

County Releases Sales Barn Contingencies

by Doris Cherry

Even though they do not have a contract with the state of New Mexico to receive funds to purchase the Ruidoso Super Select Sales Barn in Glencoe, the Lincoln County Commissioners released two contingencies on the purchase agreement with the sales corporation.

During their special meeting Friday, June 10, commissioners released the contingency requiring proof of value or an appraisal to show the facility and property is worth the $250,000 purchase price. Architect Wayne Andrews toured the facility and recommended the property exceeds the $250,000 in worth, and the county also received two appraisals from Thompson Land Company whose owner was one of the Super Select Sales Corporation board members.

Commissioners also released the contingency requiring a written approval from the State Water Engineer about the availability of water on the property. County attorney Alan Morel said the county needs only to transfer the domestic well from the seller to the purchaser. The state engineer also instructed the county to put a meter on the well to regulate the amount of water taken from it.

Commissioners were uncertain about the exact amount of water rights with the property, whether it be one acre foot or three acre feet. Commissioner Bill Schwettmann said that one acre foot would be about 325,000 gallons a year. "That won't cut the mustard," he said.

Three acre feet however, equals about one million gallons a year, which would be acceptable for the facility.

Morel said the county will get no water rights with the facility, just use of the domestic well in place. "If we need more water (rights) we'll have to buy it," Morel said.

Other contingencies include the purchase agreement from the state, the request for architectural plans and building permits, and approval from the New Mexico Department of Finance and Administration for the purchase of the property are still pending. The county has not received any of the architectural plans or building permits, although it has requested them. The Super Select Sales Corp. has stated it does not have those

The 30 recipients of the award will be honored at the Albuquerque Convention Center with a reception followed by a dinner and presentation ceremonies.

Governor Bruce King and First Lady Alice King will present the prestigious award to the winners.

Women from all areas of the state were nominated by family, friends and colleagues. Thirty winners were then selected by a panel of seven judges, one from each of the seven planning districts in the state.

The public is invited to attend to help honor these dedicated and outstanding contributors to the state. The cost is $30 per person. Call 1-800-432-9168 to make reservations.

Nogal Mesa Campground Clean-up Set

Preparations for Nogal Mesa Camp Meeting begin with the first work day to be held June 18 at the camp grounds.

Everyone, regular attendants, newcomers, and Lincoln County visitors are invited to come with rakes, brooms or folding chairs to work or sit and supervise. Senior citizens, children and teenagers who wish to share in the clean-up of the grounds, bring a basket lunch and spend the day.

This year the Camp Meeting will hold its 55th non-denominational encampment July 20-24. Paul Biggs, for many years the music and song director, passed away June 5th in Oklahoma. His assistant, John Walker of Roswell, will be the music leader.

The last clean-up and set-up date is always the last Saturday before encampment, which will be July 16 this year.

CORRIENTE COWBELLES Janice Herd (left) and Pat Ward (right) present the annual scholarship to 1993 Capitan High School alumni Tammy Payne. Stipulations of the scholarship are the recipient must major in an agriculture related field at a state university. Tammy attended New Mexico State University last year as an animal science major. She completed 33 credit hours and maintained a 3.679 grade point average. She plans to return to NMSU this fall, then to attend Colorado State University's veterinary school. Tammy stated she would like to return to New Mexico to practice as a large animal veterinarian, a goal of hers since she was very young. Also receiving the continuing scholarship was Erik Fuchs, who is a senior majoring in Range Science at NMSU.

Proposal To Lease Golf Course May Be Withdrawn This Week

by Ruth Hammond

Leasing of town property continues to be a major concern for the residents of Carrizozo even though no decisions have been made by the Carrizozo Board of Trustees.

Meeting in regular session Tuesday, trustees discussed contractual negotiations for the golf course and rec center in a closed session but no announcements were made as to whether any agreements have been reached. Personnel matters were also discussed during the closed session.

Trustees did agree to have mayor Cecilia Kuhn contact Mr. Miller about the golf course.

Paul Lukens, one of the parties who have submitted a proposal to lease the golf course, spoke to the board after they came out of the closed session.

Lukens said if the town does not make a decision by the end of the week the proposal Lukens submitted will be withdrawn.

"We would like very much to do it (lease the golf course) but we are not a charity organization," Lukens said. "We have to make a profit and if by the end of the week we do not get a decision we will withdraw our proposal."

The town has met several times to discuss the proposed golf course lease.

Capitan Gets CDBG Money For Streets

by Doris Cherry

Capitan's 4th Street will get some needed attention this fall, thanks to a $309,000 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG).

Capitan Mayor Norm Renfro announced during the regular trustee meeting Monday, that the state community development board approved $309,000 for the village to begin the first phase of repaving the downtown streets.

Renfro, clerk Debra Cummins, and trustee Byron Carpenter attended the community development board meeting Wednesday, June 8, in Albuquerque.

The village was among the first to get part of the $13 million available for community grants.

Renfro said that while the $309,000 was short of what was requested, a consulting engineer thought the village will be in good shape.

Former mayor Frank Warth had applied for a $400,000 CDBG for street improvements. The grant application was denied and the village was told to phase the project and request funds as such.

"It was former mayor Frank Warth's efforts that got us on the road for this money," said trustee Gordon Ross.

Three to four village representatives must attend a CDBG workshop on July 30, or risk losing the funding.

After the workshop the village can invite proposals for engineering studies, which could start in September.

A major reason for starting the street project on 4th Street is the major lack of drainage on the roadway now. The project will provide curbs, gutters and new pavement.

While too much water can be a problem on 4th Street during rainy times, too few rights to water are a problem

More MainStreet Problems Delay Redevelopment Project

by Doris Cherry

Fed up with the numerous delays on the Ruidoso MainStreet redevelopment project the Ruidoso Village Council requested the president of the construction company meet with village staff.

At the Ruidoso Village Council meeting Tuesday, D&S Construction Co. project supervisor Bob Tackett told the council of problems he is having getting colored cement. Apparently lack of payment by the construction company to suppliers and subcontractors has cut off the supply of concrete to the job. With no concrete, the excavation in front of Brunell's Department Store remains unfinished. Brunell's is owned by Herb Brunell who has been involved with the MainStreet since its inception. Tackett asked that the village write the supplier and subcontractors insuring them they will be paid.

Village manager Gary Jackson said he wrote a letter that day to the suppliers that guarantees the contractor will be paid by the village, and in turn the contractor can pay his suppliers and subcontractors.

Tackett said there were other problems with the site at Brunell's, mainly the unknown 12 inch sidewalks and three foot retaining wall, and the drainage inlets which reduce the flow of water from a 24 inch pipe to a 12 inch pipe. Tackett said all those problems were due to the plans. "Many things on the plans are wrong," he said.

Tackett said the delivery of the inlets was delayed, and the massive units must be installed with a crane, which has also been delayed.

After Tackett told of other delays of the street lights, trash receptacles and benches, councilor Frank Potter said,

"it sounds like tonight if the contractor can't fulfill the contract we should talk to John Underwood (the village lawyer)."

Underwood said that lawsuits would not solve Herb Brunell's problem, and he assured a letter had been written about the village doing anything necessary to finish the sidewalk project. "This project has probably been a comedy of errors," Underwood said.

Martha Guevara Is Named Assistant County Manager

by Doris Cherry

Lincoln County Commissioners named Martha Guevara as acting county manager and assistant county manager at their regular meeting Friday, June 10 in Carrizozo.

Guevara, who has served as administrative secretary to numerous county managers, has been serving as acting county manager since the resignation of Andy Wynham early last month. In an action led by commissioner L. Ray Nunley, commissioners approved raising her salary matrix by two steps, which equals about $100 a month more pay. Her current salary is $28,996 a year. Commissioner Wilton Howell suggested her salary be increased to what Wynham was paid as county manager until a new manager is hired.

Commissioner Stirling Spencer however thought the same pay was a "little robust" and preferred to give Guevara some type of bonus for the extra work she has assumed during the interim time between county managers. Commissioner Bill Schwettmann thought it unfair to give her the higher pay while she was acting county manager, then take it away after the manager is hired.

"Martha does a lot more for the county than most people realize," Nunley said in support of giving Guevara a raise.

Schwettmann suggested making Guevara the assistant county manager as a permanent position with a salary at the higher matrix level. And all but Spencer voted yes. Spencer voted no on the amendment to increase her salary, but voted yes on the motion to name Guevara to the position of assistant manager and acting county manager.

Commissioners also discussed the process they will take in selecting a new county manager. By the deadline June 3, the county received 36 applications for the top job. Now commissioners will review the applications and narrow the list down to ones they will interview. Commission chairman Monroy Montes said the names of the finalists will then be released to the public.

Montes explained that the names of the 36 applicants were not released for public review at this time because at

Underwood said that while Tackett has worked with the village on the project, the contractor has failed to perform as needed. As an obligation to the village citizens, Underwood said the village is under notice that the contract cannot be performed, and the bonding companies should be put on notice. "I request a meeting with the president of D&S Construction to find out where the hell we are and where the hell we're going," Underwood said. Underwood recommended the meeting include Jackson, deputy village manager Alan Briley, Tackett and himself. Councilors also made a move to establish a Boundary Commission which will consider annexation of many pockets of county land into the village. Potter made the motion and councilors unanimously voted to begin the process of establishing the three-person commission, which must be appointed by the state governor. The creation of the boundary commission is long and tedious and will require lots of hours from the village attorney.

Councilors were prompted to begin the process by a discussion about annexing Carrizo Canyon and the area off Mechem Drive where the Stroud Building is located. Mayor Jerry Shaw and councilors asked why annexing the Stroud Building and Carrizo Canyon should be complicated, especially since the village provides water, sewer, police and fire services. Councilor Leon Eggleston said the Carrizo and Stroud properties have the same benefits as residents without paying the village taxes. Councilor Robert Donaldson said the council should look at annexation in three parts, the really easy ones, the ones not so easy and future growth. Shaw prompted the council to get moving on the annexations. "We've been talking about this for 10 years," she said. An engineering firm to design the Grindstone water treatment plant has been selected from four proposals received by the village. A selection committee met and selected a firm, with which the village is now negotiating on price and scope of work.

The selection will be announced at the June 28 meeting. Councilors also: --Authorized staff to make an offer on the real property as discussed in the closed session. --Approved a new restaurant beer and wine license for Ciao Bella Inc. at 2823 Sudderth Drive in Ruidoso.

--Awarded bids for Wastewater System Improvements infiltration repairs to Jack Johnson Excavating from Alamogordo for $33,923.65. --Awarded bids for road materials to Danley Construction, Bonnell Sand and Gravel and 3-L Crushing. --Tabled bids for four 486DX computers and three laser printers for 30 days or after a new micro-chip is put on the market. --Accepted the appointment Labor Relations Board members Dale Broughton to represent labor, Fred Hansen to represent management. The two will select the third member. Jackson reported the state labor relations board met and approved the appointment of a local board and the village's collective bargaining ordinance. --Heard a report from Jackson concerning an alleyway off Walnut Drive and a complaint from a Walnut Drive resident.

The center will sponsor a potluck luncheon after the meeting, followed by games. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish for lunch.

plans and does not know where they are.

Chairman Mohroy Montes said those were not applicable. But Schwettmann said there has to be a record somewhere. "What did Andrews base his structural analysis on?" Schwettmann asked. Montes said the county would continue to demand those.

Commissioner Wilton Howell made the motion to remove the two contingencies, Montes seconded and commissioners Schwettmann, Howell, Montes and L.Ray Nunley voted yes. Commissioner Sterling Spencer voted no.

THE NEWS asked Montes how much rent was paid to hold a dance in the facility. Montes said the party paid $300 and arranged the use of the building with former county manager Andy Wynham. THE NEWS also asked if a fee structure has been set up for use of the facility, as Montes had said at a previous meeting. Montes said there is a committee working with Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center to establish fees that are comparable to those charged in that facility. Also, Montes said, he is working with the Lea County manager Don Jordan about the fees charged at the Lea County Rural Events Center.

Montes said the facility is open for events now, which can be arranged by calling the Rural Events Center manager Linda Wallace at 505-653-4542 or 1-800-827-8972.

Residents of the Hondo Valley gathered at the Glencoe Rural Events Center in the first week of June to attend a meeting held with the New Mexico Disaster team. Some 20 land owners or representatives of the community owned and operated met with the state team, state water engineer and Lincoln County Emergency Coordinator Maggi Bohks. The county can receive up to 95 percent reimbursement for work done to restore public roadways and acequias which were damaged by the floods in May.

While the Rural Events Center is just beginning to see use, the Lincoln County Fairgrounds in Capitan are crowded. So crowded that Howard Shanks from the RC&D pursued a grant from the RC&D to purchase two additional acres east of the fairgrounds for parking. The $10,000 grant however would not include the closing costs, or the cost to fence the property as requested by the seller.

Commissioners accepted the grant funds for the property purchase but wanted the Lincoln County Fair Association, which leases the fairgrounds, to pay the closing costs, and purchase and install the fencing. Schwettmann argued that the county owns the fairgrounds property, not the fair board, so the county should cover the legal closing costs. Schwettmann however agreed with the other commissioners that the county should not cover the cost of fencing. He recommended requesting the fair association write a letter agreeing to purchase and install the fencing.

Commissioners also heard a report from Rex Wilson about the Western States Summit meeting in Phoenix. Wilson said the meeting focused on the need for states with public lands to maintain local control. The movement is gaining momentum in the west, with Tribal governments and other local governments tired of federal mandates and controls. "There's a lot at stake in these issues," Wilson said. "It's exciting, frightening and challenging and people are getting involved."

Wilson said the testimony given during the summit was very strong. "Bloodshed was a word used quite often," Wilson said.

Wilson told of public meetings to be held June 11 in Glenwood and June 13 in Alamogordo. He invited interested people to be well informed and get involved.

Wilson's report was a lead-in to a resolution presented by Commissioner Spencer which asks for a clarification of the ownership of lands being managed by the U.S. Departments of Interior and Agriculture (Bureau of Land Management and Forest Service) within the boundaries of the county of Lincoln. The resolution cites articles in the U.S. Constitution which address the federal government's right to own lands. The resolution specifically requests official copies of the documents that give the Departments of Interior and Agriculture as agents for the U.S. Federal Government the title and associated rights to the lands the two agencies now administer in Lincoln County.

Spencer said the resolution asks to see the title documents designating federal lands. "If they provide these we know they're (federal agencies) solid," Spencer said.

Spencer said the resolution follows the lead of the 9-county group (from Nevada) that has requested the federal government provide title to the Nevada lands managed by the agencies. So far the 9 counties have received no response. "It looks like the federal government has no title," Spencer said about the Nevada lands.

Some 35 percent of Lincoln County lands are controlled by the federal agencies and 10 percent is controlled by the state.

Commissioner Howell asked Spencer why the resolution was not available before the meeting. Spencer said he was working on the resolution and was unable to have it before the meeting.

Commissioners unanimously approved the resolution which will be sent to the Departments of Interior and Agriculture, the state and Congressional representatives.

Commissioners also: Heard a report from road manager Bill Cupit about confusion over the funding to be provided from the state for road improvements in this county. Confusion was whether the county will receive funds and who will administer the funds for the community of Lincoln.

Tabled discussion and approval of a computer link between the county assessor and clerk's office and the Multiple Listing Service (realtors) in Ruidoso. Initially MLS was to pay the cost of the equipment and linkup. County staff purchased equipment and requested that the county bear the cost of the link up, then charge rates on use per minute. That way the service will be open to everyone, not just to those in the MLS. The computer link will be discussed, with possible action, at a special commission meeting at 9 a.m. Monday, June 20, in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

On Flags And Fathers

By Ruth Hammond

Tuesday, June 14 was Flag Day and next Sunday is Father's Day. Most people know about Father's Day because it is the one day set aside to honor fathers in church services and the home.

The idea was originated by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, who in 1909 persuaded the Ministerial Society of Spokane, Washington to salute fathers with special church services. The idea was officially approved by President Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

President Calvin Coolidge in 1924 recommended national observance of the occasion "to establish more intimate relations between fathers and their children, and to impress upon fathers the full measure of their obligations."

The red or white rose is recognized as the official Father's Day flower. Father's Day is celebrated on the third Sunday in June.

Years ago Fathers were usually stern and gave the impression they would not "put up with any foolishness." Fathers in those days did not change diapers except in emergencies. Fathers were respected and often feared. One young adult said he could not remember his Father ever spanking him, but "that look" he got from his Father made him afraid.

As with all things that change with time, many Fathers now take care of the children, cook, clean house and do laundry. For many Fathers it has been a change for the better. Fathers now have the opportunity to get acquainted with their children while they are small.

Years ago Fathers received socks and ties for Father's Day or maybe an occasional shirt. Today the gifts range from yard and garden tools to sporting goods and electronics.

Father's Day may be spent quietly at home or on an outing. There may be laughter and tears remembering good and bad times. We wish all a Happy Father's Day.

Flag Day has been observed much longer than Father's Day but is not nearly as popular as Father's Day is now.

The first large-scale public observance of Flag Day in the United States probably were those held on the first centennial in 1877, just 100 years after the day the Continental Congress adopted the first official national flag, June 14, 1777.

Public school officials began in the 1890s to encourage commemorative activities on June 14. Philadelphia in 1893 and New York state in 1897 recognized the day as one on which the US Flag should be hoisted on public buildings.

Responding to a campaign led by Bernard J. Cigrand and the American Flag Day Association, Congress in 1949 recognized June 14 as Flag Day, a holiday on which ceremonies are held to honor the national flag.

The first official flag for the United States had 13 stars and 13 stripes and later had 15 stars and 15 stripes. It was this 15-star, 15-stripe flag that flew over Fort McHenry in Baltimore Harbor on the night of September 13-14, 1813 during the War of 1812 that inspired Francis Scott Key to write the song that became the U.S. national anthem.

That song gave the name "Star Spangled Banner" to the flag and many people refer to our flag in those terms today. It was in 1818 that Congress stabilized the number of stripes at 13 and specified the stripes were to be horizontal and alternate red and white, while requiring that "on the admission of every new State into the Union, one star be added." Today the US Flag has 50 stars, one for everyone of our 50 states.

Honoring the United States Flag should not be a one-day-a-year observance just as honoring Fathers should not be a one-day-a-year holiday.

Fathers and US Flags deserve our honor every day.

Have A Happy Father's Day!

Comments Wanted About Licensing Regulations

The New Mexico legislature established a Sunrise Program in 1993 to help determine whether State regulation or licensing of a particular occupation or profession is necessary to protect the health, safety or welfare of the citizens of New Mexico.

Recently the Sunrise Program received an application for the licensing of alcohol and drug abuse counselors. Ruth Ann Meza, manager of the Sunrise Program, would like to receive comments on this matter.

The questions Meza needs comments on are:

1. Do you believe that alcohol and drug abuse counselors should be licensed by the State? Why or why not?

2. If you have experienced a problem with an alcohol or drug abuse counselor, do you think licensing would have solved the problem? If so, in what way do you think it would have helped?

Meza will hold public hearings in Roswell and Las Cruces to receive comments from all interested parties. On Tuesday, June 21, 1994, from 9 to 11 a.m., she will be in the Council Chambers of the City Hall, 425 N. Richardson Ave. in Roswell. On Wednesday, June 22, 1994, from 9 to 11 a.m., she will be in Room "A" at the Branigan Memorial Library, 200 E. Picacho Ave. in Las Cruces. If any of your readers can stop by to see Meza for at least a few minutes on either of these days, she would be happy to receive their comments.

If someone cannot come to see Meza at that time, they can write to her at the Sunrise Program, P.O. Box 25101, Santa Fe, NM 87504 (or fax a letter to 827-7095). Comments must be received no later than 5 p.m., July 1, 1994.

National Eye Care Project Helps Elderly

The National Eye Care Project, sponsored by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and state ophthalmological societies, provides medical eye care at no out-of-pocket cost to individuals who meet the following requirements:

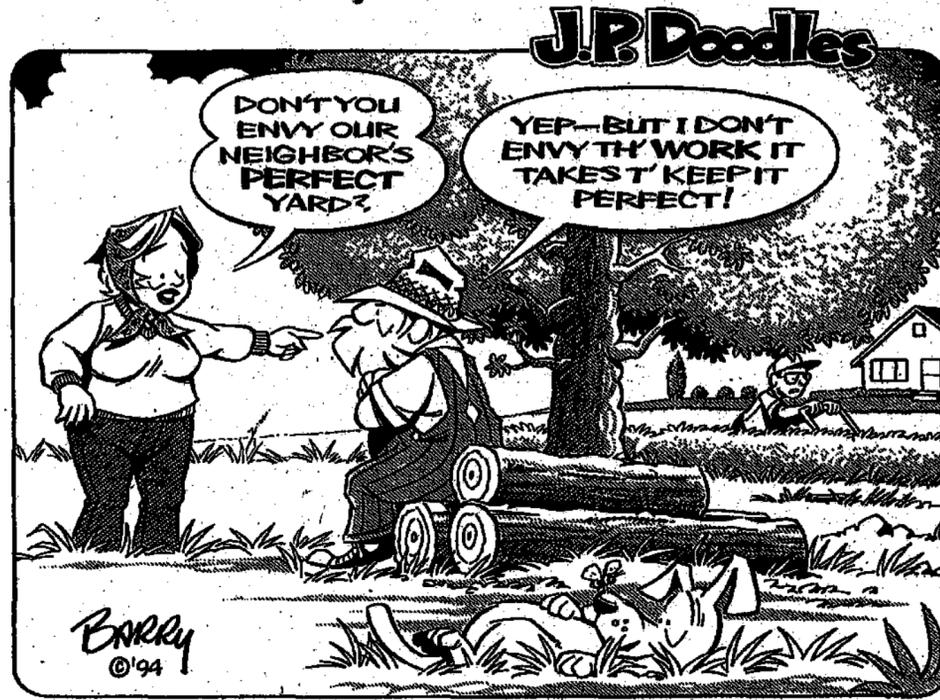

- *US citizen or legal resident
- *65 years of age or older
- *no access to ophthalmologist seen in the past

Every patient receives a comprehensive medical eye examination and treatment for whatever condition or disease is diagnosed. This is not an eyeglasses program. Participating ophthalmologists bill Medicare or patients' other insurance and accept that as payment in full. For those without insurance or means to pay, services are provided at no cost.

More than 7,500 ophthalmologists—or medical eye doctors—participate in the project, now in its eighth year. The National Eye Care Project is one of the largest public service programs undertaken by any medical organization in the country.

Some potentially blinding eye diseases have no early symptoms. If you are a financially disadvantaged older adult who has not seen an ophthalmologist recently or who has medical eye problems, call the National Eye Care Project Helpline at 1-800-222-EYES.

Inside The Capitol

STATELINE, NEVADA. The Western Governors Association chose this mountain resort for its 1994 annual meeting.

A 6,200-foot elevation gives the Lake Tahoe area a climate similar to Santa Fe or Ruidoso. With its tall pines and mountain-cabin motels, it looks more like Ruidoso, but the local attire is Santa Fe chic with a slightly more western flavor.

Settled by the mega-rich in the late 1800s, Tahoe was an elite hideaway until the 1920s when a road system finally encircled the huge lake, making the area accessible to everyday folks.

With the advent of Nevada gambling, developers envisioned bringing super-rich San Franciscans back to the area. Several Las Vegas casinos built large hotels and gambling halls, but the area never took off as expected.

As a consequence, showrooms are dark much of the time. Big name stars come for a couple days and then leave. The casino across the street from Caesars has given up much of its parking lot this weekend for an arts and crafts fair.

The Nevada side of South Lake Tahoe was renamed Stateline when the casinos moved in. It is surviving, but the California side of town is in severe decline. Tourism this spring is down 10 percent, partly due to California's horrible economy.

But some state officials suggest Tahoe's drop also is due to an over-reliance on gambling. They point out that other northern California resorts such as Monterey and Carmel are doing fine.

There appears to be a lesson here for New Mexico communities that are convinced gambling is their salvation. The Navajos quickly figured out that gambling would attract many more problems than people to their reservations.

But the Mescalero Apaches, along with several pueblos and resort communities, persist in their belief that gambling will attract rich tourists rather than RV crowd.

Even Santa Fe has trouble luring the "right" tourists—those willing to buy five-figure artwork. The prices in Tahoe boutiques are a stark indication that gambling hasn't brought those folks back here. Trendy clothing can be purchased for about a third of what it sells for around Santa Fe's plaza.

clothing is the rage and the arts and crafts fair across the street features poor imitations of what can be found at similar fairs on Santa Fe's plaza.

It shouldn't be surprising that the WGA wants to hold its winter meeting in Santa Fe. The only problem is that it's scheduled for the weekend following the general election in November—which isn't an ideal time for our governor's office.

In addition to the attraction of Santa Fe, our state is also an appropriate WGA meeting site since Western governors have chosen to concentrate much of their attention on border environment problems. Along with crime, that is the main topic of this confab.

And surprisingly, the majority of WGA's budget is devoted to environmental concerns—financed by a big grant from the federal government. It seems the feds figure it's the best way to get the attention of western governors.

But they don't have sole possession of the governors' attention. Well over half of the 75 sponsors for this conference are "dirty" industries.

Nevada Gov. Bob Miller, who serves as host for the meeting, is in a primary election campaign that is every bit as tough as the one Bruce King just won. Miller's opponent is Las Vegas Mayor Jan Jones, who took Nevada by storm three years ago when she defied the odds to become the city's first female mayor. Now Jones wants to be Nevada's first woman governor. Democrat leaders have urged her to wait four years and then carry the party's banner unopposed.

But Jones says Nevada state government can't wait four more years to shed its 40-year function of serving as life support for the gaming industry.

Public Input Needed For New Fishing Regulations

New Mexico fishing regulations are in the development process and the Department of Game and Fish is interested in hearing from those concerned about fishing and the regulations governing this sport.

Those wishing to comment have until July 8, 1994 and can do so easily by calling a toll-free phone number. Just dial 1-800-ASK FISH, follow the directions and there will be a two minute period to record your concerns.

Recommendations may also be made through the mail by picking up a postage free card that is available at Game Department offices and license vendors all over the state. Just fill it out and drop it in the mail. Recommendations received will be considered when the regulations covering a two year period from April 1, 1995 thru March 31, 1997 are developed by the State Game Commission.

THE OTHER SIDE

I was sitting here trying to think up something to discuss for this week's effort, and, in dire straits for subject matter, happened to look through what I have written during the first six months of this year to see if I could gain some inspiration.

One of the more obvious features of this endeavor appears to be the need for an independent editor because some of the things I said didn't work out the way they were supposed to. Self-editing has many of the same features as giving yourself a haircut without a mirror. It felt good while I was doing it, but the result would have been improved with a second opinion. When you edit your own stuff, the second time you read it it sounds just like it did the first time because your mind is working in the same gear (usually neutral) as it was at the time you first did it. Oh well, some day I'll do better.

So far this year, I have discussed neurolinguistic programming, cause and effect, unisexural pronouns, Lorena Bobbit, the family unit, drugs, prisons and the crime rate, skiing and snow, health care, dating, ecology, column writing, philosophy, the Mainstreet project, Rush Limbaugh, truth vs. fact, Hillary, travel, politics, politicians, subliminal messages, music, agriculture, Alzheimer's Disease, lawyers, humorous anecdotes, President Clinton, the legal system, the common law, Laugh-In, bill collectors, Prissy, sources of information, Communism, and World War II, not necessarily in that order.

One problem I noted in several of the discussions was that I would deal with only as much of the subject as would conveniently fit into the particular context at the time, and there were other aspects of the matter which needed discussed to make the concept understandable. I guess this is one of the endemic features of newspaper writing because you are confined by deadlines, space, energy and subject matter that interferes to some extent with discussion of the subject. (Did I mention "lazy"?) Writing news items is very different from writing a column because with news, all you have to do is assemble and report information without evaluating it, whereas in a column, you are expected to deal with a subject in detail and take a position on the merits thereof. And if you'll buy that, could I interest you in my alluvial farm which will be ready to place on the market as soon as our alligator relocation project is accomplished?

Professor: "Would you describe the concept, 'erudite'?"

Student: "Yessir, Mr. Black." "It is a synonym for 'dull'."

Professor: "Thank you." "I'm sure we will be hearing much more from you during your illustrious and lengthy tenure in the tenth grade."

Chile Aficionado: "Does this mean the annual chile cook-off won't be held this year?"

Astonished Respondent: "Does what mean the annual chile cook-off won't be held this year?"

C.A.: "I heard the other day that the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission had refused to allow the operation of a sno-cone stand because it didn't have handicapped rest rooms available." "The chile cook-off is held in an RV campground and stuff is sold out of booths, and a chemical toilet doesn't seem to be suit-

Great Taste Of Beef Helps Add Flavor To Meal

Beef's traditional great taste is included in some of the most contemporary meals. Food experts at the New Mexico Beef Council offer these tips for speedy, delicious and cost-efficient family dining:

*Plan weekly menus ahead of time, to save time and money.

*When selecting beef for use in easy meals, opt for cuts that can be cooked quickly, such as: flank, cubed, thin cut round tip, sirloin, top round steak, tri-tip roast and ground beef.

*For flavorful, easy beef meals, use appropriate quick cooking methods including broiling, grilling, panbroiling or stir-frying.

*Compare beef cut prices by cost-per-serving, not cost-per-pound.

*Brush brown sauces (such as teriyaki, Worcestershire and soy) onto beef after cooking. Applied to uncooked beef, these sauces make it difficult to determine doneness.

For more information, contact the New Mexico Beef Council, 505/841-9407.

Ruidoso Tightens Use Of Lodgers Tax Funds

by Doris Cherry

The Ruidoso Village Council accepted an Attorney General's opinion that will require contracts for services from anyone requesting Lodgers' Tax funds.

At their regular meeting Tuesday the council accepted the recommendation from village manager Gary Jackson and other staff that effective immediately any expenditure from the Lodgers' Tax funds for special events shall only be allowed with a council-approved contract for services which will show how the village and specifically lodgers, will benefit from the special event.

Previously organizations needed only to request funds from the Lodgers' Tax Committee to promote an event. If the committee agreed, the organization would do its promotion, pay for it, then request reimbursement from the Lodgers' Tax Committee.

"We've done it (that way) for years, and I never really agreed," said mayor Jerry Shaw.

In the AG's opinion, dated April 22, Assistant Attorney General Elizabeth Glenn believed that grants of public money for grants without contract for services, to the local chamber of commerce; and a grant to local organization for costumes, equipment, or advertising for a historical pageant to be performed in the municipality are not permissible use of the lodgers' tax proceeds because they are clearly prohibited by the anti-donation clause of Article IX, Section 14, of the New Mexico Constitution. The constitution prohibits governmental units from providing any gift allocation or appropriation of something of value to a private person or organization WITH-

OUT CONSIDERATION.

Councilor Robert Donaldson said that a consideration for the funding would be how many people the event brought to Ruidoso. He recommended the Lodgers' Tax Committee provide some type of guidance on drafting contract agreements for the organizations requesting funds.

Councilor Frank Potter applauded the move and said that the village appeared to be headed in a "comprehensive, focused, direction in marketing and advertising."

The village is considering establishment of a Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB) funded with the Lodgers' Tax money. The CVB will then handle advertising for all special events held in the village, organizers of which have requested Lodgers' Tax funds in the past.

Until the CVB is created, councilors agreed that the Lodgers' Tax Committee should consider funding only those organizations which can show a contract for services, and those services be how many people came to town for the event.

Village Clerk Tammie Maddox said the information about the new requirements for Lodgers' Tax funds should be relayed to the Lodger's Tax Committee, which it to meet June 21.

For more information about the change in use of Lodgers' Tax funds for special events call Maddox at the village administration center.

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce receives funding from the lodgers' tax proceeds to market the village's attractions. To avoid problems with the anti-donation clause, the chamber has a written contract spelling out what the chamber provides for the public funds. As required in the contract, chamber executive director Joan Bailey presented a quarterly report of the chamber's marketing and other services.

Bailey presented the ads produced by Debbie Jones Designs of Ruidoso and which have been placed in various target market publications. She said inquiries into the chamber about Ruidoso and area are up 10 percent over last year. "Business is very good, fast and furious," Bailey said.

Next year's theme for the chamber advertising/marketing will be "Mountain Streams and Day Dreams."

Bailey was also at the meeting to pursue a one year extension to the current contract between the village and the chamber of commerce. Potter asked the chamber provide more specific information such as the cost expended per inquiry and cost expended per positive response. Councilors unanimously approved the contract be extended for another year. The contract will be sent on to the chamber of commerce board for review and approval.

Councilor Joe Gomez declared a conflict of interest because he serves on the chamber board. His fellow councilors approved a motion to allow him to vote on the chamber contract.

One of the area's attraction is Grindstone Lake. Last year the council approved the use of non-motorized vessels on the lake, including those needed for wind surfing. Ruidoso residents, and users of the lake, Bob Power and Dick Rams requested the council modify the regulations to allow vessels with electric troll motors. They said the motors do not pollute and would provide a more safe environment for people on small boats. Power said the wind surfers appear to have little control over their crafts which can move much faster than a person can row a boat to get out of the way.

Power also asked that the village impose $300,000 liability coverage for every craft put on the lake. Insurance for the vessels had been part of the original rules and regulations, but were deleted in favor of posting signs at the lake informing boaters that they use the area at their own risk.

Councilor J.D. James was not in favor of the motorized vessels, and said he was never in favor of allowing non-motorized vessels or wind surfing on the reservoir.

After considerable discussion councilor Potter made the motion to keep the ordinance as it is and continue to prohibit motorized vessels on Grindstone Reservoir. Councilors J.D. Gomez, Donaldson, J.D. James, and Frank Cummins voted to keep the rules as they are, councilor Leon Eggleston voted to allow electrically motorized vessels.

On James' request, the council reconsidered a portion of the newly revised zoning codes which require private parking lots to be paved and lighted during business hours. The requirements apparently had caused problems with some of the Mid-town area merchants who are offering their private properties to ease the parking situation. "I see no reason why a property owner has to go to the expense of paving and lighting a parking lot after being so generous as to allow public parking," said James.

Donaldson, a former member of the village planning and zoning commission, said the lighting was important for parking lots, and he reminded that the changes are only required if a property owner is creating a new parking lot. He was concerned that reconsidering ordinance amendments approved just two weeks ago after a public hearing process would set a precedent. "If we discuss after every time we have a complaint we're setting up for a lot of hearings," Donaldson said.

Regardless of Donaldson's comments, councilors outvoted him and approved a public hearing to reconsider the lighting and paving portions of the zoning amendments at the July 12 meeting. Donaldson cast the lone vote against the hearing.

Resident and developer Bill Blaney won his bid for an appeal hearing on a Planning and Zoning decision that would require him to provide village sewer service to a lot he plans to re-subdivide. Blaney explained the lot is so high in elevation, a lift station would have to be installed to provide the village sewer. He requested a variance that would allow a septic tank on the property. Blaney's appeal will be heard at the June 28 meeting. Donaldson led the motion to allow the appeal, basing his decision that the village codes require sewer hookup only if it is "reasonable." Donaldson thought that topography of the lot would make sewer hook up unreasonable.

Blaney lost his bid for an appeal of a P & Z recommendation that he not be allowed to pave a 30-foot easement to a private lot in Blaney's Lost Mountain Tract. Village planning director Cleatus Richards said the easement may be needed by the village to install water lines and other utilities to the proposed Grindstone Lake water treatment plant. He recommended Blaney come back after the lines and utilities are installed to request use of the easement. Another reason the appeal was rejected was based on the requirement that P & Z decisions can be appealed only if there is an error according to the municipal codes.

In other business, councilors:

-Approved the consent agenda of minutes; amendment to the agreement between the village and department of public safety for a receptionist position at the police/courts complex; contract renewal for janitorial services; task order #3 in Sierra Blanca Regional Airport Improvements authorizing Leeds Hill Herkenhoff engineering firm to proceed with the project; resolution for final amendment to the 1993-94 fiscal year budget.

Father of the Year

Canyon CowBelle's Father of the Year . . .

Canyon CowBelle's Father of the Year is Emmet Brieger. Emmet was born and grew up in the small, rural community of Yorktown, Texas. After graduation from high school, at the age of 17, he went into the Navy during WWII.

When he returned home, he graduated from the University of Texas. He then worked for 20 years as a mechanical engineer in downhole tool design and development in Houston.

In 1975, Emmet, his wife Mattie, and their youngest son, David Granger, fled from the crowded city to their house on the hill in Loma Grande Estates, five miles south of Nogal. Emmet then became a consultant in design and development of downhole equipment.

Emmet's family includes two sons and their wives, who live in New Mexico; a daughter who lives in Italy with her husband; a daughter who lives in Montana with her husband; and six grandchildren.

Emmet has come full circle from his rural youth, and knows the value of, and loves his life here — the beautiful country, the good people, and his good, good friends.

Beef Business — Did you know?

DID YOU KNOW . . .
Ground beef is the leading type of beef sold in the away-from-home market? Data from the Meat Board indicate that hamburgers and cheeseburgers accounted for more than 70% of total beef and veal servings in 1992. Roast beef sandwiches, with 7.5% of servings, ranked second, and steak entrees, with 5.5% of servings, ranked third.

DID YOU KNOW . . .
Cattle and calves are produced in more states and regions in the country than any other commodity? All 50 states have beef-cattle operations and 31 states each have at least 10,000 beef-cattle producers.

DID YOU KNOW . . .
Beef easily meets the test of a nutrient dense food? It provides a larger share of the recommended intakes of several essential nutrients than it provides in calories. Beef is an excellent source of protein, zinc, iron and vitamin B-12.

DID YOU KNOW . . .
Agriculture continues to be largely a family business? A USDA report shows that 91% of farms in the continental U.S. are individually (generally families) owned. Approximately 6% are organized as partnerships (again largely family businesses), and only 3% of farm operations are corporations (often family corporations). Many of the farms are relatively small. Numerous farms and ranches with cattle also produce crops and/or they have significant off-farm income.

DID YOU KNOW . . .
Beef is inspected up to four times "from gate to plate"? Inspections are made pre-slaughter and post-slaughter at packing plants. Beef as well as other foods also is subjected to inspection in further processing plants and in retail cutting rooms and restaurant kitchens.

A LOOK AT THE WILD SIDE

by Dr. Jim Knight

Many people do not realize there are major benefits to wildlife because of ranchers. Some of the benefits are purposefully done for wildlife, other benefits happen as a side effect of good range management. Ranchers consider the wildlife resource in all management decisions. They space the wire on fences for minimal disruption to wildlife. They leave windmills and electric wells pumping in pastures even when the livestock have been removed, just to provide water for the wildlife. Wildlife biologists have found that the removal of coarse older grass stimulates the production of young grass and forbs which are better for wildlife. When properly managed, cattle duplicate the role of buffalo when they remove these older coarse grasses.

The private land rancher provides the most important need for wildlife habitat. Much of the critical winter wildlife habitat is on our deeded lands, along with some of our most important year-round habitat. Without the contributions of private lands, wildlife numbers would be at a much lower number. Besides, if the land presently being used for ranching was instead used for subdivisions, factories, or cities, the wildlife habitat lost would be disastrous.

There are many inconveniences and costs that ranchers must put up with because of wildlife. Most ranchers are more than willing to do this, but the general public sometimes does not appreciate what the rancher must contend with. Most people realize that wildlife predators often pose a problem for ranchers when they kill sheep, cattle, and horses. The ranchers expend a great deal of money to keep the predators in check. The reduced numbers of predators also benefit deer, antelope, elk, small mammals and birds.

Big game such as elk are very damaging to fences. These large animals have a tendency to crush down the top wires of a fence when crossing it, resulting in a continuous repair bill for the rancher.

Keep in mind the only source of revenue for most ranchers is from the sale of red meat produced from forage and water on the ranch. Beef, sheep and wildlife are all red meat produced from ranch land. So the forage and water used to produce wildlife is the same forage and water the rancher could use to produce income generating livestock. Instead the rancher willingly shares his resources with the wildlife. We all owe the rancher for his generosity.

Ranch land is usually available for hunting and other forms of recreation. Sometimes this recreation is free and sometimes the rancher charges a fee for providing hunting opportunities. Regardless, the care and consideration provided to our natural resources by ranchers is a valuable service. Ranchers keeping an eye on wildlife reduces poaching and makes detection of disease or other wildlife problems much more likely.

The ultimate benefactor of ranchers caring for wildlife is the wildlife itself. Most ranchers are excellent stewards of all resources on the land, including wildlife. Ranchers who make their living caring for the land do more for our wildlife resources than any other group of people in the state.

Mable Rentfrow . . .

A Lady And A Good Hostess . . .

Canyon CowBelle Mabel A. Hennrich Rentfrow, was born in Warrenton, Mo. in 1896. The family moved to the Albuquerque area when Mabel was three years old. She, along with one brother and two sisters, attended school in Albuquerque. Mabel graduated from N.M. State Agriculture College in Las Cruces in 1917, returning to Albuquerque to teach for four years, then back to Dona Ana where she was principal for a year.

Mabel met her future husband Doyle Rentfrow on the steps of the Ag. Bldg. at NMSU, and they were married in 1922. Mabel was a city girl going to live on a ranch, miles from the nearest town, no lights, no water, no inside plumbing, and no house, just a shack. She had to learn about ranching the hard way, trial and error, as Doyle was a big tease, and would play all kinds of tricks on her. Mabel finally got a new house, but the lights, water, gas and plumbing, came many years later.

In 1949, Doyle was riding a horse late one stormy afternoon when he was struck by lightning and killed. Mabel had to saddle her horse and go find him, then ride seven miles for help. She ran the ranch with the help of one cowboy for 14 years, then selling it in 1963 and moving into town, Carrizozo, where she still resides. She is still very interested in all aspects of ranching, and still keeps up with cattle prices.

Mable enjoys her nieces and their families, her friends, and most of all playing bridge. Through all the hardships, misfortunes, and pleasures of life, she has always remained the "Lady" and a good "Hostess".

Capitan Notes

passed away on June 5 at Ruidoso hospital.

Ed Payton is out of the hospital and looking as pert and handsome as ever. I know because I just got a big hug from him over in front of the bank. Glad to see you looking so great Ed.

Received a beautiful card from Jim Price from Couleurs de Vendee, an island in the Atlantic in Southern France. He then spent 10 days near the Swiss Border. He wrote that it certainly is a small world. While he was on the island he was in a supermarket and met an officers wife from White Sands Air Base in Alamogordo. The stamp is a keepsake for the opening of the tunnel between England and France. And I just heard that you are already back in Capitan, Jim, sorry I am a bit tardy in getting this in the news. We are glad you had such a terrific time, but just bet Capitan looked good to you like it does to the rest of us when we stray very far away. And my big query has always been and still is...Why?

There are some "Bio's" out there being written, and I know these folks are sincere and will get them to us as soon as they can. Ran into Frankie Silva and he said I was doing a terrific job and liked the idea of getting the info from the "old timers" here and the why and wherefores from the new folks that are moving here. As Frankie so aptly put it, "It kind of brings all these folks together." That has been my intent.

Gene and Charlotte Ammons from Lubbock, Texas have been house guests of John and Sharron Bundick at Bonita Lake.

Met Bert Beavers at the post office and she told me that their son David Beavers has had a book published and as soon as she has all the "info" will give it to us for the column. David and my grandson Paul were classmates here at Capitan High School and I know that Paul will be glad to hear about the book.

Ran into Willa Stone and she told me to contact Janice about the gathering at the Rodeo Grounds the other night in honor of Grade Lee Eldridge. I called Janice and she had to be in Roswell today, but promised that if I would wait until next weeks paper, she would give me all the information, so we have something to look forward to.

Just heard that Bessie Jones has been under the weather with a sore throat and not up to her old lively self. That kind of news is not like our Bessie. Bessie is like the Duro Cell Battery, she just goes on and on and on.

Will be profiling Gordon and Nina Ross soon but just ran across this in the Lincoln County Extension Cookbook by Nina Ross and thought you would enjoy it.

Recipe is How to Preserve a Husband.
1 husband and 1 wife.
Be careful of your selection. Do not choose one too young. When once selected, give your attention to preparation for domestic use. Some insist on you helping them in a pickle; others to help them in hot water. In either case, it is apt to make them sour, hard, or even bitter. Poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good by garnishing them with patience, well seasoned with love and kisses. Wrap them in a mantle of charity. Keep them, warm with the steady fire of domestic devotion and serve with peaches and cream. Thus prepared, they will keep for years. Very good, Nina. You gals that still have a husband, take heed.

Larry Leek from Odessa, Texas is visiting family members Ken and Carol Reamy, Dolores Cox, Myrtle Brink, David and Deborah Cummins. On Sunday the 12th of June Larry and David played golf at the Golf Links with Courtney Cummins and David's brother, Bronson Cummins. Courtney thinks she is now old enough to have her own set of clubs.

Will close this week with this poem by Mary Dawson Hughes.

The Little Things
It really is the little things
That mean the most of all.
The "let me help you with that" things
That seem so very small,
The "I'll be glad to do it," things
That make your cares much lighter.

The "laugh with me, it's funny" things
That make your outlook brighter.

The "never mind the trouble" things.
The "Yes-I understand",
The interest and encouragement

In everything you've planned.
It really is the little things,
The friendly word or smile,
That add such happiness to life
And make it worthwhile.

And so for now Sayonara and remember to try a bit o' kindness, tis good for the soul you know.

least two requested confidentiality. County attorney Alan Morel said the process for disclosing the names of applicants was established based on the outcome of a lawsuit filed by the New Mexico Press Association against University of New Mexico when the school was in the process of selecting a new president. Because of that lawsuit it was established that names of all applicants are not released until the list has been narrowed to finalists that will be interviewed. Then the finalists list of names will be released.

Montes said some very qualified people have applied for the county manager's position.

Commissioners will review the 36 applications in closed session at a special called meeting at 9 a.m. Monday, June 20. At that time they will determine how many will be interviewed.

Commissioners also canvassed the votes of the June 7 primary election. But they had one extra job to do, they had to read and count the votes on one emergency paper ballot.

The emergency ballot was filled out by a voter in Precinct 3 who had been listed on the voter registration roster as having filled out an absentee ballot. The voter however said that was not the case, and was given a paper ballot to complete. It was verified that an absentee ballot was not mailed to the voter, said county clerk Martha Proctor. Because of this, the voter's name was removed from the envelope in which the ballot was placed at the polls and sealed. Commissioners then read the ballot and added the votes to the completed list of votes from all other county precincts.

Proctor said that the new machines worked well and everything went smoothly. All precincts reported good response from the public on the use of the new electronic voting machines. By accepting each precinct's totals over the telephone, the clerk's office was able to get the final returns out on Tuesday night in record time, Proctor said.

In canvassing the votes for Friday, Proctor's staff found three small mistakes on the original totals called in by the precincts. Differences were all on the Democratic state candidates. For state auditor, the Tuesday night total showed Robert Vigil with 586, when the actual total was 598. For state treasurer David King received 698, instead of the 693 shown on Tuesday's totals. For Attorney General, Tuesday's total showed 1129 and the actual total was 1120. For Commissioner of Public Lands Ray Powell received 371 instead of the 699 tallied Tuesday night. Proctor said some of the mistakes came from the caller misreading numbers.

After the extra votes from the emergency ballot were added to the canvass, commissioners signed the sheet that will be kept at the county clerk's office and the one that will be mailed to the Secretary of State.

Commissioners also asked Proctor how her staff is delivering the electronic machines to the polling places. Proctor said there is a need to address some way to transport the machines, because she can no longer leave the voting machines at the polling places as was done with the old mechanical machines. She borrowed a truck from the road department and a stock trailer from Sheriff James McSwane to transport the machines to the polls before the election. However, only six machines could be moved at a time, and were somewhat open to the weather. She asked that the situation be addressed at the mid-year budget review.

Nunley agreed that the county needs to address the transporting of the machines, to protect its more than $100,000 investment.

A crisis situation is growing in Lincoln County, with the dumping of trash next to dumpsters belonging to the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA). Commissioner Wilton Howell, who also is chairman of LCSWA, said the county ordinance which imposes up to a $1,000 fine for the illegal dumping needs to be more strictly enforced. He asked for cooperation from all area law enforcement and judges. While the county cannot authorize the LCSWA employees to cite violators because they are not county employees, the county does have a code enforcement officer who is citing people for violating the ordinances by having too much debris and waste on their properties.

However, some people who were cited for illegal dumping of trash next to dumpsters, received only small fines.

"We're at a point where some people are thinking about suing the authority," Howell said. The illegal dumping is also creating problems with plastic blowing into pastures where livestock is grazing.

Spencer recommended LCSWA meet with all law enforcement agencies in the county to coordinate a program.

Howell requested a "strong letter" and a resolution about the illegal dumping be added to the agenda on the June 20 meeting.

In other business, commissioners:

--Approved the consent agenda of treasurer's report; volunteer fire fighters retirement act qualification record for the Glencoe Palo Verde Fire Dept.; replat of Tract in Middle Cedar subdivision; and audit contract for fiscal year 1993-94 with Emmons, Hagood and Co.

--Accepted the proposal for auctioneer for the county auction from Charles F. Dickerson, Inc. of Fairacres.

--Accepted the proposal for design and remodeling of Corona Senior Citizens Center from Architects West of Albuquerque. Mike McCan of Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District will negotiate the contract with the architect for the project. SNMEDD is administering the project which is financed with an appropriation from the New Mexico Legislature.

--Accepted Schwettmann, Nunley and Montes as a road review committee to view two requests, one to vacate a road in Nogal and the other to open .2 mile south of Tinnie. --Accepted grant funding for the White Mountain Task Force as requested by Sheriff James McSwane. --Met in Executive session to discuss pending litigation. No action was taken as a result of the discussions.

--Tabled the acceptance of proposal for group medical and life insurance until the June 20 meeting. --Tabled the acceptance of proposal for multiple insurance for general property and liability until the June 20 meeting.

AF Responds To Complaint About County Meeting Conducted By Phone

Assistant Attorney General Elizabeth A. Glenn has responded to a complaint about the Lincoln County Commissioners conducting a meeting by telephone conference.

Glenn's advisory letter about the open meetings act complaint states:

"The Open Meeting Act contemplates that members of a public body may participate in a meeting by conference telephone in some circumstances, but cannot be construed to permit a public body to conduct a meeting entirely by telephone.

"The 1993 amendments to the Open Meetings Act included the following procedures to be followed when a member of a public body participates in a meeting by conference telephone:

If otherwise allowed by law or rule of the public body, a member of a public body may participate in a meeting of the public body by means of a conference telephone or other similar communications equipment when it is otherwise difficult or impossible for the member to attend the meeting in person, provided that each member participating by conference telephone can be identified when speaking, all participants are able to hear each other at the same time and members of the public attending the meeting are able to hear any member of the public body who speaks during the meeting.

"Clearly, this provision was not intended to do away with meetings in which members of a public body gather in person to discuss public business. Section 10-15-1(C) establishes a three part test. First, members of the public body must be authorized by a statute or rule other than the Open Meetings Act to participate in meetings by conference telephone. The Act itself does not provide such authority.

Second, a member of a public body may participate in a meeting by conference telephone only in limited circumstances when attendance in person is "difficult or impossible." By including this standard for such participation, the legislature intended to provide a means for members of a public body to participate in situations where their inability to attend would otherwise prevent them from participating. Mere inconvenience of a desire to save money is not enough to justify participation by conference telephone. Absent an emergency or other exigent circumstances, if a quorum of a public body's members are unable to attend a meeting in person, the meeting should be rescheduled.

"In this case, only those members of the County Commission who otherwise could not have attended the meeting in person should have been permitted to participate by telephone conference. Those members for whom it was simply easier to participate by telephone than driving to the meeting should have attended in person."

Glenn also states: "Commission members should be permitted to participate in meetings by conference telephone only in the limited circumstances specified in the provision."

Happy Father's Day

... daddy we know you're not here but we feel in our hearts that you're very near.

We miss your love, your sweet smile, your laughter, your care, be we know you're in heaven and watch us from there.

Your earthly work finished the Lord called you home, he knew you were ready, you'd done your work well, you had served your brethren and your Lord as well.

He said "Come home Sally, I've opened the door, come sit by my side and suffer no more."

Our hearts are still aching, we miss you so much, but we know you are happy in the house of the Lord. If we could build a stairway with all the tears we have shed we know we'd reach heaven and see you again.

So dad on this Father's Day we'll thank you in prayer, for all you did for us and your loving care!

FORT STANTON
FACTS & FICTION

Hot, hot weather is the forecast for this Tuesday. If the breeze wasn't blowing, know we would all be burnt up.

Barbara Sanchez, Doris Pounds, Bert Beavers, Doris Cherry, were busy making sure the voters cast their votes. I was lost when I voted with the new push button machines.

Congratulations to Jennifer Eldridge on being chosen Lincoln County Fair Queen on June 4.

Lots of young students were working at the Fort this week. Know the regulars are glad to have them.

Gina Griego came in Monday. She is working with Ervin and Marcia for a couple of months to get credits towards her major. She is employed at the race track on the weekends and is taking a couple of courses at the Ruidoso college. Glad you are home for the summer and doing so well, Gina. Mary you should be proud of her for all she had accomplished.

Janet Delgado is missing her son, Brandon. He is vacationing in Australia with her parents for a couple of weeks.

Pat and I spent several days with Kersti watching her grow while they were marking lambs. She got used to the "four in the morning" schedule real quick.

On Saturday we went to the Bonnell's Spring fling at Glencoe. Many friends and family members enjoyed the hospitality of these two special people. Good barbecue, drinks and lots of dessert was enjoyed by all. Ruth, Jim and Krystyn Bradley and his family, Joel and Cristy Bonnell and her family, Paul, April, Cerina, and Marie Bonnell and her Dad, niece and nephew, Louise Joiner, Mrs. Arthurs, Kathy and Gretchen Annala and family, Mitchells, Tully's, Dan Storm, Mac and Betty Ann Bell, Johnny Bond, Ruth and Ed Lawrence, David Lawrence and family, Patsy Racher, Jayme and Brent Avery and Danny's three, Eddie, Audrey and Kersti, Bessie Jones, Pat and myself were some of the many who had a great afternoon.

I had a visitor from Tallahassee, Florida on Monday. It always amazes me how people end up in our small community. Just before he arrived I had written a note to the postmaster in Tallahassee asking if they could tell me why I was receiving one or two letters a week for Quincy, Fla. After a short visit I found out that this man was the Electronic Technician that works on the bar code machines.

He showed me how to read the bar code, which had our zip code on these pieces of mail. Did find it very coincidental that the very day I write this message, he comes into my post office and was one of the ones that dispatches those pieces of mail. It is a small small world. He said as soon as he was back in his office he would make sure they corrected the problem. His name was Jerry Lawrence, I wonder if I had asked some more questions if he would have been kin to us?

Received the camp meeting flyer. The Nogal Camp Meeting will be July 19-23. Fifty-fifth year of Christian fellowship. Steve Rogers, Randy Steele, and John Walker will be some of the leaders.

Carla Briggs enjoyed 10 days off, visiting her brother and mother. It is always so tough to get back to work after time off.

Lu and Gene Parker flew out to California to celebrate Jim and Julie's little boy's birthday. His and Gene's were on the same day. He was very happy to have his Grandpa show up for his party. They returned Sunday evening.

Marvin Jones was in the hospital for a few days. Marvin I hope you are feeling better and will get well soon.

Cody Wilson was the winner of the saddle at the Grady, Le Memorial Roping on Saturday.

Jake Jones left Tuesday for Oklahoma. He will spend some time with relatives.

Our condolences to Ernest ("Tuesday") Trujillo's family. Ernest passed away in Albuquerque last Monday. He will be buried Friday morning at 10:00 in Capitan. Burial will be at the Capitan cemetery by his Mom and Dad.

Lincoln County Fair Rules For Canned And Dried Foods

It is not too soon to start planning entries for the Lincoln County Fair which is scheduled for August 9-13.

Entries inside the building will be taken on Tuesday, Aug. 9 from 4-7 p.m. and on Wednesday, Aug. 10 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Each department has its own rules. The Canned Foods and Dried Foods Department have the following rules, reported department superintendent Mollie Mason.

1. All jars should be clean and rings removed upon entering.
2. Must be prepared since the Lincoln County Fair last year.

3. No jars will be accepted that are sealed with paraffin.
4. Dried foods should be displayed in clean canning jars (with lids not sealed.)

5. Standard canning jars must be used.
Headspace: is the space between the top of food and the lid. Jams and jellies have an 1/8 inch to 1/4 inch head-space. Pickled products have 1/2 inch headspace. Fruits or tomatoes have a 1/2 inch headspace. Vegetables have a one inch headspace. No pieces of the product should extend above the liquid level.

Maturity: of product should be just right, not green or hard; not soft, mushy or over-ripe.

Color: should be natural and bright, no sign of bruises or dark spots.

Liquid: should be clear, free of bubbles and foam, covers all food, uniform, not cloudy, no sediment.

Canned vegetables of all kinds are classified as Lot 350 as a fair entry; Lot 360 is fruit and berries; Lot 370 is relishes (pint or half pint); Lot 380 is pickles of all kinds; Lots 390 is jellies and Lot 400 is preserves; Lot 410 is dried fruits and vegetables; Lot 420 is butter, jams marmalades and conserves.

Fruit butters have a smooth consistency, flow and are opaque. Jams have a balance of fruit pieces and gel, many have fruit seeds or skins and fruit, not in distinct pieces but evenly distributed in opaque gel.

Jelly has a clear gel, firm, transparent, sparkling, quivers and holds its shape. Preserves have fruit pieces uniform in size, distinct and translucent but tender evenly distributed throughout with a gel that is clear, sparkling and holds its shape but may be slightly syrupy.

Fruit and produce will become more available as summer approaches. Canners can take these hints to create products that will be acceptable at the Lincoln County Fair in Capitan in August. And hopefully, canners may win ribbons or the grand prize.

For more information about canning, or about the Lincoln County Fair, call the Lincoln County Extension Office at 648-2311 in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

Four Carrizozo FFA Members To Convention

Four Carrizozo FFA members, along with Dale Mitchell, traveled to Las Cruces last week to attend the 66th annual state FFA convention. Julie Barham, Debbie Bond, Raina McDonald, and Keri Shafer met with FFA members from across the state to vote on redistricting issues, accept awards, display talents, and elect new district and state officers.

Keri Shafer and Julie Barham were two of the six competitors in the state FFA talent competition. Julie choreographed and performed a jazz dance and Keri played various selections on the piano.

The Carrizozo FFA proudly accepted awards for participation in BOAC (Building our American Communities), and Chapter Safety. Renee Roper was awarded the Agriscience Scholarship, and Debbie Bond received a Blue & Gold Chapter President award. Debbie was also elected to serve as District 1 treasurer.

FFA members were inspired and motivated by Curtis Childers, National FFA President, and Dr. Jim Ward, a hypnotist who took members on "A Journey Beyond Imagination". The Carrizozo FFA plans to rest for a while, then help work the concession stand at the Smokey Bear Stampede, over the 4th of July weekend. --Debbie Bond.

Proposal To Lease

from CDBG. Carrizozo was the last community to be funded during the recent CDBG meetings.

--Dr. Duley presented a proposal to the town to lease the airport. He said he would like to "get this thing going this summer" and said he plans to hire someone to work at the airport.

Duley asked trustees to have the town attorney "draw up a lease" for Duley and his attorney to review, because "time is of the essence."

The board gave Duley a copy of state article 46 which stipulates requirements of the town concerning leasing and/or disposal of town property.

When the matter of securing the terminal building at the airport was discussed, Kuhnel said all the furniture is gone from the lobby. A police/theft report has been filed.

Anyone needing fuel at the airport should contact the sheriff's office and town foreman Faustino Gallegos will go to the airport to pump the fuel.

--The town approved a request from Santa Rita Church to use Fred Chavez Park for the annual Santa Rita Fiesta July 16 and 17. The town also gave permission for 3rd Avenue to be closed between the Church and Fred Chavez Park on July 17.

--Kuhnel requested trustees to table action to a later date on the secretary for the police department. Trustees agreed.

--Street lights in McDonald Park were discussed.

--Portable restroom rental costs were presented and trustees asked for costs to purchase portable restrooms.

--Carrizozo Lodger's Tax Committee secretary Ruth Hammond gave the mayor and each trustee one of the town's color brochures and asked the board to make the decision as to what information should be included in new brochures that are to be printed.

The item will be on the agenda for the June 28 meeting. The town is accepting recommendations from people before making their final decision.

--No action was taken concerning the policy and procedures manual for domestic violence for the police department. The manual will be sent to the town attorney for review.

for the village domestic water supply. The village has rights to water in Eagle Creek near Alto, but has no usable water line to bring it to town. The Eagle Creek Water Users Association has obtained a Farmer's Home Administration loan to reconstruct the line.

While village members on the association prefer rebuilding the line and burying it to prevent vandalism to it, alternative plans are to do a "slip joint" process of relining the existing line. Final plans will depend on funding available. Once the line is finished the village will have to construct some type of storage for the water. The association board met Tuesday in Ruidoso.

Water is also a concern when trustees annex properties into the village. Once annexed, the village is obligated to provide services, especially water. At the meeting Monday trustees approved an ordinance which annexed the Fifer property. There were no objections to the annexation made during the public hearing for the ordinance. The village Planning and Zoning committee recommended the property be annexed.

Trustees Ross and L.C. Cozzens expressed concern about annexing property when the village is obligated to provide water to all lots already within its borders. It has been estimated the village does not have enough water rights to provide water to each lot within the village. Many lots now are vacant and have no demand for water.

To better advise Planning and Zoning on water issues, trustees are working on an ordinance which will establish a Water Advisory Board. In any annexation request, the five member board will consider the impact the request will make on the village water situation. The water board will advise planning and zoning, and both boards will make recommendations to the trustees about annexations or land use plans. Trustees reviewed a draft of the proposed ordinance during the public hearing prior to the regular meeting Monday and made a few revisions. The final draft of the proposed ordinance will be considered at the July regular meeting.

Waterfowl are attracted to the Capitan Wetlands waste water treatment area. To better accommodate the birds and other wildlife at the wetlands, Capitan will receive $5000 from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for seeds and other plant needs. Trustees approved a 10-year agreement with the service, and the village will provide $17,000 in labor and equipment to provide security (law enforcement) and minimize human impact on the area over the next 10 years. The area is already fenced.

The service agreement is another phase of the wetlands which have been a long-time project of village resident and volunteer Dr. Bernard Reimann.

Trustees accepted the sole bid for diesel fuel for the 1994-95 fiscal year from J&R Oil Co. at 72 cents a gallon subject to refinery increases.

Trustees also accepted what they found to be the best bid for gravel for the next fiscal year from Louise LaRue at $10.50 a cubic yard delivered and $7 a cubic yard picked up in village trucks at the pit 12 miles west of Capitan. The other bid submitted was from Pat L. Huey at $10.90 a cubic yard either delivered or picked up at Huey's yard.

An amendment to the village animal control ordinance to provide kennel services for picked up animals at the Lincoln County Humane Society was put on hold. The society is currently expanding its facility and will be unable to deal with more animals until after September.
