VOLUME NO. 45 IN OUR 32ND YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1977

EXTENSION ADVISORY COMMITTEE NAMED

County landfill site sought

The Lincoln County commissioners, during their Monday meeting, received a report from county manager Les Olson that he has so far been unable to find land in the Hondo Valley suitable for a new disposal area.

To date, county landfills have been located on property loaned for that purpose, but Olson said it may be necessary to lease land this time.

In line with that, Ignacio Torres of Hondo met with commissioners G. Lee Straley and George "Shorty" Stoneman — chairman John Sudderth was absent from the meeting — and offered to lease four acres for $1,500 a year.

Stoneman and Straley questioned the amount being asked, but said they want to "keep the option open" at least until their November 11 meeting.

Sudderth, who has been making a study of the operation of disposal areas and who said he would soon have a report ready to present to the commission, is expected to attend the November 11 meeting.

In other business, the commissioners — Received a visit from a delegation of Republican women from Lincoln County.

— Heard a complaint from Virginia (Mrs. Jack) Pogue, Captain, about roads in "five or six" subdivisions in the greater Capitan area.

She charged that the roads are so bad as to be impassable in some cases, and said she wanted an explanation from the Road Department superintendent and the District Attorney as to why the roads were approved by the county.

Straley and Olson said all the subdivisions in question were approved no later than 1972, prior to the time that subdivision regulations took effect and gave the county tighter control.

Olson said there are three alternatives: To revoke the plats, which can be done if lots are still being sold; to sue the subdividers; or for the county to rebuild the roads. All three procedures are costly, Olson said.

Straley said the commissioners would get written statements by their next meeting from the assistant District Attorney and the former road superintendent.

— Decided to table a proposal to earmark funds for a county 4-H youth agent, after extension agent Ralph Dunlap said there is no guarantee the state and federal governments will supply their shares of the funds.

Contrary to what had been expected at the last commissioners' meeting, the state's Board of Educational Finance met recently and failed to include in their 1978 budget monies for the proposed agent.

Dunlap said if the county set aside money for one-half the salary and budget — $8,000 — it was possible the state would follow suit.

— Appointed members to the Lincoln County Extension Advisory Committee, subject to their agreeing to serve. Members are —

In Ruidoso, Jim Hine, Mike Capps, Sarah Lee Beumer, Orby Neatherlin, Bob Scribner.

In Capitan, Charles Jones, Claudio Montoya, Daylene Huey, Don Stark.

In the Hondo-Glencoe area, Cecelia Booky, Elisa Pacheco, John W. "Punk" Cooper, Della Bonnell, Bert Pfingsten, Ernest McDaniel, Lorena Radcliff.

In Carrizozo, Polly Chavez, Mary Rich, Hoot Gibson, Sterling Spencer.

In Corona, Lee Sultemeier, Louie Erramouspe, Judy Chavez, Denise Byrd.

Dunlap said the group would be divided into four subgroups, to consider agriculture, home economics, community resource development and 4-H clubs, and that the first meeting will be November 1, 2 p.m., in the commissioners' room at the courthouse.

— Voted to sell, for $750, the 1946 International tanker truck now assigned to the Bonito Volunteer Fire Department. The buyer was W. D. "Doc" Stephenson, Alto Route, Capitan, and the truck will be turned over to him when the department's new pumper is delivered.

— Approved a commission for Larry Elkins as deputy sheriff. Elkins has been on the job since August.

— Voted to call for bids on culverts for the Road Department.

— Decided to purchase a mobile radio unit for Road Department superintendent Guy Henley, for use in his pickup.

— Voted to go through the state's Risk Management Division for workmen's compensation insurance, at an approximate cost of $4,654 for two years.

— Changed the date of their next regular meeting to Friday, November 11.

MISS SMIRNOFF, Lynda Massey of Albuquerque, handled promotional chores at the officials' stand and selected the winners in the Noon Lions Club's Teen Center contest. "This beautiful afternoon," she said of Sunday's action at Gateway Meadows, "is certainly for the mules."

Prescribed burn planned on Cedar Creek acreage

Prescribed burning along Cedar Creek Road will be conducted in the near future by the forest service, Smokey Bear District Ranger Ray Page announced Tuesday.

The area, stretching a mile up from the ranger station along the left side of Cedar Creek Road and about five chains or over 300 feet wide, will be burned as soon as weather conditions permit.

"We presently are monitoring the weather to see when it will be okay to burn," Page said, adding they will be authorized to start the project when there is 20 percent moisture in the dead fuels, 25 to 40 percent humidity, temperature no warmer than 60 degrees and the wind between 4 and 15 miles per hour.

"Usually the weather conditions are right in the morning," he said.

When authorized to begin the project, Page said forest service personnel will complete pretreatment plans including building a wet line or spraying with water vegetation they don't wish to burn and building a series of fuel breaks at two to three acre intervals along the burn area.

Next, they will burn a test plot to "see if conditions are really right," Page said. "If the fuels don't burn completely or if they burn too quickly, then the weather isn't right."

Page said when the burn actually is begun adequate forest service personnel and tankers will be present to control the fire.

In last month's prescribed burn, piles of collected debris were destroyed. The Cedar Creek project will be broadcast burn or running ground fire.

The area to be burned was constructed as a fuel break about eight or nine years ago, Page said.

"Brush and trees have accumulated and the break is less effective," he said.

"Our objective is to reduce the fuels to maintain the fuel break."

Page said small dead trees, dormant grass and heavy reproduction of the forest or thick stands of young trees will be burned.

Rotary's enchiladas fed to record crowd

Seven hundred patrons were served Tuesday at the Ruidoso Rotary Club's semi-annual enchilada feed at the Elks Lodge.

The crowd was, a Rotary spokesman said, "an all time record."

Rotarians prepared and served the enchiladas with club members' wives preparing desserts that were sold separately.

Proceeds from Enchilada Day will go to the Teen Center building fund. Supporting the Rotary in advance ticket sales were the Noon and Evening Lions Clubs.

"I want to thank everyone for their generous support of our Enchilada Day," Rotary president Ollie Cuddy said, "and for the enthusiasm and support displayed for the Teen Center which is scheduled to be completed next year to serve our area youth."

CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW BRIDGE on Paradise Canyon Road, a Village of Ruidoso funded project, will continue for about two weeks. The Rio Ruidoso will be diverted briefly for installation of three culverts and road resurfacing. The bridge, severely damaged in a recent storm, was patched by the village to allow only vehicles weighing under five tons to cross. The project includes straightening the curve that has made the bridge dangerous when wet or snow covered.

Scenic vehicle windows illegal

Scenes on decals, aluminum or other material cannot legally be placed in the window of any motor vehicle, area law enforcement officials said Wednesday.

The scenes, most commonly used in pickups, allow one-way vision out of the vehicle. When a police officer has stopped a vehicle, he cannot see into it through the scenes, which also limits the driver's vision of what is behind his vehicle.

New Mexico statutes ban the scenes: "Windshields must be unobstructed and equipped with wipers — windows must be transparent — No person shall drive any motor vehicle with any sign, poster or other non transparent material upon or in the front windshield, side wings or side or rear windows ... which obstructs the driver's clear view of the highway or any intersecting highway or a view from the exterior into the interior of the vehicle. This provision shall not apply to removable ventilated screens which are not permanently affixed to the window glass."

Lincoln County Deputy Sheriff Ted Hull said all persons with such scenes in their vehicles should remove them, and that "citations will be issued."

Mule-O-Rama entertains 8,000 fans

Mule-O-Rama 1977 is history and, manager Ray Reed said Wednesday, "It made mule history. The El Macho Grande, a match race, drew four entries at $5,000 per entry in a winner-take-all event won by Ruby, a California speedster."

Total purses paid in all events approximated $45,000 for the three days of Mule-O-Rama and attracted, Reed said, "8,000 spectators for the races and show events. That turnout, considering this was our second annual show, was tremendous and clearly shows that mule events are a crowd pleaser."

Ruby's time of 18.7 seconds for 300 yards out of starting gates is the fastest time recorded for mules for that distance. This bay mare race mule is 10 years old and has a record of 30 wins out of 34 starts.

In Sunday's The Rancheros over 400 yards, Flip Wilson beat Ruby in a time of 23.2 on a very fast track. Each mule in the race carried 185 pounds.

"Just to prove you never know about mules," Reed said, "John Harris of La Plata bought Flip Wilson at a sale for $39."

Race enthusiasts, after Flip Wilson's defeat of Ruby Sunday, had the opportunity, Reed said, "to buy this mule for $45,000 with Harris laughing at offers of $30,000 cash."

In other events:

— Flip Wilson was the champion model mule of the show.

— Mary, owned, shown and raced by Roxie McIntosh of Paso Robles, California, was champion all-around mule. She won two one mile races, placed second in barrel racing and won the pole bending.

— L.C., owned by Robert Knulik of Lakewood, was reserve all-around mule.

— Tina, owned by Al Dodds of Sanger, California, was the champion show mule. She was fourth in cutting and third in poles.

— Spike, owned by Pershing Young of Tucson, Arizona, was reserve champion show mule.

— Belle Starre, owned by H. Greenwood of Carlsbad, was champion running mule. Out of seven starts, she won once, was second four times, third twice and fourth once.

— Lula Bars, owned and shown by Pete Smith of Andrews, Texas, won the cow cutting. After winning the class, Smith pulled Lula Bars' bridle off and worked a cow without ever losing the advantage to the cow.

— Festus, owned by Grady Pierce of Clovis was second in cutting with third won by Harry, owned by Buddy Nicholson of Matador, Texas, also working without a bridle as the turn back mule.

— Okie, owned by H. Hershberger of Tehachapi, California, was reserve champion runner with three wins, two thirds and one fourth. Okie also won the Ruidoso Downs stakes race.

— Willie Nelson, owned by Al Dodds, won the El Machos y Mulas.

— Heading and heeling was won by Walter Biebell and Robert Higgins in 15.3 seconds, with Walter Freeman and Roxie McIntosh tallying 16.4 and Jimmy Ballard and John Echeverry 17.5.

Reed said that the financial support by U.S. Tobacco Company, Game Racing Stables and Pizza Hut of Albuquerque, George Middleton's Lady Bug's Moon of St. Louis, Missouri, Clarence Scharbauer Jr., of Midland, Texas and Horse Shoe Club of Las Vegas, Nevada, "insured the success of this year's Mule-O-Rama."

Reed also said, "The way everything worked out this year, from the mules to the fiddling and the mule sale where we averaged $500 a head for 37 head with H.F. Spikes of Vernon, Texas, paying $1,750 for the top mule has the association working right now on Mule-O-Rama 78."

Pictures taken at Gateway Meadows appear in other pages of this issue.

Indian tribes' sovereignty to be aired

The sovereignty of Indian tribes in New Mexico will be the subject of a 12:30 p.m., Sunday telecast over KOAT-TV, Channel

7, Albuquerque.

Panelists will be Senator John Conway-R, Alamogordo, Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, Del

Lovato, chairman of the All-Indian Pueblo Council and Senator Les Houston-D, Albuquerque. Dick Knipping of KOAT-TV will be the moderator.

Warriors meeting Mavericks here

The Ruidoso High School Warriors will play their third district AA game at 7:30 Friday night, meeting the Lordsburg Mavericks in Warrior stadium.

"It'll be a tough football game," assistant coach Darrel Stierwalt said. "If we want to get into the playoffs then this is a must-win game for us. The kids are mentally ready. They know they have to win. But injuries may hurt us."

Starting offensive/defensive guard Bill Morrison sustained a shoulder injury against Tularosa and will be replaced by Mark Williams, defense, and Steve Cox, offense.

Starting tailback and secondary defensive player Josh Enzor may play Friday night although he has not practiced this week, having sustained a bruise on his thigh.

"I expect a very close ball game. It all depends on Lordsburg's Chano Talavera. If we can keep him out of the end zone, we'll be ok; if we don't, then we're in trouble."

Talavera, who is the leading scorer in the state, is a 5 foot 3 inch, 125 pound "speedster," Stierwalt said.

"If he ever breaks on a kickoff or punt, he's gone. We can't catch him from behind."

MARY HERSHBERGER RODE RUBY to victory in Saturday's $20,000 winner-take-all "El Macho Grande," history's richest mule race. The Tehachapi, California, woman made the victory ride look easy as Terry Lipham riding Hot Idea to win the $1 million All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs Labor Day.

RUIDOSO NEWS staffers show off awards won at the recent annual convention of the New Mexico Press Association in Carlsbad. Cale Dickey, editor, left, holds the first place award for community service. That award was given for the series of articles and editorials that The News published leading to repaving Sudderth Drive. Carmen Edwards, advertising manager, second from left, garnered two awards: a first for best black and white advertisement, and a third for best color advertisement. Willard Arnold, production manager, holds the third place general excellence award, a large portion of which is based on typography and presswork. Emily Lee Phillips, right, reporter, holds two third place awards: one Emily won for feature writing, and the other for community service for her series on taxes in Lincoln County.

FLIP WILSON proved that Ruby can be beaten in Sunday's Rancheros Purse, a 400 yard sprint for $2,000. Ruby won the $20,000 match race Saturday, with Flip Wilson coming in second. Holding the winner's blanket, left, Bill Ward, Mule-O-Rama president and Fern Sawyer, right. This race proved to be a payoff event for Ruby's eager backers.

New wilderness areas may be opened nearby

Over 110,000 acres in Smokey Bear District of Lincoln National Forest have been inventoried as roadless areas as a result of a series of recent public evaluations, a forest service spokesman announced.

The inventory of roadless and undeveloped areas originally included six areas in the district, but only four were determined as suitable following the public evaluation. They are:

— Carrizo Mountain located approximately 11 miles northeast of Carrizozo and including 18,220 acres of forest land. It is an "area of moderate to precipitous mountains dominated by the 9,650 foot Carrizo Peak ... (It is a) good habitat for bear, deer and elk (and is) traversed by forest service trails," the inventory said.

— Tucson Mountain, which includes 18,940 acres of national forest, is located approximately 13 miles east of Carrizozo. "The area is characterized by rolling to moderately steep hills covered with juniper, piñon pine and ponderosa pine in dense to open stands. Tucson Mountain is 8,308 feet at the highest point," the inventory said. The area also has one spring and a wildlife watering tank and provides habitat for wild turkey and mule deer. It is also traversed by trails.

— Capitan Mountains, including about 45,570 acres of forest, is located adjacent to Capitan. It is "very rugged country, rising abruptly from the surrounding grasslands to a knife-like crest. (It is a) good deer and bear habitat" which also will sustain birds, including eagle, and small animals, the inventory said.

— Areas bordering the White Mountain Wilderness also were inventoried. The 20,940 acres includes "four separate units on the periphery of the White Mountain Wilderness. Conditions range from desert to sub-alpine. Involves important large and small animal habitat (and) some past Indian activity is indicated," the inventory said.

"Between now and next season, the areas will be evaluated further to determine if they should be studied further for recommendation as wilderness areas," Smokey Bear District Ranger Ray Page said.

"In the meantime, the areas will be managed so as not to detract from their wilderness value."

"Generally, the physical characteristics of the areas will not be degraded," he said. "Specifically, we will maintain existing facilities and improvements; maintain and build trails; maintain roads, but not allow new ones to be built; allow fences and troughs for grazing; and won't allow timber harvesting or vegetable conversion."

Areas which were inventoried as roadless, but found ineligible for wilderness status were:

— An area in the Jicarillas which had "cultural improvements and juniper control in evidence."

— West Mountain which had "roads, and evidence of wood cutting and logging which detracted from its wilderness value."

Clown workshop held

A group of students and teachers learned about the fine art of clowning October 15, when a clown workshop was given by Hobbs drama teacher Donna Erwin at Ruidoso Skateland.

Three of Erwin's students—Denese Cox, Danny Alexander and Allen Noble — accompanied her, appearing in full makeup and costume. The three created individual makeup styles for a number of students.

A history of European and American clown makeup and costume styles, the sensitivity and ethics governing clown behavior was presented.

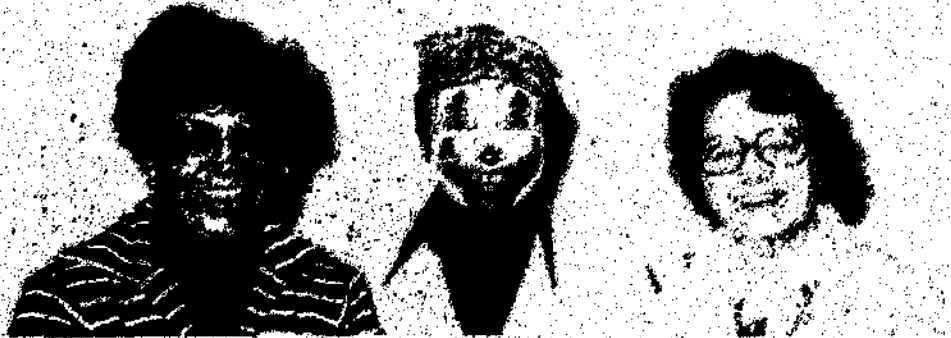

Erwin's students have performed in many shows, parades and charity events in southeastern New Mexico, and most recently, 31 clowns from the Hobbs High School group appeared on the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon in Roswell, on KBIM-TV.

Clowns will be included in the Christmas Show, scheduled in mid-December, by the Rollerette Skating Teams. The Rollerettes are in rehearsal weekly at Skateland, and new members will be welcomed through the weekend.

With membership closing October 24, interested girls in grades one through 12 should call Skateland, 257-2501.

PETS OF THE WEEK at Ruidoso Animal Control are a 9-week-old male Labrador/Airedale, left, and a 7-week-old female huskie/German shepherd. They may be adopted by calling animal control officer Mike Hernandez Jr. at 336-4791 or by going to the office located one eighth mile west of Highway 37 on the Gavilan Canyon turnoff in a red building.

Three youths arrested on theft charges

Quick action by Criminal Investigation Division (CID) officers and Ruidoso policemen Thursday night resulted in the arrest of three El Paso, Texas, male juveniles on charges stemming from four residential burglaries.

Within two hours after the first burglary call was received by the Ruidoso police dispatcher, the three boys were each charged with one count of receiving stolen property valued at over $100 and two counts of receiving stolen property valued at under $100.

A CID spokesman said that all of the property stolen from one house was recovered shortly after the burglary was reported and that the investigation into the other missing property is continuing. The CID officer said that three counts each of larceny and burglary are pending against the suspects.

The three boys were taken to Lincoln County Jail early Saturday morning, to be held for a detention hearing in Carrizozo October 20.

A fourth juvenile from El Paso, female, was not charged in the stolen property counts. She was held for her parents on a runaway charge and turned over to them early Friday.

Braves smash Tularosa 42-0

The White Mountain Middle School Braves defeated the Tularosa eighth grade team 42-0 at their October 13 game.

"Tularosa was a good team," coach Tom Culbertson said. "The score doesn't show their ability."

"A lot of their team were seventh graders who'll be tough next year."

Scoring the 42 points were: — Scott Neal with four touchdowns and a two-point conversion. "One touchdown was a kickoff return and another was a punt return," Culbertson said. The other two touchdowns were sweeps to the left.

— Alberto Fierro with two touchdowns, both sweeps to the right.

— Don Nunley with a two-point conversion.

— Stuart Bass with a two-point conversion.

Culbertson also said Nunley had two interceptions and Ty Frederickson had one.

The defensive line, led by Kenneth Burgess, Bobby Knox, Mike Knowles, Kinn Bradley and Ronald Bell, were complimented by Culbertson for keeping Tularosa scoreless.

The offensive line, led by Chris Sanchez, Leon Botella, John Cram, Chris Lopez, Mark Mobley and Lee Nunley, also "did a great job," setting up the sweeps on which Fierro and Neal scored.

The Braves' next game will be at 2 this afternoon in Alamogordo.

"It'll be the hardest game this year. They'll have to do everything right to win," he said.

"I'd like to encourage parents and others to attend, we need the support."

Service philosophy sets housekeeping pace

BY EMILY LEE PHILLIPS

Staff Writer
From a college math major to heading up the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVH) Housekeeping Department may seem to be a jump, but it makes sense to John Phillips, the person who did it.

For one thing, it was while he was studying math at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge, Massachusetts, that he did his first custodial work—filling in for vacationing custodians at MIT's seven-story biology building.

But a career in math did not make a great deal of sense to John ("I was more interested in people") so after a year at MIT, he transferred to Boston University (BU), studying philosophy. While he was there, he gained his first hospital experience, working as a cashier at the BU Medical Center.

Later, John spent a couple of years as a medical records clerk at the huge Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) in Boston, until his move in 1975 to Ruidoso.

Soon he decided that he would like to work at RHVH, but his first stop there was as a patient, suffering a broken leg as the result of a hit-and-run accident.

"I really wanted to work at the Ruidoso hospital... This job was an answer to a prayer," John said.

Like several other department heads at RHVH, John filed an application one day and was chosen for a job the next, even though he was slightly surprised to find himself at the helm of the Housekeeping Department. He has been there since October 18, 1976.

How does a math and philosophy student from Boston deal with hospital housekeeping in Ruidoso? "All hospital personnel have a commitment to serving other people as well as to their jobs," John said. He likes that.

He heads up a seven-person department at RHVH, the crew having been somewhat reduced by budget pressures, as have other departments.

Members of the Housekeeping crew are

John, who serves as lead custodian as well as department head. He occasionally fills in for the other workers.

— Verna Walker, in charge of the laundry operation and a veteran of eight years at RHVH. "We do have a commercial linen service which takes care of some items," John said, "but much of the hospital's laundry is washed and dried by Verna."

— Four maids, with Prescilla W. Randolph as head maid, responsible for coordinating the maids' work. Josephine Baca — another veteran of a good many years with the hospital — Lela Baca and Effie Popejoy are the other maids.

— One additional custodian. Chris Volquardsen, who has held the post, is leaving RHVH this week to join the city Water Department. Eliseo Trujillo has replaced him.

"The housekeeping of a hospital is very different from the housekeeping of any other sort of place," John said. "For one thing, we clean not only what looks dirty, but we're after the germs—invisible—as well. The solution we use for most cleaning purposes, including windows, is a detergent/disinfectant."

"Just as the germs are invisible, the housekeepers are supposed to be invisible... We try to time our movements and place our equipment so as not to interfere with the movement of others... We're constantly dodging people."

Evasion is not always possible, however, so when the housekeepers mop a hallway, they put up "Caution" signs and leave a dry aisle for passage.

"A lot of housekeeping functions are done on demand," John said. "When a patient room is vacated, for instance, then the maids must proceed to give it a thorough cleaning before another patient can occupy it. This is in addition to the routine room cleaning which proceeds on schedule."

"Sometimes, especially in cases of late patient dismissals, the maids find themselves cleaning a room for the second time that day."

Time must be taken out of the housekeepers' schedules to cope with spills, water flooding corridors or other areas, or giving a thorough scrubbing to a room just vacated by a person with an infectious disease, such as meningitis, as well as other mishaps.

For the last specified procedure, the housekeepers don protective paper gowns similar to the gear they wear for cleaning the surgery area. It covers them from head to foot—includes a paper helmet and "booties"—and gives them a resemblance to paper astronauts. For cleaning the nursery, the housekeepers wear gowns, but not the helmets or shoe covers.

The new private rooms pose a special problem, being carpeted. Regular room cleaning must include carpet sweeping and vacuuming, and when the patient leaves the rig is shampooed with a sanitizing solution.

The corridor outside, also carpeted, receives similar treatment. It is shampooed by rotary buffers, using spun-yarn pads.

"Housekeeping is basically a day-shift department," John said, "but certain tasks require returning after hours, such as cleaning the kitchen walls, ceiling and some fixtures... Occasionally the custodians are called in at odd hours to wash down a contaminated room."

Something else Housekeeping does, and which former RHVH patients should be aware of, is to maintain the hospital's lost and found department.

Articles left behind by patients are bagged and labelled by the maids, and kept by Housekeeping until the patient claims them.

Responsibilities which do not fall to Housekeeping, John said, include the cleaning of specialized equipment and of the Operating Room. Just about every other part of RHVH is tended by Housekeeping.

"In performing their duties, Housekeeping personnel are bound to come in contact with patients," John said. "And they, along with everybody else here, are responsible for maintaining good public relations."

The less direct role of the housekeepers in "good public relations" is to keep the hospital shining. Jean Morgan, director of nursing at RHVH, said the cleanliness of the facility is one of the first things people notice when they come in.

John sees his crew's work as vital to the well-being of the patients, the staff and the building alike, but said also that "Cooperation from other departments is essential to us, in order for us to provide necessary services."

Could anybody walk in off the street and set to work as a good hospital housekeeper? Not really, John said crew members receive considerable on-the-job training and take part in "a continuing program to make them aware of new products and efficient techniques."

Next: The Maintenance Department.

Altrusa works against illiteracy

The Community Service Committee of the Ruidoso Altrusa Club will award a $25 United States Savings Bond November 2 to the child who read the most books in the summer "bookworm contest," sponsored by the committee at the Ruidoso Public Library.

The club planned the bookworm project in conjunction with a campaign launched by Altrusa International, "Action for Literacy." The goal was to stimulate summer reading by Ruidoso students, and the method was that every student who completed a book wrote a brief report on a bookworm section, to be added to the bookworm creeping around all four walls of the library lobby.

Another Altrusa International project, in line with the theme, is to offer support to women students in various countries through a Grants-in-Aid Program. Women graduate students from areas of the world in need of skilled manpower are provided with needed emergency funds, enabling them to complete their education and return to their home countries. Since the start of the program, some $1 million has been given to nearly 2,000 women.

October is Grants-in-Aid month for Altrusa, when members and friends are invited to participate in the program.

Persons wishing to contribute or knowing of a foreign student in need of funds should contact a member of Altrusa's International Relations Committee — Monese Barron, June Rawley, Florence Wilson or Louise Achuff.

Members of Altrusa's Community Service Committee — Gladys Glean, Ginger Huband, Thelma Jennings and Shaula Cull — encourage members of all local clubs to "participate actively in service projects designed to meet specific local needs as well as to work towards improved literacy."

The committee noted that over 19 million Americans are illiterate to some extent. Additional projects involving Spanish language study and foreign high school students are being planned by Altrusa.

ALTRUSA MEMBERS planning events to bring attention to the Altrusa International campaign, "Action for Literacy," include, left to right, June Rawley, Monese Barron, Shaula Cull and Louise Achuff.

Couple to celebrate 50 years of marriage

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. "Cass" Stegall of Goodland, Texas, and Ruidoso will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary October 28.

A reception in the couple's honor will be hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stegall II, and by their niece, Madalyn Galt Albus of Baytown, Texas, at the Frank Stegall home in Goodland Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

The former Francis Gaddy married Cass Stegall October 28, 1927, in a civil ceremony at Silverton, Texas. He was a rancher, she a farmer's daughter and both grew up during the pioneering days. At one point, Francis Gaddy was the only student in the area's school. Classes were held at the Figure Two Ranch until she went to Lubbock to complete her education.

The Stegalls farmed until their retirement, and have two children, daughter LaVon Stegall and son Frank Stegall II, as well as two grandsons, Brad and Brett Stegall. All live in Goodland.

For their retirement, the Stegalls are building a cabin on the river near the intersection of Sudderth and Mechem Drives.

MR. AND MRS. F. L. STEGALL

NEW MEMBERS OF Altrusa's information committee are, left to right, Jane Deyo, Anne Wilson, Betty Montero, chairman, and Linda Swander. The committee, which meets twice monthly, will initiate new members, orient present members, arrange workshops for new officers and committee chairmen, install new officers and publish the newsletter.

Harris-Odum wedding set

Mrs. Lola Harris of Ruidoso Downs announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter Cindy Sue to David Russell Odum, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Odum of Liberty, Texas. Cindy is also the daughter of the late E. O. Harris.

The couple plans a November 26 ceremony at Community United Methodist Church in Ruidoso.

A 1970 graduate of Ruidoso High School, the bride-to-be received a BA in psychology from the University of Utah in 1974. She is nearing completion of a master's degree in home economics specializing in family studies and child development from New Mexico State University (NMSU) in Las Cruces.

Cindy, who was a Vista volunteer for one year as a preschool coordinator for migrant programs, presently teaches preschool handicapped children at the Open Door Center in Las Cruces.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of Liberty High School and a 1976 graduate of the University of Houston with a BS in electrical technology. An employee of the physical science laboratory at NMSU, he works with mid high school students at University Methodist Church in Las Cruces and is a choir member.

Tucker ducks in oil to Dallas Ducks Unlimited

Ruidoso artist Scott Tucker, 20, donated one of his latest oil paintings, "The Twilight Roost," to the Dallas chapter of Ducks Unlimited, a conservation organization.

The painting, which was auctioned at the October 5 meeting for $2,000, is a combination of scenes Tucker has seen in Colorado and Texas.

Represented in galleries in Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico, Tucker will have a one-man show from 2 to 5 p.m., November 13 in the First State Bank of Duncanville, Texas.

Although he is best known for watercolors, he recently began work in oils and bronze.

Tucker was one of the court artists for the Cullen Davis trial with his pastels published in the Dallas Morning News and the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram and broadcast on the Dallas/Fort Worth television stations.

A 1978 graduate of Nederland High School in Duncanville, Tucker was an honor graduate and a member of the national honor society.

MESCALERO COMMUNITY HEALTH representatives practice the proper emergency treatment for a person suffering a broken neck in a swimming pool accident. At the right, with bandages around his neck, is Jack Crowe, director of Amerindian Health & Safety Consultants. Amerindian is putting on three demonstrations of emergency medical care for members of the Mescalero Apache Tribe involved with police and other tribal agencies.

ONE HAND ON the chest, one on the back is the way to roll the victim of a swimming pool accident, when you suspect a broken neck. Charles R. Thigpen, project director for Amerindian Health & Safety Consultants, Albuquerque, demonstrated the technique last week in Ruidoso for a group of Mescalero community health representatives.

RUBY'S WINNER'S BLANKET in the $20,000 "El Macho Grande" was courtesy of the Mule Days committee of Bishop, California. Participating in the ceremony, holding a blanket at left, Pat Morgan, Bishop's county fair manager;

NO MOSCOW MULE was served this thirsty mule by Miss Smirnoff, Lynda Massey of Albuquerque, but there was no doubt but that this particular mule enjoyed the cup of ice cubes.

And Miss Smirnoff kept right on acting as though she wouldn't be bitten, but she did stand loose during the time she was doing her stint as benefactor.

SUNDAY'S OUTRIDER, leading the mules to the racing starting line, was Nogi's Fern Sawyer, shown voicing a strong opinion to a Mule-O-Rama official. She also judged the mule cutting with expertise and, contestants said, with aplomb.

CLEARING THE FIVE FOOT GATE from a standing start was no trick at all for Cajun Miss owned by Matt Harsha of Queen City, Missouri. What's more, in four jumps, she cleared it like a champion Olympic high jumper, without once clicking her back feet on the iron.

Young students explore nature

Classes in the Ruidoso School System have gone on a variety of field trips in the past few weeks. They include:

— White Mountain Middle School's learning center students with sponsor Eileen Hope will see the animals used for the filming of the television series "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams," pick picnics and have a picnic lunch tomorrow afternoon. This will be the first of a series of field trips for the class of 19 students.

— Julie Shelton's fourth grade class at White Mountain Elementary School also visited the "Grizzly Adams" animals, got autographs from the actors in the series and picnicked in the Bonito area Monday. Another class at the elementary school recently toured the post office.

— Both the morning and afternoon kindergarten classes at Nob Hill School, approximately 80 students, walked through the forest from Two Rivers Park to look for autumn leaves October 12. Parents and "mother aides" accompanied the children on the field trip to observe the change of seasons. The children made "leaf people" from their collections upon returning to school.

During the ride, the weather was perfect with a tail-wind both days. Mike Fannin monitored the 18 wheelers with his hand-die mounted CB radio.

JV fails to Roswell

The Ruidoso High School junior varsity football team was defeated by the Roswell High School ninth grade team 12-0 in their October 13 game.

"It was a pretty good ballgame," coach Don Williams said. "They made two mistakes in the first few minutes of the first quarter which led to two touchdowns by the other team."

"In the last three quarters, the two teams played even."

Williams commended defensive players Greg Lane and Mike Dale and offensive players Steven Pietsch and Russ Pior.

Line coach Bruce Hancock commended defensive free safety and wingback Joe Almager and offensive right tackle and defensive outside linebacker Randy Wynn.

"Both are aggressive players who read (the plays) well," Hancock said.

The junior varsity's next game will be at 4 p.m., October 27 in Truth or Consequences.

"We expect a good game," Williams said.

"T or C always plays good tough game, but we're evenly matched," Hancock said.

Yours and Ours

BY ROBERT E. HUBER

SANTA FE — New Mexico farmers are upset over a 75-year-old federal law that restricts farm size if federal irrigation is employed.

Headed up by the N. M. Farm and Livestock Bureau, an action group met this week in Denver to formulate strategy for the Bureau of Reclamation hearing on the subject in November.

Attending the meeting were Allen Grant of the American Farm Bureau and Commissioner Keith Higginson of the Bureau of Reclamation. Bob Porter of the N. M. Farm and Livestock Bureau said economists advised farmers attending the meeting with an eye toward developing a strategy to combat the enforcement of the old law.

The old law says farmers using water from federal projects can only farm 180-acre tracts. A law suit in California last year declared the law valid, and the Bureau of Reclamation called for hearings on the subject.

The farm group apparently will attempt to change the old law to increase the size of acreage.

The Secretary of State's quarterly report on voter registration in New Mexico continued to show a two-to-one ratio statewide on Democrats versus Republicans.

No counties in the state registered more Republicans than Democrats, the report said, which makes many observers wonder how Republicans ever get elected in this state.

But New Mexico congressmen have a lopsided three-to-one ratio of Republicans over Democrats, and the New Mexico Legislature has 31 Republicans sitting in both chambers.

Grant County (Silver City) has the highest lopsided ratio with eight-to-one Democrats over Republicans, and yet the two house members, Thomas P. Foy and Murray Ryan, are split Democrat and Republican.

Other counties with right ratios favoring Democrats are Eddy County 5-1, Lea County 5-1, Quay County 4-1, Rio Arriba County 5-1, Roosevelt County 5-1, and Santa Fe County 3-1.

Gov. Jerry Apodaca has appointed Taos Pueblo resident Jerry Cordova as his Intergovernmental Liaison for Indian Affairs with direction toward employment, education, legislation and administration activities.

Cordova, 32, is a graduate of the University of New Mexico and formerly was deputy director for the Commission on Indian Affairs.

G. M. Jones of Watrous has been selected director of the State Livestock Board, replacing Lee S. Garner, who will retire in January. The board also appointed Ray Barrett of Bernalillo as deputy director. Jones has been a livestock inspector since 1960, and Barrett has been meat inspector since 1966.

The Socorro Community Center Inc. has submitted an application for $10,000 in Social and Rehabilitation Service funds for a sheltered workshop and activities center for developmentally handicapped adults in that city.

The Otero County Mental Health Association has submitted a $25,355 federal grant from the Public Health Service for drug and alcoholic abuses outpatient services for Lincoln and Otero counties residents. The funds generally will be used for a counseling center in Alamogordo and will be matched by $79,625 in state funds.

The Curry-Roosevelt Council on Alcoholism is seeking a $23,851 federal grant matched by $17,101 in state money to increase services to the area. The money will be used to continue the present council activities and to expand services.

The Valencia County Commission along with several other counties, including Rio Arriba, will begin special first offender programs aimed at drug abuse rehabilitation. Valencia will spend $8,500 in state funds and $8,500 in local money. The Espanola Valley program will spend $7,705 in state funds. Other programs are: Los Alamos Family Council Inc. $10,000, Taos County Mental Health Council $21,118 in federal money, $34,380 state, $3,518 local; Taos District Court Probation Department $2,400 state, $1,400 local.

$14,450 CLARET

One of these days a certain "wealthy and influential" man is going to sit at his splendid dinner table in Washington, D.C., and taste the wine lovingly decanted into his glass. He will sniff it first, of course, to let the wine's rich bouquet herald the sensations to come. He will take a sip of the liquid ruby, roll it on his tongue, "chew" it to extract delicate nuances of flavor.

Then, if flavor matches anticipation, he will swallow the first mouthful, and nod, and smile, knowing that he has gambled and won. Gambled $14,450, the price his agent paid at a London auction for this remarkable bottle of claret laid down at the Chateau Lafite in 1806. Won the privilege of savoring a vintage among the rarest in the world.

Another scenario is possible. When he lifts his glass, the possessor of this wine bottled the better part of two centuries ago may not enjoy an exhilarating experience. He may find that the years have not been kind, that the wine has "gone off" enough to make it a crushing disappointment.

We rather hope not. Spending the equivalent of many an American family's entire annual income on a single bottle of wine is conspicuous consumption, granted; such extravagance borders on the scandalous. Still, great sums are wasted on things much more frivolous, less rare, and of less intrinsic value. May the mysterious "wealthy and influential" capital resident strike it lucky when he draws in that first sniff of the 1806 claret's bouquet. —Alamogordo Daily News

MEDIA DID ITS JOB

Senator Howard Baker (R-Tenn), Senate Minority Leader, recently told a national television audience if Bert Lance and Jimmy Carter happened to be Republicans, Lance would already have been hung from the nearest lamp post.

While Baker exaggerates, he has a point. The working media is traditionally Democrat. Also very strong minority ownership of the eastern media has an effect. (Those who have been persecuted or discriminated against, usually, perhaps understandably, gravitate left.)

Carter and Lance, however, have been taken to task in the media. The scandal has probably been more costly to Carter politically than he realizes. The media, though employing a softer approach, has nevertheless done its job. —Santa Rosa News

NEWSPAPER PEOPLE MET

Newspaper people? Well, publishers and editors are people ... what kind of people depends upon whom you talk to ... whose ox has been gored ... what politician the paper is supporting.

Anyhow, publishers and editors of New Mexico's newspapers met in annual convention in Carlsbad last weekend ... and, perhaps, among other things, mourned the passing of type lice ... 'cause the wee beasties are no more ... couldn't make the transition from a milieu of ink and gasoline to the photomechanical process of producing newspapers.

In addition to routine business ... and any business a bunch of publishers and editors conduct while conventioning tends to veer away from routine ... the Fourth Establers heard pre-campaign ... and the term is used loosely ... remarks from all four New Mexicans representing the people in Washington, D.C.

Kinda sharp of Congressmen Runnels and Lujan and Senators Domenici and Schmitt to take time from the pressing business in our nation's capitol to put in an appearance before those as can help or hinder them via the printed word ... now this isn't to be construed as insinuating the four are a bunch of opportunists ... but how else can they so easily head the ears of newspaper people ... there's that term again ... then to catch them when they're most receptive ... like enjoying the conviviality of a convention? Ah, yes, grass roots politics isn't dead yet.

BREATHIN' SPELL AHEAD

Without enough snow on Old Baldy to make a thumb sized snowman ... with Aspenade over ... and naught but the lingering aroma at Gateway Meadows to remind us of Mule-O-Rama ... it's thinking time in the valley ... time to consider assets and liabilities ... time to start planning on how to make tourist time in 1978 the biggest and best in history.

It's also time to start thinking snow ... 'cause snow brings Texas skiers with money that ain't been spent yet ... and people populating the housing, eating and ice tea establishments ... and that's good.

'Course, with the snow comes tire chains and studded tires ... and snow shoveling ... and skidding down icy hills sideways ... hoping no one's coming up ... and non-starting cars for the non-winterizing drivers ... and mounting heat bills ... and snowmen ... snowballs ... and our fluffy feathered friends eying the white landscape from frosty power lines.

And with that for starters ... ain't this autumn weather grand?

ONE EACH BIG GOOF

The Noon Lions, as you know, gave away a Cougar XR-7 and a $5,000 building lot on Cedar Creek Road in raising funds for the new Teen Center ... which is going to be built near the Ruidoso Library.

And it's concerning the lot that my face is red ... following a phone call in which my ear got bent ... 'cause the winner of said lot ... Dean Maddoux of Ruidoso ... informed me that she isn't a him ... 'cause I called her a him in Monday's paper.

Now this lot winning female does allow as how she spells her name Dean ... pronounces it Dean ... like in Jimmy Dean ... and, for clinicians, she didn't sound like a him at all over the telephone. I suppose I should've checked the handwriting ... or printing ... on the winning ticket ... but, by jinkies, all the Deans I've known have been hims, not shes ... which once again gave me a lesson in assuming.

But she's a happy Dean ... 'cause she has her building lot for her new home ... and as soon's she reads this ... where she's not a him ... what with being a she Dean ... maybe she'll figure the wrong's been righted.

BRIEF BIT: With no war on, it's unthinkable that the major oil companies'll stand still for any gas rationing plan that'll cut profits ... CD

It is so easy to become dissatisfied with our material possessions that hardly a day goes by in which we do not wish for something more; often something we do not need or cannot afford. But happiness does not consist of continually acquiring new belongings; it is the result of being thankful for what we already have and decreasing our desires. Faith in God can help us accomplish this goal by turning our attention to the spiritual values of life, as well as the positive side of the material ledger. Learn to be grateful for your health, your family, your home life and all of the misfortunes that you have managed to avoid. Begin to count your blessings. Your Church is the best place to do it.

INSIDE THE OUTDOORS

By Gary Dellahon

Editor's note: The following article is an editorial and does not necessarily reflect the feelings and beliefs of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish.

If mankind does not soon wake up to the fact that our environment must be used wisely, not exploited, the only places blue skies, clean waters, and wildlife will be found are in history books.

Of course, man — the intelligent being that he is — could probably exist without these "taken for granted" conditions, but does he want to? Hopefully, the answer is a unanimous, NO!

It does not take a naturalist to enjoy fresh air, unpolluted waters, thriving forests, beautiful meadows, and abundant numbers of wildlife. Just as it does not take a genius to realize that these "standards" must receive some form of protection in order to assure their existence.

Thus, each state across the United States has a variety of federal and State agencies that have been given specific areas of environmental responsibilities. Examples of these agencies are the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the Soil Conservation Service, the U. S. Forest Service, Environmental Improvement Agency, state forest services, and game and fish departments.

All of these agencies, as well as others, play important roles in the governing of the wide variety of natural resources in New Mexico, ranging from veins of precious minerals to populations of big game.

Each of these agencies, with no exceptions, must act as a liaison between the human race and the natural resources since man and his actions are a direct influence on his environment.

These agencies are comparable to referees in today's popular competition sports. The referee must be well versed in all aspects of the game and be capable of recognizing instantly any violations of the laws and regulations.

Of course, each player and each spectator of the game is also a referee in his own right and utilizes every means possible to let the referee know if a difference in opinion of the call occurs.

However, regardless of the hoos coming from one side of the stadium and applause from the other side on one call and vice versa on a call five plays later, the game resumes each time in compliance with the rules and regulations.

Controversial calls are discussed and watched time after time again on television for about a week, and then all is forgotten.

In a similar light, these agencies are under the scrutiny of the spectators and the participants, but must perform in a manner that will best benefit the "sport", in this case, our natural resources.

It is often difficult for the public to see the whole picture, as it is only human nature to be somewhat self-centered, and greedy. Needless to say, the "calls" of the agencies and the "calls" of the observers are going to differ on occasion. But, the trained "referee" must officiate in the best interest for his respective natural resource.

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, responsible for the fish and wildlife resources of this state, has made several difficult "calls" in the past few years due to the increase of participants in hunting and fishing.

Whether the call in question pertains to a new type of deer season, a new method for special hunt applications, a license fee increase, an open or closed hunting season, a low trout possession limit, consider the most important factors — our wildlife resources.

The same consideration should be given to all agencies. They are responsible for a certain job and spend their whole time at it. Their decisions result from consideration of all factors involved, and if a compromise between the reaper and the resource cannot be reached, the decision must be made in favor of the resource.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

DEAR WAYNE — I have read conflicting articles about the treatment of poisonous snakebite. What is the correct method? BOB R., COLO.

DEAR BOB — You are right, there is disagreement, even among authorities. One thing is agreed upon; that the most effective treatment is to quickly administer antivenom serum to counteract the poison. This is most times not available quickly because the vast majority of bites occur in the field away from immediate help.

One of the latest methods, advocated by an authority in the field, is perhaps the best.

1. If possible to do so easily, kill the snake for identification.
2. Try to remain calm, sit still and avoid undue exertion.
3. Apply a tourniquet; two or three inches above the bite, between the wound and heart. A belt, handkerchief or other clothing may be used as a tourniquet. Leave loose enough that a finger can be inserted under it without force. Do not loosen it every few minutes. It can be left in place for at least an hour.
4. Sterilize a knife blade, if this is best instrument available, over a flame.
5. Make one straight incision that extends through both fang punctures. Incision should run approximately one quarter inch outside each puncture. Cut through skin and fat, but not through tendons or muscles.

6. Gently squeeze venom from incision with fingers. Do this until medical aid is reached. Do not use oral suction as previously advocated.

7. Use no alcoholic drinks or other stimulants.

8. Get to doctor as soon as possible, but with the least amount of exertion possible.

DEAR WAYNE — My son wants a shotshell reloader. Is handloading safe? ALICE OF TENN.

DEAR ALICE — Handloading is a bit like driving a car. There is potential danger in both, but a careful operator makes them relatively safe.

You didn't mention your son's age, but if he is old enough to be competent with a shotgun, he should be able to safely reload. If he will get a good book on handloading and follow directions carefully, he will do fine.

DEAR WAYNE — What is a shocker line in fishing and what is its purpose? JACK OF IND.

DEAR JACK — A shocker line is most often used in surf fishing and fishing which requires the casting of heavy baits and weights.

An example of this is fishing for channel bass in the surf. The baits are usually large and the sinkers are necessarily heavy to keep the bait from drifting.

The fisherman may be using 15 to 20 pound test line and it will often break during casting. To eliminate this, a shocker line of heavier test is tied to the lighter line. It should be long enough that 5 or 6 wraps go around the reel spool when in the casting position. This shocker line is perhaps 30 to 50 pound test line.

To join these two lines of different test and size, a well tied and trimmed nail knot or blood knot will do fine.

DEAR WAYNE — Can the sex of whitetail deer be dependably distinguished by their tracks? I have a long time hunter friend who says it can, without question. EDDIE M., S.C.

DEAR EDDIE — Many people believe the presence of dew claw prints with a hoof print indicates a buck. The fact is, both the buck and doe have dew claws. The dew claws are located behind the hoof and slightly up the leg. On hard ground the dew claws will not show because the hoof does not sink enough for them to make a print. It is true that sometimes a buck would make a print where the does would not, because of his additional weight.

Naturally a big buck's tracks are larger than the doe.

Some believe the buck is slightly more pointed than his mate. He may also show a slight drag mark when lifting his hoof, but this is not dependable. This drag mark is more apt to be present in a light snow.

It is difficult to say that there is a reliable method for distinguishing sexes because their tracks are made in all types of ground conditions and under varying circumstances.

Social Security information

Don Mathis, social security field representative, today announced three more convictions for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) fraud in the southwest region. Mathis said that Pedro B. Verdugo of Lordsburg, New Mexico, pled guilty to one count of having given a false statement to the Social Security Administration in connection with his SSI claim. Verdugo was sentenced to three years probation.

In a similar but unrelated case, Clarence O. Dodson of Henrietta, Oklahoma, pled guilty to one count of having made false statements regarding his resources to qualify for SSI benefits. Dodson was fined $500.

The third case involved Carroll J. Jackson of Tulsa, Oklahoma. He pled guilty to charges of providing false information concerning liquid resources of a SSI beneficiary for whom he was representative payee. He was sentenced to two years probation on each of three counts, ordered to make restitution of the $236.60 overpayment within six months, and was fined $500.

"These convictions were part of a continuing crackdown on SSI fraud, and other cases are in progress. The Verdugo case was especially significant because it represents the first such conviction in the State of New Mexico," Mathis said. Mathis may be contacted at the Lincoln County Senior Citizens Center in Ruidoso Tuesdays between the hours of 10-12.

Energy Efficiency Ratio

...what does it mean?

In much the same way that miles per gallon indicates how economically an auto operates, the Energy Efficiency Ratio indicates how economically heat pumps or air conditioning equipment operate. The EER tells you how much cooling or heating you receive in relation to the amount of electricity the unit uses. The higher the EER, the less electricity is required to get the job done. If the EER is not indicated on the sales tag, ask your dealer or contractor about it. Or ... you can compute it yourself with this simple formula:

$$\frac{\text{BTU}}{\text{Wattage}} = \text{EER} \quad (\text{for example: } \frac{24,000 \text{ BTU}}{3,000 \text{ Watts}} = 8.0 \text{ EER})$$

EER's presently range from as low as 5 to near 12. We recommend at least 7.5. Remember, the higher the EER, the less electricity is required. A unit with a high EER can cost more initially, but the savings you realize in operating costs could be well worth the investment. For more information on the importance of the Energy Efficiency Ratio, give us a call.

Bonito firemen offer emergency services

BY EMILY LEE PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

The Bonito Volunteer Fire Department (BVFD), located on State Road 37 near the hazardous Alto curves, has three Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) and a fully equipped rescue unit ready to roll day and night.

"We're not trying to compete with the ambulance (services) ... We do not transport (injured people), but a lot of people don't even know we're here, and when there's an accident they call an ambulance which is much farther away," Ron Hall, Registered Emergency Medical Technician with the BVFD, said.

EMTs with the department are Bob Finley and Linda Howard, who is also the sole female in the BVFD.

Ron, to become a registered EMT, passed the New Mexico state registry exam after meeting other requirements including working on an ambulance. He passed the 81-hour EMT training course in August, 1975, in Las Cruces and worked with Associated Ambulance there for six months. Like all practicing EMTs, he has taken the mandatory 20-hour "refresher course" once a year since 1975.

When an accident or medical emergency is reported to the BVFD over the emergency-use only telephone number, 336-4308, what happens is — — Phones in the homes and business of the BVFD's three dispatchers — Fire Chief John Hall, W. D. "Doc" Stephenson and George Jaynes — ring, telling them of the emergency.

Ron is called (Bob or Linda if he is not available), gets the truck and goes to the scene in a matter of minutes. The dispatchers, sizing up the situation, call out the other EMTs and then the other BVFD trucks, depending on the type and seriousness of the emergency.

The rescue truck carries backboards — made by members of the BVFD — cervical collars, blankets, a sterile solution for cleansing wounds, trauma dressings, oxygen equipment with an elder valve and suction, an air hammer for extrication of victims from auto wrecks and numerous other first aid items.

Realizing that he does not always have the truck with him, Ron has carefully converted a metal tool box to carry enough medical supplies for him to at least begin treatment, and he carries it with him at all times.

He has triangular bandages — "Probably the most useful thing" — plus big ace bandages, tape, bandage scissors, a dentist's mouth mirror, salt, sugar, a pen light for eye examination, stethoscope, sterile razor blades, elastic gauze bandages, esophageal airways for children and adults, a blood pressure cuff and several vials of Lidocaine. He received special authorization to administer the Lidocaine for exterior burns from Ruidoso's Dr. Edward Stalzer.

One special piece of equipment Ron carries is known as a "choke saver," a set of curved plastic tweezers for use in cases of choking on food. He pointed out that a number of people have died choking, while inexperienced bystanders assumed that a heart attack was the problem and began administering the wrong type of first aid. "The symptoms of choking and heart attack are similar — the victim cannot breathe. 'We have different checks we do to see which one it is, but when the person starts pointing at his throat that's a good indication that he's choking," Ron said. The big tweezers will extract the piece of food in no time.

Ron learned the terror of choking first hand when he swallowed a piece of steak wrong and couldn't communicate the problem. Finally he grabbed a small table and rammed it into his abdomen, just below the rib cage — a variation of one way of treating a choke. A sudden punch to the solar plexus causes the lungs to contract, shooting up enough air, fast, to dislodge the chunk.

Ron also has a suitcase containing additional equipment, including an obstetrical kit and a burn sheet.

The rescue unit is at present the newest piece of equipment in the county-run BVFD, and Ron is justifiably proud of it. He is the lieutenant assigned as its driver, and spends a considerable amount of time being sure everything is exactly as it should be on the truck.

It is safe to say that the rescue truck responds to every call the department receives in its 118-square-mile territory.

Ron said that all motor vehicle accidents in the district, ranging from nine miles south of Capitán to Alto hill, should be reported directly to the BVFD at 336-4308. Non emergency calls should never be made to that number, he said.

The State Police must always be notified of an accident in the district, he said, at 378-4417 in Ruidoso Downs, 257-7365 in Ruidoso or 354-2464 in Capitán.

The EMTs will stabilize accident victims and call the Ruidoso police ambulance to transport them to the hospital, if needed. One other point about reporting emergencies, Ron said, is, "If someone in their house has a heart attack, they should call us for quick life support treatment, as well as the Ruidoso ambulance (257-7365) for transport."

Having the Bonito EMTs near can be the difference between life and death for a heart attack victim, he said, but persons reporting such emergencies must be aware that "we do not transport."

The EMTs primary work in the Bonito district, Ron said, is "with injured firemen, people involved in auto wrecks and victims of building fires."

There is something else the EMTs and firemen wish people reporting emergencies to keep in mind: "Be sure your directions are clear and understood by the dispatcher before you hang up the phone ... Once a man called and said, 'My house is on fire and I live in Sun Valley.' We drove around and around in the dark hoping to see somebody who could tell us where the fire was."

And at the scene of an accident, Ron said that bystanders can be of great assistance to the EMTs, but stressed, "Wait until we tell you to do something before you try to help."

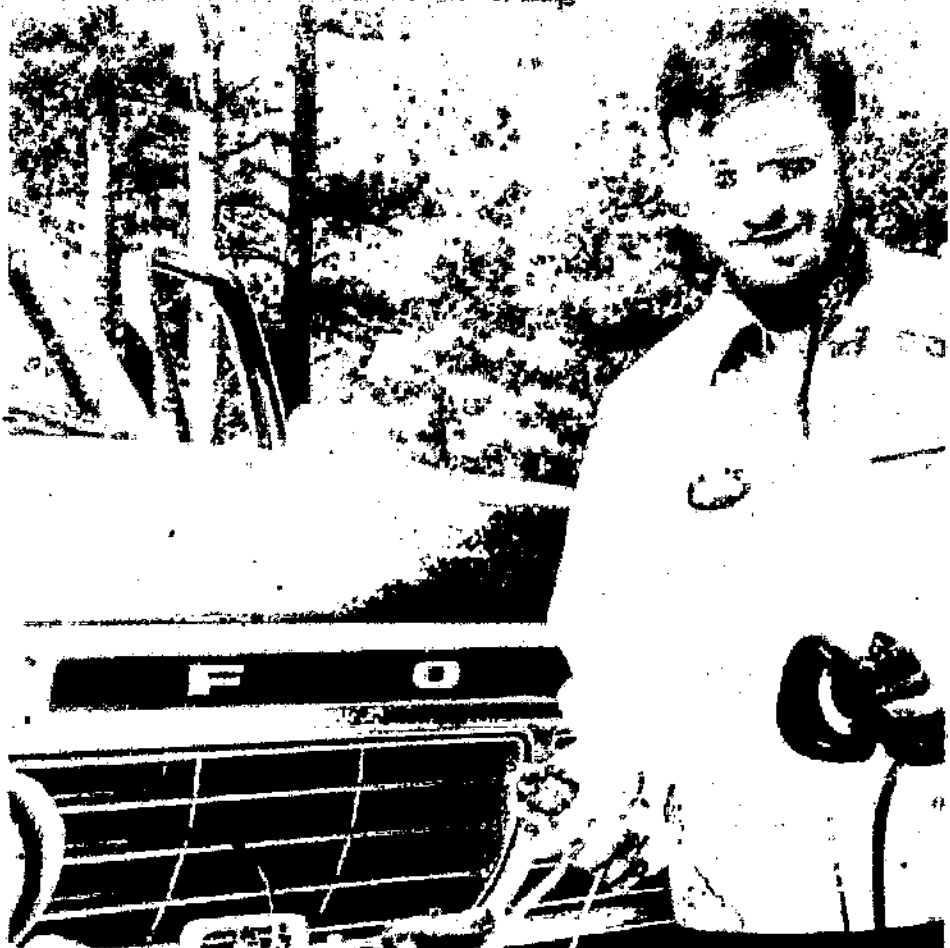

The 30 volunteers, including the EMTs in the Bonito district, also operate three pumpers and two "nurses" — trucks primarily outfitted to carry water to replenish the supplies in the pumpers.

The department is headed by Chief John J. Hall.

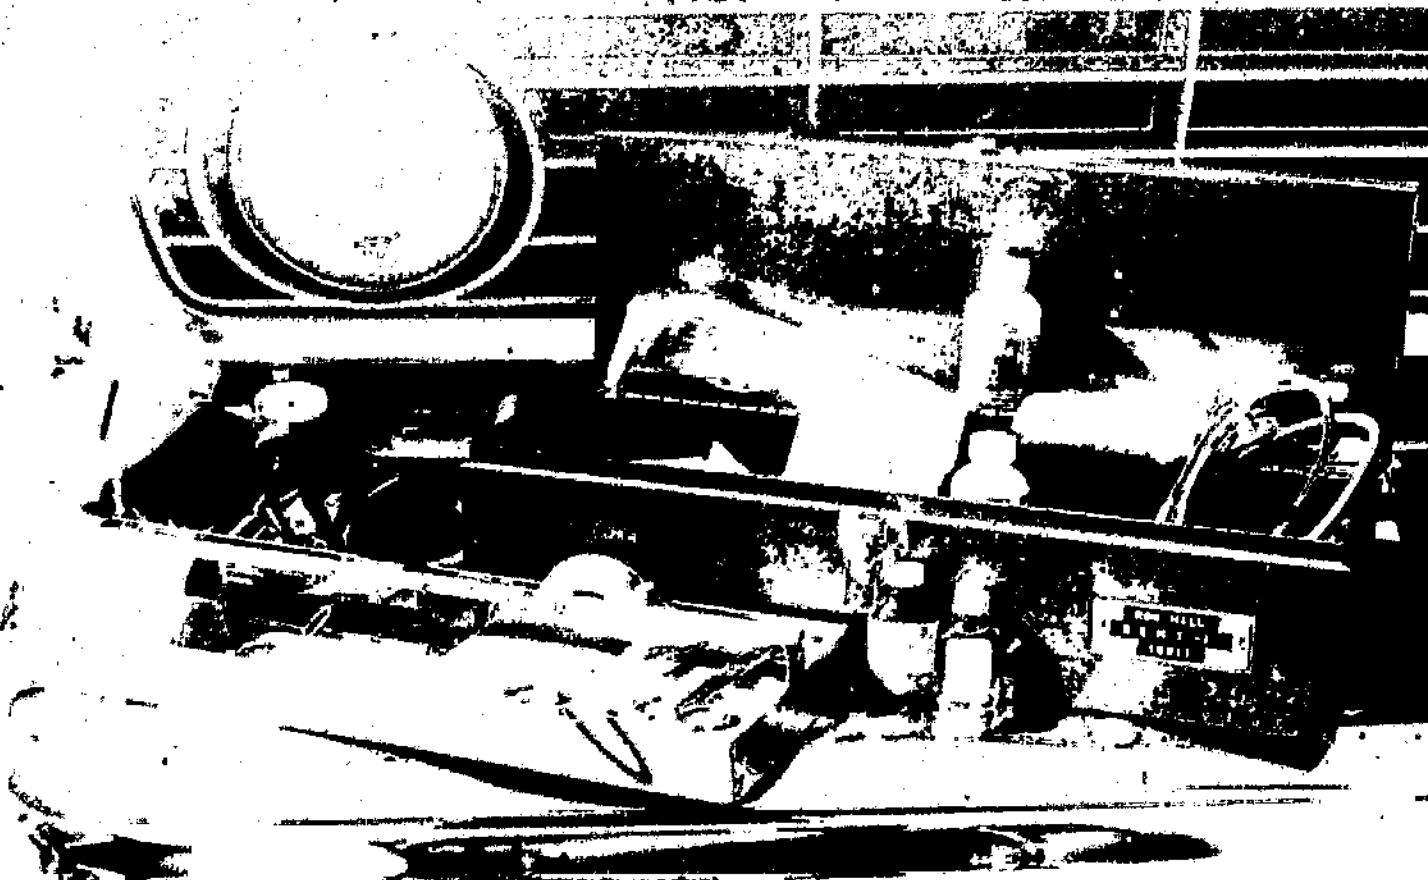

READY TO ROLL to all forms of medical emergencies is the Bonito Volunteer Fire Department's rescue unit, shown with Ron Hall, Registered Emergency Medical Technician (EMT). Some of the medical equipment the truck carries is on the ground — from left to right, it includes a suitcase containing blankets and first aid articles, a short backboard (a long one is strapped behind the cab), Ron's personal supply box, oxygen gear and an air hammer.

EMT HALL displays the department's life-saving oxygen equipment, which includes an "elder valve" for administering quick doses of oxygen, and a suction bottle, for clearing debris from a patient's mouth, as well as several sizes of masks.

RON'S PERSONAL FIRST AID box contains enough supplies to enable him to start treating a patient before the rescue truck or ambulance arrives. Left to right, it includes bandages, blood pressure cuff, sterile swabs, bandage scissors, choke saver, Lidocaine for burn treatment, airways and a stethoscope.

SOUR CREAMISH AND DELICIOUS. 8 DIP FLAVORS FROM KRAFT.

At last! The sour creamish taste in dips, courtesy of Kraft. These KRAFT Dips — from Hot Guacamole to cool, Creamy Cheddar — are made with a creamy non-dairy product similar to sour cream. They're all reclosable, and quite economical, so why not dip into several? A 10¢ coupon, good toward your next purchase, is on every package.

A central core with moveable wings.

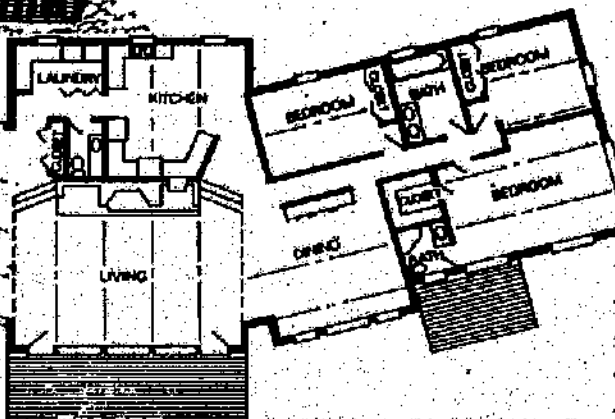

This single-story cedar-home design is as roomy as it is versatile—a welcome respite from today's mass of confining split-levels.

Ideal for the family that enjoys entertaining, its core or "center stage" features a spacious sunken living room with exposed beams and a huge fireplace wall (including a kitchen pass-through for hearthside snacks).

"Off-stage," one wing is occupied by an inviting entryway, a den and garage, while the other is devoted primarily to bedrooms. And both wings (the entire plan, in fact) can be tailored to suit individual needs. They might, for example, be joined at a sharper angle to accommodate a narrower lot.

All as a result of factory engineering and an unusually flexible building system. For more than 70 other applications, send $2 for our Planbook.
