

School Board Candidates File Tuesday, Dec. 19th

by Doris Cherry

School districts in Lincoln County are holding board elections on February 6, 2001.

Anyone wishing to be a candidate for a school board position at any of the schools in Lincoln County must file between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday, December 19 in the office of the Lincoln County Clerk in the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo.

Registered voters who live within their respective school districts, including those who live outside Lincoln County, are eligible to file. Names of all candidates who file on December 19 will appear on the election ballot.

Any registered voter wishing to be a declared write-in candidate must file with the Lincoln County Clerk before 5 p.m. on January 2. Names of write-in candidates do not appear on the ballot, but the ballots do indicate if someone has filed as a declared write-in candidate for a specific position.

All candidates filing for positions must have updated affidavits of voter registration that show the candidates' physical residential address (to show the candidate lives within the school district.)

In addition to the elections for the board positions, voters in the Hondo and Corona School Districts will be asked whether or not a property tax of $2 per each $1,000 of net taxable value of property (commonly known as two mill levy or SB9) should be imposed for tax years 2001 through 2004. These two mill levy funds can only be used for capital improvements for the district and cannot be used for salaries.

Most districts use these funds for needed building maintenance, uniform replacements, and toward ongoing construction projects.

Below is a listing of the positions open for each district and the people who currently fill them. Also listed are the precincts that are consolidated into the one polling place per school district.

Capitan Municipal School District:

Qualified voters in Lincoln County precincts 3 and 5 and portions of 1, 2A, 2B, 4, 6, 7, 10 and 12C will vote at the

Carrizozo Declines Sewer To Cimarron

by Jeff Hammond

Rebecca Means spoke to the Carrizozo Town Council at their meeting Tuesday, Nov. 12 and asked what would have to be done to get water and sewer to the Cimarron Site. The Cimarron site is on Highway 380 east of the overpass. Means said that since the property was inside the city limits that she has the right to have water and sewer.

In the discussion that followed the mayor directed town foreman Jim Payne to find out if there was a line on that side of the road for water that the Cimarron site could be hooked to. The discussion also disclosed there would be expense to run sewer lines under the highway, and the pump station that would be needed to pump the sewage up to the lines. Payne stated the drop of the land is such that the hook-up would be extremely expensive, more money than the town has. The mayor suggested the town approve a septic tank installation if approval can be acquired from the state engineers office.

Kirk Noel spoke to the trustees, for the second time, about his proposal to use the old Belco building, behind Four Winds Restaurant, in his sandstone/flagstone cutting business. Noel said he was currently supplying rock for a building in Albuquerque, and he had to ship the raw stone all of the way to Belen to be cut which was good if the delivery was in the northern part of the state, but what about his orders into Texas. The time, distance and overall expenses would prove to be too costly.

Noel went on to assure trustees that the rumors circulating about noise, dust and traffic were unfounded. He said that in the cutting process water was used so there would be no dust, and also said the trains would make much more noise and dust. Noel said he is comfortable with taking over the property with the pile of old broken up asphalt where it is, stating that the only thing he might do would be to push the pile further away from the building.

Town resident Barbara Culler asked about water needs. Noel explained that the water used in cutting is saved for future use (recycled), saying that sometimes the grit cuts rocks almost as efficiently as the banded blade he uses.

The mayor urged Noel to apply to the town planning and zoning committee to change the zoning from C-1 to M-1.

Noel also informed the council that his business would provide at least three jobs for the community.

Capitan Fires Police Officer

by Doris Cherry

Capitan trustees fired police officer Victor Rodriguez during their meeting Tuesday, December 12.

After coming out of a closed door session with village attorney Don Dutton to discuss police personnel matters and threatened litigation relating to the public safety facility project trustees voted 3-1 to accept the recommendation from police chief Carroll Durbin to terminate Rodriguez, who had been hired two months ago. Trustee Leroy Montes abstained from voting, but cited no reason or gave no explanation.

"We can do this with or without cause because he was a probationary employee," said Capitan Mayor Norman Renfro. All newly hired employees are considered probationary for their first six months working for the village.

Nearly three years in the making, the Capitan Public Safety Facility appears to be nearing completion. After the closed session, trustees unanimously authorized Dutton to close the Public Safety Facility project. Dutton said the contractor Taylor Construction had signed a certificate of substantial completion, the architect had signed the certificate of occupancy, and there was recommendation from the fire chief to accept the building as it is. Dutton then recommended the village withhold a total of $7,804.25 from the payment to Taylor Construction. Of that $1,000 would be held until a water heater and fan for a heater are installed, $1,800 for attorney fees, $1,051 for natural

Capitan Employees To Get One Time Merit Pay

by Doris Cherry

Merry Christmas Capitan Village employees, a $200 "one-time merit increase" will be with your next paychecks.

During their meeting December 12, Capitan trustees approved a one time merit increase proposed by mayor Norm Renfro. He said during the budget process last spring it appeared there would be no money for any kind of merit increase, but since then the village administrator left his position which was not filled. As a result the village had some additional funds. Renfro suggested $200 for all permanent employees except those who had been there less than two years and they would get $100.

That led to a brief discussion on the technicalities of permanent employees, they become permanent once trustees approved a temporary hiring by the mayor and are considered probationary permanent employees until they have worked for the village for six months. Resident Lonnie Lippmann said he had had opportunity to observe village staff both inside village hall and in the field and he thought anything less than $200 was "unconscionable." "They deserve more and you should give them what you can afford," Lippmann said. "You've got a hell of a staff."

Trustee John Whitaker agreed and made the motion to give all permanent em-

Resolution No. 2000-18, the All Hazard Response Agreement requested by Lincoln County. The resolution states that the town will allow the fire department to respond to hazardous emergencies in other than the town limits.

Lincoln County Hazard Response is setting up training schedules, and a mock disaster will be staged to acquaint all attending personnel with "The Real Thing". Something to prepare for, in hopes of never needing the real thing.

Trustees also approved the Official holiday calendar for the town for the year 2001.

Police Chief Angelo Vega gave summaries of his attendance to law enforcement related conferences, and he requested trustees urge our legislators to approve funding to upgrade and remodel the academy.

Vega reported about the police department's firearm qualification and training completed by all officers except for police officer John Robinson who was absent for the birth of his son Sunday night.

Vega requested and received final approval to purchase a 1993 Chevy Caprice police car from the Village of Capitan for the price of $1,500. Vega stated that due to one of the town's cruisers being in the shop with some electrical problem, he had been in contact with Capitan Mayor Renfro and Capitan Police Chief Durbin who informed him of their intention to sell one of Capitan's units. Vega called the trustees and the town attorney who all expressed approval for the purchase. Vega said the blue book value of the car was $8,300.

Trustee Eileen Lovelace applied to the town for permission for conditional use to move her business Eileen's Hands & Hoofs to her home. There was some discussion about licensing and Lovelace informed the board that her business meets state licensing standards and passes inspection every six months. Trustees approved her application.

There was also a discussion about the dump site hours, and the possible addition of duties to the animal control/maintenance job description.

Town foreman Jim Payne stated the dump was available for use during the week, and he is in the process of setting up a scheduled for the four hour coverage on Saturdays without having to actually hire a person for the position, or overextend the hours of our existing maintenance employees.

ployees the $200 "one time merit increase". All trustees voted yes.

Capitan will become a partner in the Eastern Workforce Development Program. Area program director Gary Cozens requested the village sign onto the program to enable the village to have a chief elected official represent them on the Workforce Development Board. With representation on the board, the village will have a say about decisions that affect the local workforce development programs.

Currently Lincoln County provides the only "one stop" workforce center, located in Ruidoso, in the state, Cozens said. The center serves about 4,800 clients with unemployment, department of labor, welfare to work, adult education and literacy and youth programs. While there is some liability to becoming a member of the workforce development board, the village risk management insurance should cover it, or the development program can provide an insurance, Cozens said. He did not explain what liability is involved.

The 51 member workforce development board will consist of 28 private business representatives and 25 elected officials from municipalities and counties served by the eastern New Mexico district. The Workforce Development one stop center is in the Ruidoso State Bank building in the Sierra Mall on Mechem Drive.

Renfro said he has heard the state secretary of labor praise the One Stop program as the most successful in the state. The Workforce Development Program was initiated by the federal Workforce Development Act of 1998. The act resulted in the consolidation of 25 state and federal programs in New Mexico.

Proposed plans for the village hall addition can now be viewed. In response to a question from an audience member, Renfro said there are hopes to go to bid on the project early in January. A new meeting room and offices for the mayor and clerk and restrooms are planned.

COUNSELOR'S CORNER

Happy holidays! It's hard to believe the year is half over and finals are next week. Test scores from the PSAT and ACT arrived last month and the results were good. I was glad to see many sophomores and juniors taking the assessments. Many students voiced that they wished they had studied more. Regardless, our scores were good and well within average range. Those students who took the assessments for practice will be more relaxed the next time and test results will improve.

I have been encouraging students to participate in ongoing community or volunteer service. This is so important. It develops and builds important life skills such as, character, social skills, and self-discipline. Recently, I have not seen any scholarship applications that do not require ongoing community service. This means that a student needs to volunteer on a project throughout the year, not periodically. Students need to start their community service as freshmen and continue throughout their high school career.

Parents of seniors need to encourage their sons and daughters to develop and write their resumes and scholarship essays during this winter break. Most scholarship applications are due during next semester. It is much easier to be prepared than to try to complete requirements the night before. Also, students need to approach their principal, teachers, and community members, to request letters of recommendation. It is important that the person writing the recommendation saves a master copy so the letters may be altered to reflect the scholarship being applied for. Juniors need to apply for the Discover card scholarship. Please get a file folder for your son or daughter to keep ALL school related material in. Correspondence that may seem unimportant may be necessary for documentation later.

I had the privilege of driving some of our basketball boys to Socorro last week. I was very impressed with these fine young men. Their behavior was excellent and we had fun too.

National Honor Society is sponsoring a canned food drive to benefit a domestic violence shelter. All canned goods can be dropped off at my office and will be delivered before Christmas. Please support this wonderful effort.

I read something very interesting that I thought I would share, it goes like this, "... my background and circumstances may have influenced who I am, but I'm responsible for who I become." Encourage your sons and daughters to dream and fill their lives with new experiences. Please call me if you have any questions about your child or school.

Elderly Woman Battered; Reward Offered For Info

Ruidoso Police and the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office are looking for a young female suspected of battering a 72 year old Ruidoso woman, robbing her bank account and leaving the elderly woman stranded in Philadelphia Canyon east of Bonito Lake.

Police are looking for a young white female suspect who is five foot seven inches tall with a medium build, blue eyes and smooth complexion. The young woman was wearing a baseball cap with her long dishwater blonde hair pulled through the back in a ponytail. She was wearing a red checkered shirt with paint stains and faded blue jeans.

Ruidoso/Lincoln County Crimestoppers are offering a $1,000 reward for information that will lead to the arrest and magistrate court bindover of the perpetrator(s) of this crime. To make an anonymous report call 257-4545.

According to information from Ruidoso police, at 2:14 p.m. Monday, December 11, detectives of the Ruidoso Police Department were notified by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office that they had responded to a report of an elderly woman walking down Bonito Lake Road. Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan said Lincoln County dispatch center received a call at 1:19 p.m. about an elderly woman walking down Bonito Lake Road. When deputies responded they found the woman, who had two black eyes and bruises. Deputies learned the woman was from Ruidoso and the alleged assault had originated in Ruidoso so they contacted Ruidoso police.

The woman was transported to Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) in Ruidoso where she was treated and later released.

Ruidoso detectives interviewed the woman at LCMC. From the interview detectives determined the victim had been battered at her residence by a young female, who then forced the elderly woman at gunpoint to drive to a local bank and withdraw money from her account. The suspect then forced the victim to drive to Philadelphia Canyon, on the road to Bonito Lake. Ruidoso Det. Robert Layher said the suspect took the victim's keys from her car and left the woman stranded there.

Layher told THE NEWS his department is following some leads but the investigation to the crime was still very active. Sullivan also told THE NEWS his department is continuing to investigate the incident.

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Christmas is on the way

By Ruth Hammond

Before you finalize your Christmas plans, remember to include a visit with Santa Claus. He will be at Smokey Bear State Park in Capitan this Saturday, December 16 from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. There will be special music and lots of fun for the oldsters as well as the children. Santa Claus will also be in Carrizozo on Saturday, December 23 at Spencer Park. He makes this annual visit riding on a Carrizozo fire truck. Don't let cold weather keep you away.

And you can save the really special event of touring Carrizozo and Lincoln on Christmas Eve to see the pretty luminarias, or farolitos as they are sometimes called. This tradition is a beautiful sight that everyone should see, and we encourage you to see them all. McDonald Park in Carrizozo is especially pretty this year with the decorated trees. And of course the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo is a special attraction you won't want to miss.

Here it is 11 days before Christmas and the latest we heard was that the presidential snafu is settled, more or less. It is a shame the situation had to drag on for such a long time. Apparently some people are pleased with the results, others are unhappy, and the majority are just glad it is finally over, that is if it is over. This election will be debated for years and years and it will be interesting a few decades from now to read the analysis of what happened.

Holidays are supposed to be happy times but they can be stressful and this long drawn out presidential business has been extremely stressful for the public. Now we will probably be hearing about how the delayed finality of the presidential election will affect the nation. Seems that each of the candidates should have decided months ago what to do first. Selecting cabinet members, aides and key personnel is not something that is left to the last minute. It is safe to assume that preparations for the inaugural balls were in the scheduling process a long, long time ago.

Unusual circumstances this year in the presidential election may have long-lasting effects. Hopefully there will be major changes in election procedures in many states, possibly at the national level, and they are needed. Last week when the paper absentee and early voting ballots were inspected in Lincoln County it didn't take long for the people doing the inspecting to see that there was nothing wrong. That is the way it should have been in Florida and anywhere else ballots were recounted, or inspected, or whatever. Using proper equipment should be mandatory, not discretionary, as seems to be the case.

Merry Christmas should be what people are saying instead of, "Do you know who the president is?" Merry Christmas should be uppermost in everyone's minds. This is the holiday season, a time forgiving good wishes to one and all. This is the holiday season, not an eternal election season. This is the time to visit Santa and see luminarias.

Getting in the Christmas spirit may be easier now and we want to extend our holiday greetings to everyone. Next week THE NEWS will publish letters to Santa from the children. These letters are a sheer joy to read. We do hope you will include this annual tradition in your schedule along with your other happy plans for the holiday season.

Santa will be here soon!

INSIDE THE CAPITOL

SANTA FE - How can New Mexico remedy its teacher shortage? Many groups are working on the problem, which is reaching crisis proportions in some communities and in certain special fields. And some of those solutions are the type of creative thinking we need.

The entire nation is facing shortages, which makes New Mexico's problem even more severe. At 47th in the nation in average teacher salaries, we aren't able to attract anyone from out of state, except from Mississippi and North and South Dakota. Some of our neighbors used to pay less than us, but now New Mexico is some 10 percent below the regional average, and we are losing teachers to all the surrounding states. New Mexico's average teacher salary last year was $32,398, compared with a national average of $40,582.

It is oft noted by this state's decision makers that New Mexico already is doing more than it can for teachers and schools because of our low personal income, which ranks down around 49th in the nation. Unfortunately, having a Third World economy doesn't give us any extra points when competing with other states for teachers. If education truly were a federal responsibility, as it sometimes appeared from the rhetoric in the presidential campaign this year, we would have a national school equalization formula, similar to our state formula, that would make New Mexico competitive with other states. But that isn't going to happen.

It also is noted that New Mexico contributes a higher percentage of its budget to schools than most states. That is because we made the decision 25 years ago to collect school taxes at the state level and redistribute the revenue through the previously-mentioned equalization formula. We can't back-track on that decision without running afoul of federal equity mandates.

It further is noted that New Mexico has pumped more money into schools every year without seeing any improvement in student performance relative to other states. That's true, but other states have pumped even more money into their schools, while our expenditure per student has fallen to near the bottom.

only one percent of the budget, but when a large increase is given to schools, it consumes nearly all the available new revenue.

So what's the answer? Local school board members long have said they just need to find more "dedicated" teachers who aren't in it for the money, but it isn't easy to find such creatures. Others suggest encouraging more teacher college graduates, but less than half of all graduates teach in state. Grads in some specialized fields are totally gobbled up by other states.

The state Board of Education will recommend a 7 percent salary increase to help approach the regional salary average. Lawmakers might want to consider this traditional approach with some new ideas from other groups.

Think New Mexico says if its recommendations for decentralizing school structure are enacted, the money saved on administrative salaries could improve teacher salaries. The Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce recommends restructuring teacher career paths to provide mentor teachers and master teachers who might be paid as high as $80,000 to $100,000. It also suggests performance incentives, possibly funded by private sources.

In Santa Fe, where salaries are below average and the cost of living is way up there, a cooperative program with the University of New Mexico trains people with degrees in other fields, while they are on the job teaching.

And a cooperative program with the Santa Fe Community College encourages teacher assistants with free credit hours to start degree programs to become certified teachers. Another program encourages parents to become teacher assistants.

BLM Plans To Hire More Fire Crews In Roswell/Carlsbad Area

Up to 20 new firefighting and fire management positions will come open in the Roswell and Carlsbad Field Offices of the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) next year.

BLM is taking applications for the temporary seasonal positions over the internet at www.nv.blm.gov/jobs, or by calling the BLM seasonal job hotline at 303-236-6706. Temporary seasonal positions include fire crew members, engine operators and biology technicians. Salaries start at $8.71 an hour.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens, 18 years or older, and may have to pass a physical fitness and/or a drug test.

About half of the seasonal positions will become permanent, year round jobs or career seasonal jobs and the rest will be temporary seasonal positions lasting up to six months a year.

Federal legislation passed by Congress and supported by President Bill Clinton increased budgets for federal agencies with firefighting programs.

Interested persons may contact the Roswell BLM Field Office at 505-827-0272 for more details on these positions.

A national budget watch group, Taxpayers for Common Sense, have published a 52-page report for forest reform and calls on the incoming president and Congress to act within their first 100 days to address the rising cost of wild fires.

Copies of the report are available on line at <http://www.taxpayer.net/forest/>.

EMTs Needed, Classes Begin On January 21

More volunteer Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT) are needed in Lincoln County.

Jim Stover, director of the Lincoln County EMS, told Capitan village trustees during their meeting December 12 that Capitan has a fine group of EMTs now, but they need help. "All our volunteers have jobs and other activities in their lives," Stover said. "But we get more calls (for ambulance) all the time."

In order to train additional EMT volunteers, Eastern New Mexico University in Ruidoso will offer a basic EMT course beginning January 21. Successful completion of the 140 hour class will qualify students to take the state EMT exam. Once they pass the state exam, the new EMTs can serve on the ambulances.

Stover said there is financial aid for people who are interested in the class but unable to pay the tuition.

The class will run until May 11.

For more information about the class, call Stover at Lincoln County Medical Center in Ruidoso, or ENMU-Ruidoso.

Smoke Jumpers Are At Work In Lincoln County

Smoke jumpers. The term conjures images of highly trained, physically tough firefighters and hot summers full of flames. So why are six smoke jumpers working in Lincoln County in November?

"They are working to reduce the amount of vegetation available to fuel a wild-fire around Lincoln and Fort Stanton," said Jim Desmond, fire management officer for the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Roswell Field Office. "This is their off season and they are available to help us with this project."

Actually a series of projects around Lincoln and Fort Stanton will reduce the amount of brush and small trees by removing them with mechanical means, such as chainsaws and large machinery, or by prescribed fire. Removing the brush will reduce the intensity of any wildfire that may occur.

Smoke Jumpers Shannon Orr, Tim Schaffer, Dawson

Kelsey, Mark Motes, Dennis Terry and Lee Rickard are from Boise, Idaho. They will live at Fort Stanton and work in the area until the end of November when they return home. After a break for the holidays, another crew of smoke jumpers will come to Lincoln County to continue work on projects.

The year 2000 was the busiest fire season on record. Through November 12, 90,482 fires had burned 7.25 million acres. Because of this BLM and other federal agencies have reevaluated their fire fighting priorities. Emphasis now is on reducing vegetation.

"Our projects near Lincoln and Fort Stanton focus on cutting the excess brush or trees and then either piling the debris for burning later, or chipping the debris," Desmond said. "We believe this work will go a long way to reducing the risk of fire in the area."

Few, if any, people in this entire state do not think education should be the top priority for our state's resources. The problem is that it costs so much. Public schools make up close to half the state's budget. It is easy to give large yearly increases to an agency that comprises

A familiar illustration of the sun's rays passing through the air without warming the air itself, may be seen in window glass, through which the rays of the sun may comfortably heat a room, while the temperature of the glass will not be sensibly affected. However, the sun's rays communicate heat to the earth's surface on which they strike, and to the vapor of water in the air through which they pass. Much moisture in the air therefore, accumulates great heat and shuts humanity in between earth's hot surface at their feet and the warm stratum of moisture above their heads. But where the air is comparatively devoid of vapor, the sun's rays striking the earth are partially absorbed, the amount depending upon the character of the surface, and partially reflected. The reflected part passes back through the lower stratum of the atmosphere into the overlying strata, and is diffused therein. The heat absorbed by the surface of the earth is in part communicated by convection to the air lying upon it, thus warming the air itself; while the other part is also radiated, and in the absence of absorbing moisture is likewise diffused in the upper regions of the atmosphere. Thus an arid air reduces heat.

Several other important results follow from the high condition of aridity, presented in El Paso's atmosphere. One is that clouds are absent to such an extent that a totally cloudy day is almost unknown. Consequently the sun has full and unlimited opportunity to accomplish his great work upon animal and vegetable life. Then, too, but little of the sun's heat having been absorbed by moisture, one is always comfortable in the direct sunlight, any day in winter. On the other hand, from the same absence of moisture and the consequent lack of diffused heat in the air on any summer's day, however warm it may be in the sunshine, one will always find pleasant coolness in the shade.

Another result of aridity is the rapid absorption of moisture by the air. Just as a dry sponge will suck up water more quickly and in larger quantities than if already partially wet, so a dry air will more quickly and thoroughly drink up moisture than can air partially saturated. This is why, unless violently exercising, perspiration is seldom troublesome. It is not that perspiration fails to form upon the brow, but rather that it is absorbed by the air before it can trickle down the face.

All know that when a solid is converted into a liquid, heat is absorbed and rendered latent. Familiarity with this fact has come to every boy made to turn the family ice cream freezer. Salt melts the ice, and the process of melting withdraws the heat of the cream and causes it to freeze. In like manner, the changing of a liquid to a gas or vapor causes active heat to become latent. The sprinkling of a street cools the air, because the water is evaporating or changing into vapor, absorbs heat from the air. As water sprinkled on the store room floor evaporates, it cools the air in the store, by rendering latent some of its heat. The Hindoo, to ameliorate his intensely hot climate, hangs cloths saturated with water across his rooms. As the water is evaporated from the cloths the heat of the room is modified. Fanning gives relief from heat by removing from contact with the body air which has been nearly saturated with moisture and putting in its place air less saturated, which immediately absorbs a part of the perspiration, thereby cooling the flesh. Hence, as long as fanning is continued a measure of relief is experienced. And hence, the laborious summer fanning, day and night, everywhere practiced in low altitudes and to which only uncomfortable and fatigued sleep gives temporary cessation.

But nature in El Paso performs on a vast scale these functions which man elsewhere so feebly imitates for his comfort.

Sunshine as Opposed to Cloudiness.

Dr. Denison, ex-president of the American Climatological association, said:

"There is little necessity for advocating the utility of sunshine. All life depends upon sunshine and for successful existence it must have it. The variations for cloudiness range from 65 per cent of the time in the interior lake region down to less than 30 per cent in the southwestern portion, (New Mexico and Arizona). A preponderance of sunshine should be mentioned as favoring the possibility of much to be desired out door life and also the camping out idea in summer time."

In the signal service report of 1888 is a table giving the "fifteen stations of The Signal Service having the least average cloudiness and fifteen stations having the greatest average cloudiness". Yuma, Prescott, Fort Stanton, El Paso, Fort Lays, Fort Grant and Denver are included in the first fifteen, or "least average cloudiness."

Variability vs. Equability.

Dr. Denison proves by comparing "twenty-five dry and twenty-five moist prominent stations and health resorts in the United States" & the "fifteen least variable signal stations in the United States" for 1883:

"how uniformly variability goes with dryness and equability goes with moisture." He claims that "variability is quite a uniform constituent of dry high climates, and that as the dryness predominates, the marked variability is less felt, and is less, if at all objectionable. On the other hand, marked atmospheric equability, wherever found, is 'prima facie' evidence of excessive humidity."

"It is toadyism to the mistakes of medical antiquity for equability to be any longer insisted on as a constituent of the best climate for phthisis. It is all right and essential for humid climates, but for dry, cool and elevated resorts it is out of the question. Besides the quantity of stimulation which is associated with variability, there is an important consideration in the purifying of the atmosphere which variability indicates. This happens through the alternate expansion by heat and the contraction of the air by cold, together with the nightly chilling and sometimes freezing, which regularly renders it inimical to germ life."

The purity of atmosphere which is represented by warm, moist and equable climates, is not to be compared with that purity which is represented by the opposite attributes. The first is where the temperature so continually hovers within the limits of the microbes' needs, where sound as well as heat is smothered in a short distance, and the sun's rays give a dusky red glow. The second -- indicating a comparative absence of germs -- is where exposed meat can cure and not spoil; where far distant objects appear near, and the unobstructed rays of the sun give nearly as white a light as does an electric lamp."

Gen. A.W. Greely, chief signal officer, in an article entitled "Where Shall We Spend Our Winter?" in Scribner, November, 1888, says: "The map of absolute humidity for January shows, with other data herewith, that 'dry warm air' is found in southwestern Texas and the southern portions of New Mexico and Arizona."

"One of the greatest benefits to be derived from health resorts in winter is the opportunity and inducement for exercise in the open air, and since invalids shrink from chilling temperatures there is a necessity of not only warm days, but also absence of high winds and low relative humidity, conditions which, especially the winds, tend to rapidly abstract heat from the body."

"Besides clear bright days, without too frequent rains, are needed to enliven and cheer the invalid, and remove him from the depressing impressions which always result from confinement through stress of dull or stormy weather."

"Chart V. gives for fourteen stations covering the country most frequented in winter, the velocity of the winds at 3 p.m., about the hour at which the wind is at its highest. Winds below ten miles an hour may be considered satisfactory. El Paso, Charlotte and St. Paul show the least wind. Santa Fe, San Francisco and San Antonio are most liable to high winds."

Dr. W.M. Yandell, formerly city health officer for El Paso, in a paper read before the American Climatological association at Denver, September 2-4, 1890, said:

"An interesting point to note in the table, is that while the average hourly velocity in El Paso and San Antonio for December, January and February, is almost the same, San Antonio being in the northern belt, is according to Gen. Greely, 'most liable to high winds,' while El Paso not being in the 'northern belt,' shows the least wind. None of the territory embraced in this paper is within the northern belt; all of it is noted for almost constant, moderate wind movement, except in the coldest weather, when it is generally calm."

Summary

"Dr. Denison says: 'The preferable climates for the great majority of consumptives in the United States varies according to the case, from 1500 feet elevation in the north in winter, to 10,000 feet as a possible extreme in the southern portion in summer.'"

"In Buck's 'Reference Hand-book of the Medical Sciences,' under article Arizona, the statement is made, based upon reports of medical officers of the U.S. Army, that 'The exceptional dryness and purity of its atmosphere, the wonderful clearness of its skies and the very small number of rainy days, there occurring, would all seem to point of the desirability of the territory of Arizona as a health resort for patients suffering from pulmonary phthisis, or from other diseases of the respiratory system. . . . The climate advantages of Arizona are almost identical with those to be found in New Mexico.'"

"Under article New Mexico, it is stated that 'The data for Fort Bliss and El Paso do not, strictly speaking, belong in a chart representing the climate of the New Mexico; nevertheless I include them, because, while El Paso lies across the Texas boundary line, it is but a few miles beyond that line and climatologically considered belongs quite as much to New Mexico as does Fort Selden.'"

"In same article 'The reader's attention is called to the extraordinary cloudlessness of the sky at El Paso.'"

"Silver City is mentioned as 'enjoying the exceptional advantage of shelter from wind.' Under general remarks in same

- This report card includes data for the five required statewide indicators:
- Student Achievement
 - Student Attendance
 - Dropout Rate
 - Parent/Community Involvement
 - School Safety
- It also reports information about:

MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the Capitan Municipal School District is to:

- Provide our young people with quality educational opportunities.
- Provide the skills needed to be productive citizens.
- Instill local values and qualities, and
- Provide a safe environment.

The Capitan School District is composed of 3 schools: Capitan Elementary, Capitan Middle School and Capitan High School. Capitan Elementary has grades Kindergarten through 5th with 261 students. Capitan Middle School has grades 6th through 8th with 148 students. Capitan High School has grades 9th through 12th with 197 students. All schools provide special education services to qualified students. Capitan Elementary provides Title I Services to qualified students.

STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT

Student achievement is measured through the New Mexico Statewide Student Assessment System. Reported assessment instruments include:

1. Grades 3-9: NM Achievement Assessment Program (NMAAP)
2. TerraNova Performance Level Results (Criterion-Referenced)
3. Grades 4 and 6: New Mexico Writing Assessment
3. Grade 10: New Mexico High School Competency Examination.

CTBS5/TerraNova Survey Plus

The CTBS5/TerraNova Survey Plus provides norm-referenced data. This assessment is designed to provide information on how well a student or school performs in comparison to other students (the norm group) or schools in the state and in the nation. If a student or school has a median percentile of 50, this means they scored as well as, or better than 50% of those schools/students in the norm group. Median percentiles are reported, and a median is defined as the middle score. The median national percentile is always 50. By looking at the reported scores for this test you can determine how far above or below the national and/or state median your district has scored.

What do the CTBS5/TerraNova results mean?

Tables can be used to depict the state, district, and individual schools' CTBS5/TerraNova results for grades 3-9. Results for each of the content areas - reading, language arts, math, science, and social studies, and the combined content area scores for reading, language arts, and math, reported in median percentiles are also shown. Results that extend above or fall below the 50th percentile are indications that the average state or district results are respectively higher or lower than the national average.

New Mexico Writing Assessment Results

Graphs and tables can be used to depict the state, district, and individual schools' NM Writing Assessment results at grades four and six (grade eight is optional). Students have three, one-hour writing sessions during which to respond to a particular prompt in writing. Students' writing is holistically scored on a scale from 6.0 (highest possible score) to 1.0 (lowest score). A holistic score represents how well a student's overall writing communicates to his/her audience. The figures in the display show the percentage of students who scored in each of the holistic score ranges for the 1999-2000 Writing Assessment results. A score of 4.0 or above indicates a satisfactory ability to communicate in that particular mode of discourse.

- was not enrolled at the beginning of the current school year;
- has not graduated from high school or completed an approved educational program; and does not meet any of several exclusive conditions (such as official transfer to another school; temporary absence due to suspensions or illness; completion of the GED; returning to country of origin; or death).

Old Lincoln Town

by Rosalie Dunlap

Being gone I don't have much news this week.

The Lincoln County FCE clubs had their annual Christmas party at the Silver Dollar in Tinnie Friday. Everyone had a great time. Some of the members meet at Phyllis Zumwalt's to wrap gifts for the Casa project-giving gifts to the children who have parents in prison. A gift exchange was held amongst the members also.

Lincoln is ready for Christmas. Santa is coming Christmas Eve at the Lincoln Courthouse; luminaries' sacks are being prepared and there will be the other usual church services and receptions. There will also be open house at the Anderson-Freeman Museum December 16 from 1:30-3:30.

Ralph and I attended the game at Las Cruces between the Lobos and the Aggies. It was a close game all evening and went into overtime. The Aggies lost by two points.

The Pan Am Center was nearly full. The community was showing it's support for the team after the announcement of sanctions. The University had a two for one ticket and it was a great success.

It was too bad the present team has to suffer the penalty of others of several years past. Three seniors will not be able to play in any of the post-season games.

We also did some business in El Paso, but didn't get any Christmas shopping done.

"I think that I have proved from the records of the surgeon general's office, that Denison's propositions are correct. Admitting this, I have certainly shown from the Signal Service records, that Texas west of the 104th parallel of longitude and New Mexico and Arizona south of the 35th parallel of latitude furnish by far the best winter climate in the United States for consumptives."

Meeting On Livestock Tax Increase Dec. 19

The New Mexico Department of Taxation and Revenue, Property Tax Division, will hold a public meeting at 1 p.m. Tuesday, December 19, at Goddard High School in Roswell to discuss proposed increases to the values of agricultural lands and livestock.
 Lincoln County Assessor Patsy Serna said her office received information about the proposed increases to livestock values and farmland, but nothing about the proposed re-valuations to grazing lands. Currently, full taxable value of an acre of irrigated farm land in Lincoln County averages $170, Serna said. Property Tax Division proposes to change the full value of Lincoln County irrigated farm land to $245 an acre and taxable value to $82 an acre. Serna said there is very little irrigated farm land in Lincoln County and no land considered dry farm land.

 Serna had no figures for the proposed new taxable values for grazing lands. Currently in Lincoln County the full taxable value of grazing land is $4.95 with the taxable value $1.85 an acre. Serna said, "It has been this way for more than 30 years."
 Proposed new livestock values provided by the property tax division show cows with a full market value of $521 per head as opposed to the $378 per head imposed now. The proposed value of bulls will increase more than 50 percent to $1,032 per head from the $598 charged now. Proposed values of sheep rams will go from the current $31 to $66 a head, ewes will go from $26 to $35 a head, and lambs under one year old from the current $53 to $62 a head.

gas and water used during the construction process and $4,000 for damages to the metal paneling in the building. Dutton said Taylor was disputing some of the withheld funds, but Dutton thought he would go along with it in lieu of litigation.

That led to a discussion of the water bill, which Taylor has disputed. Renfro said he met with Taylor who said they used no water. But village water supervisor David Cox said once the water meter was set at the facility site, the village began charging the minimum water fee to Taylor Construction. As for the gas bill; heaters were turned on because water pipes in the building were charged in September 1999 and the heat had to be turned on to prevent the pipes from freezing, Cox added. Pointing out that Taylor used very little water during the project, Dutton said trustees have discretion to waive the water bills.
 In response to a question from resident Mollie Mason whether the village would pursue a penalty for the contractor, Dutton said it would require a lawsuit and could take up to two years to resolve. Dutton said this project needs to be finalized so the village can apply for its next Community Development Block Grant (CDBG). The public safety facility was a 1997 CDBG project.

Resident Lonnie Lippmann said the project is two years overdue. "I think Don Dutton has done an excellent job in negotiating," he said.

"Take it, close it and go on with it and never hire Mr. Taylor again."

Renfro said that was the feeling of the board. Dutton quickly said trustees had a feeling of consensus during their discussion in closed session. "They took no vote in the executive session," Dutton said.
