

Tuesday Is Election Day

by Doris Cherry

Election Day is Tuesday, November 8.

The ballot will contain the names of candidates for federal, state and county offices, 13 state constitutional amendment questions and four bond questions.

At the election this year, voters whose registration cards indicate that they reside in the county (not Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona, Ruidoso or Ruidoso Downs), they will receive a special paper ballot asking them to answer 'yes or no to the question of whether restaurant licenses for the sale of beer and wine be issued in the "local option district," which is the county areas outside of the municipalities.

At the polls the county voters will drop their completed paper ballots into a box. Their regular voting will be on the electronic voting machine.

The following is a recap of the ballot which will appear on the electronic voting machines at the polls. The only difference in the ballots is the names of candidates for County Commissioner District 2, 4 and 5. Districts 1 and 3 have no candidates this election.

On the ballots (absentee or voting machine) voters can choose to vote "straight party". If the voter completes the arrow on the absentee ballot beside the preferred party, Democratic, Republican or Green, or pushes the button beside the party on the ballot in the election booth, the voter has chosen to vote for candidates of that party only and voting is thus completed.

Voters who wish to choose candidates separately do so by filling out the arrow to the right of the preferred candidate on absentee paper ballots or pushing the square to the right of the preferred candidate on the ballot in the voting machine.

The candidates, in the same order as listed on the ballots, are as follows:

FEDERAL OFFICES:
United States Senator (six year term): Democratic Party Jeff Bingaman; Republican Party Colin R. McMillan; Declared write-in candidates Republican Party Orlin G. Cole, and New Mexico Independent Party Francesca Lobato.

United States Representative, Congressional District 2 (two-year term): Democratic Party Benjamin Anthony Chavez; Republican Party Joe Skeen; Green Party Rex R. Johnson.

STATE OFFICES:
Governor and Lt. Governor (vote for one pair) (four year term): Democratic Party Bruce King and Patricia Madrid; Republican Party Gary E. Johnson and Walter D. Bradley; Green Party Roberto A. Mondragon and Steven J. Schmidt.

Secretary of State (four year term): Democratic Party Stephanie Gonzales; Republican Party Gloria F. Baca-Griego.

State Auditor (four year term): Democratic Party Rob-

Dedication Ceremony For Carrizozo Veterans Memorial November 11th

On November 11 America stops to remember the men and women who have served in the armed forces.

At 2 p.m. Friday, November 11, Carrizozo veterans will formally dedicate their Veterans Memorial and install a plaque.

The memorial is located in the small park across the street from Carrizozo City Hall.

Several Carrizozo veterans collaborated on the design and construction of the memorial. Bud Payne installed the flagpole, and a POW flag was donated by T.J. Collins, a veteran and former resident of Carrizozo who recently died.

The POW flag, and the U.S. Flag and New Mexico flag are lighted with electricity provided at no charge by Otero County Electric Cooperative, Inc.

After the 2 p.m. ceremony, a reception will be held in Town Hall conference room.

All veterans and the public are invited to attend the ceremony.

Hospital Auxiliary Blood Drive To Be Held Wednesday

There is an urgent need for blood donors. The Lincoln County Medical Center hospital auxiliary will conduct a blood drive in the education annex just west of the hospital Wednesday, Nov. 9 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

It is recommended that donors eat a low-fat meal before going to donate blood.

The entire donation process takes about 30 minutes. Donors relax in a comfortable chair while the unit of blood is collected.

Donating blood is safe, all materials are sterile, used only once and then discarded.

Blood donors must weigh at least 110 pounds and be 17 years of age and older. Minor donor permit cards are available that can be signed by a parent and/or guardian of donors 17 years old.

Each unit of blood can be separated into different components: (1) red blood cells, used by surgery patients; (2) plasma, for those who have suffered burns or trauma; (3)

NEW LINCOLN COUNTY EMERGENCY SERVICES COORDINATOR Connie Hopper assumed her position on Monday, October 31. Former coordinator Maggi Bohks (right) will stay on until November 15 to help Hopper transit into the position. After November 15, Bohks plans to retire and do some traveling with her husband.

Ruidoso Requires Building To Code

by Doris Cherry

It better be built to code in Ruidoso or it may be condemned.

Ruidoso Village Council upheld a Planning and Zoning decision to require retired property owner Flavio Vigil to tear down a partially constructed two-story addition on his 35 foot wide lot in the village's oldest subdivision.

The council heard Vigil's appeal to the P&Z decision, which it had allowed because of alleged errors committed by P&Z. Ruidoso attorney Don Dutton represented Vigil, who was also present.

Held much like a trial with witnesses sworn to tell the truth, a first for the village council, Dutton and village attorney John Underwood asked questions which ultimately determined Vigil had not obtained a building permit before he began the addition, and he had violated several building codes with the construction. He said he was

Public Invited To Watch As Election Results Are Talled

by Doris Cherry

Registered voters in Lincoln County who have been issued an absentee ballot may do early voting in person through Saturday, November 5, at the Lincoln County Clerk's Office in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

The clerk's office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday only to accommodate the early absentee voters.

After Saturday, absentee ballots may still be turned in to the clerk's office, but the person to whom the ballot is issued may not early vote in person. Absentee ballots will be received by the clerk's office until 7 p.m. Tuesday, November 8, Election Day.

Voters wishing to cast an absentee ballot must have their applications for the ballot in to the clerk's office by 5 p.m. today, Thursday, November 3. According to elections deputy Sam Chavez, today is the last day the clerk's office will mail out absentee ballots also.

Early voting absentee ballots will be available until 5 p.m. Saturday, November 5. Voters may receive the early voting absentee ballots by filling out an application in the clerk's office and receiving the ballot immediately. The voter must complete the ballot at the courthouse and turn it in to be scanned by an Optec machine to count the votes.

As of Wednesday, November 2, the clerk's office had issued 1076 absentee ballots. Of those issued, 851 have been returned to the clerk's office. Of those 851 absentee ballots returned, 255 voters chose to do in-person early absentee voting at the courthouse.

Registered voters will have their final opportunity to cast their ballots on the electronic voting machines at their respective precincts from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Election Day, Tuesday, November 8.

Lincoln County Clerk Martha Proctor invites the public to come to the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo after the polls close on election night to watch as election results are tallied. Refreshments will be served.

Public Can Challenge Land Lease

Ordinance 94-23 approved by the Ruidoso Village Council on October 25 approving the lease of 3.77 acres to Allhub Investments, Inc. for construction of a resort hotel has 70 days before it becomes effective.

During the next 60 days, sometime before December 24, the public can challenge the lease by calling for a referendum (vote) of the qualified electors in the village of Ruidoso by petition. The petition must contain at least 15 percent of the registered voters.

The official petition form is available only from Ruidoso Municipal Clerk Tammie Maddox.

Maddox told THE NEWS Wednesday that no one has requested a petition and she has had no requests for information.

A special election costs on average about $3,000.

If no referendum is called for, the ordinance will become effective around January 5.

The 70 days provision is provided for ordinances dealing with the sale or lease of municipal owned property with an assessed value over $25,000. The 3.77 acres of the

CARRIZOZO TOWN CLERK Carol Schlarb is now an advanced certified municipal clerk. Schlarb completed her studies with the Academy of Advanced Education on October 20. She earned her initial certification in 1987 and continued to work toward the advanced degree. With the degree she received a bronze pin, which she is shown wearing. The main focus of the Academy study was communication, where Schlarb found out that the 11 other clerks enrolled in the study shared similar problems. Her attendance to the Academy was paid for by Carrizozo Town Council. Schlarb formally thanked the council during the regular town meeting October 25. "Everything I learn benefits the town, and myself," Schlarb said. "The learning never ends."

AMENDMENTS

The following New Mexico Constitutional Amendments and Bond questions are also listed on the ballot.

AMENDMENT 1: Proposes to amend Article 12 of the Constitution of New Mexico by eliminating the recall of local school board members.

AMENDMENT 2: Proposing Amendment to Article 2, Section 14, to increase the minimum number of signatures required on a grand jury petition to the greater of two percent of the registered voters of the county, or 200 voters.

AMENDMENT 3: Proposes an amendment to Article 12, Section 13 of the state constitution to add a student member to the Board of Regents at each public institution of higher education.

AMENDMENT 4: Proposing to amend Article 5, Section 14 of the state constitution to change the name of the State Highway Commission to the State Transportation Commission.

AMENDMENT 6: Proposing to amend Article 9, Section 10, of the state constitution to authorize counties to borrow money to repair public buildings and to acquire real estate for open space and other public purposes.

AMENDMENT 7: Proposing an amendment to Article 14 of the state constitution to change the name of the New Mexico State Hospital at Las Vegas to the NEW MEXICO

CENTER FOR GERONTOLOGY AND PSYCHIATRY.

AMENDMENT 8: Proposing to amend Article 20 of the state constitution to ADD a NEW SECTION to permit a statewide Lottery and Certain Games of Chance.

AMENDMENT 9: Proposing to amend Article 9, Section 14, of the state constitution to permit public support of economic development opportunities when authorized by law.

AMENDMENT 10: Proposing to amend Article 6 of the state constitution increasing the number of votes required for judicial retention elections.

AMENDMENT 11: Proposing to amend Article 7, Section 1 of the constitution to change certain voter qualification restrictions.

AMENDMENT 12: Proposing to amend Article 8, Section 10 of the constitution to increase the severance tax permanent fund by requiring the earnings of the fund to be deposited in it and providing for the limited distributions from the fund.

AMENDMENT 13: Proposing to amend Article 12, Sections 2, 4, and 7 to increase the Land Grant Permanent Fund by requiring earnings of the fund to be deposited to the credit of those funds and providing for limited distributions from the funds.

AMENDMENT 14: Proposing to amend Article 4, Section 10 to provide legislative per diem and mileage and other expenses at an amount not to exceed rates adopted under the Internal Revenue Code.

BOND QUESTIONS

The four bond questions are as follows:

BOND QUESTION A: The 1994 Capital Projects General Obligation Bond Act authorizes the issuance and sale of senior citizen facility improvements, equipment and vehicle bonds. Shall the State of New Mexico be authorized to issue general obligation bonds in an amount not to exceed $3,704,732 to make capital expenditures for certain senior citizens facility improvements, equipment and vehicles and provide for a general property tax imposition and levy for payment of principal of and interest on, and expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of the bonds and the collection of the tax as permitted by law?

BOND QUESTION B: The 1994 Capital Projects General Obligation Bond Act authorizes the issuance and sale of state public educational capital improvements and acquisition bonds. Shall the State of New Mexico be authorized to issue general obligation bonds in an amount not to exceed $61,251,200 to make capital expenditures for certain state public educational capital improvements and acquisitions and provide for a general property tax imposition and levy for payment and principal of and interest on, and expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of the bonds and the collection of the tax as permitted by law?

BOND QUESTION C: The 1994 Capital Projects General Obligation Bond Act authorizes the issuance and sale of public library acquisition bonds. Shall the State of New Mexico be authorized to issue general obligation bonds in an amount not to exceed $2,530,000 to make capital expenditures for public library acquisitions and provide for a general property tax imposition and levy for payment of principal of and interest on and expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of the bonds and the collection of the tax as permitted by law?

BOND QUESTION D: The 1994 Capital Projects General Obligation Bond Act authorizes the issuance and sale of hospital equipment acquisition bonds. Shall the State of New Mexico be authorized to issue general obligation bonds in an amount not to exceed $730,000 to make capital expenditures for hospital equipment acquisition and provide for a general property tax imposition and levy for payment of principal of and interest on and expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of the bonds and the collection of the tax as permitted by law?

Early absentee voting, (where the voter goes to the clerk's office in person, requests a ballot and completes it in person at that time,) continues at the Lincoln County Clerk's office in the courthouse in Carrizozo until 5 p.m. Saturday, November 5. Voters who have been issued an absentee ballot, may return those completed ballots to the clerk's office until 7 p.m. Tuesday, November 8.

Voters who cast a paper absentee ballot will be asked to complete both sides of the ballot. The 13 Constitutional Amendments and the four Bond Questions are listed on the side opposite of the ballot from the candidates.

On the voting machine the amendments and bond questions are to the right of the list of candidates.

Voters who cast ballots on the electronic machines cast their ballots by pressing the square next to their candidates of choice, and their preferred responses to the amendments and bond questions. The square will light up once it is pushed. A voter can change the response, if he or she has not pushed the button to complete the voting, by pushing the square again, and the light will go out. The voter can then make the change by pressing the square next to the corrected choice.

To complete the voting process, the voter must push the large red square on the panel at the bottom of the machine. A small electronic noise will sound, indicating the ballots are cast and voting is over for that individual.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on General Election Day, Tuesday, November 8.

For more information about early absentee voting, or any other information about the election call the Lincoln County Clerk's Office in the courthouse in Carrizozo at 1-505-648-2394.

Carrizozo Woman's Club Plans Activities For Year

The Carrizozo Woman's Club has many activities planned for the coming year. Members extend a warm invitation to all ladies in the community to attend the meetings. The Woman's Club is a civic organization whose purpose is to help the community's growth and welfare, but at the same time provide fellowship and fun.

The October meeting netted four new members. After a buffet supper, the ladies were entertained by the barber shop quartet of Helen Lock, Eva Zumwalt, Phyllis Schlegel and Betty McCreight, followed by a presentation on stress management. Mickey Davidson, a health educator with LCMC in Ruidoso, was the guest speaker.

President Ruth Birdsong and Sue Stearns attended the GFWC NMFWC District IV convention held in Alamogordo October 14 and 15. All members entering the Arts and Crafts competition received ribbons. These items may be seen at Norwest Bank in the display case. Winners and their crafts are: Loomed Placemats - Ann Burington, first place; wreath - Betty McCreight, first; Quilted vest - Carole Stromberg, second; wreath - Ann Beuman, second; Painted Tolle Figurines -

Ann Beuman, first and second in two categories; crocheted rug - Ruth Birdsong, third; Poetry - Ruth Birdsong, first; short story - Ruth Birdsong, first; Painted and Appliqued T-shirt - Ruth Birdsong. The Carrizozo Club also won first place for their scrapbook which Ruth Birdsong compiled and which was dedicated to her son.

The TLC (Tutoring and Lending Library for Children) is now open in the new space at the Carrizozo Rec Center. Hours are Mondays and Wednesdays from 4:00 - 6:00 p.m. and Saturday from noon to 4:00 p.m. Story hour for children of all ages starts at noon on Saturdays and all children are invited to attend. An Open House will be held Saturday, Nov. 5 with refreshments.

The November 10 meeting will feature a program by Betty McCreight and Rachel Rominger on Christmas crafts. Ladies are invited to attend. For a list of materials to bring, contact Betty at the Lincoln County Extension Service office, 648-2311.

The 8th annual Carrizozo Woman's Club Holiday Hoedown will be held Saturday, Dec. 3 in the Woman's Club building. The public is invited to attend.

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Don't Forget To Vote!

By Ruth Hammond

Next week at this time the 1994 election will be history, or rather it should be history by that time. The votes will be counted, and the winners and their friends and supporters will celebrate. Even though more people enjoy elections and campaigning than will admit it, many will be glad when their lives return to normal and the hoopla of the elections has ended. It is at that time all sides will have to work together to try to make our government work correctly, which will be a difficult task.

Most of us have ideas about how government should work but few of us have actual working solutions to the problems that face all forms of government, from local to county to state to federal. What might appear to be a simple remedy could involve piles of paperwork, compliance with regulations, numerous phone calls, legal interpretations, and most important, working together.

When we work together for a common cause the chances are more than good that we will be pleased with the results. When we work together for a common cause it gives us all a feeling of accomplishment. When we work together for a common cause we measure our success in the little things we do together. We have to take little steps before we can make giant strides.

Working together means each person is included. Working together means more time is spent doing constructive things than in criticizing. Working together means each person is a member of the team, regardless of how much or how little that person is capable of, or can afford to contribute to the team.

Contributions can be made in many ways and each is needed to ensure success. Whether a person volunteers time or gives money or other material items, or whether a person's training and experience is the contribution, each one is important.

The damage that is done by excluding a person or group of people in any supposedly united effort can harm not only those who have been excluded but can cause problems for everyone.

Many people have things to offer, and quite often all they need is to be asked to be a member of the group. Many people will not volunteer without being asked. Many people are afraid of intruding and will not take that first step because they have the feeling a group or organization only wants a select few.

Elections give some of these people an opportunity to be a member of a group. Elections give some of these people the chance to feel like they belong because all contributions, whether a gift of time or money, are gladly accepted and appreciated. Elections give some of these people a once-in-a-lifetime chance to feel like winners, even if their chosen candidates do not win.

It is the working together that gives these people the feeling that they are doing something worthwhile. It is the working together that gives these people a sense of well-being. It is the working together that reinforces the importance of teamwork.

Working together is important in everything we do, at home, at work, and in the community. Working together is important when we volunteer our time. Working together is important when we want to accomplish things, small or large.

Those who worked together before the elections will continue to work together after the votes have been tallied. It is those people who get things done by working together. It would be nice if all people were willing to work together as a team.

When the votes are tallied, the winners will have to work to help bring the people together once again. They will have to mend fences without the barbed wire. They will have to mop up, clean up, and scrub between the cracks in an effort to make certain each and every spot of dirt has been removed. They will have to work harder to bring the people back together than they did to win the election. It won't be easy.

Be On The Winning Team. Vote!

LETTERS

EDITOR—The collapse of the Soviet Union did not surprise me. I predict that the following socialist countries will also collapse: China, Viet Nam, North Korea, Cuba and "the United States."

We are becoming a socialistic country. As history has proven, this type of nation cannot flourish.

Consider the following excerpts from the communist doctrine, for the establishment of socialism:

1. A total ban on private firearms (this is critical).
2. A large police force.
3. Governmental control of all businesses and properties.
4. Drastic restrictions on the citizens' rights and privileges.
5. Vast control of the peoples' private and public affairs.
6. Citizenry dependency upon the government.
7. A common enemy (i.e. the wealthy).
8. Through social programs, redistribution of the country's wealth.
9. Only "politically-correct" speech is allowed.
10. Governmental indoctrination of the citizenry; especially the children.
11. Drastic restrictions on the freedom of religion.
12. Everyone, with the exception of the ruling class, basically receives the same pay, promotions, and benefits no matter their abilities or initiative. This moves everyone toward the nonproductive workers; therefore, reducing productivity and causing severe shortages. This is one of the main reasons why socialism fails.

I also predict the following:

1. Our governmental policies and the "radical" environmentalists are driving the farmers, ranchers, loggers, miners, etc. from the land. This will probably cause a severe shortage of food, shelter, minerals, etc.
2. An "One World Government" will presumably take control of the World's armed forces and redistribute our nation's wealth to the Third World Countries.

There are other factors which will lead to our likely demise (E.G. the national debt, break up of the family, greed, immortality, lack of integrity, hatred, selfishness, apathy, drugs, crime, frivolous civil law suits, zero population growth of the intellectuals, etc.)

I sincerely hope that I am wrong! I spent 20 years of my life, as a soldier, protecting our great country from the communist threat. It saddens me that we have become "our own worst enemy." Fortunately, I have no children!

FRANKLIN L. BOREN, Tinnie.

THE OTHER SIDE

Well, so much for promptness. My lead item in last week's column boasted to the world that I had written my column early for two weeks in a row, but this week I have backslid (religious term) into my old habits. I guess this old dog just ain't gonna reform, no matter what brand of dog biscuits you tempt him with. It is Wednesday morning, and I'm again under the gun to get this finished and to the printer with undue dispatch, or whatever other more descriptive phrase may be, before someone shouts at me.

After extensive and careful research, I have confirmed that you really can get just as intoxicated on water as you can on land.

As you will recall, not only was I prompt in writing my column last week, I also wrote about daylight savings time before it happened. Well, now it has and so am I. I have all of my clocks turned back to whatever time it has been determined to be by those who determine such things but I still can't face the morning without four gallons of coffee to temper the pain of again anticipating reality.

Chit-chat: irr. n. What you talk about when you haven't got anything else to say. Also described as conversation without visible means of support. The more you say the less you mean, and if you persist you can get deeper and deeper into the non-subject without fear of committing intelligible comment.

(How was that for a lead-in to the political scene?)

Concerning politics, this is to advise you that next Tuesday is election day, and it is your duty as a citizen to select your duly-qualified representatives for the next term of office and get them off the streets. Maybe my suspicions were right after all. I have long thought that elections were not for the purpose of electing representatives to office but rather to terminate campaigning. And it is about time because the candidates have nearly exhausted their instant-recall vocabulary of descriptive terms for each other. Why say anything of substance when you can talk about your opponent's deficiencies? On matters of substance, you are in danger of making a statement that someone might feel is debatable, but whatever you say about your adversary is probably true.

It's pretty obvious that my mind isn't on what I am doing this morning. Every train of thought I've had so far has jumped the track before it got to the station. (That might make a good country song. "Oh baby, my track has a bump in it, chis-chis-chis.")

The best comment I have heard lately concerning the issue of "term limits" came from an acquaintance of mine who has been in the state senate for a number of years. He said that imposing term limits would have the effect of strengthening the control of the bureaucracy in managing the affairs of government because it takes some time for a political representative to become effective in his job. In other words, if, for example, you limited him to two consecutive terms, in the first one, he would be learning how, and in the second, he wouldn't care. The concept of term limits is generally advocated.

Inside The Capitol

SANTA FE—Santa may have been founded as much as 10 years earlier than thought.

Further study of those Spanish documents found in London reveal that Santa Fe's beginning may date back to as early as 1600. It appears that 1608 was the latest a settlement could have been started at Santa Fe—making the Royal City at least two years older than history books tell us.

That puts Santa Fe in the same league as Jamestown, which was founded in 1607, but far short of St. Augustine, Florida, which dates back to 1565. But then neither of those settlements have been continuously inhabited and no buildings still survive.

Additional light also has been shed on how those documents we've known about for 50 years were finally uncovered. The London documents purveying firm, cited in a 1944 research article, originally said it no longer had the material.

But Homer Milford, an Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department staffer, stopped by the firm while in London doing mining research and asked who the documents were sold to. When no record could be found, Milford asked if he could do some looking of his own in a closet of miscellaneous documents. And that's where the 62 handwritten pages were found.

Negotiations followed and it appears the Museum of New Mexico Foundation paid around $25,000 for the documents.

Tom Chavez, director of the Palace of the Governors, says New Mexico is now on the trail of other documents relating to our past that may still lay undiscovered in Europe.

The first public inkling of the documents' discovery came when Chavez followed Santa Fe Mayor Debbie Jaramillo in welcoming members of the Camino Real Economic Alliance to Santa Fe a month ago. Chavez mentioned the 1607 founding date and then teased the mayor saying, "I'll soon have something new to tell you about the founding of your city."

Museum staff now know that the recently discovered documents were gathered in the late 1700s and early 1800's by the family of Santa Fe's likely founder, Juan Martinez de Montoya, who hoped to impress the Spanish crown enough to name them hidalgos, a rank of nobility.

No evidence has been found that the effort worked, but 200 years later New Mexico scholars are excited and Santa Fe tourism promoters are eagerly anticipating an earlier celebration of the city's 400th anniversary.

Mayor Jaramillo says she's pleased with the Museum's success in finding out more about the establishment of her city, but she's not exactly turning cartwheels.

For one thing, the mayor doesn't especially like sharing her city with tourists and the prospect of even more makes her groan.

And secondly, the often-controversial Jaramillo says she's figured out what's behind this suddenly-successful research that could have begun 50 years ago when a University of New Mexico history professor first used the documents to write a scholarly article.

Jaramillo notes that the document search began about the time she was elected to a four-year term as mayor last March. "By making Santa Fe two or three years older, I think they're just trying to shorten my term," the new mayor says.

And pity those poor Santa Fe tour guides who will have to learn a new date for Santa Fe's founding every time another document is discovered.

But then some of the guides have been making up their facts for quite a while anyway. Orlando Romero, director of the state History Library, located just off the Plaza, says tourists keep coming to his library to verify wild stories they have heard from misguided guides.

Romero's favorite was a guide who told tour groups that the Native Americans who once populated Santa Fe were totally wiped out by a volcano near Ft. Marcy that buried them in ash.

At Romero's suggestion, several of the tour companies have created a certification test to help insure their employees know what they're talking about—before the government steps in with another licensing agency.

Pay Increase Approved For Disabled Veterans' Benefits

Service-disabled veterans in New Mexico will receive a 2.8 percent increase in their compensation payments, effective December 1, according to Ray W. Hall, Albuquerque VA Regional Office director.

The nationwide cost-of-living allowance was included in legislation signed by President Clinton on October 25. New Mexico veterans will begin receiving the higher payments in their January 1995 checks, Hall said.

The new increase will affect 45,316 veterans in New Mexico and more than 2.2 million veterans nationwide. Their monthly compensation payments will now range from $89 for a single veteran with a 10-percent disability rating to $1,823 for a single veteran with a 100-percent disability rating.

Also affected in New Mexico are 9,617 survivors of veterans or service members who died from service-connected causes. Nationwide, the increase will benefit 340,000 survivors.

Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated 30 percent or higher may receive additional allowances for dependents, based on the number of dependents and extent of disability.

Veterans or their survivors who have any question on how the cost-of-living allowance would affect them, are invited to call the Albuquerque VA Regional Office at 1-800-527-1000 or (505) 766-3361.

For the Love of Gregory

by Joann Rice

Editor's Note: This column relates a five-year-old's conversations with his grandmother. For the Love of Gregory

Attitude Adjustment

Gregory and I were sitting side by side at the table. We were reading a book. It was Sunday. Suddenly he pushed the book away and said, "I can't handle any more of this with all my problems."

"How can a five year old have problems?"

"Believe me," he said, "when you live in my house, you got problems."

"And what might they be?" I asked.

"Parents. Can't live wiv 'em, can't live wivout 'em," he moaned.

"Well, I'm rather fond of your parents."

"They get on my nerves."

"Well," says I, "now that you mention it, they sometimes get on my nerves, too. But so do you."

He cut his eyes disgustedly up at me and said, "Well, you're no piece of cake, Queen Mother."

"Touche," says I. "But go on about your parents."

"For instance," he said, "just the other day, I told Mom to help me clean my room. But nooo, did she do it? She just wouldn't listen. And I told Dad to get ice cream when he went to the store. But he didn't listen either."

"Just won't mind you, huh?"

"Not a whit."

"Well, Gregory. I was under the impression that they were the boss," I said.

"That's just it. They got the same idea."

"Not so, huh?"

"Not the way I see it," he said. "But they'll be sorry when I runned away."

"Where are you going to go?"

"Why here of course."

"But I don't want you to live here," I told him.

"Way to go, Queen Mother. Just when I need you the most." He shook his head in disgust.

"I think you should stay home and straighten up and fly right, Gregory."

"Well, since I have no place, to go, thanks to you, I won't runned away. And I'll straighten up my act a little. But, "he warned, shaking his finger at me, "I'm not going to eat green peas, take a bath, or change my underwear."

"OK, just be a grubby, scurvy ridden brat."

"I don't know what that is, but it sounds OK to me," he answered. "And you know something else I'm not going to do? I'm not going to stop hiding cookies in my room."

"Well, then, I guess your teeth will fall out too," I said.

With that he headed toward the door saying, "I'm going home and give my parents a major attitude adjustment. And then, I'm going to come back here and give you one." Then he said softly, "I love you, Queen Mother."

Local Students Named to Nat'l Dean's List

A total of 10 students from Lincoln County are among the more than 114,000 students included in the 17th Annual Edition of The National Dean's List just published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois.

Students are selected for this honor by their college deans, registrars or honor society advisors and must be in the upper 10% of their class, on their school's dean's list or have earned a comparable honor. Listed students are eligible to compete for $25,000 in scholarship awards funded by the publisher and may also use a referral service for future employment opportunities. More than 2,500 colleges and universities nationwide use the publication to recognize their academically qualified students.

Local students selected include: Carrizozo-Raphael J. Chavez, Western New Mexico University; Capitan-Myrum Melinda Whitaker, Adams State College; Corona-Candice L. Byrd, Eastern New Mexico University at Roswell; Fort Stanton-Erin K. Keller, Oral Roberts University, and Lewis Kern, Eastern New Mexico University at Roswell; Ruidoso-Penny L. ated by those who are dissatisfied with how things are because they think it affords an opportunity to change the course of government, but in the administrative arena, it usually doesn't matter who is elected because the machinery is still going to operate in much the same manner. The political process is pretty much set in stone no matter who is whipping the oxen. And if it were really true that the country is going to the dogs, we would have been eating Alpo a long time ago.

Tigers Host State Class A Quarterfinal Saturday

The Capitan Tigers are the District 5A football champions.

The Tigers now go into the quarter finals of the State Class A football championship. The Tigers will host the Dulce Hawks at 2 p.m. Saturday, November 5, at Tiger Stadium in Capitan.

Dulce has a 2-6 record for the regular season and is second place in District 2A.

The Tigers finished their season 9-1, with their defeat of the Carrizozo Grizzlies Oct. 28.

Other teams playing in the quarter finals on Saturday will be the second-placed District 5A team Cloudercroft (5-4) which plays at District 2A winner Escalante (4-4) at 2 p.m., and District 1A second place team Texico (5-5) which plays at District 4A champion Jal (7-2), also at 2 p.m.

District 5A second place team Tatum (5-5) plays at District 1A Champion Fort Sumner (10-0) at 7 p.m. Friday, November 4.

This is the first time since 1987 that the Tigers are district champions in football. The Tigers clinched that goal Friday, when the Grizzlies defaulted at half time with the score 47-0. The Grizzlies had no players left, and were plagued with injuries.

The Capitan boys had no losses during district play, and only one loss during regular play to Texico, which is in District 1A and is second behind Fort Sumner.

Season passes will not be honored at the gate at Saturday's game.

Lady Tigers Claim 6-AA District Title

What a year for Capitan sports!

The Tigers football team is district champs and the girls volleyball Lady Tigers team also claimed the District 6-AA title.

The first year for Class AA play in volleyball, the Lady Tigers won the district championship by defeating the Dexter Lady Demons on their home court in four games: 15-12, 3-15, 15-12 and 15-9.

The girls got to the district final by defeating Cloudercroft in four games in Capitan

Thursday.

The Lady Tigers will host the Class AA Region G playoff and championship on Saturday, November 5. The Lady Tigers will play the Hatch Lady Bears at 10 a.m., which will be followed by the Dexter vs. Animas match at about 12 noon. The regional championship match will begin at 7 p.m. in Cummins Gym at Capitan High School.

Admission will be $3 for adults and $2 for students. Season passes will not be honored.

first "red tagged" by the village building inspector on December 21, 1993 because of several building code violations and because there was no building permit. The Stop Work Order was again issued by the village building inspector on April 7, 1994 after the first order had been removed. The inspector had recommended the construction violations be corrected, and a permit obtained.

Vigil's construction then went before the village planning and zoning commission, which suggested several options to remedy the situation. One option of obtaining additional property to the rear, to provide for the 20 foot rear yard set back, was unfeasible because the property owner did not want to sell.

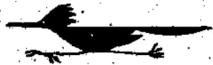

The 35 x 100 foot lot is in Pine Lodge Subdivision, one of the first in the village after it incorporated in 1947. According to modern village standards, the lot is substandard because of its size. Single family residential minimum lot size is 10,000 square feet with side yards of 20 feet in rear and front and 20 feet each side. Many of the older cabins were not built to modern building codes.

Vigil's construction crowded the rear of the lot and the addition was built touching a large pine tree. P&Z had advised him to place the addition to the front of the existing structure, but Vigil argued that it would take away all his parking, and was an unnecessary hardship and would deprive him use of his property.

Vigil's attorney Dutton requested the council to reconsider the P&Z decision to force Vigil to tear down the addition, and to grant him the variance to the side yard set back and ask Vigil to bring the structure to code with a set time limit. Engineer John Shaw was also sworn in and asked if the construction could be brought to code, which he said could be done with several modifications.

Vigil said he had grown up on a ranch near San Antonio, New Mexico where they did what they wanted on their property. He said he wanted to come to Ruidoso to be part of the community.

But the council unanimously upheld the P&Z recommendation to have Vigil remove the construction, then apply for a building permit and a variance to the side set backs for a new addition on the front of the building. The council's purpose was to hear the appeal based on any errors made by P&Z in its determination. The council found that P&Z had committed no errors.

Allhub Investments, Inc. proposed to construct a $15 million, 152-room resort hotel next to the Ruidoso Convention Civic Center. The mission style facility will feature an indoor atrium and a huge stone fireplace in the lobby. The exterior will have rock facade and stucco in a color compatible to the civic center. The hotel will also have a restaurant with break out meeting rooms. A third phase will depend on the success of the hotel and could feature a health spa and golf course lounge.

Hotel manager and designer told the Ruidoso Village Council that they looked all over New Mexico and Arizona for a resort to compare to the proposed hotel and found that the design compares with the Princess Resort in Scottsdale, Arizona.

CAPITAN NOTES

Greetings from my old house by the side of the road to your house wherever.

First with the announcements:

Mike Currin, our postmaster, gave me this and I quote: Special thanks to all those that participated in the voting for the best decorated pumpkin at the (hopefully) "First Annual Pumpkin Contest" which was recently held in our village of Capitan. There were more than 200 votes cast and even though it was a close vote, Dottie McVeigh's class took top honors. They were treated on Thursday, Oct. 27, to pizza, soft drinks and cookies.

Thanks also to Ruidoso State Bank for the space to showcase each pumpkin and to Cummins Grocery for their donation of the 13 pumpkins.

If you missed the opportunity to vote, keep it on your calendar for next year and hopefully, it will be just as successful.

AND... The State meeting of the Family Community Education Association was held in Gallup, Oct. 19-22 and was attended by Helen Lock, council president, Betty McCreaight, home economist, Lucia Vega, Carrizozo club president and all of Carrizozo, Geri Tully, La Junta club president, Inez Marrs and Rosalee Dunlap, from Hondo Valley. Alice Phelps and Edith Malcolm from Capitan, Jo Blazer, Capitan president had to cancel due to a death in her family. Geri Tully was elected Coordinator for Programs and Inez Marrs was elected Chairman of District IV. We are proud to have these "gals" from our Lincoln County representing our district. They are both dedicated and very capable gals.

AND... The Capitan AFCE (Extension Club) meeting for November will be held Wednesday, Nov. 9 at the Capitan Senior Center, beginning at 9:30 a.m. There will be a $3 charge for the lunch.

Program: "Memory", presented by Edith Malcolm.

Craft project "Potpourri" will be presented by Angie Provine. The supplies you need to bring are dry flower petals, fragrance oil and fixative.

The Christmas Dinner will be held on Dec. 14 at 9:30 a.m. following the December meeting at the home of Angie Provine.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Elaine Beaudry and Frances Shaw.

The election, most folks know when they walk into the voting booth the names they are going to underscore. Me? I still have no idea and only because I think that voting is a privilege and we each, as citizens of this great country, owe it to the candidates to cast our ballots, I still get so incensed over the way the campaigns are conducted and the tremendous amount of money that is sloshed around, with so many needy families in the area that sometimes I have to hold my mouth when I cast my vote for fear of throwing up. But be sure and vote anyway. Remember some places you aren't allowed to. However methinks that there should be some other options for us on the ballot. Namely, cost of campaigns, term limits, limit on television visibility for starters. Have more, but am running out of space.

And so Adios for another week. May the week be a good one for you and may the good Lord answer all your prayers and petitions.

Capitan Class Visits Moscow Circus Group

Capitan High School World History Class had a short visit with Eastern European people last week.

The 35 mostly sophomores, their World History teacher Myrum Whitaker, and sponsors Ace Griego, John Whitaker, Jan LaRue and bus driver Jack Johnson traveled to Albuquerque on October 26 to see the Moscow Circus. But what they saw was more than the average spectator, they got a back stage look at the European circus.

Whitaker got her class interested in the circus after she saw an ad for it in the Albuquerque Journal. She told her class about it, and mentioned the possibility of going there as a field trip. The students were enthusiastic and paid for the trip themselves. Whitaker arranged for a bus, which contractor Frank Silva provided at a good price, she said.

But the surprise came when Whitaker called to purchase tickets for the class. The circus promoter called Whitaker from Phoenix. The promoter was impressed with the class project, and arranged for the class to make the back stage visit with some of the performers, and to see rehearsals.

The students arrived early on the circus' opening day, and visited with performers who mostly could speak English, or in some instances through an interpreter. They asked questions of the ring master and saw the "Flying Cranes" aerialist group rehearse.

The students also got to see the circus' opening performance later in the day.

"The acts were great," said Whitaker who has seen European circuses during the years her husband served in the Air Force.

Whitaker said the Moscow Circus was very traditional in comparison to the other European circuses she has seen.

The students commented that the circus was very different than the American troupes they had seen. The Moscow circus is a one-ring

RE ELECT BILL SCHWETTMANN COUNTY COMMISSIONER, DISTRICT 4

FRIENDS and NEIGHBORS IN CAPITAN ALTO, FORT STANTON, and RUIDOSO DOWNS

- As a candidate for re-election to the Lincoln County Commission from District #4. I would like to re-introduce myself to all of you, so you can make a judgement as to who will best represent you when you vote next Tuesday, November 8th.
- I'm completing a two year term on the Lincoln County Commission as your representative from District #4.
- I have represented you and Lincoln County on the New Mexico Association of Counties, South Central Mountain Resource and Development Council, Lincoln County Fairboard, and the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority. I have attended hundreds of meetings and seminars that involve the well being and prosperity of all the residents of Lincoln County.
- I have no hidden agenda, and want to continue with our policy of sound fiscal management, whereby we can adequately fund law enforcement, roads and streets, health care, senior citizens, education and community development, without raising taxes.
- I have lived in New Mexico 52 years, 45 in Dona Ana County, and the last seven years in Lincoln County.
- My lady, Katharine, is a native New Mexican from Cloudcroft. We have three sons, three daughters-in-law, and seven grand kids.
- I am a civil engineering graduate from New Mexico State University, and have over 40 years extensive experience in construction and engineering, as engineer, project manager, estimator, and corporate executive. I have been in responsible charge of highway, utility, water and wastewater treatment projects in the states of New Mexico, Texas, and Arizona.
- I have the time and experience to continue giving you the responsible and sincere representation you expect and deserve from a county commissioner.

Friends here have received from Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hall of Albuquerque a copy of his book, "A Nonagenarian's Narrative". Mr. Hall attended Corona High School and started his law practice in Carrizozo. The Halls have travelled widely.

Corona has lost its senior citizen with the passing of Jack Davidson. Mr. Davidson, 92, died quietly in his home a little after five o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Peters, Roswell, were renewing acquaintances here one day recently.

troupe and very fast paced. The clowns and acts were also very different.

The horse acts were traditionally Russian, Whitaker said. And the students and sponsors were very impressed. "Ace (Grigo) was seriously effected," Whitaker said. "He's still talking about it."

Whitaker said the visit was a good experience and she complimented the students for being such as "good group of kids."

The students continue to talk about the circus in class, even though they were not in the European section of their World History books.

For Whitaker, the experience was well worth the time, and she is making plans to do another such field trip in the future.

driguez, grandson of the Dukes, has been ordered to Kuwait ahead of his unit who remain on standby. Paul is stationed aboard ship to repair equipment that had been intended for shipment to the U.S. for repairs.

Congratulations to the Corona Cardinals who won the Floyd game Friday evening. The school carnival was a success and now we look forward to basketball season.

The school participated in a DARE "red ribbon" parade one afternoon.

Geraldine and Rand Perkins spent the weekend in El Paso and Las Cruces. They attended the New Mexico Rodeo Assn. finals.

1994 was a good year for bare back rider Travis Howe, who won the finals. He came home with the money, saddle for the year, and a buckle or two.

Barbara and Doug McPheters have returned from a two week trip that took them to their former home to pick up furniture for their home here. They left Oct. 11 for a visit with a son in Schenectady, NY, to Cape Cod, Mass., and on to East Fork, Maine. They drove home from Schenectady in three days.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Porter were called to San Diego last week by the death of Helen's brother, Volney Minor. Juanita, who has been living with them in Roswell, accompanied them. They picked up another sister, Billie Jo, in Alamogordo. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Minor who have been spending the summer in Roswell went to San Diego and plan to spend the winter months in California.

Mrs. Curtis Duke and Mrs. Jerry Rasak attended the Mobile Rose Jubilee in Mobile, Ala. It was a convention of the American Rose Society. A high point of their stay was a private tour of the Bellingrath home and gardens. There were several tours to old mansions.

Chaparral 4-H Club Members Elect Officers

Chaparral 4-H Club met Oct. 19 in the Corona Schools Rec Room. Record Books were turned in and joining sheets passed out before the meeting. 4-Hers were asked to try to turn in their joining sheets at the next meeting.

The meeting was called to order by president Lindsey Bonds. In old business, Amy Bonds reported that the FFA was willing to put 4-H's name on the Corona Welcome sign. New business began with election of new officers. Colby Wells took over president's duties by general consent of the Club. Lindsey Bonds was elected to take over vice-president's duties from Colby Wells. Amy Bonds was elected to remain secretary. John Gnatkowski was elected to assume the duties of treasurer from Rebecca Wells. Rebecca Wells was elected reporter, taking over from John Gnatkowski. Rankin Frost

JOE SKEEN WORKS!

CONGRESSMAN JOE SKEEN WORKS HARD FOR NEW MEXICANS IN WASHINGTON.

HE'S EARNED A REPUTATION AS SOMEONE WHO'LL FIGHT FOR THE PEOPLE HE REPRESENTS AND MAKE SURE

NEW MEXICO GETS A FAIR SHAKE. JOE'S HARD WORK IS PAYING OFF, JUST LOOK AT WHAT HE'S DONE IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD.

JOE SKEEN IS A LEADER IN CONGRESS' WESTERN CAUCUS, WORKING TO PROTECT PRIVATE PROPERTY RIGHTS, ENSURE FAIR GRAZING FEES, AND PROMOTE RURAL ECONOMIES. AS A FORMER SMALL BUSINESSMAN, JOE SKEEN UNDERSTANDS THE CONCERNS AND PROBLEMS FACED BY SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS EVERYWHERE. HE IS WORKING IN CONGRESS TO CUT BURDENSOME PAPERWORK REQUIREMENTS AND UNNEEDED REGULATIONS THAT STIFLE SMALL BUSINESS GROWTH.

To spur growth and development, Joe Skeen led a cooperative effort to build a sewer system for the Village of Bosque Farms.

Congressman Skeen helped secure funding for the Multi-Agency Visitors Center in Cibola County. Construction is already underway.

Congressman Skeen helped bring Jaycor, a San Diego-based defense contractor, to Socorro County.

Congressman Skeen helped resolve a conflict between the Bosque del Apache Wildlife Refuge and area farmers whose crops were being devastated by the increasing crane population at the Refuge.

Congressman Skeen is spearheading efforts to re-write the Endangered Species Act and ensure that it does not threaten the economic livelihood of southern New Mexicans.

Joe Skeen worked to defeat an Administration proposal that would have virtually killed the mining industry in the West, by significantly increasing the royalties charged to mining companies.

Congressman Skeen helped secure $43.9 million in defense funding for New Mexico installations. Projects at Holloman Air Force Base, White Sands Missile Range, and New Mexico Tech received significant new funding.

Joe Skeen backed legislation creating a bi-national Border Health Commission to address public health risks in the border region.

Joe Skeen worked to ensure continued funding of the Aerostar drug interdiction program in Luna County. The Aerostar has played an important role in curbing drug trafficking in border states.

Joe was an early backer of efforts to build a frontage road on Highway 70 east of Las Cruces. He secured $1 million to begin design work on the project.

New Mexico's four tribally-controlled Indian Colleges have land grant status now, thanks to the efforts of Congressman Joe Skeen.

To help Guadalupe County upgrade its emergency rescue operations, Joe Skeen helped secure federal funds for a new ambulance in Santa Rosa.

DeBaca County is one of nine New Mexico counties served by New Mexico State University's Rural Economic Development Through Tourism program — a project borne out of a federal grant secured by Joe Skeen.

Congressman Skeen is a leader in the fight against the establishment of above-ground storage of nuclear waste on the Mescalero Apache Reservation.

Joe Skeen blocked the Federal Aviation Administration's effort to remove the radar operations at Roswell Industrial Air Center from Lubbock, Texas.

Joe is backing a package of tax credits that would promote domestic oil and gas exploration, including tax credits on marginal wells.

Congressman Skeen passed legislation to protect the world-renowned cave resources at Lechuguilla Cave.

Congressman Skeen helped secure water system improvements at Carlsbad Caverns and helped save the popular underground lunchroom from closure.

To help save the wild horses that roam White Sands Missile Range, Joe Skeen sponsored legislation to distribute hundreds of horses facing starvation to a private adoption program.

Congressman Skeen worked with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to boost sales of dairy products to Mexico. That action benefits New Mexico's growing dairy industry.

Congressman Skeen engineered a $4.6 million EPA grant to upgrade Dona Ana County's wastewater treatment facility to encourage further growth and development.

game, the freshman class sponsored a bonfire pep rally in the field behind the school, and it seemed most of Corona showed up to cheer, dance, and to play "catch-me" games

(SEE PAGE 10A)

It has only been in the past two years that Corona has gone back to a traditional Homecoming Weekend, and the students and community seem to love it. If last year's events were good, this year's were better, practice does seem to make better, if not perfect. The only damper on the festivities was a threatening, overcast sky that caused the parade to begin a little earlier than originally planned. But the rain held off until later, and everything went off as intended.

The action to elect a calling committee was tabled until the next meeting. It was decided that John Gnatkowski should call and find out what the Club was to bring to the County 4-H banquet in December. The next meeting will be Dec. 7 at 4:00. Rhiannon Alirez and Casey Slak volunteered to bring refreshments to the next meeting. After the meeting was adjourned Charlie Tully gave a talk on the 4-H Rodeo finals, and Charlie and Riley Tully gave a roping demonstration.

To The People of Lincoln County

In 1993, William R. Butts was appointed Magistrate Judge for Division II. He is now running for that position. We lawyers who work with judges know how hard-working, honest, fair, knowledgeable, compassionate, open minded, and humble yet tough Judge Butts is. We are indeed blessed to have such a human being working for the people of our County. We strongly endorse him and recommend his election to the office of Magistrate Judge for Division II. Justice will be served by him and, most important, so will the good people of Lincoln County.

in the tremulous light of the great flames. It is, somehow, touching and exciting to see most of a town -- even a small one -- engaged in a spirited game of "Red-Rover" in a flickering half-light that fades into complete darkness just beyond the last players in the long lines.

The theme of this year's Homecoming was "Catch the Fever!" For days, students worked on floats and posters. Skits were prepared for the post-parade pep rally. Each high school class and the elementary reading group had floats, and candidates for Homecoming Queen in their formal gowns rode by on specially-designated cars. The Corona Volunteer Fire Department had its truck all polished up, and there were assorted marchers and equestrians bringing up the rear. The seventh grade float won first place for float design and construction.

The parade ended in a pep rally at the football field where the cheerleaders had organized a special program that included, not just a normal pep rally, but human wheelbarrow races, a car-stuffing contest, an air-band contest, and a Speech & Drama class skit which took a comical look back over the Corona football season up to the homecoming game.

That evening, the 1994 Football Homecoming Court was presented. Amy Bonds represented the eighth grade; Brandi Alley, the ninth; Kim Riley, the tenth; Shayla Marshall, the eleventh; Ronda Miller, the twelfth. Miss Marshall was crowned Homecoming Queen by last year's queen, Callie Gnatkowski.

The football team lost the game to Vaughn, 46-26. Oh well, there's always next year.

Obituary

JACK A. DAVIDSON

No services are scheduled at this time for Jack A. Davidson, age 92 of Corona, who died October 29 at his home in Corona.

Jack was born March 24, 1902 in Santa Rosa, New Mexico to Dod McCamant and Hattie McCamant-Davidson-Shelton, who have preceded him in death. Jack was also preceded in death by his stepfather, James T. Davidson and a brother, Allen Davidson.

Jack was married to Ruby Killingsworth in 1923 in Carrizozo, New Mexico, who preceded him in death on June 16, 1992.

Survivors include his children, Jackie and his wife Ruth, Davidson of Corona, Sue and her husband Jim Ross of Utah, Jacque and her husband Roy Allen of Roswell, and Sam and his wife Vida Davidson of Farmington.

Jack is also survived by his grandchildren, Carol Lynn and Bobby Carroll of Roswell, Janet and Donnie McDaniel of Texas, Jack Allen and Sabra Davidson of Corona, Patsy and Tracy Syddall of Utah, and Kenneth and Karen Mays of Alamogordo. He is also survived by 13 great-grandchildren and a nephew, Allen Davidson and his son, Mackensie of California.

Mr. Davidson was a lifelong resident of Corona, being active in cattle ranching his entire life. He and Ruby lived on the ranch that they homesteaded until the time of their deaths. Jack was a member of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association and was a cattle inspector, for many years. He served as a Deputy Sheriff under Sheriff A.S. McCamant, his uncle, and has held an honorary membership in the Lincoln County Sheriffs' Association. Jack was also Father of the Year with the Corona CowBelles.

He was fondly known as "Abuelo" by his friends and family and will be missed by all. Friends may make memorials in Mr. Davidson's memory to the charity of their choice.

Arrangements were under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Forest Offers Permits For Christmas Trees

(Alamogordo, NM) Lincoln National Forest is gearing up for the annual Christmas tree permit sales. Permits will be sold over the counter at all Lincoln National Forest offices from Nov. 14 through Dec. 24 (although the cutting period is Nov. 24 through Dec. 24). Regular office hours are weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. In addition, the four Ranger Stations will be open on three Saturdays, 11/26, 12/3 and 12/10. However, Cloudercroft Ranger Station open all Saturdays through 1994. This will accommodate over-the-counter sales to those from out-of-town.

The cost for Christmas tree permit is $5 sold over-the-counter and $10 for a permit sold by mail. The extra cost for mail-in application covers postage and overhead. Mail-in applications are available at all Lincoln National Forest offices; at the Chambers of Commerce in Alamogordo, Cloudercroft, Ruidoso, Carlsbad, Las Cruces, El Paso, Jal, Lovington, Roswell, Artesia, Hobbs, Clovis, Midland, and Odessa; at US Post Offices in Alamogordo, Tularosa, Carrizozo, Las Cruces, and El Paso; and at JC Penneys in Las Cruces and El Paso. The applications are also available at Thomas in Alamogordo; at the Holloman AFB Morale, Welfare, & Recreation office; at the White Sands Missile Range Public Affairs Office and at STEWS-DP-AR; at US Game & Fish, US Border Patrol, and Bureau of Land Management offices in Las Cruces; and at the Chamizal National Memorial in El Paso.

There are 2,000 fir trees available in Zinker area on Cloudercroft Ranger District. Smokey Bear Ranger District has 1,500 pinon trees to choose from in Glencos and Hog Spring. Mayhill Ranger District has 750 pinon trees in the Bible/Prather area. Guadalupe Ranger District in Carlsbad is offering 750 pinon trees that may be taken from anywhere on the district north of Dark Canyon.

A detailed map of cutting areas is provided with each permit. Individual households are limited to one tree, however, clubs, churches and schools may apply for more than one permit if the trees are for public display.

Is There A Hearing Aid In Your Future?

by Betty McCreight
Lincoln County
Home Economist

Hearing impairment is a handicap most of us are going to have at some point in our lives. Hearing loss occurs gradually and usually in only selected frequencies at first, so it often goes unnoticed.

Is there a hearing aid in your future?

The world appears to be getting noisier. If tests on incoming students are any indication, people are losing their hearing earlier and faster.

This means sooner, rather than later, most consumers will be put in the position of making a self diagnosis of their need for hearing assistance. Mechanical assistance can range from some $19.95 device advertised on late night television to thousands of dollars for computerized hearing aids that adjust sensitivity to specific types of background noise.

There are differences between hearing aid specialists and certified clinical audiologists.

An audiologist must have a master's degree, take a national exam, complete a one-year clinical fellowship, pass national board exams and participate in continuing education to maintain their license. "CCC-A" after the name of an audiologist stands for Certificate of Clinical Competence-Audiology, which is granted by the national governing body.

Hearing aid specialists are required to have a high school diploma, complete 160 hours of supervised apprenticeship with another hearing aid specialist, pass a state-supervised practical and written exam and have their testing equipment recalibrated on a regular basis.

Both can test hearing and sell the same types of hearing aids, however only audiologists are licensed to test and sell hearing aids to children 18 years or younger. Additional advice includes:

- Be wary if the exam is advertised as "free." If the seller required you to "buy now" to receive a discount or if you feel pressured in any way, back off from the deal.

- The test should involve finer points of speech discrimination, not just "can you hear this beep." The evaluation should include degrees of loss and an explanation of how this will effect your communications in a variety of situations.

- The test results should describe to you physically where the loss is -- in the inner, outer or middle ear.

- All options of correcting the hearing loss should be discussed. This may include surgery, hearing aid or other mechanical means.

- If a hearing aid is recommended, the realistic expected benefits and drawbacks of the advice should be explained. You also should get a detailed description of the service and warranty arrangement. Ask for a loaner or trial period when trying to decide on a hearing aid.

OBITUARIES

RALPH D. WERNER

Ralph D. Werner, 85, died Oct. 22 of a heart attack. He grew up in the Hondo-Capitan area and was a graduate of Capitan High School.

He is survived by his wife Ruth Werner of Pukalani, Hawaii; three sons, Chris and Allen of Pukalani, Hawaii, and Travis of Kingman, AZ; two sisters, Fay Biggs of Biloxi, Mississippi, and Viva Smith of Arrowhead, CA; two brothers, Rex Werner of Alamogordo, and Robert Werner of Hawthorrie, CA.

Mr. Werner worked at Fort Stanton when it was a Marine Hospital. He transferred to Roswell and later to Los Angeles with the department of defense. He worked in real estate in Hawthorne, CA and then moved to Hawaii.

Space Center Selected As Regional Network Partner

The Space Center, located in Alamogordo, has been selected as a regional partner in the National Science & Technology Week Teacher Training and Material Dissemination Network. The Network, comprised of 47 regional partners, will help promote and celebrate National Science & Technology Week (NSTW) events and activities regionally.

The National Science Foundation (NSF), in collaboration with the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry (OMSI), established this Teachers Training and Materials Dissemination Network to increase public awareness and technology.

Kenn Hitchcock, the Space Center's site coordinator for the Network, will coordinate teachers trainings and public events during National Science & Technology Week the last week of April.

Space Center activities planned over the next year include the introduction of public programming at the museum, Space Week activities, the fourth annual Science Fiction short story contest, the 19th Annual Induction Ceremony, the introduction of weekend and after-school programs at the museum, and a celebration of science and scientists during the last week of January, 1995.

This Teacher Training and Materials Dissemination Network will help encourage students, teachers, families and the general public to discover, first-hand, the excitement of exploration and discovery.

NEW U.S. FOREST SERVICE FORESTER Chip Cartwright (left) wishes happy birthday to Dan Storm a 50-year forest permittee, during Cartwright's visit in Ruidoso last week.

New Forester Has Own Kind Of Ecosystem Management

by Doris Cherry

Brandishing his own kind of "eco-system management" which stresses cooperation in order to sustain natural resources and the human dimension, new U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service Regional Forester Charles "Chip" Cartwright met with ranchers, foresters and the media in Ruidoso October 29.

Cartwright said the Forest Service is not locally going to push for resolution of the state's rights debate, because that will be a court issue. "Instead, we want to spend time and focus on managing resources," he said. That will require a good working relationship between all parties involved.

As one of nine regional foresters, Cartwright will oversee 11 national forests and one national grasslands in Arizona and New Mexico. Cartwright, in his 26th year with the federal government, started in 1967 as a temporary fireman/lookout tower spotter in the St. Joe National Forest in Idaho.

In 1979 he became the first African-American district ranger in Washington state. In 1988 he was named supervisor of Jefferson National forest in Virginia.

In 1992 Cartwright became assistant director for ecosystem management. His philosophy of diversity to maintain health of a natural system has set the guiding principles for both natural resource and organization management in the Forest Service.

Early in his visit in Ruidoso, Cartwright "changed hats" with those present and asked what they would focus on if they were regional foresters.

Responses were major concerns for watersheds, wild fires and state's rights issue. From the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) (a US Dept. of Agriculture agency) Dick Smith was concerned that the SCS's climax range condition method used for 50 years is coming under attack by many ranchers. "There's lots of mistrust of the government with worries about over-regulation," Smith said.

Cartwright said the state's rights movements are not new to the west. "As long as we're a republic we'll continue to have assertion of rights and responsibilities," he added.

However, Cartwright said, the Forest Service is mandated by federal law to do certain things. The service is given latitude in how the law is carried out, which is where it can work collaboratively with counties and states.

Cartwright asked that those involved with the state's rights movement remember the federal sector is a vital part of the local community.

Smith, and ranchers Sid Goodloe and Rex Wilson focused on the watershed situation, seeking to have the federal agencies expand their projects in dealing with removal of pinon-juniper and proscribed burns. They said extensive research has been done on the pinon juniper situation and it does not require more study. "Do something in a large way," Goodloe said.

Goodloe said that there is unlimited money for fire suppression, but that money should be balanced with fire prevention programs of proscribed burning. Goodloe also was concerned for subdivision development into the forests, which prevents any type of fire management projects. He said there is a lack of management on Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management and state lands.

Wilson, who is a forest service permittee, said he "feels frustrated. We need to get some things done, not analyze it to death."

Cartwright said that the Forest Service, as a way to "bullet proof," does get "paralysis by analysis."

Greg Hausler, Soil Conservation Service in Capitan, said that Smokey Bear Ranger District ranger Jerry Hawkes has made more things "happen on the ground," such as the Carrizo Project which underwent prescribed burns. Hausler wants to see such projects continue but said Hawkes has been "road-blocked from preservationist groups."

Bill Rogge with the New Mexico State Forestry was concerned for public conception of wildfire, which could be misinformed. He also was concerned that the state's rights issue in the two counties (Otero and Lincoln) will affect how the public is educated about wild fires. "We better educate the people before we get lost in the stampede," Rogge said.

Cartwright said conflagration is an unfortunate part of life in the forests, which is not in too good of health now.

He then expressed concern for the Ruidoso community which is surrounded by forests. "If I lived in this community I'd too be concerned," Cartwright said. He pointed out the build-up of fuels from pine needles on houses with wood shingled roofs and wood siding. "We've created an image that what nature does we can handle," he said.

With the federal land so close to town, Cartwright said the forest service has an opportunity to show the public what "defensible space" looks like. Such a project could involve the county and local fire departments, county commission and state agencies. 7/

DR. BERNIE REIMANN shows off his newest award plaque from Keep New Mexico Beautiful for his work on the Capitan Constructed Wetlands.

Dr. Bernhard Reimann Honored With Award

by Doris Cherry

When Dr. Bernhard Reimann brought home his plaque from the Keep New Mexico Beautiful awards Saturday, he didn't quite know where to put it.

His wife, Bea, suggested he build another room on the house, to give a place for his many awards, certificates and plaques that have filled the walls of Bernie's work room, and are now spilling over into their living room.

The certificates, awards and plaques represent 40 years of schooling, teaching, special projects, his U.S. Naturalization certificate, and the newest from Keep New Mexico Beautiful. The new plaque was given for Dr. Reimann's work on the Capitan Constructed Wetlands, an alternative waste water treatment facility.

Dr. Reimann, whose professional field is in microbiology, began his studies in Berlin, Germany after World War II. During the post war reconstruction years, Dr. Reimann became involved with the development of electron microscopy. After obtaining his doctorate in Natural Science (botany, zoology and geology) in 1959, Dr. Reimann taught at Phillips University, Marburg/Lahn, Germany. In 1961, he came to the United States to accept a position at Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla, CA as a member of a research group concerned with diatoms. He ultimately became supervisor of the electron microscope facility as Research Biologist.

In 1966, Dr. Reimann became a naturalized citizen of the United States.

Dr. Reimann moved to El Paso in 1967 as chief of the Electron Microscopy Section of the Department of Pathology at the William Beaumont General Hospital. For the next 20 years, he held a wide range of responsibilities in administration, teaching and research as associate professor at New Mexico State University at Las Cruces, lecturer at University of Texas at El Paso and the Texas Tech Medical School.

During his career he published more than 50 scientific papers on diatoms and electron microscopy. During his 20 years with the Civil Service he received numerous official commendations for exceptional performance from Civil Services and the Army.

Dr. Reimann started coming to the village of Capitan in 1976. Loving to hike, he fell in love with the view and area.

When he retired in 1987 he moved directly to Capitan. Because Dr. Reimann came from another country originally, he decided to get his roots started in Capitan by coming to village council meetings, to see what the village needed. Among the first things he saw were "these two ponds," the village sewer lagoons.

"That's when I started to work on the sewer, when I saw what was happening at the ponds," he said. The evaporative sewer ponds were overflowing into three nearby arroyos, and were in the process of being condemned by the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Division.

The smell from the lagoons was overpowering, and even the waterfowl did not land there because of the stink. But Dr. Reimann began to look at the ponds in a different light, seeing how the waterfowl were nesting in the vegetation which grew at the sides of the ponds.

As a biologist, Dr. Reimann knew what plants do to clean water. He began to look into research done with plants to clean waste water. He found that the city of San Diego had done a lot of research on using water hyacinth to cleanse the municipal waste water. What was found was that the water coming out of the other end of the treatment facility was almost potable fresh water.

Dr. Reimann began to do research for a similar "constructed wetlands" for Capitan. He studied the types of plants that would be appropriate to the village's climate, such as bull rushes and cat tails. The village waste water would be channelled through trenches filled with the plants, which would treat the water and take away the odor.

Dr. Reimann also studied a constructed wetland project at Tatum before he began his designs for the Capitan project.

After many months of design work, applications for grants, delays because of a change in village administration, receipt of grants and the slow engineering process, the constructed wetlands finally were completed. Last fall, the root stock of the plants which are the heart of the wetlands process were planted.

This summer, the roots produced lush plants that soon filled the trenches. And as promised, the odor was gone.

Dr. Reimann said the wetlands are accomplishing his hopes by cleansing the wastewater to near drinking water standards of nitrate levels.

With a $4,000 grant from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Dr. Reimann plans to plant the wetlands "lake," which is the final destination for the waste water after going through the filter trenches, with bushes and root stocks. He also plans to convert the old lagoons into a "playa" system. A playa is an intermittent dry lake, and in the sewer system, the playa would serve as an overflow for the wetlands.

In August, Dr. Reimann broadcast blue grama and western wheat grass and wild flower seed around the lake to provide food for waterfowl.

He would like to go to the state legislature for funding for an educational program that will involve high school students with the wetlands facility. At a lab constructed on the wetlands site, the students would monitor the biochemical oxygen demand, suspended solids and phosphorus of the waste water after it has completed the treatment. Dr. Reimann has also gone to the National Academy of Science for help in putting together the school program. By getting high school students involved, they can gain an idea of how things are being done and will also provide manpower at the wetlands facility.

Dr. Reimann keeps notebooks on all tests made at the wetlands, and has information compiled on the entire project.

He has little time for hiking these days, with his work with the wetlands project, and his studies for and service on the Capitan Water Advisory Board, and his volunteer service as Capitan representative on the Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority. He has also prepared and submitted closure studies and plans for the old Capitan landfill.

But overall, Dr. Reimann says he is "having fun."

Dr. Reimann, a member of Keep New Mexico Beautiful, received the Keep New Mexico Beautiful Individual Award at a ceremony in Albuquerque, October 29.

Elect DUB WILLIAMS Republican STATE REPRESENTATIVE District 56

New Mexico ranks in the bottom five in the country in per capita income, and ranks in the top five in taxes per $1,000.00 of income.

We need to get out of our "tax and spend" attitude that is so prevalent in our government. We need to save some of the State's income for a "rainy day" rather than finding innovative ways to tax our citizens and spend their money.

Education must be a priority. Education needs to be funded at levels to meet the needs of the students and teachers.

The State of New Mexico needs a change in attitude toward crime. "Truth in sentencing", "10 years is 10 years", and no good-time for violent crimes. Juveniles, who commit violent crimes, regardless of age, should be treated as adults. Don't you think it is time for a change?

CONCERNS: Education, Aging Population, Tourism, Crime, Individual and Property Rights, Health Care, Tax Burden.

Your confidence, support and vote will be most appreciated on November 8, 1994.

UNITED STATES ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY PUBLIC NOTICE OF PROPOSED ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER

This is to give notice that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Region 6 has issued a Proposed Administrative Order to the Carrizozo Water System under the Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA). Development of the Proposed Order was based on a preliminary staff review by EPA, Region 6, with an invitation for input from the State of New Mexico and from the Carrizozo Water System.

Any interested person may request a public hearing regarding the Proposed Order by filing a written request which must state the issues to be raised. A public hearing will be held if EPA finds a significant degree of interest in the next 14 days.

The EPA contact person for obtaining a copy of the Proposed Administrative Order, submitting written comments, requesting information regarding the Proposed Administrative Order and/or requesting a public hearing pursuant to the Proposed Administrative Order is:

Marietta Mount
Water Supply Branch
(6W-SP)

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
1445 Ross Avenue
Dallas, Texas 75202

EPA will notify each person who submits a written request of the final decision on the Proposed Administrative Order.

The Proposed Administrative Order requires the Carrizozo Water System to attain compliance with the following requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act:

1. Within thirty (30) days of receipt of this Order, perform measurements to document compliance with the performance standards set for filtered water systems.

Hunters Who Violate Rules May Be Fined

Rifle deer hunts are now on and will be held on November 2-6, and November 9-15. Hunters who violate the laws and regulations governing hunts may be subject to fines, or forfeiture of vehicles and/or weapons.

According to the New Mexico Big Game Hunting proclamation, firearms and bows and arrows are subject to seizure and forfeiture if they are used in: taking, or attempting to take, or illegal possession or transportation of big game during closed season; exceeding bag limit; or taking big game by use of spotlight or artificial light.

Vehicles used by anyone charged with spotlighting will be confiscated at the scene and will be subject to forfeiture and sale at auction upon conviction of the violator.

Hunters who violate the regulations are also subject to fines of $1,000 for illegally taking or attempting to take elk, bighorn sheep, oryx, ibex, or Barbary sheep; illegally selling big game meat. A $400 fine is imposed on hunters found guilty of illegally taking or attempting to take deer, antelope, javelina, bear, or cougar during a closed season; exceeding the bag limit; falsely purchasing a resident license.

Spotlighting carries a fine of $300; attempting to exceed big game bag limit has a fine of $200; hunting without a license or using another's person's license has a fine of $100. Other violations can have fines up to $500 and/or six months in jail.

In 1992, the State Game Commission instituted an automatic license-revocation system. Convicted game law violators will receive points for each violation. If a hunter receives a total of 20 points in three years, the hunter will be flagged for revocation of all hunting, fishing, and trapping privileges in New Mexico for up to three years. Defendants may take their case to a hearing officer and may appeal to district court.

It is also unlawful for hunters to shoot at game on, from, or across any graded and maintained public road, or to shoot at game from within the fenced right of way of any paved road or highway, or from within 40 feet of the pavement or maintained surface if no right of way fence exists.

It is illegal to discharge a firearm within 150 yards of an inhabited dwelling without permission of its owner or lessee.

It is illegal to shoot at, pursue, harass, harry, drive, or rally any game mammals or game birds by use of, or from, a motor-driven vehicle, powerboat or sailboat. Severely handicapped hunters may obtain permits to shoot from vehicles at protected game animals and to drive off established roads to hunt squirrels and game birds except turkey. Contact the Department of Game and Fish for details.

It is illegal to park any motor vehicle or to camp within 300 yards of any man-made water hole, water well, watering tank used by wildlife or domestic stock without prior consent of the private landowner, private land lessee, or public land management agency.

Trespassing on private lands are prohibited. Landowner permission must be obtained before hunting, fishing or trapping on private lands. Hunters, anglers, or trappers convicted of trespassing may lose their license privileges for up to three years.

Other laws and regulations affect the hunter and are available in the "Hunting Big Game in New Mexico" proclamation of 1994-95 season publication available at the US Forest Service Smokey Bear Ranger Station in Ruidoso, and other locations where hunting licenses are sold.

The Department of Game and Fish provides a toll free number for "Operation Game Thief" a program to help stop poaching of game animals. The number to call if poaching is viewed is 1-800-432-4263.

Festival Of The Cranes Celebrated Nov. 17-20

Each year tens of thousands of sandhill cranes and snow geese migrate to their wintering grounds on the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge near San Antonio, New Mexico 64 miles east of Carrizozo.

Several guided tours of the Socorro area are also planned. Advance registration for the Festival is highly recommended, and must be confirmed by November 4.

Registration at the Festival events at the Refuge will begin at 6:00 a.m. and last until 5 p.m. on all days.

Festival information and tickets are available from Festival of the Cranes, P.O. Box 743 NR, Socorro, NM 87801, phone 505-635-0424.

NOTICE OF NAMES OF PERSONS APPEARING TO BE OWNERS OF ABANDONED PROPERTY

The persons and entities listed in the attached "Exhibit A" hereto appear to be the owners of abandoned property held for three (3) years by ENMR Telephone Cooperative, Inc., a New Mexico cooperative association. Despite diligent efforts, ENMR Telephone Cooperative has been wholly unable to locate the owners of the abandoned property.

Persons possessing an interest in the abandoned property may obtain further information from ENMR Telephone Cooperative, 7111 North Prince Street, P.O. Box 1947, Clovis, NM 88102-1947, phone (505) 389-5100.

Proof of claim and establishment of the owner's right must be established within sixty (60) days of the first publication of this Notice. If proof of claim is not presented and the owner's right not established within sixty (60) days, then the owner's rights therein, as well as the rights of any person claiming through the owner, shall be conclusively and irrevocably transferred and assigned as a gift to the ENMR Education Foundation, according to Section Six of the ENMR Telephone Cooperative Bylaws.

RONNIE SCOTT, Assistant Manager-Finance ENMR Telephone Cooperative

ATTEST BRUCE RUYAN, Secretary/Treasurer ENMR Telephone Cooperative. (Corporate Seal)

Firefighters Recognized By Governor

Governor Bruce King proclaimed October 28 as "New Mexico Wildland Firefighters Recognition Day" as a way for New Mexicans to extend thanks and appreciation and respect to the firefighters for their service and dedication during the past fire season.

According to a release from New Mexico Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department (EMNRD), the 1994 fire season had the most wildland fires on record. Some 48 trained southwest fire fighting crews and state, federal and volunteer wildland firefighting personnel were all part of the effort to suppress the fires in New Mexico and other western states. Twenty-three firefighters, three of whom were from New Mexico, lost their lives.

On November 1, Anita Lockwood, Secretary of EMNRD recognized the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Land Management, National Park Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, USDS Forest Service, New Mexico Forestry and Resources Conservation Division, State Fire Marshal's Office and Southwest Firefighters (SWFF) in a ceremony in Taos.

Bruce King and Patricia Madrid

Proven leadership, positive teamwork for New Mexico's economy.

No Governor has done more than Bruce King to create jobs and economic opportunity for families across New Mexico:

- Created 60,000 jobs statewide since 1991.
- Cut state taxes $47 million in 1994.
- Increased statewide personal income growth to 2nd in US.
- Expanded trade with Mexico & total state exports by 375%.
- Recruited Intel, Intuit, Sumitomo, Semiconductor, Motorola, etc.
- Achieved first improved S&P state bond rating in 38 years.

Bruce King and Patricia Madrid will work as a team with business and communities to keep New Mexico moving forward:

- Creating more jobs and higher family incomes statewide.
- Recruiting more clean, high-value, high-wage industries.
- Cutting state taxes by a total of $189 million over next three years.
- Using NAFTA and new Port of Entry to boost border trade.
- Focusing on small business development and profitability.
- Developing private/public partnership to upgrade technology.
- Improving public education to ensure a high-skill workforce.
- Obtaining more jobs, markets & opportunities for rural communities.

New Forester

Radio owner Jerry Wright asked for re-instatement of the "Red Flag" program to indicate when fire conditions are extreme. He also said the forest service needs to take further advantage of the local media to present educational materials.

Goodloe also stressed educating the public on burns.

Wilson said the state's rights issue started with rangeland reform and the frustration over having concerns ignored. "The grassroots level is where the strength is, and is the closest to the people," Wilson said.

Fifty year permittee Dan Storm said he always got along wonderfully with the forest service. He said their projects are preserving the forests for our grandchildren.

Cartwright closed his visit by stressing cooperation among all groups to reach a consensus to manage the natural resources to a positive future. Cartwright promised to come back and "go on the ground" to the local projects.

"I am field, resource and community oriented," Cartwright concluded.

Dan Storm, who was 85 years old that day, was honored by the Smokey Bear Ranger Station with a cake.
