EASTER SONG.

BY J. H. TEMPLE.

O, little birds, that flutter and sing,
And pine in a lonely stranger-land,
For the potent touch of a magic hand,
Come back, brave birds, she is here,
The Spring!

O, delicate flowers that fled in fear,
When the eddying snow whirled thick around,
The sun has turned to the north again,
Come back, sweet flowers, she is here,
She's here.

O, desolate souls that struggled and cried,
'Mid a barren waste of toil and strife,
For the sweeter air of a purer life,
Look up dear souls, it is Easter-tide!

O, innocent hearts that plead and pray,
'Neath a blighting load of shame and sorrow,
For the promised dawn of a brighter
morrow;

Look up, poor hearts, it is Easter Day!
Out of the glooms of a woful night,
Out of the depths of sin and sadness,
Rise to the realms of joy and gladness!
Rise to a heaven of peace and light!

THE PENITENTES.

The penitentes seem to a new comer in the country, to be a strange order of superstitious fanatics, the old flagellants of the dark ages, who have come down by some ecclesiastical legerdem in, landing in this corner of the terrestrial footstool. Their performances are a touch of baptized barbarism clutching at the skirts of this nineteenth century. The horrible ribleness of seeing them at work flagellating themselves on Good Friday is akin in the recollection to the heartrending moans of the wounded and dying in a terrible calamity. They compose a secret organization that is fast dying out, and is not now sanctioned by the dominant church, and the worst of their doings are supposed to take place in their lodge rooms. They are seen to outsiders only when marching in procession, carrying each a rough, wooden cross, nearly heavy enough to crush them under its weight. Their backs are usually bare and, as they stagger along as best they can, weighed down by their burdensome load in body and their sins in mind, their brethren beat them with clubs and prick them with cacti till in many instances there apparently isn't an inch of the flesh that isn't torn and bleeding. Not infrequently they die from the effects of the terrible punishment inflicted. A doleful chanting, in which they specify the particular sins they are trying to expiate, is continually kept up. And yet this very class is usually composed of the rabble element of the community. Often, when they get through their penances, they go straight off and get drunk and run up another score of evil deeds done in the body greater than the last. They seem to hold implicitly to the belief that every sin committed must be paid for in suffering, and, the more pain one endures here, the less he will have hereafter. These poor, deluded penitentes are not attempting any moral improvements. They are merely endeavoring to shorten their stay in purgatory and horrid work; they make of it. Anyone who was ever so unfortunate as to be locked into one of their lodges must admit that a feeling of uneasiness and uncertainty crept over them while there. Perchance a dim light, as the scene may be described, made awfully indistinct and the ghastly rude form of Christ on the cross; the man stretched out full length on the ground, more like corpses than living beings, and the wretched objects who pined the scourge on themselves and the others, making the blood spurt at every stroke, while the yells, wails and howls were indescribably terrible.

But such barbarous practices will soon have become obsolete in New Mexico. Even now it is only the well-informed who can point out their hiding place when engaged in their flagellating.—Optic.

Mr. Gladstone's Yawn.

Mr. Gladstone watches the House of Commons pretty closely. He is a determined stayer, and no amount of prosy speechifying will drive him home. He remains at his post to the end, even though the session be an all-night one. Very frequently he falls asleep in his chair—in fact 'tis no unusual sight to see one-third of the house dozing placidly while prolix orators are exchanging platitudes on the subject of Armenia, or "our foreign relations." But the most inspiring spectacle of all is to see Mr. Gladstone yawn—he performs that refreshing office so earnestly, so deliberately, and with such apparent relish. He cares not though all the world behold him; he means no disrespect to anybody; he yawns heartily, deliberately, prodigiously simply because an occasional vigorous yawn seems to reinvigorate him physically and rehabilitate him intellectually.

About a year ago the Albuquerque Democrat had an attack of the big head and demanded from the weekly papers an advertisement in exchange for its daily issue. Almost without exception the weeklies cut it from their lists. Lately however, it has come down from its high horse and is soliciting exchanges from these same humble weeklies.—Rio Grande Republican.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Statistics and careful estimates of the increase of population in the United States since 1880 indicates that there will be a total of 67,000,000 people at the time of the next census, July 1, 1890.

Acting on the decision of the attorney general that in absence of law, therefore Indians cannot leave their reservations, the commissioner of Indian affairs has issued notice that all cattle on Indian land in the Indian territory for grazing purposes must be removed not later than October.

Report has reached Las Cruces that two Mexicans whose homes are in Tularosa, were found hanging to a limb of a cottonwood tree over on the Rio Bonito in Lincoln county, presumably for horse stealing. Their names were Louis Telles and Eufaquio Domingues, and a brother of Telles had a letter which gave the information. They were both known as bad men and if the report is correct there is no great loss.—Republican.

"Show me a professional athlete forty years old," says an eminent physician, "and I will show you a man old beyond his time, with bones out of shape, muscles injured, and joints stiffened, and no one would promise him five years more of life."

According to the latest returns the total yield of gold in Queensland, Australia, last year was 737,032 ounces, the value of which was roughly $12,500,000. The output of Victoria, Australia, for the year was 615,055 ounces, equivalent to about $11,900,000, or a decrease of 21,145 ounces from the return of the year previous.—Fin. and Min. Record.

According to the medical experts of St Louis, Mr. J. J. Cockrell, of this territory, has had no touch of insanity, but has had a slight attack of pen-paralysis, which will in no way impair the functions of his mind. He will soon return home as sound as ever.

W. W. Cox of Dona Ana county, sold 1,156 sheep; from yearlings up, to be delivered on the cars at Cruces for $2.75. The sheep are all well graded but sheep men consider this a good round price and a sign that the market is advancing. They go to Kansas.

A talent of gold was $13,809.
A talent of silver was $538.30.
A shekel of silver about 50c.—F. and M. Record.

The Old Bum

One of the trials of the saloon men is the old bum, who never knows when he is full, and like the horse leech, is always asking for more. He haunts the counter, is always ready when a crowd comes in, elbows himself to the front and takes it straight or crooked. Any way so he gets it and somebody else pays for it. This class rarely have any money, and are the pet horror of the bar-keeper, especially the beer seller, who has chairs, tables and newspapers for the comfort of his guests. They don't understand a hint, and have to be refused with that degree of emphasis which imports that it is the "word with the bark on it." Occasionally they get too full for locomotion and gracefully coil themselves up in the back yard attached to the liquid dispensatory, where they lie unconscious of the world, its snares and temptations. It is a study to watch one of these old fellows; who seems to think his mouth was intended for a funnel, and his bladder for a receptacle of the vilest deceptions chemistry has aided man to prepare.—Optic.

A Long-Lived Family.

A newspaper man discovered a remarkable family in Farmington, Me. the other day. Calling at the home of Jonathan Scott Ellis, he found Mr. Ellis, who is 96 years old, seated by the stove and reading a newspaper without glasses. His wife's sister, Miss Lydia Ballard, who will be 97 years old in April was seated in a rocking-chair near by and knitting vigorously. Another sister-in-law, Miss Hannah Ballard, 84 years old next October, was cleaning up the dinner table and washing the dishes. Mrs. Ellis died three years ago at the age of 88. The old folks prefer to live by themselves and do all their own work, and Father Ellis yet refers to his sisters-in-law as "the girls."

A Cheap Affidavit.

It was shown in a lawsuit in a New England town the other day that one Ebenezer Skinner made affidavit that a certain remedy had cured him of rheumatism of twenty years' standing, and all he charged for the swearing was fifty cents. He had never had the rheumatism in his life.—Detroit Free Press.

A novel flower has been found at the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. This floral chameleon has a faculty of changing its color during the day. OUR GREAT GAIN.

An occasional victory in local elections would be of no significance, but a succession of gains in local elections and different and widely scattered states means that public sentiment is setting in a changed direction. Within a month elections have been held in many of the Pennsylvania, New York and Iowa cities, and in several of the New York country towns. Two of these states are strongly Republican, and the third was carried by the Republicans in 1888. In these local elections in three states, including some of the Republican rural districts of New York, the advantage was very lengthy on the Democratic side. In the Fourth congressional district of Philadelphia after a vigorous campaign on the tariff reform issue the Democratic candidate for congress ran 2,700 votes ahead of his ticket. In several of the Republican cities the Democrats won. In New York the Democrats carried Rochester, which the Republicans have been carrying for 14 years. In several other New York cities the Democrats won. The Democrats now have 24 mayors of the 30 incorporated cities in the state, and they developed the most strength comparatively in the Republican strongholds. In the intensely Republican interior of the state the Democrats met with greater success than they ever did before. In 15 counties, 12 of which were carried by Harrison and Morton, the Democrats have elected 133 supervisors as against 87 in 1888, and the Republicans have elected 150 as against 185 in 1888.

In Iowa, too, the local elections showed decided Democratic gains. For example, in Clinton, the home of Congressman Hayes, the regular Democratic ticket won, although there was an independent Democratic ticket also in the field, and at the previous election the Republicans won by 600 or 700. Judge Hayes is of the opinion that the tariff had much more to do with those gains than the prohibition question. The latter, he says, was pretty thoroughly discounted before the last elections, and while the opposition to prohibition still adds something to the Democratic strength, most of the late gains he attributes to a marked change of sentiment in his state on the tariff question.—National Democrat.

"A POLITICAL TRICK."

The vote of Wyoming for Delegate in the Fifty-first Congress was 18,010 a little more than one-half of the vote of New Mexico, the Democratic Territory. The Wyoming vote indicates a present population of not over 55,000 in the Territory. In 1880, for instance, the vote for Delegate was 7,667, and the census in the same year registered a population of 30,788. The ratio of vote to population then was 1 to 2.7. The same ratio now would give Wyoming a population of only 48,827. This fact alone should kill the proposition to erect a State in Wyoming now. Except as a political trick, played by a defiant and unscrupulous majority, it is unworthy of serious consideration. In the United States Senate every inhabitant in Wyoming would have a representation equal to that of one hundred people in New York. The Republican State makers have tasted blood. We hope that some of our Democratic friends in Congress who were carried away by sentimental considerations or bamboozled by rainbow hopes into consenting to the arrangement by which the Republicans were enabled to secure North Dakota, South Dakota, and Washington, and to steal Montana, appreciate their mistake now that they are powerless to check the further progress of the enterprise.—N. Y. Sun.

THE BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Section 3, Article 10, of the constitution of Wisconsin, provides that "no sectarian instruction shall be allowed" in the district schools of that State. On the 24th ult. the supreme court of Wisconsin decided, in a case brought before it on appeal from the circuit court of Rock County, that the reading of selected portions of the King James version of the Bible in said schools is "sectarian instruction," and in violation of the section above cited. This decision has elicited very wide comment by the press, as is shown in the appended extracts.

The ground taken by the court is, that the reading of King James version of the Bible in the public schools, whether as a means of instruction or as an act of worship, is, as it respects Catholics who do not accept this version as correct, to introduce a sectarian book into these schools, as really as if the Douay version of the Bible, which the Catholics do accept, were thus used. This is the path of the principle laid down in this decision; and we think it to be entirely correct, and, as a principle, just as applicable in this state as in Wisconsin. The simple truth is, that our public school system, sustained by general taxation, and regulated by State authority, should confine itself exclusively to the secular sphere of instruction, and leave all questions relating to religious instruction and religious worship absolutely untouched. There is no other ground that is consistent with our political system or with equity as between different religious sects. Protestants make a grave mistake in dealing with this question, when they claim for themselves what they deny to Catholics. Let the State have a public school system for secular purposes, and stop there. Let religious instruction be otherwise provided for.—The Independent.

No one can doubt that the reading in the public schools of the Douay, or Roman Catholic, version of the Bible would be denounced by the protestant world as secular instruction prohibited by the Constitution. Is the reading of the St. James version less so? If protestants would have a right to complain of the former, have not Catholics an equal right to complain of the latter? The theory of the Wisconsin constitution seems to be that the proper function of common schools is to afford secular instruction only—to teach pupils in the ordinary branches of education—leaving to the home and the church the task of religious training.—N. Y. Herald.

The only ground upon which the friends of the schools can object to the intrusion of sectarianism is the ground that the schools are non-sectarian. As the supreme court points out, the doctrinal passages in the Bible are sectarian, and the use of the Bible as a whole as a text-book is therefore inadmissible. This opinion of Justice Lyon contains the following distinction:

This conclusion does not banish from the district schools such text books as are founded upon the fundamental teachings of the Bible, or which contain extracts therefrom. There is much in the Bible which cannot justly be characterized as sectarian, and there can be no valid objection to the use of such matter in the secular instruction of the pupils. Much of it has great historical and literary value, which may be thus utilized to inculcate good morals—that is our duty to each other—which may and ought to be inculcated by the district schools.—Evening Wisconsin.

Jay Gould's movements in Mexico lead the papers there to believe that he intends investing heavily in railroads. We should not be surprised to see Mr. Gould get control of both the Santa Fe and Mexican central at an early day. In fact, it is believed that he has already secured a majority of the stock of the Santa Fe to vote at the approaching election of that company. He evidently intends to control the whole carrying trade of the United States and Mexico, and he has just about got it now.—Herald.

The stockmen of New Mexico will be on hand next winter at the meeting of the territorial legislature and will want some laws. One of the most important is a revision of the present wild animal bounty act. As the matter now stands there is but little encouragement for hunters to destroy wolves, lions and other destructive beasts that prey upon the flocks and herds. It would seem that there is no appropriation to pay even the small reward and it would certainly be well to not only increase the amount of the reward but also to provide for its prompt payment on presentation of proper proof.—Stock Grower.

Hides, too, have got back to the list. Mr. McKinly had a prohibitive duty on hides in his tariff bill, but the New England shoemakers made such a ruction over it that he was forced to take it all off. This is the answer of the House protective tariff committee to the demand of the western farmer and cattleman for the same protection that is given to the eastern manufacturer.—Headlight.

A Good Suggestion.

It has been discovered that it takes two bushels of Kansas corn to buy one head of Alabama cabbage. What's the matter with raising less corn and Republicans in Kansas and more Democrats and cabbage?—Arkansas City Democrat.

The gem cat's eye when of the first-class quality, is now as valuable in market as the diamond. The largest cat's eye in the world arrived at London recently from Ceylon. Its weight cut is one hundred and seventy carats, and it is insured for thirty thousand rupees. It is wonderfully beautiful, the gem giving out a wide warm beam of opalescent light.

We have been favored with an advance copy of the Double Easter Number of The Youth's Companion. The pages are profusely illustrated, and the stories are by favorite writers. Some of the titles are, "Numbered with the Saints," by Mrs. Mary Tappan Wright, "Gabriell's Easter Hat," by Mrs. Marie B. Williams, "One of the Squire's Mornings," by Sara E. Cushman, "Bim Hazlit's Luck," by Miss Sophie Sweet, a humorous story called "A Botanist's Predicaments," "Holy week in Peru," by Maria Louisa Wetmore, "Miss Bent's Easter Eggs," by J. L. Harbour, with timely editorials, poems, and a special page for the little ones.

Four hundred and forty thousand families will receive this Number and the Easter Season will be the more memorable to them because of its recognition in this pleasant form.

Jno. J. Cockrell writes to the Independent that he will return to Lincoln in a short time. Mr. Cockrell says that he is in good health at present and that the reports in regard to his mental condition, that have been published in the White Oaks Leader and copied from it into other Territorial papers and telegraphed east, are without foundation. His visit to Washington was only for the purpose of taking a little rest and visiting his father's family.—Independent.

Professor C. Richardson, of the agricultural department, says that the average amount of water contained by flours of eight Eastern states which he examined was 12.49 per cent; while Minnesota and Dakota flours only contained 8.96 per cent. From these figures he deduced that "other things being equal, a barrel of western flour would make more bread than a barrel of eastern flour."

The dance given last Friday evening by the citizens of White Oaks at K. of P. Hall, was the pleasantest affair of the kind our town has witnessed for some time past. The gathering was not so large as on some former occasions, but good-fellowship and mutual enjoyment was the order of business, which made amends for lack in numbers.

WHY

THE MAN LOOK SAD ?

Because he knows that his dear wife is just commencing to work him for something. But when Ladies trade with their husbands won't look that way because there are no extravagant prices on YOUNG & TALIAFERRO'S goods. Everything is good, everything is cheap, make your home happy, make your husbands smile by trading at the temple of economy. YOUNG & TALIAFERRO

One of the justices of the peace in Kansas City the other day said to a considerable audience after having tried a suit for debt; "No man should be delicate about asking for what is properly his due. If he neglects doing so he is deficient in that spirit of independence which he should observe in all his actions. Rights are rights, and if not granted should be demanded. The selfish world is little inclined to give one his own unless he have the manliness to claim it. The lack of proper fulfillment of this principle has lost to many fortune, fame and reputation."

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

Whereas Theodore W. Heman and M. Lulu Heman, his wife, of the town of White Oaks, County of Lincoln, and Territory of New Mexico, by their certain mortgage-deed bearing date the 17th day of August, A. D. 1888, and recorded in the Probate Clerk's office, of the County of Lincoln in Book B, of the records of mortgages, pp 40-43 did convey to the undersigned, Phil. E. Green, (of St. Louis, Mo.) his heirs and assigns as mortgagee the following described Real Estate situate in the said County of Lincoln and Territory of New Mexico, as follows, to wit: That certain Placer Mining Claim and premises designated by the Surveyor General of New Mexico as Lot No. 151 and known as the James Placer mining claim in the White Oaks mining district and which is more particularly described as to metes and bounds in the United States Patent recorded in the records of said Lincoln County in book C of records of patents at page 151 to which reference is hereby made to secure the payment of a certain promissory note made by the said Theodore W. Heman and M. Lulu Heman to the said Phil E. Green, of even date with said mortgage deed for the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars and interest thereon at the rate of twelve per centum per annum, payable one year from the date thereof. And whereas it was provided in and by said mortgage-deed, that if default be made in the payment of said principal sum and interest thereon or any part thereof, when the same should become due and payable, then in such case, the said mortgagee, his agent or legal representative, might sell at public auction said mortgaged premises to the highest bidder for cash: first giving notice of the time and place of such sale by publishing a notice, in some newspaper published in the County of Lincoln, for at least thirty days before the date of such sale and in their name or names or as the Agent or Attorney of said mortgagor might make and deliver to the purchaser or purchasers at such sale a good and sufficient deed of such premises.

And whereas default has been made in the payment of the principal sum and interest thereon due upon said note and which default still continues: Now, therefore, Public Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday the 15th day of April, A. D. 1890, at the hour of two (2) o'clock in the afternoon, at the said described premises adjoining the town of White Oaks, in said County of Lincoln, the said Phil E. Green, by his Agents and Attorneys, Watson & Lund, will sell at Public Auction to the highest bidder, for cash, the premises hereinbefore and in the said mortgage-deed described in pursuance of the powers and provisions of the said mortgage-deed.

The amount claimed to be due and unpaid upon said note of principal and interest thereon, together with attorney's fees and costs of advertising and sale, etc, is one thousand, seven hundred and eighty and .10-100 dollars. ($1780 .10)

Mr. Lee: "Why, Addie, you needn't cry about it! I only said Mrs. Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you would follow her example."

Mrs. Lee: "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen, and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't."

Mr. Lee: "What is that?" Mrs. Lee: "Well, she gets all of her information from the Magazines they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation, but I can do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I loitered more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would spend in a month by my occasional chats with friends. I certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of house-keeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Annie goes over to the 'Alcove' she comes back and teases me to let you take Demorest's Family Magazine as the stories are so good. Even the boys watch for it every month, as a place is found for it in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really a wonderful how it suits every member of the family!"

Mr. Lee: "Well, perhaps I had better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us."

Mrs. Lee: "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 1 cent, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern or cut' entitling the holder to any pattern she may choose, and in any size, which alone makes each copy worth 3 cents; and I just want a jacket paper like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.40 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."

Debt of Honor.

England, which is rich in gentlemen, furnished, in the beginning of the present century, a good model of that genius which the world loves in Charles James Fox, who added to his great abilities the most social disposition and real love of men. A characteristic anecdote is related of the celebrated orator and statesman:

A tradesman who had long dunned Mr. Fox for a note of three hundred guineas found him one day counting gold, and demanded payment of his long due note.

"I cannot pay you now," said Fox. "I owe this money to Sheridan; it is a debt of honor. If an accident should happen to me he has nothing to show to maintain his claim."

"Then," said the creditor, "I change my debt into a debt of honor," and tore the note in pieces.

Fox thanked the man for his confidence, and paid him, saying: "His debt was of older standing, and Sheridan must wait."

Fox was the lover of liberty, friend of the Hindoo, friend of the African slave; he possessed a great personal popularity, and Napoleon said of him, on the occasion of his visit to Paris in 1805: "Mr. Fox will always hold the first place in an assembly at the Tuileries."—Youth's Companion.

Hydraulic power is now being applied to the manufacture of seamless steel boats. These boats are claimed to be proof against the destructive influences of sun and shower, and to be much more durable and reliable than the ordinary wooden boats. Though made of steel, the weight will not be greater than that of a wooden boat of the same size, and the buoyancy will consequently be not less. It is contended that in every respect the seamless steel boat will be superior to the wooden one, and the cost of the one will not be materially greater than that of the other.—Popular Science Monthly.
