$100,000 loan received

The Ruidoso Downs village water improvement project is now well underway with tanks under construction, water lines being prepared and the old village storage tank due for sandblasting and painting when the new tanks are in operation. The $200,000 plus project was financed by a loan of $100,000 from the FHA for the purchase of Denton Field (10 acres with a water well) and funds to assist with the grant of $65,000 from the state Environmental Improvement Agency and an additional grant of $35,000 from the Four Corners Commission.

The need for additional water (Denton Field) was pointed up last year when, during a dry year and a water crisis, the village was forced to pump water from the Denton Field well to supplement village water from the spring. Growth of the area has prompted the village council to purchase the Denton Field property for a recreational area and the well for the water supply. Purchase price for the ten acres was $40,000.

Engineering for the project was done by Daniels Engineering of Alamogordo and the prime contractor is Burns Construction Company.

Completion of the project should be accomplished in August.

FHA LOAN RECEIVED — Mayor J. J. DiPaolo of Ruidoso Downs is shown above with the Revenue Bond and check for the purchase of the Denton Field property by the village for use as a recreational area and water supply. The water improvement program, for which the loan will be used, is now underway and will cost a total of $200,000. In addition to the $100,000 FHA loan, the village has received a grant from the EIA for $65,000 and one from the Four Corners Commission for $35,000. [Ruidoso News photo]

Easy Date wins handily

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M. — Easy Date, quite possibly the greatest quarter horse of all time, turned in an awesome display while slicing up some of the nation's top talent in Sunday's seventh running of the World's Championship Classic at Ruidoso Downs.

Although still a three-year-old, she went against older horses in the 440-yard dash and left the competition struggling in her wake.

Under early urging from Jockey Don Knight, she carved out a quick lead, fought off several feeble challenges, then cruised under the tape with a 1 1/4-length cushion.

Knight used the whip smartly for the first half of the race, then put the stick away and allowed Easy Date to operate under her own incentive. She kept piling up her advantage and was still gaining at the finish.

Easy Date, trained by James McArthur for Walter Merrick of Sayre, Okla., halted the clock in a razor-sharp 21.51 seconds. This was quite an improvement over the filly's top-qualifying time of 21.61 seconds a week ago.

Sunday's 7,450 fans were clearly impressed with the filly's racing history and turned her loose as a prohibitive favorite in the star-studded field. The mutual payoffs were $2.60, $2.60 and $2.20.

The gross pot was $65,815, with $32,907 going into Easy Date's account. This swelled her career income up to a heady $751,602 and gave plenty of impetus toward her objective of $1 million in earnings.

Easy Date already stands as the richest quarter horse of all time.

Maskeo Lad, another three-year-old, turned in a plucky performance while nailing down second in the Championship. The colt, directed by Jerry Nicodemus for Billy G. Underwood of Dallas, made up ground in the final yards but in no way threatened the winner. The runnerup position yielded $11,188. The mutuels were $6.20 and $3.20.

Third went to Snazzy Rocket, a 35-1 outsider who responded to an excellent ride from Billy Hunt. The mare is owned by Burton and Glenda Wright of Boone, Colo. She

90 day meet at Sunland

The New Mexico State Racing Commission has given Sunland Park the green light for 90 days of racing during the '75-'76 meeting.

The campaign will get underway on Saturday, Oct. 4, and wind up on Sunday, May 9. As in previous years, there'll be a one-week Christmas lay-up. The plant will be dark on Dec. 19-20-21.

The first two weekends of the meeting will consist of Saturday and Sunday racing. Friday racing will debut on Oct. 17.

All Friday racing, according to General Manager Al Rosa, will be staged under the lights, starting at 7:30 p. m. There'll be no Friday twilight programs. First post for all Saturday and Sunday cards is the regular 1:30 p. m. earned $8,581 for her heads-up performance and refunded a $3.60 show price.

Indicative of the keen interest stirred up by Easy Date is the fact the wagering handle of the Championship hit $55,910.

Easy Date turned in a pretty cut-and-dried performance. She wasted no time getting a solid upper hand, then drew clear steadily. The filly, as usual, moved in an eager, energy-packed stride.

Chicory Moon, a six-year-old and longtime kingpin in stakes circles, tried his best to collar Easy Date in the early going. But he simply was unable to hang onto the stinging pace, and was fading when he hit the wire in fourth place.

Maskeo Lad and Snazzy Rocket were both prominent from the start. The latter was overhauled in the final steps and lost the place slot by a head.

The prime disappointment was Easy Six, who went into the tilt with career earnings of $165,000 — plus a bangup victory over Chicory Moon in the trials. Easy Six had clear sailing all the way, but was unable to get in contention.

Here's the way the also-rans checked in: 4th — Chicory Moon, 5th — Moon Devil, 6th — Easy Six, 7th — Mr. Hay Bug, 8th — Folly Bullit, 9th — Alamitos Angie, 10th — Show-un Jet.

In Sunday's co-feature at six-furlongs, First Impression got a masterful ride from Willie Lovell and led all the way for a smart two-length win. The colt covered the distance in a snappy 1:12 4/5 seconds, missing the track mark by only a second. He paid $7.20 to win.

Wagering open on Futurity

Advance wagering on Sunday's Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs will be available throughout the week, reports General Manager Al Rosa.

The specially-designated mutual window in the grandstand will offer advance wagers in the amounts of $2, $5 and $10 — win, place or show.

Advance wagering on the Rainbow Futurity will be available from Thursday through Sunday's seventh race.

Rosa also reminds patrons that Sunday's program, in deference to the 14-state telecast of the Rainbow Futurity, will get underway at the early-starting time of 1 p. m. First post through Saturday is the regular 1:30 p. m.

Farm-Livestock area conference here July 30-31

President of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau, A. W. "Bill" Langenegger, urges all area farmers and ranchers to attend the Bureau's Annual Summer Conference at the Chaparral Motor Hotel, Ruidoso Downs, July 30 1:20 p. m. to July 31 noon.

Langenegger pointed out that public land users will be particularly interested in the afternoon session Wednesday. The theme of this session will be "Effect of Public Land Use on the State's Economy." "We ranchers," said Langenegger, "know what the effect of public land use is on our state's economy. And we are concerned that the public is not aware of the economic consequences to this state if the present movement to do away with the use of public lands for livestock grazing is successful."

This meeting will provide a forum for public land users, the Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management representatives and New Mexico's Congressional representatives or their assistants, to discuss problems and issues connected with the use of public lands.

Slated to appear on the panel representing public land users are: Mike Traynor, Grant County; Fabian Garcia, Rio Arriba County; Warner Fluhrman, Harding County; Oliver M. Lee, Catron County; Charles Walker, Otero County; Truman Pierce, Chaves County; Ralph Rainwater, Torrance County and F. F. Montoya, San Juan County.

Thursday morning, Langenegger added, will be devoted to problems and issues concerning farmers and ranchers such as: Extra-territorial zoning and its affect on agriculture, rural development programs, water resources and needs in New Mexico and this region and the energy outlook for the next fifteen years.

Langenegger pointed out that energy is all-important not only to the farmer and rancher but to the consumer who depends upon the agriculturalists to provide food and fiber.

"Of course," said Langenegger, "the conference won't be all work. We are planning a barbeque and dance Wednesday night."

Wednesday's agenda, following the 1:20 p. m. call to order by president A. W. Langenegger, includes: 1:30— The effect of public land use on the state's economy. Special guests include members of the NM Congressional delegation or their administrative assistants.

The qualifications, duties, selection and tenure of the B. L. M. and Forest advisory boards and B. L. M. grazing regulations and Forest Service goal establishing program, with Arthur Zimmerman, state director of B. L. M., and Phil Smith, USFS, as speakers.

B. L. M. and Forest Service permittee problems, presented by Mike Traynor, Fabian Garcia, Warner Fluhrman, Oliver M. Lee, Charles Walker, Truman Pierce, Ralph Rainwater and F. F. Montoya.

4:30— Adjournment of general session and meetings of county Farm Bureau vice presidents and of the state commodity committee chairmen and A. F. B. F. advisory committee members.

7:00— Barbeque followed by dancing at 9:00.

Following Thursday's 8:20 a. m., call to order, the program includes:

8:30— Extra territorial zoning as it affects agriculture, with Frank Coppler, executive director of the NM Municipal League as speaker.

9:15— Rural Development Programs with Dr. Eugene Ross, associate director NM Extension Service as speaker.

10:15— New Mexico water resources with Dr. John Clark, director of NM Water Research Institute as speaker.

11:00— Regional water needs with L. E. Davis, vice president of the NM Farm and Livestock Bureau as speaker.

11:15— The energy outlook for the next 15 years with Dr. M. W. Fleck, environmental consultant with the Public Service Co., of New Mexico as speaker.

12 noon— Adjournment.

Welcome to Ruidoso

Kenneth Zawacki, D. O., will open a private medical practice as a physician and surgeon in offices adjacent to Ruidoso Hondo Valley General Hospital, August 4.

Dr. Zawacki, a native of Detroit, Mich., is a 1974 graduate of a Kansas City, Mo., medical school and served his internship in Detroit.

With his wife, Nancy, Dr.

Zawacki has moved into a home in Ruidoso. The couple enjoy fishing, camping, skiing and all outdoor sports.

Dr. Zawacki is a member of the College of General Practitioners, the American Osteopathic and NM Osteopathic Associations and is an associate member of the NM American Academy of Family Physicians.

FORT STANTON FILLING A NEED

Community of hope

Next week will mark the beginning of a series of photos and articles concerning students at the Fort Stanton School. A great variety of skills are taught the students by an interested, informed faculty. The atmosphere at Fort Stanton is quiet and peaceful and activities are constantly underway for the instruction of the students.

Much volunteer help, in addition to a professional staff are working to make the students useful citizens and should be encouraged in every way possible.

FORT STANTON — COMMUNITY OF HOPE

Fort Stanton Hospital & Training School is a residential, vocational training center for the mentally retarded. Originally a calvary outpost, merchant marine hospital for the treatment of tuberculosis, prisoner of war camp, and state run tuberculosis sanatorium, Fort Stanton became a residential hospital for the mentally retarded in 1966. Recently the agency has undertaken a face lifting in an effort to restore historical buildings, improve the appearance of the grounds, and most importantly, establish training programs for retarded citizens.

The hospital houses and treats 168 retarded students. There are 148 employees working around the clock to provide food, shelter, medical and recreational services, and training. The annual budget for fiscal '75-'76 is two million dollars. The hospital contains its own kitchen, infirmary, maintenance department, laundry, and school. Staff and many supplies come from the local community surrounding the fort.

Among the student training projects currently underway are adobe making, candle making, craft manufacturing, tree farming, vegetable gardening, and a student-run canteen. These projects are run directly by the students themselves as part of their training in vocational skill development. Through these training efforts, residents of the Fort will learn productive trades which will enable them to contribute to their own support, and provide them with a meaningful occupation.

In addition to vocational training, students at Fort Stanton receive instruction in self care, social living and academic subjects. This training is part of a general effort to assist retarded citizens in gaining the skills necessary for successful living in supervised community settings around the state — skills that you and I learned at home, through school and church, and from our friends and neighbors. Learning for retarded people is, at best difficult. Existing community schools, social service organizations, and rehabilitation programs do not have the time, resources or expertise required to devote to many of these people. Often times the anxiety, disappointment and uncertainty felt by the parents of the retarded and the lack of sufficient community resources make removal of the retarded citizens from the community necessary.

Through specialized programs like Fort Stanton, retarded citizens can be given intensive training by competent staff to prepare them for life in a complex and fast moving society. Once basic self help, social, and vocational skills are mastered, students move into a transitional home — a training program designed to assist students in developing the skills needed to live in a situation less structured than an institution. From there they may be placed in a variety of community settings such as business or farms where they would perform such tasks as bed making, gardening and farming, maid service and other tasks.

But placement in the community is not the end of their struggle. New and often disturbing experiences in a strange and often friendless or hostile environment must be dealt with. For the retarded this adjustment takes time, patience and understanding. Once the adjustment is made, however, retarded citizens can become useful, productive contributors to the community. And after all, this is what Fort Stanton is all about — helping the retarded citizen take part in the world around him. Through the dedication and effort of the staff, people, once with no alternatives, may grow and learn in this small community of hope.

Old Lincoln featured in NM magazine

John L. Sinclair first wrote for "New Mexico Magazine" in September 1937. In the August issue, the famed author of "In Time of Harvest" has his 30th article, this one about his beloved town of Lincoln—and its infamous one-time resident, Billy the Kid.

A new feature in the magazine, according to Sheila Tryk, the editor, is "Focus New Mexico", which will spotlight the works of outstanding photographers. The August issue has a portfolio of the photographs of the famed David Muench.

"These are the kinds of photographs people like to frame, to look at again and again," Mrs. Tryk said.

Also in the August issue is a feature on the internationally famous artist, Andrew Dasburg, with samples of his paintings reproduced in color.

The people, places and events of New Mexico are captured in a number of shorter articles in the color-filled magazine, which also lists a calendar of events going on throughout the state.

The August issue, with wildflowers on the cover, is on the newsstands now.

August Square Dance set for August 9 & 10

The 17th annual August Week-end Square Dance, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper, is scheduled to be held August 9 and 10 at the Chaparral Convention Center in Ruidoso Downs.

All square and round dancers and spectators are welcome to the event.

Callers for the dances will be Melton Luttrell and Beryl Main with John and Wanda Winters set as instructors for the round dance.

Schedule of events for the dances are: Saturday, August 9 — square dance workshop, 1 to 3:30 p. m.; round dance workshop, 3:30 to 5 p. m.; round dancing, 7:30 to 8 p. m.; main dance (round and square), 8 to 11 p. m. and area and guest callers, 11 to 12 p. m. Sunday: square and round dancing 9 a. m. until noon.

Free coffee and soft drinks throughout all three sessions. Spectator admission will be $1.50 each per session.

Pachecos entertain district director, staff

Southeastern Economic Development District Director, Nick Pappas, staff and families, from Roswell, were guests of the Paul Pachecos at their ranch on the Arabella Road, Saturday, July 19. Barbecue and all the trimmings were served.

The children played games, but the highlight of the evening was an exciting game of soccer played by the adults!

Those attending were Herman Miranda, Dallas, Texas; Nick Pappas, Ivan Hall, Glicerio Rodriguez, Bill Burquette, Ruth May, Lupe Mendez, Pora Martinez, Mary Lou Rodriguez, Kent Perry, Kay Ellison, and their families.

Members of the Pacheco's family were also present: Cristina and Frank Rivera Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rivera Sr., Belen; Mr. Pacheco's brother, George Sisneros, son Brian, and grandchildren, Tim and Heather Matakas, of Kansas; and Tawnya Sisneros, San Antonio, Texas.

Defensor Chieftain Socorro

Clipped comment

In an Albuquerque district court proceeding, Judge Rozier Sanchez granted a motion by three attorneys defending men charged with armed robbery and aggravated battery to disqualify the prosecutor. The motion had been made only five minutes before the trial was to begin, with the jury already impaneled.

Defense grounds for disqualification were sound, the judge ruled, since an attorney formerly connected with the case had since joined the office of district attorney. A state statute prohibits district attorneys from prosecuting any case which they once had defended — a sensible restriction. While the prosecutor in this instance had never been in on the case, he would have been in a position to obtain from his associate knowledge on how the defendants' attorneys were planning their defense and thus abrogated the rights of the accused.

Following his first ruling, Judge Sanchez made a very unusual subsequent one. He found the defense attorneys "dilatatory" in making their last minute motion since they had known for two months who the special prosecutor was to be. And he ordered the three attorneys to pay the state for the cost of impaneling a jury and for the time it had taken the disqualified prosecutor to prepare the case. Last minute motions occur before most jury trials but none should be allowed at that late date to disrupt the process of the judicial system unless illness, death, or unforeseen and valid emergencies enter into consideration. More usually "dilatatory" tactics are done with a purpose — perhaps, with intent in an effort to out-run the six-month Statute of Limitation, for example — or for the convenience of the attorney, pressed with other pending cases. And being "dilatatory" isn't especially a practice used solely by defense attorneys. Prosecutors sometimes don't like to handle "hot potato" cases in their own bailiwick — and even judges may "sit" on those cases which they take under advisement.

Shady Logan And The Ridge Runner

by Dan Storm
Something Special
About Old Lincoln

I am always very happy when practices begin for the annual historical pageant, The Last Escape of Billy The Kid." Because then Shady Logan and I get to make several trips to Old Lincoln.

I do not know why, but there is always a gladness in my heart as I make the turn at Hondo and head up toward Lincoln. There is a peacefulness to the valley on the way up. Then when you round the bend and come in sight of that tall mountain with a little natural look-out tower on top — and know that you are in sight of Old Lincoln, you have a happy little feeling that comes to you no where else.

Many thoughts and memories and images are all mingled in your emotions. First comes to mind that this little town was named after the great Honest Abe, and you remember that the state of New Mexico came very close to being named "Lincoln".

You imagine that Billy the Kid many times had happy feelings and sad ones too, as he first glimpsed Lincoln in the near distance from the very point where you are now.

You have a very strong feeling, a yearning, almost, that you could somehow meet Billy The Kid. As you journey into Lincoln, you wait for some faint idea, some quiet whisper to come to you telling you just a little bit about this youth so beloved by so many — this boy who had been so well liked by his teachers in school, and his many friends, but whose troubles seemed to stalk at every turn.

The Twenty-sixth Year in the Pageant

The original pageant was part of "A Day in Old Lincoln" which was Lincoln County's contribution to New Mexico's Cuarto-Centennial, or four hundredth birthday — held in 1940.

The streets of Lincoln were the stage in that day, and the first Billy the Kid was Peter Hurd. Since then the pageant has had five Billys: Johnny Davis, Johnny Thomas, Tommy Taylor, Earl Taylor and Billy Shrecengost, this year's Billy.

If you will forgive me, I have been in the pageant playing "Old bucksbot", (Bucksbot Roberts) this will make twenty-six years, except for one year when Si Salas of Lincoln stood in for me while I was on a trip to Europe with my Father, the Late Lynn Whippo Storm.

I feel That I know The Kid

To get back to that feeling you get when you approach old Lincoln: After twenty five years and two and three nights a week with the pageant, and after remembering many a story by some of his close friends whom I knew in my boyhood and youth — with the help of my imagination, I say, I feel that I know Billy the Kid.

When there were still several old folks left in this world who knew Billy the Kid, people would gather around him and listen to his every word as he talked about the boy gunman. You used to wonder why. You have come to believe that he was the type of man, or boy, who cast a spell over people like a character out of a story book. He stands out clearly as the most fascinating character of the Old American West.

There is an old saying of the pioneer English-speaking people that goes:

"They broke the pattern when they made him." He is in a class by himself.

NEW SKATELAND OWNERS — Bill and Anne Wilson, formerly of Ft. Worth, Texas, are the new owners and operators of the Ruidoso Skateland. Wilson was the Senior Dynamics Engineer with Bell Helicopter for 20 years before moving to Ruidoso and Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Buckley. The Wilsons have four children, one daughter, Carol; and three sons, Mark, 19, who will attend Texas Tech this fall; Peter, 16, who will be a junior in Ruidoso High; and David, 13, who will be in the eighth grade. The Wilsons have announced that Skateland will be open from 1 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 11 p. m. Sunday thru Friday and from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. and 7 to 11 a. m. Saturday.

Then there is an old Spanish-Mexican saying that comes to mind when you remember that the Kid had bitter enemies as well as a great number of friends:

"Lo que tengo de feo, tengo de bueno."

(What I have of meanness, I have also of kindness) (Or I have something good to make up for the bad.)

Among the early Spanish people in Lincoln County, the vast majority of them overlooked his faults and considered him their champion. And a great number felt there was nothing wrong with him at all.

Of course in a feud, such as the Lincoln County War, if a man was on your side, that was all you asked of him.

When I think of the words written and said unfavorable to the Kid, and remember how his popularity as a western character grows brighter with the years I used to wonder.

Americans are for The Under-Dog

In ancient times, justice was linked with power. ("The king can do no wrong") Later, Great Britain took a step forward and established justice for all — straight across the board, even handed justice, no more or no less.

America was nourished into maturity something that had been slowly growing in the world, justice tempered with mercy.

So it has become a tradition that Americans are for the under-dog. Think this over carefully. They are not for what is wrong, and are for what is right.

Deep down when they know the story of Billy the Kid, they see that where he tried and tried again to be a good boy, a good son, a faithful friend and a good worker — every time he got on the right path, something came up to throw him back into the raging torrent of life's trouble. And we feel sorry for the boy.

Yet there is something else something likeable about Billy The Kid

The kid had many good traits well established by those who knew him best. He was kind to old people, and loved children. He would not think of harming a woman, old person or child. (He had this in common with all Western men of his time no matter how deep they were in gun fighting.)

One thing that endeared him to the Spanish people is that he was very polite and also very full of fun. In school he had been a boy actor and comedian, and he was forever making people laugh. The Kid was light hearted and this lightness of heart spread to other people where ever he went.

The Kid had marvelous coordination of eye, mind and body, and was amazingly strong for his size. (Five feet-five and about one thirty-five).

There are letters on record at the old Lincoln Court house which have been called classic examples of saying much in a few words, the work of a clear thinker.

If the breaks had come a little more the Kid's way, he could have counted for a lot in the world. As Lew Wallace said, "I think that boy has in him the making of a fine man."

One of the key qualities in a man is courage. He will be forgiven many things if he has this one quality; and courage brings with it oftentimes other good qualities.

No one who knew the Kid ever doubted his courage. Kindness, too, was to be found in his nature.

The Present-day People of Lincoln

One of the great joys of going to the town of Lincoln is in the people. As you drive along the quaint little street and see the homes much as they were in pioneer times (Lincoln is the least changed of any Historical Frontier Village) — you feel the spirit of America. And the people of Lincoln — they seem to have somehow inherited the wholesome spirit of our pioneer forefathers, and they are the finest and dearest friends you could have.

Shady Logan says a word Dear Friends,

I like the pageant fine and dandy except for the gunfire, but I can put up with that once a year. It ought to be a good show this year. The Ridge Runner gets a big kick out of it. And I want to say right here that I can never repay the people of Lincoln for their kindness to him.

Incidentally, it is very pretty over Lincoln way. Little green fields high on the mountains. Wild canaries, orioles and many other birds everywhere. (The Ridge Runner failed to mention this)

Aren't the rains wonderful. We will see you at Old Lincoln. As I said before, be careful driving. And say a prayer for me and the Ridge Runner.

Yours ever the same, Shady Logan

Our Southwestern Heritage

BY MARCUS COOPER

To foster a feeling of continuity in our experience as a people; to impart a sense of the past as a living reality conditioning the present in which we live.

The squatter-homesteader who settled a 100 or so years ago on public range land became known among the Southwestern cattlemen as a "nester." He was despised and held in contempt by those who ran their cattle on the open range land. The homesteader moved in and began to cultivate the land challenging the cattlemen in their domain. Often the homesteader cut brush and other vegetation and stacked it around his cultivated plot to protect his feed patch from the marauding range cattle. When such a home site was viewed from a rise, it looked like a gigantic bird's nest. The cowboy seeing the resemblance passed on the word, referring to the intruder as a "nester." It was certainly descriptive, but its connotation was derogatory.

The Old Timer

"A hair on the head is worth two in the brush."

NEW LONDON, IOWA, JOURNAL: "No one needs to tell us (publishers) the postal rates are still going up, but no doubt there are a lot of our readers who may wonder why the rates will be going up for months to come and we have some of those reasons — as follows: It cost $48,500 for example to furnish the Postmaster General's office and another $130,000 for the adjoining reception area, press conference room and a room for the Board of Governors. Here is a list of some of the furnishings for the P. M. G. carpeting, $11,666; draperies, $5,999; 2 sets of walnut doors, one with one without the Postal Service seal, $3,671; convertible couch (Whoever heard of a Postmaster General who needed a convertible couch?) $1,043; sofa, $821; marble topped lavatory, $800. It all makes me wonder if it is really worth 10 cents to mail a letter? The thing that really gets to me is the fact it costs the same to send one to the bank across the street as it does to send it to my friend in the 50th state."

SANTA FE — The state general fund ended the fiscal year June 30 with an unappropriated surplus of $49.3 million.

Besides, $40 million in reserves are earmarked — $30 million for operations and $10 million for public schools. The estimated general fund unappropriated surplus next June 30 is $28.1 million.

Total state spending in the fiscal year that opened July 1 is pegged at $483 million, up $81 million. Expected general fund revenue in the fiscal year totals $462 million, including $13.3 million in federal revenue sharing money.

The State Highway Department will hold a geometric design public hearing in Taos Aug. 19 on proposed reconstruction of NM-3 from NM-111 to Arroyo Hondo. Two 12-foot driving lanes and two 8-foot shoulders are planned. Other project elements will be discussed.

Gov. Jerry Apodaca appointed Willard Cook of Fort Sumner as magistrate in DeBaca County at a salary of $5,830 a year. Cook replaces Bobby Silva, Fort Sumner Democrat. Silva was suspended April 30 by Court Administrator Larry Coughenour.

Coughenour said Silva defeated Cook in the 1974 Democratic primary. Coughenour said he set a July 31 deadline for Silva to remit an alleged $378 shortage in fines and forfeitures.

The Highway Commission will open bids Aug. 22 on construction of 6.2 miles of NM-18 from the NM-176 junction east of Eunice north in Lea County. Four-lane construction is planned.

Changes in the 3-year-old children's code were suggested at a meeting of the interim legislative Criminal Justice Study Committee. Charles Shaw, an assistant district attorney in Judicial District 12 (Lincoln-Otero Counties) said principles in the code are becoming increasingly required by case law.

Shaw said more money is needed for effective administration of the code. Sen. I. M. Smalley, D-Hidalgo-Luna-Sierra, is committee chairman. Rep. Fred Luna, D-Los Lunas, is a member. Sen. John Conway, R-Lincoln-Otero, is an advisory member.

Conway, Senate Republican leader, called on Rep. Clayton Stallings, D-Roswell, to make public an attorney general's opinion which Stallings says supports the constitutionality of his recent appointment as Chaves County assistant county manager.

Gov. Apodaca appointed Don Pettijohn, a Deming teacher, to the Carrie Tingley Crippled Children's Hospital board. Pettijohn replaced Robley Hedrick of Truth or Consequences whose term expired.

Pettijohn replaced ex-Rep. William J. Upton, Deming Democrat, as the nominee for the Hidalgo-Luna House seat in the 1974 general election campaign. Rep. Von Rue Crawford, R-Deming, defeated Pettijohn.

The State Park and Recreation Commission approved a State Police request for housing at Elephant Butte Lake State Park near Truth or Consequences.

Mountain Bell filed a revised schedule of phone rates. The State Corporation Commission set a hearing next Monday (July 28) on the rates. Residential one-party rates would be hiked $1.25 a month in all Mountain Bell New Mexico exchanges. The monthly one-party rate for businesses would be increased by $2.25.

New rates would produce $12.9 million in added Mountain Bell revenues authorized by the Corporation Commission.

The state liquor agency received an application for a new rural retailer liquor license in Hidalgo County on NM-9 one-half mile east of Animas. Applicants are Joe D. Croom and John J. Veck of Animas, doing business as Saveway. Rep. Tom Foy, D-Bayard, an attorney, filed the application for Croom and Veck.

Liquor Director Carlos Jaramillo approved transfer of ownership of a liquor license at Picacho, Lincoln County, from Ernest M. Hill, doing business as Riverside Rancho, to John G. Tomlinson. The site is 29 miles west of Roswell on US-70-380 in Lincoln County.

Jaramillo also approved a liquor license ownership transfer at Truth or Consequences from Frank E. and Esther Rocchio, doing business as Rocky's Lounge and Bar, to James E. Sawtell.

The new average salary of Jal teachers is $12,794 a year, second highest in the state after $13,172 at Los Alamos. Eunice teachers rank fourth at $12,026. The new statewide average teacher salary is $11,108.

Capitan Builders Supply Inc., Capitan, was chartered in Santa Fe. Incorporators are Charles A. Jones and Willa E. Stone of Capitan and Albert W. Gnatkowski, Ancho.

The Highway Commission set a special meeting Wednesday (July 23) on selection of a new state highway engineer. Lowell G. (Stretch) Boles will retire July 31. Commission Chairman Julian Garcia, favored appointment of an acting chief highway engineer.

STUPH & JUNK... by

Cale Dickey

POSTAGE WOES

Once again the Postal Service workers have flexed their muscles... and the tariff for using the mails is gonna jump up... a whole bunch... if'n I read right what a PS spokesman said.

Which puts the postal workers in the enviable position of being able to heckle other government employees and union members with: "I'm gettin' mine buddy, how're you makin' out?"

Speaking of postal rates... a dime buys you one ounce of first class mail... for which, I assume, the PS pays to have handled and transported for X-dollars a ton... or whatever.

A ton of first class letters logically amounts to 32,000 letters, at one ounce each... for which the PS requires $3,200 cash, in advance. Weigh a bunch of the first class letters you mail and receive. Betcha they'll average one-half ounce, or less. Way I figure,

PS is getting $6,400 for 64,000 letters per ton... so, costwise, we're getting clobbered... and I figure, at the ton rate, the PS has just gotta pick up some slack... less handling... at our expense. Bet truckers'd love a deal like that.

"Course, I also figure that the PS'll figure I figure funny."

STRANGE SIGN

'Twas while the medics were making convention noises at "The Inn", I had occasion to meander down a carpeted hall... bent on locating a meeting room. One particular sign... bearing in mind that the majority in attendance at the Summer Clinic were men of medicine and science, with a sprinkling of female practitioners also on hand... intrigued me... and I'd have loved to eavesdrop in that room... because that sign... complete with arrow pointing to where the action was... read: "Scientifk Sessions" (sic). And I don't think a doctor was responsible... 'cause the handwriting was legible. After which statement, I'd better remain healthy.

METRICS QUOTE

"Metrics are coming — Time Magazine, in an article

headed "Think Metric", discussed at length the pending switch to the metric system. Which is all fine so far as international trade is concerned. But if we abandon yards in favor of meters, what happens to our classic distances? Since a yard equals 0.9144 meters, that would put the All-American Futurity at 402.336 meters. The 350-yard distance translates into 320.04 meters. A 400-yard distance becomes 364.76 meters. We're wondering if this switch will be a little cumbersome. And when yards become meters, miles become kilometers. The Ruidoso Mile is a name which has the ring of majesty and poetry. Would it be quite the same if the title, for reasons of international trade and harmony, were changed to the $12,500-added Ruidoso 1.6093 Kilometers? That's a name we'd have to learn to love... (From a Ruidoso Downs press release)

SOME ODD ENDS

Politically what's needed in NM and the nation is to have a whole herd of candidates campaigning on a one-plank platform... one containing but one promise... and no hedges... a platform to eliminate laws, not make them... 'cause it seems like whole bunches of the laws we've had for years or months are unenforceable... or serve special interest groups. And wouldn't it be nice... just once... to be able to read a political platform that you could understand? Noted, with glee, a recent daily newspaper headline reading: "Kissinger off to talk peace". Way I look at it, two words were missing: "his rocker". Oh, well.

'Pears to me as though there's one minority group that has been relegated to the boonies in perpetuum by any and everyone out for the buck... and this just has to be the white, middle aged, salary drawing, taxpaying, law abiding citizen. Or do you think the CLU, et al, has this minority group's best interests at heart?

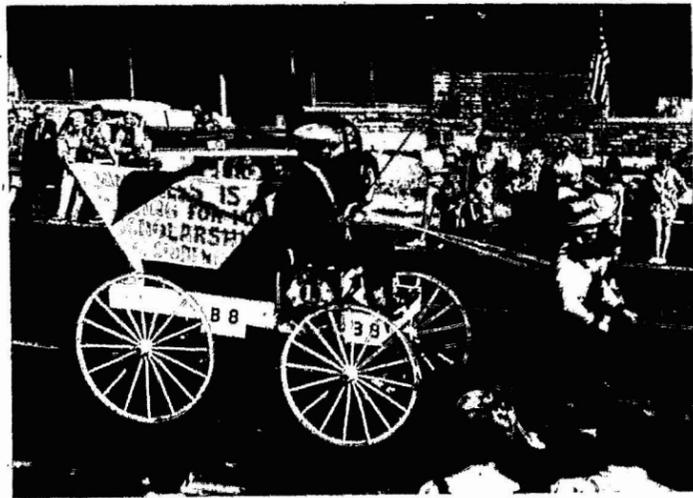

BRIEF BIT: Attorney General Toney Anaya has decided to investigate several agencies in county governments around the state... sure hope he doesn't get drowned by the flood resulting from the waves he's gonna make... CD

BICENTENNIAL NOTEBOOK

Donald Whisenhunt A Time Of Anxiety

The month of August two hundred years ago was a time when nothing spectacular happened in the American colonies. It was an important period, however, since preparations were underway to continue the resistance to British authority.

The Continental Congress had adjourned for a month's recess at the end of July. For the men who had assembled in Philadelphia this was a crucial period. Without doubt many of them returned to their homes with some fear and uncertainty. After all, the Congress was not an official body, but when it assembled in 1775 war had already begun with the British. Therefore, the predominantly young body of men had assumed governmental authority including the military role of appointing George Washington as military commander.

Since a large segment of the population was loyal to Great Britain, these men probably worried as they rode horseback or in carriages to their homes if their friends and neighbors would agree with their actions. After all, in the eyes of the British, these upstart Americans were committing treason, an action not to be taken lightly. Thus, most members of Congress, with the possible exception of those from Massachusetts, probably went home to gauge public opinion. Several members of Congress did go first to Cambridge where Washington's army was located. Here they viewed American military preparations first hand so that they could inform their constituents about the state of the army.

During this month members of Congress were also worried about British reaction to the latest American attempt to reconcile their differences. The "Olive Branch Petition" arrived in England in August; even though no definite action was taken until September, during August American representatives became convinced that it would not be received favorably.

Meanwhile in New Mexico there was also a certain amount of tension concerning other nations. The Spanish government was very much worried about infiltration by the French who might have designs on Spanish territory.

During the 1770's John Rowzee Peyton, a Virginian, was captured in the Gulf of Mexico by the Spanish and brought through Texas where he was held captive in Santa Fe for several months. Even though he was an American, Spanish officials were very fearful that he was a French agent.

Since Peyton wrote a very vivid account of his experiences we will take a look at New Mexico through his eyes in the next several columns.

You will be pleased to hear that the Village of Ruidoso is looking into a long-range planning program for traffic in the village. According to Frank Potter a cooperative effort is underway between the State Highway Department and the village on the problem. If you have had occasion to attempt to drive a long Sudderth Drive you won't have to be told what the problem is. Rashes of fender-benders almost daily and trying to cross the street on foot is nearly impossible. There must be something to break up the traffic to give both pedestrians and autos time to get on or across the street. We surely need more traffic lights along Sudderth and alternate routes are now needed also. The Gavilan Canyon road will help to divert some of the through traffic but will still leave us with the local problem. Paradise Canyon road is narrow, rough and difficult to turn off of and would require considerable work. We sincerely hope that the Highway Department will have a sympathetic ear for our troubles...

If you happen to be at the hospital, take a look at the patio. It is beautifully landscaped and kept in top condition by the Ruidoso Garden Club. Flowers are now in bloom and a touch of color has been added to the patio. Such a project requires a great deal of work and the ladies of the Garden Club are just the ones for such a project...

Benedict Arnold to the rescue, freedom of the press, British led Indians, the War Department, a steam locomotive and the Veterans Bureau all were involved during this week in history.

On August 3, 1777 Colonel St. Leger, commanding British forces, besieged Fort Stanwix, N. Y. The siege was finally broken when General George Washington sent General Benedict Arnold north up the valley with a relief force to drive the British back to Canada.

A powerful blow was struck for freedom of the press on August 4, 1735. John Peter Zenger, a newspaperman in New York City, was charged with libel for printing stories critical of the British governor. A jury acquitted him after his lawyer's plea that Zenger was "exposing arbitrary powers by speaking and writing the truth." Forty years later the principle was defended as the Continental Army fought for American Independence.

On August 5, 1888 General Philip N. Sheridan died at Nonquitt, Massachusetts. The West Point graduate who headed the cavalry in the Army of the Potomac during the Civil War is remembered for his ride from Winchester, Virginia to take command of his men who had been driven back at Cedar Creek. The ride is commemorated in Thomas B. Read's stirring poem "Sheridan's Ride."

One of the fiercest battles of the Revolutionary War was fought at Oriskany, New York on August 6, 1777. The British Army and Indian auxiliary forces had besieged Fort Stanwix and demanded its surrender. But General Nicholas Herkimer, leading the Tryon County Militia marched to relieve the Patriots. Ambushed at Oriskany and badly wounded in the ensuing battle, Herkimer was propped up against a beech tree. Smoking his pipe he continued to give orders. While militia losses were heavy, they maintained possession of the field.

The War Department was established by an act of Congress on August 7, 1789. General Henry Knox was appointed the first Secretary of War. Congressional committees had run the military establishment during the Revolutionary War.

On August 8, 1829 the first steam locomotive was run in the United States — a total of three miles in Pennsylvania. Army Engineers were instrumental in those early days in the building of the railroads of the future.

August 9, 1921 was an important date for veterans. The Veterans Bureau was established to consolidate the various agencies assisting our war veterans. Today this Veterans Bureau has become the Veterans Administration, taking care of the needs of those who fought for our country.

THE BUFFALO HUNTERS

Many years ago there was a western town called Wildcat, Wyoming. This was a very prosperous town, and none of the citizens lacked for food. A tribe of Indian buffalo hunters lived on the outskirts of town and kept the town supplied with buffalo meat.

The townspeople always had plenty of meat, although they did not have much in storage. The town was also supplied by other buffalo hunters, who brought meat from far away lands. Since there were so many buffaloes in the distant lands, those Indians were able to supply meat to the town at a cheaper price than the local Indians. The local Indians received $2.00 per buffalo, whereas the foreign Indians received $1.50 per buffalo. As a result of this price differential, there was less and less demand for local hunts. This did not bother the townspeople, as they had an adequate supply of meat from the foreign Indians and did not particularly care for the local Indians anyway.

A Federal Agency, located in the town, was set up to look after the rights of the townspeople and the local Indians. However, some in the Agency were always against the Indians, such as "Trapper Jackson" and "Trapper Proxmire."

Then it happened!! The far away Indians decided to raise the price of their buffalo meat and even went so far as to cease deliveries for a while. Panic hit the town as there was very little meat in storage, and some townspeople wanted to ration the small supply. The local Indians were at a loss, as they had no way to meet this sudden demand for meat. Rationing of the limited meat caused long lines of waiting customers to form. Sometimes after hours of waiting, customers learned the dealer's supply of meat for the day was exhausted. This caused much frustration among the population — both townspeople and the Indians.

Most townspeople were ill-informed as to the real cause of their problem, and some even went so far as to claim that the local Indians had purposely caused the shortage by making unsuccessful hunts and stampeding buffalo over the cliffs.

The Agency then came to the Indians and said, "We must have more Buffalo Ourselves Per Day (now known as BOPD). We must make our town independent, so we will not have to rely on far away buffalo hunters any more."

The Indians agreed, since that was what they had been in favor of all along. However, they were immediately confronted with many problems, which had developed due to the over-dependence by the townspeople on meat supplied by the far away Indians. Their bows and arrows were old, having been stacked in tepees for years, and required extensive repairs — if arrow heads and sinews could be obtained. At any rate, in an effort to help the townspeople, the Indians ordered new bows, arrows, sinews, knives, etc. They then learned that most of the bow and arrow makers had gone into other trades and had a two year or more backlog of orders. Inexperienced braves had to be recruited, as many of the older and experienced braves had left when the buffalo hunts were reduced in number and wages were no longer on the same level with other jobs available to them.

Local buffalo were not as plentiful as heretofore, and the hunters would have to travel greater distances, into deeper canyons, and more rugged country — all at greater expense to them. Bows and arrows would be more expensive and wages of the braves much higher. All of which caused the price of buffalo meat to be increased to $10.00 each in order to cover expenses of the hunts. Some of the townspeople cried, "Excessive Profits," and called the Indians "Buffalo Barons." Others said, "Let's use canned food to take the place of buffalo meat." However, cans were not to be invented for another 25 years.

As they had always done in the past, the Indians rose to the occasion — working long and hard in an effort to meet the needs of the townspeople. The greedy townspeople had no sympathy for the hardships and risks incurred by the Indians in their hunt for buffalo. They completely ignored the increased costs of the hunts and still expected the Indians to furnish them buffalo meat at $2.00 per buffalo. "Storekeeper Kennedy" was one of the loudest voices criticizing the Indians for what he termed "excess profits or windfalls," while at the same time he was charging the Indians ten-fold for Cutty Sark fire-water and muskets.

Many moons before the crisis, the Great White Father in his boundless wisdom, realized that many times the Indians would return from their hunts with no buffaloes — a dry run. In order to protect the Indians from the total loss of a dry run and to encourage them to continue hunting, he allowed them to keep a small portion of their income from successful hunts to help make up their losses from dry runs. This was called a "Depletion Allowance," and was beneficial to both townspeople and Indians alike. Through the years, however, this "Depletion Allowance" had been reduced, and each reduction resulted in fewer hunts. Fewer hunts naturally caused fewer bows and arrows to be made, and many braves turned to other lines of work.

Although the Indians worked hard, the townspeople still complained. They said the hunters' horses matted up their land and smelled up the air, even though most of them had never been to the hunting grounds. They complained that the wagons that hauled the buffalo meat and the hunting gear should not be allowed on the main roads, even though the Indians paid the town for road permits and a road use tax.

Some of the Indians started hunting buffaloes from the water in canoes. This was a considerable expense to the Indians, but they felt this might bring in a greater supply of meat. The townspeople cried that the Indians would ruin the rivers and lakes. Although the Indians took every reasonable precaution, occasionally a buffalo would fall into the water. The Indians, without any help from the townspeople, and at their sole expense always cleaned up the water, while many times the townspeople stood on the banks and complained. Not one of them offered to give up eating buffalo meat in order to prevent accidents such as this occurring. Many even denied the Indians the right to hunt the buffalo. The beaten Indians put away their bows and arrows and returned to the reservation — never to hunt buffaloes again. The following winter was extremely severe, and all the townspeople starved to death. The town of Wildcat, Wyoming perished, and no trace of it can be found today!!

GUESS WHO'LL BE BOOMERANGED?

Even though some 33 federal agencies and departments currently operate more than 1,000 consumer-related programs, some members of Congress feel that consumers' interests are not sufficiently protected.

Rather than improving the existing structure, they propose to pass H. R. 7575, creating yet another agency, the Agency for Consumer Protection.

Let's examine what the consumer protection programs have done for us so far. They've forced business to spend billions of dollars to comply with federal regulations: getting licenses, changing rates, building non-productive equipment, getting out reports, doing paperwork and fighting lawsuits.

One company made a study of the expected annual cost of keeping records on a single type of safety information. That one regulation, proposed by one agency, would cost $295,000.

Business initially pays these unproductive costs, but more and more consumers realize that they are paying in the end in the form of higher prices, inflation and unemployment.

Government regulations have nearly wrecked transportation; almost bankrupted utilities, wreaked havoc on the auto industry, crippled many smaller companies — and all in "the consumer's interest."

The proposed agency would give us more of the same "Boomerang" treatment and we can't afford it. What we need is real regulatory reform to reduce the costs of excessive federal regulation of business.

buffaloes in water near their homes. They felt that it was all right for the Indians to hunt on lands and waters to the south near other townspeople's property, though. Even today they delight in talking about the rare occasions when a wounded buffalo's blood was split in a river or lake and refer to it as the great "Buffalo Spill."

The Agency formed a committee and sent them to the Indians to tell them how to make safer hunts. They proposed putting saddles on the Indians ponies, tying the braves to their horses, and putting safety lips over their arrows. These actions were all to be at the expense of the Indians. The Indians protested that these new requirements would greatly hamper the hunt for buffaloes and besides they already practiced safety on their hunts. Their arguments fell on deaf ears, however, and the Committee remained in charge. This committee was comprised of Farmers, Painters, and Carpenters (FPC) — none of whom had ever been on a buffalo hunt. This committee made many rules for hunting buffalo, which the Indians were forced to follow — regardless of how ridiculous many of the rules were.

Although the hunts became more and more expensive, it appeared that the Indians might find enough buffalo meat for everyone and even be able to store some for the long, cold winters. Then evil spirits came upon the Indians — "Trapper Jackson," "Trapper Proxmire," and "Storekeeper Kennedy" and others of equal brain power decided that the Indians were making "excess profits." They said the "Depletion Allowance" should be taken away from the Indians and the price per buffalo should be "rolled back" to $2.00. The Agency and many of the townspeople agreed with them.

The beaten Indians put away their bows and arrows and returned to the reservation — never to hunt buffaloes again. The following winter was extremely severe, and all the townspeople starved to death. The town of Wildcat, Wyoming perished, and no trace of it can be found today!!
