FINAL BUDGET HEARING SET JULY 2

Village tax base up $1,854,900

Ruidoso's phenomenal growth rate of the past few years has continued its rapid pace the past year, with the estimated increase in the assessed valuation for taxable year 1975 pegged at $1,854,900 above 1974.

"The village's estimated assessed valuation now stands at about $19,738,000," village manager Jim Hine advised the village trustees Thursday evening, "compared to last year's evaluation of $17,883,100."

The trustees passed Resolution 75-6 approving adjustments in the current fiscal year's budget and set the hearing for the 1975-76 fiscal year's budget for 8 a. m., July 2, in the council chambers at Ruidoso Village Hall.

Village manager Jim Hine noted that Revenue Sharing funds will be cut approximately $3,000 below anticipated revenues.

In a progress report on improvement projects village engineer Jack Kannady Sr. said work at the cemetery "will be completed in about 10 days" and administrative assistant Frank Potter said that "the water work is about done" on new and improved service in various sections of the residential areas.

In other action the council: — Approved final payment of $2,000 to Eldson's on tank improvements.

— Were advised that Baker Construction Co.'s bankruptcy suit has been changed indefinitely from July 2 and that the village is still holding $30,000 relating to that contract.

— Approved payment of the withheld $13,452 due Luchinger Construction on the present water project, pending final approval by the project engineer.

— Deferred action on an occupational license request from MJM's Macrame, pending compliance with the code.

— Authorized notifying Cable T-V of Ruidoso, following numerous complaints on "cutting streets and damage to private yards" that they will be required to live up to their franchise limitations and restrictions.

THE INN OF THE MOUNTAIN GODS, just south of Ruidoso on the shores of a man-made lake, will host the first convention at the site July 11-12 as the NM Cotton Ginner's Association meets. A highlight of the session will be the crowning of NM 1975 Maid of Cotton Saturday evening. [Ruidoso News photo]

Water Users hear latest 'news'

The 2 1/2 acre feet duty of water proposed in the papers served on the Ruidoso water users has been suspended until a later date, by order of the Court entered Thursday, June 26, 1975, in Carrizozo. Richard A. Simms, Special Assistant Attorney General for the State Engineer informed a large crowd, gathered in the Hondo Gymnasium at 7:30 p. m. on June 26, of the order.

This means that, after all other aspects of the adjudication have been settled, all water users will be notified of one hearing on water duty. The Court ordered the water duty to be handled this way because there was so much objection to the 2 1/2 acre feet, since most had claimed from 3 to 3 1/2.

Simms stated that the 2 1/2 acre feet duty was arrived at through experimentation—mostly at New Mexico State University—where they have decided just how much water is needed for a certain crop—then adjusted it according to average frost dates, temperature and altitude, etc. The State Engineer is required by law to get all water rights in the state settled—which is what adjudication means. According to Simms, the adjudication should be of advantage to everyone, because it will give definite, marketable rights to the individual.

He also stated that the individual water user has no choice. He is a defendant in a bona-fide lawsuit. If he has received his papers and refuses to sign the Acceptance of Service and return it, the sheriff will be asked to serve him personally. If the sheriff cannot find him, he can leave the papers on the doorstep. A list of names of people who have not signed acceptances or been served personally will be published in the paper for one month. The water user will be a defendant whether he wants to be or not.

Simms also advised the water users not to sign the paper in their package which says they are against the offer. Instead, they should go to the Engineer's representatives who will be in Hondo Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 30, July 1 and 2, to hear complaints and try to resolve them; or they can take their problems to Fred Hennighausen in Roswell or Simms in Santa Fe. Every effort will be made to straighten out errors. Also, they will delay seeking default judgments from sixty to ninety days.

Concerning acreage, according to Simms, all the State Engineer can do is recognize what is historically irrigated from surface water since before March 19, 1907, without interruption of more than four years without some good excuse. If more land is irrigated now than in 1908, the difference is not valid, unless applications have been made to the State Engineer and he has passed on whether or not it would interfere with someone else's right.

Simms emphasized that the law is meant to be protective. It is based on the Water Code adopted by the Territory of New Mexico, March 19, 1907. It is called a Prior Appropriation Law, which recognizes the fact that the person who got there first has a better right to the water. Each parcel of land has a priority date when water was first used on that land.

Water right is forfeited if not used for four consecutive years; unless there is a good excuse. Military service and unavailability of water are two such excuses. Lack of money is not considered a good excuse. If land has been put out of use by flood damage, and the user does not get it back under irrigation in four years, he forfeits his water right on that piece of land. Simms did not mention that before the forfeiture, the Engineer must advise in writing and give the user a year to do something about it.

Concerning the measuring devices, Simms said the State Engineer wants to disrupt this community as little as possible. He would not approach the Court requesting measuring devices and a water master as long as the people of the area get along; but one person complaining could cause these expensive measures to be required. This would be done by the Court. The State Engineer has no authority to require it.

If the water user does not abide by Court decree, he can be held in contempt, and be subject to a large fine, and even jail. Because of the difficulties inherent in serving a large number of people, some have not received their papers yet. They will be served as soon as possible. If any water users have not been served in the next two weeks, they should write Simms. There are some cases where, because of property splits, sales and deaths, etc., they do not have the right names.

Eduid Martinez, Chief of the Hydrographic Survey, of the Engineer Office in Santa Fe, and a team will be in Hondo, at the Gymnasium from 11:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Monday, and 8:30 to 5:00 Tuesday and Wednesday, in order to try to resolve any problems. If they cannot handle the load in that time, they will be back for some other sessions.

Also present at the meeting were John Russell, Attorney for the Pecos Valley Artesian Conservancy District, Hennighausen, Supervisor for the State Engineer Office for District II, and Martinez.

Rio Grande Stakes won by Webelo on Sunday

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M. — Webelo, owned by Margaret Miller and trained by Margie Renfro — both of El Paso — blizzed fellow New Mexico-breds in Sunday's seventh running of the Rio Grande Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

The sophomore son of Scout Leader was kept off the early pace by Jockey Gary Sumpter. At the turn for home, he really began moving.

When Webelo hit the top of the stretch, the victory has just about sewed up. Most of the competition was conking out as Webelo ended the 5 1/2-furlong sprint with a lot of run. He needed only mild hustling in the straightaway.

The winning margin was a fat seven lengths. Webelo clocked the distance in 1:19 2/5 seconds and collected a paycheck of $3,480. The fact he hauled the top load of 123 pounds didn't dampen the interest of the fans, who turned him loose as the betting choice.

Webelo returned $4.80 to win, $3.60 to place, $3 even to show. Scouts Oath, the property of A. J. Powers and Monty Brooks of Blanchard, Okla., sailed in second under Jerry Burgess and handed out $7.40 and $4.60.

The third slot went to Truly A Card, who made up plenty of ground at the direction of Terry Coombs, and paid $4.60 to show.

Early honors went to the 37-1 longshot, Easter Klu, who came out of the gate like a horse who meant business. Apprentice Robert Thompson, rather than killing the horse's desire to run, let the big gray open plenty of daylight down the backstretch. He was unchallenged almost until the turn for home.

Webelo was in third place in the early going. After he settled down, Sumpter let out a notch or two. The gelding began to pick up steam. Before he hit the turn, he was moving at full throttle, and went sweeping by Easter Klu with long-reaching jumps. Sumpter tapped him with the whip at the top of the lane, and that was about all the encouragement he needed.

Scouts Oath, off at 10-1 in the betting, also made a brisk move around the turn. He galloped well on the outside, but simply couldn't match Webelo's momentum. Scouts Oath easily collared the tiring Easter Klu in the upper stretch and had little trouble hammering out that second-place finish.

Truly A Card had to move in giant steps in order to get a share of the purse. The filly brought up the rear until the midway point of the backstretch. She made up a bit of ground, but was in sixth place when she hit the homestretch. In the final furlong, she moved at a rapid clip.

Summer jobs open for youths

Summer employment for 15 to 20 low income youths has been made available in the Ruidoso area by the Office of Manpower Administration in Carlsbad, Chris Cuellar of the local NM State Employment Service has announced.

Alex Morgan of the Albuquerque SES office has been assisting with interviewing and enrolling under this program, placing youths with local government and non-profit corporations, under federal government eligibility guidelines.

The employees, between 14 and 21 years old, are members of a family with below poverty level income the past year, as determined by a graduating scale on the number of persons in the family. The youths will work a 20 hour week at a $2.10 hourly wage, with their jobs to continue through Aug. 15.

"Joe Truitt, president of the Humane Society," Cuellar said, "was thrilled at being able to obtain two 14-year-old youths to help him in caring for animals. Both youths were having a very difficult time locating suitable work. One of these youths worked for no pay last summer caring for horses when he was unable to find work. Caring for animals this summer will not only be enjoyable for him but will also be profitable, enabling him to obtain his own necessities for school this coming fall."

Other youths are working as clerks, groundskeepers, police dispatch assistants, trash collection and receptionists. Agencies cooperating with this program include the villages of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, Senior Citizens, Municipal Airport, Municipal Schools, Swimming Pool, Chamber of Commerce and Ruidoso Hondo Valley General Hospital.

Cuellar noted that a limited number of openings are available.

viewed by approximately 12,000 admission paying guests during the four sessions.

"This was one of the few weekends in June that the town has ever been completely filled," C-C manager Richard Cothrun said, "and in talking with old timers here, they said there have never been that many people in town for a weekend in June. Room rentals here were basically full for three nights."

Cothrun noted that the economic impact on the community "must have been felt by every business and everyone in business must have benefitted." The handle at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, Cothrun said, "was up $153,000 over the same weekend a year ago", with that weekend in 1974 being the running of the Kansas Futurity, one of the major track attractions of the meeting.

"The Chamber's part in the dancing contest was to create another thing for the people to see and do in the Ruidoso area in June, an ordinarily slow month, and we feel that it was a very successful tourist attraction, in addition to being a traditional Pow Wow."

The Dreamer

by Danlle Storm
"Like water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country."

The Old Testament Good news, be it from near or far, is always welcome. So it was good news to hear that my good neighbors just over the hill to the south Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McKnight got a good rain Monday the twenty-third. The rain is here — oh the welcome rain.

The Day of the Dreamer This is being written on Saint John's Day, (El Dia De San Juan) to the Spanish people. Traditionally, Saint John's day is quiet and serene so that we might celebrate this sacred day in peace, reverence and joy.

But today is one of the best Saint John's days that I have ever seen. For right now (Three o'clock June the Twenty-fourth) it is raining in all directions. It seems almost too good to be true. Really a dream come true!

The reason I say this is the day of the dreamer is that this time of year you see so many things that you can hardly believe, such as a rainbow, and the displays of moonlight and lightning.

Just before this grand rain, I was lying on the shady side of the house in My Mother's little cot, watching the sky. Clouds were moving in from all around the mountain horizon. The whole world was begging for a few drops of rain. Here and there were cracks in the earth, waiting to catch every drop that might fall.

Just over at the North side of the yard were two cactus plants, soaking in the hot sunshine that they love. One was a prickly pear bush and the other the taller Cholla. Against a back ground of dark, almost black cloud, to the north the blooms of these cactus plants were set forth as if in a picture. The prickly-pear were of the purest apricot orange, and the cholla were half way between pink and purple, which, if I mistake not, is what Zane Grey in speaking of his sunsets, calls "Magenta."

You never saw such colors so well displayed. Your eyes seemed to thirst for them. From time to time I would gaze at these flowers and at the approaching clouds beyond to the north. In the spell of the drowsy world around me, little voices came whispering and talking low.

"How can you expect much rain in a land where the cactus grows?" asked one. Then another little voice whispered: "Don't be over-anxious about the rain. You know it isn't quite July yet."

The next thing I knew I felt the tiniest wet drops on my face, and woke up. Overhead a light cloud was letting fall a few drops, but these were mostly dried up on the way down in the hot sky. Then the sky became mostly clear. And close by toward the river I heard the peaceful note of the dove.

Now this is mostly a sure sign of dry weather; and often times the dove will call after a rain, letting you know you can come outside now, that the rain is over.

"My Lord calls me He calls me by the thunder The trumpet sounds Within a-my soul." Still on the horizons, the thunder faintly rumbled and I

Rio Grande

Here's the way the also-rans checked in: 4th — Tollies Boy, 5th — Easter Klu, 6th — Dawna Sean, 7th — Mac Andrew, 8th — Indi's Reply, 9th — Polly Bligh, 10th — Three Setter.

The co-feature at 870 yards turned into duck soup for Big Badger Bar, who looked like a winner right from the start. The 95 public choice, confidently piloted by Richard Castro, banged out three lengths of daylight before he hit the turn.

In the stretch, he was well out of reach and coasted under the wire with a 2 1/4-length lead. The win payoff was $5.80. Trail Driver, a 23-1 outsider, came roaring down the stretch to finish second under Gordon Weaver. The mutuels payoff were a generous $13.80 and $8.20.

Another impressive job was turned in by Texas Drifter in the ninth race, who led from start-to-finish in the 5 1/2-furlong sprint and checked in five lengths to the good. Gordon Weaver was up. The win payoff was $4.40.

Racing in the cool pines resumes on Thursday and features the $6,000-added Jet Deck Stakes. Stakes races are also set for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The culminating event is the $362,890 Rainbow Quarter Horse Derby on Sunday.

Mescalero students enrolled at ENMU

Ten students from Mescalero are among the 120 students currently enrolled in the Upward Bound program at Eastern New Mexico University.

Upward Bound 1975 began June 7 and continues through July 22. The program's goal is to create a positive attitude for students to attend post-secondary institutions.

Sixty-five students are attending the non-bridge component which consists of math, science, reading development, composition, and communications. Other classes include financial planning, journalism, career counseling, psychology and physical education.

The college success bridge component requires students to carry seven hours in the areas of library science, effective study, speech, and physical education.

A challenging curriculum, residential summer living, as well as an overview of college life are integrated into the program, according to Benny Trujillo, Upward Bound director. Upward Bound is in its ninth year at Eastern.

Students participating in the Upward Bound program from Mescalero include Henrietta Baca, Laura Botella, and Karen Carrillo.

Other participating students from Mescalero include Yolanda Cervantes, Michael Cooper, Carrie Johnson, Donise Kawakla, Ada Pinto, Jackie Rocha, and Melba Valdez.

Bone Up on Soup

Familiarity with the wide variety of beef cuts is important in identifying good buys. But what about the beef bone? We know ham bones make a delicious soup base; the same holds for beef bones. They're often available at the meat counter nowadays, or you can ask the market man for them. It's what's inside that counts, for the marrow produces that good beef flavor. A soup bone plus a modest amount of beef for stew or ground or leftover beef, in combination with vegetables, provides a hearty soup to be served as the main entrée. It's another way to stretch beef flavor and the food dollar.

Constitutional Erosion

The slow but steady erosion of our constitutional rights continue to progress and now it looks as though - if some factions have their way - our right to keep and bear arms will soon be at an end. The founding fathers, in their wisdom, thought it necessary to outline the rights and privileges of the citizens of this country with a constitution and bill of rights. Through various decisions of the Supreme Court - and action of congress - various of these rights have been abridged.

It would appear that the major point of departure was the adoption of the federal income tax in the early 1900's when the burden of proof of a man's innocence was placed directly on him by the Internal Revenue Bureau. Until that time a man had been assumed innocent until proven guilty.

Now we face the tool of dictatorship that has been used frequently in the past in other nations. The control of arms by the federal government. It does not matter under what form such control is established - whether by control of arms themselves or through the registration of arms and ammunition. (Such control of ammunition is already an established fact, with registration of purchases.)

We have no doubt that the right of citizens to bear arms has a profound deterrent effect on politicians wishing to establish a dictatorship (and the possibility is always there).

If we continue to allow our representatives to erode our rights, we will, some day, lose them all.

A.L.

BICENTENNIAL NOTEBOOK

Donald Whisenhunt

Mecklenburg Declaration
The impact of the first few months of 1775 was felt very keenly in the western frontier areas of the English colonies even though it often took some time for news to reach these remote places. A good example was Mecklenburg County, North Carolina.

The people living here were mostly Scotch-Irish Presbyterians who had demonstrated their independent frame of mind early. It was not until May 1775 that they heard of the action of the previous February when Parliament declared the colonies to be in a state of rebellion.

They were so disturbed by this and the later news of the bloodshed at Lexington and Concord that a meeting was held in Charlotte to discuss their obligations to the Crown and their future actions. According to historian George Bancroft, these frontiersmen were extremely distressed at living so far from the scene of action in Massachusetts.

Led by Thomas Polk and Ephraim Brevard, the Mecklenburg County meeting in effect declared its independence of Great Britain. Five resolutions were passed that declared all laws and commissions of king and Parliament annulled and the royal government of the province suspended. The new governing power would be exercised by the Provincial Congress. Anyone within the County that accepted a royal commission was declared an enemy of the country.

These resolutions were dispatched to the North Carolina delegation in Philadelphia, but they were never presented to the Congress.

This whole episode has been shrouded in mystery since no contemporary document has ever been found and the reliability of the documents available has never been proven. Thus, it is not possible to say with certainty that the actions in Mecklenburg County ever actually occurred.

Even so, it is obvious that the events of February to May 1775 were arousing passions throughout the English colonies. These emotions would not be easily cooled.

While British Americans were proclaiming their rights Spanish New Mexicans were still trying to protect themselves against possible attacks from Native Americans. A good example was the community of Santo Tomas del Rio de las Trampas.

Founded in 1751 by twelve families from Santa Fe, it was located about seven or eight miles south of the pueblo of Picurries. In the 1770's Trampas had a population of 278 persons comprising sixty-three families. They lived in a compact plaza for security reasons even though they were hidden away in a mountain valley. Their defenses were always maintained because they were on the route followed by Plains Indians when they came to the Rio Arriba.

Your Social Security

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by July 31 for the quarter ending June 30, according to Tim Hassen, social security claims representative.

"If you pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month calendar quarter for work around your house, you must send a report of the wages and the social security contributions to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter," Hassen said.

The reports may be filed on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service office—"Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security)." Both the employer and employee pay 5.85 percent tax on the covered wages. Or, the employer may pay the full 11.7 percent contribution.

"Any new household employer should obtain a copy of the publication called 'Social Security and Your Household Employee.' It is available from any social security office," Hassen concluded.

Mr. Hassen may be contacted at the Lincoln County Senior Citizens Center, in Ruidoso.

Army commissary prices were great in 1934

After a look at the commissary prices, the Army in 1934 would seem a great place to be, according to Army historians. Those were the days of two-cent-a-pound salt, 14-cent-a-pound dried sliced beef, and 17-cent-a-dozen eggs.

It was steak on a hamburger budget. Peaches and cream. (Peaches were 14 cents a can; cream, 25 cents a quart.) A pound of breakfast bacon was 17 cents. A gallon of fresh buttermilk: 16 cents. A 12-pound sack of flour was 45 cents. Cigarettes were 11 cents a pack; fresh beef quarters were eight cents a pound. Of course, there was inconveniences. Soldiers assigned to mess-duty picked up bulk ice at the commissary every morning. But with bread at three cents a pound, coffee at 30 cents a pound, and milk at eight cents a quart, it would seem to be a budgeter's dream come true.

But that's only part of the story. In 1934, new recruits were being paid $21 a month, now they receive $344.10. A master sergeant was bringing home $126; today he gets $1,249.20.

The ironic result is that today's soldier spends about the same percentage, or a little less, of his paycheck on food than did the soldier of 1934.

Tuesday is the day each week that finds Albert, Holley, and me out snooping around under the edges of the mountain, looking for special combinations of form, light, and inspiration. These are the ingredients out of which we make photographs.

Albert is a bright orange camper van who vainly wears a white nose mitten and likes to think he's a Jeep. Actually, he's sort of a Volkswagen Snoopy, always daydreaming of rugged conquests and in his stupor tripping over potholes and bending his shock absorbers. He does perform yoeman service, however, lugging me 'n Holley, 75 pounds of camera equipment, and lunch — especially lunch. We've found that the creative process is slowed considerably unless liberally fueled by peanut butter sandwiches and Coke.

Holley is my 3-month-old creative consultant. I tried her out initially as counter help in the shop, but at two and one-half feet she wasn't tall enough for anything but under-the-counter deals — something you don't have too much of in the film 'n flashbulb business. Now she rides shotgun in Albert and provides a running commentary on what's happening along the side of the road. When we leave Albert and hoof it up the trails she rides piggy back and takes care of the peanut butter sandwiches.

On our Tuesday expeditions we are learning about making photographs in these parts and our notebook is rapidly filling with scribbles about where and when the light really gets it together, about places that ought to make good images at another time or season, and about the combinations of machinery, glass, and film we have used to make images that communicate something special about us and about the land.

That's what this column is about: sharing the notebook with you — cleaned up and illuminated, of course — but, complete in its prejudices and personal viewpoints with occasional peanut smears from Holley, and undoubtedly including some errors in observation or technical interpretation.

This is a column about making creative photographs in the Ruidoso area, but when we say "creative" we don't intend to scare off the casual photographer who is interested in making some nice snapshots. We believe the production of a photograph is an inherently creative act that brings out the artist in each of us. Even if we are simply posing Aunt Minnie against a background of Sierra Blanca, we try to do the best we can to make a "pretty" picture. My personal creative process happens to leave out Aunt Minnie and to concentrate on the landscape, but my notes can be helpful to both kinds of photographers if they are in pursuit of "good" photographs.

My notes today are on an image I call "Aspens, Sierra Blanca." This photograph was made from the road to the ski area in the big aspen stands about a mile or so from the end of the road. In early Spring I found the trees before they had filled out in the foliage that later in the season blocks some of the depth of the view through the grove. The day was overcast, but bright, resulting in a light that left the trees with soft modeling and no harsh shadows — direct sunlight would have created an entirely different mood in the image. I was most impressed by the strong vertical lines, the great feeling of depth as one's vision wanders off through the grove, and also by the denseness of the stand.

To retain the vertical lines I set up the camera (a Canon FTb) and tripod on the road, which at this point is some 10 feet above the base of the nearest trees. This meant I would be shooting perpendicular to the trees and not up at them. Shooting up from their base would have resulted in converging rather than parallel lines. To enhance the denseness of the grove I wanted to "stack" the trees up in the image, so I used a 2x Vivitar Teleconverter with my 300mm Vivitar lens to make a 600mm telephoto combination that would have the optical effect of drawing the trees in the distance and the foreground closer together. The illusion of depth was maintained by placing a large, near tree at one side of the image and letting it provide scale for the increasingly smaller size of the trees in the distance. Depth of focus was achieved by a small f/stop (f/22) and a corresponding slow shutter speed (1/15 sec) on Tri-X film. Obviously the tripod was an absolute necessity for sharpness with this slow speed and luckily the wind was calm.

The film was developed in D-76 (diluted 1:1) for eight minutes and forty-five seconds at 68°. The usual exhibition print is 9" x 14" (full frame 35mm negative on the 11" x 14" format) on Dupont Varilour paper printed with a #1 Dupont filter and developed in Dektol diluted 1:1. The Tri-X negative holds up well to 16" x 20", and the image seems most impressive in the larger sizes.

The image is strong in design and is a realistic interpretation of how the aspens look in the groves along the ski area road. The effect was achieved by previsualizing what the final image would look like and then manipulating the conditions under my control to achieve that effect. This is a good illustration of what is meant by "making" a photograph as opposed to "taking" one.

Your Social Security

"Starting July 1 the premium rate for Medicare hospital insurance will go up from $6 to $40 a month for people who pay for this protection. The increase is due to rising hospital costs," Tim Hassen, social security claims representative announced.

"Hospital insurance is extended automatically, without premium charge, to people 65 who are eligible for social security or railroad retirement benefits. It is also provided without charge to disabled people under 65 who have been drawing disability social security benefits for two years, and to many people suffering with chronic kidney disease.

"However," Hassen continued, "people 65 and over who aren't eligible for social security benefits can get this Medicare hospital insurance by paying a monthly premium. These people must also sign up for the Medicare medical insurance.

"During the last fiscal year, the hospital insurance program paid out over $7.7 billion in benefits," Hassen concluded.

Mr. Hassen may be contacted at the Lincoln County Senior Citizens Center in Ruidoso.
