County Elected Officials Pay Increase Is Stymied

by Doris Cherry

Once again the Lincoln County Commissioners tabled a request to increase the salaries of elected county officials. even though they receive the lowest salaries for such officials in the state's Class B over counties.

Lincoln County Commissioners, meeting Tuesday in the courthouse in Carrizozo, postponed action on a request to raise the elected officials salaries after a motion to hold public hearings on the proposal tied with two votes for and two votes against. Chairman Monroy Montes was absent which left no one to break the

By state law, as amended in 1994, elected officials in Class B Over (meaning county properties have a total assessed value of more than $300 million) can have salaries not exceeding $15,012 for each county commissioner; $37,653 each for treasurer, clerk and assessor: $39,253 for sheriff and $13,166 for probate judge. Currently commissioners receive $10,005 a year, sheriff receives $31,510 a year, and assessor, clerk and treasurer each receive $30,130 a year, which was approved in 1991.

Lincoln County elected officials have the lowest salaries of the 13 counties in Class B Over counties in New Mexico. Lincoln County elected officials last got a raise in 1991, according to information provided by county treasurer Joan Park. She said she was not against having public hearings on the proposed pay raise, but she also believed the public in general did not know the function and services offered by county elected officials.

County assessor Patsy Serna, who also endorsed the salary increase, said it would cost the county an additional $88,398 a year to cover the raises. The cost could be covered by the increased value of properties in the county, and subsequent higher revenue from taxes. Serna said as of December 2, the county had increased $30 million in value over last year, which is equal to $210,000 in additional taxes for the county.

"The elected officials haven't had a raise since January 1991," Serna said. "It's time to look at the salaries, but if we don't get an increase I'll be

Lincoln County Santa Cops Workshop Open

In 1988, law enforcement officers throughout Lincoln County got together to collect donations of toys, clothes and food to give to the area's needy families, children and elderly. Because the act of kindness made them feel like Santa, the participants named their organization Santa Cops.

Like every year since 1988, Santa Cops is taking donations of food, new clothing, new toys and money.

The donations can be taken directly to the Santa Cops workshop, located in the Sierra Mall on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, December 7 and Saturday, December 14. Donations may also be dropped off at the following locations Ruidoso; Sierra Bank; KBUY radio on Sudderth Drive and Lincoln CableVision on Vision Street and Ruidoso Downs Police Department. Money donations may be mailed to Santa Cops, HC 71, Box 1021, Capitan, NM 88316.

Organizers ask that nonperishable food be brought to the Santa Cops Workshop on the Saturdays. If donors desire to bring perishable food such as fruit, meat or bread that must be brought to the workshop on Wednesday, December 18.

For donations of new clothing, organizers suggest new winter items for children and elderly, such as flannel shirts, mittens and gloves, scarves or slippers.

Deliveries of the gift packages will be made to needy families and elderly beginning on Thursday, December 19.

Anyone who wants to be considered for a Santa Cops package can pick up an application at the Ruidoso Wal-Mart or the New Mexico Income Support Division office on 5th Street in Ruidoso. The completed applications must

by Doris Cherry

Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona and Hondo Valley School Districts will hold elections on Tuesday, February 4 to fill positions on their boards of education.

Tuesday, December 17 is the only day that people who want to run for a position on a school board may file declaration of candidacy. The declaration must be filed between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Lincoln County Clerk's office in March 1, 1997. Carrizozo.

Write-in candidates are allowed in all school district elections, but people who wish to run as a write-in candidate must file a Declaration of Write-in Candidacy at the Lincoln County Clerk's Office in the courthouse in Carrizozo between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Tuesday, December 31 only.

Candidates must be registered voters residing within the school district for which they file for candidacy. All board position terms begin schools and other questions to be asked on the school election ballots:

Capitan:

Positions 1 and 2, both for four years, are open. They are currently held by Russell Shearer and Tim Worrell. Carrizozo:

Four positions are open, two for two year terms and two for four year terms. The two-year positions on the ballot are currently held by Gary Hightower, who is retiring at the end of two years of his four-year term, Jody Ventura, who is resigning at the end of two years of his four-year term because he will be leaving the area, and the four year terms are presently held by Nick Serna and LeeRoy Zamora.

Corona:

Three, four year positions are open. Position 2 is currently held by president Danny Lueras, position 3 is held by vice president Melvin Johnson, and position 5 is held. by member Pete Gnatkowksi.

Hondo Valley:

Positions 1 and 2, both for four years, are open on the school board. Position 1 currently is held by board secretary Stella Herrera. Position 2 was held by member Jimmy Montoya, who resigned from the board in a letter last week.

Two Mill Levy Questions:

Capitan and Hondo also will be asking voters to continue the Public School Capital Improvements Tax, (SB9, two mill levy) for another three years. The two mill levy provides funding to purchase equipment such as football helmets, furniture, remodeling and repairs and to purchase activity busses. SB9 money cannot be used for salaries or operational costs. Bond Issue Question:

Hondo School District will also ask voters to vote yes or no on a $325,000 general obligation bond issue which will allow the district to construct and equip a library expansion. The expanded library will enable the district to upgrade its computer tech-officials are public servants. who would appreciate an increase in salary to meet the cost of living increases. "We're here from 8 to 5, or at times after 5 and weekends," she said. "Unlike previous years, with lawsuits involving elected officials, there have been several years of smooth sailing in the courthouse," Proctor said. "I'm proud of the job Patsy, Joan and I have done with the county commission. I accept the responsibility and liability associated with the

Proctor said that with an increasing population in the county, the elected officials have increased responsibilities in their offices. "But I won't beg for a raise, that's not my nature," she said.

County manager Frank Potter also reminded commissioners they had not resolved the issue of the salaries for chief deputies for elected officials. Potter said he would present a plan for the chief deputies in January when he presents the draft job descriptions and salary plan for all county employees.

"We're all proud of the services we provide," Potter said. "As Lincoln County grows, and becomes more sophisticated, I think the county officials become more sophisticated in the way they deal with the public."

Potter was concerned that without a salary increase for elected officials, Lincoln County will fall so far down the scale it will "indicate we're something less than we are."

Citizens Joe Bonnell and E.J. Fouratt supported the salary increase. "All the elected officials do their jobs efficiently, and they deserve increases," Bonnell said.

"As a tax payer, I don't object to the raises for elected officials," Fouratt said." When we look at all except one, have done a super job. They deserve some kind of raise. We want to attract good people to run for the jobs.'

Commissioners Ray Nunley and Wilton Howell supported public hearings to let the public say what it thinks about the salary increases. But outgoing commissioner Stirling Spencer, who will assume the job as probate judge in January, said he wasn't against public hearings, but "it's clear it's something we have to bite the bullet and do. It's hard as we're a part of the bullet."

Spencer said compared to the private sector, the elected officials' salaries are totally inequitable for their supervisory positions. "This is not an arbitrary raise," Spencer said. "The statute is here for it. I ask the commission to highly consider the increase."

Spencer added that if the increase is given it may be seven to 10 years before another can be given based on county classification.

But when Howell asked for a motion approving the raises, no one responded. Then Nunley made a motion to hold two public hearings, one at the regular January meeting in Carrizozo and another special meeting in Ruidoso also in January. Commissioner Bill Schwettmann who was presiding in chairman Monroy

Montes absence, seconded the motion just for discussion. When Schwettmann took the vote on the motion to hold public hearings, it split with Nunley and Schwettmann for holding public hearings, and Spencer and Howell against the hearings.

With no one to break the tie, it died.

Spencer then asked the proposed raise be tabled until the January meeting after new commissioner Rex Wilson is on the board and chairman Montes has returned. Nunley seconded the motion. All but Howell voted yes. He explained jokingly that he voted no because he did not want to end the year voting with Spencer. ~ ~

Is it a Fort or a Camp?

By Ruth Hammond

There was no funeral, no last rites, no chance for a final farewell and it leaves many of us sad. Death is like that, often happening quickly without any warning, leaving us alone with emotions needing to be released, but this was not death; now it seems it might be much worse than death, if that is possible.

You ask what could possibly cause these deep feelings? None other than the loss of our own Fort Stanton. The secluded Fort nestled safely away from the harsh winters and sultry summers. The quiet Fort Stanton which provided a haven and hope of a brighter future for the families of the clients who lived there for most of their lives. The peaceful Fort Stanton which was home for hundreds of merchant marines suffering from the dreaded disease TB. The beautiful Fort Stanton, the center of activity for all of Lincoln County through most of two separate centuries.

Yes, Fort Stanton is still there, only now the state is calling it Camp Sierra Blanca. Barricades block the roads into the Fort and No Trespassing signs have been posted. The buildings have been renamed with a single letter instead of the cottage names that have been used for years and years. The Fort remains but the essence that has meant so much to many of us is now gone.

Not having access to Fort Stanton is understandable but for the state to take away the name Fort Stanton is unthinkable. The state said it would use Fort Stanton for women prisoners, not eliminate Fort Stanton. The state said the women prisoners at Fort Stanton could help preserve the facilty, not change it from a Fort to a mere Camp. The state has said it would do many things but changing of the name from Fort Stanton to Camp Sierra Blanca is not only unthinkable, it is devastating.

Does anyone at the state level care about preserving history? If they do it certainly isn't evident. Changing 19th century place names is not preservation, it is a form of elimination. That sort of thing happens regularly in foreign countries but should never happen here in the United States and most definitely not here in Lincoln County. It would make about as much sense to change the name of Santa Fe to Johnsonville or Garysburg. How many people living in New Mexico would agree to that name change?

Making promises and breaking those promises seems to be the standard for governor Johnson and his select staff. Now that same group is apparently responsible for depriving an entire area of one of its most precious assets. Not only have we lost access to our Fort Stanton, the state has taken away its name.

It seems that now we have two Camp Sierra Blancas. One will be for juveniles while the other one will be for female prisoners. There has been no explanation as to how the state intends to distinguish between the two facilities. Maybe one will be Camp Sierra Blanca One and the other will be Camp Sierra Blanca Two. Then again maybe one will be Camp Sierra Blanca Juveniles and the other will be Camp Sierra Blanca Females. One other option might be for both facilities to be Camp Sierra Blanca but then it would appear both adult female prisoners and juveniles are being housed in the same facility which could be a violation of the way prisons are operated. But then again the state has a way of doing things its way, not the correct way.

If the state wanted to do things the correct way then the state would have kept the promises made instead of breaking them. If the state wanted to do things the correct way then the state would not be in the process of changing the name of the Fort. It would be nice if the state cared, but the state doesn't care at all.

We do care about doing the correct thing and we care about Fort Stanton. The state can't change our feelings about Fort Stanton regardless of what name it is called. Fort Stanton will continue to live on forever in our minds and in our hearts.

PLAQUE OF THANKS. Outgoing Lincoln County Commissioner Stirling Spencer (left) accepts a plaque of appreciation from fellow commissioner Wilton Howell during Spencer's last meeting Tuesday. Outgoing sheriff James McSwane also received a plaque, but he was not present at the meeting to accept it.

SANTA FE—The halls of the Capitol are bustling again. The parking lots are full. It looks like time for another legislative session.

In November and December the Legislature's 19 interim committees, most of which take their show on the road during the summer months, return to Santa Fe to wrap up business, prepare committee reports to the Legislature, adopt legislative recommendations and review proposed bill drafts.

This may seem like more interim activity than necessary but it is the reason New Mexico's Legislature can get its business done in only one or two moths a year. Interim committees are the vehicle for giving serious thought to many of the issues facing the state without the distractions of a frantic legislative session. it will be the fourth time since
The meetings also allow law- I started walking the Capitol makers to visit communities affected by their considerations and allow New Mexicans a forum to present their concerns on issues under discussion

The 1997 Legislature will have numerous big issues to tackle. In addition to the usual problems of stretching available revenue to meet the growing demands of schools, law enforcement, highways and the needy, lawmakers will be looking at the hot issues of gambling, prison construction, electricity deregulation, privatization of more government services. Medicaid reform and welfare reform.

And then there's the constitutional amendment we passed Nov. 5 that requires the Legislature to abolish the state Corporation Commission and the Public Utility Commission and create a Regulation Public Commission.

And as if all this weren't enough, an old legislative bugaboo is raising its head again. It wouldn't seem that something as trivial as cockfighting could disrupt the business of a legislature, but because of the conflicting emotions this subject engenders it always consumes more than its share of attention.

This year the cockfighting issue bubbled up in Lordsburg, where an Arizona promoter announcedibe was going to build an arena in the area. When 50 angry residents couldn't get the Hidalgo County Commission to step in, they announced they would seek a statewide ban from the Legislature.

If the threat is carried out, halls 30 years ago that cockfighting has come to Santa Fe. Usually it's sponsored by a new legislator with no idea of what he's getting into. Once, however, old pro Max Coll was talked into taking on the cock fighters.

Of course Coll has never been one to walk away from a fight. In fact the Santa Fe Democrat seems to attract controversy. Currently he is involved in two lawsuits that promise to cause fits for the '97 Legislature.

In the Indian gaming lawsuit, he is paired with conservative Albuquerque Republican George Buffett. But it was Coll who was the lightning rod for Indian hostility in the recent elections. Tribes poured over $30,000 and much shoe leather into beating him. But from all reports, they spent no time or money on Buffett's race, which was much closer than Coll's.

The same scenario appears to be unfolding in the prison-financing lawsuit in which Coll is paired with Albuquerque Republican Jerry Alwin, who claims to be the state's most conservative lawmaker. Most of the criticism from Gov. Gary Johnson and his staff is directed at Coll. . Maybe there are partisan reasons for that decision or it may be that when the governor and legislative leaders Manny Aragon and Raymond Sanchez reached agreement on the size and function of. New Mexico's prisons, he thought that bound all Democrats to agree on all prison

But the truth is that both Alwin and Buffett represent the concerns of many of their fellow Republicans about the legality of the gaming compacts and the legality of Johnson's novel prison-finance plan.

And now we hear Coll intends to introduce New Mexicare again in '97. Much more on that later.

Sullivan Plans To Attend Commissioner Meetings

by Doris Cherry

Lincoln County commissioners can expect no surprises from sheriff elect Tom Sullivan once he takes the reigns over the Lincoln County Sheriffs Office.

Sullivan assured commissioners during their last meeting of the year on Tuesday in Carrizozo that he won't bring any surprises, instead he will bring any proposals to the group before he wants approval. "I'm not a whiner, I won't go away and pout if I don't get my way," Sullivan said. "I'll just change my proposal to present it in a different

Sullivan vowed to attend all county commission meetings, or send a representative if he is unable to attend. "I think it's important to be here," he told the commission. Sullivan said he would like to continue the opening ceremony he used to conduct for commission meetings when he was sheriff

Sullivan also said he had met with all county commissioners individually and with the county manager to talk about the problems he will inherit.

There will be more control (of the office) with my supervision," Sullivan added. He also said he wanted to give the officers more training. because he believes recent lawsuits are the result of officers failing to take action. or taking the wrong actions,

"I'm looking forward to the next four years. I'll be here to work together and get along," he said.

Commissioner Ray Nunley said he looked forward to a productive partnership with the sheriff's office. Commissioner Wilton Howell appreciated the positive attitude.

Outgoing commissioner Stirling Spencer said he had mixed feelings about retiring from the county commission because Sullivan is "one of the most outstanding sheriffs in Lincoln County because of his administrative abilities."

Commissioner Bill-Schwettmann reminded Sullivan that government works best as a team. will work with you," he added.

Commissioners also awarded a plaque of appreciation to outgoing sheriff James McSwane for his nine years of service as Lincoln Coulty Sheriff, and to outgoing pro-bate judge Bud Payne for his six years of service. Payne arrived late to receive his plaque. McSwane although invited, did not attend.

Spencer Bids Farewell To County Commission

by Doris Cherry

Six years on the Lincoln County Commission taught District One commissioner Stirling Spencer there is a great need for diversity on the board.

During Spencer's last regular meeting of the board of Lincoln County Commissioners held in the courthouse in Carrizozo Tuesday, Spencer was awarded a plaque of appreciation for his service. Afterwards he commented on his years on the board, and left some advice to those who will continue.

"The most important issue was the five man county commission," Spencer said: During his tenure the county went from three to five commissioners, and the change from whole county representato district representa-

"Many times I didn't have the same political ideas as some of you other commissioners," Spencer said. "But I believe diversity is our strength because we can draw from all socio-economic aspects of the county to create a comprehensive government so all are represented."

Spencer predicted Lincoln County will become the number one destination point in the United States over the next five years. And the diversity already in the county with atourism, agriculture, retirement and gambling will become more diverse, Spencer said he believed the growth in Lincoln County in the next commissioners by questioning five years will "wipe out" the growth in Santa Fe and Palm Springs. "It will be our responsibility to take care of those already seated in the county," he said. "We can make sure that happens with diversity on this county commission."

Most important is the spoken word of Lincoln County citizens being heard, and commission actions to benefit the citizens," Spencer continned. "And to air the issues,. and come to consensus to .

govern fairly." Commissioner Wilton Howell who just won his second four-year term on the board, said it was an experience serving with Spencer, who made a lot of us better feet to the fire. I learned a lot," Howell said.

Commissioner Ray Nunley who has two years left of his current term, expressed his thanks to Spencer for his honesty, integrity and consistency, and his diverse points of view, which often did not match Nunley's.

Commissioner Bill Schwettmann, who presented the plague to Spencer after jokingly acting as though there was nothing for the outgoing commissioner, said he would miss Specier. I feel you will be back, he said. Chairman Monroy Montes was absent and Schwettmann presided in his place.

CAPITANNOTES

Greetings from the Springfield, Nebraska side of the road. I tried to talk my son-inlaw Jace into writing a paragraph or two for me, but he declined with "Maybe next week, O.K.?" So you have something to anticipate because he is very smart and very, very clever.

At this moment in time I am neither, having just been removed from my bed and barely taking the time to drink my coffee, a ritual most important to my well being in the morning especially at this early, ungodly hour. And so, how was your week?

My apologies to Ruth, my editor, for not contacting her before my hasty departure. My daughter just came in with more coffee and I complained that I had not even taken the time to drink my first cup. In her inimitable and charming way, she said as she rushed our, "never mind, just keep on typing."

They are in a hurry to get this wafting on it's way before they all set out in different directions. Jace to his office where there will be numerous calls to get answered. Trish to her office miles from her husband's office and Miss Katie to her school, another direction to drive.

Methinks I could survive nicely on just the amount they have to put out for gasoline. The fast pace they have set for themselves exhausts me just to think about it. Ah the joys of old age, that is I think it would be joyful if I had the time to just relax and enjoy it instead of just reflecting on what it would be.

If you come up with some kind of answer for the above, let me offer my congratulations. Like I said, I guess I am just letting my fingers do the walking with no assistance from the minute bit of brain power I have at this early hour in the morning. And my sincerest apologies if you have read this far. Hope to do better next week. O.K.?

The following is from the column, "Today in History" in the Omaha World Herald Newspaper. Hope you enjoy them. I do and from time to time will add some of them to my writings...

Capitan Chamber Annual Lighting Contest Dec. 13-17

Unwind the lights and get out the ladders to set up the Christmas light displays, it's time for the annual Capitan Chamber of Commerce Christmas Lighting Contest.

Contest judges will be out around the village sometime between December 13 and 17 to look at and vote for thebest residential and commercial lighting displays within the village.

The best residential Christmas lighting display during that time will receive a $50 gift certificate. The best commercial Christmas lighting display also will receive a $50 gift certificate. The certificates must be spent with a Capitan business.

There are no entry fees, or forms to fill out, to be judged in the contest, just a well lighted display. Judges will be driving throughout the village during the December 13-17 time period.

Capitan Chamber of Commerce discussed the lighting contest during its regular December meeting. Member Dick Back also reported on the Apsche Trails group which has reorganized. Chamber members com-mended Bonnie Hallend and Van Shamblin for their preparation and delivery of 30 Thanksgiving meals to needy families in Capitan.

Members also heard a re port on the upcoming Christ-mas events on December 14.

Graduates Need To Know How To Work

Two years ago, Capitan School conducted a needs assessment survey with parents to find out if the school was teaching their children how to succeed after graduation.

Now, the school is asking business leaders.

"It was an eye opener at our first meeting," said Capitan Family and Consumer Science instructor Jan LaRue. "What employers really want is consistency (from young people) on coming to work on time, and calling in if they are

LaRue and Capitan high school business teacher Diane Riska recently met with employers who are involved with the school's "School to Career" program which allows certain students to earn school credits while working. LaRue said she also was surprised that the employers were not so interested in a "portfolio" as they were interested in a good resume.

Employers also wanted training for students in honesty, not because the students were dishonest, rather because they did not believe it is their job to prevent theft within the store or business where they work.

Wal-Mart manager Mike Dalton, one of the school to work employers, said 80-95 percent of training for Wal Mart employees is customer service involving interpersonal compromise and other human relations. "Training students to deal with people was the most common request," LaRue said of the employers.

All the employers said they wanted students to know stress management and skills in organization and prioritizing, LaRue added.

One employer said students should never think of a beginning position, such as a grocery sacker, as a career or a position they will be in forever. Instead young people should look at such jobs as a way to work up to a better position within the business. "They need to look at the big picture," LaRue said.

LaRue and Riska are now compiling a questionnaire which they plan to hand deliver to area businesses to document what employers want. from Capitan graduates.

To further her knowledge of the School to Work program, LaRue will be attending a National School to Work Workshop in Cincinnati, Ohio this month. Sponsored by the American Vocational Association, the workshop will teach LaRue and other participants about new school to career initiatives.

LaRue is first vice-president of the New Mexico Association of Teachers of Family and Consumer Sciences which has given her a $200 grant toward the cost of the workshop. Capitan schools will pick up the rest of the tab for the workshop.

Students and parents who are interested in the School to Career program at Capitan High School should contact LaRue; or the school counsel-

Capitan Christmas Capers Events Set For December 14th

Capitan will roll out its red carpets on Saturday, December 14, to get everyone in the Christmas mood.

"Capitan Christmas Capers" begins at 9 a.m. with a Christmas Bazaar at the Senior Citizens Center. The bazaar, sponsored by Capitan Chapter of Lincoln County Historical Society and Capitan Senior Center, continues until 3 p.m.

Merchants will have open house throughout the village. Some of the participating merchants will have drawings for door prizes at the end of the day.

Area artists will open their studios to the public for an Art Loop tour.

Smokey Bear Historical State Park on Smokey Bear Blvd. in Capitan invites evervone to its Open House from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Friends of Smokey will begin its annual Christmas Caroling in the village by-meeting at the park at 6:30 p.m.
