TUCUMCARI MAN SHOT, ARRESTED, UNDER GUARD IN HOSPITAL

Shoot out at White Oaks

A deputy sheriff's car was riddled by 30-06 slugs and a Tucumcari man shot in the right shoulder in a Monday afternoon "for real" shoot out on State Highway 349 about one mile west of White Oaks.

Sheriff Vega reported to The News how the shooting took place:

A TOURIST phoned the sheriff at 1:45 to report that a man, armed with a rifle, attempted to stop them and forced them off the road about five miles north of Carrizozo. The tourist eluded Isler during the approach of another car.

BRADLEY LAID down on the front seat, on the passenger's side, and drew his .357 Magnum pistol. As Isler fired, five or six shots, Bradley fired three times through the windshield, incapacitating Isler with one shot that hit him in the right shoulder. Bradley then apprehended Isler.

The other vehicle, stopped by Isler, was occupied by Theresa James and her three year old daughter, Angel, of White Oaks and a friend Brenda Lane. The ladies told Bradley that Isler had forced them to stop by shooting the left front tire of their car.

"IT'S A MIRACLE," Vega said, "that deputy Bradley wasn't killed or seriously injured in the exchange of gun fire. He escaped with a bullet hole in his left foot that barely marked the skin. He's a lucky man — real lucky."

Deputy Quill Bradley was dispatched to investigate and was met at the scene by NASP officer Dale Housley. An "orange compact car" wasn't in evidence and Housley began a search of side roads while Bradley elected to inspect Highway 349 leading into White Oaks.

Bradley came up on the orange car, which, with a four-wheel drive vehicle, had blocked the road. Isler pulled a rifle out of the compact car, stepped toward Bradley's car, and fired at Bradley.

ARRESTED WAS Paul Hale Isler, 21, of Tucumcari. Isler has been charged by Lincoln County Sheriff Leandro Vega Jr., with "Assault with attempt to commit a violent felony upon a police officer", before Magistrate Bill Payne in Carrizozo, with bond set at $50,000. "Additional charges," Vega said, "are pending."

Isler was operated on in an Alamogordo hospital, Vega said, "where he is presently under guard, (as of Tuesday) listed in critical condition."

CORRECTION — The opening of bids for remodeling the Chamber of Commerce office will be Dec. 15, not as announced in Monday's paper.

PROTECTION METHODS TO BE AIRD

Worthless check session set Friday

A briefing on methods of coping with the issuance of worthless checks will be presented Friday at 7 p.m., in the Ruidoso Library by Ralph Romero, criminal investigator with the Lincoln County Sheriff's office.

"I'm hoping," Romero said, "to have a representative of each business in the area at this meeting, as I'll be discussing proven methods of dealing with bad checks as well as ways to avoid accepting them."

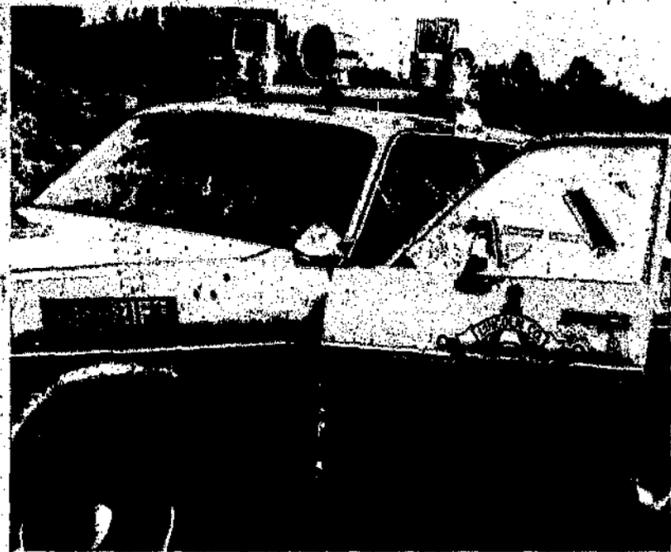

Romero said, "A uniform system is needed to identify persons presenting checks. One system that has worked requires that a driver's license, Social Security number and a national credit card all be used for identification."

The District Attorney's policy on prosecution on bad check charges will be explained. Romero will also cover credit cards and traveler's checks and ways to determine if they are being used fraudulently.

To illustrate the bad check problem Romero will, without revealing names, dates and other information, discuss "some of the blunders and mistakes made on bad checks."

The prosecution of persons issuing worthless checks, he said, "is an involved process and if everyone in business will attend the Friday meeting we can explain how the Sheriff, with the cooperation of the victims, can make faster arrests and as the word gets around that Ruidoso is tough on bad checks, we should expect to have fewer of them."

AFTER MONDAY'S SHOOT OUT shot shattering the window, in this there were seven bullet holes, plus one Lincoln County Sheriff's car.

69 hunters cited

A total of 69 citations were issued to hunters in the Ruidoso Station district during the recent season, Tim Barraclough, resident Game and Fish officer said Tuesday.

"Through the efforts of Game and Fish officers Dick McCleskey, Bud Brasens, Ruben Gonzalez and Dan Sotcliffe," Barraclough said, "hundreds of hunters were contacted, many good relationships were established and an excellent law enforcement job was done."

Barraclough's citation breakdown included:

- Hunting without a valid license, 9
- Hunting with the aid of an artificial light, 7
- False statement to secure resident licenses, 8
- Camping within 300 yards of stock water, 5
- Failure to validate license (warnings), 5
- Hunting on unlawfully procured licenses, 4
- Driving off established roads (warnings), 4
- Illegal possession of doe deer, 4
- Hunting training violations (warnings), 4
- Failure to legally tag deer, 3

- Using license issued to another, 2
 - Accessory to using license issued to another, 1
 - Possession of detached tag in the field, 1
 - Hunting in the wrong validated period, 1
 - Littering, 1
 - Failure to provide sex on deer (warning), 1
- Barraclough also reported recovering a stolen Glenfield 30-30 and a Ruger Bearcat .22 revolver. "All information concerning the weapons has been turned over to the Lincoln County Sheriff for their action," Barraclough said.

Ski area opens Friday

The Sierra Blanca Ski Area will open again Friday morning. Roy Parker, general manager, announced Wednesday that the damage from last weekend's storm will be repaired by Thursday evening. "The top of the mountain has no skiing," Parker said. "The storm blew off what snow we did have, and the chair and the gondola will not operate until we get more snow. The Captain run was helped somewhat, and the skiing on the beginner slopes is generally good. However, we're telling it like it is for the rest of the mountain. There just isn't any snow up there."

Several trees were blown down at the area in the blizzard-like conditions. Power lines were knocked down. The emergency power from the diesel generators was even knocked out when trees fell across the auxiliary lines from the generators.

The road to the area has been cleaned up where several large trees were felled by the winds that exceeded 70 mph. Unseasonably warm temperatures the past few days since the storm have melted much of the new snow that did stick. Parker is hoping for more normal lower temperatures to preserve the base snow that is left.

In addition to the damage caused to lift cables and power (SEE PAGE FOUR)

Scouts big game feed Saturday

The annual big game dinner, a fund raising event for Boy Scout Troop 69, will be served Saturday from 4 to 7 p.m., at the Ruidoso Elks Lodge.

"We have deer, bear, antelope and fish on the menu," Scoutmaster Gary Hendricks said, "but we can use more, much more. Any sportsman interested in promoting Scouting can help our cause by (SEE PAGE FOUR)"

I BAR X RANCH CLOSURE ACTION AT ISSUE

County road trial Friday

The I Bar X Ranch vs. Lincoln County suit on the closing of County Road No. 89 will be heard in the county courtroom at Carrizozo Friday at 9:30 a.m. The Hon. George Zimmerman of Alamogordo, 12th Judicial District judge, will preside at the non-jury trial.

The background of this suit, made available to The News from records in the office of county manager Leslie Olson, discloses:

— Kelly Stephenson, president of the I Bar X Ranch, requested the County on Oct. 10, 1973 to close County Road No. 89 because of vandalism and trespassing on I Bar X Ranch houses.

— The Commission appointed three people, according to State law proceedings for closing a public road, Dutch Cox, Lakoyne Peters and J.G. Sidwell to inspect the road and problem of vandalism and recommend to the Commission whether the road should be closed as a County Road.

— The County Commission, however, elected not to close it.

— The Department of Game and Fish director Ladd Gordon and District Forest Ranger F.F. Menninghaus expressed opposition to closing the road as did many local citizens.

— Subsequently Stephenson put locks on the gates contrary to the laws governing County Roads.

— Even though keys were available to people desiring access to the Water Canyon area, the County ordered the locks removed entirely.

— Stephenson refused, contending the road is his.

"The outcome of this trial," W.A. Hart, Lincoln county commissioner, said, "will be of tremendous interest to all private property owners on whose land access roads to public use areas cross."

Warriors lose overtime cage opener

BY KEVIN LANE

The Ruidoso Warriors lost their season cage opener to Socorro Warriors 74-74 after the game went into overtime Tuesday night. The Warriors, fighting to the last second, failed to hold Socorro after the game went into overtime because of a 67-67 tie at the end of the 4th quarter. The coaches commented the season's just starting and the boys made a lot of mistakes. They still need practice to get everything together.

High point men were as follows: Kirk Eubank — 33 points; Kim Nelson — 10; George Plata — 10; Frankie Montoya — 8; Desha Jefferson — 8; Clifton Neal — 4.

The J.V. also lost their opener 48-60 to Socorro. The Warriors lead 18-14 in the first quarter but dropped behind in the second quarter and never regained the lead. Coach Nelson commented that the J.V. has possibilities and attributed the loss to the lack of time for workouts.

High point men for the J.V. were: Rick Mound — 11; David Hoffer — 9; Josh Emsor — 8; Carl Botella — 6; Van Patton — 5.

HIGH POINT SCORER for the Socorro took the game 74-73 in overtime. Kirk Eubank, goes up for 2 time, points in Tuesday night's opener.

SCMRA SEEKS COUNTY WATER USE STUDY

Pinon Pipeline bid letting set

Bids on the Pinon Pipeline, a "This project," Howard four year project of South Abercrombie, SCMRA resource Central Mountain Resource conservationist at Carrizozo, Area, are scheduled to be said, "requires 35 miles of opened Dec. 22, with the time pipeline to transport water from and place to be announced by Bluewater (a former school the Pinon Water Users house 14 miles northwest of Association. Pinon) on the Bob Bell ranch, to users." THE PIPELINE will serve 20 ranches and 19 domestic and business meters in Pinon, Abercrombie said. "At the present, in addition to the families, the lines will make water available to 2,500 cattle and 5,450 sheep."

A main line will extend from Bluewater to Pinon, Abercrombie said, "and then will run in four directions to bring the pipeline total to 35 miles."

The cost estimate of the project was pegged at $468,000 by Abercrombie, of which $75,000 is a 4-Corners grant, $100,000 from ASCS and $7,500 from EIA, "which will be used to keep the water clean. The association is also hoping to receive a FHA grant."

OTHER PROJECTS discussed at the November SCMRA meeting included: — A report on the Lincoln County nursery at Lincoln, by State Forester Jerry Longbotham, noted that present plans call for between five and six million copious trees to be grown annually. The seed extraction machine at the nursery, Longbotham said, "is the largest in the nation."

— Tom McCalmont of the State Planning Office said, "The Indian Divide Rest Area is not going well. The Forest Service won't give the permit unless restrooms are made available and the Highway Department doesn't want to build restrooms."

— Another Civil War manequin, Agnes Crouse said, "will be presented to the Ft. Stanton Museum, if we can insure the donors we have adequate insurance." McCalmont said he would study the insurance needs and report at a later meeting.

IN SPECIAL ACTION, Ralph Dunlap, Greg Hansler and Delbert Nelson were assigned to develop a consumptive water study in Lincoln County.

"Water adjudication on the Bonito," Abercrombie said, "sparked this action by SCMRA to initiate the study." The need for the water study arises from the demands of irrigable lands, Abercrombie said. "Figures available to us indicate that, alfalfa, for example, requires one-quarter inch of water daily to insure maximum production. Producers have questioned if a half-inch, or more, might be closer to the actual need. Therefore we've requested SCS as well as the NMSU Experiment Station at Las Cruces to conduct this study."

School Drama Club Boosters organized

A group of interested parents met Monday night to form a "booster" organization for the drama department of Ruidoso High School. The purpose is to assist the students with money raising campaigns so they may participate first hand in work shops and to observe professionals in the theaters.

"Ruidoso is so far from any cultural center such as Albuquerque, El Paso or Lubbock," states Kenneth Newsum, Speech and Drama teacher, "and we just don't have the budget to make these long trips". The allotted budget right now is one hundred dollars and it should be at least a thousand, according to Newsum. The immediate need of the club is enough money to send about 10 students to a contest workshop in Albuquerque, January 14-18. Basic plans were laid out at the meeting for methods to fund this trip. When a trip of this nature is planned or one to attend theatrical productions, the students or their parents have to pay out of their pockets. This eliminates attendance by a lot of students that have a real interest and desire for the side arts.

"The idea of the Drama Club is not to go into the acting profession but learning to share, cooperate and work together in becoming well rounded citizens", Newsum told the parents.

Another meeting is scheduled for December 15 at 7 P.M. in the Speech & Drama classroom, Ruidoso High School. All parents and other persons interested in assisting in the promotion of the Drama Club are urged to attend.

Baha'i

Ruidoso, N.M., 1 Dec. — Wednesday, December 10, is Human Rights Day. This day is usually set aside by the United Nations as a time of reflection on human rights. In observance of this day, the Baha'i Community of Ruidoso has planned a public meeting to be held at the Ruidoso State Bank at 8:00 P.M.

The United States Baha'i Community has supported the endeavors of the United Nations since its inception in 1948. It is a pivotal teaching of the Baha'i Faith that all of mankind must enter a bond of unity and true brotherhood if we are to have world peace. The Baha'is believe we have entered a new Age in which all nations must become one. They believe through this happening that the prophecy, "... and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more," will come to pass.

The Baha'i writings state, "Unification of the whole of mankind is the hall-mark of the stage which human society is now approaching. Unity of family, of tribe, of city-state, and nation have been successively attempted and fully established. World unity is the goal towards which a harassed humanity is striving. Nation-building has come to an end. The anarchy inherent in state sovereignty is moving towards a climax. A world, growing to maturity, must abandon this selfish, recognize the oneness

Some flycatchers built a nest on our front porch one spring. The female did the work of building the nest, while the male stood guard. When his mate dropped a twig, he would catch it and put it on the ledge for her; and when she was setting on the eggs, he would bring her bugs to eat, and keep her company. Once she threw him out of the nest, and he sat on the edge of the driveway all puffed up, turning his head from side to side and one could almost see him thinking, "Women!"

Another time we saw a male robin hopping around, unconcernedly looking for worms and bugs, while his furious mate was trying to tell him something. She would get so mad at being ignored, she would fly at him, and he would calmly hop aside and go about his business of feeding himself. We thought, "Talk about hen-pecked husbands!" but we also had to sympathize with that frustrated, little bird who couldn't get her problem across. We couldn't help wondering how it would be, if that male had offered his mate one of the worms he was pulling for himself?

Which reminds me of a couplet our mother used to tease me and my brothers and

Downs Officials to Meet Monday

Village officials of Ruidoso Downs will meet Monday night at the Downs village hall for their regular scheduled meeting. Items on the agenda aside from routine business are: — a hearing on Cablevision of Lincoln County request for rate change. — review of the one quarter percent gross receipts tax by Weldon Merritt, Staff attorney for the New Mexico Municipal League. — further discussion on the aerial maps available for sale. This item was put to a vote at the last meeting but prices increase since that time have forced a new look at the project. The meeting time is set for 7 P.M.

lines, the wind blew the overhead doors out of both ends of the area's equipment maintenance building.

The winds that hit the Sierra Blanca Ski Area were the worst in memory for many old-timers. Parker commented that he is now ready for some snow falling straight down.

Evacuation

[FROM PAGE ONE] The maps, prepared by the Lincoln County Disaster Defense Task Force, are the first in a planned series to serve Ruidoso, and county, residents in the event of disaster requiring mass evacuation.

The maps, to be distributed soon, will have a listing of fire prevention suggestions printed on the back.

"This sizeable contribution," Bill Sealbach, DDTF chairman, said, "gets this phase of our disaster planning off and running, which wouldn't have been the case if the realtors hadn't so generously cooperated with us."

Backpackers get real test

Seventeen members of a backpacking class from North Texas State College in Denton, Texas, and their teacher got more of a test than they expected when they came to the Ruidoso area on a trip which was their final exam.
The group parked their cars near the ski area and camped out Wednesday and Thursday, November 26 and 27. Friday night, they found a cabin to stay in; and Saturday, they made their way through the blizzard to the home of the Harvey Tallys in Bonto Canyon. Mrs. Tally, who had turkey and dressing, etc., left over from Thanksgiving dinner, fixed supper for them and Mr. Tally brought them to town in a pickup and contacted someone who referred them to Frank Crown, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church.
The Crowns immediately went down and turned the heat on in the church and had hot chocolate ready for the almost frozen adventurers; who then spent the night in the church.
The Presbyterian Church has an upstairs, equipped with showers, which is used by many church groups from Texas who come to Ruidoso to ski. It just so happened that last week-end was the only one which had not been spoken for until after the first week-end in March!

The SILVER LINING

By Daniel Agnew Shinn

December, The Sacred Month
This is being sent to you on the first of December, the sacred month. It is great to look out of the sun room and see the patches of snow all along the hillside in between the pines and cedars - now glistening like diamonds in the sun and now purple, lavender, and lilac in the shadows.
It is a typical December day - sunny with just a few wisps of clouds overhead in the blue sky. A very light wind is out of the North, cool, not cold. A crow circles overhead and send out a clear, calm call that all is well. There is a lull in the unusually cold weather that came just in the last of November. Shady Logan is on the door step making up for lost time, soaking in the sunshine.

A Tribute To A Favorite Lady
I am just a poor, punchy old Ridge Runner; yet I am the most blest and the luckiest fellow in the world. High among my blessings are two great brothers, Mark and Lynn. These boys are always handing me bouquets, pounding me on the back, telling how great the Silver Linings are. "They are best when you write about people," they say, "Write about people. Write about people."

I hope they consider snow birds, blue birds, foxes, coyotes, crows and crows as people.
All right, boys; here is a little something about folks. They tell us, the "Scientifics" do, that in the computer and machine age we should be careful not to become machine-like. That is; we should hold on to our humanity and also keep alive that spark of the Divine Spirit, that is given us by God, and makes us kin to our Heavenly Father.

Well, The Ruidoso State Bank has lots of computers, and every kind of super-modern trigger work you can think of. Yet they are very human folks up there.
One of the nicest things I have heard of in a long time was the little send-off given to one of our very favorite ladies, Ethel Carroll. This party was given to UPWARDS OF THIRTY Capitan area residents attended a special Senior Citizen's Thanksgiving Dinner Sunday, sponsored by the Capitan First Baptist Church. Five Capitan senior citizens, confined to their homes, were also served a traditional Thanksgiving dinner as part of the planned annual church event.

Ethel in honor and appreciation of her twenty years of faithful, dedicated, and cheerful service to the bank.

We all rejoice in this kindness, and feel that the beautiful and generous gifts were given to us also.

"Of course, I just broke down and cried," said Ethel. "I cry real easy anyhow."

Here is another thing. We must never lose our ability to cry. Two of the bravest men I ever knew, my Grandpa Kennedy and my father, Lynn Whippo Storm - these men always were very easily moved to tears.

I tell you one thing: all the tears shed over this act of kindness and appreciation were tears of joy. I was not present physically at the party, but I was there in spirit as we all were. And we all rejoice for Ethel and the good-hearted folks who paid this beloved lady such a thoughtful tribute.

So you see how far a kindly deed can travel. It goes on and on, bringing more and more blessings.

A New-Comer To The Storm Ranch Learns About The Weather

My Brother Lynn's birthday was November 28. (He was born in Juneau, Alaska.) I did not get to send him a gift, but will get him something later. Lynn put the shoe on the other foot and sent out a fine bull from his ranch at Dripping Springs, Texas.

I was worried about this young fellow coming up from the warm climate of Central Texas right into the middle of one of the coldest spells I have ever seen here in the vale.

Will Rogers used to say, "All I know is what I read in the papers."

I can say, "Most of what I know about the weather I have learned from cows. Well, a lot of it, anyway. I have learned a lot from birds, too."

When it comes to worrying about cows in cold weather, I should have learned my lesson about twelve or fifteen years ago. I used to have a little coal black calf I called the Tar Baby. She was born late in the fall of a very cold year. Along in early December a cold windy spell hit suddenly and this calf was only about a month old. She used to have a lot of fun leading the bunch up to the corral when I called them to feed them some hay.

That night the wind was cold from the West driving in snow and sleet. Down and down went the thermometer, and finally reached nine below. Twice I got out in the night with a flash light looking for the bed ground, worrying about the Tar Baby.

It got so cold that I could not keep warm in bed. The wind blew right through the house, I thought to myself, that if an Alaska-born guy cannot keep warm in the house, what will happen to the Tar Baby. I could not sleep for thinking of this.

Then at daylight, I got up and called the cows and here came the Tar Baby running, leading the bunch to the hay. I never did find their bed ground.

I said a while back that the recent cold spell was one of the worst I had seen. I do not mean the temperature was the lowest. But what makes the weather cold is the wind. The wind and the freezing sleet.

This was the coldest, longest lasting wind I ever saw. I spent most of the night in front of the fireplace. And twice I went out and looked for the cow bed ground.

I found the bed ground of all the calves and all the cows but one. They certainly made a picture. They were under cedars on a little knoll, just barely under the wind, all close together for warmth.

Where were the young bull and the old bull and the youngest cow?

You can tell how cold the night will be by how soon the cows leave for a bed ground. If it is going to be cold they lose no time looking for a spot on Mother Earth to warm up for the night.

Twice I got out with a flashlight and combed the place looking for the two bulls and the young cow. I could not find them. As the night wore on, I worried about the young bull out in the cold wind.

At daylight, wonder of wonders, here he came walking up to the barn eating along the way at the gramma grass and ready for a little hay. He looked at me much as to say: "Have you got breakfast ready?"

I would give anything if I could find where he bedded down. I would like to find a place like that if I ever get caught out in a blizzard. This is just another lesson in how the Lord takes care of His creatures.

Inside The Capital

SANTA FE—House Taxation-Revenue Chairman Edward Lopez, D-Santa Fe, predicts the 1976 Legislature will increase state general fund spending $48 million or 10 per cent.

The state general fund unappropriated surplus next June 30 is estimated at $28.1 million. But Rep. Lopez says: "Inflation will take up most of the slack."

Rep. Bob Moran, R-Hobbs, says the average budget increase proposed by state agencies is a big 40 per cent, a huge total of $193.3 million over the present fiscal year total general fund appropriation of $483.3 million.

Sen. William Sego, R-Albuquerque, says: "The state can live comfortably with a general fund appropriation increase of 8 to 10 per cent for all agencies for all purposes." Lopez, Moran and Sego are on the powerful Legislative Finance Committee. The LFC is shaping a proposed fiscal 1976-77 state executive budget for the legislature that will open a limited, 30-day session Jan. 20.

Sen. Sego cautions: "Higher education and public school appropriations could force the general fund spending increase to 15 per cent which is walking on a narrow ledge based on revenue estimates."

"If we do that, the spending increase percentage will exceed the anticipated revenue increase percentage of about 13 per cent. With these factors and the variable inflationary factor the state could quickly find it is in deficit spending."

Sen. Sego added: "The legislature must watch for two factors—that we don't establish a new higher education differential funding formula that is not flexible. We need a very flexible formula based on general fund estimates. Second, cities' money problems and funding that could quite possibly be required to keep cities out of deficits when the federal government starts jerking revenue sources cities have relied on for day-to-day operations."

"For example, federal revenue sharing funds and federal grants that have been used to fund recurring expenditures," Sego sees no possibility of tax cuts "from now on." He says the projected $28.1 million state surplus "is only a 5 per cent cushion." Sego adds: "Inflation, increased cost of government and needed capital outlay can evaporate the surplus in one legislative session."

Sen. Sego forecasts "potential pressure on the legislature to authorize local tax increases." He says: "What the legislature is doing is shifting responsibility of taxation from the state to the local level. The reason is the legislature can't get a handle on poor fiscal management by cities and counties."

Rep. Moran disagrees with Sego on tax relief possibilities. He says the $28.1 million expected surplus justifies a tax cut, "probably an across-the-board state income tax decrease." But Moran predicts the Democratic legislature "will dissipate the surplus." Moran says: "They dissipated a $90 million surplus in the 1975 Legislature. What do you think they will do with $28 million?"

State Miner's Hospital, Raton, asked the LFC for a $154,400 or 27 per cent budget increase next fiscal year. The hospital's occupancy rate was 64 per cent in July-October—an average of 36 patients in its 56 beds. New Administrator Ben Gallegos said 20 miners, 6 Medicaid recipients and 2 private patients were under care Nov. 20. Sen. C. B. Trujillo, D-Taos, LFC vice chairman, said perhaps the best ultimate course would be creation of satellite medical facilities over the state for miner patients.

A special committee recommended to the influential Legislative School Study Committee no change in present legal walking distances for school children.

School children are bussed if they live more than one mile from school in elementary grades, more than 1-1/2 miles in junior high and more than 2 miles in high school. A comprehensive school transportation study was sparked by Gov. Jerry Apodaca's proposal early this year to require older school children to walk and cut school transportation costs sharply.

State School Transportation Director Bill Loshbough, special committee chairman, told the LSSC: "The committee was unanimous in opposition to the extension of any walking distances. It was felt transportation cost savings would be offset by increased exposure of pupils to unsafe walking situations and the increase in private vehicles used by parents or students for school transportation."

The panel also said "deadhead" mileage cost—miles traveled by school buses with no children aboard—should be recognized as part of operating costs and inserted in a new funding formula. Loshbough said school buses traveled 3.7 million "deadhead" miles last school year. He said "deadhead" costs are not included in the $15 million current fiscal year state funding for school transportation.

THESE "TUMBLEWEEDS" tumbled along last week-end at an acrobatic workshop in Albuquerque. This active group displayed energetic qualities last week as they turned to window washing in an effort to raise the money necessary for this trip. The girls are members of the Ruidoso School of Dance.

MRS. B
GECHELIA BARRON

It was nice having Wally Hjalmslet drop by, from up Flume Canyon way. Wally is in the wholesale play equipment business, enjoys his work, loves to meet new people, and hopes to make a lot of new friends. Mrs. Minnie Mae Everett has been in the hospital but is home now and doing fine. She received a call that her daughter, Royce in Odessa, Texas, was ill, and she has gone home to look after her. Minnie Mae is so good to care for others she sometimes forgets herself. It was pleasant talking to Zoe Kiesel, over in the Alto vicinity. I hope to hear from her again. Orlan Brady was so good to take me shopping. We both had quite a lot to do and it was a pleasure to get away from the house and my work for a while. Harris Flatero, I think from down in the valley, called and said he was looking for tailor work. He said he even made suits. He didn't leave an address, but if you run into him, it would be nice to give him some work.

them over for a delicious Sunday dinner. They think they are to be the 'grandparents' of a lovely neighborhood of very well behaved children. The nights are quiet—no traffic or barking dogs. Their unlocked house was not harmed or their parked, loaded cars were not bothered. (Too bad that is not the case in other places.) They think it is quite a good place to be and a good experience to move into such a praise-worthy town.

A great wish of mine is: That we could buy a box of breakfast cereal without buying a 'bummy face', a super light up sticker, or what ever, and have to pay a big price for it. There are many who do not need or want these things, but they are forced on us. How do we get it stopped?

"There it is again. We're being corn fed."

Fuel Ad-just-ment

Charge (noun) an amount added to your electric bill to pay only for the increased cost of fuel used to generate your electricity.

Part of your basic monthly electric rate goes to pay for fuel needed to generate the electricity needed to serve you. But . . . everyone knows what has happened to fuel costs since the last electric rates were approved. Fuel prices have gone up, up, up, month after month. To compensate for this increase, electric companies are allowed to collect a "fuel adjustment" which is passed through directly to the supplier. None of the fuel adjustment money is used for other purposes or stays with the utility company. Community Public Service Company is doing everything possible to hold down the cost of electricity, just as we have done for years. But . . . if you are to continue enjoying the convenience of having all the electricity you need . . . it's going to cost more.

Rampaging candidates

Aspirants for political office are omnipresent in the New Mexico political scene, with considerable emphasis being focused on the U.S. Senate seat more or less occupied in, presumably, the best interests of our sovereign state by "Little Joe" Montoya.

Montoya, presuming no stigma results from his hassle with IRS, will probably campaign for reelection, because, if he reverted to being a business man, he'd lose a lot of clout. And it's more than a possibility he doesn't aspire to early retirement from the prestigious Senate.

The choice of a senator rests with the voters — after the choice is theirs to make in the voting booth — and if the voters will assess their choice based on irrevocable statements by their favored candidate on just what he proposes to try to accomplish as our senator, true representation of the people is a possibility; albeit remote.

One logical approach to voter representation in Congress would be for the electorate to demand from all candidates a statement: "I propose to introduce legislation to . . . correct such-and-such. Which would be a refreshing change from "I'm against . . ." or "I'm for . . ." any and everything that every long-suffering taxpayer voter is for, or against.

Demanding commitments from politicians would eliminate the trite mouthings of strictly innocuous statements with which candidates for elective office deluge the voters. It's time the voter emerged as a force to be reckoned with — not merely a source to establish double-talking politicians in office.

The voters should force candidates to make positive statements of their intent and force them to follow through on those statements when they assume office with the assurance that if they don't, they won't be re-elected.

THE KEY — READING

Teachers have shocked legislators and the general public in recent years in bluntly reporting that masses of American children, usually those from disadvantaged homes, cannot read — even in high school.

Kenneth Clark recently remarked, in Washington, D.C., he felt it obvious parents in the national capital didn't care whether their children learned to read or not. There the problem is scandalous.

One reason for Clark's indictment is that the capital's schools refused to accept an emergency but . . . practical solution to the scandalous situation. Clark suggested in 1970 that a year be dedicated to reading and simple math — by all teachers if necessary — for those found unable to read adequately, no matter what grade they were in.

While the nation's capital refused to follow this commonsense approach, the schools in Richmond did so. And the results there have been encouraging. Washington's schools were balked by the teachers' union. Richmond had no such obstacle to overcome.

It was found in Richmond that many teachers didn't know how to teach reading; they were told to take courses to learn, or else. They learned and children who had never learned to read adequately made significant progress.

To learn any subject one must read; therefore, reading is the priority, foremost course in elementary school, and above, when necessary. The Richmond experiment shows that a year dedicated to reading is worth the time and effort — and may be the only way to cope with situations now existing in some of the public schools.

INDUSTRIAL PIRATES

In international trade relations, it might be said that a nation crosses the threshold of industrial maturity when it ceases to copy the products of other countries and begins to design its own. Before reaching this point, however, fledgling industrial empires have been notoriously lax on the subject of patent rights, particularly when they are of foreign origin.

Japan, prior to World War II, was the recognized pirate of American goods. Cheap imitations were made of a variety of items, including pens, watches, clocks, cigarette lighters and cameras. Inferior in quality and often crudely made, Japanese copies flooded markets at a fraction of the cost of American originals.

With the rebuilding of Japanese industrial facilities after the war, under the watchful eye of MacArthur's occupation forces, Japanese-designed products began to make a strong impression in world markets. Its industries and commerce matured.

Other underdeveloped countries now are using the route to industrial strength once taken by Japan. They are stealing designs of inexpensive, fast-selling items, imitating the products as cheaply as possible and turning the junk loose in trade channels under the guise of better quality merchandise from other lands.

Communist block countries pay no regard to patent rights, and there are other nations which have not progressed to the point of offering products not found in abundance elsewhere. If they wish to travel the disreputable path of piracy to achieve a measure of industrial success, there is little the remainder of the world can do except ban their products.

Letter To Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

I felt that the people of our community would be interested to know of the plight of a group of Christians, some 34,000, in Malawi, Africa. Thousands of Christians are now under brutal persecution in Malawi. Starting August 19, 1975, Jehovah's Witnesses who fled as refugees to Mozambique in 1972 because of severe persecution, were forced to return to Malawi and now experience brutal persecution again. All of this is because of their refusal to join a political party.

I just received a report from N.H. Knorr at the Brooklyn headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses. He said that when a group of Jehovah's Witnesses arrived at the Malawi border, the Minister for the Central Region, Mr. Kamwesa Banda, greeted them: "We welcome you with both hands. You left Malawi of your own accord and now you have returned of your own accord. The Malawi Congress Party is still in power in this country. Go back to your home villages and cooperate with the party officials." Then, referring to the members of the League of Malawi Youth, he said: "My boys are here to see that you do cooperate with the Party." Soon roads in the north and central regions of Malawi were filled with Jehovah's Witnesses on their way back to their home villages.

In some instances the Witnesses were allowed to enter their villages and take up occupancy of houses they abandoned in 1972. However, in most cases Youth Leaguers soon called to ask if they were prepared to buy political party cards. Referring to Jesus' example of political neutrality, the Witnesses refused. Immediately beatings, ripings and other atrocities began again and many were driven from their homes. In Kanchenche six Witness women were all raped by several men. In Sosola village a group of men and women, including the local Member of Parliament, Mr. Elson Mubwa, seized the possessions of the Witnesses and drove them from the village.

Early in September youths under the direction of the Kasanjola branch of the Malawi Congress Party visited homes of Jehovah's Witnesses in six

FACTS ARE FACTS

A "federal agency panel" . . . no specific designation . . . has deduced, in an unpublished study, the fact: . . . lower income groups consume less gasoline, on the average, than upper income groups". A mind-boggling pronouncement.

Should this panel be designated to study the use of double knit fabrics in men's trousers, it follows they'd electrify the manufacturers with the astounding conclusion that a 250 pound man wears larger trousers than a 125 pounder.

What this panel proposes is to hike the federal gasoline tax 10 cents a gallon in the 1990s . . . and, in a magnanimous gesture to the downtrodden, return $50 to drivers as a tax rebate. Can't you just see the minimum wage earner's cup of joy overflowing?

Must be a simple solution . . . like slapping a federal tax on over-the-road vehicles bases on their miles-per-gallon track record. Maybe $20,000 tax on a vehicle getting two miles per gallon, payable with the purchase of said vehicle. Not that that'd deter those that can afford such a vehicle . . . but it'd sure keep the little guy from putting on airs. And, after all, isn't the reasoning behind this panel's tax hike suggestion to reduce gasoline consumption by forcing the lower income segments . . . like 85% of us . . . off the road?

Yep, the way things are going all of US citizens get a fair shake . . . how fair depends upon whether you is the shaker or the shaker.

WORTHY PROJECT

Because there are so many "worthy causes", perhaps a group of concerned citizens could undertake a "worthy project" . . . like determining who is reaping the benefits of food stamps . . . for instance . . . and why they are.

This group of concerned citizens could volunteer their time to . . . as do poll watchers villages, demanding they buy party cards. When they refused, the youths stole all their belongings, subjected them to terrible beatings and destroyed their small supply of flour. In other locations the Witnesses were stripped naked, their hair burned off their bodies with torches and beaten until blood came out of their mouths and noses. This happened at Chimasongwe village in Lilongwe under the direction of the local chairman of the Youth League, Mr. Chipukupuku, while the attackers were urged on by local women members of the League of Malawi Women.

Because no one will accept them, many Witnesses have been forced to wander in the cities by day, sleeping in nearby forests at night. Upward of 4,000 fled to neighboring Zambia, but reports just received say they were repatriated to Malawi by force.

Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda, Life President of Malawi, recently instructed the Malawi police to round up adult Jehovah's Witnesses and put them in detention camps. The children are being left behind either to stay with relatives or fend for themselves. The government order applies this even to nursing infants. The police have ruthlessly executed this order. Whole congregations of Witnesses, men and women, have at elections . . . determine who is spending food stamps. They could also ascertain the make, year and model of the vehicle they drive . . . and, using as it is public record, the value of their domicile.

These facts would possibly cause no travail to the more affluent users of food stamps . . . but it could result in a modification of discomfort, because some public minded individual might be able to bring about a cessation to this flagrant abuse . . . if it'd be possible to wade through the sea of bureaucracy to bring it to pass . . . what with welfare offices, et al, actively campaigning to attract more enrollees.

'Course, what with election year coming up . . .

THE SNOW CAME

Should you feel disposed . . . to be trite . . . to shed a tear in your beer for a frustrated soul . . . feel free to do so for Roy Parker, the genial general manager of Sierra Blanca ski resort.

Roy was hard put to officiating Thanksgiving Day . . . mostly because there was just enough snow . . . using his word . . . to make skiing "awful".

But Saturday came . . . and with it, a bountiful snow . . . with the trouble being that snow arrived at the ski area horizontal to the slopes . . . and the accompanying winds, in addition to piling drifts where the skiers don't go, uprooted trees to the extent there can't be any skiing until the debris is cleared . . . power restored . . . and lifts returned to operation.

On the bright side, Roy got the snow he's been wishing for . . . and if he can get the snow cleared from the high winds . . . and gets many inches of deep vertical snow fall . . . he might have the best holiday season ever.

Meanwhile, though, feel free to shed that tear . . . it's the least you can do.

BRIEF BIT: You're well past middle age when your pressured cause you more trouble than your troubles cause . . . CD been rounded up and put in detention to further pressure them into buying political party membership cards and to prevent flight from Malawi.

It seems a shame that humans could treat other humans in such an inhuman way. Therefore, I wanted to inform the people of Ruidoso of these atrocities.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for publishing this letter in your paper.

Sincerely,
Gary F. Smith

Letter To Editor

Dear Mr. Editor,
We would like to thank the people of Ruidoso for all the help that they have given our family. Prior to and after the article in your paper regarding the fire in our home that destroyed it and all our belongings, the people of this town turned out to help us start over. Also we would like to thank those people who were instrumental in helping our out of state relatives locate us. It is hard to find the words to express our feelings of gratitude to the people of Ruidoso for all they have done. A mere thank you doesn't seem enough.

God Bless
All Of You,
Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Lara

"There it is again. We're being corn fed."

Fuel Adjustment Charge (noun) an amount added to your electric bill to pay only for the increased cost of fuel used to generate your electricity.

Part of your basic monthly electric rate goes to pay for fuel needed to generate the electricity needed to serve you. But... everyone knows what has happened to fuel costs since the last electric rates were approved. Fuel prices have gone up, up, up, month after month. To compensate for this increase, electric companies are allowed to collect a "fuel adjustment" which is passed through directly to the supplier. None of the fuel adjustment money is used for other purposes or stays with the utility company. Community Public Service Company is doing everything possible to hold down the cost of electricity, just as we have done for years. But... if you are to continue enjoying the convenience of having all the electricity you need... it's going to cost more.

Rampaging candidates

Aspirants for political office are omnipresent in the New Mexico political scene, with considerable emphasis being focused on the U.S. Senate seat more or less occupied by, presumably, the best interests of our sovereign state by "Little Joe" Montoya.

Montoya, presuming no stigma results from his hassle with IRS, will probably campaign for reelection, because, if he reverted to being a business man, he'd lose a lot of clout. And it's more than a possibility he doesn't aspire to early retirement from the prestigious Senate.

The choice of a senator rests with the voters — after the choice is theirs to make in the voting booth — and if the voters will assess their choice based on irrevocable statements by their favored candidate on just what he proposes to try to accomplish as our senator, true representation of the people is a possibility; albeit remote.

One logical approach to voter representation in Congress would be for the electorate to demand from all candidates a statement: "I propose to introduce legislation to . . . correct such-and-such. Which would be a refreshing change from "I'm against . . ." or "I'm for . . ." any and everything that every long-suffering taxpaying voter is for or against.

Demanding commitments from politicians would eliminate the frate mouthings of strictly innocuous statements with which candidates for elective office deluge the voters. It's time the voter emerged as a force to be reckoned with — not merely a source to establish double-talking politicians in office.

The voters should force candidates to make positive statements of their intent and force them to follow through on those statements when they assume office with the assurance that if they don't, they won't be re-elected.

THE KEY — READING

Teachers have shocked legislators and the general public in recent years in bluntly reporting that masses of American children, usually those from disadvantaged homes, cannot read — even in high school.

Kenneth Clark recently remarked, in Washington, D.C., he felt it obvious parents in the national capital didn't care whether their children learned to read or not. There the problem is scandalous.

One reason for Clark's indictment is that the capital's schools refused to accept an emergency but . . . practical solution to the scandalous situation. Clark suggested in 1970 that a year be dedicated to reading and simple math — by all teachers if necessary — for those found unable to read adequately, no matter what grade they were in.

While the nation's capital refused to follow this commonsense approach, the schools in Richmond did so. And the results there have been encouraging. Washington's schools were balked by the teachers' union. Richmond had no such obstacle to overcome.

It was found in Richmond that many teachers didn't know how to teach reading; they were told to take courses to learn, or else. They learned and children who had never learned to read adequately made significant progress.

To learn any subject one must read; therefore, reading is the priority, foremost course in elementary school, and above, when necessary. The Richmond experiment shows that a year dedicated to reading is worth the time and effort — and may be the only way to cope with situations now existing in some of the public schools.

INDUSTRIAL PIRATES

In international trade relations, it might be said that a nation crosses the threshold of industrial maturity when it ceases to copy the products of other countries and begins to design its own. Before reaching this point, however, fledgling industrial empires have been notoriously lax on the subject of patent rights, particularly when they are of foreign origin.

Japan, prior to World War II, was the recognized pirate of American goods. Cheap imitations were made of a variety of items, including pens, watches, clocks, cigarette lighters and cameras. Inferior in quality and often crudely made, Japanese copies flooded markets at a fraction of the cost of American originals.

With the rebuilding of Japanese industrial facilities after the war, under the watchful eye of MacArthur's occupation forces, Japanese designed products began to make a strong impression on world markets. Its industries and commerce matured.

Other underdeveloped countries now are using the route to industrial strength once taken by Japan. They are stealing designs of inexpensive, fast-selling items, imitating the products as cheaply as possible and turning the junk loose in trade channels under the guise of better quality merchandise from other lands.

Communist block countries pay no regard to patent rights, and there are other nations which have not progressed to the point of offering products not found in abundance elsewhere. If they wish to travel the disreputable path of piracy to achieve a measure of industrial success, there is little the remainder of the world can do except ban their products.

Letter To Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

I felt that the people of our community would be interested to know of the plight of a group of Christians, some 34,000, in Malawi, Africa. Thousands of Christians are now under brutal persecution in Malawi. Starting August 19, 1975, Jehovah's Witnesses who fled as refugees to Mozambique in 1972 because of severe persecution, were forced to return to Malawi and now experience brutal persecution again. All of this is because of their refusal to join a political party.

I just received a report from N.E. Knorr at the Brooklyn headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses. He said that when a group of Jehovah's Witnesses arrived at the Malawi border, the Minister for the Central Region, Mr. Kumbweza Banda, greeted them: "We welcome you with both hands. You left Malawi of your own accord and now you have returned of your own accord. The Malawi Congress Party is still in power in this country. Go back to your home villages and cooperate with the party officials." Then, referring to the members of the League of Malawi Youth, he said: "My boys are here to see that you do cooperate with the Party." Soon roads in the north and central regions of Malawi were filled with Jehovah's Witnesses on their way back to their home villages.

In some instances the Witnesses were allowed to enter their villages and take up occupancy of houses they abandoned in 1972. However, in most cases Youth Leaguers soon called to ask if they were prepared to buy political party cards. Referring to Jesus' example of political neutrality, the Witnesses refused. Immediately beatings, rapings and other atrocities began again and many were driven from their homes. In Kanchenchu six Witness women were all raped by several men. In Sosola village a group of men and women, including the local Member of Parliament, Mr. Elean Muluzi, seized the possessions of the Witnesses and drove them from the village.

Early in September youths under the direction of the Kasonjola branch of the Malawi Congress Party visited homes of Jehovah's Witnesses in six

STUPID & JUNK By

FACTS ARE FACTS

A "federal agency panel" . . . no specific designation . . . has deduced, in an unpublished study, the fact: " . . . lower income groups consume less gasoline, on the average, than upper income groups." A mind-boggling pronouncement.

Should this panel be designated to study the use of double knit fabrics in men's trousers, it follows they'd electrify the manufacturers with the astounding conclusion that a 250 pound man wears larger trousers than a 125 pounder.

What this panel proposes is to hike the federal gasoline tax 10 cents a gallon in the 1980s . . . and, in a magnanimous gesture to the downtrodden, return $50 to drivers as a tax rebate. Can't you just see the minimum wage earner's cup of joy overflowing?

Must be a simple solution . . . like slapping a federal tax on over-the-road vehicles based on their miles-per-gallon track record. Maybe $20,000 tax on a vehicle getting two miles per gallon, payable with the purchase of said vehicle. Not that that'd deter those that can afford such a vehicle . . . but it'd sure keep the little guy from putting on airs. And, after all, isn't the reasoning behind this panel's tax hike suggestion to reduce gasoline consumption by forcing the lower income segments . . . like 85% of us . . . off the road?

Yup, the way things are going all of US citizens get a fair shake . . . how fair depends upon whether you is the shaker or the shaker.

WORTHY PROJECT

"Because there are so many "worthy causes", perhaps a group of concerned citizens could undertake a "worthy project" . . . like determining who is reaping the benefits of food stamps . . . for instance . . . and why they are.

This group of concerned citizens could volunteer their time to . . . as do poll watchers villages, demanding they buy party cards. When they refused, the youths stole all their belongings, subjected them to terrible beatings and destroyed their small supply of flour. In other locations the Witnesses were stripped naked, their hair burned off their heads with torches and beaten until blood came out of their mouths and noses. This happened at Chimnasongwe village in Lilongwe under the direction of the local chairman of the Youth League, Mr. Chipukupuku, while the attackers were urged on by local women members of the League of Malawi Women.

Because no one will accept them, many Witnesses have been forced to wander in the cities by day, sleeping in nearby forests at night. Upward of 4,000 fled to neighboring Zambia, but reports just received say they were repatriated to Malawi by force.

Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda, Life President of Malawi, recently instructed the Malawi police to round up adult Jehovah's Witnesses and put them in detention camps. The children are being left behind either to stay with relatives or fend for themselves. This government order applies the even to nursing infants. The police have ruthlessly executed this order. Whole congregations of Witnesses, men and women, have at elections . . . determine who is spending food stamps. They could also ascertain the make, year and model of the vehicle they drive . . . and, seeing as it is public record, the value of their domicile.

These facts would possibly cause no travail to the more affluent parts of food stamps . . . but it could result in a modicum of discomfort, because some public minded individual might be able to bring about a cessation to this flagrant abuse . . . if it'd be possible to wade through the sea of bureaucracy to bring it to pass . . . what with welfare offices, et al, actively campaigning to attract more enrollees.

"Course, what with election year coming up . . .

THE SNOW CAME

Should you feel disposed . . . to be tribe . . . to shed a tear in your beer for a frustrated soul . . . feel free to do so for Roy Parker, the genial general manager of Sierra Blanca ski resort.

Roy was hard put to offer skiing Thanksgiving Day . . . mostly because there was just enough snow . . . using his word . . . to make skiing "awful".

But Saturday came . . . and with it, a bountiful snow . . . with the trouble being that snow arrived at the ski area horizontal to the slopes . . . and the accompanying winds, in addition to piling drifts where the skiers don't go, uprooted trees to the extent there can't be any skiing until the debris is cleared . . . power restored . . . and lifts returned to operation.

On the bright side, Roy got the snow he's been wishing for . . . and if he can get the snow cleared from the high winds . . . and he gets many inches of nice vertical snow fall . . . he might have the best holiday season ever.

Meanwhile, though, feel free to shed that tear . . . it's the least you can do.

BRIEF BIT: You're well past middle age when your pleasure cause you more trouble than your troubles cause . . . CD

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for publishing this letter in your paper.

Letter To Editor

Dear Mr. Editor,
 We would like to thank the people of Ruidoso for all the help that they have given our family. Prior to and after the article in your paper regarding the fire in our home that destroyed it and all our belongings, the people of this town turned out to help us start over. Also we would like to thank those people who were instrumental in helping our out of state relatives locate us. It is hard to find the words to express our feelings of gratitude to the people of Ruidoso for all they have done. A mere thank you doesn't seem enough.

God Bless
 All Of You,
