercolor for the past 17 years.

While Judi was training and riding horses several years ago she began working with Dr. Northway of the King Ranch. She learned the techniques of Reflexology on horses and later formulated her Gold Rush Liniment.

This beginning led to her becoming a Certified Reflexologist in 1977.

Professional Reflexology is a treatment process that is not well-known, nor is it understood, even by horse owners and trainers.

Judi tells of the time a stunt coordinator who trains stunt horses laughed at her because he thought it was "hog wash" to do reflexology on a horse, much less a man.

Then one of the stunt horses took a bad fall during filming and fell on its own hoof and jerked the shoe off and part of the hoof broke off too.

That accident changed James Townsend's mind. He was owner and trainer of some of the stunt horses in Silent Tongue Productions that was being filmed in Roswell last summer.

Townsend called Judi at 11:45 p.m. and told Judi, "I've got a horse down! Can you come to the set and take a look at him?"

Judi grabbed her Gold Rush Liniment, hot water, coolers (blankets for the horses) and drove from her home to the set.

On the set, Judi could see the hurt in the horse's eyes.

Christmas Palette program featured in New Mexico Magazine. However, she agreed that a new ordinance could be created, to "give them a hand."

Potter quickly replied that abolishing the ordinance that created the RAFC and creation of a new board and ordinance may involve 20 new people.

Duff then said, "In essence you're saying toss everything they've done out the door?"

Shaw quickly called for a motion, but Duff spoke of the transportation board, supporting its need and its lack of meetings recently. She said the transportation board agreed at its last meeting not to meet again until it was needed. Duff supported the continuance of the transportation board, because she foresaw the need for ground transportation in the future.

Potter made the motion to approve the ordinance 93-17, abolishing the RAFC and the transportation board. Duff then made an amendment to form a new ordinance covering the needs of an arts and film commission and replacement of the commission. The vote on the amendment was unanimous, with all councilors present but Bill Karn who was testifying in court in California and was unable to attend.

The main motion was amended to allow creation of a new ordinance and new arts and film commission and was passed by a unanimous roll call vote.

Ordinance 93-20, reestablishing the rules and regulations for Grindstone Lake was unanimously approved. When the council first approved the use of the lake for non-motorized boating, it agreed the rules would "sunset" the first meeting in September. The new ordinance continued the rules, with some changes made by Debbie Jo Almager, parks and recreation director. The changes included allowing boats up to 16 feet long, instead of the 14 feet, because most canoes are that length. Also vessels may be used on the lake from sunrise to sundown from April 1 to October 31.

The permit fee for vessels was changed to $35 for the season, instead of a year. Daily permits of $5 and three day permits for $10 will continue. Fishing will be allowed from sunrise to 10 p.m. from the shore, which are the rules at the lake now.

The Lincoln County Wind Surfer's Association lobbied the council to allow non-motorized vessels on Grindstone Lake, including windsurf boards. But according to village manager Ron Wicker, he did not personally see any windsurfing on the lake. There were quite a few canoes and rowing boats.

Almager's report showed 51 permits sold for the 1993 season, 31 annual, six three-day and 14 one day. Most of the users were county residents (32) and 19 were sold to out of town persons. Of the 32 to county residents, 19 were from Ruidoso, six to Capitan residents, four to Alto residents and one each to Ruidoso Downs, Nogal and San Patricio residents.

"This was a successful use of the facility," Wicker added.

Councilors also unanimously approved Ordinance 93-21, moving the collective bargaining ordinance from Chapter 3, Personnel rules and regulations, to a separate chapter entitled Collective Bargaining. Village attorney John Underwood said by giving the collective bargaining a separate chapter, the entire personnel policy will not be affected by changes brought on by litigation of the collective bargaining.

Resident Genevieve Sewell asked the council to track the collective bargaining and analyze the personnel regulations to make sure the village is covered.

Public hearings for Ordinance 93-18, concerning a bond issue for a regional landfill and Ordinance 93-19, concerning personnel rules and regulations were rescheduled for the September 28 meeting.

Councilors also approved the consent agenda including: approval of special permits for chamber sponsored Aspenfest weekend and parade Oct. 1-3; Chili Cook-off, special dispensers permit for Oct. 2 at Tall Pines RV Park, Bull Ring of Ruidoso will be the dispenser; and a special dispenser's permit for the Oktoberfest to be held at the Civic Center on October 15-16. Cochera will be the dispenser. Also in the consent agenda was the scheduling of a public hearing on October 12 for a zoning code text amendment regarding the substitution of non-conforming use; scheduling of a public hearing on October 12 to consider a zone text amendment, regarding the sign ordinance, specifically definition of banners, addition of a section mandating sign permits and deletion of language concerning temporary signs; approval of a special dispensers permit for the Governor's Conference at the civic center on Oct. 26; Carrizo Lodge will be the dispenser; award of contract to Ben Jenkins Auctioneers of Carlsbad for a village auction.

IN THE SERVICE

Navy Chief Petty Officer David A. Phillips, son of Margarita R. Phillips of Alamogordo, recently returned to Airborne Early Warning Squadron 114, Naval Air Station Miramar, San Diego, embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk from a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Persian Gulf as part of the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk Battle Group.

Hotel Lease

approve the special dispensers permit was unanimously voted down. Cochera will be able to hold the event, but without serving liquor outside.

"We have to draw the line and we said we would," said Shaw. "We hope you party is good without it (alcohol served)." Shaw said the police will be watching the party to make sure no alcohol is brought out into the parking lot.

Another motorcycle related item was voted down when attorney David Stevens, on behalf of Champion Outdoor Sports, requested to rent the hotel site at the Links Golf Course and Civic Events Center. The sports company, a Honda and Harley Davidson motorcycle dealer, wanted to erect a tent on the hotel site, because it had a dispute with the motorcycle rally organizers and subsequently was excluded from the rally in the civic center.

Village manager Ron Wicker cautioned the council about renting the space, which is not prepared for use. There also are no guidelines about the property, which until this year was held in a lease with AllHub Inc.

James said the lease of the center, included the parking lot. He also had reservations because if the village allows one group to rent the space, it would be obligated to rent it to other groups. James made the motion to deny the rent request, the council unanimously voted with James.

Former councilor Ron Andrews, a Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally organizer, later thanked the council for denying the request, since the dispute involved a private business matter. He invited all councilors to come to the rally, and gave them all patches commemorating this year's event.

In order to attract a hotel developer for the empty hotel site next to the civic center, councilors unanimously voted to consider a future lease proposal for the hotel property similar to the one held by AllHub Inc. Chris Kilcullen, who finds hotel developers, met with Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County representatives (for Ruidoso) Potter and Duff seeking some type of endorsement from the council on providing a lease similar to the one for Allhub. The endorsement did not involve any type of commitment from the village.

Changes to the Civic Events Center policy, which were proposed and reviewed at the last regular council meeting, were unanimously approved. The changes establish priorities for use of the center, with the first being for conventions, then followed by trade shows, conferences, then local non-profit organizations.

The changes also restrict certain events or shows that will interfere with the economic health and welfare of the village. The events or shows, other than non-profit groups, will be limited to certain times of the year.

The civic center policy committee was organized to recommend changes after a large group of Ruidoso merchants complained to the council that the commercial arts and crafts fairs being held in the civic center were interfering with their businesses.

There was no public comment to the changes.

Also Tuesday, Mayor Shaw reaffirmed her stand against the Monitored, Retrievable Storage facility for nuclear waste proposed by the Mescalero Apache Tribal Council. Shaw recently took steps to expand the MRS watch committee to include members from both Lincoln and Otero Counties, to have involvement from both affected counties. The councilors' agenda packets included a letter from Dallas resident Bill Petty who asked the mayor make a public statement of her position.

Councilor Cummins was "dumbfounded" by the letter, considering the many resolutions passed by the council, the state legislature and the governor, against the MRS. "We have taken a stand," Cummins said.

James said, "I am definitely against the MRS."

What the Bible has to say . . .

About Who Christ Will Add To His Church

"For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the Church; and He is the Savior of the Body" (Ephesians 5:23). Christ ought to know who is in His church since He is the Savior of the Body, which is the Church (Colossians 1:18-24).

Have you ever wondered how many bodies there are? The Bible gives us that answer: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, Who is above all, and through all, and in you all" (Ephesians 4:4-6). A husband is to have but one wife, a body only has one head and the Church has but one Savior, Who is Christ. There are just as many Churches (Bodies) as there are God's or as there are Lord's! There is one God! There is one Lord! There is one body (Which is the Church - Colossians Ch. 1).

Have you ever wanted to be a part of the Church you can read about in your Bible? You need to know that you cannot "Join" the Church you read about in the New Testament. You cannot be "voted" into the Church of the Bible. You cannot "Buy" an entrance into the Bible Church. There is only one way to become part of that New Testament Church. Listen: "And the Lord added to the Church daily such as should (were being) saved" (Acts 2:47). Did you notice that the Lord does the adding? If the Lord does the adding, and He does, then it is the Lord that will take care of any subtracting—therefore you cannot be "voted Out" of the Church of the New Testament! Did you know there are over 350 Churches in our nation today? Did you know all 350 claim to be the one body? How can that be? "Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of Our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing; and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment" (1 Corinthians 1:10).

Would you like to know what the Bible teaches that one MUST do in order to be added to the Lord's Church, the Body, the Kingdom? The Word of God teaches that we simply must:

- Hear the Word: Romans 10:14-17
 - Believe (Faith): Hebrews 11: 6 and Mark 16:16
 - Repent of Sin: Acts 2:38 and Luke 13:3-5
 - Confess Christ: Romans 10:9-10 and Matthew 10:32

Baldy Russell Stories

By MICHAEL McKIM SWICKARD
Lincoln County News Columnist

Foreman: "I'm a man of few words. If I say come, you come."
Cowboy: "I'm a man of few words, too. If I shake my head, I ain't comin'."
The three most fatal diseases in the West are: Smallpox, cholera, and the ignorance to argue with a long-haired, whisky-drinkin' Har.

—From Savvy Sayin's by Ken Alstad

One morning at the cafe a bunch of us were talking about New Mexico outlaws. The one that comes to mind for most people is Billy the Kid, but we didn't talk about him.

Oh, he's good for business—the tourists come to New Mexico to see what is left of him—not much since his grave at Ft. Sumner washed away in the flood of 1915, along with hundreds of other graves, so his final resting place is anyone's guess.

Tourists bring money so we smile and tell them all sorts of historical fabrications about Billy under the guise of commerce. To us locals, though, celebrating Billy the Kid is as sensible as having a "Charles Manson." The valid history books show Billy only killed several unarmed people and stole horses which doesn't leave much reason to celebrate.

Many outlaws made it through their wild years and then they became model citizens. One such outlaw lived many years in the Claunch area—30 miles from Carrizozo. His name was Baldy Russell. The name "Russell" was assumed, though the name "Baldy" was applied. His real name was Jim Mitchell and he was wanted in Texas for murder. In the wilds of New Mexico, Baldy wasn't bothered by lawmen.

There were many men known as Lefty or Slim or Baldy who had a history elsewhere but since it was considered an insult to ask too many questions of strangers, everyone left them alone.

Baldy was noted for extreme quietness. One time he rode into a Bar W cow camp at dinner time. At mealtime everyone within riding distance was welcome to eat at any cow camp.

Baldy rode into camp without speaking. He nodded to men he knew but for reasons of his own he didn't feel like talking. He got a plate of food, nodded to the cook and sat by himself.

The cowboys knew that if Baldy wanted solitude, it was best to leave him alone. That is the way things were done in the territory of New Mexico a hundred years ago.

Baldy got himself a second cup of coffee which he drank while rolling a Bull Durham cigarette. He handed the cup back with a nod which meant that anyone near his ranch at supper time was welcome to share dinner with him and then ambled over to get his horse.

On the way out of camp he saw a horse he had once owned. He walked over to the horse, patted it and to the horse spoke the only words he said all day, "Hi, Fella." Now that's the silent type.

Another story about Baldy involved him and a man, Jim Gilliland, that while not an outlaw, was thought of by most of the citizens of this area as having some of the same attributes.

At first Jim Gilliland and Baldy Russell had gotten along fine since they were neighbors, but then they became suspicious of each other for stealing cattle. Each had mysteriously lost cattle.

One thing led to another and one day Jim rode up on Baldy unexpectedly and they both immediately drew their six-shooters.

Neither had made up his mind that shooting was called for in this matter, but both had pulled their pistols. They stood staring at each other for a little while. Finally Baldy said, "Well, one of us either ought to smile or pull the trigger."

He meant someone had to either shoot or admit he was just fooling. Later, when Gilliland told the story he said, "I smiled because I knew damn well Baldy didn't know how."

Baldy wasn't Billy the Kid, but I find him more interesting. MS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR—I see where I stand accused of being both arrogant and of making a god of science.

While arrogance seems to be a common enough characteristic of the human race, and I may be guilty to a certain degree, I've never claimed to be perfect like some misguided souls I've met.

The people I find arrogant are those who claim to know all about God and, indeed, presume to speak for Him, while remaining ignorant of the Earth, on which, I presume, they have lived their entire lives. Besides, I'd rather be called arrogant than ignorant.

I've reread my letter and nowhere in it do I see where I've claimed science as a god.

Ridiculous statements should be ridiculed.

It has been my observation, that no matter what faith people might profess, far too many, in their heart of hearts, actually worship at the altar of the Great Greenback God, Mammon.

I, for one, am getting tired of seeing anti-intellectual know-nothings use religion as an excuse, or disguise, for their own ignorance.

The writer obviously didn't finish reading my letter, or conveniently chose to ignore the last part, where I invited those who wish to see how the Malpais were formed to visit Hawaii and see the same thing happening today, as lava pours out of the bowels of the earth and creates new land where once there was ocean.

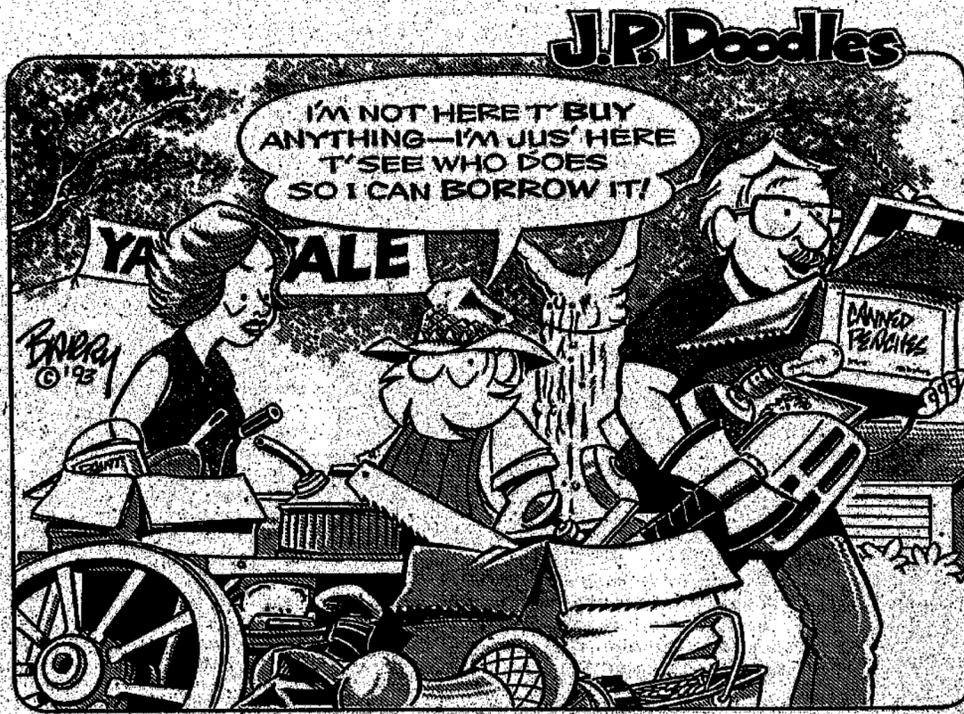

Can't afford the trip? Too lazy to study a book on geology? Turn on your TV set to the Discovery Channel, National Geographic specials, or other science and nature programs.

If God had wanted men and women to live in ignorance, why did He give them brains?

DONALD QUEEN,
Carrizozo.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Earlier this summer I wrote about a Washington, D.C. organization called Operation Right to Know that demonstrated outside the White House and Washington Post on July 2, the anniversary of the UFO crash at Roswell.

The group is devoted to ending government secrecy about "the crash that never happened." It wants the government to release some 20,000 pages of documents on unidentified flying objects. The White House and Post were targeted for demonstrations because there is evidence both know something.

Pres. Harry Truman supposedly was well informed about the Roswell incident and all presidents since him have been briefed. If the Post isn't on the stonewalling, its tradition of investigative reporting should be unleashed to cover the biggest story in history, according to the group.

The demonstrations, yielded news-stories that increased public awareness that stimulated an Inside the Capitol column.

That column produced a call from Fred Whiting at the Center for UFO Research in Maryland, a contact from Rep. Steve Schiff's office, and an introduction to Phyllis McGuire, daughter of George Wilcox, the Chaves County sheriff, who was deeply involved in the incident.

McGuire, who lives in Roswell, says many people connected with the incident are still in the area 46 years later and they still talk a lot about it. Their biggest question, she says, is why the military was so interested if the crash involved nothing more than a weather balloon.

Some of the principal local figures, who were involved have opened a museum at 4th and Main in downtown Roswell.

Rep. Schiff got involved with the Roswell crash last fall on behalf of constituents whose lives continue to be disrupted as a result of the incident.

Schiff wrote to the Defense Department, which referred to him to the National Archives, which referred him back to Defense. Since the Air Force wasn't a separate service branch at the time, he wrote to the Army, which referred him to the Air Force, which referred him back to the Army.

At that point Schiff decided there was a concerted effort to reveal nothing. So he began to pursue the matter as the ranking Republican on the House Government Operations Committee. He still is running into blank walls. Evidently Congress has been kept out of the loop on this matter since the beginning.

Schiff is concerned that federal authorities sought to intimidate witnesses and their families into silence and that a Roswell radio station was told its broadcast license would be revoked if it aired an interview with the rancher who found the "weather balloon."

Whiting has sent me a videotape of interviews with many of the witnesses to the Roswell incident, along with a lengthy briefing paper he has prepared for congressional staff.

Whiting is a former journalist and congressional press secretary, who is now employed as a public relations executive for a major trade association in the Washington area. In his spare time, he is secretary-treasurer of the Fund for UFO Research, which has spent more than $75,000 on the Roswell case investigation.

The briefing paper indicates the government intimidation of witnesses extended all the way to death threats against the witnesses and their families. The rancher, who found the debris, was incarcerated for a week. And some witnesses still refuse to talk about the incident, saying the information remains top secret, even after 46 years.

There is some evidence that New Mexico's former U.S. Sen. Clinton Anderson was part of the coverup in his position as a Truman cabinet member in 1947.

The briefing paper indicates a craft and alien bodies also may have been found on the Plains of San Augustin, west of Socorro, at about the same time.

Since Don Schmitt, a medical illustrator, and Kevin Randle, a writer and former Air Force intelligence officer, decided to re-open the Roswell case investigation in 1988, hundreds of additional witnesses and sources of information have been found. Three books and numerous papers have been written. The newest book is Crash at Corona, released at this time last year.

We'll have much more for you as the case develops.

Health Department Slates Confidential Phone Survey

SANTA FE—The New Mexico Department of Health will conduct a confidential statewide telephone survey on issues related to substance use and health during September and October. The survey's purpose is to determine the need for substance abuse treatment services throughout the state. Two thousand adult New Mexicans, randomly selected from all 33 counties, will be contacted for an interview. The interview will cover general health, AIDS, alcohol, tobacco and drug use and dependence.

"I would encourage people to respond to the telephone survey being conducted by the Department," said Geraldine Salazar, Director of the Division of Substance Abuse. "The information gathered from this survey will allow the Department to better determine both the need for substance abuse treatment services and the allocation of funds to those programs and areas of the state most in need. This data is important for the future determination of service delivery benefitting our citizens."

The Substance Abuse Epi-

demology Unit of the Department of Health, which is conducting the survey, has been involved in a number of research projects over the past two years to determine more accurately the level of substance use and abuse in New Mexico. The studies help assess the effectiveness and improve the quality of substance abuse treatment services.

The Other Side

By OWEN RUSSELL

Boy, I guess my column was rushed last week. I have been known in the past to create a "typo" once in a while, but when I leave out a whole word, there must be an excuse somewhere. It's hard enough to follow my train of thought anyhow without having to jump a bridge that's out along the way. In my last item, I said, "I spoke about an abbreviated column a few weeks, but..." If you add the word "ago" in the appropriate place, (right after weeks) it would make more sense because I was really referring to a single column that occurred in the past and not a series of efforts that are continuing up to and through the present time. I guess if I had read the column after it was published, I might have found out that the proof-reader had caught my mistake and corrected it, but then I wouldn't have been able to write this paragraph which is somewhat more interesting than saying "Thanks for pulling my fat out of the fire." There really are advantages in remaining uninformed.

"Would you please pass me that soapbox?", I inquired. "I have something to say about the philosophical attitudes in Ruidoso."

In a recent issue of the Ruidoso News, (affectionately referred to in some circles as "Brand X"), there were two separate items which sort of set the scene for what I want to discuss. First there was a front page story about the village council demanding stricter enforcement of the sign ordinance and declaring that only the Village should be allowed to use banners to announce its intentions. Next there was a letter to the editor from some visitors to Ruidoso who had asked for directions from a city patrolman and received a traffic citation for their trouble. These items are only two instances of many in a similar vein that makes me wonder what the residents of Ruidoso really want.

The very essence of the existence of Ruidoso is based on vacationing, recreation and tourist traffic. Without it, Ruidoso might not even be here. With a permanent population of around 4,800, a race track, a ski run, and 20,000 second homes, what more is there? Now, how should we cater to this public?

One of the attitudes in town is that we should maintain a comfortable, sedate and relaxing environment because people who come here do so because they want to get away from the hustle and bustle of West Texas city life. This seems to be the prevailing attitude of those in control. Another attitude is that since we make our money off of those who come here to spend it, we should offer them something exciting. This is the attitude of those who are trying to make a living. Is there really something incompatible between the two? Can't we have elements of relaxation and a carnival mood at the same time? Aren't we entitled to a little excitement?

30-Day Extension Granted For Comments on Rangeland Reform

WASHINGTON—Senator Pete Domenici, R-N.M., announced Sept. 13 that the Department of Interior and the Department of Agriculture have granted a 30-day extension to the public comment period on the Clinton Administration's 1994 BLM/Forest Service Rangeland Reform plan.

The extension gives interested parties another month, or until about October 17, in which to comment on the Administration's plans to reform management of public lands leased to ranchers. The initial 30-day comment period on the plan ended Monday.

"I am pleased to a certain degree that this extension has been granted, although I would have preferred to have had another 90 days to allow the public more time to give its evaluation of this dramatic plan," Domenici said.

"It is my hope that the Congress will take some action during its debate on Interior Appropriations Bill to allow more time for the Congress and the public to analyze public land management reform, especially of the wholesale changes it would bring to ranching and communities that rely on that business," Domenici said.

Domenici was part of a group of 16 senators who Friday sent letters to Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt and Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy seeking a 90-day extension to the comment period.

In August, the Administration unveiled a comprehensive set of reforms that would dramatically change the federal regulation of the 170 million acres managed by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) and the 94 million acres controlled by the U.S. Forest Service.

While seeking the extension, Domenici and Senator Harry Reid, D-Nev., have also worked with their colleagues to gain support for an amendment to the Interior Appropriations Bill to impose a one-year moratorium on implementation of the Administration's rangeland reforms. The moratorium would give the Congress time to debate and enact its own reforms.

The Senate is scheduled to begin debate on the 1994 Interior Appropriations Bill on Tuesday.

Help For First-time Home Buyers

As part of the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990, the HOPE 3 Program was established by the federal government to promote single-family home ownership for low-income households at affordable prices.

The purpose of the HOPE 3 Program is to assist low-income households with home ownership opportunities to buy single-family properties held by certain federal agencies and state and/or local governments.

Approximately 57 properties will be available statewide over the next nine months to qualifying households.

For more information call 1-800-404-8867. Participants will be selected on a first come, first served basis. Other factors including family size and need will be considered.

OTHER SIDE

ment to relax from? The Village government is so afraid of losing control that it can't do anything productive? Nearly everything they do seems to be directed toward making people feel not welcome. Our planning and zoning philosophy is directed toward a quite narrow range of allowable uses. Our business licensing is discriminatory. Our sign ordinance is a disaster. Our police force can be very rude and unfriendly. (The story I told a few weeks ago about the damsel in distress being given a citation for double parking did have a factual basis.) Need I go on?

We really need to sit down and discuss where we want to go with our town. Can't we serve all of these competing interests? In a village whose very existence is dependent on those who visit, we should at least make them feel welcome.

Will you residents of Carrizozo please refrain from giggling. You may be next.

(Thank you, but your time is up. Please retire from the soapbox and allow the next speaker equal time to embarrass himself, as you did.)

CORONA NEWS

Have you noticed more trees in the cemetery? The Village has purchased 51 pinons from Abel Lueras who gets them in the Datil area. Funds for this project came from a bequest by the late Foster Eaton, who spent his last years in Tennessee but never forgot Corona and his friends here.

Crown CowBelles met Sept. 2 in the home of Esther Johnson with 10 members present. The lunch featured lasagna with many salads and desserts.

President Shelly Frost reported on the proposed changes in the state by-laws to be voted on later this year.

The NMSU Ram Test Field Day is set for Sept. 30. Mrs.

Benolyn McKibben will be asked to help with the meal for 150 people expected to attend.

Lee Sultemeier reported that 12 door prizes had been given to Canyon CowBelles for their field day. It was suggested that the three CowBelle locals in this county combine and have one booth at the County Fair. Shelley Frost, Lanita Rasak, Wanda Duke and Sabra Davidson will choose times to man the booth at the State Fair. The president announced that there will be no poster contest this year because of a lack of interest. She appointed the nominating committee: Sabra Davidson, Lanita Rasak and Lee Sultemeier.

The Crown Hunters Ball is now known as the Corona Country Ball and will be held Nov. 27 with the Lone Star Express. The dance committee is Sabra Davidson, Helen Porter and Lee Sultemeier.

The concession booth this year will be offered to the FFA.

The next meeting will be Oct. 7 at the home of Helen Porter, covered dish, and members are asked to bring prospective members as guests.

One late note-The Beef for Fathers Day promotion at Corona Trading Co. sparked much interest. The $25 prize went to Helen Porter, the $25 to Delia Gonzales.

Guests of the Kesslers over Labor Day weekend were Mr. and Mrs. John Ware, Lubbock, Billy Kessler, San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Audie Padilla and children, T or C.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, Clovis, visited the Shawn Perkins on Labor Day. They had just returned from a trip to Seattle.

Mrs. Daisy Hillger, Las Cruces, and Sherrill Bradford, El Paso, were here for three days.

Reatha Melton Reynolds, and a friend, Frances Bonfiglio, El Paso were here Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Reynolds was touching base with old friends and spent about two hours at the cemetery.

Mrs. Bernice Davis Jarnagin, Gridley, Calif., called Sunday evening to ask about friends here. She said that was the way she was celebrating her birthday. She ordered the News as a birthday gift for her sister. Happy 75th, Lorene, on Oct. 3. Mrs. Jarnagin and Mrs. Woodward are daughters of the late Ollie and Jim Davis who homesteaded east of Corona. Both women are now retired and are busy winning ribbons at the local fairs. Bernice with her garden items and quilts and Lorene with her landscapes and portraits.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Porter, Sand Point, Idaho, visited with family and friends here Monday and Tuesday. Eddie is the youngest of the eight children of the late Dora and Wade Porter. He was interested in seeing the old home places.

Corduroy Is Good Choice For Fall Fashion Sewing

by BETTY McCREIGHT
Lincoln County
Extension Home
Economist

Corduroy with its various weights is a good choice for many sewing projects. Whether you choose to make a casual man's vest from a midwale; a floor pillow from a widevale, or fashionable walking shorts from a pinwale, corduroy is a timeless choice for fall fashions.

Generally an easy fabric to sew, corduroy does require some special handling because it is a pile fabric. Here are some tips for sewing on corduroy:

Pattern Selection - Select patterns with simple, classic lines. Check the listings of fabrics on the back of the pattern envelope to be sure the style is suitable for a pile fabric.

Thread and Needles - For general stitching, use a dual duty all-purpose thread. For topstitching on corduroy, use a topstitching thread. For pinwale and midwale corduroy use a Universal point size 11 needle. For heavier widevale corduroy use a 14 or 16.

Layout, Cutting and Marking - Prewash fabric to eliminate shrinkage. Straighten grain if necessary. Purchase the amount of fabric recommended on the pattern envelope for "with nap". Prepare and alter pattern pieces that will be used. When laying out the pattern pieces, follow the "with nap" cutting layout. If one is not included, place all pieces with the nap running in the same direction. When possible cut with the direction of the pile. All methods can be used on corduroy. Make a test sample.

Pressing - Protect the nap when pressing by following these guidelines:

- Use a steam iron.
- Use a needle board. If one is not available, lay a piece of self fabric or a plush towel against the fabric; right sides together.
- Do not touch the iron to the right side of the fabric.
- Press in the direction of the nap.
- Use the point of the iron to press seams open; never let the full weight of the iron rest on the fabric.
- Place a strip of brown paper between the dart, seam allowance or hem edge and the garment to avoid leaving an impression on the right side.

Machine Stitching - For straight stitching:

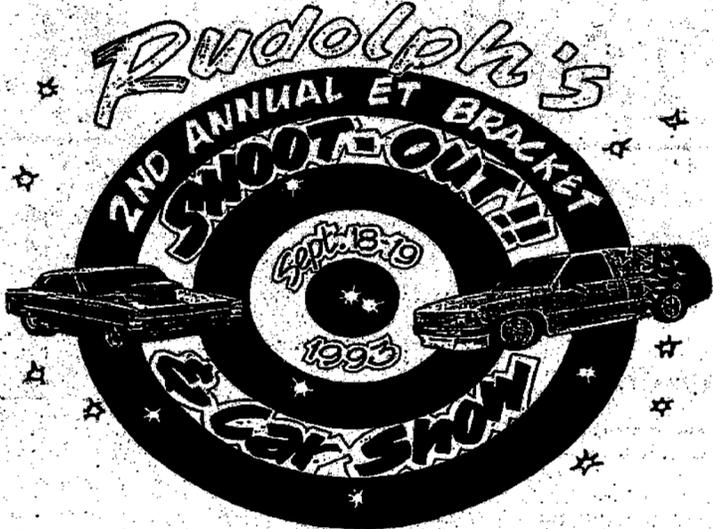

- Use a stitch length of 10-12 stitches per inch.
- Reduce the pressure slightly on the pressure foot to avoid shifting of the fabric layers or damage to the pile.
- Use a loosely balanced thread tension.
- Make a test seam. If the fabric puckers, use an even feed or roller pressure foot.
- Stitch with the nap, even if it means stitching against the grain.
- Pin as usual, hold both layers of fabric taut while stitching to prevent puckering.

CAPITAN NOTES

BY PAULINE WHITTAKER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warth entertained their nephews Frank and Mike Leahy and niece Catherine Leahy Torres and son Alex from Ft. Worth, Texas. Mike and Frank enjoyed games of golf on the new Ruidoso course.

Mayor Warth invites especially the new residents of Capitan to drop by his office in the Village Hall to get acquainted. My door is always open," Warth said.

Randy and Karen Earwood and children from Roswell were guests of their parents Leslie and Delores Earwood. Randy Earwood is a teacher in the Roswell school system.

Tramper Price from Midland, Texas, visited his grandfather, the "Happy Wanderer", Jim Price I. Tramper is a budding musician composing and writing his own music. He inherited his talent from his father, Jim Price II, who was side man playing the trumpet and trombone for the Rolling Stones in England. Jim Price II is a freelance music producer in Hollywood with two gold records to his credit. Tramper was born in England having lived the first 12 years of his life there. The name Tramper originated with his parents because they traveled three years with the Rolling Stones and Tramper "tramped" along with his parents, thus the name Tramper. Tramper will be going to Nashville in January to train as an engineer in a recording studio where he will continue his music career. Tramper is 22 years old.

Cattle Country Ace Hardware is remodeling their paint department. "Please excuse the mess," Carol Peterson said, and, "we are not remodeling just for us. We are doing this for the community to satisfy our customers; we have so many requests we need more room for more inventory." Watch for the Grand Opening paint sale coming soon.

My brown-eyed boyfriend makes me laugh; he says the funniest things. He said to me, "You are getting so smart that you will be dangerous to yourself." I quote to him from some good authors and especially some good books for instance. The Next Hundred Years Shaping The Fate Of Our Living Earth by Jonathan Weiner, "who has been where the action is in tropical forests, on glaciers and volcanoes, wherever vital changes in the health of the good earth are being monitored" says John Pfeiffer. Simulating the earth structure the book tells about ecosystems where shrimp are sealed in a glass globe in saltwater and seaweed which has the same working parts as the earth; earth, water, air and fire and life. Even the astronauts will be sealed in a similar self-supporting chambers if they get to Mars and back.

It behooves us to pay attention to these scientists who are studying our earth to help preserve our heritage by the way we live. I agree with the Capitan School Board in their smoking rule because that is a start for this generation to either have a good environment to live in or not to have a good environment to live in. "One step to preserving our health and to preserving our Earth home.

I wanted to take a survey of how the inhabitants felt about the high price of grazing fees on our ranches but the first person I asked said, "they have so many cows they don't know where the cows are."

The second person I asked said, "What grazing fees?" Which proved some people do not stay informed. The Lincoln County News really wants you to stay informed about this vital issue.

Rocky Mountain Helicopters, Inc., of Provo, Utah, (NASDAQ:RMHI) and University Hospital (UH) of Albuquerque, have signed a contract to begin operating an AS 350 B2 helicopter as a part of UH's Lifeguard Air Emergency Services, air medical program.

UH's Lifeguard Air Emergency Services and RMHI have been serving New Mexico and the surrounding areas since 1986. David Dolstein, executive director of RMHI's Medical Division, said the new aircraft will improve performance during the summer. Eileen Grass, UH's Lifeguard Air Emergency Services' chief flight nurse, said "UH conducted an extensive performance evaluation and determined the A-Star will be the aircraft best able to handle the altitude challenges we face in New Mexico's hot summer months." LIFEGUARD I, UH's helicopter, conducts approximately 85% trauma flights, bringing patients to University Hospital, the only Level I trauma center in New Mexico. LIFEGUARD I also serves Children's Hospital of New Mexico which includes neonatal and pediatric intensive care units, UH's Regional Burn Center and a high-risk obstetrics program.

Rocky Mountain Helicopters, Inc. is the nation's leading provider of emergency air medical transport services, operating approximately 80 medically dedicated aircraft from more than 50 program sites across the country.

Game and Fish Dept. To Set Roadblocks

With hunting seasons upon us, the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish would like to remind everyone that roadblocks will be set up at a variety of times and locations in the southeastern part of the state.

Conservation officers will be checking for game law violations and also to obtain information on hunter harvest. In many instances, other law enforcement agencies such as the State Police and sheriff's departments will be involved looking for other criminal activities and to assist with traffic control. If you encounter such a roadblock, remember officers are looking for poachers that are stealing your wildlife.

FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Dexter??

Close, but no cigar! Oops, maybe we shouldn't use that word anymore. But what the hey, my computer doesn't mind if I smoke.

Getting back to football, Carrizozo, UNM, and the Cowboys came close last week, but all three ended up with another loss.

The Grizzlies gave #1 ranked Ft. Sumner all they wanted and almost pulled one off, but came up short at the 12 yard line after four tries. Seems like the Grizzly players are getting the hang of their new offense, statistically they had a fine performance against the Foxes. Final score Ft. Sumner 21, Carrizozo 13.

Estancia's Bears will be the Grizzlies opponent Friday night in Carrizozo's homecoming. Estancia got beat by Capitan last week 27-6.

Capitan's #2 in the AP Class A Prep Poll behind Ft. Sumner, improving their record to 3-0 with their win over Estancia. Next up for coach Ed Davis' Tigers will be Hagerman this Friday in Capitan.

Ruidoso gained their first win of the season with a hard fought victory over NMML, 13-8. This Friday ought to be a dandy in Tularosa as the Warriors will take on the undefeated and unscored upon Wildcats in Class AA action. Tularosa is rated #3 in the prep poll. Rated #1 in AA is Dexter, a team that lucked out when they squeaked by Carrizozo 13-7, Jal is #2.

By the way Ft. Sumner was not a district game for Carrizozo as we said a couple of weeks ago. District alignments for Class A is: District 1A—Capitan, Carrizozo, Clouderoft, Loving, and Reserve. District 2A—Ft. Sumner, Hagerman, Springer, Tatum, and Texico.

Other area scores last week included Alamogordo edging El Paso Andres, 22-21. Clouderoft kept Hatch winless by one 14-18. Dexter still playing class A teams, beat Hagerman 28-8.

Hot Springs beat Reserve big time 42-0. Raton beat up on future Grizzly opponent Clayton 36-9. Tularosa remains undefeated after whitewashing Santa Rosa 6-0. And the shocker of the week saw Tatum winning over Loving 10-7, in overtime.

Volleyball action in Vaughn was hot and heavy as the Grizzlies and Aguilas squared off against each other, with Vaughn edging Carrizozo 9-15, 15-11, 15-10, 8-15, 10-15.

Carrizozo rebounded on Saturday against NMML for the first win of the season. JV team also won their match in Roswell. Shelley Odom and Amber Pierce served real well for the JV in winning their match 15-2, 15-5.

Varsity won in three sets, 15-10, 15-3, 16-10. Katie Hightower, Amanda Vega, Julie Barham, Debbie Bond, Keri Shafer, Sarah Funk, and Jacqueline Epperson performed well for the Grizzlies. Next action will be today at Corona for both JV, and varsity, matches set to start at 5:30 p.m. Grizzly girls then travel to Clouderoft on Saturday with Jr. High, JV, and varsity all seeing action. Matches start at 2:00 p.m.

CARRIZOZO GRIZZLIES

Carrizozo vs. Estancia / 7:30 p.m.

Good Luck Grizzlies!

Grizzlies Against Bears Friday Night

The Carrizozo Grizzlies suffered their 3rd loss of the season, 21-13 at Ft. Sumner last Friday. The Grizzlies who totaled 336 yards of total offense played well in the loss to the Foxes, the #1 ranked Class A team.

For the second week in a row the Grizzlies were in position to tie the game in the last minute. But four consecutive passes at the Foxes 12-yard line stopped the Grizzlies.

"We played better tonight, we easily could have won the game against one of the better Class A teams," said first year head coach Kenneth Butts.

Carrizozo opened the scoring in the first quarter when junior quarterback Billy Sheehan (12 completions for 170 yards) hit sophomore Wayne LaBelle (3 catches for 35 yards) on a 12 yard pass. LaBelle fumbled at the one after dragging three defenders five yards.

Senior George Vega (3 catches for 65 yards) hustled to recover the ball in the end zone for 6-0 lead. The extra-point kick was missed.

"Our kids are really starting to understand the Run and Shoot and Sheehan is playing better at quarterback than anyone I have seen in the state," commented Butts.

Ft. Sumner came back with two quick touchdowns in the first quarter to take a 13-6 lead.

The Grizzlies responded by driving the ball to the one yard line behind the strong running of senior Jon Vallejos (17 carries for 103 yards). But the Grizzlies fumbled the ball at the one.

The Grizzlies got the ball back when Vallejos hit Ft. Sumner's quarterback who fumbled and senior Fernando Medina (8 tackles) recovered at the Foxes 20 yard line.

Sheehan hit senior Blas Herrera (4 catches for 70 yards) on a 18 yard pass. Vallejos powered the ball in from the two behind the blocking of senior Lenny Beltran and junior D.J. Vermilion. Medina kicked the extra-point to tie the score at 13.

The half ended as Vermilion (4 tackles) sacked the Ft. Sumner quarterback to keep the game tied at 13.

Ft. Sumner scored on the first play of the fourth quarter on a fourth down play and added a two point conversion to push the score to 21-13.

Carrizozo controlled the ball the rest of the game but could not get the ball in the end zone.

"I am very proud of this team. They never quit. We are going to win some games, that I am sure of," said Butts.

Defensive coordinator Tom Moffett said, "Even though we have come in second on the scoreboard the past two games, we have won the statistical battle, and that is encouraging. The important thing to remember is we are undefeated in district. No doubt we have improved each game and to think we can make it to the playoffs is very definitely not unrealistic."

Defensively the Grizzlies were led by Medina, Herrera and LaBelle each with 8 tackles. Herrera also had an interception and senior Willie Archuleta had 5 tackles and recovered 2 fumbles as the Grizzlies caused Ft. Sumner to commit 5 turnovers.

Bears No Match For Tigers

The Capitan Tigers football team is undefeated.

Now 3-0 in the season following their 26-6 win over the AA Estancia Bears, the Tigers now face the Hagerman Bobcats at home Friday.

"We won 26-6, but mentally we were not there," said coach Ed Davis. "We were flat and not as prepared as needed."

The Tigers had only one turnover, an interception, but again had two touchdowns called back on penalties. So far this season the Capitan boys have had nine touchdowns called back.

But it must speak for their enthusiasm. Against the Bears in Estancia, the Tigers racked up 343 total yards, with 172 rushing and 171 passing. The team had 9 for 17 passing, made 12 first and tens and no fumbles. Quarterback Michael Fish had four punts for a 49 yard average.

The Bears came into the game fired up and kept the Tigers from scoring until the second quarter. The Tigers drove down to their goal for the first score. Trevor Cox scored on a three-yard touchdown pass from Fish.

Fish scored next, on a 78-yard punt return. The Tigers set up a wall for Fish, in one of the better plays of the game.

The extra point kick was good and the half ended with Capitan 13, Estancia 0.

Justin Weber scored next for the Tigers on a 27 yard run. Then late in the third quarter, Ernie Trujillo caught a 32 yard touchdown pass from Fish. The two point conversion was good.

Estancia scored at the end of the game when Coach Davis played his subs.

The Tigers will be back home again Friday, playing against the Hagerman Bobcats. The Bobcats have a new coach this year and have a 0-3 record so far. "Hagerman will be ready to come up and play football...and upset the Capitan Tigers," Coach Davis said.

The Tigers have been working hard on their mistakes this week to get ready mentally, coach continued.

The Capitan Lady Tigers volleyball varsity and junior varsity teams are also undefeated, having won their matches in Melrose Saturday. The varsity team won in four games, 10-15, 15-4, 15-9, 15-9. Catherine Sidwell made seven service points in the four game-match, Stacy Gowen made five, Anita Aldaz eight in the match; Tycie Traylor seven; Amy Cline three.

The Capitan junior varsity team also defeated the Melrose JV in three games: 13-15, 15-4, 15-2. Mandi Aldaz made seven straight service points in the third game and had 12 total in the match. Chris Worrell served four, Andi Griego three and Andra Fish three.

The varsity team travels to Texico for the annual Roadrunner Tournament.

The annual Capitan Classic Volleyball Tournament is set for Sept. 24 and 25 and will feature varsity teams. Sept. 24 is also Homecoming.

Irrational Mandate . . .

The "class action" meant that all clients at Fort Stanton and Los Lunas would be affected whether they wanted to be parties in the court case or not.

The result was that Federal District Judge James Parker ruled that the state of New Mexico was to provide community placements for clients who have been recommended for community placement. The ruling did NOT state that Fort Stanton should be closed.

Now the New Mexico Health Department has mandated that the clients at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School be moved to communities. (The New Mexico Health Department's mandate is difficult to understand.)

Parents, guardians, and family members are devastated by the state's ruling to move the clients out of Fort Stanton. The irony is that people who do not want community settings for their loved ones with developmental disabilities are being FORCED to make decisions they believe are not in the best interest of their loved ones.

The greatest irony is that the original child named in the class action suit filed in federal court remains at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School.

Perhaps we should ask Governor King why the New Mexico Health Department feels it is necessary to move the people who do not want to move and allow those people who do want to move to stay.

Some of the parents/legal guardians of Fort Stanton clients are being informed by letter that they have 20 days in which to choose a case management agency/case manager to coordinate the client's move from Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School.

Case management agencies are located in Raton, Clovis, Roswell, Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Las Cruces, Espanola, Fort Bayard, Hobbs, Gallup, Los Lunas, Las Vegas, Portales, and Farmington.

Perhaps we should ask Governor King why the New Mexico Health Department has a list of case management agencies/case managers in the larger populated areas but completely neglects the smaller communities such as Carrizozo, Capitan, Corona, Hondo, San Patricio, Picacho, Fort Stanton, Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs.

The agency that is supposed to "quality check" the clients' living and working conditions in the community does not know the clients and their needs. This will be an abrupt change from the trained staff at Fort Stanton where the clients' needs, wants, feelings, moods, wishes, likes and dislikes are of utmost importance.

According to one "expert" this information can be given to the agency in the form of boxes of paperwork which will take months of reading. Each hour, day, week, and month of reading to learn about the client will delay the transition process as well as be costly to the state.

Perhaps we should ask Governor King for an accounting of how much money is being spent to turn these people with developmental disabilities out of their home at Fort Stanton.

The state is trying to convince family members that services will be purchased to meet the needs of the clients. These services will be purchased from individuals unfamiliar with the clients. These services will allow the clients to be under the control of unknown individuals, usually working alone with the clients.

While this sounds good to the "experts" it gives little comfort to the family members who have seen what damage can be done to their loved ones by unsupervised individuals in communities. (One provider hired an employee who could not be trusted to dispense controlled medications to the clients.)

Perhaps we should ask Governor King if the state officials of New Mexico feel good about torturing the parents/guardians by forcing them to watch as their loved ones lives are being disrupted.

Advocacy organizations are promoting the community settings and openly state that congregate living is not good. Congregate living is not bad. If it was, the United States Armed Forces would have been discontinued before it was begun.

Congregate living is not bad. If it was, the universities and colleges would have no need for dormitories.

Congregate living is not bad. Condominiums are popular around the world.

Apparently some of the clients who have been moved to communities in the past few months have had problems. It is not known exactly what the problems are but none of the problems have been made public. The success stories are publicized. The unsuccessful transitions become statistics of injuries, jail terms, and possible death.

Perhaps we should ask Governor King what guarantee the New Mexico Health Department can give the parents/guardians that their loved ones will be success stories instead of statistics.

More words of promise whether spoken by Governor King, New Mexico Health Department secretary Michael Burkhardt, a politician, case manager, or so-called advocacy agency will be no consolation when parents are told their child with developmental disabilities has been raped, robbed, jailed, beaten, or killed while living in a community setting.

Parents who are unable to care for their child with developmental disabilities in their own home will spend the rest of their lives dreading to answer the phone for fear that it will be THE call of bad news about their child.

Editor's note: The facility at Fort Stanton is to be transitioned into a long-care facility such as a nursing home. Remodelling will begin soon on two of the cottages.

Banner Restrictions Are Discussed Again

by Doris Cherry

Ruidoso Village Council took a hard ball stand on allowing banners for non-profit groups at four locations in town only.

Tuesday night, Paul Crown, organizer of the New Mexico State Open Chili Cook Off, a chamber of commerce sponsored event, asked permission to hang a banner advertising the cook off at the event's location in the Tall Pines RV park. The event has been held at the RV park for eight years.

Councilor J.D. James told Crown the village started enforcing the sign ordinance prohibiting the banners after Labor Day. Only nonprofit groups can put up banners, then only in four locations. One location is a parking area next to the RV park where the cook-off is held.

Crown had problems with the sign ordinance restricting the banners, because he said the village spends more than $200,000 to get people to come, just to send the people all around town to find out where things are happening. He thought the banners in just four locations added to the confusion for visitors. Crown's other problem was that he had the banner in his office before Labor Day, when the banner ban section of the sign ordinance was enforced.

Councilor Frank Potter supported the sign ordinance. "Ruidoso has one of the better sign ordinances in the country," he said. But in the last few years the sign ordinance had been totally abused.

"This week, it looks so nice and clean and so fashionably in order (without the banners)," Potter said. "I couldn't believe how fast the banner thing got out of hand."

Potter added that the civic center banner was atrocious looking, and not a way to attract tourists.

Joan Bailey, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director, spoke on behalf of banners. She said restricting the banners had a negative impact on promoting events.

While she said she was respectful of the law, she was trying to make a statement in support of banners by ordering extras and putting one up on the chamber building after Labor Day. Village planning director Cleatus Richards called Bailey four times telling her to take the banner down. She said she really was hoping to get ticketed, in order to make a statement. She asked the council to reconsider the banner restrictions, and suggested the banners be allowed at certain times of the year and on an individual basis.

Councilor Joe Gomez said the problem is if the council accepts one banner then turns down the next. He acknowledged Crown runs a well organized event and maintains the banners well.

Councilor Barbara Duff made a motion to make an exception for the chili cook off, but she got no second on the motion.

Cummins made the motion to deny the use of a banner at the chili cook off location, which was carried on yes votes from all councilors but Duff, who voted no.

Crown joked with the council and asked what the fine is when he puts the banner up anyway. Village attorney John Underwood jokingly replied, "We'll send Potter out to confiscate."

Potter recently made headlines when he confiscated an unpermitted sign from the side of a village street. The sign owner contended she had rights to put the sign there since she had gotten permission from the state highway department.

Village representatives recently met with the highway department district engineer which resulted in an agreement that the state highway department will no longer give permission for signs to be placed in the state highway rights of way in Ruidoso.

That's the main thing Judi looks at while doing reflexology on a horse is his eyes.

When Judi started the reflexology at the top of the horse's head, one of the wrangler's yelled, "Hey, it's the leg that's hurt, not his head."

Judi explained she goes over every point and muscle to see what else is hurt too. "If the shoulder is hurt, there's got to be something across that will also hurt, a reaction for an action," Judi says.

Judi found the back left hip (loins) on the horse were sore also.

Judi spent many hours on the movie set in Roswell. Her reflexology skills were needed for both the horses and wranglers.

Townsend said, "One by one all of us had to go to her. I only went because I was hurting so bad I couldn't move. She has very strong hands, but she'll tell you where that pressure point leads to."

He said once he was going to try to trip her up and told her his left arm hurt when it was the right arm that was causing the problem.

"She did both of them and then told me, that's funny because the muscle is pulled in the right arm. She can pinpoint exactly where it hurts, just like radar. I knew if she could find out every hurt I had by just the way her hands can feel the fever, she was telling the truth about the horses," Townsend said.

Townsend also owns Grindstone Stables in Ruidoso. Judi does reflexology on Townsend's horses there, too.

After the movie was finished Judi moved back to Lincoln County. Several years ago she had lived on a ranch in Corona. Her move this time took her to her new home in Ruidoso. She has lived in Ruidoso for a year now and plans to stay.

Judi likes to tell people about the advantage of reflexology. "Reflexology helps alleviate tension and minor aches, pains and strains by combining accupressure techniques and massage. I don't do any bone manipulations or use needles," she says.

"Reflexology deals with the electrical schematics of the body. This helps relieve muscular stress, helps stimulate circulation, improve joint flexion and muscular problems," she adds.

She works on the pressure points of a person's neck, back, arms, legs, feet and hands with her Gold Rush Liniment.

Even though most people go to professional reflexology because of headaches, sore muscles, joint pain, sports injuries and arthritis, Judi says that 99 percent of the problems are stress-related.

Judi enjoys her work, and says, "It makes me feel good to see people leave with a smile on their face and to know I helped take some of the pain away."

time sign enforcement officer and has been out enforcing the banner ban. Most businesses complied immediately, a few letters have been sent to those who did not comply. Four other firemen have volunteered to also serve in the enforcement officer capacity in the future.

About 30 minutes was given to former councilor Al Junge to express his ongoing concerns about the village water rate system. Junge is moving to Fort Worth soon and wanted a final opportunity to address his concerns. He listed six concerns, which were the subject of a meeting between himself, the village manager and deputy manager and Potter. Junge said the reason why he resigned from the council was because he got no response from a similar letter of concern.

Village manager Ron Wicker sent the council a memo listing Junge's concerns and efforts to address them.

Junge said he hoped the council would not forget him. "We'll never forget you," said Shay. "And we know you'll be back."

Other discussion Tuesday included reports on the highly informative workshops held during the recent New Mexico State Municipal League conference in Raton and a report about the successful golf tournament held at the Links. Some 76 people participated in the tournament sponsored by Hubbard, Alfred and Calvert. Some 10 of those were local and the rest were from other parts of the country. They spent incredible amounts of money, said Underwood, and gave Ruidoso exposure to those types of individuals.

"Ruidoso is an easy sell," Underwood concluded. Shaw adjourned the meeting at 10:30 p.m.

The Drug Awareness Resistance Education, or more commonly known as D.A.R.E., program for Lincoln County schools received notice of funding through the Region 9 regional cooperative education center.

The grant funding will provide for DARE instructor Connie Hopper to go to the schools to present a course for 5th and 6th graders and to provide educational materials to kindergartners and second graders. The course teaches kids about the dangers of drug/substance abuse and provides alternatives.

Hopper will be at Capitan Schools all school year, at Carrizozo and Corona for the fall semester and at Hondo through the spring. She will be at Ruidoso Schools during the spring semester.

Hopper also takes her DARE program to the Lincoln County home schoolers, with a weekly session held at the Episcopal Church in Ruidoso.

Hopper said the program is going smoothly so far this year, and the kids are receptive.

Motorists in Lincoln County are advised the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office will conduct roadblocks on the major highways this weekend. Drivers' licenses and vehicle insurance will be checked.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOLS CLIPBOARD

A weekly school column from Carrizozo Municipal Schools that serves as a bridge to parents, businesses and community groups who welcome knowing more about their school. News about student, staff, and board members will be highlighted.

FFA AT FAIR-FFA members along with advisor Dale Mitchell were in Albuquerque Sept. 10 to prepare the chapter's booth in time for the State Fair. Raina McDonald, freshman; Jim Brown and Shelley Odom, sophomores, used the theme 'Diversity in Agriculture' as their theme this year. The topic illustrates the curriculum: horticulture, agriscience, wildlife, ag mechanics, and food technology. Other FFA members who helped with the booth were Debbie Bond, sophomore; Keri Shafer and Katie Hightower, freshmen. Mitchell, on behalf of the chapter, expressed appreciation for the help and support with the pre-game supper held Sept. 3. The proceeds benefit FFA and athletic activities. The groups will sponsor a hamburger fry beginning at 6:30 p.m. at this Friday's homecoming game.

HELP AT FAIR-Bond, Shafer and Hightower were at the state fair grounds Wednesday through Friday with 4-H work. Callie Gnatkowski of Corona and the three Carrizozo students were Lincoln County 4-Hers assigned to take in entries from county agents from around the state. The four were among 24 club members from various counties who classified, assisted judges, recorded results and prepared display cases.

PARENTS INFORMED-Elementary principal Ruby Cearly informed parents and guardians of homecoming activities and alerted them that buses will run at 12:30 p.m. on Friday. If students are not participating in the parade but are staying to watch the parade, they should be picked up at this time. The parade will be Sept. 17 at 1:30 p.m. Cearly encourages elementary students to participate in the parade by riding their bicycles. Decorated bikes will be judged and winners announced at halftime of the game. Cheering noise makers created by students in grades K-6 will be judged and announced during Friday's assembly. Parents and community members are invited to attend the assembly which will include the homecoming royalty.

PARADE ROUTE-The parade, originating at the high school on D Avenue will go to E Avenue and turn left at the Phillip 66 station. From there, due to construction on Twelfth Street, the parade will proceed down Central Avenue, turn left at Luna's arts and crafts shop, go past the Fire Dept. on Eighth Street, cross E Avenue and head back to starting point at school. Supt. Jim Bayless and Mayor Cecilia Kuhnelt have been invited by the student council to be in the parade.

Community members attending the game dressed entirely in school colors and/or carrying a poster or banner in support of the Grizzlies will be given popcorn. Elementary students will be given bubble gum, if they do likewise. Alumni are invited to the dance following the game; The dance for students in grades 9-12 will feature the mobile DJ music of 'Excaliber'.

ic sounds and listen to stories. They explore arts and crafts. Librarian Julia Hollis can be reached at 648-2347 for more details or to register a child.

SCHOOL CONCERN-Safety and education of students are concerns of those in charge at Carrizozo Schools. Anyone who is not a student or staff member who visits the school during school hours is required to check in at the high school office. No one should be on the campus grounds after school hours except those involved in a school sponsored activity or community members who use the track for fitness exercise. No students should remain on campus or in school buildings after school hours without parental or staff supervision. An exception is made when prior approval is given for facility use by non-school groups.
