

Republicans And Gambling Are Big Winners

by Doris Cherry

Republicans and the lottery were big winners in New Mexico's elections Tuesday.

Lincoln County joined ranks with Republicans and disenfranchised Democrats statewide to elect political unknown Gary Johnson to the state's governor seat. With about 96 percent of the precincts state wide reporting, Johnson had 192,913 votes, King 159,533 and Mondragon 42,349.

Constitutional Amendment

8, for a state lottery and certain games of chance, won Lincoln County with 3236 votes for the amendment and 1889 against it. Amendment 8 also won the state (final returns were unavailable by press time).

With a record 70.5 percent voter turnout, Lincoln County voters also sided heavily with Republicans Colin McMillan, home candidate for land commission Stirling Spencer, and state representative candidate Dub Williams.

Williams pushed out two-term incumbent Ruidoso Democrat H. John Underwood for the State House District 56 seat. In Lincoln County Williams had 2849 votes to Underwood's 2393. For the total district, Williams had 4,106 to Underwood's 3618. Underwood won in Otero County with 1208 votes to Williams 1,168. In Chaves County Williams got 89 votes to Underwood's 17.

The county's heavy vote for McMillan was not enough to help him defeat Democrat incumbent Jeff Bingaman who won the Senate District. In Lincoln County however, McMillan gained 58.2 percent of the Lincoln County vote with 3043. Bingaman had 41.8 percent of the vote with 2185.

While county voters supported all Republican candidates heavily, many of the state offices went to Democrats after the state tallies were made. Spencer lost in the state totals to Ray Powell Jr., who had been appointed to the office by Governor Bruce King.

In the county races, county commission District 4 Republican incumbent Bill Schwettmann retained his position by defeating Democrat challenger Preston Stone 623 to 478.

Magistrate Judge Division II candidate Democrat William Butts was the only opposed Democrat in Lincoln County to win a seat. He defeated Republican candidate Paul Wersich 2844 to 2380.

Magistrate Judge Division I candidate Republican Gerald Dean Jr. received 4,271 votes.

He was unopposed.

Republican candidate for Treasurer Joan Park walked away with the office with 3747 votes to Democratic candidate Steven Brewer's 1223.

Commission District 2 unopposed incumbent Democrat L. Ray Nunley got 750 votes, Commission District 5 unopposed incumbent Republican Monroy Montes won his third term to the commission with 665 votes.

Man Arrested For Shooting At Rodeo Bar

Lincoln County Deputies rushed to the Rodeo Bar east of Capitan on November 2, responding to a report of a shooting.

Deputies arrived at the bar at 9:53 p.m. and found James Manley, 28, shot twice, in the groin and in the leg. Fort Stanton ambulance arrived at the scene at 9:59 p.m. and transported Manley to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso where he was treated and released.

Responding deputies investigating the incident found that Manley, who was visiting a friend at Fort Stanton, and Albert Ralph Gameroz, 49, who resides at a residence next to the bar, had a dispute outside the Rodeo Bar. The dispute resulted in Gameroz shooting Manley.

Gameroz was arrested at the scene for aggravated assault, aggravated battery, possession of a controlled substance (marijuana) under one ounce. He was jailed at the Lincoln County Detention Center in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

Magistrate Judge Gerald Dean Jr. set Gameroz's bond at $10,500, no 10 percent allowed. Gameroz posted bond on November 3 and was released.

Ruidoso Gives OK To Airport Apron Lease

Four local events are officially designated as community events for 1995 to be held in the Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center.

Ruidoso Village Council approved a resolution which named the four "designated community events" during the regular meeting Tuesday. The resolution names the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce Art Festival, Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally, Octoberfest and the Christmas Jubilee as the "designated community events" for 1995.

The resolution was a result of an attempt by councilor Robert Donaldson to amend the lease with Allhub Investments, Inc. for the 3.77 acres of the old airport land. Donaldson tried to get the four events designated in the lease itself. Donaldson's fellow councilors argued that such designation should be left out of the lease, which is for 50 years, because the events might not be in existence for all those years. If one of the events was to discontinue then the lease would have to be amended.

Instead, village attorney

John Underwood suggested a resolution to designate the "community events."

The resolution approved Tuesday not only designated the four events for 1995, but also provides for naming of the "designated community events" on an annual basis. The events will be approved at the second regularly scheduled meeting in each January.

Mayor Jerry Shaw got to vote Tuesday, when she broke the tie to approve the lease of a portion of the new apron and building pads at the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport to Ralph Gary and his United Helicopters, Inc. Councilors Frank Potter, Joe Gomez and J.D. James disagreed that the lease should be let at this time because the village does not have an airport manager. They thought the lease should be delayed until a new manager is hired to allow that new person some input into the lease. But Mayor Shaw went along with councilors Robert Donaldson, Frank Cummins and Leon Eggleston to approve the lease.

Election 1994 Will Be Known For Long Lines

by Doris Cherry

Election 1994 will be known for the election with the longest lines.

More than 70 percent of Lincoln County's registered voters turned out to cast their ballots Tuesday, considered one of the highest turn outs in the county's recent election history.

According to county clerk Martha Proctor, the large turnout, combined with the long ballot with the federal, state and local candidates, and the 13 constitutional amendments and four bond questions contributed to the long lines at the polls all over the county. Most precincts reported they had voters waiting to cast ballots when the 7 p.m. closing time came.

There was one phone call about the long lines, and a voter being asked to hurry in the machine. Proctor said she was still under the guideline that voters have only five minutes in the machine. However, that particular state law setting the time limit was repealed in 1992, unknown to Proctor.

Proctor contacted the Secretary of State to clarify the time limit question, and to get advice on groups soliciting materials near the polls. Proctor instructed her poll workers that materials can be distributed anywhere 100 yards beyond the polls, and that people could bring materials into the polls, as long as they did not advertise a particular candidate or issue.

Proctor commended all her poll workers, including the alternates called at the last minute in Ruidoso. Several experienced poll workers had come down with the flu the day before election, making Proctor scramble to find workers in the proper precincts and parties.

The clerk also thanked the senior citizen centers, the Ruidoso Convention and Civic Events Center and other locations for their cooperation with the polls Tuesday.

Proctor serves on the New Mexico Association of Counties committee for county clerks to revise election codes. The committee is recommending that constitutional amendments and bond questions be presented to voters by a mail ballot. The mail ballot is legal as long as there are no candidates involved. "This election is a real good example of why such a ballot would be cost effective," Proctor said.

Increased voter registration and the large turnout indicate to Proctor that more people are getting involved with the political process. "I consider myself a public servant, and I'm here to serve the public," Proctor said.

The official canvass and acceptance of the votes was conducted by the Lincoln County Commissioners today, Thursday, November 10.

Gary had entered into an agreement with the village in 1992 for a piece of the new apron and building pads that were to be built. In July 1993, a new lease was drawn up to reflect the area that Gary wanted to lease. However that agreement was never executed because the airport project was not completed and there was a conflict with another person who wanted to lease land at the airport.

Terms of the lease have Gary paying eight cents a square foot per year, for 30 years which includes an initial 10 year period with four-five year extensions. The new lease amounts will be modified according to the Consumer Price Index.

Under the lease, the village will also have the option of buying the hanger at termination of the lease for a negotiated price.

With the meeting on election night, councilors kept their business short, approving the consent agenda which included approval of agreements for Lodgers' Tax funds for the Realtors Association of New Mexico to promote the state conference to be held at the Ruidoso Convention Center, Lodgers' Tax funds for the Ruidoso Lions Club for promoting its state conference at the convention center. Approval was also given for a special dispenser's permit for the Lincoln County Medical Center Annual Employee Awards Banquet.

Ruidoso Police Chief also got an okay for travel out of state to the FBI National Academy annual conference.

Bids for two old model mobile homes belonging to the village were awarded to Tom Welch for $1751.50 for a 1962 Capitol Mobile Home and $1151.50 for a one bedroom mobile home. There were three other bids.

Village manager Gary Jackson reported on the notice of award of a grant from the New Mexico Parks and Recreation Land and Water program. The grant will go toward improvements at School House Park. Awaiting final federal approval, the grant could be for as much as $84,000, which includes local matching funds.

Jackson also reported on the draft of a state bill for beverage container refunds for recycling as sponsored by State Representative E. Shirley Baca from Las Cruces. The draft also contained a letter from the New Mexico Municipal League requesting comments by November 15. The League Board of Directors will meet December 8 with Rep. Baca and review the comments from the various municipalities. The council had approved a resolution supporting the concept of a beverage recycling bill.

Reports were also given on the MainStreet Redevelopment Project and the Grindstone Water Project. The bid for the Grindstone water treatment plant and waterline project construction will be opened on December 6, and awarded on December 13.

The council met with the Ruidoso School Board in a workshop session to discuss and review joint use and development of school property for community recreation needs.

The council has invited the Ruidoso School Board, Lincoln County Commission and management, and other officials to a motivational session with Dr. Milt Garrett who will speak on "Quality Management" on Wednesday, November 16.

schedule approved before the work can begin. The first step will probably be for the town to advertise for requests for proposals (RFP) for an architect.

Debris from the wall that had fallen out of the building has been cleared away and the roof and remaining walls have been shored up.

Action was tabled on the Carrizozo Municipal Airport contract, the discussion about the town moratorium on water, and the personnel ordinance changes.

A closed session was held for personnel matters and contractual negotiations for the Rec Center.

New Mexico Will Receive Share Of Forest Receipts

New Mexico will get a share of the national forest receipts collected in Fiscal Year 1994.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Forest Service by law pays 25 percent of the total revenues it collects from timber sales, grazing, recreation, minerals and land uses to states in which national forest lands are located.

This year, New Mexico will receive an interim payment of $1,052,250, which represents 75 percent of the estimated total amount the state will receive as its share of funds collected during the year from the sale and use of a variety of national forest products and services. In December, the U.S. Department of Agriculture pays any additional funds it owes the state after determining the actual receipts for the fiscal year which ended September 30.

Lincoln County will receive an interim payment of $40,484 and the estimated total payment is $53,979. For New Mexico, the estimated total payment for Fiscal Year 1994 for the state is $1,403,001.

Catron County will receive the largest amount of that share, getting $314,430 interim payment and a $419,240 estimated total.

The largest interim payments will go to Oregon, with $91 million; California, $39 million; Washington $24 million and Idaho $18 million.

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The Election Is Over!

By Ruth Hammond

The 1994 election is history and whether you are happy or unhappy with the winners, it is now time for everyone to put the negative campaigning behind and make an effort to try to move forward. It is time for us all to work with each other.

Let's hope the negative campaigning and the comments made by politicians and other adults do not have a lasting effect on the children who heard the terrible things being said. Children do listen and they do worry that the person in charge may or may not be honest and capable of doing their job. Even when children do not say anything about it, the things they hear can have an affect on their life for a long time.

During the election of 1944 I was very young and learned an important lesson about elections and opinions. That election was when Franklin D. Roosevelt was trying for an unprecedented fourth term as president and his opponent was Thomas E. Dewey. While I don't remember anything else about that election, and at the time I had no idea what Democrats and Republicans were, and did not understand what voting was, I do remember how important it was to my parents. They would listen to the speeches on the radio and read articles in the newspapers.

My dad had definite opinions about the election in general and the candidates in particular. He said that Roosevelt was doing a great job and he did not want Dewey elected president. World War II was going on and my dad was certain that only Roosevelt could continue to lead America to winning the war.

Several times during that presidential campaign my dad would say that if Dewey won we would not continue to live in the United States. Any time my dad heard that Dewey might win the election it caused my dad to say, "If Dewey is elected we will move to Mexico." As a young child I believed what my dad said. It was strange thinking about moving to Mexico away from my grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. It was even more strange to think about living in a place where we could not speak the language or understand the language.

When the news was announced that Roosevelt had won and would continue as president for another four years, my entire family was happy. The threat of packing up everything we owned and moving to Mexico should have been forgotten.

Just a few short months after Roosevelt began his fourth term as president, on a beautiful spring day of April 12, 1945 the news was announced that President Roosevelt had died. The only thing I can remember about it was that I went out on our front doorstep and cried. Not understanding the election process and having no idea that the vice-president would assume the duties of president, I thought that Dewey would be president.

Remembering my dad's words, "If Dewey is president we will move to Mexico!" made me aware that we were just days, if not hours, away from leaving our home and relatives. I wondered if we would visit our grandparents before we left, and I wondered if it would take very long to learn to speak Spanish.

It was a relief when I learned that Dewey would not be our next president and we would not have to move. My parents explained that Harry Truman would be president. They did not know I was worried. Now I know that my dad would never have left the United States but I did not know it then.

Many of the young children today may understand that the speeches were made to try to get votes, but there are probably many young children who believe every word they hear. Many of these children may be concerned about problems that we as adults assume they do not understand. Maybe if we all work together and put the campaign behind us it will bring peace of mind to everyone, including the young children.

Children believe what they hear.

THE OTHER SIDE

I have now upgraded my equipment out of the dark ages and have a new laser printer. I don't think that is going to have much effect on the quality of content, but it sure looks better, doesn't it? (What do you mean you can't see how it looks? And I paid all that money and it still looks the same. Oh, the guy at the paper has to retype all of this and it comes out on his printer. Gosh, I didn't know that!)

Well, the election is over and Bruce King will go back to his rocking chair to view Stanley sunsets. John Underwood is going to have to go back to work for a living. William Butts now has tenure. Flipping pennies on the street corner is now legal. The Republicans have control of Congress and Bob Dole is now in charge of gridlock administration. All in all, an exciting evening.

Well after all, what's wrong with gridlock, anyhow. It keeps our elected representatives busy and allows us to enjoy their efforts without having to suffer the effects of their efficiency.

I understand the Comedy Channel is competing with C-SPAN for the right to broadcast congressional debates because of the irony of the situation. The Republicans have a majority in the Senate and House, but they don't have enough to override a veto, so posturing will become more important, and posturing is the whole essence of stand-up comedy anyhow. (I always wondered what they talked about at a "rump session". It sounds kind of like a bachelor smoker, doesn't it.)

The constitutional amendment on gambling crossed the finish line two lengths ahead. This will now allow some kind of gambling and a lottery in New Mexico, but it isn't clear how or what. The legislature is supposed to implement it, whatever that means.

I am afraid there may be some disappointed people in the state when the full effect of gambling is realized. Everyone seems to think it will be a great boon to the state economy, but this hasn't necessarily been the result suffered by other states. Colorado towns that have opened casinos have also suffered increased taxes, increased demand for public services, etc., and the whole way of life has been changed. It may result in an improved economy but it won't be the same economy it was before.

One factor is that unless it increases the number of people participating, it will only spread the dollar thinner. We had some of that experience when they started simulcasting races. There weren't any more entertainment dollars around, the simulcasts just drained the money away from other places. This will also be the effect of gambling unless there is additional money brought in, and with the popularity of gambling enterprises lately, we are in danger of flooding the market. Look for an interesting period of adjustment before you rely on it putting any new dollars in your pocket.

You should live your life so you needn't worry about the bridge you just burned behind you. When you burn bridges, be sure you don't expect to retrace your path. A corner which can only be exited through the alligator pond is still a trap, no matter how good your intentions were.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE--Pressure to construct a space complex north of Las Cruces continues to build - but are the right people listening?

Two government committees have been told of the urgency recently. The state Spaceport Commission heard from George Harris, the state space commercialization director in September that New Mexico has less than two years to build an operational spaceport if it doesn't want to lose out to other countries that already have commercial space launching facilities and other states that are in the race.

In September, representatives of the Air Force's White Sands Missile Range, NASA's White Sands Testing Facility, and New Mexico State University's Physical Science Laboratory told the Spaceport Commission they would be willing to sign letters of understanding with the state to work together on a space complex.

Representatives of McDonnell Douglas and Kistler Aerospace told the commission they are interested in building facilities adjacent to the space complex.

Kistler Aerospace, based in Seattle with an office in Las Cruces, has made plans to invest $500 million by the year 2000 in a research and construction facility in the area if the complex is built. McDonnell Douglas, based in California, already is testing its single-stage-to-orbit Delta Clipper at White Sands and could be convinced to locate its billion dollar program to the complex.

NASA's White Sands Testing Facility would analyze launching systems of customers. The Air Force's White Sands Missile Range would track and control the departure and arrival of space vehicles, and NMSU's Physical Science Lab would provide mission analysis. The Air Force and NASA are under orders to provide more commercial use of their facilities.

Two weeks ago Harris told the Legislature's interim Revenue Stabilization and Tax Policy Committee that a $20 million state investment would capture $700 million in commercial launches and new rocket development by 1998 and another $300 million in spinoff work around the state.

The $20 million in state money would build a flight command center and other launch facilities. Private industry and the federal government would cover the rest of the $53 million first-phase costs of the space complex.

So what could possibly stand in the way of a 50-to-1 return on investment that would produce 1,000 new jobs for New Mexico? Unfortunately many things.

The state's Office of Space Commercialization barely got off the ground in the first place. Albuquerque and Santa Fe interests were competing for the space office. The final solution was a three-way split of a meager appropriation, with Las Cruces getting the commercial part of the effort.

Those regional differences are bound to continue. The state's top lawmakers are from the North. Most in the state's news media know the world ceases to exist just south of Albuquerque. And some leading lawmakers get so consumed with problems of human suffering that they think attention to anything else is superficial.

Even though the state now has tons of money lying around, $20 million is a larger chunk than normally gets appropriated for any one project.

Lawmakers prefer to split the pot into 112 pieces so everyone has goodies to take home.

And there's the problem with environmental assessments. Even though the land we're talking about is so inhospitable early travelers named it the Jornada del Muerto, it suddenly becomes fragile and valuable when someone finds a use for it.

Amazingly, one tax committee member, John McMullan of Albuquerque, was able to see the big picture. He reminded panel members of how New Mexico dropped the ball a few years ago when legislation was introduced to bring Citicorp Bank to the state.

South Dakota got Citicorp. And California or Florida will get the spaceport unless the '95 Legislature is able to look lively and be smart.

The Dona Ana County delegation will push hard, but will need help from up north. And McMullan will be of not assistance. The longtime Albuquerque Republican is retiring from the Legislature.

Comment Period Is Open For BLM Resource Plans

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) announces the opening of the public review and comment period for the combined Draft Roswell Resource Management Plan (RMP) and the Draft Carlsbad RMP Amendment for Oil and Gas for public review and comments. The comment period is open for 90 days, beginning November 4, 1994, and ending on February 1, 1995.

The Draft Roswell RMP outlines management direction on public lands in the Roswell Resource Area for the next 10 to 15 years. The Draft Carlsbad RMP Amendment outlines management direction for oil and gas activities for the next 10 to 15 years in the Carlsbad Resource Area.

The public can learn more about these plans at open houses to be held in Ruidoso on January 3, 1995, at the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, 720 Sudderth from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. until 8 p.m.; on January 4, at the Carlsbad Resource Area Office, and on January 5, at the Roswell District Office.

BLM will hold two public hearings on the Draft Roswell RMP and Draft Carlsbad RMP Amendment. The first will be held on January 10, in Pearson Auditorium, NMMI

LETTERS to the editor

EDITOR—I am writing this letter not as Chief of Police or as an official of the Town of Carrizozo. Neither do the town trustees nor the Mayor have anything to do with my writing this. I am writing this as a veteran of the Armed Forces and on behalf of other veterans of the Town of Carrizozo and other Lincoln County veterans.

This letter is directed to the piece of human garbage responsible for stealing the flags off our Veterans Memorial located across the street from City Hall. No doubt this was perpetrated by some low life who has no idea of the honor it is to proudly serve our country. This idiot has no idea of the human suffering that those flags represented, or the pride that the Town of Carrizozo had in establishing that memorial. As far as I know, it was the only memorial of its type in Lincoln County, dedicated to ALL veterans.

The United States flag and New Mexico flags that were taken were donated by the Carrizozo Lions Club. This organization is dedicated to providing financial help for those in need of corrective lenses. For the thieving imbecile who took those flags, that means we help buy glasses for people who cannot afford them so that they can see things you take for granted.

The P.O.W./M.I.A flag that was taken was donated by T.J. Collins. T.J. was a friend and a fellow veteran who had moved to Carrizozo recently. When he heard about our plans to build a Veterans Memorial, he contacted the Paralyzed Veterans of America organization and got that flag donated to the town. T.J. had survived his tour of duty in Viet Nam only to come home and get shot in the back by a coward, much like the coward who stole the flags. T.J. was paralyzed from the chest down as a result of the gunshot. T.J. passed away approximately four months ago without ever having seen the memorial he wanted so much to be a part of.

I doubt seriously that these words would invoke any feeling of guilt you may have. A person needs a conscience in order to feel guilty about something and it is obvious you do not have one. A person of your calibre probably does not have the intestinal fortitude (that means guts) to admit to anyone that matters what you did. If you want to prove me wrong, walk up to any veteran in Carrizozo, there are a lot of us here, and tell them what you did. Let's see what happens!

CHARLIE WHITE, U.S. Army Veteran, Carrizozo.

DEAR GOVERNOR BRUCE KING: I am writing on behalf of the Senior Citizens of the area surrounding the Cap Sierra Blanca in Fort Stanton. We are requesting your attention to the problems regarding this prison.

As you are well aware, following the escape of one of these prisoners and the brutal murder of a Lincoln, New Mexico man, and the escape of three prisoners a couple of weeks later, we were promised by you, Mr. King, and other area officials, that drastic

For the Love of Gregory

by Joann Rice

Editor's Note: This column relates a five-year-old's conversations with his grandmother. For the Love of Gregory

"Tag! You're It!"

Friday after a week of kindergarten Gregory had more news to share.

"Queen Mother, the teacher sent a note home today."

"What? You getting kicked out already?"

"Berry funny, Queen Mother," he said with a disgusted sigh. "Anyways it's worse than that. I have to go to the doctor and get my buster shots."

"Oh, is that all?"

"All? All? That's easy for you to say. They won't be sticking needles in you!"

"Better you than me," I said.

He sat looking thoroughly disillusioned for a bit, then, "But it might be a good thing. There's all kinds of sickness at school. All week Missy had a runny nose and George coughed his head off. Then today at recess Peter threw up. Right from the berry top of the slide. Boy, was I glad I was behind him and not under him. It's a sick school, I'm tellin' you! I could catch a disease!"

"I don't think your life is in danger, Gregory."

"You never know, Queen Mother." Then he whispered covertly. "I heard tell the principal is a berry hard man to deal with."

"Why, what does he do?"

"Humph! Wouldn't you just like to know."

"Not particularly."

"Well, I could tell you stories if I wuz a mind too. You would be ..."

"Amazed? Horrified? Shocked to my floorboards?"

"To say the least," he said.

"Well, on a brighter subject, Gregory, tomorrow is Saturday. You don't have to go to school. What are you going to do?"

"Don't you remember? I have to go to the doctor and get poked full of holes. I'll be laid up all day!"

"Well, I'll bring you chicken soup and spoon feed you until you get your strength back."

"At least, after my shots I'll get a tag."

"A what?"

"A tag and a collar to wear around my neck. You know, like our cats did when they went to the betinary. And next time the teacher gives me a note, I'll just show her my tag."

"I think you're more likely to get a lollipop and a 'good riddance' from the doctor."

"Give me a break! Lollipops are for babies. I want a tag!"

He got up to leave. "Don't worry, Queen Mother. Its not all that bad. School I mean. And I did learn somthing this week. I learned that you can trade a tuna fish sandwich for changes were going to be made at the prison to guarantee our safety.

It has been well over two months now, and we are getting no satisfaction in the way things are being handled. It seems that Prison and State officials are promising to beef up security, improvise some sort of warning system, curtail work detail, fence the prison grounds and change the road thru the prison grounds, but to date it has all been talk. The warden has just stated in the local papers that we can call in our phone numbers to her and that we would then be notified when there has been an escape. We will only have a message on our phone that there has been an escape, not telling how many or giving a physical description of the man, or men. These men are wearing street clothing, therefore, we cannot tell them from any other citizen.

In looking closer into this situation, it has come to our attention that there is a lot of "behind the scenes" things going on that has not been brought to the attention of the local citizens. To begin with, a closer look at the history of this institution shows that in the past approximately 25 years or so, there was very little disturbances going on until recently. Before the current warden came here, there were very few escapes, and I believe only one violent crime was committed from these escapes.

The unrest at the prison seems to be infernal. In our own private investigation, we have discovered that some very serious problems have developed between the inmates and the Warden, and between the employees and the Warden. Is that telling us something? There has been an alarming turnover of employees since this warden came. What is the reason for this?

In further investigating this problem, we have discovered that there is a very liberal classification system out there. They are incarcerating men convicted of more violent crimes, and I believe that they are not supposed to be sent out here until they have about 2 to 2 1/2 years left to serve, and they have some here with more than that length of time to serve. There are men here that are gang members, and they cause problems among the other men. I believe that the individual who escaped and killed the man from Lincoln was in fear of his life, and though not a violent man himself, could have possible been acting in fear for his own life.

Why was the inmate — who is still at large — out for eight (8) hours before reported as escaped? To save face maybe??

We of Lincoln County are also running in fear our lives. A good percentage of us are senior citizens, some living alone, a lot of us have come to this area because it is, or was, a quiet, peaceful and safe place to live. NO MORE. We now lock our doors, not only when we leave, but while we are at home. We take our weapons out and 'target practice', when we really have no business even owning a weapon. It will probably get us in more trouble than if we had no weapon at all, but we feel a bit more secure having one. Many of us live outside the village limits, and have no close neighbors who could help us in a hurry if needed. WE ARE IN MORE DANGER NOW THAN WE EVER WERE IN OUR WHOLE LIFETIME. Something MUST be done, and now, not SOMETIME.

We are requesting some serious investigations, starting at the TOP at Camp Sierra, and SOON. We have many reasons, some listed above, that all is not what you think it is out there. If this is not done now, one of our citizens will be maimed or killed, and some of the State officials will be more responsible than the inmates.

Why not interview the inmates themselves to see why there is this unrest. Also former and present employees. You may learn some things that would surprise you. Seems when you sent investigators to talk to the warden, she says "ALL'S OK NOW". She just wants you to think it is!

PLEASE — don't put this on the back burner. We love our little area, and you, as Governor, can return our peaceful community to us.

Following this letter will be a copy we are circulating for signatures of the citizens in this area.

Thank you for your time and consideration in checking into this for us.

CAPITAN NOTES

Greetings from my old house by the side of the road to your house.

First of all am sorry that Sarah did not get this announcement in last weeks column and she is too. However we are putting it at the very top of the column hoping that some of you folks will read it in time to attend the meeting at the Senior Citizens Hall Thursday to hear Dr. Bernard Reimann.

Dr. Bernard Reimann will be the guest speaker at the Senior Citizens Center on Thursday, Nov. 10. Lunch will be served and will be followed by Dr. Reimann speaking and presenting interesting slides on the wetlands here in Capitan. We should all be very interested in this and very appreciative and thankful for having Dr. Reimann and his lovely wife making their home here in Capitan instead of some of the other places they considered. Thank you Dr. Reimann and thank you Sarah Ewoldt for submitting the above.

Just had a call from Ardeath Hanson of Ruidoso, formerly of Capitan, and she is doing a story on the life of her mother, who passed away last week, just one week short of reaching the age of 101 years. This should be a most interesting story and I know you will be watching for it. Some of you know Ardeath and as she said, she looks forward to reading the stories of the lives of the settlers and the newcomers to Capitan. So get busy and get those stories to us. I have already nagged some of you so much that when you see me coming, you make a fast detour. But I will try to be patient. It's just that everyone wants to read about other folks, but getting their own on paper is a chore. I know and appreciate that, so take your time and just know that we will accept any and all of your stories any time we can get them.

Well folks I just returned from voting and doing my duty as a law abiding citizen. The only flaw is that at my advanced age I am supposed to have ordinary intelligence. Well back when we used a pencil and put an X in each square and then even when we progressed to those cute little keys that you just reached up and pulled down, I was rather intelligent, but the darned new fangled electronic ones leave me cold and rather dumb, I might add. My son

Tom took me to vote. He naturally put me ahead of him in the line and when it was my turn to go in, accompanied with a yellow sample ballot that I had been studying and which I had dutifully marked so I would not cancel anything that he was going to vote for, I kept getting all the lights on at one time. The dear lady, Mrs. Jimmy Stewart, had to come in three times to show me how to do it right. I did not want to vote a straight ticket, but I kept pushing the top one and kept getting a straight slate. I made up mind that I did not care how long it took, I was going to get it right. Naturally, I was kidded when I came out and on the way home my son said he was beginning to think I had taken up permanent residency in the voting booth, very funny huh? Oh the trials and tribulations of old age.

Saw so many good friends at the voting place and naturally I always have to stop and talk. Tootie Fouratt looking so beautiful as always. Why is that some folks just keep getting younger?

And that Mona McEuen looking like she just graduated from high school and had been a cheerleader to boot.

Doris Cherry, so intelligent, so sweet and with a beautiful smile. Doris Pound lovely, as usual, with her beautiful smile and beautiful white hair, which I love. Bertie Beavers, one of those lovely ladies you enjoy seeing and visiting with and seems like I only run across Bertie about three times a year. Perhaps we need to do something about that Bertie. She has a son that is a famous writer and she promised me a story soon about him. So listen up folks.

And Mrs. Jimmy Stewart, such a patient lady and so nice to me when my stupidity outranked my intelligence and it was showing for the whole world to see. She did not lose her patience and I bet she wished she had a club and was free to use it. Thank you again Mrs. Stewart for your assistance and above all, your patience and endurance.

And then Jo Blazer is one of those effervescent folks that every time you see her, you want to hang on to her and keep her. She is one of my very favorite gals in this area and I hope that as long as I am in Capitan that Jo Blazer will be here too.

The days go by so fast and seems like each day I have more to do than the day before. Suppose it could be the fact that I did not get through the day before? And then I wonder as I proceed slowly and more slowly to the soon to be 20th century, where oh where, and what ever happened to the olden days when we thought they would never end? And by the way what ever happened to those golden days that I have looked forward to for the past 20 years?

Nina and Gordon Ross have recently returned from a six week RV trip to the East where they visited Gordon's daughter Sue and granddaughters Sarah and Rebecca in Huntsville, Alabama and another daughter, Sally, in Knoxville, Tenn.

Daughter Sue is a teacher and coach and her two daughters are enthusiastic volleyball players on her teams. Nina and Gordon joined them in the school van for out of town matches and decided those old school bleachers are pretty hard on backs and other anatomy. Several golf contests between daughter and father helped keep up the lively visit tempo.

While in Huntsville, they parked their RV at the space center campground, a beautiful facility with lots of shade, space between rigs, and a very reasonable nightly rate for full hookups.

Moving on to Knoxville where daughter Sally is a branch manager in the city Library System, they enjoyed side trips to Dollywood, a train trip in the Smokey Mountains, and the Museum of the Appalachia's at Norris, Tenn., where they attended the 15th Annual Fall Homecoming. The latter event has four days of folk and bluegrass music, cloggers, buck dancers, and craft exhibits representing the skills of the residents of the region. These included weaving, spinning, black-smithing, leather processing, wood working, pottery making, quilting, knitting, early photography, and all kinds of cooking and food demonstrations.

Everywhere there are menus of cornbread, hush puppies, grits, greens, biscuits, black eyed peas and catfish. Such good eating and all with a backdrop of gorgeous fall colors. I do believe East Tennessee colors seriously rival those in Vermont and upper New York state.

After great visits with daughters and families we moved on to Mountain View, Arkansas in the Ozarks. More fantastic color and nightly sessions of music around the town square. Nothing is really organized. Musicians just drift in to play and there may be 10 or 12 different groups at various locations all having fun making music with fiddles, harmonicas, washboards, jews harps, and the usual banjos and guitars. One night was chilly and they had a big outdoor wood stove which spread it's delightful warmth to those gathered around. On Sunday we went to the Methodist Church where a children's choir of about 30 including some very young 5-6 year old put on a delightful music program. At church we visited with a couple from Florida who had fallen in love with the life style in Mountain View and were building a home there.

The Ozark Folk Center has many of the same kind of activities and attractions as the Appalachia Homecoming mentioned earlier. We saw things at Dollywood as well but in a much more crowded, commercial atmosphere.

We had Branson on our minds but shied away after meeting some folks from there who discouraged us about RV parking and traffic congestion. They suggested a tour arrangement with prearranged accommodations and show tickets.

Some of you know that Nina came to New Mexico

Capitan Chamber Discusses Number of Local Residents

Award amounts for the Capitan Chamber of Commerce Christmas decoration contest were announced at the chamber meeting Nov. 7.

The winner in the commercial category will receive a $50 certificate, and the winner in the residential category will receive a $50 certificate. The certificates must be spent with a local Capitan merchant.

Those being judged must live in the Capitan Village limits. Judging will be the night of Dec. 23. No entry form is required.

Bingo is every Thursday night at the chamber building at 7 p.m. Certain bingo rules have been changed to make the game more interesting and to comply with the state gaming laws.

It was announced that 10,000 Capitan brochures have arrived, and 2,000 I Love Capitan buttons have arrived.

Chamber members were happy to learn that the balance due on the chamber building is $3,156.30.

Members discussed the Capitan sign that states the population as 782. There are more than 802 active water meters in Capitan which probably means the population is more than 1,200.

The chamber will place a half page ad in the 1995 New Mexico Vacation Guide.

Chamber meetings are held the first Monday of the month at 12:30 p.m. in the chamber building.

from Oklahoma in a covered wagon in 1923. Starting from Eldorado, Oklahoma in three wagons in September, the family followed a route to Hollis, OK, Childress, Estelline, Turkey, Quitique, Silverton, Tulia, Nazareth, Dimmitt, Amherst, Needmore, Baileyboro, all in Texas, then Rogers, Dora, and towards Elida turning south four miles east of Elida to the Pleasant Valley community. That trip, about 300 miles, took 14 days in 1923. On our return trip from Arkansas we thought it would be fun to retrace the trip in our modern day covered wagon (read 32 foot 5th wheel travel trailer) which we did in about three days taking videos and with Nina's recollection of the original trip added by tape recorder.

At the Pleasant Valley location which Nina's grandmother homesteaded in 1906 and the family moved from in 1935, we found traces of the old dwelling, barns, fences, well, outhouse, and the skeleton chassis of a much loved old toy baby buggy. Lots of memories from days gone by.

What a good feeling when we returned to Capitan. There are lots of beautiful places with friendly folks all over this great country but you can't beat what we have right here.

Thank you Ross for having your story so beautifully written. Such an interesting trip and I know the readers will enjoy reading your story. And we are still waiting for your account of why and when you and Nina first came to Capitan.

And so for another week, hope the election goes the way you want it to, but more importantly whether you are happy or disappointed, just remember what a glorious and wonderful privilege it is to be able to vote.

And so my friends whatever the final outcome of today's election, if we are disappointed, let us make the best of it. It still is a great country, a great state and a wonderful community we live in. And you folks if everything goes the way you want it, do not rub it in as the old saying goes. And so for another week, God bless each and everyone of you that read this trivia and even those of you that don't. See you next week.

AARP Election Of Officers Set For Thursday

The Lincoln County Chapter #4512 of AARP, Inc. will hold its annual meeting at 10:00 A.M. on Thursday, Nov. 17, at the Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club Building for election of officers. Installation of officers by District VIII Director Charlotte C. Jarratt will follow the election.

A potluck Thanksgiving dinner will be at 12:00 noon. All members are urged to attend this election meeting.

There will not be a meeting on the usual meeting date, which will be Nov. 23.

FORT STANTON FACTS & FICTION

Just returned from the fair building in Capitan where the big votes are being cast for the many candidates. At 10:45 there was a lot of people voting. Doris Cherry, Doris Pounds, Bert Beavers, Mona McEuen, Tootie Fouratt, and Mrs. Stewart were kept busy the whole day with the big turn out. They said people were waiting in line when they opened the building.

The town will be buzzing with more hunters tomorrow when the next hunt will begin. Pauline McGarry called me and asked if I would like to print a short story she had written sometime back. I told her I would be glad to. It is very appropriate for this week.

The Hunt (1971) by Pauline Whittaker

Yes, Smokey, there is a deer hunt but not as colorful as the hunt in 1971.

Hunting season opened with a bang in Capitan where Smokey Bear is up a tree. The camping trailers and camper trucks absorbed the main street three blocks long. Not only the streets but the parking area of the big land were loaded with red capped and red shirted hunters.

The lights flipped on at the Smokey Bear Coffee Shop at three a.m. Ceil Chafin, the petite Spanish waitress, sparkled at three a.m. like a Christmas tree light. Dressed in her powder blue slacks suit with a white stripe down her wavy legs reminded one of a pet deer. Her coal black hair tied with a blue ribbon hung in a long curl down the middle of her back touching her hips made a colorful sight for the hunters. She glided from table to table and from booth to booth taking orders for yummy ham and eggs, hot cakes, biscuits and guess what? pie.

Jack, the Irish cook, whistled as he cooked these hearty breakfasts. He radiated the excitement of the hunt; he had heard all the tales where the deer might be found. The hunters had scouted the Lincoln National Forest a month before the season opened. Jack anticipated the opening of the season like a little boy looks for Santa Claus. Jack liked to cook for such ravenous appetites.

The hunters greeted each other as if he were a long lost cousin-yells and yelps filled the coffee shop; the back slapping echoed against the walls. Each headlight circled into the parking places belching forth families of young boys and girls and wives—a great family affair. Each eyeballed Jack as if he were a deer, impatiently awaiting his order so he could hurry to the woods like a kindergardener saying, "me first". The tales that were told of the deer that got away or the deer that he got last year buzzed, buzzed, buzzed. Here comes another wave of hunters filling the tables and booths again with the red caps and jackets as soon as they are emptied. The hunt is on.

Tom, the village guide, got his deer one hour after he took his stand. He got his deer two miles from Capitan toward Lincoln. The early hunters who got their kill congregated outside the cafe to compare the number of points on their deer. Venison would be on Jack's table for Thanksgiving given to him by the village guide, Tom.

The hunt ended on the date set, all was quiet in Capitan. The guns were stilled; the parking lots emptied; the conversation in the cafe almost muted. Tom, the forest ranger, Tom, the village guide, Dick, the government trapper, mulled over the tales they heard as they sipped their coffee. The settlers who homesteaded their land where the deer have been thinned so the cattle can graze settled back into their ranching routine.

Ceil, the petite waitress, resumed her homemaking duties again. Jack, the Irish cook, returned to refurbishing the Hitching Post. Pauline placed this story in her keepsakes to keep for later on down the road.

Tom Chafin, Dick Raley, and Jack McGarry have gone to their happy hunting grounds. Ceil is cooking at the Capitan lunch room and Tom is really enjoying his retirement. Thanks, Pauline!

Thanks Pauline! for the memories. What sweet ones those were. On the 29th of October as I sat here in my little post office, the door opened and a very familiar voice said, "Is the postmistress in?" I looked up and there to greet me was Pearl Soderback. She and a friend had just driven in from the northern part of the state where they had spent the night with Tommy Rogers. We only visited for 10 minutes, but I was amazed that Pearl hadn't changed one bit. She hurried up to see Suzy, we know her as Evelyn Garvey, and then up to the cemetery to check on Johnny's grave and off to Carlsbad that evening. How I would have liked to have visited many hours with her but maybe next time. The next morning Evelyn and I were discussing the many hunting licenses Pearl had sold thru the years, the wonderful breakfasts and feasts she prepared, and what a worker she was. Hope many of you were in the Smokey Bear Restaurant to say hello to her while she was here.

Talking about the excitement of the deer hunters, Pat and Solomon are sighting in their guns, buying licenses, getting snacks and cooking burritos for their lunch, and deciding where can we get a big one to win the "Big Buck" contest. Understand Fred Payton is winning so far, with a six point. Teresa Baca was lucky at the first part of the last hunt and got her deer.

Am trying not to write too much about Kersti, but it sure is hard. She loves dogs, and gets so excited when she sees one we can hardly contain her. Our two heelers jump on her so much she is always blinking and scared she is going to get hit. Last week she was looking at the mounted deer head we have in the house, and pointing to it she wanted Grandpa to let her pet it. She is so funny to watch as she doesn't understand why that "put put" won't do like the other two. So she is liable to want to go hunting with Grandpa and Solomon too.

She really does think the Capitan Band is doing a good job. When they start playing she gets those legs and hands to jumping and clapping. She was thrilled along with the rest of us that the Tigers won their big game against Dulce. Keep up the good work guys and beat Fort Sumner.

Sure have missed going to the third grade room. One day school was out, the next Friday I went to Roswell, and now its Veterans Day. The last week was a postcard marked with the Lincoln County Cowboy Symposium cancellation. Canyon De Chelly was the post card the students bought and studied about. This place is in Arizona. At the ball game several kids holler, "Hello, Mrs. Joiner", I look and think who was that, but on the second glance my heart warms as I see it is one of those special little people.

Della Joiner is back at the Alto Country Club working. She had the worst case of strep throat I have seen in a long time. Dr. Gonzales gave her some strong medicine and she was better in a couple of days, but sure had a long haul getting back on her feet. She sure doesn't like being cooped up in the house and was so happy to get back to her job of cleaning those golf carts, cleaning bathrooms, putting out the drinking water for the golfers, taking them to the airport and just about any other job there is to do. She wants her grandmother to know how much she appreciates her taking care of her those bad days.

At Guy Payne's wedding it was so good to see Butch and Tommy Allen. Several people from Portales and Clovis were there. Judy Willingham and Jeffrey Willingham were also in attendance. Beverly enjoyed the evening holding her precious little granddaughter. Owen Washburn, best man, and his mother Mary Nell Washburn visited with many friends. Bud Payne, performed the wedding and did a good job. It was good to see Sandy and Darlene, aunts of the bridegroom.

My birthday is tomorrow and have already had a big day. That half a century mark is too close for comfort. On Monday I received a package from my good friends in Cibola, Texas, who had sent me a bible with my name engraved on the front. The next day Teresa and Ron sent a box with towels, pot holders, bath oil, powder, lotion and the cutest makeup container. The third day Della Bonnell sent a package with a jacket made out of the beautiful blankets. Thanks to all of you for all you've done and given but most of all for just being my family and friends. Wonder what that Kersti will get me? A big kiss with three little biting teeth.

The Fort is very quiet with not too much activity going on. Everyone is waiting to see if the election will have a positive or negative effect.

I would like to say thanks to Brent Sultemeier for giving me a ride to the El Rod Ranch last week. I went out to keep Kersti while Eddie and Audrey worked sheep, loading them on trucks. When I got half way to the ranch, Ron's pickup stopped on me and there I was in the middle of nowhere. As God planned it, Brent was warming up the new grader bought by the county, right where the pickup stopped. Without as much as a word, he took me 10 to 12 miles to the ranch. Thanks again Brent, I owe you a big favor.

Day before yesterday, I was working on some of my stamp collecting material and asked Francis Saiz if she knew of someone who would draw me some faces for a project I'm doing. At once she said one of her coworkers could. She brought her in the next day and Jeanette Cox offered to draw me some faces of people on the stamps. Today she brought me what she had done and they were wonderful. Just another Big Thanks to each of you for being so good to share what talents you have. It is appreciated a lot.

Have a happy hunting trip, enjoy your grandbabies, and til next week. Smile and be happy.

Meat Safety Labels Provide Information

by Betty McCreight
Lincoln County
Home Economist

By now you may be accustomed to seeing safe food cooking and handling labels on raw or partially cooked ground or chopped meat and poultry. They went into effect the end of May.

But beginning July 6, other raw and partially pre-cooked meat and poultry products will be required to carry similar labels, mandated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The labels carry symbols with brief explanations. These instructions are part of a comprehensive program to reduce the risk of food borne illness, due to undercooked meat, particularly hamburgers.

Here's a complete description of what the symbols mean. Refrigerator -- "Keep refrigerated or frozen. Thaw in refrigerator or microwave." Most bacteria that causes illness don't multiply, or do so very slowly, in the refrigerator. To prevent the growth of harmful bacteria, perishable foods should be refrigerated promptly. Take foods straight home to the refrigerator; don't stop for errands along the way. If the foods will not be used within a few days, freeze them. Your refrigerator should run at 40 degrees F and your freezer at 0 degrees.

Use the refrigerator to thaw meat. Don't set meat or poultry out on the kitchen counter. Bacteria multiply rapidly at room temperature. Bacteria on the surface of foods grow on the outer layer before the inside thaws. Thawing in the microwave is another option, but food must be cooked immediately after defrosting. Hands Under Water -- "Keep raw meat and poultry separate from other foods. Wash working surfaces, including cutting boards, utensils and hands after touching raw meat or poultry."

Proper sanitation is important. Juices of raw products may contain bacteria; keep raw meat and poultry and their juices away from other foods.

When grocery shopping, put meat and poultry in plastic food bags so juices will not get onto other groceries. Place meats on a tray to prevent juices from dripping on other foods.

Don't chop salad vegetables on a cutting board where you've just trimmed raw meat. Use clean dishes and utensils to serve food, not those used

Tigers Face Foxes In State Semi-finals

by Doris Cherry

At 2 p.m. Saturday, November 12, the Capitan Tigers football team will travel to Fort Sumner for the game of the season.

The topped ranked Class A football teams will vie for the state semi-finals. Undeclared Fort Sumner, ranked first in the polls, and second ranked Capitan with its 10-1 season will play on the Foxes home field, having won the coin toss for location at the Capitan-Dulce game Saturday in Capitan.

Both teams got to the semi-final stage by winning their quarter final games last weekend.

On Saturday, Capitan whipped the Dulce Hawks 46-0, in Capitan. The Hawks gave the Tigers a challenge in the first quarter, mainly because of their large size, with five players over 200 pounds. Tiger coach Ed Davis said because of the large players the Tigers had to adjust their defense in the first quarter.

It was during that quarter the Hawks had their only near chance for scoring. But the teamwork which has been the hallmark of the Tiger club this year paid off. "The character of these young men is such that they saw what was needed and they took it to another level," Davis said.

The Tigers scored every time they got their hands on the ball, except for one fumble. The Tigers even took advantage of two of the Hawks' seven fumbles, recovering the ball to score. Overall, the Tiger club had 612 yards offense, which Davis attributed to the combined team effort.

Senior Michael Fish had 255 yards rushing, junior Neil Montes had 137 yards, junior Josh Peralta had 100 yards passing.

Davis stressed that the individual players' success was due to a concentrated team effort.

Montes scored the first touchdown of the game with a short run across the goal. The extra point try was no good. Jason McSwane carried the ball in for the second score in the first quarter. The quarter ended 12-0.

In the second quarter, the Tiger defense gained the ball from the Hawks, which led to the 95-yard run by Fish in a Hawk kick. McSwane ran the ball in for the PAT.

With less than two minutes left in the first half, Fish intercepted the ball and ran 46 yards, but gained no points because of a penalty. The first half ended with the Tigers 20 and Dulce 0.

A clean pass from Fish to Peralta in the third quarter, and a good PAT for two extra points pushed the Tigers to a 28-0 lead by the end of period.

Early in the fourth quarter, Fish scooped up a loose Hawk ball and ran 80 yards for another touchdown, 34-0. Within two minutes, Fish ran over the end zone for another score, 40-0.

Another loose Hawk's ball got scooped up by the Tigers again with 4:57 left in the game. Then the final score came with 16 seconds left, 46-0.

The game got very serious in the last quarter, Dulce obviously frustrated by the Tigers tough defensive teamwork. Hard hitting drives sent Tigers McSwane and Jeremy McCarvey to Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso with minor bruises.

"I was very upset about the injuries," Davis said, "because the officials lost control of the game."

Davis said the two players were doing well, and will probably be in Saturday's game with Fort Sumner.

Davis said that some of the Tigers' depth has been diminished recently because some players were disqualified because of grades and other reasons. But the team's success this year has been satisfying.

"I've never been more proud of a bunch of young men," Davis said. "When we started (this season) we had lost some good players to graduation and moving. Some of the new people didn't know our team/family concept. Now they do understand."

Davis said everyone had counted the Tigers out this season. "No one paid any attention to us. But we started doing what we're capable of."

Saturday was the first time since 1982 the Tigers hosted a Class A quarterfinal game. Gate receipts for that game are collected by the New Mexico Activities Association and are distributed by the association.

District 1A champs Fort Sumner gained their ticket to the semi-finals by defeating District 5A second place team Tatum 41-6. In other quarterfinal games on Saturday second-placed District 5A Cloudcroft lost to District 2A champ Escalante 33-12. District 1A second place team Texico lost to District 4A champion Jal 38-8.

In other semi-final action Escalante will play at Jal at 1 p.m., also on November 12.

The winners of the two semi-final games will play on November 19. The losers will go home and pack away their football equipment for another year. The location will be determined by the winners of the semi-finals.

Admission to the semi-final game is $4.50 adults and $3.50 students. The price is set by the NMAA.

Lady Tigers End Year With 15-4 VB Record

by Doris Cherry

Disappointment does not quite describe Capitan volleyball coach Pam Allen's feelings this week.

The Lady Tigers' loss to the Hatch Bears in the first round of the Region G tournament in Capitan Saturday was a bitter pill for the coach who has been to the state volleyball tournament for every year but one since 1986 when she came to Capitan.

What started off to be a good intense match, with the Lady Tigers easily winning the first game against the Lady Bears, ended with a loss of focus, and the resulting loss of the match and tournament. The girls did not throw the match away, however, they won the first game 15-5, but lost the next three 15-10, 15-10 and 15-13.

Allen said she thought that the team's Class AA status was not a reason for the team's losses, because some of the Class A clubs are as "tough as anywhere." "The reason the kids aren't going to the state tournament has nothing to do with the class of play. It has everything to do with mental preparedness," she said.

when you shut the door behind you.

Who said dancing to country music is merely doing the fox trot with a southern accent?

It was interesting to watch the fellow the other day who was obviously uncomfortable with his education. He spent the whole afternoon speaking in prose. Son, them big words fit into an ordinary conversation very well as long as they are somehow connected to the subject. The art of vocabulary use should be practiced in such a manner as to make the communication more effective, and the practice of throwing in 19 letter words so others will be impressed that you know one should be avoided because if it don't fit, it don't impress.

After that match, Allen said she thought the Lady Tigers were good contenders for the state championship. But the regional loss was a "disappointment hard to deal with."

Allen commended seniors Jessica Cline and Stacey Sidwell who had been in the school's volleyball program since they were in the 7th grade. "They are both outstanding human beings and I have a lot of respect for both, and I will miss them," Allen said.

She also commended foreign exchange student Elaine Pichiliani for her contributions to the team this year.

Of the returning players, Allen said she has a good nucleus for next year's season. "And outstanding junior varsity players coming up."

All region players will be announced next week.

Meat Safety

in preparation.

Skillet — "Cook thoroughly." Thorough cooking kills harmful bacteria that might be in raw meat or poultry. The best way to determine if meat is cooked thoroughly is by using a meat thermometer. Recommended internal cooking temperatures vary from product to product. Generally, ground beef should be cooked to temperature of 145 degrees. Poultry should reach 170 degrees to 180 degrees.

In the absence of a meat thermometer, check visually for doneness. Ground meat and poultry should be gray in the center, and poultry juices should run clear. Roasts may be slightly pink in the middle.

Meat Thermometer — "Keep hot foods hot. Refrigerate leftovers immediately or discard."

Handling of cooked foods can introduce bacteria. To keep bacteria from multiplying in cooked food, don't let it sit out at room temperature more than two hours.

Leftovers should be stored in the refrigerator or freezer quickly. Divide large quantities into small, shallow containers and refrigerate or freeze within two hours of preparation.

De-bone large pieces of meat or poultry and divide into smaller portions for cold storage. With poultry or other stuffed meats, remove stuffing and refrigerate it in separate containers.

Discard food that has been left out more than two hours.

BLM To Offer 100 Wild Mustangs For Adoption

Approximately 100 wild mustangs will be arriving at the El Paso County Coliseum, El Paso, Texas, for a Bureau of Land Management (BLM) adoption. The mustangs will be available for adoption to pre-approved individuals on November 19, 1994.

Under Federal protection, the wild mustang herds are steadily increasing each year. To maintain a natural balance on public lands and to protect the health and welfare of the wild horses, the BLM periodically gathers healthy animals from the western ranges and offers them for adoption.

Interested individuals wishing to qualify for the El Paso adoption should make application to the Bureau's Moore, OK office. To qualify to adopt up to two horses per year, applicants must have a sturdy corral at least 6 feet high, transportation, shelter, and be able to care for the animals. Titles to the horses may be obtained after 12 months provided the animals have received proper care. Application packets are available from the Bureau of Land Management, Oklahoma Resource Area Office, 221 N. Service Rd., Moore, OK, 73160, (405) 794-9624, and may also be obtained by visiting a local U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service Office.

Registration for the adoption will occur at 8-9 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 19, 1994, at the El Paso County Coliseum, 4100 Paisano, El Paso, TX. Registrants' name cards will be included in the drawing for the order of animal selection and loading. Registrants arriving after the commencement of the drawing will be given selection opportunity at end of the drawing order contingent on the availability of animals. Adopters will complete an agreement with the BLM and receive history and health documentation on their selected horses. The adoption fee of $125 per horse is payable in cash or money order at the time of the adoption. Loading of the animals will be conducted by BLM personnel. Adopters should be aware that this process extends throughout the entire day.

Due to the successful response to recent adoptions, the BLM suggests that individuals interested in adopting these living legends obtain and submit an application packet as soon as possible to qualify and be approved for the El Paso adoption.

Raymond Najar Returns From Haiti Area Duty

Marine PFC Raymond C. Najar, son of Albert A. and Mary Najar of Carrizozo, recently returned from operations off the coast of Haiti aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Najar and USS Dwight D. Eisenhower went to Haiti after unloading 1,800 soldiers and more than 60 helicopters from the U.S. Army's 10th Mountain Division. The lack of air threat from Haitian forces enabled the Navy to remove the carrier's air wing and reconfigure the ship for the soldiers and their aircraft.

While off Haiti, Najar and fellow crew members worked in support of Navy and Army helicopter operations transporting troops and equipment ashore. The rapid deployment of USS Dwight D. Eisenhower demonstrates how naval forces are poised to respond to contingencies anywhere U.S. interests are at stake.

Najar's involvement in the operation underscores how the Navy-Marine Corps team still serves as the best option when a formidable force package is needed to remain on station for months at a time.

After returning from Haiti, USS Dwight D. Eisenhower resupplied in Norfolk, Va., and departed in late October, with 10 other ships and submarines for a six-month overseas deployment.

Whether delivering humanitarian assistance, cargo or troops from the sea, Najar and his highly trained Navy shipmates provide a unique crisis-response option, which can be withdrawn quickly when no longer needed.

The 1993 graduate of Carrizozo High School joined the Marine Corps in August 1993.
