GENERAL FUND CUT $70,240 FROM LAST YEAR

Village budget okayed Tuesday

Ruidoso's general fund operation for fiscal 1976-77 will suffer from an austerity kick — a $70,240 funding slash — in the final budget approved at a special meeting of the trustees Tuesday.

At Tuesday's hearing, conducted before Pat Romero of the Local Government Division of the NM Department of Finance and Administration, this budget was approved:

General Fund	$585,084
Fire	26,450
Recreation	18,827
Lodger's Tax	26,030
Revenue Sharing	41,438

General Obligation Bond Interest	294,783
General Obligation Sinking Fund	148,000
Revenue Bond Interest	69,784
Revenue Bond Principal	59,000
Solid Waste	150,566
Cemetery	4,500
Airport	118,899
Water	227,700
Sewer	80,422
Total budget	$1,851,483

In addition the above budget includes $4,500,000 in General Obligation Bonds for water improvements. Eagle Creek Dam, now awaiting the environmental impact statement, is a major part of this figure.

The General Fund for the past fiscal year totaled $655,324 and the figure of $585,084 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 represents a cut of $70,240.

Actual General Fund cuts included: Police Department, $25,000; Senior Citizens, $19,000; Ambulance subsidy, $6,720; Village Environmentalist, $8,000; Library capital outlay, $16,000, plus elimination of six village employees.

THE CUTS TOTAL $74,720, plus the savings in salaries. The $4,480 difference was made up in minor adjustments as the budget was finalized.

The current fiscal year's budget totaled $2,499,489, against the upcoming fiscal year's budget of $1,851,483, amounting to an overall slash of $648,006.

Revenue Sharing for the upcoming fiscal year has been pegged at $41,438, a reduction of more than $21,000 from anticipated receipts. Last fiscal year the village received $93,434 in Revenue Sharing funds.

The village's anticipated income from property tax, which is used only in the General Fund, is $46,500.

FOR EACH $100 in property tax collected the general fund receives $2.25 with $97.75 going for debt retirement.

The approved budget differed from the figures submitted by the village to the state only in Revenue Sharing Receipts.

Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr. ordered a polling of the trustees to approve the budget, with trustees Sherman Atwood, George White, Ab Gunter and Don Driver all voting "aye". The mayor directed that his vote of approval be recorded.

Following the unanimous approval of the budget, Romero said: "This is a very good budget with Revenue Sharing being the only difference between this budget and the one submitted to us for approval."

"In preparing the 1977-78 fiscal year budget if the council will adopt the budget resolution at a regular meeting and then submit it to the Department of Finance and Administration for approval,

Fire closure

A full fire closure on all trash burning and open campfires is in effect in Ruidoso, set by Fire Chief Red Farus. The only exceptions are the use of charcoal burning units and fireplaces.

it will not be necessary to hold a budget hearing.

"If requested, however, a representative from our office will come to Ruidoso to work with the council on budget preparation."

Village revenues may exceed budgeted figures because the base used in the current fiscal year tax amounts while the actual new assessment figures will be used for collections. The trustees, from information available, estimate that the assessed valuation of the village will be $1 million above the present valuation.

TO FURTHER BOLSTER village finances, the trustees will consider an ordinance imposing a ¼% gross revenue tax at the regular meeting July 13. If imposed, this tax will be collectible beginning Jan 1, 1977. The trustees can also call for a referendum to vote in an additional ¼%, with collections to begin July 1, 1977. All proceeds from this tax would be earmarked for general fund expenditures.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK, with the feat of his britches still dry, was plaguing Greg Nunnally, 9, Monday evening as he dunked three salmon eggs into the Rio Ruidoso. Greg preserved, however, and shortly added a sizeable Rainbow trout to join the little German Brown on his stringer. After which his mother, Mrs. Sam Nunnally, hotted up the skillet for a trout dinner. At least Greg was holding out high hopes this would be the case.

Dogs, cats rabies shots set Saturday

A rabies vaccination clinic for dogs and cats will be held at the Fire Station in Schoolhouse Park, on Sudderth west of the swimming pool, from noon to 3 p.m., Saturday. State law requires that all dogs and cats must have this vaccination for rabies when they are three months old. All cats and dogs that are not wearing a current rabies shot tag, or have never had the vaccination, should be brought to Saturday's clinic.

Citations issued fire 'visitors'

Following complaints from firemen at the scene of a residential fire in Camelot subdivision Monday evening that sightseers were hindering firemen in the performance of their duties, three citations for "Following fire apparatus" were issued by a Ruidoso policeman. The three were cited to appear before Municipal Judge Sam Nunnally before June 19.

Puberty Ritual highlights annual MAT ceremonial

Four young New Mexico Indian maidens will participate in the summer Puberty Ritual at the Mescalero Apache reservation July 2-5.

The annual event will begin Friday, July 2, and will center around the Big Teepee on the west side of the ceremonial grounds.

Ritual candidates will enter the teepee with their attendants and medicine men at dawn to start the ceremonial and will make public appearances throughout the four days of festivities. They will also be featured each evening in the Dance of the Apache Maidens.

"This is a unique ceremony that goes back to the roots of Apache culture and is full of tradition," Wheeler Gayton of the MAT said. "Each participant must have a special Indian-tanned buckskin dress with headwork and almost everything worn in the rites is handmade."

Other elements of the ritual include a medicine man and attendant for each girl, to help them through the intricate ceremonial, and a sponsor to provide food and drink.

Maidens for the 1976 puberty ritual are: Shirlene Torres, 13, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. John Gallerito and attends school in Tularosa. The Galleritos will serve as her sponsors. Her attendant is Bernice Yuzos and her medicine man is Paul Ortega.

Marla Isabel Enjady, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Wallace Enjady, who will also serve as her sponsors. She attends school in Tularosa and her attendant will be Lucille Williams. Her medicine man is Ernest Marden.

Kathleen Marie Blake, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Davis, who will be her sponsors for the ritual. Currently attending school in Tularosa, her attendant will be Lizette Comanche and her medicine man will be Dewey Shields.

Ursula Marden, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marden of Dulce, New Mexico. Her sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kazbe and her attendant is Karis Botella. Bernard Second will serve as her medicine man.

The Puberty Ritual will run in conjunction with the annual Mescalero rodeo and championship and cultural Indian dances.

Offering $3,000 in prize money, the Championship Indian Dances will begin at 3 p.m. daily with competitors from

THE VILLAGE BUDGET of $281,500 for fiscal 1976-77 was approved Tuesday morning at a hearing attended by Pat Romero of the NM State Department of Finance and Administration.

The $281,500 represents a slash of $161,618 from the current year's budget of $443,118. The 1976-77 budget included expenditures in excess of $204,000 for a village water project.

Revenue Sharing funds will amount to $24,065 between July 1 and Dec. 31 of this year. This figure compares to receipts of $19,094 during the present fiscal year.

SHESWRIGHT RUNNING FROM NO. 9 SLOT

Jet Commanche goes in Friday's feature

Jet Commanche, a gelding who's earned over $100,000 so far, makes his second seasonal start in Friday's 350-yard headline at Ruidoso Downs.

The affair drew 10 takers from the three-year-old and up category and dangles an allowance prize of $2,500. First post through Sunday is 1:30 p.m.

The weekend turf slate in the cool pines will be topped by two stakes. On Saturday three-year-olds and up will shoot it out in the Flying Charm Stakes at 870 yards. The purse is $5,000-added. On Sunday, a standout group of New Mexico-bred two-year-olds will travel four furlongs in the $30,348 Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity.

Here's the way they'll line up for Friday's feature: 1—Mr. Zons Chick, 116; 2—Jet Commanche, 119; 3—Billy Billy Bayou, 116; 4—Jodie's Flight, 119; 5—Newsworthy, 122; 6—Melody's Boone, 116; 7—Jet Captain, 119; 8—Mighty Wagon, 119; 9—Sheswright, 119; 10—Dandy Dill, 119.

Jet Commanche, owned by Sam Henderson of Odessa, turned in some good performances as a two-year-old in '74. He posted a 2-0-2 mark from 10 starts, and took home $28,920.

In '75, he really got into high gear by belting out a 3-5-1 tally from 11 spins and earning a thumping $75,485. The signal performance of his career came in the All-American Derby, which, with a purse of nearly $500,000, ranked as last year's second richest race. Jet Commanche got away as a 25-1 longshot, but really poured it on while deadheating Easy Date for second — and missing the win slot by a mere nose. The rumerup finish was worth $60,203.

At the tallend of the '75 Ruidoso season, Jet Commanche took a spin in the 550-Championship and won by a nose as a 6-5 favorite. Then it was over to Sunland Park for the trials for the Fall Quarter Horse

Nelson draws 2,600 fans

The Willie Nelson concert and dance drew over 2,600 admission paying fans to the Chaparral Convention Center Saturday night according to figures released by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

"This is the biggest, best attended concert the Chamber has ever sponsored," C-C manager Richard Cottrun said. "Half of the Chamber's operating budget comes from money raising projects like this one. As a fund raising venture, the concert was very gratifying." Exact profit figures for the concert were unavailable.

"Over 35 Chamber members and volunteers worked their fingers to the bone all night to make this concert a success," Cottrun said. "For the number of people there, things went off as smoothly as humanly possible."

According to Cottrun, the only complaints he's heard about the concert so far concern the inadequate restroom facilities for the large crowd and people standing around the stage and blocking the view for

Indoor plants can be decorative and tough

Many of us don't have time to spend in growing outdoor plants but enjoy having plants in our home. Plants are decorative and can add temporary color to your room. You can have a portable garden by planting plants in containers and move them around as lighting conditions change. A clay pot is the usual plant container, but you can use something different like a kerosene lamp, an old fish bowl or a decorative storage jar to make an exciting and unique display.

The only thing to remember is that the container should be deep enough for roots to develop and that it has proper drainage. If the container does not have a hole for drainage add a handful of gravel to the bottom before putting in the soil.

For those corners of a room you would like to decorate with plants that have low light conditions, there are some plants that do thrive in dim light.

Chinese Evergreen is a small durable foliage that will even grow in plain water. It loves dimly lit places and will even produce long-lasting red berries for color.

Snake plant got its "mother-in-law tongue" nickname because of its tough "never say die" nature and sharp pointed leaves.

Pothos or Devil's Ivy grow in water for months and keeps in a planter for years. It comes in a cream colored version, or with apple-green, heart shaped leaves, boldly splashed with creamy white.

Leopard plant, a member of the daisy family but un-daisy like in appearance, features a rosette of long stemmed, leathery leaves, attractively spotted with gold.

For a bushy foliage plant, the Aspidistra, or Cast Iron, has no equal when it comes to tolerances of dim light and neglect for it is a real toughie.

If you don't have a green thumb but like plants in your home try one of these indestructibles in your dimly lit rooms.

Woman's club luncheon

The Ruidoso Woman's Club will have their weekly luncheon and card games Monday at the Woman's Club house at 12:30 p.m. All area women are invited to attend.

Garden club meets

The Ruidoso Garden Club met Tuesday, June 15, at the multi-purpose room at the library.

The main topic of the business meeting was the looking forward and firming plans for the upcoming Flower Show to be held August 23 - 24. Mrs. Hal Yoder is chairman of the show.

A show and tell program was conducted by Mrs. H.H. Killebrew. Members brought their personal antiques to share. Most of the articles were from the 1870's.

The club planted three trees for the enjoyment of everyone who comes to the library. The red maples are to be called Liberty trees.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Les Crews and Mrs. John Massey.

WINNERS OF THE ALTO ladies golf tournament on Friday were: Championship Flight, Georga Meriwether captured 1st, with Sue Reaves, runner-up and Jo Rash, consolation. 1st flight: Ardith Patterson, 1st, Merle Bryant, runner-up and Ina Etheridge, consolation. In the nine-hole flight, Kathryn Meriwether captured 1st, with Bea Stevenson taking runner-up and Hazel Haynesworth, consolation.

A reception will follow.

SARAH LEE BEUMER, chairwoman of the vocational services committee of the Altrosa Club, is shown presenting books to Monese Barron, Librarian, of the Ruidoso Public Library.

Right Around Home

BEN MOFFETT

Climb Capulin Mountain

Volcanoes, anyone? Rising above the high plains in northeastern New Mexico is Capulin Mountain, the cone of an extinct volcano.

Capulin's conical form rises more than 3,000 feet above its base to an elevation of 8,215 feet above sea level. From this vantage point you can see parts of five states — New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado.

You are also able to see dozens of other volcanic cones of less stature, telling the story of more than a million years of geological change.

Here you can see the country where Folsom man lived and died 10,000 years ago while volcanic activity was still occurring.

But the fun part of a trip to the top of the cone — Capulin Mountain National Monument since 1918 — is not looking out, but looking into the cone and trying to imagine how it must have been some 7,000 years ago when it was still active.

To get into the proper mood for your summit trip, stop by the visitor center and take in an audio-visual program showing eruptions similar to those that occurred at Capulin.

From the visitor center, the road spirals to the summit, ending in a parking area on the western rim of the crater, where there is a small shelter.

The self-guiding trails begin and end here, and if you like to hike, but aren't interested in a cross-country marathon, this might be an ideal spot for you.

Crater Rim Trail, a one-mile walk, takes you right around the rim and through an extensive growth of plantlife — trees, shrubs, grasses and flowers, which can be identified with the help of your self-guiding booklet.

There is a moderate climb at the start of the trail, but once on the rim you will find fairly easy walking until, after circling the crater, you reach the place of descent to the parking area.

A second trail of two-tenths of a mile leads to the bottom of the crater.

At the western base of the mountain you will find water and modern restrooms in the picnic area. Food, lodging and campgrounds are available at nearby towns.

The monument is accessible throughout the year, although the road to the summit may be closed occasionally for a few days by snow. Entrance to the monument is on New Mexico-325, three miles north of the town of Capulin. From Clayton, N.M. Capulin is 64 miles west on US 64-67; from Raton, 30 miles east.

Have a S-U-P-E-R trip; this is, Safely, Use, Preserve and Enjoy the Resources at Capulin.

SPILLS ARE ROUGH at the annual Mescalero Apache rodeo, as the broncs often prove to be tougher than the cowboys. This year's action begins at 1 p.m., daily July 2-5 in the new arena at Mescalero with seating for 3,000 fans.

Organ donors needed

More than 600,000 New Mexico motorists can become potential donors of vital organs simply by having a certification sticker attached to their driver licenses, according to Motor Vehicle Commissioner Jerry Manzagal.

But, despite publicity from the Department of Motor Vehicles and the National Kidney Foundation, many motorists remain unaware of how easily they can become donors. Nor do they realize the extent of the need for donors.

Any New Mexico driver over the age of 18 is eligible to become an organ donor. He must sign an organ donor certification in the presence of two witnesses who are also over 18. These witnesses can be motor vehicle employees and the entire process can be completed at any Department of Motor Vehicles field office.

In the past, anatomical donations were thought of only in terms of medical research. This need still exists, but the immediate need for organs for transplants is even more dramatic.

In New Mexico alone, there are 40 people who must spend 18 hours every week in painful kidney dialysis to stay alive. They have a chance to live more normal lives if suitable donors could be found who had indicated a willingness to donate their kidneys at the time of their death.

People are waiting all over the United States for the chance to see through cornea transplants or simply go on living through transplants of kidneys or other organs. If only 10 to 20 per cent of the people in this country became donors, doctors would have the organs needed to perform these operations, according to Dr. William Sterling, kidney transplant surgeon.

For more information, New Mexico motorists are encouraged to contact their local office of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Don't let meat spoil

The barbecue season is upon us and that means care must be taken so that food doesn't spoil in the hot summer sun and possibly make people sick. Buy ground beef for a barbecue only a day or two before it's to be used. If the meat is frozen, let it defrost in the refrigerator. Don't allow hamburger meat to be unrefrigerated for more than an hour at most.

Similar care should be used for coleslaw, which should be taken out-of-doors only in small batches and kept out of the sun. Baked beans should not be exposed to room temperature for more than two hours.

LONE STAR MAN KEEPS OFFICE FOR 60 YEARS

At 90 years of age, Morton Mathis of Amarillo, Texas, has seen a lot of changes in the Lone Star State, from the days of the horseless carriage, through the oil boom of 1917, right up to the Astro-dome.

As a young man, Mathis wanted to be a lawyer. Too much studying in poor light ruined his eyes, necessitating an operation. After he recovered, Mathis found a job in the county clerk's office in Plemons, a small Texas town.

He worked diligently, absorbing a great deal of legal knowledge. At the same time, to supplement his income, Mathis opened an abstract and title company, which was the principal title company in the Plemons area for years.

"With only 1,000 people in the country, there wasn't much of a need for many title companies," Mr. Mathis told a writer from The National Council on the Aging.

In 1918, Mathis was elected county judge and continued in the position for six years. A law degree isn't necessary to be a county judge in Texas, but if you don't have one, you can't try cases in court. As a result, most of his duties consisted of performing marriages, signing death certificates and probating wills.

Mathis was not only judge, but chairman of the county commissioners, county road overseer, and when the United States started drafting men for World War I, he was appointed to the county draft board.

Building roads was done a lot more simply in the days before Interstate Highways and high-speed automobiles.

"When we built a road from Plemons to Panhandle, I had the crew build a big sled out of heavy timbers," Mathis said. It was loaded with rocks and had big spikes sticking out underneath."

The crew hitched up an Army truck to the sled and hauled it over the approved route. In two days there was a dirt road from Plemons to the county line, complete with a smooth place to ford the Canadian River.

When the oil boom swept the Texas Panhandle, Mathis went to work for a gas company as a broker. In five days, he and a friend leased 15,000 acres for the gas company, earning a commission of 7 a nickel an acre.

That was the beginning of a lifetime of dealing in gas and oil properties. Mathis has a current license to operate as a gas and oil dealer and still transacts business occasionally.

In the early 20's, Mathis moved his family to Amarillo because the climate was better for his older son, who had severe hay fever. He continued to act as a managing agent for many gas and oil properties, as he still does today.

"I keep office everyday," the ex-judge said. "I might go in a little later and come home a little earlier, but I'm still on the job."

Food stamp procedure plan pending

Testing of new administrative procedures, such as photo identification cards for food stamp users, could be allowed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) under a proposed amendment to Food Stamp Program regulations.

USDA is planning to test the use of photo identification cards — in hopes of stopping unauthorized persons from getting food stamps.

This testing would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to evaluate test projects on a small scale, for possible national use. The proposed amendment gives states a chance to show administrative and cost benefits of procedures not currently authorized by program regulations. The proposal also outlines the way states may request the Secretary's approval to carry out test projects.

Comments are invited on the proposed amendment, scheduled for publication in the Federal Register of June 11. Comments should be mailed or delivered in writing to Nancy Snyder, Director, Food Stamp Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, to be received no later than June 26.

All comments received will be open to public inspection.

Trophy white bass was striped bass

Rumors of a 13-pound white bass are still circulating here; the 13 pounds and the "bass" parts are correct. But the state record set by that 13-pounder was a striped, not white, bass.

And as of this week, 13,000 fingerling striper have joined their larger brethren in Elephant Butte Lake. They can grow to sizes as large as five pounds within 18 months, according to Harry Mikel, NM Game and Fish Department Southwest Area Fisheries Manager.

The stripers were obtained as part of a trade for walleye eggs to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department which also provided some Florida bass fingerlings the New Mexico department planted in Ute Lake.

The stripers are mostly an open-water fish, said Mikel, and are voraciously predatory on forage fish such as shad.

The first plant of striped bass in Elephant Butte Lake occurred in 1972, when 200 of them were put in experimentally.

Only a few are known to have returned to the creel — including the 13-pounder — but Game and Fish Department officials believe that many of them could have been caught when smaller and been mistaken for white bass.

The confusion between striped and white bass is natural enough, according to Mikel, especially when the young striped bass are about the same size as the adult white bass.

The fastest and easiest way to tell them apart, he said, is to check the three horizontal black lines along the fish's sides. On a striper, the lines run all the way to the tail. On the white bass, they don't.

No more than minimal, if any, natural reproduction of striped bass is expected in

Wild horses in demand

A lot of people around the United States are ready to "adopt" wild horses. But in New Mexico, there's a hitch.

It's the matter of a lawsuit that is pending in the U.S. Supreme Court. Until that matter is settled in favor of the State of New Mexico, which brought the suit, or in favor of the Bureau of Land Management, which is the defendant, no horses will be available for adoption from New Mexico.

Even if the Bureau "wins" the suit, it might be a long time before wild horses are available for adoption here. So far, they just haven't overpopulated their ranges in New Mexico like they have in other states. BLM's latest inventory shows less than 100 unclaimed wild horses in New Mexico.

But that isn't slowing up the interest in adopting wild horses nationwide!

More than 7,000 persons from every section of the country, have asked the BLM for surplus wild horses. The requests are in response to an announcement three weeks ago of the start of an Adopt-A-Horse program to dispose of surplus wild horses gathered from federally managed rangelands.

BLM is faced with a rapid increase in the numbers of wild, free-roaming horses in many western states. The horses, and wild burros, became protected by federal law in 1971. The protection, plus the fact that wild horses and burros have no natural predators, have resulted in a 25 per cent increase in herd sizes each year. BLM surveys this spring indicated that there are about 50,000 horses and 5,000 burros on the public lands now. This is more than double the numbers in 1971.

To keep the horse and burro populations in balance with the other rangeland resource users, namely wildlife and domestic livestock, BLM began in 1974 to gather excess horses to prevent overcrowding of the ranges. The first roundup in Oregon netted about 100 horses, which were promptly given to volunteers to care for as allowed by the 1971 Act. Since then BLM has gathered nearly 1,000 more horses and has been able to place most of them in "foster homes."

The Act allows this placement for the life of the animal, although the federal government retains title to the horse or burro and periodically checks on the care of the animal.

BLM is beginning a number of roundups this month, and today has about 200 wild horses on hand in corrals in Nevada and Oregon. These will be placed from among the 7,000 current applicants.

If you want a wild horse or burro to care for, apply to the BLM. You will have to go get the animal and it cannot be used for any commercial purpose. BLM will check on the care from time to time and if necessary, reclaim the horse if conditions warrant.

Complete information and an application can be obtained from the Bureau of Land Management, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Jockey/Trainer of the week

RUIDOSO DOWNS - Willie Lovell pulled the Jockey-of-the-Week title out of the bag for the second straight week at Ruidoso Downs. Lovell notched seven wins, spreading his work out evenly over three of the four days. He picked off two triumphs on Thursday, including a rousing four-length triumph aboard Tux N' All in the feature.

On Friday he added three more. His best for the day was on Net Set for a neck score in a trial for the upcoming $30,348 Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity. He also finished second on Equilateral in the six-furlong trial for another final starting slot. Lovell added the last two on Saturday. Freedom To Be was the standout. He came from off the pace in the six-furlong Aspen Stakes for a 2 1/4-length score as a 9-1 shot. The win boosted his earnings by some $3,500.

Willie's work pushed him up to second in the over-all standings with 21 victories. He's just one behind the leader, Carlos Rivas.

Jockey Jackie Martin only notched one win from five rides this week, but that one he really cared about. He was aboard Lord Winslot for a two-length score in the $413,130 Kansas Futurity on Sunday. Jackie's slice of the $135,907 winner's share amounts to about $13,600.

Bob Arnett copped the weekly trainer honor again. He sent 16 to the track for 5 list in trainer standings. His count stands at 13 from 62 starts. H.C. Werner, Jr. holds down second with 11.

The turf weekend gets rolling on Thursday and continues through Sunday. First post each day is the usual 1:30 p.m.

Highlighting the weekend is Saturday's renewal of the $70-yard Flying Charm Stakes for three-year-olds and up. That one boasts a $5,000-added purse. The weekend topper is Sunday's finale of the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity over four furlongs.

WILLIE LOVELL

AFTER 18 RACE DAYS at Ruidoso Downs mutual wagering now stands at $5,631,912. The daily average is $312,884 and the average betting per race is $26,074. The 1976 tally is up 17.59108 per cent over the same number of race days last year, when the total handle stood at $4,789,404; with a daily average of $266,078 and an average wagering per race was $21,970.

Ruidoso Hoofbeats

BY ED BEARD
Ruidoso Downs Publicity Department

Ernest Doe Bowman, one of the oldest, most colorful and well-known figures in the Southwestern racing family, died in his sleep Friday night. Bowman, 86, came west with his family in a covered wagon when he was 12 years old. At one time or another he was a big game hunter for a construction firm, a well driller and a cotton farmer in the Artesia-Carlsbad area. But as near as anyone remembers, for the last 60-plus years, racing has been his life. He worked about every job in the back lot and later became well-known for his skills as an owner-conditioner. His friends will tell you that Doe gave many trainer and jockey hopefuls their first look at the workings of a race track. Doe Bowman spent his last day on the earth doing what he liked best - watching the races at Ruidoso Downs.

Jockey Larry Brooksher notched his first win at the meet in Thursday's second race and it was a doozy. Brooksher guided Uncle Peter to a 1 1/2-length triumph against $2,500 claimers at 550 yards as a 24-1 shot. The gelding, coupled with Waring Miss in the first race, paid $888.40 in the daily double - the top return of the season.

Rocktime, who was second in the same heat with Uncle Peter, produced the top place price of the season ($63.60). He went off at 62-1.

If you don't know much about racing just bet them as they line up. It would have worked in Thursday's eighth race. They finished in order, one, two, three and four.

Or if you prefer counting backwards, Thursday's 11th race was right there. They finished, in order, seven, six, five, four.

Jockey Willie Lovell hit a hot streak Friday. He notched three wins and two seconds from eight rides.

Trainer Bob Arnett launched an almost unbeatable contingent Friday. He sent five prospects to the track and came back with three wins and a third.

Stunt, a Haskell gelding owned by H.B. Shaw of Tulsa, pulled off a big upset in Friday's $70-yard second race and took longshot-of-the-week honors in the process. The five-year-old outdistanced

$2,500 claimers by 1 1/4 lengths as a 40-1 shot. His $81.80 return on a $2 ticket was the top win price of the season. David Massa had the ride.

Some distinguished visitors to the track over the weekend included Willie Nelson, popular country and western singer; Eddie Clinton, sportscaster for KCBQ-TV in Lubbock; Gerald Garcia, sports editor for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Tom Lindley, sports editor for the El Paso Times; Jim Thompson, sports reporter for KFYO Radio in Lubbock; and Ellis Rainsberger, head football coach of the Kansas State University Wildcats.

Despite heavy headwinds there were some pretty fast clockings Sunday. Strictly Proper took her maiden bow for a 3 1/4-length victory at four furlongs in the first race in 46 seconds flat. That was just one second shy of the track mark. Jeff Thrasher was up. In the 400-yard allowance fifth race, Big M Tru Lady squeezed out a neck victory as a 19-1 shot. She stopped the clock in 19.84 seconds - .19 short of the record. Robert Thompson was aboard.

Friday was Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity qualification day. The top two across the line in the four furlong trials automatically got starting berths in the $30,348 grand finale Sunday, June 21. They were: Net Attack and Equilateral; Net Set and Flying Leader; Quick Mix and Maggie Gray; Gold Scout and Smash It. Kristi's Lark and Mischief Lass, who both finished third in their heats, drew into the finale on a shake.

Two horses became the first three-time winners at the meet over the weekend. Disaster Area whipped out a 3/4-length score against $4,500 claimers at 350 yards in Friday's third race. Freedom To Be notched his second straight stakes win in the Aspen Stakes Saturday by 2 1/4 lengths. His other stakes score came in a division of the Memorial Day cap. Earlier he won in allowance company.

Two lucky fans walked off with the whole Big Q pot Sunday. They each won $10,213.60 by matching Carlsbad (6-1) and Le Care (8-1) in the 40th race and Dottie's Dancer (24-1) with Tony Lep (9-1) in the 11th.

A central core with moveable wings.

This single-story cedar-home design is as roomy as it is versatile—a welcome respite from today's mass of confining split-levels. Ideal for the family that enjoys entertaining, its core or "center stage" features a spacious sunken living room with exposed beams and a huge fireplace wall (including a kitchen pass-through for hearthside snacks). "Off-stage," one wing is occupied by an inviting entryway, a den and terrace, while the other is devoted primarily to bedrooms. And both wings (the entire plan, in fact) can be tailored to suit individual needs. They might, for example, be joined at a sharper angle to accommodate a narrower lot.

 Jet Captain also figures to get mutual support. He won six races last year, two of them at Sunland, three at Ruidoso Downs. Sheswright, owned by Sunny Edwards of

Letters to the Editor
 Dear Editor:
 I was in Ruidoso this past weekend for the races.
 I also attended the Willie Nelson concert and dance. I understand that your local Chamber of Commerce was in charge of this. I must say I believe they robbed about 1500 people of eight dollars. When Willie Nelson came on there was no way anyone could have danced, with everyone sitting on the dance floor.
 Ruidoso doesn't have the facilities to hold a big concert and dance here. I was really disappointed in your Chamber that they couldn't control the people.
 I guarantee that you won't get my eight dollars when Ray Price comes here. I would really like to hear him, but I think this last one really messed things up.
 I bet you won't have a sell out for it.

 those in seats.
 "Hopefully, both of these situations will be rectified for the Ray Price concert July 31," Cothrun said. The C-C plans to obtain portable restrooms for its second concert of the summer and rearrange the seating so dancing will not block the view of the stage.
 Cothrun sees no problem in running two big concerts in Ruidoso within such a short span of time, as he feels the two musicians attract two different kinds of audience. "Willie Nelson appeals more to the under 30 crowd, while Ray Price attracts the over 30 group," he said.

Sizeable thefts reported here
 Two recent and sizeable thefts are currently under investigation by the Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department.
 Ron Garthwait reported the theft of four western saddles with a flower design border, plus bridles, leads, reins, breast straps and saddle pads.
 Alex Adams reported the theft of kitchen cabinets valued at $1,200 from a home under construction.

Cablevision cables are being laid

Recent comments from citizens on the efforts by Cablevision of Lincoln County to upgrade their cables, as presented to the village council, in letters to the editor and directly to individual trustees prompted the News' photographer to take camera in hand and visit some of the areas provoking a high response from individuals living where the new line has been pushed through. The photographs, in the wake of the company's work, are mute evidence of the progress being made.

THE IMPOSSIBLE DREAM

Yes. Unless you know something we don't, it's impossible to do everything you like to do at the same time. Or all the time, for that matter. And anyone who tells you different speaks with forked tongue. That's why, in choosing a resort condominium, you should consider Interval Ownership.

A PLAN FOR ALL SEASONS

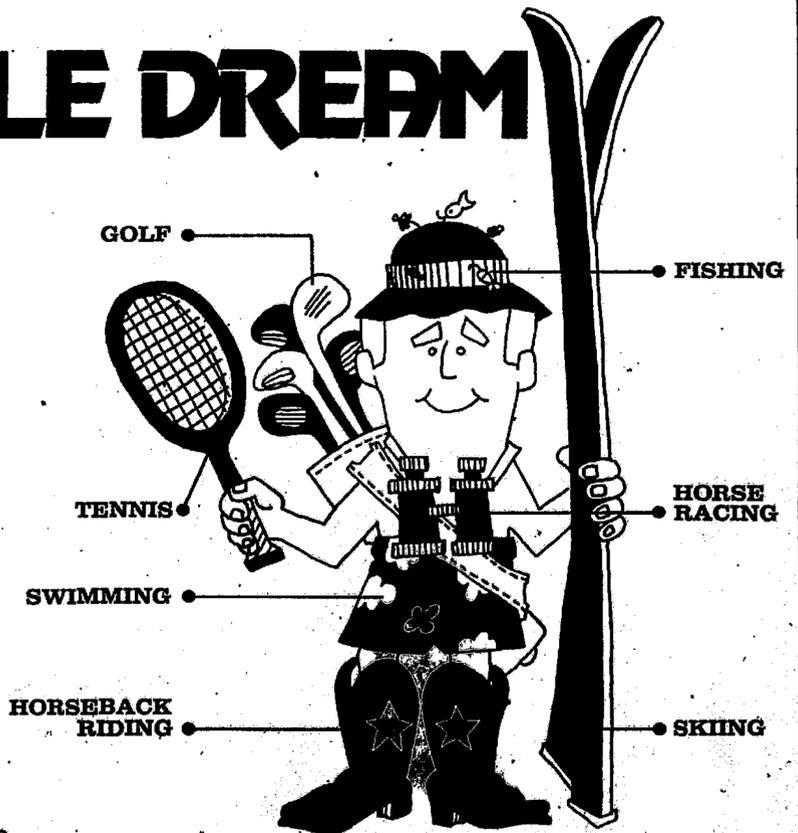

Interval Ownership (or "Time sharing") is a plan by which you pay only for the time you use. And what you pay reflects a proportion of ownership in both the building and land. If your thing is schussing through the white stuff, purchase a week or two in Winter and ski Sierra Blanca. Or, if the green stuff is more your cup of tea, you might want some time during racing season at Ruidoso Downs. Well, we could go on and on. But why belabor a point? There are lots of these time sharing things around. It's just that ours is the best.

Fully maintained and equipped, elegantly appointed Townhaus Chalets. Private supper club, gamerooms, golf, tennis, fishing, and a partridge in a pear tree.

Tricentennial Century

JULY 4, 2076

Traditionally on July 4th we look back with pride at the achievements of our national history. These have been magnificent enough. The political system established here two hundred years ago became a model for most of the rest of the world; through much of my own life, America has been the world's most powerful and influential nation. Let us look ahead at what we may have to celebrate on our tricentennial day.

In Arnold Toynbee's theory of history, nations and cultures grow through a pattern of challenge and response. The greatness of America has been the response of mixed groups of refugees and immigrants to the wealth and space of a frontier continent. Today, with the frontiers gone, we face a new set of challenges. The state of the nation in 2076 will depend on how effectively we respond.

In earlier columns, we have glanced at many of these challenges: the problems of runaway technology, of exploding populations, of depleted resources. Though it is true that coming change will threaten our old ways of life and perhaps even our national survival perhaps we have sometimes stressed future hazards too heavily. A newspaper column, like a science fiction story, has to be interesting, and warnings of danger to come have more attention value than assurances that all is well.

Yet our problems are too near and real to be ignored. Perhaps the most urgent challenge, certainly the one most fitting for discussion today, is government. Though our democratic system has served us well, I feel that it is in real danger now.

There are ominous historic parallels in the final struggle between Athens and Sparta in classic Greece. Athens, like America, was a rich and open democracy. Sparta, like today's Marxist nations, was a closed and harshly disciplined totalitarian state. Athens fell.

Today, with politicians and the press attacking most of our old national institutions in the name of individual freedom, I sometimes wonder if we have not abandoned too many of the restraints that were built into our constitution. Sometimes I feel we are in danger of being misgoverned by the polsters, the media technicians, the professional opinion-makers. Sometimes I doubt that the voting majority has the know-how to operate a large nation in a technological age, when policy decisions about energy and taxation and spending and foreign relations seem to baffle even the experts.

Doubts about democracy are nothing new, of course. Plato's ideal republic was to be ruled by philosopher kings. H.C. Wells spent most of his life trying to find and warn and train an elite group of leaders to build a world state. Many of the nations that borrowed our system are no longer democratic; the word itself has lost meaning in the new "People's democracies."

I suppose we should rejoice. As Toynbee's theory says, the unfortunate cultures that lacked stimulating challenges have gone nowhere. Our challenge now, in 1976, is as real and pressing as the one we faced in 1776. Certainly it is great enough to save us.

If we fail to face it, we may have little left to celebrate in 2076. But if we respond with intelligence and courage, with a due regard for human rights and needs and aspirations, our tricentennial can be another splendid day. /Dr. Jack Williamson, English Professor, Eastern New Mexico University.

Kindness kills wild animals

That fawn isn't Bambi, the racoon Rascal, the bear cub Gentle Ben, the cougar kitten Charlie, nor the coyote Chico.

They're all wild animals — and that's the way they should be left, stresses the NM Department of Game and Fish.

Not only is possession of the young animals illegal in most cases, picking them up and keeping them usually seals their death warrants.

"People find a fawn or cub in the woods and think it's 'abandoned'," said Ted Burt, chief of the department's Conservation Enforcement Division. "There's hardly any such thing as abandoned young in the wild, although there may be some orphanage. People who pick these animals up usually don't have the equipment or knowledge to take care of them, and their 'pets' die."

If there is no doubt a young animal has been orphaned, people finding it should contact the Game and Fish Department to handle it, Burt said.

Aside from the legal aspects of possessing protected species such as deer, bear, elk or cougar, there are dangers of disease and, in the rare event the animal survives, of physical danger to livestock or humans when it reaches adulthood, Burt pointed out.

"With the bubonic plague as relatively prevalent as it is, there is an additional danger which should be considered before handling wild animals," Burt said. "Usually, if an animal can be easily caught, it's sick."

Ground squirrels, chipmunks, rabbits and other rodents are especially likely to carry the fleas that transmit diseases to humans, he said, and pet dogs and wild predators can also pick up the fleas.

Retired Senior Volunteer wants 'to do something'

Mrs. Bonnie Houston is one of those beautiful human beings you somehow instinctively think of as an ideal mother. Quiet and a bit shy, compassionate and disarming, 71 now and a widow for 21 years. It's all sincerity in those calm eyes that peer at you from behind her glasses. One almost feels coarse in asking her questions, chipping away bits and pieces of her life that rightfully belong to her alone.

Mrs. Houston is all this and more; she is a Retired Senior Volunteer since 1973 when the program was initiated in Socorro. Mrs. Houston sews aprons for the hospital kitchen, caps for the nurses, even Christmas stockings for the Socorro General Hospital on Mondays and uses some of her remaining free time to furnish transportation to anyone in town that needs it, be it a grocery shopper or church goer.

"I just feel I want to do something, to help someone," says the former Oklahoman who came to New Mexico when 12 and now has a dry cleaning business in town. "It's something that needs to be done," she adds after a while, "and besides I meet people at the hospital." Mrs. Houston is surprised that anyone should wonder why she uses her own car to transport other people free of charge. "That's what the cars are for. At least I can make some use of it."

There are 95 Retired Senior Volunteers like Mrs. Houston in Socorro, 25 among them men. The oldest volunteer has 81 years. To qualify for the program, an applicant must be at least 60 years old. The volunteers are not paid for their part-time work.

Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), now celebrating its fifth anniversary nationwide, is part of ACTION, the Federal Agency for Volunteer Services, created by the President and Congress in July of 1971. Also part of ACTION Agency are 6,400 Peace Corps volunteers in 69 developing nations and 4,300 VISTA's at home.

The greenest branch of the program is La Joya project, 43 miles north of Socorro, a peaceable community of about 300 where four Retired Senior Volunteers have cleaned up a former school building and are now serving noon meals for the elderly age 60 and up.

"Nice work they're doing up there," comments proudly an anonymous La Joyan after studying a first-time visitor for a moment.

Twenty-seven miles west of Socorro, 25 volunteers are helping the villagers of Magdalena with tax rebates, free transportation, as well as preparing and serving hot meals. Women sew items that are sold on the local bazaar. South of Socorro in San Antonio, two groups of Retired Senior Volunteers are learning ceramics in the shop owned by another volunteer. Closer to home, the volunteers also help out at the local Chamber of Commerce and in Socorro Village, a senior citizens housing project, by visiting or keeping in touch with the elderly on the phone.

"Actually, I don't know what I'd do without them," says Winifred Wilson, director of the Socorro Joint City/County Office on Aging, taking a minute from her overflowing schedule inside the Franklin Street Community Center. Ms. Wilson utilizes RSVP volunteers as bus drivers, food servers and recruiters for new volunteers. "They're cheerful and all willing to work hard. The program is important to them."

"It's wonderful, a lot more people should get involved here," comments Lydia Rigby, 68, who retired in 1972 and left her native Pennsylvania "because of climate" and the cost of living. Mrs. Rigby was caught watering flowers in front of the Franklin Street Center and confessed that she "hates to dust" in her own household, but thinks "everybody should do something for other people." Aside from caring for the star-shaped flower design which belongs to the Socorro Garden Club, Lydia Rigby also works one day a week at the local high school library and helps with meals at the Franklin Center. "Sometimes you do a lot of volunteer work that doesn't count," she adds, "but then, you don't do everything to count." Once a week, Mrs. Rigby brings flowers to all patients at the hospital.

"I love my work," says the program director Lola Mendoza about her responsibilities. "I treat everybody the same; black, white, Spanish or Indian — they all have feelings. It makes me happy to get our elderly out of their shell and involved in the community." Ms. Mendoza, born in Valverde, 25 miles south of Socorro, and coming here in 1937, has been involved with the Community Center for the past five years; the first two as a volunteer, since 1973 as the RSVP director. She once had a drapery business, but now keeps at it on weekends only.

if we told you your fuel bill would increase by 9.1%?

Probably about the same way we reacted when our fuel bill increased 9.1% from April 1975 compared to April 1976. During that same period of time, our residential electric customer experienced only a 3.9% increase per average residential kilowatt hour due to higher fuel costs. Unfortunately, fuels needed to generate electricity are not going to get any cheaper in the foreseeable future. We are facing increased prices in most phases of our business, and we're doing our budgeting as carefully as most of our customers are. Our primary objective is to provide dependable electric service, and we're doing it as economically as possibly.

Inside the Capital by Fred Buckles

SANTA FE — A. W. (Bill) Langenegger of Hagerman, president of New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau, said the four-state range caterpillar infestation developing in Northeastern New Mexico, Colorado, Texas and Oklahoma stemmed from untreated federal lands.

Langenegger said the future of western grasslands could be at stake. He said New Mexico may one day be better known for hatching the range caterpillar than the atomic bomb.

State Land Commissioner Pfil Lucero said he is reviewing state grazing lease fees because of a 51-cent per animal unit hike in federal grazing lease fees. Lucero said state and federal grazing fees were comparable until the federal raise to $1.51 an animal unit March 1. The state average fee is 22 to 23 cents an acre a year.

Among candidates for delegate to the National Republican Convention are James H. Kinkoma, Lordsburg; Sam Laughlin Sr., Artesia; John L. Peters, Clovis, and Cobby McKinney, Clovis. The 21-vote New Mexico all-Republican delegation will be elected June 26 at Albuquerque.

Andy Vigil, 42, of Rancho de Taos, a Jimmy Carter alternate to the Democratic National Convention, says: "Someone outside of Washington should run for president. That's why Carter is pulling big. The best ticket would be Carter and Jerry Brown. I still think a lot of Humphrey but it's too late." Vigil, a restaurant and bar owner, was a Humphrey delegate to Chicago in 1968. He is an ex-Taos County Democratic chairman.

Deming lawyer Ray Hughes reported $1,137 in Democratic primary campaign expenditures for a new district judgeship in the Sixth Judicial District (Hidalgo-Grant-Luna). Artesia Republican Louis J. Bacher, running for the Senate in District 33 (Chaves-Eddy), listed $31 in primary expenditures. Bacher was unopposed for the GOP nomination.

W. G. (Bill) Kennedy, Des Moines rancher, reported $417 in primary campaign expenditures in an unsuccessful Democratic bid in Senate District 7 (Colfax-Union-Harding-San Miguel). Belen attorney John W. Pope listed $4,200 in expenditures in a Democratic district attorney's race in the Thirteenth Judicial District (Valencia-Sandoval). Rep. John Bigbee, R-Encino, reported $21 in primary expenditures in House District 50 (DeBaca-Lincoln-Guadalupe-Torrance).

Ex-State Rep. Raymond Garcia, Albuquerque, formerly of Penasco, listed $2,305 in expenditures and $2,209 in receipts in his successful run for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. House in District 1.

Harrison Schmitt of Silver City, the GOP nominee for the U.S. Senate, said he is optimistic that he can shape a coalition of Republican, Independent and Democratic voters to unseat incumbent Democratic Sen. Joseph M. Montoya of Santa Fe in November.

Mountain Bell asked the State Supreme Court for increases in residential and business phone rates under bond while the court weighs another rate hike the company sought April 16, 1975, from the State Corporation Commission. Customers in Taos, Fort Sumner, Raton, Clovis, Carrizozo, Clayton, Belen, Lordsburg, Hagerman and Dexter are in Mountain Bell's New Mexico service area. Mountain Bell proposed a boost of $1.25 a month for one-party residential service and $2.25 for one-party business phones. The Supreme Court ordered the SCC to send the pending case to the court June 2 on a writ of mandamus.

Santa Fe Police Chief Rudy Miller said State Sen. Matt Chacon, 50, D-Espanola, was charged with driving while intoxicated and reckless driving after a traffic accident at a Santa Fe intersection. Sen. Chacon pleaded innocent before Santa Fe Municipal Judge Romualdo Chavez. He was released on his own recognizance. Chacon, an attorney, seeks re-election Nov. 2 in Rio Arriba County District 5.

Rio Arriba County Democratic Chairman Emilio Naranjo of Espanola switched his stand from uncommitted to Jimmy Carter. Naranjo is a delegate to the Democratic National Convention. Naranjo said he would have supported Hubert Humphrey but Humphrey is not running. State staff architect Sam Pool said plans and specifications to upgrade mechanical and electrical systems throughout Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children at Truth or Consequences will be ready for State Board of Finance approval in September. Bids would be invited five weeks later. The 1976 Legislature appropriated $470,000 for upgrading in the 40-year-old plant. Part of the $470,000 will be used for a change order in a current mechanical and electrical system upgrading contract at the hospital. Gamblin Electric Co., Albuquerque, is the contractor. The change order boosted Gamblin's contract from $221,155 to $296,000. Lordsburg teachers' salaries were boosted an average of $1,021 or 10.3 per cent to $10,962 at the annual school budget hearing. Animas teacher salaries were hiked $612 or 6.2 per cent to a $10,439 average. Espanola teacher salaries were raised 10 per cent or $1,080 to $11,975.

Sen. Montoya said he favors immediate de-control of prices on onshore natural gas production and gradual de-control of offshore prices. Montoya opposes a "compromise" bill that retains all price controls on gas.

HOME MAILBOX BLUES

Postmaster Elwood Gradine has given Ruidoso the word . . . no noise, no home delivery of the mail.

Although the area has met most of the physical requirements to qualify for street delivery of the mail (naming and numbering streets, etc.), vocal efforts to institute such a service have petered down to the usual scattered complaints when someone has to drive all the way to the post office on a busy day.

The major effect to obtain home delivery in Ruidoso began last summer with a bang. Petitions were circulated for four months and came back with a grand total of 215 signatures. So much for the big bang.

Not impressed? . . . neither was the U.S. Postal Service.

Gradine mailed the petitions and a request for a survey team to the Western Regional Office last November. The survey team is one of the first steps to obtain home delivery and would come in and study the feasibility of the service in this area.

At first, responses from the regional office were encouraging . . . "we'll have a team there in December," it said. Then the office changed the survey date to January, then March and finally, word filtered down through the grapevine that the survey team wasn't coming at all and that street delivery of the mail in Ruidoso was just another small town's impossible dream.

As people lost interest in the issue, so did the U.S. Postal Service. After all, why should a big bureaucratic organization care about adequately servicing a few thousand people when those same people don't seem to care that they're only getting half the service of other communities at the same 13 cent first class price?

The only way this area will ever kick that sluggish bureaucratic bear through the red tape forest is to collectively get up on its toes and shout at it.

With a concerted flurry of letters and telegrams to congressmen and the Postmaster General (Washington, D.C.) and another petition with the punch of several thousand names instead of several hundred, Ruidoso stands a good chance of forcing the U.S. Post Office to wake up to the demands of the citizens who pay its salary.

According to Gradine, if we had a survey team in here today it would still take another 18 months for street delivery to be initiated. Time's wasting . . . let's get it on. POWDER ROOM FISTICUFFS

Who says women are the pacifists of the species?

After waiting in the 30-minute long line for the ladies room at the Willie Nelson concert with about 50 fellow females, I noticed one hefty woman audaciously bypassing the impatient, beer-heavy line and heading straight for the john.

What folly . . . no sooner had she butted her way into the stall than the room of gentle ladies (who had been daintily jibbering with their dates just minutes before), were transformed into a snarling crowd with murder in their eyes.

One woman jerked the door of the stall open and demanded that the larger woman wait her turn, amidst the cheers of the other angry waiting ladies.

After a lengthy exchange of censored words, the heavy woman (who looked as if she could give Al a run for his money) won out and retreated behind the door . . . at which, the bejeweled, bejeaned ladies in line passed me a full cup of beer and, with a few hissing invectives, politely asked that I pour it in over the stall door, onto her head.

Never one to tangle with women with fists as big as bowling balls, I cowardly set the beer down and sheepishly trotted into the next empty stall. I mean really, who wants to fight on or over a full bladder?

WILLIE NELSON RUMORS

One reason me 'n m' bride . . . that's Kay, you know . . . didn't ogle the Willie Nelson performance is that we couldn't bear to tear ourselves away from the gourmet comestibles and goblets of ice tea . . . so very available where we were.

Anyhow . . . way I hear it . . . there was action aplenty . . . some left early . . . some closed the joint up . . . others were in on a little private concert at a hostelry, that continued for a spell . . . and still others got in on a little impromptu by Willie at a tavern Sunday night. Seems Willie got around . . . and being's Willie's no young'un, he sure came up with the stamina.

Seems, by and large, just whole herds of fans got their value received for the long green they parted with . . . and you can't hardly beat a good old deal like that.

Yup . . . looks like the Chamber of Commerce picked up ten grand worth a winner in Willie . . . and it is to be hoped everyone'll be all recovered for the next biggie . . . Ray Price, July 31.

LORD WINSALOT DID

Lord Winsalot . . . trainer Roscoe Yates said to staffer Bill Wilson . . . "just likes to run" . . . and run he did Sunday . . . he bucked a 25 knot headwind to post 17.91 seconds over the 350-yards . . . to pick up a tidy $135,000 plus in the Kansas Futurity.

In watching the race through the viewfinder of my Nikons . . . which led to some confusion in the switch from 200mm to 105mm . . . I noted that his ribs kinda got going slonchwise a little way out of the gate. I don't know whether it was Jack Martin, who was in the irons . . . or whether the gelding eyeballed the competitor . . . but he cut short that angling foolishness . . . and came down the straight away like he was running between two lines of barbed wire.

'Seemed to me as though he didn't get to kickin' real good until he'd covered the first 100 yards . . . then he seemed to kinda stretch out . . . got those feet to humpin' . . . sorta closed the space between his belly and the track . . . and, then . . . with about 50 yards to go . . . he flat cut loose . . . he started movin' out . . . looked like the other nags had hit an uphill pull . . . and he was on the downhill side . . . talk about a reserve burst of speed . . . he really turned it on.

I sure hope that good ol' Roscoe came a cropper of a couple hunks of sugar for good ol' Lord Winsalot . . . 'cause that cayuse earned a treat . . . at least in my opinion.

And I'll betcha . . . after the winner's circle folderol . . . and stuff . . . that ol' Roscoe gave Lord Winsalot's owner, Jim Jay of Arkoma, OK, the word that all them other owners, trainers and jockeys aren't findin' Winsalot as funny as they did when Roscoe unloaded him from that one horse trailer that looked up to a beat up old pickup that looked as though it couldn't have made from wherever it came from.

And it's almost a safe wager that the owners of the other nags that'll be tryin' to get the big money in the Rainbow and All-American will be takin' a peek at their hole card . . . or whatever they peek at when they're thinkin' maybe No. 2 is a good as they might make out.

BRIEF BIT: The U.S. clergy has finally discovered, after 200 years, that more goes on in Washington, D.C., than law making . . . mighty perceptive of them . . . how naive can you be? . . . Cd

SEEING RED POPULAR

U.S. Government growth is threatening to swamp the nation in a sea of red ink and to strangle it in bureaucratic red tape. This mixed metaphor may be overly simplistic economics, but in this combination Presidential election year and Bicentennial of our nation's birth it has never been more important for all of us to "see the red" and to support those public figures who stand for reduced government intervention into the ways we work and live.

The red ink is easy to document. In fiscal year 1967, the national debt was $341.3 billion. Because of a deficit every year except one since that time, the deficit total reached $544.1 billion in 1975 and is expected to reach $633.9 billion in 1976 and $719.5 billion in 1977. If citizens ran their household budgets the way Washington runs the Federal budget, we would all go bankrupt. Our country is being over-taxed, over-governed, over-regulated and overwhelmed. While the total number of employed people in the country dropped during 1975, federal, state and local payrolls rose by half a million persons. More than 60,000 federal workers are on the payrolls of regulatory agencies. There is no precise way to measure the regulatory burden on people and business, though it's estimated at over $80 billion a year.

A company that becomes inefficient and unwieldy soon corrects its mistakes or loses out to the competition. But inefficiency in government will go on unchecked until elected officials understand that we, the people, want a government that lives within its income and operates efficiently. — Eunice Star

Mike has been saving $25 a week for five years. If he keeps it up for five more years, he will have accumulated $14,821.01.

Mike's planning for the future. Putting away a little each day for the sunny things in life. It's something we should all do. But, talking ourselves into saving on a regular basis is a very difficult thing. Because it's more fun to spend than to save. But, there are some things you have to save for. A vacation. The down payment on your home or a new car. A boat. Your children's education. The future. Saving could be the difference between getting ahead. Or getting behind. And the Ruidoso State Bank is the bank that helps more people in Lincoln County get ahead. Come and let our savings counselors show you how your savings dollars will grow fastest at the Ruidoso State Bank.

In And Around Ruidoso

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Callie Roselle

One of our very first neighbors when we came here in 1925 was Callie Roselle who was called home to Our Lord last week at the age of ninety years. As soon as we heard that there were some people named Roselle living just up the way, we were already friends before we met, because we had some very good next-door neighbors of the same name in Juneau, Alaska, where I went to the first and second grade.

The new Roselles turned out to be very fine people and we became great friends.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Roselle I also knew Callie's father, John Doering; and I have a warm spot in my heart for John. John put a little barber shop complete with striped pole where Tom Knapp's studio now stands. I think it was the summer of 1927, I became ill. Word was sent to the doctor at the Mescalero Indian Reservation. The doctor found his way in the night as far as the Roselle's. It was a dirt road in those days and the cars were not as fast as today, so it was late at night. John Doering, carrying a coal-oil lantern, guided the doctor down to the house after they crossed on a foot log. It was about a half mile trip in the dark with not much of a trail. The doctor gave me some medicine that started me toward recovery, and we all said a prayer of thanks for John Doering and the doctor.

During her later years, Callie lived across from the Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso; and through the years I was happy to visit with her. She could often be seen tending the flowers and shrubs in her yard.

Always kind and helpful, Callie is fondly remembered by countless friends, and we all take comfort in knowing that she is happy with loved ones who have welcomed her home to Heaven. We thank the Dear Lord that Callie is safe in his loving care and protection.

Lindy Samelson

Lindy Samelson, one of Ruidoso's favorite people, has retired after twenty years being a lasting blessing in the lives of thousands of young people. Still beautiful, with smiling sky-blue eyes, Lindy does not look like a retired school teacher. You would think she is hardly half way through an active career in her life. I have often wondered how this great lady stays ever youthful and cheerful, always active and helpful.

Lindy says she had "retired" several times before, but somehow found her way back into the classroom. Surely she knew that the students need her guidance, inspiration and encouragement.

One of the main reasons for Lindy's ever-youthful and joyful spirit is that she is deeply religious. She has been the organist at the Catholic Church for the last twenty years, and is active in the work of the church.

One thing I did not know until recently — but I am not surprised — is that Lindy at one time had a pilot's license and for many years flew a plane when she lived in Artesia. She said she has been driving a car since she was nine years old. When she was fourteen she had a car that would go a hundred miles an hour. This was back in Oklahoma in the days when a car did well to make twenty-five miles an hour.

So now we see the adventurous and daring Viking spirit of Lindy's Nordic ancestors come shining through. Her name, Lindy, comes from her Swedish maiden name, "Lynde".

What is Lindy going to do with the time that used to be devoted to teaching? First she is going back to Kansas to visit her son. Then back home in Ruidoso she will be active in many ways. She is fond of reading and writing. At one time she belonged to the National Poetry Association. And she says maybe she will find time to write poems again. Also she has a degree in piano from the University of Kansas, and now she will have time to brush up on piano music.

Lindy was born in New York City, yet like so many of us who come from far away, has picked this spot on earth for her home.

"I could never live anywhere else but Ruidoso," says Lindy. And we are happy and grateful to hear our dear friend say this.

COUSIN'S

1974 will be a vintage year for one dining spot in Ruidoso. This was when Ross and Jerry Bigham opened the doors of Cousins' Restaurant. Next week they will be celebrating their second anniversary and if you are looking for one of Ruidoso's top places to eat, this is the place.

Dining at Cousins' is a unique, relaxed experience with courtesy and service just a part of their outstanding offering. On the menu there is something for everyone from char-broiled hamburgers to steak and lobster, and everything in between. Portions are adequate for the most hearty eaters and preparation exactly to your taste. The recipes are all their own or from old family recipes and every item is prepared fresh in the kitchen.

All of their desserts are homemade and tasting is the only way to describe them. The cheesecake from their kitchen is by far the most popular dessert item and mouthwatering it is.

Service, atmosphere and good food are awaiting you at Cousins'. It's located approximately one and one-half miles north of the stop light between Ruidoso and Alto, and truly as their slogan indicates it is "one of Ruidoso's most recommended restaurants".

Prepare Fido for trips

If you're planning a car trip this summer, there is no reason your dog cannot travel with you. Just be sure you follow certain procedures during the journey and at your destination, says William A. Ljungdahl (Young-Doll), Extension livestock specialist at New Mexico State University.

Most dogs adjust to travel and many enjoy it. Dogs that are chronically car sick or nervous should not be subjected to long trips if it can be avoided. Instead they should be boarded while the owner is away, Ljungdahl says.

Most adult dogs are good travelers. Puppies, however, may require a little advance planning before you start off on a long trip. If your pup is prone to car sickness, begin taking him for frequent short rides. Hold him close to you to help him adjust to the new sensation of motion and the nature of this new experience.

If a dog continues to be car sick, allow at least six hours to elapse between feeding and the time of departure. As a last resort a tranquilizer or sedative will help him sleep or be quiet during the trip, but this should be done only under the advice of a veterinarian, the specialist says.

Hot weather can create many problems. A dog should never be left alone in a car for long periods during hot or humid weather, because he could suffer heat prostration. If you must leave the animal, park in the shade and open the windows partially.

If a dog does become overheated, get him to a veterinarian at once. In the meantime, cool him off in any way possible. Give him fresh air and fan him, spray him with cool water, but do not try to force food or water on him, Ljungdahl says.

Take your dog's water pan, food dish, a supply of drinking water and his leash. Your pet will also be more at ease if you take along a familiar blanket or pillow.

If possible, try to stop every hour or two to enable the dog to get out and exercise.

Select the place carefully and keep him under control. Offer him water if the weather is hot. Wait for at least an hour before feeding your dog after stopping for the night.

If your trip will take you across state lines, be sure to check with your veterinarian to see if special health certificates are necessary.

If for some reason your dog cannot go with you, there are certain advantages to boarding at a kennel. There will be an opportunity for your dog to get a complete physical check-up. He may be treated for internal or external parasites and his weight can be adjusted. If he is too fat, he can lose weight under the supervision of a veterinarian while you are vacationing.

Your veterinarian can help you select the right kennel for your pet. It is always best to have annual "booster" vaccinations completed before boarding, the NMSU specialist says.

Bicentennial Notebook

THE DIE IS CAST

On June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, following the wishes of his colony's assembly, offered one of the most famous resolutions in American history. Although it is too long to quote here and contains three parts, the first part deserves quotation in full.

"That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved."

Now after months of waiting and jockeying for position, the issue was squarely before the Congress. A decision now had to be made. John Adams who seconded Lee's resolution was jubilant. So were other members of the radical party.

Conservatives, however, were appalled. To approve the resolution would mean war on a much larger scale; the possibility of a peaceful solution would be lost.

Some of the moderates felt that the action might be premature. They believed that more continental unity had to be achieved. The time would come eventually, but it should not be rushed.

For several days Congress debated whether it should consider the resolution. After several delaying tactics the conservatives were successful in delaying any action until July 1.

The radicals were not discouraged. They were convinced that they would prevail when the matter was debated because the conservatives would undoubtedly have defeated the measure immediately if they had the votes.

In addition, the radicals succeeded in getting a committee appointed to draft a declaration of independence. Obviously, they were expecting the resolution to be adopted on July 1. If that happened, they wanted to be ready to issue a statement to the world.

The committee to prepare the declaration consisted of Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston.

The committee quickly decided that Jefferson should write the first draft, and the committee would suggest any changes that seemed necessary. Jefferson began work immediately.

Obviously, the tide was moving toward independence, and it would be only a short time before it was accomplished.

In Spanish New Mexico political liberty of the variety discussed by English colonies was not even in the discussion stage. The closed and authoritarian political system of New Mexico had effectively resisted such subversive ideas.

Because such ideas were so foreign and because the residents had little experience with them, the impact of such ideas would be much more shattering on society when they eventually penetrated Spanish territory. /Donald W. Whisenand, history professor, Eastern New Mexico University.

A MODERN PARABLE

In the early days of steam a sea captain brought a compass from a sailing vessel to a ship built of iron and steel. He found that his compass no longer pointed to the north, but only towards the ship's mass of iron. No destination could be reached with such a ship which was aimless, subject to winds and currents. With the seemingly unlimited expansion of man's might, man finds himself in the position of the captain. You are invited to join with the Presbyterians of Ruidoso Sunday at 11 a.m. when they will be seeking to make God their lodestar. On top of Nob Hill.
