

District Judge Parsons Asks AG to Investigate Sheriff's Office Actions

by Doris Cherry

District Judge Richard Parson has asked the New Mexico Attorney General's office to investigate the recent actions of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office.

Judge Parson told THE NEWS that he will not call a grand jury on the matter unless the investigation by the Attorney General determines there should be one. Or, Parsons added, if 156 people sign a petition asking for a grand jury.

The investigation is a result of an ongoing dispute between Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane and the Lincoln County Commission. Last week, commissioners called for an investigation into the sheriff's office and actions after they received notice of tort claim to be filed on the county alleging the sheriff and his deputies violated the civil rights of a woman who was arrested for allegedly bringing contraband into the jail. The woman contended she was detained illegally because there was no charge and that the sheriff and deputy Angelo

Vega coerced her into helping them entrap individuals on behalf of the Drug Task Force. She also claimed they tried to get her to set up the county commissioners.

Some questions have been raised about conflict of interest in the local assistant district attorney's office, because McSwane's wife Freda works for ADA Viola Rhodes.

"There is no question of misconduct in the DA's office," Parson said. "Just claims of conflict of interest which may not be."

Instead Parson said the ongoing problems with the sheriff's office and other matters may go beyond the civil rights lawsuit.

Parson said District Attorney Bert Atkins has also asked the AG to investigate the sheriff's office and the incident. Parson said he understands the AG's office has asked New Mexico State Police to conduct the investigation.

Drag Races Sunday To Be Dedicated To Phillip Ortiz

Sunday, Oct. 15 the drag races in Carrizozo will be dedicated to the memory of Phillip Ortiz.

Ortiz owned and operated several businesses in Carrizozo, including a wrecker service, new and used auto parts, motel, grocery, and others.

Phillip's parents, Kino and Bea Ortiz, and Phillip's children, Linda Ortiz-Zamora and John Ortiz, invite everyone to attend the drag races this Sunday.

"Drag racing was one of my dad's hobbies," Linda said. "I can remember my dad racing a candy apple red Nova. He would compete in drag races at the tracks in Roswell and at Holloman Air Force Base. On Saturday nights before the race my dad would stay up late in the garage by my house making sure everything was ready to go. Early Sunday morning my cousins, uncles would help load the trailer and my mom would

Rasak Selected As Delegate For Angus Association Meeting

Gerald L. Rasak, Corona, has been elected as a delegate to the 112th annual meeting of the American Angus Association, November 12-14 in Louisville, Kentucky, reports Richard Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association.

Rasak, a member of the American Angus Association with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri, is one of 307 Angus breeders who have been elected by fellow members of their state association to serve as a representative at the annual meeting. Representing 46 states and Canada, the delegates will participate in the business meeting and elect a new president, vice president and five directors to the American Angus Association board.

The annual meeting is held in conjunction with the annual convention and banquet, and the Roll of Victory Angus show during the North American International Livestock Exposition.

The American Angus Association has more than 29,000 active members and is the largest beef breed organization in the world.

RUIDOSO HIGH SCHOOL BAND under the direction of Nathan Kruse won first place in the band category of the Aspenfest Parade. School bands from Capitan, Eunice and Dexter also participated.

OLE FIESTA! This unidentified young man won first place in the children's category of the annual Aspenfest Parade in Ruidoso Saturday for his oversized, motorized sombrero. The theme of this year's parade, sponsored by Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, was Ole Fiesta!

Capitan Curb And Gutter Work Is To Begin Today

by Doris Cherry

Capitan Trustees took action to assure the village will have enough water rights to cover the amount of water used through next year.

Monday during the regular monthly meeting, trustees Connie Hopper, L.C. Cozzens and Gordon Ross unanimously approved an ordinance which defines how revenues from a water rate increase approved in 1994 can be used. This allows the revenues to be used to pay off debt incurred by the purchase of 33,173 acres of surface water rights, equal to about 100 acre feet of new water for the village, from Bonito Land and Livestock Company. The Village contracted with the company to buy the water rights on September 29.

With the purchase Capitan now owns a total of 835 acres of water rights and the village will not come up short by the end of a five year water use cycle, in October 1996, which is monitored by the state engineer's office. Village attorney Robert Beauvais said the additional water rights also will give the village time to conduct its feasibility study on additional sources of water. The ordinance also allows the revenue from the water rate increase to be used to pay for long term planning, water studies, and purchase of additional water rights. Trustees took another step toward the water source feasibility study by authorizing contract negotiations with Livingston Engineering firm of Alamogordo. The firm's proposal received the highest number rating of the three water study proposals received by the village. Mayor Norm Renfro said Eddy Livingston is familiar with water sources in Lincoln County, especially Bonito Lake. He also is conducting the Tularosa Basin Water Study.

Phase III of the downtown street revitalization project will be the subject of the village's next application for a Community Development

DFA Says No; Carrizozo In Quandry Over Rec Center

by Ruth Hammond

The Carrizozo Rec Center was discussed during the Carrizozo Town Council meeting Tuesday.

During the Sept. 26 town council meeting the board had approved budget resolution 95-08 for $11,303 to be used to pay for extra help at the Rec Center. The cashier was working 12 hours a week and Elton Matthews was working 28 hours a week. At the time the board approved the resolution town clerk Carol Schlarb informed the council the Rec Center line item would be in the red. Estimed revenues were not included in the resolution which had to be sent to the state department of finance administration (DFA) for approval before the money could be spent.

At the meeting Tuesday, mayor Cecilia Kuhnel read the letter from DFA stating the resolution was not approved. The reason given for not approving the resolution was lack of resources. The town had $2,261 in the Rec Center line item on June 30, 1995, the end of the fiscal year.

Kuhnel spoke with DFA about the matter and it was

Ruidoso To Complete Skating Area In Park

by Doris Cherry

When Ruidoso Village Council banned skateboards and other forms of skating from the Mid-Town sidewalks back in May, the council promised to build a skating area.

Tuesday, the council lived up to its promise of providing a public village skating area when it approved the $500 a year insurance premium for liability on the skating area and approved the completion of the park according to recommendations made by a safety consultant.

As promised, the village constructed an asphalt slab for skating at North Park, which is located next to the fire station at the north end of the golf course. Soon after it was finished, skaters began using the area, and ramps were donated for the area to give skaters a challenge. But in late August the village council raised questions about the liability of the park and whether the village insurance would cover the activity.

In a study authorized by the village's insurance carrier, New Mexico Self Insurer's Fund, consultant Safety Counselling Inc. analyzed the skating area and ramps. The consultant met with the parks and recreation director and the village manager, and developed a report from the on-site visit.

Safety Counselling recommended the park have safety fencing, retaining railroad

No Public Transportation Limits Convention Business In Ruidoso

by Doris Cherry

Ruidoso is becoming a premier convention place. But lack of public transportation in the village has kept some groups from coming.

During the Tuesday Ruidoso village council meeting, Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce Convention and Visitors Bureau (CVB) director Faren Selman presented a quarterly report on the CVB activities since July 1. The report showed the events held at the village civic events and convention center provided an economic impact to the community of more than $8 million. The Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally was estimated to have provided a $6.3 million economic impact to the community.

The CVB is mailing out an average of nine Ruidoso Convention Center packets a day. Selman said she follows up on all inquiries within two weeks. She said a lot of decisions not to come to Ruidoso are based on the lack of public transportation. Because of this Selman said she is working to get a shuttle service to the center.

Block Grant (CDBG). Officials from the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District presented CDBG information including guidelines such as income level of residents, during a public hearing held prior to the regular meeting.

Phase III will involve repaving, curbing and guttering Second Street.

The first phase of the paving project is underway now on Fourth Street. Drew Construction has removed the old paving material from the street, and village crews now are moving gas and water lines and replacing damaged culverts. Curb and gutter work is set to begin Thursday, October 12.

Village maintenance supervisor Terry Cox said Drew Construction is contacting residents to locate driveways before curbing begins.

The excavation work on Fourth Street has created several six to eight-inch drop-offs at intersections. Resident Wayne Mason called attention to the drop-offs and asked if orange barrels or some other caution signs be placed in the area to warn motorists about the potentially dangerous drops.

Questions were asked about what will happen to the cross streets which also had old asphalt removed, especially Forest Street east of the school. Cox said crews could start paving on Forest, and "trade" that street for another which was slated to be re-paved. He said trustees will have to decide which of the cross streets will get repaved and which ones will be gravelled.

In connection with the paving project, trustees authorized the clerk to make an offer for easement right of way. The easement will provide drainage for street run off.

In other business, trustees: --Approved changes to the uniform traffic code.

--Accepted the mayor's appointment of Greg Hausler and Charlie Jones to the Planning and Zoning (P&Z) committee. P&Z chair Van Shambliin also announced the committee will only meet once a month, the second Tuesday, at 6:30 p.m. at village hall. The change was to accommodate the two new members.

--Referred Mrs. Opal Simmons to the P&Z with her concern about placing two mobile homes on a one-acre tract, which her realtor had said was okay, but the village will not allow.

--Approved resolutions to allow the sale of a 1952 International water truck, and to finalize the sale of a dump truck, which was sold at the county auction.

--Welcomed new police chief Carrol Durbin. A Roswell Police Department officer for 10 years, Durbin came highly recommended by Chaves County Magistrate Judge Billy Carpenter, and Roswell Chief of Police Ray Mounds. The village will continue to take applications for a third police officer until October 13.

--Were updated on the status of the village clean up. By ordinance the village gave residents 30 days to clean up lots. Several have complied. However, Durbin took 24 pictures of lots on Third Street which need cleaning.

Clerk Deborah Cummins said the village will begin sending letters to residents of those households, giving them 10 days to clean up their messes, including unregistered vehicles, or be cited into court before Judge Jack Johnson.

--Heard a report from Judge Johnson that he now will allow juvenile traffic offenders to attend a defensive driving school for $30, leaving $14 owed to the court. If the juvenile successfully completes the course the judge will dismiss the traffic violation from the juvenile's driving and insurance records.

--Were questioned if there is truth to the rumor that Ruidoso is pumping water from the Eagle Creek wells into Grindstone reservoir. Capitan owns half the water rights to the Eagle Creek wells. Beauvais said there are several concerns to be raised at the next Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Users

CAPITAN BOYS AND GIRLS STATE representatives Neil Montes, Meghan Vinson and Renee Smith are introduced to members of the American Legion Post #54 in Capitan, which sponsored the students. During Boys and Girls State, students participate in mock governments complete with elections held at New Mexico Military Institute in the summer.

Association meeting October 11, at Ruidoso village hall.

--Heard fire chief David Cummins report the work on the brush truck is not yet complete, but the truck will be ready for next fire season.

--Met in closed session about 30 minutes to discuss acquisition of real property.

suggested the town look to the state for money or apply for grants, or increase bowling fees.

Schlarb said the money to pay the cashier and Matthews came from the general fund while waiting for DFA approval. More than $1,800 is to be paid from the Rec Center line item to Mr. Ferguson for repair work on the bowling machines.

Trustees agreed the mayor should take executive action to reduce the number of hours the Rec Center will be open.

The board will consider advertising for proposals for leasing the Rec Center at a special meeting, to be held Thursday, Oct. 19 at 10 a.m.

In other business the board approved the contract with The Drag Club to use the Carrizozo Municipal Airport for the drag races in 1996. The drag races will be held the third Sunday of each month from March through November, 1996.

Gordon King, secretary of The Drag Club, presented the town a check for use fees for the September drag races.

King said the drag races this Sunday, Oct. 15 will be dedicated to the memory of Phillip Ortiz. Linda Ortiz-Zamora, Phillip's daughter, has donated 25 T shirts to The Drag Club to be given to the first 25 drag entrants in Sunday's race and has added $250 to the super/pro runoff. The winner of the super/pro runoff will receive $1,250 and the runner-up will receive $500.

King also asked for and received permission to close 12th Street from Highway 54 to 5th Ave., on Nov. 18 for a drag car show from noon to 5 p.m. King said the car show will be from 12 noon to 4 p.m. and the cars will be removed by 5 p.m. The Drag Club will hold a banquet at the Carrizozo County Club that evening, Nov. 18, with social hour from 6 to 7 p.m. with dinner to be served at 7 p.m. and awards will be presented after dinner. The last drag races for the year will be held the next day.

King said the winners of the drag races on Nov. 19 will receive additional money if they participate in the car show in Carrizozo Nov. 18 and another car show that will be held in Alamogordo Nov. 11.

King also said a team of dragsters will compete in Odessa, TX. The T shirt designed for the team included the name of Carrizozo on the front and back.

--The board gave approval for police officer Frank Conley to attend training Oct. 17 and 18.

--The board gave approval for the police department to buy 24 law enforcement training videos at a cost of $985.

--Carrizozo Municipal Judge Bill Meeks spoke to the board about arrest warrants. The board agreed they would support the arrest warrants.

--The town will hold a pre-bid conference for the street improvement bids during a special meeting Oct. 19 at 10 a.m. The bids are to be opened Oct. 26 and the bid is to be awarded during a special meeting Oct. 27 at 3 p.m.

--The town approved purchase of a water truck from the village of Capitan for $1,500. The money is to come from the water department.

--The list of obsolete equipment was not complete and action was tabled to the regular town council meeting of Oct. 24.

--The town was asked to reduce bowling fees for the Big Brother/Big Sister Bowl-A-Thon that will be held Oct. 22. Action will be considered at the special meeting Oct. 19.

--Kuhnel announced the Carrizozo Historic Society has $1,100 to use to work on the old ice plant building. Board members asked that the matter be placed on the Oct. 24 agenda and that a representative from the Historic Society attend the meeting with more information and a sketch of planned work. The main concern of the town was the lack of insurance if people were working on the building prior to signing a lease with the town.

--A letter from the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD) asked for more than $8,000 to administer the next CDBG (Community Development Block Grant) street improvement project. The town paid SNMEDD $5,000 to administer the last CDBG street improvement project.

The matter will be put on the Oct. 24 agenda because it had been previously announced that SNMEDD was spending time working with municipalities that had not paid their SNMEDD dues.

CowBelles Ask People To Write Letters About Grey Wolf Introduction

Canyon CowBelles met Oct. 4 with 13 members, two guests, and eight children present, including new member P.K. Johns and guest Roxanne Aramuse.

Dues, local and state, are new due. Local dues are $20 a year, national dues are $25 a year and CowBelles must be national members to attend the Region 6 convention in Albuquerque next April.

Canyon CowBelles welcomes anyone interested in the beef industry, including associate memberships who may not be able to attend all meetings but would like to support the group.

A report was given about the CowBelle/Beef Council booth at the state fair. The open booth took eight booth spaces and included a children's module. Keri Shafer gave her beef ambassador demonstration at the state fair booth and will go to the national contest in Louisville, KY next month.

Attention to all members and anyone interested in the negative re-introduction of the Mexican grey wolf. Governor Gary Johnson has said he will attend the fish and game meeting in Socorro Oct. 18 if he receives 200 letters of opposition in his office by Oct. 16. The Mexican grey wolf is NOT more predator that is NOT endangered. They are very abundant in Mexico.

The wolves run in large packs and attack to kill just for the sport of it. The fish and game dept. has already placed a predator fence around the bombing range where they plan to turn out the wolves. There is not sufficient wildlife on the bombing range for the wolves to survive and this will mean the wolves will surely wander into other areas.

Please write a letter to: Gov. Gary Johnson, Executive Legislative Building, Santa Fe, NM 87503, and if possible, attend the fish and game meeting at the Masy building in Socorro Oct. 18 at 4 p.m.

Carrizozo Chamber Of Commerce Elects Officers For 1995-96

The Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce elected new officers and completed plans for three events in October during their meeting Wednesday.

The group re-elected president Charlie White to serve for the 1995-96 year. Also elected: Forrest Hansell as vice-president, Shelly Langley as secretary, and Phyllis Schlegal as corresponding secretary.

The chamber is sponsoring a golf tournament at Carrizozo Golf Course Saturday, Oct. 14, and is co-sponsoring open house for "The Forsythe Collection" at 209 Central Ave. across from the courthouse parking lot, from 2-6 p.m. Sunday, October 15.

On Halloween, the chamber will have a Haunted House and other booths at the Carrizozo Schools Halloween Carnival.

White reported the many activities sponsored by the chamber have brought the organization back into financial good health.

Open House Sunday In Carrizozo For The Forsythe Collection

Those mementos will be showcased in "The Forsythe Collection" which will open Sunday, October 15. The families of Ralph Forsythe, Dorothy Martin Forsythe, and Mary and Larry Knox, and the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce host the open house from 2-6 p.m. October 15.

The Forsythe Collection will be housed at 209 Central Avenue in Carrizozo (across from the northeast courthouse parking lot).

ties, a sign detailing rules of use, a toilet and water fountain, and conditions that parks and rec will maintain and inspect the facility and the park will be closed in the winter.

Only ramps approved by the village and insurer will be allowed, and others will be removed by village employees.

The park also will feature coin operated lights with an automatic shut off at 10 p.m. curfew time.

Not all councilors supported the insurance and park improvements. Councilors J.D. James and Joe Gomez voted no to the motion made by councilor Robert Donaldson.

James called attention to the cost of the park which was built with village equipment, labor and materials plus the improvements for an estimated total of $15,000 of new spending. Village staff recommended funds to cover the insurance and improvements come from the Parks Maintenance, Parks Improvements and Insurer's line-items in the village budget.

About a dozen young people who use the park attended the meeting. Mathew Horn said the group has raised about $500 toward purchasing a "half pipe" which costs about $5,000. Horn asked if such a ramp would increase the cost of the insurance, and if insurance will increase in the future. Village manager Gary Jackson said future costs often depend on the frequency and severity of accidents. Donaldson said the insurance carrier advised a half pipe would change the premium rating.

Approval for any future ramps must come from the village. Parks and Rec director Debbie Joe Algamer suggested the group first come to her with ideas for future ramps before anything is built.

Mayor Jerry Shaw was pleased with the youth's interest in the park. "I don't abide by the comment that the village is building the park for just select people," she said. "The more we expand parks and rec, the better off we are."

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Trashing the people

By Ruth Hammond

Recently governor Gary Johnson rode a bicycle 500 miles from Farmington to Roswell in his campaign to clean up trash along New Mexico highways and in communities. It gave him the opportunity to pose for photos and smile.

According to promotional material, governor Johnson was riding his bike 500 miles across New Mexico to make the public more aware of litter prevention and the benefits of a cleaner state. Johnson is quoted as saying, "I want everyone to help with this effort. People can ride with me for a few blocks or for all 500 miles, but more importantly, they can help clean up trash along New Mexico's highways and in our communities."

The five day event was held to celebrate the New Mexico Clean & Beautiful's 10 year anniversary. Many private groups and organizations are doing their part by adopting a mile along highways and keeping them clean. Signs designating which groups clean certain areas are posted on our highways.

It is nice that governor Johnson took five days out of his busy schedule to promote this worthy cause and encourage people to help clean our highways and byways. It would also be nice if governor Johnson would give the same amount of time to the needs of the people as he gave to cleaning up trash.

When a person wants to talk to governor Johnson, it must be on a designated day, and the time limit is five minutes with the governor. Does this mean that governor Johnson believes trash is worth five days of his time and human life is worth only five minutes? Does this mean that governor Johnson believes that he can do more good cleaning up trash than he can working with individuals to help solve life-threatening problems?

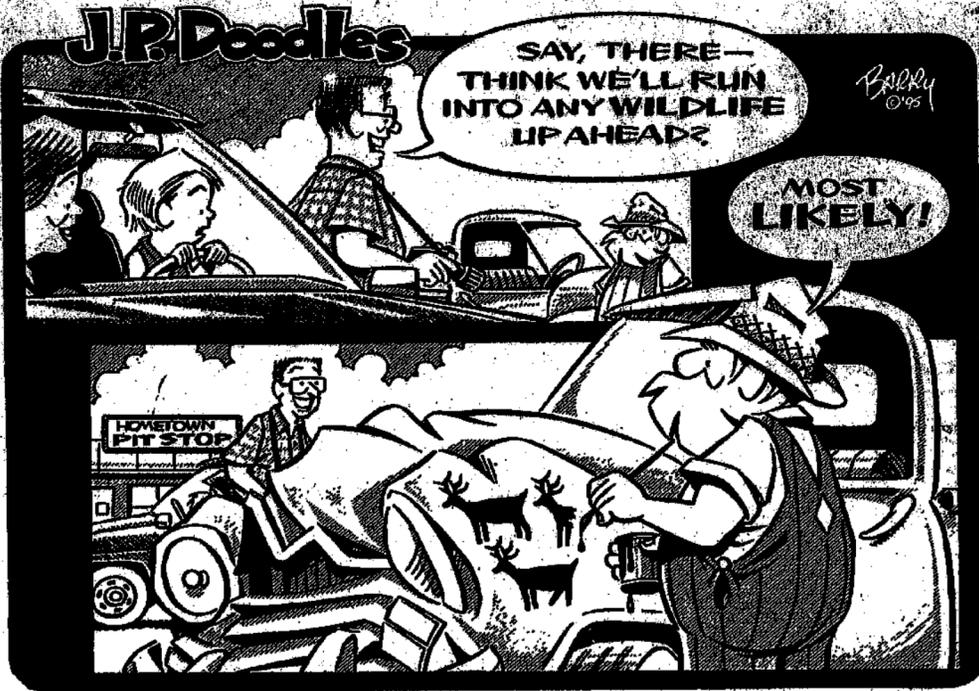

Dedication to a cause is an important factor in success, whether it is for cleaning up trash or running a construction business. We all know that governor Johnson made a million dollars due to his dedication in running his construction business and now we know governor Johnson was dedicated to cleaning up trash and he was willing to ride 500 miles in five days to prove it.

It is a shame that governor Johnson gives the impression that he is not willing to put forth the same amount of dedication when it comes to providing the best leadership possible for our state. If governor Johnson was dedicated to the people of New Mexico he would be willing to spend more than five minutes answering their questions and working with them to try to reach solutions to problems. If governor Johnson was dedicated to the people of New Mexico he would know that five minutes is not enough time to reach agreements that will not only be correct but will also be satisfactory for everyone involved. If governor Johnson was dedicated to the people of New Mexico he would know that it is more important to work together than to dictate.

While he was in private business governor Johnson didn't have to work with anyone he didn't want to work with and he could dictate each and every move his construction company took whenever he wanted. Now that he is governor, it seems that he should realize a different approach is needed. When he was in private business maybe he could resolve construction problems in five minutes but it is doubtful. It usually takes longer than five minutes to reach the responsible people. Maybe our governor knows some shortcuts that he used in his private business that would be helpful at the state level. If he does it would be nice if he would share these shortcuts with the people.

Cleaning our state is important and it is commendable that governor Johnson put forth as much effort as he did. Governor Johnson has shown that he can be dedicated and can put forth the effort necessary for success. Wouldn't it be nice if governor Johnson had the same dedication for success with the people?

Inside The Capitol

SANTA FE—Many New Mexicans are excited at the prospect of being able to drive faster—legally.

With Congress repealing federal speed limits and leaving the matter up to the states, New Mexicans figure lawmakers and state officials are likely to bump up the maximum speeds as quickly as possible.

The 1973 Legislature had upped New Mexico's speed limit from 70 to 75 just before Congress lowered it to 55 miles per hour, so there is reason to believe lawmakers might still be of the same mind, especially if they listen to their constituents.

The '73 Legislature's action wasn't that outrageous. Nearby states of Arizona, Oklahoma and Wyoming already had 75 mph limits. Nevada and Montana had no limits at all.

In 1987 Congress heeded complaints about the ridiculously low limits out in the wide open spaces and let states raise the speed on rural interstates to 65 mph. New Mexico was one of the first states on the bandwagon, with then-Gov. Garrey Carruthers pictured on the front pages of most state newspapers personally hanging a 65-mph speed sign just outside of Santa Fe.

There's no reason to think Gov. Gary Johnson won't be for higher limits too. Anybody who'd veto a bill banning bottle rockets because he thinks "they're cool" is not likely to be a fuddy-duddy on speed limits.

Of course there are a lot of fuddy-duddies about allowing higher speeds. Numerous highway safety organizations tout studies showing that speed kills. They produce figures that highway deaths per 100 million vehicle miles traveled decreased from 4.1 in 1973 to 1.7 in 1993.

But they don't talk about safer cars, required seat belts, air bags, better roads with better markings, and stricter enforcement of drunk-driving laws as being contributors to those lower fatality rates.

A Federal Highway Administration study, claimed to be the most comprehensive in the last 30 years, spent five years monitoring and measuring driver response to speed limits at 247 locations around the nation. The results showed that posted speed limits had virtually no influence on driver behavior or accident rates.

That wasn't what the FHIA wanted to hear so the study was buried until the National Motorists Association made copies and put them in the hands of Congress.

A study out of John's Hopkins showed that with a 65 mph limit, the range of speeds was 50 mph to 76, and when it was lowered to 55, the range was 55 to 65. Not only doesn't that make sense, it sure isn't the way it happens in New Mexico.

Other research has long shown that 85 percent of motorists drive at a speed safe for the conditions. For that reason safety engineers monitor the speed of traffic on arterials within municipalities and typically set the speeds at what 85 percent of the motorists are driving.

If states are given approval to set their speed limits, expect highway department officials to be studying traffic speeds throughout the state in the following months. Does that mean we should get out there and drive as fast as we can for awhile?

Don't bother. Since 85 percent of us drive at the maximum with which we feel comfortable, a few speed demons won't have much effect. The simple fact is that most of us don't let the posted speeds slow us down much anyway.

Otherwise law-abiding New Mexicans have long ago dismissed the federal mandate, designed to save gasoline during the Arab oil embargo, as a political decision dreamed up by a bunch of Easterners, who have no concept of how it feels to see a road stretching all the way to the horizon without a single car on it.

The embargo was a quick casualty to Arab bickering and back-stabbing. Gas prices are back down to a very affordable range. Add to that an anti-Washington sentiment and a clamor for states' rights and you have the perfect climate for increased limits.

Federal Transportation Secretary Federico Pena opposes lifting the limit. But his politically-minded boss, Bill Clinton, appears ready to sign such a measure.

FDA Regulations Would Violate Adult's Rights

by Sharon Young Lee
New Mexico Smoker's Rights Coalition

I'm often asked why a person who has never smoked in her life would champion the cause of smokers. For me, the answer is obvious. I am an American, one who believes strongly enough in the preservation of the rights of ordinary citizens to take action.

The assault on smokers' rights affects us all. The paraphrase Martin Niemöller, if I don't speak up now, when Big Government comes for my rights, there will be no one left to speak up for me.

The anti-smoking movement is a living portrait of what's wrong with America today. A vocal minority has fueled a hysteria against smoking and adult smokers that surpasses anything I've ever seen. They've succeeded in enlisting Dr. David Kessler, the head of the Food and Drug Administration, and now President Bill Clinton to transform their anti-smoking bias into the law of the land.

On August 10, President Clinton announced he would give the FDA power over the manufacture, sales and marketing of tobacco and tobacco products. Together, Clinton and Kessler have threatened bans on certain advertising, sponsorship and promotions that are a clear affront to First Amendment guarantees of free speech. They say these

by SHERRY KIESLING

For some years, environmental organizations have claimed ownership, figuratively speaking, of our nation's public lands. They argue, correctly, that the public lands belong to the entire nation, not to any one rancher or group of cattlemen. But their arguments fail to recognize the stewardship of the ranchers who have been managing the land for generations.

Much of the land in the western states was retained by the government, frankly, because no one wanted to own it. Unlike the plains states where homesteaders staked their claims, these lands west of the so-called "30-inch rainfall belt" were unable to sustain a year-round farming operation. Western ranchers, having run cattle across the ranges for years, were willing to pay the government a fee for the privilege of grazing their cattle on the public lands.

In addition to paying a grazing fee, ranchers put up fences, enhanced water delivery, and fought a host of natural enemies, like fires, drought, and predators. More recently, they've been fighting for their livelihood against environmental groups who want to control the land, so they can keep cattle off of it.

The environmental groups claim the land is badly managed. But don't tell that to the May family of Luna County, New Mexico. The Mays are being challenged by an environmental group which has outbid them on grazing leases long held by the family. The environmental group did not bid on the Mays' entire grazing allotment, however. They bid on a 480-acre allotment in the heart of the Mays' grazing operation, effectively "cherry picking" the land they wanted to acquire. The Mays, as you might expect, are challenging the bid.

In New Mexico and elsewhere, these bids from environmental groups are known as "spite bids". They raise some very good questions about competitive bidding, especially where non-agricultural interests are upping the ante.

County managers are concerned that removing cattle from the land will seriously affect the county's economy. Rural lenders are concerned that nearby private lands would be devalued and that ranchers who borrowed money to make improvements to their leased land would not be able to repay those loans. Ranchers are concerned that they can't make long-term plans for their grazing allotments.

The State Land Office in New Mexico says it simply wants to maximize revenues to the state. They say the ranchers are "virtually" assured of receiving the bid. In either case, legislation and further litigation are likely. At a time when western ranchers are starting down the federal government in an attempt to maintain their way of life, they don't need this additional challenge from environmental groups seeking spite.

LETTERS to the editor

EDITOR: I would like to express my feelings concerning the Music Department in our Capitan Schools. Because of budget cuts it was decided to cut back to one instructor in the Music Department for the 1995-96 school year (however I understand that high school enrollment is up this year at least 30 students over last year). Budget cut? This resulted in the resignation of Delores Earwood, who was the Choral Director. Mrs. Earwood is a beautiful competent lady who did a very fine job with our Choral Group last year (1994-95). She was informed that she would have to instruct both the marching band as well as chorus for the 1995-96 school year. She felt she could not handle both positions in a school the size of Capitan. She resigned and accepted a position with the Carrizozo Schools, definitely Carrizozo's gain and Capitan's loss.

Some students excel in sports and some excel in the arts and music. There are at least 12 Athletic coaches, that I know of, in the Capitan School System. Why can't we strike a happy medium and provide an adequate program for all of the students? I am not implying that our present (1995-96) Music Instructor, is not doing a good job. I merely want to emphasize that I feel, along with many others I'm sure, that one person cannot do justice to both band and chorus. Why can't we do away with an Athletic Coaching position if need be and hire a Choral Director?

I feel that our Capitan Board of Education and Capitan Administration acted very irresponsibly in letting Delores Earwood get away from the Capitan School system.

For the Love of Gregory

by JoAnn Rice

Fair Trade

Wednesday, Gregory was in a quandary. "Queen Mother, Josh said he would trade me a pack of gum for my rubber eyeball. I told him about it, but I couldn't find it to show him. Where is it?"

"I hid it, because it's gross." "Well give it to me, Joshua said he wasn't tradin' for a pig in a poke. But I don't know if I want to trade. What do you think, Queen Mother?"

"Well, Gregory, a pack of gum is gone as soon as you chew it. But a rubber eyeball lasts forever."

"Until you hide it again, Queen Mother."

"Touchy." "I think I'll ask for more than gum. Somethin' with lasting quality. What would that be, Queen Mother?"

"Something you can't eat, drink, or lose."

"Good idea. I'll ask for his Mother's new car."

"Not his to trade, Gregory. Guess again."

"Then his bike or skates."

"Substance of quality. But hardly a fair trade."

"One of his real eyeballs then. That would be cooler than a rubber one."

"Illegal."

"Boy, all this trade business is not all its cracked up to be is it Queen Mother?"

"No, Gregory. But once people didn't have a lot of money, so they depended on the barter system. If the doctor took care of someone when they were sick, they would give the doctor a basket of corn or a chicken. Or maybe they would go do some work for the doctor."

"Well work is out of the question. Josh won't even pick up his toys. And I hate corn. But maybe a chicken, if it was alive."

"No chicken!" "Oh come on, Queen Mother. A chicken could eat the bugs and worms out of your yard. And sit on your lap at night, and lay you some eggs for breakfast. It could even cluck you off to sleep at night. I hear chicken cluckin' is awful good for the nerves."

"You sold me, Gregory. Go tell Josh you'll trade your rubber eyeball for a full grown Rhode Island red hen."

"It's a deal, Queen Mother. But just remember, it's my chicken, not yours."

"Right. You can feed it, clean up after it, and gather the eggs. I'll just enjoy its nerve soothing clucking."

"Boy, I can hardly wait until tomorrow to tell Josh. Now where's my eyeball?"

"In the teapot." "Yuk, Queen Mother. Have we been drinking tea with that gross thing in there?"

"What do you think?"

"Boy, I just lost my taste for tea forever. How could you do such a thing, Queen Mother?"

"I had to hide it in a really safe place, Gregory. 'Cause I knew someday I'd get a really good chicken out of it."

Free Seminar November 4 For Forest And Wildfire Reduction

Individuals who own property and homes in forest areas and other remote locations in southeastern New Mexico are strongly encouraged to attend a free seminar and open house on Saturday, November 4th, 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Ruidoso Convention & Civic Events Center. The seminar will focus on the dubious health of Southwestern forests and the increasing threat of wildfire to homes and improvements in the region.

The workshop is sponsored by Lincoln County and the Lincoln County Emergency Services, in conjunction with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA); the New Mexico Energy, Minerals, & Natural Department of Forestry & Resources Conservation Division (a.k.a. N.M. State Forestry); the Natural Resources Conservation Service, the U.S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the Bureau of Indian Affairs' Branches of Forestry & Natural Resources; the New Mexico State University Cooperative Extension Service; the University of Arizona; South Central Mountain Resources Conservation and Development, and the Village of Ruidoso.

The primary goal of this meeting is to increase the awareness of the public regarding forest health conditions in New Mexico and to discuss the long term effects and management implications created by this situation. Another objective is to highlight the severe wildfire hazard that continues to grow in such areas and to provide suggestions for its reduction.

Many of the sponsoring agencies agree that much of the forests in the Sacramento Mountain / White Mountain area of Southeastern New Mexico are in poor health. Also, current levels of flammable natural vegetation throughout the forests measures are necessary to keep tobacco out of the hands of minors.

The members of the New Mexico Smokers' Rights Coalition agree that minors should not smoke. However, Congress has guarded jurisdiction over tobacco for more than 80 years, and it has repeatedly refused to grant tobacco control powers to the FDA. Bill after bill to extend the FDA's reach has been defeated. In fact, Congress has clearly stated that the responsibility for preventing minors' access to tobacco rests with the states. There are laws on the books in every state making it illegal to sell cigarettes to minors. Let's encourage the states to more strictly enforce these existing laws.

Adult smokers say they feel increasingly besieged by the FDA and the anti-smoking industry to create a smoke-free society. There are so many restrictions on smokers already. Smoking on airplanes, in restaurants and in most public places is already restricted. Even at work, smokers have to go outside and brave the elements to have a cigarette.

This anti-smoking movement is contrary to the message voters sent in the 1994 elections. Voters declared loudly and clearly that they will no longer tolerate oppressive Big Government.

We are not anarchists. We are just fed up with being overregulated. Only by curbing the power of the regulatory bureaucracy can we put a stop to these abuses. We need to send bureaucrats like Keeler packing instead of rewarding his agency's inefficiencies and excesses by giving him even more power.

CAPITAN NOTES

Greetings from my old house by the side of the road to your house.

Another week already yet. Are the weeks speeding by at a faster pace or is it just my snail's pace that makes it seem so? Please don't answer that.

It makes no difference if I am half asleep or half awake, I guess, because I can find more things to obstruct my vision and my path that cause me to stumble and almost fall in my tracks. I do believe the obstructions lay in waiting for me and just jump out now and then to frighten me. Now, how was your week?

At this point and time I am so happy to relate that Mae Crouse is home from the hospital and is doing nicely after her bout with surgery. Mae, you are too nice to be sick and we are all so glad that things went well for you.

Jackie Bandy is back from Clovis where she visited her daughter and family. It is so nice to see and visit with Jackie at the store and I miss her tremendously when she is gone. However we now have two lovely and pretty cashiers, almost making it a pleasure to part with our weekly stash.

Gloria Cummins has a new hair do and she could pass for David's sister instead of his mother. No offense David, but you do have a very beautiful mother, but am sure you know that.

This afternoon I am going to visit Karen Butaud's dance studio. I am really looking forward to meeting her little dancers and as she has had some pictures taken for me hope to submit them next week. Will tell you all about them later. This is a most wonderful thing that Karen is doing, teaching these little folk to dance. Dance is marvelous. It is so good for everything about you, your health, your posture, your self assurance, and your gracefulness.

Met Jane Allred at the post office the other day and she remarked that I walked like a teenager. Was surprised to know how old I am and asked how I walk so fast. To which I entrusted her with my well worn secret (?) I have to keep moving like that. I don't dare slow down or Rigor Mortis will set in.

Thank you Jane for the compliment as I need any and all I can get especially when half the time I feel like an outcast from Poker Flats, wherever that is.

This is such an amusing anecdote about my daughter Trish, better known as Dr. Patricia Sullivan, noted psychologist, that I must pass it on to you. First and foremost my daughter to me is a perfect person in every way except one. That "one" is her love for dogs. I will not go into detail about the ones in her life, not to even mention the ones that left their indelible mark on her mother.

My daughter and her husband Jae and their daughter Katie now have two dachshunds. Murphy Brown, named by granddaughter Katie, is a perfect little lady. She has been to the doctor and was made into a perfect little lady, but she is a joy to be around, really. But the other critter, Clancy, is a tiny little dachshund that they paid good money for. I have not dared to ask how much, but doubt they would be truthful to me about what Clancy cost them to begin with. For all intents and purposes Clancy is still a darling little puppy...wrong on that. Guess Clancy has suddenly gotten ideas not quite becoming a lady and she lets her wants and needs be known at the most inopportune times. Following is a for instance: Trish was on her way out the door to dash down to the exclusive Tree Top Restaurant where she was due to make a presentation before a roomful of psychologists and she was dressed up and certainly not dressed for a toot race with Clancy. But that did not deter her and she took off after said Clancy and got her just as she was turning the corner for a more interesting agenda. As Trish was near the veterinarian on her way downtown, she hurriedly packed Miss Clancy in her carry-all and dropped her off. When the veterinarian informed her that her little bitty dog was in heat, Trish gasped, "She can't be, she isn't old enough."

"Ah, well and good to say Dr. Sullivan, but she is old enough and she is." Trish explained her predicament and left said Clancy with the veterinarian and rushed down to the Tree Top, restaurant that is. Naturally she was quite late arriving at the aforementioned Tree Top and never being at a loss for words, she laughingly explained the whys and the whats that caused her delay.

As she was the last speaker on the program, her lateness did not cause much of a furor and when she related all of this to her audience they enjoyed it immensely. Let me add, if I may, that my lovely daughter has always been late. I went to the hospital three different times before she would make up her mind to enter this old world. Folks that know her just take it in their stride. They call it "Patricia Time" and never expect her to arrive when she is supposed to.

As she ascended the stairs to the podium she went into her bits of reason mixed with reality as she related her experience with Miss Clancy. She no sooner finished and was seated when she was again called to the podium. She was presented with a beautiful plaque inscribed with Exceptional Services Award awarded by the National Review Board. She was so pleased and so surprised and in her acceptance speech, in her inimitable way, remarked what a day it had been for her. She started out corralling a dog in heat and ended up receiving this prestigious and wonderful award. And she ended it all with her thank-yous and closed with "What a day, what a day."

Isn't it true that if anything is going to go wrong for you, it will happen at the worst possible time?

See you next week. God bless all who read this trivia that I write and even those who can't be bothered.
Adios amigos.

displayed copies of a complementary article about Ruidoso in the Chicago Herald and copies of the ads which the chamber placed in New Mexico magazine and Texas Monthly. Mayor Jerry Shaw suggested future ads mention the commercial airlines which provide service to Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

After the report, councilors approved an amendment to the chamber of commerce contract with the village to provide a part time salary for a special events coordinator, which was approved at the last village meeting.

Airport manager Tim Morris reported on recent changes to the Long Star Airlines flights. Because of market trends the airline is dropping its Ruidoso to El Paso flight and is adding a third daily flight from Ruidoso to Dallas-Fort Worth.

More than 1,000 Ruidoso to Dallas Fort Worth flights were booked in Lone Star's first month of operation out of Sierra Blanca Airport, making that flight the second highest utilized in the Lone Star system, Morris said. Also because of demand Lone Star has begun flying its 30 passenger aircraft from Ruidoso to Dallas-Fort Worth on Thursday and Friday.

In other business, councilors:

- Adopted an amendment to reduce the number of Planning and Zoning Commission members from nine to seven.
- Adopted an ordinance which will require village permission for use of public owned property for events in the parks, solicitation, and parades. Such uses must be made by non-profit groups only. If the groups involve members who are under 18 years old, no permit is needed for fund raising events. The ordinance also provides that business licenses are renewed on the date issued not on a set date as before, requires that only items of normal inventory of a business can be sold or displayed outdoors and requires any non profit group register with the village before doing door to door solicitations.

-Approved a zone map amendment to rezone a property off Highway 70 back to commercial from residential.

Lady Tigers 3-1 In District Play

Capitan's Lady Tigers volleyball team pushed up its district standings with two wins against district foes Tularosa and Dexter.

The girls defeated Tularosa in Capitan on October 5, winning the district match in four games: 15-3, 15-12, 7-15, 15-1. Michelle Wilson made eight service points in the first game, Shelby Gowen made nine service points in the second.

Lady Tigers coach Bryan Massé said the girls were putting pressure on Tularosa and got off to a good start. In the second game the coach put in some of his subs. The girls began by serving well, getting the score up to 13-7. Then the Capitan girls slacked off and let the Lady Wildcats have some momentum. In the third game, coach again sent in some different subs, to give everyone some playing time on the court. But the Tularosa team carried its second game momentum over to the third game and won it 15-7. Coach sent in his starting line up in the fourth game and the Lady Tigers killed the Lady Wildcats 15-1. Catherine Sidwell made 7 service points and Michelle Wilson made five in the final game.

On the road to Fort Sumner on Saturday, the Lady Tigers worked hard to win the match in three games: 15-13, 15-9, 15-4. The Lady Tigers came back from behind 12-6 in the first game to win it.

Again on the road Tuesday for another district match, the Lady Tigers defeated Dexter in four games: 14-16, 15-3, 15-7, 19-17. Massé said the girls got off to a good start in the first game, but got stuck when the score was 13-8. Capitan, Dexter took advantage of Capitan's stall and won the first game. Sidwell made six service points. Disappointed on the loss, the Capitan girls came out in the second game a bit nervous, but soon overcame their jitters to win. Coye Robbins made seven service points and did a good job of offense play. In the third game, Sidwell made six service points and Chris

NMAA Pulls Carrizozo Out Of State Playoffs

by Doris Cherry

It was a tough week for the Grizzlies six man football team.

First it was an irresponsible call by an official during the Floyd game on Oct. 6 which caused the Grizzlies coach to be suspended for the Vaughn game, then it was a call from the New Mexico Activities Association (NMAA) announcing its decision to pull Carrizozo out of the district playoffs because of this is the Grizzlies first year to play six man football.

Despite the news, the Grizzlies are determined to play like all their last games are play off games.

During a rough and tumble game with Floyd on October 6, Grizzlies coach Sid Wright took responsible action as a coach and parent to help one of his players down on the field with an injury. With only four minutes left in the game and the Grizzlies ahead 51-18, Carrizozo player Patrick Hansell took a hit in the chin and neck area from a Floyd player's helmet. Hansell fell to the field and was unable to get up. Wright said he and the Floyd coach ran out on to the field to check on Hansell's condition. But the official in charge flagged Wright for coming on to the field, calling the play a "clean hit."

"The chin strap was in Pat's mouth," Wright told THE NEWS. "I was worried about this kid with a chin strap in his mouth choking him, I was not in a negotiation mood."

Because Wright made a snappy comment to the official, the official flagged Wright again, which according to the rules suspends the coach from the remainder of the game and from the following game on the roster.

"It was a scary situation," Wright said. "Pat's face was bloody and his arms were numb." Wright said the official never examined Pat, he just left the field as soon as the game was over, even though (assistant coach Randall) Robbins tried to talk to him."

Because there was no ambulance or EMS at the field, Hansell and Wright had to wait at the sidelines until an ambulance arrived from Portales Medical Center. Hansell was taken to the hospital, treated and later released after the feeling returned to his arms.

"It blows my mind the official only worried about his ego," Wright said. "The (video) tape clearly demonstrates it was a cheap shot."

The Grizzlies went on to the defeat. Floyd 52-31. Jeff Maynard and Willie Silva were named as offensive players of the week each making three touchdowns in the Floyd game. Shad Roper was named Defensive Player of the Week and Facio Zamora was Special Team Player of the Week.

Ray Barrell also made a touchdown on a good pass from Jim Brown, who also ran in another score.

Wright said the fans and players supported him for his actions during the Floyd game. Wright said NMAA also called the Floyd coaches who collaborated Wright's comments about the incident.

The win over Floyd put the Grizzlies 4-1 in the season and the boys set a goal to make it to the play offs.

Then came the bad news. This week NMAA notified Wright he was suspended from the Vaughn game after the official called the association and advised he had flagged Wright for "talking back." Then NMAA added insult to injury when it informed Carrizozo Schools that the Grizzlies would not be eligible for the play offs. Wright said it was hard announcing the news to the players. "What do I tell my five seniors?"

"I had to tell them about Carrizozo being the first school to come under these new play off rules, and about my suspension from the Vaughn game," Wright said.

So the team dedicated the Vaughn game to their coach. "It made me feel good the kids cared about me," Wright said.

Under direction of coach Robbins, the Grizzlies wiped out the Vaughn Aguilas 73-0. The game was called at the half.

Jim Brown was Offensive Player of the Week with his 250 yards thrown, Bud Maynard was Defensive Player of the Week for the two touchdowns he made on interception returns. Special Team Player was Eldon Offut who played hard and made several good tackles.

Although banned from the football field, Coach Wright watched from the bleachers. Once the game was over, he came down to the field and the kids were all over him.

Their record is 5-1, and they would have been undefeated in district play so far.

Despite the NMAA ruling on the playoffs, the Grizzlies now have a goal to treat the remaining games in the season as play off games. "If we continue to win," Wright said. "In our minds we are the real state champions."

The Grizzlies go on the road Saturday to play Lake Arthur. Games begin at 12 noon with the junior high teams. The varsity game begins at 2 p.m.

The Panthers recently defeated Melrose which was the top ranked six man team last year. Wright said he thinks the Grizzlies can defeat Lake Arthur.

The Grizzlies will have a chance to play Melrose, on October 20, Carrizozo Homecoming. "We've got the stage set to finish the year beating the top two teams in the state (Melrose and Lake Arthur)."

"I know we are the best six man football team in New Mexico," Wright said. "But we have to prove it on the field, not in the newspaper."

"If we take care of business, we won't let Melrose spoil homecoming," Wright concluded.

Carrizozo Elementary Students Are Honored For Art At State Fair

Carrizozo Elementary School students have been honored for their participation in the New Mexico State Fair student art show.

The school has received a certificate of award signed by fair manager Sam J. Hancock, and from New Mexico Dept. of Education superintendent Alan Morgan.

make a catastrophic wildfire event inevitable. Many forest areas contain excessive numbers of trees which has created a highly competitive stressful growing environment. Stressed trees tend to be more susceptible to harmful insects and diseases, and tree parasites. Heavily stocked stands also encourage severe wildfires.

This coalition also realizes that agencies can't solve the problem alone. There has to be substantial grass roots support to actively manage federal and state land through thinning and the use of prescribed fire. Also, this support has to be reflected by the actions of private land owners via forest thinning projects on their own land along with the creation of defensible space fire zones around their homes and businesses.

Starting at 9:00 a.m., a series of speakers will discuss the problems at hand, agency policies and limitations in addressing these problems, steps each land owner can take in addressing these problems, and examples of successful active management strategies. Throughout the day, in an adjacent room participants can visit informational exhibits to gain a better understanding of specific issues, and management strategies. Individuals may also discuss conditions on their own properties one-on-one with land management professionals.

Lady Tigers 3-1 In District . . .

(Con't. from P. 6)

Worrell made five.

"In the final game of the match Dexter came out fired up to get us," Massé said. Dexter moved ahead in serving and had Capitan at 6-2. Then the Lady Tigers began to score, four points straight tying the game. Then the Lady Tiger went up from there scoring four more straight points, to Dexter's one. The score was at 14-7 when again Capitan stalled. "They started playing not to lose," Massé said. "We got hung up at 14."

Dexter edged up its score, and Massé called time outs when Dexter was at 9, then at 12 and again when the score was 14-14. He put in a sub when Dexter moved ahead at 14-15. Monica Johnson, who moved up to the varsity team after setter Andra Fish was injured last week, made the final three serves of game, including one ace. Coye Robbins made the final hit that won the game 19-17.

"It was an excellent match," Massé said. "But the girls need to do some work on finishing the game when they're at 13. They need to keep focused."

Massé complimented Sidwell for her good blocking, Gowen for her aggressiveness, Worrell for her super job on the back row, the setters for their good job. Massé said Johnson is getting better every game.

The Lady Tigers take some very much needed time off this week. Their next match is set for October 19, when the Capitan girls travel to Tularosa for another district match. The final match of the regular season will be with Cloudcroft on Oct. 21 at home.

If the Lady Tigers can win the final two district matches they will be first in district standings, Massé said.

Tigers Over Reserve by 50-0 Score

There was no contest on Tiger Field last Friday.

Capitan's Tigers fiercely held onto their undefeated status by clobbering Reserve 50-0 in their first district game.

The win didn't raise Capitan's ranking on the Class A football polls. Still third behind undefeated Fort Sumner and 5-1 Animas, the Tigers will play Cloudcroft for another district game. Kick off with the Bears is at 7:30 p.m. in Tiger Stadium Friday.

The Tigers will travel to Animas on October 21 for their final district game.

State quarter finals are set for Nov. 3-4. Semi finals will be held Nov. 10 and 11 and state championships on Nov. 17-18.

FORT STANTON FACTS & FICTION

If only I could put into words the beautiful golden, red, and orange colors of fall here at the edge of the creek. Seems they are going to be an extra beautiful sight this year. I think this is a prettier sight than all those many balloons we saw in Albuquerque over the weekend.

The arena we were at to attend the amateur roping held in Albuquerque was very close to the place where the balloons lifted off each morning and we were lucky enough to see them as they floated overhead. An angel, a tennis show, rocking chair and rocket caught most of our attention with the others being colorful. We could not believe all the camp trailers along the route as we went from the arena to the motel room.

It was a very exciting weekend for several from Lincoln County and very disappointing for others. Junior Barringer, the man with the hard luck in Farmington came back and won a beautiful saddle, belt buckle and more than $750.00. We were all so happy for him. His partner and himself won the same amount of money and so had to rope off for the saddle and Junior came out the winner.

Doug Shannon, Mr. Can Man, just told me that Junior was showing him what he had won this morning. In all the times I have dropped cans off I never knew his name. Today he was telling me he had worked for Anderson and Watkins and delivered gas out north to all the ranchers, had worked for Transwestern, and even drove a truck for 10 years. I had assumed he had been in the can business forever.

Back to the roping in Albuquerque. Fifers, Wilsons, Tully's, Montes, and Trammells were some of our local ropers, vying for many prizes and lots of money. Kersti and I had a good time, a running, a cooking on her little stove, roping dummies, visiting, and of course eating all weekend. Her friend Jeanine Fifer, became known as "Nene", kept her when Grandma wasn't there. The motor home was very enticing to her, going up and down the steps a million times.

Mama and Daddy roped in two ropings each day and came so close in several, that it was almost heart breaking. Two or three of the ropings they would rope all four or five steers and one or the other would miss on the very last loop. You have to be there to know what pressure it is to catch that many steers and be in the range of 7 to 9 seconds. Think I took the loss much harder than either of them.

On Sunday morning, Butch Allen was the preacher for the church services. He stated that the devil had really been trying to keep Kenny Zamora from having his roping series. In Farmington, the building was the problem, in Portales the rains came, and in Albuquerque there was a five hour delay with the timer not working. Butch stated that since Kenny had been having church along with the ropings the devil would try to stop him in one way or other. This was a very interesting concept. After much work and deliberation and many helping the roping began at 2:00 instead of 9:00 and was only about 30 minutes into the first annual big roping held that night with entries at $250.00 per man. Jerry Tully of Glencoe was one of the top money winners on Saturday and I am sure will be very busy planning the roping with the symposium on the 18th. Remember events start on Thursday evening. The trail riders took off this morning for the two night stay. I sure hope to be able to go one of these days.

While we were in Albuquerque, Pat, Cesar, and others were cooking on their cookers in the chili cook off. Understand Christy Bonnell was also entered. Even though they didn't win they had lots of fun trying, and served lots of people. Pat stated he watched a lot of the parade and saw the sheriff's posse and many others. Just need to be able to be in two or three places at once but right now guess who had my priority?

Many celebrate their birthdays in October. Audrey was 28 on the 7th. She had told me I could have the trailer if she won it so was sure a wishing she could have won it on her big day.

Jared Wilson was 10 on the 6th, Todd Proctor celebrated his on the 9th, and Eddie's is on the 19th. Happy birthday to all of you.

Understand the football team just keeps on doing better and better with a 50 to 0 score on Friday night. Francis said it was family night with the parents of the boys receiving large white mums from their sons on the football field. Congratulations again guys! Keep it up and go all the way.

Willie worked last week for me while I baby sat for Mom and Dad to go help Grady Eldridge wean his calves. Fletcher Hall, Pat, little Teke and Ronnie were also lots of help, along with Dick Cox, Kersti and I sat around the house all day, enjoying ourselves, feeding the little lambs, swinging, and sleeping. It is so peaceful where they live, it is almost unreal.

The Fort is still waiting news from Santa Fe. Time is getting close to decision time and we are wondering what the verdict will be.

On Saturday of last week, Audrey and Eddie were in Portales on business and stopped in and saw Shelly and Toban Tate and the new baby. Even though it weighed only 5-lbs./11-ozs., they said it is a little live wire and named Terryn Le.

Waddy Hobbs moved to another ranch and now Ronnie and Jackie Billie are living at the Ponder place with Felix at the El Rod. Little Briar started school in Corona this year and loves to ride the school bus and does enjoy

The Sisks and Tullys attended the 4-H finals in Tucumcari Saturday where their children were winding up the year as rodeo contestants. Casey Sisk bucked off his steer but placed seventh for the year. Riley Tully was fifth in stepdown and seventh in breakaway. He won a duffel bag. Charlie Tully was eighth in calf touch, and won the saddle for steer stopping and was in the top 15 in breakaway for the year. Congratulations to all.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hine, Clovis, visited friends here Friday and did some restorative work on the family cemetery plot.

Eight area women attended a weekend retreat at the Hummingbird Music Camp in the Jemez Mountains. Those attending were Sandra Alford, Erdine Behunin, Shelly Frost, Margaret Holleyman, Lucy Lueras, Sherry Lueras, Janette Stewart and from Carrizozo Linda Conley. Mary Glazer, prayer coordinator for Alaska Women's Aglow spoke to the large group. She is an Eskimo and her name is Woman of Thunder. She is a dynamic speaker and all agreed that it was a wonderful experience in a perfect setting.

Crown CowBelles met Thursday, Oct. 5 at the Crown Cafe with eight members and one guest, Jan Eford Ball, who has moved from Silver City to Mountainair.

Lanita Rasak president and Wanda Duke reported on their six hour stint at the CowBelle booth on the last day of the state fair. They met interesting and interested people and distributed literature.

Mrs. Rasak requested an update on the local by-laws.

Robin Pfeiffer reported on her sunshine committee. Members were urged to write to Governor Johnson / re: the wolf release problem before Oct. 18, the date of his meeting in Socorro. He needs to receive more than 200 letters expressing concerns.

The nominating committee will report next month with officers to be elected at that time.

The CowBelle of the Year committee will have a recommendation at the November meeting and members are to vote "Yes" or "No" as directed in the state by-laws.

The ASI National Convention will be held in Albuquerque in January. On Jan. 18 the sheepmen will visit the NMSU ranch operation here and Pete Gnatkowski has asked Crown CowBelles to consider preparing a lamb lunch at the ranch. Crown CowBelles will not sponsor a Thanksgiving dance this year and the quilt lucky number will be drawn at the Christmas party or perhaps at the basketball game.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Nov. 2 at the Crown Cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Manning hosted a matanza party at the ranch Saturday. The victim turned out to be a very tasty pig. Guests included Mrs. Manning's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Romero, of Socorro, her three sisters and two of her five brothers and their families, and other relatives. A special guest was Phil Hoykin of Alamogordo, Mrs. Manning's former supervisor at White Sands. Some people ate too many of the chicharones and both children and adults had fun with the star pinata. Most took time to inspect the livestock and four-wheelers. About 40 people attended the gathering on the beautiful fall day.

Ottom Yancey came from Bloomfield Friday to get some things he had left in storage. He visited with friends and relatives and returned home Sunday. He is recovering from a fall off a ladder while completing his shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrell Fuller, Fairfax, VA were in New Mexico for a week visiting the Ken Fullers and Gibbs and friends here.

Shawn Perkins injured a knee Sept. 22 in a ranch accident. He underwent major surgery the next week and expects to be on crutches for at least six months. He lives in Estancia and must drive to Albuquerque for therapy three times a week. He is not a happy camper having to skip the elk season.

J.D. Kibbe, Portales, came over last week to help his grandparents and uncle, the Holleymans, with their cattle delivery. J.D. 14, won four saddles at the 4-H finals in Tucumcari, calf touching, breakaway, goat tying and all-around. His grandparents went to Tucumcari to watch the rodeo events.

The Kesslers spent Friday and Saturday nights in Clovis with Renee's uncle, Ray Ware, and 102 year-old grandfather, Gus Ware.

Saturday morning they drove to Clovis to take part in the wedding of Renee's father, Joel Ware, and Donna Roberts, in a double ring ceremony in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Renee was matron of honor, Mike a groomsman, Amy the flower girl, April the ring bearer and Julie attended the guest book. A reception followed in the church fellowship hall. The Wares are moving to Memphis, Tenn. where he will work toward a PhD in Theology at the Presbyterian seminary there.

Crystal and Charlie Lueras have announced the marriage of their daughter, Angela, and Manuel Renteria on Saturday, Sept. 30 in the Cahoon Park. It was a beautiful setting by the lake and a typical fall late afternoon.

Stenna Chavez attended her friend as maid of honor. A reception followed at the home of the groom's sister, Manuel works at Furr's, Angie at K-Mart. Both are graduating seniors at Goddard High School. Those attending the wedding from Corona were Mr. and Mrs. Hyron Yancey, grandparents of the bride, Bernice McCord, great grandmother of the bride, Jean and Frankie Chavez and Stann Chavez.

Tammy and Gregg McDougall, came from OK to bring Taylor to see her great grandmother, Juanita Sultemeier, in Roswell on Friday and on to the ranch Saturday to visit grandparents, Lee and Clint Sultemeier. We understand that the grandfather promised gas and lamb for the trip.

Visiting friends in Corona Monday for a very short time were Greg Carnell, Washington, DC, Ivan and Juanita Carnell, Palestine, TX and Wanda Carnell, Fort Sumner. Ivan is recovering from two strokes but appears well.

Lanita Rasak is grieving over the loss of Runt, a gray Schnauzer that wandered off Monday. See the notice elsewhere in this issue of the NEWS.

They had both served in the CC Camp from New Jersey and had lots of interesting pictures and plan to send me copies.

As they were leaving in comes a young man from Germany named Peter John. He had read about Billy the Kid in the westerns and ended up at the Fort. It never fails to amaze me. Til next time from all over the world. Be happy and love those grandbabies.
