

Fires Started By Lightning; Fire Restrictions Continue

by Doris Cherry

Wellcome rains began to fall on Lincoln County last week, but despite the scattered rains, level 2 fire restrictions are in effect on federal, state, and private lands.

Level 2 restrictions prohibit open fires, which include charcoal fires, on federal, state or private lands within Lincoln County.

Last week several fires were started by a lightning storm which swept through the area. The largest, named the Buck Fire by New Mexico State Forestry, the lead agency which managed the fire, started June 14 and consumed 1,600 acres of grass and brush (mainly algerita) on the Buck pasture on the Sam Donaldson ranch south of Picacho in southeastern Lincoln County.

Crews of 100 fire fighters from state forestry, Bureau of Land Management, Hondo, Fort Stanton, Ruidoso Downs, Bonito and Ruidoso Fire Departments, a helitack crew and fire fighters from the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Mesalero, a fire crew from Puelco, and a U.S. Forest Service air tanker stationed in Alamogordo fought the fire which was finally declared out at 6 p.m. June 18.

Donaldson was at the ranch at the time, said state forestry district ranger Barbara Luna. Donaldson was thankful for the fire fighting efforts of all involved.

The same lightning storm started a fire on the Gnatkowski Ranch, east of Jack's Peak near Ancho. Approximately 450 acres of private grass and piñon and juniper lands were burned before fire crews from state forestry, Carrizozo, Corona and Nogal Volunteer Fire Departments could contain it. The US Forest Service (USFS) air tanker also provided slurry drops on that fire.

Another 800 acres of mainly grass on the Loveless Ranch north of Capitan were consumed, also started by lightning June 14. Fire crews from State Forestry, Bonito, Capitan, Carrizozo and Camp Sierra Blanca/Fort Stanton Fire Departments responded to that fire, which was declared out by 7 p.m. June 15.

Inmates from the minimum security state prison at Camp Sierra Blanca (CSB) helped with the fires on the Loveless Ranch and Donaldson Ranch. All prisoners were accompanied with a guard from CSB, Luna said.

Bears In Dumpsters Are Not A Problem This Year

Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) board meets Monday, June 26.

Board members will review and consider the recommendations made by the executive committee for a new manager. Advertisements were placed in publications in Albuquerque, Phoenix, Tucson, El Paso, Las Cruces, Amarillo, Ruidoso, Carrizozo, Roswell and Alamogordo and 50 job descriptions were sent out.

22 people have responded with applications, said acting LCSWA manager Joe Lewandowski. Those applications have been reviewed by the executive committee which consists of several board members and Lewandowski. The committee will make recommendations to the LCSWA board during the June 26 meeting held at the LCSWA offices in Ruidoso Downs.

Also on the agenda of the LCSWA board meeting is awarding of the bids for the compactor for Corona. Once the compactor is purchased and put in place in Corona, LCSWA will take over trash collection in that village.

At the meeting Lewandowski will give the manager's report, which includes a report on special pick-ups of trash, and bear problems. Lewandowski said that the bear problem, which caused such messes with dumpsters last year, is not so great a problem this year. Game and Fish Department officers told Lewandowski the bears are not a problem in the area this year in general, mainly due to a good bear hunt last fall and the dry winter. During dry winters, female bears often miscarry their unborn cubs during hibernation.

Lewandowski also had prepared LCSWA for any bear problems with special pick-up crews. There are two full time employees picking up pine needles, two picking up brush, and four in different vehicles picking up around dumpsters where illegal dumping or bear messes occur or where large items have been left.

Also to be discussed during the meeting is a complaint from a resident near the Capitan Landfill of blowing trash. Lewandowski said he sent a crew out to the location Tuesday to clean the area.

LCSWA board members will consider an employee merit program, based on one now used at the Village of Ruidoso, financing purchase of the administrative-recycling center in Ruidoso Downs from the owner Texas New Mexico

Home Ec Added At Carrizozo Schools

by Doris Cherry

This fall Carrizozo middle and high school students will have the option of taking home economics classes taught by Martha Bond.

Carrizozo Board of Education unanimously approved a recommendation to add home ec as an elective to the middle and high school curriculum. The action was in response to a survey of students which showed sufficient numbers of those interested to warrant a home ec program.

Superintendent Dr. Elna Stowe said that surveys were given to 6th and 7th and 9-11th graders. Most were returned and showed that overall middle school students appeared to be most interested in home ec.

"They're more interested in home ec than football," said board member Nick Serna.

Stowe said that scheduling the home ec classes is "doable" especially in the 7th grade. She proposed two classes of home ec in 7th, and 9th or 10th grades.

Stowe said Bond is certified to teach home ec. Bond was a part time special education teacher last school.

The board discussed whether to have home ec as an elective, or make it mandatory. LeeRoy Zamora said if

Ruidoso Bond Election Scheduled For Aug. 22

by Doris Cherry

On August 22, Ruidoso voters who have been certified as owning property and paying taxes on that property in Ruidoso, will be able to go to the polls and vote on $6.65 million in bonds for seven different projects.

Ruidoso Village Council approved the resolution which established the August 22 election date, and which specifies what funds will go to the various projects.

The first two bond questions ask voters to approve the issuance of general obligations for water and sewer improvements. The water improvement bonds will be for $2 million, with $1.2 million to replace 25 miles of one and two inch water lines, $800,000 to build a one million gallon expansion at the Grindstone water treatment facility.

Sewer improvement bonds will be for $1.5 million for upgrading the village sewer system.

The third question will ask for $1.6 million in bonds to construct a new public library building. The fourth question is tied to the third; if voters do not approve the new library there will be no need for the $100,000 in bonds (requested in question 4) to remodel the library for a bigger senior citizens center.

Question five asks for approval of $100,000 of bonds to build a storage addition to the convention center.

Question six asks for $350,000 in bonds for remodeling and adding on to the village administration center.

Question seven asks for $1 million to construct the public indoor recreation facility to be located near White Mountain Schools.

Because it is a bond election, village clerk Tammie Maddox said that registered voters who live in Lincoln County, but own property in Ruidoso and pay property taxes, may vote in the bond election, if they file a certificate of eligibility with the village clerk between June 23 and August 7. Voter registration books for the bond election will be closed by the county clerk on July 25 at 5 p.m. Voters must be registered by that date to vote in the bond election on August 22. Absentee voting will be conducted in the village

Carrizozo To Expand Fred Chavez Park

by Ruth Hammond

The Town of Carrizozo is the owner of the two lots adjoining Fred Chavez Park on Aspen Street. The town board of directors accepted the deed to the property during the June 13 town council meeting.

Glen Ellison told the board the lots are ready to be seeded and should be ready for use at the Santa Rita Fiesta July 15 and 16. The town agreed to put in water lines to water the area.

Trustee Harold Garcia suggested the amount of seed needed by multiplied by three, one third for birds, one third for wind, and one third to grow.

In other business the board gave police chief Duane Vinson permission to go to Fort Hood Texas to get the two vehicles which were surplus property and would not cost the town anything except the expense of making the trip.

Vinson was also given permission to advertise for a new position in the police department, for safety aide. Former safety aide Raymond Lueras

Jr. was promoted to police officer. Lueras will attend the police academy as soon as possible.

LINCOLN COUNTY CHIEF DEPUTY TREASURER Beverly Payne assumed her duties Monday. She was formerly business manager for Capitan-Carrizozo Natural Gas Association where she had been employed for 17 years. She is also president of the Capitan Board of Education, now beginning her second term. Payne said that taking the deputy treasurer's position was a real opportunity for change. "I'm looking forward to serving the people of Lincoln County," she said.

New DAR Officers Are Installed

The May 4 meeting of the Sierra Blanca Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) was held at the Bar W Ranch near Carrizozo with hostess Marion Spencer. Guests present were Ruth Weiser and Virginia Castleberry.

A collection was taken for the Red Cross Relief Fund to aid the Oklahoma bombing victims.

Suzanne O'Malley reported on her trip to Washington, D.C., where she attended the NSDAR (National Society Daughters of the American Revolution) Continental Congress. DAR chapters from the United States and around the world meet. The NSDAR president general presides over the meetings that last about five days. Mrs. Charles Keil Kemper of California is the newly elected president general. The term is for three years.

Suzanne O'Malley then installed the new officers for the Sierra Blanca Chapter. The officers will have a two year term. The officers are as follows:

Regent, Kathy Travis; Vice-Regent, Wanda Duke; Chaplain, Faye Rowland; Recording Secretary, Lanita Rasak; Corresponding Secretary, June Rawley; treasurer, Majel Powell; Registrar, Marcile Stewart; Historian, Sally Martin; Librarian, Marti Yoder.

After the installation of officers new regent Kathy Travis presented Dorothy Bailey with an ex-regent pin.

class is mandatory, some kids will not want the class and will fail. Serna was not so worried about students failing as much as he was concerned about problems created by disruptive students, if the class was mandatory.

Jody Ventura said if the class is mandatory all the kids in the high school will have to take home ec. That would create scheduling problems. Ventura said getting the home ec program started again is most important.

Board member Pat Vega said it is important for kids to learn home ec.

The home ec program as an elective will be added to the board policy.

When Carrizozo kids return to school this fall they will also meet a new principal. The board hired Randall Earwood as principal. Earwood comes to Carrizozo from Roswell School District where he taught 6th grade. Recommendation to hire Earwood was made by a committee of Stowe, former principal Rob Hollis, a parent and teacher who interviewed applicants.

Music students will also get a new teacher. The boards hired Dolores Earwood as music instructor K-12. Mrs. Earwood taught music at Capitan Schools for a year and a half. She hopes to establish a choir in addition to the band program. An interview committee which included Rosemary Shafer and Phyllis Schlegel found Earwood the most outstanding applicant.

The board also approved the resignation of former music and drama teacher Nathan Kruse, who had accepted music teacher position in Ruidoso.

Prior to the personnel action, the board discussed personnel in closed session.

Changes in the way the state pays districts for student transportation (buses) will hurt Carrizozo Schools. The state will no longer pay districts for the miles driven to transport students, instead it will pay on the number of students per square mile. Stowe said with this new formula the district stands to lose more than $560 than it would have gotten in the past.

The board approved the $141,017 total tentative transportation which includes a two percent salary increase for drivers.

Sharon Baker special education director, presented the 1995-96 Chapter I budget of $55,120. Chapter 1 budget provides salaries and benefits for Title 1 teacher Baker and instructional aides Josie Vega and Margaret Barela, purchased services from private contractors, and a small amount for general supplies and field trips.

At the July meeting, the board will review and update the district goals, at the request of president Gary Hightower. He proposed the goals include revision of the staff salary schedule to bring teachers salaries in line with the $22,000 level established by the state legislature; implementation of the Character Counts program and consideration of a type of employee merit compensation program. Hightower requested the superintendent develop a schedule for the board to review a different section of the board policy each month. School boards are directed by the state to review and update board policy annually.

June 23, 24 and 25 will be the Carrizozo Alumni Reunion.

PUSH AMERICA will be wheeling its way through Carrizozo on July 5. The Phi Kappa Phi fraternity members will bicycle through the town as part of the annual fund raising cross country tour. The board gave permission for the bicyclists to stay in the gym for a night.

Next month the board will consider a list of unused/unwanted inventory to be placed in the Lincoln County auction in August. Stowe also told of finding the title to a 1951 truck at the Ag farm which was donated to the school years ago. She said she will try to locate the family who donated the truck and give them first option to purchase it. If they cannot be found, or do not want the truck, she recommended taking sealed bids for the vehicle.

All school offices will be closed on Tuesday, July 4.

The next regular board meeting will be 7 p.m. July 18.

Fires Started By Lightning . . .

Lightning started a fire on rough terrain of the Capitan West Mountain. All on forest service lands, the fire was named the Jacob Fire for the nearby Jacob Spring, and consumed 145 acres in Ponderosa pine and piñon and juniper before it was controlled on June 17. According to Smokey Bear District USFS Ranger Jerry Hawkes, eight acres of Ponderosa trees were consumed; the rest of the fire consumed primarily ground fuels of grass and brush. Heavy rains also helped put out the fire. The eight acres already have been reseeded, Hawkes said.

128 fire fighters from the USFS Smokey Bear Hot Shots (Ruidoso), Sacramento Hot Shots (Mayhill), Mescalero Hot Shot crew #3, Zuni Crew #6, Carlsbad Interagency fought the Jacob Fire with four USFS engines, one BIA engine, a water tender from Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department and a tanker truck from Mescalero. The USFS air tankers from Alamogordo were also utilized on the Jacob Fire.

On June 15, continued lightning started a fire near Corona, on BLM and private land. 120 acres, 80 of BLM and 20 private, of heavy piñon and juniper fuels with lots of slash from cutting have burned. That fire was finally declared out Tuesday night. Fire fighters from State Forestry, Corona Fire Department and Zuni were utilized at the Corona Fire.

Several other small fires were reported, including one in an old tree snag near Sun Valley reported Monday by Bonito Fire Department.

The use of fireworks is illegal in the Lincoln National Forest, and in the village of Ruidoso. Use of fireworks is highly discouraged on dry state and private lands.

Until the scattered rains become more wide spread, for instance Lincoln received little or none of the rains which fell on the Capitan-Ruidoso areas, fire restrictions will remain in effect.

Anyone making an open fire on federal, state, or private lands, can be cited and fined.

Luna expressed thanks to all the fire fighters involved, crews on the all the fires, and to area property owners. "The ranchers were a great help," she said.

Hawkes said that the main reason the fire consumed and killed only eight acres of timber was a prescribed burn done in the area about 10 years ago. As a result of the prescribed burn, the area had high grass and some lateral fuels (burnable brush and accumulated tree litter on the ground). The Jacob fire swept through the grass and the lateral fuels without igniting the trees.

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

State vs Business

By Ruth Hammond

Governor Johnson said he wanted to run the state like a business, or that is what we heard when he was campaigning for the highest office in the state of New Mexico.

Many people must have agreed with Johnson. When the votes were counted he was the winner and now we are all getting an example of how state government can be run like a business.

The only problem is that private businesses have to answer to different regulating officials and comply with certain standards that apparently are being overlooked by governor Johnson. When a private business has a reduction in force the business cannot put stipulations as to how and if a former employee is allowed to draw unemployment benefits. Not so with the state.

Many of the former workers at Fort Stanton were told if they asked for a transfer to another state facility and decided to not take the position offered the employees would not be eligible for unemployment benefits. According to what we have been told, private business does not have that option.

Another thing is that a private business would not willingly abandon property that is worth millions of dollars but Johnson either did not care or had what is often called a hidden agenda. Maybe Johnson knew who wanted the Fort Stanton facility far in advance of his supposedly surprise order to close Fort Stanton.

The true facts will probably never be known and even if they are publicized a few years from now it will be too late.

Most private business owners protect their assets which can be equipment such as computers, vehicles, appliances, office furniture and inventory as well as real estate. In contrast, the state, under governor Johnson, is tossing away an asset that can never be replaced once it has been destroyed. Renovation will never be the same as the original. A replica of a Model T is not the same as the one driven by Henry Ford. A rhinestone will never take the place of a diamond. And new prisons are not a good substitute for a historic pre-Civil War Fort.

One of the main problems with trying to run the state like a private business is that certain aspects of running a private business are the opposite of running any type of government, whether it is federal, state, county, or municipality.

Private businesses do not have to reveal to the general public any of the operating costs and most certainly do not have to reveal how much profit is earned. State government does not have that privilege. When taxpayers dollars and thousands of dollars and millions of dollars are being used to operate state government, the taxpayers have a right to know how much is being spent, where it is being spent, and why it is being spent.

Salaries of state employees are public record because their salaries are being paid with tax dollars. Salaries and expense accounts of elected officials are public record because the money being spent to pay elected officials and for their expenses comes from the taxpayers. The taxpayers have a right to know where each and every state dollar is spent.

Those same taxpayers also have the legal right to know when and if the state is making money, how the state is making money, and how the state plans to make more money.

The entire premise started with government of the people, by the people and for the people. State government has to answer to the people for what it does, when it does it and how it does it.

The idea of making an effort to keep the state from going broke is not all bad but the methods used should be approved by the majority, not a few people in high offices. It appears that Johnson assumed the voters wanted him to eliminate anything and everything he personally thought was not cost effective. He needs to remember he is a representative of the people, not God.

Taxpayers have a right to know.

Democrats Review Plans For Summer

Lincoln County Democrats reviewed plans for the summer during their pot luck dinner and meeting June 15 at the home Precinct 4 chairmen Bob and Thelma Stephens near Capitan.

There have been 93 new registered Democrats in the county, reported county chair Cece Griffin.

A resolution approved last month taking a stance against the proposed Monitored Retrievable Storage (MRS) for nuclear waste by the Mescalero Apache Tribal Council will be added to the state Democratic platform.

1996 will be an important election year, with some county offices, state representative and senate offices, U.S. congressional and presidential offices open. Members discussed the county offices that will be open next year—commission District 1 (now held by Stirling Spencer) and commission District 3 (held by Wilton Howell), assessor, sheriff and probate judge.

A county selection committee is seeking potential candidates for the offices.

Because some elected officials have changed their party membership in mid-term of their office, members had requested Griffin discuss with the State Central Committee (comprised of all county chairs) some type of legislative action to prevent this. Such an action cannot be done because it is unconstitutional, Griffin said. Instead, Griffin said that the county search committee could discuss the situation with potential candidates, and seek their affirmation to retain their party membership.

Honesty and integrity will be needed in the next election, members agreed, because many voters are disgruntled with politicians in general. Members agreed that local candidates will need to be public servants to the people of Lincoln County.

Griffin said the party has decided to become more visible in the press, and unlike past years, to make positive response to negative publicity, including letters to the editor. "We will answer letters and articles," Griffin said.

Members gave approval to send a letter to the editor in response to an article about Lincoln County Magistrate Judge William Butts changing party membership from Democrat to Republican. A published article quoted Butts saying he changed party membership because he was not honored during the approval process.

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE—Pioneer women have a tough time in northern New Mexico — especially if they're big statues dressed in calico and wearing a bonnet.

Back in the '20s the Historic Trails Association tried to give Santa Fe a 10-foot tall concrete Madonna of the Trail to commemorate Santa Fe's location at the end of the Santa Fe Trail.

Locals, the most vociferous of whom was an Anglo woman resident of three years, objected that the Chihuahua Trail, and its predecessor El Camino Real, was much more culturally representative of the community and, therefore, the statue should depict an Hispanic woman draped in a shawl and certainly not toting a gun. Besides that it was bad art.

Many of the same objections recently have been raised about a seven-foot bronze sculpture donated to New Mexico Highlands University by artist Burke Ruthendorf. But this donation has some major differences.

Most importantly, the sculpture was a learning project for foundry students at the university, who put in 730 hours of their own labor. I don't know how many foundries or foundry education programs New Mexico has, but most sculptors I know send their work to foundries in southern Colorado or other states. So it's good to see New Mexico getting into the business.

Critics of the Highlands statue say it's not complete until a Hispanic and an American Indian woman are placed with it. Otherwise, it doesn't get the message across.

The director of university relations says the statue, which depicts a woman scattering seeds from her apron, is to honor all women who came west and sowed the seeds of learning. It wasn't intended to represent Anglo women or any other ethnic group, she says.

Obviously, the calico dress and bonnet immediately bring to mind an Anglo pioneer woman, but so what? If the message is cultural diversity, then it is incomplete. But adding just two more cultures won't make it complete in some people's minds either.

Is it really necessary that every statue of a woman in northern New Mexico be accompanied by a host of fellow females representing other cultural groups?

On the grounds of New Mexico's state Capitol stands a magnificent sculpture of three Indian women waterbearers. So far no one has suggested that what the display needs is a woman in a calico dress and bonnet carrying a galvanized pail.

In a state that boasts of triculturalism in its tourist promotions and even its flag salute, it won't be long before someone in authority realizes the need for three Anglo and three Hispanic women on that corner also. The price of politically correct art in public places is about to go up.

Fortunately, a good friend in the news business has the perfect solution to that problem. She notes it is clothing that identifies distinctive cultures, so the state should require nude statues. That way, one figure is sufficient.

Ethnic and historic complaints would be eliminated. Sure, prudes would be a problem — until they are reminded that nudes are very artistic.

Meanwhile, the Madonna of the Trail is about to be homeless again. After being rejected by Santa Fe and ending up in Albuquerque's McClellan Park, Mayor Martin Chavez now wants to move her out to make room for a public building or a parking lot or some other such progress. He promises a new home for her close by. All the homeless have heard that one before.

This statue commemorates a woman who has moved down the Santa Fe Trail all the way from Independence, Mo. When the Santa Fe protectors of ethnic and artistic purity kicked her out — along with a swift kick in the shin to Harry Truman, the donors' representative — she didn't complain about moving another 60 miles past the end of the trail to find a home for herself and the two children who accompany her.

There's no telling what will happen next to Highlands University's embattled pioneer woman, but it probably won't be easy on her either.

If the Madonna of the Trail is any indication, she's going to have to sow those seeds of learning for many more decades — and maybe in many different places.

60 Students Are Riding Across The US To Help People With Disabilities

Members of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity, representing colleges and universities nationwide, are cycling across the United States this summer on a national awareness campaign for Americans with disabilities.

The 60 students are participating in the Journey of Home in an effort to raise funds. The trip began in San Francisco June 11 and will finish 3,500 miles and 62 days later in Charleston, SC. After the first week the team will divide into two groups with half taking the northern route to Washington, D.C. and the other half taking the southern path.

They will cycle an average of 75 miles per day and after each day's ride will provide educational programs and/or participate in awareness events in the communities they visit.

The group is scheduled to be in Carrizozo Thursday, July 6, which will be the 26th day of their journey.

If Weapons Are Locked Up Will We Still Have Our Freedom?

Any excuse will do for advocates of gun control — even tragedy like the bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City, where no guns were involved.

by F. R. DUPLANTIER

The Second Amendment to the United States Constitution was intended to protect the rights of the individual to own and make use of guns. Liberal politicians view gun ownership as an interference with the expansion of federal power, which of course it is; for an armed citizenry is much more difficult to subjugate than one that has been disarmed. In an effort to remove this irritating impediment to more government power, they exploit every public tragedy involving fire arms as propaganda for tighter restrictions on their use. In their eagerness to disarm America, they are even using the Oklahoma City bombing in their campaign against gun ownership.

The Second Amendment states, "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed." Advocates of gun control latch on to that word "militia" and insist that the Amendment does nothing more than authorize the bearing of arms by a state-organized group. But the intentions of the Founding Fathers are clear. After all, if they had not owned guns as individuals, they could not have overthrown the tyranny of England and established a free country. Patrick Henry said that the protection of our freedoms requires "that every man be armed."

Our right to privacy, protected by the Third and Fourth Amendments, is also under attack. The Federal Government seems determined to increase its control over all of us by prying into our daily lives. Tax collectors and regulatory agents have been snooping on us for years; and now, in the name of combating terrorism, the President is demanding wiretapping privileges for federal agents to investigate any suspected federal felony. There are 1,300 federal felonies. You could be guilty of one right now without even knowing it.

The Third Amendment forbids the quartering of soldiers in private homes during peacetime without the consent of the owner. The Fourth Amendment guarantees "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures," and forbids the issuing of warrants except "upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

The anti-terrorism legislation now being considered by Congress would empower federal agents to force banks, credit card companies, telephone companies, hotels, motels, airlines, and buslines to turn over their records on individual Americans — without a search warrant or a court order. The President also wants to set up a new federal intelligence, domestic counter-terrorism center and give the Attorney General new powers to investigate groups without any evidence of a criminal act or plot.

More than 60 million Americans...

For the Love of Gregory

by Joan Rice

Despite His Faults

Editor's Note: This column relates a five-year-old's conversations with his grandmother.

On Saturday, Gregory brought me a bouquet of flowers. "Thank you. They're beautiful. Did you get them out of your mom's garden?" "Oh yes," he said. "Mom has the best flowers on the whole block."

"You know," I said, "It was really thoughtful of you to bring these. I don't say it very often, but I think you are a pretty good kid."

"Don't be fooled by a bundle of flowers, Queen Mother. I'm a little brat!"

"Not really, Gregory. Oh sure, you do things that can be considered misbehavior. But all in all, you're a doll."

"You're not going to start giving me big kisses, are you? I just hate that!"

"You love it and you know it. And yes, I am going to give you a big kiss."

"Argh! Well wait until I get ready. I have to get my mind right." He squeezed his eyes shut and said, "OK, make it quick!"

"I kissed his cheek. I love you very much, Gregory. Now was that so bad?"

"I guess not. But tell me about love. What exactly does it mean, Queen Mother? What is love?"

"That's a tough one, Gregory. There are many different kinds of love. Love for things, love for people, love for self. They're all different."

"How's that?"

"Take people for instance. Love for your mom and dad is different than love for a husband or wife or friends. I guess that's the most important love of all. Love for people."

"Jesus says 'love thy neighbor.' But the kids next door are mean," he said.

"Neighbors are all people, not just those next door, Gregory."

"Oh, so you're supposed to love everyone, Queen Mother?"

"Yes. But you don't have to love the things they say or do."

"How can you do that?"

"It takes a very strong person to love a person in spite of their faults."

"Does everybody do it, though?"

"No, Gregory. I don't think anyone does it. That's because we are human and are not perfect."

"I feel real bad when I do things like pull the cat's tail, and talk back to Mom, and not eat my supper. And I do worse things than that. And it bothers me, Queen Mother."

"That's good, Gregory. It means you have a conscience. That means you know right from wrong."

"Well, I hope someday, I can do all right things and never do wrong."

"That won't happen, Gregory. Everyone makes mistakes."

"Why, Queen Mother?"

"Because it was meant to be."

"So it's ok to be wrong?"

"As long as you try very hard not to be."

"And I should try to love everybody, even if they're mean to me?"

"Yes. But it's ok to get away from them. There's no need to let yourself in for hurt, if you don't have to."

"It's very confusing, Queen Mother. Life, I mean."

"Just be as good as you can be. But don't try to be better than you are. Love those that you can and get away from those that you can't."

"I guess that makes sense, Queen Mother. Will it get easier when I'm older?"

"No, Gregory, I'm afraid not."

Carrizozo To Expand . . .

Airport manager George Glad reported fuel sales have increased significantly. The Drag Club repaired the runway, and the fly in will be held June 24.

The Carrizozo Lions Club will sponsor a pancake breakfast at the airport June 24 from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Vinson reported the Explorer group planned to clean graffiti off windows in town. The Explorers are sponsored by the Carrizozo Police Department.

The town's water situation was discussed during the public hearing for the proposed water rate increase.

The town refurbished the 800,000 gallon storage tank in 1987 and installed lines to help increase water pressure. The advanced age of the water system will require complete renovation soon.

The golf course was also discussed. Trustee Ruth Armstrong stated that the majority of the water department money was being spent on the golf course.

When asked how the town could justify the golf course, the board explained that federal money had been used on the golf course several years ago and the town would have to repay the federal money in the event the golf course would ever be sold.

It was reported that the golf course is in better shape than it has been for years, more people are using the golf course and more green fees are being collected.

After the public hearing ended there was no motion to increase the water rates.

The board agreed the number one priority for the town should be good clean water and decided to place water as the 1996 priority in the town's capital improvements five-year plan. Water had previously been the priority for 1997 and streets were the 1996 priority. Street improvements will now be the 1997 priority.

The five-year capital improvements plan will be used when the town applies for funding for Community Development Block Grants (CDBG) or for legislative funding.

Hours the motor vehicle department is open was discussed. Trustee Eileen Lovelace said the only complaint she had received was that working people were not able to get off work to go to city hall during the hours it was open. At this time city hall is closed from 12 to 12:30 for lunch.

Lovelace asked if city hall could be closed from 11:30 to 12 for lunch. Town clerk Carol Schlarb said she would prefer to discuss the situation with her staff before the board made a decision. The matter was tabled.

After a closed session to discuss limited personnel matters mayor Cecilia Kuhnel said she would interview for the lifeguard and cashier positions for the swimming pool on June 16. Kuhnel also rescinded her appointment of Julia Gallegos as recreation center aide.

Two Teachers Selected To Attend Residential Institute

Teachers from two schools in Lincoln County were among 30 teachers selected to attend the first residential institute for teachers of New Mexico's history.

The institute began June 11 and will continue through June 23 on the University of New Mexico campus and is supported by grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and by the Historic Preservation Division of the state of New Mexico.

Lincoln County teachers selected to attend were Janice LaRue of Capitan Schools and Cindy Shafer of Ruidoso Schools.

The institute is to improve the way teachers educate youth about New Mexico history by bringing together historians, archaeologists, anthropologists and curriculum specialists.

The New Mexico Endowment for the Humanities (NMEH) is a private, non-profit organization which supports humanities programs throughout New Mexico. Those who want to know more about NMEH may call 505-277-3705.

Charles Fulton Appointed As Sheriff's Department Chaplain By Jay McSwane

Charles F. Fulton, general overseer of the Evangelistic Assembly, Inc. and pastor of the Evangelistic Assembly Church in Carrizozo has been appointed Chaplain by Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane.

McSwane said Fulton will assist the sheriff's department in emergency messages and times of extreme stress such as accidents and with victims of crimes. Fulton will also consult with the deputies and staff as needed.

McSwane said other pastors and priests have been appointed also and will be called upon as needed. Former department chaplain Tommy Jared recently moved from Carrizozo.

Fulton received his commission card as a special deputy June 1.

Fulton and his wife Willie Mae came to Carrizozo in 1992. Willie Mae is the missions director at the Evangelistic Assembly.

Capitan Teacher Ron Becker Receives Honors At Stock Market Game

Adult game honors went to Capitan Schools teacher Ron Becker following the Spring 1995 Stock Market Game sponsored by the College of Business Administration and Economics at New Mexico State University and the New Mexico Securities Division.

The Stock Market Game is a computer simulation played by more than 4,200 high school, middle school and elementary students throughout New Mexico and west Texas. It is an innovative method for teaching economic education to students.

Each team began with an imaginary portfolio of $100,000 and played the market, making daily transactions based on closing prices of stocks. Teams were charged brokerage fees for each transaction. The goal was to make as much money as possible.

Have A Safe and Happy 4th of July!!

CAPITAN NOTES

Greetings from Nebraska. By this time next week I should be ensconced in my old house by the side of the road again. It will seem good to be home, but I will certainly miss my very special little family here in Nebraska.

Ever since I arrived here I feel like I have been on a collision course with fate. The reason for my visiting my daughter, son-in-law Jace and granddaughter Katie was to help them pack their things and move four blocks to their new home. I did not have to pack, the movers did the packing. Only drawback they did such a fantastic job of packing that we are still in the throes of unpacking. No matter how close you are to your offsprings, their ways and your ways do not always mesh and there's a time in every parent's life when gentle persuasion must give way to "absolute dictatorship." Now dictating doesn't really bother me, have been doing that for years. It is the indifference to my dictating that is most annoying. The other day I told Katie that if she and Kindra did not stop doing something or other her poor old grandmother would go into cardiac arrest. She just looked at me and smiled. I asked "Do you know what cardiac arrest means?" "Uh-huh," she replied. "Heart attack," and went blithely on her merry way. These kids this day and age know more at the age of eight than I did when I graduated from eighth grade. So am anticipating some glorious peace and quiet when I get home and I know fully well that about a week of that so-called peace and quiet and I will be thinking of packing up everything and high tailing it back to Nebraska.

I have been enjoying all the rain and all the water to do with whatever you want, to wash with and not feel wasteful about it. Then this morning Jace showed the article on the front page of the second section of The Wall Street Journal. Your water isn't as pure as you may have thought. Boil your drinking water, et cetera, et cetera. The unprecedented warning also points to gaps in water purity just when the country's water protection laws may be imperiled by another epidemic: the antiregulatory fever sweeping Washington. And who ends up being the loser folks? Three guesses and the first two do not count.

Father's Day was not the most pleasant day for Jace Anderson. The Jeep needed a new battery and he bought one and had to recharge it, so consequently after his hurrying to get to church on time, because he is ushering this month for nine o'clock services, he spent all of his spare time going back and forth to the garage checking on his battery. I had told them I would take them all for dinner for Father's Day, this of course during the few moments it took him to open his gifts. He said to go and he would meet us in a little while. Trish said we would get there early and get a table, because this is a very new and popular place to dine. As the place usually opens at five in the evening. Trish suggested we arrive at that time and be one of the first to be seated. The only fly in that ointment was that quite a few other folks had the same brilliant idea and the parking area was full and I do mean full when we arrived, we meaning Trish, Maureen and Katherine Maureen, age eight, I must add.

Trish told us to go on in and she would find some place to park. Katie and I did and Katie marched right up to the hostess and informed her that the Anderson party had arrived and was told it would be another half hour and to be seated in the lounge which was to the left of the dining room. So Miss Kate, as I sometimes call her, and Grandmother walked into the lounge and were seated. Then Trish comes in and as the waitress was already waiting for our order, your seating is supposed to be accompanied by an order from the bar, Trish ordered a Margarita, a glass of wine for me and a Shirley Temple for Katie. Then leaned over to me and asked if I had any money with me. In a shocked tone, I told her that I had left it all with Jace. Trish then began searching in her purse to see if there might be enough money to pay the waitress when Katie piped up with, "I've got some money. I've got ten dollars." And she proudly offered it, bless her heart much to the entertainment of some of the people that were close enough to enjoy our dilemma. Then our name was called and of course we walked to the dining area to be served. The hostess asked where was the fourth member of the Anderson party and Trish tried to explain. No matter, rules, we could not be seated until all members of the party were ready to dine, so back to the lounge we tripped and my Trish was doing a slow burn. Personally I thought it a bit funny and after getting nicely situated back in the bar, Jace walked in and some of the patrons started clapping, poor man. So the Anderson's were soon again called and we were seated in a very nice area of the dining room and the evening ended happily with a good time enjoyed by all. And that was Father's Day 1995.

Last week we ended Ila Mas Scarborough's autobiography with the big earthquake.

"We lived at a busy intersection where lots of big trucks passed all the time. They stopped real fast, with brakes squeaking and grabbing and it would shake the ground. And at first shock, I thought that was what it was, then I realized that it was an earthquake. I'd never felt one before, just heard about them and I think I was even getting ready to enjoy it. What a surprise I was in for. The house began to shake and there was a noise almost like loud thunder. I started for the back door to get outside, had to get through another door which should have been lined up with the back door, but wasn't. When I'd start to where it was, it wasn't there either. Cabinets were flung open, with dishes, groceries and such flying through the air. The stove broke loose and went to the other side of the room, letting gas escape, along with water from broken pipes.

All this, along with some real scary things. About the first thing I remember seeing when I finally got out the back door was hales of hay cascading in all directions from a big stack about two stories high. The men had been milking, all penned in between the big old cows, which had their heads fastened in the stalls. They felt lucky to get out alive, and I guarantee those cows didn't give much milk that day. Everybody was trying to find everybody else to see if we were all safe. We had no phones, and there was so much damage to streets that some were closed. Everyone was in a stage of panic. Sirens screaming in every direction. To keep it frightful, every little bit of earth would tremble and shake again and we'd think it might be worse than the first shock. We heard that the Homestead Act was going out of use in 1934, and we had only a few months to file on our claim. We bought a little car and soon had it loaded and we headed out for New

The Bear Speaks

Well, this has been a rough week. The mountains were full of fire and "The Bear" was filled with city faced firemen almost too weary to chew. Then finally... the Lord heard our prayers and sent the rain. Our parking lot looked great with mud puddles.

Maybe the fire is gone or maybe it will come back, but in any case we will need rain. As a customer of ours put it several days ago, "No water, no grass and no cattle prices." Yes, we still need the rain.

ican citizens today exercise their constitutionally-protected right to keep and bear arms. They not only defend their families and their property against the threat of criminals; they also guard individual rights against the usurpations of an ever-expanding central government. Would we still have all our freedoms if the 200 million weapons stored in American homes were instead locked up in a government armory?

FACTS & FICTION

by BETTY LOU JOINER

Where oh where do I begin after two weeks of solid non-stop fun? Will begin from yesterday and go back to when I last spoke. Father's Day was one of just sit and watch the beautiful rain pouring from all directions. A large amount of hail was not even frowned upon as desperately as we needed the moisture. Couldn't find an appropriate present to give Eddie for telling him how much joy he has brought us with Kersti's arrival, so just hope someday he will understand what she means to us all. She was so happy to meet families of 15 1985 graduates of Capitan High, last Saturday night. Tammy Willingham, Becca Ferguson, Tiffany Menix, Audrey Davis, and Shelly Tate worked long and hard at planning a wonderful evening. They invited the parents and several teachers and had each one tell about a classmate or teacher. Pictures of the 15 in attendance and a picture of the future graduates will be a treasure down the line. Rodney Dean got the certificate for changing in looks the least, Scott Burch won it for changing the most, Audrey got the certificate for married the longest (ten years), Michelle Boram for the youngest little one, (9 months) and Mark Romero for the last one to be engaged. The buffet style meal of chicken, steak, potatoes, green beans, and salad was enjoyed by many. Kika, our waitress did a super job of filling the ice tea glasses and keeping up with the food. It was so good to see Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, Tony and her family, Pete Haussler and his wife, Mr. Collins, Laura and Ken Jones, Dottie and Bill McVeigh, Chuck and Jack Johnson, Lisa and Richard Phillips, Junior and Kathy Dean, Tracy Herd Belcher and little boy Kaleb, Barry and Janice Herd, Shawna and Gwenda McDaniels, Robert and Michelle Marrs, Greg Haussler, Shonie La Rue and her husband, Matt Ferguson, Dwight Menix, Andy Willingham, Pat, and myself, all talking about the past ten years.

Many door prizes were drawn during the evening and lots of playing was done by all the little ones. Thanks to the Class of '85 for a very fun reunion.

Earlier in the day on Saturday, Audrey came out to visit for about an hour before I closed and she made the remarks of so many "How can you stand it out here with no one around?" Believe me it sure isn't getting any easier. This past week I have lost two more patrons and am afraid two or three more may go next week. It will really depend on their job situations. Tara Davis and Jane Terrel have been having a lot of problems trying to get a place to move to, trying to collect the unemployment checks, get their mail to be forwarded right, and just dealing with the big move and emotions. I just can't seem to find the right things to say or do. Liz Montoya reported today that next week will be her final day here and she was another getting all teary eyed and making me get that way too. Saturday morning early the Lincoln County Bird Watchers stopped in to find a rest room. About 20 were touring this area to see what they could find. It was strange as today the birds were all singing a little sweeter and a little louder than I have been hearing them.

Roy Baca returned from a short vacation and arrived back today to the grass looking so much greener after the great rain. The 10 or 12 fires were reported being under control on the news. One big one on the West Mountain was very visible from our back door, for three days last week and we could see the many planes dropping slurry every few hours. The fire at Sam Donaldson's burned many acres too. Another fire was also reported by Jack's Peak.

Floyd Goodloe called to get a phone number and told me that Monty Key, (Cindy's son) was finally doing better after a horse fell with him last week while helping work sheep north of the mountain. He was in intensive care for several days and now is on the way to getting well and coming home.

The League Convention was very interesting with two of our bosses out of Albuquerque stopping in at most every post office. I was so glad they came by mine as they now understand what I have been calling about. They couldn't give me any definite reply but are sure better informed now of my situation. Mr. Charles Davis, MSC Mgr. and John Tuledja stopped in on Tuesday afternoon to visit and drive around the Fort. They had stopped in Capitan and visited Mike and were on their way down to Lincoln and the other offices. The day before I was very honored to have Joyce and Armando Olvera stop in as they were sightseeing. They have both been such delightful people, he having served as the National League President in the past two years. The convention was a big success with golfers enjoying the Links on Sunday afternoon. Mary took her "League is Alive in '85" decorated cake and I took sandwich meat to the hospitality room where many enjoyed a supper after the golf games. On Monday morning the girl scouts opened the convention with a very impressive service, followed with Joni Autry's voice singing the Star Spangled Banner. Always afraid things won't turn out it was good to have the speakers, called the four "J's" right on time and welcomed the 50 postmasters with very interesting speeches. First the Councilman J.D. James, filling in for Mayor Shaw, spoke about the area, Joan Bailey told the PM's what a diverse county Lincoln is with the Downs, Smokey, Billy the Kid and our many things of interest that they could visit. On with the third J who was Jay Wright, representing the famous race track, and who spoke of the work of art to be completed by July 15 by McGary. The horses being sculpted will include seven breeds, which are Arabian, Paints, Appaloosa, Quarter Horses, thoroughbreds, and two others. The final spokesman, who was John Quemado, the newly appointed Ruidoso postmaster from Oregon State, gave the most unusual talk on the previous postmasters and history of Ruidoso, such as when the first roads, Lions Clubs, high schools, chamber, and etc. began. It was very well presented.

Gene Saiz, the League State president, spoke next thanking everyone for making the convention a success and introduced his other board members. Next speaker was the National legislative chairman, Etta Rumpf. She told the postmasters they had better take time to write the congressmen and senators about all the problems we are experiencing or it will be too late. She also stated that as bad as it is, the Fair money does make a big difference in influencing your vote. Ed Powers, state pac chairman agreed and encouraged the postmasters to start giving monthly. Armando was our next guest speaker bringing news from Washington, reporting on his accomplishments as president, inviting postmasters to attend the national convention in Orlando, Florida in July, and reporting what Runyan has done and expects to do in the next couple of years. Monday afternoon postmasters (pm's) had a barbecue at Cedar Creek Campground.

Many of the smaller offices in our area will be changing to mobile buildings. We had Jeff Harris from Denver describe what will be taking place with this move, crisis seminars were taught by Sharon Flathery, and David Herrera gave many good facts about filling out the 1510 form for finding lost articles and pieces of mail.

Another speaker, the League lawyer, John Difalio, from Colorado, spoke on Wednesday night. He has an unusual way of presenting speeches where everyone always listens.

More than 50 postmasters and spouses attended the Bent Tree on Tuesday night, and the same ones finished up the convention at the banquet on Wednesday night at the Swiss Chalet. President Gene Saiz was selected Postmaster of the Year and was deserving of the honor. He is postmaster at Los Lunas and has been a leader of the League Organization for many years. Armando installed the new officers and another convention came to a close.

Still back tracking, Bill and Verna Allen arrived at the post office on Friday, June 9, with their chuck wagon and all the goodies they needed to do the cooking for the Sheriff's Posse cookout. He set up his wagon, dug the holes for the meat and was ready to go for the big meal on Saturday night at six o'clock. I had brought my horse when I came to work at 7 a.m. As soon as I closed I met with several others and we rode up the Fort Stanton road behind the Bonito Club. About 13 riders were out and about til 5:00 when we arrived back to enjoy the good meal of roast, beans, potatoes and onions, cobbler and rolls. Music was supposed to be played by Ray Reed and Sally Canning, but Ray was unable to make it, and Sally had to leave shortly after giving several a ride around the Fort in her wagon. Radios played some music and many were in their beds soon after dark, especially when a strong windstorm came up feeling like moisture. The next morning a few riders rode over toward the Rodeo Bar seeing if they could find the famous Whiskey Trail. The trail wasn't found but the beautiful morning was wonderful as well as the short devotional held just before the delicious breakfast of bacon, biscuits, eggs, and potatoes was served to several more posse members. A big thanks to the Fort for allowing us to use the Bonito facilities, it was an ideal place.

The release of 20 Civil War stamps this month mark the most extensive effort in the history of the postal service to review and verify the historical accuracy of stamp subjects. The Civil War stamps are the second installment in the Classic Collection series. Since 1840, when the first postage stamp was issued, stamps have become more than just evidence of postage paid—some tell stories, others may contain secrets and hidden meanings—but they are all just miniature works of art.

Shelby Foote has been one individual playing a large role in selecting and verifying the Civil War stamps to be used in this series. Foote was awarded three Guggenheim fellowships during his 20-year undertaking of writing the monumental three-volume history of "The Civil War: A Narrative." Foote worked with a master list of 50 individuals which included presidents, generals, major battles, rank and file soldiers, women, African and Native Americans and abolitionists, and had the tough choice of selecting only 16 for the stamps. It was very difficult to choose from all who had made significant

Sheriff's Report

Fire danger remains extremely high in Lincoln County, with open campfires restricted on all lands, public and private. Recent spotty rains have dampened some areas in the forests and grass lands, but wildfires are still smoking from recent lightning. (See related story on fires.)

A complaint was made of a careless driver on B. Ave. in Carrizozo. Two deputies responded.

6:10 p.m. a caller advised she was retrieving her belongings from a mobile home in a trailer park in the Ruidoso Downs area.

6:46 p.m. an owner of a restaurant in the Alto area reported a minor driving a vehicle. The responding deputy advised the driver had a valid license.

The assigned deputy took no report, instead he was to contact the State Engineer's office regarding the incident.

11:52 a.m. a vehicle fire/grass fire was reported north of Carrizozo on Highway 54. A plumbing truck was on fire, and chemicals may have been involved. The responding deputy advised that a generator started a small grass fire, the vehicle was not on fire, and there was no hazardous situation. Carrizozo Fire Department, ambulance and police and a deputy responded.

New Pastor At Assembly Of God Church In Ruidoso

First Assembly of God of Ruidoso announces the arrival of a new pastor, Rev. Bill Lenard, formerly of Phoenix, AZ. Lenard and his wife Yvonne have a daughter, son-in-law, and two grandchildren residing in Alamogordo.

Lenard brings with him his associate pastor, Rev. Daniel Barbara, also formerly of Phoenix.

Hugh and Edna Varney Conway, Las Cruces, and Jack and Mildred Arnold Garcia, Anthony, plan to attend the Baptist Church birthday party Sunday. They have reservations at the Corona Motel for Saturday evening. The ladies are former residents of Corona.

The fire reported in Dry Springs canyon on the north side of the Gallinas Friday morning consumed an estimated 240 acres and many tall pines before being brought under control Monday. When the winds lessened slurry bombers were brought in to do the job. Three State Forestry engines were here two days to help with several fires reported in the area east and off the Gallo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Huey are the parents of six pound nine oz. Allysanne Marie born June 12 in Albuquerque. The baby has a brother, two year old Jordan.

Patsy Tubbs, Roswell, Billy and Martha Sharp and Tonya Tubbs, Edgewood, the Martin Encinias family, Los Lunas, Sue Hughes, Estancia, Jane and Mark Cartwright, Bloomfield.

Mrs. Helen Toland has written that her class of 1940 will hold a 55th class reunion Friday, July 14. They plan to visit at the school and then go to the Crown cafe for lunch. The late Archie Perkins was sponsor of this class.

Cards have arrived from the friends on holiday in Hawaii, Cathy Yancey, Linda Jones, Crystal Lueras and Sherry Lueras. They are expected to return Thursday.

April Kessler is at Camp Chimney Springs this week. Her mother and sisters took her Sunday afternoon and Julie introduced her sister to friends she made there last summer.

Myron Wayne Yancey is in Singapore where his company sent him because of his expertise in water matters.

Ken Marlow suffered a severe heart attack last week and was scheduled for a triple by-pass Monday. Juanita Owen and Tammy Bennett went from Roswell to Las Cruces to take care of Wanda's grandchildren who are visiting from Colorado.

Troy Yancey came from Roswell Sunday to cook a Father's Day dinner for his father, Bryon. Russell Lueras came from Red River for the day and went on to Roswell for a short visit with Charlie.

The CHS class of 1975 will hold a reunion during the Corona Festival the last of July.

The Perkins join with the Waldons in appreciation for the love shown Zanta Sunday. The hours of visiting were special and were as she would have wanted. Zanta loved Corona and her friends here. Capitan Notes . . .

Mexico. The CCC camp in the Capitan Mountains were cutting poles, thinning the pines out. Vernon and Ben went up with a wagon and team, skinned the bark off two loads and brought them back to our new claim, which was a mile or two closer to the Mountain than the ranch on the Asperos - Pa Paynes ranch. The poles were unloaded where we were to build our first house. More next week on this interesting story about the big depression.

Am a bit late on the following congratulations, but I do not receive the Lincoln County News until the news is a bit passe.

Bear with me please, as congratulations are welcome even if they are a bit late.

First I want to congratulate Matthew MacVeigh and his fine parents, Mr. and Mrs. William MacVeigh for graduating with honors from New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell. Again my very special congratulations Matthew. I so well remember you as a little fellow that visited me along with your mother one day on my front porch when I first moved to Capitan. Difficult for me to accept the fact that you are a fine young gentleman, all grown up and everything, but you were an awfully sweet little boy that I well remember. The best of everything to you Matthew and may the Good Lord keep watch over you at all times.

Congratulations to Meghan McGrath, the valedictorian of her class and to all the graduating seniors. And may your years ahead bring fulfillment to your fondest dreams.

Congratulations to Janice Ware and Patty Wooddell on the management of the Hotel dining room. Sorry I could not be present for the opening, but then I already know from first hand experience what a charming little waitress you are Patty. Best of luck to both of you. If beauty has anything to do with it, and believe me it does, then you will have folks waiting in line at the door. Good luck.

And so for another week adios and sayonara. See you soon, I hope. I overheard this remark the other day and think it most appropriate. "Just when I can afford to take it easy and lie in the sun they decide that the sunshine is hazardous to my health." Such is life. See you next week.
