AROUND TOWN -By Nosey Waters-

Actually, folks, we would have been surprised if Ruidoso had received any other type of publicity than we did from the state's largest daily newspaper, the Albuquerque Journal, regarding our entertainment of the 18 touring editors from several states. As you remember, under auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce, the visitors here, writing for newspapers, magazines in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Phoenix, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, New York, etc., were given a cocktail party and a delicious supper, (with a minimum of speeches) at Navajo Lodge on Thursday night when the Downey play host, on Friday morning, they were entertained with a breakfast in the Mesalero Apache Reservation by the Lincoln Club, at which time Superintendent Fernin Montes and his wife and some of the Honcho school children performed early New Mexican folk dances. On one of that five of our cabin and lodge owners provided free lodging for the visitors—so, it cost them nothing to visit in Ruidoso for several hours. But, traveling with that group was the city editor of the Albuquerque Journal, Bill Hesch, who wrote a lengthy story about the tour of the state by the editors and their reactions. His report was illustrated with several nice photographs of scenic attractions, almost all of them in the northern part of the state, with a glowing account of how they were joyfully entertained and hospitably received everywhere. Ruidoso's hospitality? He summed it up in one brief sentence like this: "But there were some irritants. Drinking water is a state dollar each, western beer at sixty cents a bottle in Ruidoso produced some complaint."

Bennett Food Liner Opened To Shoppers This Week

Matching Ruidoso's growth and progress, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bennett and Clyde Whitt this week opened their modern new Bennett Food Liner on Mechem Drive, off Alamo Road. The new firm stages an open house Friday and Saturday this week with souvenirs for all who call, and with door prizes of 50 baskets of groceries free. The lunch is out and the hosts invite everyone to call and view the fine food market. Measuring 50x80 feet in size, the modern styled concrete tile structure is finished in pleasing colors, both outside and in. Asphalt tile is used throughout on floor, and there are more than 100 feet of steel food display cases. Four giant banks hold canned items to aid in self-serve service. Two walk-in boxes are in use as coolers. Two checking stations are located handily for speedy service. The structure, erected this spring by J. R. Emde, contractor, has won many compliments from those who visited it since the store opened for the first time Monday. The Bennetts and Whitt moved from their old stand, Quality Grocery & Market, Saturday, opening without a day's time lost Monday on Mechem Drive. Assisting in the open house Friday and Saturday will be Price's Creameries, 7-Up Bottling Company, Monarch Foods, Wilson's Packing Co., both Holman and Mead Bakeries and Christian's Wholesale. The Bennetts came to Ruidoso from Houston 11 years ago and Ruidoso is their present setup. "For the information of one and all, the Ruidoso Downs outfit has been to Santa Fe asking that dates be set for next season's meet. There isn't going to be another horse race meet at Ruidoso next season under the present setup. We've got the complete copy of that paper on file here in our office for Bill Bailey to eat if and when he ever comes down this way again."

Visiting in the News office last week-end, Percy Eigmouth, Mesalero, was telling about his father, whose name is Eigmouth, with no given name. Eigmouth is over 100 years old and scouted during the days of Chief Victoria, and later in the time of Geronimo. He's not as active now as he was a few years ago, Percy reports. A tip of the hat to Jay and Loraine Francis down at the Junction Bar-B-Q Pit. They are barbecuing 50 pounds of beef at no cost for the Band Boosters Club supper outdoors Saturday evening this week. The club bought the meat and the Francis couple are cooking it in yam-yum style. W. R. Long is providing the sauces free. The Junction Bar-B-Q has been remodeled for the summer season, and now has a counter and stools. They feature barbecue and have only soft drinks, and they opened for the first time last week. A tip of the hat, also, to Mrs. Edith Johnson of Johnson's Cafeteria, who we figured is the hardest working woman in this canyon. On top of her many activities of every day, she got up at four a. m. Saturday to prepare for the Seniors and their sponsors a free breakfast to give them a send-off on their end-of-school trip to California. At the state liquor dealers convention in Albuquerque last week, Dick Crosby of Ruidoso earned considerable applause with his service as an M. C. in two programs. Joining with Lyda Reinkemeyer in Modern Beauty Shop, Skaneateles, is a beauty specialist of Eastern New Mexico, who will handle beauty needs six days a week at the salon on Main Road. Stopping off at Apache Village Courts here for several days early this week were 25 members of the Ft. Stockton, Tex., band with their director, Mr. St. Clair. Margaret's Cafe installed some new planters boxes, using colored glass. Several Ruidoso homes are sponsoring a radio series, to last seven weeks, over a Carabed radio station, KPBM, telling of Ruidoso's vacation attractions this summer. Jack Elzyer was in Oklahoma on business last week. Up for the summer from Waco, Tex., are the W. F. Crawfords.

Barbecue Set For Band Uniform Fund

Band Booster Club members are preparing enough barbecue and trimmings to feed almost a thousand people for their supper scheduled for 5 p. m. until it's all gone Saturday evening this week on the meadow between the high school and Main Road in Palmer's Gateway. Money raised from the supper will go towards the fund to buy new uniforms for the Ruidoso School Band. Plates will be $1.50 for adults and 75c for children, and advance ticket sale for the supper is underway by members of the club and of the band. All of Ruidoso is invited to eat at the barbecue supper, and summer visitors and race track fans, too, have a special invitation to enjoy a well-cooked meal served out in the open.

Swank New Dine & Dance Opens Monday

The largest and swankiest dine and dance spot in New Mexico opened in Ruidoso Monday this week. A formal opening was slated for Thursday this week. It's Martin and Jerry Grindstaff's glittering new Martin's Dine and Dance in downtown Ruidoso, opened 33 days after the first supper. Completely equipped for entertainment, spot replaces one burned to the ground at the same site 50 days ago. The Dine and Dance is in three departments, a beautiful cafe serving fine foods from breakfast through supper, a cocktail lounge and a huge ballroom, with fire-place and raised band stand. The same type of stools and chairs throughout are found in all three departments. Stainless steel kitchen appliances serve the dining room. Spacious rest rooms flank the ballroom. Tables and chairs in the ballroom accommodate 100 persons. A hardwood floor is inset in the ballroom to accommodate those who enjoy dancing. The dance band employed for the season is Two Kings and a Queen, colored trio from the South. The concrete building, overall, measures 120 feet in length and 46 feet wide.

VOLUNTEERS STOMP FOREST FIRE

A change in the wind and the valiant efforts of some 150 volunteer fire fighters, directed by officials of the Lincoln National Forest, could be credited Wednesday with having a portion of Upper Ruidoso forest fire thus threatened that region, and possibly many hundreds of acres more of timber in the Playground of the Southwest. Discovered Tuesday morning about 10 a. m., the fire had already burned about three or four acres in the Flume Canyon region when a local ranger dispatched a crew to go to work on it. Within two or three hours, with a wind of 35 to 40 miles an hour to fan it, the blaze had spread out to cover some 60 acres—and then word was sent to all available sources for extra manpower to combat the fire. Located a little over a mile southwest of Upper Ruidoso, the fire was headed toward the city, moving slowly, but surely. Four caterpillars were sent to the scene, a call for Mesalero Red Hats was sent to the Indian reservation. Volunteers were asked from Ruidoso Downs and from neighboring communities. By mid-afternoon Tuesday, the fire was declared an emergency here, and forest service officials said it was a definite threat to Ruidoso. Within another hour, however, with the wind dropping to a mild breeze, and with sheer force of numbers of men on the scene, the fire was contained in the canyon. By nightfall a large buffer area had been opened between the fire and the city. A full of smoke lay over downtown Ruidoso and Upper Ruidoso for most of the day Tuesday, and on Wednesday, a burning ember, floated down into the settled area. Mayor Don Snyder ordered a sound truck to patrol the Upper Ruidoso area asking residents to stand guard—to watch for possible spot fires that might be caused by wind-ferried sparks. The fire could be seen from several vantage points in Ruidoso—particularly from the road around Cree Meadows Golf Course, on Mechem Drive and from the Ruidoso Lookout Tower, from where many hundreds of townsfolk and summer visitors, too, watched it. It could be seen, also, from many parts of Hollywood and Palmer's Gateway. Besides officials of the Lincoln National Forest—here, three—men from Chuloa Forest, Magdalena, and three from Kit Carson, Santa Fe, came in to assist in mopping up operations Wednesday. One hundred military personnel from Walker Air Force Base arrived in three buses late Tuesday to relieve the Red Hats and local volunteers in the over-night work Tuesday and Wednesday. Handling communications and other chores for the Forest Service at the Ruidoso Lookout Tower during the early stages of the fire Tuesday was Ruidoso Forest Ranger Fred Swetnam. Camp boys at the scene of the fire was Ray Callaway from Alamogordo office of the Lincoln National Forest; and Ike Kennedy, assistant of the Ruidoso Ranger Station. Also here aiding in fighting the fire from the Alamogordo office was Paul Wild, fire control officer for the Lincoln Forest. Mesalero Red Hats were arriving in small groups all Tuesday

LIIONS ELECT PAUL CREEK PRESIDENT

Through an error in reporting the election of Lions Club officers for their 1956-57 term last week by one of the members, Pat Valiant was listed as having been named president. The report discredited Paul Creeks who had been elected to that position, and who is to take office as head of the club later this summer. Creeks is cashier of Ruidoso State Bank, and will succeed W. A. Hart in that position. Tuesday afternoon the phone rang frequently at the Ruidoso News office with inquiries coming from radio stations and newspapers and wire services in El Paso, Roswell, Albuquerque and Alamogordo. Pictures of the fire, made by Carmon Phillips from Ralph Brown's chartered plane on one of his flights for the Forest Service to scout the blaze, were sent by chartered plane from here to Albuquerque in another of Brown's planes by Pilot Lowell Morgan for Associated Press distribution. Four staffers from the Roswell Daily Tuesday to photograph and write the story of the fire. An Associated Press staff writer was due to return with Morgan from his Albuquerque flight late Tuesday.

By Daniel A. Storm

There is an old saying that came to my mind last Friday as I attended the graduation exercises of the Ruidoso High School.

"Valuable things come wrapped in small packages." The class was small but every graduate was a hand-picked human being, a top credit to their folks their community and nation. They are all good material to begin with and the best hearts and minds that could be found anywhere on this earth have done their level best for them in training, guidance and inspiration.

I never attend a graduation but what I have a strong wish to give every graduate a piece of some little token or keepsake of my admiration for them. Admiration for the way they have responded to the opportunity of a high school education and for the way they stayed in there plugging when there were many discouragements at times. Any worthwhile accomplishment is full of hardships and discouragements, times when we feel like quitting or resting though we know deep down in our hearts that we will never quit but will hang on and keep moving forward 'til the goal is reached.

At present, yes! But there is nothing I could give in a material way that could measure up to my respect and gratitude to these graduates although the finest little present is always deeply appreciated. I know.

There is a present I am going to give to all of you graduates, to keep all your lives throughout all time, forever.

I am going to tell you to hang on to something precious that you have. Right now your minds and hearts are pure and fresh with the clean and wholesome surroundings of school. Your faith is strong. You have the fresh, courageous outlook of youth. You have the kindness of youth.

I want all of you to keep on all through life with this same happy, kindly, pure outlook that you have now. Later on down the line and there may be influences coming into your life to try and knock

Whitt Brings Merchandising Ideas Here

(By DAN GRIFFITH)
Bennett's Food Liner, holding its formal opening today, already has a remarkable background of success to draw on.
Clyde Whitt, a partner in the venture with H. A. Bennett, is going into the business after doing the most successful job of merchandising seen in Houston in recent years.
Working for a World War II vet, Blocker Martin, who parlayed a corner grocery into three big super markets since 1950, Whitt has been given a big share of the credit for his quick success.
His merchandising ability was a large factor in Martin's ability to grow big in the shadow of the dominating grocery chain in Houston, according to the Nargus Bulletin, a trade magazine.
The merchandising ideas and service which can be expected at the Food Liner on Mechem Drive will be the same that Whitt used so successfully in Houston.
"Good service and better personnel is the answer to people's question on how we operate side by side with an established chain food store," according to Whitt's ex-employer.
Martin emphasized that "it's disposition that counts in the long run. A check-out girl who, at the end of a long day, can still be pleasant to a customer or a carry-out boy who says 'thanks' on his last trip as well as the first one are the little things which bring customers back."
Whitt moved to Ruidoso several weeks ago with his wife and one son, Jerry, 15.

INTERIOR OF NEW STORE—One of the most modern food markets in Southeastern New Mexico was opened this week to shoppers of the area on Mechem Drive. All new equipment, modern streamlined self serve shelving and checking stands, plus new ideas in merchandising are featured. Pictured is Clyde Whitt stocking shelves in the large store just before the opening.

Extra Doctors Recommended At Ft. Stanton

By DANNA KUSIANOVICH Ft. Stanton (Spl.)—A law requiring persons with tuberculosis to be hospitalized or otherwise quarantined was strongly recommended by the Welfare Department's Medical Advisory Board during hearings held here Friday by the legislative interim committee investigating the Welfare Department.
The committee voted to request a study of compulsory quarantine legislation in other states.
Several physicians testifying before the committee pointed out that a person with active tuberculosis may infect dozens of other persons and said that under present laws the Welfare Department has no means of forcing them to seek treatment.
One physician warned that veterans groups would probably oppose such legislation. He said they have done so in other states.
Several members of the Medical Board testified during the day-long session, along with staff members of the Ft. Stanton Medical Center, leaders from surrounding communities and county welfare workers.

Other recommendations made to the committee included:
Removal of the $18.50 limit now placed on what the Welfare Department can pay for hospital care.
Welfare Director Murray Hantz testified that the current limit is a direct "hardship on the department and clients," and that the department has been unable to secure a hospital contract for surgical patients that cheap. It is often as high as $42 per day.
2. That the Ft. Stanton hospital needs more than the two resident physicians now there. The Medical Board said that the present facilities here are excellent but that the size of the medical staff is under par.
3. That some 75 cabins used by the U. S. Public Health Service for ambulatory patients at Ft. Stanton be disposed of, preferably burned and that a 75 to 100-bed addition be built to the Ft. Stanton hospital.

Daniel Kucianovich, Ft. Stanton, business manager, emphasized that nearly two-thirds of the present operating costs of the hospital is paid by the U. S. Public Health Service for care of Navajo tuberculosis patients under a contractual arrangement. At present 120 of the hospital's 204 patients are Indians. He also pointed out that at present the Public Health Service is farming out several hundred Indian patients to hospitals in other states and would send them to Ft. Stanton or other New Mexico institutions if bed space were available.

Under the present contract the government pays $10 per day per patient, which he said is about $2 over the actual operating cost.
He also said that the hospital's major problem is securing professional personnel—doctors and nurses—and that putting the personnel under social security would probably help to alleviate the problem.
Harris Shelton and Dorothy Patterson, artists, have moved here for the summer and are at Shelton's Ruidoso studio a mile above Ruidoso postoffice.
Mrs. Frank Matthews and two sons, Paul and Noel, have moved here from Tatum and are living in one of the Johnson rent houses in downtown Ruidoso. Paul has been employed by the Ruidoso News.

LETTER TO EDITOR

May 23, 1956
Box 132
Ruidoso, New Mexico
Dear Mr. Cunningham:
The New Mexico Society for Crippled Children finds it difficult to really express our appreciation and heartfelt thanks to Fat Chubbuck for promoting the project of the New Mexico Retail Licensed Beverage Association.

It was wonderful that he thought of our Society. He so graciously made the excellent arrangements for us to receive the proceeds. He worked hard, and it was most gratifying to see his efforts well rewarded from the amount of money ($588.19) that was raised for the Summer Camp.
It is people like Mr. Chubbuck, with our interest at heart, and ever alert for any special project that might benefit our organization, that makes our work possible.
Day by day progress is being made, and I feel sure our Summer Camp will be a great success.

Sincerely yours,
Mildred R. Moulton
Acting Executive Secretary

County Pioneer Dies In Carrizozo

Funeral services were held Sunday in Carrizozo for Thomas Edwin Kelley, 76, who died Friday afternoon at Carrizozo Hospital. He was one of Carrizozo's pioneer businessmen. In 1908 he and his father and brother operated the Kelley & Sons Furniture Co. In 1910 it was enlarged to include hardware and sporting goods.

Later Mr. Kelley established Kelley Funeral Home and Evergreen Cemetery at Carrizozo. He retired from business in 1954 but he and Mrs. Kelley continued to make their home in Carrizozo. Until he became ill two years ago Mr. Kelley had taken an active part in community and county affairs.

He was one of the founders and a past president of the New Mexico Game Protective Assn. and helped organize the Eagle Creek Lodge Association. He was Lincoln County Democratic chairman for a number of years and chairman of the board of Carrizozo Lodge F. A. M. No. 41; also a past patron of Comets Chapter, Eastern Star.

He was born October 15, 1879, in Johnson County, Texas, and came to New Mexico with his parents in 1897. They settled first in the Estancia Valley and later ranches near Magdalena. He was married July 28, 1915, at Cleburne, Texas, to Mattie I. Thompson. He is survived by his widow, Mattie; a daughter, Mrs. Bryson Corbett of Albuquerque and four grandchildren.

FARM LOANS READY FOR TWO COUNTIES

Carroll J. Shafer, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration for Chaves and Lincoln Counties, announced today that eligible farmers may obtain farm housing loans from that agency. Five million dollars were recently made available by a supplemental appropriation for this type of loan.

Shafer said applications for these loans may be made at his office in the basement of the city hall, Roswell.

This type of loan permits the construction of new farm dwellings, hay barns, dairy barns and other buildings necessary to farm operation. It also permits remodeling of existing buildings when they are not satisfactory. The loans may be made on either a first or second real estate mortgage and the loans are repayable up to 20 years with rate of interest at 4%.

Mrs. Ike Kennedy and daughter, Mrs. Corinne Swearingin, returned last week-end from a visit in Stanton, Tex., where they attended the 25th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Kennedy's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Bryan. Miss Kay Bryan of Stanton and Mrs. Frank Wolcott, Midland, returned with Mrs. Kennedy for a visit here.

White Oaks Mines, Mills Stand Silent In Ghost Town

The shafts are caving in at White Oaks. Most of the buildings are missing their roofs or walls or windows.

Only the polished headstones and wilted flowers in the New Mexico town's Cedarvale Cemetery tell of the riches and elegance that made this the most important town of the biggest county in the United States.

The Carrizo and he found the miners in what now is Baxter Canyon. The Carrizo and his flock had quit coming years before.

Baxter located his claim and in a few weeks 100 men were working placer in the canyon and scores more were prospecting the hills for the source of the placer gold.

Baxter and a few others carried water from White Oaks Spring, 2 1/2 miles away, and worked their claims, but many just drifted off when told of the water obstacle. Some men made as high as $100 a day from their mines however.

Baxter himself left, no doubt seeking a richer lode, and was killed by Apaches in the Black Range between Kingston and Lake Valley, N. M., in 1885.

George Wilson turned in the discovery gold mine, subsequently known as the Homestake, on the west side of Baxter Canyon well above the first placer find.

Although the ore assayed rich, the "Times" termed "a mistake common to many miners of the early West, and sold out too soon because he lacked sufficient funds to develop the mine.

He got $35 in gold dust, two silver dollars and an old revolver for the mine from Jack V. Winters.

Jackson (who later operated the North Homestake for 25 years) estimated that its total yield was about $5 million.

"And," he adds, "these mines will all be worked again some day."

There still is gold.

Winters deeded half his claim to John E. Wilson, no kin to George Wilson. John Wilson promptly opened up the South Homestake on his half of the claim and it, too, produced at least in the hundreds of thousands of dollars in gold.

In the fall of 1885 Winters was suffering from poor health and decided half the North Homestake to J. J. Dolan and John A. Larue in return for certain considerations, among which was a promise that the two men care for him.

Winters died March 22, 1881, before the rich mine had scarcely begun to show its true wealth. Executors of Winters' estate protested passage of the mine to Larue and Dolan, claiming they had failed to live up to the agreement.

Court rulings backed up the executors and Jan. 27, 1887, they sold the North Homestake to Dr. William G. Hunter of Kentucky and James M. Sigafus of Tarrytown, N. Y.

The South Homestake also had changed hands in the meantime, having been sold by John Wilson to the South Homestake Gold Mining Co. of White Oaks in Jan. 1881.

Other mines were opening up on the tree-sloped hills surrounding the valley where White Oaks was building a population of 1,500 persons.

James Allen discovered the Little Mac Mine in 1881 but it was thrown into litigation, said The Times in 1887, "by jumpers described as a sort of impetuous set of rovers who enter mining camps for the purpose of black-mailing and thus retard honest industry and enterprise."

Other Mines

The Henry Clay mine next to the Little Mac was owned in those days by a Wilmington, Del. syndicate, represented in White Oaks by Capt. C. H. Gallagher.

The Gallagher outfit later bought the Little Homestake Mine and the Wheel of Fortune Mine from Prof. J. Glass, together with his mill.

In addition to these, noted the Times, more than 300 prospects had been made in the vicinity and many promised to become great mines.

At least one, located directly across Baxter Canyon from the North Homestake, did become a great one. It was the Old Abe, which records show produced more than $5 million in gold.

But all that glittered in White Oaks was not gold.

The Times' story of 1887 enumerated silver mines "which promise magnificently" six or eight miles northeast of White Oaks; magnetic, specular and hematite iron limestone for fluxing in the smelting process; gypsum deposits; beds of fire clay and white and black marble "equal to the finest European marble in character and beauty."

Needing a railroad to ease high wagon freight costs, White Oaks early turned to El Paso with one more mine commodity—one very alluring to the railroad hub of the Southwest.

That was coal. Coal to feed the Border City's great railroads and build its industries.

El Paso newspapers at once joined the clamor for a railroad to White Oaks.

In the 1880s White Oaks was supply depot for a radius of 50 miles. Supplies were freighted from El Paso or from San Antonio, N. M., across the mountains on the Santa Fe Railway.

In 1887 The Times' correspondent wrote that "the morality of the town is of a much higher grade than any mining camp we are familiar with."

The saloons, billiard halls and gambling halls are all closed on Sunday. There was not, so far as he could discover, "one single bawdy house" operating there.

"Formerly, it was very different, during the years of 1881, '82 and '83, when Billy the Kid and his confederates and successors made things exceedingly lively and when prostitutes and other objectionable characters were numerous. (Now there are) only five saloons in a population of 500."

The town was at its peak in the early '90s when all the big mines were in operation and two stamp mills were crushing ore and shipping out gold.

D. L. Jackson went to El Paso in 1896 and worked for a time for a Mr. Mendenthal, who ran a lively stable and wagon yard.

(Prevailing wages were $1.50 a day, but Jackson was making $2 after Mendenthal found he had unloaded and moved a rail gondola load of crushed rock in one day.)

When Jackson came to White Oaks the next year it was via Santa Fe Railroad to San Antonio, N. M., and overland 100 miles by stagecoach. It took more than 24 hours, with a change of horses every 25 miles.

He stayed on accidentally. He had planned to ride back to El Paso with one Carmack who freighted regularly between the two towns. Carmack pulled two wagons with six or eight-horse or mule teams, depending on the nature of the load.

He was three days overdue getting back to White Oaks from one trip and by that time Jackson had secured steady work.

The work was in the Old Abe 20-stamp mill as an amalgamator. The process was one of crushing the ore to a fine consistency, then amalgamating the gold out of the waste by pouring in mercury, to which the gold would cling.

His moving single-handed of heavy equipment which two other men could hardly move gained him his reputation as strongest man in camp. His physical condition today remains surprisingly good for a man 85 years old.

Heavily muscled, Jackson also carries a less-desirable reminder of his work in the stamp mill. He is deaf.

Married in White Oaks late in 1893, Jackson lived frugally and by 1908 had saved enough money to lease the North and South Homestake Mines, in partnership with Allan L. Lane and Edwin L. Queens.

He superintended the operations for the mines and eventually the mine brought both properties and operated them until 1930.

The lack of water in Baxter Canyon which plagued Baxter and his fellow placer miners was a blessing to Jackson and his partners.

The shaft of the North Homestake was sunk 1,450 feet without ever hitting water. The Old Abe, across the Canyon, went to a similar depth without water.

In White Oaks town, however, water could be had in the '80s at a depth of from 25 to 50 feet and may still be found from 125 to 150 feet down.

During his operation of the Homestakes, Jackson says, $500,000 in gold was taken from the two mines. One lead from the North Supply Point mine supplied the mill for 18 months and netted $50,000 in gold. "I wish I had one like it now," Jackson said.

But his condition is comfortable in a roomy one-story stucco house in White Oaks. There are neighbors and an almost constant stream of sight-seers, tourists, writers and historians who come to see the man who owned the Homestakes.

But White Oaks itself is dying. Only a flicker of hope remains as operations are under way to re-open the Little Mac.

Down in the Cedarvale Cemetery there is a stone all ready for D. L. Jackson, 1870-19— . It is beside the well-kept grave of Jackson's wife, who died in 1954.

What was the best is a pile of rock now. Adobe walls stand here and there in the town, waiting for a wind strong enough to topple them over.

Down in Carrizozo Flats is Carrizozo, the town the White Oaks Railroad built in 1890 because the big town of White Oaks wanted too much from the railroad and wouldn't give anything in return. The wind blows sweet and crisp out of the pines and cedars above the Cedarvale Cemetery. It whips across the valley that held a boom town and rustles the grass and weeds on the grave of William C. McDonald, who was also from White Oaks, and who was the first governor of the State of New Mexico.

Congratulations to all young people who are graduating this year! Receiving a diploma means you have fulfilled the academic requirements and met the standards of conduct of your schools. They, in turn, have given you a secure world for four years, with work and rules of conduct mapped out for you.

Now all this is changed in a day. The anchor has suddenly pulled up, and the world ahead looks insecure and uncertain. You now have to plan your own work, and set your own standards of behavior.

At this point, a church connection is a strong anchor to spiritual security. Let your commencement mean a commencement of regular church attendance in the church you choose. Face the new world ahead armed with its firm hope and faith.

Ruidoso Magazine Photographer Takes 3,000 Color Pictures In South American Tour

(By AL STUBBS)
In Roswell Record

From facing a jaguar at a range of five feet, armed with only a Leica camera, to investigating the black market in shrunken heads pretty well typifies Walt Wiggins' four months tour of South America.

Wiggins, magazine photographer of Roswell and Ruidoso, went to South America in January with two purposes in mind: the shooting of publicity pictures for Braniff Airways and the other to shoot in color photo stories for men's magazines. Walt turned out 18 photo stories, shot 3,000 color pictures and traveled 16,000 miles, mostly by air, during his four-month stay. He returned to Roswell May 11, after leaving Lima, Peru, by air, May 10.

The shooting of the jaguar story in color for Argosy magazine was perhaps the most thrilling, as well as the most strenuous, of his adventures. In S. A. One of the more interesting picture stories concerns how tourists get gyped in buying shrunken heads as souvenirs. Often they don't obtain the real McCoy, and Walt, in a picture story for the Argosy magazine, tells the tourist how to take care of the getting a real shrunken head. Walt brought back a perfect head as a souvenir. It's about the size of a doll's head, with long, black hair.

Walt's picture stories range from the jaguar hunt to a condor hunt, water buffalo hunt, smuggling in Havana, jungle bush pilot's life, story on "Miss Argentina," Letourneau colonization project, and others.

Walt said that his picture story of a jaguar hunt has been considered the most interesting and best photographed except when dead or in a zoo. Walt got several color shots from dead range of dogs annoying a wounded jaguar just before the kill. Walt and a hunting party, hunting on the largest ranch in the world, Fazenda Esmeralda, in the Matogrosso of Brazil.

Ruidoso News

Friday, June 1, 1956

zil, spent two weeks in marshy jungle country looking for a jaguar. They were rewarded with a 280-pound ferocious animal which was killed by natives using only spears as Walt moved in close to photograph the kill. The hunting party set up a hunting camp on the edge of the swamps where the jaguar hangs out. They lived in grass huts and hunted from camp every day for two weeks, fighting insects and jungle and water almost every step of the way. They would ride on horseback for hours through swamps to reach areas of jungle which looked the most promising for jaguar.

The jaguar is described as quite common in South America. It occurs in the mountains and preys all the time on horse, tapir, capybara, dogs or cattle. One hundred 14 cattle were killed by jaguars on one ranch in South America during 1954. The jaguar is much like the leopard, except that it is more of a tree climber. It has a black spot in the center. Although thick set, the jaguar is as agile as the leopard.

After the two-week jaguar hunt, Wiggins set up the water buffalo hunt which was pursued on the banks of the Amazon river, in the mouth of the Amazon river. The land and surrounding land areas are great ranching sections. The water buffalo, during the rainy season when Walt was there, are hunted from canoes, and a 3,000-pound animal was killed by the Wiggins hunting party. During the dry season, these animals are hunted from horseback. Walt says that hunters always shoot for the hind quarters of a buffalo, that there's less chance of the hunter getting killed that way. It took nine shots, five of them in the head, to kill the object of Walt's hunt.

The condor hunt high in the Andes was interesting. The condor is a South American vulture, described as almost the largest of existing birds of flight. It usually measures about four feet in length and from nine to ten feet in wingspan. It is a native of the South American Andes.

A sheep is killed, and, according to Walt, "allowed to ripen." The sheep is put near a blind high in the mountains and various animals feed off of it as hunters await the arrival of condors. After about three days when the carcass has about been stripped, the condors show up, lured by the "ripened" meat left clinging to bones. They swoop down and alight near the sheep. Loops are snared in the sheep, and a condor steps into one of the loops, a hunter pulls it taut, and the condor is trapped. These birds bring from $100 to $500 a pair from zoos.

Kenneth Hertz, TV adventure films producer and former Hollywood director, arranged the condor hunt for Walt. Hertz told Walt, "You have done the impossible. I didn't think it was possible to shoot the condor, the jaguar and water buffalo hunts within a year's time. You have done it in four months."

Walt mentioned several oddities about his trip. Although very few people who go to South America fail to get sick at one time or another, because of food, water, heat, insects, etc., he didn't have one sick day there. Another oddity was that the jaguar hunt was conducted in one of the greatest snake regions in the world. "I didn't see a snake," Walt said, but he saw and felt millions of ticks and other insects in the dense, humid jungle. Walt said he wasn't afraid when he was within five feet of a snarling jaguar, that the only thing which made him want to skip back to the U. S. in a hurry were the insects and heat.

"You get used to them, though," he said in remarking that he'll make more trips to S. A. for picture stories. "I've only scratched the surface," he said.

One of the picture stories he did was the Letourneau colonization project in Peru. An American has taken a colony of Americans who are clearing a vast area of forest to form a farming community. Life in the community as the clearing process progresses is the subject of this story.

On the jaguar hunt with Walt was Dr. James Marshall, 45, former president of Wayland College, Plainview, Texas, who is making a documentary and educational film on the Zing Indians of South America, one of the most primitive tribes in the world.

Dr. Marshall is a brother of Charlie Marshall, former Roswell man who was in the investment company business here. Dr. Marshall—he's not a medical doctor—has made 30 trips across the Chi-

The club is working with the State Highway 70 Association in trying to secure funds for larger signs inviting tourists to "Stay on 70" at points further away from the two communities.

vante, Indian country where only a handful of white men have ventured to live to tell about it. He knows the Indians who kill the famous Colonel Fawcett and later a California newspaperman who went there to investigate the death of Fawcett.

A 2,000-mile flight along the coast line of Brazil was one of the highlights of Walt's trip. He flew with Dr. Marshall. Walt is a pilot who flies to many photographic assignments in the United States either from Roswell or Ruidoso. He lost the sight of one eye when a small boy.

Walt tells the story of bathing in a river filled with flesh-eating fish, the piranha. "We learned before we went into the water to stay in shallow water and keep moving," he said.

He told the story of the ranch man and the ranch wife who the jaguar hunt was staged who was on the bank of a river cooping his hair. He leaned over and thrust his head into the water to rinse out soap and came up with the end of his nose missing.

That happened three months before Walt met him, and his nose was just healing when Walt met him. That's what comes of "keeping your nose clean."

Camp Farthest Out To Open With Evening Assembly, June 12

(By Rev. Wm. B. HOLMES, JR.)
Ruidoso Presbyterian Minister

On page one of the Ruidoso News May 11, was a lengthy account of the 1956 New Mexico Camp Farthest Out. A statement of the background of these Camps and their spread in the last quarter century around the world was featured. A list of the various leaders was published and that list will not be repeated in this column.

Starr Dally, author of a score of books and booklets along with his wife and Norman K. Elliott, son-in-law of Glenn Clark, founder of the camps, will be featured speakers and Marie Dally will also teach the class in creative writing.

It is not the policy of the camps to make invidious comparisons of the various leaders or establish a caste system as to who is prominent or not prominent. All this is of the world and these camps are of the world but most certainly are not of it.

Each man and woman who fills an assigned role of leadership is best known for his or her personal consecration and devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ. Each and every role is equally important in the sight of God.

If you missed the long article in the May 11th issue of this paper, borrow a copy from someone and read it. Vic Lamb has always been more than generous in giving front page space to reports of anything that is the highest and best interest of all Ruidoso. We do not wish to abuse his generosity and are making this account much shorter.

The opening assembly of this camp will be 8:00 p. m. Tuesday, June 12, and the last assembly will be at 10:00 p. m. Tuesday, June 12. All local residents may come and go, taking in any and all of the various classes, assemblies, lectures, etc., without paying registration fee and without any enforced charge. If you eat any meals you will have to make your own arrangements with Herb and Pauline Greggerson, owners and operators of Carrizo Lodge.

You will be given a proper opportunity to make a free will offering toward the expenses of the leaders but this will be without any undue pressure. This joy camp is an integral part of a world wide spiritual retreat movement to bring together for prayer, meditation, and a season of creative christian living, all those who sincerely seek the bringing into the life of this world the redeeming love and grace and power of the Lord Jesus Christ, touching every phase and relationship of life with His transforming power and in short, in answer to the prayer that He gave to us all, bring in His kingdom in this our Father's world.

The whole movement is strictly interdenominational in its leadership, spirit and objective. It is a marvelous opportunity for us to share in God's rich blessings, so freely bestowed upon us through the ministry of spiritual leaders who are known not only at the national level but without exaggeration at the world level. Starr Dally's book "Love Can Open Prison Doors" has been read on at least two continents and anywhere that it is read by the message of this man as one faces the fact that he was 3 years ago a problem child and a hardened criminal. His very presence is the focus of the presence of the One whose redeeming love and power touched and transformed him into a radiant and triumphant christian leader and through whose ministry and personal testimony thousands have found the way of Real Life. All sessions and activities of this camp are at Carrizo Lodge, Ruidoso, New Mexico.

IT'S WISE

To Do Your Real Estate Business Through A REALTOR

(This is one of a series of articles published in the public interest by the Ruidoso Board of Realtors to acquaint you with the purpose of this organization.)

Grave Social Obligations

Besides the obligations of his everyday business, the Realtor recognizes the grave social responsibilities which are his because of his particular calling. This understanding he has set forth in the preamble to his code of ethics.

"Under all is the land. Through the Realtor, the land resource of the nation has been husbanded and developed; and through him ownership has attained its widest distribution—a distinguishing mark that differentiates this from other professions and provides the real safeguard against radical impermentations.

"The Realtor is the creator of homes, both urban and rural, and by his activities molds the form of his future city, not only in the living of his people, but in its commercial and industrial aspects.

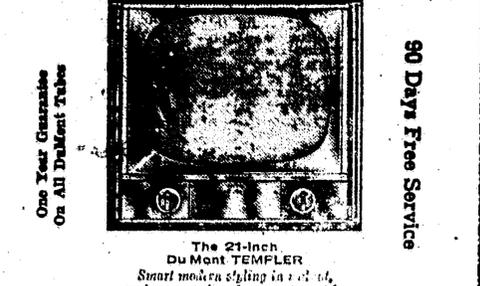

"Such functions impose obligations beyond those of ordinary business; they impose grave social responsibilities which the Realtor can meet only by diligent preparation and by dedicating himself to a patriotic duty, to their fulfillment.

"No safer guide for his conduct exists than that counsel handed down through the centuries and embodied in the Golden Rule.

"Whoever you would that men should do unto you, even so do ye unto them."

Therefore, it's wise to do your real estate business through a Realtor.

Records Topple At Opening Of Racing Season This Week

"They're off!" The familiar cry at post time for races also signals the start of Ruidoso Downs' 1956 season of 39 days here, which started off with a mid-week program Wednesday, Memorial Day. There will be racing again this week-end on Saturday and Sunday, with post time for the 12-race card each day at 1:30 p. m.

A new track record and an unprecedented crowd for a week-day season's opener featured start of the 39-day 1956 race meeting at Ruidoso Downs.

Entries for the second day of racing at Ruidoso Downs on Saturday June 2, points the interest mainly toward the thoroughbred contestants. The seventh race at 5/8 furlongs brings together a well-matched band of the claiming variety. Recent winners include Remem-ber Mama, Mias Anaway and Charlie Band, Charlie Band, son of the Kentucky Derby winner, Whirlaway, displayed good form at the recently concluded Billito meet by winning three races.

Entries were so heavy for the feature race, a thoroughbred allowance at six furlongs, that it was divided and is being run in two sections. In the first division is the old Ruidoso favorite, War-Tuck. His stiffest competition will come from Air Eternod, Remem-ber War and Ak-Sono. War-Tuck finished third in a good race at Hot Springs in March and should be the post time favorite in this division.

In the second division Sierra, Bart's Energy, Princess Margo and Juliet Cup loom as strong contenders with the nod going to Sierra off his recent performances at Arizona Downs.

Futurity aspirants make their debut in the third and sixth races at Ruidoso Downs on Sunday, June 3, the third being a quarter horse maiden 2 year old race at 350 yards. The sixth is for the thoroughbred maiden 2 year olds at four furlongs. All entrants are nominees for one of the Futurities and these two races may develop a favorite in the forthcoming trials for their respective futurities.

Several well-bred and well-trained colts are in each group. The possible favorite in the third may be Walt For Me, while the choice in the sixth race could be a non-starter, Hoval Officer.

The tenth race brings together an unusually good field of quarter horses. Last year's Quarter Horse Derby winner, Spanish Charge, will possibly be the post time favorite, but he has plenty of top flight competition and if he were to be defeated it would be no surprise.

FATHER DIES IN ROSWELL. Funeral services were held in Roswell Tuesday of last week, May 22, for John C. Coey, 61, a painter Roswell resident, who died May 20. He was the father of Mrs. George Fred of Alto. Other survivors included the mother, five sons and another daughter.

Lower Golfing Fees At Cree Meadows Wallop Inflation

Johnny Mask, owner and manager of beautiful Cree Meadows Golf Course, has kicked off man-inflation in the teeth. Rates for playing the widely known golf course here have been slashed more than half for the 1956 summer season. Where the charge was $2.00 for nine holes last year, a golfer can play from sun-up to sun-down this year for only $1.50; which should be good news to vacationers in this mountain resort community who enjoy the game.

Mask said golfing officials of the U. S. predict this season will be the greatest in the history of the sport—and we want to go right along with the prediction by offering golfers a real chance at playing golf at a reasonable charge.

Mask acquired the course early this year and has directed considerable improvements of the clubhouse dining room, cocktail lounge, house and grounds. Besides an orthodox nine-hole course, with the beautiful White Mountain as a background, Cree Meadows also offers a pitch and putt course with holes from 25 to 150 yards distant.

In the last few years pitch and putt courses have leaped to popularity with golfers who like to "warm up" on the shorter range and get in some putting and approach practice before tackling the long-range course.

New equipment in the dining room, an enlarged pro shop with additional services, plus rental of clubs and equipment, provides a week-end visitor a place of relaxation and pleasure. A reasonable cost in the Playground of the Southwest.

To Re-Activate Captain Scout Troop
At a meeting held at Captain city hall last Tuesday, plans were made for re-activation of Captain Boy Scout Troop 55 under sponsorship of the Captain Parent-Teacher Association. Recently appointed as P-T-A Committee on Scout Sponsorship were Roy Charles L. Conder, chairman, Warren Gaston and Fletcher Hall.

Warren Gaston, Troop Scoutmaster, Roy Charles L. Conder, chairman, Virgil Jones, Jack Earl-ling and Ray Province, Scoutmaster, Adrian Hill, Assistant Scoutmaster, Bill Handke and Fletcher Hall, boys of age 11 and over wishing membership should contact a member of the committee for information. Application blanks may be had from Warren Gaston in Captain, who is also enrolling prospective attendants at Carlsbad Aquatic School this summer.

BILLIE CLARKE INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Charges of reckless driving were filed against Alex Sanchez of Green Tree last week-end following a wreck in which a car in which he was the driver struck another at the south entrance to Ruidoso Downs on U. S. Highway 70 Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Billie Clarke, Ruidoso, driver of the second car was hospitalized for serious cuts and bruises she suffered when her automobile was struck from the rear by Sanchez's vehicle.

Mrs. Clarke was stopped on the road, awaiting the passing of another car before turning into the Downs drive and was signalling, when Sanchez came around a curve and was unable to stop. The late model Chevrolet Mrs. Clarke was driving was damaged considerably before turning into the Downs drive and was signalling, when Sanchez came around a curve and was unable to stop.

Mr. W. W. Duggins said, "Navy WAVES composed 75 percent of the total allowance in 'Radio Washington', the nerve center of the entire Navy communication system during World War II.

Eckert Elected Quarterback Prosy

Harry Eckert, athletic program booster for Ruidoso High School for many years, was elevated from the vice-presidency to the presidency of the Ruidoso Quarterback Club in its third annual meeting Thursday last week in the high school. Other officers picked were J. P. (Jake) Haley, vice-president; Ralph McGuire, secretary; Paul Creek, treasurer; Cy Leland, Jr., and Jack Hull, directors.

Membership cards for the 1956-57 club year are now distributed among officers of the association who are soliciting dues of $3 for the new year. Eckert says several projects will be undertaken to assist the athletic program of the local school in the next 12 months, some of the items to include aid to junior high school youngsters.

Eckert said this week that through the cooperation of Ruidoso Downs and Ruidoso Lions Club, the Quarterback Club hopes to erect an electric score board at the football field this fall. To raise funds for the club treasurer, the Quarterbackers have purchased a hunting rifle to be given in a contest to be held this fall.

The rifle to be given, on which tickets will be sold shortly, is a Mauser with Ackley moly-chrome, stainless steel barrel, and is valued at $250.00. It is to be displayed first at Trimble's Ruidoso Package Store, and then will be put on display at other business places in town, and likely will be shown in Roswell. It has a hard (rock) maple stock, inlayed with a purple heart wood, a full pistol grip of lignum vitae ironwood, and is equipped with a Weaver K-4 4-power 60 series telescope sight. The Husvarna Swedish steel action is glass beaded.

Two children from Lincoln County will attend the camp, which is sponsored by the Ruidoso Lions. Heavy Cunningham is in charge of the camp drive, with Chubbuck and Joe Coe on the committee.

Chubbuck said he hopes to get the yearly donation by the liquor dealers committed to the crippled children's camp on an annual basis. The money, most of it raised by the auction of a springer spaniel pup this year, will pay transportation costs for children to the camp.

Applications to attend the camp are handled in Lincoln County by Lloyd Vigil in Carrizozo.

Next year's convention site was not picked, according to Chubbuck, who said that the Ruidoso delegation put in a strong bid to hold it here in 1957.

Attendance at the convention is about 500.

The camp is to be conducted by the New Mexico Society for Crippled Children which also holds the yearly Easter Seal drives in the state.

PRESBYTERIAN YOUTHS TO VISIT HERE
Carrizo Lodge will be headquarters for Presbyterian Youth in a Conference here opening June 8, Herb Gregerson, operator, reports. The group is from El Paso.

In 1948, the WAVES, originally intended as "for the duration only" became a permanent part of the Regular Navy of the United States. They earned this honored position in our armed forces by a combination of hard work, tact, and ability.

Enlisted WAVES now serve as flight orderlies aboard military transport planes flying to Germany, Bermuda, the Caribbean, Hawaii, and Japan.

The Pat Chubbucks are vacationing this week in several New Mexico cities.

Fund Of Nearly $600 Raised At Albuquerque Convention To Assist Crippled Children Camp Here

Nearly $600 was raised to help finance a summer camp for crippled children in Ruidoso by the New Mexico Retail Licensed Beverage Assn. at its convention in Albuquerque last week.

Pat Chubbuck, head of the Lincoln County Assn., and Dick Crosby sparked the drive to secure the annual charity donations made by the liquor dealers for the camp.

The camp is slated for the Carrizo Lodge in August. Some 60 children will attend the two sessions, which are divided according to age groups.

Commission Tells Hensley To 'Go Ahead'

Raton (Sp.)—The "go ahead" signal for a full season of racing at Ruidoso Downs was given to Eugene Hensley and the Ruidoso Racing Commission.

But a question of who really owns one section of stock arose and the commission promised to check the matter closely.

The commission met Friday to determine if Hensley and the association has complied with a list of stipulations it authored last November to remove "an unhealthy" situation. The situation arose, members of the commission say, because one owner owned too much interest in the track.

The question of the stock came up when the commission checked the list of new stock holders. In a letter from Jim Derrick, Carlsbad, president of the association, Derrick pointed out that Hensley owns approximately 39 percent. He had been ordered to sell down to 40 percent or less.

However, some 1810 shares of Downs stock are being held in an Artesia bank (First National) and commissioners directed a letter to the bank to see if it has power of attorney with the stock. The commission said if the stock was held in escrow then Hensley was actually the owner. However, the racing board said that if the bank will assume power of attorney over the stock then the sale of stock is complete and its directive has been complied with.

Chairman of the Racing Commission B. M. "Red" Kohlman, Roswell, after studying Derrick's letter and ordering the instructions to the bank said, "It appears that Hensley has made an honest attempt to follow all our recommendations."

The Pat Chubbucks are vacationing this week in several New Mexico cities.

Mescalero Hospital Employees Honored

Three employees of the Mescalero hospital were given awards of service for their 10-year record with the government in ceremonies conducted last week. Dr. Lauren Trombley presented certificates and buttons to staff nurse Loretta Miller, head nurse Pils Castejo, a Pueblo Indian, and nursing assistant Pauline LaPaz, an Apache Indian.

Dr. Trombley said that all three of the recipients had spent their entire service at the Mescalero hospital. Miss LaPaz's service at the recreation hospital was interrupted for a short period, but she returned and completed her 10-year tenure there.

'Maid of Cotton' To Be Selected Here At June Convention

Would you like to be New Mexico's Maid of Cotton? The cotton industry is now searching for a young lady with the necessary qualifications to represent New Mexico and the state's cotton industry in the 1936 National Maid of Cotton Contest.

Candidates must be unmarried, between the ages of 19 and 25 inclusive, and have been born in a cotton-growing state. They must be photogenic, in perfect health, and be willing and able to meet people. These and the other necessary qualifications which candidates must possess, are outlined in the official application form which is obtainable from the local Chamber of Commerce.

All segments of New Mexico's cotton industry are working very closely to make this contest one of the most outstanding in the state. If you'd like to participate, procure and fill out an official application form and mail it to Maid of Cotton Contest Headquarters at P. O. Box 1250, State College, N. M.

State finals in the contest will be held at Ruidoso June 22, during the annual convention of the New Mexico Cotton Growers' Association.

The John Kilgore family was here from El Paso last week-end to attend production exercises for Mrs. Kilgore's order, Theresa Barajas.

Red Cross Offers Aid During Fire

Mrs. Ruth Mellor, the field representative of the American Red Cross for southern New Mexico called Mrs. Lucie Vanderstok, local chairman, Tuesday, to ask if there was a possible danger for the town of Ruidoso due to the forest fire. Arrangements were made for food, clothing, shelter and medical assistance in case the fire would have affected civilians.

Later, Red Cross representatives from Roswell and Las Cruces, including Alice Adams, Carrie Keefe and Bernice Lytle, who heard over the radio about the fire in Ruidoso drove here to offer their help if needed.

"Fortunately this was not necessary, but it gave us the assurance that in case an emergency would have developed the Red Cross would have been ready with help for everybody who needed it," Mrs. Vanderstok stated.
