DROVERS MOVE 950 STEERS OUT OF THE HILLS ... THE HARD WAY

Old time cattle drive held

BY BILLIE SURMICK
Staff Writer

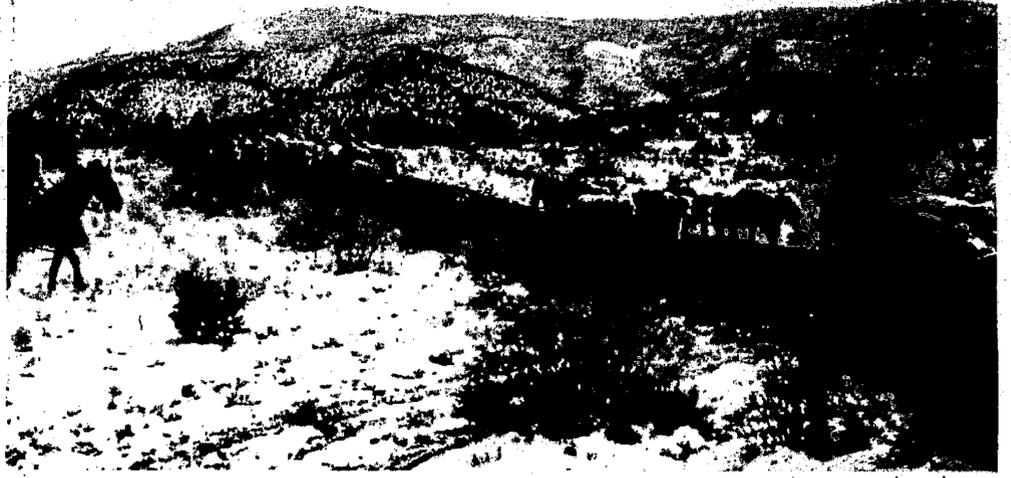

An epilog to Tales of the Old West was written Friday as 14 cowpokes completed the largest cattle drive in this area in recent years through Hale Canyon.

It took two weeks to round up the 950 steers from approximately 13,000 acres of some of the roughest country around. The steers were placed in a holding pen near Hale Lake and driven down a road crookeder than a sidewinder to waiting cattle trucks.

Average weight of each steer is approximately 700 pounds and 950 of them represented 665,000 pounds of beef on the move. The yearlings, who will be two years old in January, included Charolais, Brahma, Black Angus, White Face and cross breeds.

John Bachelor, Hondo, who owns the herd, said it was only a part of the 38,000 cattle presently being rounded up near Corona and in the Hondo Valley. He said the cattle were shipped to Chandler, Arizona, where they will be allowed another 180 days "growing time" in feed lots or pastures. "We understand some

Sunland Park, Ruidoso Downs operators charged with fraud

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — The securities and Exchange Commission Thursday in a civil lawsuit accused the principals of Kodiak Corp., Fortuna Corp. and C. Arnholt Smith of violating antifraud provisions of the federal securities law.

Dominic J. Alessio, Anthony Alessio, Alvin G. Rosa and the corporations signed a consent decree agreeing to stop the alleged fraudulent practices and to obey the securities laws. In signing the decree they did not admit the allegations in the SEC suit.

U.S. Dist. Judge Leland C. Nielsen, who accepted the consent decree signatures, said attorneys for the SEC were negotiating with attorneys for C. Arnholt Smith with an eye toward settling his portion of the suit as well.

Fortuna Corp. owns and operates Sunland Park Racetrack and Ruidoso Downs Racetrack in New Mexico. Kodiak owns controlling interest in Fortuna, a public corporation, and seeks to merge Fortuna with Kodiak, which is privately held by the Alessios and Rosa, who is married to Dominic Alessio's sister.

The SEC suit alleged the defendants "have been and are now employing schemes and artifices to defraud, making untrue statements of material fact and omitting to state material facts, and engaging in acts, practices and courses of business which have operated, now operate and would operate as a fraud and a deceit upon persons in connection with the purchase and sale of securities of Fortuna ..."

Those practices include "among other things, issuing and sending to shareholders of Fortuna and filing with the (Securities and Exchange) Commission, false and misleading annual reports, proxy materials, schedules and tender offer statements, all pursuant to a scheme to conceal the individual defendants' role and intentions to effect a merger of Fortuna and Kodiak, thereby enabling the individual defendants to appropriate the assets and cash flow of Fortuna for their personal benefit, and to conceal Smith's control of, relationship to and business transactions with Kodiak and Fortuna

... Rosa, president of Fortuna, said in a prepared statement that the settlement of the SEC matter would "allow Fortuna and Kodiak to devote full attention to their efforts to continue improving racing for the benefit of fans, horsemen and the state of New Mexico."

He said the company had been negotiating with the SEC for more than eight months regarding the SEC allegations.

He said the company "strongly disagreed with the SEC, but settled without admitting or denying any wrongdoing in order to avoid the expense of litigation."

In addition to the injunction against violations of the law, the settlement obligated the defendants to:

•Offer rescission rights to all Fortuna shareholders who sold shares to Kodiak in response to Kodiak's cash tender offer of Dec. 2, 1974.

•Bar Kodiak from voting its Fortuna shares on the question of whether to merge Fortuna with Kodiak, an item high on the agenda of the Nov. 8 stockholders meeting at Sunland Park.

Atty. Gen. Toney Anaya said his office had been queried about the situation by several minority stockholders and that he was studying the situation, both with regard to the proposed merger and with regard to the effect, if any, the SEC suit might have on the licensing of Kodiak and its principals by the New Mexico Racing Commission.

"We're studying the situation very closely," Anaya said. "At this point I'm

An old Chinese proverb says, "A picture is worth more than one thousand words." The anonymous Chinaman who once penned these profound words most likely meant that all the verbal or printed descriptive adjectives one might think of cannot aptly or accurately describe a person, scene or situation as well as one wordless photograph.

An editor we once knew used the phrase to mean a picture in his publication was worth more than a thousand words of copy that nobody had to write because the photograph would take up about the same amount of space.

We took a slippery ride through last week's blanket of snow covering Ruidoso to take photographs in this section to share with you.

Whatever your interpretation, you can supply your own descriptive phrases of the winter wonderland and not be limited to ours.

Warriors down Estancia to enter district playoff

BY BILL WILSON

The Ruidoso Warriors put it all together Friday night to defeat the Bears from Estancia 26-12. The win put Ruidoso in the runner up slot in district competition and in a play off spot toward the state championship.

The Warriors spotted Estancia an early TD with the big Bear fullback going in the end zone from fifteen yards out. The point after was blocked and Estancia took a 6-0 lead, with only three minutes of play used in the first quarter.

Defense took over for both sides as neither team could move the ball throughout the rest of the first quarter.

With the opening of the second period Ruidoso was faced with a punting situation. Lane Briley boomed the kick away and a fumble by the Bear receiver found a Warrior coming up with the free ball.

It was first and ten for the Warriors on the Estancia 15 yard line. Three running plays only produced 5 yards when QB Carl Botella faded, looked and found Bob Gaston in the end zone to pass for the first Warrior score. Gaston split the uprights for the extra point and the Warriors took the lead 7-6.

A few minutes later Bob Gaston again was the man to watch as he intercepted a Bear pass at midfield. The Warriors, now with a determined effort, went on to score again with only 8 seconds left in the first half. This time it was a pass from Botella to Hector Aguilar. PAT was good and the Warriors carried a 14-6 lead at the half.

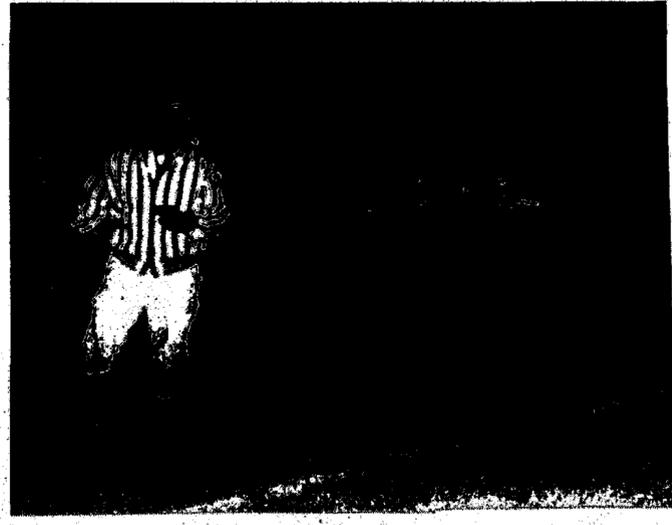

Second half play saw the Warriors get tough as the defense wouldn't allow anything for the Bears. Offensively, Lane Briley and Bob Gaston took turns at a TD for the Warriors as they scored on runs of 15 and 19 yards, respectively, running the score to 26-6.

On the last play of the game, Estancia's running back Newton, scampered 95 yards for a TD against the Warrior sophomore team as the game ended with the Warriors taking the big win 26-12.

BOB GASTON (33) outruns Estancia defense for a Warrior TD.

LANE BRILEY (43) heads for paydirt.

Young area boy attacked by dog

Larry Kenderine, seven-year-old son of Donna Kinderine Whitley, was the victim of an animal attack Friday and suffered severe head wounds.

The boy was playing near his home in Nogal Canyon when his mother called to check on him. Larry didn't answer, but the family Schnauzer brought home the boy's blood soaked toboggan cap.

Mrs. Whitley and a friend rushed Larry to the emergency room of the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital. He was taken to Providence Memorial Hospital in El Paso by MAST helicopter Friday afternoon.

"He was scalped," said a Ruidoso policeman at the emergency room. "There was a six inch circle on the top of his head completely ripped off to the bone."

The policemen said they were not sure whether a dog had attacked the child or wild pigs which also run loose in the Nogal Canyon area. While the policemen were waiting for the helicopter, a call from the sheriff's office told them deputies had "found a St. Bernard with blood all over him."

Mrs. Whitley's neighbor owns a St. Bernard he got from a Lubbock, Texas couple several months ago. He said he "didn't know if the dog has had shots."

The two Ruidoso policemen said, "They're going to wait until someone gets killed before they do something about these dogs and animals."

not sure of the effect" on the racing licenses.

"We want to find out what's going on, and they (the minority stockholders) want to find out what's going on," Anaya said.

The SEC suit alleged Smith, through his control of U.S. National Bank in San Diego, Sovereign State Capital Corp., Westgate California Corp., and other entities, manipulated the transactions which formed Kodiak and financed its acquisition of control of Fortuna. In addition, the SEC alleged, the planned merger of Fortuna and Kodiak was planned from the beginning, but was concealed from Fortuna stockholders and the SEC until only recently.

"Smith's involvement and control was made possible because Kodiak was dependent on U.S. National Bank loans for its day to day survival," the suit alleged. "Smith personally conceived, engineered and arranged the financing for Kodiak's acquisition of Sunland and Fortuna and arranged additional U.S. National Bank loans for working capital and refinancing of long-term debt."

U.S. National Bank, with assets of $1.1 billion was controlled by Smith at the time it was forced into receivership by the FDIC in 1973 for insolvency.

Smith arranged the series of loans to Kodiak and Fortuna "in order to facilitate a Fortuna-Kodiak merger," the SEC suit alleged.

Kodiak bought some 42,670 shares of Fortuna under terms of a late 1974 tender offer, and until then the "defendants" concealed and omitted to state their intent to effect a merger of the two entities," the SEC suit alleged.

Fortuna management earlier this month mailed an amended tender offer and lengthy and detailed notice of annual meeting to minority stockholders.

In the offer and statement the offer to sell back the shares purchased in 1974 was made to former stockholders, as per the settlement with the SEC. In addition, the statement contains a detailed accounting of the financial transactions involving Kodiak and Fortuna from 1972 to the present time.

"The merger enables shares shareholders to receive cash for shares of Fortuna which have not traded in the market since 1973," said Rosa in his statement. "The $3.60 per share price (set in the proposed merger agreement) was set by an independent investment banking firm..."

Shareholders who protest the price can petition for a court determination of a fair price, which may or may not be higher than the $3.60 figure, the notice of annual meeting states. — Albuquerque Journal, Oct. 29, 1976.

First annual meeting of NM chapter of American needlepoint guild

The first annual meeting of the New Mexico chapter of the American Needlepoint Guild was held October 26 in Lincoln. The theme for the meeting was "Tiempo Alegre" (happy times).

A needlepoint workshop began at 9:00 a.m. and continued until noon when a lunch was served at the Wortley Hotel. Following the luncheon, John Miegs, well known artist, presented the program. He showed a needlepoint portrait of George Washington circa 1840. Miegs is a collector of antique needlepoint. During the presentation he told the group of needlepoint enthusiasts that Martha Washington was a great advocator of the craft.

A needlepoint show was held in the museum and awards were presented in ten different categories: (1) Designed and worked by exhibitor; (2) Original designed expressly for exhibitor and worked by exhibitor; (3) Adaptations, work inspired by or adapted from some medium other than needlepoint; (4) Design worked on canvas painted by someone other than the exhibitor; (5) Bargello/Florentine designs; (6) Overall pattern stitchery designs; (7) Pattern stitch samplers; (8) Non-traditional work; (9) Children's work and (10) "Manana" (work not yet finished).

Judges for the show were Louise Haney and Nita Grace of Denver, Colorado.

Frank Standhardt of Arabela won Best of Show for his entry of four chair covers in an Oriental motif. The original designs were first painted in watercolors and then traced on the canvas for the needlepoint. He also won first place in that category.

The gold ribbon for the top award, with a needlepoint design in the center, was made by Myrl Good, president of the organization. On display at the show were canvas shoes, Christmas stockings (one of which won an award at a show in Monaco), wall hangings, pillows and even a bridal bouquet.

At the business meeting following the luncheon the proposed constitution and by laws were presented for consideration and adoption by the committee of Betty Eastland, chairman, Vy Kennedy and Phoebe Deckert.

Officers of the newly formed chapter are Myrl Good, Ft. Sumner, president; Vy Kennedy of Deming, vice-president; Roberta Robson, Albuquerque, 2nd vice-president; Phoebe Deckert, Santa Fe, secretary; Nory Kingvey, Los Alamos, treasurer; and Bobby Franks, Ft. Sumner, special chairman of the exhibit.

The object of the guild is to (1) provide educational and cultural development through the participation in, and encouragement of interest in, the art of needlepoint for places of worship and historical landmarks; (2) promote high standards of needlepoint craftsmanship and creativity in the state of New Mexico; (3) promote the art of needlepoint through study of its history, uses and forms and to encourage individual creativity in adapting its forms to modern usage; and (4) to foster and develop interest in the art of needlepoint through personal contact, communications, meetings, classes, seminars and exhibitions of handwork.

About fifty members from over the state attended the workshop and meeting. Each one made their own name tag in needlepoint to best describe their personality.

Special guests at the luncheon were artist John Miegs of Hondo and Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. of Ruidoso.

Last week we said — let it snow — let it snow — let it snow! And it snowed and snowed this past week! You were right, Dan Storm — it's an early snow and there's lots of it!

Funny how snow affects everyone — especially the first one! Some of the old timers say they know it's going to snow because they smell it! Boss Ken Green said his skis started "whining" in the closet — seems they wanted out and it's obvious that Ken is ready to let them out!

The first day of the week before the snows started we spent an enjoyable day in Lincoln with the mayor. We attended the first annual meeting of the state needlepoint chapter. After the luncheon we had a nice visit with artist John Miegs and another artist from Florida who is working with Miegs.

A visit to Lincoln always turns our thoughts back in time to the history that is preserved there and the hope that more of that historical site can be preserved. Conversation between the luncheon and needlepoint show with Pat Ward, Fern Sawyer and the mayor turned to the need of more state funds being secured to help in that effort!

Because of the Mayor's interest in the preservation of history we returned, by Fort Stanton. He has a vision of seeing the old Fort restored. Many of the old buildings are still in their original state and the old chapel remains intact.

Driving through, it was easy to visualize what an interesting historical site it could become with restoration! Let us hope that more of the history of Lincoln County can and will be preserved!

The russets and golds of the leaves we enjoyed that day are now covered in a fluff of beautiful white snow — and so let it snow — let it snow — let it snow!

JOHN MIEGS, nationally known artist, shows a needlepoint of George Washington circa 1840.

JUDGES FOR THE NEEDLEPOINT SHOW were Louise Haney and Nita Grace of Denver, Colorado.

THIS ENTRY WON Best of Show! and then, worked them in Frank Standhardt painted the needlepoint for chair covers. Chinese designs in watercolors.

Gamma Rho chapter meets

Gamma Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Dana Stevenson October 25.

The business meeting was conducted by Janice Nelson, president, and plans were made for the pledge ritual which will be held at the November 8 meeting in the conference room at the telephone company. Dues for pledges and members were discussed.

Margaret Goodman was elected to replace her.

The program was presented by Donna Parker. Fourteen members and three pledges, Cathy Ames, Margaret Goodman and Judy Brown, attended the meeting.

Hostesses for the next meeting will be Janis Nelson and Kathy Dacy.

I have worked unstintingly during the past 40 years for economic development and improved court service in Lincoln County.

Due to the pressing load of work in the court, I will be unable to see each of you individually. Therefore, I am taking this means to ask you for your vote and support in the Nov. 2 election for the office of Magistrate.

A NEW MEXICAN FOR NEW MEXICO

New to our community, we have pride and confidence in the elected officials who deserve to be represented by people of intelligence and high moral character. Men and women who are dedicated to working in your best interests and who have the qualified experience to do the job.

Cattle drive

movie star bought my cattle, but I didn't pry and we're not sure who he is," Bachelor said.

Friends, neighbors, relatives and hired hands helped Bachelor with the drive. They included John Bachelor, Jr., Paul Jones, Ray Reed, Ray Clarke, Harlan Webb, Harla Webb, Allen Reynolds, Joe Gutierrez, Craig Whipple, Sonny Varvel, Rick Simpson, Rick Clair and J. W. Kendrick.

Reed said, "This herd handled like no other I've seen. They're more like lambs in the way they scattered every which way."

By last Monday, most of the herd was in holding pens or pastures. They tried to walk off their restlessness by pacing back and forth over a mile-or-so long trail. "Heifers settle fairly easy," Reed said, "but not steers." Tuesday "someone left the gate open" and the cowboys were again working the dense underbrush and canyons to find the strays. Then Wednesday a surprise snow hit and rewrote the script in this modern day western. The drive was delayed and hay was brought in for the steers.

"Actually, the snow helped somewhat", Clarke said, "since the cattle had eaten off the pasture where they were penned, when we started driving them they looked out over snow instead of grass. We still had several that broke away to eat the brush."

"It was so cold Thursday when we were rounding up strays," Jones said, "that I was trying to heel one of the steers and the whole rope just slipped out of my hand."

The sun came out Friday, the snow thawed and the trail turned to boot-top deep mud. Portable corrals and the loading chute, located at the old dump site, had to be disassembled and moved closer to the highway because the cattle trucks couldn't make it up Hale Canyon road. Loading the steers through the chute was a scene of slipping, sliding, bawling, prodding and cussing.

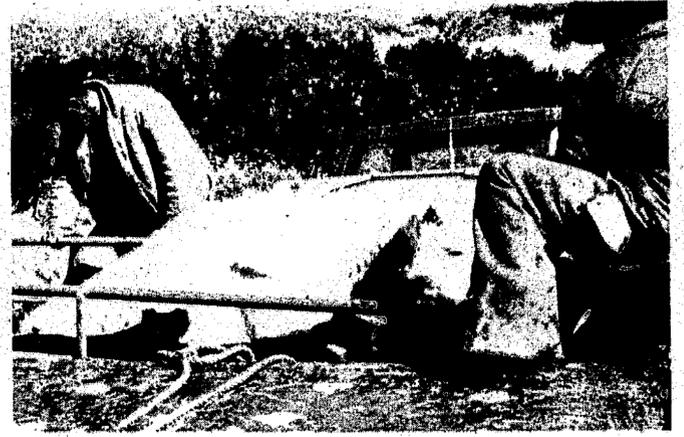

The wranglers "got up in the dark and went home in the dark" and one of them said, "My wife said it would sure be nice if I'd come home again." It was a rough, tough job, but it was made a little easier by coffee brewed on a Coleman stove and fried chicken lunch — provided by Susan Bachelor and The Colonel — served on the hood of a pickup truck.

About 100 steers made up each truck load and the truck drivers had their share of cattle prodding and wrangling. At the end of the day, the bone-weary, mud-splattered cowboys still wore a chaw of tobacco and a smile.

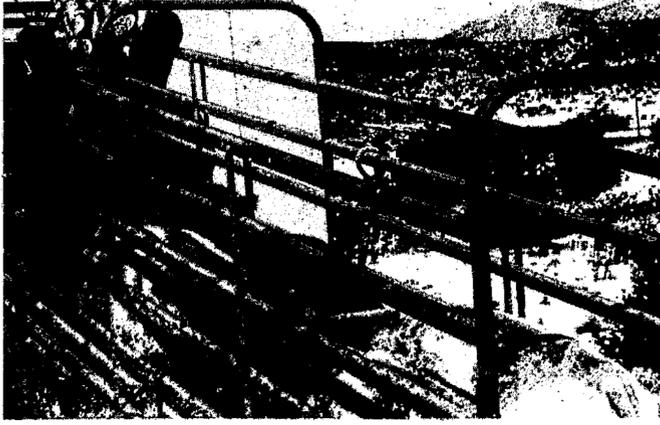

Reed said, "They told us it couldn't be done..."

JOHN BACHELOR, middle, waiting to cut for loading.

WRONG WAY steer in the chute gives the hands a workout.

RIGHT WAY to enter a cattle truck through the chute.

DROVERS SPREAD out to keep steers on the trail.

HARLA WEBB, 14, was the only female drover on the drive.

HALE LAKE area is dotted by 950 steers during the roundup.

LOADING PEN was a scene of sliding, bawling and cussing.

THE FOLLOWING NEWS RELEASE HAS BEEN ISSUED TO THE MEDIA BY ALVIN G. ROSA, PRESIDENT OF FORTUNA CORPORATION

SUNLAND PARK, NEW MEXICO — Alvin G. Rosa, President and General Manager of Fortuna Corporation, today announced that a settlement has been finalized with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The Company will now proceed with a vote of shareholders on the proposed merger with its majority shareholder, Kodiak Industries.

Fortuna is the owner and operator of Ruidoso Downs Race Track and Sunland Park Race Track in New Mexico.

The proposed merger calls for Fortuna to become part of the privately-owned Kodiak Industries; if the merger is approved, Fortuna shareholders will receive $3.60 in cash for each share of stock.

Rosa stated that the Company had been negotiating with the SEC for over eight months regarding allegations that reports filed by Fortuna were deficient. He stated that the Company strongly disagreed with the SEC but settled without admitting or denying any wrongdoing in order to avoid the expense of litigation. The SEC had also indicated that it would attempt to prevent the merger from taking place until in its view the Company had complied with the federal securities laws.

The merger enables shareholders to receive cash for shares of Fortuna which have not traded in the market since 1973. The $3.60 per share price was set by an independent investment banking firm, William R. Staats Division of Wedbush, Noble Cooke, Inc., member of the New York Stock Exchange. The firm reviewed Fortuna's earnings and other factors in comparison to similar companies engaged in the horse racing business to determine the $3.60 price.

The compromise will allow Fortuna and Kodiak to devote full attention to their efforts to continue improving racing for the benefit of fans, horsemen and the State of New Mexico.

Inside the Capital by Fred Buckles

SANTA FE — Managers of the U.S. Senate and New Mexico presidential campaigns forecast how their candidates will fare in the general election Tuesday.

Bob Baca, Democratic U.S. Sen. Joseph M. Montoya's campaign chief, predicted these Montoya majorities in these counties: Montoya's home Santa Fe, 6,000 votes; Dona Ana, 1,000; Otero, 1,200; Eddy, 500 to 700; Rio Arriba, 4,500; San Miguel, 2,000; Taos, 1,500 to 2,000; McKinley, 2,000; Valencia, 3,000, and Colfax, 1,000.

Baca expects Montoya losses in these counties by these margins: Bernalillo, 7,000 to 8,000; San Juan, 2,000; Chaves, 1,500, and Curry, 1,000. He says Montoya could win or lose Roosevelt by 200 and win or lose Grant, Republican Harrison Schmitt's home county, by 200 to 300. He rates Lea as even. Baca says: "In Lea Montoya is doing very well in Hobbs and Eunice and trailing in Jal and Lovington."

Baca says: "If there is a surprise county, it will be San Juan. Montoya is doing well among the oil and gas people in San Juan, Chaves, Eddy and Lea." He expects a heavy vote in Northern counties and the Albuquerque Valley. Baca reports apathy in the Albuquerque Heights, Roswell, Clovis and Las Cruces. He says Montoya polls show an undecided vote of 17 per cent in the Montoya-Schmitt race and 24 per cent in the Carter-Ford hassle.

Baca says: "Our polls show no coast-tailing between Montoya and Carter. But they show local Democratic candidates in some areas will help the entire Democratic ticket." He claims most of the undecided vote is moving to Montoya.

A Schmitt-Ford phone poll last week-end of 400 statewide showed Schmitt and Ford leading. Ex-Gov. Tom Bolack, Farmington Republican, says the Senate and presidential races are close in New Mexico. Bolack predicted Ford and Schmitt victories "by very small margins."

Carter campaign vice chairman David W. King says: "Carter will beat Ford in New Mexico by 5 to 6 per cent unless Ford or Carter makes a major blunder." King said a mid-October survey by Carter pollster Pat Caddell's firm showed Carter with a 7 to 8 per cent statewide lead. He said Carter had moved from a 3 per cent deficit in Bernalillo County to a 1.5 per cent lead.

He said the Caddell poll, taken by regions, showed Carter ahead of Ford by 4 to 5 per cent on the East Side (Curry, Quay, Lea, Eddy, Roosevelt and Chaves Counties). The Carter lead was 5 to 6 per cent, King said, in the Southern tier (Dona Ana, Otero, Sierra, Socorro, Valencia and Luna) and in the Western sector (San Juan, McKinley, Catron, Grant and Hidalgo). King said: "Carter's lead was almost 18 per cent in Northern U.S. House District 1 exclusive of Bernalillo and Quay."

King predicted: "Carter's strongest counties in District 1 will be Santa Fe, Rio Arriba and San Miguel." The Caddell poll showed the undecided vote had dropped from 28 to 11 per cent since a late September survey. King said: "With Ford being exposed in the final campaign days it will help Carter more than Ford."

The New Mexico Carter campaign goal is a 65 per cent total vote turnout. King says: "If the vote drops below 50 per cent, it could put the Montoya and Carter campaigns at a disadvantage." He adds: "We concede Chaves and San Juan but Carter will receive a substantial vote in both counties."

State Rep. Collin McMillan, Roswell, Ford New Mexico campaign chairman, says Ford will carry Bernalillo and Chaves heavily. McMillan forecast narrow Ford victories in Lea and Eddy. He says Ford will win Dona Ana and San Juan. McMillan says Ford will prevail in Roosevelt and Curry by thin margins.

OPINION PAGE

Yours and Ours

In the heavily Democratic North, McMillan says, "extra work we have done indicates Ford will run better than the normal Republican vote." He says Carter will win Santa Fe County. McMillan predicts Ford "will run well in Colfax County." He says Ford will poll the usual GOP vote in heavily Democratic Otero and McKinley Counties.

McMillan claims: "Ford gained strength on the gun control and prayer in schools issues raised in the last Ford-Carter debate." He cited "the fact that Carter favors hand gun registration and opposes Ford's position favoring a federal constitutional amendment allowing prayer in schools." McMillan says: "Ford will carry New Mexico by about 5 per cent over Carter." He expects Albuquerque and Roswell campaigning by Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, the GOP vice presidential nominee, to boost chances in New Mexico for the Ford-Dole ticket.

Retired FBI agent Tom Smith of Albuquerque travels often with Schmitt in his campaign. After a 24-year FBI career Smith retired two years ago as FBI deputy assistant director in Washington. He was formerly based in the Albuquerque FBI office.

editorial

Politicians are an unusual breed. They tell us they have their fingers on the pulse of the voter, but it isn't until the votes are tabulated that they know what the voter really thinks. Tomorrow is your opportunity to express your opinion. Go to the polls. Pull a "Harry Truman" — "Give 'em hell". It's your duty.

Reflections . . .

by billie surmick

"Tomorrow we'll know who our next president is. We hope the voters will be able to realistically consider the issues and qualifications rather than get sidetracked by subliminal campaigning, Montoya's monkeying around and Carter's playboying.

The first snow of the season altered not only the landscape, but a few plans around our place. That 10-year-old of ours took one horrified look at the stuff and ran grumbling through the house — platinum hair flying, face snarling — because he'd set aside Wednesday afternoon to launch a giant rocket he and a friend have spent three weeks building. The 14-year-old and the group he was with traveling to the airport in Albuquerque for the first leg of their bicentennial tour got delayed around Socorro and had to be rescued by a snowplow. They arrived one hour late in Albuquerque thinking they had missed the plane only to discover all 36 Ruidoso High School students were cooling their heels because the plane was snowed in at Stapleton Airport in Denver. And this is only the beginning . . . we predict this winter will be tailor-made for polar bears.

We were glad to see the Village of Ruidoso Downs police department, mayor and trustees commended by the Chamber of Commerce for their "help and competence" in the three big events throughout the season. Richard Cothran's thank you letter to the village accentuated the positive for people whose jobs are often thankless.

The autumn day was sundrenched, birds were in fine voice and two Ruidoso High School students with braces on their teeth couldn't resist celebrating it. They did so with a big, mutual smooch. Ending the kiss became a problem when her hands got caught in his wires, the respective nard were got tangled and the two were taken "intact" to the dentist.

To avoid finding misplaced items in the last place you look, figure out where you'd look last, look there first and you'll find whatever you're looking for in the first place.

Last year a building could be fumigated to prevent a year's worth of bugs in one fell swoop. Recent insecticide content regulations proclaimed by environmental agencies might have their place, but their place is not in wiping out creepy crawlers. We have as many, if not more, than we did before the exterminators started making monthly visits. The regulations increase $ for the exterminators and increase caution for us since we're never quite sure what will be lurking in the bathtub, sink or over the bed.

If you dig deep enough, you can find statistics to prove any favorite argument or back up most any statement. The one that has us concerned states that by the time our children reach their fifties, they will know 97 percent more than their parents. Does this mean we know only 3 percent of what there is to know?

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The 1976 Halloween Carnival was a tremendous success thanks to the cooperative support of the community. All Ruidoso Public School personnel would like to express their gratitude and appreciation to each and every one who supported the carnival by their donations and attendance.

A special appreciation is given for the use of the Chaparral Convention Center and to the Ruidoso News and KRRR Radio.

This success is a direct result of the community, merchants and the public schools working together for a worthy cause.

HARMONY MANSION BLUES

Things in harmony mansion . . . our heavily mortgaged domicile wherein all things are generally viewed lightly . . . are in a state of flux.

Me 'n' m' bride . . . that's Kay, you know . . . are in the throes of that most despicable of national indoor pastimes . . . dieting. Not that the need isn't self evident . . . and that's what brought about the crux in the flux.

Actually what's happened is . . . after collaborating against the calories for endless weeks . . . we did decide to vacation in Minnesota . . . in February . . . which decision indicates positively the dangers inherent in starving the stomach include deterioration of the "thinking processes. No one leaves the sunny south to vacation in Minnesota in February.

Sometime after Labor Day me 'n' m' bride started making like rabbits . . . devouring crispy-crunchy carrots, celery, radishes and lettuce with complete abandon . . . and sandwiching in between those noisy bites, nibbles of dry toast and fatless, tasteless, hopefully waist-less, well boiled meat. Oh, the misery in dining that is ours . . . including the wretched hours betwixt dining next.

But . . . all went well . . . until, that is, when at last the neighborhood poltergeists and hobgoblins did descend upon us last night . . . and our larder of goodies they didn't adequately deplete . . . leaving a huge pile of calorie laden comestibles . . . which will not, m' bride decreed, go to waist . . . hers. And therein lies my dilemma . . . waste not, want not.

But as the fat ebbs . . . and the desire to continue the ebbing flows . . . arises the real crux in the flux . . . 'cause Thanksgiving . . . Christmas . . . New Year's Eve . . . with all the gourmet delicacies . . . are so close the imagined odors are so real as to cause the gastric juices to flow . . . and, by jinkies, three carrot sticks, half a celery stick, two lettuce leaves and four radishes, coupled with a three ounce slab of drained-of-fat boiled beef and one slice of diet bread toasted . . . sans butter . . . just ain't about to create no festive dining mood.

Be that as it may . . . we've got a plan

. . . what with viewing our blubber problem as adults . . . which, considering our proclivity for self indulgence . . . ain't easy . . . or especially reconcilable . . . which may or may not be germane to solving the crux in our flux.

As to our plan . . . comes the time to indulge in seasonal and holiday goodies . . . we'll gird ourselves against temptation . . . and with deliberation . . . and an accompanying lack of gusto . . . gorge ourselves with rabbit food . . . to the point of doing the bunny-hop in 13-minute stints . . . thrice daily . . . and the, and the, and then, will we allow our self discipline to relax . . . 'cause when you got a bellyfull of crunchy vegetables . . . you just can't force enough pumpkin pie, dipped in whipped cream . . . buttered potatoes swimming in cream gravy . . . or savory, drippy, roast goose . . . down . . . to gain more'n five pounds any given meal. A fallacy in fact we just might be able to disprove.

Anyhow . . . until those fateful moments of decision arise . . . we've got our eating cut out for us . . . we've cut out butter, gravy, potatoes, desserts . . . frying, roasting and sauteeing . . . mayonnaise, jellies, escargot . . . the latter which ain't worth trying to dig outta the shell if'n there ain't an ocean of clarified butter to dunk 'em in . . . and right now we're spending our evenings hunting for our one pair of scissors . . . which we buried outside one dark night as a hedge against cutting out paper dolls.

You'd think one of the side benefits of our spartan fare'd be a drastic reduction in the outlay for food . . . and therein came a revelation that'd have any normal, healthily hungry, home economist climbing the walls of a padded cell.

But, by jinkies, we're sticking to our diet . . . which provides little to stick to our ribs . . . and we're over the rough spots . . . helped, of course, by occasional tumbler of ice tea . . . and as we step on the scale each morning . . . we can't wait . . . for the arrival of that first Friday the 13th in 1977 . . . to begin dieting in earnest.

BRIEF BIT: You really should go vote tomorrow . . . even if someone sees you show up at the polls . . . no one's going to tell . . . and if they do, so what? —CD

In our government, so far as smoking is concerned, the right hand doesn't pay much attention to what the left is doing. The surgeon general's office keeps issuing reports noting that cigarettes are dangerous to health. The Department of Agriculture nevertheless promotes the sale of tobacco.

For whatever cold comfort it may provide anti-smoking forces, let it be noted that the situation is worse in France. There the Ministry of Health has just launched an intensive campaign to discourage smoking by the French people. At the same time the French government's tobacco monopoly, Seita, did some launching of its own: it introduced a new cigarette, "Gitane Internationale".

This is billed as a brand that will "compete with light foreign tobacco" in the luxury class. Something to relish, no doubt, while meditating on the Ministry of Health's anti-smoking drive. — Alamogordo Daily News

The Dreamer
BY DANIEL SWAN

On the Eve Of My Birthday
On this beautiful October day (the twenty-sixth) I am dreaming of the days in my native village of Valdez, Alaska. I have been going over the photographs of myself and brother Mark and John playing in front of our little house with the picket fence around and the board sidewalk in front. There are pictures of our mother holding brother John as an infant, as she stands just outside the doorway, smiling as she holds John near a snow drift that is nearly half as high as the house. There are pictures of our father standing in a stream in his high boots and pack on his back, dressed as he was when he made the long trip on foot to be present at my birth. When I remember the little house where brother Mark and I were born, I think of how my mother waited, ever trusting in God, happy that she would soon be able to see me for the first time, though she had already known me for quite a while. My father, as he waded and climbed through swamp and ice and rugged forest, knew that I had been alive for some time, and hoped and prayed that I would be born safely.

The Sacred Life Of The Unborn Child
On the eve of my own birthday, the weather outside is just like I remember it in Valdez, Alaska. The sky is blue above, and the north wind is blowing cold and singing the same winter song I used to hear when I was an infant. This weather, together with the approach of my birthday, awakens my spirit as never before, to the realization of the sacred miracle of our life and birth.

God protects us and our mothers as we await the hour when we see the light of day. We are sacred to God before we are born, during our life-time in this world, and in the Heavenly world to come.

So you see, I am not thinking today of my birthday only. Your birthday and the birthday of all of us is a sacred time, a time of gratefulness to God for his love and protection for us all our life, before our birth, through the passing years from childhood on, and forever and always.

Grateful For Each Birthday
Surely I must be the most fortunate and blest person in the world to have had so many happy years and birthdays, and I am grateful for each day and year. As your birthday arrives, realize the sacred blessing of your life. And when we know of the birthday of a person, let us thank God that He has carried one of his beloved children safely through another year.

I send you God's blessings and all happiness on my birthday.

November, The Thankful Month.
Look at the top of this page and you will see we are in one of our favorite months, November, the month of thankfulness.

Brother Lynn's birthday is the twenty-eighth and already I am feeling better just remembering him and thinking about his great qualities: kindness, courage, quickness and sureness in an emergency and many, many others.

In November 1971 I had concentrated on borrowing Lynn's many strong points, during his birthday month. I was quicker than usual in an emergency, and this, with God's ever-present protection, saved my life.

Shady Logan Says A Word.
Dearest Friends everywhere, I want to take this opportunity to thank you for making The Ridge Runner's birthday so happy, and to thank you for your kindness to us both always. You bring double happiness to me when you are so good to The Ridge Runner, because his happiness is my happiness.

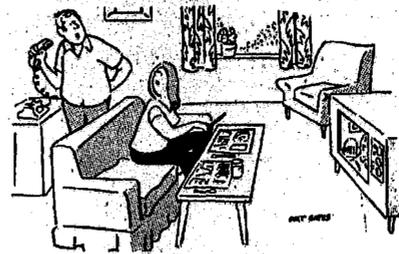

I especially wish to thank Lois and Leo Norton of Dallas, Texas for their kind words about the Silver Lining; and also Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Spray of Lubbock, Texas for their beautiful birthday card and good wishes to both of us.

It was a blessing to hear from dear Maxine Royce in California. I appreciated the card and apple seeds from Lula Runnels, her son Robert, and their dog, Chico Botch.

Then it is always wonderful to hear from The Ridge Runner's cousin, Marguerite and her husband Claud out at Escondido, California.

I hope to be seeing you during the autumn days of November. Thanks again for all your kindness, and may God bless you.

Yours, ever the same,
Shady Logan,

The luxury of custom design is no longer a luxury.

ORDER YOUR LINDAL CEDAR HOME NOW GET YOUR LINDAL CEDAR CARPORT FREE!

A 20x24 double carport with weather screen and enclosed storage — a $1,400 saving! Offer expires Oct. 31.

Other economic factors notwithstanding, land and housing costs just seem to keep on rising every year, and with them the likelihood that your next new home will be home for keeps.

That makes custom design more desirable than ever. And Lindal makes it more practical than ever.

Thanks to almost unlimited design flexibility, it's a simple, inexpensive matter to change, enlarge or otherwise personalize each of our more than 70 basic Lindal designs.

But, beyond that, Lindal's factory engineering can also be applied to your very own plans or building ideas — as in the case of the striking contemporary design above. And without the expensive design costs which normally accompany the made-to-order home.

So, combined with the natural, distinctive appeal of cedar, plus major built-to-last benefits, a custom Lindal home could prove far more basic [and rewarding] than any mere luxury.

For a Lindal Planbook and home-designer's kit, send $2 to our local, independent distributorship.

Tan deer hide for home rugs

With deer hunting season just around the corner, many lucky hunters will want to save their deer hides for rugs, clothing and other articles, says Susan Wright, Extension clothing specialist at New Mexico State University.

Some hunters will want to tan their own deer hides with the hair left on and use them to enhance the den. Miss Wright recommends the following home tanning process for any kind of mammal hide:

- Skin the animal, fleshing the skin carefully.
- Salt the flesh side of the skin with table salt. Fold the skin with the flesh side in and place it in a cool place in a leak-proof container. The salt will cause the accumulation and drainage of water.
- If you want to tan the hide with the hair off, soak the untanned hide in strong milk of lime, making sure the solution doesn't splash on the hands or in the eyes. The lime loosens the hair so it can be easily pulled away. After the hair is out, wash the skin thoroughly to remove all traces of lime, then tan. If tanning with the hair on, skip this step.

- Place the skin in a pickling solution of one and one-half ounces of commercial hydrogen sulfate or about 30 cubic centimeters of concentrated hydrogen sulfate per gallon of water. Add salt to saturation. Make certain the skin unfolds and is covered by the solution. Let it remain there for several days or until the flesh side is white.

- Drain after rinsing the skin in cold, clear water.
- While the skin is still moist, work it over with a fleshing and trimming knife to remove any flesh not previously removed and to make the skin uniform in thickness.

- Treat the skin with an alum solution of one-quarter pound of alum, one-half pound of salt and one-half ounce or 15 cubic centimeters of carbolic acid in one gallon of water. Treat the skin for several days to a week, depending on the thickness of the skin.
- Rinse the skin in clear, cold water and drain.
- Apply a mixture of equal parts of sulphated neatsfoot oil and water, warmed and mixed, to the flesh side of the skin.

— Work the skin on the stake until it is soft and dry. If oily, remove excess oil with sawdust or wash with detergent, dry, and work soft again.

To have clothing made, the hunter will probably want to ship his hides to a reputable company that does this custom work. Most of these companies will accept the fresh hides that have been salted down and folded together, or hides that have been stretched on a wall to dry for 7-8 days.

FRUIT-VEGETABLE GROUP

While all fruits and vegetables are included in this Group, those valuable as sources of vitamin C and vitamin A are emphasized.

Recommended Amounts: Four or more servings every day, including 1 serving of a good source of vitamin C or 2 servings of a fair source; 1 serving, at least every other day, of a good source of vitamin A. If the food chosen for vitamin C is also a good source of vitamin A, the additional serving of a vitamin A food may be omitted. The remaining 1 to 3 or more servings may be any vegetable or fruit, including those valuable for their vitamin C and vitamin A. Count as 1 serving: 1/2 cup of vegetable or fruit; or a portion as ordinarily served, such as 1 medium apple, banana, orange, or potato, half a medium grapefruit or cantaloupe.

Good Sources of Vitamin C: Grapefruit or grapefruit juice, orange or orange juice, cantaloupe, guava, mango, papaya, fresh strawberries, broccoli, brussels sprouts, green pepper, sweet red pepper.

Fair Sources of Vitamin C: Honeydew melon, lemon, tangerine or tangerine juice, watermelon, asparagus tips, raw cabbage, cauliflower, collards, garden cress, kale, kohlrabi, mustard greens, potatoes and sweet potatoes cooked in the jacket, rutabagas, spinach, tomatoes or tomato juice, turnip greens.

Sources of Vitamin A: Dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables and a few fruits, namely: apricots, broccoli, cantaloupe, carrots, chard, collards, cress, kale, mango, persimmon, pumpkin, spinach, sweet potatoes, turnip greens and other dark-green leaves, winter squash.

Contribution to Diet: Fruits and vegetables are valuable chiefly for their vitamins and minerals. In this plan, this group is counted on to furnish nearly all the vitamin C needed and over half of the vitamin A. Vitamin C is needed for healthy gums and body tissues, while vitamin A is needed for growth, normal vision and healthy condition of skin and other body surfaces.
