by Doris Cherry

Ruidoso village mayor announced publicly recently the village should annex "everything" contiguous to its current boundaries.

But a county committee is recommending the county commission require the village to complete an Environmental Impact Study (EIS) and Economic Analysis (EA) on all lands that will become part of the new Extraterritorial Zone (ETZ) to determine how the proposed annexation will affect county residents.

"I am concerned Ruidoso has no accountability to the county people (in ETZ)," said Lincoln County Public Land Use and Rural Affairs Advisory Committee (PLURAAC) chair Sally Canning at the PLURAAC meeting Tuesday, August 2 in the courthouse in Carrizozo.

"What if the village would be required to do an EIS and EA as required in the county land use plan," Canning suggested.

Canning said with the EIS and EA, the village would have to show the financial and economic impacts and impacts to wildlife and environment on the private county lands that would become part of a new ETZ resulting from annexation.

By state law, the village is allowed an ETZ one mile beyond its boundaries. The county has been in dispute with Ruidoso over the current ETZ and its administration and Canning has concerns about the effects of Ruidoso's proposal to do massive annexation.

County resident Jerry Carroll said Ruidoso seems to do gerrymandering when it comes to annexation. "I'm unsure how they did this because the law says a land must be contiguous to be annexed," Carroll said. "I don't know how they justify annexation."

"I believe if Ruidoso had to do an EIS and EA they would think twice about the cost," Canning said.

With little more discussion, PLURAAC members voted unanimously to recommend the county commission require Village of Ruidoso to produce and provide an EIS and EA according to the county land use plan for any county lands that will be brought into the ETZ through any future annexation by the village of Ruidoso.

The recommendation will be forwarded to the county commission for consideration at their August 16 regular meeting.

County Commission Lifts Fire Restrictions

by Doris Cherry

Enough rain has fallen on Lincoln County within the last few weeks to cause the forest service to lift restrictions on campfires and open burning.

Lincoln County Commissioners at a special meeting on Tuesday, August 2 held in the county sub-office in Ruidoso, unanimously voted to rescind the county resolution that imposed fire restrictions within the county.

With the lifting of the fire restrictions, county residents can do burning without a permit on their own private property. This includes cooking with charcoal and camp fires on private property.

Although the burning restriction resolution was rescinded, Jay Esperance with the Lincoln National Forest said the area is still very dry. He encouraged residents and visitors to use common sense while burning, (such as do not burn during high winds) and to dispose of charcoal only when the coals are totally cold. (Editor's note: this can be accomplished by putting coals in a metal bucket for at least 24 hours and then check to make sure they are not still hot, or by extinguishing the coals with water before disposing of the coals.)

Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) provides containers for charcoal at various locations, especially in the Alto-Ruidoso areas. Call LCSWA at 378-4697 for information on where these containers are located.

Under county ordinance, property owners are liable if a fire started on their property, whether intentional or accidental, is allowed to go onto someone else's property and cause damage.

When doing open burning, citizens should first notify the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office at 648-2341 of the time and date for the burn so dispatch can advise the appropriate fire department.

Aside from rescinding the fire restrictions, county commissioners took no other action at the special meeting.

County commissioners will hold their regular meeting at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, August 16 in their chambers in the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo.

Domenici Supports Bid For County Air Service

U.S. Senator Pete Domenici is endorsing the application by the village of Ruidoso and County of Lincoln for a federal grant to help implement seasonal flights from Dallas-Fort Worth to Sierra Blanca Regional Airport.

In a press release from Domenici's office, Domenici sent a letter to Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta asking that he favorably review the application for $600,000 in Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) funding to help bring regional commercial air service to Lincoln County.

Village of Ruidoso, County of Lincoln Sierra Blanca Regional Airport and the non-profit "Fly Ruidoso" organization are behind the proposal to bring the seasonal American Eagle flights to Lincoln County by June 2006. American Airlines is supportive of the plan.

If approved, the federal support will come from the FAA Small Community Air Service Development Program which is designed to improve air service to under-utilized airports in small and rural communities.

Domenici is a member of the Senate appropriations subcommittee that funds the Transportation Department and the FAA. The Senate Subcommittee recently approved the fiscal year 2006 Transportation, Treasury, Judiciary and Housing & Urban Development Appropriations Bills which has $20 million earmarked for the Small Community Air Service Development Program in 2006.

Former Deputy Files Federal Complaint Against Sheriff

Former Lincoln County Sheriff's deputy Robert McWilliams has filed a federal complaint for civil rights violations and retaliatory discharge against sheriff Rick Virden.

The complaint was filed in federal court in Albuquerque on July 13.

In the complaint, McWilliams alleged he was fired from the sheriff's office by Virden after McWilliams spoke out about the county's 911 system during a public Lincoln County Commission meeting on April 19. McWilliams was employed by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office from August 2004 until his termination on April 29, 2005. "The plaintiff was a career law enforcement officer who intended to complete his employment career with the (sheriff's office)," the complaint states.

The complaint states that McWilliams attended the county commission meeting of April 19 where the 911 emergency system was an issue discussed. "Plaintiff attended the county commissioners' meeting on his off time and appeared in civilian attire and addressed the county commission politely and respectfully and his comments represented his personal views and opinions as a private citizen of Lincoln County, NM."

McWilliams's complaint states that on or about April 19, Virden "retaliated against Plaintiff for exercising his right to free speech and speaking at the commissioners' meeting by informing McWilliams by letter that his comments made at the meeting were against county policy and (the letter) instructed Plaintiff to respond in writing by April 26, 2005."

On or about April 27, Virden notified McWilliams by letter of Virden's intent to terminate McWilliams employment if he did not resign by April 29.

"Plaintiff did not resign and Defendant Virden terminated Plaintiff's employment with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office on April 29," the complaint states.

Plaintiff seeks attorney fees and compensatory damages for all "injuries suffered including but not limited to front pay and back pay to include loss of wages and other fringe benefits, as well as damages for humiliation, pain, suffering and emotional distress and loss of reputation and future employment; punitive damages against the individual defendant (Virden); reinstate McWilliams to his deputy position; enjoin defendant (Virden) from all further retaliatory acts and other violations of law, issue permanent injunction enjoining defendants and all other acting in concert from maintaining an unconstitutional employment system; retain jurisdiction to assure full compliance with the law and award such other and further relief as the court deems just and property.

The complaint ends with a demand for jury trial.

GET OUR OF JAIL, not free. It took $5 to be put in jail, and another $5 to get out. Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse staffed the "jail" at Gov. McDonald Day even in Carrizozo on July 30. The day featured a parade with Hightower families as grand marshals, sheriff's posse, the mayor of Carrizozo and others; chautauqua performers Ron Grimes as Pat Garrett and Dr. Noel Pugash as Gov. Lew Wallace (territorial governor in the 1880s).

Shooting In Capitan Is Ruled Suicide

Office of Medical Investigation ruled that a 42 year old Capitan area man died of a self-inflicted gunshot to the head.

Lincoln County Sheriff's Officers and a Capitan police officer responded to a call at 12:15 a.m. July 30 about a shooting at the Hammett Ranch in the Capitan Gap area. According to Lincoln County Sheriff Rick Virden, officers upon arrival found Ronnie Hammett, 42, dead in his home.

Virden said there were family members in the home at the time of the shooting.

"There were no signs of foul play," Virden said. "And it was ruled a suicide."

Hammett's body was sent to the OMI in Albuquerque for

LCSWA Drops Position To Balance Budget

Lincoln County Solid Waste Authority (LCSWA) reduced its staff in order to bring the 2005-2006 budget closer to balancing.

At their meeting Tuesday, July 25, LCSWA members approved the recommendation to eliminate the collection and sales position from the 2005-2006 fiscal year budget. The reduction in personnel was done to accommodate the budgeted increase of $26,000 a year for yard waste disposal while keeping the final budget closer to balancing.

Also the LCSWA board approved the final budget for the 2005-2006 fiscal year (which began July 1), with changes based on the elimination of the employee position. LCSWA operational supervisor Debra Ingle presented the proposed final 2005-2006 budget which showed an additional $26,000 in expenditures for disposal of the yard waste and the collection employee.

While the 2005-2006 preliminary budget (approved in May) showed a $161,952 deficit in revenue over expenses, the final proposed budget showed $188,655. Ingle said keeping the extra $26,000 in the budget for the additional employee would put the new budget very in the red.

"If we successfully award the yard waste disposal and we remove the extra position, it will bring the budget back to being close to what the preliminary budget was," Ingle said.

With elimination of the position, the proposed final budget shows total revenue of $3,153,728, with total expenditures of $3,276,383. Of the total expenditures, $983,349 is for payroll with $9,464 for employee evaluation increases. To better bring the budget into balance, $300,000 was transferred from the Environmental Gross Receipt Tax (EGRT) fund. EGRT is collected from businesses in all the county municipalities and the county as collateral on the regional landfill construction bond.

LCSWA began the 2005-2006 fiscal year with a carry over of $488,396 from all funds in 2004-2005 fiscal year. That carry over will be applied toward deficits in all funds in order to meet the state required 1/12th reserve of $247,449.

Employees will receive overall cost of living raises in addition to evaluation based increases.

The 2005-2006 final LCSWA budget shows in general operating a beginning cash balance of $351,642 (from the 2004-2005 fiscal year) with estimated revenues of $2,430,042 and budgeted expenditures of $2,535,632 for the collection systems; nothing in revenues for the board of directors who will have estimated expenditures of $7,695, estimated revenues of $21,540 and budgeted expenditures of $324,231 for administration with $300,000 from the EGRT fund to be transferred to this fund to cover the shortfall. Recycling is estimated to have revenues of $100,721 with expenditures of $75,833. Total general operating funds begin with a $351,642 beginning balance; $2,552,303 estimated revenues; $300,000 transfers; $2,943,931 expenditures for a total ending cash balance of $208,554.

Other funds in the budget include the transfer station/recycling center closure fund with $1,733 beginning cash and $1,750 estimated revenues with no anticipated expenditures from this fund.

Other revenue includes the $165,000 from the state legislative severance tax revenue appropriation for the new recycling center/transfer station which is budgeted to all be spent; and the EGRT fund with beginning cash of $135,021, estimated revenue of $434,675, transfer of $300,000 and other budgeted expenditures of $207,992 for ending balance of $61,704.

Prior to adoption of the 2005-2006 final budget, LCSWA members recessed into closed session to discuss the employee position and negotiations for proposals/contractor. After nearly an hour behind closed doors, the board returned to the open meeting and voted to allow the LCSWA board chair Don Coleman, Ingle and LCSWA attorney Angie Schneider-Cook to negotiate with Biogrid, Inc. for yard waste disposal services and to enter into an agreement if negotiations are successful. Biogrid, Inc. is owned by Tommy White whose address is Gaviilan Canyon.

The board also authorized Coleman and staff to negotiate with the second proposer, Sierra Contractors, if no agreement is reached successfully with the first proposal.

LCSWA advertised request for proposals for the yard waste disposal services.

Also after the closed session, the LCSWA board voted to eliminate the employee position.

The $165,000 in state appropriation funds became official when the LCSWA board approved two different grant agreements with one being $100,000 and the other $65,000. In addition the grant agreement, the LCSWA board approved two resolutions giving authorization to sign the grant agreements, grantee representation and signatory authorization to Coleman and Ingle. The funds will be used for the new recycling/transfer facility on Highway 70 on the east side of Ruidoso Downs.

Ingle also reported on her report given to the Lincoln County Commissioners at their meeting July 19 in Carrizozo. Ingle said county commissioners asked Ingle to work with the county manager and attorney to set up a workshop to establish county residential collection rates. Ingle said she asked if the workshop can be held at the LCSWA offices for access to financial documents. Ingle said she is working with the county manager on a date for the workshop. LCSWA board members approved holding the workshop on the date agreeable to all parties.

Looking Back...

As the Lincoln County News goes into its 101st year of being in existence (1905-2005), we will be randomly publishing articles that have been published in the NEWS from old files. The following article appeared in the "Carrizozo News".

It's War

PRESIDENT WILSON read his war message to congress Monday night. Wednesday the senate adopted a war declaration with only six votes in the negative. The house is also considering the same resolution; will pass the joint resolution today, if it did not last night. An army of 1,000,000 men will be raised; 150,000 men for immediate service in the navy.

Getting Ready

"Uncle Sam" is getting ready for war and is preparing to meet every eventuality. No country, perhaps, ever entered a conflict so quietly, and yet determinedly, as the United States. While every department of the government is moving rapidly in all preparations, and people from every section of the union proffering aid, either in money, equipment, plants and enlistment, yet there appears to be absolutely no excitement - just a grim determination to face the music and not look back.

Wealthy corporations - the great steel plants, automobile factories and dozens of immense plants have either been offered the government free of cost, or their products far below the ruling commercial price. Labor organizations have announced that strikes will not be countenanced while the nation is in peril, and every element seems to be working absolutely in harmony with the idea that the interests of the government came first. With such a spirit, with such backing, with our untold resources the entry of this country into the maelstrom of war will have a decided effect.

The main proposition that the government is now considering, aside from raising and training an army and strengthening the navy, for effective action when required, is to aid the allies in all economical ways - to supply them with food, guns, ammunition and, in addition to finance them in the further prosecution of the war. To do this the farmer is urged to intensify the cultivation of all food crops, the factory is urged to speed up his production and the banker is urged to come to the aid of the government with his wealth. On every hand a willingness has been shown to meet these demands and little fear exists as to what the end will be.

Austria has now broken off relations with the United States. Whatever Germany does is all right - with Austria.

It is Turkey and Bulgaria's turn next. Won't it be a blow when they sever diplomatic relations with the United States!

Though engaged in by many, lying awake nights thinking of the error of the day past does not bring us much. Keeping wide awake during the day will bring us nearer success.

"Choose ye this day whom y shall serve" was never more applicable than in America today. A divided allegiance is impossible and not even America, with all its tolerance, will tolerate a partial allegiance.

Loyalty to the United States government and a willingness to uphold it against every foe are essentials to good citizenship. Lack of loyalty and a disposition to dodge duties imposed by our government will lead to troubles as certain as night follows day.

Now that war is upon us we have reason to believe that living will go still higher. It behooves all to practice economy in order that want will not follow. Many luxuries that we have enjoyed in the past may be dispensed with and yet result in little inconvenience.

We sincerely believe that the great mass of Germans in this country will be loyal to the flag and the country. Those who contemplate disloyalty should remember that when they came

THOUGHTS
FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Mixed Signals Cause Problems

By Ruth Hammond

When opposing factions battle, it can cause confusion. Such has been the case with the sale of the gas company and more recently the discussions as to whether Carrizozo should annex a few thousand acres that might be used to develop a subdivision and whether Capitan should sell water to areas outside the city limits, specifically a planned subdivision north of Capitan. Misinformation abounds in all these situations and the best solution would be for the officials to be open and explain exactly what is going on.

Actually, some officials have explained the process while other officials are giving the impression they are making deals behind doors. The main thing is to remember that rumors are not fact, though often they tend to have a semblance of possible truth intertwined in them somehow.

Raveling out the truth usually takes time and research. Instead of believing the rumors, why not go to meetings and ask questions? Dealings in all of these situations is supposed to be public record. Sometimes it is necessary to word your questions in such a way as to get an answer, and it isn't difficult if you think about what you want to ask.

Not everyone is willing to speak at public meetings. A few years ago a county resident went to a county meeting and he was short of breath when he addressed officials. One official said to him, "Relax, it's just us. You've known most of us all our lives." The man responded, "But this is a county commission meeting." Many people agree and they prefer not to speak at any official public meeting.

It probably goes back to when anything official usually meant trouble. It was similar to getting a summons to be in court. Many people would rather read about what happened at a meeting than to be a participant. And some people are afraid of the consequences. One person was concerned about Carrizozo buying bottled water for select people, specifically the police department and court complex, but declined to speak publicly for fear of the repercussions.

Naturally it would be better if officials would reassure people their services will not be curtailed and their water will not be shut off, but that doesn't often happen. People do have a right to voice their opinions and complain, just as they have the right to give praise when it is earned.

Governmental officials, or rather some governmental officials, give the impression they are above the law and they don't have to answer to anyone. Others will talk to the public that elected them and that they are supposed to be serving. It is your choice to decide which officials are in which category and remember that decision when you vote in the next elections. Campaigning will probably include a list of past accomplishments that never happened, or things that someone else did. If you don't want to speak in public you can make your opinions count by voting effectively.

Leo (July 23-Aug 22) Your money needs to be tucked away for another day. You ask yourself how can I pay what needs to be paid and save too? Stop spending on things you don't need. Love life needs a boost? Give more love, it's free.

Virgo (Aug 23-Sept 22) Your body is asking questions that your mouth can't answer. Get in shape not just the body but the mind and spirit too. You're out of sorts when you're not in control of yourself. Good things coming your way.

Libra (Sept 22 - Oct 22) Your life is going to take another turn, this time for the better when you make up your mind to do what's best for you first. Love is great when it works, and it's only great when you work on it. Got love?

Scorpio (Oct 23-Nov 21) You'll see something that you haven't seen in a long time. You're body, mind and spirit will come together once you allow yourself to let go of the past and enjoy what you have because you can. Smile more.

Sagittarius (Nov 22-Dec 21) You're not alone as long as you have your higher power. This time you need to ask yourself if you're doing the right thing with the right people. You can't lose something that isn't yours. Love doesn't hurt.

Capricorn (Dec 22-Jan 19) It was once said that a great person is only as great as the people he surrounds himself with. You need to feed yourself with love, friendship and spirit. Regroup and allow yourself to be loved like you deserve.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb 18) It feels real strange doesn't it? This new life you're about to start can't start without your permission. Don't allow others to take away your thunder. This is your time to shine. Hard work and lots of love are needed.

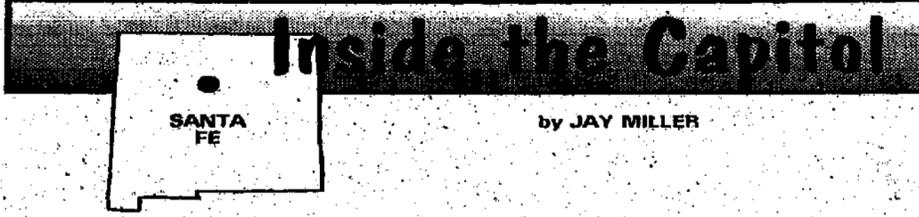

Pisces (Feb 19-March 20) Yes it's your turn. Don't want to? Then don't! You are in control of your life and others need to stay out of it unless they can help you to climb the ladder of success. Be NICE. Talk with lots of love. Work hard.

Aries (March 21-April 19) Your health may be in question. Find out what is wrong once and for all so you quit the guessing game. Do something that will make you feel better. This can be turned around so you can be happier.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Yes. (That's the answer) Don't ask, just do. Watch your temper for you'll be the only one to pay for it later. Don't get upset, just work with others so this can get done and you can have a happier life.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Sometimes hard work isn't enough when it comes to getting what you want. Shine that pearly smile and get out there and sell yourself. You're only as good as what you think you are. Don't be lazy. Do it.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Stop. Look. Listen. Change your outlook on life and you'll see changes before you in no time. This is your time to shine and you'll do a great job. Get out of the house. Get a life with lots of love and more money.

SANTA FE -- New Mexico has the honor of providing "the nation's holiday tree" again this year. Judging from the past, it's likely to be pretty big deal.

The U.S. Capitol landscape architect was in town last week conferring with U.S. Forest Service personnel about locating the perfect tree in the Santa Fe National Forest. Its location will remain a secret "for security reasons" until November, when it will be cut and hauled out.

The tree will then make publicity stops in many communities between here and Washington, D.C., where it will be placed in a five-foot hole on the spacious west lawn of the Capitol Building.

Between now and then, New Mexicans will be urged to make decorations for the tree. First Lady Barbara Richardson is heading the effort. She says she wants 3,000 decorations. The Forest Service predicts it will be 5,000.

The last time New Mexico provided the tree, 14 years ago, we claimed to have made over 10,000 ornaments. Pitching in were school children and senior centers around the state, along with a number of Taos artists.

Why Taos artists? The 1991 tree was from the Carson National Forest, so Taos really got into the celebration. Taosenos decided that a cut tree would not do. It had to be live. And thus began a story of many headaches, pains in the neck and pain in other locations.

First came the news from the Forest Service that it could spend no money on the project. This would be a gift to the nation from the people of New Mexico.

The 30-ton root ball makes a tree considerably more difficult to harvest and transport. A Houston firm experienced in transplanting and transporting large trees volunteered to help.

Being experts in the business, the firm's advice was that a truck ride from here to Washington would make the tree's survival unlikely. About the only solution would be to put it on a truck in the forest and haul it to a nearby airport that could handle one of the Air Force's huge C-5A cargo planes that would haul both the truck and tree.

New Mexico's congressional delegation got busy on that assignment and discovered that although it might have been possible before, media revelations that White House Chief of Staff John Sununu was catching military aircraft to see his dentist back home, had made the Air Force cautious.

The Air Force said it might be able to arrange transportation if one of its big cargo planes were on a training mission, or if one happened to be in the area at the right time and had other cargo it needed to send to Washington.

But there was another problem. The Capitol's Christmas tree is not the nation's only Christmas tree. Excuse me, I said Christmas and I know I shouldn't have.

The White House also has an official tree, both outdoors and indoors. And then there's that big one at Rockefeller Center that receives about 90 percent of the media attention because it is right there where their headquarters are.

The Republican White House wasn't too interested in asking one of its federal agencies, such as the Air Force or the Forest Service, to bend the rules for a Democrat-controlled Congress. So Taos was told it was on its own. For $15,000; we were told, the Air Force could do the job. In many states, that would be pocket change for any number of large industries. But with our largest industry being a national laboratory, we were out of luck. There was an offer of $5,000 to buy the gas, but the Air Force wasn't interested.

Congress does control the budgets of federal agencies, but members of Congress aren't especially interested in helping out their colleagues with such a problem, because they compete for the honor of their states providing the national tree.

The saga of the Taos Tree continue.

"Good" NEWS Bulletin

Everytime that the United States gets involved in some sort of military action and regardless of what political party is in power and in the White House, the naysayers, sign-bearing, and flag-burning (defenders of freedom) come out of the woodwork.

It's hard for them to understand that petting and rubbing the tummy of uncivilized people that are trying to kill you will not work; and that it is better to try and take care of the problem on their home-soil instead of ours.

Waving good will signs, and sending the terrorists Hallmark cards, and burning your flag in front of them will not keep them from killing you.

So get used to the times people. This is not your country it is "our" country, and it must be defended, no matter where we have to go to do it!

Letters TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR: My patience is wearing thin. The yellow ribbons which decorate cars and pickups seem to be reproducing. "I Support The Troops" is a propanganda ploy used by the Republicrats now in control of my government. If you don't support a yellow ribbon on your vehicle, you're obviously less than a loyal and patriotic American. Every time I turn on my television, some well-intentioned citizen is praising our young men and women in uniform and hailing them as heroes and protectors of Democracy and The American Way. A hero is someone we admire for performance of courageous deeds. Our troops are indeed courageous for putting their lives in danger every day, but they deserve much more than Amercian's praise. They deserve a sincere apology from the White House for being placed in harm's way, and for being placed in a kill or be killed position under false pretenses. They deserve a ride home on the next available ship or plane now. And all Americans deserve much more than the liars, murderers, and corporate pawns who now hold our government in a stranglehold.

The obscene yellow ribbons do not just announce support for the troops, they proclaim support for a war based upon lies. A war waged to line the pockets of large American corporations, and to enhance the portfolios of the rich and famous. Any illegal war by international standards. A war which has made America much less safe from terrorism. A war that has painted bull's eyes on the foreheads of all of us. A war as unjust and insane as the Vietnam War. A war that has made all Americans look like bullies and idiots to the civilized people of the world. I do not support the troops if it means supporting the campaign of senseless slaughter and terrorism in which they are forced to participate.

Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler was America's most decorated general. He was ordered arrested and court-martialed by President Hoover in 1931. His crime was publicly criticizing Benito Mussolini. Though the word "fascist" is considered a dirty word in Washington, our politicians have long been huge fans of fascism (a plitical ideology of the extreme right which relies on a combination of pseudo-religious attitudes and the brutal use of force for getting and keeping power) or as Mussolini himself described it, "Fascism should more appropriately be called corporatism because it is the merger of state and corporate power." General Butler beat the rap, but retired from the military and became one of its harshest critics until his death in 1940. In his recently reprinted 1935 expose' titled "War is a Racket" he speaks of his illustrious career in the Marines.

to this country it was a voluntary act -- they chose this country to the one they were quitting. They should not now make their presence unwelcome by holding up Germany as a paragon in government.

Hang Out The Flag

"Old Glory" should float from every public building, indeed, every building should display the flag of our country. It is the emblem of liberty and every American -- native born or naturalized should be proud of the great country for which it stands.
 Under its folds the oppressed of all nations have found protection and it should be flung to the breeze as a symbol of our loyalty and as a reminder of our duty to the best government that ever existed.
 Hang out the flag; let it wave in the breeze and let it be cherished by a free and liberty-loving people -- a people who have not sought war, and yet a people who now, that war has been thrust upon them, are willing to uphold it and the principle for which it stands at whatever cost. "Long May It Wave Over the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."

Carranza Foolish

Many indications point to the fact that Carranza of Mexico would, if he dared, openly declare his friendship for Germany. That shows his innate treachery and, at the same time, his want of horse sense.
 Suppose it possible in the war's upheaval for Germany to land a great army in Mexico; how long would Carranza be considered? And when does he imagine he could ever get the army out of Mexico.
 Has he forgotten when a French army landed there to uprear and support a throne for Maximilian, how that army re-established the throne and restored all of the old oppressions of the people; and how helpless Mexico was under that rule until the United States sent Sheridan with portion of the Grand Army of the Republic down to the Rio Grande, and a message was sent to Louis Napoleon that the United States believed that the health of the French soldiers would be improved by their taking a sea voyage.

Two Toasts

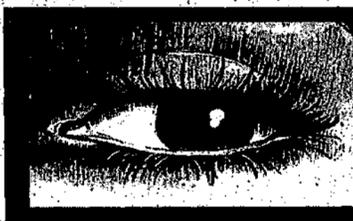

A rather amusing incident is told of a banquet that took place in Shanghai, China, in 1903. The gathering was somewhat cosmopolitan and each guest spoke in laudable terms of his country's flag when called upon for a toast. Among those present, of course, was an Englishman, and somewhat boastfully delivered the following toast:
 "Gentlemen, here is to the Union Jack the flag of flags, the flag that has floated on every continent and every sea for a thousand years, the flag on which the sun has never set."
 This was a stunner, and the Americans present were somewhat awed by its ponderousness. However, when Eli Perkins called upon to toast the Start and Stripes he was quite equal to the occasion, as the following will show:
 "Gentlemen, here is to the Start and Stripes of the new republic. When the setting sun lights up her folds start int he ice bound regions of Alaska, the rising sun salutes her on the rock bound coast of Maine. It is the flag of liberty, never lowered to a fow, and the only flat which has ever whipped that "flag on which the sun never sets."

Bix -- Say, what's the rest of that quotation beginning "Truth is mighty?"
 Dix -- "Scarce," I guess.
 "I wish I hadn't seen my doctor trying to play golf."
 "Why?"
 "I had so much confidence in him at one time I imagined he could do almost anything well."

Corona News

The New Mexico State University Corona Range and Livestock Research Center hosted its 2005 Field Day on Friday, July 22. Highlighted were a variety of new and ongoing research programs conducted at the Center, as well as, the culmination of multiple year experiments.

For the morning event, scientists set up poster displays in two big tents for the near 200 people coming from all four corners of New Mexico and eastern Arizona who could choose among 24 presentations dealing with livestock production, range management and wildlife.

A beef brisket meal was catered by the Crown Cow-Belle membership aided by the Corona FFA who set up and helped serve the meal to hungry participants.

The afternoon program was well received with nearly half of the participants taking part in three tours that allowed them to see how research is conducted. The casual atmosphere allowed many to scan an electronic ear tag, see how moisture is measured under trees and put their hands in the rumen of a cow.

At the end of the day, everyone exited the buses to ice cold soft drinks and frozen ice cream sandwiches while discussing the day's events with neighbors and friends. For more information about the research conducted at the Corona Range and Livestock Research Center please contact Shad Cox at 849-1015 or email: shadcox@nmsu.edu the machinery will it is thought, be secured from the Lincoln County Light & Power Co. The men behind this work are quietly going about their business and are doing very little talking, but all indications point to active systematic work on a rather extensive scale and the success of the undertaking may be the means of interesting, further outside capital in the development of our mineral resources.

Mabel -- Do you know anything about Tom Brown?
Arthur -- Why, Tom is my best friend.
Mabel -- I know that, but is he all right other wise.

"Are you the head of the house?"
"I, wouldn't say that exactly, but I do the driving when the missus and I go out in the auto."

Harmless Lyin'

The grace an' alacrity with which most of us lie these forward lookin' days is in perfect accord with th' spirit o' th' times. As th' world progresses we become broader an' as we grow broader we become more liberal, an' as we become more liberal we grow less exactin'. Things that wuz not even tolerated among foreigners are winked at by us t'day. Things that wuz regarded as abominable a few years ago are not looked upon as unavoidable an' necessary in our pursuit o' happiness. Most anything is all right t'day but sidewhiskers. So th' gentile are o' lyin' has plugged steadily along until it has become firmly entrenched well up in th' first division among th' traits that have bloomed an' thrived durin' th' greatest commercial period in th' history o' th' world.

We all lie with impunity. I don't mean t' say that all of us lie when anything of a serious nature is involved. We're not all malicious liars. Some o' us lie t' be entertainin' or t' avoid appearin' stupid. Others lie t' be funny or excite comment, while still others lie t' save time an' trouble. But most of us lie fer convenience. Th' truth is often too prosy. It don't draw. Folks are not attracted t' it. It rarely fill th' bill. Th' truth, too, is allus liable t' start somethin'. Disagreeable people are invariably truthful. Th' plain-spoken person is celebrated fer hitt' the nail on th' head an' you know we all sidestep when he's around. Lots o' folks don't care as long as you don't tell th' truth about 'em.

Th' truth'll often make a mess o' things when a neat little mouse-colored lie 'll put eve' thing on a cheerful basis without leavin' a brush mark. Th' feller who used t' turn purple an' stammer an' stutter when confronted by his wife has only t' say, "Mamie, I tried t' git you over th' phone four times, etc." They they sit dwon t' a cold dinner an' discuss th' desirability o' municipal ownership o' telephones till bed-time. Just think what th' truth would have done t' that little home!

Follering' are some o' the' more popular styled o' lying' -- little things we hear at ever' turn that have th' ring o' a plugged quarter, but which we smilin'ly pretend t' believe jest as a matter o' form:

- "You're lookin' fine, ole chap."
- "I hate t' miss it, but I wuz too tired t' come downtown."
- "I wouldn't have a Palm Beach suit."
- "I'll come if I kin git away."
- "We'll cheerfully give your money back."
- "I had a perfectly lovely time."
- "Come in any time, I'll be glad t' see you."
- "I wuz under th' impression that I'd paid that."
- "We've never been up a night with him (baby)."
- "Sure, we'll send it out t'day."
- "I'll have a man out there t'morrow."
- "I tried, t' find you all day."
- "I'll make it t' you fer just what it cost."
- "We could have sold it a dozen times yesterday."
- "What a becomin' dress!"
- "I'll hand it t' you Saturday."
- "I'm fond o' grand opery."
- "I'll hav t' ask my wife."

But when it comes t' veracity th' old-time hoss trader haint in it with th' feller who's been t' Louisville an' back in a second-hand car.

- "Ever made any money in stocks?"
- "Yes, quite a lot."
- "What did you do with it?"
- "Oh, they got it back along with the rest."

A perfect face never yet made up for an imperfect disposition.

Old Lincoln Town

by Rosalie Dunlap

The Last Escape of Billy the Kid cast members have been busy with rehearsals the past two weeks. The first performance will be Friday night at 8:30 p.m.

Colt Frembe is playing the part of Billy this year. Colt has grown up with the pageant since he was a baby. He will deployed to Iraq later this month.

There has been some improvements made the grounds and fencing. Other changes are the narrator. Jon Amastae will be the narrator for this year substituting for Dave Parks.

Finally Lincoln received rain last Tuesday. We received .6 in of rain and up to over an inch west of town.

Linda and Beth Hart of Eugene, Oregon visited with friends in Lincoln Tuesday. They were enroute to Las Cruces where Beth will be attending high school at the Mayfield High School.

Rumors about the Hubbard-Freeman Museum in Lincoln and the museum complex in Ruidoso Downs future but no definite word yet.

Preston Stone of Capitan underwent heart surgery at the Presbyterian Hospital over the week-end. The doctors put in a stent. He suffered an attack Saturday night and was flown to Albuquerque.

Our prayers to all those in need. There are so many with serious medical problems.

Peg and Leota Pfingsten celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with relatives and friends from near and far attending their big day.

A PARK FOR THE VETERANS. Veterans Mike Gieb and Floyd Kaiser manned the booth at the Gov. McDonald Day event in Carrizozo on July 30, telling everyone about the Veteran's Park project at the new town hall. The park will feature flags representing all branches of military along with plaques mounted on large rocks. The park will replace the small veteran's memorial that was removed when the new town hall was constructed. An account to take donation to help build the veterans' park has been set up at Wells Fargo Bank throughout Lincoln County. Veterans hope to have the park completed by Veteran's Day, November 11.

"I helped make Mexico, especially Tampico, safe for American oil interests in 1914. I helped make Haiti and Cuba a decent place for the National City Bank boys to collect revenues in. I helped in the raping of half a dozen Central American republics for the benefit of Wall Street. I helped purify Nicaragua for the international banking house of Brown Brothers in 1909-1912. I brought light to the Dominican Republic for American sugar interests in 1916. In China I helped to see to it that Standard Oil went on its way unmolested." And if the multiple-Medal of Honor winner were alive and on active duty today he would continue: "I secured the vast oil reserves of Iraq for Exxon-Mobile, won billions in rebuilding contracts for Halliburton, and helped erect 14 permanent military bases in the heart of Biblical Eden." and if you sport a yellow ribbon on your Suburban, you helped too.

It is time to stop wasting our resources on weapons and start acting like the civilized nation we claim to be. It is time to stop sacrificing our children on the Holy Altar of Wall Street. This is no time to waste.

County Residents Participate in Writing Program

Three Lincoln County residents participated in the High Plains Writing Project when educators from throughout southern New Mexico spent their summer at Eastern New Mexico University improving their skills teaching writing and literacy as participants in the High Plains Writing Project Summer Institute, part of the national writing project.

During this month-long institute teachers developed strategies to expand their knowledge of exemplary practice and research in the teaching of writing. An important goal of the summer institute is to create a community of writers.

Graduates or "fellows" for the summer institute from Lincoln County and their schools were: Tamra Rice and Susan E. Owings, both of Capitan Municipal Schools, and Kari Dawn Klander of ENMU-Ruidoso.

Success At Last.

"Hurrah! Hurrah! Five dollars for my latest story, 'A Modern Husband!'"
"Congratulations, young man. From whom did you get the money?"
"From the express company. They lost it."
