Second place in traditional dancing went to the Kiowa Tia-Piah Society of Oklahoma with third to the Pete Moore group of Tulsa, Okla.

Top money in men's fancy war dance was won by Jake Reynolds of Oklahoma City, Norman New Rider of Pawnee, Okla., was second with Dennis Zotich of Albuquerque winning third.

In men's straight war dance, traditional style, Floyd Moses of Apache, Okla., was first, Pete Moore of Tulsa, second and Vernon Harragarra of Albuquerque, third.

Other winning contestants from Mescalero included:

Lynelle Klinekole, second and Norma Rosetosavit, third in Junior Girls' Cloth; Richelle Kaydahzinne, first and Gynon Kaydahzinne, third in Tiny Tots Boys; and Yonda Tortilla, third in Tiny Tots Girls.

Tribal members from Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Washington performed in both contest and group dancing to standing room only crowds during the four Pow Wow performances.

The next two large Pow Wows at Mescalero will be the annual 4th of July celebration, including the traditional Puberty Rites Ceremonial for MAT maidens followed by the nationwide championship dancing contest, inaugurated last year as paying the highest purse in the world, scheduled for the latter part of July.

'Good Sam' drive slowed by lack of site approval

Lincoln County moved a step closer to obtaining final site approval for the Good Samaritan Nursing Home Monday night after "Good Sam" representative Bill Clapper outlined the specific items needed to insure acceptance of the Camelot site by the Good Samaritan Board of Directors.

"Acceptance of the Camelot site by the board is contingent upon getting a financial statement and information on the Camelot Corporation," Clapper said. "So far we've been unable to obtain one."

According to Clapper, if the Good Sam Advisory Committee could obtain a clear title to the Camelot site and assure the society, in writing, that roads and utilities would be provided to service the nursing home, approval of the site would be greatly expedited.

"I've done my best to push the Camelot site," Clapper said. "If the local advisory committee will give me some extra help and information we could probably get the site approved in the next few months."

The Lincoln County Commissioners Tuesday, at a preliminary public budget hearing, held out little hope to agencies requesting additional funding for fiscal 1976-77.

The commission, citing increased costs and minimal revenues, is moving to reduce next year's budget to essentials. Agency requests will be balanced against available funds, with allocations to be finalized at the commission's April 7 meeting.

"Right now the county isn't in a bad position . . . it's still solvent, but if the present trend continues it will be in serious financial trouble within two or three years," county manager Les Olson said.

"In the upcoming fiscal year we're going to have to retrench," he said. "The budget is now balanced to within $7,000 . . . that's above current revenues, but since we're ahead on investments we should come out all right. However, the next 18 months are going to be nip and tuck all the way."

About 20 county residents, the largest special interest group attending the hearing, asked the commission for an additional $6,372 for the county extension office.

The funds will go toward the salary of a 4-H youth agent for the county. The agent would handle both 4-H and Future Farmers of America (FFA) clubs and would be responsible for conducting hunter safety programs in the area.

"By putting money into a 4-H agent we're investing in the future of our country by helping the children in the county," Walter Jones said. "This program is trying to train kids to be leaders and if we help just one child, it's worth the money."

Other funding requests came from the Lincoln County Health Office, which asked for an additional $2,317 to accommodate a 128 per cent increase in patients; and the Southwest Mental Health Center, which needs approximately $1,000 to continue alcohol and drug abuse counseling within the county.

Also asking for funds were the: Lincoln County Fair Association, $2,000; Chaves Natural Resource Conservation District, $1,000; Ruidoso Ambulance Service, $3,000; Carrizozo Ambulance Service, $2,000; South Central Mountain Resource Conservation District, $450; Ruidoso Public Library, $2,000; county clerk's office, $3,833; county assessor's office, $3,450; and the county law enforcement office, $20,830.

The total unmet budget requests amounted to $61,042, including a $13,000 capital outlay allocation for the lease-purchase of a computer for the county.

"We feel the addition of a county computer would help increase production in the courthouse," commissioner John Sudderth said. "The idea isn't to take people off the payroll or replace our current staff, but to expedite getting the job done."

In a report before the budget hearing, commissioner John Sudderth said he had met with county treasurer Veta Allen and recommended she be commended for her management of the treasurer's office as well as her handling of county investments. According to Sudderth, the county garnered $41,908 in returns on its investments last fiscal year and should

Correction

The News wishes to correct an erroneous statement made March 22 in the "My Side of the Mountain" editorial column under the heading "Hounding Problem." The column stated that: ". . . veterinarian Lynn Willard can rarely get Ruidoso Downs residents to bring in their pets for rabies shots." Dr. Willard did not make that statement to News reporter Randi McGinn, author of the column.

Tempers flared, cooled at Downs trustees meet

A lively exchange of opinions between a trustee, a businessman and mayor J.J. DiPaolo brought tense moments during the conduct of business at the Ruidoso Downs village trustees' meeting Monday.

The tension rose when first-term trustee M. H. Nelson requested explanations of "some of the activities" of the police department from Chief Lynn Martin. No action was taken pending proposed personnel changes in the department planned to become effective July 1.

Nelson then launched a series of other questions that ended only after mayor DiPaolo asked him to "make a point or refrain from asking questions in this manner."

DiPaolo then said, "Don't try to revolutionize Ruidoso Downs overnight." The air was cleared when businessman, Noel Mullins addressed the council. "We, the people, have elected you to represent us and all we ask is that you work together, harmoniously, which is not evident here tonight."

Village attorney Richard A. Parsons then reviewed a letter from the NM Commissioner of Revenue on the tax exemptions of operations at the Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Areas declared tax exempt include ticket sales, parking fees, pari-mutual betting, the All-American Sale and auctioneer's fees. All concessions, tack shop and feed sales are taxable.

Parsons said there is an unusual situation at the local track compared to tracks in other parts of the state, being that the Downs track lies wholly within the village limits whereas all others are located outside a municipality. This is the only possible "loophole" in state laws concerning the taxability, an avenue that is being investigated by the trustees.

The trustees discussed methods of controlling and collecting taxes and the issuance of occupational licenses to itinerant peddlers during the racing season. Control of the so-called "fly-by-night" businesses would require constant policing and it is questionable at the present time if the Downs police department will have the manpower to enforce the city ordinance covering this situation.

The trustees accepted a lease-purchase agreement bid of $211.24 per month from Southwest CTE for a new police department communications system. There was some question from the trustees as to the need for such an elaborate system. Police Chief Lynn Martin said some of the equipment now in use is 25 years old.

maintenance is high, and limitations on the old radios prevent reaching other law enforcement agencies that could be of assistance in case of emergencies.

In other action the trustees:

—Agreed to adopt a "get tough" policy on collecting delinquent water bills after being advised by Norman Wheeler, head of the Water Dept., that there is more than $2400 in past due accounts. Some methods discussed were the turning off of water after a reasonable notice or the possibility of increasing the amount of the meter deposit to cover any past due account.

—Delayed action on an ordinance governing occupational licensing pending receipt of an Attorney General's opinion.

No burning

No outside burning of any kind is permitted within the village limits of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs. The use of barbecue grills, with charcoal, and fireplaces is permitted.

All outside fires are prohibited in the Bonito Fire District, including all property north of Ruidoso to Nogal and Capitan, bounded by Sierra Blanca and Nogal Peak on the west and Ft. Stanton and Goat Mountain on the east. Covered metal or stone barbecues may be used only in cleared areas.

Violators will be subject to prosecution.

'Good Sam' gin tourney Monday

A gin rummy tournament, the next in a series of community fund-raising events benefiting the proposed Good Samaritan Nursing Home here, will begin Monday at 7 p.m., at Cree Meadows Country Club.

Entrants are to register as partners, with a $10 per player entry fee. Registration will be prior to the play.

The committee will pay cash prizes to the winners, runner-up and consolation teams.

Meadows Country Club. Entry fee for the tournament is $10 and cash prizes will be awarded to the top three finishers.

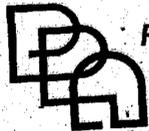

Other fund raising plans under consideration by the committee include the giving of a week's vacation in Hawaii, an antique auction, a womanless wedding in May and a casino party.

The committee is also considering holding a concert with a big name entertainer during the summer and sponsoring a community costume party.

"There's no real deadline for us to have our share of the money for the project collected," Sudderth said. "Good Sam" won't back out, but we'd like to see the fund drive go well so we can begin construction this calendar year."

"There's an urgent need for a nursing home in this area," Clapper noted. "Alamogordo hasn't even opened its 80 bed home yet and it's already filled and has a waiting list."

"We've got a long way to go with this fund drive, but we'll make it," Sudderth said in closing the meeting.

Sharon Richardson weds Leslie Bentley

Richardson-Bentley vows

Sharon Ann Richardson and Leslie Duane Bentley were united in marriage March 20 at 5:00 p.m. at the Cherokee Village Recreation Room with Judge W. A. Hart officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Ms. Betty Jo Richardson of Port Aransas, Texas. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bentley of El Paso, Texas and Mrs. Dale Means of Tucson, Arizona.

The ceremony was performed under a daisy covered trellis with the wedding music provided by a specially recorded tape by Walter Plant. Given in marriage by a friend, John Shamaley, the bride wore an informal long gown of off white eyelet gauze. The empire waisted gown featured a matching hat. She carried a basket of yellow and white daisies. For something old and borrowed, the bride wore a 35 year old cameo necklace which belonged to a friend, Marion Crandell. Something blue was the traditional blue garter.

The groom's father served as best man and his brother, Hebe, was groomsman. Dustin Bentley carried a yellow satin pillow and served as ring bearer.

Karyne Stinchcombe of Dallas, Texas, was maid of honor. She wore a long muslin gown trimmed in beige lace. Cynthia Howe was bridesmaid and wore a yellow gown trimmed with daisies. Both wore yellow straw hats and carried yellow daisies.

The bride's mother wore a yellow pant suit with a sheet floral blouse. The mother of the groom wore a baby blue gabardine pant suit.

A reception followed the ceremony at the recreation room. The long serving table was centered with an arrangement of daisies featuring white tapers. A champagne fountain and a three tiered wedding cake decorated with daisies were also used on the serving table. Cabbage rolls, Swedish meatballs, smoked turkey, ham and relish trays were served to the guests.

About 75 guests attended the wedding and reception. Out of town guests were: Mrs. Henry Bentley, El Paso, Texas, grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. John Joyner, El Paso, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Allen, Anthony, New Mexico, sister and brother-in-law of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Blaydes, El Paso, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Crandell, El Paso, Texas and Ms. Mary Anne Turner, Grants, N.M.

Fort Stanton hosts 2nd 'olympics'

FT. STANTON'S SECOND ANNUAL "Special Olympics" were held Saturday, March 20, at Labbs Field in Carrizozo, with competitors from Ft. Stanton, and ACES school in Alamogordo. This young lady is shown trying to win a ribbon in the softball throw.

TWO FT. STANTON 440 yarders on the first leg of the race.

BY WILLARD ARNOLD Staff Writer

Fort Stanton took a strong second place in the second annual Fort Stanton Special Olympics, held in Carrizozo last Saturday, walking away with 8 first, 9 second, and 9 third place awards. All participants received awards for their efforts.

Fort Stanton and Alamogordo ACES schools competed, with Alamo's team winning the competition, garnering 9 first, 8 second, and 5 third place awards.

There were eight events with four divisions in each event, beginning with a softball throw and followed by a standing broad jump, high jump, 50 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, 440 yard relay, and finally the mile run.

Richard Rivera, recreation director at Fort Stanton and head organizer of the special olympics at the school, hosted the event with help from volunteer staff members and students who assumed duties as judges, time keepers, recorders, prepared lunches, and provided transportation.

Last year's Ft. Stanton games were intramural rather than against other schools with Rivera organizing those as well. That team went to the regionals with one student placing in the national finals. This year's regionals will be held in Roswell, April 10, with the state meet to be held in Albuquerque May 28, 29, and 30.

The Special Olympics have enjoyed much success for the past few years in New Mexico. Participation began in 1970, and each year more and more students from various schools have become involved. Nationally the Special Olympics began in 1968, with the national finals being held once every 4 years.

As is the case of most organizations volunteers are always needed. Ft. Stanton and Alamogordo teachers, staff members, and students filled the roles this past weekend, all on their own time and with ability that made the event a success.

STYLE MAY VARY but the final goals are achieved.

Wanted by FBI

ANTHONY MICHAEL JULIANO

Anthony Michael Juliano, wanted on Federal warrants for conspiracy to rob banks, issued on November 11, 1975, at Brooklyn, New York, and on November 28, 1975, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, for violation of his mandatory release from a Federal penitentiary, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Juliano, with two accomplices, is alleged to be responsible for a series of bank robberies in the New York City area over the past two and one-half years where a total in excess of one million dollars has been taken. The bandits were labeled as the "Mutt and Jeff Gang" due to the extreme difference in the height of two of the robbers. The two alleged accomplices of Juliano have been arrested and charged with bank robbery. Juliano remains at large.

Born September 24, 1922, in Newark, New Jersey, Juliano is a white male American, who is 5'11" to 5'2" tall, weighs 150 to 160 pounds and has a heavy build. He has brown, graying hair, blue eyes, and a medium complexion. Juliano has a small burn scar on his right ankle. He is reported to be an avid tennis player and swimmer and is extremely sensitive about his height.

He has been employed as a construction worker, laborer, motel night clerk, restaurant worker, salesman, stock clerk and a truck driver while using Social Security Number 145-16-4245. Juliano, who has served twenty-four years in prison for three separate bank robberies, has been armed with automatic weapons in the past and should be considered armed and very dangerous.

A ROAD SIGN . . . IN ITS CUPS (?) gave Tuesday afternoon sightseeing drivers something to gawk at as they drove up Upper Canyon . . . In addition, of course, to the something to speculate upon that must've evoked a smile, chuckle and perhaps, among the more jovial, an observation or three.

Junior wrestlers are successful

The Third Annual Ruidoso Junior Wrestling Tournament was a very successful and exciting event this year as 50 young wrestlers were cheered on by their family and friends. Many future wrestling hopefuls displayed their talents in the RHS gymnasium Saturday morning, including youngsters from Nob Hill, Ruidoso 7th and 8th grades, and Hondo.

Wrestling coach, Phil Yost, and assistant, Frank Silva, were impressed with the determination and skills exhibited by the contestants and are hopeful that these boys will keep an eye turned toward wrestling as they progress toward the Junior High level. The Hondo team was coached by Henry Lopez, Hondo School teacher. Members of this year's Warrior Wrestling team, and Debby Richardson, Matnaid, acted as referees, time keepers, and score keepers.

Drama class produces play

The drama class is casting, directing and producing both plays. The high school class goes over to Nob Hill two days a week (Tuesday and Wednesday) to work with the Nob Hill students. The plays will be put on for White Mountain and the rest of Nob Hill. This is the first time that the high school has been able to do this, having all three schools enrolled in one activity. This is helping the younger students see what is done in a drama class and how a play is produced.

The cast for "Fish in the Forest" are Scott Neal as Ivan, Jan Huey as Olga, Jenny Delhot as Sonia, Kaila Sars as Anna, Bertha Randolph as Sophia, Billy Woodul as Count, Syd Wright as Countess, Connie Rue as Guard, Edwin Lou as Court Officer, and David Swalander as Officer Popoff.

Psychology trip

The Ruidoso High School psychology class and sponsors traveled to Fort Stanton and the Camp Sierra Blanca Honor Farm on Thursday, March 18.

The RHS students observed the mentally handicapped persons at Fort Stanton. They found it amazing and fascinating. The students found out the Fort Stanton pupils liked to make body contact by shaking hands frequently.

The class went on half a mile up the road to visit the Camp Sierra Blanca Honor Farm for pre-parolees. The residents are taught to work at ceramics, woodwork, mechanics and other trades. Here, the psychology class was taken to the auditorium and was presented with speeches by three residents of Camp Sierra Blanca. The speakers spoke about drugs, alcohol, and education. Discussion was also brought on between the residents and the psychology class. The RHS class was asked to evaluate the speakers and their topics.

The class returned at 3:30 p.m. after a very special and rewarding day.

Thanks goes to the sponsors, Mr. Galen Farrington, Mrs. Lyn Streeter and Conrad Streeter.

Warrior fresh win tourney

Outstanding players of the tournament were Jeff Elliott, Stanley Cape, Borde Williams, Jeff Wohlgenuth, Dirk Strassburg, and Sean Mound.

The tourney was sponsored by Father Eugene Dolan's Council, Knights of Columbus.

First Christian Church announces building plans

The First Christian Church of Ruidoso will, following action taken by the board of directors Mar. 14, sell presently owned property prior to building new facilities.

The plan calls for a sanctuary, classrooms, fellowship hall and family recreation complex on a 10 acre site.
 "This facility," planning committee chairman Don Swalander said, "would offer a large range of wholesome recreational activities that would cater to the entire family, something for all ages."
 The Rev. Mr. Kenneth Cole, pastor, said, "This enormous project is being undertaken for the sole purpose of solving a critical problem in our church as well as our community. Although our present sanctuary is only 15 months old, we have already outgrown it, as well as fellowship and classroom facilities.

 "Furthermore, our studies show a definite need for a recreational complex that could be designed so as to attract any and all members of our community to participate. Our church board realized this pressing need and they have decided to do something about it."

CB's turkey shoot Sunday

A turkey shoot, sponsored by the All American Monitors Citizen Band Radio Club of Ruidoso, will be held Sunday at the Cedar Creek Rifle Range.

Sighting in will begin at 10 a.m., followed by the official target shooting.
 A minimum of 20 sections, with 10 entries in each, are scheduled. The entry will be a $1 donation, per shot, to the club. Winners of each round will receive a cash prize.
 As an added attraction moving as well as stationary targets will be used for the matches.

The CB club, a non-profit organization, will use proceeds from the shoot in local civic projects.

"Swab out the bore of your favorite rifle, you sure-shot ninny," Cber Tili Watts said, "because we've some challenging shots for you to test your marksmanship on. Now's your chance to prove to your hunting buddies that some of those braggin' shots you've made were due to skill, not luck."

Ski Pak deadline

March 31

Merchants holding Ski Pak coupons are advised by the Chamber of Commerce that the deadline for reimbursement for the coupons has been set for 5 p.m., March 31, at the C-C office.

"Though this year's snow fall on the ski slopes was far below that of the 1974-75 season," chamber manager Richard Cothran said, "it appears from compilations made March 1, that Ski Pak patronage was down only 20 per cent this year as compared to last."

Masons set family night

The Ruidoso Masonic Lodge is sponsoring a family night Saturday beginning at 6:30 in the OES Hall.
 Dinner will be pot luck with the Rainbow Girls providing the evening's entertainment.

Fraudulent phone use prosecution steps taken

"Your number, please."
 "Yes, operator, my number is..."
 If that was a proper number, the call would be so billed by Continental Telephone Company of the West (formerly Western States Telephone). If it was false, however, Continental Telephone's "get tough" policy could bring a jail sentence and a fine for toll fraud to the person making the call.

"Many people in our serving areas apparently are unaware that giving an operator a fictitious telephone number or fraudulently using credit cards are illegal schemes," explains Earl Scott (Scotty), Local Manager. He added that the penalties can be severe.

"Whoever violates this section, when the charges for the telecommunication service obtained or attempted to be obtained are $100 or less, is guilty of a petty misdemeanor. Whoever violates this section, when the service is over $100 but not more than $250, is guilty of a fourth degree felony," Scotty stated.

The manager also noted that all long distance operators are trained to detect phony credit card numbers through a coding system.

 "In addition, the calls that are handled by operators are reviewed by a centralized investigation team if there is a question on the billing," he said.
 "These people aren't just stealing from the telephone company; ultimately, they're picking all telephone customers' pockets," Scotty said.

 Scotty summed it up by saying, "We want to inform the offenders that toll fraud isn't just a rip-off of the telephone company, it's a crime that just isn't worth the risk."

Homemakers Council sets meet at Roswell

The annual meeting of Dist. IV NM Extension Homemakers Council will be held April 1 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church in Roswell.

Reservations must be made by Friday with Kay Lowery, 1803 S. Washington, Roswell, accompanied by a reservation fee of $3.75. Information on registrations is available from Mary Lou Maul, telephone 623-3929, Roswell.

Lincoln County will have an exhibit on weaving. Other county displays will be on home chemicals, child abuse, 200 years of fashion, fun with pillows and native NM foods. Workshops are scheduled on citizenship, cultural arts, family life, 4-h and youth, health, international relations and safety.

 The theme of the meeting is "American Woman—You've Come a Long Way, Baby."

Warrior golfers down at Socorro

The Warrior golfers had their troubles at Socorro Friday and Saturday to come in ninth in a field of 10 in a 36 hole match.
 "The wind was terrific and it was cold," coach Leroy Gooch said, "but our boys should have played better."

Deming won the tournament with a team effort of 676, followed by St. Pius of 685, NMMI and Albuquerque Academy 693, Socorro 694, Tucumcari 712, T or C 725, Silver City 737, Ruidoso 742 and Belen 887.

 Danny Masters paced the Warriors with 97-83-180, followed by Brad Maddox 92-93-185, Donnie Riley 96-90-186, Chris Warren 95-96-191 and Bob Gascon 95-98-193.
 The locals are entered in the Lovington tournament Saturday.

Army openings for HS seniors

High school seniors approaching graduation have an opportunity to reserve their future job with the Army on Saturday, March 27, according to Lieutenant Colonel William Bonnett, Army recruiting commander for New Mexico and West Texas.

Seniors are invited to investigate the hundreds of current Army job openings at the nearest ARMED Forces Entrance and Examining Station and to see if they can meet the Army's mental and physical qualifications. Each local Army representative can arrange for the free, no-obligation testing for seniors in his area. The special Saturday testing program for seniors will continue the fourth Saturday of each month through June.

 Interested seniors can reserve their Army job now before graduation under the Delayed Entry Program, permitting them up to 270 days before they leave on active duty. In many cases, the Army can also offer a young man or woman a specific duty location as well as a job training course, both guaranteed in writing before they enlist.
 "Good decisions about your future job should be based on information about your capabilities and opportunities," Colonel Bonnett said. "You'll never know what you can do until you've tried."

Plane, car missing in amputation case

No progress had been reported Wednesday afternoon in a search by authorities for a twin-engine aerocommander and car presumed to be involved in the early Sunday morning amputation of the right arm of a former Carlsbad woman.

The Albuquerque Journal reported that the woman, Mrs. Kathy Stell Berry, 25, "was living in Ruidoso".

The Ruidoso Police Department was advised Wednesday by authorities at Hobbs that Mrs. Berry's condition was stable. Local investigation has failed to locate her residence here.
 Ruidoso officers were in-involved in the investigation here Sunday but with Mrs. Berry's reported newspaper accounts that the accident occurred near Jal, local action has been suspended.

A news release from Hobbs stated that Mrs. Berry "walked into the Llano Estacado Medical Center emergency room early Sunday morning after being dropped off at the entrance. Mrs. Berry's clothing was soaked with blood and her right arm was severed at the elbow."

The car authorities are seeking reportedly drove away from the hospital with its lights turned off after Mrs. Berry left vehicle.

"Paintings greatly increase in value when the artist dies and I have a very bad cold."

(IMPORTANT)

SPEEDWAY can give its customers inexpensive and quick service on printing because the customer provides camera-ready copy. This is photographed and transferred to a printing plate exactly as the customer submits it. THE QUALITY OF YOUR ORIGINAL DETERMINES THE QUALITY OF YOUR FINISHED PRINTING. Therefore, your original should be as clean and legible as you expect your printing to be.

TO PREPARE "CAMERA-READY COPY"

- OVER 1/4 INCH MARGIN around the edge of your copy is necessary, especially at the length of the page, so the press can have "gripper" space.
- PLAIN WHITE TYPING PAPER is the best paper to use to prepare your original. Erasable rag bond paper does not accept your typing or printing evenly.
- A CARBON TYPEWRITER RIBBON produces the best original. Old, cloth ribbons give extremely poor reproduction. If you do not have a carbon ribbon—make sure you change your cloth ribbon often.
- A clean typewriter is necessary. IF A TYPEWRITTEN LETTER IS "BROKEN" ON THE ORIGINAL, IT WILL APPEAR EVEN MORE SO WHEN PRINTED.
- An original may be "cleaned" up by the use of a white liquid correction fluid.
- For original drawings—printing—or writing, BLACK OR RED marking pens, or India ink reproduce the best.
- For signatures, BLACK OR RED INK reproduces the best. Blue ink, or pencil DOES NOT reproduce well.
- Clippings from already printed material may be used, but if there are colors, or shadings, we will consult our pressman to determine if the material will reproduce well.
- Glossy photographs MUST be "half-toned" before they can be reproduced.
- When pasting, JUST A SMALL AMOUNT IN EACH CORNER to hold the item in place is necessary.
- When preparing back to back material, USE TWO SEPARATE SHEETS, so there will be no "shadowing".

IF YOU DO NOT WISH TO PREPARE YOUR OWN MATERIAL, THERE ARE SEVERAL "COMPOSITION" SHOPS IN ALBUQUERQUE SPECIALIZING IN MAKING "CAMERA-READY" MATERIAL. WRITE FOR A LIST.

WE PRINT ONLY ON 8 1/2" x 11", or 8 1/2" x 14" regular weight paper. WE PRINT ONLY 8 1/2" x 11" heavier weight paper. If an original is smaller than 8 1/2" x 11" we will cut to size.

- Because pre-printed or opened paper is difficult to handle on our presses (it curls, etc.), an up-charge for printing on your stock is possible. This will be determined by the pressman according to the extra time and effort required to do the job.
- We use only black ink—colored papers, and various weights and textures of paper are available, BUT BLACK INK AND CAMERA-READY COPY IS ~~NECESSARY~~.

Right Around Home

BEN MOFFETT

If you are planning a vacation Right Around Home, write the National Park Service, P.O. Box 728, Room S-2, Santa Fe, N.M. 87501, for a trip planning guide to those parks within an easy drive of your home.

Visit a fun sand pile

Hey, kids!

Tired of the old sandbox in your back yard? If you are, tell your parents into taking you to the world's largest gypsum sandbox—White Sands National Monument in southeastern New Mexico about 15 miles from Alamogordo.

This isn't an ordinary pile of sand. It's magic. You can tell your parents that people who haven't had a youthful thought in decades suddenly become kids again when they touch the glistening white sand. And they'll probably have the car packed before you can say "Johnny Horizon."

It's true. Both parents and kids love to climb over, slide down, dig into or mark up the white mounds in the monument which covers 230 square miles of the Tularosa Basin, a feathery wilderness of cotton candy.

Some traditional National Park Service rules don't apply here. Those of you who have resisted the temptation to mark on a cliff at El Morro or on a tree in the Guadalupe Mountains can let go a little at White Sands. If you want to draw a heart around "Tim Loves Betty Sue, July 4, 1976" on the side of a 40-foot dune, the park ranger is not going to object.

And no harm done. The wind will obliterate the message in short order.

Prevailing breezes carry the sand northeasterly from Lake Lucero, the primary source of all that white gypsum. The lake isn't the most beautiful in the world, but you can't say enough about its white beach.

Actually Lake Lucero is not a lake, but a crystal-studded marsh. Water from cloudbursts and snowmelt in the nearby mountains carries gypsum into the marsh. When the water evaporates, seinite crystals remain. The wind then chips off crystal particles and carries them into the dune field.

The process has been going on for millions of years. As each dune grows and moves farther from the lake, new ones form, rank after rank, and with each new grain, the magic grows.

It extends to the plants and animals, an unusual collection that must manage in a harsh environment that offers little shelter and food.

Among the most unusual animals in the monument:

—A white, earless lizard that is nearly invisible against the sand.

—A pocket mouse, equally pale, and of interest because its relatives in the dark lava beds to the north of the monument are almost black.

—A white camel cricket that is so transparent that its internal organs are visible.

Scientists say that the animals have gradually become white because their darker brothers and sisters haven't had much luck hiding from enemies on the white sand.

Tracking is a favorite dune sport that you'll enjoy. It's not hard to find a set of tracks in the sand and follow them to the owner. But don't be surprised at what the tracks lead you to. You could be hot on the trail of a twig blowing across the sand.

If your parents are hesitant about going, point out that picture-taking is a delight on the dunes and its awfully hard to take a poor picture—if you don't overexpose the film on the bright sand.

Visitors to White Sands should stop at the visitor center for an orientation before taking the eight-mile scenic drive that winds through the heart of the dune.

A warning: Take along plenty of sandwiches. The old tummy gets mighty hungry when you play in the dunes. On the scenic drive you'll find picnic tables, fireplaces and comfort facilities.

Have a SUPER slide down the biggest dune you can find for me. And Safely, Use, Preserve and Enjoy the Resources.

Frozen food tips

Thaw frozen foods the energy-economical way—in the refrigerator. If you thaw on the countertop in the kitchen you add to the furnace heat load. In the refrigerator you not only save this heat loss, but reduce the refrigerator's cooling load as well.

Relaxation—key to living

People who experience tensions in today's fast moving and overcrowded society need to build some kind of stress release system into their life pattern.

Leo Yates, Extension family life specialist at New Mexico State University, says you can learn to become more relaxed in your day to day living.

Talking a problem out is the first step you should try. Confide with a trustworthy level-headed person, such as a husband, wife, parent, good friend, clergyman or even the family doctor.

Rather than talk, perhaps a short retreat from a problem will help you relax. Facing a problem may be more a form of self-punishment than a firm conviction to solve it. You can escape through a movie, book, or a visit with a friend. Once you recover breath and balance, be prepared to come back and deal with the difficulty.

When angered, expend pent up energy in some physical activity. Try working around the house, playing tennis, gardening or doing some other project. Hold off the impulse to lash out at someone who provokes anger.

If a compromise will produce a practical solution, don't be afraid to give in. As tensions subside, others may begin to yield in their opinions also.

Doing something for others will also help you relax. This takes the steam out of selfish worries for at least a little while, which may be all that's needed, Yates says.

Don't try to accomplish every job at once. Set priorities, then tackle each job one at a time. Place more effort into easier tasks. The satisfaction derived from a job well done will provide energy to help finish the tasks that are more difficult.

Don't be overly critical if people don't live up to your preconceived patterns of achievement. You can relieve tension and encourage a spirit of cooperation by giving the other fellow a break.

Finally, you should have some regularly scheduled recreation. Many people drive themselves so hard that they allow too little time for recreation, which is essential for good physical and mental health.

Yates says you should set aside a definite time for recreation or hobbies. This helps relieve tensions by providing pleasure and forgetting all about work.

Light bulb buying tips

The concept of the light bulb has changed little since Edison's first "electric lamp." But the variety of bulbs now available can be confusing.

Charles M. Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer, New Mexico State University, offers some background to find the right bulb type to fit your needs. An "inside frosted bulb," often called the "standard bulb," is etched on the inside surface to soften its light. This type is the least expensive.

For a softer, diffused light which offers less glare, choose a "soft white bulb." It has a silica coating, rather than etching on the inside, and gives off slightly less light than a standard bulb. "Soft-white-plus bulbs" contain a special filament which stays relatively cool when a bulb is lit. They last 50 to 100 per cent longer than standard bulbs, but cost more. Use these for soft diffused light or in a hard-to-get-at fixture. You won't have to change them as often as some other bulbs.

A special filament gives "long-life bulbs" their lasting power—about three times as long as standard bulbs. But, the extended services comes at the cost of the light output. Choose one if your main concern is lasting power. Its filament burns with a slightly yellow light.

Some light manufacturers use krypton, an inert gas, to improve the efficiency and increase the life of the bulbs. "Krypton-filled bulbs" are more expensive—often double the cost of standard bulbs. But, they're worth the expense if you want a high-efficient bulb.

SANTA FE - The political pot boiled as 1,526 Democratic delegates and 803 Republicans headed for state pre-primary conventions in Albuquerque.

A Penasco native, ex-State Rep. Raymond Garcia, 45, of Albuquerque says his goal is 81 per cent of Democratic convention delegates for the U.S. House in District 1. His convention opponent is Albuquerque artist Quinn Mizser.

Ex-astronaut Harrison Schmitt, 40, seeking the GOP U.S. Senate nomination, said he expects to run especially well in Northern counties—Rio Arriba, Taos, Colfax and others. Schmitt predicted he will have more than half of Rio Arriba County's 10 GOP convention delegates. A candidate in both convention qualifies for the primary election ballot June 1 if he wins 20 per cent of delegates.

Ex-Rep. Eugene Peirce, 45, of Albuquerque, a Schmitt opponent, said: "We have had good response from Lea, Chaves, Eddy, Quay and Sandoval counties." Arthur Lavine, 51, Moriarty manufacturer, campaigned in Lea County for delegates in the 3-man GOP U.S. Senate race.

Lincoln County rancher Joe Skeen will be keynote at the GOP state convention. Valencia County Clerk Pat Heth will be temporary convention chairman. Skeen, the 1974 GOP governor candidate, finally said he will not run this year for the US Senate. But he said he is pondering another run for governor in 1978. He lost narrowly in 1974.

Santa Fe lawyer Joseph A. Roberts entered the Republican primary for district attorney in the First Judicial District (Rio Arriba-Santa Fe-Los Alamos). Three Democrat- s—controversial incumbent Joe Cruz Castellano, ex-Deputy Dist. Attorney Eloy Martinez and Chet Walter are in the race. Walter quit as chief public defender to run.

In the GOP U.S. Senate race Lavine claimed substantial delegate support in Rio Arriba and Taos Counties. Eleno lawyer John Pope, 29, entered the crowded Democratic district attorney race in Judicial District 13 (Valencia-Sandoval). Pope is the fifth Democratic primary contender. The incumbent, Dist. Atty. Frederick B. (Ted) Howson, Grants, is under indictment.

Atty. Gen. Toney Anaya said a Santa Fe District Court decision to measure distance for a rural liquor license will be appealed. Judge Edwin Felter said the 10-mile distance to the nearest liquor permit to qualify for a rural license should be measured by the nearest passable road and not "as the crow flies." Liquor chiefs have used "as the crow flies" to check distances. A Hidalgo County case sparked the issue. Dedication of 3.5-acre Smokey Bear State Park at Capitol is set May 15. State Parks Director Sam Graft said construction will start in late April. The $130,000 in state and federal money for first phase development will finance basic earthwork, a sprinkler system and a wall around part of the park. Second phase development, estimated at $175,000 to $200,000, will feature rehabilitation of a bar for a visitor center, a historic railroad depot, a trails system and interpretation program. The 1977 Legislature will be asked for more funds for second phase development. Second phase development is set for completion in late 1977.

U.S. Rep. Harold Runnels, D-Lovington, says: "As of today New Mexico should send an uncommitted delegation to the National Democratic convention." He says New Mexico's 18 votes "could be important at New York." If the delegation was picked now, Rep. Runnels says, Hubert Humphrey, Jimmy Carter, Morris Udall, Henry Jackson and George Wallace would win delegates. Runnels ranks Carter first in New Mexico now.

Mescalero Apache Tribe challenged state efforts to collect $286,197 in gross receipts tax in a U.S. District Court suit at Albuquerque. The state seeks to collect the tax from contractors who built the $15 million Inn of the Mountain Coos resort complex near Ruidoso for the tribe. The tribe says in the suit only the federal government has jurisdiction to regulate commerce on Indian land. Under its agreements with the contractors the tribe is liable for the taxes.

Brown Construction Co., Albuquerque, was apparent low bidder at $390,000 on a Hidalgo County project on US-80 from the Arizona line to seven miles south of Road Forks. The State Highway Department engineer's estimate was $530,688.

The State Cultural Properties Review Committee considered a historic preservation study for the Cumbres and Toltec Scenic Railroad. Trains travel a scenic route between Chama, N.M., and Antonito, Colo. Consideration of proposed water rights agreement alternatives between the Town of Taos and the State Park and Recreation Commission is on the State Park and Recreation Commission agenda.

The 1975 Legislature approved $850,000 in 15 state parks capital improvements projects but Graft said none is complete. Among the projects: Elephant Butte Lake, Sierra County, $34,000; Heron Lake, Rio Arriba, $58,000; Caballo Lake, Sierra, $88,500; Kit Carson, Taos, $54,000; El Vado Lake, Rio Arriba, $15,800, and Percha Dam, Sierra, $16,000.

REVOLUTIONARY WOMEN

We hear a lot about our nation's heroes these days. Bicentennial television blurbs and bank ads give us the latest scoop on Ben, Mr. Revere and old T. J. and their heroic efforts during the Revolution.

Rarely do the Bicentennial programs mention the women who took part in the battle that set America's independent course. Although the women's role in the Revolution was often more obscure than the men's it was, nonetheless invaluable.

For example, few know that behind the historic scene of Washington crossing the Delaware lay a second army of women and children camp followers who were responsible for nursing the sick and wounded, cooking for the hordes of hungry men, mending uniforms, foraging for food, washing dishes and in emergencies, fighting alongside the men.

Nearly one third of the Revolutionary war was fought in the state of New York and, when Manhattan was abandoned to the British in 1776 many of the female refugees began tagging along with the army. Fed meager rations, they earned their keep through work around camp. Many turned to prostitution to keep their children fed.

Some even threw their talents into battle. Margaret Corbin leaped into her dead husband's position at the cannon during one battle. Wounded in action by an enemy bullet, she was later granted a lifetime pension by the newly formed Congress.

Deborah Samson of Massachusetts was so eager to get into the action she disguised herself as a man and joined the army. The masquerade was only discovered when the wounded Ms. Samson was taken in for surgery. Intense revolutionary repercussions came from the actions of 19 year old Peggy Shippen. A fierce Loyalist who was educated by her father in business, Ms. Shippen married Benedict Arnold in 1779.

It is her strong influence which is generally credited for turning Arnold traitor. Through her espionage work she discovered the patriots' battle strategy for New York City and turned the information over to the British.

She also plotted to have her husband transferred to West Point so he could then turn the fort over to the British. (The plan failed).

Female spies also proved effective on the patriots' side. The far-reaching Culper ring of 1778 sadly announced one of its top agents, known only as number 355, had been arrested by the British and killed in prison. The agent was a woman.

Another female spy, Anna Strong of Long Island Sound, used the clothesline outside her home to signal patriot vessels when the bay was safe for entry, by stringing up petticoats and handkerchiefs in a special code.

Not only did the Revolutionary War give a new national autonomy, it planted the seeds of freedom inside the women of this country. The war got women out of their stereotyped home roles and into nontraditional jobs previously thought too hard for women to handle.

Although returning soldiers would successfully force their independent, uppity wives off the battlefield and out of the hospitals, back into the home, American women had learned they could work alongside men and survive on their own.

That knowledge resurfaced to give them the vote and equal rights with their male counterparts.

Energy, at any price

Southern Union Gas Company slapped a moratorium on new gas hookups on several New Mexico cities last week. The implications of such action are clear: no growth. No new residents. No new industry. No new businesses.

The complexities of energy—its availability, its cost—will be with us for many generations. With all of the crises that mankind faces from overpopulation to feeding ourselves, energy is the key to the future.

New Mexico will feel the results—indeed with the moratorium, already has—just as much, but in different ways, as Bangladesh.

We don't presume to have an answer to the worldwide energy problem, but we've got a suggestion for New Mexico.

It won't do any good to bemoan the fact that our locally produced energy sources have been sold to Los Angeles. Or Phoenix. Or Seattle. We don't have the political clout to overthrow business deals already made.

What we must do is assure ourselves of future energy supplies NOW. It will surely mean more money. It will mean higher taxes. It may mean that individual communities, groups of communities, or the state will have to purchase long term gas or oil or coal contracts. It means an entirely new concept and approach toward assuring ourselves of stability.

In this arid state of New Mexico everybody knows how it is with water. Them that has, gets.

Those communities who had leaders with foresight enough in years past to buy water resources are sitting pretty. The Eastside communities from Tucumcari South to Hobbs are spending millions of dollars to take water that they own from the Raton area to their part of the state. Nobody questions the benefits of that action. (Raton now knows the penalty their area will pay for years to come for not being as farsighted.)

New Mexico must do the same thing to assure future energy supplies. Fussing about the Californians won't get the job done. Complaining to Washington politicians will get us nowhere. We will have to buy it. It will cost us dearly. The alternative, however, is unacceptable.—KG

TAX HIKES?

The nation's governors are fearful they will have to hike taxes if general revenue sharing is cut off. We can't help wondering where they think revenue sharing monies come from—if not from taxes.

The only difference is that revenue sharing is raised by federal taxes. Local governments, such as states, counties and cities, escape actually imposing taxes locally for this revenue.

From a purely political viewpoint, we can understand the concern of governors, county commissioners and mayors, but from the standpoint of the taxpayer, it would appear much wiser if the people at home make the decision on that taxes to impose and what projects locally should be undertaken.

There still must be quite a "house tax" where Uncle Sam collects all the revenue sharing monies in Washington, then dispenses over the country to each receiving sub-division of government.

We are surprised that there appears any doubt that revenue sharing will be extended another year. On election year, it would have been our guess that such a proposal would have an easy time through Congress in 1976.

With such uncertainty, local governments need to take this in consideration when preparing next fiscal year's budgets. There could be a sharp cutoff of revenue.—The News Bulletin, Belen

PEOPLE'S VIEW

The New York Times and CBS News recently carried out what they considered to be a representative polling of the public on current controversial issues. The results were surprising.

On the emotional issue of abortions, the poll showed that an overwhelming majority believed that the right of a woman to have an abortion should be left entirely up to the woman and her doctor. The tally was 67 to 28 per cent, with 7 per cent undecided.

Most Americans do not think—as often charged—that government spending for military defense should be reduced—52 to 37 with 11 per cent undecided. A good majority believes it would be better if the states did more and the federal government less in the fields of health, education and aid to the poor.

A surprisingly large majority opposes the racial integration of schools if it requires forced busing—71 to 22, with 7 per cent undecided. And half those polled, 50 to 33, think we are giving Russia more than we are getting from the Soviet Union.

If this sampling is reasonably accurate, the people are ahead of many of the candidates in their thinking. Politicians hoping to be President for four years from next January might do well to consider these results.—The News-Bulletin, Belen

BUM PRIORITIES

Gov. Jerry Apodaca is all gun-ho on fighting crime . . . and he has law enforcement personnel holding meetings on how to combat crime . . . and commission members are supposedly functioning . . . and criminals that ought to be incarcerated . . . for rehabilitation, not punishment, of course . . . are virtually as free as birds . . . freetoply their nefarious schemes.

Something's wrong with that picture. Seems that perpetrators of felonies should be afforded the opportunity to put in a few months in a state institution . . . as uncomfortable . . . and dehumanizing as the experience might be . . . to sort of think about the error of their ways. And it possibly could be that some offenders might consider legal and lawful means of gaining a livelihood upon their release. This is also possibly pure fancy.

But back to the bad guys. If their offense against society is such that a bit of time in the state pen is indicated . . . so it should be. The way I read it in the papers, the accommodations in this institution are not only overcrowded, but substandard. Ergo . . . the courts are not sending all felons to the pen . . . they are sending them back to the streets.

Something's wrong with that picture.

Back to his nibs . . . Hon. Jerry. He has at his command a $740,758 airplane . . . which, with the trade-in of the old state clunker, cost NM about $627,182 . . . cash. No matter how you look at it, that'd buy whole stacks of airline tickets . . . if air trips are necessary. And it just doesn't seem there are sufficient emergency trips arising to require having about $750,000 in airplane sitting on the ground between flights . . . 'cause depreciation just has to be a factor . . . enough of a factor that it'd buy a lot of flights.

Now, if the Gov. is serious about fighting crime, he could take a big step forward by peddling that plane . . . taking the cash and putting up an addition to the state pen . . . and temporarily, at least, removing temptation from violators who would be not enjoying their new status as inmates.

If a person was committing . . . or about to commit . . . felonies . . . and knew, if caught, that the state pen'd be home for a spell, it might not deter such a person from taking his chances, but it'd certainly take him out of circulation.

Not that I want to clip Gov. Jerry's wings . . . but it's entirely possible that taxpayers and property owners might benefit considerably more from having felons locked up, than we'll profit from having that airplane cart people willy-nilly on missions of dubious merit . . . and, to help the governor in his fight against crime, it'd be a mind-boggling gesture on his part to sacrifice his airplane to help his battle against crime.

SERVICE ADS

In the face of curtailed services . . . soaring expenses . . . and general disgruntlement expressed by patrons . . . what's the Postal Service going to do but spend $15 million in advertising . . . in an attempt to convince people that the USPS gives them more service for their money than their competitors . . . who, by USPS admission, are gobbling up a considerable share of the market.

Not that I don't believe in the value of honest advertising . . . but if this $15 million is spent in this fashion, it should give the truth-in-advertising factions something they can really sink their teeth into. And am I ever glad that delivering the mail isn't my problem.

EDUCATION FOR TOMORROW

Most creatures are born pre-educated. Birds do not need to be told how to build their nests, nor beavers how to engineer their dams. At first it might seem a handicap that we human beings must spend our lives learning what other creatures already know, but of course it is our incomparable advantage. Almost infinitely flexible, we can learn new systems of behavior to fit new circumstances.

The next century, however, threatens our remarkable learning capacity with the hardest tests it has ever faced. Most of what we were taught in the Stone Age and the Renaissance and even in our twentieth century is no longer useful. Some of it is dangerous.

The problem is that we are born with deep layers of natural behavior that are often in conflict with the requirements for survival in our technological civilization. Robert Ardrey has documented our animal nature in such books as "African Genesis" and "The Territorial Imperative." Though some other anthropologists question him, we clearly do have several levels of behavior, native and learned. At the most primitive level, such devices as hunger, sex, mother love, and perhaps the "territorial imperative" were once enough to keep the race alive. As our social groups grew larger, from the family to the horde and the tribe and the nation, we invented such new devices as language and religion to modify our old systems of animal behavior. We invented education, which faces its greatest challenge now.

New human beings are flooding our crowded planet, by the hundred million. Each is born an animal. Each must learn to be human. In the century ahead, our old familiar sort of humanity will no longer be enough. Each new individual must learn the new technologies and attitudes and values that will make him a responsible citizen of the world. If education fails, our future civilization will crash down into chaos. H.G. Wells was grappling with this desperate problem 50 years ago. He became a world educator, writing new texts in history, live science, and economics to train fit citizens for a united future world. Though millions read him, he died in despair believing he had failed.

In fact, the new from today's schools is bad. Even here in America, test results are discouraging. Considered as models for future world citizens, our typical teachers are hardly ideal. In spite of all their individual dedication, they tend to teach facts and attitudes that are sadly out of date. Fostering conformity, the schools too often seem to stifle everything else. Over most of the world, the state of education is even more alarming. Millions in the poorer nations get no organized training at all.

Yet, in spite of Wells' despair, I think we still have time to do better. Modern technology can often solve the problems it

BARRON

These are some hints the homemaker may be interested in:

Bananas will keep longer in a plastic bag, in a cool place.

Run cold water over peeled orange to remove white. Scrape off with knife.

Wash vegetables and scrub potatoes with brush before storing in refrigerator, and they will be ready for use when needed. Wrap potatoes in foil butter wrappers to bake.

I bury all peelings and waste near plants to enrich the soil. When ground is frozen, this will burn in fireplace; then there is nothing but cans and bottles for garbage. Rinse and cut out bottoms of cans, then mash flat before putting in trash.

To save water, water pot plants from hot faucet while waiting for it to heat.

When I receive a letter I want to answer, I address an envelope to that person; then as I have clippings or notations, I save them in each individual envelope until I answer the letter.

When sewing, if the thread clings or flies, just wet fingers and run down thread occasionally.

When altering and ripping seams, clip every four or five threads, then the seam will come open with one long thread.

Franny Fern said, "The way to a mans heart is through his stomach."

And it is said: Food to be healthy, must not only be prepared with TLC, but should be eaten slowly, in a pleasant quiet atmosphere. This puts the preparation of food and family feeding in the back of mothers and wives; and often if they so desire, can lower the food budget and up the health of their families, by serving the more so called 'scratch' foods. While we would hate to see all the prepared and ready mixed foods go, as they all have a place in our living.

There are always new types of food and new ways of preparing it; and it is up to us to be wise enough to choose which is best for our family and budget.

I notice a new breed of beef, called the beefalo—a Charolais-Hereford-Buffalo breed. The animal can survive in extreme weather conditions and thrive on grass and roughage. We hope it is a cheaper cut of meat.

It was nice having Mr. and Mrs. George Bonal visit me. Mrs. Bonal (Inez) brought along her favorite and different recipe, with all the ingredients.

The Bonals were in the restaurant business in Cloudcroft, before coming to Ruidoso, more than half a century ago; and Inez is a wonderful cook. By the way ladies, if you should want a recipe of any kind, Inez probably will have it, as she has 'jillions' of them.

Thursday, March 25, 1976 Page 3 — Ruidoso [N.M.] News

I remember, when I stayed with them, back in the fifties—I was supposed to have been working, although I didn't do much, as not one of us could keep up with Inez. Each Fourth of July and Labor Day, they gave a picnic dinner and invited all their neighbors and of course the guests of their two or three motels.

Inez made her own hot rolls—even cinnamon sweet rolls—which would melt in your mouth. We made large pans of crisp salads, barbecued some chickens or baked hams and prepared large pans of enchiladas with Inez's special hot sauce; and ice cream or cobblers was the dessert. Sometimes they fed as many as seventy-five people, on long tables, spread in front of the La Fonda.

This is from her recipe file:

Chili
1 Lb. Hamburger meat
1 1/2 Oz. can mushrooms
1 tsp. chili powder
1 cup chopped onions
2 tsp. oil

1 cup chopped celery
1 cup raw rice
1 1/2 Oz. can green chili chopped
3 tsp. soy sauce
3 tsp. sesame seed
4 cups water
Add no salt.

Saute meat, onions, celery and raw rice in the oil, for about 5 minutes, add all other ingredients; and cook about 30 minutes or until done. This is a main meat dish, and is very different. Will feed 6.

This delicious cake recipe was brought over from Italy and is from Ann Griffiths file.

Italian Cream Cake
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup crisco
1/2 cup wesson oil
5 eggs
2 cups flour plus 2 tbsps.
1 tsp. soda
1 cup buttermilk
1 tsp. vanilla
1 can coconut
1/2 tsp. butter flavoring
1/2 tsp. salt

Cream sugar, crisco and Wesson oil well, add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour and soda, add alternately with buttermilk to sugar and oil. Add remainder of ingredients. Bake in a greased and floured tube pan or in 3 layers. Tube pan, 1 hour, layers 20 to 25 minutes at 350 degrees.

Icing
8 Oz. of cream cheese
1 stick oleo
1 box powdered sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream cheese, oleo and box of powdered sugar until light and fluffy. Add vanilla and nuts. Spread on cake or between layers.

Ann said she has served this cake many places in Texas and New Mexico, and anywhere she takes it, it is praised. She says it takes a while longer to make than an ordinary cake, but is well worth the extra trouble.

The SILVER LINING

By Daniel Agnew Storm

This is being sent to you on March 22, two days into the Spring time. Yet Winter is still very much in the picture. Today the sky is cloudless and pure blue with the sun warm and the air cold. A steady North wind has been pushing icy wind right off the North Pole and into our neighborhood. Yesterday morning and this morning (March 22) were the coldest mornings I have seen in a long time here in the vale. Especially since there is no snow on the ground — not even up on the shady places on the hillside.

Still with all the cold north wind, Spring comes smiling through. Out on the hillside that little first flower of Spring, the Anemone, is everywhere telling you that Spring is here. "Daughter Of The Wind" This little flower, the Anemone, gets its name from the ancient Greeks. In this language the flower is Daughter of the Wind, no doubt so named because it springs from the earth in the windiest time of year, March. It is a daisy about the size of a silver dollar, and it comes out of Mother Earth and blooms all in a day. It has no stem, growing just even with the ground, just on the ground. It is crystal white and on the wintry-looking dry earth of early Spring it shines like a diamond. It reminds you of a little star dropped from the heavens at night and shining in daytime on the ground. In England the Anemone is called "The Wind Flower"; and all around the world it brings happiness and cheer in the early Spring.

Arbor Day I tried to remember Arbor Day in New Mexico, but it got lost in all the winds of March, and passed me up. Or maybe I got lost in the wind. Anyhow, Arbor Day was celebrated March the twelfth in New Mexico. The day is celebrated April and May in the northern states and February, January and December in the Southern states. New Mexico is sort of on the half-way ground, in this celebration. Some of the great joys of our boyhood days in our family were the times we spent reading the classics illustrated by the artist, N.C. Wyeth — the father of Mrs. Peter Hurd. Among these were "Scottish Chiefs"; "Ivanhoe"; "Treasure Island"; "Kidnapped"; and "The Last of the Mohicans." "The Last of the Mohicans" was one of several stories by James Fenimore Cooper. In these stories Cooper gave us several immortal characters among which is "Hawk-eye" or "Leather Stocking," to mention only two of his many names given him by his Indian friends and companions. I am now reading "The Prairie" which takes the beloved woodsman-pathfinder-soldier-philosopher out of his forests and onto the great plains, as a man of eighty years.

Hawk-eye has gone west ahead of the settlers, because the sound of the axe, day in and day out, chopping down the trees was something he could no longer bear. Now he finds himself out in the country where Nebraska and Kansas now lie, in a country at that time as "treeless as the boundless ocean". And Hawkeye, lonesome for the forest trees, among whom he had spent a life time and upon whom he looked as trusted friends and companions, thought to himself something like this: "The Almighty should bring those choppers of the trees out here to see what might be visited upon them some day if they continue in this sinful error."

Maybe, somehow catching some of the message in the woodsman-philosopher's thoughts, the citizens of Nebraska established arbor day on April 10, 1872. Surely these people, like Hawk-eye, were lonesome for the trees they had left behind. And also they soon learned the value and the blessing of trees for shade, fresh air, fruit windbreaks, moisture holder and "a thousand things other than this."

From a treeless country Nebraska became a land of many beautiful trees, and the eyes of America and the whole world were opened to a new and valuable lesson. The idea of Arbor day spread not only over America but also the whole world. Arbor Day became a time for all of us to plant a tree. Also it became a time in the year to pause and remember the value of trees for manufacturing oxygen, for cooling the air, for holding the ground water, for enriching and holding the soil — and generally for their work of bringing life and beauty into the world and holding Mother Earth together.

When To Plant Trees If you will forgive me, I will say again that you can plant a tree during any month that has the letter, "R" in it. Some have better success one time and some another. Most people plant in the Spring. Of course if you buy a tree from the nursery with a ball of earth fastened about the roots, then you can plant the tree anytime — though the dead of winter is not the best time. Speaking of planting trees, I never pass Wilbur Conley's Skyline Motel and his adjoining nursery but what I admire how he has beautified his place with the planting of evergreens. It is worth a trip to go by Wilbur's and see his evergreens and also the many trees, plants and shrubs that will add new beauty to your home. So now it is tree planting time. I always remember at this time of year, how George Washington loved trees and how he tried to have at least one of every tree that would do well on his place at Mount Vernon. You spread joy when you plant a tree. And there is a wide variety of trees that thrive here in the land of the pinon and pine.

76 A-A Derby

The world's second richest horse race is getting even bigger. That's the word from Liz Devine, nominations secretary at Ruidoso Downs, on the status of the All-American Quarter Horse Derby.

The second sustaining payment of the '76 Derby recently closed, and 135 head cleared the hurdle. "From the way the cash is piling up, it appears the gross purse for the Derby will be more than $560,000," Liz says. Right now, the Derby jackpot stands at $498,400. Last year at this time, the '75 Derby had $427,432 in the bank, and finally topped out at $495,500. Last year's winner, Vim and Vigor, earned a cool $165,000.

Originally, the purse for the '76 Derby had been projected at $500,000. The Derby, which is contested at 440 yards, is the second richest race in turf history. The No. 1 slot, of course, belongs to Ruidoso's fabulous All-American Quarter Horse Futurity. The gross purse for the nationally-televized Labor Day thriller is $1,030,000. Included among those eligible for the upcoming Derby are most of the contenders in last year's All-American Futurity.

Heading up the list is the brilliant winner, Bugs Alive In '75. The colt, whose bankroll now stands at almost $540,000, is owned by Ralph Shebester of Wynnewood, Okla. Also nominated to the Derby is Chick's Deck, owned by G. R. Russell of El Paso. Chick's Deck qualified for the All-American Futurity in dazzling style, but injured a leg after crossing the finish and was forced to defect from the grand finale.

The following All-American Futurity starters were also kept eligible to the Derby: Go Fantacia, who finished 4th; Mr. Breakthru (5th); He Flies (7th); Billy Billy Bayou (8th); and Watch A Native (9th). The list of hopefuls also includes such big-league names as Sold Short, Confederate Jet, Hyjonejet, Frisco F1oozie, Windy Ryon, Dash For Cash, Mito Wise Dancer and Native Creek. In order to keep a horse in the running, only one more payment must be made. That's a $500 entry fee into the trials.

The 1976 Ruidoso campaign will cover 68 race days, starting on Saturday, May 15, and extending through Labor Day. The All-American Derby will be run for the third time on Sunday, Aug. 29.

The Derby is the third of a "Triple Crown" series for sophomore quarter horses. Kicking off the set is the $75,000 (est.) Kansas Derby. Then comes the $350,000 (est.) Rainbow Derby. The All-American Futurity, of course, is the final jewel in the Triple Crown for juvenile quarter horses. Helping set the stage for the world's richest race will be the $375,000 (est.) Kansas Futurity and the $300,000 (est.) Rainbow Futurity. Racing, once again, will be staged mainly on a Thursday-through-Sunday pattern with a first post of 1:30 p.m.
