

Water Usage Restricted In Ruidoso

by Doris Cherry

On October 22, residents in the village of Ruidoso will be asked to voluntarily restrict their use of water.

The voluntary restriction is Phase 2 of the village Water Contingency Plan which was established through an ordinance approved by the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday.

The water contingency plan will be in effect until the Grindstone Water Treatment Plant is completed, expected to be sometime in May 1995.

The contingency plan was drafted and approved because of the dry winter and summer, which has resulted in the draining of the village's major reservoir, Alto Lake, and strain on the village water wells.

"Alto Lake is out of the system," village manager Gary Jackson said Tuesday to the village council, headed by mayor pro tem J.D. James in mayor Jerry Shaw's absence.

Because of the level of Alto reservoir and the amount of water production from the village water wells, the village will go into Phase 2 of the plan when the ordinance creating the water contingency plan goes into effect October 22. Phase 2 will require VOLUNTARY water conservation, with an "odd-even" outdoor watering system and watering only between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Phase 2 is considered a "Moderate Condition" and will be triggered if winter snowfall has been below average and Alto reservoir is low, when the wells produce less than a total of 1800 gallons per minute, and the level of water in the two five million gallon tanks falls below 45 feet.

Other steps to be taken under phase 2 are concentrated media efforts to reduce water consumption, reduction of municipal uses of water, issuing of verbal warnings for poor watering practices such as watering on streets, sidewalks etc, and suspension of water leak credits.

Phase 1 is considered "non-emergency" and will be year round with emphasis in March, April and May. Steps to be taken under this phase is public education on "smart water usage" through radio, television, newspaper and so on.

Phase 3 is "water rationing" and will be triggered when Alto Reservoir drops below 12 feet, the wells produce less than a total of 990 gallons per minutes and the level of water in the two five-million gallon tanks falls below 45 feet.

When that occurs, the steps to be taken will be MANDATORY:

no outdoor watering, indoor uses of water to be minimized, citations shall be issued after the first warning, and the suspension of water leak credits. The village will make every effort to advise the public of the situation through the media, mail-outs or other means.

When water conditions upgrade every effort will be made to advise the public of when the conditions have

Senior Citizens Have Opportunity For Their Concerns To Be Heard

Lincoln County senior citizens will have opportunity to speak out on issues affecting their lives during a series of informal forums to be held at each senior center in the weeks to come.

Zia Senior Citizens Program Director Cheryl LaBelle asks senior citizens to attend a forum to identify their concerns. "This is their opportunity to have their voice heard," LaBelle said.

Information gathered during the forums will be compiled into reports which will become part of the New Mexico White House Conference on Aging to be held at the Albuquerque Convention Center on December 8. LaBelle will attend the state conference to present the issues and policies identified by Lincoln County senior citizens. The issues defined at the community forums will be expanded upon at the state conference and will serve as the basis of discussion at the regional conference. State conference participants will develop recommendations which will be put into the form of resolutions. The resolutions ratified by the conference attendees will serve as New Mexico's platform for the national conference.

The national White House Conference on Aging is intended to produce policy recommendations to guide national aging policy over the next decade.

Some of the topics to be discussed at the state conference and which can serve as a

Carrizozo Telephone Exchange May Be Sold To Tularosa Basin Telephone

US WEST Communications has agreed to sell three of its New Mexico telephone exchanges -- Carrizozo, Cloudercroft and Tularosa -- to Tularosa Basin Telephone Company, Inc.

The number of lines in the three exchanges, approximately 3,900, represent less than one percent of US WEST's total access lines in New Mexico.

Later this month, US WEST will request that the sale be approved by the New Mexico State Corporation

Bid Awarded For Carrizozo Street Improvement Project

by Ruth Hammond

The next phase of the Carrizozo street improvement project should begin soon. The Carrizozo Board of Trustees awarded the bid for construction of the project during their regular meeting Tuesday.

The engineer's estimate for the work was $198,345. The low bid submitted by Allied Paving was in the amount of $265,593, including gross receipts tax.

Engineer Raymond Dennis explained that all three bids received were higher than the engineer's estimates but all three bids were grouped close together which indicated the bids were for the correct amounts.

The town awarded the bid to Allied in the amount of $250,365.37 which will include the $184,121 project funded by the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and $66,243 project funded by the state highway co-op program.

A few streets will be eliminated from the original project in order for the cost to be within the amount of money available. Change orders may be made to add the streets again if any of the costs are less than estimated.

Dennis said there will be a pre-construction conference in about a week. Construction should be completed this fall.

In other business, trustees received two proposals for the airport. A special meeting will be scheduled for the board to meet with the person who submitted one of the proposals.

The new plaque for the Veterans Memorial in the park across the street from city hall was displayed. The plaque will be installed and a special dedication ceremony will be scheduled, probably on Veteran's Day.

The board discussed the situation at the old city hall which is to be renovated for the S.M. Ortiz Police and Court Complex.

Engineer Raymond Dennis said he looked at the building where the wall has fallen out and his recommendation is for the town to remove a portion of the roof before beginning work on the building.

The board agreed to award the contract to "shore up" the wall to Chris Ventura for a cost of $750 providing the work can be started this month.

Action was tabled on the request for information about a town moratorium on providing water for buildings outside the city limits.

The board discussed sidewalks, responsibility/ownership and decided to contact the municipal league for more information.

Golf cart fees for those who use their own carts at the golf course were set at $2 for a trailing fee. People who own carts and leave them at the golf course and allow the town to rent them out will not be charged a fee.

The board agreed to publish a resolution to establish a beautification committee.

Mayor Cecilia Kuhnel said the town of Alamogordo is to receive funds to purchase a new sweeper for their airport and agreed to donate the old sweeper to Carrizozo.

Town foreman Faustino Gallegos was to go to Alamogordo to inspect the sweeper.

Capitan Approves New Water Ordinance That Defines Water Requests Procedures

by Doris Cherry

Capitan Village Trustees unanimously approved an ordinance that will require more scrutiny of water requests, and higher tap fees.

The ordinance was prompted by a new resident who purchased property which had been subdivided illegally, and had no water tap. His request was brought before the trustees, who referred him to the village Water Advisory Board (WAB) and Planning and Zoning Board (P&Z).

The ordinance spells out the procedure for requesting new water taps or additional water taps on a property which already has a tap. According to the ordinance, each legally platted property will be entitled to one tap. Any additional taps must be requested through the WAB and P&Z which will make their recommendations to the trustees, who will make the final decision.

Any tap installed after the ordinance takes effect in 30 days will cost $500, or more depending on the size of water line. Property owners will be required to install a shut off valve on the owners' side of the meter for all new connections.

Water taps for properties outside the village, but in the "extra-territorial" area (usually adjoining the village limits) will be considered. Such requests must come before the WAB and P&Z for recommendations to the trustees. If approved by the trustees, the customer will have to pay $500 for a water tap and will be charged one and a half times the rate for village residents.

One meter will serve only one residential unit. After the ordinance takes effect, the village will no longer allow three to four hookups on a single meter installed. All existing meters with multiple hookups will be "grandfathered," and allowed to continue as they are. However, if any meter with a multiple hookup is pulled by the village, the customer will only be allowed a single hook-up on the meter if it is re-installed by the village.

Water taken from unmetered hydrants will cost $20 per 1,000 gallons, and must be paid at village hall. The fee was formerly $5 per 1,000 gallons. People who take water from the hydrant at the U.S. Forest Service station will find they must pay also. From that hydrant,

Sen. Domenici Staff Will Be In Capitan Oct. 21

"Staff members of U.S. Senator Pete V. Domenici will be in Capitan on Friday, Oct. 21, at the City Hall from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Anyone who is experiencing difficulty with a federal agency who would like Senator Domenici's assistance is welcome to visit with the Senator's staff. Additionally, anyone who would like to convey an opinion to the Senator is welcome to do so."

NORWEST BANK CARRIZOZO sign was installed October 6. The official change of name was effective Oct. 3. The bank was originally Citizens State Bank and then United New Mexico Bank.

JERRY LOVELACE (center) of Carrizozo was the big winner at the Lincoln County trailer roping Oct. 1 and 2 at Espuela arena in Hondo. Lovelace, who said he didn't own a trailer, drove home with the top prize. Shown congratulating him are Ralph Montes and Lindy Montes. The Lovelace children are standing on the trailer. Top money winners for the weekend were Lovelace and Cody Wilson of Capitan. Winners of breast collars in roping events were Renee Gilliland, Cody Wilson, Jerry Lovelace, and Daniel Tucker.

One of the more debated areas of the ordinance was the Penalties section which provides for a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days, or both. Each day that any violation shall continue shall constitute a separate offense.

Enforcement of the ordinance will be assigned to all police officers, code enforcement officers and meter readers of the Village of Ruidoso. Other employees may be assigned enforcement authority as deemed necessary by the Village Manager.

The ordinance contains a "Sunset Clause" that will provide for an automatic review of the ordinance by the village council when the Grindstone Water Treatment Plant is in full operation.

Public comment came from Bill Smith, a resident of Ruidoso since 1979. Smith said the village has always had a water problem, and he disagreed with Phase 3 with its citations and fines. "I think the village is the worst violator there is and we don't need to create a water Gestapo," Smith said.

Village attorney John Underwood said that the penalty section of the plan gives it some "teeth" and is meant mainly to get the attention of village water customers. "Without some teeth, it's just another law without teeth, and that is what people complain about," Underwood said.

Councilor Frank Potter said that most city ordinances carry such standard penalties. Councilor Robert Donaldson said that water is the single greatest thing the council has responsibility to take care of. During phase 3 conditions, Donaldson said the village, in order to provide drinking water, is justified in penalizing someone who wants to water the yard.

Questioned Dagmar Aimes resident proposed wording in the ordinance which would have allowed citations to be issued under phase 3, to those people who received one verbal warning phase 2. She argued that should not be done, because phase 2 is strictly voluntary. Underwood, and the council agreed and struck the wording from the final adopted version of the ordinance.

Smith, who objected to Phase 3, said he believed most people would restrict their use of water when asked to. Then he asked if people cut back their use of water in September when the village requested voluntary conservation. Jackson said that numerous people attempted to conserve water. "Many never blinked an eye," he said.

Overall consumption continued to grow during that time, instead of the reduced water use, Jackson added. "We're trying to salvage for the village enough water to fight fires and other emergencies," he said. "We have no backup. If a well goes out now, we're in Phase 3, with possible shortages of water in parts of town."

water will cost $2 for 100 gallons or $20 for 1,000 gallons. Village clerk Deborah Cummins said a coin operated meter will be installed on the hydrant to meter the water.

The ordinance also addresses water leaks, and requires a shut off valve on the owner's side if the village has to repair two leaks on an existing meter within a calendar year.

Mayor Norman Renfro said the shut off valve on the owner's side will be beneficial to people who leave for extended periods of time, and want their water shut off. Also it will prevent damage to the shut off valve at the meter.

Rates will increase only three cents per month. The increase reflects a state-mandated water conservation fee that went into effect July 1.

Complete copies of the new ordinance are available at village hall.

Trustees also heard a brief report on the water rights acquisitions being pursued by the village. Renfro and Cummins were to meet with the Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Users Association Tuesday, with hopes of finalizing the acquisition of water rights from that group.

A separate acquisition from private property owners in the Lincoln Valley is still on hold because of a protest, which has not been resolved. A suggestion by the Water Engineer's Office to contact Fort Stanton about water rights was followed through by Dr. Bernie Reimann chairman of the village WAB.

Reimann said he found that Fort Stanton has overdrawn its surface water rights from Bonito Lake and is now using its underground rights. Reimann also said he was advised to talk with Bureau of Land Management about surface water rights and he said he would.

Stray pets picked up by an officer in Capitan will go to the Lincoln County Humane Society shelter on Gavilan Canyon in Ruidoso. Trustees approved a 90 day contract with the Humane Society which has agreed to take all the cats and dogs picked up in Capitan for a period of 90 days for a cost of $200 a month. At the end of the 90 period, about February 1, the society will renegotiate with the village. Renfro and Cummins met with the Humane Society to get the temporary agreement.

Outgoing fire chief Pat Huey was given the golden axe award for his 22 years of service to the Capitan Volunteer Fire Department. The award features a "golden axe" mounted on a cedar slab with an inscribed plate honoring Huey. Huey in turn presented the fire chief's hat to new fire chief David Cummins, the third fire Capitan fire chief in 40 years. The hat was first worn by Virgil Hall Sr. and was presented to Huey when he assumed the chief's position.

Trustee approved a resolution which endorses and supports a request that the legislature amend the Motor Vehicle Department rules to return seven percent of the revenue from local MVDs to those municipalities which operate the MVD. The resolution was initiated by the City of Aztec at the New Mexico Municipal League conference.

Commission during early 1995. Besides SCC approval, the sale also requires approval by the Federal Communications Commission.

The sale will have no impact on monthly rates for residence and business customers in those communities because Tularosa Basin Telephone Company will keep the existing US WEST rates when they begin providing service.

"This sale will be good for our customers and for both companies. US WEST and its remaining customers will benefit by our ability to increase our focus in areas with higher market potential and lower costs, which are facing increasing competitive challenges. The customers in Carrizozo, Cloudercroft and Tularosa will benefit as a result of being served by Tularosa Basin Telephone because they are better positioned to meet their needs," said Tom Garcia, New Mexico Vice President for US WEST.

"US WEST has completed the conversion of the telephone systems in these communities to digital technology within the last five years, positioning them well for all modern telecommunications services. This transaction will build on that foundation of new technology," he said. Tularosa Basin Telephone Company is owned by Wagner Telecommunications, Inc. and several other partners that specialize in providing telephone service to rural America.

"We look forward to the completion of this sale and to becoming the service provider as well as a member of the business community," said Douglas J. Wagner, President of Wagner Telecommunications.

Bob Richardson Takes Helm At Corona School

Bob Richardson, the new superintendent at Corona Schools, has great expectations for this school year and has been pleased with the year so far. His early plans for a more standardized discipline program, improved school safety, and increased academic success are well on their way to being realized.

A low-key administrator, Richardson has made a favorable impression on students, staff, and community alike, pitching in on a school clean-up day, making trips to out-of-town athletic events, and quietly presiding over staff gatherings and school board meetings. With renewed state accreditation pending (a regular tri-annual event), he has been active in gathering information and preparing for the Santa Fe officials.

Richardson wants it known that he is proud of Corona and considers it "the heart of New Mexico" -- a term he is fond of using. Corona students, he says, are "second to none," and "show that they are winners."

Even though this is his first superintendent's job, Richardson has been active in New Mexico education for a number of years. He taught Ag for seven years at Clovis, West Mesa, and Cibola before going to Albuquerque where he eventually became a Superintendent's Assistant, working with 30 schools with a combined enrollment of 24,000 students.

Richardson graduated from Hatch Valley High School and then attended New Mexico State University where he earned a degree in Agricultural Extension and Education. He also has an Administration Specialist degree and is one year from having his doctorate.

While in high school, Richardson was student council president, was appointed Lt. Governor of Boys' State, and was state 4-H president. He was later state FFA reporter and, in his senior year, New Mexico FFA president.

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Negative Or Positive?

By Ruth Hammond

Election Day 1994 is less than one month away and we are hearing horror stories (mud slinging) about various candidates. The issue of negative campaigning versus positive campaigning is debated by many people with good arguments on each side.

The Inside the Capitol column by Jay Miller on this same page discusses different aspects of negative campaigning and quotes Bob Trapp, editor and publisher of Espanola's Rio Grande Sun. Trapp's comments do contain some valid information.

Trapp's statement that "negative campaigning lets you know just what kind of fellows are trying to represent us in Santa Fe or Washington," does make a person think. Trapp's statement, "When one candidate delivers a low body blow to his opponent, we can judge by the way the recipient responds just what sort of guy he is. Can he take a punch and come back swinging? Can he throw some low body blows of his own? Or does he cry 'foul' and go home to mother?" also makes a person think.

My thoughts on this issue are that a candidate should tell the voters why he or she is the best person for the job and give a list of reasons why the voter should cast a ballot for that particular candidate. Past records, good or bad, should be publicized by the candidate, not by their opponents. It seems voters would prefer the candidates be honest and open about their past.

Years ago in Arkansas a man with a lengthy police record was a candidate for sheriff. When his opponent tried to bring the issue before the people at a voter forum (this was long before negative campaigning was an every-election occurrence) the candidate loudly stated, "Anyone who wants to see my record can go to the sheriff's office. It's all there." He did not try to hide the facts nor did he lie about them. It was a surprise when he won the election by the largest vote ever for that county.

This is not to say he was the best man for the job but it did let the voters know he was honest enough to admit he had a record. That sort of honesty is what we need in government. We need people who will admit their past mistakes and tell us the truth.

Trapp is correct when he says that too often we find out the horrible truth about candidates after they are elected to office. It just seems there should be a better way for this information to be brought before the people instead of negative campaigning.

Parents tell their children to not tattlet, yet here for the public to see and hear are grownups tattling on each other. Is that a good example to set for children? And don't say children do not pay attention to these things because they do.

Schools and parents urge their children to study and get good grades because they need the education. One teacher gave candy bars to each child in her class who received a grade of 100 on the weekly spelling test. When a parent objected and said, "My child gets a perfect score in order to get a candy bar, not to learn how to spell," the teacher replied, "I don't care why these children are learning to spell, I just want them to learn to spell."

If we were all to agree that negative campaigning is the best way to go, that teacher might have used a different tactic to get her students to study for their spelling tests. She could easily have said, "If you don't spell all your words correctly you will be punished." You decide which teaching method is better.

Mud slinging should be an activity for children when they are making mud pies on a summer day, not for grownups wanting our vote. Mud slinging should be what our tires do when we drive on a dirt road soon after a rain, not what adults do to each other trying to convince voters that the other person is wrong. Mud slinging should be eliminated from election campaigns.

These comments will not change campaign tactics but maybe they will give the voters a different opinion to consider Nov. 8.

Mud pies are not good for eating!

THE OTHER SIDE

The following is a facsimile of what you might have read last week in this column if the Christopher Freed controversy had not happened.

The nearer she got the more I began to appreciate the concept of social distance.

A friend of mine asked me to go horseback riding with him the other day, but I declined because I didn't like the odds. As I recall from my cowpunching days, there is only one appropriate way to mount your beast, but a variety of ways to dismount.

My former friend George changed his name to Andrew during the inflationary spiral back in the late 70's because he wanted his name to remain on currency that was in circulation.

(There was something about placing your electric blanket underneath the bottom sheet to discourage bedwetting, but I can't remember what it was. Probably a shocking experience, though. More to follow after the bugs are worked out.)

It is a blessing that reputations are transitory matters. I don't know what my reputation was when I lived in Raton, but it must have been more interesting than my real life. Gosh, that was way back in the days when I was a married man and interested in domestic pursuits and things. In spite of that, my secretary reported to me one morning that she and several of her friends were sitting around the night before discussing the things females discuss when they fall into proximity, and she said one of her friends commented that she knew from reliable sources that I was having at least five affairs, including one with my secretary. My secretary replied, "Please call me at the office the first thing tomorrow morning and I'll see if he can squeeze you in between 1:45 and 2:08 p.m." Regrettably, whoever it was did not keep her appointment, which is a shame because I seldom have an appointment with someone that I don't have to ask what the purpose of our relationship is going to be. Who do you think I am? Superman? Ah, those were the good old days!

Thinking of Colin McMillan makes me wish I could develop some appreciation for Jeff Bingaman, but thinking of Jeff Bingaman makes me think of term limits. The fact that Colin can't help accepting money when it is offered to him is no excuse for Jeff pandering to the jealousy of the masses. What difference does it make in the long range of things that Colin is blessed with the status of "millionaire" and still didn't squeal very loud when a salary increase was imposed on him. At least, Jeff's salary increases were self-imposed.

We always have this mud-slinging, so I guess I should be used to it by now, but I still get perturbed when the qualification for office boil down to calling each other dirty names. Isn't there enough dirt without manufacturing more? Oh, well, he who is, does and he who does, is.

The following would not have appeared in last week's column because it hadn't happened yet.

The annual Aspenade celebration was held in Ruidoso this past week-end.

SANTA FE—Negative campaigning: good or bad?

We know it's bad, because it works. We say it's bad, because it grates on certain sensibilities. And New Mexicans like to think we have a few more of those sensibilities than the average American.

Negative campaigning also heightens public opinion that all politicians are bums; therefore, it's honorable to ignore politics — and elections.

Bob Trapp, editor and publisher of Espanola's Rio Grande Sun, gave his readers a new slant a few weeks ago.

Trapp says "positive" campaigning doesn't tell voters much of anything. We know all candidates are for more jobs, government efficiency and spending cuts. And they're all against crime, taxes and waste. Every candidate hands out campaign cards with lists of civic organization memberships and business and government experience.

So how does one distinguish between two candidates who tell you they're honest, experienced and committed to serving you?

Trapp says that's where negative campaigning comes in. "We don't care if a candidate is a Kiwanian," says Trapp. "But we need to know if he was ever kicked out of Kiwanis for embezzling the club dues." That's the kind of info that helps us decide which way to vote.

Other Trappisms: "Everyone is opposed to crime in the street, but have any of these guys wanting us to elect them to office ever served time for committing a crime in the street?"

"Every candidate will tell you he's going to take good care of your money but if he took out bankruptcy three times over the last ten years should we really trust him with our money?"

"Negative campaigning lets you know just what kind of fellows are trying to represent us in Santa Fe or Washington. When one candidate delivers a low body blow to his opponent, we can judge by the way the recipient responds just what sort of a guy he is. Can he take a punch and come back swinging? Can he throw some low body blows of his own? Or does he cry 'foul' and go home to mother?"

Trapp figures negative campaigning gets voters attention. It gets them to the polls. It makes candidates expose themselves and helps us identify their character.

"Candidates should be challenged forcefully and made to answer honestly," says Trapp, who suggests that candidates themselves don't care much for negative campaigning because voters might learn things about them they would prefer to remain in the closet.

Too often, says Trapp, we find out the horrible truth about candidates after they are elected to office. But negative campaigning can bring out that information, and whether it is true or false, before we send them to Santa Fe or Washington.

"If a political candidate can't survive some good old-fashioned mudslinging and tough talk, he or she shouldn't be in politics," says Trapp. "Politics is a tough business and there aren't any written rules about how you play the game."

So, Trapp says, "take off the gloves, roll up the sleeves and let's have a REAL campaign the closing weeks of this one. Let's get MUDDY."

There's one other thing that we in the business like about negative campaigning, although most of us don't say so: it sells newspapers.

New Mexico To Receive $10.6 Million From PILT

Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt announced that payments totaling $99.3 million have been sent to about 1,950 local governmental units across the country in accordance with the Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILT) Act of 1976.

The annual payments are distributed to eligible units of general local government by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management (BLM). The payments are intended to offset the loss of revenue caused by the presence of certain tax-exempt federal land within local government boundaries.

"These payments are beneficial to local governments, especially for sparsely populated counties that contain large acreages of tax-exempt federal lands," BLM Director Mike Dombeck said. "The federal government shares PILT-related revenues to help local governmental units provide such vital services as fire and police protection, search and rescue operations, and road construction."

The BLM administers the PILT program because it is the largest single federal land management agency, with responsibility for over 270 million acres of public lands, of which 221 million acres are eligible for PILT payments. Payments are made for tax-exempt federal lands administered by the BLM, U.S.D.A. Forest Service, National Park Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and for federal water projects and some military installations. The payments are in addition to revenues from oil and gas leases, along with sales of minerals, timber and other materials and products derived from public lands.

"While federal lands provide important local recreational and economic opportunities, their tax-exempt status can have fiscal impacts on the governmental units that surround them. This partnership is the federal government's way of helping to minimize those impacts," Dombeck said.

Including the current payment, more than one billion dollars have been returned to local governments since the program began.

With the exception of Rhode Island, all states, plus Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands are receiving PILT funds this year. The states whose counties will collectively receive the largest amounts are: New Mexico, $10,631,758; California, $9,963,552; Utah, $8,829,214; Arizona, $8,580,256; Montana, $7,783,291; and Idaho, $7,277,229.

LETTERS to the editor

EDITOR: Alexander Hamilton wrote "If the federal government should overpass the just bounds of its authority and make a tyrannical use of its powers, the people... must appeal to the standard they have formed, and take such measures to redress the injury done to the Constitution..." Those words are just as applicable today as they were in 1787 when they were written. Today's federal government writes 90,000 plus pages of proposed regulations, most of which have no constitutional authority i.e. Rangeland Reform '94, National Biological Survey, Endangered Species Act, wetlands designation under the Clean Water Act, the Brady bill, Crime bill, etc.

Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1-18 of the US Constitution lists all the powers that Congress was granted. Article 6, Section 2 states "This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof... shall be the Supreme law of the land..." Any legislation that Congress passes that was not empowered to it by Article 1.8.1-18 or made in pursuance to the Constitution is a usurpation of its powers. Article 10 states "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution... are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

On Nov. 10th the people of Lincoln County have an opportunity to take "measures to redress the injury done to the Constitution." The Lincoln County Commissioners will hold a public hearing to consider an ordinance which recognizes that the State of New Mexico owns all public lands within the State and that Lincoln County has the duty and jurisdiction to manage these lands; to protect private rights held on these lands; and preserve the local customs, culture, economy, and environment of Lincoln County. A Public Land Use Advisory Council (PLUAC) will be formed which will have a fact finding mission to develop a public land management process and determine user fees, land uses, etc subject to approval and oversight by the County Commission. This means that instead of having public lands regulated and administered by a disaffected federal bureaucracy that is not held accountable for its actions, which cause tremendous socioeconomic impacts on western communities, we can now have public lands administered locally by our elected representatives who will be held accountable for their actions thereby resulting in socioeconomic stability in Lincoln County.

State ownership of the public lands would also mean that instead of $250 million in public land use fees leaving New Mexico for the federal blackhole in Washington D.C., of

FRANK POTTER (L) of the Museum of the Horse in Ruidoso Downs accepted the Special Events Award for the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium from Tourism Association of New Mexico President Tom McCampbell at the 1994 Red and Gold Banquet held in Farmington on September 29.

Awards Presented At Tourism Conference

The Tourism Association of New Mexico (TANM) announced the winners of annual awards during the New Mexico Governor's Conference on Tourism held Sept. 27-29 in Farmington.

The four destinations receiving awards for marketing achievement were the Flying J Ranch in Ruidoso, the New Mexico Rails to Trails Association of Cloudcroft, Farmington's Summer Outdoor Theater, and Taos Ski Valley, Inc. Each of these destinations has been determined to contribute significantly to their local and state tourism tax base.

Three special events received awards for outstanding achievement in event development and marketing. These awards went to the producers of 'successful events' which have positively impacted tourism for their specific regions of the state. Winners were: the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium in Ruidoso Downs, the New Mexico Wine and Chile War Festival in Las Cruces, and the Renaissance Craftfaire in Las Cruces.

Ten individuals were also honored. They were selected by their local Chambers of Commerce and Convention and Visitors Bureaus for outstanding service to their local tourism industry. Most were honored locally in May 1994.

Three award recipients present to receive their awards were Barbara Duff, former Ruidoso Village Councilor, co-winner of Ruidoso's Citizen of the Year; Clay Bernard of Albuquerque, and Keisha French of Farmington.

Receiving the 1994 Tourism Association of New Mexico President's Award for outstanding service and contributions to TANM and New Mexico Tourism industry was Ed Jungbluth, former executive director of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce.

and as usual, the only cold day we have had occurred in the middle of the parade. I was in fact appreciative that the city fathers decided not to enforce the ban on food booths in the downtown area during Aspencade because the weather certainly sharpened the palate for sampling chile at the cook-off.

The parade was quite a bit longer this year than usual, but it seemed to occasionally give fresh meaning to the phrase "on the verge of disarray". There was an awful lot of space between the horses and the twirlers, but maybe that was by design.

I am still convinced that parades are events designed to create an opportunity for Shriners and law enforcement personnel to act their ages. Oh well, we all need to divert ourselves once in awhile.

which approximately $48 million returns to NM as PILT payments, the user fees would remain in NM to be used for public land administration and improvements, highways, schools, etc. This could also result in a decrease in state income taxes.

NM has a constitutional right to own the public lands within its borders. NM also has a constitutional right to be on an equal footing with the original thirteen states and other eastern states who own the lands within their borders. The people of Lincoln County have an opportunity to begin the process of reclaiming their constitutional rights on Nov. 10th by attending the public hearing and encouraging and supporting the County Commissioners to approve this ordinance.

CAPITAN NOTES

By MAUREEN SULLIVAN

Greetings from my house by the side of the road to your house wherever.

Thank you Jo for the note left in my door regarding the terrific picnic held at your home for the American Legion. (Am still trying to get Mr. Chavez on the telephone to get the list of members and guests that attended, so will try for another week.) Thanks for your note Jo which is as follows: "We just got in last night from Branson, Missouri -- and getting back to the picnic, it was great and we had about 40 folks there. Lester Kluting and Fred Savreda cooked some "mean" hamburgers. We had one prospective new member and family attend and also our Girls State representative and her family, Megan McGarth.

The American Legion Auxiliary sends girls to Girls State every year. Only Megan attended this year, but we hope to have more next year and the American Legion may send boys to Boys State next year also. The American Legion and its members are to be congratulated on the good they do in the community and we are fortunate to have such a good and dedicated group as members. Will still endeavor to get you a list of the party attendees for next week. So hang in there.

And congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Phil Borman on their brand new son, Connor Eli Borman, who made his debut last week, weighing in at 7 lbs. 7 oz. His mother, Michelle Otero Flannagan Borman is very special to me. When I had my style show here quite a few years ago and the girls modeled the beautiful dresses from Brazil, Michelle was one of my beauties. She was a beautiful model and she will be a beautiful mother in every way, that I can assure you. Let me also offer congratulations to the grandparents, Brandy and Esther Flannagan and to the great grandparents Tony and Herman Otero and all the other relatives who are more than proud to claim a relationship to this little bundle of joy. Mr. and Mrs. Borman reside in Nogal and Mr. Borman is a sculptor and bronze artist. Again my congratulations to your brand new son and may God bestow many blessings on each of you.

They say the secret of happiness is to count your blessings and not your birthdays. I try that, but those goshawful birthdays keep coming out on top.

Maturity is that stage of life when you may not see eye to eye with your friends, but you can still walk arm in arm with them.

More important than the kind of house you live in is what kind of "You" is living in the house.

Gloria and Hollis Cummins just returned to Capitan from a lovely trip that included another visit to Branson, Missouri. And speaking of Branson, Jo and Art Blazer also just returned from a trip that ended in Branson, Missouri. Jo reports that the scenery was breathtaking, with all the different colors of the trees and there was so much beauty and so many people visiting there that she wondered how Branson handles so many, many tourists. Some report that they have over 1,000 visitors every day. Glad you all had a good time. Did Capitan look good to you when you returned? Quite a change of pace, I would say.

I just noticed that I did not mention Connor Eli Borman's uncles. Wayne Otero Flannagan who lives in Virginia, but is a graduate of Capitan High School and Michael Otero Flannagan, also a recent graduate of our Capitan High School and who has decided, after a bit of travelling and looking elsewhere, to make Capitan his home. A wise choice, let me add, Michael. And let me say this before I forget. Connor Eli Borman, you are a very fortunate little boy to be born to such lovely parents, grandparents and in fact, the entire family.

The secret of success is not doing what one likes, but liking what one is doing.

Ask God's blessing on your work, but do not expect Him to do it for you.

A few recipes of some of the desserts that were made in "The Good Old Days" as taken from "When I Grew Up Long Ago" by Alvin Schwartz

Walnut Candy
When my grandfather moved to his plantation right after the Civil War he planted black walnut trees on both sides of the road a mile long. By the time I was a boy, those trees were grown and we would go down there each fall and gather up a wagonload of nuts. Then we would crack them open and make walnut candy as follows. First, we'd put brown sugar in a pan with a little water and heat it. When the sugar melted we'd pile in the walnuts and stir 'em all around. Oh was that ever good eatin. Dayton County, Georgia 1900

Brown Sugar Pie
You need a pound of sugar, three eggs and a piece of butter as big as a hen's egg. Then you beat all that up and bake it in a pie shell that is already ready. Then bake it until the filling is firm which is about thirty minutes at 350 degrees. Fincastle, Virginia 1910

Semi-lunar Pies

INVENTION CONVENTION. Capitan 8th grader Ty Davis shows off his invention, lawn mower mud flaps, during the first Capitan Middle School Invention Convention, October 6. or peaches and sweeten them and work them up into a mulch. Then she'd roll out some pie dough and put some fruit on top and fold the dough over so the round edges met. When they were ready she'd put them in a skillet with grease and fry them and turn them and fry 'em some more. And they were just as crisp and so good. Bedford County, Tennessee 1895

Rod Grod
When we had canned fruit my mother would take the juice and stir in potato flour or cornstarch until it thickened into a fruit-juice pudding. Then we'd eat it with cream poured on. Laramie, Wyoming 1910

(This is a Danish dessert. It is pronounced "rohd grohd." Stir in about a tablespoon of cornstarch for every cup of fruit juice. Then heat and stir the mixture until it is clear and thick. Then cool it. If you eat it with cream it becomes "rohd grohd mid flohds." Say that three times fast. I dare you.

Next week will write about the clothing they wore in those good old days, which of course, some of us can remember.

You cannot leave footprints in the sands of time by sitting down, but right at this moment that is what I am doing and if I do not rise and start moving, Rigor Mortis will set in and that will be the end. So if you want some more of the same trivia in next week's column, I had better get this over to Mike so he can stamp it properly and get it into the mail.

And so Adios for now and may, the Good Lord take a likin' to you. Don't forget a little kindness goes a long way in making a better day for you and for someone else.

It's Carrizozo Grizzlies Homecoming 1994!

Carrizozo Schools are in the middle of their homecoming week activities. Wednesday night, the students and the community joined in the traditional bonfire. Today, Thursday, October 13, the Lady Grizzlies volleyball team plays the Fort Sumner Vixen at 4 p.m. in the new gym at Carrizozo Schools.

All day long today, high school students will be participating in a contest that will test the boys' ability to be silent. Each boy will have a ribbon pinned to his shirt, and given a challenge to not speak for the entire day. The high school girls then will try to make the boys talk. If the boy talks, he loses his ribbon. The girl with the most ribbons at the end of the day receives a prize.

Friday is school colors day. Everyone is encouraged to wear the Grizzly colors maroon and silver/gray. Parents are invited to the Pep Assembly at 2:30 in the old gym. At 3:30, the Homecoming '94 parade begins at the school, proceeds up E Ave. to Central Ave., then northeast on 12th Street to Four Winds Restaurant. From the restaurant, the parade will go down Central (Highway 54) back to E. Ave. and end at the school.

Class floats, horses and riders, ball teams, queen and king candidates and their court, the Grizzly Band, fire trucks and others are expected to be in the parade.

Friday night, the Grizzlies football team kicks off with the Hatch Bears at 7:30 p.m. in Laabs Field. At half time, the homecoming court will be introduced and the queen and king will be crowned.

Homecoming '94 queen and king candidates are seniors Amanda Vega and her escort Steve Ortiz, Lynette Hernandez and escort D.J. Vermilion and Natalie Chavez and escort Billy Sheehan.

JOSH HAMMOND RECEIVED SEVERAL AWARDS at the end of the stock car racing season at Pecos Valley Raceway in Roswell at the stock car racing banquet October 1: trophies for points runner up for the second half of the season and third place for the year; plaques for 100 percent participation (perfect attendance) and third place for the season; and a jacket for Sportsmanship from the driver's association. His wife Chris also received a trophy for winning a powder puff race.

Ruidoso Establishes An Annexation Committee

by Doris Cherry

Annexation of certain pockets of county land into the Village of Ruidoso may be beneficial to the municipality. But annexation of other pockets may cost the village more than it will gain.

Determining those advantages and disadvantages has long been a duty of the village planning officer, and sometimes the Planning and Zoning Commission. But the planning officer told the Ruidoso Village Council Tuesday that without an assistant he does not have the time to conduct the studies properly.

Because of this, councilor Robert Donaldson proposed the Annexation Committee, which will be an "ad hoc" group made up of two village councilors, two P&Z members and one village staff member. The committee will be charged with beginning proceedings on annexing tracts into the village that have been recommended by staff and council; research, discuss and recommend to the village council possible annexations that would be beneficial to the village; and to initiate annexation proceedings on any tracts that the village council should authorize.

At one time the village talked about annexing all "pockets" of county land (lands that are surrounded by the village). But the problem is that not all those pockets will be beneficial or economical for the village to annex, Donaldson said. The committee will weigh the benefits with the costs and provide some format to protect growth outside the village borders.

The committee will look at such pockets of county lands as the tract containing the Stroud Building for annexation. That caused mayor pro tem J.D. James concern, because in 1990 the council had requested staff to begin annexation proceedings for that particular tract of property.

Donaldson said he talked with village planning director Cleatus Richards about annexing the Stroud property. Without voluntary annexation by the property owners, the village can force annexation by establishing, through ordinance, a Boundary Commission. The Boundary Commission members are appointed by the governor, and the village will have no input on who is appointed. The commission will study the village's ability to serve the area, and make its final decision, which cannot be appealed.

Richards did not fully agree with creating a Boundary Commission, but he could also see no alternative to annex the Stroud tract. Richards said that annexing such areas as the Stroud tract and Carrizo Canyon is not difficult, because the village already provides utilities to those areas. But in other areas, such as the Watkins Tract, there is no infrastructure (sewer, water, streets) and the cost of annexation would outweigh the benefits.

Village manager Gary Jackson said that the village is now in a boom period, with two hotels to be under construction soon. He said that if the gaming amendment on the November 8 ballot is approved by voters, the village will face lots of planning issues.

In other business, councilor —Heard deputy village manager Alan Briley reported the village has purchased property behind Timbers Mall, off Center Street, to construct a handicapped accessible parking lot. The sidewalk from the lot to Sudderth Drive in Midtown will be rebuilt to Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) slope specifications to provide easy access.

—Approved a workshop for 9 a.m. Monday, October 18, in the council chambers, to discuss Parks and Recreation goals and objectives for parks, facilities and so on. Ruidoso's Parks and Recreation was awarded a New Mexico Parks and Recreation Land and

Corona Volleyball Has Best Season In Years

The Corona High School Volleyball team is enjoying its best season in years. Under first-year coach, Yvette Garcia, the Lady Cardinals have a record, to date, of 7-5 and a second-place trophy from the House Tournament.

Led by Shayla Marshall (All-District last year), Kim Riley, Lindsey Bonds, and senior, Ronda Miller, the girls are playing with a fire not seen in previous years when it was customary to have one victory a season - or less.

Winning is contagious, and with each win, the girls get better. A prime example of this improvement was seen in a match last week against Vaughn. One month ago, Corona beat Vaughn in five games, the last one going down to the wire. It was a match of clumsy sets, diffident maneuvering that allowed several balls to hit the floor unmolested, amateurish bumps, and non-existent digs. Last week, Corona crushed Vaughn in three straight games by playing a power game of sharp sets and thundering spikes, as they completely dominated the Eagles.

Winning is also popular. One can see this in the crowds that show up for the matches, many even make the away games - especially if they are nearby. There were probably more Corona people than Vaughn people at the match up there, and a large group made the trip to Carrizozo earlier in the season.

Winning gives people new ideas about themselves and encourages dreams. Those who have always won can hardly imagine the headiness, even giddiness, that consistent winning produces in those who have never won. Corona will lose only one player this year to graduation, all the rest will return, and already people are talking about next year. This season is being looked upon as one great, long, warm-up for them. But this season is not over yet, the girls are improving each week, and they may yet collect some spoils in 1994.

Crown CowBelles met Thursday, Sept. 7, in the home of Loretta Proctor. Guests for the beef luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Greg Jones, Cathy Yancy, Dub Williams, and Frank Wilson. Williams and Frank are Republican candidates for state representative and district judge. Nine members were present.

The center of attraction was a "monkey faced" wolf spider. After everyone had viewed it, Mrs. Proctor took it outside and set it free.

Lee Sultemeier reported on the field day at NMSU Research Ranch. Crown served 120 lamb and brisket meals. They were assisted by the Corona FFA who received compliments on their helpful attitude.

Report on the nominating committee was accepted. Voting will be at the November meeting.

President Wanda Duke and Lanita Rasak reported on the Beef Cookoff and their turn at the State Fair booth. Margaret Agnew, Los Alamos, was the Cookoff winner. She will represent New Mexico in the National Beef Cookoff in Little Rock, AR. 13,000 people took the Beef Quiz at the State Fair and earned a chance at the beef-filled freezer.

Crown gave $150 to the Corona FFA to help finance their trip to the National Convention and Royal Stock Show in Kansas City.

The meeting ended with a quilting party and a trip up the hill to view the petroglyphs. The next meeting will be on Nov. 3, at the ranch home of Shelly Frost.

Dustin Sultemeier was the winner of the Grand Champion Dairy Goat at Eastern New Mexico State Fair. Rhiannon Alirez took home a first place for her braiding, and a third for her muffins. We are very proud of all the kids who entered projects in the fairs. They represented Corona well.

Mr. and Mrs. Davovich, Eagle Nest, were in Corona to visit friends.

Robin Phieffer has returned home after a three week trip back home to Illinois.

Susan Hope and her grandson, David, Santa Barbara, CA., were in Corona for a visit with Yancy and Walch relatives.

Shawn Perkins has returned from 10 days in Eureka, MT. Rain and snow helped to get the fire under control.

Hale Construction has completed the paving project in the Sloan Simpson subdivision.

Mrs. Liz Painter is interested in starting a Cub Scouts group. Contact her, if you would like to help. Anybody for Brownies?

Mountain Ministry Parish hosted a luncheon for members of their sister Presbytery in Pennsylvania. Members of the Corona, Ancho, and Nogal churches served fajitas to over 40 people from Shenango Presbytery. They were in the area on a mission trip to Sierra Blanca Presbytery.

Adult Onset Diabetes May Go Undiagnosed

by Betty McCreight
Lincoln County
Home Economist

About three percent of middle-aged adults are diabetic, but only half of them are aware of their condition.

Adult onset diabetes is a condition that occurs at any age, but it usually begins in the 40-50 year old age group. Since the symptoms develop gradually it often goes undiagnosed.

Most adults don't realize they are diabetic until they seek medical care for another condition which turns out to be secondary to diabetic.

Some symptoms of adult onset diabetes are itchy skin, blurred vision, excessive nighttime urination, burning or tingling in the extremities, urinary tract infection and sudden unexplained weight loss. Any of these symptoms could be mistaken for something other than diabetes, so the only safe course of action is to get a blood test.

The test is fairly simple. Most diabetics perform blood sugar level tests on themselves. Although it is suggested that you have the test done at the hospital or clinic, if you use one of the home tests, you should consider a fasting blood sugar level of 140 or above warning sign of adult onset diabetes. At this point you should seek medical care.

The best predictor of adult onset diabetes is obesity. About 80 percent or more of those diagnosed are obese. So if you have a history of this type of diabetes in your family, be especially wary of weight gain. The condition is also more frequent in women and often seems related to a stressful event in the person's life.

Adult onset diabetes is usually easy to treat. The symptoms can often be controlled simply by weight loss. Many other cases can be controlled with proper diet and oral medication. Relatively few adult onset diabetics require daily injections of insulin.

If left untreated, diabetes can lead to much accelerated arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) resulting in high blood pressure, heart attacks and strokes. Another common complication is blockage of blood vessels in the extremities that may require amputation.

Cowboy Symposium . . . (Con't. from P. 8)

Sunday, beginning at 8 a.m. each day. Trails vary in length and difficulty.

At noon Saturday the World's Richest Chuckwagon Cook-off will open to the public for tasting. Cooks will be competing for the grand prize of $2,500 and other prizes totaling $5,600. The cook-off will cost $10 a person. Each chuckwagon can only serve 35 people, and organizers encourage the purchase of advance tickets by calling 505-378-4142.

The Symposium will also feature the Mescalero Apache dancers, and Hispanic dancers on Sunday.

General admission to the Symposium is $7 a person per day (excluding the night dance and chuckwagon meal) and children under 12 are free. Gates open at 8 a.m.

A team roping will be held Saturday at the Tully Arena, one mile west of Glencoe. Roping starts at 9 a.m. with entry time at 8:30 a.m.

The Symposium was originated by Ray Reed, an old time country western performer who saw the success of a similar cowboy symposium in Lubbock Texas about five years ago. Reed's intent was to establish an event that would champion the real cowboy, and the cowboy way of life. Reed was the Grand Marshal of the Ruidoso Masquerade on Oct. 8. See y'all there!
