MAJESTIC IN DEATH, this tree stands, almost as a silent sentinel, at the 7,400-foot level on Dude Mesa. In the mid-day sunlight, the stark whiteness of the twisted limbs and trunk stand out in sharp contrast to the late fall foliage in the background. The tree's pristine beauty could be a shutterbug's delight, with the photographic possibilities either worth a special 4-wheel drive vehicle trip up the mountain, or worth taking the time to find should you happen to be there on business or just to admire the scenery from atop the mesa.

'Good Sam' committee open meeting Tuesday

Lincoln County citizens are invited to a special meeting Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Center, behind the Ruidoso Library on Sudberth, to hear the facts, first hand, about the proposed Good Samaritan nursing and extended care home to serve all of Lincoln County from its Ruidoso location. There will be refreshments, courtesy of the ladies of the Senior Citizens — and a film will be shown on the operation of Good Samaritan homes. All aspects of the home will be aired by members of the advisory committee and Bill Clapper of the Good Samaritan. [SEE PAGE TWO]

'Smokey' coins on sale

"Smokey The Bear" 25th anniversary commemorative coins, in gold and bronze, go on sale at 9 a.m., Tuesday in Ruidoso State Bank, Security Bank and the Chamber of Commerce, C-C manager Richard Cochran said today. "The silver coin, 99.9 per cent pure, will sell for $20," Cochran said, "with the bronze coin to sell for $3. The Chamber has the proceeds earmarked for the expansion of the office here." The coins were struck by Southwest Medallion Inc., of Alamogordo.

SHERIFF VEGA FILES FIVE FELONY COUNTS

Isler charged with kidnapping

Three charges of kidnapping, in addition to two other felonies, were filed Thursday against Paul Hale Isler, 21, of Tucumcari, by Lincoln County Sheriff Leandro Vega Jr., before Judge Bill G. Payne in Magistrate's Court, Carrizozo.

Angela James and Lincoln County Deputy Sheriff Guilli Bradley, 2 counts.

Isler will be arraigned on all charges, Vega said, after he is released from an Alamogordo hospital.

The amended filing includes these charges:

Kidnapping Brenda Lane, Teresa James and Angela James, three counts, all second degree felonies.

Assault with intent to commit a violent felony against

All charges stem from the Dec. 1 incident in which Isler shot at Bradley about a mile west of White Oaks, after Isler had forced Teresa James, her three-year-old daughter Angela and Brenda Lane to ride with him in his car, according to the complaints filed by Vega.

Talking books at Ruidoso Library

"Talking Books" for the blind and others with specific physical handicaps are available through the Ruidoso Library, at no cost to the user, Mogene Barron, librarian, announced Friday. Those qualified for this Library of Congress service, in addition to the blind, are persons suffering from muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis or other neuromuscular diseases, Mrs. Barron said. Blindness is defined as 20/200, or less, vision in the better eye with corrective lenses. Eligibility under physical disability includes the inability to turn pages or hold a book, blurred or double vision, extreme weakness of excessive fatigue or other limitations that prevent a person from reading a book. Records available include best sellers, classics, mysteries, poetry, essays, the Bible, non-fiction and children's literature in English and foreign languages. Ms. Barron has a demonstrator record player available at the library now and qualified persons may use it for home trial. Application forms to obtain the free player and records desired are also at the [SEE PAGE TWO]

Woman fined in MJ arrest

A Ruidoso woman pled no contest to a two-count charge of "distribution of a small amount of marijuana" before Magistrate Bill G. Payne in Carrizozo Friday and was fined $100 and $10 costs. Dorothy Baldonado, 22 of Ruidoso, former dispatcher with the Ruidoso PD, was arrested by Ralph Romero, criminal investigator for the Lincoln County Sheriff's office, Lt. Otis Haley, NMEP, Ruidoso PD Chief Paul Lukens and Ruidoso CID Lt. Jerry Russell. The charges were filed by Romero. A warrant was issued and Lt. Road trial postponed

The Hon. George Zimmerman, 12th Judicial District Judge, Friday postponed the trial of the I Bar X Ranch vs. Lincoln County, on an access road question, because of the "failure to enjoin indispensable parties". Judge Zimmerman told counsel for Lincoln County and Kelly Stephenson of the I Bar X Ranch that other parties to the case, including the State of New Mexico, the Bureau of Land Management, Village of Carrizozo, Otero County Electric co-op Inc., The U.S. Forest Service and Lincoln County Sheriff Leandro Vega Jr., would be involved. The judge said a date for the trial could be set once all parties would be represented. The case dates back to Oct. 10, 1973 and involves putting locks and gates on what was then referred to as County Road No. 89. Others besides Stephenson, Judge Zimmerman said, were involved in the gates and the locks on them that curtailed access to the Water Canyon area.

Horsemen superstitious? Perish the thought!

BY DICK ALWAN
Sunland Park
Publicity Department
Peanuts are tasty little snacks, but don't ever bring one around the race track. "It's bad luck," one jockey at Sunland Park explained. "You don't want to be caught even carrying them. It's not only bad luck, everyone around you gets upset." Dean Turpitt, longtime starter at Sunland and other Southwest tracks, has similar feelings. "I never allowed peanuts near my starting gate," he says. "Personally, I'm not superstitious. But I've always had this rule about peanuts, and I think it's a good one. The gate crew, and jockeys and trainers believe peanuts are bad luck. I'm not one to press the issue." Trainer Margie Renfrow puts it this way: "As long as I've been around a race track, I've always heard peanuts are bad luck." Then, in a minute of levity, she risked the ire of the God of Chance by quipping: "I won't even eat peanut butter." Throwing one's hat on the bed is about the worst thing you can do, says Trainer Jerry Stamp. "I don't know what the reason is, but my dad, and his dad before him, believed it, and I do too. I've never had the chance to test it. I guess I don't want to find out." Stamp says it's any extra misfortune to bring an extra tack (stable gear) to the paddock before a race. "That's only a sign you're expecting bad luck," he says. Betty Harless, who did some riding at Ruidoso Downs during the summer, cautions against accepting small gifts on a race day. "Don't let anyone buy you anything," she points out. "If you're going to get a coke, and someone offers to get it for you, don't let him. Do everything for yourself on a day you plan to ride." It's just common sense to have every little thing going for you. Betty says: "I always wear my St. Christopher's medal when I ride. One time a jockey came up to me and asked to borrow it, because he'd left his at home. Well, I didn't have a ride in that race, so I let him use it." Betty also says yellow is an unlucky color around a racetrack. Margie says she heard the same thing applies at the rodeo. "The next time you're at the rodeo, take a look around. You'll never see any of the performers wearing yellow." It's also bad luck, according to track lore, to clip the hair high up on a horse's mane on the day he's going to run. But if there's one item which shows up continually in assessments of good and bad luck, it's clothing. One of the best examples concerns Trainer Newton Keck, who won three runnings of the All-American Futurity in the early years of the race. Bob Lewis, a Sunland steward, recalled Keck used to have a "lucky" shirt. "He had it for years, and he swore it really worked for him," Lewis recalled. "His wife took care of the shirt, and he wore it every time he was in a big race." Finally the inevitable happened. The shirt wore out. Lewis also reports the late trainer, James Chapman, had a lucky hat. It was back in 1969, when Lewis was an assistant for Tommy Dean. "Chapman had this black hat," Lewis said. "Well, it was on the day of a consolation for the All-American Futurity. I noticed Chapman wasn't wearing his hat. It was an hour before the race, and I said: 'Hey, where's that lucky hat?' Chapman dropped what he was doing, got in the car, and race home to get the hat, and got back just in time." It was a close call, but the hat did the trick. Chapman's horse, [SEE PAGE TWO]

Society's home offices in Sloux Fall, S.D., is expected to be at the meeting to discuss the operation of the home and answer questions. Area residents in need of transportation to the meeting are asked to call 257-4555 by 3 p.m., Tuesday. "We want to emphasize," advisory committee vice chairman John Sudderth said, "that this home will serve all of Lincoln County and at our Tuesday meeting we hope to have representatives from throughout the county. "The Good Samaritan Society is an extremely reputable non-profit organization that now operates more than 170 homes in the United States and never in their 70 odd years of operating nursing homes have they closed one. That I think is a point to be remembered."

Speckled Han, won the race.

Combinations of clothing are also right in fortuitous meaning. "You see that all the time around the track," Margie explains. "You put a horse in a maiden event, and he wins. Well, you remember the outfit you're wearing — the pants, the hat, the shirt. From then on, you wear the same combination everytime the horse runs."

We understand Trainer Bob Arnett also has his lucky hat, and his wife, Wilma, who has about 19 cats around the barn area, won't cross the path of a black feline. C.G. Wallace, the well-known horseman from Albuquerque, has a magnificent white hat which tends to evoke good fortune. Some trainers don't like to have their picture taken on the eve of a big race. Henderson Van Zandt, a Sunland steward, recalls the time he was working as a rating secretary in the mid 1950's in Ellis Park, Kentucky. There was a lady trainer who had a horse which fitted nicely in a handicap race. Van Zandt invited her to enter the horse in the race. But it was no deal, and there was no talking her into it. It seems the year before she had a horse which broke down in the same race. "She was convinced that race was unlucky for her," Van Zandt said.

So what about all this lucky and unlucky stuff? In this age of science and reason, who can believe in such mysterious forces?

Don Essary, director of Racing for the American Quarter Horse Assn. says there's no doubt people in the racing business have leanings in this direction. But this gut feeling of "luck" is an instinctive reaction in difficult situations, he says.

"Racing is a business which involves a lot of luck," he reasons. "You're coming up to a big race, and you go home and wonder if your horse is going to get a good break, and if he's feeling good. Pretty soon, you start to wonder if you're at the disposal of the gods. If the gods are displeased, there's the chance they'll arbitrarily pass misfortune down to you. You start to think: 'Damn it, I wonder if they're laying for me?'"

"Look at it this way," Essary says. "A horseman is faced with such a wide variety of possibilities — anything from a win in the All-American Futurity to a broken leg. This spectrum of possibilities defies the imagination."

Another thing. How much effort is it to touch all bases? So the next time you are saddling a horse in the paddock, be sure to spit in your hands, and rub the saliva on the horse's back. It's not exactly sanitary. But it's lucky. Ask anybody around the track.

To clarify: Return Postage Guaranteed

"RETURN POSTAGE GUARANTEED" appearing under the mailer's name on packages means just that — to the mailer — not to you, the recipient.

The only way in which the addressee can take advantage of this gratuitous offer is: REFUSE TO ACCEPT THE PACKAGE AT THE POST OFFICE COUNTER.

If you remove the package from the post office you must pay the postage to return it to the sender. If you open the package, even "just the corner to peek", you pay the return postage.

The postal regulations apply to any package, whether it be merchandise you did not order or something you ordered and then changed your mind about wanting.

DECA students learn distribution methods

By Bill Wilson
Staff Writer

phases of the business world.

"I believe in the future which I am planning for myself in the field of distribution, and in the opportunities which my vocation offers." Thus begins the DECA creed.

Distributive Education Clubs of America is a program of youth activities designed to develop future leaders in marketing and distribution and is the national organization operating through the public schools. Its two basic purposes are (1) to develop a respect for education in marketing and distribution which will contribute to occupational competence, and (2) to promote understanding and appreciation for the responsibilities of citizenship in our free enterprise system.

There are 70 students enrolled in the Ruidoso High School DECA program, and according to Tom Hansen, principal, it is one of the largest chapters in New Mexico. This outstanding group has a large trophy in the school, presented as second place in the state for "Outstanding Chapter of the Year for 1974."

The local chapter operates a store in the school selling school supplies, snacks and other items. This income is the main way DECA raises money for their annual banquets and to pay expenses to the state conferences. Other monetary distributions the store has provided include scholarships for summer camp, purchasing curriculum material for the math department and last year, after these disbursements, there was enough money for the Chapter to take an expense paid trip to "Six Flags."

DECA has a tremendous effect on the attitudes of students. In many cases it provides a chance to participate in activities that students might not have otherwise. The store has a schedule whereby all students work as "manager" or "employee." Through this method they learn to serve as leaders and followers and have the opportunity for recognition they would not have otherwise.

The Chapter activities are always school-centered and help promote the school's purpose of providing well adjusted, employable citizens. It attracts students interested in careers in marketing and other Leaders in the world of business have high praise for the DECA program and most favor hiring these students. Surveys reveal this type of employment has an enormous effect on economic development in the local community. Growth and development at the local level can only mean that this program has become a vital necessity to the nation.

Eddie Parker is the Distributive Education teacher and serves as Chapter advisor. Organization of DECA goes all the way from the local level to the U.S. Office of Education and from its inception in 17 states in 1947 the program is now offered in all 50 states.

Local businessmen not familiar with this program and having a need for employees should contact the local school. You will find these students to be the most energetic and enthusiastic people you have ever had on your payroll.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Ever have to hunt for a misplaced wallet or purse just before leaving the house? It has to be one of life's most frustrating experiences. Similarly, the last-minute search for records needed to fill out tax forms can be just as frustrating—particularly when the search begins on the evening of April 15th. For example, a taxpayer who hasn't had the time to gather together records of all charitable contributions or medical expenses could be overlooking items, making errors in taste, and shortchanging himself or herself at tax time.

That's why the Internal Revenue Service urges taxpayers to gather their tax records now, so they will be ready to fill out their returns when their tax package arrives in the mail around the first of the year and have all substantiating records on hand.

Of course, there's always been an added advantage to getting an early start on taxes. Persons who file their returns in January can expect their refunds in four to five weeks, while taxpayers who file later can experience refund waits of as long as eight weeks.

Getting an early start makes good sense whether a taxpayer files the Form 1040 or the short Form 1040A.

With respect to the choice of forms, this year the IRS will send Form 1040A packages to some 16 million Americans who filed on Form 1040 last year because these taxpayers could have used the short form.

This year it will probably be to the advantage of many former 1040 taxpayers to use the Form 1040A because the standard deduction has been increased— one of a number of tax breaks provided for by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975.

The new law increases the maximum standard deduction to 10 percent of gross income; up to a maximum of $2,000 for taxpayers filing a joint return ($1,000 for married persons filing separately) and to $2,000 for single persons. So it just may pay to claim the standard deduction on Form 1040A.

But how can a taxpayer be sure? Round up all records— receipts, doctor and hospital bills, cancelled checks for charitable contributions and for other deductible expenses— to verify that all deductions have been accounted for. Then compare the sum of all the deductions with the standard deduction to see which way results in the lower tax.

Another change is the addition of a 5 percent credit for the purchase of certain new residences. To qualify for the credit, which can go to $2,000, the taxpayer must meet a number of conditions including filing with the tax return certification by the seller that the purchase price is the lowest price at which the residence was offered for sale since February 28, 1975. Because it could take several weeks or even longer to obtain such certification, the taxpayer who requires certification and does not have it should take steps now to get it.

Taxpayers who sold their home and used the proceeds to purchase another residence may benefit from another feature of the new law. In the past, homeowners could postpone paying tax on any profit from the sale of their homes if they bought a new one within a year costing at least as much as they sold the old one for. The new feature extends the time limit by six months.

There are 15 million Americans whose daily lives are affected by birth defects, according to The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Sad, sad statistics

An Associated Press compilation of the percentage of high school students and young adults who are functionally illiterate, points up the fact that our secondary school systems are almost guilty of criminal neglect in not teaching students to read, write or figure simple mathematical problems correctly.

A report by the National Assessment of Educational Progress in Denver states that 11 per cent of the 17-year-olds in the nation's schools cannot read a newspaper, labels on medicine and food, or the wording on a drivers license.

The U.S. Office of Education reports that 23 million US adults cannot read help wanted ads. The National Assessment report also states that only one per cent of the 17-year-olds and 16 per cent of the adults can balance a check book.

If the purpose of a high school education is to prepare students who can, or will, not matriculate to become taxpaying employees and good solid citizens, it is obvious, from the findings above, that there is a dereliction of duty on the part of teachers and school boards from kindergarten through grade 12, in not teaching the three R's. And if students don't learn to spell, how can they read?

Perhaps the answer is to make all high school students earn a General Equivalency Diploma before they can qualify for a high school diploma. This would prove they could understand what they read, express their thoughts in writing and do simple arithmetic.

The time is at hand to reassess curriculums through high school and to teach the three R's to students until they develop a proven proficiency.

An interesting experiment would be to require Ruidoso High School seniors to take the General Equivalency Diploma examination — for the sake of, if nothing else, to determine the quality of education these young people have received; as compared to the national statistics.

ON PACKAGING

Present day packaging . . . to one of my ilk . . . is confusing.

Take those safety caps on pill bottles. I push, pull, twist, line arrows up . . . no way that cap'll loosen . . . so for want of a small child's expertise, I use a hammer . . . then have a ball picking bits of glass out of said pills.

Used to be all you needed to quaff suds was a beer wrench . . . now they have don't pop and press in poppers on can tops . . . and if I don't break a fingernail, I sprain the first joint of my index finger. Ergo, my fondness for ice tea.

Grab the loose end of a piece of cellophane and jerk . . . and I wind up with a half-inch strip of cellophane . . . no open container . . . and no way to start over. By the time I find a knife and get the top amateurishly removed, I'm in no mood for whatever it was I wanted when I jerked.

Poke in the hole where it says, and lift up. What happens is that the end of my poking finger gets trapped inside the package and by the time it is extricated . . . so what's to lift up?

Twist to lift off, press down to reseal. Being my grip is as weak as a lot with the gripper . . . I use church key, pliers and screwdriver . . . recalling being out of the question. I'm developing a fondness for dried out cruddy jelly.

I even change brands, only to learn that the packagers are in cahoots . . . and one is as bad or worse than another . . . kinda makes me hanker for the good old days when all you needed in the line of opening tools was church key, knife and can opener. And no one could tell the crackers were soggy after dunking them in soup.

ON BEER CITY

The biggest smiles in beer city . . . that's Milwaukee, in case your favorite libation doesn't build a head when poured . . . must be on the faces of the brewery owners. So happens that the price of milk exceeds the price of suds . . . which must lead to many interesting family discussions . . . about such as cirrhosis of the liver in toddlers.

BRIEF BIT: As to this nation's future, keep the faith in the younger generation . . . what else is there? . . . CD

Clipped comment

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

A female women's rights advocate in Albuquerque was recently asked if she would prefer to be called "chairperson" or "spokesperson", rather than the conventional chairman and spokesman.

The lady replied that for a while she insisted on the "chairperson" and "spokesperson" approach to avoid the "man" label. Eventually, however, it dawned on the woman that there is a masculine "son" on the end of the labels she was insisting on. Now, she said, it really doesn't matter to her.

After all, there's even a "man" in woman and a "he" in she. Oh yes, and a "male" in female and another "man" in human.

One fella facetiously suggested that using "chairindividual" and "spokesindividual" might solve the problem.

Most folks consider arguments over trivia such as this to be pure nonsense. Such arguments are tiresome to most and can give the women's rights movement a bad reputation.

To be sure, it is more important that a woman is treated as an equal than that the perfect label is assigned to her. But it is still basic, and sometimes unconscious, indoctrination such as vocabulary that has served to keep women "in their place."

Currently our culture is undergoing a series of changes which ultimately will almost surely benefit the females (and therefore everybody) in our society. Times of change are often awkward, and it is easy to get sidetracked on unimportant issues on the way to a major objective. Perhaps the next generation won't be hung up on "chairmen" and "chairpersons", but will be more concerned about just plain people.

AGGIE JOKE

A new angle is the Aggie Mama joke. Have you seen the letter from the Aggie Mama to her son? Here 'tis:

Dear Sam:
Just a few lines to let you know that I'm still alive. I'm writing very slow, as you can see, because I know you cannot read very fast. You won't know the house when you come home — we've moved.

About your father, he has a lovely new job. He has 500 men under him. He's cutting the grass at the cemetery.

There was a washing machine in the new house when we moved in, but it isn't working good. Last week, I put 14 shirts into it, pulled the chain and I haven't seen the shirts since.

Your sister Moe had a baby this morning. I haven't found out whether it is a boy or girl, so I don't know whether you are an aunt or uncle.

Your Uncle Dick drowned last week in a vat of whiskey at the Dublin Brewery. Some of his workmates dived in to save him but he fought them off successfully. We cremated his body and it took three days to put out the fire.

Your father didn't have much to drink at Christmas. I put a bottle of Castor Oil in his pint of beer, and it kept him going til New Year's.

I went to the doctor on Thursday and you father came with me. The doctor put a small glass tube into my mouth and told me to keep it shut for 10 minutes. Your father offered him $50 for it.

It rained only twice last week. First for three days and then for four days. Monday it was so windy that one of our chickens laid the same egg four times.

We had a letter from the undertaker. He said if the last installment wasn't paid on your grandmother within four days, up she comes.

Your Loving Mother
P.S. I was going to send you $10, but I had already sealed the envelope.

Hop Graham,
Daily Leader,
Lovington

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir:
Reading in the Ruidoso News that the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce had jumped the gun on Captain in ordering the Smokey Bear commemorative medallions is one of the most flagrant violations of community neighborliness I have ever witnessed. I well remember the support the Ruidoso C. of C. once gave the small group in Captain in the early years of building and maintaining the Smokey Bear museum. The Ruidoso News, the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce and several other Ruidoso individuals and firms contributed towards the Smokey Bear museum, and down through the years — the Ruidoso News on every occasion where possible gave much publicity, with pictures, of the fine attraction and additional mention whenever possible to encourage folks to visit it.

I don't know how Ruidoso can cease the hard feelings that this gesture must have generated — Ruidoso needs all the friends and supporters it can get — but . . . how do you untie a hard knot that is tangled with such little feelings for the many years of dedicated endeavor of those fine Captain folks?

Vic Lamb
Sedona, Arizona
P.S. And, another great thing that Captain had was that wonderful fighting Tigers football team year after year. I think I enjoyed the spirit, the grit and joy of the Captain team's rivalry with Ruidoso years ago more than any games the Warriors played!

Rh blood disease in newborn has dropped substantially since immune globulin for the Rh negative mother came into use after 1968, reports The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Inside The Capital

Santa Fe - The Senate power brokers in the 1976 Legislature will be C.B. Trujillo, Taos; Ike Smalley, Luna-Hidalgo-Sierra; Odie Echols, Clovis, and Aubrey Dunn, Alamogordo. All are Democrats.

Rep. Ron Chaplin, R-Albuquerque, will ask the legislature to clear to voters a constitutional amendment aimed at reducing what he says is strong control over the giant annual state general appropriations bill by a few senators. The targets are mainly Dunn and Trujillo. Dunn is Senate Finance Committee chairman. Trujillo is a SFC member. Chaplin is on the House Appropriations-Finance Committee.

Chaplin would require the appropriations bill to be introduced alternately in the Senate and House. For many years the bill has been inroduced and written in the House. Chaplin says: "The Senate amends the bill so drastically that it produces no vote when it is returned to the House. This throws it into a conference committee so that four of the six Senate-House conferees decide on spending $483.2 million a year." He says his amendment "would reverse the cycle."

Smalley is Senate president pro tem. Echols is majority whip. Trujillo is majority leader. With Dunn they manage Senate business.

Rep. Dan Berry, D-Eunice, says the pending major energy bill in Congress "would shut down the New Mexico oil and gas industry for two years." Berry says the one-year price rollback in the bill would close off the New Mexico industry for a year. "Another year would be needed to gear up again," he says. Berry also predicts the federal bill "would push U.S. dependency on foreign oil to 50 per cent of requirements." He says: "It is 40 per cent now."

Rep. Berry favors setting the campaign contribution limit by corporations and unions for one candidate at $1,000 in statewide races and $500 in other races below the state level. He says: "This would legalize something that goes on now through individual or committee contributions by corporations and unions." Berry is on an interim lawmaker committee that put finishing touches on an election reporting bill.

Sen. John Morrow, D-Colfax-Union-Harding-San Miguel, says of 1976 Legislature state spending prospects: "We're trying to stay within our means. If tax relief is possible, senior citizens on fixed incomes should receive it." Morrow is on the SFC and Legislative School Study Panel. A Capulin rancher, Morrow says school bus operators apparently need more money. The current state school busing appropriation is $16 million.

Rep. John Bigbee, R-DeBaca-Lincoln-Guadalupe-Torrance, says: "Too many illegible children are being bused." The LSSC received an advisory committee report recomending no change in present school children walking distances. Elementary school children are bused if they are more than one mile from school, junior high children if they are more than 1 1/2 miles and senior high students if they are more than 2 miles away.

The City of Albuquerque will annex part of Volcano Cliffs Subdivision and create a special assessment district to install water and sewer lines and street paving. The Albuquerque City Council earlier formally opposed a request from Volcano Cliffs owners to annex Volcano Cliffs to the Lakeshore District in Sierra County near Elephant Butte Lake to fund the utilities.

Albuquerquean D.W. Falls, president of S and F Corp., Volcano Cliffs owner, requested a written City of Albuquerque commitment for Volcano Cliffs annexation and other concessions.

Bids will be opened Dec. 12 by the State Highway Commission on repairs to a Lincoln County bridge over Rio Bonito on NM-37 south of the NM-48 junction. The bridge deck will be replaced and the substructure will be widened.

Armstrong Construction Co. Inc., Roswell, was apparent low bidder at $288,490 on 18 miles of overlay on NM-83 from Lovington east in Lea County. T-D construction Co., Albuquerque, was apparent low bidder at $122,381 for crushing and stockpiling material on US-64 and NM-21 near Cimarron in Colfax County.

A 519-acre tract 26 miles northwest of Jal with a $167 per acre average attracted the $88,086 high bid from Getty Oil Co., Midland, in the sealed portion of the monthly State Land Office oil and gas lease sale. The next sale is set Dec. 16 in Santa Fe.

State officials say New Mexico oil industry tax revenue will drop $7 to $10 million a year if the major federal energy bill becomes law. Executive Director Antonio Martinez of the State Oil and Gas Accounting Division forecast reduced state income of "some 8 per cent across the board."
