13-Year-Old Illinois Lad Learns About The 'West' Visiting Lincoln County

(By Dan Storm)
 Among the many new friends Lincoln county has won this year are Mr. and Mrs. E. Riley Efan, and their 13-year-old son, Johnny, from Creve Coeur near Peoria, Illinois.

Johnny had become interested in Lincoln county history some years past by reading a magazine story about Billy the Kid. He went to his home town library to read up on early days around Lincoln. His interest grew until in November, 1950, he began corresponding with Mrs. John Davis, custodian of the Old Lincoln Memorial museum in Lincoln.

The boy's desire to visit this land which was the scene of so many famous early-day frontier episodes became so great that his parents made a special effort to come out to Lincoln county during their summer vacation.

The boy was delighted with the country, saying that it was far more beautiful and interesting even than he had imagined through all his reading and dreaming. His parents also were greatly pleased with the natural beauty of this locality, expressing surprise that there were so many mountains, trees, and grass. They had expected to see an arid desert country, they said.

The family arrived in Lincoln county July 7, just after the first summer rains had made the countryside radiantly green with the first young blades of new grass.

Mrs. Davis, who had helped Johnny learn about Lincoln county history through supplying information in answer to his letters, got in touch with several Lincoln county people and told them of the boy's desire to become acquainted with our neighborhood and explained he only had one day before he must start back home.

All those approached immediately pitched in to help the boy cover as much ground as possible in the time he was able to visit here. A. T. "Bert" Pfingsten took Johnny on a tour of the upper Bonito country where the lad found new interest at each turn in the road and marvelled at the abundance of tall timber, green flats and steep mountains. With Edgar Phillips of Lincoln, the boy rode horseback looking for cattle over the same foothills surrounding Lincoln where in days gone by a slight and agile figure sitting light as a bird upon his powerful dappled gray horse, could often be seen, always recognized at a great distance so that the beholder of this figure on the horizon would stop to look saying, with his own particular strange mingling of emotions: "There goes Billy the Kid."

With Emilio Zamora, descendant of a man who figured prominently in early Lincoln frontier dramas, Johnny went rabbit hunting on the hill behind the museum.

For dinner with Mrs. Davis, Johnny and his mother and father were treated to a typical New Mexico meal of tortillas and chili and beans.

Johnny, both in appearance and personality, is a typical American boy: red headed and freckled faced and husky but, with plenty of brains. He is a straight "A" student in East Peoria High school. He is something of an authority at ready on Lincoln county history, and other phases of the early west.

Johnny and his parents spent the night at the newly completed Motel Bookley at Hondo.

Asked what he liked about Lincoln county—whether the people, scenery, history or opportunities, Johnny said he liked it all, and he hopes to come out and make his home in this country.

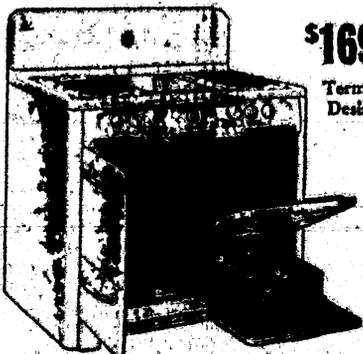

Mr. and Mrs. Efan, of course, received double enjoyment out of their stay here and extended their gratefulness to the Lincoln county people who helped to make their boy's visit such a success. All three hope to come back again and will carry back to Illinois pleasant memories of their day spent in the land that the boy had so longed to see with his parents.

I can dream ... can't I?

Sure, I'd like to have a vacation like anyone else, but this is the busiest time of the year for me.

You see, during the extreme heat of midsummer, I have to work longer and harder than ever providing folks with the air conditioning and refrigeration they need to keep cool. Fans and window coolers are in use many more hours per day. And refrigerators and home freezers work overtime furnishing extra refrigeration and extra quantities of ice cubes, cold drinks and frozen desserts.

Quite naturally, this extra work is reflected in my monthly pay. But the difference is small compared to the comfort I bring. I'm still the lowest-cost servant you can hire—and the more hours I work the less I cost you per hour.

Can Blind Lead The Blind, Asks Bishop In Sermon

(By Dan Storm)
Services conducted recently at Saint Anne Chapel at Glencoe by the Reverend Mr. O. J. Rainey, chaplain at Fort Stanton hospital, and the Right Reverend James M. Stoney, Episcopal Bishop of the diocese of the Rio Grande, featured a sermon delivered by Bishop Stoney who drew his message from the quotation: "Can the blind lead the blind?"

The theme of the sermon was the struggle going on today between the Communist way of life and the Christian way of life, and Bishop Stoney placed the question in the minds of the congregation: "If we who profess ourselves to be Christians are blind, can we then lead the spiritually blind Communist-dominated people into the way of God?"

"The greatest danger to Christ's way of life on earth today," Bishop Stoney said, "is that we who profess to be Christians are half-hearted, indifferent and lethargic about our work and our life as Christians. We tend to place other things ahead of the church, and the day to day duties of ourselves as Christians. While on the other hand the Communists have been sold on their way of life and are pushing it with all their power, willing to die for their cause."

"Little by little," Bishop Stoney continued, "our half-hearted, lethargic attitude is allowing the Communist way of thought and way of life to infiltrate our own lives."

BANK GROUP HERE

Employees of Citizens National bank of Lubbock, Tex., and their families, about 60 in all, were weekend visitors here. The group was headed by Miss Ruth Ford, in charge of the bank's personnel.

TITLE HOLDER HERE

From Lubbock attending the golf tournament here is Mrs. Vivian Eades, who is club champion at the Brownfield Country Club. She also played the Trans-Mississippi, bringing home a cup from that tournament. She has attended many tournaments including West Texas, Hobbs Invitational and others.

There is an attitude gaining ground that says, "This life is all there is, all there is to it is what we can get; let's get it all now!"

Bishop Stoney pointed out that it is exactly the Communist way of thought and way of life; that the Communist believes that God and a life hereafter exist, while the Christian believes in God and a life hereafter are the two prime principles of his life.

"You cannot shoot ideas out of people with bullets," said Bishop Stoney. "The greatest weapon, in fact the only weapon we Christians have against the blind communists who have been told to deny God, is our own Christian way of life."

Bishop Stoney closed the sermon by saying that we Christians are not blind, that we are far from blind, and that as soon as the need for us to rise up and be more than equal to the duties and the fight we must give for our Christian way of life, then we will lead the tragically blind peoples of the world out into the world of Christian enlightenment.

Greatest Benefit Patients Get At Fort Stanton Hospital Is New Mexico's Sunshine

By Dorothy Guck
Fort Stanton, N. M.—The Federal Government furnishes the most modern medical equipment for this Marine hospital. Dr. E. M. Townsend, former commander of Fort Stanton, said, "but we are indebted to New Mexico for the greatest benefit our patients receive—more than 300 days of sunshine a year."

Fort Stanton, at an elevation of 6,200 feet, is one of 24 marine hospitals in the nation and one of two that specializes in tuberculosis care. It is operated by the Hospital Division of the Public Health Service. Marine hospitals were originally established in seaports to care for ailing sailors and Marines.

Fort Stanton was not always a hospital. It was established May 4, 1852, it was occupied by Col. Kit Carson with four companies of volunteers. It was rebuilt in 1893 and discontinued in 1896 as no longer required for military purposes.

On April 1, 1899, President McKinley reserved the reservation for the use of the hospital service and in November Seaman Joseph Ryan entered as the first patient.

Partially Burned
On Aug. 2, 1881, the fort was partially burned by Confederate forces before a summer storm extinguished the fire. On Oct. 21, 1892, it was occupied by Col. Kit Carson with four companies of volunteers. It was rebuilt in 1893 and discontinued in 1896 as no longer required for military purposes.

On April 1, 1899, President McKinley reserved the reservation for the use of the hospital service and in November Seaman Joseph Ryan entered as the first patient.

The fort is on the right bank of the Rio Bonito, nine miles west of Lincoln, 68 miles west of Roswell and 150 miles north of El Paso.

During World War II, German prisoners were housed near the fort. They built a large swimming pool which was given to the hospital when they left.

News From MESCALERO

(By Mrs. Reino Sarlin)

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Enjady July 28 at the Mescalero hospital.

Mrs. Marshall Woodward entertained a number of ladies with a canasta party Thursday evening. Miss Kate Ritter won high, and Mrs. Melvin Fairbanks low. A lovely birthday cake, baked by Mrs. Ray Quast in honor of the hostess, and ice cream were served.

Tennyson Chihuahua, Pfc., son of Mrs. Agnes Pesewonit, is home on 30-day furlough. He has been stationed in Germany.

Mrs. Gertrude Dodds, county welfare worker, was here Tuesday to make home visits. Her next scheduled visit is to be August 21.

Lucius Peto, Andrew Little, Rufus Sago, and Wendell Chino, all members of the Tribal Business committee, and Supt. Lonnie Hardin were on a trip this week to interview prospective candidates for the job of store manager.

Marcelino Frelo and son, Junior, were in Truth or Consequences this week.

The feast grounds are being vacated at Mescalero as the people move to Carrizo for the activities there Aug. 2 and 3. At their conclusion, many will return to their homes throughout the reservation.

Private Charley Shanta, Three Rivers community, who was reported wounded in Korea, has been heard from and is okay. He is expected home soon.

Four young ladies represented the local 4-H group at Scott Abel camp in the Sacramento mountains from Thursday to Sunday of last week. A wonderful time was reported by the Misses Rosalie Davalos, Rose Harvey, Rosemary Breuninger and Polly Sarlin.

Manuel Begay was with his mother in Gallup when she passed away early last week. Reino Sarlin also received the sad news of the death of his father in Seattle July 24.

Many agency folks were in Albuquerque during the past two weeks. Supt. and Mrs. Hardin and family, Miss Kate Ritter, Nurse Pita Cajeto, Mrs. Doc Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Baldonado and children.

A birthday party honoring Lyle Woodward, now age 11 years, was given Tuesday afternoon by his mother, Mrs. Marshall Woodward. He received many nice gifts, and everybody enjoyed the cake, ice cream and lemonade.

HOSPITAL

Receiving treatment in Ruidoso-Hondo Valley General hospital the last several days have been: Della Falls, Marvin Hall, Johnny West and Mrs. Reynolds Jones, all of Ruidoso; Mrs. Lucila Clark, J. J. Kennedy, Mrs. Jimmy Zamora and Joe Cox, all of Hollywood; Benito Chaves, San Antonio; E. A. Wagoner, Alamosordo; Houston Cole; Roswell; Lon P. Watkins, Carlsbad; A. B. Schelper, Jr., El Paso.

FRANK LEDDY BUYS CARL DOUGLASS HOME
Frank Leddy, Ft. Worth, Tex., has purchased the Carl Douglass home, not the Paul Douglass home, as was erroneously reported in last week's News.

JOE PALMER SECURES DISTRIBUTOR RIGHTS FOR WATER CONDITIONER

Joe Palmer of Ruidoso completed a deal last week whereby he has distribution rights in a large area for the famed Evis water conditioner, which is a small attachment to be installed on any water system, home or business, and which softens, cleanses and conditions water. The Evis product was the subject of an article recently in Reader's Digest magazine. Among its users is the U. S. Navy, which has Evis conditioners purifying salt water for drinking and for boiler use. Palmer's distributor rights cover Southwest Texas and Southern New Mexico, and he is to secure individual dealers in the larger centers of the area. He said:

Herb Smith has been ill at his home here.

Two More Become Veterans of Hike To Baldy's Summit

(Editor's Note: Below is a brief account of the reactions of two Ruidoso youths who made a trek to "Old Baldy's" summit by horse and alpen. The pair was Jim Lamb, Ruidoso News reporter, and Jimmy Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Barnes.)

(By JIM LAMB)
A trip to the top of Sierra Blanca, the 12,003 foot peak that towers behind the village of Ruidoso, is a never-to-be-forgotten experience of any one's vacation. To get the full benefit of the trek, it should be taken before the rainy season sets in.

"Baldy," as White Mountain is known, can be climbed by foot, but the easiest way to make the climb is on horse back. The horses will take you to within 100 yards of the top, but they must be left as you climb the last 100 or so yards. This last bit of climbing is like climbing a very steep stair.

The trip begins early in the morning. If lunch is to be eaten on the top, as so many who hike decide to do, much of the morning is spent riding through the Indian reservation in which there are the beautiful spruce, pines, aspens and fir. If you take the south fork of the Rio Ruidoso you have to cross and recross the stream constantly. If you leave the trail in the right place you will pass by a beaver dam that has been built by these busy creatures. After riding for a few hours, you are able to catch a glimpse of the grassy meadows above timber line. You wonder how long before you will reach timber line. Then you make a couple of sharp turns and you are free of the trees.

Sun is better, Winds begin. After leaving the timber you begin to get a real view. You look up and there above you is Baldy's summit. Now that the shelter of the trees is behind you, you begin to feel the effects of the sun. It bears down constantly, and there is no shelter from it. The winds begin to rise as you get closer to the top. You pass rocks that are higher than hotels. Looking across one of the valleys you might catch a glimpse of a mountain lion, as we did, in the opening of a cave. You cross trails that are used by the wild-llies that abound on the meadows. The meadows are gentle rolling plains covered with grass and literally hundreds of flowers. Near the top, it becomes necessary to dismount several times to rest the horses. If you decide to lead them a way, you notice that it is harder to breathe. Being nearly a mile higher than when you started, the air is thinner. Already you can see the White Sands to the west and looking east, south you can see Cloudcroft, or what you think is Cloudcroft. At last you're close enough to walk to the top. You leave the horses to graze and hike the rest of the way. The top there's Mon Jean, the lava beds, Cow mountain, the highway that crosses the lava beds. You follow the highway with your eye until you can pick out Carrizozo. Quickly you eat lunch, take pictures, or whatever you have to do and then the trip back down. The return trip is not so exciting as the trip up, but it's easier, thanks for that, and soon you return to Ruidoso, a veteran climber of Sierra Blanca!

TO KOREA
Ezell Clarke, Jr., Navy hospitalman, has been ordered to duty in Korea, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ezell Clarke, Sr., learned from him last week.

Mrs. Jerry Oravets accompanied her father, Lem Coltharp, to Texas early this week where they attended the funeral of a relative.

Naval reservists recalled from the beginning of fighting in Korea to March 1, 1952 included 31,771 officers and 188,885 enlisted men.

Planes from four aircraft carriers of task force 77 flew 981 sorties while participating in the June 22-23 strikes against hydroelectric complex along the Yalu river. Carriers were the Philippine Sea, Bon Homme Richard, Boxer and Princeton.

Hollywood P. O. In New Home

Hollywood post office moved into new quarters last week-end, providing more room for the postal employees and more boxes for patrons. Mrs. Mabel Wimberley, postmaster, said the office now has 225 boxes.

Postal receipts at Hollywood are setting new high records in recent weeks. Mrs. Wimberley indicated the receipts would have been an all-time high record the first six months this year even without increase in some postal rates.

The new postoffice adjoins the old at the east intersection of U. S. Highway 70 and State Highway 37.

Additional equipment for use in the "back office" of the post office was installed when the move into the new home was made.

Billy, The Kid's Mistake Was in Talking Last Time, Usually He Shot First

(Editor's Note: The following article was republished in the July issue of New Mexico Law, official publication of the New Mexico Sheriff's and Police Association, of which Marcus Griffin, well known New Mexico newsmen, is editor. It was originally published in the Lincoln County Leader, and was written by John Gerald Griffin, Marcus Griffin's uncle. The files of the early-day paper never have been located. This story was taken from a photostatic copy of a clipping from the Leader which was given Marcus by his uncle.)

By John Gerald Griffin (In the Lincoln County Leader, 1881)

"The trouble with Billy was he talked before he shot. Always before that he shot first and talked afterward. That's the testimony of Pete Maxwell, eyewitness to the killing of William H. Bonney, known far and wide in the territory as Billy, The Kid. Pete Maxwell gave his account of the killing of the notorious outlaw by Sheriff Patrick Floyd Garrett at an inquest held in the first judicial district today.

Following the inquest at which Milnor Rudolph presided as president of the inquest board, Bonney was buried in the cemetery at Fort Sumner. Other members of the inquest panel were Antonio Saavedra, Pedro Antonio Lucero, José Silva, Cabal Gutierrez and Lorenzo Jaramillo. Alejandro Segura presided as justice of the peace.

Sheriff Pat Garrett, elected by the people of Lincoln County on his personal promise that he would rid this area of cattle rustlers and horse thieves and fight it out with Billy The Kid, kept his promise last night, July 14, 1881, when he killed The Kid in Pete Maxwell's bedroom outside Fort Sumner. Maxwell, the eyewitness, is the son of the late Lucien B. Maxwell, former owner of the spacious Beau-bien Miranda land grant, known as The Maxwell Land Grant.

Just a little past his 21st birthday, The Kid was buried in a borrowed white shirt, much too large for him, in a thrown together wooden coffin made by a village handy man. He lies in the same cemetery alongside Tom O'Fallard, Tom Boydre, Lucien Maxwell and Juanita Garrett, bride of Pat Garrett.

As the Kid was being laid out in his coffin in the Maxwell house Deluvina Maxwell, his little sweetheart who loved him so well, rushed up to Sheriff Garrett and shrieked, "You—You—you! You didn't dare kill him face to face."

Padre Redin at Anton Chico says, "Billy did not have a bad heart, really. Most of his crimes were crimes of vengeance."

Regardless of opinions concerning William H. Bonney and Sheriff Pat Garrett, The Kid is dead. No longer will his darling form be seen in the villages of New Mexico. No longer will his broad brimmed sombrero with a bright green Irish hat band attract attention. And no longer will friend and foe alike hear his peculiar whistle as he fogs or walks along, whistling "Silver Threads Among The Gold," through his crooked, widely spaced front teeth.

Garrett Fame Spreading
Already Sheriff Garrett's fame is spreading through the territory. Las Vegas citizens are making up a purse to reward the intrepid player of the New Mexico's most feared badman. Garrett will go to Santa Fe to collect the $500 reward which Governor Lew Wallace posted for the desperado's killing.

This fearless law officer Garrett is a man 6 feet 5 inches tall. His eyes are a faded blue, his voice low and pleasing. He has none of the swagger of a pistol packer. He gives the impression of being a timid man, easily imposed upon. He has a mole under the left jaw and has a long, luxuriant mustache. He is a dead shot with either hand, fast on the draw. He shoots as his guns come up. Among the natives of Lincoln County Garrett is known as Juan Largo, or Long John. He is now about 32 years of age.

Word of the Kid's death was received by Justice of the Peace Alejandro Segura of the 27th precinct about 4 o'clock on the morning of 15th day of July, 1881. Segura went to the home of Luz B. Maxwell with Milnor Rudolph, José Silva, Antonio Saavedra, Pedro Antonio Lucero, Lorenzo Jaramillo, and Cabal Gutierrez, men he had appointed to a coroner's jury. They went into a room in said home where they found the body of William Bonney, alias Billy The Kid, with a shot in the left breast. Having examined the body they examined the evidence of Pedro Maxwell given in Spanish and translated, which evidence is as follows as I took it down:

"I being in bed in my room, at about midnight of the 14th day of July, Pat F. Garrett came into my room and sat at the end of my bed to converse with me. A short while after Garrett had sat down William Bonney came in and got close to my bed with a gun in his hand and asked me, "Who is it? Who is it?"

And then Pat Garrett fired two shots at the said William Bonney and the said William Bonney fell near my fireplace and I went out of the room and when I came in again in about three or four minutes after the shots the said Bonney was dead."

The jury found the following verdict:

"We of the jury unanimously find that William Bonney has been killed by a shot on the left breast near the region of the heart, the same having been fired with a gun in the hand of Pat F. Garrett and our verdict is that the deed of said Garrett was justifiable homicide and we are unanimous in the opinion that the gratitude of all the community is due the said Garrett for his deed and is worthy of being rewarded."

Milnor Rudolph and all other members of the jury and Alejandro Segura signed the verdict.

Bonney has no known relatives. It is reported that his mother, Mrs. Antrim, died in Silver City several years ago. A brother and sister were reported as alive but their whereabouts are unknown at this time.

The boy who boasted of having killed 21 men, one for each year of his life is dead, killed by a gentleman without the loud bluster, big pistol-talking manners many believe accompanies courage and resolution.

NEW SONG BY AUTHOR BERNIE WILLIAMS TELLS OF OUR 'TREASURE TRAIL'

(Editor's Note: Visiting in Ruidoso last week-end was Bernie Williams, author of hundreds of songs, many of them hits on juke boxes and radio hit parades. He has written a special song about U. S. Highway 70, which brings thousands of tourists to this city regularly. Below is reprinted an article from the Clovis News-Journal about Bernie and his new song.)

Bernie Williams has done again. The composer of the state song, "In New Mexico," has turned his talents to promotion of Highway 70, the only route in the union extending from coast to coast and running through eight states.

Johnny Perkins, organizer of the Highway association, collaborated with Williams on words and music for the official song, "On the Treasure Trail."

Highway 70 goes through Clovis, forming the route from Plainview, Tex., to Roswell, N. M., and east west arteries across the nation.

It was just last year that the noted composer wrote the new song for our state and signed all royalties over to the Carrie Tingley hospital for crippled children at Truth or Consequences.

And among Williams' souvenirs is a letter from Governor Mechem expressing appreciation from the state for his good deed.

The New Mexico institution is not the only one that has benefited from the composer's generosity. In other states, he has performed similar deeds to help his pupils through sales of his music.

He became interested in polo through the death of his brother, Walter, 10 years ago and has composed a number of songs which are providing extra funds for operation of hospitals for crippled children.

His first song was "Somebody Stole My Gal." It was written from the heart. He had returned from World War I service to find his girl had forsaken him for another man.

Since that time he has composed many hit tunes. Two of the most popular are "Pennies from Heaven" and "My Gal Sal."

Born in New York, he operated the first night club there and saw many famous people of today and yesterday rise to fame and fortune.

Among them were Will Rogers and George Raft.

He recalls that the late Will Rogers, whose life story will be portrayed soon on movie screens by Rogers' son, was a strange visitor to New York in 1917.

A cud-chewing cowboy from Oklahoma, Rogers was an obscure rope artist who was looking for employment of any kind and slept with his horse in a Manhattan stable.

Bernie Williams' uncle crossed paths with Rogers and arranged for him an audition with Capt. Jack Churchill, who ran an internationally known eating and entertainment establishment on Broadway.

He was given a bit part in the show to perform three minutes of tricks without his horse. The world might never have known Rogers as a great humorist if he hadn't missed the punch of one of his best lariat stunts one night.

To cover up, Rogers went confided in instructions by including a little ad lib, which brought the only laugh of the evening. From then on he added humorous talk to his rope act and became world famous.

Williams left his birthplace in 1931 for the lure of Hollywood, where he was president of Western Pictures for seven years and founded the academy awards for sound-

ATWATER CATCHES DESERT—Barry Atwater, of Santa Fe's famed art colony is to be in Ruidoso this week-end through Sunday when a showing of several of his desert paintings will be held at Rector's Art Treasure chest. Critics say of Atwater: "His paints nothing to stir a violent controversy, he merely seeks to bring the desert, the wild rugged desert which he loves, as truly as possible to the painted canvas. 'It is a big desert and he will never exhaust his subject.'" ed horse operas. Bill Boyd was the first to receive the award.

He lived in Rudolph Valentino's former home for 11 years and operated a night club, the Rancho Grande, in Hollywood. During World War II, he turned the club over to the Motion Picture Guild for use by servicemen and it became famous as the Hollywood Canteen.

Besides composing tunes and playing the Good Samaritan with some of them, Williams operates a night club, the Tin Pan Alley, in Wickenburg, Ariz. It is made from the bark of trees to provide special atmosphere and has a big patio for dancing but its real specialty is good food.

There are other attractions at his night club, however.

The walls are covered with original copies of old-time songs dating back 250 years. There are 1,000 framed original copies adorning the walls and the place also has musical instruments dating back 1,000 years.

In the display is an original composition on parchment paper composed over 800 years ago before composers had originated notes, sharps, or flats. Lines and little black squares provide the composition.

Williams is temporarily forgetting his Tin Pan Alley to travel Highway 70 as far as North Carolina, where it ends at the Atlantic ocean. He stopped in Clovis Friday and was on his way again.

Johnny Perkins, collaborator on the official Highway 70 song, is traveling the highway in the opposite direction, ending at Los Angeles, Calif., where he begins the vast reaches of the Pacific Ocean.

FIESTA PLANNED AT LA LUZ

Mrs. Jack Hawkins, president of the La Luz women's society, and Mrs. William Karver from that city were in Ruidoso Tuesday, placing placards advertising La Luz community Fiesta for Saturday, Aug. 30. The program, to include dances, contests and other entertainment, is being held to raise money for a water system for La Luz, the women said.

News Items From— TINNIE

By Elma F. Rogers

Well, as the conventions are all over, and everyone is "happy," we hope we will try and put together a little gossip about the home folks around here.

Glen Bradley made a wild swing with a sledge hammer and banged his knee all up. When told he might need two good legs to run for sheriff this fall he said he was just giving the other fellow an even break this way. He is always thinking of someone else???

See Bill Johns pulling his hay baler up and down the road. We think that is the best way to bale these hot days, Bill.

We think the "Deck" was stacked against Heavy Drake when he made his recent trip to Santa Fe in the interest of the Ruidoso C. of C. as we had everything cut and dry down this way. Better luck next time Heavy, but let us in on it as we live in Lincoln county, too.

See George Butts is able to drive around again. Guess Dr. Treatneck is getting him all fixed up again.

Friend Freddie Titsworth wasn't going to the 4-H camp 'till he saw all the pretty girls and then Frank couldn't keep him home at all. Freddie is the president of the local 4-H club.

Everyone in the valley who has peaches are busy picking these days and there seems to be a pretty good crop this year and they are selling from $2.50 to $3.00 a bushel.

"The Mayor of East Honda," Jess Gallagher, is very busy trying to learn his monkey some new tricks but says he is having lots of trouble as you have to know more than the monkey to learn the monkey anything.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bonham and children from Kermit, Tex., are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Porfirio Fresquez and family. Mrs. Bonham is the former Miss Constancia Sedillo. After their visit here, they will go to Albuquerque to visit Mrs. Tomasita Sedillo and other relatives.

Mrs. Lucia Romero, a former resident of this county and now a resident of Torrence, Calif., is visiting with her sister, Mrs. George Kimbrell, and Mrs. Larry Gomes, and brothers, Harry and Romero.
