

Fair Board Offers Proposals To County

by Doris Cherry

Lincoln County Commissioners, at a special meeting Jan. 12, approved an agreement for administration of the fairgrounds improvement project, and approved a resolution accepting the mid-year budget revision that reflected a fiscally prudent government.

Commissioners approved a contract for professional services with the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD) out of Roswell to administer the $100,000 grant from the state to upgrade the Lincoln County Fairgrounds in Capitan. The fee for SNMEDD's services will be $5,000 to be taken from the grant money.

While there was no question concerning the agreement to manage the grant funds, a proposed management agreement between the county and the Lincoln County Fair Board Association Inc. did not fair so well. The association offered three proposals, (1) for $25,000 which includes $9,000 for maintenance needs and $16,000 for one full time employee, (2) $14,000 which includes $9,000 for maintenance and $6,000 for a part time employee, (3) $9,000 for maintenance needs (the use of the building would be at a minimum because there would be no one to schedule use of the facility.) The commission did not commit to any of the proposals.

County manager Andy Wynham reviewed the current status between the county and the fair association. The county provides the association $9,000 a year, and provides basic liability insurance. That insurance, however, does not cover competitors in rodeo events. Non participants at the rodeo, such as spectators, are covered by the insurance. The county also will continue to own the facility, which is the only way the state grant can be used for upgrading.

Concern was expressed by commissioner L. Ray Nunley about language in the proposed lease agreement that the association will obtain the commissioners' approval for any activity held on the Fairgrounds. Wynham suggested that language be included in the agreement that will allow the commission to approve events by resolution without negotiating the agreement repeatedly.

Commissioner Bill Schwettmann, from district IV which includes Capitan, said he was a great believer in giving the fair association more than the $9,000 historically provided by the county. But commissioner Wilton

Howell thought the fair association should solicit sponsorships and association memberships as a way to raise more money. "I'd like to see an effort to gather funds rather than solely from this board," Howell said.

Howell also was concerned the association represents the county as a whole, possibly by districts. "We have a duty to the residents of Lincoln Coun-

THE WALLS ARE GOING UP QUICKLY on the Capitan Middle School. Capitan Board of Education members during their meeting Thursday praised the facility as a "no frills" construction, that will give tax payers lots of building for their bucks. Credit was also given to general contractor T.E. Arlington who is on the site daily, supervising all aspects of the job. The building was designed by Architect Plus of Roswell. The facility is scheduled for completion by fall.

Sonnemaker Offered 2-Year Contract As Capitan Schools Superintendent

by Doris Cherry

Capitan Board of Education offered superintendent Diana Sonnemaker a two year contract to continue as the district's administrator.

The offering came after a lengthy closed session during the regular meeting of the board Thursday. The superintendent was also evaluated during that closed session. The motion to extend the contract was made by board member Tim Worrell, seconded by Russell Shearer, and the vote was unanimous.

The board also learned that by state law, school districts must pay the tuition of high school students who are legitimately concurrently enrolled in a college and are earning credits toward graduation.

However, districts are not required to pay tuition if the student is enrolled in a college level class just to avoid an unfavorable teacher of a basic, required course given at the high school.

The board adopted a policy making stricter requirements on students who participate in concurrent enrollment with Eastern New Mexico University at Ruidoso. The policy closed "loopholes" in the old concurrent enrollment agreement with ENMU-Ruidoso which, due to lack of specifics, had created a situation where students had earned high school credits toward graduation by taking such basic classes as English at the college.

One or two students, who did not like a teacher of a basic subject at Capitan High School, had taken a class in the basic subject at ENMU-Ruidoso in the summer, earned the credit and were able to graduate early, the board learned.

"If we offer the course, and they need it, they must take it from us," said high school principal Darrel Stierwalt.

The new policy reads that concurrent enrollment is for enrichment or remediation purposes only. The intent of the concurrent enrollment is to offer students opportunity to take courses not offered at the high school. Summer school courses must be for remediation or to substitute

Board Hires Mike Gaines As Carrizozo School Counselor

by Doris Cherry

Carrizozo Board of Education members during their regular meeting Tuesday unanimously adopted a policy requiring students to maintain a C or better average in every class weekly in order to participate in extra-curricular activity. The motion came after a five hour, 45 minute closed session for personnel, during which they also evaluated the superintendent.

Board president Jan Barham told THE NEWS Wednesday, that the board will discuss the policy further during a special meeting at 3 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 22, in the board room in the administration building. The meeting will be open to the public.

During Tuesday night's meeting, Hightower made the motion to put a policy in force immediately that will require weekly eligibility for students in extra-curricular activities. Any grade less than a C in all classes or a discipline referral would disqualify a student from participating in the activities for that week.

While the board was unanimous in its intent to put more emphasis on academics, it was split when it came to approving a one-year contract for superintendent Jim Bayless. Barham and Dewey Brown voted against the contract and Hightower and Lee Roy Zamora voted for it. Member Nick Serna was absent and the motion ended in a tie.

Bayless' current contract does not expire until June. Bayless, who was acting principal last year, was hired as superintendent to fill the position vacated by Jimmie Banks who resigned.

The board did unanimously vote to hire Mike Gaines as counselor, and Laura Morgan as school nurse.

Also during the session the board met with a concerned parent about her child, a student at Carrizozo Schools. A teacher and two principals also went into the closed session to discuss the problem.

When the board came back into open session, Hightower said the board should answer the "deal on the parent." But Barham said the situation will be handled by Bayless as discussed in the closed session.

"I expect she'll (the parent) be expecting some kind of vote," Hightower said.

But Barham maintained that such discussions about students were to be kept behind closed doors. "I always

County Asks Underwood For Help On State Highway 214

The second session of the 44th State Legislature convened Tuesday, with Gov. Bruce King's State of the State Message given to the joint meeting of the state house and senate.

In his message, King voiced the state's upswing in economy, likening it to the successes of the state's university sports teams. He also mentioned the state surplus and the legislature's job to create a budget this session that will deal with the state's needs, problems and funding of programs, and still consider the tax payers.

One of the more controversial items on this year's agenda at the session will be the six cent gasoline tax. While one cent is obligated toward payment of a bond, the remaining five cents will be the subject of many heated debates before the 30 days are over.

Among those legislators at the opening session was H. John Underwood, Democrat from District 56 who represents all of Lincoln County and parts of Otero and Chaves counties. On Jan. 12, Underwood met with the Lincoln County Commissioners, to tell them of his plans and to hear what the county wants from the state.

High on the county's wants list from the state is a resolution of the State Highway 214 problem. The commission hopes to get the state to upgrade the road, which is a major link between the state hospital and training school at ty and taxpayers," Howell said.

But commissioner Stirling Spencer said there is an equal representation of county people in the fair board. "I don't go along with the districts. Some areas in this county don't give a damn about the fair. I don't think we should have quotas," he said.

Fair association treasurer Rene Cupit said that the association already approaches businesses and individuals for donations for buckles and other prizes for the fair. "We will do without memberships before we take away prizes (from the fair participants)," she said. She also said that the fair takes the $9,000 from the county and the little profit made from the Smokey Bear Stampede Rodeo which is the only fund raiser the association has.

Discussion about the agreement closed when the county manager asked that the association members review the agreement proposals at their meeting Jan. 19, and send back their recommendations.

The Lincoln County Assessor's Office offered to make an appraisal of the fairground facility and property, as requested by Schwettmann.

The bulk of the special meeting was devoted to a review and final approval of the mid-year budget revisions. As promised by the elected officials, almost all departments showed decreases or no increases for their departments, even with the six percent cost of living raise for all county employees approved by commissioners in December. However, some department had few areas to decrease.

Also at the special meeting, county road manager Bill Cupit discussed his proposed projects for the cooperative road projects with the state. For the County Arterial Program, Cupit will request funding for 73 cattle guards on 13 county roads. The state will provide 75 percent of the cost, and the county must contribute 25 percent as in kind work and actual expense; On the Coop program, where the state pays 60 percent and the county 40 percent, Cupit proposes replacing two more bridges and seven low water crossings. For the school bus project, funding 100 percent from the state, Cupit proposed upgrading Center Road, about three miles west of Capitan, for a cost of $45,000. The road was one listed by school bus drivers as needing considerable work.

In other business, commissioners:

--Postponed discussion of a proposed ordinance to prohibit the release of wild animals in Lincoln County until a public hearing is held during the regular Feb. 1 meeting.

--Approved a resolution formally supporting relocation of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame to Lincoln County.

--Approved a resolution to support funding for the purchase of the Super Select Sale Barn. Commissioner Spencer cast a nay vote.

--Approved a resolution concerning State Highway 214 and County Road DO-04.

--Okayed a resolution consenting to the assignment and transfer of the Lincoln Cablevision franchise from Rifkin to Alert, Cable T.V., Inc.

--Accepted a drug control and system improvement formula grant agreement amendment No. 1 with the Dept. of Public Safety.

thought that you were not to discuss students in open session," Barham said. "I thought that was the purpose of discussing it in closed session."

Nor did Barham think that discussion about the parent's concerns were to be discussed in open session.

The board was relieved of having to discuss another situation with a student who was listed on the agenda when principal Gabe Papponi announced Shelly Odom had transferred back to Las Cruces and was not there that night.

The other open portions of the board meeting were relatively short, with reports made by the superintendent and principals, and some action taken. The board approved its 1994 Open Meeting Resolution, which includes provisions for the American's with Disabilities Act. The resolution lists the times and dates for meetings, and the requirements for posting agendas 24 hours prior to the meeting, and allows for special and emergency meetings after proper notification is made. The resolution was taken directly out of a pamphlet given to board members during the state school boards meeting in Albuquerque.

Bayless reported that the auction of surplus and unneeded inventory netted the school $3,024, after payment of the auctioneer commission. The school's old mini bus was not auctioned, because the bid price was less than the minimum price requested. Bayless will try to sell all items not auctioned.

The school's roofing project has finally been completed, and the last payment made just before Christmas. The payment was made after the roofing company sent down 200 new ceiling tiles and a replacement sky light as agreed. During the holidays the custodians replaced the ceiling tiles that were stained as a result of the roofing project.

Barham asked Bayless if the school received a written warranty for the refinishing job on the old gym floor. Bayless had not receive such documentation, and said he would follow up on Barham's request.

In principal's reports, Papponi congratulated the girls basketball team which won the sportsmanship trophy at the Capitan Smokey Bear Tournament Jan. 6-8. The game officials determine who wins the sportsmanship award. The senior class, lacking enough money for a major class trip, is considering different options, including a shopping trip. New counselor Mike Gaines is working to help all graduating seniors obtain scholarships. The 10th graders will be taking the New Mexico competency exam in February.

Mid-school principal Kay Patterson reported on a successful first Geography Bee, which involved some 40 students in 4-6 grades. Robert Shafer won the championship. He will take an exam to determine whether he will be eligible to compete in the state Geography Bee. If he ranks in the top 100 in the state, he will compete on the state level in Albuquerque. State winners will compete on a national level in Washington D.C. The event is sponsored by National Geographic Society.

Honor rolls, and students of the month will be announced at an assembly.

The junior high boys basketball team will play first in Tularosa, not second as listed on the schedule. The game begins at 4:30 p.m. The boys varsity basketball team was also congratulated for their wins at the Smokey Bear tournament.

County Asks Underwood . . .

Fort Stanton and Ruidoso. An offering from the New Mexico State Highway Department last year was unacceptable to the county, because it required the county take over the entire length of State Road 214 from Highway 380 to Highway 70, in exchange for $400,000 to do maintenance work on county owned Airport Scenic Drive, which runs from Highway 48 in Alto to Ruidoso owned Sierra Blanca Regional Airport. Commissioners asked Underwood to go with them to a meeting with the New Mexico State Highway Commission on Jan. 21 in Santa Fe.

To memorialize their request, commissioners approved a resolution calling for help with State Road 214 and County Road D0-04.

Commissioners also approved resolutions supporting the relocation of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame to Lincoln County, and supporting the funding for the purchase of the Super Select Sale Barn. Commissioners heard from I.M. Gonzalez with New Mexico State University Extension Service, supporting the county's appeal for state funds to purchase the sales barn. He said the facility could be used for agricultural related programs, such as VoAg, of which there are four in the county; out of 60 in the state.

Underwood said the Sales Barn could be used as a promotional tool for the county, and it could provide an opportunity for Lincoln County to help itself by promoting its cowboy culture. "There's lots of money in horses," Underwood said. "We can be the heart of cowboy culture in New Mexico."

Requests for funding assistance also came from Cheryl LaBelle, the Zia Senior Citizens program director. She asked for funding to help with the meals programs in Corona, and Ruidoso Downs.

Residents of the Lincoln community, and members of the Lincoln Historic Preservation Board, asked Underwood for a total of $697,885 for several projects. The first priority is $40,000 for an archaeological survey, needed before any work that involves excavation can be done. Along with that, the group is seeking $126,720 to upgrade the walkways. Last year, Lincoln requested $40,000 for the walkways, but a clerical error in Santa Fe resulted in Carrizozo getting the money for sidewalks. Since then, the Lincoln group has realized the length of the walkways needs to be extended, resulting in the additional cost. Also, the Lincoln group asked for $430,000 to bury utility lines, most likely under the walkways. The underground lines would enhance the historic quality of the community, and provide a better setting for movie production in the future.

As for the six cents gas tax and state surplus, Underwood proposed the gas tax funds be used for highways in southern New Mexico, especially Highways 54 and 380. Commissioner Bill Schwettmann suggested the controversial $300 million surplus be split evenly between the state's 33 counties.

Schwettmann also asked Underwood to look into gas pricing, and why elections must be held in municipalities where the candidates have no opposition--declared or write-ins.

Underwood, however, said he would vote as the majority of his constituents request. He urged all residents to communicate their needs and desires to him during the session, by calling or faxing his Santa Fe office. He also invited residents to call him if they are concerned about a proposed bill highlighted in the media. Often, he said, ultra-right or ultra-left bills get the publicity when common sense bills are overlooked.

Underwood credited residents of Lincoln County for their willingness to talk common sense to get the job done. "I've never known this county to be politically correct," he said.

He asked the voters to stick behind him. "We are all shareholders in the corporation known as the State of New Mexico. I'm the guy you gave your proxy (vote) to," he said.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer asked Underwood, as an individual, to consider any requested uses of the surplus funds that will go toward increases in services that are frivolous. He urged the representative to look at efficiency of government, and not always spending. "Our (the county's) elected officials are shining examples," Spencer said.

Underwood invited residents to visit the legislature during the session, and if they contact him prior to their arrival he will try to get them a pass to the house floor.

Commissioners Wilton Howell and chairman Monroy Montes will attend the State Highway Commission meeting in Santa Fe Friday, Jan. 21. They asked for Underwood's support in this matter.

Tourists At A Shooting Gallery

By MICHAEL MCKIM SWICKARD

Over the holidays I went to Dallas. On the Monday following Christmas my friends decided I should see the famous Book Depository where Oswald crouched as he shot President Kennedy. There is now a tourist attraction where once only an assassin perched.

The level of security surprised me. They had armed guards everywhere. The money taker sat behind bullet proof glass and had a sliding drawer. We were herded through airport style metal detectors while stern-eyed guards watched for any wrong movement.

Maybe I got there at the wrong time but it looked like a crowd of Mom and Pop tourists to me. Every second person turned to their companion and said, "Gee, seems like the tight security is about 30 years late."

Then we took the elevator that only went to the sixth floor. Much of the exhibit seemed to be the story of the assassination from the assassin's point of view.

The older tourists seemed more somber while they relived those days in 1963. I suspect the younger visitors didn't have the personal emotional attachment to that time.

I wasn't the only person on the sixth floor who was a little peeved at the people who stood in the southeast corner and looked from the assassin's perspective down to the street below mentally sighting the rifle—well, it was when they would say, "BANG," that I began to think the exhibit was ill-conceived.

When you make something like that into a tourist attraction it celebrates the assassin, even if it is not intentional. Oswald was on the sixth floor, not President Kennedy.

On our way back to our host's house we were going to stop by the Irving Mall to pick up something that I have forgotten because of what we found there.

I don't know all that much about what happened at the Irving Mall that Monday after Christmas, but it was later in the news nationwide that a gang fight broke out next to the food court. A guy just sitting down to a piece of pizza with his wife and two small children was killed by a stray shot.

By the time I got there all that was left was the emotional carnage. The security guards stood in groups looking like a bunch of chickens in a barnyard right after the farmer has culled out a couple of chickens—they had a dazed look on their beaks.

The food court was back to doing a brisk business and only by the look in the eyes of some people could you see that it wasn't just any mall in America. There was a sense that the decorations and plants could not hide the fact that dangerous, heavily-armed people were roaming the neighborhood looking for someone to shoot.

There are some people who lament that there were not more armed security guards when the shooting occurred, but the guy killed was hit by a ricochet—with more people shooting the perpetrator might have been caught but at the cost of more bystanders being killed.

The Book Depository security is misplaced—they need the metal detector at the mall. And since I paid my way into the Oswald Memorial on the sixth floor I have the right to say that the Book Depository should be razed like was done with the Cleveland apartment building when a man used it in the course of a cannibalistic crime spree.

Dallas should change their priority for security and tourist attractions by razing the building and sending those guards to the mall. The assassin should not be the attraction. And it would be nice if they changed the shooting gallery back into a shopping mall. MS

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR—Continuation of my Letter to the Editor, reference: apathetic society; dated, Jan. 13, 1994.

Not only is it crucial to express your opinions, to your elected officials, on the proposed bills, but also on the existing laws. Additionally, it is vital that you make your desires known on the existing and proposed policies (E.G. I am (for) (against) the (policy's) subject). Finally, it is the right of every citizen to request that their representatives introduce legislation on their behalf.

Your representatives work for you; however, they are not mind readers. You must let them know where you stand on the various issues. Do not allow the radicals to speak for you.

If you do not express your views to anyone else, at least express them to your State Representative or United States Congressman. Their names and addresses may be obtained from your County Clerk.

Remember, the radicals, unlike your children, are counting on your continued apathy.

FRANKLIN L. BOREN, Tinnie.

EDITOR—The Carrizozo Town Trustees at the first meeting of the year adopted "Resolution 94-01 Official Holidays" by unanimous voice vote of the three trustees in attendance.

As a result, the birthday of The Reverend Doctor Martin Luther King, Junior, is officially being celebrated on Monday, January 17, 1994, in addition to well-publicized observance on his actual birthday.

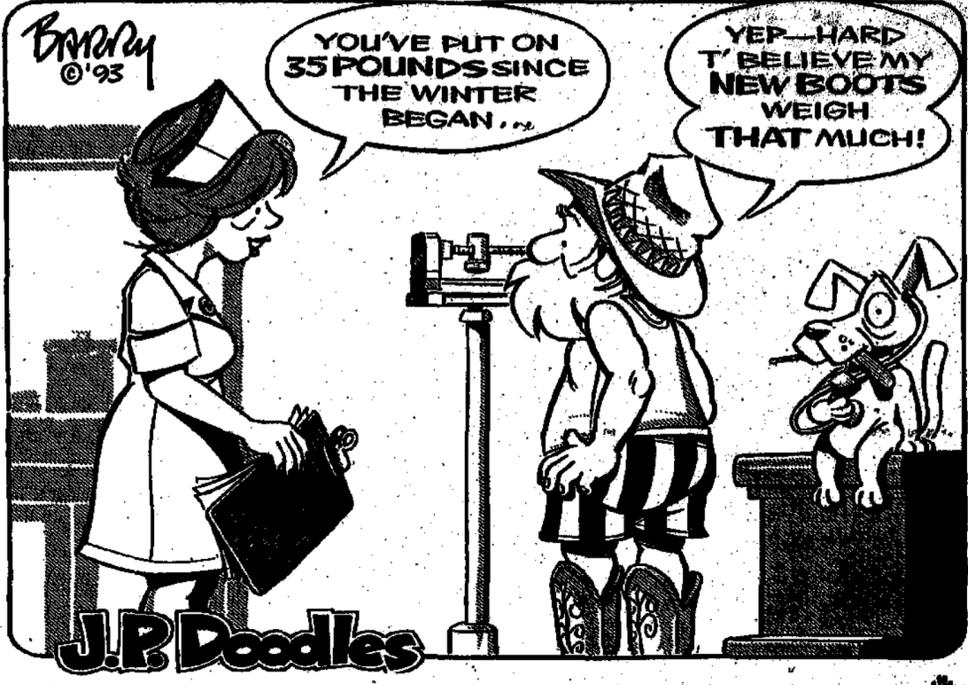

In contrast, the February birthdays of two presidents, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, are designated by this same Resolution to be observed on November 25 and December 23 respectively. Few, if any, calendars recognize the birthdays of these two beloved Presidents. Most, if not all, calendars print both birthdays of M.L. King.

It might be a good idea to mark our calendars NOW, because few of us will remember these dates in the midst of the Thanksgiving and Christmas preparations and celebrations.

DOROTHY M. FORSYTHE, Carrizozo.

EDITOR—Rush Limbaugh, the radio-TV personality, has hit Washington like an over sized custard pie. "With talent on loan from God," Limbaugh is a Republican apologist. He is articulate, knowledgeable, and funny. Like William Buckley, he is privileged to be a "respectable" conservative. That means that he does not see a conspiracy.

SANTA FE—Movie stars like Shirley MacLaine aren't the only people Santa Feans like to chase out of town.

The December issue of New Mexico Magazine has a delightful story by Helen Peters of Artesia about a statue, called Madonna of the Trail, that Santa Fe writers and artists organized to keep out of town in 1927.

The statue was one of 12 monuments to pioneer women placed along major routes that brought early U.S. settlers to the West. One of the 18-foot-high monuments was intended for Santa Fe—at the end of the Santa Fe Trail.

The idea for the monuments began in 1909 when a group of Missouri women wanted to mark the section of the Santa Fe Trail that crossed their state before it was obliterated and lost to future generations. The Missouri legislature thought it was a great idea and appropriated funds for 30 granite markers along the Trail.

In 1912 the Daughters of the American Revolution heard about the project's success and talked Congress into creating the National Old Trails Road Association for the purpose of promoting construction of a coast-to-coast highway along the routes of post roads, pikes, and trails that early settlers traveled to cross the continent.

After much research the route chosen began in Maryland and ended in California. One of the 12 states along the way was New Mexico, because of the Santa Fe Trail. The National Old Trails Highway was designated U.S. 40, not to be confused with today's Interstate 40.

The project moved swiftly under the leadership of an unknown local politician from Independence, Mo. named Harry Truman. But then World War I came along and the 3,000-mile highway was put on hold.

As the nation poured its attention and resources into the war effort—and drafted Harry Truman—the DAR decided to redirect its efforts toward placing a grand statue in each of the 12 states along the proposed highway.

The statue portrays a pioneer woman holding a baby while grasping a rifle. A young son clings to her skirt. Face shaded by a sunbonnet, feet clad in sturdy boots, she strides westward toward unknown danger and hardship.

It was a statue that caught the imagination of cities and towns all along the proposed highway. In each of the 12 states, stiff competition ensued for the privilege of being chosen as the site for the monument—until the selection committee arrived in New Mexico.

In October 1927 the committee convened its session in Santa Fe. The city presented its bid for the statue, and perhaps other New Mexico communities along the Santa Fe Trail made offers. But there was little doubt the monument would be erected in Santa Fe—at the end of the Santa Fe Trail.

But as with present day Santa Fe City Council meetings, there was a difference of opinion. Local artist Frank Applegate spoke to the committee saying that a survey of the town's large art colony revealed no one wanted the monument. "It's not artistic," he said, "and Santa Fe does not want something unloaded on it that it does not want."

Writer Mary Austin then told the committee the statue didn't depict the real pioneers of the area, who were Spanish, and they weren't represented on the selection committee.

That's how Albuquerque, which wasn't even on the Santa Fe Trail, was chosen as the site for the Madonna of the Trail monument. It stands in McClennan Park in the 800 block of Fourth Street, where it was dedicated on Sept. 27, 1928 by none other than Harry Truman—back from the war, but still an unknown local politician.

Had the National Old Trails Road ever been built, U.S. 40 would have crossed New Mexico, probably from Raton to Lordsburg, and we would have sung of Route 40 instead of Route 66.

And Santa Fe, the first politically correct city in the nation, likely would have refused to let its name be mentioned in the ballad.

Grazing Meeting Held In Las Cruces Jan. 13

As part of his effort to reach a grazing agreement that is in the best interests of New Mexico and other western states, US Senator Pete Domenici and the New Mexico Department of Agriculture held a forum in Las Cruces Jan. 13.

The forum brought together bankers, academics, ranchers and local government officials to discuss the implications of Secretary of Interior Bruce Babbitt's proposed grazing changes.

Among the bankers attending were Scott Shafer of United New Mexico Bank of Carrizozo, Don Kidd of Western Commerce Bank, Jimmy Hall of Albuquerque PCA, and Eddie Ratiiff of New Mexico Federal Land Bank.

Industry representatives included Pete Gnatkowski, president of NM Wool Growers, Bud Eppers of the NM Public Lands Council, former NM Land Commissioner Bill Humphries, Karl Wood of the NM Riparian Council, Phil

Harvey Jr., vice-president of NM Cattle Growers, Marshall Plummer, vice-president of the Navajo Nation, Walt Greenman, board member of NM Farm Bureau, and Tom Mobley, Las Cruces rancher.

Academics John Fowler of NMSU, Alan Torrel of NMSU, and Alexander Thal of Western New Mexico University.

Sen. Domenici listened to the testimony of dozens of New Mexicans about the effect proposed grazing changes would have on New Mexico's ranchers and the economies of the state's ranching communities.

THE OTHER SIDE

All of my childhood dreams have again been shattered. It seems that absence does make the heart grow fonder, after all. If you don't believe that, take particular notice of the nerd you used to know who you now remember fondly when you next meet him. You will soon find that his absence hasn't changed him a bit.

You will recall the unisex designation I developed, a few weeks ago. I devised the word "heshe" as an anonymous pronoun to replace "y'all" as the nonspecific pronoun of choice when you don't know to whom you may be speaking. Well, I am presently reading a book that has gone even farther. This author had adopted "s/he" as the appropriate grammatical form, but I still think in spite of the intervening slash, it has some phonetic deficiencies.

This same book is a transcript of a seminar given by one of the developers of neurolinguistic programming, which is a relatively new approach to psychiatric therapy. At the outset, the author states that everything he says is a lie and his listeners should keep that in mind as they go along. He further states that one of the problems with so-called self-help seminars is that the speaker does a lot of talking about what to do but very little about how to do it. This sounds a lot like the old logic problem about whether I am lying or telling the truth when I tell you everything I say is a lie.

The subject deals with the development of techniques of communication with others by adapting your method of communication into something that is compatible with their method of reception. But, if he is lying, how do you know if what he is saying is what he means? I am sincerely worried because this will eliminate one of the most effective legal tools I have at my disposal. The art of parallel conversations will no longer be a useful tool for conveying to another the fact that you don't want to talk about what he wants to talk about because what he says he wants to talk about may in fact not be what he is trying to get you to talk about, at all. (See, it works. I also lost where I was going with that sentence.)

I did some thinking about cause and effect a while back and the net effect was that I caused the mother of all headaches. I couldn't decide if causation was an explanation of an event after the fact or a

No matter that President Bill Clinton and former President George Bush belong to the same One World promoting think tank called the Council on Foreign Relations. No matter that between 75 and 100 key appointments in the Clinton administration are CFR members. No matter that it was the same when George Bush was president.

It's a matter of record that CFR members get the important appointments no matter who is president. Twenty-five years ago Alabama Governor George Wallace, then a candidate for president, told the world that "there is not a dime's worth of difference in the two old parties." There wasn't then, and there isn't now.

It seems part of Limbaugh's propaganda duty to convince this generation that there is "a dime's worth of difference." And Rush can be convincing. But, when it comes to a conspiracy to merge the US into a One World government under UN leadership, Limbaugh like Buckley will see no evil, hear no evil, and, above all, speak no evil.

RAYMOND C. WILSON,
San Juan Bautista, Ca.

EDITOR—Outcome Based Education (O.B.E.) according to my understanding includes cooperative learning and mastery of one concept before continuation to another. So far so good. Many teachers have used cooperative learning successfully when proper limits were placed on the use of it. Many successful teachers have taught for mastery before continuation with individual students. O.B.E. (as I understand it) would shackle the learning rate of all to the learning rate of the slowest. Boo! Hiss! Forget it!

Thou shalt not permit competition in the classroom. Thou shalt not assign grades to the work the students do. Have I been misled or are these two commandments of O.B.E.?

Competition is a natural part of life. Properly controlled competition has greatly aided learning in countless classrooms. Pupils often come to like those they compete with and against. Proper grading is a valuable classroom tool.

Am I wrong or has the state tried to impose O.B.E. on local schools as the recipe for education? There is no recipe for education. Within limits schools and teachers must be free to pick the ingredients that work for them.

Thou shalt turn out students with the right attitude and philosophy by teaching these things directly in the classroom. Am I wrong or is this another commandment of O.B.E.? Teaching attitudes and philosophy directly in the classroom by O.B.E. methods appears to open the door to indoctrination because O.B.E. involves retesting until the pupil gets the concept right. To some, teaching the right attitudes and philosophy directly in the classroom means teaching "political correctness". Are not passing out condoms in the public schools and teaching that homosexual behavior is acceptable and right considered to be politically correct at the moment? Do you approve? I don't. Is not "Political Correctness" a religion to many?

Should Christians get the U.S. Constitution changed so that the spiritual values of the Bible can be taught directly in the classroom by employees of the State i.e. teachers. No! Chaos would result. The students could be indoctrinated with "spiritual Christian values" by one teacher and "political correctness" by the next. Value indoctrination could change with an election. Jesus never indoctrinated or advocated the indoctrination of anyone. Attendance at his sermons was voluntary. Belief in him and his philosophy was and is by faith.

Indirect teaching of values is allowable and is done in all good schools. By being fair, just, honest, knowledgeable, caring, hard-working and well-organized the board members, administrators, teachers and staff can teach values to the pupils by example. In addition all must strive to maintain a school atmosphere where these attributes flourish. The Golden Rule "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" is used (properly so) to help create a desirable atmosphere.

The state can't teach family values. Families must teach them. States teach state values not family values.

In the Moore Oklahoma School District (Moore is a suburb of Oklahoma City) an administrator and the State Department of Education attempted to establish O.B.E. as a standard operating procedure. Many parents objected. (The objections were almost identical to those raised in New Mexico). The furor caused the local board to ban O.B.E. in Moore classrooms.

If we Christians judge the motives of the backers of O.B.E. (for example we might decide that their motive for O.B.E. is to ultimately create one government for the world) then we sin against God and devalue our opposition to O.B.E.

BILL BRYAN,
Corona.

CAPITAN NOTES

His honor the Mayor Frank Warth just called me and suggested I put this in my column this week and I am certainly more than happy to do so. As it demands a lot of time and effort to organize a special group to solicit funds for any catastrophe, he suggests that we send our contributions to either THE SALVATION ARMY EARTHQUAKE RELIEF FUND at P.O. Box 897, Roswell, New Mexico 88201 or THE AMERICAN RED CROSS and they have an 800 number, which I do not recall at the moment. As also does the organization called America Cares. Frank sent his to The American Red Cross and I am sending mine to the Salvation Army, both are wonderful and caring organizations. Thank you Frank for being so compassionate and not only thinking of others yourself, but suggesting that some of the rest of us also do our bit. Am certain that any and all contributions will be more than appreciated from our little town.

I have been griping, complaining and moaning because I twisted my knee just as we were deplaning in El Paso and it has caused me a lot of pain, slowed me down to a snail's pace and was beginning to believe that even my "Aches and Pains had Aches and Pains"! I took stock of myself as soon as I pressed "on" for television early Monday morning. At first I could not believe that it had really happened — perhaps they were re-running the story of the last earthquake, but it did not take me long to become, fully awake and so very, very thankful that I was living in "little ole Capitan." I know I didn't want to come here and I believe that I apologized profusely to you nice people awhile back, but in case I did not say I was "humbly sorry" for my unkind remarks, let me do so now.

Sorry to read the "Notice of closing" on the Blue Door Gallery. The gallery was a nice addition to our little town and sorry that it did not work out well for the Posley's. Hope David is doing better healthwise and hear from Betty quite often from way out in California. Hope she was out of the earthquake path. Also hope Dorothy Spies escaped any and all "flying objects."

Today I do not know if I am on the downside of up or the upside of down. The earthquake news has left me much befuddled and goodness knows

I am in that state just being normal, so bear with me and try to listen up, O.K.

My granddaughter Katie spent a week in Aspen with her parents. She loves to ski, even though she has only really skied on a slope twice. The second time she won first place in a ski race for youngsters in her age group. She received a pin for her expertise and her instructor told her parents that Katie was an "awesome little skier." I am so proud — just had to boast a bit.

Some things that may be of interest — (do not have much town news this week). Taken from the Omaha World Herald and written by L.M. Boyd.

Is it true England's Queen Elizabeth the first (I) never wore underwear? At least not of the bra and panty variety. But history indicates none of the Elizabethan ladies of England wore such in that period of pantaloons and petticoats.

Polls suggest a third of the married women nationwide complain about the snoring of their husbands when queried on the matter. And 14 percent said they sleep much better when their husbands are away. The husbands were not available for comment. Away, evidently.

What bird dives the deepest? The emperor penguin, down 1,000 feet.

The tendency to walk in your sleep is now said to be inherited.

Here are few money saving suggestions taken from Star magazine: Buy a new car at the end of the month always. Dealers are anxious to get rid of cars before the first of the month, when they have to make payments to the manufacturers.

After a loan is paid off, keep making payments to your savings account and before you know it, you'll have a nice little "nest egg."

Check out free videos from the library instead of renting them.

Use half to three-quarters of the suggested amount of detergent. Your clothes will still get clean.

Don't buy expensive pet food. Pour the juice from a can of tuna fish over dry cat food or leftover stew liquid on dog food. And your pets will eat it with gusto.

A few folks that it is so nice to meet. Carol Reamy always has a nice smile and the time to chat for a moment. (Most folks are always in such a rush.)

On Thursdays, Gloria Cummins, when she is in town. Such a beautiful smile she has.

Love to run into Bonnie McEuen and Mona McEuen. Don't see them much anymore, and miss the chats at the alley and the garbage cans.

Sometimes when I start shuffling my notes and papers to get ready for the final push, some get buried in the wrong place. That is what happened to the following:

Ran into Debbie Pacheco over a week ago and asked her if she had any news and she certainly did. She proudly told me about her daughter Pamela. Pamela is a recent graduate of our Capitan School and is now Private Pamela Pacheco of the United States Army. She graduated from basic training at Ft. Jackson, South Carolina, on Dec. 17, 1993 and is now training at Ft. Lee, Virginia for her M.O.S., a member of the 92nd Yankees. She will then go on from there to Ft. Benning, Georgia for her Army Airborne training. Congratulations to you Private Pamela Pacheco and also nice parents, Debbie and Nick Pacheco.

WORDS OF WISDOM
Common sense is seeing things as they are, and doing things as they should be done. God guide me to make the right decision and give me the fortitude to cling to it against all pressures and persuasions. Arguing with a fool shows there are two fools.

Happy is the man who has learned to hold the things of the world with a loose hand.

Bad habits are like comfortable beds: easy to get into, but hard to get out of. Smiles generate smiles just as love generates love. Perfection is a long way off, but improvement can be made to happen every day so will close with my resolutions for 1994.

Lady Grizzlies Host Vaughn Saturday

The Lady Grizzlies blasted Corona 43-23 Saturday. Zozo exploded for 22 points in the first quarter to take an early 23-4 lead. Jessica Estrella led all scorers with 16 points. Also scoring for the Lady Grizzlies was Rachel Archuleta with 6 points, Lynette Hernandez 2, Lori Gibson 4, Debbie Bond 1, Naomi Vallejos 8, Sarah Funk 2 and Michelle Barela 4.

The Lady Grizzlies travel to Mountainair Friday night for their second district contest. Earlier this season the Lady Grizzlies played Mountainair in the Floyd Tournament and only trailed 30-26 in the fourth quarter. Mountainair finally pulled away for a hard fought 45-31 victory.

Coach Moffett feels if the Lady Grizzlies can cut down on turnovers and score 43 points per game that they will be a force to be reckoned with in District play. The Lady Grizzlies defense has created problems for most of their opponents. With the exception of Animas, Capitan, Reserve, and Tularosa no one has scored over 49 points against the Grizzlies this season.

The Lady Grizzlies look for your support at the next home game with Vaughn on Jan. 22 at 4:30 p.m. This will be the third District contest for the Grizzlies.

NOTICE OF PROPERTY TAX REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

Property which was valued in 1993 in this county by the county assessor is not required to be reported or rendered for 1994 or subsequent years, EXCEPT FOR:

- 1.) mobile homes
- 2.) livestock, and
- 3.) land used for agricultural purposes

If, for any reason, your property was not valued last year and it is subject to valuation this year, you are required by law to report it to the county assessor on forms provided either by mail or at the assessor's office.

All nongovernmental entities (property owners) which claim to be exempt from the property tax must report their property and claim their exemption for 1994 if the exemption was not claimed in 1993.

Reports for mobile homes, livestock, land use for agricultural purposes, property not valued last year and claims for exemptions by nongovernmental entities must be completed and mailed or delivered to the county assessor not later than the last day of February.

If you made improvements to your real property and:

- 1.) the improvements cost more than $1,000 and
- 2.) a building permit for the improvements was not issued;

you must report the nature of the improvements and their cost to the assessor not later than the last day of February. These reports must be on forms provided by the assessor.

If you believe your property decreased in value during the preceding year, you must report, on forms provided by the assessor, a signed statement which:

- 1.) describes the property affected,
- 2.) states the cause and nature of decrease in value, and
- 3.) states the amount you contend the value has decreased.

This statement must be filed with the county assessor no later than the last day of February. Veterans claiming an exemption must bring in or mail to the County Assessor's Office their New Mexico Veterans' Certificate of Eligibility no later than the last day in February.

If the head-of-family exemption was claimed and allowed in 1993 no new claim for that exemption is required to be filed. However, if that exemption was not claimed and allowed in 1993 and it is now claimed, claim must be made by the last day of February by filing with the assessor the form provided by the assessor.

Beginning in the 1992 tax year, taxpayers are responsible for declaring their property classification to the assessor, as residential or nonresidential. When the declaration is accepted by the assessor, it shall remain as such and need not be made in subsequent years unless the classification changes. If a taxpayer has not declared their property to be residential in 1993 and desires that classification for 1994 they must complete a declaration of residential classification and return the signed declaration to the county assessor's office by the last day of February, 1994.

Certain mineral property and personal property of contractors operating in more than one county are required to be reported to the Taxation and Revenue Department, Property Tax Division of the State of New Mexico in Santa Fe. Information about property to be reported to the Taxation and Revenue Department, Property Tax Division can be obtained from the county assessor or the Taxation and Revenue Department, Property Tax Division, Central Assessment Bureau, P.O. Box 630, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87509, Phone: (505) 827-0893.

THIS NOTICE is only a brief statement of the provisions of Section 7-38-8, 7-38-8.1, 7-38-13, 7-38-17 and 7-38-17.1 NMSA 1978 of the Property Tax Code. It is not intended to reflect the full contents of these statutory provisions. If you wish to review the full contents of these provisions, they can be examined at the office of the county assessor.

Capitan School

for courses not offered at the high school.

However, students will be allowed to take a course if there is a scheduling conflict during the student's senior year and the course credit is required for graduation.

Students will earn only one-half credit toward graduation by completing a three-hour college class.

Participation in the concurrent enrollment for high school credit requires approval from the students' parents or legal guardians, and the Committee for Concurrent Enrollment which consists of the principal, counselor and three of the students' teachers for the semester the concurrent enrollment is considered.

The Committee will also review and recommend all requests for tuition payment for concurrent enrollment. However, tuition and fees for remediation credits are the responsibility of the student.

Along with the stricter concurrent enrollment requirements, students graduating from Capitan High School in 1995 will have to earn 25 credits. Students this year must have only 21 credits for graduation.

Because of the seven period school day at Capitan High School now, students are given enough opportunity, even if they must repeat classes, to earn the 25 credits needed for graduation.

Students in the gifted program, however, can take a half day at the high school and a half day at the college during their final year.

But to Shearer the problem was not the students', rather it pointed to problems with the teacher. Stierwalt said only one student had taken the summer course. But he and other administrators wanted to close the loophole to keep the students on campus for classes the school offers.

Worrell was concerned that limiting students will take away motivation. "If a person goes to summer school shows motivation," he said. "I hate to take any outside motivation for a student to work around and system and get some education," he added.

Shearer agreed with Worrell.

But Sonnamaker said high school is not college. "They need all four years to mature for college," she said.

All requests for concurrent enrollment will be up to the committee to recommend. Likewise, parents must request reimbursement for their child who is enrolled in a college course, concurrently with high school courses. Reimbursement will be given on situations where students are legitimately participating in the concurrent enrollment.

"If we choose to not give them credits, it's not concurrent enrollment," Sonnamaker said.

Next year, students at all Capitan Schools may find they will be in class a week longer. The State Department of Education is recommending a 185 days school year in 1994-95, the board learned. The extra days will enable teachers to attend five "in-service" days. The school's calendar advisory committee will bring its suggestions to the board at the February meeting, but may have to wait until March after the state department of education sends down its final say on the school year. One definite request for the next school year is to start a week later in August.

Parents and school patrons are invited to make input and requests for programs, additional personnel or whatever, to school administrators in anticipation of the upcoming budget process which will begin in March.

On Feb. 1, voters who live within the Capitan School District are asked to go to the polls, or send an absentee ballot, for the Capital Improvements Tax election. Approval of the election will continue the tax for another three years. The tax has been in place since 1976 at Capitan District. Earnings from the two-mill levy can be used only for remodeling, maintenance and equipment purchase. No salaries can be paid from the funds.

The poll will be at the fair-ground office in Capitan, and will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. An application for an absentee ballot can be obtained by contacting the County Clerk's office in Carrizozo, contacting the school superintendent's office or Capitan Village Hall.

A map of what precincts and locations are within Capitan School District is available from the school superintendent.

In other business, the board:

—Approved the hiring of Dolores Earwood as music director. She has eight years as music instructor in Carlsbad Public Schools and two years of public and academics at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School.

—Okayed the hiring of Brian Bett as head cook in the cafeteria. He has a BS from Kansas State University and over 10 years experience maintenance and food service and one year experience with Capitan Schools maintenance/cafeteria.

—Hired Inge Sedillo as elementary custodian. She has four years with Capitan Schools maintenance.

—Accepted the resignation of Glenneth Shafer as food service director.

AUCTION

Main Exhibit Hall of THE RUIDOSO CIVIC EVENTS CENTER RUIDOSO, NM

The "Texas Buck" Harris Collection and the Home Furnishings from "Breckenridge Mansion", a 6,000 sq. ft. home built by Col. James Breckenridge in 1903. After being placed on the "National Register of Historic Places" the home was decorated by Wanda Wasson, a 67 year old lady with almost unlimited access to fine antiques, collectables and some quality reproductions to restore the beauty and charm of this historical old mansion.

The theme of decorating was factual from Col. Breckenridge's biography. As a young man, he served twice in the civil war, once as an enlisted man, then as a naval officer. Served as an Arkansas Congressman, U.S. Ambassador to Russia in 1890's. He organized the 5 Civilized Tribes Indian Museum and Rights Group in Oklahoma before it's statehood. He organized the "Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution", and set the Port of Fort Smith Commission into action with his strong political pull.

From the Breckenridge Mansion to you. Besides a 100 year old Lebanon Cedar Tree, at the front of the home was a huge cement pond with a Bronze Statue of Woman with Vase Fountain. Nearby was a near life size "Bronze Statue of a Horse" other life size bronze statues around the pool; Huge Bronze Statue of Dolphins. Large Life Size Bronze Tigers, Bears, Dogs and Lions throughout the gardens. Two Huge Bronze Lions sitting at front entrance and Two Oriental Foo Lions at rear entrance.

Inside we have a huge parlor on the right with fireplace mantle, on the left a giant study, other rooms such as music room, living room and a 20 foot wide hallway to the dining room with huge fireplace. Upstairs are bedrooms, each with fireplace and sitting rooms, the attic was the servants quarters and was large and spacious.

Auctioneers Note: I am very excited by the quality and condition of the following merchandise listed. The reason for the description of the mansion is to give you an idea of the importance of this auction and let your imagination tell you how nice everything is and the way the whole household blends together, whether oak, mahogany, rosewood, walnut or teakwood. Also how impressive one bronze statue is on a town square or in front of a huge commercial complex — Think how impressive it is to have many!

WHEREAS, Section 10-15-3A, NMSA 1978 provides that "No resolution, rule, regulation, ordinance or action of any board, commission, committee or other policy-making body shall be valid unless taken or made at a meeting held in accordance with the requirements of Section 10-15-1, NMSA 1978"; and

WHEREAS, Section 10-15-4, NMSA 1978 provides that "Any person violating any of the provisions of Section 10-15-1 NMSA 1978 is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars ($500) for each offense; and forecast of an event before the fact. In either case, it seems that one does not exist without the other, which means you could say either cause/effect or effect/cause and still be logically insane. We can't imagine something coming from nothing, so nothing must have been something before it was nothing. Oh well, nothing ventured, nothing gained.

Antithesis: n., That which ain't what it ain't. (How did I get into this vacuous mood?)

Vacuous: n. (except when used the way I just used it.) It means nothing, but even Webster agrees that I spelled it right.

An interesting concept of neurolinguistics is that the reason some people are bad spellers is that they process information auditorily. Spellers are visual while non-spellers hear what they see, which is certainly not the way I do it. The reason I looked up the spelling of "vacuous" was because it conjures up pictures of something evil, but it in fact is nothing. You recall last week when I substituted "deranged" for "skitzoid", which was a loss for communication because "skitzoid" is much richer visually, and wouldn't be near as much fun if it was spelled right.

Looking up a word in the dictionary to find out how it is spelled is a bit difficult if you don't know how to spell it because they are listed in alphabetical order.

Why do I get the feeling all of this discussion is a continuous loop with a roadmap to nowhere?

NMMI is a state-supported, coeducational, four-year college preparatory high school and two-year junior college with an enrollment of about 850. Scholarship endowments currently total more than $1.25 million.

Children Need Regular Routine For Sleeping

By BETTY McCREIGHT
Lincoln County
Home Economist

Parents sometimes find that getting a child to sleep is one of the most frustrating problems they have. Children who have always slept well may suddenly refuse to go to bed or they may start waking up during the night.

Children need regular routines and regular times for sleeping, just as they need regular times for meals. Both you and your children need to know when naptime and bedtime will arrive. You will have an easier time getting your children to sleep if you have a set time every day. A special bedtime routine helps young children go to sleep.

Tell your children about 15 minutes before bedtime to finish what they are doing. Then follow a regular routine of tooth-brushing, putting on pajamas, reading a story or singing a quiet song, and getting into bed.

Children need to learn to fall asleep by themselves. If you stay with your children until they fall asleep, they may begin taking longer and longer just to keep you around. Follow your bedtime routines, read or tell a story, give the child a hug and kiss, and leave the room when it's time for sleep.

Some children need a few minutes of quiet time in bed before they can fall asleep. Let the child look at a book or play quietly with a doll, but avoid exciting games like tickling and wrestling. Tell the child that in a few minutes it will be time to stop reading and go to sleep. You may want to use a kitchen timer. Set it for 5 to 10 minutes and when the bell goes off, it's time for sleep.

If your child doesn't want to sleep in the dark, put a small night-light in the room. Don't make fun of a child's fears. When a child wakes during the night and cries, be loving but firm. If you let the child get up or come into your bed, you'll be starting a habit that's hard to break. Reassure the child that she is safe, but tell her that it's sleeping time now, and she must go back to sleep.

Most sleeping problems can be resolved in a short time if you are gentle and loving but firm. If your children sense that you will not enforce bedtime routines, they will keep trying to push the limits.

Stick to your bedtime routine. On some days a child might not be as sleepy as other days, but he can still spend quiet time in his crib or bed.

Capitan Notes

Let me be a little kinder,
Let me be a little blinder.
To the faults of those about me;
Let me praise a little more.

Let me be, when I am weary
Just a little bit more cheery
Let me serve a little better
Those that I am striving for.

Let me be a little braver
When temptation bids me waver
Let me strive a little harder
To be all that I should be.

Let me be a little meeker
With the brother that is weaker,

Let me think More of my neighbor
And a little Less of Me.

Let us all give thanks to our Heavenly Father that we are living in Lincoln County. Our prayers should go up to Heaven for being spared and for the many that lost their lives and the ones that lost EVERYTHING!

Remember if you have any news please call me at 354-2591.
