

New Residents Now Living At Fort Stanton

by Jeff Hammond

Fort Stanton has several new residents, all a part of Amity Foundation, a large, non-profit, drug abuse prevention and treatment agency. Amity Foundation is a California based, residential treatment program with treatment programs in prisons California, Arizona and Texas. Amity services are designed for people who have a history of substance abuse, who are incarcerated or on parole or probation.

Amity was the first drug treatment program at R. J. Donovan Correctional Facility (Donovan C.F.), Donovan, California, just a few miles north of the Mexico/California border, and east of San Diego. Established in 1990 at Donovan C.F., Amity has gone on to open similar facilities in Arizona and Texas.

Amity also has several community based facilities, and does community outreach for addicted mothers, homeless substance abusers at high risk for HIV or those infected with HIV/AIDS.

The program at Fort Stanton will occupy eight buildings for their programs, these being classrooms, group therapy rooms, and sleeping quarters. The Amity staff comprised of individuals who have successfully completed the program occupy four other buildings, living on the grounds with their spouses and children. The children are attending local schools. Five state policemen and their families also live on the Fort Stanton grounds.

This reporter had the opportunity to visit the facility on September 7, interviewed some of the staff, toured the facility, and attended one of the daily group meetings and was impressed with the involvement of all I saw and heard.

The daily group meeting was attended by all of the residents as well as staff and their children. The atmosphere was reminiscent of a family community.

The Amity residents at Fort Stanton must attend an extensive schedule of educa-

Committee Selects Fort Architectural Proposal

by Doris Cherry

The architectural firm of Kells and Craig has been awarded a contract to develop a Facilities Use Study to determine the best uses for Fort Stanton.

Lincoln County Manager Tom Stewart, who served on the selection committee, told THE NEWS about the selection. He said all presentations were outstanding, but the committee was most impressed with Kells and Craig.

Stewart and other members of the Fort Stanton request for proposals (rfp) selection committee met at Fort Stanton on Friday, September 8, to hear presentations from the three finalist firms whose proposals were selected from five submitted in response to a state issued rfp. Other committee members were chairman Carl Reed from the New Mexico General Services Department (GSD) Property Control Division, Don Zizic GSD auditor and John Jarrard, architect with the State Joint Practice Committee. The three state officials flew into Sierra Blanca Regional Airport to attend the afternoon meeting held at Fort Stanton.

The committee heard presentations from finalists Kells and Craig Architects, Greg Hicks and Associates, and Cherry See Architects, all with offices in Albuquerque. All three firms answered three questions given to them by the committee in its selection process. The questions were: What is your approach to determining the viable use for the facility? How will you be a partner in seeing this project to fruition? What is your definition of this Facilities Use Study and what is the most important aspect to be addressed?

All three firms had experience in historic preservation and all three assured their studies would include this as a criteria in determining the uses for Fort Stanton.

For Kells and Craig, Fort Stanton is a "study in adaptive uses" because of the many uses in its 145 year history. Only an actual fort for one-third of that time. Fort Stanton has buildings that are not usable for modern needs. Steven Kells said his firm would identify the adaptive uses and potential owners that would be compatible with historic preservation, benefit the economy and be economically viable. "The study must look past recent uses and be creative to push the envelope of uses," Kells said. "The crazier it sounds the better. We need to think in the context of today."

First the study would determine the ultimate users and/or owners, then identify potential users and/or owners through public meetings, surveys of governmental agencies, review of national trends and emerging facility types, Kells said. With this data the study would rank each potential use for inclusion in the draft report for comment. The report would also have estimated costs to rehab and adapt buildings for reuse. A second public meeting would be held to give results for the study and take more comment.

Kells said users could be other agencies within the state government, the private sector or a combination.

"The highest best use may not be state ownership," Kells said. He said the option is for the facility to stay in public ownership, or a public private partnership such as

C'zozo P&Z Postpones Six Agenda Items

by Jeff Hammond

The Carrizozo Planning and Zoning (P&Z) meeting Monday night was over in less than 30 minutes due to six of the eight agenda items being postponed until the next meeting.

Two items of unfinished business, the zoning ordinance definitions, and possible action on mobile home ordinance were postponed until the town attorney could review the wording, and compare the proposed ordinances with state regulations.

The other items were tabled due to the individuals not showing up at the meeting.

Cynthia Morales applied for a conditional use to place a mobile home on her property on 18th Street during renovation of the existing house. Reference was made to a P&Z ordinance stating "Storage structure or yard for equipment, material, or activity incidental to a specific project, provided it is of a temporary nature and is moved after the specific construction project is completed or work on the project has been dormant for a period of six or months, and

Capitan Accepts Expansion Plans

by Doris Cherry

Capitan Village Hall will undergo some dramatic changes soon.

Village Trustees during their meeting Tuesday, September 12, accepted preliminary plans for the village hall expansion project. But instead of coming from the firm that scored the most points for its proposal, the plans came from Don Curnutt, district manager of Engineers Inc.

Trustees first accepted the withdrawal of Alley Associates from the project. The company advised the village of its intent after clerk Kathryn Griffin called about changes requested by the public, mayor and trustees at the last August meeting. "They called back and said they weren't interested and they would not make the changes," said Capitan Mayor Norm Renfro.

As the next item of business trustees approved Engineers Inc. to do plans for the village hall expansion project. Later Curnutt presented three concept plans. Most preferred by staff and the public was Curnutt's plan to create an inviting lobby space that is open to the motor vehicles and water departments and connects the old building to the new. Along with the meeting room, the new addition will have offices for the mayor, clerk, deputy clerk and judge and new ADA compliant public restrooms and area for files and storage. Attractive to the women employees was Curnutt's proposal to have a fountain with built in seating featured in the center of the new lobby. Deputy clerk Kateri Hicks said a fountain would be soothing because many who come to city hall are irate.

Trustee John Whitaker requested the motor vehicles and water department offices have half walls or are open to the lobby. Some of the public asked for a larger meeting room.

The village has state appropriations of about $300,000 for the design and construction of the addition. Griffin asked some money be set aside for new furniture because staff are using cinder blocks now.

As for the exterior, while the building will be metal, Curnutt said the mayor wanted to keep the rustic western look with the front porch.

Trustees unanimously approved Curnutt's concept plans, with the requested changes. No indication was made when Curnutt will return with updated plans.

Trustees also voted unanimously to close the 1998 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) project, the public safety facility, and advise the contractor the village will retain the last $29,000 and put him on notice that there may be liability for additional damages.

Capitan Accepts Plans

The village has been in dispute with the contractor over the quality of work done and for not completing the project. Village attorney Don Dutton said the contractor was notified last year the $100 a day penalty charge was in effect, but the contractor's attorney is disputing this.

Capitan Fire Chief David Cox said the remaining $29,000 (from the CDBG funding for the project) will not complete the work needed in the facility. He said the floor in the ambulance bay is cracking badly and has had no vehicle on, there are leaks in the roof and ceiling insulation is falling down.

Trustees wanted to close the 1998 CDBG project so they could apply for a new 2001 CDBG. According to CDBG rules, any current CDBG project had to be at least 85 percent expended. The public safety facility was only 83 percent expended, Griffin said.

Again trustees held a public hearing on the CDBG project cycle, and on the 2001 Infrastructure Capital Improvements Plan (ICIP). Renfro recommended the village apply for a CDBG for the flood drainage because it has already spent about $5,000 on engineering studies and other reports. The village submitted the flood drainage as last year's CDBG but was turned down. Renfro said this year's CDBG application could build on the information already assembled.

During the discussion on the ICIP, resident Lonnie Lippmann asked that sewer improvements be moved up to second priority behind the first priority flood drainage improvements. Dr. Bernhard Reimann, who provided technical assistance in the application for the wetlands wastewater treatment and who continues to provide volunteer technical help in filing reports and testing the wetlands, told about the needs for the wetlands. He said another trench is needed as a backup to allow cleaning of the existing trenches, one at a time. The maintenance is needed to improve efficiency of the wetlands. Dr. Reimann also said the wetlands need an aerator and other equipment.

Later during the regular part of the meeting, trustees approved the flood drainage project and a resolution that establishes the new ICIP with the sewer improvements listed as second priority. With this the sewer improvements could become the 2002 CDBG project. Also trustees can use the ICIP for seeking legislative funding. Other ICIP projects, listed in order after the sewer improvements are subdivision road improvement (chip seal), flood control plan, health care facility, sidewalks and streetlights, sponsorship of nonprofit group building.

Trustees also: -Approved the appointment of George W. Tippin to the Cemetery Board.

-Authorized earmarking funds to purchase two four wheel drive vehicles with utility beds when state contracts become available.

-Heard that the RUS Water improvement project is right on schedule with final work being done on the rights of way and easements.

further provided that it is limited to a period of one year."

The P&Z approved the application for a period of one year, directing Morales to re-apply at that time if the work was not completed.

Della Vega applied for an area variance for her property at 312 Cedar Street. Vega plans on knocking down the old dwelling located there, and then placing a single-wide 14x56 foot manufactured home on the two combined lots. Vega meets all of the set back requirements. The P&Z approved the application.

CARRIZOZO SCHOOLS SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

As of today, September 11, our construction contractor, ESA has completed nearly all components of the construction project with the exception of floors (tile, carpet, and transitions). Some painting remains as well as cosmetic touchup here and there. Wiring of the Vocational Ag shop has begun and is nearing completion. We are still pending a swamp cooler installation in the boys locker room and ventilation fan installation in Clegg Hall.

Scott Stafford, AIA, Greer-Stafford will visit with school district staff prior to the beginning of our regular September 19 meeting regarding next summers construction. In addition, specifications for bidding the new gymnasium floor will be discussed.

I remain impressed with anyone who gives 25 years of service to any employer, business, school, etc. Carrizozo Municipal Schools will host a reception for Lorene Baroz at 6:30 p.m. September 19, in the Boardroom to honor her many years of service to her district.

Enrollment for the K-12 Carrizozo Municipal Schools is at 235 students, down approximately 14 students from May, 2000. I have been pleased with the appearance of our students on a daily basis. I wonder if they have been pleased with my appearance? I think the leadership that has been demonstrated by our coaches and sponsors relative to dressing-up for out-of-town games, etc. is very positive.

cants will be referred directly from New Mexico State Correctional Facilities, or from probation or parole officers. They must submit a "Special Program Referral" form including all pertinent information about the client being referred. The packet is screened by Hernandez to see if it meets the established criteria for acceptance. Then a telephone interview is conducted by Hernandez with the applicant. If the applicant is found acceptable, the packet is then forwarded to a Consideration Board comprised of Amity personnel, local law enforcement individuals, one of whom is Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan, representatives from the local community, and a New Mexico Department of Corrections Parole Officer who has an office at Fort Stanton. If the application is accepted the individual will then attend an orientation at Fort Stanton where he will be provided an orientation packet containing letters written by men who have successfully completed the program while in prison, pamphlets about the purpose and process of treatment, a program curriculum and then participate in a videotaped orientation interview. The videotaped interview is a tool used to assess positive advancement in the program.

All Amity residents at Fort Stanton are expected to take on the role of teacher to their peers as they progress, and be a "big brother" for others coming into the program.

Before returning to the community all residents must work with continuance coordinator James Charles to develop their own individualized community treatment plan, apply and receive appropriate identification or drivers license and Social Security Card, and determine what post release benefits are available for them.

The Amity program at Fort Stanton is not yet up to full operation, but hopefully by the end of October there will be 16 staff members, and 48 residents.

Amity Foundation doesn't have an in-custody program established in New Mexico. Department of Corrections as yet, but hopefully the success of this community based treatment program will assist developing one in the near future.

The work assignments are on a rotating basis, one week a resident may be assigned to grounds keeping, the next week maintenance, the next week administrative duties in the office, and assisting the cook Barney Mancha who was a cook at Fort Stanton for several years when developmentally disabled individuals were living there.

Pamela Jay, program director, recently moved from Phoenix to set up the program at Fort Stanton. The NEWS asked if she plans on staying or whether she was just here to get the program established and then move on. She replied "I've registered my car here, I have New Mexico plates." She went on to say, "Amity will be purchasing all supplies locally, and we want to be considered a part of the community."

The NEWS spoke with Gerard Hernandez, supervising counselor and Amity graduate. Hernandez explained the screening process for individuals to be considered for acceptance at Amity at Fort Stanton. Appli-

THOUGHTS

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Will he or won't he resign?

By Ruth Hammond

Recently we heard that Carrizozo Trustee Willie Silva has resigned but we don't know for sure. There has been no official announcement, no letter of resignation has been made public, and a letter of resignation was not an agenda item for the town council meeting that was scheduled for Tuesday night. Tuesday's meeting was canceled due to a lack of a quorum. The next regular meeting of the town council will be Tuesday, Sept. 26 and if there is to be a letter of resignation accepted at that time the state requires that it be on the agenda 24 hours prior to the meeting. If a letter of resignation is to be accepted at a special town council meeting the state requires that it be on the agenda 24 hours prior to the special meeting.

Evidently the Sept. 26 town council meeting will include all the agenda items left from the Sept. 12 town council meeting that was canceled in addition to new agenda items and possibly a public hearing about the ordinance pertaining to drug paraphernalia. You might want to read the drug paraphernalia ordinance because the wording could cause every person in town to be arrested. According to the proposed drug paraphernalia ordinance, the term "drug paraphernalia" is defined and includes, but is not limited to, scales, balances and measuring devices. We wonder if this includes measuring cups and measuring spoons we use for cooking. The term also includes separation gins, sieves, screens and sifters. We wonder if this includes cooking flour sifters and strainers.

Some other terms that concern us are that the term includes blenders, bowls, containers, spoons and mixing devices. We wonder if that means we must dispose of the Dormeyer electric mixer we have had for 40 years or dispose of the Osterizer blender we received for Christmas from our children. And what about bowls and spoons. How are we supposed to eat cereal if we don't have bowls and spoons? And does the term containers include the plastic containers we use for storing leftovers in the refrigerator?

Included in terms listed in the ordinance are water pipes. Does this mean we must have the town disconnect our water lines? What about sanitation? Are we supposed to carry water for bathing and washing dishes and doing laundry? And are we supposed to heat this water in pots on the stove? Apparently there is an ordinance in effect that would keep us from heating our water in a kettle over an open fire out in the yard, that is unless we get a permit in advance. There is no mention about sewer lines and it might be assumed that the proposed drug paraphernalia ordinance will not require that town residents also haul waste water to some unknown location to be disposed of.

Governmental regulations, including a town ordinance about drug paraphernalia should be easily understood. If you want to know what the exact wording is in the drug ordinance, you may review it at Carrizozo city hall.

None of the terms in the ordinance are supposed to refer to common kitchen utensils but if you want to know how and who will differentiate, be at the meeting and ask. And you might hear the news of the resignation of Willie Silva as a town trustee. Remember, you read it in The NEWS.

State Game Commission To Consider More Elk Permits

The New Mexico Game Commission meets on September 28 and 29 at the Picuris Room in the Albuquerque Convention Center, 401 2nd Street NW, in Albuquerque.

Each morning commissioners will meet in closed session to interview applicants for director of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish (NMGF). Commissioners will open their meeting to the public at 1 p.m. each day.

Along with other business, commissioners are scheduled to take action on a request to add 20,000 elk permits this season under Agenda Item #9: Amending 19 NMAG Big Game Regulation and approve proposed legislation that will request $650,000 to complete elk population surveys.

According to the minutes of the August Game Commission meeting held in Farmington, District 2 game commissioner Bud Hettinga of Las Cruces made a successful motion to increase the number of elk permits to 20,000 extra across the board statewide for both public and private permits. His reasoning for this was to satisfy hunters who did not get an opportunity to hunt.

Landowners get about 52 percent of the elk permits through the Land Owner Signup System (LOSS) program which figures permits for private ranches with a formula based on number of elk to be harvested, percentage of private land acreage and other factors. Elk permits per ranch are figured by occupied deeded acres, relative elk densities and private land authorizations.

The remaining 48 percent of elk permits are divided between residential and non-resident hunters who receive permits based on a draw. Hunters must apply for an elk hunt permit and indicate three choices of area to hunt in. Residential applications cost from $43 for an antlerless elk to $66 for a bull elk or either sex. Nonresidential applications cost from $281 for antlerless elk to $756 for the "high-demand elk" (mature bull or either sex). Applications are placed in a "draw" and permits are issued according to this lottery. The number of permits for these hunters is also determined by the NMGF hunter surveys and field surveys.

Elk permits authorized for depredation are issued above all other permits. At the Farmington meeting everyone from the public who commented on adding 20,000 more elk permits were opposed to the idea. Some were concerned the recent depredation killing of large herds of elk have diminished the elk population and the additional permits are not warranted.

Even the commissioners split their vote 3-2 on a later motion by District 3 Commissioner Karen Stevens to make the 20,000 additional permits something to consider. At Large Commissioner Steve Padilla of Albuquerque voted with Stevens.

Hettinga and District 1 Commissioner Ray Westall and District 4 George Ortega voted to increase the 20,000 elk permits. Instead they directed the NMGF to come back to the commission in September with a permit increase of 20,000 and look at the areas where increased permits are needed and distribute the permits accordingly. NMGF were also to consider carrying capacities

INSIDE THE CAPITOL

SANTA FE - Another hidden cost of private prisons has snapped up to bite us. Prosecution of the 15 inmates accused of killing Corrections Officer Ralph Garcia during a riot last year at the privately run prison near Santa Rosa is projected to cost taxpayers a million dollars apiece.

And that, according to members of the Legislature's Interim Courts and Criminal Justice Committee, is only if the state gets involved in the cases quickly. Left unchecked, the cost could rise to $45 million, three times the current projection.

One reason for the high cost is that we taxpayers foot the bill for both the prosecution and the defense. Thirteen of the 15 cases are potential death-penalty trials, and those don't come cheap in New Mexico anyway. Our state provides special death-penalty attorneys to all those who claim not to be able to pay. These attorneys are experienced and skilled at their jobs. The theory behind providing high-powered lawyers is that it makes it more difficult for a convicted murderer to claim inadequate representation in a subsequent suit.

Some states, such as Texas, tend to do it on the cheap. Some of the current execution fess in Texas has to do with claims of incompetent representation.

New Mexico contracts with Guadalupe County to look up inmates at the private facility owned and operated by Wackenhut Corrections Corp. of Florida. But the state still is ultimately responsible for what happens at the prison. When situations get out of control, as they did in Santa Rosa when nearly 300 inmates were in control for over three hours, the state is responsible not only for what happens, but for prosecuting and defending the perpetrators.

There was much tough talk after last year's riot about hardened prisons, additional guards, better classification of prisoners and strengthened education and rehabilitation programs. Since that time, the north unit of the state-run penitentiary near Santa Fe has been beefed up to hold violent criminals. That is where the 15 inmates who have been indicted are being held. But other than the Santa Rosa prison being repaired, we haven't heard much about improvements to make it less likely a similar occurrence will take place again.

Wackenhut has implied that anything extra it might have to do will come at an additional cost to the state since the company does not intend to reduce its profit margin. Soon after taking office in 1995, Gov. Gary Johnson told lawmakers he could incarcerate criminals in private prisons for half what the state spends. His first Corrections Secretary, Karl Sannicks, informed a legislative committee that Johnson was talking about the cost of keeping prisoners in new, state-of-the-art facilities and that he could do the same if the state would build him new facilities.

That wasn't what Gov. Johnson wanted to hear from one of his appointees, who quickly became a former New Mexico corrections secretary. Part of the state budget gridlock between the Legislature and governor involves lawmakers asking where those 50 percent corrections savings are.

The cost to the state of 13 death-penalty cases, due to begin next summer, is sure to raise renewed questions about whether the state should have a death penalty. Numerous individuals and groups have argued against the death penalty for years on religious and moral grounds.

But we may soon see added to this group another element composed of people who look at the bottom line and note it is cheaper to keep criminals in prison for life, with no possibility of parole, than to kill them.

As we are seeing in the case of convicted murderer Terry Clark, the possibilities for appeal are nearly endless, even after a prisoner says he is tired of fighting any longer and wants to die. Lawyers can find ways of keeping cases going anyway.

And lawyers are a heck of a lot more expensive than prison guards.

County Commission To Meet September 21

by Doris Cherry

Lincoln County Commission meets at 9 a.m. Thursday, September 21 in their chambers in the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo.

Commissioners have public hearings scheduled at 10 and 10:15 a.m. The first is to consider the 2001 New Mexico Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program, the second is to consider the 2001 Infrastructure Capital Improvements Plan (ICIP) for Lincoln County. The ICIP is used by the Community Development Council when reviewing the CDBG applications, and for use in seeking state legislative appropriations for projects. The public is invited to give input on these two projects.

At 1 p.m. visitors who did not request to be on the agenda will be allowed to speak. Items are for discussion only as no action can be taken on an item not listed on the agenda.

the Cumbres and Toltec Railroad in northern New Mexico which is co-owned by the State of New Mexico and State of Colorado with a governing board of directors operated by a private non-profit group.

Kells said his study would include an inventory of all buildings and their conditions and historic integrity. In response to a question from Stewart, Kells said the inventory phase would be short since employee Nick Skogland is a "treasure of information."

The study would establish a criteria for re-use of the historic facilities. As for partnering, Wells said his firm would partner in the marketing and promotion, work with the state that would be the developer of the project including liaisons with the legislature, governor, property control and the local community.

During questions following his presentation, Kells said he had experience with legislative committees and was willing to use a media consultant to sell the facility if need. As for water resources Kells said it will be considered as part of the sustainability of any project.

Next presentation was made by Greg Hicks and Associates. With him was Gary Miller, who helped develop and operate the Lincoln Heritage Trust museum and the Museum of the Horse. "Fort Stanton is the center of the universe," Hicks said, admitting this is an overstatement. "But think about the tremendous synergy within a 20 minute drive."

Their presentation focused on historic preservation as the best use. "We think Fort Stanton is a national priority," Miller said. "What we have to do is convince the county, state and congressional representatives."

Second Half Rally Propels Tigers' Win Over Lordsburg

by Bartley McDonough

Some Capitan football players are possibly thinking about joining the U.S. Navy Seals this week. The Tigers defeated the Lordsburg Mavericks last Friday night 22-14 in a driving rain storm.

Joey Saiz scored on a quarterback keeper in the first quarter to get things going for the Tigers. Joel Armandariz kicked the PAT.

Two minutes later Justin Hunter rambled 48 yards on a punt return to add six more points for the Tiger cause. The first quarter ended with the Tigers out front 13-0.

The Mavericks found pay dirt on an eight yard sweep around left end with 5:37 left in the first half -- the PAT failed. It was Capitan, 13, Lordsburg 6.

A little over a minute later Lordsburg passed to the Capitan six yard line. The Mavericks then scored and ran the pigskin in for the 2-point PAT. Lordsburg enjoyed a 14 to 13 lead when the Tigers began their homecoming ceremonies.

Early in the third quarter Capitan began a drive from its own 40 yard line. During the drive Michael Walker got 30 yards, and Justin Hunter added 20 -- Hunter then scored. A Tiger attempt to convert on the PAT failed. Capitan led 19-14 as the third period ended.

The Tiger's final tally came on a 25 yard field goal by Armandariz in the final period. Capitan 22, Lordsburg 14.

Capitan coach Davis told the NEWS that he was happy to see the Tigers play with a lot of intensity. Capitan rushed for 407 yards and passed for an additional seven yards.

Capitan travels to Hagerman on Friday, Sept. 15 to take on the tough Bobcats in a game scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Hagerman defeated Dexter last Friday 39-0.

In other action the Capitan Middle School defeated Hagerman 26-0; then the Tiger and Bobcat 7th graders scrimmaged for a while. During the scrimmage Tel Corsi rambled 75 yards for a Tiger score.

Miller presented three sites to compare to Fort Stanton, Fort Robinson in Nebraska, Fort Davis in Texas and the Kentucky Horse Park. He said they have gotten developers or directors of these facilities to serve as consultants to the Fort Stanton study. Rebuilt from the foundation up to its frontier condition, Fort Robinson state park attracts more than 800,000 visitors each year to its isolated western Nebraska location. Both Forts make enough income to cover all expenses.

Miller said their study would build on the 1988 Fort Stanton study done by Kim Williams, who also did the development study for Fort Davis.

Hicks proposed having two-three day meetings of a core team of state and county representatives, Fort Stanton, Inc. and other local interest groups, the National Trust for Historic Preservation Alliance and others at Fort Stanton to gather information and hammer out the best uses.

As for water resources, Hicks said any proposed development would be done to be self sustaining with wise water use. Hicks said the water rights with Fort Stanton are worth millions of dollars and someone could buy it just for the water rights.

As for experience with the legislature, Hicks said he has been before legislative committees. "Fort Stanton needs to be sold aggressively to the legislature or nothing will happen," Hicks added.

A video presentation on the Kentucky Horse Park was also shown.

The final presentation was made by Edie Cherry from Cherry See Architects and associate Phyllis Taylor of Sites Southwest planning. A professor of architecture at University of New Mexico for 28 years, Cherry is now retired to work in her office, in private business for 23 years.

Taylor said in looking at the buildings, their study would do surveys of similar facilities, and then they would contact potential users for their needs. Cherry said they wanted to make sure they understand the water rights and sewage issues and any other issues that could be a "deal breaker."

Cherry then said they would develop a list of possible users, do an economic study, hold a second public meeting to present progress and gather opinions on the list of potential users, do a final report with documentation and recommendation, prepare an informal document for the legislature and identify persons and/or agencies who will help implement the project. AS for partnering, their firm will serve as technical assistant, not as overseer to the property. With this they will assist with joint use agreements, market assistance, develop documentation of any potential concessionaire or other governmental agency.

Cherry gave her experience in projects as the Old Albuquerque Airport and Santa Barbara Apartments, old wool warehouse in Las Vegas and current work on the Enchanted Skies astronomical park near Grants.

In answering questions from the committee, Cherry said her criteria for use will include the least cost to the state and best preservation of the facility. She said the report will include information on potential fund raising.

As for having a report and presentation for the legislature, Cherry said she doubted she could have something ready for the upcoming legislative session in January.

The feasibility study will be financed with a grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce, state funds and matching in-kind work from Lincoln County for a total of $100,000, Stewart told THE NEWS.

A GLIMPSE OF THE MINING HISTORY OF THE SOUTHWEST

The following information is taken from the "International Industrial Record", a mining publication (Devoted to the General MINING and Industrial Interests of the Great Southwest), which is printed on the front page of the 80 page booklet, and was published in El Paso, TX on July of 1901. The Lincoln County News will publish the entire booklet in the following weeks depending on space available. The publication is filled with in-depth history of the mining industry in and around Lincoln County and New Mexico. We hope you enjoy it.

The Great Southwest.

The Mining Resources of the Vast Mining Region Surrounding El Paso.

Northern Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and Texas.

PART 31

THE SHAKESPEARE DISTRICT

By A. W. Hifford. Shakespeare is not, as many suppose, a new mining camp, but to the contrary was established and became prominent thirty years ago, and was known as Rolston, named in honor of a prominent and wealthy bank president of San Francisco, who spent a fortune on mines in this camp, when the output was hauled hundreds of miles by ox teams to a smelter. During fifteen or twenty years prominent mining men and capitalists from New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Kansas, Colorado and California visited the camp, purchased properties, organized big companies, capitalized from one million to as high as eight million of dollars, and spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in sinking single, double, and triple compartment shafts, erecting various kinds of mills smelters, and plants in an effort to save the values known to exist in the ores, the monuments of which still exist, as dilapidated buildings and out-of-date rusted machinery, to prove the once prosperous days of the camp.

It was here that the great diamond find of the early seventies was made that attracted world wide attention and came close to costing California people millions of dollars. It was a gigantic scheme to catch big and little fish. It was capitalized at forty millions. Miles of ground were plotted into small lots, and the maps showed rivers, steam boats and railroads. But in the midst of their dishonest success, a competent diamond expert reported it to be a salt, and the bubble soon burst, and the organization changed names and places.

Parties from California say that fifteen thousand dollars worth of rough diamonds are still salted, the salters never daring to come back to hunt for them.

The diamond fraud, the financial failure of several prominent capitalists, then interested in the camp, the death of others; the failure of the processes of the time to save values; inaccessibility of the camp, low price of copper, troublesome Indians, and fall in silver, proved burdens greater than the camp could stand, and she took on a Rip Van Winkle slumber, always receiving a black eye when mentioned, which kept prospectors and promoters from investigating until 1899, when the rise in copper put prospectors and promoters to hunting up copper mines and prospects, regardless of ancient history of camps, and everyone visiting Shakespeare during 1900 was soon convinced that it had merit, and only required capital, labor, time and patience to make it yield desirable returns, and to this end several companies have purchased properties during past 18 months, inaugurating systematic development, that up to present writing has proven the veins to be continuous and mineral bearing with depth, and only requiring the latest improved machinery and processes for saving values to make mining in Shakespeare camp a profitable business venture.

Companies Now Operating.

The Superior Mining company, composed mostly of El Pasoans, was the first to take hold, purchasing the Superior mine in the fall of 1899, inaugurating active and continuous development work. They shipped to the El Paso smelter during 1900 about $25,000 worth of ore, and blocked out thousands of tons of second class ore that must be worked on the ground to yield profit.

At present this company is giving all attention to sinking their main shaft for another level on higher grade ore. They struck water level at 365 feet and put in pumps, which are now working. They are down 390 feet and their ore has changed to sulphides of which they have found two to three feet, assaying from $40 to $70 in gold, silver and copper values.

Messrs. Blakeslee and James

Also El Pasoans, were the next purchasing the Miser's Chest group, doing some development and much surface prospecting during 1900. This group was sold last month to the Lena Mining and Concentrating company, composed of prominent Texas capitalists for $15,000 cash, and a force of 35 men are already at work pushing development work. This company has ordered a hoisting plant and propose sinking 500 feet. They propose putting in a concentrating plant the moment they have sufficient ground opened up to produce 100 tons per day.

The Orion Mining Company.

Composed mostly of El Pasoans, was the next, purchasing the Dundee mine in January, 1900, inaugurating active development, which has continued up to the present. The Orion has a mainshaft down 175 feet, with 200 feet of drifting on the ledge at the 100 foot level proving the vein to be from three to six feet wide. Three other shafts down 50 feet each; a tunnel in 100 feet; and 500 feet of open cuts along the vein, proving the ore chute to be continuous. As a whole, the product of the mine is not a shipping proposition, and the ore is being piled up and blocked out, awaiting future treatment on the ground.

At present the company is sinking, expecting to catch water and the sulphides within 225 feet.

The following exhaustive investigation of the lower grade ores from the Dundee, made by Professor Thomas Price & Son of San Francisco, may be of benefit to those now interested in the camp or similar ores in other camps. An average sample of the ore was first submitted to a careful chemical analysis, with the following result:

	Per ct.
Silicon Dioxide	76.67
Copper Sulphide	4.32
Metallic Copper	4.14
Copper Carbonate	1.83
Iron Disulphide	16.55
Aluminum Oxide	4.55
Calcium Carbonate	1.31
Magnesium Carbonate	0.52
Gold, Silver, Water and Loss	0.15

A portion of the ore was first submitted to amalgamation in the battery and on the copper plates of a regular stamp mill with the following results:

The total contents, in gold and silver of an average sample of the ore had been found to be: Gold, 0.15 oz. ($3.10 silver); silver, 3.35 oz. ($2.14); a total of $5.24 per ton. In the battery and on the copper plate we extracted gold, 0.08 oz. ($1.65); silver, 0.50 oz. (0.32); a total of $1.97 per ton. The tailings from this operation were assayed and found to contain gold 0.07 oz. ($1.45); silver, 2.85 oz. ($1.82); a total loss in tailings of $3.27 per ton.

By pan amalgamation they were able to extract, gold, 0.10 oz. ($2.07); silver, 2.20 oz. ($1.40); a total extraction of $3.47 per ton.

The tailings from this operation assayed, gold, 0.05 oz. ($1.03); silver, 1.15 oz. ($0.74); a total loss of $1.77 per ton in tailings.

It will be seen by the foregoing that it is out of the question to employ either amalgamation process for the treatment of the ore of this grade, as the margin is insufficient to leave any profit.

In our experiments we have found that the ore would be amenable to treatment by the use of solutions of potassium cyanide of proper strength, but the quantity is so large, and this would dissolve in the potassium cyanide, causing so large a consumption of this chemical as to make the cost of the process far in excess of the total value of the ore.

We find, further, that it is impossible to extract the gold and silver by solutions of sodium hypophosphites, or by the Russel process, on account of the large quantity of copper contained.

To smelt the ore direct would be economically impossible. The large percentage of silica which the ore contains would call for at least 25 per cent of a mixture of limestone and iron oxide, for fluxing purposes. The most encouraging results were obtained by concentration, and combined a saving of the copper, as well as the gold and silver.

A sample of the original ore, pulverized through a 40-mesh sieve, was carefully concentrated, yielding 6 per cent of concentrated material, or 120 pounds per ton of ore concentrated, and these concentrates contained, gold, 0.65 oz. ($13.44); silver, 14 1/2 oz. ($8.99); a total of $22.43, and 19.33 per cent copper.

With less oxidized ore the saving by concentration will be correspondingly better. The small pieces, showing the pyrites, as examples of what you find at a greater depth, is ideal concentrating ore, and when you are treating such ore as this you will find no difficulty in saving the values.

The important work before you at the present moment should be to attain greater depth as expeditiously as possible, so that you may determine what is the character of ore you will have to handle.

If it is the pyritic material, as represented by the small specimens, your problem is a very simple one, as you have an out-and-out concentration proposition.

and biology when determining where permits are to be issued.

The 20,000 more elk permits would be added to the current 40,000 permits to be issued for hunting this year.

The public can attend these Game Commission meetings and make comment. Members of the public also can contact their game commissioners about concerns.

Some sportsmen are concerned about how the game commission distributes elk permits. A bull elk permit issued to a land owner has "face" value of $66, which is the cost for a New Mexico residential elk permit "draw". For land owners the actual cash value of elk permits, especially for bull elk, is in the thousands of dollars.

Sportsmen are also concerned about the issuance of elk permits to a game commissioner. According to the NMGF 1999 Southeast Area Elk Landowners list for the LOSS program Bud Hettiga owned 597 acres of private land in Unit 36 on the Lower Eagle Creek next to the Lincoln National Forest in Lincoln County. Under the LOSS program, Hettiga applied for and received one bull and one cow elk permits for the 1999 hunting season.

Also according to NMGF information, Hettiga filed two Form D1s with complaints that elk had damaged his property (nibbling on aspen saplings he had planted and fences torn down) and were eating minerals and feed put out for cattle. Under the deprecation program, Hettiga received one bull and two cow permits during bow season and eight either sex elk rifle permits, to be used from September 1 until November 22. The permits could be used on 450 acres listed on the complaints as Hettiga's private property and three square miles surrounding the property on Lincoln National Forest lands.

The public can attend the open portion of the game commission meeting to voice comments, or written comments can be sent to the commissioners.

Corona News

Moisture, little more than a heavy mist, fell on Corona Friday evening. The total was only 0.2", but it smelled good, and it felt good.

The CHS volleyball team initiated sports into the semester arena, the renewed gymnasium building, with a win -- three out of three over Bosque Prep. The freshmen appreciated the remodelled kitchen for their first concession of the year.

Crown CowBelles met at 5:00 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 2 at the Cox home on the NMSU ranch headquarters. There were present six members and their families. Guests were the Dan Bells and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hightower. Saige Bell had her brother and five little boy friends to play with her. All enjoyed everything from brisket cooked with Crown Meat Magic, to chocolate pecan pie, no calories counted.

President Trish Cox called the meeting to order and led the discussion on new napkins and the State Fair booth. Trish, Molly and Janell will tend the booth the afternoon of Sept. 19 and the morning of the 20th. They invite others to go with them because the experience is interesting and fun.

New Mexico CowBelles are ordering new napkins printed. The old brands may be renewed, but new ones are desired for both the dinner and the cocktail size.

Lee Sultemeier, VP and program chairman introduced Mr. Gary Hightower, member of the LCMC Board. He discussed health needs in Lincoln County and efforts to meet these needs. The old mill levy is expiring, and the new one proposed is less, so property taxes will reflect this slight reduction. The hospital in Ruidoso and its satellite clinics are non-profit, and that means all patients are accepted. Crown voted to spread the word and urge voters to approve the new mill levy. Corona appreciates the clinic here even for one day per week. There was discussion about getting prescriptions filled. Mr. Hightower will see about getting samples of medications, and he will investigate to see about mail service from Ruidoso, Albuquerque and Alamogordo for phoned in prescriptions etc.

Lee Sultemeier announced a Weed Sunday at her home Sunday afternoon. Clint and she will host the next Cow-Belle meeting to include families and supper at their ranch home at 5:00 p.m., Saturday -- a Saturday in November -- date to be announced.

Kay Sultemeier was helping with the cattle work Sunday morning when two cows engaged in a butting contest. One knocked Kay off her 4-wheeler, and the machine fell on top of her. She was knocked out for about 25 minutes, and then Marvin took her to Roswell where she spent the day in ER for x-rays and other tests. In the late afternoon doctors sent her home to rest and recover from concussion and headache and assorted bruises. A scanner picked up news of the accident which was reported in Carrizozo churches. Then Corona telephones started ringing. She was still in pain Thursday.

Denise Byrd and daughter, Candice Roberts from Clovis attended the NM State Fair in Albuquerque on Sunday to help decorate for the Shepherds and Sheep in Wool Lead Class. This is where the participants model garments made out of wool. There are four divisions, and in three of them they model garments made out of wool, and then in the Senior division they model wool and show sheep. The girls are judged on both. Other Corona residents in attendance were Scott and Denise Martin, Leta and Jerry Sharp, who had a granddaughter in the contest, Lane Widner, Ag Instructor was there with students, Dal Frost, Keith and JR Shafer. JR was to show in the cabrito class on Sunday. Saw former Corona residents Brenda and Ernest Copeland from Santa Rosa, Sandra Copeland from Alamogordo, Les Owens from Clovis, Bonnie and Clay Lightfoot from Moriarty, Cody Shanon Lightfoot from Roswell, Clay and Bennie Crist from Ft. Sumner, and Cary Crist and family from Clovis. Cary's daughter won her division in the wool class.

Melissa Mulkey who is attending Clovis Community College received a 4.0 last semester and has received an "Outstanding Scholar Award". Melissa attends college classes Monday thru Thursday and then drives home to run the cafe on weekends. Melissa is the wife of Tommy Mulkey and the daughter of Melvin and Esther Johnson.

The regular September meeting of the Corona School Board has been postponed from Tuesday until Thursday this week.

We are pleased to welcome the Corona Zia Senior Center as a new worksite in the RSVF project. The Senior Center (SEE PAGE 9)

LEGAL NOTICE OF PUBLIC AUCTION
SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY FOR DELINQUENT PROPERTY TAX

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of 7-38-53 thru 59, N.M.S.A. 1978, the Lincoln County Treasurer will offer for sale at public auction beginning on September 28, 2000, at 10:00 a.m. at the County Courthouse in Carrizozo, New Mexico, the following described personal property, the sale to continue until all the described property has been offered for sale:

THE TERMS OF THE SALE ARE AS FOLLOWS:

1. A sale property made under the provisions of 7-38-53 thru 59, N.M.S.A. 1978 constitutes full payment of all delinquent taxes, penalties and interest that are a lien against the property at the time of sale, and sale extinguishes the lien. The property is sold subject to the lien for property taxes for the year of the sale, provided those taxes are not yet delinquent. The buyer at the public auction, or his successor in interest will be liable for those property taxes when they become due.
2. The description of the following personal property is designed to permit the identification and location of personal property; by potential purchasers, or taxpayers. The Lincoln County Treasurer warrants no title to properties purchased at public auction sale.
3. Section 7-38-74 N.M.S.A. 1978, prohibits officers or employees of the State of ANY of its political subdivisions engaged in the administration of the property tax from directly or indirectly acquiring an interest in, buying or profiting from any property sold by the County Treasurer for delinquent taxes, except that an officer or employee may purchase property sold for delinquent taxes if he is the owner of the property and was the owner of the property at the time the taxes became delinquent. Any officer or employee violating Section 7-38-74 is guilty of a fourth degree felony and shall be fined not more than five thousand ($5,000.00) or imprisoned for not less than one year nor more than five years, or both; and he shall also be automatically removed from office or have his employment terminated upon conviction. A personal property sale in violation of Section 7-38-74 is void.
4. Successful bidders are required to make payment in full of the amount bid before leaving the premises on the day of the sale. Payment is required to be by money order, certified check, cashier's check or personal check which is accompanied by bank letter of credit for the amount of or in excess of the amount of the personal check drawn to the order of the Lincoln County Treasurer.
5. Upon receiving payment of the personal property sold, the Lincoln County Treasurer shall execute and deliver a certificate of sale to the purchaser. The certificate of sale transfers all the former property owners interest in the personal property as of the date of the sale. The purchaser takes the personal property free of any unrecorded or unfiled interests unknown to him at the time of the sale.
6. The sale price of the personal property at this public auction sale is not to be taken or considered as being the value of the property for property taxation purposes.
7. All persons intending to bid upon property are required to register and obtain bidders numbers from the auctioneer and to provide the auctioneer with their full name and address. Certificate of sale will be issued to registered names only. Conveyances to other parties will be the responsibility of the buyer at auction.
