Aspencade . . . with its outdoor parade . . . hundreds of motorcycles . . . bar-be-que in the park . . . scooter baseball . . . fishing contest . . . and many related events passed quietly . . . with fanfare . . . and a fun time for all.

Highlights, photographically, appear on this page and on page two. More pictures of the weekend action will appear Thursday.

A total of 1350 registered delegates attended the motorcycle convention. Til Thompson said Sunday. "With a paid pre-registration of 1400, this clearly shows the interest of motorcycle riders in attending this convention here."

Winner of the sweepstakes trophy, as well as first place trophy in the commercial division, was Gibson's, with second place in commercial to Security Bank, both of whom did an outstanding job of promoting this year's parade theme, "American's Best Kept Secret — Ruidoso."

In other parade divisions, Ruidoso's Irrepressible Pat Heley won first in individual, with the buggy entered by the Scribner family, second. Beta Sigma Phi won the civic float trophy with the Evening Lions, second. The Roswell Patrol was first and the Alamogordo Patrol second in the Shatin division. In band competition it was, in order, Tularosa AA, Tatum A and Mountain View High School of Roswell C. Charlotte Kingston won first for her decorated bicycle with second to Steve Blankenship.

The fishing contest, for 12-year-olds and under, was won by Stacey Hall, 12, of Lubbock, Tex., with a 11.25-inch trout; Perry Davis, 4, with a 9.25-inch trout was the youngest fisherman to put a fish on the stringer and Ricardo Garcia picked up the prize for the smallest trout, 6.50 inches.

The turquoise jewelry, given by the Chamber of Commerce, was awarded Dorothy Kemsey of Ruidoso, first; Barbara Campbell of Ruidoso, second and Tom Williams of Roswell, third.

NM FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS officers participating in the dedication of the Fort Stanton Museum Friday, included, from the left, Mrs. Barbara Duff, president of the Ruidoso club; Mrs. Kenneth Huey, president of the Captain club; Mrs. H. K. Knox, Four District FWC president, of Ruidoso; and Mrs. Paul C. House, NMFWC president, of Albuquerque.

The new museum is located in an abandoned 120-year-old officers club which was restored by the New Mexico Federation of Women's Clubs as part of its statewide Bicentennial project entitled "New Horizons for the Handicapped."

"This project really has a dual purpose," said Mrs. Paul House, Albuquerque, Federation president. "The museum will display historical artifacts from the long and interesting history of Fort Stanton, and it will be managed by residents of Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School in a therapeutic work program."

Fort Stanton was built by the U. S. Army in 1855 to protect settlers in the Mesquero Apache territory. During the Civil War, Confederate soldiers took possession of the Fort for a few months, but in 1862 it was retaken by Union forces under the command of Colonel Kit Carson. The famous old fort also was a center of controversy during the Lincoln County War.

Since 1966, Fort Stanton has been operated as a branch of Los Lunas Hospital and Training School, providing rooms for 200 retarded children and adults.

The Federation of Women's Clubs, utilizing a $5,122 grant from the New Mexico American Revolution Bicentennial Commission and contributions from its members, put a new roof on the old fort, installed bamboo shades on reinforced windows, obtained display cases for historical artifacts, laid a new sidewalk and landscaped the outside area. The maintenance department at Fort Stanton Hospital installed new floors and painted the building to put it in first class condition for a museum.

Among items to be viewed at the museum are Civil War cavalry uniforms, centuries-old Indian artifacts, a prehistoric dinosaur bone and a display of articles from the time when Fort Stanton served as a Macine Hospital for treatment of tuberculosis (ca. 1899-1953).

The Lincoln County Historical Society is cataloging and arranging many of the artifacts being collected for the museum.

The Federation of Women's Clubs also has undertaken Bicentennial projects for the mentally handicapped and retarded at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School, Meadows Hospital in Las Vegas and the Carlsbad Area Retarded Children's Farm.

Hosting the President's Reception to be held at the Garden Level of the Convention Center will be Roland Walsh, President of the New Mexico Hospital Association, Administrator, Ruidoso-Hondo Valley General Hospital, Ruidoso.

ALL ALONE — But not for long. This pass was one of the most exciting moments of the Ruidoso-L. C. H. S. game last Friday. Unfortunately, the Warriors failed to score on the run. The Big Blue was defeated 18-0 by the Texans in the meet. Next Friday will mark the first conference game as the Warriors meet Hatch, there.

LCHS downs Warriors

The L. C. H. S. Eagles flew in from the High Plains of Texas Friday night and pecked out an 18-0 victory over the Warriors. This writer gives the Eagles one earned touchdown and extra point and the balance of the scoring attributed from the results of penalties and fumbles.

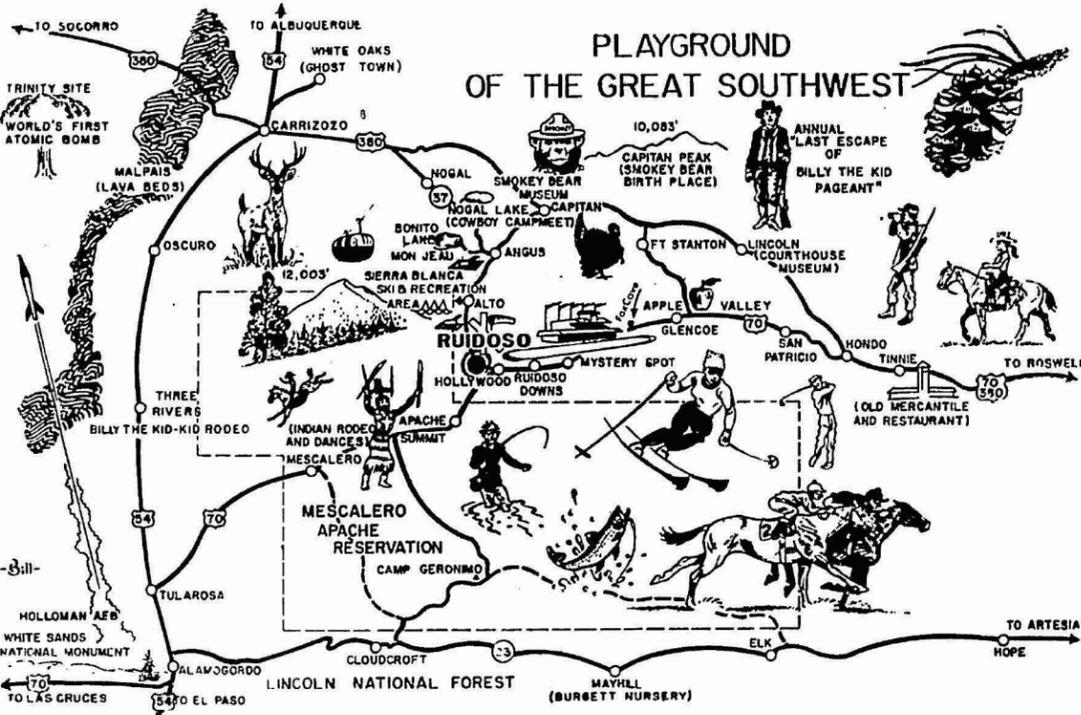

Ruidoso received the opening kickoff with Danny Brown almost breaking for an opening TD, moved out to the 60 yard line but after 3 downs were forced to kick. A see-saw defensive struggle through the first quarter saw neither team moving the ball to a threatening position. The Big Blue defense led by Senior Charles Duncan did a fine job of containing the Eagle backs and the 1st quarter ended with no score.

The second stanza continued much like the first with the Warriors holding the defensive edge. After stunning the Blue and Gold from Lubbock the Warriors took over on their own 20. Frankie Montoya behind good blocking ripped off 20 yards up the middle, then Danny Brown picked up 9. A pass from QB Williams to Mike Seelbach put the ball on Lubbock's 20 yard line. Six plays later and as many penalties — was it 5 yards? — 15? Nobody knew for sure. The ball was on the L. C. D. S. 5 yard line, 4th down for the Warriors, Williams rolled out to pass but his receivers were covered and the incomplete pass gave the Eagles possession. The Warrior defense arose, Duncan, Tate, and Neal leading the pack, and forced a punt. The hometown Blue and Gold couldn't put it together and turned the ball over to the Eagles once more. Kevin Melton, with his hard rushing forced two incomplete passes, but on the next play Eagle Quarterback Vandiver connected with Senior Back David Conder who ran to the Warrior 20. The play covered 53 yards. A pass to Tight-end Fortner, a quarterback keeper and Tailback Willis' run moved the Eagles to the Warrior 3. Dennis Willis, the 195 lb. back was called on again and plunged in for the score. The kick for P. A. T. was good and L. C. H. S. led 7-0 with only 1:54 left in the 1st half. After the kickoff the Warriors were stymied after 3 downs and punted, but Dennis Willis, the hero of a few moments back was the "bad guy" as he fumbled and Ruidoso recovered on the Eagle 31 yard line. A pass to end Lowrance quickly moved the Warriors to the 11 yard line and hopes of scoring soared but the gun ended the first half.

Fans enjoyed fine half time performances by the bands of both schools. Clifton Neal opened the second half with a booming kick to the end zone — the Eagles made no attempt at a runback but killed the ball and started from their own 20. Dennis Willis was the high flyer for the Eagles as he blasted through the Warrior line time after time. After picking up five 1st downs, via Willis' running and two completed passes, the Eagles had moved to the Warrior 7. 1st down, goal to go — loose ball! Warriors recover but to no avail, as a bad pitch out was pounced on behind the goal line and the boys from the High Plains had another T. D. A pass for point after was good and the score rose to 15-0. L. C. H. S. leading. On the first play after the kickoff Eagle defensive tackle Byron Patterson fell on a loose ball and L. C. H. S. was once again within striking distance on the Warrior 24. From here they moved to the 9 but the hometown defense got tough and forced a retreat by the Eagles back to the 20. The Blue and Gold team from Lubbock brought out the kicking tee and Jimmy Crouch sailed the ball through the uprights for a field goal and 3 points. This was the end of the scoring for the night and also the end of the 3rd quarter. The two squads battled back and forth across midfield all through the last quarter without a threat. A penetration by the Eagles to the Ruidoso 10 was wiped out by a penalty and Hector Aguilar broke up a "sure" TD pass as the Warriors took over to run out the clock. Final: L. C. H. S. 18-Warriors 0. The Ruidoso Warriors travel to Hatch next week for the first district game. Be there and support 'em.

The Dreamer

by Dannie Storm

This is being written on September 27 letting me know it is exactly one month more till my birthday. It is great to have a birthday in October. I look back through many of my birthdays today in Alaska, Oregon, Australia, The Philippine Islands, Mexico. I remember the first time I heard the birthday serenade (Las Mananitas) down in the little Mexican village of Wadley. This was out on the plateau country in central Mexico, near the mountains. From looking at the country as you traveled through, you could not see much besides giant cactus and Joshua trees mile on mile. Yet there were little homes and little villages everywhere. In the little village of Wadley, my Father was making arrangements to take trips into the mountains to look at mercury mines, and he and I were getting acquainted with the people of the surrounding country. The word got around that it was going to be my birthday the next day.

So before daylight I thought I had gone to Heaven, for the music of the "Early morning birthday serenade" broke in upon my dreams.

I can hear it today, just as clearly as then: The bass fiddle, guitars, violin, and the voices.

Another birthday I remember was in Juneau, Alaska. My brother, Mark and I used to celebrate our birthdays together some times. That is, we would have a birthday cake for each of us on both birthdays.

No where is there fruit more wonderful than Alaska blueberries. Mother asked us what kind of cakes we wanted for my birthday, and Mark and I both asked her to make two blueberry pies. So we had the blueberry pies with birthday candles, just like a birthday cake.

Later on I will go back into the years on another birthday or two that I would like to tell you about. Really what I am leading up to is to thank all of you for making my many birthdays and the days in between so happy and full of joy. I am grateful to you all.

celebrating, putting the first of his colors in the higher reaches of the mountain country. Jack looks better than ever with his blue eyes, rosy cheeks, and golden hair, and was delighted with the way this country looks.

Here is just a word from Jack:

Dear Friends of Lincoln County;

As the Ridge Runner has told you, October first was my birthday, and I always like to be here on that date, because this is a very favorite part of the world for me. We are going to have a wonderful fall and a long and beautiful Indian Summer far and wide over this end of the country. I am trying to bring the snow in late this time so there will be lots of fun with winter sports and lots of pretty snow scenes everywhere.

I will be seeing all of you up and down the way, and I want to thank all of you for making my birthday so happy.

Very sincerely yours,
Jack W. Frost

Says a Word

Dear Wonderful Friends,
This seems to be all about birthdays. Mine is December 20. I forget whether I will be thirteen or fourteen years old on that date. Just a teen-ager, you see.

The Ridge Runner gets a little jumpy around my birthday time, wondering how I am holding up. But he can rest easy. I am in great shape, and am more grateful for each birthday that I reach.

As we enter the birthday season of the Ridge Runner, I want to thank all of you good people, one and all, for being so good to the Ridge Runner and myself. May God bless all of you. Be careful on the highway. Say a prayer for everybody, and May God Bless America.

With every good wish for a happy fall and winter, I remain, yours ever the same, Shady Logan.

The Futurologist At Work

People want to know the future. Perhaps that is a foolish desire. A good many science fiction stories have been written about people who somehow manage to foresee precisely what is going to happen to them which usually turns out to be something bad that they cannot escape.

Yet the need is real. A manufacturer launching a new product has millions of dollars at stake, a military planner has the safety of a nation. Since the days of the old soothsayers, the successful predictor has been well rewarded and the unlucky one has been often in danger of his life.

The modern methods were laid out by H. G. Wells. Today's experts have defined them, with thousands of people involved in gathering data and computers used to process it. But the essentials are still the same.

Several steps are involved. The first is simply to assume that what is happening will keep on happening. If the world population is doubling with every generation, we will have about eight billion people by the year 2000 and about 16 billion by 2025.

Few such trends can stay the same. The number of those future billions may be reduced by war, famine, or efficient birth control. The futurologist must weigh the results of trends, and the results of those results.

For one simple example, Wells saw that transportation speeds were increasing, even in 1900. He also observed that the size of a city is limited by transportation speed and that the radius of a city is limited to the distance a man can travel in an hour. When man is on foot, this is about four miles. When he is on horseback it is about eight. When he has a car on one of today's freeways, there is the Los Angeles megalopolis.

In this column, we are going to try some of Wells' methods, as well as some intuitions borrowed from science fiction to

Businesses warned About Inquiries

Attorney General Toney Anaya's Consumer Protection Division warns businessmen to be wary of out-of-state companies making telephone inquiries regarding their business.

Reports to the Division state that two California firms, American Business Association, Incorporated, and United Business Register, have billed businesses in New Mexico for unauthorized advertisements after obtaining information over the phone.

Anaya said his office is gathering information concerning this practice and will take steps to see that it is stopped.

Deer hunting areas, validation explained

Through conversations with hunters around the state and at the Game and Fish Department's State Fair exhibit, the game department has come to the conclusion that the new stratified deer season is generally well accepted and understood, according to chief of game management, Walt Snyder.

He noted that some confusion exists over which areas of the state comprise the "A", or statewide general hunting season area, and that some hunters believe they may be inconvenienced in attempting to find a game department officer to change validations on their hunting licenses in the event they want to change their hunt period.

Because licenses are now being sold only with validations, hunters who purchase general hunting licenses now are also having to choose their hunt period, Snyder said, even though their plans for November may not yet be firm.

"To help them get their license validations changed without having to go to too much trouble," Snyder said, "we're planning now to have meetings set up in towns and cities throughout the state on Nov. 5, two days before the deadline for having validations changed for the general deer hunt. The meetings will be widely publicized, and the staff will be on hand all day, probably from around 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., to change license validations."

The department is also using public meetings and contacts to explain that Area A basically includes the entire state, with the exception of refuges, military and Indian reservations and the Maxwell Grant area near Cimarron. The "A-One," "A-Two" and "A-Three" designations are limits on time, not area.

"Essentially," Snyder said, "hunters can hunt anywhere they want to within the limits of the usual trespass and closure laws. The limitation is on the amount of time they can spend in the field. They can hunt statewide during any one of the three hunt periods."

Hunt period A-One, for instance, is the statewide opening weekend and is two days long. However, hunters choosing to hunt during that time can hunt in whichever portion of the state suits them, according to Snyder. A-Two designates the second-period, six-day hunt (Tuesday, Nov. 11, through Sunday, Nov. 16) for the statewide area; A-Three designates the third period, a nine-day hunt open statewide from Saturday, Nov. 15 through Sunday, Nov. 23.

"If a hunter has and wants to take the time, he can move around from one part of the state to another — from north to south, for instance — at any time within the hunt period he's chosen," Snyder said.

"We're not trying to limit hunters to one part of the state or another; what we are doing is reducing opening day pressure and spreading the number of hunters throughout the hunt period — rather than having all 117,000 of them out on the first weekend."

BICENTENNIAL NOTEBOOK

Donald Whisenhunt
First American
Daily Newspaper

Historians have long recognized the role and acknowledged the importance of the newspaper in American history. Without doubt the American Revolution would have floundered had it not been for courageous (or perhaps foolhardy) editors who risked everything to promote independence.

During 1775 the first daily newspaper began publication in Philadelphia. Known as the "Pennsylvania Evening Post," it was published by Benjamin Towne. It continued its daily schedule until 1784.

By 1775 there were 37 newspapers in the English colonies. According to one survey, the political division was 23 patriot, 7 loyalist, and 7 neutral. The average weekly circulation of all papers in 1775 was 3,500.

Even though most papers took courageous positions, there were always some who were not willing to do so. For example, the "New York Weekly Mercury" published two editions during the Revolution — loyalist in New York City and patriot in Newark, New Jersey. Of course, one can also say that the editor was a realist since New York remained in British control for a large portion of the war.

Obviously with such a large number of papers available and an eager reading public, there had to be much interest in public affairs. The role of the newspaper is unquestioned as a catalyst of American thought in the Revolutionary period. Other evidence of the importance of newspapers will be forthcoming.

In Spanish New Mexico a major contrast was the absence of a vigorous press. Even though New Mexico was as old and, in some ways, more civilized, the absence of a free press certainly limited the spread of ideas. Moreover, because the governmental system of Spain was more closed and autocratic, the government did not encourage the growth of newspapers.

Therefore, the small population of New Mexico remained scattered and uninformed of events near and far away. While the English colonies were moving toward greater progress, the Spanish Southwest stagnated. Donald W. Whisenhunt/history professor/Eastern New Mexico University.

TODAY'S LOGIC

By James W. Phelps

Rob The Young, Part II
Last week I pointed out that all the money collected by the Social Security program prior to Jan. 1, 1974 has already been spent. Our government is robbing the young people in order to live up to its promises to people who have already retired.

The important thing for people to realize now is that the Social Security program is a monster, just as are all socialistic schemes.

If we don't control it or destroy it, it will bankrupt and destroy our nation.

It will divide people into hostile groups.

One group will be made up of people who have been forced to contribute to the program for many years and who, understandably, want the benefits the government promised them.

Another group will be made up of those who are young and don't want to contribute for 30 or 40 years knowing that all their contributions, except perhaps the last year or two, will be spent on others.

Another group will be made up of those in between. They have contributed for many years and don't want to lose the money they've already paid in. On the other hand, they still have many years to go before retirement and are afraid that the money the government takes from them in the future will be poured down the same rat hole. None will be saved for their own retirement.

There is no solution that is both fair and politically popular. So our politicians will probably continue on down the same road. They will continue to pay out more than they take in until the load on the producers becomes so great they re-

Explorer Post formed in Hondo area

Ernest Booky, Superintendent of the Hondo Valley Public Schools, has announced the organization of a Community Service Explorer Post associated with the Conquistador Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The new post began last week with twenty-eight members, each selected for their outstanding contributions to the school or the community. Any new member must also be selected following nomination by a member of the POST or a member of the Hondo Schools faculty.

The post will center its activities around service to Hondo Valley communities but in addition, will actively participate in the overall Explorer programs offered by the Conquistador Council.

According to scouting officials, this type of post can do much to increase the image of the Boy Scouts of America, and at the same time allow outstanding young people to pool their efforts for service, and in addition, offer them an organ for social and personal activities.

More and more producers are refusing every day to bear the load. They simply go on welfare.

Unless and until we realize that the load carried by the taxpayers must be reduced, we will travel right on down the road to ruin.

When the young people fully realize the enormous burdens placed on them by previous generations, they will repudiate them. They will refuse to pay the bills.

If you think our national debt of half a trillion dollars is bad, you should realize it is only the tip of an iceberg.

The National Taxpayers Union has estimated that we owe another three and a half trillion dollars just on insurance and annuity programs.

CALM TIME

POOR PATTY

At last... now that our Aspendade fiesta-of-sorts has passed... we can snatch an occasional moment's respite from our trials and tribulations to cast our eyes upward to the mountains... to view the hues of the turning leaves... and to meditate upon nature's pre-determined course of action to offer us a colorful bounty... and bring us, momentarily at least, peace of mind.

Patty Hearst is... and no less a national personage than Atty. F. Lee Bailey is diagnosing her condition... suffering from claustrophobia brought about by the narrow confines of the cell in which she is incarcerated.

So enjoy autumn... Dan'l Storm insists it's Indian Summer... which is understandable... 'cause being from Alaska, Dan'l wouldn't recognize Indian Summer if he was living in a teepee in the midst of it. So enjoy autumn... 'cause sooner'n you can recite the Preamble to the Constitution from memory... with no peekin'... these mountains will be bathed in a mantle of white... which'll let you appreciate... in retrospect... the colorful leaves you can enjoy today.

Course Patty has a right to sing the blues... and be dejected... after all, all of her grandiose plans were summarily shattered... she doesn't like the course that her revolutionary ship of state has been diverted to.

VOTING ENIGMA

Ever since the move has been launched to establish the fact that we're not all one people on this bit of flotsam whirling around in space... both of us... our globe... and its peoples... are traveling in an ellipse... there's no Alpha or Omega. It's almost as though all Homo sapiens are suffering from delirium tremens... seeing clearly lots of things that aren't a part of reality.

Newspaper articles have suggested that Patty's being given no preferential treatment. I wonder how many other women in the same facility, charged with such horrendous offenses as soliciting or possession of less than one ounce of MJ, are assigned a matron with whom they can enjoy a lively game of cards?

All of a sudden every race, color and creed is obsessed with the idea that one viewpoint... and one only... is right. All of a sudden we've entered a new realm... a realm peopled with individuals suffering from inferiority complexes. Everybody wants to take... leaving nobody willing to give. It's reached the point... almost... where if all the feathered, finned, skinned and furred creatures could express an opinion, they'd unite in denouncing Darwin.

Now I'm not suggesting that I think Patty is recalcitrant... nor do I think she's remorseful. I'm not charged with helping to decide her guilt or innocence... of anything. Somewhere along the line I picked up the wild idea that any person charged with a crime should be considered innocent until proven guilty. A concept, I'm starting to suspect, that is akin to leaving a glass of milk and a cookie or three on the mantle Christmas Eve.

Paul Harvey said it: "It's atrocious when the United States must print election ballots in languages of foreign immigrants to our country, when the immigrants don't care enough to learn our language."

BRIEF BIT: If you work for a living you're deprived of many social benefits... food stamps, welfare and tax relief... CD

Letter To Editor
Mr. Richard Cothrun,
Chairman
Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce
Ruidoso, New Mexico

HELP WE CAN DO WITHOUT!

Dear Mr. Cothrun,
On September 18, one of your employees, Ms. Mary Myers, generously took of her time between other business of the Chamber to call 56 members of the Chamber concerning our blood drive. Through her efforts, along with the efforts of others in the community, 31 donors gave a pint of their blood for the benefit of their fellow man.

As chairman of the blood drive here in Ruidoso, I wish to thank you and Ms. Myers for helping with this important cause. Our hospital uses blood from Blood Services of El Paso, and these blood drives are the only opportunity we are afforded to replenish the supply. There is a serious and continuing shortage of blood, and the only way to meet the need is by encouraging donors to give. The Chamber of Commerce, through Ms. Myers' efforts, certainly contributed significantly to that effort.

Sincerely,

Another Suez?

The many, many years and huge amounts of money spent on the construction and maintenance of the Panama Canal may come to an end, if our Secretary of State gets his way. It is sad to note that we seem to continually allow some flea-bitten dictator in a very minor country tell us what to do. If we remember our geography correctly, the U.S. purchased the canal zone before the canal was built and it is sovereign territory of the United States. The Central American republics have been in a constant state of revolution for the past sixty years and could certainly not guarantee that the canal would be open for world trade.

We have seen a terrible example of shaky government control of the Suez Canal and should not allow such a thing to happen in Panama.

It has been reported that the canal is now too small for the use of the huge vessels now being built and that extensive remodeling of the canal will be necessary in the future. We are also told that the canal does not make any money but it still remains a vital link between our east and west coasts and a tremendous help in world trade.

Perhaps it is time, again, to "walk softly and carry a big stick" as Teddy Roosevelt once said. Too many times we allow our diplomats to handle our foreign relations without the use of good sense.

Just because we are the wealthiest nation in the world does not mean that we owe anything to the rest of the world. Most of the other nations have had the same opportunities that we have - but have not used them. We are among the youngest nations in the world and, up to now, have avoided many of the mistakes that they have made.

Let's keep what is rightfully ours and let others take care of their own problems.

A.L.

GAS SCHEME

ALTHOUGH the headlines lately have been grabbed off by the repositioning of controls on oil - a subject which had been explored rather thoroughly in this space - of more immediate interest is the behind the scenes battle raging over use of interstate natural gas.

New Mexico in general and the southeastern quadrant in particular is favored by the production of in-state gas, which is more than ample for both the present and foreseeable needs.

This gas, now available for residential, commercial and industrial use, is in danger of being siphoned off by any one of a large number of schemes being hatched in other states. The most prominent at the moment is a senate bill, co-authored by former astronaut John Glenn, that would allow eastern industrialists faced with an impending shortage to bid for New Mexico gas. As their economics are more severe than ours, no doubt they would be successful.

This gas would be transported, under emergency law, thru the interstate systems. The results would be that state producers committed under contract to supply interstate gas would continue to receive below market prices (about 50 cents per MCF), and New Mexico consumers would be pitted against large eastern corporations in the buying market. We'd get the worst of both worlds.

Fortunately Pete Domenici is aware of what S-692 would do to this producing state, and is working diligently to stop its passage. However, the consuming eastern states impose very serious political alienations.

If gas is deregulated as almost everyone now seems to think it should be, we will have to take our chances on the price. But "emergency" law of this type which would pit domestic New Mexico consumers against out of state industrial buyers is unfairly timed.

One of the real advantages that southeastern New Mexico has going for it is an abundance of energy. This advantage would quickly disappear under such crowbar tactics.

In Passing..

By ALLANE

We're a little disappointed that only about 30 people turned up to give in the drawing held recently at the hospital. The drawing earlier was the first in about six years and got a terrific response. The Blood Service people had changed the hours on the last draw to allow those of us who work to come in until 7 p.m. to give but we still fell way short of the needs. We suspect that another drawing will be held in about two months - think seriously about helping - it doesn't take much time and you will feel a real lift from possibly saving someone's life...

We are delighted with the response to our new Opinion Page from residents in the area. The page is yours and, if you have a gripe or even wish to pat someone on the back, please feel free to write a letter to the editor. All letters that are signed, not libelous or in poor taste will be published - whether we agree with them or not...

We were approached a while back about a love/orn column, but since everything is perfect in Ruidoso, felt that such a column is not needed. We can remember a few ads in personal columns in the past that created a good deal of interest. Especially one advertising for a "companion". Resulted in about six answers - one of which ended in marriage...

Must give a pat on the back to several ladies of the area who go regularly to Ft. Stanton to help with the mentally retarded children there. Little is ever heard about such generosity but the time is well spent helping those less fortunate. Such help is always appreciated by the staff at the school...

Between nosotros

BY EMADAIR JONES

It seems that now anyone who has an accident on a New Mexico highway can sue the State and expect to be reimbursed by the citizens of the state who have no control whatsoever over the condition of the roads.

The road is too narrow, or it is too wide. There is a curve where it should be straight; or it is straight where there should be a curve. It is too slick, or too bumpy. Or, there is a chuckhole where it shouldn't be. Whatever happens can always be someone else's fault. And we, the taxpayers, are not supposed to be just "our brother's keeper", but his nursemaid, too. That a bus driver wasn't competent enough to slow down for a narrow bridge, especially when someone else was approaching, or to drive slowly enough to be able to avoid something unexpected in the road, is all the fault of the taxpayer.

We just wonder how many more straws the taxpayer can handle.

"Medicare now pays for some chiropractic services. This coverage is limited to only one kind of service," Tim Hassen, social security field representative, stated.

"The only chiropractic treatment that is covered by Medicare is for manual manipulation of the spine to correct a subluxation. The subluxation, which is an incomplete dislocation, off-centering, misalignment, fixation, or abnormal spacing of the vertebrae, must be verified by x-ray. It is also necessary for the chiropractor to be certified for participation in the Medicare program," Hassen explained.

"The chiropractic charges that meet these requirements may be filed with Medicare in the same manner as other physician bills. Medicare insurance will pay 80 per cent of the reasonable charges after the $60 yearly medical insurance deductible is met. Additional information may be secured from your chiropractor or from any social security office," Hassen said.

Mr. Hassen may be contacted at the Lincoln County Senior Citizens Center, in Ruidoso, on Tuesday, October 14, between the hours of 10-12 and 1-2.

IVAC THERMOMETER — Carol Ellis, R.N., left, staff nurse at Ruidoso Hondo Valley General Hospital, demonstrates the IVAC thermometer with Kimberly Judd, summer nursing assistant and nursing student in the winter. Battery charged thermometers with disposable probe covers are used on the unit. The instrument provides an accurate temperature in minimum time as the tip of the probe is placed against the sublingual artery at the base of the tongue. The readout counts the patient's temperature in about 15 seconds. A small red light to the left of the temperature reading comes on and a soft buzzer sounds when the temperature is recorded. This unit is used in the emergency room and other rooms, excepting isolation where conventional glass thermometers are used. — [Ruidoso News photo]

Home is the cradle of life-long learning

The home is a learning center. In fact, it is the most important learning center an individual ever knows, says Leo Yates, extension family life specialist at New Mexico State University.

The family plays an important educational role in a child's life. A diversity of important learning experiences take place in the home. Because the family, as the foundation of society, provides the nest for social, emotional and intellectual learning, it will not pass into oblivion as some predict, Yates says.

Between the 10th and 18th month, a child learns how to learn. If an infant-toddler is encouraged to explore, to be curious, to find pleasurable and rewarding interaction with others, then the "twig is bent" toward healthy self-esteem and exciting learning experiences. This early orientation can set a life-long pattern of learning enjoyment as a self-renewing process.

Although every phase of the life cycle calls for learning, adapting, coping and changing; a child's learning is the fastest and most noticeable.

With the help of the family, children learn to manage for themselves, handle the immediate environment, and cope with their world. More specifically, children learn the important skills of getting along with people, understanding and communicating their feelings and sensing other's feelings.

These skills are life-long tools for survival and quality living through the other phases of the life cycle. For example, newlyweds learn to live together, to accept the other's faults as well as strengths, to express affection and disagreement, to compromise and to communicate, all based on their earlier childhood experiences.

In addition, newlyweds must learn to be independent of parents, earn a living, handle money and manage a home. Hopefully these developmental tasks develop gradually through childhood and adolescence rather than coming as a crash course to the bride and groom.

The arrival of a baby provides a whole new set of learning experiences to young adults. Both parents and children must adjust as the child and family grow and move through the developmental cycle.

Families with older children learn to "let go" of their teenagers. The teenagers, in turn, practice "self-governance" and independence which leads to the non-exploitative interdependence of adulthood.

Later in the life cycle, retirement brings another phase of learning. The main task is detaching from an occupational role and co-workers as the primary source for meaning of day-to-day life. Retirement is a time to learn other means of self-fulfillment, new avocational interests and new leisure time activities. Some must adjust to living on a reduced income or living without a life-long mate. Some completely change lifestyles after retirement.

Eventually everyone must learn to accept and live with some physical limitations as a part of the aging process, a process beginning at birth.

Along with physical, emotional and intellectual development come changes in the family, society and the environment. These changes call for continual home learning. In addition, new knowledge is developed through short courses, workshops, reading books, newspapers, magazines and talking to friends, neighbors, strangers and foreigners as well as family members.

Today, for example, individuals must learn new ways to conserve energy, and stretch the dollar during these inflationary times.

Today's world changes so fast that learning must be considered a continual, lifetime process. For some this means returning to the classroom to update a formal education. For others, however, the learning started in the family will be concluded in the classroom of the world.

The first Arabian U.S. National Championship Classes were held at Estes Park, Colo., in 1958.

— The Love of 'She' for Sir Diptera —
There was a melee or riot going on under the edge of the porch, where Spot had left his bone; when he darted after that everlasting cat, that was eternally bothering him when he was trying to eat. This riot was being carried on by a melange of relatives and in-laws of Sir Diptera. Tiring of the whole matter, or being out of condition to fight, he said, in his jargon of several dialects, including his own,

"Hors de combat-t-t-t. You are hic it ubique e-e-e. I am a helluo libro-rum m-m-m"; meaning, "I am too tired to fight. You are here and everywhere, so I will read my books and maybe find the worm."

His "better half" eyed him skeptical, "Dolce for niente t-t-t. You are a delightful do nothing, Old Top-p-p-p."

Sir Diptera did a pirouette on his toes and the crowd cheered and shouted,

"Piu piu u-u-u-Z-Z-Z, (more more) pro pudor r-r-r! Oh, for shame!"

Then Old Diptera spit out, "Sesquipedalia verba Z-Z-Z-Z." Words a foot and a half long. "Time flies, timpus fugit t-t-t. Terrae filius, I am a (free) son of the earth, and in the vis vitae, (value of life), my beautiful, (vile e-e-e) . . ."

Well 'She' felt spurned for life and went off to hide under a collar leaf, so no one could see or hear her weep. 'She' was harboring a secret all her very own.

"Embonpoint t-t-t, or I am enceinte t-e-t-e" she sobbed. "I am only e pluribus unum m-m-m. I feel like felo-de-se-se-se." And she continued to sob as if her heart would break.

Sir Diptera sat for a while under the eave of the house, but saw there was to be no action here; so he flitted from one overhang to another, landing gingerly over the kitchen door. Now he always loved the sweet aroma, drifting from the cuisine; but was not too anxious to enter the screened domicile, and risk the violent ravage of the 'swatter', should the door open.

He stretched a while, brushing his two 'silky, useless wings with his shiny jet hind legs; and smoothing his hairy face, he said,

"If I make a faux pas Z-Z-Z, I will be the laughing stock of all my relatives Z-Z-Z", and he preened around on his nimble toes.

"But, affaire d amour, I am ready for a love affair r-r-r-Z-Z."

Just about that time he heard an obvious fluttering and he looked about,

"Oh, alis volat propriis, s-s-s-Z-Z she flies with her own wings z-z-z."

"Bon jour," said the little 'snip'. "Beaux yeux, handsome eyes and belesprit t-t-t-such a brilliant mind."

"Ah, pure decorum m-m-m-decollete," he chimed, "You are my Dulcinea-nea-nea."

Well, it is the old sage, or time worn story. They went from 'egg to the apples,' 'ab ovo usque ad malo' — 'from beginning to end.' There was nothing in the fly domain or world they didn't do or speak of extemporaneously. They seemed to radiate with exudation and existentialism; declaring that flies were totally free and responsible for their own acts.

About that time the screen door opened and Sir Diptera said,

"Au revoir until we meet again-n-r-n-Z-Z", and darted into the kitchen.

All through this clandestine or intrigue, he was feeling rather brave and sure of himself and went from pie to cake, then the fruit, zig zagging and singing in his pleasant dulcet sounding tone, n-n-n-z-z-z-z.

Then 'whack' went the swatter. He flew for the window and hid behind the curtain; but, lo, it was a 'see through' contraption. And another 'whack.' This time he was stunned, but landed on the sill.

Then he heard a dear, familiar voice outside the window pane. 'She' knew of his flighty, fickle ways and had a premonition that he was in trouble. 'She' had come looking for him.

"Nil desperandum m-m-m Never despair, Old Top, Viat rex! Long live the king!"

"Non omnis moriar r-r-r—I shall not wholly die," he moaned, in his suffering, low throaty voice.

But then, there was a loud swat! And he died! signing, "Omnia vincit amor — love conquers all," and he sang his last 'swan song' Z-Z.

'She' looking in at his scattered limbs or remains, cried, "Obiit! Obiit! Ora pronobis-s-s-s", meaning, He died! He Died! Pray for us, and sobbed her heart out.

Of course you know by now, this is pure fabrication or fantasy; as most ordinary love-lorn folks or flies do not air their romantic love escapades on pages of white typing paper; much less have it publicized in a newspaper that everyone reads — well, I mean most everybody.

Mrs. Mildred Jeffers, owner of the Gateway Courts, announced this week the opening Tuesday, October 24th of the "Gateway Knitting Shop" in her home. Mrs. Jeffers plans to be open, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week. Instructions for knitting as well as crochet work will be free to those buying their materials in her shop.

The County Republican Candidates will hold a Rally in Ruidoso Oct. 25th, Wednesday night at Bonal's Skating Rink, in downtown Ruidoso to begin at 7:30 p.m.
There will be speeches by the candidates followed by a dance with music by Ray Reed. The senior class of Ruidoso High School will have the concessions at the Rally.

Work is progressing daily on the Cree Meadows Airport under construction by the Village of Ruidoso with federal aid from the Aeronautics Administration, according to Charles Richardson, engineer, and Roy Seymour, foreman.

Nov. 3, 1950
Taking advantage of the school holiday last week, sixteen Boy Scouts of the local troop went on a five day hike to Blue Water Hole above Bonita Lake. They took several hikes up various canyons in the area and turkey and ducks were the only wild life seen.

Nov. 10, 1950
Several over zealous hunters have jumped the season and have been killing wild turkeys. One ranchman reports that a flock of 25 birds had been nesting near his house and that recently night hunters had killed 15 of them with a shotgun.

Another man reported that 15 turkeys were nesting near his house and that 10 of them had been killed with a 22 rifle.
This whole sale killing of turkeys is in open violation of the law and the New Mexico Fish and Game Department is quite anxious to see that it is stopped. It is just as much a violation to kill turkey out of season as it is to kill deer.

Nov. 17, 1950
Coach Cy Leland said this week that he hopes that as many people as possible will take advantage of the opportunity to ride one of the big busses of the New Mexico Transportation Company to Hobbs tomorrow. "The team needs the support of our students and our towns-people," he said. "On behalf of the players I wish to thank all of the good folks who have made it possible for the players and pep squad members to make the trip in this way," he added.

Hondo Float

Hondo Fiesta Dancers entered a float in the Eastern New Mexico State Fair parade. They received a second place trophy. The art class at Hondo High School decorated it. We have to thank Mrs. Barbara Radcliff for this event of the float. The following people were on the float; Girls: Dina Trujillo, Yolanda Lucero, Kate Evans, Beatrice Sanchez, Ginger Cooper, Mary Sanchez, and Emileen Herrera, Boys: Paul Herrera, Walter McTeigue, Wally Gomez, Al Booky, Gabriel Polaco, Elmon Sanchez, and Frankie Candelaria.

CALENDAR OF EVENTS

OCT. 15-17: New Mexico State Chamber of Commerce Convention. Inn of the Mountain Gods.
 OCT.: All month, Third Annual Cowboy Octoberfest.
 OCT. 25-26: Carrizozo. Annual Carrizozo Mt. Amateur Golf Tournament and Kids' Fishing Derby. Details: Joe Light Phone 648-2287.
 NOV. 26: Second Annual Thanksgiving, Ruidoso Style-observance.
THANKSGIVING-EASTER: Some of the finest skiing in the country at beautiful Sierra Blanca Ski Resort.
 (If you know of a special event scheduled for 1975 which should be included in the calendar, please call The News at 257-4001.)
 In addition to the SPECIAL EVENTS listed, Lincoln County offers many permanent attractions for tourists. Museums and historic exhibits at Lincoln Town, Ancho, Capitan, Ft. Stanton and Tinnie are open to the public. Picnic and camping grounds are among the most beautiful in the country. Year-round fishing is available at Nogal and Alto Lake with seasonal casting at Bonito Lake and along the Ruidoso River. State parks at Three Rivers (Indian pictographs) and the Valley of Fires State Park (The Malpais) invite visitors all year around. Touring the countryside is a pleasure any time, from the heights of Sierra Blanca at 12,000 feet to the desert of the Tularosa Valley.
