SANDSTROM IS PARADE GRAND MARSHAL

Aspencade goodies added to huge fun-filled weekend

Details of added attractions to the five fun-filled days of Aspencade in Ruidoso — Oct. 1-6 — have been worked out to offer Aspencade visitors two new entertainment features, Richard Cothrun, manager of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce said today.

— An old time fiddling contest will begin Oct. 5 at 1:30 p. m. at the Billy The Kid Pageant Grounds in Lincoln.

— Organized jeep tours of back roads and mountain trails will leave from the Chamber office Oct. 4 beginning at 1:30 p. m., with members of the All American Monitors (Ruidoso's Citizens Band Radio Club) and the White Mountain Jeep Club driving, to insure the safety of the passengers.

Other Aspencade activities include the motorcycle convention, 1st-4th; motorcycle show, 4th-5th; youngster's fishing derby, motorcycle baseball, street parade and bar-b-que, 4th; and bus tours 4th-6th.

The grand marshal for the Aspencade parade Oct. 4 will be Thad Sandstrom, who produces the nation-wide telecast of the $1.03 million Labor Day All-American Futurity, quarterhorse race at Ruidoso Downs.

"We're pleased to have Thad Sandstrom as our parade marshal," Cothrun said, "not only because he's the man who single-handedly brought nation-wide fame to Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs through the All-American Futurity, but because he is interested in Ruidoso and in the continuing economic development of our entire trade area."

Entries for the parade are being received by Tuffy Wilson, chairman of this year's event. "I'm reminding everyone planning to enter the parade, either with a float or any other manner, that entries will not be received later than 5 p. m., Sept. 27," Wilson said today.

This year's parade theme is: American's Best Kept Secret — Ruidoso, with the banner in which the theme is carried out left to the discretion of the entrants.

"It isn't necessary to build an elaborate float to enter our Aspencade parade and qualify for the prizes," Cothrun said.

"Anything that you can ride, lead, coax, push, pull or carry down the parade route — that carries out this year's theme — may be entered. That covers everything from animals to birds, wheelbarrows to apple carts, bicycles to trucks — if you can get your entry to the parade, you're in.

"We'd really like to see the many fine horses in this area entered also."

Judging the parade will be Jeff Gates of KTSM-TV, El Paso, Tee Casper, KHEY radio news director, El Paso and Kate McGraw, El Paso Times correspondent.

The CB and Jeep Club members are offering their time, vehicles, gas and manpower to provide Aspencade visitors with trips through back country scenery unavailable to people without four-wheel drive vehicles and a knowledge of the trails and roads.

There will be no charge for the rides; but donations will be accepted to defray the expense being incurred by both clubs to install a CB base station in the Chamber of Commerce office.

"The station will operate as an information center," Cothrun said, "and will be permanently located in the Chamber office."

"This will provide an added service to our visitors, one [SEE PAGE 17]

THE "R" PAINTED — Fans at the ball game last Friday evening probably noticed that the "R" above the football field was in desperate need of paint — and someone did the work Saturday morning. Those helping with the project were: Ron Lowrance, Jim Lowrance, Pattie Hall, Sterling Rubert, Rick Tate [who did the painting and was referred to by the group as "Twinkletoes"], Mrs. Bill Zink, Larry Surmick, Chad Surmick, Wayne Perry, and Harold Perry. $1.6 MILLION SOUGHT FOR NEW SCHOOL, GYM, CLASSROOMS

School board concerned over enrollment potential

The Board of Education of Ruidoso Municipal Schools this week released pertinent facts from a report prepared by Alley and Associates, architects and planners of Roswell and from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (NCACSS), relative to the need for new educational facilities in Ruidoso for which a $1.6 million bond election will be held Oct. 7.

Board of Education has," Dave Parks, board president said, "taken a hard look at the educational program in conjunction with building needs. "Too, the board has asked for and received valuable input from the following sources: administrators, advisory committee (classroom teachers), State Department of Education, North Central Evaluation Committee and the architect.

district patrons familiarize themselves with the needs of our schools as determined by your school board, which prompted us to set the upcoming bond election to insure the best education possible for the children attending, and to attend in the future, Ruidoso schools."

classrooms, band and multi-media rooms included: Enrollment, Sept. 18, 1974, kindergarten, 25; grades 1-6, 578; grades 7-12, 540; total 1143. Sept. 18, 1975, kindergarten, 25; grades 1-6, 585; grades 7-12, 611, total 1221. Kindergarten enrollment is actually 50, with two half-day sessions at 25.

Ft. Stanton museum dedication October 3

The Ft. Stanton museum will be dedicated Oct. 3, as a highlight of the District Four-NM Federation of Women's Club's convention being held at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, Oct. 2-3.

The ceremony, scheduled at 2:30 p. m., will be the climax of the project selected by Gladys Knox, Dist. Four president. Hostesses for the dedication will be Barbara Duff, Ruidoso, and Mrs. Kenneth Huey, Capitan, presidents of their respective Women's Club.

The museum, featuring artifacts pertaining to Ft. Stanton, will be operated by the Ft. Stanton Mental Retardation and Training School.

Plague victim fund

It has been announced that a trust account has been set up at Security Bank for the plague victim, here in Ruidoso. Those wishing to donate to the fund may do so at the bank.

SCMRA to meet

The South Central Mountain Resource Area RC&D will meet Sept. 30 at 1 p. m., in the Alamogordo Holiday Inn.

Ruidoso police receive thanks

Ruidoso Chief of Police Paul M. Lukens Jr., received the following letter Tuesday of this week:

Dear Sir: I would like to thank you for the high degree of cooperation we received from your department during all phases of the recent plague problem in Ruidoso.

In a very real sense, your department's effort by helping transport me and by transporting critical laboratory specimens, made a decisive contribution to the success of our effort to contain the problem of plague. Because I was able to arrive rapidly in Ruidoso, we gained several hours of work at a time when hours might have made a difference of life-or-death. Because the lab specimens were rapidly brought to Albuquerque, we were able to mobilize our effort efficiently, and calm fears of the people of Ruidoso about possible other cases, which never developed.

Finally, I would like to again express my appreciation for the manner in which these requests for assistance were received and handled.

Very sincerely yours,
Jonathan M. Mann, M. D.
State Epidemiologist

Antique car owners here this weekend

School House Park will be jam-packed with antique motor vehicles this weekend during an outing of more than 200 drivers and owners participating in festivities sponsored by the Valley Vintage Motor Car Club of Roswell.

"The vehicles," Gene Price of Roswell said, "to be on display include antiques, street rods, vans and classics that have either been restored to original condition, or, as with the street rods, extensively modified."

The public is invited to view the display Saturday afternoon and again Sunday from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m.

The travel itinerary, in addition to cruising Ruidoso streets, includes visits to local attractions.

Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., will present the trophy to the "best of show" entry at the park at 2 p. m., Sunday. Trophies will also be awarded to the winners in all classes.

The public is being urged to vote for their preferences, in the several classes, with the winners to receive trophies. In addition to antique cars from El Paso and Roswell, buffs from as far as Nebraska will also display their vehicles.

Registration opens at 12 noon Saturday with members to attend a dance that night and a picnic Sunday at the park preceding the trophy presentation.

FUTURE NIMRODS concentrated on the opening remarks by Tim Barraclough, NM Game and Fish officer, Tuesday evening at the first of five gun safety classes. Barraclough, inset, held up a gun, said: "This is a rifle" and then outlined the subject matter to be covered to complete their training, before showing a gun safety film to indoctrinate the students. The courses, in the main Ruidoso Fire hall continue Sept. 25, 30 and Oct. 2, 7.

RD Council votes school bond support

Following a presentation by Ruidoso school superintendent Pat Valliant Monday evening, the Ruidoso Downs Village Council went on record with a unanimous vote endorsing the proposed 1 1/2 million dollar school bond issue. Valliant outlined plans for additional buildings and remodeling for the school in his presentation.

After considerable discussion, a request from Rosemary D'Elia for an exchange of property for a road easement through her property was tabled until the next meeting for further study and evaluation. A full council heard the request.

A resolution concerning signatures on checks and warrants for the village was approved. The resolution named Village Clerk Billie Surmick, Mayor J. J. DiPaolo and Mayor Pro-Tem Albert Richardson as signators for checks.

A police department request for the renting of a dictaphone was approved by the board along with a request from the fire department for a radio for the new fire truck.

DiPaolo reported that a free water and sewer school would be held at Las Cruces for village employees, with classes set for Friday of each week for several months, and the council voted to poll employees, if they wished to go. Only cost to the village would be transportation.

A brief discussion of the sewer project was held and the council expressed disappointment that construction on the project would not be possible to begin for about one year. The village clerk was instructed to contact Quentin Daniels for a complete up-date on progress of the project.

Mayor DiPaolo reported that a meeting of the Airport Committee would be held at the Ruidoso Village Hall on Sept. 24 and invited any member of the council who could to attend.

Discussion of water rights purchases for the village was held and the council decided to research such purchases further.

The next regular meeting of the board will be held at the village hall on Monday, October 13, 8 p. m. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

The United States Constitution

[Editor's note: The following speech was given by Mrs. Tom Loudon for the Sept. meeting of the DAR in honor of Constitution Week. It is always well to review our rights and duties as citizens of this country.]

The Constitution of the United States embodies the fundamental principles upon which the American republic rests. A living instrument of Government. The Constitution has been kept abreast of the times through the process of amendment, by Federal laws that elaborate its clauses and by judicial interpretation through the United States Supreme Court.

The original Constitution of the Thirteen American States was the Articles of Confederation: ratified in 1787. Although the Articles established a kind of national unity, it did not provide for a strong central government, the individual states still held power.

When it became apparent that Government under the Articles was, in the words of George Washington "little more than the shadow without substance," agitation for a strong Federal government began. This resulted in the Constitutional Convention of 1787, which met in Philadelphia to revise the Articles of Confederation. Instead of revision, the Convention, presided over by George Washington, was torn by sharp arguments concerning the apportionment of power under a new government. The smaller states fighting to retain their power, and the larger states, arguing that power should fall where population lay. Neither the small or large states would yield, and for a time, the Convention seemed ready to break up. Finally, a compromise measure was approved; this measure provided for a lower house to be elected according to population (the House of Representatives) and an upper house to be chosen by the state legislatures (the Senate). (This provision for the Senate held true until 1913, when the 17th Amendment provided for the direct popular election of Senators).

The Federal Constitution (1) grants and limits the powers of the National and State governments; (2) expresses the liberties of the people, and (3) establishes a three branch system of Federal Government—legislative, executive and judicial.

The main powers and restraints of the Federal and state governments today are: States may control elections, local governments, public health, safety and morals, within their boundaries, such as commerce within the state, marriage, divorce, education and general voting qualifications.

The Federal Government may not:

Favor one state at the expense of another. Grant titles of nobility. Suspend habeas Corpus (rights of arrested individual to statement of charges against him and a speedy trial) except in cases of rebellion or invasion.

Both may not: Deprive persons of life or property without due process of law, or pass laws incriminating persons for acts that were not illegal when committed.

Rights of the People: Freedom of speech, press and religion. The right to assemble peaceably and to petition the government. The right, if accused to counsel, speedy trial and an impartial jury. The right not to bear witness against oneself. The right to keep and bear arms. The right not to be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. The States or the people shall have all powers not delegated to the Federal Government, or prohibited by the Constitution. The Government shall not quarter troops in private houses without owner's consent. Make unreasonable search of persons and houses. Mete out excessive fines, bail or cruel punishment. Have its courts try an acquitted person twice for the same offense.

Federal Government may regulate commerce over states lines, i. e. between two or more states, and with foreign nations, Ratify Treaties and conduct foreign relations. Establish rules of bankruptcy. Maintain post offices, and post roads. Grant patents and copyrights. Coin money and regulate its value. Declare War, Raise, support and make rules for regulation of an army and navy.

Both may levy taxes, build roads, borrow money, spend money for the general welfare.

States may not: Interfere with major functions of the Federal Government, such as making war, writing treaties with foreign nations, maintaining armies or navies, or printing their own currency, or interfere with obligations under contracts.

The Article VII provided that the Ratification of the Convention of nine States, shall be sufficient for the Establishment of this Constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

"Done in Convention by the unanimous consent of the States present the Seventeenth day of September of the year of Our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven and of the Independdence of the United States the twelfth in witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our Names."

George Washington, President and deputy from Virginia. The other states signing were: New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Virginia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Delaware, Maryland and Georgia.

When the first Congress elected under the new Constitution convened in 1789, it was faced with numerous demands that the document be amended. These demands were answered, mainly by the passage of the first ten amendments, "The Bill of Rights." They were designed to protect individual freedom by imposing restraints on the power of the Federal Government.

GUARANTIES OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS To provide that each part of the government would check, or balance the power of the other two, so that any one part could not assume more power than its proper role in the affairs of the Nation the Constitution provided for separation of powers among three branches of government: Executive, Legislative and Judicial.

The Executive: May check Congress by vetoing legislation, recommending legislation, calling Congress into special session. May check the federal judiciary by nominating judges to serve on the court.

The Legislature: Congress may check the President by: Refusing to pass legislation or appropriate funds. Overriding his veto by a two-thirds vote of both houses. The Senate's disapproving his appointments and not ratifying treaties. Impeachment charges, brought by the House of Representatives and heard before the Senate.

Congress may check the Judiciary by enacting new laws to replace laws held unconstitutional. Increasing or decreasing the number of judges on the Supreme Court. Passing laws defining the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts.

Congress itself is checked

by: Requirements that both the House and the Senate must pass bills if they are to become laws.

The Judiciary: The Supreme Court may check the President by: Declaring unconstitutional acts of the executive branch. The Supreme Court may check Congress by declaring laws unconstitutional.

THE PREAMBLE We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

The SILVER LINING

By Daniel Agnew Storm

The Spell of Autumn
This is being sent to you on the 19th of September, and on the twenty-third it will be the first day of Autumn.

The gold and purple flowers of Autumn are already here. You can see them shining like something in a story-book from the road side. These are not only decorations of the fall, but colors of the late summer also. No doubt The Lord is getting the world ready for a glorious Fall, Autumn and Indian Summer by having certain things ready ahead of time.

One of the messengers of approach of fall is the melodious song of the crow as he flies overhead and lands on a fence post near by. The calls, some of them, sound like a person calling you. I have often been startled out in the hills, by a cry as someone calling from a little distance — from down in a canyon, up on a cliff or on a steep hill side.

You stop and listen and sometimes you will shout for an answer, to be sure. And there the crow flies out from his hiding, his black coat flashing little lights of blue and purple in the sun.

After hearing this call, it comes to your mind that crows are very easily tamed and make good pets. And they can even be taught to sing and whistle and talk a little bit. I remember reading in "Kidnapped" by Robert Louis Stevenson of someone who had a crow who could whistle an old song called "The North Country."

The crows are unusually tame this year, and I can see how they could learn to be good pets and companions of people. This usually takes place when a young crow is rescued from some danger when he is helpless, such as when you mend his broken leg. This way he grows up around the home and in time begins to think that he is one of us, and when he is mature he flies very far from his adopted home for years.

In Mexico a boy told me of someone who had trained the crows to drop the mangoes from a tall tree down to him. The mango is a tropical fruit that grows in trees that grow to be giants. I used to see the crows playing in the mango trees on the plaza of the little town of Copala, Sinaloa — dropping a mango now and then, singing and calling to one another in the tree tops, a pleasant sound. It all comes back now as I listen to these crows around the place, and I wonder if they ever fly down to the mango trees in Copala. I wish they could talk or I could understand their calls, so they could bring me a message some time. I must go back on a visit to those places in Mexico I knew as a boy. Brother Lynn, went back a few years ago, and said it was a wonderful experience.

Speaking of crows, they are very happy birds, and it is good to see them flying around calling to one another, or singing a note or two while in the top of a tall tree. They are certainly cheerful, and welcome visitors of the fall.

The World Remains Green
One thing that is different this year from the ordinary outside picture is that the trees along the river are still a deep, summer green. Mostly by this time you can see a few of the walnut, oak, box elder, woodbine and wild grape turning their fall colors, just here and there, a branch or so, or a clump of leaves on the vine.

Not this year, when they turn, much later on in the year, they will be a sight to see.

The colors of the trees and vines just mentioned are light gold, bronze gold, orange yellow, crimson, and lemon yellow.

Mexican Independence Day
Tuesday, September the sixteenth, was Mexican Independence Day "Mexican Fourth of July" it is sometimes called. On this day in 1810, Mexico declared its independence from Spain — as we did from England in 1776. And in 1821 Mexico became a free country.

The hero of Mexican independence "The George Washington of Mexico" was a Catholic priest, Father Miguel Hidalgo.

We wish the Mexican people well in the season of their anniversary of independence. Let us be better and better friends and neighbors with the country below the Rio Grande. That we should do so is meant to be. It is our destiny, nuestro destino that we should learn from one another, and help one another more and more through the years. Year by year the peoples of these two countries are beginning to appreciate one another. And for this we thank God.

The United States Constitution

[Editor's note: The following speech was given by Mrs. Tom Loudon for the Sept. meeting of the DAR in honor of Constitution Week. It is always well to review our rights and duties as citizens of this country].

The Constitution of the United States embodies the fundamental principles upon which the American republic rests. A living instrument of Government. The Constitution has been kept abreast of the times through the process of amendment, by Federal laws that elaborate its clauses and by judicial interpretation through the United States Supreme Court.

The original Constitution of the Thirteen American States was the Articles of Confederation: ratified in 1787. Although the Articles established a kind of national unity, it did not provide for a strong central government, the individual states still held power.

When it became apparent that Government under the Articles was, in the words of George Washington "little more than the shadow without substance," agitation for a strong Federal government began. This resulted in the Constitutional Convention of 1787, which met in Philadelphia to revise the Articles of Confederation. Instead of revision, the Convention, presided over by George Washington, was torn by sharp arguments concerning the apportionment of power under a new government. The smaller states fighting to retain their power, and the larger states, arguing that power should fall where population lay. Neither the small or large states would yield, and for a time, the Convention seemed ready to break up. Finally, a compromise measure was approved; this measure provided for a lower house to be elected according to population (the House of Representatives) and an upper house to be chosen by the state legislatures (the Senate). (This provision for the Senate held true until 1913, when the 17th Amendment provided for the direct popular election of Senators).

The Federal Constitution (1) grants and limits the powers of the National and State governments; (2) expresses the liberties of the people, and (3) establishes a three branch system of Federal Government — legislative, executive and judicial.

The main powers and restraints of the Federal and state governments today are: States may control elections, local governments, public health, safety and morals, within their boundaries, such as commerce within the state, marriage, divorce, education and general voting qualifications.

The Federal Government may not:

Favor one state at the expense of another. Grant titles of nobility. Suspend habeas Corpus (rights of arrested individual to statement of charges against him and a speedy trial) except in cases of rebellion or invasion.

Both may not: Deprive persons of life or property without due process of law, or pass laws incriminating persons for acts that were not illegal when committed.

Rights of the People: Freedom of speech, press and religion. The right to assemble peaceably and to petition the government. The right, if accused to counsel, speedy trial and an impartial jury. The right not to bear witness against oneself. The right to keep and bear arms. The right not to be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. The States or the people shall have all powers not delegated to the Federal Government, or prohibited by the Constitution. The Government shall not quarter troops in private houses without owner's consent. Make unreasonable search of persons and houses. Mete out excessive fines, bail or cruel punishment. Have its courts try an acquitted person twice for the same offense.

Federal Government may regulate commerce over states lines, i. e. between two or more states, and with foreign nations, Ratify Treaties and conduct foreign relations. Establish rules of bankruptcy. Maintain post offices, and post roads. Grant patents and copyrights. Coin money and regulate its value. Declare War, Raise, support and make rules for regulation of an army and navy.

Both may levy taxes, build roads, borrow money, spend money for the general welfare.

States may not: Interfere with major functions of the Federal Government, such as making war, writing treaties with foreign nations, maintaining armies or navies, or printing their own currency, or interfere with obligations under contracts.

The Article VII provided that the Ratification of the Convention of nine States, shall be sufficient for the Establishment of this Constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

"Done in Convention by the unanimous consent of the States present the Seventeenth day of September of the year of Our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven and of the Independdence of the United States the twelfth in witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our Names."

George Washington, President and deputy from Virginia. The other states signing were: New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Virginia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Delaware, Maryland and Georgia.

When the first Congress elected under the new Constitution convened in 1789, it was faced with numerous demands that the document be amended. These demands were answered, mainly by the passage of the first ten amendments, "The Bill of Rights." They were designed to protect individual freedom by imposing restraints on the power of the Federal Government.

GUARANTIES OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS

To provide that each part of the government would check, or balance the power of the other two, so that any one part could not assume more power than its proper role in the affairs of the Nation the Constitution provided for separation of powers among three branches of government: Executive, Legislative and Judicial.

The Executive: May check Congress by vetoing legislation, recommending legislation, calling Congress into special session. May check the federal judiciary by nominating judges to serve on the court.

The Legislature: Congress may check the President by: Refusing to pass legislation or appropriate funds. Overriding his veto by a two-thirds vote of both houses. The Senate's disapproving his appointments and not ratifying treaties. Impeachment charges, brought by the House of Representatives and heard before the Senate.

Congress may check the Judiciary by enacting new laws to replace laws held unconstitutional. Increasing or decreasing the number of judges on the Supreme Court. Passing laws defining the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts.

Congress, itself is checked

by: Requirements that both the House and the Senate must pass bills if they are to become laws.

The Judiciary: The Supreme Court may check the President by: Declaring unconstitutional acts of the executive branch. The Supreme Court may check Congress by declaring laws unconstitutional.

THE PREAMBLE We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

The SILVER LINING

By Daniel Agnew Stern

Later under Benito Juarez, another great Mexican patriot, Mexico took another step forward in 1860. The revolution of 1910, led by Francisco Madero, and helped by Pancho Villa, was another ten-year struggle for Mexico.

As we celebrate our own two hundredth birthday, let us keep in mind the hard struggle of our good neighbor south of the Rio Grande. After many long and difficult years, these patient and courageous people are coming into bright new days. The star of their future now appears in the morning sky.

After fifty years, since I was there, I have been hearing that Mexico is coming ahead in agriculture, (It certainly could be a garden-spot of the world) oil development, industry, and education and many other ways.

People used to wonder why Mexico was so slow in its overall development. Surely God so willed it that Mexico's development was delayed, till its beginning now, so this beautiful country could learn from the experiences of other nations.

As far as air pollution, for instance, Mexico is still surely crystal clear in its air. And there are not yet many very large cities. So Mexico can take its time and make sure to take the right steps in its development, being glad that the rest of the world has many lessons to offer. As other nations solve their problems, Mexico can take note, and also offer help.

We wish the Mexican people well in the season of their anniversary of independence. Let us be better and better friends and neighbors with the country below the Rio Grande. That we should do so is meant to be. It is our destiny, nuestro destino that we should learn from one another, and help one another more and more through the years. Year by year the peoples of these two countries are beginning to appreciate one another. And for this we thank God.

The colors of the trees and vines just mentioned are light gold, bronze gold, orange yellow, crimson, and lemon yellow.

Mexican Independence Day
 Tuesday, September the sixteenth, was Mexican Independence Day "Mexican Fourth of July" it is sometimes called. On this day in 1810, Mexico declared its independence from Spain — as we did from England in 1776. And in 1821 Mexico became a free country.

TAKE A DEEP BREATH. NOW THANK A TREE.

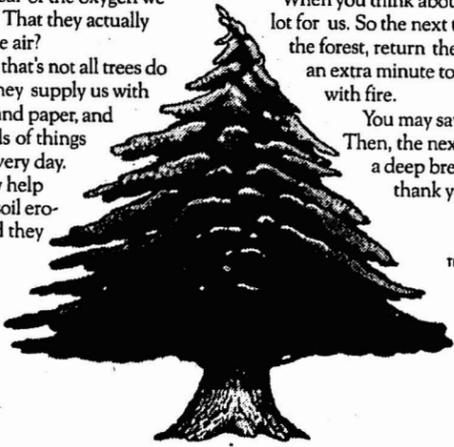

Did you know that trees supply a great deal of the oxygen we breathe? That they actually purify the air?

And that's not all trees do for us. They supply us with lumber, and paper, and thousands of things we use every day.

They help prevent soil erosion. And they provide shelter for our animal friends. When you think about it, trees do a lot for us. So the next time you're in the forest, return the favor. Take an extra minute to be careful with fire.

You may save a tree's life. Then, the next time it takes a deep breath, it can thank you.

Gun Control?

Everytime that we have an assassination attempt in this country the hew and cry goes up to control firearms (as though the guns were the cause of the attempted murder). There is not the slightest doubt in our minds that, even if guns had not been invented yet, such murders would continue at the same pace. Man, since the beginning of time, has had wars, murders and larceny in his heart and all the legislation in the world will not end his meanness. Why should the average citizen be penalized and refused the right to defend himself and his property just because some liberal in Washington thinks that guns should be controlled? Such control goes against the grain of most citizens and smacks of dictatorship. We are displeased with the controls we already have and certainly need no more.

We will issue a fair warning — if a list of gun owners is kept by the central government, the temptation may someday come for a strong-man to take all arms away from the citizens and become a despot. You may sneer at such an idea but wouldn't your great-grandparents have sneered at some of the controls that we now live under?

The erosion of our rights under the Constitution has already begun — and will continue unless we practice constant vigilance. The loose-knit central government that our forefathers foresaw is now only a dream in the past. States have lost almost all their rights to legislate — with decisions of the Supreme Court and laws passed by the U. S. Congress — and we would predict that, if things continue at the present rate, they will lose all authority in the future.

If we want the central government to guarantee our lives and do all manner of things for us — we will have to pay with our rights and opportunities.

Centless stamps

Few individuals may have turned their thoughts to the Christmas season, but the Postal Service has — both with anticipation and a little uncertainty. Now that the path has been cleared for another postal rate increase (30 percent on first class mail, no less), the Post Office is hoping to have the new rate in effect in time for the heavy Christmas mailing season.

But just in case the bureaucratic machinery won't move that fast, the Christmas stamps this year won't have any denominations printed on them. That will be another first for the U. S. Postal Service.

Postal officials hasten to add, however, that doesn't mean the stamps will be free. The prevailing rate in effect at the time the stamps are issued is what they will cost. — Daily Sun News, Levelland, Tx.

On Helsinki

Now that some time for reflection has passed since the much ballyhooed European conference in Helsinki closed its doors, the after taste has some let down to it. True, it was a historic event in that the heads of most of the world's major and many minor stages managed to come together to discuss, prepare and sign a statement of European principles.

But the emerging document turned out to be more a statement of intent than anything else. It does not have the force of a treaty; in fact it was made quite plain during the conference and since that it did not legally bind any of the signatories to absolute recognition of its contents.

What it did do, so far at least, is produce a kind of test of wills to see how the principle powers interpret the Helsinki accomplishments and adhere to the sentiment of the occasion. In that respect, the Soviet Union did not waste much time faltering a bit on its support for some of the approved principles.

Within a few weeks of the conference's conclusion, Soviet officials stressed the point they considered the parts of the agreement relating to human rights — freer travel across borders, fewer restrictions on access by journalists, more cultural exchanges and the like — which had been inserted by the West, to be open for bilateral negotiation between the various states.

They did not include in that interpretation any uncertainty over the national borders of Eastern Europe. It was the Soviets who wanted recognition of the present state of that territory, and that they received at Helsinki. — Daily Sun News, Levelland, Tx.

Freedom Or Servitude

By WARREN TUCKER
Our forefathers set up a democratic form of government which is the best form of government the world has ever had. It gives to us our freedom, but our government is drifting too far into socialism. Socialism is a stepping stone toward a dictatorship form of government. If we are to keep our freedom we must work, and at election time, vote to change the trend of our government. Vote to get rid of our Hot Rod liberals. We call them Liberals, but some of them are past being liberals and are outright communists.

Socialists never do much work, they only talk about work. They want the work and production to be done, but they want someone else to do it; however they want to get an equal share of the benefits derived from the work done. The socialists want a division of the wealth of our people and they are getting it, to a great extent. The working man does not give it to them, our congress does. Our government takes your money by taxation and gives it to the poor and the unemployed which, in some cases, is justifiable. In too many cases it is given to people who think the government owes them a living and just don't want to work. Some one has to work and produce for the money that is given to them to live on while not working.

We might believe in socialism if there gets to be more givers than we have grabbers. The grabbers are helping to create deficit spending in our government which contributes to the cause of inflation and high prices; however, the grabbers don't care what the cost is, as long as it is given to them and paid for by someone else.

People who have been failures at whatever they have ever done find socialism a soft cushion to fall back on. Probably, they were failures due to the lack of initiative and energy. Too, we have another group that likes a good soft cushion to rest on. This is the group that was born tired. We have the best form of government in the world and it is time for the working man, the common man to wake up and use his influence to keep our freedom, which is found in only a democratic form of government.

TEDDY'S FILES

Chappaquiddick became... for those who could pronounce it... a household word in 1969 after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's auto accident in which Mary Jo Kopechne died.

Chappaquiddick is again making news. Seems the original files are missing... some of them, in any event... and it has been discovered that no copies were made.

An AP Story stated that Dominick J. Arena, Edgartown's police chief at the time Teddy didn't make it across that bridge, quit the department in 1973... and took some of the case records with him.

Of this incident the AP quoted Arena as saying: "I have to admit — I'm somewhat red-faced — that I had some of the originals. I didn't realize there were no copies in the files. But since then I've sent them all back." Might be interesting to know how he could remove original records and not notice there were no copies in the file.

Then there's Jesse Oliver II, the AP story said he was chief of the 12-member Edgartown department during the filming of "Jaws", who was suspended for, among other things, accepting money other than his stipend. Oliver says the records were there when he got the axe this June and he agreed with Arena that the files had been returned.

"Seems... if I read it right... Arena took the files with him so he could answer questions about the case by using the files. I wonder if there might be something irregular in that action.

"Course there are lots of unexplained instances... for instances... and things in connection with that incident... and with the disappearance of the original files... leaving no files... the chances are good no explanations will be forthcoming.

The disclosure of the missing files leaves us with the knowledge that one of the officials concerned is "red-faced"

Letter To Editor

Dear Al:
Sitting here in the hills and watching the international monetary poker game is sorta like being a witness to a battle from the relative safety of a great distance.

The international thieves legalized the American citizen's right to own gold if he could come up with $50,000 for a minimum purchase. This almost guarantees that only the super rich can afford it. That tips off us saps as to who government gives us, there is a duty that goes with it. You have a right to vote — so it is your duty to go to the polls and vote at election time. Study the candidates and be able to vote an intelligent ticket. We need to get rid of most of the congressmen we now have. Of course we have some good congressmen who are trying to do what is best for our country and people, but they seem to be outnumbered. Let's get behind the good ones and give them our support. Write your congressmen and give them your ideas of what you expect of them. This is a time to expect a good vote and support from the women's Libbers. It has been said that man is the last animal that woman domesticated. Now that you have him domesticated, get him interested in working to help keep our freedom and get out to vote at election time.

really intends to own the world's most stable money. Take a planned recession-depression with constantly inflated prices for the real necessities of life and you sop up the paper money at an alarming rate. Trade the fist of paper money for something tangible (gold and silver) and you've really made a killing in the money game. This is world history repeating itself.

U. S. News and Report recently reported that the U. S. was deliberately driving gold down in order to place it in the realm of just another commodity. The super-rich also are dealers in commodities. They are driving gold down in order to get the most for their money.

When the International Monetary Fund does sell off gold, pay attention to who buys it, not just the fact of the sale.

In the meantime, work for the paper dollar. It's still in demand and guaranteed to get scarcer for a couple of years.
Your friend,
Jim Hall
P. S. I can hear a lot of bankers giggling.

... another has shrugged it off as no concern of his... and, as for Teddy, he established that he's a powerful swimmer... by his own admission... and he'll probably not develop ulcers over the missing files.
Chappaquiddick... a name to forget... or remember?

LITTLE LEAGUERS

If you want to see some really gung-ho football, hie yourself down to Warrior stadium Saturday noon... those Little Leaguers are all business... and they don't monkey around... intentionally.

The 8 and 9 year olds are a joy to watch. One of the problems cropping up to plague the coaches and officials was that these gridders were so anxious to play that keeping the number of players to 11 to a side kept everyone counting. What they lack in finesse they make up in enthusiasm... and it's plain to see that bone-crushing tackles are the name of the game.

The 10-12 year olds pull off some plays that will get you on your feet... and you'll shout... and root... and laugh. And you'll maybe get really interested... enthused... like Gayla Pearson was enthused... why, without a megaphone, you could hear Gayla... like the intersection of Sudderth and Cedar Creek Road... without even cupping a hand to an ear. I'd bet she talked in a whisper Saturday night... but she had fun... and, if you really want to watch some action... watch Gayla... wowee! She's an active enthusiast.

And some of those kids can scamper... like Paul Jaramillo... he pulled a quarterback sneak, for a TD, on the first play from offense by the Broncos. Gadzooks... it was just like uptown... and more thrilling.

BRIEF BIT: That ice on your windshield Monday morning means that the Aspens'll be golden soon... if they can turn warm gold from cold blue... CD

Between nosotros

BY EMADAIR JONES

Two Christians were arguing about some liberal literature one day. Both were very sincere and, finally, one asked, "How can two people ask the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and come up with entirely different opinions?"

Suddenly, the thought occurred to the other, "Of course they do sometimes!"

"For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts." Isaiah 55:8, 9

No one man, however brilliant, can ever encompass God's thinking. There developed the picture of a very large circle, with the cross in the center, and men approaching from every conceivable angle.

This would seem the only way persons can approach God's thoughts — by expressing their own individual views — and listening to and considering with respect, those other views. Of course, if you are not centered in on the cross — that's your tough luck.

The Drama Club
The Drama Club went to Albuquerque, Sunday, Sept. 21, to see the play "Romeo and Juliet" as presented by the Classics Theatre Company.

The club left here at 8 a. m. and arrived in time to attend a Renaissance Fair before the play.
Mr. Ken Newson, the sponsor of the club, stated that the stage was an authentic reproduction of the Globe Theatre in London where the play was first done in 1601.

Mr. Jim Hickerson drove the bus for the Drama Club.

Social studies begin new approach

The High School social studies class taught by Mrs. Lynn King is beginning a new program. The students will discuss different subject ideas, starting with their own individual ideas working up to the national level, the way it was in the past, and even the future.

This type of class will help the students use their own minds to think and ask questions and develop their own opinions.

The first subject is a "struggle for justice", which will cover the Bill of Rights and other similar items.

Second is the idea of facing death, how the students feel about it and the new technology of preserving and maintaining human life.

Personal values play an important part in our life, so this is the third topic. Group activities and discussion will be a large part of this subject.

"Conflicts" is the fourth topic which will include home, school, and community problems and major conflicts of the past and present.

Points of special interest in the study of politics are the understanding of our Constitution, the growth of politics, and the part it plays at home, school and our daily life.

The sixth topic is "Media" which will cover some of the court cases of Watergate, history of the Freedom of Press, and the impact the media has in public and private life.

The "American Dream" is the study of immigration to America, the reasons so many people came, and what happened when they got here. The students will discuss their opinions on the Vietnamese refugees and similar cases.

The last subject is the individual study which will last 4 or 5 weeks. This is when the students pick a topic they were especially interested in to study and analyze it in more detail.

Staff selected for publications

The RHS journalism class is very busy this year. Each week every member of the class is required to prepare a story concerning activities that are going on at school.

They are also eager to start work on the 75-76 yearbook. The following members of the journalism class include seniors — Gretchen Annala, Pam DiPaolo, Scooter Driver, Paula Ethridge, Jomy Frew, Debbie Garcia, Rebecca Herrera, Tana Locke, Cindy Mound, Lesah Parks, Cindy Roberts, Zoe Shaw, Rick Tate, Tricia Tully, Gary Whitten, and Steve Williams; and juniors — Donna Burke, Tammy DiPaolo, and Kevin Lane.

There are a few extra yearbooks still available for $10. These can be purchased from the journalism department at the high school.

Trankie Montoya PREP PLAYER OF THE WEEK

BY KENT BAYTEY
The Ruidoso high school coaching staff selects Warrior Senior Trankie Montoya as the Prep Player of the Week. In last Friday's Ruidoso-Dexter clash, Trankie led the offense with 92 yards rushing against the number 1 ranked Dexter Demons.

The Warriors were the superior team, statistically leading in all departments on both offense, and defense as Trankie led the defense with assisted tackles and was close to the top with his 8 unassisted stops. Truly a super showing for the Warrior back.
You can next see Trankie in action when the Warriors meet the Canutillo Eagles in Canutillo. Game time is 7:30 p. m. We're expecting to see you there.

The first club meeting was held Tuesday, Sept. 16, in Mr. Farrington's room at the high school. The club made its first run, a sixty mile round trip to Lincoln, last Saturday. Mr. Paul Lukens, Ruidoso Chief of Police, gave the club a lecture on safety prior to the trip.

A NATION OF NATIONS

In the long series of group migrations to North America, from the founders of Jamestown to the war-weary refugees from Viet Nam, few if any have arrived without fixed attitudes toward aging and special traditions for treating their elders. The variations are many; but they have not had much influence on the development of any form of "ageism" recognizable as distinctively American.

For the first three centuries of our history we had a rather colorless or neutral behavior toward our elders. This came about largely by default. The first shiploads of settlers, mostly from Great Britain, had almost no older people (by whatever definition of "older"). Hewing livable space out of a wilderness called for the best in brawn and good health. Only when a few of these "founding fathers" (and mothers) survived the fifties and settled into less strenuous labors, was there even the appearance of an older group in the community.

We know some of these lucky few by name and reputation. Anne Bradstreet, for example, our first poet of any substance, lived to be sixty, and her formidable husband, Simon, stepped down as Massachusetts governor at 89. We know the dissenter Roger Williams, who founded Rhode Island as a haven for religious liberals, and who, at age 72, served as a militia captain in King Philip's War.

We recall with special pride the many-sided Ben Franklin; 70 when appointed to help draft a Declaration of Independence, 82 when he finally retired from public life. And it amuses us to read the diary of Samuel Sewall, former judge in the Salem witch trials, as he records his courting of Window Winthrop in his late 60s. (She turned him down.) But — and this is a very important but — the stress on age in this colonial sampling is a recent addition; what individuals did, in early times, was what really counted, not how young or old they happened to be when they did it.

If this sounds like the Puritan Work Ethic, it was. There was an urgency, hard to imagine today, about the whole colonial venture. Time was of the essence, and idleness was unforgivable. Children began contributing to the household economy as soon as they could, and the oldest members continued to as long as they could, incidentally retaining their self respect by doing so.

The underlying principle, seldom if ever put in words, was close to Marxism: "From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs." Hardly conducive to memorable celebrations, on birthdays or name days, but highly practical and satisfactory as a way to maintain the elders and their sense of belonging.

Fort Stanton & Military Operations in the area will be discussed by Lee Myers at the Lincoln County Historical Society meeting on Sept. 22, 1975 at 7:30 p. m. in the Jury Room of the Lincoln Courthouse Museum in old Lincoln town. Lee Myers of Carlsbad has made a study of all the forts in the area and the military operations. He has had articles published in the UNM Historic Quarterly and the American West Magazine. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Pinkeye is showing up in some cattle in the area lately. It seems to be in areas with a heavy crop of weeds and is probably a result of the pollen irritation. Spraying cattle to reduce the flies will help to slow down the spread of pinkeye. Pinkeye is caused by many different bacteria or virus. What will control one outbreak will not help in another. The livestock owner has to try several before he can get the right one.

Be On the Lookout For Webworms: The second generation of fall webworms is now starting. Even if the first brood in June or July were controlled, watch the trees closely for this second onslaught. Many shade trees throughout New Mexico are infested each year by fall webworms. These woolly caterpillars, which feed on leaves, make the unsightly webs on poplar, cottonwood, birch, mulberries, willows, pecans and many other ornamental and fruit trees.

When the web nest and caterpillars are small, remove them from the trees by cutting a few twigs and leaves. Since the worms don't leave the web until full grown, be sure to get the entire web. Destroy the worms by stepping on them or by placing them in a garbage can with a tight-fitting lid. A general garden spray, as well as carbaryl, diazinon and naled insecticides, will control the worms.

Check all broad-leaved trees closely at least once a week during the summer. Spray the entire tree about 10 days after the first web forms. If the webs are already covering several leaves, spray immediately. "Fall Webworms and How to Control Them" Extension circular 439 is available at county extension offices.

Gary Joe Lovelace of Carlsbad had the champion ewe in the Rambouillet division of the 1975 New Mexico State Fair Sheep Show. The winning sheep was No. 83. The reserve champion award went to Roby McDaniel of Clairich with his entry, Roby No. 400.

Also Gary Joe Lovelace got a first on a pair of yearling ewes, Roby McDaniel, third on a pair of ewe lambs and Dale McDaniel, first on a 2 year old ram and third on a pair.

Letter To Editor

Sept. 18, 1975

The Chamber of Commerce Ruidoso, New Mex. 88345

Dear Sir: While my wife and I were in Ruidoso, this past August we were having dinner at the Nob Hill Restaurant. After dinner we came out to find the right rear tire on our car was flat. I asked the lady at the cash register if she could call a service station that might help me. She in turn told a young man my problem. "I am sure he worked there and perhaps was a part of the family that owns the restaurant."

This young man and a friend of his who had just received his food to eat, went out and worked for over one hour changing the tire.

When they had finished I asked what I owed them and they said nothing. I offered to pay them $20.00 then $10.00 and when they would not accept any money I offered to at least pay for their dinner and they refused this also, stating that if we can't help our fellow man who is in trouble then we are all in trouble.

Such a christian act we don't often see. I have and will tell this story many times and because of this act Ruidoso will always have a warm spot in our hearts.

Thanks be to God for such fine young people. Date and Lucille Scott

Two-Wheeled Traveler

By Galen Farrington

Last Saturday morning, the very informal high school motorcycle club, dubbed the "Warrior Riders," met with one of Ruidoso's finest for a short talk concerning motorcycle laws in the state of New Mexico. This was to prelude the infant club's first road ride.

Eight interested students had readied themselves by securing insurance, inspection stickers, and in one case a motorcycle operator's license. Saturday had dawned very cloudy and foggy but the misty air did nothing to dampen the spirits of Ricky Pritchett, Mike Sisson, Terry Bernard, Donda Pippin, Tonya Campos, Greg Pippin, Doug McBride, and Toby Wilson. Wayne McFadden and his wife had agreed to help Chris and I sponsor the club.

At 9 a.m. sharp, we were all motoring eastward toward Hondo when at about ten miles out Terry's bike burned a fuse. With some gum wrapper foil we nursed the bike to the next phone where he called for a pickup - the end of a short trip. The nine remaining bikes and riders snaked our way toward Lincoln after periodic stops.

It was found in Lincoln that Donda's and Tonya's bikes both needed oil immediately if not sooner and we scrounged up the last remaining oil at the Texaco station there. As soon as we piloted our mounts westward toward Capitan, the clouds broke and we all welcomed the blue sky and warming sun.

Although we brought our lunches, the Chuck Inn owners let those that wanted to, eat indoors, while the rest of us ate in the welcomed sun. It seemed everybody knew somebody in Smokey's home and after another half hour of visiting with local friends, we congregated at the museum. Just before leaving town we stopped at a rummage sale where I made the buy of the decade, a chess set for twenty-five cents (so what if it was missing a pawn... and the board!)

Our final stop before arriving in Ruidoso was the Smokey the Bear vista where we spoke of road manners and techniques learned as a result of the run. It was interesting to note comments, such as "I'd never been there before" and "I didn't know that (about my bike)" or "Where do we go next time; this was too short!" The young men and women had learned something of the countryside, their machines, and found a little more happiness within themselves.

What would have been a boring drive by car was an experience by bike - the destinuation did not matter, it was the journey that prompted "Let's take the long way home!"

Mail service program to begin Oct. 1

A nationwide Consumer Service Program designed to improve and broaden the quality of mail service was announced by Postmaster Elwood Gradine.

Beginning Oct. 1, the U. S. Postal Service will introduce a program at all area Post Offices and other offices across the nation to encourage mail users to register problems they may have with their mail service.

At the core of the program is a consumer service card, through which problems are identified and which postal managers attempt to expeditiously resolve.

The Consumer Service Program reflects Postmaster General Benjamin F. Ballar's determination that mail services to the public will be "friendly, courteous and efficient, as well as speedy and reliable."

"Good service is a far broader concept than just fast mail handling, as important as that is," the Postmaster General says. "It is also built on employee courtesy, our responsiveness to customer needs, the sympathy and understanding we bring to your own expectations of what good postal service is all about."

Postmaster Gradine urged folks home where everything is strange.

Lord knows, haven't they been through enough, in the last seventy-five or hundred years? You know life wasn't always a picnic 'back when'; but they learned to 'grin and bear it.'

All of the nice trips, excursions and programs that have been planned, is like setting a bowl of candy before a child and saying, 'don't touch', as many cannot afford them; or some are too ill to go on such 'jaunts.'

How this problem is to be solved is: for someone wiser than the most of us. But seems they sit and 'quibble' about what to call us. We are not some new species, just arrived from outer space. We have been here all the time and will continue to be here until eternity. We are the beginning and the end — alpha and omega. Remember there are always two sides to a coin; let us not forget to look at both sides.

customers in the Ruidoso area to bring their inquiries and complaints to the attention of postal managers. And if people feel their problems have not been properly handled, the Postmaster said, they should see him personally.

To make it easier for a customer to make a suggestion or complaint about postal service, the new consumer service card will be available from letter carriers and at post offices.

According to the Postmaster of Ruidoso, the card is two postal cards with carbon paper between them. "One copy goes to me or a station superintendent so work can begin on the problem," he said. "The other goes to Postal Service Headquarters in Washington for cataloging and analysis. The cards will help management spot problem areas and trends and take corrective action if necessary."

The Consumer Service Program was tested earlier this year in Illinois, Massachusetts, Arizona and Rhode Island. Postal Customers in the test found the cards easy to complete and most complaints were resolved to the customer's satisfaction.

The card should take no more than two minutes to fill out. The postmaster also said he and his staff are willing to discuss any problems, including lack of courtesy, irregularities in deliveries or collections, collection box convenience and postal office hours.

"We want you to come to us with your problems," concluded Postmaster Gradine. "The whole point of this service program is to bring your problems and gripes out into the open where we can attempt to resolve them."

By CECELIA BARRON

There is much talk about 'women's lib' today; pros and cons. And many have the wrong conception of what most women want. This discrimination against women has not just happened in late years; it has always been since the time a girl baby was born. The generations and years have given women time to view and observe the situation; some with emotional bounds; some with enthusiasm, but most with reasoning level heads; just as they would use about their everyday work and plans.

We are all supposed to be born 'free and equal'; so why not live 'free and equal.' The price of a marriage license is only to pay for the paper work in an office where records are kept and not for the price of a slave or servant. If men had to really pay for a slave, the price would be many, many times higher.

When a couple gets married they are supposed to be entering into a congenial partnership; fifty-fifty, just as two people would enter into any other business of life. And we all know a marriage business is the greatest of them all. The dictionary says a spouse is a 'partner in marriage.' The 'lord and master', 'helpmate', 'better half' and 'ball and chain' are all a concoction by the man. I don't know, but I imagine the marriage vows were made up by man; 'trust and obey.' The word 'obey' is gradually being left out.

My idea is that most women only want an equal 'footing' with men. Not to do his work, play or he do hers. But to decide on her own, what she wants, and when she wants to do it, without having to ask him. And go where she wants to go, the same as men; wages equal to men if she is holding down the same job as men; working as many hours; having her own ideas about life — just being herself by herself not a puppet, pulled with strings.

New things are being tried every year and every day; but it is sometimes found the old way is better.

One and one makes two and the baby makes three, any way you look at it. The educational system has been trying to add it differently; but are now contemplating on going back to the old way so mama and papa can help junior with the 'great problem.'

The Model Ts used to run 40 mph; so now we are trying to get back to that. And I have seen advertised, a washboard built into the washing machine. Let me tell you a secret: we may use the 'wash board without the machine, by and by.

Speaking of secrets, so Ruidoso's our best guarded secret. Well, a good secret Ruidoso guards; is: 'the old folks of our town.' There are many who never get outside their homes to see the 'great things' that are planned and advertised for them. They never even get out to do the things that are necessary. They never hear a voice unless it is on the phone. They are never invited to go, and are too proud to ask someone to take them. They cannot afford the taxi fare; it would be no fun going alone anyhow.

They have been hungry for years, yes hungry for love and consideration. The only reason they were not set out on a floating iceberg, like the Eskimos, is: there was not an iceberg handy. They are shunted off to a corner bedroom to 'behave themselves', or to an old

Mail service program to begin Oct. 1

A nationwide Consumer Service Program designed to improve and broaden the quality of mail service was announced by Postmaster Elwood Gradine.

Beginning Oct. 1, the U. S. Postal Service will introduce a program at all area Post Offices and other offices across the nation to encourage mail users to register problems they may have with their mail service.

At the core of the program is a consumer service card, through which problems are identified and which postal managers attempt to expeditiously resolve.

The Consumer Service Program reflects Postmaster General Benjamin F. Ballar's determination that mail services to the public will be "friendly, courteous and efficient, as well as speedy and reliable."

"Good service is a far broader concept than just fast mail handling, as important as that is," the Postmaster General says. "It is also built on employee courtesy, our responsiveness to customer needs, the sympathy and understanding we bring to your own expectations of what good postal service is all about."

Postmaster Gradine urged folks home where everything is strange.

Lord knows, haven't they been through enough, in the last seventy-five or hundred years? You know life wasn't always a picnic 'back when'; but they learned to 'grin and bear it.'

All of the nice trips, excursions and programs that have been planned, is like setting a bowl of candy before a child and saying, 'don't touch,' as many cannot afford them; or some are too ill to go on such 'jaunts.'

How this problem is to be solved is: for someone wiser than the most of us. But seems they sit and 'quibble' about what to call us. We are not some new species, just arrived from outer space. Rich Sims campaigning for Senate

Rich Sims, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, will be campaigning in what he calls Region 4 this week — Lincoln, Chaves, Eddy and Lea Counties.

He will be opening the first of seven regional offices in Artesia Saturday, September 27; and will be in Union County to open another regional office next week.

Mr. Sims has talked to over 50,000 people mostly on a one to one basis in every county in New Mexico. He is taking the campaign to the people.

Anyone interested can contact the West Winds Motel in Artesia, and Jake Brooks, campaign director, will return the call.

SANTA FE — Senate Majority Whip Odis Echols, D-Clovis, says a proposed major change from earmarked revenue to a state general fund appropriation to finance the State Highway Department "would increase control over the SHD by the governor and legislature."

Gov. Jerry Apodaca is pushing hard for the 1976 Legislature to switch funding of the $132.2-million, 3,000-employee road agency from segregated funds to a flat general fund appropriation.

Under the proposal, Echols said, "some future legislature might decide to be vindictive and hamstring the SHD." Contrariwise, the legislature might vote more general fund money than earmarked taxes generate. "I'm not convinced the legislature should adopt the change," Echols says. He says a simpler answer to the SHD money problem "would be to take the SHD out of the constitution by a constitutional amendment and convert it into a State Transportation Department."

He said: "The transportation commissioners would be answerable to the governor and would not be locked in like highway commissioners."

The Legislative Environmental Health Study Committee met in Santa Fe. Rep. Fred Luna, D-Los Lunas, is chairman. Rep. Bobby Duran, D-Taos, is a member.

A New Mexico Municipal League proposal for another one-fourth per cent of city gross receipts tax authority received a cool reception from legislators. Echols says: "We either have to do that or restructure the whole tax system." Echols predicted New Mexico state severance taxes will be increased within two years.

Rep. Colin McMillan, R-DeBaca-Chaves, favors handing cities power to levy another one-fourth per cent of gross receipts tax only if the added .25 of one per cent is deducted from the state's 4 per cent tax.

Rep. McMillan, Sen. Ray Leger, D-DeBaca-Guadalupe-San Miguel, and Rep. John Bigbee, R-DeBaca-Lincoln-Torrance-Guadalupe, are pushing for the state to sponsor restoration of the Maxwell House at Fort Sumner, headquarters of the historic Maxwell holdings that once spanned much of Eastern and Northeastern New Mexico.

McMillan talked Friday with State Planning Office staffers on the project. He is cooperating with President Dick Davidson and Manager Chuck Holder of Fort Sumner Chamber of Commerce in the effort. He says Maxwell House was designated in 1974 as an official historic site.

The Legislative School Study Committee endorsed a rewritten school nepotism law that would allow an Ojo Caliente School District teacher with 26 years of service to remain in his job. Reps. Bigbee and Rey Medina, D-Taos-Rio Arriba, both LSSG members, back the bill. The bill says a school employee hired before a first degree relative is elected to a local school board can keep his job. The board member relative can be reelected and the employee relative can stay in his job as long as the board member's service is continuous.

Sen. John Morrow, D-Union-Colfax-Harding-San Miguel, said propane gas, crucial to New Mexico rural areas, may be in short supply this winter because of natural gas shortages in other U. S. areas increasing propane demand. A Capulin rancher, Morrow said propane prices are still rising. The current rate in his district is 28 cents a gallon, he said.

Rep. Dan Berry, D-Eunice, said disclosure of contributors to political campaigns "could be difficult in a small town because of personal friendships."

Berry said: "I see this as a big deterrent to getting campaign contributions." Berry is on the Election Review Committee that spent three days last week in Santa Fe on campaign reform legislation. State Democratic Chairman Ben Alexander of Hobbs told the committee: "State campaign reporting laws have been violated. Some way should be found to enforce reporting laws." Alexander favors disclosure of contributions.

The SHD held a public hearing Tuesday (Sept. 23) at Des Moines, Union County, on a proposed 6.7-mile construction project on US 64-87 southeast of Des Moines. The stretch is narrow, hazardous and rough now. Rep. Hoyt Pattison, R-Curry-Lea-Roosevelt, strong-

This includes state and federal grazing and mineral leases. Pattison is an agricultural engineer. Pattison called the SPTD's stand "an administrative nightmare for the department lessees, the State Land Office, county assessors and county treasurers."

Assessing Lincoln County rancher Joe Skeen's 1976 U. S. Senate prospects, Pattison said: "I should think he would run if enough support is generated." A Republican, Skeen was shaded narrowly in 1974 by Apodaca.

The State Park and Recreation Commission asked the State Property Control Division to appraise 1.5 acres in 2 parcels for Smokey Bear State Park at Capitan. A bar, set to be converted into a visitors' center, is on one parcel. A railroad depot, set to be renovated and part of the park, is on the other parcel. Parcels are adjacent to the present Smokey Bear Museum. The state commission will buy the parcels with the bar and railroad depot when appraisals are received. A total of $135,000 is available in state and federal funds for the first phase of the new park.

State Parks Director Sam Graft says the park will be ready for Smokey the Bear in two years. Capitan will operate and maintain the park in the 2-year construction period. Afterward the state commission will manage the park.

The Park and Recreation Commission ordered a staff study of a request by concessionaire Harry Parks at Elephant Butte Lake State Park to establish a floating, mobile commission on the lake. The agency staff will also check Parks' request to charge a spectators' fee to see power boat races from the Elephant Butte marina. LEE MYERS, Western Americana Hobbyist, addressed the meeting of the Lincoln County Historical Society in the Museum in Lincoln, New Mexico, Monday night. Mr. Myer and his audience are shown.

Historical Society

Lee Myers, Carlsbad, a member of the Council on Abandoned Military Posts, spoke at the Lincoln County Historical Society meeting Monday night, September 22, in Lincoln. He gave a brief resume of abandoned military posts in New Mexico, and a history of Ft. Stanton from 1855, when it was established, until it became a merchant marine hospital.

the district woman's clubs have been doing to fix up a museum at Ft. Stanton, to be turned over to the school for the handicapped to take care of. She stressed the fact that Ft. Stanton is definitely not abandoned, even though it is no longer a fort.

The dedication of the museum building will be at 2:30 p. m. Friday, October 3 — The Fourth District Woman's Club convention will be in Ruidoso at that time; and the dedication at Ft. Stanton will be part of the program.

a mile south of the Sierra-Socorro County line north. Two new lanes and overlay of 2 existing lanes are scheduled.

The newly released fiscal 1973-74 State Park and Recreation Commission audit shows 265 direct purchase orders were dated "after the fact."

The audit pinpoints a wide range of exceptions from use of receipt books out of numerical sequence to violation of a $35,000 reserve bond requirement.

State Parks Director Sam Graft, who occupied the post

Jan. 13, said many deficiencies underscored in the audit have been corrected.

Deputy State Auditor Thomas A. Romero said: "The commission was slow in paying some bills, especially those from utility companies." The audit said the amount sent to the paying agent for payment of 1966 park improvements bonds was excessive.

Performed by State Auditor Max Sanchez's staff, the audit said: "Our examination of receipts revealed that receipt books were not used in numerical sequence." It said two different receipt books numbered 3401-3600 were used.

The same type of receipt was issued for boat registration and camping fees and lake permits. Money received in one fiscal year was deposited in the next fiscal year.

Because of a miscoded voucher a $100 expenditure of the park general operating fund was erroneously made from the boat registration receipts fund. During 1973-74, the audit said, refunds cut the cash balance in the refund suspense fund to $1. After June 30, 1974, the commission moved $200 to the suspense ing required by the state. To locate kindergarten through grade 6 at White Mountain school would require more than double the present floor space.

A semi-split schedule and a seven-period day is in effect at the present high school facility, due to overcrowding. A half-day split schedule will be inevitable if additional space is not provided.

Also considered were the comments and recommendations made to the school board following the visitation of a committee from the NCACSS in February of 1975, as contained in a report:

"The high school and junior high school combined facility is being utilized to the maximum, consistent with sound educational programming and planning.

"Additional space is required to adequately accommodate and program for a continuing increase in enrollment.

"Consideration should be given to relocating the junior high school (grades 7 and 8) to the White Mountain site to relieve enrollment pressures at the senior high school level.

"The administration should work toward development of better facilities; an auxiliary gym, offices, storage areas, etc. Each physical education student should be provided with a private locker."

The State Department of Education, in a letter to the school board on the proposed building program, said:

"The present facilities at both Nob Hill and White Mountain allow for flexibility of programming.

"The grouping pattern that you have selected is educationally sound, given the physical and conceptual development at those age levels.

"Housing grades kindergarten through two at Nob Hill and three through five at White Mountain, as per your proposal, would certainly be acceptable, given that fact that grades kindergarten through two and nine through 12 would be in close proximity. This would allow ready access for the high school Home Economics students enrolled in child development courses to work with early childhood students.

"The close proximity of grades three through five and grades six through eight could also be used to effect a youth tutoring program. These programs have certainly been and Jeep Clubbers are making possible.

"We hope everyone taking these rides will support this program so that we can have it operational by the time the ski season opens this November."

The Ruidoso News, Oct. 2, will contain a special insert, prepared by Til Thompson, outlining the entire program of the motorcycle convention and the million dollar motorcycle show. The motorcycle section includes photos and articles covering every facet of this popular means of transportation.

"One of the Chamber's Aspenade activities," Cothrun said, "will be the awarding of three turquoise jewelry prizes at 2 p. m., Oct. 4 at School House Park immediately following the Bar-B-Que. The Ambassadors are sponsoring this special attraction and your support will be appreciated."

The Chamber is also sponsoring a fishing contest in a designated area in Two Rivers Park from 9:30-10:30 a. m. Oct. 4. "Entries are limited to fishermen 12 years old and under," Cothrun said, "and there'll be prizes for the largest trout, for the smallest trout caught and for the youngest child to catch anything. So C'mon you kids, get your fishing tackle all dinged up and get in this contest."

worthwhile in many other schools in the state. I recognize that this group must be contingent upon the implementation of your plan to build additional facilities for grades six through eight.

"You have indicated that present enrollment patterns will produce serious problems in the future, not only in housing these children, but in programming as well, if you continue the present operational pattern. Your plan reduces student populations per building and thus addresses the basic concerns in this regard."

Furnishings and equipment, the school board noted, are in need of replacement due to age. Some chair desks and other equipment have been in use for the 28 years since the high school was established in 1947.

The $102,000 earmarked for furnishings and equipment includes all appurtenances required to ready 18 new classrooms and three new media centers in the proposed building program.

The 11 acres containing the present high school and six acres containing Nob Hill are at the building capacity limit. The recommended acreage for a high school campus is 30 to 40 acres with 10 to 15 acres for an elementary school.

The proposals outlined above were adopted by the Board of Education June 10, 1975, with each phase being assigned a priority.

The estimated cost breakdown by priorities, as presented to the board by Alley and Associates, includes:

- 1 — Junior high school $1,337,974.
- 2 — White Mountain addition $106,207.
- 3 — Nob Hill remodeling $49,476.
- 4 — White Mountain and Nob Hill site work $53,640.
- 5 — Furniture for White Mountain, Nob Hill, Junior and Senior high schools, $102,000.

The total estimated cost is pegged at $1,649,297.

Polls for the Oct. 7 $1.6 million bond issue, will be open from 8 a. m., to 7 p. m., in the high school library.

THIS WAS A DEER HUNT! — This group of successful hunters went out in the Salinas Peak area of the San Andres in 1950 and came back with a good group of trophies. You may recognize some of them, but if you don't, they are, left to

TODAY'S LOGIC

By James W. Phelps

Rob The Young, Part I
Practically all the money "saved" by today's senior citizens through the Social Security program has been spent.

The amount of money in the fund is less than the amount collected since Jan. 1, 1974.

Of all the money messes our government has made, Social Security is the worst.

What would our government do to a private insurance company that had collected money from its customers for over forty years and had less than two years' income on hand with which to pay its claims? Should the government say to its citizens: "We have spent all the money we collected from you prior to Jan. 1, 1974. We don't have enough on hand to pay the benefits we have promised to those already retired. So, if you haven't already retired, you're out of luck. No more people can be added to the retirement rolls. And those who are now retired will get their checks for approximately two more years. When we run out of money the checks will stop."

Or, should the government say to its citizens: "The money we are collecting from you under the Social Security program is not being saved. It is being spent faster than we can collect it to pay for people who have already retired. Since the government can't go back on its word to the people who have already retired, or who are about to retire, you will have to pay the costs. We will try to collect enough from you to pay our bills each year so, hopefully, we will still have two years' income when you retire. This means that if you are now 25 and if you retire 40 years from now at age 65, we are going to spend what you pay in for the next 38 years on people who retire before you do. Only the last two years of your payments will be saved for your retirement. But we promise you this. Since we are robbing you now to pay for the retirement of others, we will rob the young to pay for your retirement when your time comes."

Which is the better alternative? To stop paying those who have retired and never pay those who haven't? Or to continue to rob the young?

Or, is there another and better answer?

If moisture has made drawer stick, you can dry it out by burning a low-wattage bulb in it. Put bulb on a saucer, or use a trouble light with basket to protect against burns. Then use a silicone spray on the drawer.

In Connecticut, an architect and a heating consultant are building a house that will use the earth for some of its insulation. More than half the living space will be below the earth's surface.
