Commissioners discussing budget problems

The Lincoln County Commissioners struggled with budget problems Friday afternoon and, upon reaching an impasse, adjourned until 2 p. m., today when they will attempt to make adjustments to bring the budget into line.

The commission's problem lies in the fact that the proposed budget is up 23.9% over the 1974-75 fiscal year while anticipated revenues are pegged at 18% over last year.

Another problem involves the fact that NM law requires the county to have five-twelfths of the budgeted funds, general and road department, on hand July 1, 1976, to maintain solvency during the July-November period, after which tax revenues will be received.

County manager Leslie Olson outlined three alternatives open to the commission to balance the budget:

- 1 - Reduce the number of county employees;
- 2 - Reduce salaries;
- 3 - earmark a portion of Revenue Sharing funds for salaries, to aid in the establishment of a merit system for employees. (The proposed 1975-76 fiscal year budget is designed to provide for increments to employees under a merit system).

Prior to the budget airing county treasurer Veta Allen requested the promotion of Elora Vega to chief deputy and county assessor Julia Samora requested that the position of secretary-clerk in her office be created for Mrs. Bobbie Freeman. Final action on these personnel requests is pending on the outcome of today's commission session on the budget.

In an attempt to reduce salaries by $8,000 under the proposed merit system wage increases, chairman R. C. Nunez proposed a reduction in certain employee's wages. The commission then asked Mrs. Samora and Mrs. Allen if they "could reduce their office personnel."

"Sure," Mrs. Samora said, "if you don't want the work done."

Both Mrs. Samora and Mrs. Allen agreed that salary reductions would result in a disruption of their office routines and that the county would more than likely lose the services of skilled and trained employees.

Commissioner Bud Payne suggested that budgeted funds for the Lincoln County Senior Citizens, animal control and recreation be substantially reduced and that this amount ($18,000) be channeled into salaries. No action was taken by the commission.

Chairman Nunez said the "commission is open to suggestions" after saying, regarding his proposed salary reductions, "All I'm doing is offering these figures for consideration."

Olsen then told the commission, "I'll meet with the department heads Monday morning and I think we can hammer out an answer to the problem."

During the Friday morning session Sheriff Leandro Vega, Jr., explained, at length, the necessity of the Ruidoso Sub-Station of his office. Vega noted that three deputies, a dispatcher and a secretary are employed in the sub-station and that the "42 per cent increase in Ruidoso's population since 1970" has resulted in "Ruidoso having the most crime activity in the county."

Vega noted that the objectives of the sheriff's office "Ruidoso and county-wide is to achieve professionalism" in the department's manpower. He said that his employees have a current work load that requires "60 hours a week" of duty time and "law enforcement personnel are exempted from overtime and are on straight time up to 60 hours." He noted that the established patrol system and having "sheriff's patrol cars visible is the best deterrent to crime in the county.

"Over half of the county's population is in Ruidoso," Vega said, "and the people deserve service. They pay a lot of taxes and should have service."

"I feel that in order to fulfill these objectives and maintain a high degree of efficiency that the deputies in Ruidoso have to be supported with an office there plus a secretary-dispatcher, to effectively carry out their duties."

Chairman Nunez said, "I won't go either way. At this moment I can't give you an answer. I want to study the report a little more, go over the budget, and then give you an answer."

In routine action the commission:

- Approved a contract amendment to provide Dale LaMay with a margin of four cents a gallon above cost of fuel provided the county.
- Accepted a slight increase in group hospitalization insurance.
- Agreed to meet with Gene Wilson, vice president of Lakeside Corporation, at 9 a. m., today to inspect the dedicated county roads in Alto Village. Wilson noted that patching and resurfacing on approximately two miles of road were necessary. - Approved the appointment of Mrs. Bobbie Freeman as secretary-clerk in the county assessor's office, at a salary of $450 a month, pending budget approval.

- Authorized county manager Olson to apply for a HUD grant of $20,000, allocated Lincoln County, to subsidize low income families' rentals. - Agreed to continue road projects according to the schedule adopted earlier. - Denied the bonding of Rudy Sanchez, a county treasurer's employee, because her position was not included in the last fiscal year's budget. Her employment was continued. - Approved the promotion of Frank Knoblock from dispatcher to deputy sheriff at a salary of $550 a month. The county guidelines of 90 days probation will apply.

Table Policy takes Rio Grande

Table Policy got off to a flying start in Sunday's eight running of the $30,075 Rio Grande Futurity at Ruidoso Downs and barely managed to hang on for a game victory.

The filly, ridden by Gary Sumpter, was a head in front at the end of the four-furlong dash for New Mexico-breds. The triumph produced a paycheck of $15,037 and put Table Policy's career record at a sparkling four wins out of five starts.

Table Policy is trained by Margie Renfro of El Paso for Howard Beddo and Dr. Joe Miller of Anthony, N. M. The filly was installed as a 7-2 shot by the crowd of 6,220 and refunded mutuels of $9, $4 and $3.60.

Tracy Dias, the 5-2 second-favorite in the 10-head field, closed with a willing attack and just missed nabbing the winner. Leroy Coombs was up. The gelding earned $6,015 and paid $3.60, $3.40. Third went to Battle Bandit, a 16-1 outsider directed by Keith Asmussen. The show price was $5.60.

There was no clear-cut favorite in the event, but the honor finally went to Brud's Boy. The gelding, however, trilled all the way and ended up last.

Table Policy established herself as a prime threat right from the first jump. She wrangled a head lead early in the backstretch but was under severe pressure from the 33-1 longshot, Kid Nomad. The latter, piloted by Walter Hodges, remained lapped on Table Policy until the turn for home.

In the upper stretch, Table Policy tried to shake off her main adversary. Kid Nomad, perhaps tiring a bit from the rapid pace, drifted in and appeared to nudge the pacemaker. Jockey Hodges got Kid Nomad back on course, but the colt then drifted toward the outside rail, and that put him out of the chase.

Sumpter went to a steady application of the whip aboard Table Policy, and the filly, swishing her tail, kept pouring on the coals. But her cushion was quickly evaporating when she reached the final yards.

Tracy Dias, who was out of the picture most of the way, got through between horses in the final half-furlong and was closing with long, ground-eating strides. Battle Bandit, although outrun early, was also full of zip at the end.

The winning time was 46 2/5 seconds.

Here's the way the also-rans checked in: 4th - Sparkling Straw, 5th - Kid Nomad, 6th - Rudy's Smoke, 7th - Burner Mug, 8th - Tuxomine, 9th - Honor Badge, 10 - Brud's Boy.

The co-feature, a sophomore encounter at 5 1/2 furlongs, turned into quite an eye-catcher as Mama Minnie pounded out a remarkable 13-length win. The filly, ridden by Carlos Rivas, slipped into the lead in the backstretch and opened up plenty of daylight.

The filly showed no inclination to quit after rounding the turn for home, and kept right on rolling. The fans made Mama Minnie the betting choice and she paid $5.80, $3.80 and $2.60. She clocked the distance in 1:06 seconds flat, which missed the track mark by only four ticks.

Mama Minnie is owned by Jolly and Sammie Driskill of Buffalo Gap, Texas.

It was another big day at the betting windows as the handle topped out at $361,036. Racing resumes Thursday at 1:30 p. m.

THE GRAND ENTRY SUNDAY at the All American Championship Indian Dances jammed the rodeo arena at Mescalero with colorfully costumed Indians from the western half of the United States. In a special ceremony Gina Ruth Killekole of Mescalero was named the Duffy Memorial Princess. [Ruidoso News photo]

'Pink Ladies' give $2,000 to hospital

The ladies of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley General Hospital Auxiliary ('Pink Ladies') Wednesday presented a $2,000 check to Roland Walsh, hospital administrator.

The contribution was a partial payment on furnishings in the out-patient surgical clinic, a service whereby minor surgical patients can receive treatment without being required to be hospitalized overnight.

"Anyone desiring to make a memorial to a loved one, or a gift for this badly needed service," Mrs. Isla McLeod, Auxiliary president, said, "are asked to please mail a check to the Hospital Auxiliary, in care of the hospital."

Making the $2,000 presentation were, from the left, Mrs. L. F. Jennings, Mrs. R.

Forest Service lists camp fire restrictions

Camp fire restrictions have been placed in effect in Lincoln National Forest, Chas. Mook, Fire Prevention Officer for Smokey Bear Ranger District, has announced.

1 - Camp fire permits will be issued only for Forest Service camp grounds.

2 - Campers are requested, due to high fire conditions, to check with Smokey Bear Ranger District in Ruidoso regarding approved camp grounds.

3 - No charcoal, wood or coal burning cooking stove or heater may be used in Lincoln National Forest.

4 - Kerosene, gas, sterno, propane or butane fueled cooking stoves or heaters are legal in designated areas.

5 - The use of "stone fire circles" will not be permitted, either for cooking or as a warming fire.

"Due to the very high fire danger," Mook said, "we've put these restrictions into effect and we're asking for the cooperation of everyone in observing them that we may prevent man-caused forest fires."

to strangers

We have been asked to print a copy of a Letter to the Editor which was printed in another paper, concerning the Vietnam refugees.

The writer of the letter had some good points. We agree that, after years of giving to Vietnam billions of dollars worth of aid—arms, food, advisors—not to mention our life blood—sacrificing husbands, sons and fathers, it seems strange for our politicians to try to tell us we owe a debt of gratitude to these people. We did not want our country flooded with them—especially after seeing TV coverage (and newspaper pictures) of them fighting and clawing and killing to get out of their country—and reading their criticisms of the United States.

But, then, we think of what our media (especially TV) did to the United States in the sixties. We think of the time our son called from Texas Tech to tell us not to get worried about the "big demonstration" that was in the news. He had watched a small group try to put on a demonstration—and, that night, he had seen what the TV cameras had done with it—photographing the same people over and over until it looked like something serious. So—we wonder if all the panic and terrible selfishness shown in the last days before the communists took over Vietnam could be another case of isolated incidents being blown up out of all proportion.

At any rate, Vietnamese refugees are here, and it's up to us to show what we are made of. Hatred and resentment will only cause more problems.

Jeremiah 7:6, 7 (King James) says, "If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, neither walk after other gods to your hurt; Then will I cause you to dwell in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers, for ever and ever." The Revised Standard Version uses the word "aliens" in place of "strangers".

If we would continue to live in a free country, maybe we should think about this. We certainly need God's help.

Salvation Army gives a helping hand

The members of the local service unit committee of the Salvation Army ask you to think of the less fortunate in our community who are in dire need of our help—yours and ours.

If that neighbor, shut in because of sickness or old age should appeal to you for help, we know you would give it.

If that mother, who during the past year lost her husband and father of her children, should ask you to provide clothing and shoes for her children so that they can return to school, we know you would do your best to help her and her family.

Your gift through us is no different . . . because a stranger is but a friend we have not met.

We know you will want to continue the support of our efforts on behalf of others, by sending your check, large or small, whatever you are able to give, so that the work of helping those whom life already has forgotten may be continued.

Please, without your material support, we are helpless to continue our work for others in need.

MECHEM DRIVE

Shady Logan And The Ridge Runner

It is sure great to get two messages to you in a week. Thanks for the privilege. Both Shady and I appreciate this. Like we say, on these Mondays we will be bringing out some little titles we have been thinking about from time to time.

This is being written on the eighteenth of June, and by the time it reaches you, it will be Summer. I guess you thought it has been summer all this time, but summer does not arrive until June the twenty-first. So you see, really some of the hottest days in the year come in the late spring.

Today is a beautiful, cool day with light clouds overhead and a cool breeze down the Vale. The creek is still running strong, very strong for this time of year. The good snow on the mountain is showing its blessing now. Maybe the rains will come just in time to keep the river in good strength. I have been waiting to hear the rain crow just any time, because there is something in the air that tells me the thunder-clouds are not far away.

Blue Birds Return

One thing that makes me think the rain is not far away is that the band of blue birds have returned to their Blue Bird tree out front on the hill side. These little blue fellows with the dark blue coat and red breast love the rain. Oftentimes they stay away during the driest part of the year and then come back just before the rainy season. The Mockingbird is a dry weather singer, and he has been busy lately, but now I do not hear his song. The Robin has taken his place—another rain singer. The dove loves to sing through the dry June days on the warm afternoons, and this is always a cheerful and peaceful sound. But now on this cool, cloudy afternoon the dove has become silent too.

All in all many things point to a little rain pretty soon. Shady Logan had been out several times looking and sniffing in different directions the way he does before a rainy season.

Fruit Beginning To Show Up Along the Way

I have not heard much of the fruit picture over toward Bent, Tularosa, and Cloudcroft. I do see apples shaping up in some of the orchards down the Vale especially the Golden Delicious. The apples should be very rich in flavor and health qualities because of the good winter moisture and a year's rest for the trees.

Calves Cuter than Ever
Everything seems unusually full of life this year and this is especially true of the little calves. There are five so far that Shady and I have seen: Snow Flake Junior; Blackie Junior; Goldie; Little Tiny and Little Red.

All of these little fellows began eating the new grass along with drinking their milk and are so full of life that they spend the cool evenings running and playing. The littlest one, little Tiny is the most active. He is a little reddish gold fellow, the first calf of a little gold-colored mother-cow. Nothing suits little Tiny better than to beat the other calves in foot races, wrestling and boxing and kicking matches. It is a beautiful sight to see the little calves coming down the hill following their mothers, each a perfect little copy of his mother. Sometimes all but one the mothers will come down earlier and then toward the cool of the day here comes one cow bringing the rest from where they all have been resting under the shade of a pinon tree.

A note from Shady Logan Dear Friends Everywhere: I make friends with all the little calves as soon as they are up and around, and I am having lots of fun with them this year.

They are full of all kinds of tricks and antics. One of them, little Goldie, the other evening was lying in one of the ruts of the road where it passes over a small green meadow near a bend of the river. Little Goldie was down in one of the ruts resting and eating the grass that was on the high place between the ruts, then once in a while he would get just a little of the fine powder dirt to eat with the grass.

Then there is a yearling Heifer that is a sort of teen-age baby-sitter for the calves. The other evening, Little Tiny was lagging far behind as the rest of the calves and their mothers went up hill. Instead of going around to the gate he was trying to run through the fence. When the rest of the bunch got out of sight little Tiny began to cry out for them to wait, while he still tried to get through the fence. Then over came this little yearling heifer, Little Gentle is her name, and sort of half pushed and half led Little Tiny down to where there was a loose place in the fence, then she gave him a boost and pushed him through. And Little Tiny went on up the hill to join the rest. What do you think of that? You remember a while back we had a couple of little columns called "The Dreamer", and we will bring them back from time to time. But I just wanted to say, while you are driving a car this is no time for dreaming. Always tend strictly to the job and watch carefully. Keep smiling and praying for us all.

Yours ever the same, Shady Logan, Five S Ranch, Glencoe

In Passing
A party honoring bank patrons and Ruidoso Downs Race Track officials was given by Security Bank last week with finger foods prepared by Pat Healy. Bank president Sonny Wood introduced a few of the dignitaries at the event and reported that the party was "in appreciation" for support of the bank by local people.

Word is going around that the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department substation here in Ruidoso may be closed. From activity we have seen from the office, it might as well be. Have been told that it is necessary to call the Ruidoso Police to get action anyway—and the Sheriff's Department is asking for about a one-third increase in their budget (after a 50% increase last year).

Things should be watched closely during the dry months. Most fires are started unintentionally — but they can do just as much damage. Use outside shades, awnings and plantings to protect the house from direct radiation of the sun.

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL 1776-1976

retreat which soon became a near rout. Even though the British won, it was a costly victory. Among the 1,054 British casualties a large number were officers. American losses were 100 dead, 267 wounded, and 30 captured. One of those killed was Joseph Warren, one of the better orators of Massachusetts and long a leader in the radical cause.

Donald Whisenhunt
On June 17 two hundred years ago one of the most famous battles of the American Revolution occurred. Even though its military importance was not very significant, and it was an American defeat, it has come to be a very symbolic event primarily because it reflected the courage and the willingness of the Americans to fight.

Actions to further aid the troops at Boston and the appointment of George Washington as commander-in-chief had occurred only days before, but they had no significance at Bunker Hill. On June 16, the day before the battle, Col. Richard Gridley was named as the first chief engineer of the Continental Army by Congress. He was already on the scene in Boston and had designed the defense works at Bunker Hill.

Events leading to the battle began in May as both sides reinforced their positions. American forces in the area numbered approximately 10,000 men. General Gage, the British commander, issued a proclamation on June 12 that imposed martial law, declared Americans in arms to be rebels and traitors, and offered to pardon all who would swear allegiance except for Sam Adams and John Hancock.

The battle came when American forces decided to occupy and arm Breed's Hill that overlooked Boston. Fighting started early on the morning of June 17 when the American activity was discovered. The fighting, which actually occurred on Breed's Hill, was fierce. Twice the British were driven off; but on the third attack, General Howe's men, reinforced by forces of Sir Henry Clinton, forced the Americans into a

The number of years the nymphs spend in the soil varies with species, says John J. Durkin, Extension Entomologist, NMSU. Some spend one or two years while others spend five to nine years. An eastern species that isn't present in New Mexico spends 17 years in the soil and is called the 17-year cicada or locust. During their stay in the soil they suck their food from the roots of trees. However, their feeding does not seem to injure the trees.

When the nymphs mature, they dig out of the soil, leaving a clean round hole, one-fourth to three-fourths inches across, depending on the size of the species. These wingless nymphs crawl up on the nearest tree trunk. There they shed their skin for the last time. They leave behind their digging legs and develop two pairs of strong wings.

The males sing to attract their mates. After mating, the females insert their eggs in twigs and small branches of most trees and shrubs. As they lay their eggs with a knife-like laying device, they severely damage the twigs by splitting the bark lengthwise. The damaged twigs often die from the egg-laying site to the tip. Damaged twigs are easily broken by winds.

Spraying to control cicadas is usually not recommended unless heavy populations are damaging valuable plants by their egg laying. Although the adults feed by sucking plant juices, the damage, if any, is insignificant. They are difficult to control because they must be killed by contact. They are strong fliers and re-infestation can be very rapid if the entire area is not sprayed. If a valuable shrub or tree is being used for egg laying, some degree of protection can be obtained by spraying with carbaryl (Sevin) every three to five days during the two weeks to a month that cicadas are active.

Our Southwestern Heritage

By Marcus R. Cooper

To foster a feeling of continuity in our experience as a people; to impart a sense of the past as a living reality conditioning the present in which we live.

The Apache valued respect above all else. He did not barter or sell the necessities of life. His survival required a highly-developed discipline. He knew that every struggle whether won or lost strengthened him for the next one which he knew was sure to come. He constantly trained himself for survival. The child of an Apache was raised under rigid discipline, but corporal punishment was not used in the child's rearing. The Apache was an arrogant, disciplined fighter whose proudest moment was to meet death bravely and unafraid. From his beginning to his end, he was conditioned to meet the challenge.

NM potential great for nuclear energy demands

Without New Mexico the probability of nuclear power ever making a significant contribution to the nation's energy demands would be nil.

That's because the state has about 40 percent of the nation's known uranium—the "fuel" used to operate nuclear power plants.

Figures show that the state also is producing about the same percentage of the uranium ore mined in the United States.

And, for a period of probably 30-40 years, at the least, this country "has no other alternative than to help meet its energy demands with nuclear power plants," says Dr. Glenn Whan of the University of New Mexico.

Because of this set of circumstances New Mexico should make the most of its unique situation, adds Professor Whan, chairman of the UNM Department of Chemical and Nuclear Engineering.

"I think the state is in a tremendous position to develop some industry that would involve some of the intermediate steps in the uranium fuel cycle," said Whan. He says he dislikes seeing New Mexico producing more uranium ore than any other place, but then shipping it out of the state.

He feels a reprocessing plant or even the controversial waste disposal site proposed for the Carlsbad area could be of great economic benefit to the state, along with helping the country meet its energy needs.

Despite wanting to see New Mexico expand its industrial efforts in the field of nuclear energy production, Whan doesn't see actual power plants in the state until perhaps near the end of the century.

"The Public Service Co. of New Mexico, which is the largest electrical power producer in the state, has about 10 percent of the nuclear power plants that are currently planned for Arizona near Phoenix.

"These will be three 1270 megawatt plants, and the Public Service Co. will get 130 megawatts from each of them. These plants are scheduled to come on line in 1981, 1982, 1984, so about the earliest we should start thinking about a power plant in New Mexico is 1986 or 1990," Whan said.

Nuclear energy is coming and coming fast, Whan said. "There are 50 nuclear power plants being built today. Forty are operating, and last year, one-third of those plants that are operating come on stream," he said.

As Whan sees it, a major drawing card for nuclear power is the "tremendous amount of energy released for the energy expended."

"One pound of uranium the size of a golf ball has the same potential as nearly three million pounds of coal," he said.

"Also, a quantity of uranium about the size of a basketball can supply all the electrical requirements for a city of Albuquerque for a year," he added.

This nuclear power — fission — takes advantage of the fact that when you take a large atom like uranium and break the nucleus into two smaller pieces there is a great amount of energy released.

"Roughly a million times as much energy is released by breaking that nucleus in two as would be released if that atom was combined with an atom of oxygen in ordinary combustion," Whan said.

The UNM professor is one who believes that the technology is here that will lead to development of the fast breeder reactor. With this, the amount of energy man will be able to obtain from the country's uranium will be greatly increased.

"With the fast breeder reactor we'd have enough uranium to last hundreds of years and maybe even thousands," Whan said.

If the potential of this reactor is fully realized many scientists feel fission will be a long term solution to the energy pinch. But Whan doesn't believe fission is a truly long-range energy puzzle-solver.

"Long-range" in Whan's terms is looking more than 100 years into the future.)

"I don't think it will be the nation's foremost choice when the nation is in a position to make that choice," he said.

Whan believes that solar and controlled fusion could prevail. Both may be cheaper and "more desirable sources of energy," he said.

"For a fission reaction one of the by-products is the generation of radioactive materials. These build up in a fission reactor and eventually a reactor must be shut down to get those fission products out," Whan said.

Controlled fusion, which Whan describes as still in the primitive stage of development, works like this:

"In fusion we take two small atoms, typically hydrogen isotopes, and fuse them together so they become just one atom. And it turns out that large amounts of energy are released."

A major hangup has been that until recently a lot more energy had to be put into the process than was produced.

"In the decade of the '70s the physicists who are doing research on controlled fusion are confident they will make great strides by demonstrating controlled fusion with a net gain of energy in the lab," Whan said.

"When that milestone is reached the development of the engineering technology must take place, so we'll still require many years of work before we'll have a prototype fusion power plant," he said.

His prediction is that the year 2000 could easily arrive before the development of small scale controlled fusion power plants, representing even less than one per cent of the nation's needs, would be in operation.
