WHITE OAKS, NEW MEXICO

From One of the "Remonstrants."

I for one'd jest like to go back to the good old days when wimmen know'd their place. Why, when I was a leetle shaver wimmen could n't c'lect a sent o' their day's arnings, for 't properly b'longed to their husbands, her time bein' h'is'n, if she went out to work, the munny she arned was ritefully his'n. But now, owin, to these rantin' wimmen's rites wimmin, things is changed an' in most of the States property law is tampered with. If a property is 'cumulated, of course it b'longs to the msn, for he's made it all, she hain't done nothin' but a leetle housework, an' its perfectly preposterous to thuk o' sich a thing as he'r havin' a third to will away in case she died first—she'd likely give it away to her gals, or to some church what don't need it, an' her man dus need it to carry on his bizness, for he'll hev to marry agin. The law 'lows 'at men kin take better care o' childern, so it's all rite for him to give 'em away. I beleeve thar's but four States foolish 'nuff to give the mother ekal legal rite to the childern. Thar's lots of trubble made by wimmen gittin' out o' their spear. So meny on 'em hev got together in W. C. T. U.'s, an' other nonsensigal doin's, to talk matters over til they hev ben gettin' fanatical like, so they find fault with men's just laws. They du say the age o' consent ought to be more 'n ten years old; thet boys are persected by meny laws regardin miners til they are 21, an' thet a gal's most preshus poseshon kin be taken when a child. Wall, if they can't sell nothin' but their virtue in childhood, don't ye see a havin' it so 'll tend to make mothers careful? Let 'em be kept as of yore at their nittin' and quilt-patchin' an' thar 'll be no danger. Spinnin' aint expected of 'em nowadays,—mores the pity, for the more work wimmen 'an gals hev to do the less time they hev to think. It has allus ben disastrous to give larnin to those you'd keep in subjection, an' this trubble all comes from edicatin' gals. My Mandy kin reed an' rite, an' thets nuff for a woman to no to bring up a family. She's willin' to be rooled by me—as the Bible enjoins 'bout wives; howsomever, sense the temperanee craze she's bound to work with those wimmen an' I've set my foot down agin it. She's allus been willin' heretofoe to let me go to the polls for her, an' I promise her I'll vote again lickin', but that I can't in every time, for 'taint popelar an' best. She's inclined to worry on count o' our boys. A good mo'her's sort o' like a hen, redy to fite at anything she's feared will go fur or young 'uns. Mandy's a queen in her hum, thar I let her rool, only I don't 'low no nonsense with my munny. I give her 25 cents now an' theu when she asks fer it, pervided she tells how it is to be spent,—she noas better'n to by any gew-gaws. An' she's sartin' to never to darken my doors agin if she thinks of w'tin', so she never will. Like meny another sensibul woman, she is satisfied with her rites. She's willin' to work, an' slave a null life time as wife an' mother, 'an' to die at last a beggar—an' I'm willin' she should! Yours trowly.

Printed by Dog Power.

Printing machines are usually driven by steam or gas motors, but the machine which prints a certain newspaper in America is run by dog power. A large wheel about ten feet in diameter and two in width is connected with the driving rigger of the machine by means of a belt; strips of wood, for foothold, are placed a foot apart on the inside of a wheel, where Joe, the journalistic dog, walks his weary round, and thus causes the wheel to revolve. Joe has run the press for about five years, and has faithfully earned his board and lodging, but it is now about time for him to feel ill and "turn it up," being unable to continue turning it round.—London Tidbits.

A queer bill has been introduced in the Georgia House of Representatives, imposing a tax of twenty-five dollars per annum upon every bachelor over thirty years old, and raising the tax twenty-five dollars for each additional five years of age. The bill was referred to the committee on hygiene and sanitation, and has been favorably reported by them. The measure provides that money raised by tax shall go to the branch colleges of the States. Of course so absurd a bill will not pass. But the indignant comments of bachelor members, as reported in one of the Atlanta papers, are instructive. "It is the most fool'sh bill ever introduced before a dignified body of civilized legislature," exclaimed one. "No legislature would ever consent to let such a villainous piece of legislation be recorded against it," said another; and a third denounced the bill as class legislation. "No doubt it would be class legislation; but would it be any more distinctly class legislation than the legal disabilities imposed upon married women? Which is worse, to be taxed twenty-five dollars per year, or be deprived of all your property, forbidden to make a will, and have the right to all your earnings given to another? That was the status of married women every where before the equal rights movement began, and it is their status still in some parts of our country. Some thing might have been said on the subject of class legislation by the poor little Kentucky woman who lately bought a cow with money which it had taken her three months to earn by needle, in order to have milk for her family of small children. Her husband promptly sold the cow, invested the money in whiskey and a shotgun, and "started on the war-path." Under Kentucky law, the wife's earnings belong to her husband. Class legislation is a very bad thing, but there is more than one kind of it.—Woman's Journal.

"INJIN JO."

"Injin Joe," one of the principal characters in Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," still lives here and is one of the noted individuals of the town. He drives an old white horse and a red express wagon, borne down on one side from long and hard service. Joe hauls trunks from the depot and chores around with his horse and wagon. He loves a dollar more than anyone else in town, and out of his meager earnings he has accumulated quite a fortune. He owns twelve tenement houses in Hannibal, ranging in value from $500 to $1,000 each, yet from the clothes that he wears one would naturally think that he would be constantly in dread of the rag-man coming along and casting him into a sack of old iron and rags.

He is of a religious inclination, and is now engaged with his co-workers in the church in raising money to build a new edifice on Broadway extension and Griffith streets.

He don't like to talk about the prominence he has gained through the writings of Mark Twain. If you speak to him about it he is almost sure to answer you in an abrupt manner, and give you to understand on the spot that he is not desirous of entering into conversation with you.

"Injin Jo" is about 75 years old and bids fair to be with us twenty-five years longer.

If the bottomless pit has not been located before, the Maine Central Railroad officials are willing to wager that they have found it at Lily Pond, on the new Dexter and Dover branch. The track began to settle at this place about two months ago, and since then trains have been run around the spot on a temporary track, while efforts have been made to obtain a solid roadbed by dumping gravel into the swamp. The more gravel used the more appears to be needed, and now, after 1,000 carloads have dumped into the hole, there is still room for as much more. It is said that the swamps are inhabited by strange lizards and eyeless fish.

THE WHITE OAKS COUNTRY.

Morris R. Locke is at present in St. Louis. He was interviewed last week concerning the White Oaks road by a reporter of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who says:

Morris R. Locke, a heavy railroad contractor of El Paso, Tex., arrived in the city yesterday to look after the interests of the White Oaks railroad, which is now under construction. When finished it will extend from El Paso 160 miles north to White Oaks, N. M. About twenty miles of the road has been finished, and forty miles more graded. In speaking of the object and future prospect of the enterprise, Mr. Locke stated that the company by which he is employed in the work is largely interested in the territory north of El Paso, and the development of its unlimited resources. The main object suggesting the construction of the road was to furnish cheap fuel for the smelting works of the border city, and this could only be accomplished by opening up the inexhaustible coal field of the Sacramento mountains in and around White Oaks. Although El Paso is situated in the heart of one of the richest fruit-raising countries in the world, the development of New Mexico's mineral resources will naturally revert to the benefit of Texas' prize western town. Speaking of White Oaks Mr. Locke was very enthusiastic for its future. He claims that the iron resources are as extensive as those of Birmingham, Ala., and of much better grade. The ground supply is sufficient for 100 years, without as much as making a digging below the surface. The foot hills of the mountains are rich in gold, silver, copper, lead, iron and coal, while the valley between the Sacramento and Franklin, in which White Oaks is situated, is filled with fine timber.

From the El Paso Herald. COAL AT WHITE OAKS.

EDITOR HERALD:

On my recent trip to the White Oaks country I was agreeably surprised to find about 7 miles north-east of Negal a coal field that will equal the coal fields of Trinidad in a very short time. The veins in this new find show from six to seven feet of No. 1 coal and only want development to make them one of the best in the southwest. There are quite a number of openings made upon the vein at different points, all showing good coal and all increasing as depth is reached.

Mr. Mudgett, of Negal, has one shaft or tunnel sunk to a depth of 83 feet which shows six feet and three inches of coal at the face of the drift. This opening has a sandstone roof and a shale slate floor. One-half mile north of this opening, Ritter & Johnson have a drift to the depth of 56 feet, showing 9 feet of ledge matter with 7 feet 6 inches of coal, the rest being what is termed bone coal and slate. The bone and slate seems to be diminishing as depth is reached, and I think will entirely disappear by the time they have sunk 100 feet. There are several other openings in as many other different places, showing this coal field to be very extensive, and of an excellent quality.

The dip of the vein is on an angle of 22 degrees from a horizontal and when they are fully developed will prove to be of the greatest importance to the building of the White Oaks road.

Prof. Carrera, of Las Cruces, visited the fields the day before I did and I am informed was very much pleased with the outlook and gave it as his opinion that it was as good, if not a better, prospect for an extensive coal field than any in New Mexico. I am informed, that the Professor will be at the El Paso convention on the 21st, at which time he will give his views regarding this coal field, as well as upon other resources which that country will afford to the builders of the White Oaks railroad.

The coal is so located that it will be easy of access by the road, and I am fully satisfied that as soon as these mines are developed to such an extent as will prove the permanency of the veins that they will be the means of building a railway to them, whether it be the White Oaks line from this point or a line from somewhere else.

There are also in the same neighborhood large deposits of magnetic iron ore that will prove of great value in connection with the coal. If the people of El Paso only would take the trouble to look into the value and permanency of this new discovery I am satisfied that they would exert every effort and give some assistance toward the development of this coal, for by so doing they will assure the early completion of the road from here.

There are a great many other things that I will bring out in a short time to show why this line should be built, and with the support of those of our citizens who are able to assist in a financial way it can be done very soon.

H. L. DETWILER.

A curious and interesting, but apparently well authenticated story, comes from Washington, that Harrison, prior to his nomination in 1838, gave to Blaine's friends his personal pledge that if Blaine would retire from the field, or not press his candidacy, he (Harrison) would not be a candidate in 1892, but would leave the field free to Blaine so far as he was concerned. The further statement is made that Blaine did not desire the nomination on account of the state of his health, he being then in Europe on that account, but that he expected to become fully restored by the election of 1892, and if so would then seek the nomination. Mean-time Harrison is industriously stumping the country in pursuit of that nomination, and Blaine is quietly sitting in his cosy home at Bar Harbor, but all the same keeping his weather eye wide open watching the antics of the little man who has "gone back" on the bargain.—Deming Headlight.

Hon. Antonio Joseph, New Mexico's able, fireless, and invincible delegate in congress, will come down from Ojo Caliente Springs, on Monday evening, and will go through to Albuquerque the same night, where he will spend the week attending the fair, the meeting of the Democratic territorial committee, and the railroad convention. He will be accompanied south from this city by numerous warm personal and political friends.—Santa Fe Sun.

The literary periodicals are lamenting that since Lowell is dead, and Holmes, Whittier and Whittman doing, we have no great men left. But the truth is, we do not know whether we have or not. There are few who can see through the fog of familiarity which obscures the things of the present from the eyes of our appreciation. Talent we recognize. Genius we pass by, not content to ignore it, but usually adding a sneer to our neglect. "What possible claim can contemporary criticism set up to respect," writes Sydney Lanier, "that criticism which crucified Jesus Christ, stoned Stephen, hooted Paul for a madman, tried Luther for a criminal, tortured Galileo, bound Columbus in chains, drove Dante into a hell of exile, killed Keats, cracked jokes on Gluck, Schubert, Beethoven, Berlioz and Wagner, and committed as many other impious follies that a thousand letters would not suffice to catalogue them." Our great men are not all gone, because the world is not permitted to be without great men, and America, which is becoming the foremost country of the world, is likely to have her full share of men—"who make their way upward." Probably these great men will be in their graves before their value is recognized. But it is worth while to die, as Wagner did, for example, reviled by the nation for which he had founded a new school of art, hounded by the press, trifled with by operatic managers and misrepresented by the very singers who played his roles, if at the end of a few years, immortality is given one. "The triumph of Wagnerism" has furnished the theme for many pens lately; and that triumph is the best illustration at present before the world to prove that a really great leader must be out of this life before he is appreciated, or his mission recognized. So no doubt we have great men among us now, if we had the wit to know them.—Omaha World-Herald.

Married, Sept. 8th. at Denver, Col, John B. Upson, formerly of White Oaks to Miss Minnie Mink, of Denver.

Mrs. J. O. Nabours and Mrs. W. Rogers have gone with their children for a week's visit at Mrs. Lloyd's at Three Rivers.

Miss Emma Baldwin who after a years stay in this place, returned to her home in Osceola, Missouri, was married a few weeks ago to Dr. Hopkins of Bisbee, Arizona.

The medals offered as prizes to the pupils of the public school, are given by Mr. and Mrs. E. McB. Timoney. They intend to continue the gift each year during their lifetime.

Mrs. Amy A. Parker, whose card appears in another column, called at this office and stated that she had been unjustly treated and misrepresented in what was said of her in last week's Interpreter, and asking, as she had a right to do, the name of our informant and for space in this paper to tell her own story, both of which were given her. When we penned the item referred to we had never met Mrs. Parker, and it is only fair to say that there was nothing in her appearance or in the manner in which she told the story of her misfortunes to show that she was crazy. She had papers with her which go far to prove the truth of her statements, and some of our citizens, who know her family, say that she is well connected and is of good repute. We regret exceedingly that any word of ours should add a straw to the burdens of one who has already a heavier load than she is able to bear.

Jim Connor who relieved Mr. Zeigler of his watch and purse, and for whose apprehension $100 reward is offered, was arrested on the day of the robbery. He was placed in the custody of William Henley, of Nogal, who gave him permission to go out to find his witnesses. As he was leaving the house, Isaac Smith, who was with Mr. Zeigler at the time of the robbery, entered. Connor recognized him, and drawing a revolver fired and ran, the ball just grazing Mr. Smith's head. Deputy Sheriff Langston with several others started in pursuit but so far he has not been heard from.

Mr. H. L. Ross leaves to-day on the southbound train for New Mexico, and will make an extended tour of the territory and an examination of its mining interests. As is well known Mr. Ross is one of the best informed mining men in the state, is a horn prospector and mineralogist. Whatever reports he brings back can be relied upon as correct. He is also a literary man of no mediocre attainments and we bespeak for him a cordial reception on the part of the newspaper fraternity in New Mexico. —Trinidad Advertiser, Sept. 16th.

Geo. Curry of Lincoln, and J. P. C. Langston, of this place, are in Albuquerque, attending the fair and the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the K. of P.

W. H. Hudgens familiarly known all over southern New Mexico as "Billy" has located temporarily at El Paso, where he has accepted a well-salaried position. —R. G. Rep.

J. Y. Hewett, T. W. Heman and A. Schinzler left for Albuquerque Wednesday afternoon. They will attend the El Paso railroad convention on the 21st.

Mr. J. Zeigler states that the gold watch taken from him by Jim Connor was manufactured in Quincy, Illinois, but Mr. Zeigler has forgotten the name of the maker.

Mrs. S. B. McPherson has bought the lot north of her residence, of Mr. John Wilson, consideration $100. She proposes to dig a well, raise a windmill and go to farming.

To the Parents, and Pupils of White Oaks Public School. There will be awarded at the close of the present school term a gold and silver medal, named respectively "The Ernest Timoney" and "The George Drake" medal.

The former shall be awarded to any pupil eleven years old or over, who shall at the close of the school, present the highest grade in scholarship and deportment.

The latter, to any pupil between the ages of seven and eleven years who shall present the highest grade in attendance and deportment.

A daily record shall be kept of each pupil.

We kindly solicit the support of the parents and all others interested in this work.

ANNIE F. MCGREW,
Teacher.

A CARD

I am a soldier's widow, have nursed and supported a sick soldier for seven years, am in want, applied to the W. R. C. of White Oaks, the nearest W. R. C. to Roswell, for ten dollars, and was refused, although I brought affidavits to corroborate my statements, and through the diplomacy of the President an item, or personal, was put in this paper, and I respectfully ask the ladies if the suggestion came from their husbands? I have served my country for many years, and am engaged in a land contest that, if brought before a jury, would be decided in my favor, and have said that the Government was weak or it would protect a soldier's widow by so regulating the Land Laws, that the working class will be allowed to come before a jury and force the witnesses to appear.

The P. T. C. have in open meeting discussed the question of making presents to our President Harrison's wife, Secretaries and Land agent's wives, and decided that the ring that rules the United States should be requested to deal more honorably with the working people.

The testimony against Chief Justice Lamar, Secretary Noble, ex-President Cleveland and President Harrison, with others, was found to be correct, but we think the punishment would lead to anarchy and murder, and accordingly I have been asked to present my land case according to law and the best of my ability.

I quietly ask the few citizens that oppose me in having the law so revised that the Alliance people and other working people may have justice done by bringing their lands into before a jury, to give me justice by speaking the truth about me and my labor.

Mrs. Ella G. Timoney.

FROM NATURE'S STORE-HOUSE.

It stands to reason that a medicine which will destroy the germs of contagious blood poison and counteract the effects of mercurial poisoning may be depended on to overcome the diseases that have their origin in malaria, or that have their seat in an impure condition of the blood. This is what S. S. S. has done, and what will do, as its popularity attests. As a preventive, and a remedy for the long list of affections that display their activity during the spring and summer months, it stands without a rival. The secret of this is that it is a remedy drawn from nature's own storehouse.

Bert Timoney has lately sold a lot in the Kempton addition, to Mr. Willis McBrayer, for the sum of $100. The new owner will erect a dwelling house at an early day.

$200 REWARD

FOR ORE THIEVES!

The common experience of this camp shows that much is lost by the mine operators by the stealing of gold in specimens, if not in amalgam and bullion. Therefore the "Old Abe" Co. offers a standing reward of Three Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction, or for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of stealing any of the property of the Old Abe Co., even the smallest specimen of ore. The rule of this company is to mill all specimens. Therefore none of the ore from this mine can be honestly held as specimens. And as the receiver, with guilty knowledge, is as guilty in law as the thief, this offer applies to the holder of Old Abe specimens.

Mr. Lee: "Why, Addie, you needn't cry about it; only Mrs. Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you would follow her example." Mrs. Lee: "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen, and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't." Mr. Lee: "What is that?" Mrs. Lee: "Well, she gets all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I could do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine last, and I learned more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of housekeeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated. Every time Annie goes over to the Allens she comes back and takes me to get you to take so good. Even the boys watch for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family!" Mr. Lee: "Well, perhaps I had better send for a specimen copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us." Mrs. Lee: "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 50 cents; and I just want a jacket pattern like Mrs. Allen's." The subscription price is only $2.00 a year, and I must say I don't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."
