This week's paper was printed a week ago, and pre-dated for today's (Friday's) distribution so that we could close shop this week and take our annual vacation. We appreciate the co-operation of all in helping our crew get this once a year respite. Members of our Ruidoso News gang are planning trips to Mexico, California, Yellowstone, and some even will be going to Alto! That's us, all over. This paragraph is written to explain why there is no late news in this edition. We'll try to recap a couple of weeks' events in our next paper—and thanks, again, to all our readers.

Rabies Found In Local Dog

Victor L. Jones, sanitarian with the Health Department of Otero County, who lives in Alamogordo, reported that a case of rabies has been reported from Ruidoso Downs. The dog was a large grayish-black and white German shepherd belonging to Roy Stierwalt. Stierwalt lives behind Shriver's Store in Ruidoso Downs. Stierwalt took his dog to Leslie's Animal Clinic in Alamogordo for treatment when he became ill Oct. 19. The dog was put to sleep and examination of the head by the State Public Health Department confirmed that he was rabid.
Anyone seeing a stray dog or a strange dog around their home is requested to call their local police on your pets, Jones warned, especially if they haven't been vaccinated against rabies.
There will probably be a rabies quarantine in Ruidoso Downs so that any untagged or stray dog may be destroyed. It is possible that this quarantine will be in effect in Ruidoso, also, Jones predicted.
Stierwalt is taking rabies treatments now, Jones added.

150 To Attend Insurance Meet

At least 150 people are expected for a four-day conference of agents for National Life Insurance Co. of Nashville, Tenn. here Wednesday through Saturday next week at the Chaparral Motor Hotel. In charge of arrangements for the convention is Kellon Owen, home office supervisor of the company's Southwest territory, out of Nashville.

T. B. TESTS REQUIRED

The last legislature passed a bill to require annual tuberculosis testing for all food-handlers, barbers and cosmetologists. Cards are being given out now to all restaurants, barber shops and beauty shops by Victor L. Jones, sanitarian with the Otero County Health Dept. These must be filled in for each employee when they are tested and must be renewed each year in their birth month. If you are missed, you may obtain your card from the Ruidoso Village Hall, the News was informed.

SPRAY CATTLE IN FALL FOR LICE CONTROL

Farmers and ranchers should spray their cattle for lice in the fall instead of waiting until the cattle are noticeably infested, John Durkin, entomologist with the Cooperative Extension Service of New Mexico State University, says.

DUE HERE NOV. 3

WAS IT LORD CREE' OR 'LORD' CREE—

Owner of Large Acreage in this Area Pioneer Ranch Owner from Scotland Lent His Name to Many Ruidoso Landmarks

Almost 80 years ago a wealthy Scotchman came to Lincoln County and acquired a large acreage in purchases of several pieces of patented land, pieces of land that had passed through only a very few hands from the time they were homesteaded by early settlers in the 1870's. The Scotchman was James Edward Cree, Sr., who hailed from Edinburgh and whose name will be in use in these parts for a long time, because many landmarks of the area bear that illustrious name. Cree Meadows Golf Course, Cree Meadows Airport (now Ruidoso Municipal Airport), Cree Meadows Drive, Cree Meadows subdivision and Cree Manor Motel and Apartments are some of the places that keep the name alive in this community.

But, most peculiarly, a man who left such a mark on this region left very little of his history behind him. The reasons are that he lived in this county only a very short time, dying of apoplexy in May of 1891. He had come here in 1885. He was buried in a grave beside what is now State Road 37 in the northern part of Town & Country subdivision. Up until five years ago the grave site was protected by a neat picket fence. It was removed when the road was widened and realigned in that vicinity in 1963. The body lay in Lincoln county for only eight years, however, the remains being disinterred for reburial in the heart of his native homeland in 1903.

His widow, Agnes, and surviving son, James Edward Cree, Jr., stayed on in Lincoln County for many years, and the two sons of "Jimmy"—as many oldtimers recall him, also figured in the county history in the early 1900's.
Research on Cree or "Lord" Cree as he was called in the '90's, has been difficult because of his short residence here, and also because so much more has been written about some of the more colorful characters who played vivid roles in Lincoln County prior to Cree's coming here, in the 1870's and early 1880's when the infamous Lincoln County War raged and about which many thousands of words have been written and many volumes printed naming so many of the participants—making one of them a legend in American folklore—the youngest who is best known as "Billy the Kid" and whose real name (or debatable names) is known by very few.

The writer of this piece has borrowed a few paragraphs from Mrs. Eve Ball's book on the history of Ruidoso, has collected some scraps of conversation from some of the oldtimers, and researched an abstract of some property that was within Cree's domain to prepare this article. An inquiry mailed to a resident in Woodsworth, Wisconsin, who was described as a distant relative of the Cree's, was not answered—and it was hoped further news about the family might be obtained from this source.
Whether or not Cree was a titled man is questionable. Mrs. B. Wilson, longtime employee at Lincoln County museum in Old Lincoln said it had never been established whether the title "Lord" was a nickname given the man by his neighbors here in the great open spaces of the west, which was the wont of our cowboy ancestors, or whether Cree actually was a holder of a bestowed title. It was from the old Lincoln museum that we obtained the photos of Cree, his wife and their son that illustrate this article. The museum had very little else to contribute to Cree's biography.

Mrs. F. B. (Aileen) Lindamood, descendant of one of the earliest of residents here, has given us several insights into Cree's early years here, both from memory and from newspaper clippings.

Mrs. Lindamood, postmaster at Alto, says that Frank and Annie Lesnett, her grandparents, sold the Dowlin Mill to James Edward Cree, Sr. on March 15, 1888, and she has photostatic copies of the contract and warranty deed. Mrs. Lindamood recalls that her grandmother had said the VV ranch was established about 1865. Substantiating the fact he was well established in this region in that period was a news item in the Lincoln Independent published in Lincoln May 31, 1890, which said, "J. E. Cree of Scotland and his foreman, Pete Burleson, are on a trip to San Antonio, Tex., to buy ponies and mules to drive cattle back to the VV Ranch."

Mrs. Lindamood says at this time Cree had 15,000 head of graded stock on the VV. The cattle were graded with Scotch polled Angus bulls. Cree is also reported to have had 200 horses and mules and 300 acres under cultivation, including grain, vegetables and some fruit trees. The latter products were sold to stores in Nogal, Parsons and White Oaks. He also sold products to the government for Ft. Stanton.

Further information from Mrs. Lindamood says the VV Ranch was located on Little Creek which empties into the Rio Ruidoso at Glencoe. It was said, Mrs. Lindamood reports, that Cree viewed with apprehension the proposed establishment of a forest reserve in the White Mountain area. He didn't want to lose the fine grazing land for his cattle. He grazed them as far as the Mesalero Indian reservation boundary, which lies south and west of Ruidoso.

Almost everyone in the Ruidoso area who holds an abstract to property here will find Cree's name in it, because he owned so much of this region, acquiring it, as mentioned before in several purchases from owners who had themselves acquired it from homesteaders hereabouts.

Almost all of Ruidoso proper was in the Cree VV ranch at one time. Bill McCarty, sales manager here for White Mountain Development Co., says that in 1940 or 1941 his father, the late George McCarty, and a partner, the late Joe Palmer, bought the Cree estate and formed the White Mountain Development firm. Out of this vast area are many of our present subdivisions, including Palmer Gateway in the eastern part of town, named for Joe Palmer.

The VV Ranch was operated by the elder Cree, and his son, James, Jr., added another V to make it the three-V in later years. A photo appears in today's News in the Lincoln County Photo Album feature showing a large panel on display at the old Lincoln courthouse museum, with the younger Cree's VVV brand burned into it—along with other early day ranch brands of this region.

The large acreage Cree acquired within the area that is now Ruidoso and north of here, was in several U. S. patents, one issued to Jesse D. Greenlee in 1897, and signed by President Benjamin Harrison, and three others to Paul Dowlin in 1871, 1872 and 1875, all signed by President U. S. Grant. Subsequent owners were J. B. Wingfield who bought one patented area in 1890 from Greenlee, sold it to Sarah A. Brown in 1893, who in turn sold it to Charles Smith of Ft. Stanton in 1898, who then sold it to James Edward Cree in 1897. The three patents secured by Paul Dowlin were sold after his death by his widow and by guardians of his children to whom he had bequeathed his state, to Frank Lesnett and to M. Cronin and Andrew S. Crothers. The Lesnett purchase then was sold to Cree in 1888.

Another patented piece, signed by President Harrison and completed in 1872, went to Jesse D. Greenlee, who sold it to Samuel J. Slane, who sold it to Brandon Kirby, then to Cree, in 1885.
The abstracts show that Cree's will be probated in 1901, and that he bequeathed his large holdings "to Mrs. Agnes Crabbie (or Cree) my wife, James Edward Cree, my son, John Ramage Dawson, Esquire of Baldado, Kin Place, Edinburgh." Trustee of the Cree estate then filed deeds showing transfer of some of the lands from them to the son, James Edward Cree, Jr., and also a deed showing transfer of some other tracts from the widow of 41 Melville St., Edinburgh to the son.

The abstract recalls memories of early Lincoln County, and mentions many of the pioneers who had a great part in the early history hereabouts, including Alexander McSween, who figured in the Lincoln County War; J. W. Prude, one of Ruidoso's early postmasters at about the turn of the century; James J. Dolan, another figure in the Lincoln County War, and J. H. Blazer, pioneer settler in the Mesalero Apache Indian reservation.

A short and simple headline from the Lincoln County Leader of White Oaks dated May, 1891, tells of the demise, "James Edward Cree Died

HEADQUARTERS FOR CREE RANCH—All that's left is small out building, stone building foundation, few corral posts at site of Cree Ranch, the VV or "Turkey Track", along with some scattered scrubby apple and apricot trees among junipers and pinon on Little

Creek. Ranch was on road to Ft. Stanton from old Dowlin Mill here in Ruidoso and was a landmark at about turn of the century. Site is located about four miles northeast of Alto on road to Sweeney Wright ranch, a route to Ft. Stanton airstrip

GRAVE SITE—Small fence at right of photo on State Road 37 is in vicinity of site of grave of James Edward Cree, Sr., wealthy landowner in this vicinity who came here from Scotland just before the turn of the century. He died of apoplexy very shortly after acquiring a large acreage in May, 1891, and his body was laid to rest at this spot in a beautiful part of his ranch. A fence around the gravesite marked the place for many years. The remains were disinterred and returned to Edinburgh, Scotland by his widow in 1903. Many Ruidosians remember the little picket fenced lone graveyard, with the sunken resting place which remained until the state road was realigned and made wider at this point half a dozen years ago. Mrs. Dan D. Swearingin has suggested on several occasions that a permanent marker should be installed for historical reference, hoping some civic group might adopt the idea as a project. Large juniper tree stands behind old grave.

of Apoplexy

Another news item gives later information, clipped from the Capitan News which Mrs. Lindamood's father, John A. Halsey, edited, issue of April 17, 1898: "Mrs. Agnes Cree, widow of James Edward Cree, Sr., took the remains back to Edinburgh, Scotland, where she remained."
After Cree's death in 1891, his widow and their son, James Edward Cree, Jr., managed the large ranch. It was later owned by James' sons, Gerald and Charles. Mrs. Lindamood says she knew Charles Cree in Carrizozo, and the last she heard of him was that he was employed by the Bureau of Public Health in Bahia Fe. She says Gerald Cree lived in North Berwick, Scotland, when she last heard her grandmother mention him. He had visited the VV ranch many times, however, after he returned to Scotland to live.

Truman Spencer, Jr., Carrizozo resident, says he can recall seeing Charles Cree when he came to Carrizozo on occasions from White Oaks.
It is also reported that the father of E. E. (Brother) Miller, lifetime resident of this area, was once employed on the Cree ranch.
These concluding paragraphs are from Mrs. Ball's book, Ruidoso, and give still further insight into the man Cree and his part in this area:
"The Lesnett family, sold their holdings to the Cree's, a wealthy family from Scotland. Mr. Lesnett took his family to Chicago to visit their relatives.

Mrs. Della Wingfield Hale recalls that her father's brother, Joe Wingfield, was employed by the Cree's on their VV ranch, and later became foreman of it.
"The Cree's left the management of the mill to Charles Wingfield and established themselves in a comfortable adobe house on the ranch. The fortune they had made by the manufacture of Scotch whiskey and macintoshes (raincoats to us) they invested in a huge tract of land and in cattle. At first they bought longhorns — Chihuahuas. They knew little of such cattle, but did understand that the breed should be improved. They shipped a hundred fifty Angus bulls from Scotland to Corpus Christi and

Early History of Catholic Church in Hondo Valley Dates Back to '80's; Ruidoso Church Growth Cited

(Editor's Note: This is a much broader history of the Catholic church in this region than was printed in the Ruidoso News earlier this year. It was prepared by Fr. Robert Kirsch, former assistant at St. Eleanor's here, with information, suggestions and help from Miss Madeline Burdett, Ruidoso; Porfirio Fresquez and Mrs. Josefa Montoya, Picocho; Epimandios Gonzales, San Patricio; Mrs. Porfirio Gonzalez, Olencos, and from a search of Parish registers. The complete story appeared in a souvenir booklet issued on the occasion of the dedication of the new St. Jude Thaddeus church at San Patricio late in September.)

In the southwestern part of the present United States, originally part of what had been known as New Spain, among the first buildings to appear on the scene was the little adobe chapel, the Lord's house which gave purpose, strength and identity to the people gathered about their Father in an often strange and hostile environment. As new areas were settled, the chapels were built by the people, and when the leaders of the people went off on long journeys in search of a priest of God who alone was empowered to transform the little building, built with sacrifice and loving care, from the house of God into the home of God where, in the Most Blessed Sacrament, He was to live with His children.

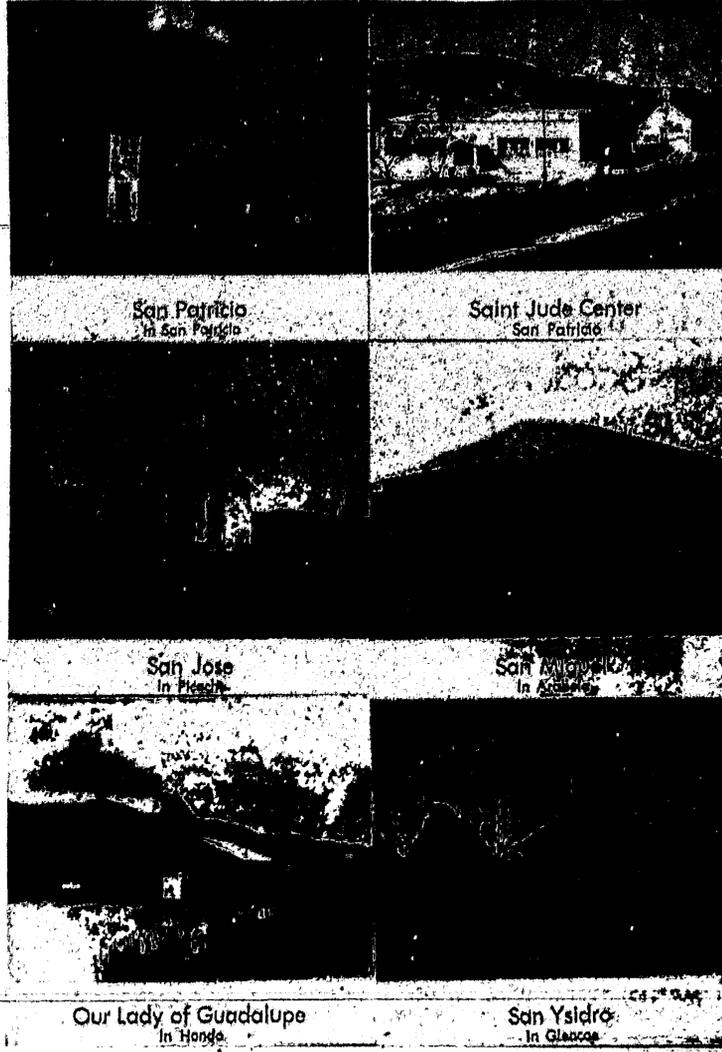

The Spanish settlers began to arrive in our Hondo Valley some years after the Civil War at a time when most of the hostility of the warlike Indian tribes had ceased. They had come from along the Rio Grande River where their ancestors had come as colonists from Spain, beginning early in the sixteenth century less than forty years after the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus who had claimed this new world for the Spanish crown.

After peace had been made with the Indian nation, the area had still another problem; among the thousands of countries of these United States, Lincoln County had its own dubious distinction historically in that a contest had emerged concerning the use of range land, involving Anglo-American settlers, generally discharged soldiers of the Civil War. This violent disturbance of civil order had gone on for several years during the 1870's. The final end of the lawlessness which resulted was focused with the death of nineteen year old William Bonny, known to the world as Billy the Kid in 1880.

With normal conditions restored, some fifteen Spanish families had begun to arrive in the Valley. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass no doubt had been offered much earlier in the area by Chaplains of the various military forces, representing the King of Spain, and later those of the American Armies both Confederate and Union. However, in the early 1800's, the search for a parish priest had already begun. Two men of the Valley, men chosen in their Faith had made several long journeys to various settlements along the Rio Grande River to prevail upon a priest to return with them as their shepherd in the Lincoln County area. Success was finally attendant upon the efforts of Don Martin Chavez and Pablo Fresquez who returned from Manzanares with Father Sambrano who took up residence in the little village of Lincoln, the then county seat. Lincoln County had become a parish with a resident Pastor. Father Sambrano labored with much devotion, caring for the spiritual needs of the people until he was killed in a runaway horse accident near Lincoln in 1864. Father Sambrano's grave is to be found a few hundred yards west of what is now the Adobe Hacienda, at the site of what had been the home of Trinidad Vigil, the ruins of which are still in evidence. The first Masses were offered in the Vigil home; the area is known to this day among the people as El Rancho Del Padre, i.e., the ranch where Father was. As the congregation grew, Mass was offered in the upper room of the home of Don Martin Chavez near the present Picocho Chapel of San Jose. Don Martin was the only two-story building in the Valley. The present beautiful stone chapel at Picocho was built in 1861 under the direction of a man known as Jose Antonio.

The earliest chapel in the San Patricio area was built on a site which is now used as a polo field directly to the south of the new Church of St. Jude Thaddeus. With the regular presence of Father Sambrano, the people were inspired to build the present chapel of San Patricio. With Tranquillo Montoya as the builder assisted by all the people, and with the substantial material assistance of Ysidro Bisenos of the present Rancho de Trinidad (Trinidad Ranch) the church was begun in 1884 and completed in 1886. Upon the death of Father Sambrano, the people were again without the regular services of a priest. Once more the journeys were made to prevail upon a priest to come and be their Pastor. Father Enrique Yierms arrived in 1884 when he was in the upper Rio Grande. He was the house guest of Gregorio Garcia, Gregorio owned land. Telesforo, Mirabel Gonzalez provided transportation.

For some years before World War I Father Jose Martinez made irregular visits from Manzanares doing all that he could to care for the needs of the people. Due to the scarcity of priests, and the hardships of travel of the times, the monthly Mass schedule was much more of a dream than a reality. Oftentimes, many months would pass and no priest was able to be on hand. The people carefully nurtured their Faith, and, resting full well their privilege and responsibility, passed the precious treasure of the Knowledge, Love and Service of God their Father down to their children. Each home became a little Church, and the shrines to our Lord, our Blessed Mother and Saints to be found in the homes bear witness to the devotion of the people to this day. Throughout the 1920's the Holy Mass was offered and the Sacraments were administered irregularly, but the people's Faith remained intact because of their realization that the keeping of the Faith and the handing down thereof to the following generations was the responsibility and privilege of each man, woman and child.

scratching around and the family dog that was a great friend of Father Albert's stayed very close to him so that as Father went from one side to the other of the altar, he had to take his foot and gently nudge the dog. This Mass was a very awe inspiring experience because we realized that the same Holy Sacrifice that was being offered in the great Cathedrals throughout the world, it gave one the feeling of the University of the Church. Then in the summer of 1931, Mass was celebrated in Judge Quinn's summer home in upper Ruidoso. In 1932 it was celebrated in the home of Madeline Burdett and Stella Campbell which was what is now the Ruidoso Women's club. In the morning, Mass was celebrated by Father Mitchell who was then pastor of St. Rita's Church in Carrizozo. It was the summer of 1932 that we began the building of the first Catholic Church in Ruidoso. This Church was completed and dedicated in 1933 by Archbishop Daeger of Santa Fe who came along with several priests and this was his last official act just before his untimely death. As you remember these were the years of the Depression, very difficult years and it was through the donations of friends who sent a bit of money that enabled us to build the Church. In fact we had no furnishings in it at all; some brought camp-stools to use as seats and the rest of us stood and knelt during the Mass. Father Mitchell was followed by Father Brady who came over only in the summer time and offered Mass for us. Then, when Father O'Hara, who was the Chaplain at Fort Stanton, which was then a hospital for the United States Public Health Service, came, we really began to furnish the Church. In fact for years we had only a crucifix, an altar and a single pair of candlesticks.

The beautiful crucifix that still hangs over the altar in the present church of St. Eleanor, was a gift of Mrs. Margaret Roberts of El Paso, Texas and the statue of the Blessed Mother was given by Mrs. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Lisa Randall. Mrs. Josephine Lawrence donated the statue of St. Joseph. The Chaplain's Guild of New York made a gift of the Statues of the Cross. We had benches made for the church by contract for each bench at $2.50. We asked many of the merchants in Ruidoso to help us and they generously did so and thus we provided seating in the Church. Father O'Hara was with us until the early '40's and then the Pastor of St. Rita's in Carrizozo, Father Salvatore di Giovanni, began coming in us every Sunday in the summer time. It was at this time that we discovered during the years that there was much proselytizing by a certain sect in the lower Ruidoso Valley and many of our Spanish-American people were leaving the Church. It seemed that we had to have year around services of a Priest here. Once when Miss Burdett was in Santa Fe, she went to see the then Archbishop of Santa Fe, Edwin V. Byrne and told him of the situation in this vicinity. He promised to come down and examine the situation, which he did in May. Interestingly, Archbishop Byrne back in the forties insisted on the 'role of the laity' for he told Miss Burdett that 'unless the laity come and tell us what they need, how would the church authorities know what needed to be done. The people were gathered together and a large crowd greeted the Archbishop and it was at this visit that he broke the happy news 'he was allowing Father Carl Hammer to come to us to begin a new Parish,' since we were until then a mission of St. Rita's of Carrizozo. When we first started the Parish it was called St. William's but the people fell into evil times and the shortage of money found the young Parish with a debt of $1500 on the Church, a huge sum at that time! We appealed to the Archbishop because a lumber company in Alamogordo that had the mortgage on the Church threatened to foreclose and turn the Church into a dance hall. Archbishop Byrne appealed to the Catholic Extension Society of America and they paid the mortgage with the provision that the Church be named St. Eleanor's and thus the manner of the naming of the new Parish in Ruidoso. At the time of the formation of St. Eleanor's, the upper Hondo Valley was placed as a Mission of St. Eleanor's while the lower Hondo Valley remained Missions of St. Rita's in Carrizozo. With the zeal and love of the new Pastor, Father Hammer, the parish grew rapidly, the faith of the people increased in strength. In 1951 Father Robert Auman replaced Father Hammer as Pastor for his first two staves as Pastor. It was the foresight of Father Hammer that led to the site of the present St. Eleanor's Church as he obtained through the generosity of the late Joe Palmer, great developer of Ruidoso, a five acre plot of land donated for the future of the Catholic Church in Ruidoso. Father George Markey succeeded Father Auman in 1953. After several other Pastors of short tenure, Father Auman returned to St. Eleanor's and his unlimited zeal and energy produced the present beautiful church in the Gateway section of Ruidoso which not only enables the Catholic residents to fit place to worship but provided adequate facilities for our many summer Catholic parishioners and visitors to this 'Playground of the Southwest'. The former church was sold to the Lions Club of Ruidoso. In June of 1962 Archbishop Byrne appointed the present Pastor, Father Laurence Labreche to succeed Father Auman. During the pastorate of Father Labreche, the living quarters and business offices of the church were built along with the garage. In 1965, the new Archbishop, James 'St. P.' Yvils placed the Missions of the lower Hondo Valley under the jurisdiction of the Pastor of St. Eleanor's and appointed Father Robert Kirsch as the first Assistant Pastor. Along with Father Labreche and Father James B. Malloy, a retired priest who had come to make his home in Ruidoso in 1954, Father Kirsch worked hard and long toward the formation of a united Hondo Valley through a community united in a central place of worship.

The use of fingernail hardeners is a controversial issue with your manicurist. It seems that some of these products contain Formaldehyde which can cause degrees of irritation, ranging from brownish discoloration to soreness and bleeding beneath the nail. Many manicurists suggest a regular dosage of gelatin capsules available at your pharmacist. Gelatin contributes to a healthy softer nail which is more pliable, thus more resistant to snags. Your regular application of lacquer polish will give them all of the protection they need.

The Hondo School Board with the approval of the State Board of Education in 1955 sold the former San Patricio School to the Catholic Church and we now had a center for religious instructions as well as a place for other projects of the people of God in the Hondo Valley. One such project is still strongly improving the living conditions of our poor but wonderful people is the Hondo Valley Home Education Livelihood Program sponsored by the New Mexico Council of Churches and the Office of Economic Opportunity. The Pastor of St. Eleanor's from the start has served as local Community Chairman of the Steering Committee which is composed of men and women of the Hondo Valley. This piece of land fortunately adjoined a parcel of land that was generously deeded to the Archdiocese of Santa Fe in 1935 by the late Ignacio Olguin. It is on this land that our new, beautiful church of St. Judge Thaddeus rests.

Meet a 1968 "youngmobile" from Oldsmobile.

Now that you've been introduced why not get together?

Why not take the wheel of this Cutless 5—youngest of the "youngmobiles" from Olds. A new 350-CID Rocket V-8 delivers more power at lower operating cost. (And does it more smoothly and quietly, as well.) You say you prefer a Six? Olds has a 250-CID Action-Line 6, too. These are only openers. You can tailor Cutless 5 to your fancy and finances. 4-speed stick to sleek to sporty pinstriping. Front disc brakes to dual exhausts to Rally Sport Suspension. (All the new GM safety features are standard.) What it adds up to is this: If you like cars with a lot of pizzazz in the way they look—cars with a lot of moxie in the way they drive—your Oldsmobile Dealer is the man to see. History of New Mexico Printed 60 Years Ago Has Lincoln County Data but None of Ruidoso

(Editor's Note: One of Lincoln county's oldest residents has loaned the Ruidoso News one volume of two-volume set on the history of New Mexico, written 60 years ago and published in 1907 by Pacific States Publishing Co. The two volumes contained more than 1,000 pages and dealt with individual county histories; also reviews of major industries and other data. Authors of the out-of-print editions are not named. The section on Lincoln County is very complete but does not have mention of Ruidoso, which did have some families here then. A history of Otero County in the book gives a glowing and lengthy report on Clouderot, as being a resort area. Many photos are used for illustration, one of them of the Rio Grande River before the Eagle Dam was constructed, and showing Elephant Butte before it became an island. The portion dealing with Lincoln County is reprinted here. This is a reprint of an article appearing in the News in 1907.)

Lincoln County
Lincoln county lies nearly in the center of the Territory, being bounded north by Torrance and Guadalupe counties, east by Roosevelt and Chaves, south by Chaves, Otero and Dona Ana counties, and west by Socorro. It contains nearly 5,000 square miles and about the same population; that is, it averages one person to every square mile of territory. Its county seat is Lincoln, a town of 1,000 population.

Originally Lincoln county occupied the entire southeastern portion of the Territory, and much of the choicest grazing land in New Mexico. From 1878 to 1879 it was the scene of what was known as "The Lincoln County War," between rival cattle owners. The entire population of its 30,000 square miles was compelled to take sides in this conflict, and partnership of the most bitter character was engendered. More than a score of men were killed during the contest, which was practically for the control of the range on the government land in that section. Each side employed desperadoes as cowboys, and battles and sieges succeeded each other as in regular war.

By legislative act of 1889, Chaves and Eddy counties were separated from Lincoln, and in 1890 Otero was carved from its territory, which then assumed its present area.

Physical and Industrial Features
—The average elevation of Lincoln county is from 4,000 to 5,000 feet above sea level. The Sierra Blanca, Capitan, Nogal and Carrizo ranges, in its central and southern portions, are well forested with pine, pinyon, juniper, oak and cottonwood, which afford excellent material for fuel and building. Lofiter mountain ranges run north and south in Socorro county, but so near the western boundary of Lincoln as to form a complete watershed. Around White Oaks and the Nogal and Capitan mountains are valuable mines of copper and lead.

The face of the county is varied, the northern half of the county being chiefly composed of vast plateaus, interspersed with valleys, mountains and tablelands. The character of the soil varies, the larger portion being a sandy loam, with frequent and considerable areas of chocolate and black soil, similar to the prairie lands of the more distant eastern states. The central parts of the county are well watered by running streams, the principal of which is the Rio Hondo, a deep swift stream, draining the Sierra Blanca and Capitan mountains. Besides this are the Felix, Ruidoso, Bonito, Eagle, Upper and Lower Panasco and Nogal creeks. In the northern portions springs break out on the wide plateaus and afford abundance of water for stock.

Grapes and currants in their native state grow in great abundance, while cultivated vines, as well as apples, peaches and pears, yield splendid harvests. All the grains of the temperate zone grow well, vegetables of every variety maturing into wonderful proportions. Beans are an especially reliable crop, and the forage grasses and alfalfa develop to perfection. Alfalfa yields from four to five cuttings annually, and the crop will average from five to eight tons per acre.

For pasture, and a stock country, Lincoln county has few equals. Stock of all descriptions subsist on the range alone and keep in fine condition, winter and summer. Prudent managers think that two per cent is a liberal estimate of the loss from all causes while the cattle or sheep are on the range. The profit on cattle is estimated to be at least fifty cents monthly per head from the time they are calved, while the profit on sheep is not less than fifty per cent.

County Officers—Lincoln county was organized in 1869, but, like many other counties in New Mexico, many of the records have disappeared. It is impossible to give anything like a complete list of the county officials.

Corporation Comm. Pushes To Save Nearby Rail Service

The New Mexico State Corporation Commission has filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the discontinuation of passenger train service on the Golden State Limited operated by the Rock Island and the Southern Pacific Railroads. If service is cut off, it would mean the end of rail passenger service in the New Mexico towns of Tucumcari, Santa Rosa, Carrizozo, Tularosa and Alamogordo, the nearest rail service for Ruidoso.

The State Corporation Commission maintains that passenger train is actually making money and is not as the railroads contend, running at a loss. They maintain that even the companies' own exhibits show that over 11,000 passengers rode the east and westbound schedules of these trains during the month of July, 1967. Using these figures the Corporation Commission further contends that this route is a public convenience and necessity for over 135,000 persons is in the southeastern part of the county, on the Rio Bonito. It is a place of about 1,000 people, its nearest railroad station being Capitan, on the El Paso & Northeastern line, about ten miles to the west. White Oaks, forty-one miles northwest of Lincoln and nearly in the center of the county, is the most important point. It is surrounded by good gold mines and mills and is altogether a thriving town. The adjacent mountains are also rich in coal and iron and covered with pine, cedar and piñon timber. Even before White Oaks secured railroad connections through the El Paso & Northeastern system it was a remarkably prosperous place. For years it has been the seat of most successful gold mining. The first lode located in the White Oaks camp was South Homestake, by John E. Wilson, in November, 1879. A few days later John V. Winters located the North Homestake. A little later were staked out Old Abe (the deepest dry mine in the United States), Rip Van Winkle, Comstock, Little Mack and Henry Clay, and during the winter of 1879-80 Large Hopes, Little Hell and Blacksmith. The camp's real "boom" commenced in March, 1880, with the discovery of unusually rich ore in the North Homestake.

The military post of Fort Stanton is located in a beautiful valley seven miles from Lincoln. It is about forty miles north of the Mesalero Apache Indian agency, and was established in the late '50's to keep the Mesalero Apaches in check.

New Mexico Called 'Corridor State'

Bruce Caird, general chairman of the New Mexico Tourist and Travel Council, declared today that New Mexico's position as "a corridor state" is its "most severe economic handicap."

Caird said surveys show that the majority of tourists headed west toward California or east from California regard New Mexico as a thruway "to get from here to there."

"They have no idea of the attractions we offer, the facilities that are available, the opportunities for do-it-yourself recreation, the scenic views and vistas, the historic landmarks and attractions. This is not only because we have failed to advertise sufficiently," Caird said.

"The problem exists because there has been no attempt to merchandise the tourist once he gets here. He hops on our fine highways, and highfalls it to the next state. There is no effort to stop him, and no effort to send him off the thruway to our many points of interest annually.

The complaint further contends that these trains are carrying increased mail and express caused by the railroads discontinuance of their mail trains No. 30 and 40 earlier this year. The State Corporation Commission complaint states that the discontinuance of these trains would cause a loss of mail and express revenue of over 2 million dollars a year and that this "is a deliberate attempt of the railroads to divest themselves from the mail."

The Railway Express Agency contends in this petition for discontinuance that they will continue to offer service on express. The State Corporation Commission contends that "this has yet to be accomplished in New Mexico and experience has shown us that to lose a train is to also lose express service."

The State Corporation Commission asks that service be continued and a hearing on the matter be held in Tucumcari, where testimony and exhibits can be presented on behalf of the public.

"Furthermore, our tourist-related businesses—which vary from the average retail store to the wholesale liquor industry, from the Indian Councils to the corner service station—have made little attempt to put forth private funds of interest in what they have to offer."

"It is not enough to advertise; we must take the tourist by the hand and lead him to the various points of interest."

"It is unfortunate that our historic mission churches or Indian pueblos, our race tracks and fairs, our mountain streams and campgrounds are not being advertised sufficiently," Caird said.

"The problem exists because there has been no attempt to merchandise the tourist once he gets here. He hops on our fine highways, and highfalls it to the next state. There is no effort to stop him, and no effort to send him off the thruway to our many points of interest annually.

The complaint further contends that these trains are carrying increased mail and express caused by the railroads discontinuance of their mail trains No. 30 and 40 earlier this year. The State Corporation Commission complaint states that the discontinuance of these trains would cause a loss of mail and express revenue of over 2 million dollars a year and that this "is a deliberate attempt of the railroads to divest themselves from the mail."

The Railway Express Agency contends in this petition for discontinuance that they will continue to offer service on express. The State Corporation Commission contends that "this has yet to be accomplished in New Mexico and experience has shown us that to lose a train is to also lose express service."

Caird said this kind of literature will be produced by the New Mexico Tourist and Travel Council, and will be an important part of the new organization's annual $200,000 budget.

A state-wide drive to raise $500,000 in pledges over a three-year period is now underway. "We believe every business in New Mexico should participate in this campaign, because we can increase state tourist expenditures by $100,000,000 per year within the next five years if we work together."

It is Father Labreche's fond hope and prayer that the day will soon dawn when a Rectory or home will be built for a resident priest and then the day may arrive when the Archbishop will see fit to appoint the first Pastor of the no longer Mission but Parish of St. Jude Thaddeus of the Hondo Valley.

CONTROL PEACH TREE BOERS
 Las Cruces—It's the time to treat peach, apricot, plum, and cherry trees for peach tree borers, John J. Durgin, entomologist with the Cooperative Extension Service at New Mexico State University, said today.

"If the trunks or lower limbs were not sprayed this summer then fumigants must be used now. PDB (paradichlorobenzene) crystals or ethylene dichloride are the only effective liquids to use in treatments," Durgin pointed out.

NATIONAL FOREST TIMBER CUT REACHERS NEW HIGH
 A record timber harvest from the National Forests in Arizona and New Mexico during the fiscal year ending June 30 was reported today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service.

Southwestern Regional Forester William D. Hurst said the fiscal 1967 harvest totaled 456,290,880 board feet worth $2,261,349.73. This was 8 per cent more than for fiscal 1966 and twice as much as the voluntary bond chairman, T. B. Hood, has been informed.

During the first eight months of this year, people of this County bought $109,539 worth of E and H Bonds. In the same period last year, the total was $31,412.

CHILD OF THE EARTH IS NOT POISONOUS

The large Jerusalem cricket often called "nino de la tierra" or "child-of-the-earth" often gives people quite a start. Most people consider them quite ugly and feel that anything so unattractive must certainly be poisonous, says John J. Durkin, entomologist with the Cooperative Extension Service at New Mexico State University.

They are found frequently in the Ruidoso area.

However, they are harmless to man and rarely cause much damage to plants, Durkin explains. They bury themselves in moist soil during the day and come out at night to feed on dead insects. They also feed on plant roots and tubers.

They seldom require control, but if large numbers become a nuisance, they are easily killed by applying dieldrin or chlordane to soil around the foundation of the house and in flower beds.

Magazine Survey Shows New Mexico Popular Vacation Goal

New Mexico and surrounding states are popular vacation spots for many Americans and many travelers have spent their most memorable vacation in this area, according to results of a family travel survey conducted by Better Homes and Gardens magazine. Specially tabulated findings of the nationwide study were presented recently at Carlsbad at the Governor's Conference on Tourism, Conventions and Recreation. Peter Lindberg, associate editor of Better Homes and Gardens made the presentation. Participants in the survey were 210,000 Better Homes and Gardens subscribers who answered 105 questions about vacations and travel. Ten thousand randomly selected questionnaires were tabulated. Of the respondents who had vacationed in New Mexico or Arizona in the last five years, 94 percent came from outside the two-state area, with one quarter coming from the east-northeast states.

More than two-thirds of the New Mexico and Arizona visitors "went sight-seeing and enjoyed the scenery." Seventeen percent saw areas of interest while 13 percent visited Friends or relatives. Smaller percentages went camping, visited national parks and saw historical sites.

Some respondents gave multiple answers, hence percentages total more than 100. Eighty-three percent spent two or more weeks in the Southwest area. Most respondents (89 percent) traveled to New Mexico and Arizona by car, and nearly three-fourths (72 percent) took children under age 18 with them. On a long trip, 76 percent said they take a scenic route, even if it takes a little longer, and 80 percent said they frequently leave their main route to take side trips.

Travelers to New Mexico reported that they found scenery to be the top attraction in 30 percent of the cases. Areas of interest in 15 percent, culture in 12 percent and historical sites in six percent of the cases. Nearly one-third (32 percent) spent $500 or more on their vacation to the Southwest, and all but 29 percent spent over $300.

Since the large majority took children with them, it is not surprising that "school vacation" was the most mentioned factor in determining time of year for traveling. Fifty-five percent said school

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER 7

A JOINT RESOLUTION PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE 6 OF THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW MEXICO BY ADDING A NEW SECTION 32 PROVIDING FOR DISCIPLINE AND REMOVAL OF JUDICIAL OFFICERS.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO:

Section 1. It is proposed to amend Article 6 of the constitution of New Mexico by adding a new Section 32 to read:

"There is created the 'judicial standards commission', consisting of two justices or judges and two lawyers selected as may be provided by law to serve for terms of four years, and five citizens, none of whom is a justice, judge or magistrate of any court or licensed to practice law in this state, who shall be appointed by the governor for five-year staggered terms as may be provided by law. If a position on the commission becomes vacant for any reason, the successor shall be selected by the original appointing authority in the same manner as the original appointment was made and shall serve for the remainder of the term vacated. No act of the commission is valid unless concurred in by a majority of its members. The commission shall select one of the members appointed by the governor to serve as chairman.

In accordance with this section, any justice, judge or magistrate of any court may be disciplined or removed for willful misconduct in office or willful and persistent failure to perform his duties, or habitual intemperance, or he may be retired for disability seriously interfering with the performance of his duties which is, or likely to become, a permanent character. The commission may, after investigation it deems necessary, order a hearing to be held before it concerning the discipline, removal or retirement of a justice, judge or magistrate, or the commission may appoint three masters who are justice or judges of courts of record to hear and take evidence in the matter and to report their findings to the commission. After hearing or after considering the record and the findings and report of the masters, if the commission finds good cause, it shall recommend to the supreme court the discipline, removal or retirement of the justice, judge or magistrate.

"The supreme court shall review the record of the proceedings on the law and facts and may permit the introduction of additional evidence, and it shall order the discipline, removal or retirement as it finds just and proper or wholly reject the recommendation. Upon an order for his retirement, any justice, judge or magistrate participating in a statutory retirement program shall be retired with the same rights as if he had retired pursuant to the retirement program. Upon an order for removal, the justice, judge or magistrate shall thereby be removed from office, and his salary shall cease from the date of the order.

All papers filed with the commission or its masters, and proceedings before the commission or its masters, are confidential. The filing of papers and giving of testimony before the commission or its masters is privileged in any action for defamation, except that the record filed by the commission in the supreme court continues privileged but, upon its filing, loses its confidential character, and a writing which was privileged prior to its filing does not lose its privilege by the filing. The commission shall promulgate regulations establishing procedures for hearings under this section. No justice or judge who is a member of the commission or supreme court shall participate in any proceeding involving his own discipline, removal or retirement.

This section is alternative to, and cumulative with, the removal of justices, judges and magistrates by impeachment and the original superintending control of the supreme court."

Section 2. The amendment proposed by this resolution shall be submitted to the people for their approval or rejection at the next general election or at any special election prior to that date which may be called for that purpose.

FOREST SERVICE REPORT—

PERMANENT WATER ESSENTIAL FOR GAME

By H. H. STARKEY
(With U. S. Forest Service
Ruidoso Ranger Station)

In the last article, I spoke of how timber management on a National Forest affected the deer population. One other resource that has an effect on wildlife is range management. Although the rancher is motivated by beef production, good range management generally complements wildlife production.

A grazing system is designed to obtain maximum forage production for a given area. A concrete goal of range management is to keep the area in a healthy, productive state. In planning for the management of our rangeland, a simultaneous goal is to achieve maximum wildlife production. This sounds like two conflicting goals, and to some extent, they are. The one big difference is that deer prefer a slightly different diet than cattle, and also, deer tend to prefer areas where denser cover is available. Many times rangeland forage production is threatened by invasion of scrub-type areas and brush. Research has shown that deer prefer to use the area that lies within 1/2 mile of cover. Therefore, in planning to eradicate these stands of trees and brush, it is also planned that numerous 10-20 acre patches will be left so that the wildlife will seldom be more than 1/2 mile from cover. Generally, areas where plant eradication has been done receive a follow-up treatment of seeding. In planning the seeding, certain browse and grass species that are desired by wildlife are included in the seed mix.

Another part of a good range management plan is to develop permanent waters throughout an allotment. The main reason for development is to achieve better cattle distribution; however, wildlife benefits from having permanent water available during prolonged dry spells. The rancher, though his goals are cattle production, greatly benefits the wildlife of a National Forest by participating in these range development projects.

County Agent's Report

— BY —
RALPH DUNLAP

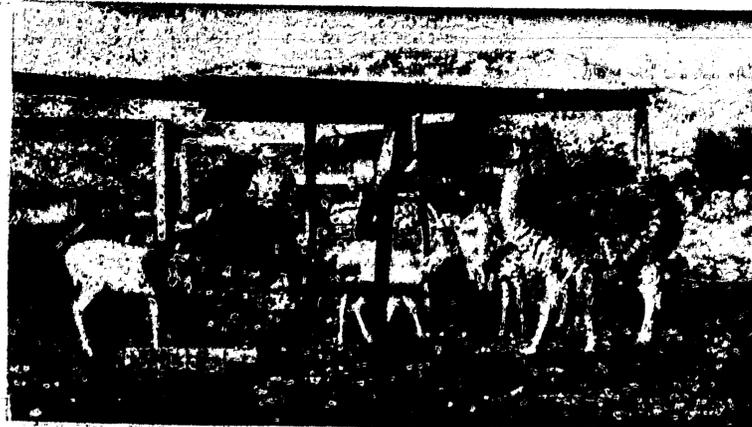

Fruit trees with zinc deficiencies should be marked now so they can be treated next spring. This disease most commonly attacks apple and peach trees. Symptoms are usually first noticed when the internodes (cell tissue between branches) become thickened and an excess of small branches is formed, giving the foliage a rosette appearance. Also they often have small yellow or mottled leaves. In the final stage, most die back from the tips. Hardy deciduous trees will bear little fruit and the fruit that is formed is usually small.

For control, spray use zinc sulfate at three pounds per 100 gallons of water (three tablepoons per gallon) when the fruit tree is dormant in the spring. Leaf burn is sometimes experienced in apple when sprayed with zinc compound. Zinc chelate sprays used according to manufacturer's directions can also be used but are more expensive.

Additional information on the control of zinc and deficiency is found in the publication "Control Zinc Deficiency in Pecan and Apple Trees and Ornamentals", available at the county agents office in Carrizozo.
