COLORFUL COSTUMES add to the excitement of watching the All-American Indian Dance Championships to be held July 16-18 at Mescalero. This year dancers from across the nation will be vying for a share of the $10,500 in prize monies. Seating for 3,000 will be provided at the new arena now being completed.

Indian championship dance contest set at Mescalero

The second annual Mescalero-Ruidoso All American Indian Dance Championships — to the beat of Northern and Southern drum teams — will be held July 16-18 at the new Mescalero Apache Tribe's ceremonial grounds.

The dancing championships, sponsored by the MAT and Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, offer prize monies totaling $10,500.

The Red Earth Singers of Tama, Iowa, led by Wayne Pushetonequa, will present the Northern drum team.

The Southern drums will be by the Ponca Singers of Wichita, Kan., led by Elsworth (Chick) Kemble.

Hollis Stabler Jr., of Lincoln, Neb., has been named head dancer.

Masters of ceremonies will be Dana Knight of Ponca City, Okla., and the Rev.

Thomas Roughface of White Eagle, Okla.

Contest categories will include Men's Northern Fancy, Men's Southern Fancy, Men's Straight Dance (with or without bustle), Ladies' Northern Shawl, Ladies' Southern Dress, Ladies' Northern Buckskin, Ladies' Southern Buckskin, Boys' and Girls' Junior Division for ages 9-15, Boys' and Girls' Tiny Tot Division for ages 1-8 and Traditional Dance Groups with four or more contesting. Eight monies will be paid in all events.

A princess contest, for girls 15-20 years old, will be a featured attraction opening night. The winner will be the Head Lady Dancer for the Pow-Wow.

Added attractions include Indian arts and crafts exhibits and gourd dancing.

All contesting will be performed in the new rodeo arena, providing seating for 3,000, now being completed.

Seven judges will use a point system in all categories, with elimination events beginning July 16 in all categories.

This event will attract dancers from tribes throughout the nation and one of the thrill, in addition to the colorful costumes, is in comparing the cultural differences in the authentic beading and use of hides, feathers and furs from one tribe to another.

The dance tempo varies, with the southern tribes using a basically faster beat than the northern dancers. Tape recorders may be used, but the regulations will be strict as to where the recordings may be done.

During last year's dancing championships amateur photographers caused considerable disturbance. Irreplaceable eagle feathers were broken from costumes and several priceless dancing outfits were severely damaged.

This year the restrictions on photographers will be severe and persons desiring to take pictures will be well advised to obey the rules laid forth. "To the letter", a tribal spokesman said.

Fire closure

A full fire closure on all trash burning and open campfires is in effect in Ruidoso, set by Fire Chief Red Farus.

The only exceptions are the use of charcoal burning units and fireplaces.

County eyes budget woes

In a short, routine meeting Friday, the Lincoln County Commissioners discussed several changes that will have to be implemented in the county budget before it goes to a June 11 hearing in Carrizozo.

Major additions to the budget include $9,000 for a solar collector for the county's radio system and $13,000 for tort claims insurance.

"These two additional expenses for next year will mean we'll either have to cut expenses already in the budget or dip into our reserve fund," county manager Les Olson said.

Olson also said the county would have to make a $15,000 supplemental budget request from the state finance board to cover unforeseen expenditures in the budget for the current fiscal year.

Unforeseen expenditures include the county's Bicentennial project, $2,500; shelves for county record storage, $2,147; added Xerox and office expenses and $3,124 for a shootout last fall, conducted by the sheriff's department, against Paul Isler of Tucuman.

Isler was shot by deputy Quill Bradley before he was arrested on kidnapping and other charges, after Bradley had been fired upon by Isler with a .30-06 rifle.

Included in the $3,124 in expenses for Isler are $2,128 for hospitalization, $441 in [SEE PAGE TEN]

Arran Duncie wins Apache Handicap

Arran Duncie took to a sloppy track like a duck to water and pulled to a convincing victory in Sunday's 9th running of the Mescalero-Apache Handicap at Ruidoso Downs.

The four-year-old, ridden by Carlos Rivas under 122 pounds, had little trouble overhauling the plucky Trail Driver in the upper stretch of the 6 1/2-furlong spin.

The 6-5 favorite, Noble Kingdom, appeared to get mired down in the sticky going and couldn't generate his customary closing wallop. He finished well out of the picture under a demanding 128 pounds.

Arran Duncie, the property of J.W. Gardenhire of O'Donnell, Texas, hit the tape with a bulging two-length lead and returned second-favorite prices of $7.40, $3.60 and $3.60. Time for the distance was 1:20 3/5 seconds.

The Mescalero-Apache carried a gross purse of $7,100. Arran Duncie's share amounted to $4,260. Trail Driver, with Tony Trujillo up at 114 pounds, held on for second and returned $3.80 and $3.40. Third went to the 10-1 longshot, T.V. Fun. Gilbert Villegas was aboard in 114-pound package. The show price was $4.60.

Swiss Ich and Crawford's Flash took up commanding positions in the early going while Trail Driver and Arran Duncie elected to stay a few lengths off the pace. As the field neared the turn for home, Jockey Trujillo gave Trail Driver the green light, and the gelding began passing horses on the outside.

In the upper stretch, Trail Driver had the makings of a winner and was really flying. But that's when Arran Duncie began picking up steam. Trail Driver dug in and tried to fight off the challenge, but Arran Duncie clearly had too much in reserve. He took charge with great authority and got into cruising gear when he neared the wire.

Arran Duncie won't have much time to rest on his laurels, since he's already been entered for Thursday's headliner. Arran Duncie holds career winnings of over $70,000.

Noble Kingdom ended up sixth in the six-head field.

Gary Sumpter had been originally slated to handle Arran Duncie, but a freak mishap put him out of commission for the final races on the day. In the 8th race, Sumpter brought True Balcony from off the pace for a hard-fought slim win. After crossing the finish, True Balcony lost his footing and went down. Sumpter was thrown roughly to the muddy turf. He was banged up, and taken by track ambulance to the Ruidoso hospital. Luckily, he escaped serious injury.

The longtime Ruidoso champ of the 870, Norgor, was up to his old tricks in the co-feature. He came from just off the pace to beat out Two Copies by a nose. Willie Lovell was up. Norgor covered the sloppy 870 distance in 47.17 seconds and paid $5.20 as the betting choice.

Dial Jester, a 24-1 longshot, scored a stunning upset in Saturday's second division of the Mr. Jet Moore Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

The five-year-old got a hustling ride from W.R. Hunt and was off flying in the early steps of the 400-yard dash. He got control at the mid-way point of the dash, and barely managed to hold off the onrushing Pine's Easter Jet.

Fans who backed Dial Jester collected topheavy mutuels of $50.20 to win, $27.40 to place, $11.60 to show. The winner is owned by C.C. Killian and R.S. Howell of Sayre, Okla. The winning time was 20.10 seconds. First place was worth $3,052.

Pine's Easter Jet, with Jerry Burgess up, collected $1,119 for second place and paid $5.20 and $4.20. Cadillacking got in third, refunding $3.80.

The first division of the Mr. Jet Moore Stakes went to Hi Johnny, a 7-5 favorite who hit the tape with a nose lead. He clocked the distance in 19.99 seconds and paid mutuels of $4.80, $3 and $2.60. Wayne Gee was up.

Three Lit, who was really trucking at the end, dished out prices of $4.80 and $3.20. Lucky Stepper, a 38-1 darkhorse, sailed in third and paid $11 even.

Hi Johnny is owned by the Adobe Ranch

Co. of Del Rio, Texas.

Infinite Traffic came from far behind under bold handling by Carlos Rivas and snared a half-length victory in Friday's six-furlong topper at Ruidoso Downs.

Sparkling Straw, with Gary Sumpter at the helm, also made a big stretch run but just couldn't overtake the public choice.

Infinite Traffic covered the distance in 1:15 2/5 seconds and paid mutuels of $5.20, $4.40 and $3.20. Sparkling Straw was good for returns of $4.60 and $3.20.

Fol's Wish, piloted by Joe Provenzio, ended up third and paid $4.20.

Infinite Traffic is owned by Jolly and Sammye Driskill of Buffalo Gap, Texas.

The '870' was born at Ruidoso Downs

BY DICK ALWAN
Ruidoso Downs
Publicity Director

Ruidoso Downs, as anybody knows, is the mountain-located track in New Mexico which gave the world the million-dollar All-American Futurity. But there'll be plenty of time to dwell on that in the weeks ahead. What concerns us now is another Ruidoso invention — the 870 yard race.

First of all, picture in your minds a nice, neat four furlongs. (That's a half mile). Take away 40 yards, and that's 870 yards — a distance which presumably gives the thoroughbred and quarter horse a chance to battle one another on something akin to equal terms.

On Ruidoso's five-furlong track, the 870 begins at a point on the backside of the oval, about where six-furlong races start on mile tracks. What this means is that at Ruidoso Downs, horses running in the 870 have some backstretch room in order to angle for position before hitting the turn. On a mile track — such as Sunland Park, for example — the 870 starts close to the barn for home, so it can be a helter-skelter scramble for position.

With that dishwasher-dull point out of the way — which happens to be the heart of the matter — we'll go on to meatier aspects. The 870, as any railbird hereabouts will tell you, is now considered an interesting speed test which draws quality stock from both breeds. And what would be more natural than having the 870 find its birthplace in New Mexico, where thoroughbred and quarter horse have long been part of the racing scene?

But there were little high-brow notions involved during the 1948 season at Ruidoso Downs when the 870 got its start. Originally, the race was considered nothing more than a temporary way of jazzing up a dull program.

First, we need to sketch out some details. Racing reached this part of the Southwest in 1937 when pari-mutuel betting was legalized. The sport existed for almost a decade without benefit of the Racing Form and no distinction was made between thoroughbred and quarter horse. Jerry Knott, a long-time official in New Mexico racing (now mutuels manager at Ruidoso), recalls those early days as a time when "it was hard to put a field together without relying on the 'colds'. (A cold, of course, means a coldblood — not a thoroughbred.)

With such a medley of bloodlines, the quarter horse took an early grip on New Mexico racing. Many "thoroughbred type" races were longer versions of quarter horse races. "Before the Racing Form came in 1948, registration of animals was not required," Knott once recalled. "A popular distance was three furlongs, and this seemed suitable for the majority of animals on hand."

All this changed with the coming of the Racing Form. A distinction between thoroughbred and quarter horse races was demanded, so this led to two developments; the colds were eased out of racing, and it was decided only thoroughbreds would be permitted in races of four furlongs or longer. But nothing was said about running thoroughbreds at shorter distances. That was the loophole which led to the genesis of the 870.

Now we go the Ruidoso Downs meeting of 1948. (At that time, the track was called Hollywood Park — having taken its name, no doubt, from the famous West Coast track.) The man who dreamed up the 870 was Herman Jefferson, racing secretary at Ruidoso during that '48 meeting. It happened this way: at the end of the 20-day meeting, officials petitioned the State

'MACHINES MISWIRED' — LOVELACE

County's primary election vote thoroughly mixed up

The Lincoln County Clerk's office is canvassing votes from Tuesday's primary election this week, after it was discovered all the voting machines in the election were miswired, allowing voters to cast two votes in the District Judge's race.

"There were 251 more votes tallied for District Judge than there were voters," county clerk Barbara Lovelace said.

"After rechecking our ballot count we're going to turn the matter over to the District Attorney for a legal opinion on where we should go from here."

Carrizozo District Judge candidate Bill Payne told Lovelace he would not contest the election. Payne carried Lincoln County over Alamogordo candidate Richard Stanley, 651 votes to 468, but lost the overall election to the former district judge, 1,851 votes to 1,566.

"The extra votes would have made no appreciable difference in the outcome of the election," Lovelace said.

According to the county clerk, this is the first year Lincoln County has had anything go wrong with its elections. She said there would probably not be a second election to resolve the mix up, but that it would be handled some other way.

Installing officer was Opal Lankford of Roswell, first vice governor of district 10, Altrusa International. Taking office were Jane Deyo, president; Barbara Duff, vice president; Beth Daugherty, recording secretary; Betty Cuddy, corresponding secretary; Monese Barron, treasurer; Florence Wilson, Katherine Finley and Mabel Wimberly, directors.

Betty Cuddy conducted a brief business session and Barbara Duff reported on plans for the fifth annual Floricade to be held September 1. Jane Deyo welcomed her new officers and appointed committees for the forthcoming year.

Other members attending were Shirley Atwood, Sarah Lee Beumer, Louise Bottler, LeVerne Cole, Louise Cooper and Vera Quinn. Guests were Opal Lankford, Marge Buck and Ollie Kemp of Roswell.

The next regular meeting will be held at 12 noon on Wednesday, June 16, at the Cree Meadows Country Club.

If you are a collector of Indian arts, whether it is rugs and blankets, jewelry, pottery, basketry or beadwork, there are guidelines to follow. If you are a collector, you know that you can't pick up works of fine art and craftsmanship cheaply.

Contemporary Indian rugs are made in the Southwest primarily by the Navajo. The Navajo techniques were originally learned from the Pueblos Indians who have woven cloth on the vertical loom since the 11th century.

Early blankets were striped and after that the stripes were often alternated with a diamond motif in the Chief's version. Rugs of geometric designs in natural gray, white and brown shades from the Two Gray Hills area are most expensive costing from $500 to $2000 for a 3 x 5 size.

Pottery is judged by its symmetry, complexity of design and how well each piece is finished and how skillfully the design is painted. From Acama come thin-walled pots with brown or black designs on a white background. Hopi pottery has black, rust or white designs on a cream or pale orange base. Pottery is divided into two categories, those pieces which are signed by a "name" potter, and those which are not. Most pottery is signed regardless. Those pieces not signed by a famous name range from a few dollars to $150 whereas name pottery begins around $100 and goes into the $1,000's.

Basketry is a dying art. New baskets are seldom as tightly woven or as finely made as the old ones. Papago coil and split-stitch baskets are still available costing from a few dollars to over $100. Hopi coil and wicker baskets are scarce but are still made in small quantities — prices from $15 to $2. Older basketry has nearly priced itself out of the market except to collectors.

Most tribes still do beadwork. Traditional to the northern region are woven sashes and split-stitch floral designs. Geometric designs done in a lazy stitch is typical of the Sioux, Cheyennes, Arapahos and Utes. Some of the best contemporary beadwork comes from the Wind River Cooperative in Wyoming of the Arapaho and Shoshone tribes. Belts range from $12 to $100 and purses from $35 to $80. Beaded shirts, dresses and cradleboards are very rare and expensive.

Then there is the collector of turquoise which is probably the most popular of the Indian arts. The market is so flooded with jewelry of Indian design it is difficult to distinguish the imitation from the authentic. Three tribes make most of when buying Indian jewelry. There is a Navajo, Hopi and Zuni. Know your dealer when buying Indian jewelry. There is a law in New Mexico now that has put more stringent controls on the identification of imitation Indian jewelry.

Wilson, Jane Deyo, Opal Lankford (installing officer), Barbara

Duff, Beth Daugherty, and Betty Cuddy.

Those interested in league play should attend the organizational meeting Wednesday, June 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ruidoso Public Library.

We're asking at least one representative from each team to attend the meeting," RTA secretary Ann Clough said. "Also, all those individuals who want to play, but don't have a team yet, can come and we'll find someone to play with them."

According to Clough, if there are enough teams entered, the league will be split into an A and B division. "We're trying to limit the leagues to eight teams," she said.

League participants will have to supply their own balls for matches and will be charged $1 each for awards.

Registration deadline for the leagues is Thurs., June 10. Teams wishing to register early can sign up at the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce or at the organizational meeting.

Designed around a "4-story" garden.

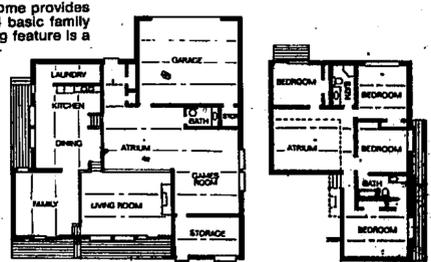

This natural-cedar custom home provides separate levels for each of 4 basic family activities. But its most striking feature is a large central atrium — a 22-ft.-high, year-round garden court which faces the entry-level foyer, but can be seen and enjoyed from every level.

The entry level also includes garage, storage room and half bath. Four steps up are the dining area, kitchen, laundry and family room. Level 3 is devoted to a formal living room, located in the center of the illustration above: 4 bedrooms and 2 baths occupy the 4th-level quiet zone.

Containing more than 3,000 sq. ft., plus garage, this made-to-order plan is a dramatic example of the design flexibility inherent in our pre-cut, engineered homes. Send $2 for Planbook and design kit.

Elephant Butte has Northerns

More than 12,200 northern pike fingerlings have a new home in Elephant Butte Lake and the Rio Grande below the reservoir. The fish were planted by the N.M. Department of Game and Fish this week as part of a state-federal cooperative program.

Some of the northerns will be ready to catch in as little as nine months. A few, he added, will range up to five pounds in their first year. Minimum size for taking northern pike is eighteen inches.

As tiny fry, the northern pike were flown into New Mexico from the Gavins Point Federal Hatchery in Yankton, S.D. The department held them in rearing ponds at T or C for six to eight weeks until they reached plantable size — three to five inches.

Currently, New Mexico has northern pike populations in Miami, Springer, Navajo, Caballo, Conchas and Elephant Butte lakes and the Rio Grande.

The '870' was born here

Racing Commission for five extra days. The request was granted. But there was one catch. Since racing was also underway at La Mesa Park, the extra race days at Ruidoso were to be limited to quarter horse events.

Most of the races carded for that five-day meeting were at 220 yards, an unpopular distance, which, for an entire day's slate, was almost too much to take. Complicating the matter was the fact racing secretary Jefferson had a stablefull of leftover thoroughbreds. These animals, unfortunately, were mostly a cheap and ailing group. "They weren't good enough to get stall space at Raton," Knott recalls.

So with such a paltry band of thoroughbred routers, and lukewarm quarter horses, Jefferson fashioned the 870. The distance, 10 yards short of a half-mile, adhered to the Racing Commission's insistence on a quarter-horse type program. It created, such as it was, a common ground for quarter horse and thoroughbred.

There were some problems, of course — such as the fact the backstretch dipped some 14 feet while going into the turn. "In those first races, if a jockey didn't have his mount close to the rail, he'd go flying off in a wide turn and get passed by the whole field," Knott says. (The problem was amended in 1984 when the turns were properly banked.)

But the oddball race caught the fancy of the fans, and the 870 spread to Rillito Park in Tucson around 1950. La Mesa picked up the race in 1956. Then it was incorporated at the New Mexico State Fair and at Sunland Park in 1960. Today the race is also carded in California, Arizona, Louisiana, Florida, Ohio, Colorado and Idaho.

So what's the verdict on the 870? Bob Dudlich, longtime-time announcer at Ruidoso, describes the race this way: "It's a demanding assignment, both for horse and jockey. It's hard to keep a horse from running out, and it's hard to rate him."

Jockey Larry Byers: "It's a hully-gully race — a real scramble. If you can get the lead, and stay there, you can be alright. But the 870 can be a real problem race. You've got a lot of factors to contend with. I'd say, for those reasons, a lot of jockeys don't like the 870."

Ruidoso Steward Bob Lewis: "It's a hard race to ride. You need lots of speed, and you've got to go a distance. It's the toughest challenge for a jockey — and a horse." Jockey Leroy Coombs fixes the difficulty on the need to "build up a lot of speed right away, and save ground at the same time." He says a rider has to be on his toes, and be more alert than in any other race. "But it's not so bad if you have a nice horse, with some speed under you."

Whatever the 870's original reasons for being, it's turned into a fixture on the New Mexico racing scene — and a popular race with its own history and character. So what if it came from the wrong side of the railroad tracks?

guard's fees, $297 in doctor fees and, since January, $275 to the state penitentiary where Isler is being held.

The commissioners tabled all budgeting decisions until absent commissioner John Sudderth could be present. A special meeting was tentatively set for tomorrow in Carrizozo.

In further business, the commission reviewed an ordinance allowing Continental Telephone Co. to install telephone lines along county roads and then blamed the District Attorney's office for not returning an opinion on the measure in time for approval.

"The DA is the county's attorney and yet he hasn't been to a commission meeting or sent a representative in months," commissioner Bud Payne said. "The county and the taxpayers are paying part of his wages so he should be here."

"The problem is basically that the DA's office gives the county a low priority," county manager Les Olson said. "I can understand the DA's need to put criminal cases first, but that doesn't mean he needs to eliminate the county altogether."

The commissioners voted to accept the ordinance subject to the approval of the DA.

The commission also: —Awarded bids for fire equipment for Ft. Stanton to low bidder Artesia Fire Equipment for $5,251.04. Included in the bid specifications were nozzles, tools, helmets, 600 feet of hose and other items. Next low bidder was Thunderbird Sales Corporation from Albuquerque at $5,385.10.

—Accepted the Lincoln Water Project as completed and relieved the project contractor from all warranty responsibilities on the recommendation of project inspector Tom Mann.

—Signed a contract with the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District for services for the upcoming fiscal year. Services will cost the county $900.

—Authorized the conversion of an outdated county 1965 Ford dumptruck into a vehicle to pull floats in parades.

SENTE FE — Thousands of new faces at precinct, ward and county conventions are the key to New Mexico Republicans' victory chances in the general election.

Most were Ronald Reagan backers. Reagan won 488 state convention delegates or 81 per cent. President Gerald Ford captured only 290 or 38 per cent with 25 delegates or 3 per cent unknown.

Nervous Ford supporters fear a repeat of 1964. Barry Goldwater fans shut out Nelson Rockefeller then at the state GOP convention in a drive ramrodded by Anderson Carter. Other Republicans were given little voice in party affairs. The move still echoes throughout the state GOP.

Carter masterminded the sweeping Reagan victory that assured Reagan of New Mexico's 21 national convention delegates. They will be elected June 26 at Albuquerque to the Kansas City convention Aug. 16-20.

Reagan backers and state party brass denied reports that Reaganites seek opponents for National Committeeman Robert Davidson of Albuquerque and National Committeewoman Frances Shipman of Pojoaque in the fallout from the Ford-Reagan scrap. Davidson backs Ford who helped him in his 1966 U.S. House race. Mrs. Shipman says her choice is still Vice President Nelson Rockefeller who is not a candidate. She was a 1964 Rockefeller supporter.

State GOP Finance Chairman James P. Morris, longtime Reagan backer, says: "Some people who were at precinct, ward and county conventions will sit on their hands. But the greater percentage of the new faces who support Reagan will remain active in the party. These people would not have been found otherwise. They were dragged out of the woodwork."

If they are one-candidate Republicans and if they drop out should Ford beat Reagan for the nomination, GOP general election chances would be hurt sorely. New Mexico Republicans are badly outnumbered. They account for only 29 per cent of voters. In increased registrations Democrats have outgained the GOP nearly 3-1 since 1972 — $3,568 to 12,397.

If the party leadership can keep the new faces in ranks, the GOP could benefit handsomely Nov. 2. State GOP Chairman Jack Stahl says the party is trying. An effort is being mounted to contact each of the 10,000 who attended precinct, ward and county conventions "and ask them to contribute money and work actively in the general election campaign," Stahl says.

The record turnouts "were 3 to 10 times what they had ever been before," Stahl says. The Chaves County convention drew more than 700. The statewide attendance total was 2,900 to 3,000 in previous election years at local party conventions. How controlling Reagan forces deal with defeated Ford fans will decide if a rending party split develops or the new manpower strengthens the GOP effort.

Stahl calls it "a net plus because of the many new people although feelings were hurt on both sides around the state in the Ford-Reagan contest." He adds: "We'll probably have less fallout from Ford people if Reagan is the nominee than from Reagan people if Ford is the candidate because more Ford supporters are longtime party workers." Some Republicans regard Stahl as a Reagan backer although he says repeatedly he is neutral in the hot fight.

Would Ford or Reagan be the stronger general election runner? Stahl says: "Against a man like Humphrey, a seasoned performer in Washington, Ford might be the best man. But if Democrats nominate a newcomer like Jimmy Carter, Reagan might fit more into battling him to the wire."

Bernalillo County GOP Chairman Bob Bush, an avid Reagan fan, says: "Sure, I could support Ford if he is the nominee." Bush expects little fallout regardless of the party's choice. But he concedes: "A certain number of people who were at their first conventions we'll never see again." Some Goldwater backers were inactive after Lyndon B. Johnson swamped Goldwater. But Goldwater's candidacy attracted Stahl and Bush to the GOP and later to key party posts.

Davidson says: "Many Ford people are predominantly old line Republicans. They'll support the nominee whether it's Ford, Reagan or any other candidate." Davidson's physician said he is physically able to seek re-election as national committeeman. All hands said no opponents have surfaced so far against Davidson or Mrs. Shipman.

Gov. Jerry Apodaca's endorsement of Jimmy Carter was viewed by some observers as a counter to the "Anybody but Carter" (ABC) drive by Carter's opponents in the Democratic Party.

SPARE THAT MUTT!
Homeowner, spare that dog! That's the word from the Ruidoso Police Department about shooting stray dogs that wander onto your property.

According to police chief Paul Lukens, there's an ordinance against discharging a firearm within the village limits which could be slapped on dog shooters with a possible $300 fine and up to 90 days in jail.

The whole problem stems from the demise of the local animal shelter last February. Since that time the Ruidoso dog population has blossomed unhindered.

Packs of dogs wander freely in and around the village, strewn garbage across private yards. Dog attacks on humans have drastically increased. Animals run over by careless motorists, lie in the street for days until the city garbage truck can find enough time to pick them up.

While the village councils in Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs bicker over who's going to control the dogs, homeowners have sat helplessly by while their children are gnawed by neighbor's pets and their landscaping is dug up by the roots.

The situation has reached such proportions many people are threatening to take matters into their own hands.

"I'm buying a gun this week and the next dog that comes into my yard is getting both barrels," said a father, whose little girl was bitten by two dogs in her own front yard last week.

One would think the man has every right to protect his daughter and property, however, the legal issue of how far he can go in protecting those things is extremely cloudy.

The homeowner who begins indiscriminately knocking off animals that stray into his yard is walking on dangerous ground, both from the law and the vengeance of his neighbors. Besides which, the would-be dog killer may end up accidentally shooting something or someone else.

Okay, so the law has pretty much shut off the dog-killing solution. What other recourse does a citizen have?

Ideally one would assume people concerned about the animal control problem would begin at home, by policing their own pets.

However, one still runs into inconsiderate people, like the woman whose two dogs tore up a third dog who was running alongside his jogging master. When asked to control her pets the woman retorted, "If you don't want your dog or yourself attacked then don't jog down my street anymore."

In those cases, if you know who owns the dog, you can file a complaint at the police department against them.

Yes, there are ordinances against letting pets stray and there is also a leash law. Therefore, any pet owner whose animals are in violation of those ordinances can be brought to municipal court under the threat of a maximum $300, 90 days in jail penalty.

Granted, the court route gives less immediate and direct satisfaction to the homeowner plagued by stray dogs. However, until local citizens can pressure their respective village councils to take positive steps in alleviating the animal control crisis, it's probably their safest recourse.

Let's keep our neighbors, ourselves and elected officials under the gun to do something about the problem, rather than turning the barrels on an innocent pup who's just following his natural instincts.

COUNTRY CLUB USA

The peccadillos of members of The Congress have always been known to political insiders. It is a way, and a fact, of life.

Some of the men drink and womanize. Some of the women drink... some might even...uh... "manize". They behave like human beings. Occasionally a billet doux or a tete-a-tete will cause chit-chat and laughter within the hallowed halls... it's the sort of private exchange akin to the repartee at a country club... it's nothing serious... everyone "understands".

There's a tacit understanding in Washington... don't pull a faux pas... don't get caught.

Tom Dodd pulled a faux pas... so did Wilbur Mills... and now it's Rep. Wayne Hays and his Ray maze. Hays' constituents had to be aware of Elizabeth Ray. However, in the tradition of The Congress, private business remains private... until it becomes public knowledge.

The House... and speaker Carl Albert has been on the receiving end of an aspersions or three at times... is faced with contending with an errant member... errant only because Hays' proclivity for relaxing... it is currently being alleged... with a pulchritudinous... if there's such a word... companion... has come from within the boondoor out to the attention of the press. This was a faux pas... of such a magnitude that Speaker Albert has probably upped his daily intake of stomach quieteners... aspirin... or whatever he takes during periods of personal stress.

If Mills got ahorn... there should be no hesitation in The Congress to clip Hays' wings... 'cause it wasn't even hinted that good ol' Wilbur wasn't spending his own money.

TUESDAY AFTERMATH

Tuesday's election wound up the preliminaries... now the real blood letting can begin.

First... the winners have fences to mend, knives to snatch from backs and unanimity to achieve.

Second... the winners must contend with the losers. This is a conundrum of frightening magnitude... 'cause the reaction of the loser is an unknown quantity.

That's what makes politics so interesting... the loser's ox has been gored... and what's he going to do about it?

A maxim set forth by political campaign directors says it all... if you don't want to win, don't run for office. How you win isn't important. As to other maxims... there are none. There's a guideline, though... don't get caught.

Nice-guys... unless they're unopposed... have trouble winning elections because they ignore the maxim.

It'd be nice if there were no maxim... but that'd take all the fun out of elections... matter of fact it might even eliminate elections... which leaves the nonvoters virtually dictating our governmental status quo.

What'll be interesting... after Tuesday... is how the DA's across the state will react. A half-dozen of them got spanked... seems John Q. Voter expressed an opinion about how their offices were being operated. As the losers lick their wounds it'll be of little solace to realize that the voter spoke his piece.

Which brings us to November... billions of empty words away.

Letters to the Editor

After twelve long years, the night had finally come that students of Ruidoso High School marched across the football field to take their honorary place at the foot of the circle of elders gathered on the platform above. Piano keys were pounded to remind the students that they ought to step in unison: Right, left, right, left, right, left. Seniors in flowing waves of red, white and blue robes (Yes, it was Bicentennial Graduation, 1976) smacked of bubble gum and strutted with contradictions of sheepish self-consciousness.

After twelve long years of being educated to achieve distinction, to procure better jobs, to become more efficient, to have wider dominion over others and, for the honor students, to be scholars married to books or specialists addicted to knowledge, the seniors were being given recognition for having completed the program that would now enable them to enter into the mainstream of life and be contributors to this great land and people.

After twelve long years of being educated about "the real issues of life" to compete and self improve the personality so that it is better than others, so that it is a success in all of its and others' ideals, seniors sat saturating (?) last minute speeches reminding them of the troubled world that they must take a lead in.

After twelve long years of being educated and upbrought, the real issue of life, knowing self, was fearfully buried below the ideal to compete and to gain success by the conditioning that one should fear to be different and unique, that one should fear to challenge and understand established pattern of society, that one should fear to challenge and understand the inherited beliefs and accepted truths of authority because to do so one might be rejected or disapproval of or not belong to the "in" circle of elders.

After twelve long years of constant adherence to authority in education, these graduating seniors were slowly formed into those thoughts of what he "ought" to think, those beliefs of what he "ought" to believe, that success in which he "ought" to become. Instead of teachers awakening the integrated intelligence of the individual so that independent thinking and comprehension of himself as a total process might have developed, educators encouraged students to conform to a pattern by training their minds to memorize, to repeat, to replay (like the sophisticated tape recorder and computer machines now on the market).

After twelve long years of training the minds of these graduating seniors to parrot what it is told to know and believe by its authorities, most of these students sat empty eyed in grasping who they are and what they will do now. Oh, yes, many will go on to college and continue in the circle of confusion by believing and doing what they "ought" to do, or going into some trade or business that family pressure nudges them towards, but again it is in obedience to the authority of success. They will busy themselves in the years ahead with the pursuit of happiness (or is it really distractions?) rushing to the end with seldom the consideration: "What is the real purpose in living, and who am I?"

After twelve long years of being trained and educated and programmed and conditioned, parents and friends waited with expectation and pride for the moribund ahead when the diplomats would be handed out. Esteemed elders were making final suggestions at what the students "ought" to do now that they were going out into the adult world. The sun had dipped behind the back drop of mountains. The sound like a cracking bullet shot across the stadium at the moment the flood lamps went out. And, then, all was in darkness....

Laura has had $71,760 pass through her hands in the last fifteen years....

And doesn't have a cent to show for it!

And Laura is just a minimum wage earner. Earning far below what the people in Ruidoso earn.

But, let's take Laura's modest income of $4,784 a year. If, over the last fifteen years, she had put only $30 a month into a Ruidoso State Bank Savings Account she would now have $8040.94 in savings. That's something to think about.

Laura's no different than you or I. Saving is something we put off, because it's more fun to spend. That's why it's so important to put a little away each month. So you'll have something there when the important things come along.

- Your money earns 5% INTEREST on all Passbook Savings Accounts... the highest amount allowed by law.
