AT TRIP BRIEFING — Jack Reed, left, Ruidoso Rotarian's International Services Committee chairman, Terrie Webb and Mrs. Harlan Webb, met Saturday morning to discuss final arrangements for Terrie's 10-month junket to Holland as an exchange student.

Terrie Webb Holland bound

Terrie Webb, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Webb of Glencoe, is leaving Wednesday on a 10-month trip to Henglo, Holland, under the International Student Exchange Program. Her trip is being sponsored by the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Rotary Club in conjunction with the International Student Exchange Program. "Terrie will be the guest of two families, spending five months with each," Jack Reed, International Services Committee chairman, said, "and as the host families are Rotarians, we know that she'll gain the greatest possible exposure to family life in Holland." Local Rotarians Dick Wood in this project were Don Dorman, Dick Wood and Frank Crown. Terrie will write a monthly column on her experiences for The Ruidoso News, during her stay in Holland.

KITCHENS' FILLY NOW SPORTS 5-FOR-5 RECORD

Real Wind wins Rainbow

Real Wind, the Cinderella horse of the current quarter horse scene, captured Sunday's 13th running of the Rainbow Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs. The filly — practically an unknown less than a month ago — ended the 400-yard dash with a full one-length lead and picked up $120,858 out of the gross purse of $368,784. Real Wind now sports a perfect record of five wins from five starts. The Rainbow engagement was her first in stakes company, and she won with plenty of authority. Jeff Fair got the riding assignment, once again. The filly is owned by J.D. and Elsie Kitchens of Ft. Sumner, N.M. Both are retired school teachers. Originally, Kitchens acquired Real Wind for a paltry $2,000. A. D. Stowe does the training. The fans established Real Wind as the betting choice on a muddy strip. The mutual payoffs were $6.60, $5 and $4.40. The winning time was 19.97 seconds. Real Wind's greatest hour — so far — was televised to a 15-state audience of some six million. Megahertz, ridden by Terry Lipham for Larry Brumbaugh of Ft. Worth, turned in a hustling attack on the rail to finish second, earning $58,070. The tote prices were $8 and $5. C. Ronnie Ferguson owns the training. Third went to Cutie Kiss with Kenneth Hart in the saddle. The filly picked up a paycheck of $30,123 and handed out a show price of $5.80. Cutie Kiss was only a neck behind Megahertz on the wire. The black filly is owned by Robert and Bruce Gentry Jr. of Lubbock. My Easy Credit, the 7-2 favorite, came flying at the end to nail down fourth and earn $15,969. The colt is owned by Harold Burford of Milton, Kans. Here's the remaining order of finish with purse money earned: 5th — Faint's Deck (owned by Harold Knight of Bunch, Okla.), $14,517; 6th — Roll A Coin (Mike G. Rutherford of Houston), $14,154; 7th — Topless Dancer (R.E. Wise of Madisonville, Texas), $13,791; 8th — Swinging Breeze (L.M. Bynum of Blanket, Texas), $13,428; 9th — Kid's Rib (Gary Pogue and H.C. Werner Jr. of Kenedy, Texas), $13,965. Flight Director, a late scratch, collected $12,339 nonetheless. Even though Real Wind stormed under the wire in obvious control, the filly's handlers had to sweat out some anxious moments. Immediately after the running of the Futurity, Richard Bickel, who rode My Easy Credit, lodged a claim of interference against the winner.

A hush suddenly fell over the hefty crowd, and the stewards began reviewing the video tapes. The winner's circle, by this time, was filled with members of the winning camp. But everyone appeared to freeze, waiting for the verdict. Finally, announcer Bob Dudich announced that Bickel's plea had been turned down, and a great roar shot up from the crowd. The intensity of the scream — and the jubilant dancing in the winner's circle — caught the composed Real Wind off guard. The filly gave a sudden start, and lunged toward the track, dragging several well-wishers out into the muddy slop. But she was calmed down quickly, and taken back into the winner's circle to get her picture taken. Bickel's point was that Real Wind drifted out sharply at the break, kept his horse from getting underway, then bothered him additionally in the first half of the race. But the stewards, after taking a long scrutiny at the replay tapes, decided Real Wind's backward course at the beginning did not bother My Easy Credit to any significant degree. Real Wind, though slipping around, apparently, on some muddy turf, found clear sailing on the far outside and was really jetting at the halfway point. Megahertz, never far off the early lead, moved powerfully in the final stages but never appeared capable of overtaking the leader. Cutie Kiss, who got one of the early calls, evidently got a second wind as she neared the wire and was also trucking gamely at the end. My Easy Credit also gained plenty of prestige with the plucky way he poured it on in the final stages. Swinging Breeze, part of a 7-1 betting, stumbled at the break and was never in contention. Man died here

The investigation into the death of James W. Baird, 47, in a Ruidoso motel Friday is being continued by the Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department. Baird, formerly of Tularosa, was reported to be dead in a Fiesta Courts unit at about 9 p.m., July 30, of a gunshot wound.

Ruidoso HS students' impressions of Europe

Eleven Ruidoso high school students, accompanied by Raymona McAdams, English teacher, returned Thursday night from a five-country European tour. The group left June 30 from Albuquerque with the Foreign League on Capitol Airlines. Each student received one-half credit in Comparative Government and Cultures. They toured and studied in Italy, Austria, Germany, France and England. The League provided a resident assistant who lived with the students in each country. Teachers in the country the students were touring offered classes and English-speaking guides were provided. The tours and classes were mandatory, with free time for optional activities. McAdams, who completed her third tour with students, said, "It was very worthwhile. We had a wonderful time and went awfully hard. It takes time to catch up on sleep. It was devastatingly hot, but we incurred no rationing due to the drought all over Europe. "We stayed in student quarters which many American adults might consider primitive. There was not always hot water, but we did have three meals a day. We all became connoisseurs of hard rolls and bread. "During our free-time we saw "Aida" in Rome, Leningrad's "Gizelle" in Paris and the stage play, "A Chorus Line" in London. We traveled by bus, train, boat and hovercraft." Students impressions were: "It was all exciting. I like going to the ballet, plays and opera. I enjoyed England and Austria the most" — Lisah Parks. "I had a really good time. London was fantastic and I loved Austria. We did and saw a lot" — Zoe Ann Shaw. "It was a lot of fun. I liked London the best, maybe because it was more like here. Austria is the prettiest and I liked the square in Venice. It was very romantic with violins playing" — Paula Ethridge.

"I'm glad to be home and saving my money to go again. It was my first time to fly over the ocean and that was exciting. I liked Austria the best because it reminded me of home. Eating escargot in Paris was terrific" — Liza Cabot. "Austria was the best and the people were the nicest. Italy had good ice cream. It felt good to go to London because we could read the signs and magazines for a change and the people were very nice" — David Scriber. "I enjoyed England. We could understand and communicate. The whole trip was a real learning experience" — Gretchen Annala. "I liked London the best because we could understand the people and they were nice. It was a good experience and I enjoyed it" — Patricia Reaves. Sarah Edwards, Sara Wimberly, Kenna Newton and Gina Newton were out of pocket or still resting from the whirlwind tour and unavailable for comments.

Easy come, easy go, money problems

The only thing worse than owing the IRS a balance due is finding out you've been overpaid by your employer and having to return the money.

This happened to a Ruidoso high school teacher who was notified of a $600 overpayment in mid-June. He was given no choice but to return the money. The error occurred through a monthly deduction for an annuity plan. Although the payments were sent in, they inadvertently were not deducted from the teacher's gross salary and the mistake did not surface for a year.

"It sure put a damper on my summer. I'd already been to and paid for summer school when the error was discovered," the teacher said.

Blood donors needed here

Blood Services of El Paso will collect blood Wednesday, from 2 - 7 p.m., in the conference room of Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital.

"Previous donors are urged to contribute at this time," hospital laboratory director Chris Schneider said, "and an open invitation is issued to anyone able to donate blood to do so Wednesday."

All donors, whether already registered or first time, may call the hospital 257-7381 and ask for the laboratory, extension 35, to set an appointment time between 2 - 5 p.m., to avoid long waits occasioned by donors who are unable to come to the hospital until between 5-7 p.m.

"Blood Services, due to the expense involved in coming to Ruidoso, has set a minimum of 50 donors if they are to maintain a regular collection schedule here," Schneider said.

Blood collected in all of Blood Services operations is available to the Ruidoso hospital in emergencies. In addition the hospital receives four units of blood weekly, with emergency supplies delivered by MAST helicopter or NM State Police relays.

"Local cooperation will help insure, in this time of a severe blood shortage, adequate supplies as well as a reserve source, if needed," Schneider said.

All blood from Blood Services is available to the recipient at the actual cost to process it, $28 per unit, as Blood Services is a non-profit agency.

The Pink Ladies of the hospital will again provide juice and cookies for all donors during the rest period following the drawing of blood.

"The minimum number of donors is essential," Schneider said, "to insure that Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital will have a continuing supply of blood and one of our goals is to compile a list of donors willing to participate in each appeal to help attain the goal."

WEEKEND FARE INCLUDES PONY EXPRESS RACE, ARTS AND CRAFTS SHOW

Billy the Kid's dramatic (?) escape to be relived at Lincoln

BILLY THE KID making his last escape

BY CALE DICKEY
News Editor

"The Last Escape of Billy the Kid" — a powerful and fast-moving pageant in which a cast of 60 local thespians do not emote but do act — forms the nucleus of the action at Old Lincoln Town Friday through Sunday, Aug. 6-8.

Pageant performances will be at 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday and at 3 p.m. Sunday.

As the tale is told narrators supply the voices, the actors the action . . . and at times confusion runs rampant. Which really makes things interesting.

It is a story of a portion of William Bonney's life (that's Billy) . . . the portion dealing with the Lincoln County War . . . and how Billy the Kid did vow vengeance for the killing of John Tunstall and Sheriff Brady. And it's all about good guys and bad guys . . . and gunslingers . . . and there're posses . . . and lots of shooting . . . and bodies clutter up the landscape . . . and Billy's persecuted . . . and incarcerated . . . and he does engineer . . . on his own . . . "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid" . . . and the Kid does leap upon his trusty steed . . . or someone's trusty steed . . . and in a cloud of dust . . . splatters of mud, if it's raining . . . rides off to freedom.

There's sort of a big buildup on John Tunstall . . . he's a good guy . . . and he confronts a posse . . . a posse hunting Billy . . . and right before the audience Tunstall gets shot off his horse . . . and Billy finds him . . . and vows terrible vengeance.

The sound of the gunshots killing Tunstall have hardly quit echoing . . . you see, the action moves fast . . . until there's another flurry of shots . . . rifles, shotguns and pistols . . . and Sheriff Brady is felled . . . and that irks Billy somewhat . . . somewhat more than's to prove healthy for the dastardly perpetrators.

During all this, Buckshot Roberts (that's Dan Storm) and Billy (Bill Shreengost II), have a little altercation . . . and there are blows . . . but no shooting . . . seeing as how old gunlinger Buckshot did fling his gun away before their encounter . . . with old Buckshot knowing Billy'd never shoot an unarmed man . . . the code of the West.

Seeing's how Billy sorta suspects Buckshot of double dealing . . . which he didn't trouble investigating . . . much . . . there's a trap set for Buckshot at Blazer's Mill . . . and with guns blazing . . . old Buckshot is shot . . . and dies dead . . . but, with a demonstration of marksmanship and pistol handling that'd have had Wyatt Earp turning green with envy . . . Buckshot takes a whole passle of bad guys with him.

Now . . . these events are just a part of the story . . . there's can-can girls . . . and mediation scenes . . . and revelry . . . and all good clean old time cowboy town fun time . . . and there's no question as to who does what.

During the night performances, the lights go up and down so those who get their fill of lead poisoning can go up and down and up again . . . and when it's dark you can't see much . . . and when the lights come on . . . it's a whole new scene.

Sunday afternoon, it's a new experience . . . 'cause those dead guys just get up and wander off into the scenery . . . the facades of buildings . . . and get ready for their next appearance . . . and announcer Dave Parks does so advise the audience . . . and . . . all in all . . . "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid" is a drama . . . uh, melodrama? . . . worthy of note . . . and your undivided attention.

AND THERE'S MORE . . .

Saturday morning at White Oaks . . . following a breakfast served by the White Oaks Historical Society from 6:30 - 7:45 . . . if you can eat that long . . . the Pony Express Race starts off with the clatter of hooves as the riders hit the mountain trail . . . carrying the mail . . . and it's all legal . . . bound for Lincoln . . . and an expensive saddle as first prize . . . and a traveling trophy . . . and the winner's due in Lincoln PRETTY New Mexico State Fair Queen Susan Beth Copeland of Farmington gets into the spirit of the upcoming 1976 exposition by displaying an advertising sign for the show. The 20-year-old San Juan County miss will reign over all fair activities during the Sept. 15 - 26 Biggest Show in New Mexico. She'll also ride in the nightly grand entry at the all-star Tingley Coliseum Rodeo.

Happenings

by Jerry

Have you ever been to a "hot rock dinner"? It was a new and different experience for me. We all enjoy a picnic and a "hot rock dinner" is a little like one — but different!

It was held on a creek bank and blankets were spread — picnic fashion — but it's not hot dogs and potato chips! It's a steak dinner and it is out of this world.

A "hot rock dinner" is held at Carrizo Lodge during each session of the courses offered there. Not being an artist we were especially honored to attend one.

A long serving table is set up with salad, baked potato, hot bread and a raw steak. At the end of the table there is a banana and a small package containing miniature marshmallows and chocolate mints.

After loading your plate with all of these delectables you find a blanket which is spread around roaring bonfire. Then a hot rock is taken from the fire and placed beside your blanket and you are ready to place your steak on it. Mine only took a few minutes because of liking it rare. While the steak was broiling someone showed me how to slit my banana down the center — pop in the mints and marshmallows — and when the steak is ready the rock has cooled to just the right temperature for the banana!

Food always tastes great outdoors with the sound of a creek trickling in the background — a perfect setting — a perfect steak and then it was time for dessert! By this time your banana is ready and what a taste-tempting treat that is!

There is plenty of hot coffee brewing over the open fire to finish off a great meal and a fun evening.

COMING OUT OF THE GATE

Betty Harless — her world is horses

BY JERRY SHAW
Staff writer

"I'm fortunate to be where I am," Betty Harless commented. She has broken horses, shown horses, was a barrel racer, trained horses and is now a jockey at Ruidoso Downs — she is doing well.

She has had horses all of her life but other girls are less fortunate. Betty is too modest to have told us herself but during our interview, Coy Hendricks, who is a trainer Betty rides for, interjected a few comments of his own. "Did Betty tell you about the horse she gave that girl in Tatum?"

She hadn't told us but that brought the story out. There is a girl, 13, in Tatum who has great potential as a barrel racer — Betty knew this — and since her parents could not afford a horse for her, Betty gave her one. She had already trained the horse — she loaded it in a trailer and drove to Tatum and back in one day to deliver the horse to the young girl.

When pert, petite Betty had come bouncing into the horsemen's cafeteria that morning we noticed that there was a young girl with her. She was Susie Baker, 11, and we found out Betty is also working with her and helping her with barrel racing. When we asked Susie if she wanted to be a jockey like Betty she smiled and said that she did.

Betty enjoys working with girls. In fact she has a four year old daughter herself who is already riding. She began riding when she was two. Betty said, "I find it a little harder working with my daughter because I may expect more of her, but working with the other girls makes her want to do as well as they are doing."

She commented, "You can give someone a fish and it lasts one day but teach them how to fish and they can enjoy it the rest of their lives." Betty gives of herself and receives satisfaction from seeing the girls excel at rodeos and in their riding ability.

Betty lives with her mother and daughter, Charmin. It may sound glamorous being a girl jockey but it is hard work — and it is still a man's world. It's a seven day a week job and her day begins at 6:30 a.m. when she hits the track to start galloping horses. When asked if she dates, she replied, "Not very much, I'm too tired and you can't afford to stay out late because it's important to stay in shape in this business."

Being a girl jockey is rough and Betty says she has to hustle all the time. But recently she won a race on a horse named Nobody's Perfect and Mr. Betty's words — "he's a real outlaw — a real horse." Even some of the guys are leary of him but he responds to Betty and she can handle him. Nobody's Perfect even has a girl groom.

Betty may not ride every race day but her percentage of wins to the number of mounts isn't bad. One day recently she rode in two races and won them both. Later she said she realized that she had won the fourth race on the four horse and the eighth race on the eight horse, quite a coincidence.

Betty rides both quarter horses and thoroughbreds. She is concentrating right now on five hopefuls for the All American. She feels out of the five at least one will qualify for the All American Futurity. She plans to stay with them and hopes for a shot at the big race.

An accident interrupted her career here last year when she took a spill while galloping a horse one morning, breaking an ankle and several ribs. This didn't keep her from riding in Albuquerque at the State Fair however although she rode with her ankle wrapped as it was just out of the cast. You can't say girls don't have guts — this one does.

Betty who has also been a trainer before becoming a jockey feels that women have more patience with horses, too. However it has also been said that women have a tendency to be too easy on a horse. Coy Hendricks explained, "Horses are like children — you have to make them mind and you can't be too easy on them but Betty can get tough with a horse."

Growing up with four brothers and having horses all of her life gave Betty the right background for her career. She worked her way through school breaking horses and rodeoing. She spent one of her school years here in Ruidoso when she was in Junior High.

She knows horses — she is well qualified to be a jockey — she likes working with young girls helping them to develop their talents with horses — and then trainer Hendricks again spoke up — "Did she tell you that she is a painter? — she paints beautiful pictures." Betty looked up, "Yes, I paint — mostly horses."

True, Betty is fortunate to be where she

SHE KNOWS HORSES

Blend n' Share

by Mr. Pat Healy

With the summer season so hectic for those of us who live in this vacationland and everyone too busy for their own vacations — with Mr. Pat still up to his eyeballs with his schedule — my thoughts and raveled nerves yearn for a trip to some quiet beach and since it's just a dream — who not Tahiti?

While dreaming about a trip there and thumbing through a magazine with breathtaking pictures of this island paradise we ran across some recipes for dishes that you might be served there! So get out on your deck or patio — enjoy our beautiful mountain scenery — pretend that the sound of the river rushing by is the ocean lapping up on the beach and serve one of these Tahitian dishes!

I'A OTA

(marinated fish in coconut cream)
2 pounds fresh skinned and boned halibut, white sea bass, tuna or bonito steaks
1 cup fresh lime juice (or more if preferred) ½ cup chopped green onions (with part of green tops)

2 tomatoes, stemmed, peeled and coarsely chopped
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 tsp. salt
1 cup rich coconut milk or cream

Cut the fish into ½-inch chunks and place in a mixing bowl. Cover with salted cold water. Allow to stand for about half an hour. Drain off the water and add enough lime juice to cover the surface of the fish. Marinate in the lime juice at room temperature for at least 2 hours or in the refrigerator for 3 - 4 hours, stirring occasionally.

When ready to serve, drain off liquid. Place fish in serving dish, add the green onions, tomatoes, green pepper and salt. Pour on the coconut milk or cream and stir gently but thoroughly until everything is well mixed. Serves 6.

Coconut Milk

Pour 2 cups boiling water over 4 cups fresh grated coconut meat. Allow mixture to stand for half an hour. Strain through a double layer of cheesecloth, squeezing to remove all milk. Cover and store in refrigerator. If you like a richer version (coconut cream), pour 2 cups boiling water over 6 cups grated coconut meat and proceed in the same way. After it is chilled, a creamy, thick substance will rise to the top. If you use dried coconut, substitute hot milk for boiling water. Either coconut milk or cream can be used in I'a Ota.

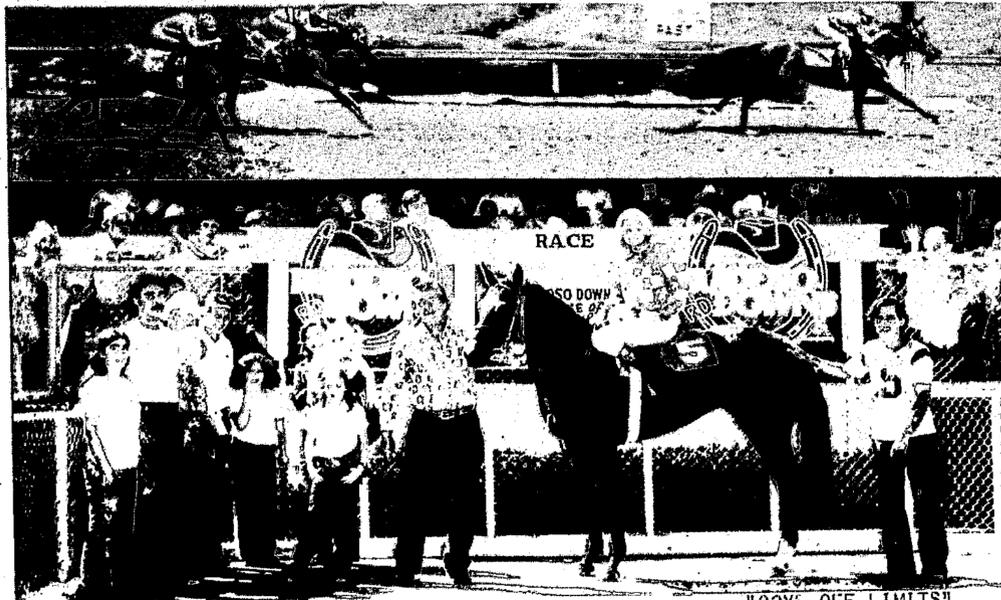

Now if you can't pretend enough to enjoy raw fish here's your Tahitian recipe for roast pork!

I'O PUA

1 pork loin roast (4-5 pounds)
Marinade:
2 cups dry sherry
juice of 1 fresh lime
2 tbs. Soy Sauce
¼ cup fresh or canned papaya, mashed
2 tbs. minced fresh ginger
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon salt

Mix together all marinade ingredients and pour over the roast. Marinate in refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Roast in a preheated 325 degree oven, basting occasionally, until meat thermometer registers 185 degrees or about 3 hours. Serves 6.

Add lots of fruits and have a happy Tahitian holiday in your backyard!

Puzzled by increasing utility bills??

HIGH INTEREST RATES

It takes capital to run a business. It takes a lot of capital to run an electric utility company. Just as most of you must borrow money to buy a home or a car, businesses must often borrow money for things like expansion . . . things that insure their services will continue. When we have to borrow money, we look for the lowest rate of interest available. High interest rates are just a part of the picture of rising utility bills. We are striving to provide you with the most economical service possible without sacrificing the dependability you've come to expect from us.

Sudderth & Thomas - Ruidoso

This original design takes full advantage of both a waterfront view and factory engineering.

The primary living area of this unique cedar home angles forward with view windows on all sides — forming the vertical in what is basically a T-shape. (That distinctive, square-topped roof peak encloses the fireplace chimney.) But the bedrooms also share the outlook and the drama, with ceilings that angle upward to a peak of 13 ft. on the view side.

Access is via a lower-level family area and spiral staircase, or an outside stairway to the upper-level deck. Total living area: 1,856 sq. ft., plus 516 sq. ft. of deck.

For some 70 other cedar-home designs, send $2 for our Planbook.

Billy the Kid's dramatic (?) escape to be relived at Lincoln

BILLY CANTERING away from trouble

along about 9:30, or so . . . after putting four steeds through their paces over the 41-mile route . . . which is tortuous to man and beast.

Visitors are advised to get to Lincoln early Saturday a.m., 'cause viewing space of the finish of the race is strictly at a premium . . . and it's all quite a hullabaloo . . . and exciting . . . and if you're there early . . . you can hear tales of races past . . . and fast . . . and there's eavesdropping on the conversations of the old timers . . . all in all . . . you can't beat the Pony Express Race for good clean fun. 'Course the riders finishing the race might not be too clean . . . how clean depends upon whether they're dust or mud covered . . . but you'll never know the excitement surrounding the finish of this race, if you're not right there . . . pushing your way to a vantage point for viewing.

Then there's the quieter things . . . the arts and crafts fair . . . and touring the museum . . . and courthouse from whence Billy the Kid did escape from behind iron bars . . . an old time fiddler's contest Saturday afternoon . . . and a slide show of things to see and do, if there's a lull in the action.

Supposing you want to have a letter of yours carried by Pony Express . . . bearing an official seal, and all. Mail or take your letter to the postmaster at Carrizozo. If you mail your letter, it'll get carried by pony if you address it to the postmaster, Box 217, Carrizozo, NM 88301, so it's there by Wednesday. The tab is 13 cents postage, plus 25-cents, for each letter. And it'll help if you address the letter correctly . . . the recipient'll be sure of getting it that way.

Back to the old Lincoln doings . . . there's a street parade . . . with the parade getting underway about 1 p.m., Sunday . . . and there's things and floats and animals and other things parading that you'll likely not see any other place . . . following which nostalgic conversations do indeed abound on the main street . . . and finding main street is no problem . . . it's the only one you can catch all the action from.

Oh yes . . . there's the opening scene of the Billy the Kid pageant . . . it's a heart-string tugging scene . . . and in itself . . . if you know of the Kid . . . and who doesn't . . . that's worth the price of admission . . . it's not quite a tear-jerker . . . but if you'll pay strict attention to the talking . . . as the drama unfolds . . . you'll find yourself thinking back on phrases and clauses and sentences of those opening remarks . . . and you'll have a ball . . . watching all the action . . . and nowhere does it drag . . . 'cause all the players and stage hands and narrators and everyone have been practicing . . . and what they lack in polish they make up in verve.

'KID' REHEARSALS

Me 'n m' bride decided to hit the road for Old Lincoln Town Wednesday night... and immediately decided two other things... hitting a blacktop road makes owies on the knuckles... and if'n the folks at Lincoln wanna hit the road, we'll let 'em.
As we wandered sorta southeasterly from Capitan down the valley towards Lincoln... it was early evening... nary a katydid or bullfrog made a sound... the lush greenery of the hilltops was bathed in the golden rays of the setting sun... and we sorta wondered... out loud... if'n Billy the Kid'd felt the same way about that valley as he rode his horse through it... providing a posse wasn't on his heels.
We went to Lincoln to watch rehearsing for the Billy the Kid Pageant... coming up starting Friday night next... and they started right out with Buckshot Roberts, the gunfighter... with Dan'l Storm actin' up a storm... pickin' a ruckus with the Kid... and it was Bill Shrencengost Jr. that was getting picked on... and from there the action moved on to gun fightin'... and killin'... and all sorts of carryin on... like can-can girls... with bottoms up... and the good guys plottin' agin the bad guys... an' ridin' their horses slam-bang in front of the stage... and I got to wonderin' if the horses ever wondered about all the horsin' around.

The rehearsing was fascinating... Dave Parks... sounding almost like an ex-school teacher should sound... was badgering the actors something fierce... and making suggestions just like he was readin' from the script... which he was. Anyhow... Dave admonished, cajoled and praised... and dangled little of the latter... as the cast went through their paces. Being told... by Dave... what was coming up before it come up, was helpful... and me 'n m' bride sorta relaxed and watched the suspense develop... and winced a bit as old Buckshot did get done in by the bad guys... but not without the loss of several bad guys... and the gunshots did echo off the hills... and old Buckshot succumbed... of lead poisoning... in the grandest of the old time oaters... and... a knowin' it was all in fun... and stuff... me 'n m' bride did smile... and chuckle... and guffaw... and applaud, even.

And we're a goin' back... when it's put on for real... 'cause it's a mighty fine piece of entertainment... rib-tickling by night... hilarious by daylight.

POLITICAL HIJINKS

The Ford/Reagan battle has shaped up to the point where a mere handful of people are in a position to decide just exactly who will be the people's choice to run against Carter this fall.

Take the Mississippi delegation... they can just about swing it, either way... and if'n they make their move just prior to the convention... it just about stands to reason the uncommitteds'll swing with 'em... 'cause States which don't get behind the nominee... if elected... are states which seem to find themselves sorta left out... when the goodies are passed around.

Whether or not a good floor fight to win the nomination does much for party solidarity isn't a particular issue... if'n you believe the remarks of the nominee when he makes his fence mending remarks... but at least it'll give the boob tubers moments of excitement... and the feeling that they're watchin' history being made... and think of the field day the johnny-come-latelies after the fact'll have once we know who'll face Carter, in saying their thoughts about which is best... a Carter packed convention... or one with the nominee up for grabs.

I sometimes think that presidential candidates should be limited to campaigning in the 12 or 13 big industrial and heavily populated states... and let those states vote for president... 'cause... no matter how you slice it... it's them as does the electing.

When the thunder explodes over these Sacramento hills... and the lightning flashes... and the precipitation does fall generously... it's rather exhilarating to be out... if'n you don't get soaked... and lend an ear and eye to the display. If'n you're sorta isolated... mentally or actually... a thunder/rain storm also impresses one with an awareness of self non-importance in the scheme of things... unless you get to thinkin'... as I sometimes I do... that this show of nature's force is mine... to behold and enjoy... at a price that you can't hardly beat.

Noticed the other day that F. Lee Bailey called the press a "pain in the neck." It seems to us that the appropriate answer to that statement is that if it weren't for the press we could all say "F. Lee Who?" —KG

What's Your Opinion?

QUESTION: WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT EILEEN LOWE RECEIVING A LIFE SENTENCE FOR KIDNAPPING AN ALBUQUERQUE BABY?

"I think it's a little steep although what she did was wrong. I can understand how the parents felt."
—Joann Hall, bookkeeper

"I think she deserved it."
—Dave Reeves, service station attendant

"She should have received some kind of punishment, but that's a little stiff. She obviously needs help."
—David Brown, merchant

"I like what the judge had to say as to revocation of the sentence depending upon findings of psychiatric testing."
—Bill Zink, insurance agent

"Communications have become so fast and vast that we hear of things now that a few years ago would have not been aired or would have taken months to have heard about. I tend to almost disregard this type of thing. I think many ideas for crimes come from the media."
—Larry Norman, restaurant owner

"It's about standard for kidnapping as it and murder are two of the heaviest punished crimes. I'm sure she probably needs psychiatric help and most likely will be out on parole in about seven years."
—Tay Barnett, merchant

CHALLENGE TIME

The greatest moment of bell ringing and jubilation is past, now. We are in our third century as an independent nation. The emphasis is no longer retrospective: Where have we been, what did we achieve? The question Americans must now ask themselves is, in sum: Where do we go from here?

There is an easy answer: We just move on along the same road, doing about what we have been doing, working hard to build the economy and keep our standard of living on the rise, maintaining our defensive strength at a level equal to none, fulfilling our role as a superpower, perhaps also (as time and energy permit) strengthening the conditions that nurture equality and justice.

That may seem like enough, but as noted above it is an easy answer. The times demand something better.

The American Bicentennial coincides with an historic juncture in human affairs. Mankind is confronted with momentous problems: excessive population growth, dwindling resources, global degradation of the environment, a precariously slim leash on the threat of nuclear holocaust. These and other major concerns cannot be evaded; they must be dealt with. Our country's leading position in the world community requires of us that we bear a commensurate share of the burden of decision, action and sacrifice for the common good of man.

But isn't that straying from the Bicentennial theme? Not at all. The global challenges and the challenges here at home are interwoven. They are part of the same fabric. We can best measure up to our world responsibility by striving to realize more fully the potential the Founding Fathers envisioned. To do this we must drink deep at the American wellsprings, and dedicate ourselves anew to the great underlying principles upon which this nation was founded.

As we pass this milestone, we have two choices. We can just keep going on the same road, doing about what we have been doing, largely bent on assuring a life of ease and affluence. Or we can rise to the challenges. —Alamogordo Daily News.

SANTA FE — Rep. Bennie Aragon, D-Albuquerque, says: "There is a move to change leadership in the House. George Fettinger is one of the persons being mentioned for speaker."

Aragon, 46, seeks his sixth House term in the general election. He was bounced out of the House majority whip's job by the House-controlling Mama Lucys in 1973 and replaced with Rep. Abel McBride, D-Albuquerque.

The present House division is 51 Democrats and 19 Republicans. Democrats are topheavy favorites to retain House control. The Mama Lucys elected Rep. Walter Martinez, D-Grants, as speaker in 1970. Martinez is expected to seek re-election to the powerful post. Martinez edged Fettinger in a torrid race in the House Democratic caucus. The first ballot was tied. Three House members, still unidentified, switched to give Martinez victory.

Rep. Aragon claims: "We have anywhere from 28 to 29 votes that are pretty well committed to us. We can't mention names because we promised the people that are with us that we wouldn't do this. Because there's an election coming up and we don't want people fighting in the campaign. This might start people campaigning against some of the candidates."

Rep. Aragon says: "We have had several meetings throughout the state. We call ourselves the 'Responsible Legislators for the State of New Mexico' period. We are not the Mama Lucys. We want people who will be responsible to the people throughout the state and not to just one little group."

Rep. Aragon says: "One of the main reasons this is happening is that we will not have one person serving as chairman of a committee and as vice chairman of another committee. We are going to spread the responsibility of the House on a wider base so that the responsibility is spread throughout the state."

Several Mama Lucys are on the key Appropriations-Finance Committee and also are chairmen of other important House committees. Mama Lucys also hold key interim lawmaker committee assignments.

Rep. Aragon says: "The way the House is right now we have 51 Democrats. The way I see it, it won't be more than that in 1977. It could be less. I don't think it will change. If the people who are with us now stick to their guns, they cannot beat us."

"We do have the horses. We have more than enough votes to win if the House stays the way it is. If the Republican membership increases, we're still all right."

But the Mama Lucys — named for a popular former Las Vegas restaurant owner — still exert much muscle. They have managed the House for six years and will not yield control easily. Aragon contends: "The reason I'm not whip today is that they could not get me to go along as a rubber stamp for anybody, for the same people who are running the House." Aragon said the late Rep. Eugene Cinelli, D-Albuquerque, commended him for his work as majority whip.

Aragon said of Rep. Fettinger: "George is thinking very, very seriously of running."

Fettinger, 37, an Alamogordo lawyer, is unopposed for re-election Nov. 2. He has been a House member since 1965. Speaker Martinez, 46, also a lawyer, is completing 10 House years. Martinez is opposed by Grants Republican Mark Olson in the general election.

Conservative House members have chafed under Mama Lucy control since 1970. They met privately in several get-together during the legislative session early this year but did not settle on a speaker candidate. Aragon is teaming with a group that is broader than the conservative base but the Mama Lucys will be tough to budge. Aragon claimed Rep. William B. O'Donnell, D-Las Cruces, chairman of the powerful Appropriations-Finance Committee, is teaming with his group. Efforts to contact Rep. O'Donnell were unsuccessful.

U. S. Sen. Pete Domenici, R-Albuquerque, will attend the National Republican Convention at Kansas City Aug. 16-19. Domenici's daughter, Lisa, 17, will be a page at the powwow. The Ford campaign wants Domenici in Kansas City to woo delegates for Ford.

Mrs. Mary Kay Stinnett, Portales, will be a Kansas City convention visitor. She is Roosevelt County Republican chairman. Mrs. Stinnett was a Ford supporter in the in-state Ford-Reagan fracas won by Reaganites.

A top New Mexico Republican leader said Reagan's announcement of Pennsylvania Sen. Richard Schweiker as his vice presidential running mate "is one of the darndest things I've ever seen." The GOP bigwig said: "Somebody did it to see if they could sway some of the Pennsylvania delegates. I don't think he's going to do much for the delegation. It's a last-ditch, desperate effort. It's so completely out of cast. He's completely apart from Reagan's views." Pennsylvania will have a big 103-member delegation at Kansas City. Ford's strength was topheavy in the delegation before Reagan's announcement.

State Fair tickets on sale

Almost a million dollars worth of tickets for the 1976 New Mexico State Fair officially go on sale at 8 a.m. Monday Aug. 2, at ticket windows at the fairgrounds in Albuquerque.

They include admissions for the Spanish Heritage Show and rodeo, and for the racing meet.

Manager Finlay MacGillivray announced that Mrs. Becky Williams would once again be in charge of ticket sales.

Mrs. Williams reported that the box office at San Pedro Gate No. 4 would be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

It will also be open each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

She said that reserved seats for all ten nights of the Tingley Coliseum rodeo shows and for the Freddy Fender Spanish Heritage Show will go on sale at that time.

She reported that virtually all of the 1235 box seats for the rodeo have purchased by season ticket holders, at $50 each.

Reserved seats for the all-star rodeo, which go on sale Monday, are priced at $4 each. Booked to star at the rodeo this year are: Freddy Fender, Sept. 16 - 17; Jerry Reed, Sept. 18 - 19; Roy Clark, Sept. 20 - 21-22, and Tanya Tucker, Sept. 23 - 24 - 25.

Freddy Fender will headline the popular Spanish Heritage Show in Tingley Coliseum on Wednesday, Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. There will be no rodeo with those shows.

Mrs. Williams indicated that both reserved and box seats are available for the Spanish Heritage Show. The box seats are priced at $5 each.

For racing fans, grandstand center section reserved seats are priced at $1.50 each (plus turnstile fee) and mezzanine reserved seats are $3 each (plus turnstile fee).

Mrs. Williams reminded ticket buyers that absolutely no telephone orders are accepted. She said that mail orders, when accompanied by proper remittance (plus 50¢ for handling charges), are sent immediately on receipt.

Mail orders may be sent to: Ticket Office, New Mexico State Fair, P.O. Box 8546, Albuquerque, N.M. 87108.

The 39th annual New Mexico State Fair — The Biggest Show In New Mexico — will be held in Albuquerque Sept. 15 - 28, with the 16-day pari-mutuel horse racing meet to get underway Sept. 11.

The Dreamer
DANNY STROM

Mohicans" and other books about the life of a white man among the Indians, the hero of all the books makes a statement that has come back to me again and again. One of the most beloved characters in American literature, Leather Stocking, Hawkeye or Deer Slayer (to name a few of the several names given to him by the Indians among whom he has spent his life) is now an old man far from the forests of his youth. In talking to some younger people he says:

advice and help with the native flowers of our mountains, and that also she was wanting to plant some pinon trees around her place to attract the birds.

Mrs. Melhop says that her eyesight is not quite what it used to be, so she has someone read "The Dreamer" and "The Silver Lining" to her.

I felt my soul being filled with gratitude in talking to this wonderful lady. Through the few words she spoke I could feel her great love for all of God's growing things and creatures. People like Mrs. Melhop are a blessing in our lives.

Bessie said she was leaving for Dexter and would be back in August. She is a pioneer resident of Dexter and has had a cabin in Ruidoso since 1940. The wild flowers around her mountain home should be in their full glory, ready to welcome Bessie when she returns in August. I look forward to seeing this dear lady and her flowers.

A Telephone Visit With A Wonderful Lady

A time or two ago we mentioned how closely related events followed one another in life. The spirit of coincidence has paid us another visit today.

A week ago Betty and Bob Lambert told me that lady from Dexter who has a cabin in Ruidoso had come by asking where the Ridge Runner lives. This lady has been reading the Ruidoso News ever since it was first published by Lloyd Bloodworth; and she had some kind things to say about "The Silver Lining" and "The Dreamer".

You remember that in the last "Silver Lining" we talked over some of the wild flowers that are blooming now.

This morning, July 26, the phone rang and Mrs. F.L. (Bessie) Melhop told me that she was planting wild flowers around her cabin which is just south of the circle in Ruidoso. She asked if I could give her some

"Don't Do What I do, Do What I Tell You."

This old saying is more than a smart-alec remark. The fact that a person does not follow his own advice is no proof that the advice is not good.

In "The Prairie" by James Fenimore Cooper, author of "The Last of the Mohicans" "Advice is a debt owed by the old to the young."

The coincidence Elf crossed our path again yesterday.

There were some very valuable rules for avoiding lightning published in the Ruidoso News for July 26. As I read them over I remembered about telling you of being out in the rain with the lightning flashing all around. Follow the rules of lightning safety. Do not be out in a thunder storm. Don't do what I do. Do what I tell you. (I am going to be a little gun-shy of lightning myself now after reading these safety rules.)

Saint Anne's Day In Glencoe

On July 26, Saint Anne's Day, I was delighted to see so many at the evening prayer service at the beloved little church in the vale, Saint Anne's Chapel. Father Delbert Achuff, Episcopal minister for Lincoln County, conducted the service at six o'clock in the stone church which has become an American landmark to people who have stopped in for meditation and prayer on their travels from coast to coast.

Afterwards there was a church yard picnic, with the tops of the church yard stone walls serving as tables. Many thanks to all who attended, and may we make this an annual celebration.

Services are held at Saint Anne's Chapel the first and third Sundays of the each month at 9:15 a.m. All are welcome.

"The Kid" Is A Proud Father of a Son

At the practice of the night of July 26, Billy Schreengost Jr., who plays the part of Billy the Kid in the Lincoln pageant, did not show up. Director Mickey Thomas had to call on her husband Johnny, who has played the Kid for seventeen years, so the practice could go on.

Half way through the show, Billy Schreengost showed up, his handsome youthful face beaming with a million dollar smile.

He announced to his friends and neighbors in the show that he is the father of a fine baby boy born the night of July 26. The boy's name is Thomas Luther Schreengost. We all send the heartiest congratulations for Mr. and Mrs. Billy Schreengost Jr.

Boat safety starts with common sense

Common sense, proper equipment and "know how" are important to boating safety, says Charles M. Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer at New Mexico State University.

Match your boat, motor and equipment to your particular ability. For example, one person in a 12-foot boat with a 3-horsepower motor may be safe on a small lake. But loading 4 people in the same boat with a larger motor in a large lake can lead to disaster, cautions Hohn.

Make sure your boat and motor are in safe and sound operating conditions before each trip. Balance the load carefully and keep everyone seated in small boats. Be sure that you have adequate safety equipment to handle emergencies.

Most boats have a rating plate attached on the back which states load and horsepower limits. These are maximum ratings, not necessarily the recommended ones.

Carelessness often plays a part in boating accidents. Life jackets too often are thrown in the bottom of the boat because they are too clumsy or awkward to wear. Hohn says that one possible solution is to wear a lightweight waist-type water-ski preserver and have an additional approved jacket or cushion for each passenger in the boat. Be sure that all life-saving devices are in good and serviceable condition.

Experience is the only way to acquire skill at handling a boat under varying weather and water conditions. Don't go out if the water is rough. Head for the shore if a storm warning is posted. In an emergency or in extremely bad weather, head into the wind and pull into the nearest shore rather than trying to get back to home port.

If you do have an accident, stay with your boat. Many boats are equipped with built-in flotation devices that keep the craft afloat. People hanging on to an overturned boat are safer and much easier to spot in the middle of a lake or river than are individual swimmers, adds Hohn.

Pyramid sales schemes always dupe investors

The lure of big money and instant profits through a sales scheme — known as multi-level distributorship or pyramid sales — dupes investors every year. Potential investors should be aware of the pitfalls of these marketing schemes, says Jackie Pinson, Extension family finance specialist at New Mexico State University.

Here is an example of how one multi-level distributorship scheme works. The marketing plan provides four levels of distributors. They are retail distributors, sub-wholesalers, direct distributors and general distributors. The level at which you operate usually depends on the amount initially invested.

In addition to sales, emphasis is placed on recruiting other distributors to earn more money. Investors at certain levels were required to buy from distributors above them, but any level of distributor could sell on a retail basis to the public. The endless recruiting system requires the participation of more and more people until the saturation point is reached and no one else is interested.

If the new investor is required to pay an investment fee to become a distributor and also has to buy the products he intends to sell, he may be left holding the bag and have a garage full of unsold products.

In fact, this does happen, Miss Pinson says. One victim ended up with his garage filled with unsold automotive additives. Another family reported losing $8,000 in a beauty products sales scheme.

Investors should be leary of any program which places most of its emphasis on recruiting distributors and subordinates, without apparent limit. Your investment return and income come mainly from recruitment fees, overrides or bonuses for enrolling more distributors.

If unspecified or extravagant earnings are promised without regard to your own selling experience, beware. These schemes also usually place emphasis on efforts of others you may recruit to sell, inducing you to engage friends and relatives as income producers.

You should also shy away from plans in which the amount of your investment for a distributorship is sizable, with little relation to immediate inventory needs. There are usually no provisions for refunds on merchandise that you do not sell.

Be leary of programs in which the opportunities and distributorships offered are unlimited with no protection provided for early distributors.

Before entering any agreement to sell, consult a lawyer about the contract you are required to sign. What you are told may be far different from the contract requirements. The contract may be binding unless you can prove misrepresentation, the NMSU specialist says.

ACTS OF COURAGE
SILAS DEANE AND DIPLOMACY
 Silas Deane carried a very heavy burden as he sailed to France in 1776. Appointed as the first official American representative to a foreign country, Deane was instructed to obtain supplies from French citizens or the French government and to gain official French recognition if at all possible.

Deane was a popular man in Congress and a leading revolutionary figure in Connecticut, but his experience did not give any indication that he had the ability to deal with an autocratic monarch and his crafty foreign minister. Subsequent events proved that the first choice of Congress of a foreign diplomat was not the wisest decision it ever made.

GO GAMBLE AND SAVE!

Of course, in Deane's defense one must remember the sensitive French position that Deane had to overcome. France had to be very careful before it provided any public support for the rebellious colonies. On August 11, before word of the Declaration of Independence was received in France, Deane was received by the Foreign Minister, Count Vergennes.

The Count was pleased to hear Deane's prediction that the Americans could hold out until the end of the year. Should the colonies declare themselves independent, Vergennes implied that open French support might be forthcoming.

Following another meeting on August 20, Vergennes promised arms to Deane and recommended Caron de Beaumarchais as the private agent to deliver the goods. Beaumarchais, therefore, arranged for the sale of merchandise on credit amounting to three million livres.

Even though Deane obtained the badly needed arms, this transaction plagued him to the end of his life. In 1778 Arthur Lee claimed that the goods were intended as a gift from France and that Deane and Beaumarchais had profited on the transaction.

This issue became such a controversial matter that Congress spent far more time on it for two years than it should have. Because of unavailable documents, Deane was never able to settle the matter. He was ruined financially, and his reputation suffered from the dispute. Like others, Deane, whether guilty or not, suffered greatly in the service of the new nation.

In a way, the Dominguez - Escalante expedition now underway in the Southwest also had diplomatic objectives. Primarily designed to open a route from Santa Fe to Monterey, California, for the benefit of all northern Spanish colonies the two priests were also interested in establishing good relations with Native Americans on the way. For them, conversion of these residents to Christianity was most important, but conversion went hand-in-hand with maintaining peaceful relations. Success was not to be forthcoming as they wished.

Freezing captures flavors

Freezing can capture the summer fresh flavor of the produce from your home garden, says Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food specialist at New Mexico State University.

Freezing preserves quality — it does not improve it. So pick and freeze in small quantities. Rush the vegetables from the garden to the freezer.

Packaging materials should be moisture-vapor proof, durable, leakproof and easy to seal and mark. Rigid containers made of plastic, glass or aluminum are suitable, as well as plastic bags with or without waxed cardboard covers. Glass canning jars with straight sides can also be used successfully.

All vegetables, except green peppers, should be blanched or heated before freezing. Blanching stops enzyme action and helps preserve color, flavor and texture, says Mrs. Johnson.

Packages should be placed in the coldest section of the freezer for initial freezing. Food should be frozen as quickly as possible, so don't overload the freezer. Add only as much food as will freeze within 24 hours. This is usually two to three pounds for each cubic foot of freezer space.

A readable label and a current inventory will help keep use of frozen foods up-to-date, the specialist says. Foods which have been frozen for the longest periods of time should be used first.

If the electricity goes off for a period of time, don't panic. Don't open the freezer. Food will stay frozen for one to two days if the freezer is filled with food and the door is not opened.

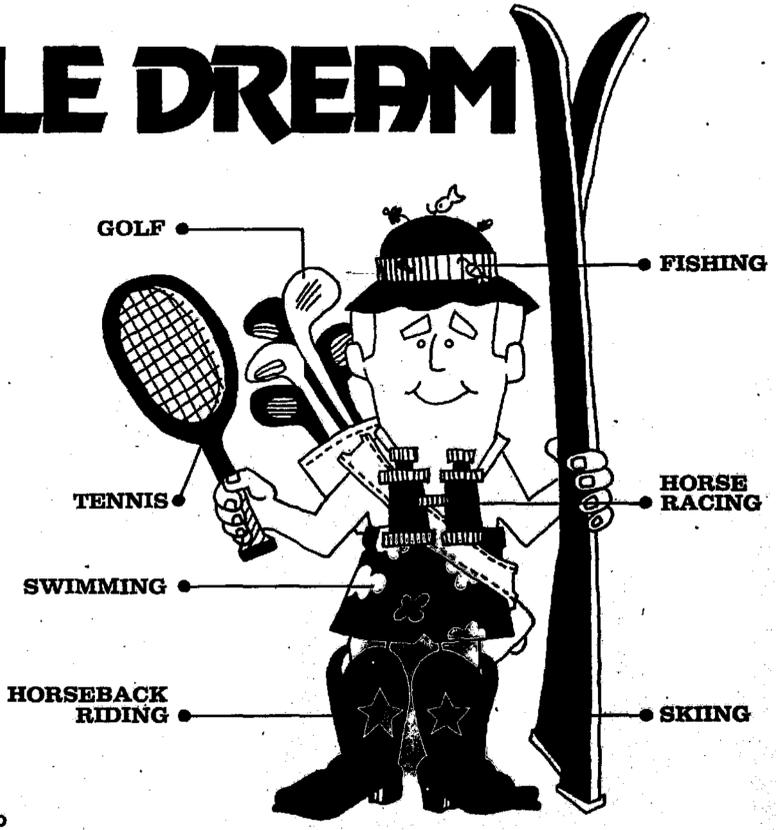

THE IMPOSSIBLE DREAM

Yes. Unless you know something we don't, it's impossible to do everything you like to do at the same time. Or all the time, for that matter. And anyone who tells you different speaks with forked tongue. That's why, in choosing a resort condominium, you should consider Interval Ownership.

A PLAN FOR ALL SEASONS

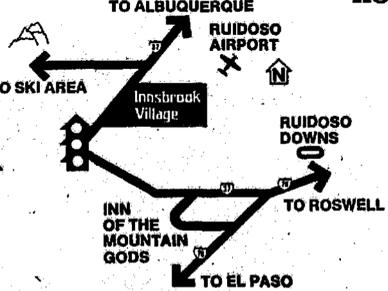

Interval Ownership (or "Time sharing") is a plan by which you pay only for the time you use. And what you pay reflects a proportion of ownership in both the building and land. If your thing is schussing through the white stuff, purchase a week or two in Winter and ski Sierra Blanca. Or, if the green stuff is more your cup of tea, you might want some time during racing season at Ruidoso Downs. Well, we could go on and on. But why belabor a point? There are lots of these time sharing things around. It's just that ours is the best.

Fully maintained and equipped, elegantly appointed Townhaus Chalets. Private supper club, gamerooms, golf, tennis, fishing, and a partridge in a pear tree.

We rest our case.
