

Ruidoso Waives Permit Fees For Utilities That Cut Roadways

by Doris Cherry

Public utilities that cut roadways in Ruidoso will no longer have to pay a fee for a permit, but must pay a restoration fee based on the size of the cut.

During their regular meeting of May 27, Ruidoso councilors approved an ordinance that codified the April 5 moratorium councilors placed on payment of permit fees by public utilities to make cuts on paved roadways. Councilors reasoned that utilities need not pay the minimum permit fees since they already pay franchise fees for using village rights of way. Utilities will be required to pay a "restoration fee" of $10 a square yard on cuts made on paved village roadways, and $5 a square yard on cuts made within one foot of paved village roadways.

Private contractors however will get no break and must pay both permit fees of $100 and the restoration fee of $10 a square foot of cuts made on paved village roadways, and $5 a square yard of cuts made within one foot of a paved village roadway.

Because of the concern that waiving all fees for franchise utilities would pit those utilities against private contractors, the restoration fee was added for all cuts, said village manager Alan Briley during the public hearing on the ordinance. There were no comments from the public and councilors approved the ordinance unanimously.

Use of village rights of way became an issue when councilors considered a recommendation from the village planning staff to require upper canyon resident Ron Bergeron to obtain a license to use the rights of way on Del Mar Drive. In an attempt to divert water coming off a housing development in the county above his property, Bergeron had installed a flexible drain pipe from the back of his lot to the road right of way and had placed several rocks in the road right of way on the lot above his. However, he did this without village approval. During the council meeting Bergeron said the problem began when the lots in the county above his property were developed and vegetation removed. Bergeron said he asked the contractor where he planned to divert the drainage water and put the septic, but the contractor gave an unacceptable answer. So Bergeron came to the village and was told it was a planning and zoning problem, so he spoke to village planning officer Cleatus Richards who said it was a county problem. Going to the county, Bergeron was told it was a village zoning problem. P&Z told him it was a county problem so he called the county back with no results. "So I took it on myself to take care of the problem," he said. Without a permit or permission from the village, Bergeron said he installed an

by Barbara Culler

The Town of Carrizozo Board of Trustees met Tuesday, May 15, for their regularly scheduled meeting. Mayor Manuel Hernandez and trustees James Silva, Eileen Lovelace, Wesley Lindsay, and Cynthia Morales were present. Town clerk-treasurer Carol Schlarb also was present.

Jimmy Luna requested that the town vacate a portion of the property at 110 Central Avenue. The area he wished vacated is .007 of an acre and is at the corner where the two streets meet. There is a Spanish Dagger plant on this corner and Lovelace said that she has received complaints of it obstructing the view for those turning at the corner. If the trustees agree to vacating that section of the property, Luna has agreed to moving the Spanish Dagger across the street to the caboose. The trustees asked Schlarb to publish an intent to vacate that parcel of land.

Luna thanked Carrizozo for being really good to him for all the years he has lived here and that he would never forget that. Every time he talked to the trustees, the mayor, the clerk, or needed something from the clerk's office they were very polite and helpful to him.

Schlarb presented the preliminary budget for 1999-2000 fiscal year. Trustees approved the preliminary budget which will be submitted to the New Mexico Department of Finance Administration (DFA) for their approval. Estimated

Capitan Approves $1.6 Million Budget

by Doris Cherry

Capitan village trustees okayed a preliminary budget for fiscal year 1999-2000 that includes a 50 cents an hour raise for all 16 employees.

The preliminary budget shows projected revenues of $1,604,242 and expenditures of $1,468,229. Estimated ending cash balance from the 1998-99 fiscal year that ends June 30 is $482,698 which will be the beginning cash balance for fiscal year 1999-2000, estimated ending cash balance at the end of the 1999-2000 fiscal year will be $618,711. Revenues in the general fund include taxes of $18,000 from property tax, $16,000 from franchise tax, $118,591 in gross receipt taxes; license and permits of $644 from dog license, and $2,700 from business license; state shared taxes of $31,000 gasoline taxes, $2,020 village share of auto license, $3,400 in cigarette tax, $122,535 of 1.225 percent gross receipt tax, $15,000 in one cent gasoline tax; charges for service $1,200 for printing and copying, $809 in motor vehicle administration fees, $6,609 drivers license distribution fees; $16,200 from court fines, $250 crime lab fees, $2,500 traffic safety fees; miscellaneous revenues of $3,800 in interest on investments $300 in rents and royalties, $10,000 from sale of fixed assets, $68,756 in Smokey Bear items sales; $50,000 in Small Cities Assistance grant, $900 grant from NM Dept. of Tourism for a total of $491,214 in general fund revenues.

In addition to general fund revenues, the budget estimates revenues of $7,850 in correctional fees; $1,705 for recreation from one cent cigarette tax and investments; $17,500 from the Law Enforcement Protection Fund (LEPF) with $17,300 in state money and $200 from investments; $41,385 from infrastructure including sale of equipment at auction, one-eighth percent gross receipt tax, landfill sale and interest on investment; $6,061 from one-sixteenth special environmental gross receipt taxes; $484,332 from water services that include sale of water or services, connection fees, penalty charges, sewer fees, interest in investments, $40,000 from sale of water rights, $33,886 from lease of water rights, $108,114 from sale of real property; $76,200 in solid waste fees; $8,500 in water security (deposits); $1,500 in donations to Smokey Bear Museum; $3,550 in cemetery fees, $56,695 fire protection funds (state funds plus invest-

Capitan Advertises For Administrator

Capitan village trustees are looking for a village administrator.

Following a closed session for limited personnel matters during a special meeting held Monday, May 31, trustees announced they are seeking an administrator to fill the position soon to be vacated by village clerk Deborah Cummins.

Mayor Norman Renfro told THE NEWS that Cummins is leaving the village on June 18 because she and her family are relocating to Texas where her husband David Cummins has accepted a position.

Renfro said the trustees have been discussing the possibility of hiring an administrator for a while because the village has grown large enough and the duties of the clerk have increased immensely. Also the New Mexico Municipal League recommended the village hire an administrator to take the place of Cummins.

Katherine Griffin will continue to serve as deputy clerk until an administrator comes on board, Renfro said.

Because village ordinances only list a clerk, trustees at their regular June 14 meeting will hold a hearing on an ordinance that will add village administrator as a top position within the village of Capitan.

Requirements for the job are listed in a classified ad in this issue of THE NEWS. A job description and application can be obtained at Capitan Village Hall. Resumes and applications will be accepted until 4 p.m. June 18.

LCSWA Seeks Rate Increase

by Doris Cherry

Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) board approved a $1.3 million budget for the fiscal year 1999-2000.

Meeting Friday, May 21, the LCSWA board approved a preliminary budget with an estimated revenue of $1,294,527, estimated expenditures of $1,343,496, and estimated ending cash balance of $148,580. The budget includes the required one-twelfth reserve of $111,958.

The budget includes rate increases of $1 per residential service and $5 per commercial account. According to LCSWA manager Jerry Wright the board also discussed a residential rate increase of $1.50 per account. Wright said LCSWA has not had a rate increase in five years, and he thinks the increase is justified. He said LCSWA has upgraded its services, added 70 new dumpsters in the county, and begun a program of poly cart replacement. Without the rate increase, Wright said, LCSWA may be looking at employee layoffs and reduction of service.

Even with the rate increase, LCSWA rates will be among the lowest in the state, Wright added.

All LCSWA entities must approve the rate increase however, since the LCSWA board has no rate setting authority. At a special meeting following the LCSWA meeting, Capitan trustees voted not to approve a rate increase because Capitan's LCSWA member Debra Ingle was concerned about the deficit between expenditures and revenues. Ingle was not at the LCSWA meeting of May 21, instead Capitan was represented by mayor Norman Renfro.

Wright said since he has been involved with LCSWA, budgets have never shown more revenue than expenditures. All budget shortfalls have been made up from the ending cash balances.

The 1999-2000 preliminary budget of $1,343,496 in expenditures includes total collection service fund expenditures of $807,919 which includes $309,955 for total personnel eight inch drain pipe and an 18 inch culvert under the driveway.

"The next thing I know, I'm being sued by the village," Bergeron said.

The issue went to the village P&Z commission which decided to impose a $50 one time fee for the license to install the drainage and $12 a year fee to keep it there in the right of way. To bring an end to the conflict with the village Bergeron said he agreed. "I'm being treated like a public utility," he said. "I'm not Zia Gas or Cablevision and I've gotten nothing from the village to resolve the problem."

Bergeron said his neighbors did not object to the drain pipe or culvert.

Village street director J.R. Baumann recommended a new bar ditch on the street to alleviate some of the drainage across the road. Mayor Robert Donaldson said Bergeron should sign a waiver to hold the village harmless when the ditch is put in. Bergeron said if it is within reason. Then he said he was amazed the county allowed four houses to be built on rock. To this Donaldson said, "The county has no rules, case closed."

Bergeron said the problems are not over because the contractor has plans to build another house above his property. He also added that Richards was a problem in the whole issue.

Donaldson defended Richards for trying to uphold village rules and regulations.

At the end of discussion, Donaldson said he thought it was bad to set a precedent to set fees for residents. Councilor Ron Anderson said residents should not have to have a license to use rights of way for rain drainage.

With that councilors approved a license for Bergeron to use the right of way with fees waived, on the condition Bergeron replace the bar ditch and abide by the rules and regulations in the future.

Councilors also:
 --Approved an easement to Zia Natural Gas Company to use the old Eagle Creek pipeline easement between Alto Lake and the Bonito Lake turnoff for a fee of $1 a square foot or $9,240 and agreement to provide erosion control and re-vegetation of the easement. Ruidoso retained the easement as part of the buy-out of Capitan's portion of Eagle Creek. During its May 12 meeting, the Eagle Creek water board approved Zia Gas using the easement pending negotiation of terms and approval from the village of Ruidoso.

--Reversed a P&Z recommendation to approve a variance for a rear and side yard set back requirements as requested by property owner Joe Ranne, and upheld an appeal to deny the variance based on a protest from adjoining property owners Lloyd and Audrey Conklin. During discussion of the appeal the Conklins said the workshop/storage shed was one-fourth of an inch from the property line and was a fire hazard, there were potential problems of rain run-off from the storage shed onto their property, and the shed was so unsightly from their back yard it was affecting the sale of the property. Also Ranne had not obtained a building permit to construct the shed that exceeded village regulations on the size of storage units. Ranne argued none of the neighbors he contacted objected to the shed (he did not contact Conklins) and because of the small size of the lots in that area of the village many lots had buildings that abutted or went over property lines.

--Approved the mayor's appointments of Steve Tally from Swiss Chalet as the lodging representative on the village Lodgers Tax Committee, Dr. Michael Clements family practitioner, Berdina Shosh youth development center, and Jim Stover Ruidoso EMS to the DWI Planning Council.

services in collections, $373,841 for operating collections, $108,299 for capital outlay including lease purchase payments for collection trucks, $17,824 for inventory stock of vehicle parts and supplies, fuel and oil. LCSWA board members fund total is $6,989 for offices, insurance, dues/memberships, meeting expenses of $2,000 and travel/schools. Administration total budget is $249,940 with $193,728 for personnel services, $37,975 for operating and $18,237 for capital outlay including computer programs and hardware and furniture and lease/purchase payments.

Recycling will get funded more this next fiscal year due to the addition of two employees to cover the increased recycling responsibilities to service Ruidoso. Total recycling fund is $108,036, up from last year's $58,842. Most of that is in personnel services of $77,868. Last year personnel services in recycling was $24,163. However, operating expenses budgeted in 1999-2000 is $17,500 compared to 1998-99 of $27,011. Capital outlay is budgeted the same for 1999-2000 as 1998-99 at $7,669.

The 1999-2000 budget estimates $35,648 in grant revenues and expenditures of the same amount. The budget estimates the Environmental Gross Receipt Fund with revenues from Ruidoso Downs, Lincoln County, Capitan, Carrizozo and Corona to be $136,013. From that $125,812 is owed on the regional landfill construction bond.

Wright said he is working on a grant from the state Environment Department Construction Bureau for capital outlay.

LCSWA members made no changes to the preliminary budget that was to be submitted to the state Department of Finance and Authority (DFA). The final budget will be reviewed and approved sometime in August.

The board approved a new per diem and travel policy that pay employees who must travel for their job outside of Lincoln or Otero Counties. In state employees will be paid $60 a day in regular areas and $75 a day in special areas (Los Alamos, Taos, Santa Fe), out of state is $75 a day in regular areas and $95 a day in special areas (Alaska, Hawaii, metropolitan areas of Atlanta, Atlantic City, Boston, Chicago, Dallas/Ft. Worth, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, New York City, Palm Springs, Philadelphia, San Diego, San Francisco, Washington D.C. and outside the U.S.), out of country is $95 a day. Employees who travel on official business in their personal vehicles will be paid 31 cents a mile as dictated by an official travel map.

Board members also authorized Wright to issue a request for proposal for dirt work to complete the Capitan landfill closure. They also told Wright he did not need to come to them for approval to issue rfps in the future.

expenditures are $2,653,818.50 and estimated revenues are $2,279,986.00. The general fund estimated expenditures are $390,746.00 and the general fund estimated revenues are $335,547.00. The difference between the general fund estimated expenditures and the general fund estimated revenues will come out of the general fund cash balance, leaving the 1999-2000 general fund estimated cash balance at $143,054.00. This general fund cash balance is what is used if the town has an emergency situation. Schlarb received information that there will be a 15 percent increase on the town insurance and she told the trustees that this was not reflected in the preliminary budget figures.

Trustees approved the New Mexico Rural Water Association (NMRWA) providing assistance to the town with water and wastewater. The town is a member of the NMRWA so there is no charge for the assistance they are providing to Carrizozo.

Schlarb said there have been some responses to the town's employment notice for a certified level III water system operator, or someone who has 50 hours towards a level III and be able to be certified within six months, and certified a level II waste water operator.

Lovelace asked about the level of chlorine that could be smelled in the water sometimes when the water is first turned on in the morning. Jim Payne, town foreman, said that it is required to have at least .02 measurement of chlorine at the furthest distance from the plant to be effective. Payne said that a .7 measurement of chlorine at the water plant is ideal. Payne said that when it sits all night the chlorine can be smelled. Payne received approval for the mayor, through executive decision, to approve Payne's going to a one day disinfectant testing school.

Schlarb informed the trustees that the CDBG Economic Development Set-a-Side Grant for Alesca has been approved. The amount of the grant is $400,000.

Trustees were given copies of a proclamation and an ordinance concerning fireworks restrictions to review. Lovelace asked that this be on the next agenda.

There was no awarding of the rfp for the swimming pool filtration system. Schlarb said there was no responses.

Payne said that Pro Pool responded not as a bid but as a flat price of about $29,000 and it would take Pro Pool two to three weeks to get the system. The town would have to pay for the transportation, all the chemicals to set the system up, and the town would have to set the filtration system up. Payne said that he was short the manpower to set the system up right now. He said he would not be able to set it up until July 1st or possibly August 1st. Payne said it would probably, if you had the manpower, take another three weeks to process and put the system together.

Schlarb said that she would get in touch with the Park and Recreation Departments in Alamogordo and Ruidoso to see if they could help in any way. The trustees agreed to have Schlarb contact the Park and Recreation Departments.

If Schlarb finds out from the Park and Recreation Departments that it will take too long to get the filtration system ready, Lovelace said that a notice should be put in the paper. She said that if the swimming pool is unable to open this year the trustees should inform the people and children that it will not be open and apologize that the pool will not be open this year. It also should say that the trustees are working to have it ready and safe for next year. Lovelace said that she hated to rush into something and have it cost more money than they figured because they didn't know what they were doing.

Silva, during his trustee report, asked that since a part of E Avenue has been closed for re-paving the traffic by Fred Chavez Park has tripled. He said that the speed limit was not being obeyed and there are more children out playing there. Silva asked the police department to patrol the area more. Carrizozo Chief of Police Angelo Vega said that they would.

Vega told the trustees that the town has been approved by the New Mexico State Transportation Department to purchase equipment from them through the local government road fund. These funds are available through the state. Carrizozo was approved for $15,000 at the hardship auction on July 20. Vega and Payne will both go to get a car and several pickups. Hernandez said he would go up to help drive the vehicles back.

Vega asked if he could form an advisory committee for discussion on ordinances or ways to help keep track of cleaning lots, and maybe volunteers to coordinate with solid waste or make projects available to help members of the community who can not afford to dispose of their trash. Vega said this would not be a decision making body. The trustees told Vega that he could do this but not as a part of his job; he could do this as a private citizen.

What School Problems?

By Ruth Hammond

Public schools in Lincoln County are doing a great job, even if governor Johnson insists all public schools can use help. As for help, all public schools can use help, whether it is more money for teachers, equipment, supplies, maintenance, etc., but the public schools here in Lincoln County are doing an excellent job even without the extra money. A few examples of what the students in Lincoln County have accomplished include more than $250,000 in scholarships for the Capitan graduates this year and more than $30,000 in scholarships for the Corona graduates this year. That is a good average for two small rural schools. Figures for scholarships for Carrizozo, Hondo and Ruidoso schools are not available yet.

Exceptional students graduate from schools in Lincoln County. There have been several students appointed to military academies in the past few years, with each of these appointments being worth tens of thousands of dollars. And the governor is complaining about public schools? Maybe he wants each and every student to receive an appointment to a military academy or maybe he wants each and every student to receive a scholarship worth thousands of dollars.

Recently we had the opportunity to see what sort of education students in Lincoln County are receiving. Four eighth graders from the Corona School career class came to Carrizozo to interview for jobs. These were mock interviews, but the students were prepared for this experience. Each student had to prepare a resume and fill out an employment application. They also had to learn something about the business where they were applying for the jobs. One young lady applied for the position of reporter-photographer here at The NEWS. She was professional in her approach, an attribute that will help her all through her life. To say we were impressed with the composure of an eighth grader would be an understatement.

Frequently we think of eighth graders as being full of life and not paying attention to anything serious. The young lady who applied for the job here at The NEWS did pay attention. She had a professionally prepared resume, answered questions about her desire to be hired for the position, and presented information about her background and experience in photography and writing. Her actions were not what you would expect from an eighth grader.

Extra attention to details, confidence in speaking, being dressed neatly, and being pleasant during the mock interview indicated this student was very serious about this class project. Mary Smith, the instructor of the Corona School career class, is to be commended for her method of teaching. The class project of applying for jobs, and learning the correct way to apply for a job, will benefit these students throughout their entire lives. Mary Smith has taught these students valuable lessons and we are glad we were a part of it.

Classroom teaching is quite different from going out into the job market. Maybe the public schools the governor is complaining about don't have dedicated teachers who follow through with their students. Maybe the public schools the governor is complaining about don't have teachers with the incentive to spend the extra time on a class project. Maybe the public schools in other areas don't have what the governor thinks they should have, but maybe he should check into what the public schools in Lincoln County have.

The governor insists his vouchers would improve public schools but there is little that could be improved about the Corona School career class. Maybe the governor should use public schools here in Lincoln County as models for public schools around the state.

Great class project

Inside The Capitol

by Jay Miller

SANTA FE - Gov. Gary Johnson says the subject of school vouchers will be back "tomorrow, and the next day, and next week, and next month and next year." And as long as the governor continues the discussion, the education community will continue to discuss alternatives.

Although the script isn't exactly the way most New Mexicans would have written it, the discussion is likely to produce the hard look at public schools that everyone wants to see. Gov. Johnson has elevated the debate by raising the stakes to a point that has grabbed nearly everyone's attention.

In order to sell the concept of vouchers for every student in New Mexico, Johnson has to sell the notion that nothing is right about public schools currently, so we don't have anything to lose, as he puts it, with a complete change.

But there are things that are right about the schools. We see evidence of some of those good things this time of year when students are graduating. Not all students are illiterate. Gov. Johnson hears his friends from the business community say the schools aren't sending them people who can perform. The problem is that the students and graduates who look for jobs in local business communities are largely from the lower third of the class. Those are the kids that schools are doing the worst job educating.

There was a time when schools didn't worry about low-performing students, and drop outs weren't much of a concern. During the Cold War crises of the 1950s and early 1960s, the nation wanted to produce as many scientists and engineers as possible.

When the Soviet Union launched the first satellite, followed by the first cosmonaut, the effort went into high gear. National Science Foundation scholarships were generously awarded to students and to secondary school teachers to improve their skills. The fear of space bases and moon bases controlling the world meant we had to overtake the Russians.

We won the space race, but on the heels of the effort for quality math and science education came "The Great Society" with its egalitarian goal of education for all. The "educationally disadvantaged" were rounded up from wherever they might be and put in school whether they wanted to be or not. And now the "equal" education they are receiving pulls down the quality of education for most others.

Special classes for the educationally disadvantaged and "special needs" students were frowned upon as labeling students and placing them on "tracks" that didn't lead to equal opportunities. So while quality has suffered, public schools still haven't learned how to successfully educate the lower third of their students, most of whom end up dropping out. Part of the problem is lack of parental involvement. Will vouchers somehow get them more involved?

One of the ideas Gov. Johnson and other voucher proponents seem most excited about is private schools that specialize. The education community will have trouble with the concept because it conflicts with the conventional wisdom of the past 35 years. But it merits a serious assessment.

One of the arguments to be made against "tracking" students is that all end up being thrown together in the real world once school is over. That may be changing, however, as personal computers, telecommuting and specialization in business and government isolate our society. "Liberal" educations that once were valued, are now coming into disrepute. But individual goals change and workers now look at several career changes in a lifetime, so a broad education may not be all that bad.

And what about rural students who would like a specialized education they can't get at home? Boarding schools are once again being discussed. That solves the transportation problem but now we're talking about solutions that cost many times the $3,100 dollars a student proposed by Gov. Johnson.

But the governor has been saying recently that education improvement will be costly.

Ruidoso Downs Senior Center Asks For Okay To Play Bingo

by Doris Cherry

Ruidoso Downs Zia Senior Citizens Center wants to play bingo to raise the funds the county requires of each center.

Ruidoso Downs Mayor Joe Hayhurst requested permission to hold bingo at the senior center during the Lincoln County Commission meeting on May 20. Hayhurst said R.D. Hubbard donated the senior center $20,000 worth of bingo equipment.

County attorney Alan Morel said in checking the lease of the center with the village, bingo is allowed subject to the approval of a license from the state. Briley said he needed to check with the state on a license requirement.

County commissioner Ray Nunley said he called the Area Agency on Aging and the regional director advised she would send him that information about bingo but at the time of the meeting the information had not been sent. However, Nunley said he understood that only seniors were allowed to participate in the bingo.

Hayhurst said he had been advised the center did not need a license. Zia senior citizens director Ada Hendryx said she checked the bingo and Raffle Act which states only the participants of the game can benefit from the proceeds which cannot be used for fund raising.

Commissioners deferred action on the request until the information from the regional Area Agency on Aging provided the information on the bingo.

Also at the meeting county commissioner Wilton Howell asked when a purchasing agent will be hired mainly because of continuing problems with bids and requests for proposals (rfps). County manager Tom Stewart acknowledged there are problems with bids and rfps mostly because contractors are getting so competitive. "We need to make sure our rfps and bids are perfect," Stewart said. He said county attorney

Alan Morel provided his office a guide on bids and rfps.

Stewart said the plan is to hire a full time purchasing officer after October 1, when secretary Petra Sandoval retires. Howell said until then he wants the attorney to be involved by reviewing all rfps and bids before they are advertised. Stewart said that was no problem because he had already started doing that.

But problems with bids did surface during the meeting. Commissioners rejected all bids for the annual radio maintenance service contract due to conflicting dates on the bid openings. Stewart said there was confusion about what date was the bid opening—May 5 or May 12. As such he recommended rejecting the bids and re-advertising.

There were no such problems with the other bids. Commissioners awarded the contract for mental health counseling services to the Counseling Center. Last month commissioners tabled awarding a bid to another individual because they wanted her qualifications checked. Stewart said he found that Ann New did not have the needed credentials so he recommended giving the annual contract to the Counseling Center that was providing the services on an interim basis.

Commissioners maintained the annual electrical maintenance service contract to Central New Mexico Electric of Alto at a fee of $45 an hour for one man and $80 an hour for two men with a 30 percent markup on materials charges.

Commissioners voted 4-1 with Howell voting no, to award the annual plumbing, heating & air conditioning maintenance service contract to Anderson Refrigeration of Alamogordo for $49.50 an hour, $27 an hour for a helper, one and a half fee for after hours service, 40 percent markup on materials costing more than $250, 30 percent on materials costing more than $850 and 25 percent markup for materials costing more than $650.

Nunley voted against the motion to award the bid for installing police emergency equipment on three vehicles to Lincoln Communications for $6,287.91. The other commissioners voted yes.

Commissioners unanimously approved the proposal from The Group auditors from Carlsbad to conduct the 1998-99 annual audit for $12,477.00.

Approved a final plat of Cougar Mountain Estates Subdivision west and south of Corona. The subdivision will have 10, 40-acre lots that cannot be fenced so cattle on the Corona Ranch can continue to graze. Water will be provided by the village of Corona and all roads that will be built to county standards will be private.

Approved expenditures of Lodgers Taxes as recommended by the Lodgers tax Committee with Lincoln County Sheriff's posse getting $300 of the $1,000 requested for advertising, New Mexico Connection/Nancy Mitchell getting $800 of the $2,500 she requested to promote Lincoln County in San Antonio and Tucson shows, Lincoln Pageant getting $500 of the $1,500 it requested to help print brochures, Mountain of Blues, Inc. getting $1,500 of the $2,500 requested, Chili Cook Off getting the $1,500 it requested, Golden Aspen Motorcycle Rally getting $500 of the $2,000 requested, and Aspen Cash Poker Run getting the $1,000 requested.

Authorized the county manager to schedule a public hearing at the June meeting to take input on a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) project.

Approved closing County Road CO-19 requested by Roy LaMay. The road only serves LaMay's house and is not access to public lands.

Lease Finalized For Hondo School To Manage Glencoe

by Doris Cherry

Lincoln County Commissioners approved the management agreement of the Glencoe Center with Hondo Valley Schools Board of Education during the regular Lincoln County Commission meeting of May 20 held in the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo.

In the agreement Hondo Valley Schools will assume complete management responsibility for the Glencoe Rural Events Center (GREC). While the agreement approval was listed with the "consent agenda" of the meeting (which means all items in it are approved with one vote), county commissioner Bill Schwemmissner asked that the GREC contract be reduced by $500 to match the management contract amount given to the Lincoln County Fair Association of $19,000 or the fair association contract increased by $500 to match the $19,500 of the GREC lease. During negotiations of the GREC lease, county commissioners committed to providing the same amount of lease to Hondo Schools as is given to the fair association.

County attorney Alan Morel suggested giving $500 more to the fair association because the contract with Hondo Valley Schools had taken six months to negotiate.

Also county commission chairman Rex Wilson said he was concerned with the contract for the GREC because Hondo Schools gave a verbal commitment to not compete with activities held at the Lincoln County Fair Grounds in Capitan. "I have learned that Hondo has tried to get at least two activities now held in Capitan," Wilson said.

Other items on the consent agenda included contracts with Zia Senior Citizens Centers for cash in lieu of commodities, state legislative appropriation of $63,000 to purchase vehicles for the Zia senior program, state legislative appropriation of $24,000 for meals equipment program wide, legislative appropriation of $12,000 for paving of the Ruidoso Downs senior center parking lot, and a project agreement with the Forest Service for the county to provide heavy maintenance on Forest Road 57 (Salazar Canyon) and Forest Road 117 (Monjeau Lookout Road); approval of county auction on June 12.

During discussion of the Zia senior projects, county commissioner Ray Nunley commented that the county's senior program made 48,246 contacts last year, made 6,926 one way trips, 15,003 home visits, 3,524 telephone checks on seniors, served 35,126 congregate meals, 15,001 home meals deliveries for a total of 136,984 contacts. Because of this the Zia Senior Citizens Program is the third most active in the southeast region of the state. "We're not third in size though," Nunley added. Nunley commended Zia Senior program director Ada Hendryx and her staff for their work.

Before the consent agenda, county commissioners acted to approve the minutes of the April 15 regular meeting and the May 4 special budget hearing. County commissioner Wilton Howell complained that the May 4 meeting minutes were only four pages long yet the meeting lasted six hours. He said it was crucial

During the preliminary budget hearing on May 17, trustees discussed some of the expenditures, including the village's agreement with the Lincoln County Humane Society. This year the Humane Society was requesting $6,300. Trustee Debra Ingle requested a break-down on the price per animal.

Another discussion was about the village owned Smokey Bear Museum. Trustee Leroy Montes asked if the museum was making money. Village clerk Deborah Cummins said the museum had collected $59,000 in sales through the end of March and the village had spent $53,000 through the same time period. Of that $45,000 was inventory. Montes asked if the museum made enough money to pay for the two employees. Cummins said although the museum had only made about $5,000 through the end of March, June and July are the busiest months at the museum.

Audience member Renich asked about the dedicated to a grant. Friends of Smokey for a Website and brochure. Renich wondered why the money was dedicated to Friends of Smokey without input. Renich said he volunteered his public relations services to the village two times but he got no acknowledgment or reply. Capitan mayor Norman Renfro suggested Renich go to Friends of Smokey meetings. Renich said Friends of Smokey has nothing to do with the

With little other discussion

other than approving the 50 cents an hour raise for all employees, which Montes thought was most fair because everyone got an equal amount, trustees approved the preliminary budget to be sent to the state Department of Finance and Administration (DFA). After the end of the fiscal year, trustees will hold another hearing on the final budget when actual ending cash balances are known.

to have more concise minutes for a budget hearing. Lincoln County Clerk Martha Proctor said the minutes were short because the tape recorder did not work during that meeting and all she had to go by were her notes on pertinent items. She said that putting every discussion about the draft budget into the minutes was not a good idea.

Howell suggested the county get out of the "horse and buggy era" by purchasing state of the art recording systems that also transcribe. While Proctor welcomed help with technology she said the type of technology Howell wants is extremely expensive and is not perfected because it must be programmed to recognize each speaker. Proctor concluded the discussion that all she is required by law to include in the minutes is the time, place, who makes motions, the vote, and a brief discussion of each agenda item.

Commissioners also: --Approved a brief letter to Governor Gary Johnson offering the county's assistance in drafting substitute legislation to enact Constitutional Amendment 1, which was approved by the citizens of the state of New Mexico. The amendment calls for limits on property tax increases. Howell was concerned because he wanted all commissioners to be involved in drafting the letter and he thought he had been left out. Schwettmann voted no on the letter because he does not think any legislation needs to be passed.

--Authorized spending up to $2,000 to install motorist warning lights on both sides of the Gavilan Canyon Baseball Park.

--Heard a report from Barbara Reyes on the DWI program which is doing well and pleasing area judges.
