

'Good Sam' drive dies

A quorum of the advisory committee for the proposed Good Samaritan Society Nursing and Extended Care home voted unanimously Tuesday to discontinue the fund drive.

The motion to stop the drive was made by Barney Waldrop, citing lack of support from the business houses and long time residents as indicative of lack of interest in the facility. Preston Isaacs, drive treasurer, seconded the motion.

Before the vote Mel Risting, of Good Sam, read a letter dated Oct. 23 in which Camelot of Ruidoso stated their intent to withdraw the 15 acres allocated to the home site if the $350,000 drive goal was not met by Jan. 1, 1977.

The committee will begin immediately to refund all donations to contributors who can be identified, if refunds are desired. This task is to be completed prior to Dec. 31, if possible.

Anonymous cash donations will be used to pay committee expenses accrued through purchase of postage and printing.

Funds remaining will be given to a non-profit charity, to be selected.

The fund drive produced, Isaacs said, "about $105,000 in cash and pledges including the offer Monday of a lot in Ruidoso valued at $12,500."

Isaacs noted that some contributors, desiring to take the tax deduction, have specified their donations be given to a non-profit organization and not refunded to them.

Identifiable donations include pledges, paid or partially paid, checks and cash contributions, through the radiothon or otherwise, in which the donor was identified by name and amount.

"If you can't reach the people who can give," Risting said, "there's no sense in continuing the drive. You need not be ashamed of your efforts, however, because a considerable amount of money was raised and you are to be congratulated on this achievement. Later, perhaps, when the public is fully aware of the need for a nursing home the funds will be raised quickly."

Ruidoso High School hit hard by burglars

Burglars made five separate break ins at Ruidoso High School over the weekend, making off with a quantity of cash and personal checks, tennis shoes and a set of shock absorbers.

The Criminal Investigation Division of Ruidoso Police Department records show $241 in cash, $55 in checks, Monroe Air Shocks, yellow, $55 and two pair of tennis shoes, size 9 and 10 1/2, valued at $22 were taken.

Entrance into the principal's office was gained by use of a tool like a tire tool, with desks being opened with a knife blade. Forced entry was made into five rooms.

Jeep Club effort vital in lost hunter rescue

Members of the White Mountain Jeep Club were singled out by Lincoln County Undersheriff Ralph Romero and NM State Patrolman Kent Waller for "the highest possible praise" for their efforts early Sunday morning culminating in the rescue of a hunter who became lost near Ancho Saturday.

Rescued, unharmed, was Tommy Brown, 45, of Ennis, Tex., who was located about 7 a.m., by Jeep Club members Rex Skellett and Herb Brunell. Brown, who was warmly dressed, spent the night in sub-freezing temperatures in a ravine that protected him from the wind.

The search operation was launched at 8:30 p.m. Saturday by NM Game and Fish officers after the three hunters with Brown reported him missing.

Sheriff's deputy Chas. Engelking notified Romero and Waller of the search and rescue mission and when it became evident that the G & F efforts hadn't succeeded, the Jeep Club was summoned to the Ruidoso Police Department for a 3 a.m. Sunday briefing. 10 club members in five four-wheel drive units arrived at the Waller Wilson ranch at 5:30 and entered the search.

Skellett and Brunell were searching the R Largo pasture, comprising about eight sections, when they located Brown on Leadville Hill about three miles southeast of Ancho. Brown was reported as being cold, but in good physical condition and "very happy to see us", the rescuers said.

Participating in the search, through the night, were seven G&F, two NM State Police and three Lincoln County Sheriff's officers in addition to the 10 from the Jeep Club, eight ranchers and the three hunters in Brown's party.

In a joint statement issued by Romero and Waller, the Jeep Club members were highly commended for "their willingness to enter the search, for not uttering one complaint about anything and for using their own vehicles, buying their own gas, donating their time and even picking up the tab for their coffee and food.

"The dedication of these Jeep Club members can be an inspiration to all of us. Their knowledge of the country was invaluable. After Brown's tracks indicated the direction he'd taken, the club members immediately took off to scour the area . . . and the lost hunter was found.

"We cannot commend the members of the Jeep Club too highly."

This search and rescue operation brought out a definite need for coffee and food to be available for such missions.

Waller and Romero are issuing an appeal to cafe and store operators, willing to provide food and coffee for these missions, which are performed the year around, to notify the Ruidoso Police Department, 257-7385, and the Lincoln County Sheriff's recorded opinions from the citizenry Tuesday at the environmental impact assessment public hearing.

Members from the audience were then invited to read their written remarks which were submitted to the committee.

Richard Cothrun, representing the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, said, "We feel the positive results outweigh any negatives. We offer our support and cooperation." He then continued, speaking for himself as a taxpayer, "It's high time people in this area recognize where their income comes from — the tourists. I can understand the researchers wanting to protect 17 prong horns and I'm concerned with wildlife preservation, but I'm also concerned with the future and a jet capable airport is one of the few ways for Ruidoso to grow."

James O'Connor, representing the Bureau of Land Management in Roswell, said, "I want to point out errors of fact in the environmental assessment report. On July 7, 1976, the New Mexico Multiple Use Advisory Board made recommendation that a jet capable airport on Fort Stanton lands is incompatible with the existing research programs being conducted there. I question any analysis of the environmental impact report not approved by the BLM."

Russ McKiskee, Ruidoso businessman, said, "A new airport will create a large commercial area. We cannot ignore the future need for air transportation. The present airport is inadequate as it is right now and a lot of people don't feel comfortable trying to fly in and out of the existing airport due to the terrain."

Arnold Nelson, New Mexico State University department head of animal research, said, "The Fort Stanton land is the only major range research fully representative of climate. Long range research studies have been mutually agreed upon in our lease agreement. The airport environmental impact assessment report is incomplete. It says only 2,000 acres will be used and that our studies can be conducted elsewhere. The proposed airport would affect much more than that and would preclude most studies on at least 7,000 acres."

Jim Tully, representing 100 members of the Ruidoso Water Users Association, said, "The 26,000 acres managed by the BLM is under an agreement that is in direct violation of the law. When we ranchers need help from these researchers, the silence is deafening. That small bit of this vast range can best serve the people as an airport for modern aircraft. It shows lack of imagination and foresight to keep it all as an experimental range. The proposed airport will enhance the entire southwest."

Bobby Dan Crenshaw, representing the industrial development of Carrizozo, said, "I am a psychologist at Fort Stanton Hospital and the noise factor from the airport would adversely affect the 174 patients at the hospital. I think the 15-mile radius is arbitrary and I think the airport should be located in Carrizozo."

Lost persons can help search, rescue teams

NM State Patrolman Kent Waller and Lincoln County Undersheriff Ralph Romero have compiled a list of procedures to be followed by any lost person, or persons reporting that someone is lost.

Search and rescue operations are conducted the year around as hunters, fishermen, hikers and campers get lost 12 months out of the year.

The lost person should:

— Remain in one place and stay on the lookout for rescuers.

— Build a fire that will produce the

Smokey Bear honored

Although Smokey Bear has been laid to rest, the idea that fire prevention and wildlife conservation lives on was the continuing theme throughout memorial services for Smokey in Capitan Wednesday.

Attended by 250-300 people, the services were hosted by Jim Abbot, of the Lincoln County Forest Service. Dignitaries who took part in the program included Ray Bell who nursed Smokey back to health 26 years ago; Elliott Barker, retired state game warden; Homer Pickens, former assistant state game warden; Jay Johnston, mayor of Capitan; Ray Gallegos, state forester of New Mexico; Bill Huey, director of the New Mexico Game and Fish Department; Billie Hamlett, representative of the National Zoo in Washington, D.C.; and Sam Graff, director of New Mexico Park and Recreation Department.

The saga of Smokey's rescue from a forest fire that burned 17,000 acres in the Capitan Mountains in 1950, his subsequent appointment as the first living symbol for fire prevention, his retirement and death were reiterated throughout the ceremony.

Dorothy Guck, Nogal, said, "I want to tell you what happened after Smokey got to Washington. In 1955, the people of Capitan put up the portals and foundations outside the edge of town. In 1958, they

Thanksgiving 'Ruidoso Style' an evening of gross hilarity

Thanksgiving — Ruidoso Style, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce to benefit the school system, based on "Almost Anything Goes" TV show type competition, gets underway Tuesday, November 23 at 7 p.m. in the high school gym.

"We've done a turn around from the fierce competition of the previous year and this time it will be strictly for fun," said Chamber president Lynn Willard at the board meeting Monday.

Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. A Thanksgiving message will be given by the Ministerial Alliance Service and a proclamation signed by President Ford will be read prior to the events which begin at 7:15.

Five teams, consisting of one person in each of six age groups (ranging from five to over fifty) will compete in four lively events. Team captains are Pat Valliant, Doyle Howell, Tom Hansen, Sid Miller and Mike Gladden. Two members of each team may not be from within the school system and team captains may compete in the age group for which they qualify.

The first event will be "The Clothes Dressing Contest" wherein all six team members must participate. A blindfolded person being pulled in a child's wagon must try to dress in as many articles of clothing as he can pull from a selection stretched across the volleyball net. Two other team members, also blindfolded, will attempt to undress him, or her, down to their gym clothes. Time limit is five minutes.

"Tennis Ball Goal Relay Contest" is second on the agenda and teams will compete in twos and threes. A ball will be bounced on the floor with a tennis racket, then the ball will be thrown, by hand, in the basket. Then it's back down the floor in the opposite direction.

The third event will be the "Blindfold Grocery Cart Obstacle Course" with two team members involved. One member will sit in the cart and direct the blindfolded member pushing the cart through an obstacle course. The course will be set up just prior to the event.

The finale, "Trampoline Balloon Contest" will involve all six team members and may produce hilarity, if not mayhem. One team member will run with an inner tube on one leg (no hands allowed) to the trampoline where another member must jump, with the inner tube around his waist, to collect as many suspended balloons as possible. The third member will carry the balloons to the fourth member standing in the bleachers. He, in turn, must pass under the complete row of bleachers and give the balloons to the fifth member who will run to the stage and hand the balloons to the sixth member. He must pop the balloons with his bare feet. Time limit is four minutes.

Winners will be determined on a point system and each member of the winning team will receive a bronze Smokey the Bear Commemorative Coin.

The DECA club will auction off pumpkin pies and a ham and a turkey will be given away.

After the board agreed on details for next Tuesday's community night of fun, it was business as usual. The board also:

— Named Marge Woodul, former assistant manager, as a director to fill the unexpired term of Cliff Owen who resigned due to business involvement.

— Accepted the Chuck Wagon Gang bid for meals at next October's Motorcycle

Aspenade Convention.

— Agreed to lease a Buick, Ltd., from Sierra Blanca Motors.

— Heard inconclusive reports from directors on the response to WATS line funding participation.

— Agreed to send a letter of "strong" endorsement to the Sierra Blanca Airport environmental impact hearing.

SNMEDD sets annual meeting in December

The executive committee of the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD) Wednesday set the annual meeting and election of officers for Dec. 12 at SNMEDD offices in Roswell.

The executive committee was named by president Bill Hart as the nominating committee and directed to submit "as many names for each office as desired" at the annual meeting. Hart said nominations will be received from the floor also. Present officers are Hart, Lincoln County; Dan Virden, vice president, Otero County; and R. E. Thompson, treasurer, Chaves County.

The naming of members to the Health Systems Agency Sub-Area Council, being established to deal with health and hospital problems in Chaves, Eddy, Lea, Lincoln and Otero counties, will be accomplished at the Dec. 12 meeting. Only Lincoln and Eddy county commissioners had submitted recommendations for council members in time for Wednesday's meeting.

In addition to full board representation at the annual meeting, members from the five counties, mayors, village and city trustees and other municipal officials will be invited to attend.

"We need to fully explain our operation to officials of municipalities," Nick Pappas, SNMEDD executive secretary, said, "so that everyone will understand the vital role we play in developments in this area."

PAYING RESPECTS to Smokey the Bear was a large crowd at memorial services in Capitan decided to build a museum, but they didn't have one red cent. If they couldn't give money, they gave their hands. We built this museum without a penny from any state or federal agencies."

Guck, who is a former classmate of President Gerald Ford, said she recently visited Cedar Rapids, Michigan, after a forty-year absence and the newspaper there wrote her up as having two friends in Washington — Jerry and Smokey."

Guck said, "My two friends may be gone from Washington now, another president is in the White House and another Smokey is in the zoo, but we pledge our allegiance to them both."

Johnston unveiled the bronze plaque mounted on a large boulder which marks Smokey's grave behind the Smokey Bear Museum. It reads, "This is the resting place of the first living Smokey Bear. In 1950 when Smokey was a tiny cub, wildfire burned his forest home in the nearby Capitan Mountains of the Lincoln National Forest. Firefighters found the badly burned cub clinging to a blackened tree and saved his life. In June 1950, the cub was flown to our Nation's Capitol to become the living symbol of wildfire prevention and wildlife conservation. After 25 years, he was replaced by another orphaned black bear from the Lincoln National Forest."

Huey expressed the need for awareness in conservation. "It's great to have a continuing symbol of this need. We can be proud New Mexico has made this contribution which is recognized all over the world."

Gallegos said, "It took a living, breathing, walking symbol to capture the people's attention to conservation. Money was appropriated and bills passed for suppressing forest fires after Smokey became the symbol. The New Mexico Department of State Forestry was instituted in 1958 and we controlled 100,000 acres of land. Today, we have 35 permanent members and we protect 47 million acres of state and private land. It is sad to see the old warrior go. Yes, Smokey is dead, but the idea and concepts he stood for are more important than ever and live on."

Barker recalled Smokey's flight to Washington, D.C. and said, "There were crowds everywhere the plane stopped. I am humbly proud that I was responsible for embarking Smokey on his career as a living symbol when I turned him over to the U.S. Forest Service."

Pickens said, "It was 26 years ago last June 29 when Frank Heinz and I flew little Smokey to Washington. Senators Chavez and Anderson were there to greet us, along with others. They, like Smokey, have gone to meet their reward, but will live in the hearts of the people."

Graff told the audience of the plans for the Smokey Bear Historic State Park and said it will be a "perpetual reminder to preserve and protect our national resources. Smokey is not dead because an idea cannot die."

The Rev. Ken Cole, First Christian Church of Ruidoso, gave the benediction as television cameras rolled and machines whirred to record the respect paid to Smokey.

Sprays of flowers were placed inside Smokey Bear Museum rather than on the grave, but one small boy pushed his way through the crowd and personally placed his bouquet on Smokey's marker.

MAYOR JAY JOHNSTON of Capitan said, "There will be no break in Smokey's reign."

ELLIOTT BARKER, former state game warden, told the saga of Smokey.

maximum amount of smoke and tend it carefully to keep it completely under control.

— Fire the emergency signal of three successive shots periodically. Action to launch search and rescue missions, when a person is reported as lost, with several hours of daylight remaining are generally delayed on the premise that the person will return to a rendezvous point before dark.

To avoid unnecessary alarm it is strongly suggested that all members of a party, who go separate ways, meet at a designated place at the time set.

Persons reporting a lost person should: — Go to a ranch, or any location with a phone and be absolutely positive of your exact location. Relay pertinent information on the person lost, giving all possible details, including ailment, like heart trouble, the missing person might have. After notifying authorities, the person making the phone call should remain at the phone until help arrives.

— In making the phone call to authorities give the lost person's name, age, address, physical condition and if the person is adequately dressed for the expected, or unexpected, weather.

— Provide the authorities with descriptions of vehicles involved, including license numbers.

— Give a complete description of the camp and exact location. State whether the camp is tent, trailer, camper, whatever. Describe exactly how to reach the camp site from which the search will be launched.

— State whether or not the missing person is experienced at being in the field, or a novice. Be specific as to how the person is dressed.

— Should you have reason to suspect a missing person may be the victim of an accident or in emergency condition, so state.

— Don't panic. Any person or group that is going into the field should tell their families where they will be and give them specific instructions as to how to reach their camp, phone numbers, names of people to contact and any other information that would aid officers in locating them should an emergency arise at home.

False reports require many man hours to check out, during which available search and rescue teams may be tied up and unable to respond to a genuine emergency or lost person call. False reports are generally those made as a result of panic when a person doesn't show up at a designated place and time, when there are several hours of daylight remaining. In one instance this hunting season a hunter was reported as lost and officers discovered that he'd bagged his deer and departed for home without advising camp members of his action.

In the hunting areas in Lincoln County, all calls for assistance should be made to: — Ruidoso Police Department, 257-7365, or — Lincoln County Sheriff, 648-2342. These telephones are manned 24 hours a day and personnel will alert the NM State Patrolmen and any others necessary.

Mrs. John J. Hall, also of Alto. The wedding is planned for February 12 in Ruidoso. High School in Roswell and attended the University of New Mexico. She is currently employed by The Ruidoso News.

Family of Year to be named

Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., has proclaimed the week of Nov. 21-28 as "Strengthen Family Week" in Ruidoso, setting in motion the Altrusa Club's project to name "The Family of the Year 1977" here in ceremonies set for May 4, 1977.

"The proclamation is the first of several phases of the Altrusa program to strengthen family life," Katherine Finley, International Committee chairman, said, "with the climax of the year's project to be the selection of Ruidoso's Family of the Year."

The basic criteria for naming the exemplary family includes, Finley said, faith, service and patriotism.

In faith, the (family designated) have reared their family on God's laws and promises:

In service, the (name) family unselfishly gives of its time, talents and energy to community activities, thereby strengthening the bonds of friendship between and among the neighbors and citizens in the Village of Ruidoso; and

In patriotism, the (name) family lives its pride in America through involvement in the local community and in exercising its voting rights and privileges in local, state and national elections.

In making the nominations, specific examples of the family's active line in faith, service and patriotism must be documented.

Nomination forms for The Family of the Year 1977 and nominating details are available from Jane Deyo, Altrusa president, at the Aspen Tree and from club members.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

BREAD-CEREAL GROUP

Foods in this group provide worthwhile amounts of protein, iron, and several of the B-vitamins and food energy.

Foods Included: All breads and cereals that are whole grain, enriched or restored. Specifically this group includes: breads, cooked cereals, ready-to-eat cereals, corn meal, crackers, flour, grits, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, rice, rolled oats, quick breads and other baked goods if made with whole-grain or enriched flour. Parboiled rice and wheat also fit in this group.

Recommended Amounts: Four or more servings daily. Or, if no cereals are selected, choose an extra serving of breads or baked goods, which will make at least 5 servings from this group daily. Count as 1 serving: 1 slice of bread, 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal, 1/2 to 3/4 cup cooked cereal, corn meal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

The Bread-Cereal Group is an important source of carbohydrates. In days of old, we had to depend on home baking for breads but today our markets make available a wide variety of bakery products in ready-to-serve, partially-baked, frozen ready-to-serve, prepared-frozen and many other forms. Recently, there has been a resurgence of home baking as many enthusiasts are recapturing the nostalgia of old-time kitchens with their aroma of hot bread fresh from the oven. If you bake your own bread, remember that milk, whether liquid or powdered skim, enhances the food value of the bread.

Breakfast cereals, whether ready-to-eat or to-be-cooked, are whole grain or fortified in some manner. When it comes to rice, most consumers still prefer white rice although brown rice has more nutrients (the B vitamins — thiamine, riboflavin and niacin) unless the white rice is enriched. White brown rice doesn't cook up as fluffy, it has an especially delicious taste many people find pleasing. You may want to try it the next time your menu calls for rice.

Prep magazine selects Eubank

Kirk Eubank, forward at Ruidoso High School has been named to Prep's Great Southwest Honorable Mention Basketball Team.

The selections, made by the staff and correspondents throughout the country of "Prep Sports" magazine, and released today, appear in the second issue of this new national high school sports magazine. An All-American basketball team is named along with six regional teams.

Last year, as a junior, Kirk was named to the All-American Basketball Team. He was also named Most Valuable Player in basketball at last year's Sports Banquet.

Drama Club holds tryouts

The Drama Club had tryouts Tuesday, Nov. 16, for a contest play which they will present January 7-10 at the University of New Mexico campus in Albuquerque for the Southwestern High School Drama Festival. The Junior High will be having a play called the "Clown That Ran Away" just before the Christmas break at White Mountain School.

The Drama Club encourages all upper classmen and anyone else who would like to participate in Drama Club to join.

Bobcats defeat Warriors

The Ruidoso Warriors bowed in defeat 20 to 0 to the McCurdy Bobcats in the regional play-offs, Saturday, Nov. 14. The Bobcats received the kick off and scored the first TD of the game, but failed to make the extra point making the score 6 to 0. The Warriors took over but lost the ball to the Cats on the 6 yard line.

The Bobcats scored again late in the second quarter with a pass play that landed them in the end zone. The extra point conversion brought the score to 14 to 0 at the end of the half.

Warriors again came close to pay dirt but fumbles abounded, with each team trading control of the ball. The Bobcats managed to stay on top to score again and end the game 20 to 0.

The game was originally scheduled for Friday night, but had to be postponed due to bad weather and rescheduled for 12:30 Saturday in Tularosa. However, the sun came out and the game was again rescheduled for 2 P.M. on the home field.

Warrior Coaches felt that after so many delays and changes the team found it hard to get fired up for the game. Earlier in the week Warrior back, Lane Briley was benched with a torn ligament and in the defensive secondary, Kim Nelson checked out with a dislocated shoulder. Coach Daryl Stierwalt believes that losing two players in one day hurt the team's morale. Outstanding players in the game included Daryl Watkins, Josh Ensor and Carl Botella.

Honor Society has formal ceremony

The brainy new members of the National Honor Society were formally welcomed to the organization Tuesday night, Nov. 16. The ceremony was held at the RHS library with the members' parents in attendance. The members initiated into the society were Jim Lowrance, Mandi Blanscett, Mike Ashcraft, David Cummins, Cathy Quentis, Lea Ann Jones, Sandra Sanchez, Terry Payne, Trena Kelly, Arlene Gonzales, Twila Clements, Brenda Verable and Pete Wilson.

The officers installed for the coming year were Tammy Miller; president, Pam Bookout; vice-president, Vana Moore; secretary, and Wanda Sanchez; treasurer.

The NHS members, old and new, hope the coming year will be a good one, grades included.

Classes to choose favorites

All grades, seventh through twelfth, at the high school will hold a class meeting today, Thursday, Nov. 18, to select class

School Scoop

Senior picture retakes were taken Wednesday Nov. 17 on the RHS stage at 8:30 a.m.

There are several size selections to choose from and the price varies.

Retakes were taken Nov. 16, for those who didn't like or take their first pictures. The pictures were taken at 1 p.m. in the library. The cost was $4 per pack. The pack contains 1 8X10, 2 medium, and 7 wallet size photos.

favorites. Seniors will also choose their Senior Personalities and their Favorite Teachers. The senior class will vote for one senior girl and one senior boy under each of the following titles: Most Likely to Succeed, Most Talented, Most Friendly, Most Beautiful and Most Handsome, Most Athletic and Most Witty.

Pep rally held

The walls of the Ruidoso High School gymnasium reverberated with the spirit that the students had for the Ruidoso Warriors last Friday, Nov. 12. The pep assembly started out with the cheerleaders leading the chant "regional all the way to state".

David Cummins contributed to the morale of the team when he came down and said, "It's going to be a hard fight. It's going to be who wants to win the most, and we want it most." Coach Doyle Howell gave a pep talk. He said, "If we play half as good as we played against Jai we will be doing alright."

The pep assembly concluded with the cheerleaders leading the Warrior Fight Song.

Prep Player of the Week

Mark Wimberly has been chosen by Ruidoso coaches this week as Prep Player. Wimberly has started in 7 games as center, and has shown excellent blocking. Coach Bob Elder stated that the center position including blocking is a very tough position.

PAM BOOKOUT and Carol Griego were recently selected as Altrusa "Career Girls of the Month" for October and November. Vana Moore (not pictured) was selected for September.

Altrusa Club choose girls

The Altrusa Club of Ruidoso has honored their "Career Girls of the Month" for September, October and November. Vana Moore, Pam Bookout, and Carolyn Griego, respectively, were given this special designation. All three girls attended a noon luncheon given yesterday with members of the Altrusa Club.

When asked what career area she planned to enter after graduation, Vana replied that she is interested in becoming an agriculture and farm mechanics major. She hopes to teach in a New Mexico high school and be a FFA advisor. She aspires for her future alma mater to be ENMU at Portales.

Pam's ambition is to be either a data processor or a veterinarian. She doesn't have a specific college in mind which she would like to attend, but she does plan on at least another four years of education.

Carolyn's career choice was fashion merchandising and interior design. She plans to attend Bauder Fashion College in Arlington, Texas, or NMSU at Las Cruces.

FRESHMEN Kim Sanchez, Richard Woodul and Carrie Sears look forward to a good year.

Officers installed

OEA had an installation and it consists of the welcome by Liz Rue, Ruidoso OEA president, the Pledge of Allegiance by Patty Neal, "Office Education Defined" by Leshia Mills, "Why join OEA?" by Kelly Taylor, "The Emblem of OEA Explained" by Brenda Uihlein, introduction of guests by Liz Rue, installation ceremony by Jonny Daniel, Ruidoso OEA past president, OEA pledge by Janice Crenshaw and a reception. It was held on Monday, Nov. 15, at 7 p.m. in the Library.

The new officers for OEA are as follows: Liz Rue, president; Debbie Jo Almager, vice-president; Patty Neal, secretary-treasurer; Janice Crenshaw, historian; Leshia Mills, parliamentarian; Brenda Uihlein, activities director; Kelly Taylor, Student Council representative; and Terry Payne a member. Miss Jean Spurlock is the advisor.

After the installation they had a reception for the new officers.

McGuire named Rotarian

Melanie McGuire, a junior at RHS, was chosen Jr. Rotarian for the Month of November by the Student Council of RHS. Melanie will attend luncheons on every Tuesday during November with the Rotarians to stay on top of their main activities.

Gooch selected Jr. Rotarian

Last month the RHS Student Council met to vote for a person they most thought deserved the title of Junior Rotarian of the month. Julie Gooch the secretary-treasurer of the Student Council, was elected. Julie ate lunch every Tuesday of October at the Whispering Pines Restaurant with the Rotary Club. "It was fun singing with all the members of the club." Julie was quoted as saying. There will be one student chosen each month as a Junior Rotarian.

Booster Club sets informal sports banquet

The Warrior Booster Club will fete, with parents as guests, members of the Ruidoso High School varsity football and volleyball squads and cheerleaders at an informal dinner at 7 p.m., Nov. 22 in the high school cafeteria.

This extra event is to honor the volleyball team for being second in state Class AA competition and the football squad for reaching the semi-finals in Class AA play.

Linda Marse has recorded organ music

Linda Moody Marse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Moody of Hobbs and Ruidoso, has recorded an album of organ music at West University Methodist Church of Houston.

The album, "Linda Moody Marse Plays the Memorial Organ," was sponsored by the church to raise funds for a new attachment for the church's computer organ. It was recorded by Dick McGrew Recording Co. of Dallas.

Details on Mrs. Marse's album will be available Friday and Saturday by contacting Jay Moody at Pertee Parks and Associates on Sudderth.

Library events

A Thanksgiving story will be told by puppets and Mrs. Helen Huffsmith Saturday from 11 a.m. to 12 noon at the Ruidoso library.

Storytime today is scheduled for 3 p.m. and will include fairy tales from the Shirley Temple Book.

PINNING AN EAGLE — Carol Ellis, in the highlight act of the evening, pins the badge of Eagle Scout on the chest of her son David, Monday, as Dave Ellis, his father, looks on.

David Ellis attains rank of Eagle Scout

DAVID ELLIS — Eagle Scout

David Ellis, on Monday, became the second member of Boy Scout Troop No. 59, Ruidoso, to attain the rank of Eagle Scout.

In a Court of Honor, conducted for Eagle Scout David, the honor was conferred by representatives of Troop 59, Boy Scouts of America, Conquistador Council, Rio Hondo District.

David's history in church and school was outlined by L.L. Streeter; Undersheriff Ralph Romero disclosed his activities in law enforcement and Scoutmaster Bill Wilson traced his scouting activities the past year.

Jim Dickinson, an Eagle Scout, delivered the charge to David before a hushed audience.

David's Eagle Scout badge was pinned to his shirt by his mother, Carol Ellis, R.N., of Ruidoso.

After the ceremony David said, "I intend to keep working in Scouting that I may be able to give as much to Scouting as Scouting has given to me."

Troop 59's first Eagle Scout was Stephen C.M. Long who received the rank in 1969.

Brown trout hitting now

For all those anglers whose dreams are filled with visions of the big brown trout, this could be the season when the dreams are realized.

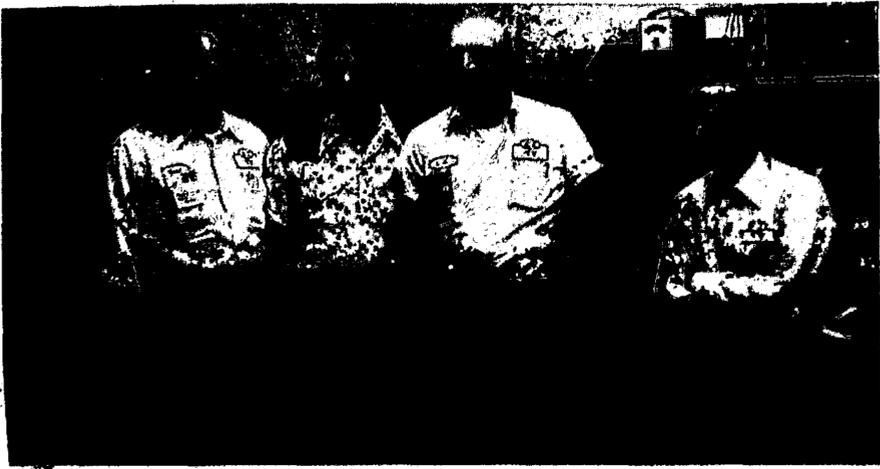

The browns are spawning in most New Mexico trout waters, says Warren McNall, of the Game and Fish Department's Fisheries Division, and the fishing is great.

"Browns are one of the few trout that can be counted on to reproduce annually in the wild. Ideal spawning habitat is easily found, and in fact, each year the browns overpopulate most of our streams," McNall explained. Too many young are produced and competition for food is stiff. Because of this, said McNall, taking browns during the spawn is not detrimental to the species.

Some of New Mexico's better brown trout waters include the Cimarron, Chama and San Juan Rivers, the Rio Grande Box and the Lower Red River. In the southern part of the state the Ruidoso and Penasco Rivers are prime targets, as are the west and middle forks of the Gila River.

Nymph patterns are usually the most successful bait, said McNall. However, he added, a well presented angle worm often fools the wily brown. The early morning angler will often have the best luck.

Venison adds variety

With just a little bit of luck, you'll have a deer to butcher this season. Venison can add variety to winter meals because of the many ways it can be prepared, says Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food specialist at New Mexico State University.

To be at its best, venison must be properly dressed and quickly cooled. Keep it as cool as possible in camp and on the way home.

Once home, package the meat quickly and refrigerate or freeze it. If aged deer meat is desired, find a butcher who will hang the deer in the cooler. For proper aging, you need a constant temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit or 4 degrees Celsius for 5 to 10 days. In most areas, butchers will cut and wrap the meat for freezing.

When you're ready to eat the meat, dry heat methods — roasting or broiling — can be used on the tender cuts, such as the sirloin, back, ribs, top round and shoulder steaks of young animals. Moist heat cooking — braising or stewing — will be better for less tender cuts, such as the shoulder, neck and flank cuts from older animals.

Less tender cuts can also be ground to use in meat loaf and casseroles. Since the flavors of venison and chile go well together, ground venison is very good in chile con carne, enchiladas or tacos.

Game fat is sometimes undesirable because it becomes rancid quickly. Also it tends to solidify quickly after cooking. Solve this problem by trimming the fat closely and replace it in cooking with bacon, salt pork, suet or cooking oil.

Herbs and spices enhance the flavor of venison. Try cooking your meat with garlic, bay leaf, thyme or a spicy barbecue sauce.

If you can spare a pound or two of lean tender meat from your deer, make some venison jerky. Trim the meat carefully to remove all fat. Slice the meat about one-eighth of an inch thick. This is easier to do if the meat is partially frozen. Marinate the meat for several hours or overnight in a marinade of four teaspoons salt, one teaspoon each of pepper, chile powder, onion powder and garlic powder, one-quarter teaspoon cayenne, three dashes liquid smoke and one-half cup water. Stir the meat in the marinade occasionally.

Drain the meat and arrange on racks placed on baking sheets. Dry in the oven at 150 degrees Fahrenheit or 66 degrees Celsius until a piece will crack but not break when you bend it. Keep the oven door slightly ajar to let moisture escape and you will have delicious jerky in about six hours.

Parcel mailing hints offered

After you've picked out gifts for the people you play Santa Claus to, there are probably some presents you'll have to mail.

How to wrap what — that is the nitty gritty the Postal Service talks about in its free booklet, "How to Pack and Wrap Parcels for Mailing". For your free copy, send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 557E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Corrugated fiberboard boxes are recommended as the best general containers for mailing parcels. They can be cut to fit the size of the gift. And if you don't have a box with a top, two boxes fitted one over the other make a very strong package.

To hold the package together, one of the safest and strongest tapes available is self-sticking tape with fibers running along the length. Cloth pressure sensitive tape is also good. Gummed paper tape reinforced with fibers is excellent, but probably not too easy to get for home use. No matter what tape you use, make sure you put enough on to hold the box from opening under pressure. Be particularly careful of the ends and corners.

It's okay to use envelopes as containers for stationery and publications up to a pound in weight and one inch in thickness. But, don't put that special pen or humorous bottle cap in an envelope because it could burst out.

And, if you're packing several items in one box, you need to protect them from each other. Heavy items shouldn't be packed with fragile things unless you separate them well from each other with cushioning materials such as shredded newspaper, foamed plastic or corrugated fiberboard.

Finally, on one side of the package clearly print the name and address of the recipient including his zip code, and your name and return address. Be sure to put these addresses on the inside of the package too, so it will get there even if the outside address is damaged.

"How to Pack and Wrap Parcels for Mailing" (free) is one of over 200 selected Federal consumer publications listed in the current edition of the catalog, "Consumer Information". Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the free catalog is available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Police training program ok'd

The Department of Motor Vehicles' Traffic Safety Division released $30,000 in federal monies this week to the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy, for continuation of Police Traffic Training Programs at the Academy in Santa Fe.

The programs, which are available to all law enforcement officers, are designed to provide a uniform educational background to all police officers regarding traffic matters, court procedures, accident investigation techniques, crime injury management procedures, drunk driver detection and apprehension procedures, and motor vehicle laws.

Eight training courses including three special four-day long seminars will be offered during the upcoming year, with an anticipated enrollment of approximately 280 officers. Officers participating in the program will receive up to 64 hours of instruction.

Within the last 15 months, over 380 police officers from throughout the State have had the opportunity to complete similar uniform training programs.

News from the County Agent

Calf sales have been slow to develop this year. Generally any sales were for immediate delivery. The moisture plout two weeks ago triggered a short spell of buying of cattle to go on wheat pasture. Hereford, angus and black baldy steer calves were bringing from 39 to 43 cents per pound, while heifers were bringing from 34 to 35 cents per pound. These calves weighed from 350 to 450 pounds.

Feeder lambs have been selling from 46 to 53 cents per pound depending on the weight. The lighter lambs were bringing the higher prices.

Check beef cows at weaning for pregnancy: If you are running short of grass, you might sell any cows that are not pregnant at weaning time. Pregnancy examination can be done by a veterinarian or a qualified technician. All that is needed is restraining equipment. Open cows could be marketed, and reduce the cow herd without reducing next year's calf crop. It will be 2 years before the open cow can wean another calf and very few calves are worth this much investment in cow feed.

The only function of a beef cow is to produce a calf with enough weight and value to offset her annual cost. Most of the cow's annual cost consists of her wintering bill. Carrying open cows for a full year without any returns is one of the largest drains on a cattleman's profits. Therefore, pregnancy checking could be one way to decide which cows to sell.

RRD
Tips for butchering venison: Once you've killed a deer, treat it like you would a fresh beef. Gut it immediately, clean the cavity, and spread the carcass open so it can cool out from the inside. Some people like to bleed it, but this isn't necessary. Remove the skin as soon as you get home so that the carcass can cool more rapidly. It's also not necessary to hang the carcass in 38° temperatures for three days, but the meat is easier to cut if this is done. You may wish to have your deer skinned and butchered by a professional. If you want to do this job yourself, you'll need a knife for skinning and a large hunting knife and meat saw for butchering.

After skinning the deer, saw the neck off at the shoulders. Separate the carcass in halves by sawing down the backbone from the tail to the base of the neck and proceed to butcher each half. I like to completely bone my venison, as it can be done more readily at home and it takes up less freezer space.

SANTA FE — Your taxes could be cut by the 1977 Legislature in the wake of a newly projected $87.7 million unappropriated state surplus next June 30.

The State Finance Department report to the Legislative Finance Committee showed an additional $25.5 million state income to the general fund than a report four months ago. The $87.7 million projected surplus is subject to legislative action next year.

Gov. Jerry Apodaca proposed a 25 percent tax on coal and uranium to the Legislative Energy Committee headed by Rep. John J. Mershon, D-Lincoln-Otero. Gov. Apodaca cited a possible cut in general state taxes, perhaps an exemption of food purchases from the gross receipts tax. Gov. Apodaca also called for aid to low income persons facing higher natural gas prices. He said he will introduce legislation to implement state controls on intrastate gas if necessary.

Apodaca said his proposed tax hike could offset an expected decline in oil and gas tax revenues. Meanwhile, the Oil Conservation Commission approved 78 new locations or intentions to drill in October in Southeastern New Mexico — Lea, Chaves, Eddy and Roosevelt Counties — down from 101 in October, 1975. For January-October this year new locations authorized by the OCC in Southeastern New Mexico total 564, down 66 from the same 1975 span. The OCC said New Mexico oil-gas activity has increased in recent months, however. The statewide total of active drilling rigs was 70 Oct. 25, up two over the same date last year. The number of New Mexico drillings rigs had lagged behind 1975 until recently.

Senate Republican Leader John Conway, Lincoln-Otero, says major issues of the 1977 Legislature, opening Jan. 18, "will be spending money, coal and uranium taxes, the governor's reorganization plan, energy legislation and a possible tax cut." A lawyer, Sen. Conway says: "We're getting closer to eliminating the gross receipts tax on groceries."

Sen. R.E. Thompson, D-Roswell, proposes a property tax credit for heads of households, partly to offset rising utilities bills. A lawyer from oil-producing Chaves County, Thompson would wipe out the 2.85-mill state share of property tax, set to yield $13 million this fiscal year, with the tax credit. City, county, schools and special district shares of property tax would be unchanged.

The Criminal Justice Study Committee approved a new death penalty bill for action by the legislature. A two-tiered system would be created. In a capital felony case a jury or judge would first determine guilt or innocence. If the verdict was guilty, the death penalty or life imprisonment would be assessed in a second proceeding. Senate President Pro Tem I.M. Smalley, D-Luna-Hidalgo-Sierra, is committee chairman. Rep. Tom Foy, D-Bayard, is vice chairman. Both legislators are lawyers.

Smokey Bear, America's living fire prevention symbol, was buried quietly in Smokey Bear Historical Park at Capitan near the place where he was found in May, 1950, as a badly burned cub clinging to a tree. Smokey died Nov. 8 of infirmities and old age in his retirement cage at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C. He was 26 — equivalent of more than 70 years in human terms and considered very old for a bear. Smokey was flown from Washington to Albuquerque in a pine box painted green. Then he was taken by truck to Capitan. Smokey was the symbol of fire prevention for 25 years.

Gov. Apodaca planned to name successors this week for two Valencia County commissioners who resigned. Commission Chairman Frank A. Sedillo and Commissioner Billie Joe Chavez resigned Nov. 8 after admitting culpability in alleged violations of the state Mileage and Per Diem Act. They were fined by Valencia County District Court and ordered to pay double the amount they received in unjustified mileage and per diem payments. Sedillo and Chavez are Democrats. Sedillo was beaten for re-election Nov. 2. Chavez had been re-elected.

U.S. Rep. Harold Runnels, D-Lovington, reported $6,576.71 individual expenditures in his successful general election campaign. In the total $6,176.91 was spent to rent a car and plane from Runnels' RunCo Acidizing and Fracturing, Lovington. New Mexico law does not require candidates to report contributions on individual reports. Political committee reports, due Dec. 2, must contain contributions and expenditures.

Ray Hughes, Deming, candidate for district judge in new Division 2 in the Sixth Judicial District (Grant-Hidalgo-Luna), reported $3,568.87 in individual expenditures. Other individual reports: Roberto C. Armijo, Las Vegas Republican, candidate for district attorney in the Fourth District (Guadalupe-Mora-San Miguel), expenditures, $1,985; Anne Tondre Williams, R-Los Lunas, candidate for the House in Valencia-McKinley District 8, receipts, $505; expenditures, $582.63; committee for Rep. Von Rus Crawford, R-Hidalgo-Luna — receipts, $925; expenditures, $826.84; Junio Lopez, Las Vegas Republican, candidate for the Senate in District 8 (Guadalupe-DeBaca-San Miguel), receipts, $981.07, and expenses, $981.07.

The Lujan Booster Club and Lujan for Congress 1976, backing U.S. Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., listed $62,465.07 in expenditures and $54,700.99 receipts.

by billie surmick

Pueblo Indians of New Mexico are facing cessation of food subsidies from the government because they "didn't properly fill out the request forms". A Ruidoso woman had her parked car smacked by a hit and run driver and the investigating officer requested she produce a driver's license — even though she was inside on the job, not outside driving her car. A lady written up in Readers' Digest had her purse snatched and the policemen confiscated a slot machine in which she kept her laundry money at her own home. And we all know rape victims are most often more harshly dealt with than the rapist. It's time to tear off the blindfold from that lady we call "Justice" by using a little common sense.

We named our German Shepherd "Delta" because she was flown to us via Delta airlines. We're thinking of renaming her "Southern Pacific" because she's gonna get ridden out of town on a rail. We allowed her to stay inside the house on a shivery, winter night and she wolfed down five pounds of thawing round steak to celebrate.

The television version of "Sybil", a story based on the case history of a woman with 16 different personalities, is an interesting and provocative study in the vast dimensions of the human mind. Some people seem hard pressed for just one personality.

Their job is picking up after us. We can think of few jobs less pleasant or rewarding than those in the sanitation department. We appreciate their efforts.

Mother Nature hassles us with icy roads and dangerous driving conditions. They're only made worse by people unprepared, unequipped and unconcerned with having their vehicles ready for winter weather.

Remember when "National Geographic" was about the only and most graphic anatomy book around? Now we're deluged with unabridged sex manuals and films. The latest philosophy says anything goes among consenting adults — all 27 of them. We've come a long way from puritanism, but did we take a wrong turn somewhere?

Another Thanksgiving rolls around a week from today. It's a good time to pause and reflect. If you think you don't have anything to be thankful for, be thankful for the things you don't have . . . like illness, loneliness, unemployment, grief, friendlessness . . .

VERY GOOD JOB, GUYS

Comes now the White Mountain Jeep Club, next in line for Stuph & Junk's highest accolade . . . the Dirty Sox Award . . . for good guys only . . . and upon the members thereof, it is my pleasure to so bestow this honor.

Seems a hunter became lost . . . a not difficult accomplishment in an eight section pasture in falling, blowing snow . . . and, after a reasonable time, his hunting pals summoned authorities for an assist.

Comes now the Jeep Clubbers . . . they were rousted out of their homes to meet at Ruidoso Police Department at 3 a.m., Sunday . . . properly briefed, 10 members in five 4-wheel drive vehicles drove 80 miles to the search area. Immediately they took out over selected routes . . . Rex Skellet and Herb Brunel found their man, maybe without the fanfare of the Mounties . . . and whisked him back to camp.

Now, the only compensation received by Jeep Club members is the satisfaction of a job well done . . . helping a fellow man out of serious trouble . . . they even had to pony up to buy the gas for their vehicles . . . and through it all . . . not a gripe . . . so, good on you, you good old guys . . . and may you gain a small measure of enjoyment from your Dirty Sox Award . . . for good guys only.

NEW CUT-OUTER-UPPER

To hear John Payne tell it . . . things are going to hell in his world . . . and to make matters worse, he doesn't know how to make things better.

Monday . . . after laying $7.45 on the line for a 3-lb. tin of coffee, John did have a word about prices . . . but I won't attempt to quote him . . . there are some words he used that I couldn't check the spelling on in my dictionary.

Anyhow . . . seems John's taking a new look at his status in life . . . especially in reducing by a gallon or three, his daily coffee intake. So John sez, sez he, sez: "I've cut out smoking and drinking and giving women the eye . . . and as soon as I can buy a new pair of scissors, I'm gonna cut out paper dolls . . . why, even doll cutting out costs money . . . seven buck pair of shears is shot after only two Sears catalogs . . . why, it's getting to where the only thing a fellow like me can rely on for enjoyment is memories . . . and it's getting to the point where I can't remember what it was I used to enjoy. But I can tell you this . . . I'm thinking of looking into the chicory supply . . . why at $7.45 for 3-lbs. of coffee, won't be long before it'll be cheaper to drink what I've cut out."

"Course John's biggest problem isn't shears . . . or keeping his paper dolls hand in hand . . . it's that its been so cold recent mornings that he can't get up into the wild blue yonder before the air gets bumpy . . . ergo, he's grumpy.

ICY STREET BLUES

If you think driving conditions were tough here Friday and Saturday . . . and that drivers were having trouble herding their vehicles down the street . . . or up the slopes . . . fret not . . . we had it easy . . . and if'n you doubt that, all you have to do is ask Bill Budens how the driving was in El Paso over the weekend. Only took him six Bromos and a pint of Maalox to get out of town.

The streets, he said, were slippery and the cars were slipping even more than the streets. On the street in front of the edifice from he was watching the drivers were two deep ruts . . . car width and about eight inches deep. Seems this driver came around the corner, Bill said, and got one wheel hooked in a rut . . . and came to a halt. Said driver sized up the situation . . . got out of his car and sized it up some more . . . got back in his car and put the gas pedal on the floor . . . and before Bill could hardly blink, down the street the driver proceeded . . . front wheels in one track, back wheels, literally belching up clouds of black smoke, in the other track . . . scared Bill so bad he called the bus depot . . . the fare scared him so bad, he took his chances . . . and made it home. "Next time I go to El Paso," he said, "it'll be after snow time . . . like July."

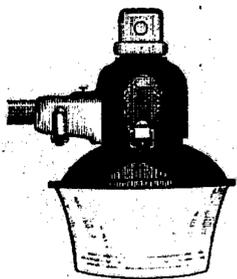

BRIEF BIT: The ice fishing was so good at Alto Lake Saturday that one fellow filled two gunny sacks in ten minutes and 13 seconds . . . on the nose . . . CD.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I feel that the Mayor's actions toward curbing the drug problem are commendable. Someone needs to take the initiative in such matters. However, I feel that his sight is misdirected. The problem is not in the sellers of drug related substances, but it lies in the buyers of such. The passing of laws is no real solution and fails to address itself to the real problem.

In my education and experience with young people from both the military and civilian communities on Guam and in the United States, I have found an aspect to the drug/alcohol problem amongst young people that has proven invariable. When young people don't find fulfillment in their home experience, they seek fulfillment in other experiences including, sex, alcohol, drugs, crime, etc.

The reasons for an unfulfilling home experience may include failure to admit parental failure; failure to take parental responsibility; failure to really communicate; failure to take proper parental authority in parent-child relationships; failure to face up to problems in the family; letting the school, church and community take over the discipline, training, entertainment, and fulfillment of our young people rather than relying upon them only to complement the home situation; lack of interest in each family member's affairs; becoming too involved in outside activity to participate in family activity; and the lack of a spiritual and emotional bond in the family. Other reasons may be listed, but these are the reasons I've encountered most often in dealing with the problems of young people.

Until this aspect to the drug problem in Ruidoso or anywhere else is dealt with, the drug problem will remain, no matter how many laws are passed. I wonder how the good Mayor plans to deal with this aspect.

I would like to hear the reactions of parents, young people, teachers, community leaders, and law enforcement officials to my letter. If they choose to answer, they may do so by writing me at the address below:

Sincerely,
Bradley W. White #1

Dear Editor:

There's something you need to know! There is an epidemic in this town and all over the world. We're the lucky ones, this only happens once every thirty years. Scabies.

"Bugs! You're kidding. I am too clean to get any filthy bugs."

It's taken two years for them to reach us way out here. But it's been happening on the east coast for the last two years and all over the world. I hear there's an epidemic in California and Alaska too.

I'll give you a little explanation. Scabies are tiny little bugs which penetrate into your pores and bite, at which point you first realize you have them. But you can dig till your heart's content, you'll never see one.

They head for the soft tissues in your body, your joints, behind your knees, your inside thighs, wrists and elbow joints and if you let them go long enough, they'll cover your whole body.

Scabies don't cause any illness or diseases, just itching and the itching can get quite intense.

Scabies are contagious, super contagious. Shaking hands with someone, rubbing against someone, anywhere, anytime. Scabies love warm bodies.

It's going to be hard to control, 'cause so many folks I've run into so far are too high above getting bugs — and have them.

Please, the reason I'm writing all this is so that we all don't have to get them again and again. I've burned my visitors out and because of the contact I have with people, will probably get them again. But I know how to take care of them and I will. Will you?

It's not something to be embarrassed about, it's a very real thing. The doctor in town I went to see told me that Scabies had been all over since the summer. The children in school have them and their families have them.

I asked why nothing had been said on the radio or in the paper. The doctor had nothing to say except that she got quite a number of patients a week about it.

I remember the old Hillbillies used to talk of the seven year itch. Well, this is the same trip.

OK, the number you need to do is, after you realize you're itching and then more past the head trips, "I can't have bugs, I am too clean", well, when ever you get to the point you want to do something about your itching, there's a medication "Quell", it's available by scrip only and it contains a pesticide, as we all know kills. Boy, but the skin on our bodies is a bit sensitive to DDD. So it's alive.

So wash in a hot bath, real well, scrub as hard as you can stand, then get out and apply Quell, from the bottom of your feet to your chin. Leave this medication on for 24 hours and repeat for three days. Then wait a week for the babies to hatch and do it again.

Scabies may stay alive in your clothing for up to four days. Keep your clothes clean and change your sheets frequently. Ivy Heymann

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Two Anniversaries
On November Nineteen
November Nineteen (that is tomorrow) will be anniversaries for Lake J. Frazier, and Eric Bruce.

On this day it will be fifty years to the day, when Lake J. Frazier was taken off the train on a stretcher in Roswell the city which nursed him back to health.
And it will be a milestone birthday for Eric Bruce, pioneer educator in Ruidoso, who now lives in the Ruidoso valley.

Lake J. Frazier
On the nineteenth of November fifty years ago, Lake J. Frazier arrived in Roswell after having made the long trip from the terminal ward in a veterans hospital back in Virginia. In those days tuberculosis was one of the illnesses that held mankind practically at its mercy.
Climate was the only hope.

The pulse of life beat low but steady in the brave heart of Lake J. Frazier. For, although carried off the train on a stretcher, he had arrived in the city of Roswell full of hope.

Before Lake had heard of Roswell, the bright little city on the banks of the Pecos River had gained a reputation for giving people a second chance at life. And Lake decided to come to Roswell after a very original method of selecting a healthful place to live.

"Back in the hospital," says Lake, "I began subscribing to newspapers from cities out west, and reading the obituary columns. It seemed that fewer people were dying in Roswell than most any place; so I got here as soon as I could."

He had made the right move. Lake was taken to the old Gillkerson Hotel, later the Norton Hotel. This building has long since been leveled to the ground and a parking lot put in its place. While Lake Frazier is hale and hearty, having lived in Roswell a full one-fourth the age of our great nation, during which time he has known great happiness, and many honors and the blessing of countless friends.

Thanks to the healthful climate of New Mexico and the pioneer friendship of the people of Roswell, Lake began to mend steadily. Gratitude to God filled his soul, and he longed to do something for his new staunch friends of Roswell, and for all mankind.

It was during the time of the depression and Lake, still much of the time in a wheel chair, opened his law offices. There would be a line of people extending from his door half way down the block of people needing help of all kinds.

There were many who could not pay for legal work and they would say, "Lake, I have no money. How can I pay you?"

And Lake would answer, "Oh, pay me some time if you can, and if you can not,
that is alright."

Lake's "Bread cast upon the waters returned many times over. The people urged him to run for mayor. People showed their support by electing him to four terms as the mayor of Roswell. And he became one of the outstanding mayors in the history of our state.

For years, Lake had a cabin in Ruidoso, and he was at one time city attorney. He was also one of the founders of the Ruidoso State Bank.

Lake Frazier Day
Proclaimed in Roswell November the nineteenth will be proclaimed "Lake Frazier Day" in Roswell by Mayor Jerry Smith. And a reception in his honor will be held by the veterans of Roswell.

The whole city will pay tribute to the man who out of the gratefulness of his heart for God's Blessings and the Christian kindness of the people of Roswell has devoted his life to making his adopted city an even better place in which to live.

A Bicentennial Tribute
It is fitting that the Anniversary of Lake's arrival in Roswell, and the tribute paid this beloved man, should fall during the thanksgiving season of the two-hundredth birthday year of our nation.

For this is a time to be grateful for one of our most cherished blessings, our healthful climate. Lake is one of many who came to New Mexico and regained their health in our magic climate and among our friendly people. So we rejoice with these people and give thanks to them for their contributions to the lasting benefit and happiness of our Land of Enchantment.

So today, we pay tribute to our Nation for its liberty and countless other blessings, our Southwest and New Mexico for its healthful climate and good people, and to Lake Frazier and all who came here and were restored to health and happiness.

Eric Bruce Hardly could you find a more youthful man for his years than Eric Bruce who celebrates his birthday tomorrow. I forget which one it is. But the passing of the years do not seem to diminish the sunshiney personality and the happy outlook on life of our long time friend.

Though he has spent the greater part of his life an educator, he is a man of many talents. He is a song composer having produced many good songs among which are "The Sunshine Flag", a song about The Flag of New Mexico; and "The Land of Pretty Soon" also about New Mexico. I have copies of these songs somewhere, and must find them. We need to bring these good songs to the public.

For years Eric was one of the main stays in The Lincoln pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy The Kid". He played the part of "The Old Peddler" which brought down the house year after year. And he played several voices among which were "Old Buckshot" and "Old Man Goss". Eric brought life to the show and joy to all who took part, year after year.

Word was received earlier in the week from Bones Wright that the Lions Club had planned a birthday cake for Eric on Tuesday.

We wish our dear friend, Eric, many happy returns of the day.
Is an early winter
Long and Cold?

Only the middle of November and outside it looks like January. The white clouds overhead matching the white snow on the ground. It looks as if Winter has moved in on the ground floor and intends to stay awhile. I have seen a winter begin early and then run into an interlude of fair weather right in the middle.

Jack Frost was supposed to give me the information on this, so maybe next time he will tell us what kind of a winter we are going to have. Meanwhile, this early snow is a great help to Mother Earth.

He fells trees, his wonders with wood to perform

BY CALE DICKEY
Editor

Nolon Hart takes his wood where he finds it . . . then he fells it, cuts it into slabs and chunks and hauls it home where, in his orderly, yet hodge-podge, workroom, he transforms black walnut, oak and juniper into treasures in wood that one day might be categorized as family heirlooms.

At 76, Nolon spends most of the hours in a week he so feels inclined to at his saw, lathe or everlastingly rubbing nearly finished wood items to bring out the grain.

Nolon caught the "wood working bug" way back in high school when I talked the superintendent into letting me take six years of manual training, that's what they called it then, and I started when I was in the seventh grade."

After high school, "I did the usual things, fooled around at a few jobs, got married then got a steady job with the Railway Express Agency at Lubbock,

Ruidoso wasn't new to him. "I'd been here many times and brother Bill seemed to like it so well, that I knew where I'd retire to."

The years drifted by from 1949 and Nolon gradually acquired a few wood tools, but didn't become seriously involved. Came 1966 and he drew up the plans for his present home and "with a little help, built it myself." He really didn't rush into this task and it wasn't until 1971 he finally tossed his square, level and hammer aside, and said, "It is finished."

This state of affairs brought about an undesired period of idleness for the immediate future. This disturbed Nolon to no end. It was then he recalled those beautiful black walnut trees along with some solid oaks and junipers he's often wished he'd Tex., and worked for them until I retired in 1949." During these years he didn't spend much time at his hobby, but kept hankering for the day when he'd have nothing but time . . . and when that day came, he came to Ruidoso.

had the time to slab up and get to work turning out lamps, tables, bowls, candlesticks . . . whatever came to mind.

Nolon started scrounging for wood working tools. He converted a metal lathe he found in a junk yard to wood. When he didn't like the price of tools he wanted, he made them. He has made 20 base plates and can keep 20 projects in various stages. "Keeps me from getting bored," he said. "Pardon the pun."

After he'd turned out a table or two, a few bowls and assorted pieces, he entered his first exhibit. "Found out people liked my work," he said. "I showed again and again, but quit four years ago. Had to work more than I wanted to to come up with fresh ideas."

As to his ideas, he gleans them from TV shows and magazines stressing interior designing. "I keep a sketch pad handy. Soon's I see something I like, I make a rough design, then put it away until I'm ready to turn it out on the lathe."

As to the lathe he rebuilt to suit his needs. It has a 16-inch capacity. Hardly big enough to turn out a 35-inch table top. Nolon did a little looking at the driving apparatus on his lathe, did a little doodling on his scratch pad and "pretty soon I had it fixed up so that I could turn better than 35 inches."

He has no favorite pieces, but tends to favor turning out rugged black walnut occasional tables. "If it's round, or if I can shape it on a lathe, I make it, whether it's a picture frame or a vase."

He has several large slabs at his disposal, awaiting his pleasure. "I cut the trees myself. I have four chain saws, 36, 31, 19 and 10 inches. Doesn't take me long to fall a tree, cut it up into chunks I can handle, load it into my pickup and get it home . . . Well, it's not quite that easy, but I manage."

He pointed at one table top. "See that grain, goes every which way. Look, right here," he jabbed a stubby finger at some swirls, "that's where a fork formed. If you study the grain you can tell how the tree and the branches grew."

Nolon delights in the lathe work and the shaping with other tools. What doesn't appeal quite so much is the incessant polishing necessary to develop the sheen that best displays the grain. He grinned. "I like to leave my work sort of rustic looking, like it might be a 100 years old. I've found that my friends like it better that way too."

So it is, at 76, Nolon's hobby "keeps me out of mischief" about six hours a day, "if I feel like it". When he starts on a large piece, like a table, "I get it done in about 72 hours and I tend to keep at it until it's finished."

Nolon doesn't know how old his lathe is . . . and doesn't care. "We're growing older together. Longer it runs, better shape it seems to be in. Wish I could say the same about me."

He grabbed a cloth and started rubbing the top of a black walnut table. "See how this brings the grain . . ." He stopped rubbing. Looked straight ahead. "Say, I saw a piece of walnut down there in the corner that I think'd be about right for

. . . He arose, started for the elevator just off his living room. Stopped. Turned around. "Come back again . . . anytime." And, with the whirr of the electric motor, he was gone . . . to shape another piece of wood.

INCESSANT RUBBING makes the table top shine and at the same time tends to make Nolon's back ache, "Just a mite".

THE FIRST POLISHING is always done on his lathe.

NOLON HART checks to see if the pieces of an antique lamp he's remodeling all fit as they should.

EVERYTHING'S IN its place, as Nolon decides that a piece of this lamp could stand a little more impromptu rubbing. "Always seems I'm never satisfied to leave well enough alone."

TOOLS are but a half-turn, half-step, from his lathe. If he can't find a specialty tool anywhere, or at the price he wants to pay, he gets busy and makes it himself, as he wants it.

Dear Mom and Dad—

We all have things we "ought to do," but never find the time. Like cleaning the attic, finishing that photo album, or writing letters to friends and family out-of-town. But any of a hundred interruptions will distract you. And your letter will wait . . . unfinished. Next time you want to say "I'm thinking of you," do it in the most personal way possible. A telephone call. With the economy and convenience of long distance, it's a pleasure. When you can't find the time for letter writing, remember the ease of long distance calling.

1976 Small Business Person of the Year

[No. 1 of a series]
Have you ever wanted to start your own business? It's still possible to realize this American dream.
Here's the story of one person who did. Duane D. Pearsall, President of Statitrol Corporation, Lakewood, Colorado was selected 1976 National Small Business Person of the Year by the U.S. Small Business Administration.
His company developed and manufactures ionization smoke detectors for use in homes and businesses. The main product is a battery operated fire detector, no bigger than a large mug, which attaches to the ceiling and sounds off at the first sign of fire. Introduction and acceptance of the innovative SmokeGard opened a new smoke alarm industry and paved the way for other companies to enter the field.

After eight years as a manufacturer's representative in the heating and air distribution industry, Pearsall started Statitrol in 1963. The company has grown from nothing to over 500 employees in its 12 years of existence. A new plant was constructed in 1970 and a major addition added in 1973.
Pearsall wants Statitrol to be known as a company employing above average people, making above average wages and building life saving products. He is generally referred to as Duane by all employees. Said one, "I have never seen him talk down to anyone within the company. There is a very close relationship, almost a personal relationship, between Duane and all the individuals within the company, right down to a new hire."

How successful Pearsall's management has been is shown by 1975 sales, which passed the $10 million mark, almost taking the company out of the small business category. 'SmokeGard' is also sold in 52 foreign countries.
The Small Business Administration provides counseling and financial, procurement and management assistance to small business people.

National Farm-City Week observance set

Farm and ranch leader, A. W. "Bill" Langenegger has reminded New Mexico citizens that November 19-25 is National Farm-City Week. Langenegger, president of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau and a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation Board of Directors, said National Farm-City Week is sponsored by Kiwanis International and is approved by the AFBF and state and county Farm Bureaus nationwide.
"National Farm-City Week," said Langenegger, "ends appropriately on Thanksgiving Day. This is no accident as we all have lots to be thankful for in our United States. We are indeed fortunate that we have a plentiful and secure food supply produced by an agricultural system that is the envy of the world."
Langenegger attributes the success of this nation's agriculture to research, education, the application of knowledge by farmers and ranchers and the opportunity to make a reasonable profit. "Our successful formula," he stated, "is accomplished through our Land Grant Colleges; our Experiment Stations; our Cooperative Extension Service and our food and fiber producers, bring the American consumer the purest food in the world at the most reasonable price. Our agricultural production is indeed the secret of our affluence and should serve as an international blueprint."
Langenegger said the theme of National Farm-City Week is "A Declaration of Interdependence." "The New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau," Langenegger said, "recognizes the interdependence of the food and fiber producers and the consumer every day of the year."

He said that the 9,600 volunteer member New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau offers ongoing programs at the state and county level which promote understanding between food and fiber producers and their city neighbors. These programs, he explained, include slide shows, farm-city banquets and picnics, and children and/or adult farm and ranch tours sponsored by Farm Bureau Women, Young Farmers and Ranchers or County Farm Bureaus.
"When I have to opportunity to speak to city people," the farmer-livestock feeder said, "I tell them that farmers and ranchers are pricetakers; not pricemakers; that production is the only cure for shortages and that profits encourage production; and that funds for agricultural research benefit the consumer as well as the producer."
"Since farmers and ranchers make up less than four percent of our national population," Langenegger continued, "they feel frustrated when legislation and regulations are enacted which reduces our food supply and raises prices to the consumer."
"In New Mexico," he said, "a few of these problems include: the increasing regulatory and economic strain on ranchers grazing livestock and serving as unpaid caretakers on public lands; the uncurbed spread of the destructive range caterpillar; the illogical regulations and priorities assigned to irrigation water use; and the exploding price of natural gas which could force abandonment of up to 50 percent of New Mexico's irrigated acreage."

The farm leader explained that only ruminant animals can convert grass, a renewable natural resource, into top quality protein food - meat. "Livestock grazing on our millions of acres of public lands has a valuable place in our food supply picture," Langenegger stated. "If current trends are not reversed ranchers may have to re-evaluate their investments in public land use," he said.
Langenegger said farmers can't help but get upset when water is deemed more important for recreation than irrigation. "Recreation," he said, "has its place in our lives but you can't eat it!"
He added that states like the populous California are raiding New Mexico's natural resources, especially natural gas. "Does it make sense to sell gas cheaper to heat swimming pools than for growing food?" he asked. "Our present natural gas policy may cost New Mexicans their irrigated agriculture - the basis of our state economy," he said.
"These are just a few of the things New Mexico's farmers and ranchers want to tell consumers about," said Langenegger. "Opportunities to talk to the consumer such as those provided by the Kiwanis-sponsored National Farm-City Week are welcome. It is essential," the farm leader stated, "that a greater understanding be developed between the city dweller and the farmer and rancher as we always have been and are now - necessary neighbors."

Bicentennial Notebook

BATTLE OF FORT WASHINGTON
In the middle of November two hundred years ago the future of the American cause looked more bleak than ever. Control of New York fell completely to the British and Washington was forced to retreat.
When Washington had evacuated Manhattan in late October to reestablish his forces at White Plains he had left a strong garrison at Fort Mifflin on Manhattan Island. On November 16, General Howe sent a force of 13,000 troops to take the fort. In the fierce battle about fifty Americans were killed and 250 wounded. More significantly, 2,818 Americans were captured when the fort fell. The British and Hessian losses amounted to 450 killed and wounded.
The British were aided in this battle because the plans of Fort Mifflin had been given to them by Ensign William Demont (or Dement) of the 5th Pennsylvania battalion who had deserted to the British on November 3.

Pressing his advantage two days later General Howe sent Lord Cornwallis across the Hudson with 4,500 men to capture Fort Mifflin. General Greene, the commander, was able to evacuate Fort Mifflin and avoid a battle, but he was forced to abandon much-needed military supplies.
With these major setbacks, Washington was very hard pressed to keep his army together and to put up an effective defense. Washington and Greene joined forces at Hackensack, New Jersey, but they had no time to assess their situation because Lord Cornwallis was nipping at their heels.
Therefore, Washington began a retreat across New Jersey on November 20. His main objective was to keep his army intact and to find a suitable place to make a stand. This was obviously a bitter pill for the proud Washington to swallow.

Although of a different sort, the problems faced by the Spanish in New Mexico were similar to those of Washington. In their efforts to defend the Southwest they were trying to do too much with a force far too small. Because of the territory to be covered, the Spanish could do little more than provide an illusion of power.
If the troops were stationed at strategic points and appeared to be strong, that might deter some of the native inhabitants from engaging in hostile actions. However, when battles did occur and the weakness of the Spanish forces was made apparent, the Indians were only encouraged to become more aggressive.
The forces that were available in New Mexico might have been more effective if they had had well-trained officers. Unfortunately, the officers were often not much better trained than the men they commanded. — Donald W. Whisenand, history professor, Eastern New Mexico University.

Futurity purse boost

The All-American Futurity, the world's richest horse race, will be getting even richer.
Al Rosa, general manager of Ruidoso Downs, reports several changes will be instituted in the All-American format to enlarge the gross purse from the current $1,030,000 to $1,280,000. "The changes will be extremely dramatic, since the new format will direct $1 million into the Labor Day finale alone, and will provide a remarkable winner's purse of $437,500," Rosa said.
He noted that the new purse structure "will surely focus increased national attention on the All-American Futurity, contribute to the fabulous growth of the race, and generally accrue widespread beneficial effects for the entire quarter horse industry."
The new format goes into effect with the 1978 All-American Futurity. Nominations for the '78 All-American close on Jan. 15, 1977.

Under the existing format, a ceiling of $1 million is placed on the All-American Futurity, and all money in excess of that amount is directed into the following year's All-American Derby. The current format also includes $30,000 in nominating and breeding awards, which means the ceiling is actually $1,030,000.
The current All-American purse is broken down this way: $766,000 for the Labor Day finale; $136,000 for the First Consolation; $66,000 for the Second Consolation; $32,000 for the Third Consolation.
The winner of the All-American currently receives $330,000. In the new format, $1 million will be disbursed in the Labor Day finale, with the winning owner collecting a tremendous $437,500.
The First Consolation will be swelled from $136,000 to $145,000; the Second Consolation goes from $66,000 to $72,500; and the Third Consolation is increased nominally from $32,000 to $32,500.

unchanged. Neither has there been any change in the supplemental payment of $6,250 by June 1, 1978; or $14,250 by Aug. 15, 1978.
There's also been no change in the pre-paid payment of $2,000. (In this case, an owner can make one payment at the original nominating time, and this will cover all nominating and starting fees for the futurity.)
Horses nominated to the All-American Futurity are also eligible for the following year's All-American Derby, providing that the $750 entry fee for the Futurity trials has been made.
To remain eligible for the Derby, two sustaining payments, and a Derby trial fee must be made. According to Rosa, the first Derby sustaining payment (which comes due on Dec. 1) has been increased from $100 to $200, and the second payment (Feb. 1) was hiked from $250 to $300. The Derby trial fee remains at $500.
The All-American Derby, starting with the 1979 running, will have one consolation instead of two. The purse distribution has been realigned to direct more money into the winner's share, and throughout the grand finale.
Indicative of the unprecedented purse value of the All-American Futurity is the fact the carry-over funds from the '76 edition — the amount which goes into the '77 Derby — amounts to around $608,000. This will put the 1977 All-American Derby purse at around $750,000.
