It Can Be Done

Characters of men and communities are made strong by meeting and overcoming the challenges that confront them. Only a few short weeks ago it looked like the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital would be forced to close its doors. But the citizens of this area became aroused and began to work. Today it a different story. The hospital is in better condition than a any time since it opened its doors.

The Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital is not unlike many other institutions that have had to crawl before they could walk. It has been a struggle to keep it going and there could have been times when the board of directors could not see ahead even for a week. But at such time the citizens of the community have responded nobly and have shown the spirit that built this country.

The story of the development of the United States is one of courage and sacrifice. Our forefathers had no way to go but forward. They had left their native lands for the freedom that the new world would give them and, there could be no turning back. So they pressed on with great determination to accomplish their goal. Their sons and daughters have had that same spirit. The spirit that says, "IT CAN BE DONE".

Lincoln County has two good hospitals. We rejoice with our friends and neighbors in the northern section of the county by the fine work the hospital at Carrizozo is doing. Any other spirit would be detrimental to the best interest of all. Men do not build their characters on the defects of others but upon their own moral stamina. The old story of the pathway that is built to the door of the man who makes a better trap runs true in every avenue of our lives. We do not grow by tearing down anyone else's business but by giving our best efforts to our own and cooperating with the other fellow in any program of betterment for the community as a whole.

The Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital will continue to serve the community in caring for the sick and afflicted. We have found that united we can do anything that needs to be done.

There must have been three or four hundred kids on that hill. We couldn't take it that day. So set up a defense that night. The next morning we started again. The opposition moved up from the left and front so about thirty of us were pulled back to go over and around to the left. I started up the ridge and a sergeant and I were nearly to the top when a Chink we hadn't seen, started throwing grenades. I jumped three or four and jumped behind a rock. About that time I heard one land and looked around to see which way to move. The grenade was about six inches from my foot. I jumped about the same time it went off and was thrown forty or fifty feet down the hill. The Sergeant, who was with me, got his arm nearly blown off.

The tanks down in the valley thought we were chinks and opened up on us. When we finally got them stopped it took four and one half hours to carry me out on a stretcher to where a jeep could get in. That surely was a big mountain we were on.

Survey Of Trout Streams In Reservation

The period of March 26 to 28, 1951, was spent at the Mescalero Reservation making surveys of trout waters for the purpose of making recommendations as to their fishery management. The fishery was discussed with Forest Manager Sarin and Forest Ranger Shield of the Office of Indian Affairs. Sincerely appreciated help in making the surveys, especially in transporting the portable motor, was given by Messrs. Bradley Brumoth and Aloysius Mendez, Indian employees.

Three streams on the Reservation offer good trout habitat; there are the Ruidoso and Tularosa and their branches and Indian Creek. The latter is a small, high-elevation stream, lightly fished as it is open only to Indian residents of the Reservation. This stream was not surveyed due to the heavy snows which fell just prior to and during my visit.

The Ruidoso and Tularosa offer average to better-than-average trout stream habitat. It is estimated that the portion of these streams on the Reservation comprise some 20 miles and 20 acres of fishing water in an area heavily used by anglers and vacationers. The Indian Service reports that 1200 season fishing permits were issued to non-resident anglers during the 1950 season.

For fishery management purposes these streams may be divided into the sections listed below. Survey findings and management recommendations are given separately for each section. Mileage was taken either from road miles along the stream or estimated from an inch-to-the-mile reservation map issued in 1938.

1. Rio Ruidoso, Reservation boundary line upstream to confluence of N. and S. Forks.

Survey findings: Length, 2.8 miles; average width, 8 ft.; surface acres, 2.8; pools fair to good; food good; fishing pressure heavy; ph. 8.0; fishes present, rainbow trout common, including many fingerlings apparently from natural reproduction. Recommendations: Continued stocking with legal size rainbows, including supplements from our Hot Springs Station when production is begun there.

2. S. F. Rio Ruidoso, confluence with N. F. upstream to road end.

Survey findings: Length, 3 miles; average width 10 ft.; surface acres, .6; pools good; food good; fishing pressure very heavy; ph. 7.6; fishes present, legal rainbows numerous from recent plant, very few resident rainbows; resident brown trout common. In one 200-ft. section some 41 browns were checked, 6 of which were of legal size. Recommendations: Continued heavy stocking with legal size rainbows and browns, with supplemental plants from our Hot Springs Station when trout production is begun; stream improvement.

3. N. F. Rio Ruidoso, confluence with S. F. upstream to end of road.

Survey findings: Length, 3 miles; average width 10 ft.; surface acres, .6; pools good; food good; fishing pressure very heavy; ph. 7.6; fishes present, same as 1. above.

4. N. F. Rio Ruidoso, end of road to headwaters.

Survey findings: Length, 4.5 miles; average width, 10 ft.; surface acres, 5.0; pools good; food good; fishing pressure heavy; ph. 7.4; fishes present, occasional rainbow, resident browns common. In one 175 foot section 38 browns were recovered, 18 of which were of legal size. Scale samples taken from brown trout in this stream section indicate the following average total lengths for the age groups shown: 1st. year, 8 1/2"; 2nd year, 9"; 3rd year, 8"; 4th year 9"; 5th year, 10"; 6th year, 11". Recommendations: No further stocking; encouragement of beaver colonies at high elevations; stream improvement.

5. S. F. Rio Ruidoso, end of road to confluence with middle fork.

Survey findings: Length, 3 miles; average width 10 ft.; surface acres, 2.5; pools good; food good; fishing pressure heavy; ph. 7.4; fishes present, one size group of rainbow, 3.5" to 5" fairly common. These fish are apparently from a plant made during summer of 1950, reported as 1". This would indicate very good growth. Browns are fairly common, but in less numbers than in other stream sections listed above.

6. S. F. Rio Ruidoso, confluence with middle fork upstream to headwaters.

Survey findings: Length, 3.0 miles; average width, 7 ft.; surface acres, 2.5; pools good; food good; fishing pressure heavy; ph. 7.4; fishes present, one size group of rainbow, 3.5" to 5" fairly common. These fish are apparently from a plant made during summer of 1950, reported as 1". This would indicate very good growth. Browns are fairly common, but in less numbers than in other stream sections listed above.

7. Middle fork, Rio Ruidoso, mouth to headwater.

Survey findings: Length, 2.5 miles; average width, 6 ft.; surface acres, 2.0; pools good; food good; fishing pressure heavy; ph. 7.4; fishes present, brown trout common. Recommendations: No further stocking. Stream improvement.

8. Rio Tularosa, Reservation boundary upstream to point where where closure to public fishing begins.

Survey findings: Length, 2.8 miles; average width, 8 ft.; surface acres, 2.8; pools fair to good; food good; fishing pressure heavy; ph. 8.0; fishes present, rainbow trout common, including many fingerlings apparently from natural reproduction. Recommendations: Continued stocking with legal size rainbows, including supplements from our Hot Springs Station when production is begun there.

9. Rio Tularosa, lower point of closure to public fishing up stream to power plant. (This section includes approximately 2 miles of the South Fork).

Survey findings: Length, 1.0 miles; average width, 6 ft.; surface acres, .6; pools fair to poor; food good; fishing pressure moderate; ph. 7.6; fishes present, rainbow trout common, including apparent natural reproduction at Hot Springs.

10. S. F. Rio Tularosa, power plant diversion upstream to source at Head Springs.

Survey findings: Length, 3.3 miles; average width, 4 ft.; surface acres, 1.7; pools fair to poor; food good; fishing pressure light to moderate; ph. 7.4; fishes present, rainbow trout common, including fingerlings apparently from natural reproduction. Scale sample from rainbows in this stream section indicated an average total length of 4 1/2" at the end of the first year and 6" at the end of the second year. The warm springs which form the stable water source of this stream no doubt contribute materially to this good growth.

It is recommended that any possible future allotments of legal size trout from our Hot Springs Station be apportioned in the following ratio in waters of the Mescalero Reservation, based on water area and suitability and fishing pressure: Ruidoso (section 1 above) Acres 2.0 x suitability 1.0 x pressure 1.0 S. F. Ruidoso (Section 2 above) Acres .6 x suitability 1.0 x pressure 1.0 N. F. Ruidoso (section above) Acres .6 x suitability 1.0 x pressure 1.0 Tularosa (section 8 above) Acres 2.8 x suitability .6 x pressure .5 Tularosa (section 9 above) Acres .6 x suitability .5 x pressure .3 S. F. Tularosa (Section 10 above) Acres 1.7 x suitability .5 x pressure .25

April 30 was some day in Ruidoso! We found one inch of snow on the ground when we awakened that morning, and it snowed twice that day with the sun shining.

Make Improvements

Nolsy Water Lodge is undergoing extensive improvements. Considerable new equipment is being installed and the Vega Room is being furnished for the enjoyment of many visitors who wish to dance or play games.

The sound of saws and hammers would cause one to think that a small city is being built on the spacious grounds. More than 20 carpenters, plumbers, and other workers are on the job this week. Seasonal guests are starting to arrive, but they are quite considerate regarding the improvements, according to Ed and Mary Kuttner.

The Lions Club met at the Nolsy Water Lodge last Thursday evening and the money paid for the meals was turned over to the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley hospital. The meals were furnished by the lodge as a contribution to the hospital.

Peace Can't Be Quick Warns, Jebb

By Sir Gladwyn Jebb
Permanent Representative of the United Kingdom to U. N.
(Editor's Note: The following article is made up of excerpts from an address by Sir Gladwyn Jebb, on April 14, the third broadcast in a United Nations Radio series called, "The Price of Peace.")

Anyone now looking at the present unhappy state of the world is hard put to it to find much cause for optimism. The "price of peace" that is to say, the price which we must pay in order to deter or resist acts of aggression, is already an extremely heavy one in terms of the burden which rearmament imposes and there is no immediate prospect that it will substantially diminish. The price which we are thus purchasing at such heavy cost is in any case precarious and indeed, in Korea, bitter fighting has now been going on for nine months.

Faced with this gloomy prospect, it would certainly be surprising if there were not some who maintained that there must be some better and easier solution and that a magic formula for resolving the world's troubles must exist if only we know where to look for it.

One extreme view is that the conflict between the Soviet system and the Free World is irreconcilable and can only be settled by war and by the military triumph of one system over the other.

Our experience of two World Wars should surely be enough to convince us that this is a counsel of despair. We shall of course resist, and if necessary resist by force, any attack which threatens our democratic way of life and the principles which we regard as vital to our existence, but this does not mean that we must look on war as inevitable, still less that we should seek to provoke it ourselves.

At the opposite extreme are those who think that our present difficulties are due solely to misunderstanding and suspicion and that if only we could talk at sufficient length and with sufficient frankness to the Soviet leaders, it would be perfectly possible to reach an understanding with them. This is incidentally a view which the Soviet leaders themselves are only too anxious to promote. The whole weight of their propaganda is devoted to convincing the world of their peaceful intentions and to proving that if the Western Powers would just agree to the Stockholm Peace Plan, to the Soviet proposal for a Five Power Pact or to their scheme for a straight out of one third in all armaments, then the peace of the world would automatically be assured. Through this sort of stuff has a certain hypnotic effect on the feeble-minded the record shows, of course, that the answer is not so simple as all that. The conduct of the Soviet Union, especially since the end of the war, culminating in the aggression in Korea and the open support which the Russians have given to the aggressors, cannot be easily explained away, or indeed, as we Czechoslovakia explained away at all. Experience indeed has shown us that the only effective way of coping with the Soviet leaders is patient, firm, continuing and above all unyielding emphasis by the leaders of the democratic states on their own principles and purposes.

We must therefore reconcile ourselves to the fact that there is no easy solution. We must strengthen the defence of the free world, as we are now doing, and we must accept as cheerfully as we can the burdens and discomforts which this process entails.

But even in the difficult circumstances which exist today the United Nations can help to prepare the way towards a better future. However acute the division of opinion between the Soviet bloc and the Free World, the U. N. at least provides common ground on which both can meet and discuss their differences.

County Bus Drivers Picnic At Lincoln

The Double Crossing Picnic Grounds at Lincoln was the scene of the first grand barbecue given by the Lincoln County Bus Drivers' Association, Saturday, May 5. The delicious barbecue and camp style beans were prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Proceso Salcido of Lordsburg, New Mexico. The Proctor, from Corona, president of the Bus Drivers' Association, donated the baby beef, prepared for the barbecue. The rest of the "fixings" were brought by the bus drivers' wives and nothing was wished for in the line of eat. Outstanding guests at the barbecue were: Mrs. Marjorie Martin and Mr. Jess Holmes, Safety Instructors from Albuquerque and Santa Fe; Mrs. Lorena Samalanc and Mrs. Cora Scharf, intendant; our friend and fine representative L. L. Drake and L. L. Parker, Superintendent of Corona Schools.

Through the cooperation of Roman Macz, the five piece Happy Hour orchestra from Torreon, N. M., furnished the music for the afternoon and all present expressed their wishes as having this been another fine of our County Bus Drivers' Association. In behalf of the Association, our most sincere appreciation for this most successful affair, goes to Mr. Ben Sanchez, Mr. Floyd Proctor, Mrs. Leven Snodgrass and all the others who helped make the affair possible.

San Patricio Students Have Picnic Here

Moore, Oklahoma Seniors Here

This is the fourth year a group has come from the Moore High School and they say they will be back again next year. A wonderful time was reported by the young visitors. The party came by chartered bus, via Carlsbad, and went by El Paso and Juarez on the return trip.

Margaret Payne Opens Beauty Shop

Last week Margaret Payne opened her beauty shop, located two doors in back of the Westerner. The establishment will be known as Margaret's Beauty Shop. She came to Ruidoso four years ago, and managed the Village Beauty Salon for Bob Berkshire for a year, afterward working with Mrs. Rose Brownfield at the Governor's Beauty Salon for a year. During the third and fourth year of Margaret's stay in Ruidoso she managed the Village Beauty Salon again for Bob Berkshire.

New Mexico Baptists To Build Big Summer Camp

New Mexico is to have a $4,000,000 religious leadership camp at Glorieta. Its location within New Mexico has been largely inspired by a gift of a camp site, made by New Mexico's 50,000 Baptists to Southern Baptists, 7,000,000 affiliates. The Southern group is sponsoring the movement with the Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tennessee, building and administering the project.

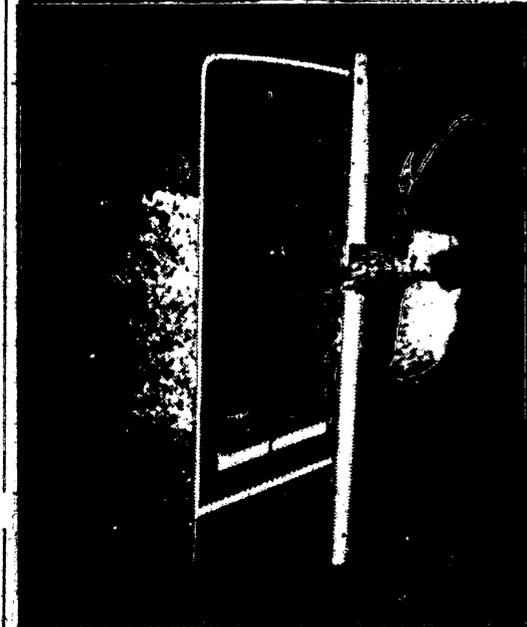

The accompanying picture gives a pictorial concept of the camp's location. The building is that of the fellowship hall with its auxiliary hall, dining rooms and assembly and conference locations. If the building's outer walls formed a single front, more than two city blocks would be covered by this single camp unit. While not the first of the buildings proposed, this building is expected to be ready for occupancy sometime within 1952.

This will be the second assembly of its kind under Southern Baptists' administration. The first is located at Ridgecrest, North Carolina, an area that has been described as the "Land of the Shales." Glorieta, a 20-minute drive east of Santa Fe, is in the heart of what is indeed an "Enchanted Land," easily a match for any spot in the Southern Baptist territory, extending from Washington, D. C. to the Golden Gate of the Pacific.

New Servel Has Greater Capacity Yet Takes Less Space in Kitchen

"Bigger inside but smaller outside" is the 1951 Servel motorless refrigerator. Behind its full-length door is room for 9 1/2 cu. ft. of food yet the cabinet requires less space in the kitchen than old-style 8-ft. models.

Refrigerator designers have succeeded in "doing the impossible" with the Servel model for 1951. They have given the new motorless refrigerator extra capacity but made the cabinets more compact. The Servel Royal Model BR-917, shown above, provides 9 1/2 cubic feet of food storage space, the exterior of the cabinet is only 3 inches shorter and 2 inches narrower than older type refrigerators with only 8 cubic feet capacity. Other models in the Servel line are similarly "bigger inside but smaller outside". The new Servel models for 1951 are now on display.

A LETTER... to the THREE WOMEN In My Life

This is written to the three women in my life. My mother. The mother of my girl. And my little girl herself, who will be the mother of a generation I may never live to see.

On a very real sense, you have all three brought me up. Whatever I am, I am because of you, and the thought of this sustains me now. Let me tell you how this is so.

First, that afternoon back in third grade. I beat up on Skunky Williams and came swagging home. Mother you didn't even turn around from the sink where you were peeling potatoes. But I'll never forget your low voice when you said, "I don't even want to hear about it. Skunky is younger—and smaller—and weaker than you are." I looked for a rug to crawl under that day. And the other time I batted a ball through Hadley's window and you told me, "Go over and tell them you're sorry" — and added, as I went through the door, "and that you'll cut their lawn 'till it's paid for."

Perhaps mothers are much the same the world over. Perhaps the crown of motherhood exalts the wearer wherever she may be. If this should be true then there is hope for our opposite numbers; for the greatest of lies cannot forever go unchallenged by the truth learned at one's mother's knee.

To you, Sue, my dear wife, what can I say? That I remember beat the drives up Nine Mile Hill, the look in your eyes when your bridesmaid lifted your veil, the boom of the surf at Carmel on our honeymoon? Perhaps. But I like to remember best the time the "Little T'ing" was born and we came home from the hospital in the car. You stood and gazed at our house for a long minute and then you turned and said, "She is going to grow up here and she will remember it as long she lives..."

And so to you, Little T'ing. May you have a wonderful birthday and grow up to do always what is right. And when you're a big lady and are married and have a lot of sons... may they honor you in a world at peace.

Commending each of you to God's care, as I hope you commend me, I close with love

Clarence Boyd has a lot of new irrigation ditches dug all over the place. Says he is only watering the gophers. We who live here know better than that. Our Supt. of farming operations is doing an excellent job.

The Bonita Club held a dance last Saturday night in the Bonita Club House. Dr. and Mrs. Mankin and Mr. and Mrs. Kuslanovich were the hosts.

Dick Cox told me he went to the District track meet in Alamogordo. He was a competitor in the 880 yard relay, the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard dash.

The youngsters of the Ft. Stanton School are planning a picnic for the 2nd of May. Rumor has it that our teacher Miss Ruth Sikes, may not be here another year. We will all miss you, Miss Sikes. You have done a good job in getting our kids ready for Captain. You did your job as you saw it and backed up for no one when you knew you were right. That is commendable.

St. Louis, Mo., stepped over for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Howard. That was Friday the 12th. He was enroute to El Paso on business for his company and stopped long enough to say hello to his folks. Speaking of the Howards, I haven't seen Mrs. Lund for some time. Cold weather has kept a lot of people in if they didn't have to go out. Now that the dandelions have taken over the lawns, spring must be here so we expect to see quite a bit of you.

Shirley Anne Williams (almost said McClain) is in San Antonio, Texas for a few days to be with her husband, Sgt. Williams. He is taking some advanced training there. In keeping with the adopted policies of this column, no word will ever be said about the movements of service personnel. In spite of what our state department may say, we are at War and the less said, the better.

Carolina Sanchez received a letter from the GO of the USS "Boxer". The Skipper had some very nice things to say about Alfred. She has one those letters not usually received by anybody; a sailor has to be really above the average to get the GO to notice him favorably. The Sanchez family has much to be proud of.

Louis Merrill surprised Mrs. Merrill with a birthday party the 26th. Their boy, Eugene, along with his wife, Colleen and daughter, Linda came down from Ada, Oklahoma to be here for the event. Eugene is the manager of the B. F. Goodrich store in Ada. The party was held in the El Rancho Cafe in Roswell.

Joe Barber's wife, Lorraine, has been visiting the Minter family the past two or three weeks. She had her little ones, David and Doris along with her. Their home is in Los Alamos.

Troop 58, Boy Scouts from here attended the Camporee at Bonita Dam last week end. More about that in an article in this paper. I heard our Troop did all right by themselves in the events staged at the Camporee.

If you play Canasta try to attend the regular Monday party at the Ruidoso Woman's Club. They are still trying to raise funds to continue improvements on their buildings... now they want water into the clubhouse and plumbing. The time? 2:30 p. m. every Monday.

Several people from the Fort attended the GPA meeting last Friday at the Captain High School. Officers were elected. Wesley Young is the new president. Clyde Mullins, secretary, treasurer and Ray Baker was elected to the office of committee man.

L. S. "Heavy" Drake was there and spoke at length on GPA activities. This organization is a good one and deserves a lot of support from all of us.

Mrs. Bill Brown went to Grants recently. Her son, Ergeal and his family live there.

Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Parker were hostesses to fifteen members of the Ladies Guild last week.

The Ft. Stanton Bowling club held its 7th annual bowling night at 7:30 in the bowling alley here. We need all the members we can get. It's fun to watch whether you bowl or not; and bowling is the best exercise you can get.

The Parkers were in Roswell last Saturday. Gene says that Percy shot a good game. I don't know enough about golf to know what a good game is, but he has been going a long time and should be pretty good.

Several Ft. Stanton boys received honors at the Court of Honor held during the Camporee last Friday and Saturday. Skipper Gould is a Life Scout, Jimmie Armour received the Star Scout badge, Jimmie Minter received a merit badge for Animal Husbandry, Eddie Womack, Joey Ferguson, Joe Wilson and Jere White received First Class badges and Ernest Sanchez (just recently joined) received his Tenderfoot badge. Good going, boys, your community congratulates you.

You should have seen Bert Minter working the stew pots at the Camporee. Troop 58 ate well. I know, because I had dinner with them. We had a good stew, sauer kraut and pork, stewed prunes, cocoa, bread and all the water we could drink. I got a good picture of Bert and Ray Baker washing dishes afterwards.

Voleta Kilgore Tells Of Interesting N. M. Missions

(By Voleta Kilgore)

Of the other six greatest and oldest Spanish Missions all but one, Acoma, are now in ruins. These are often called the Forgotten Missions. Most important is the Salinas group, which includes three: Abo, Quarai and San Juan. The Abo, Quarai and San Juan Missions, the Pueblo of Pecos, which was first visited by some of Coronado's men in 1540. At one time it was one of the largest and strongest of the Pueblos. Its history can be traced back as early as 1358 by tree ring notes which have been found. In 1617, only seven years after the founding of Santa Fe, the Mission of Nuestra Señora de los Angeles was established at Pecos. The structure was entirely of adobe, with main walls from 5 to 8 feet thick. Beautifully situated on a rim in a valley entirely surrounded by wooded hills. This reddish brown adobe pile is an inescapably picturesque ruin. The most beautiful of New Mexico's ruins is the Mission of San Diego de Jemez at Jemez Springs off Highway 44, west of Santa Fe. Built also in 1617, in a setting of mountain grandeur, this Mission with its convento was one of the largest and most important churches established by the Franciscans. It is in an excellent state of preservation today. Many of its walls, built of red sandstone, are still intact. Since both Pecos and Jemez were abandoned at such an early date—1680—little of their history is known. Situated on a golden brown sandstone butte rising nearly 400 feet above the plain about 50 miles west of Albuquerque, stands the old Acoma Mission, the most unique church on the American continent and the largest and finest in the Southwest. It is situated in the Sky City, and Indian Pueblo built on the summit of the famous Rock of Acoma which is accessible only by a steep rock-cut trail that winds treacherously up the sheer cliff. There is not one vestige of earth atop the smooth windswept surface of the rock, and every grain of sand that has been used in the construction of the Mission, its convento, which took 40 years to complete, and the terraced adobe buildings, was carried up on the backs of Indians, toiling Indians. The Mission was established in 1629 by Friar Juan Ramirez and his multitude of Indian assistants, and required many years of tremendous labor to complete. All material was hauled or carried up from the valley below, and the timbers, which were considered sacred, and were not allowed to touch the ground, were carried up from the distant mountains. It is a monument to human endeavor. The creation of a great church on that site and under the adverse conditions that existed has an appeal for the imagination beyond that of any church ever built. Set the great church itself his in its huge simplicity, a strength and dignity, a rugged power to a degree seldom if ever exceeded. Here, as in probably no other church, can one appropriately say "This in brief is the story of New Mexico's seven greatest of the Piro tribe. The Gran Quiviera was probably destroyed during the Pueblo rebellion, but Abo and Quarai, with their surrounding pueblos were abandoned, and now lie in ruins because of the depredations of the Apaches and other fierce plains Indians.

The ancient ruins of these Missions present picturesque scenes among the cedar lined hills of the Espanola Valley south of Mountainair, and are visited by the thousands of tourists each year.

Much farther north, and just 25 miles southeast of Santa Fe was the Pueblo of Pecos, which was first visited by some of Coronado's men in 1540. At one time it was one of the largest and strongest of the Pueblos. Its history can be traced back as early as 1358 by tree ring notes which have been found. ### Fishing Good On The Ruidoso

Fishermen from all over the Southwest have been angling in the Ruidoso since the season opened. In most cases the catches have been good and they have caught their limit. The fishermen were really disappointed on opening day when the ground was covered with snow.

Most of the fishermen say that their catches are better this year than last. The stream has been well stocked for the past few years and if one can get his hook in before the kids begin to throw rocks his chances are pretty good for a fair catch.

In talking to many fishermen a reporter for the News was told that fish were biting all the way from Green Tree to far up in the Recreation. The Indian boys are on the job at the entrance to the Recreation and they are happy to give strangers where the best fishing is. So all you fishermen from everywhere load a pile car and come on up. Bring the family and they can do many things while you get your catch.

Capitan FFA Has Broiler Project

The FFA class under the leadership of Mr. A. J. Bivens is carrying on a "broiler project" for the summer. They have purchased the equipment formerly owned by Mr. Carrol Anderson and plan to handle around 500 pounds of broilers monthly. They now have a contract to furnish the Fort Stanton hospital with 200 pounds every two weeks. At the present time this is about all they can do but within the next month they plan to have enough surplus to take orders from the public. Mr. Bivens with the help of five or six boys will operate it this summer then this fall it can be used as a project for any boy wishing to take agriculture and has no other project to work on. Let's all get behind Mr. Bivens in this project and help all we can as it is one of the best and most interesting projects that a boy can take part in. It is broiler plant is located on First Street in Capitan. Please stop in and look it over as they are glad to show you around and explain it. It is very modernly equipped with the slaughter trough and scalding vat plus the electric plucker and the sink for washing. The broilers are killed feathered or dressed by not drawn. Purchase your broilers from the FFA boys.

Morgan Buys Sheff Buildings

News Items From CAPITAN

(By Mary Warner)

The annual banquet given by the Women's club for the senior girls and their mothers was a grand success. A delightful program was presented under the chairmanship of Dorothy Guck, with Edna Laramie acting as Toastmistress. The tables were beautifully decorated with bright colored May baskets filled with fruit blossoms, with center pieces of vases of flowers. Two tables had brightly wound Maypoles with the senior girls' table centered with long tapers of the senior colors. The collars were each presented a gift of a necklace and bracelet to match. Places were laid for eighty-two. Mrs. LeRoy McKnight was the chairman in charge of the banquet.

The P-TA held their last meeting for the summer at the old Grade Gym Monday evening. Each person took a covered dish. The evening was spent in a grand get-together with a pot luck supper at six and then square dancing in the gym. Everyone seems very enthusiastic about this organization and we hope to start off next fall with a smoothly operating P-TA.

The Junior Class entertained the seniors with a banquet and prom Saturday evening. The banquet was held in the cafeteria and the prom in the American Legion hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams have returned to Capitan after visiting for the past two months in Ventura, California with their sons. They report a very enjoyable visit but like all travelers were a little glad to get home.

Mr. Clement and Stanley Hightower attended the State Track meet in Albuquerque this week end. Stanley entered the mile race. While he did not place, we have hopes of his doing so next year.

Dean Earl's brother from Washington, D. C. flew in for a short visit with Dean this week.

Mr. E. V. Aboytta has sold his home in Capitan to Mr. and Mrs. James Howard and purchased one in Albuquerque where he plans to move the last of the month. We will hardly recognize the Titaworth store without Ed's smiling face. Mr. Aboytta had a letter from his son, Vernon from Camp Chaffee, Ark. He is doing fine and enjoying his army life.

Persons seen around town driving new cars were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Young and Mrs. Alene Stuart and Mrs. Grace Samuelson.
