Miles Elected Governor In Primary

U. S. Rep. John E. Miles, who was backed by the state administration, Wednesday was the Democratic nominee for governor of New Mexico.

Miles defeated an attempt by U. S. Sen. Dennis Chavez, political friend of President Truman, and his brother, former U. S. Judge David Chavez, Jr., to seize party control.

With only a few voting divisions unreported, Miles topped the four-man gubernatorial field with a 9000 vote margin over Judge Chavez in Tuesday's primary election.

An unexpected 100,000-vote election and eastside opposition to Chavez' civil rights and state agriculture department programs aided the Miles victory.

Miles will meet young Edwin Mechem, Las Cruces attorney, in the Nov. 7 general election. Mechem was unopposed for Republican nomination for governor.

Returns from 870 of 910 voting divisions gave Miles 40,922, Chavez 31,845, Roswell Mayor Lake Frazier 21,489, and Corporation Commissioner Ingram Pickett 6148.

Two Democratic nominees for Congress at large were elected. They were former Rep. John J. Dempsey and incumbent A. M. Fernandez.

Ruidoso Precincts Votes Solidly For John E. Miles

Voting in two divisions of Precinct 19, which includes Ruidoso, gave John E. Miles an overwhelming margin over his Democratic competitors in the race for nomination for governor in the primary election Tuesday.

Miles got 213 votes in both divisions to outdistance Judge David Chavez, who received 15 votes, Lake Frazier, who received 82 and Ingram Pickett, 6.

John J. Dempsey, seeking the Democratic nomination for U. S. representative, got 174 votes to shade Joe M. Montoya who received 150. The incumbent, A. M. Fernandez received 46, Robert LaFollette, 32, and Joe A. Montoya, 29.

Republican candidate Jose Armijo received 20 Ruidoso votes for U. S. representative while Steiner Mason got 15.

Morris "Dick" Dickinson led the field in the race for lieutenant governor in Ruidoso with 60 votes.

Complete results were not available in county races in time for this week's News, but in Ruidoso, Democrat Bill Hart received 139 votes for county commissioner in District Three. Behind him in order came Pat Farrar, 107 and Ben Leslie, Sr., 74.

For justice of the peace, Herbert Smith received the GOP nomination with 50 votes. C. D. Weems won the Democratic nomination with 168 votes. He defeated H. R. Graham, 77, and Jim Ayres, 77.

Frank Barajas, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for constable, received 257 votes.

MILES CARRIES RUIDOSO PRECINCT: John E. Miles, Democratic candidate for the nomination for governor and a public figure in New Mexico many years, received overwhelming support of Ruidoso voters this week. Miles rolled up 213 votes to 15 for Judge David Chavez, 82 for Lake Frazier and six for Ingram Pickett.

Rains Bring Needed Moisture To Ruidoso, Hondo Valleys

Rain and hail which fell in varying amounts during five days of the week ending June 8 brought 1.23 of an inch of moisture to Ruidoso and surrounding areas and ended, at least temporarily, the critical threat of forest fire.

Hail which fell in a .64 of an inch downpour late Sunday afternoon damaged roofs throughout the length of the canyon and brought a touch of winter. The temperature dropped to 29 degrees Sunday night following the storm.

Neon signs also suffered considerable damage from the hail stones which varied in size from marbles to walnuts. Gardens and flowers were levelled and mats of green beneath trees showed how the hail stones had cut leaves and twigs from pines, cottonwoods and oaks.

The temperature dropped to 36 degrees immediately following the storm.

A trace of rain fell May 31, following the hottest day of the year, Memorial Day, when the mercury climbed to 87. On June 1 a good shower brought .27 of an inch. It was followed the next day by a .01 shower and Saturday by .28 of an inch.

Rainfall also extended eastward along the length of Hondo Valley. It increased the flow in the Ruidoso somewhat and gave "life-saving" moisture to crops of farmers around San Patricio who were feeling effects of the drought severely.

Rainfall for June varies widely, C. A. Culver, U. S. co-operative weather observer here, reported. He said that rainfall in June 1948, totaled 2.36 (which fell in a three-day period), while for June 1945 only 0.18 of an inch fell during the month.

Here are the weather figures for the week ending June 5:

| | High | Low | Prcp. |
|--------|------|-----|-------|
| May 30 | 87 | 30 | .00 |
| May 31 | 82 | 37 | Tr. |
| June 1 | 76 | 41 | .27 |
| June 2 | 82 | 47 | .04 |
| June 3 | 70 | 46 | .28 |
| June 4 | 74 | 36 | .64 |
| June 5 | 80 | 29 | .00 |

Hospital Closing Seen As Members Of Board Resign

Three members of the five-man Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital board submitted their resignations this week in a move which threatened to bring about early closing of the hospital. The structure, completed in February, opened April 28.

The resignations climaxed a tight-lipped but stormy feud among members of the board and the townspeople over staffing of the hospital and attempts to finance its operation.

They also followed a ruling of the state hospital advisory council last week which permits osteopaths to practice with medical doctors in the Ruidoso hospital at least temporarily. Previously osteopaths had been barred by a council ruling which held that only medical doctors were eligible.

Submitting resignations Monday to the county commission were George Fuchs, of Green Tree, and Eliseo Gomez of San Patricio. They were to become effective June 8.

Zach Collier, Ruidoso, the third resigning member, submitted his resignation to Mayor Ike Wingfield of Ruidoso. The resignation had not been accepted up to noon Wednesday.

A fourth member, T. J. Welborn, Ruidoso, board chairman, was reported considering submitting his resignation. He could not be reached for comment. The other member, Lloyd Gibson, Glencoe, was reported willing to continue to serve.

Closing Imminent

Closing of the hospital appeared imminent because the board was unable to assure county funds for its operation at a meeting at Carrizozo Monday.

Chamber Plans Kickoff Dinner

Kickoff meeting of the annual Chamber of Commerce membership and fund-raising campaign has been scheduled for June 16 at the Navajo Lodge.

A concerted effort to get all members to attend and to invite all businessmen in the canyon who are interested in new business for Ruidoso was launched this week by Chamber officials.

Presentation of new plans for the coming year and action on several proposals for operation of the Chamber are expected to arise at the session.

Everyone is invited. Price of the dinner which will precede the business session is $1.50 per plate.

Golf Tourney Here Sunday

Playoffs of the pre-season Chamber of Commerce Amateur Golf Tournament are scheduled tomorrow and Sunday at Cree Meadows.

W. D. Crosby, general chairman, said "twosomes" from 155 Chambers of Commerce throughout New Mexico and West Texas had been invited to participate.

"We don't know just how many golfers will turn out, but we have had several letters indicating that twosomes from various towns will be here," Mr. Crosby said.

The two-day golf meet will be highlighted Sunday by a barbecue at the golf course.

At their Ruidoso cabin for about a week are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailey, Brownfield, Texas. With them as houseguests are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crites, also of Brownfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Arnold of Ardmore, Oklahoma.

An Amarillo man has purchased controlling interest in the Hollywood Racing Association, Fred Carson, president, announced this week. The association conducts racing at Hollywood Park, four miles east of Ruidoso.

Purchaser was W. H. Ingerton, owner of some 15 racing horses and a saddle and boot shop at Amarillo. Ingerton also has oil and ranching interests, Carson said. Purchase price was $81,000 for 810 shares of stock.

Seller was Carson who has been president of the association since it was organized in 1947. Carson said he would devote full time to his farming and ranching interests at Bovina, Texas.

The announcement came as the track began work on two new barns to provide stalls for eighty horses. The new barns will bring total stall capacity at the track to 530, Carson said.

A new well is being drilled to provide more water for the park, he said. When completed it will bring the number of wells on the property to four, he said.

Other improvements planned include more painting of stands, ramps and railings and construction of new ramps.

Carson will continue in charge of the association "for the time being," he said.

Highway 70 Meet Ooens Sunday

About 100 delegates are expected to meet here Sunday for the National Highway 70 convention.

W. D. Crosby, Ruidoso director for the association and convention chairman, said the delegates will register at the Chamber of Commerce and will conduct meetings at the Ruidoso Grade School Gym.

He said local residents are urged to attend. "All of us make our living off Highway 70," he said. "And it is our duty to boost this organization."

Agenda for the meeting had not been announced early this week, but it was understood that delegates would discuss problems mutual to all towns along the highway.

Lions Club Wins Many Awards

The Ruidoso Lions Club this week was still counting up awards it won at the state convention at Deming last week.

Most outstanding of its prizes was claimed by Paul Vance, club secretary, who received the state's "Most Outstanding Secretary" award.

In addition the club won third place with its float depicting mountain resort scenery and sports attractions.

A third honor was claimed by the club when W. D. Horton, a vice president, was elected zone chairman. Also considered a victory for Ruidoso was election of Dan King of Tularosa as deputy district governor. Mr. King was the candidate backed by the Ruidoso club.

The Ruidoso club was awarded third place in the state for its membership, activities and projects. There are 63 clubs in New Mexico with about 3500 members.

Old Mill Party Honors Former Ruidoso Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Toby Watson and their son, of Albuquerque, were guests of honor Sunday at an outdoor dinner given by a number of their Ruidoso friends.

The dinner was held by the Old Mill at the Carmon Phillips home and was attended by 26 persons.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Ezell Mrs. Carmon Phillips; Dr. and Clarke and son, Cecil; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Horton and daughter, Marsha; Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Snyder and sons, David and Donnie; Mr. and Mrs. John Emde and daughters, Phyllis and Jane; and Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Kline.

Attending from out-of-town were Mrs. W. B. Belcher of Santa Fe, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Carmon Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Jordan and sons, Harvey Lee and Larry of O'Donnell, Texas. The Watsons are former residents of Ruidoso.

Congratulations!

Voters of Ruidoso are to be congratulated upon their choice for the Democratic nomination for governor—John E. Miles.

Judge David Chavez was Miles' only real contender. But we do not believe he was the man for the job in view of his close ties with his brother, Sen. Dennis Chavez, whose peculiar genius for vituperation and cries of racial discrimination are well known in the state. A continuance of this type of politics—as espoused by Sen. Chavez—would do New Mexico great damage in the future and defeat the purposes the senator ostensibly acclaims.

We believe the voters picked wisely for it is time to end the Chavez dynasty and its repeated appeals to prejudice, superstition and greed.

N. M. UNITY NEEDED

New Mexico Democrats have spoken at the polls. They have chosen their candidates who will oppose Republican favorites in the national election in November.

The Times hopes any animosities that may have existed in the ranks of New Mexico Democrats before the primary will be quickly forgotten.

The Republicans are confident that they have the best opportunity to capture New Mexico this year that they have had in at least the last decade.

Once a primary is over, differences within the party should be eliminated as far as it is humanly possible to do so.

A candidate who offers himself for nomination should always be big enough to go along with the party in the event he is defeated in the primary. That is the American way of doing things.

(El Paso Times)

day with the county commission. The board was informed that no county money was available.

It also was reported that the present board, before resignations of its members became effective, would pay all indebtedness with what funds remained. Russell M. Jennings, hospital superintendent, said about $1000 was left in the operating fund at the beginning of the week.

Closing would mean that the nursing staff, technician and superintendent would have to seek other employment. It also would mean that the structure, built at a cost of about $180,000 including $140,000 in Federal money, will lie idle. It is one of the best equipped hospitals of its size in New Mexico, Mr. Jennings said.

Mr. Fuchs also announced he had taken over custody of the hospital ambulance and that it "is in Green Tree now if anyone needs it." The ambulance is owned by the Ballard Funeral Home at Roswell.

The advisory council, meeting at Santa Fe June 3, voted to refer the question of allowing osteopaths to practice in the hospital to the State Board of Health. In so doing, they rescinded a ruling that only medical doctors would be allowed in the hospital.

Four Attend Meet

Presenting the case for the osteopaths were C. C. Chase, Jr., an attorney, Ezell Clarke, Emmett Reese and Dr. D. E. Snyder, an osteopathic physician, all of Ruidoso.

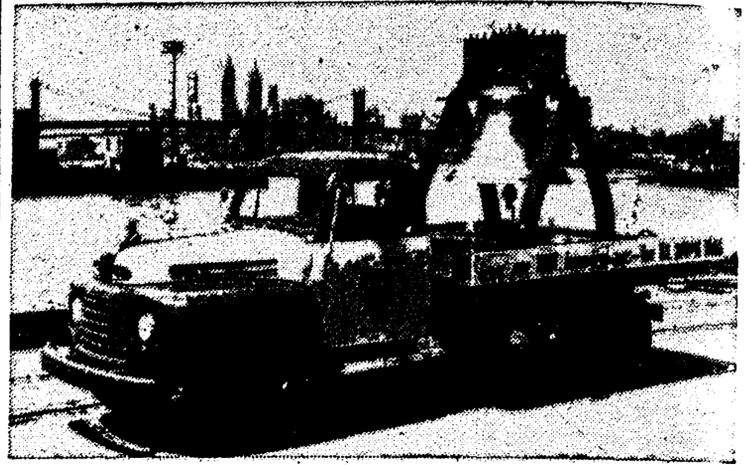

They pleaded that the hospital would be forced to close because of lack of patients unless the osteopathic physicians were permitted to practice in it.

The delegation contended that about 80 per cent of the patients who could use the Ruidoso hospital now were being treated by the osteopathic physicians.

The reversal of the council ruling was viewed as a victory for the osteopaths who have contended through their attorney, W. Peter McAtee of Albuquerque that the council is violating state law in refusing to approve osteopaths for practice in the public-financed hospitals.

Argument over the "right of the osteopaths to practice in the Ruidoso hospital has been credited by Ruidoso residents with much of the difficulty encountered by the board in raising funds for the hospital's operation.

The controversy, heated at times, apparently was resolved by the advisory council action last week but no movement to solicit new funds has been initiated in the community to date.

"Historic Cookery" Available Again In New Edition

"Historic Cookery," one of the most popular of New Mexico extension circulars, is off the press in a new, revised edition. The 44-page booklet, written by Mrs. Fabiola C. De Baca Gilbert, home agent-at-large, tells how to prepare all kinds of New Mexican foods from simple things like carne con chile and frijoles to the more complicated dishes such as panza de cabrito rollena (stuffed kid's stomach) and quezadillas (cheese turnovers). Previous editions of "Historic Cookery" had been exhausted because of popular demand.

In her introduction to "Historic Cookery," Mrs. Gilbert says, "In recent years, New Mexican foods have become increasingly popular. That's why you may have to stand in line when you eat in restaurants that specialize in New Mexican dishes. Why this new popularity? The principal reason is, of course, that the food is good. Another is that recent research has proved that many of our basic foods—chile, beans, purlane, lamb's quarters, goat's cheese, and whole grain cereals, for example—are highly nutritious.

"Try the recipes. And when you do, think of New Mexico's golden days, of red chile drying in the sun, of clean swept yards, outdoor ovens, and adobe houses on the landscape. Remember the green valleys where good things grow. And think of families sitting happily at the tables—because good food and good cheer are natural comrades and because, as the Spanish proverb says, a full stomach makes a happy man. Buen provecho, amigos."

A copy of "Historic Cookery" may be obtained free of charge from local county home demonstration agents or from the Extension Service, State College.

Advertising in colonial newspapers were what would now be called classified ads.

A farm-equipment demonstration, lunch and tour of valley farms will highlight a soil-conservation-practices demonstration June 17.

The demonstration will be in the Tinnie-Picacho area and will prove of interest to farmers and ranchers in the Hondo Valley, Bert Pfingsten, chairman of the board of supervisors, predicted.

He said the board had decided on the tour instead of the banquets which have been held in the past. Tentative plans call for a meeting near Frank Tiltworth's new garage at 9 a.m. with visit to be conducted from there. Dinner also will be served there.

The equipment display, featuring machines adapted to conditions prevailing in the valley, will be held at the farm of Buster Casey.

Other details will be announced.

Students arriving this week to attend the Texas Art Colony at the Baze Cabins included a group from Monahans, Texas. They are Lura Jo Pinkerton, Mary Fred Snelson, Ebba Brown, Dewayne Reed and Mrs. Louis Pinkerton. Also here to attend the Colony is Ressa Houston, of Kermit, Texas. Mrs. Ray Bevell, who will be house-mother for a group of the girls, arrived early this week with her children, Tommy, Nancy and Beverley, from Monahans, Texas.

Mrs. Iko Wingfield left Tuesday for Santa Fe with her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith, who had been visiting in Ruidoso. She plans to remain at their home several days before returning.

Mrs. C. W. Rowe of Alamogordo is spending the week with her sister and brother, Lucy and Charlie Culver.

Women's Club Leases Building

The Ruidoso Women's Club this week was notified that it was the successful and only bidder for lease of the Skyland Club, village property located in the Skyland Addition.

The bid was accepted by the City Board of Trustees at a meeting Friday night, June 2, at City Hall.

Mrs. Jim Conway, club president, was notified early this week of acceptance of the bid and that the lease contract for the building would be drawn up immediately by the City Attorney and presented to the club for signatures.

The Women's Club has extensive plans for redecorating the building for use as a clubhouse. It will also be available for activities of other local groups or clubs.

Money for furnishing and decorating the clubhouse is now being raised through the club's weekly card parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Westall, of Artesia, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Robison of Kansas City, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. John Terrell and children of Eunice visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Westall of Ruidoso.

Miss Lucy Culver has returned to Ruidoso to make her home with her brother, Charlie Culver.

NM Farm Value Shows Decline

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics has reported that farm real estate values in New Mexico decreased three per cent during the one-year period ending March 31, 1950. J. Z. Rowe, state extension economist, said this week.

Farm values for the United States as a whole suffered a similar decrease during the same period. However, because prices for many farm products were slightly higher than anticipated by many buyers and because of favorable business conditions in general, farm real estate values were firmer.

New Mexico farm land was 132 per cent higher than in 1935-39. Number of farms changing hands voluntarily in the United States declined for the third straight year.

Foreclosures and bankruptcy were up slightly from the previous year, but still were of minor importance and were far below any pre-war year on record.

A little over 60 per cent of all farm sales made in the U. S. were credit-financed. This was the highest proportion of credit sales since the early war years.

Proud Tradition, Climate Make Fort Stanton Haven For Tubercular Seamen

By Dorothy Gray Guck

"The Federal Government furnishes the most modern medical equipment for this Marine Hospital," said Dr. E. M. Townsend, recently retired Commanding Officer of Fort Stanton, "but we are indebted to the State of New Mexico for the greatest advantage our patients receive, the more than 300 days of sunshine." Fort Stanton, haven for tubercular seamen, lies 6,235 feet above sea level, a few miles from Ruidoso. It is ironical that the dry light atmosphere of inland New Mexico should determine the port of those men who chose the heavy humidity of the world's waterways as their daily air.

"I breathed so many buckets of ocean oxygen, I got water-logged," one marine laughed as he rocked on the sunny veranda of the hospital, "now I'm washed up 'til my lungs get dehydrated." Marines from all parts of the world have been at Fort Stanton. They fight a slow battle against a disease that wears tedious hours of their young lives away. Dependence, hopelessness, or impatience with the long slow uphill climb to health is ruled out by each patient. To mingle with these sick men, you might wonder how the days can be so light-hearted and happy.

One Of 24

Fort Stanton is one of 24 Marine Hospitals, and one of two in the United States that specializes in the treatment of tuberculosis. It is operated by the Hospital Division of the Public Health Service, Federal Security Agency.

But Fort Stanton has not always been a hospital. It was established May 4, 1855, to control Mescalero Apaches and was named after Captain Henry W. Stanton, 1st U. S. Dragoons, who was killed in action with Indians in the vicinity of the Penasco River. In those days the fort resembled a stockade or cantonment.

On August 2, 1861, the fort was partially burned by Confederate forces before a summer storm quenched the fire. On October 21, 1862, it was reoccupied by Colonel Kit Carson with four companies of Volunteers, was rebuilt in 1868, and abandoned in 1890, as being no longer required for military purposes.

On April 1, 1899, President McKinley reserved the Fort Stanton Military Reservation for the use of the Marine Hospital Service, and in November Seaman Joseph Ryan entered as the first patient.

The fort is situated on the right bank of the Rio Bonito, three miles from highway U. S. 380, nine miles west of Lincoln, 68 miles west of Roswell, and 150 miles northeast of El Paso. The hospital, administration buildings, and officers' quarters face a beautiful plaza where one can view the snow capped Sierra Blanca.

Well Equipped

A modern 92 bed hospital was built in 1938, including 75 two bed cottages for ambulatory patients. The hospital is equipped with the best facilities, including the latest X-ray and fluoroscopic apparatus, surgical and physiotherapy departments, clinical laboratory, dental clinic, and occupational therapy department. Recreational facilities include a motion picture theater and recreational building, a library with over 6000 volumes, Protestant and Catholic Chapels, Seamen's Social Club, and radio-phones to each bed.

The station is practically self-sustaining. It maintains a power and refrigerating plant, electrical and water distribution system, steam laundry, shops, dairy, cattle herd, hog ranch, and post office. Pure water is piped from the foothills of Sierra Blanca on the Lincoln National Forest to a 1,000,000 gallon reservoir.

The Occupational Therapy Department under the direction of a trained therapist, gives the patients the opportunity to learn academic subjects, or become trained in various crafts suitable

Germans Held

The high, dry, sunny climate, physical and mental rest, and good food are the basic measures depended upon in treating tuberculosis. As the patients improve, they are given part time employment at the station until they are ready for discharge.

German prisoners of war were housed in barracks near the fort from 1939 to 1945. Medical care was provided by the fort doctors. The Germans built a fine swimming pool which they gave to their Marine neighbors as a memento of their prison term with this inscription chalked beside it. "Six years??? Now we are gone. We hope you will have some fun with the pool we built."

Fort Stanton has seen many distinguished names in its records. Among them is the last territorial governor of New Mexico, George Cury. He arrived at the fort as a young man penniless and hungry, and was given work by General Fungsten, Commanding Officer.

He never forgot the hospitality of the people stationed there. General Lew Wallace wrote several chapters of "Ben Hur" there while trying to reform Billy the Kid. Gwendolen Overton wrote "The Heritage of Unrest" while living at the fort with her father, a Lieutenant. Dan Kusianovich, one of the administrative staff today, is well known throughout the state for his paintings.

During the army occupation of the fort, Gen. John J. Pershing served as a Lieutenant. Because of his habitual rides over to Hondo to play blackjack with the cowboys, he was nicknamed "Blackjack." He and his military partners, Paddock and Penn, were dubbed the "Three Green Peas," because they were such tenderfeet.

One day the young army officers went deer hunting in the vicinity of the old Dowlin Mill where travelers from Lincoln to Mesilla stopped for the first night. The mill, with its big wheel, still stands in Ruidoso. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lisnet kept the tavern there and ran a bunch of pigs in the forest. "Fittinant" Pershing, as the Irish Mrs. Lisnet called him, shot one of the pigs believing it to be a wild boar. Mrs.

Lisnet thoroughly joshed him for his mistake.

In 1913, Pershing, then a well known military figure, returned to New Mexico to inspect the Military Institute at Roswell. Walking down the street, he saw Mrs. Lisnet coming toward him. "How do you do, Mrs. Lisnet!" he said, "Do you remember me?" "That I do!" she answered without hesitation. "You're the leftenant what shot me pig!"

Whether you remember him as Blackjack, the pig killer, or General of the American Army, Pershing set an example for the happy atmosphere that marks Fort Stanton today. Patients and personnel can teach you the true spirit of western good living. They make the fort a sunny port in any weather.

GUARDIAN OF OUR FORESTS: Mon Jean Fire Lookout Tower, at 10,000 feet, commands one of the most striking views in all of the West. Sitting atop a mountain on the north shoulder of Old Baldy (12,003 ft.) Mon Jean's windows look out on some 200,000 square miles of timber land, plains, rock-ribbed ridges. Its role has been especially vital this year when the hazard of forest fire has been described by the U. S. Forest Service as the "worst in modern history." From this tower were visible the Bonita fire, 640 acres; the Wood fire, 1500 acres, and the Capitan fire, 17,500 acres.

Perpetual Care Problem Faces Cemetery Backers

Rev. Claude Peake, Ruidoso Presbyterian minister and spokesman for the local Ministerial Association concerning its cemetery project, this week outlined steps involved in setting up a "perpetual care" cemetery.

Here, in his own words, Rev. Peake tells what must be done: A major problem in setting up a "perpetual care" cemetery, after a charter has been issued by the state, is to form an association, which is the case of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley cemetery. It will have to be formed by securing individual memberships at some nominal fee and such memberships will be in the form of annual dues to the association.

It is not contemplated in the proposed association that such dues will be larger than one or two dollars per year and such memberships will entitle the person or family of such person to purchase a burial lot at a very small fee considering the size of such lot or lots. Non-members desiring to purchase burial lots will be required to pay a larger fee.

The term "perpetual care" means that the officers of such association are to be required to keep grounds in good repair, keep all places where interments have been made in proper order and to care for trees and shrubs. Since the location of this cemetery is such that the trees and shrubs are overgreens the problem of keeping them in good order will be small.

The fencing, surveying, and designating of various plots with all burial places clearly marked and preserved on blueprints will be necessary and required by law. The Ministerial Association has been made the permanent Trustees of the cemetery, but the trustees will not be responsible for the upkeep of the cemetery; therefore it is highly desirable that all of the communities that will be affected be sufficiently interested to want representation in the association since the association will select its own officers and determine the period of office and determine the duty of such officers.

The Secretary and Treasurer will be bonded and will make annual reports. It is apparent that to comply with the request of the Forest Service—that the cemetery be available to the entire community and even those without the community when desired—that it must be clearly understood that it is not a Ruidoso or Green Tree or Mesalero burying ground but designed to serve all; however the association will be under the direction of those elected from all points as officials for the association. There will be designated by the officers certain portions of the burial grounds for Veterans and churches requiring dedicated areas. The area will permit both the regular grave spaces and also where desired, ideal locations for "crypts" or "vaults" on the hill-sides.

The Ministerial Association hopes for the full cooperation of the entire community and every individual. It is realized that the thought of a cemetery is not a pleasant one for an individual to contemplate, but there is another side to that proposition: there will come a time when some one else will have to face the matter for you and it is very comforting to know that there is a place available—and that it is a beautiful site wherein to find a permanent resting place where loved ones may feel that they have provided the best for their departed ones. Aside from the family, no one knows the meaning or sorrow better than your minister and the members of the Ministerial Association would that there should never be one single grave in this cemetery, but all being realists to a measurable degree, know that this cannot be; however all feel that those who love these beautiful mountains in life will naturally prefer to find their last resting place in their midst. One thing to be kept in mind is that the proposed Cemetery Association will be non-profit and all expenses will be kept to an absolute minimum, and that such an asso-

Cree Meadows Open House Attracts Many

The Cree Meadows Club "open house" Monday was a success if the number of people there was any indication.

Greeting the guests at the door as they arrived was the hostess, Mrs. Joe Palmer, lovely in a crisp frock of gray dotted swiss with low, round neckline, fitted bodice and wide skirt. Tucked at her waist was a nosegay of aqua colored flowers while silver mesh ballet slippers added the completing touch to her costume.

Assisting Mrs. Palmer in receiving and other courtesies were her mother, Mrs. Herbert Gough, wearing a suit dress of pale pink with white accessories, and Mrs. R. B. Carter, who chose a summer print frock in tones of brown on light background with deep gathered neckline and tiny puffed sleeves. Unusual was her matching cape which when removed during the evening, formed a charming peplum for her gown.

Also assisting the hostess was Mrs. L. T. Kincer, who wore a frock of light blue linen accented by buttons the length of the dress.

Served upstairs from a lace-covered table were punch and dainty canapes. Centering the serving table was a large bouquet of pink stock and carnations, sent with the compliments of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shier, while another lovely arrangement of mixed summer blossoms from the R. H. Andersons graced the cocktail bar downstairs.

It's walls hung with unusually beautiful Navajo rugs, the galley decorated cocktail lounge drew great interest from the visitors, as did the snack bar "downstairs" and outdoor driving range.

Monday was a special day for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jones, Green Tree, who operate the pro-shop, curio counter, cocktail lounge and snack bar at Cree Meadows Golf Club. In addition to being "open house" at the club, the day was the Jones' 14th wedding anniversary. An appropriate cake was provided for the occasion by Mrs. L. T. "Red" Kincer, whose husband is in charge of the practice driving range. Also honored at Cree Meadows Monday was Mrs. John Lamberson, Ruidoso. She was observing her birthday.

clation will be composed of representatives from all points in the community wherever such interest will make it possible.

Dance School In Session Here

About 80 persons from all parts of the United States this week were attending the Ranch Dance School at the Navajo Lodge. The school, conducted by Herb Greggerson, Jr., of El Paso, is described as the most outstanding training session in the United States for square dance teachers and callers.

The sessions begin at 9 a.m. and continue through until evening. This group will complete its training this week and will be replaced next week by another group. In addition other sessions will be held in August.

Mr. Greggerson is author of several books on square dancing and has conducted training courses for groups throughout the United States and Canada.

The dance sessions are open to the public at night. Dancers are in costume. The public is permitted to watch the dances but not to participate, Mr. Greggerson said.

Enroute east, the car was believed to have been owned by a Sacramento, Calif., couple.
