$1 million horse race Labor Day

Ten quarter horses — with but 22/100 of a second separating the first from the tenth qualifier over 400 yards — will make a 22 second dash at Ruidoso Downs Race Track Monday afternoon with the win good for $330,000.

The season's finale — the All-American Futurity — offers a gross purse of $766,000 with winnings ranging from $330,000 for first to $27,000 for tenth place.

Futurity consolations begin Friday with the purse for the third consolation pegged at $32,000; the second consolation, Saturday, has a $66,000 purse with $136,000 the purse for Sunday's first consolation.

The winner of the first consolation receives $21,000; the second consolation win is good for $8,700 with $4,100 to the third consolation winner.

Highlights of the Labor Day weekend racing card include the $6,500 added Roadrunner Stakes this afternoon, the $2,500 added Brigand Handicap Friday, the $115,000 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity Saturday, the $17,500 added Ruidoso Mile Handicap Sunday and the $7,500 added Ruidoso 550 Championship Monday.

The story of how the ten finalists in the All-American Futurity won their post position follows.

They came from almost every corner of the country to qualify for Monday's 19th running of the All-American Futurity, the richest horserace in the world. A record 248 head went into the trials in hopes of gaining a berth for the finale which offers a staggering winner's purse of $330,000.

Only ten of the fastest two-year-old quarter horses in the nation survived.

Those ten will be seen coast to coast when the All-American Network of Topeka, Kansas, once again broadcasts the $1,030,000 race to an audience of over 30 million.

The Labor Day program gets underway at 1:45 a.m.

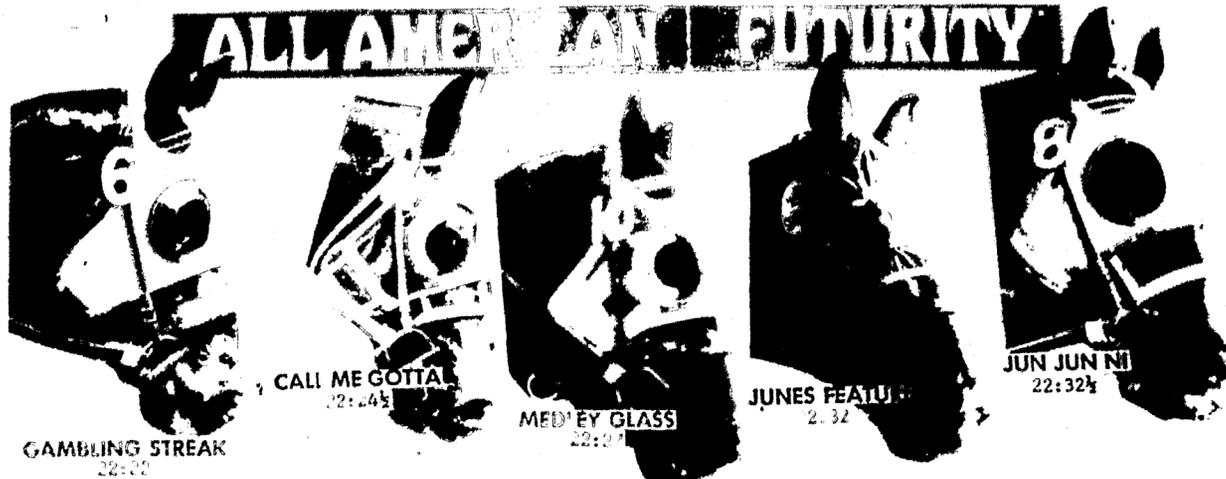

Overshadowing all the weekend action will be the All-American Futurity, the third leg of the so far unattainable Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses. Only five horses have won two legs of the title and only one ever came close to grabbing all three.

Here's a look at the 10 finalists, in order of qualifying time: Town Policy (22.061/2); Biffy Pass (22.101/2); Hot Idea (22.111/2); Stoa Minga (22.14); Kita Bar None (22.15); Gambling Streak (22.22); Call Me Gotta (22.241/2); Medley Glass (22.27); Junes Feature (22.32); Jun Jun Ni (22.321/2).

Stoa Minga, a filly owned by C. L. Stewart and Sons Incorporated of Lubbock, Texas, looks to be one of the public favorites. The filly, trained by H. Don Farris, is undefeated in three starts. She sports a very modest money line of $3.90.

She did not run in the Kansas Futurity because, according to Farris, "she was AIMING AT $330,000 — Here's a composite look at the 10 finalists for the world's richest horse race, the $1 million All-American Quarter Horse Futurity. The top qualifying time of 22.06 1/2 seconds for 400 yards belongs to Town Policy (top, left).

The rest of the field: Biffy Pass, Hot Idea, Stoa Minga, Kita Bar None, Gambling Streak, Call Me Gotta, Medley Glass, Junes Feature, Jun Jun Ni. The winner of the Labor Day classic at Ruidoso Downs collects a resounding $330,000.

Eagle Creek dam work set for April

Target dates of March 1978 for going to contract and April for start of construction of Eagle Creek Dam were set by the Ruidoso Village council at their Tuesday evening meeting.

This tentative scheduling was prompted by the report from village manager Jim Hine that the United States Forest Service environmental impact statement should be completed by the first week of October and by a presentation of preliminary plans for the dam by Mann Engineering of Roswell.

The lengthy presentation and explanation of the preliminary plans by Tom Mann Jr., was accepted by the council and a meeting set up between the company and water superintendent Jim Goodwin to discuss various aspects of dam construction.

The village council also accepted a low bid of $285,966 from McCormick Construction of El Paso to build the Alto Crest transmission line. Other bids submitted included Co-Con Incorporated of Albuquerque, $303,580; Burns Construction of Las Cruces, $390,000, and Panhandle Construction Company of Lubbock, $347,700.

An ordinance requiring licensing of itinerant merchants and setting licensing requirements for outdoor sales was approved after extensive discussion.

The ordinance, which defines itinerant merchants as anyone "engaging or intending to engage in business as a merchant . . . for a period of time not exceeding 180 days," set fees of not less than $10 and not more than $100 for all such merchants, pawnbrokers, second-hand stores and junk shops.

A fee of $5 to apply for a license for an outdoor sale also was approved.

Licenses will be required of any person, "firm, corporation, transient, merchants, church, club, charitable institution, hawk or peddler" planning "to vend, sell, dispose, display . . . on any public walk, street, alley or anywhere within the village." This includes yard and garage sales.

Penalties ranging from $5 to $300 will be assessed for violations.

Based on correspondence from the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), the council turned down the Noon Lions request to lease land at the airport for construction of a teen center.

"The FAA did not believe the Ruidoso Noon Lions (project) constituted an aeronautical use of the land," mayor Lloyd Davis said.

The council suggested the Noon Lions look into other village land available including sites behind the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce offices, behind the Women's Club and near the Noon Lions building.

In other business, the council: — Approved an ordinance requiring all homes and businesses be numbered. A penalty clause was added stating anyone failing to comply after receiving notice "shall be fined $1 for each day during or on which a failure to do so continues."

— Postponed any discussion of the Lincoln County Senior Citizen's Center until the Senior Citizen's Advisory Board holds their September 12 meeting to design guidelines. — A delegation of about 20 senior citizens attended the meeting.

— Heard a report that no bids were received to provide workmen's compensation insurance and asked village

Floricate's tonight!

Tonight at 7:30 famed racehorse auctioneer Tom Caldwell will give the opening of the seventh annual All American Floricate in the All-American Sales Arena at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Patrons will be able to bid on more than 200 floral arrangements and will be able to watch as arrangers create their colorful pieces on the stage in front of the auctioneer's podium.

Featured designers will be Bill Day of Amarillo, Texas, and Chris Bradshaw, El Paso, assisted by Norma Phillips, Kim Graham and Gladys Glean of flower shops operated in Ruidoso.

Entertainment will be provided by "The Golden Rings" of the El Paso Sweet Adelines.

Proceeds from the auction will be used to fund scholarships through the Altrusa Club, Floricate sponsors, and for various community projects and grants-in-aid financed by Altrusa.

James' trial date pending

The trial of Jerry Ray James and Shirley Sue James, Ruidoso Downs will take place in Otero County, although no date has been set yet.

The Lincoln County Grand Jury indicted the pair July 27 on the charge of receiving stolen property.

Albert J. Rivera, attorney for Shirley Sue James, and assistant district attorney

Frank Wilson stipulated to the change of venue after Rivera alleged last week that adverse publicity in Lincoln County would affect his client's chance for a fair trial.

Rivera also filed a motion to suppress evidence seized in two searches of the James trailer, but in a hearing in Carrizozo last Thursday Judge Tom Sandenaw denied the motion.

However, he gave attorneys ten days to file legal memoranda on the matter.

Wilson said that, contrary to rumor, no motion for severance (separate trials for wife and husband) has yet been filed.

The couple is charged with receiving stolen property last June 16, in the form of jewelry, diamonds, pearls, leather coat and a reptile belt with a collective value of over $2,500.

Warriors open grid play Friday

The Ruidoso Warriors will travel to meet the Carrizozo Grizzlies in their home territory at 7:30 tomorrow night in the season's football opener.

"Carrizozo has always played us a good, hard ballgame," coach Doyle Howell said at Tuesday morning practice.

"We're well-pleased with our scrimmages and are in pretty good shape injury-wise.

"I expect a good effort out of everyone."

The probable starting line-up will be: Hector Aguilar, Ron Lowrance, ends; Bordie Williams, John Whitlock, John Cabot, Josh Ensor, backs; Jay Raulerson, center; Eugene Botella, Bill Morrison, guards, and Mike Pritchett, Chuck Easley or Chuck Burgess, tackles.

A CAR CARAVAN is being organized by the Boosters Club to leave from the high school at 6 p.m., for this opening game.

The cheerleaders will be available to decorate the cars of all fans wanting to give this added support to the Warriors.

THE SNOW-BLOWING "UNIMOG" acquired Tuesday by the Ruidoso Municipal Airport is shown in the parking area with airport manager Tim Morris in the cab.

Bus schedules, students' rules, announced

School bus schedules for the Ruidoso schools for the 1977-78 term have not been finalized, coordinator Donny Weems has announced, but an interim boarding policy for students will be in effect September 6.

"A revised schedule will be published as soon as possible," Weems said Monday. "Until the schedule is announced we are asking that students in all grades, excepting White Mountain Middle School, meet the bus at the same time and place as last year.

"If you are a new student or have moved since last year, call the school you will be attending for the needed information."

Weems said students at White Mountain Middle School will not ride the buses September 6 and 7 because of their individualized registration. Parents of these sixth, seventh and eighth grade students are requested to provide their children with transportation to and from school.

Parents also are requested to help enforce school bus rules.

"The drivers feel their attention must be devoted fully to operating the bus and not calling down students for disciplinary reasons," Weems said.

Rules are:

- Students must obey the bus driver.
- The driver may assign seats if he feels it is necessary to enforce the rules.
- There will be no use of profane language.
- Students cannot have any part of their body outside the bus.

— Students will stay in their seats when the bus is in motion.

— Loud talking and other loud noises are not permitted on the bus.

— Students will not be allowed to throw items while on the bus.

— A student should not cross the highway while meeting or departing from the bus.

"Any refusal to comply with these rules will cause the student to lose the privilege of riding on the bus for a definite period of time and, in extreme violation, for the remainder of the school year," Weems said.

He also reminded motorists "It is in violation of the law to pass a bus, from either direction, while the flashers on the bus are in operation."

Capitan trustee resigns

Norman Renfro stepped down from the Capitan Village Council at last week's meeting after serving for three-and-a-half years.

Renfro served as mayor pro tem following former mayor J. T. Johnston's resignation after a guilty plea to a misdemeanor charge of "retaining for his personal benefit" certain municipal property, before Magistrate Jim Wheeler in Ruidoso July 23.

Renfro told The News Wednesday that his reasons for leaving office were "strictly business — I didn't have the time" for the duties.

Trustee Valton Hall was named mayor pro tem, and the trustees will appoint a permanent mayor at their next meeting September 12. They will later act on the appointment of a trustee to succeed Renfro, after the new mayor nominates someone.

Watch those red school bus lights

Red flashing lights on a stopped school bus tell you that the law requires your vehicle to stop until the passengers are unloaded.

On a two-way traffic street, cars going both directions must stop.

On four-lane streets, traffic proceeding in the same direction as the school bus must stop.

In addition to the red flashing lights, the driver will also raise a STOP sign projecting from the bus at the driver's seat.

accidents. Davis requested a cost estimate be compiled for discussion at the next meeting.

— Agreed to meet with the county to discuss maintenance of Cedar Creek Road at the request of W. M. Jarratt, president of the Cedar Creek Homes Association.

— Requested Hine to check into financing methods to purchase road maintenance equipment totaling approximately $100,000.

The equipment, which ranges from a distributor to pneumatic rollers and from tailgate spreaders to a dump truck, will allow the village to properly maintain and repair the paved streets.

— Heard a report from Lukens that the Banditos motorcycle club will be holding a regional meeting in the Ruidoso area in the near future and that additional assistance has been requested by the police department.

— Postponed discussion of Hine's thoughts on Ruidoso growth for the next meeting.

slow in maturing." The improved filly was entered in the Rainbow Futurity trials but developed an intestinal virus and trainer Farris thought it wiser to save her for the All-American. "We would have liked to run her in the Rainbow," Farris said. "She would have had more experience but we're satisfied with her. She's matured quite a bit."

Stoa Minga has looked impressive in her three outings. She won her first career start June 23 in maiden company and finished in front by 5 1/2 lengths. She then had to wait till August 12 for her next venture. The filly, at 1-2 odds, ran away with an allowance test by a length. Her time for the 440 yard distance was 22.07 on a track labeled "good."

Stoa Minga ran her All-American Futurity trial as the odds-on favorite and did not disappoint her backers. She finished 3 1/2 lengths in front.

Farris, who's trained six All-American finalists, says that Stoa Minga is in excellent condition and is a real fine gate horse — unlike her full brother — Azure Three, who ran fifth in the All-American Derby after acting up in the starting gate.

Farris says he's assigned two-time All-American winner Jerry Nicodemus to handle the reins.

The most impressive record of the 10 finalists belongs to Town Policy, a colt owned by Ivan Ashment of Idaho Falls, Idaho. Town Policy set the fastest qualifying time in winning his fifth straight race against no defeats.

The speedy colt is a veteran of the racing wars at Los Alamitos Race Track in California. He's been the favorite in each of his five outings. Four were at less than even odds.

Town Policy won his maiden June 7 by a half-length and then a month later won the Bardella Handicap at Los Alamitos in what was his second career outing. He turned right around and won a trial for the Kindergarten Futurity at Los Alamitos and then won the $115,000 finale by a head.

In his first outing at 440 yards, Town

Policy breezed to a 2 1/4 length victory in the All-American Futurity trials, again as the odds-on favorite.

The colt has earned over $74,000 in his short racing career. Jockey Kenneth Hart will be back to call the shots.

The only Rainbow Futurity finalist to reach the All-American finale is Jun Jun Ni, an experienced colt who ran second to Miss Thermolark in the Rainbow.

Jun Jun Ni has now earned $78,213 and has put together a record of 3-2-3 from 10 outings.

Relatively unknown until the trials for the Rainbow Futurity, Jun Jun Ni qualified for the Rainbow with the seventh best time. He then inspired his backers by running a tough second to Miss Thermolark in the finale.

Jun Jun Ni is owned by Bill R. Brooks of Blanchard, Oklahoma and trained by Monty Brooks. Jerry Burgess, who won the All-American Futurity in 1975 aboard Bugs Alive in 75, will be in the saddle for his sixth appearance in the world's richest horse race.

There are two unique aspects to the '77 All-American lineup. First of all, five of the 10 finalists were "supplemental nominees." In this case, an owner elects to play a waiting game. He doesn't make the normal nominating payments which begin 18 months before the actual running of the race.

Instead, he waits until the final months before tipping his hand. But, it gets much more expensive. Thirty head were nominated on June 15 via payment of $6,250, and 10 were kept out as late as August 15, but then had to pay $14,250 each.

Town Policy, Medley Glass, and Jun Jun Ni got in via the $14,250 payment, and Gambling Streak and Kita Bar None got in the running with a $6,250 payment.

The second unique aspect is the fact that each of the 10 qualifiers won his trial heat, thus creating a field of last-out winners. Such a lineup of top-to-bottom last-out winners is unprecedented in major stakes futurities in the southwest.

Buffy Pass, owned by E. Wayne and James Johnson of Lufkin, Texas, figures to get plenty of All-American mutual support. The filly has already earned over $26,000 with five wins from 10 starts. Her second-best qualifying time is another eye-catcher.

Hot Idea was a $4,000 purchase in last summer's All-American Yearling Sale. The cheap price was due largely to a crooked leg. The deformity doesn't seem to bother her running. She's owned by Ted Bruce and Floyd Jackson of Estelline, Texas.

Kita Bar None is no laggard, having earned almost $24,000 so far with six wins from 10 starts. The filly is owned by Gregory Hucksins and H. M. Bastian of Wichita, Kansas.

Top handle expected in Labor Day races

Plenty of money will be flowing through the mutual machines at Ruidoso Downs on Labor Day.

In fact, astute Ruidoso watchers are confident the handle will again surge past the $1 million level.

On Labor Day of '76, Ruidoso Downs became the first New Mexico track to hit the million-dollar target. The total was $1,038,995. Since then, the record was set by the New Mexico State Fair.

Here are the four million-dollar handles in New Mexico history:

$1,045,764 (12 races) — New Mexico State Fair, Sunday, September 19, 1976.

$1,045,724 (12 races) — New Mexico State Fair, Saturday, September 18, 1976.

Coincidentally, this handle was only $40 shy of the top mark.

$1,043,807 (12 races) — New Mexico State Fair, Saturday, September 25, 1976.

$1,038,995 (13 races) — Ruidoso Downs, Monday, September 6, 1976.

The biggest one-race handle in New Mexico history was set at $220,882 in Real Wind's 1976 All-American Futurity.

Pink Ladies always work for hospital improvement

BY EMILY LEE PHILLIPS
Staff Writer

The "Pink Ladies" (Auxiliary) of the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVH) have contributed thousands of dollars worth of specialized equipment to the hospital in the twelve years since the group organized.

The Ladies — now over 80 strong — generously give of their time and energy with fund-raising projects ranging from bazaars to running the Pink Shop at RHVH to knitting and other handicrafts.

Over the years, proceeds from these activities have been transformed into a sterilizer, relaxer chairs, orthopedic equipment, a croupette, an examining table, a nursery refrigerator, an outdoor sign for the Emergency Room, a Coleman flame floatometer, oxygen equipment, color television sets for all patients, respiratory equipment and many other items.

"Now we are involved with refurbishing the old wing," Mabel Johnson, president of the group, said. The Ladies are one of several organizations and individuals financing conversion of four double rooms to private rooms with carpets, drapes, wallpaper and individual bathrooms.

"We have ordered an IBM typewriter for the administration office, and we're getting a camera for gastric photography, to go with the gastroscope," Johnson said.

The Ladies have sponsored the Volunteers for the past year, giving teens a chance to become familiar with a hospital setting as well as to offer service.

Then, "We always supply babies' shirts and receiving blankets as needed," she said and recently "we made a whole bunch of robes for patients, under the direction of Jane Thompson." Also, "For the last two years we've given Christmas gifts to all patients in the hospital on Christmas."

Exactly how do the Ladies come up with the money to support so many projects? "Well," Johnson said, prefacing the answer, "Jim Burns (former RHVH administrator) had been so enthusiastic in refurbishing the hospital that the enthusiasm is contagious."

"Many of the members make handicrafts for the shop — last Christmas we took in over $500." Of that sum, about $125 worth was pillows, ojs and bedroom slippers crocheted and knitted by a single Pink Lady.

Much of the money is raised through the Pink Shop, where all year round visitors to RHVH can find handmade items, toys, a snack bar, toiletries, stationery, books, magazines, candy bars and cards.

The Pink Shop originally opened soon after the Auxiliary formed, "in a place the size of a telephone booth . . . All they could do in there was make coffee," Johnson said.

The four Ladies on duty in the shop were persistent, however, and eventually raised enough money to enlarge the shop, in September, 1972. When Burns joined the hospital about two years ago he made wrought iron and tile tables, and Johnson embarked on a trip to Juárez, where she purchased chairs for the tables, enough to require a second trip.

Another addition to the shop came in February, 1976, in the shape of a full-time shopkeeper, Cieta Kelley. She is assisted a few hours a day by Pink Ladies.

Sometimes well-wishers donate a valuable article to the Ladies, for sale in the shop. Such is the case at present with a painting, valued at $250, given by Nicky Cunningham of Las Cruces and Ruidoso. The large oil depicts Sierra Blanca in spring, and it will be presented to the future owner just before Thanksgiving.

Besides the shop, the Ladies hold an annual rummage sale in the spring. Last time around they cleared $350.

The group is now hard at work making craft items for their Fall Festival of Gifts. Periodically workshops are held, when members spend a few hours making gift items. Just before the Festival, they plan a flurry of baking for the food sale, to be run in conjunction with the Festival.

Not all the work of the Pink Ladies has to do with raising money, however. Some, like Mabel Johnson, have taken on personal projects — she presents an ojo to every baby born in the hospital, pink for the girls and blue for the boys.

All members assist in setting up blood banks, and with the non-professional work of drawing the blood, as well as with the Volunteers and other special projects.

Among the over 80 Ladies, there are a few charter members who assisted in forming the group in June, 1965. The guiding light behind the formation was Mrs. Meiba Frankum.

Charter members include Mrs. Ruth White, Mrs. Iola McLeod, Mrs. W. J. Pierce, Mrs. Ellen Sanders, Mrs. Cathy Annala and Mrs. Lou Horton.

CHECKING A SHIPMENT OF TOYS in the Pink Shop at the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital is Mabel Johnson. A former Naval officer, she is now working hard as president of the volunteer hospital organization.

Volunteers are needed for shelter bed program

Volunteer families -- to house, feed and care for children for periods not to exceed ten days -- are being sought in Lincoln County under the Volunteer Shelter Bed Program (SBD).

Susan Allen, SBD coordinator in the county, said, "The program is designed for children committing offenses that wouldn't be offenses if they were adults. Included in these offenders would be runaways, truants and incorrigibles."

"What we need, under this program, is volunteer parents who will receive no pay and no reimbursement for food and non-mal expenses. Foster parents, however, are not liable for any medical expenses."

Allen does the screening of applicants for SBD parents and will license acceptable homes as foster homes. The program will become effective September 30 and prospective foster parents may contact Allen through the Children's Probation Office (CPO) at the Ruidoso Municipal Airport or by phoning her at 257-3101.

Children to be housed, she said, will be both boys and girls under 18 years of age who are referred to the foster home by the CPO.

"SBD children are not delinquents," Allen said. "They are called 'status offenders.' Any child charged with a delinquent offense is not acceptable for SBD placement."

Limitations on foster homes are based on the number and ages of the couple's children and the number of beds in the home.

After 10 or less days in a foster home the SBD program requires that the child be returned to his own home, if possible. If the child cannot be returned home, then the CPO, through social services organizations, will handle the disposition of the case.

SBD is under the auspices of the Governor's Council on Criminal Justice Planning and is to continue until June 30, 1979.

"We're recruiting foster parents right now," Allen said, "and everyone interested in helping these non-delinquent children should get in touch with me right away, so we can start placing them by September 30."

State making change in highway striping

What is the difference between a mile of state highway that is dash striped with 15 foot long stripes, and a mile of state highway dash striped with stripes 10 feet long? As much as $145,000 annually, according to Sheldon Bennett, engineer of maintenance for the New Mexico State Highway Department.

Bennett explained that currently the road department lays down a dashed stripe that is 15 feet long, with a 25 foot space between stripes. In the new method, recommended by the Federal Highway Administration, the stripes will be 10 feet long and the spacing will be 30 feet. Using the older method, the Highway Department striping crews used 6 gallons of paint for the 1,760 feet of striping required for a mile of highway. The new method will require only 4 gallons of paint per mile for the 1,320 feet of striping required to cover a linear mile of road. This 33 percent savings in paint costs, and the resultant savings cost of the reflective beads that are added to the paint to aid night sight of the stripes, will add another 33 percent savings.

Last year the New Mexico State Highway Department striping crews dash striped 14,396 miles of road and highway in the state, using 86,376 gallons of paint, at an average cost of $4.41 per gallon. Cost of the paint alone was $380,918. The reflective beads that are added to the paint in the amount of 4 pounds to the gallon, brought the cost up another 57,353 for the 14 thousand plus miles that were striped. Cost of the dash stripes, with beads, was $438,271. The savings this year, with the shorter stripes, would be approximately 30 percent, or $145,944.

Total miles of highway that were striped with solid and dash stripes, amounted to 29,791. The extra mileage, over the 12,407 miles on the state system comes from the fact that we stripe two sides of the shoulders, run two stripes on some center lanes and a lot of paint is sprayed at intersections, delineating turns, etc.

The paint contract for the past fiscal year was for approximately 250,000 gallons of paint, at an average cost of $4.41 per gallon, both white and yellow. Total cost for the paint used by the highway department last year to add drivers with various types of striping on roads and highways, was $1,102,500. Cost for the reflective beads that add luster to the stripes at night, was $139,440, for a grand total of $1,241,940, to stripe the highways of New Mexico.

The new striping length will allow the drivers on New Mexico highways to have the safety factors of striping, with a resultant savings that can be used for maintenance or construction of new highways.

Most motorists did not realize that the stripes on the highways were 15 feet long, because of the optical illusion they presented as you drive down the highways. At 55 miles per hour speed, and with the angle of sight from the low automobile, many a bet was won on the length of the stripes. Lots of drivers were surprised to find out that those "short" stripes were as long as many automobiles on the highways.

And to fill in the final fact. The stripes are 6 inches wide and 4 mils thick.

Quadriplegic set to work for master's

BERTA HERNANDEZ

Berta Hernandez, a 25 year old polio victim who has been confined to a wheelchair since childhood, will enter the University of New Mexico this fall to take a Master's Degree in Rehabilitation Counseling. For the past 13 months, Miss Hernandez has been employed by Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children in Truth or Consequences where she is a child and parent counselor. She will begin classes at UNM on August 22. Attending school has never been an overwhelming problem for the young Las Cruces resident even though she has only limited use of her hands and arms. Before coming to work at Carrie Tingley, she took her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Social Welfare at New Mexico State University. A motorized wheelchair allows her to come and go as she pleases, and although an attendant may help with the more difficult campus chores, she will do her own note taking and school work.

"I feel I need to learn a lot more about counseling," says Miss Hernandez. "From experience, I know that working with the handicapped can be very challenging. The Master's program at UNM will allow me to fill that need. It's hard work, but the effort is worth it."

Is a small farm for you

Shopping for food is one of the more disheartening experiences anyone can have, says Gene Ott, Extension farm management specialist at New Mexico State University. Meat is expensive. Vegetables seem unreasonably priced. Staples, like flour and sugar, seem to be twice what the shopper paid a short time before.

What's the answer? A substantial number of people want to buy a small farm and grow their own food to cut down on costs. They also reason, they would get away from the city's "rat race" and be their own "boss" in the desert Southwest.

This dream could become a nightmare, warns Ott. Unless you have had active practical farming experience or have completed course work in an agricultural school, you probably know little to nothing about farming.

Learning on the job can be both risky and expensive. It may be better to gain your experience on someone else's farm. Remember, a successful farmer usually has a lifetime of experience to give him the many skills he needs, Ott says.

Potential farmers often underestimate how much money it will take to buy a farm. Small farms in the Mesilla Valley around Las Cruces can cost up to $3,000 per acre, observes Ott. Acreage in other parts of the state may be less costly, but irrigation water may not be as dependable, the growing season may be shorter and distances to market may be less desirable.

If the farm does not already include satisfactory housing, this should be considered in your plans. Machinery, livestock and other production investments will run your total investment even higher.

Non-farmers often forget that a farmer's pay-day is not every two weeks, and may not come all year, notes the farm management specialist. Most annual crops require dollars of investment throughout the year before there is hope for a return at harvest time. With perennial crops, such as tree fruits and pecans, the investment period is even longer. All of this contributes to heavy cash-flow demands for the farmer.

If you think food market prices are high, check the price tags on items you might need for farming — a tractor, tillage equipment, a small truck and equipment for fertilizing, spraying, irrigating and harvesting. Water and power also cost money, as does skilled and semi-skilled labor. All agricultural costs have increased dramatically. Perhaps, a small farm is not the way to beat the "rat race" for everyone.

In conclusion, Ott tells potential new farmers that anyone who can raise the capital it takes to buy and develop raw land probably should not worry about food prices at the market.

A-A Futurity supernova of horse racing

BY DICK ALWAN

The All-American Futurity is a supernova in horse racing.

With a purse of $1,030,000, it dwarfs anything in the thoroughbred world.

In fact, you could take three or four of the most famous thoroughbred races, add up the purses, and the total may not even equal that of the All-American.

So how did it all start? Where did the All-American Futurity come from? What was the birthplace of this swaggering, treasure-laden giant which has revolutionized quarter horse racing, given the sport awesome national prestige, and turned the Ruidoso community into a Labor Day mecca?

But in order to assess the All-American Futurity, one has to keep in mind the fact that the $390,000 winner's purse could be only a "small" part of the bonanza. If the winner happens to be a colt, the possible stud value is immense. The figure usually tossed around by knowledgeable horsemen is upwards of $1 million.

So who was the genius who dreamed up the All-American Futurity? That question is hard to answer. But the best answer seems to be this: the All-American Futurity wasn't "invented." It evolved. Along the way, it was spoon-fed, nursed, coddled, encouraged and refined by many dedicated people. Certainly, these people had vision and faith in the All-American Futurity — but no one ever dreamed it would turn into the colossus it is today.

Right from the start, the All-American Futurity had one dominant characteristic. Unlike other stakes races, it was no frail thing when it first came into the world. It arrived in 1959, and landed on its feet, fists swinging, yelling for attention, demanding to be heard, and overwhelming everyone in sight with its awesome size.

Those connected with the first running of the All-American Futurity probably envisioned a starting purse of around $50,000, and back in those days, that would have been a whopper. Plenty of spawdwork, plenty of hustling and long-distance phone calls, and outright beseeching, went into the first installment. And Ruidoso officials logged many miles from one end of the country to the other, drumbeating for the new race and arm-twisting owners and trainers into nominating their yearlings.

But it all paid off handsomely when the first All-American Futurity topped out at $129,886. In those days, that was a knockout purse — big enough to take away the breath of your average two-fisted, hard-nosed, leather-skinned, big-morried quarter horse owner.

But that maiden edition in 1959 wasn't the real beginning of the All-American Futurity.

The All-American probably got its birth, accidental as it was, in a bar in the Hilton Hotel in Albuquerque. That was back in the fall of 1959. Some horsemen had stopped by for a drink or two. Naturally, the topic was horses. There was J. E. Ferguson, Elmer Hepler, Jim Derrick — and two or three others.

It just happened these horsemen had some top mares in foal and they started comparing breeding notes, balancing the qualities of this breeding line against that. It was the old my-horse-can-beat-your-horse syndrome.

So it was decided to prove which breeding line was best. And the only proof would be a race two years hence, matching the then unborn foals. Each of the men involved in that conversation was to throw some cash into the kitty, and the winning owner would take it all.

In a sense, that free-wheeling gambler's spirit was the potent ingredient in the All-American recipe. No one knew it at the time, of course, but there were plenty of people, in years to come, who'd take the same chance. Only by then the whole system would be codified and well-planned, and instead of a handshake agreement in the Hilton Hotel in Albuquerque, you'd be making "nominating payments" and "supplemental penalty payments" and "trial entry fees." But it was still the same idea: you make your payments, cross your fingers, and if you're lucky enough to have a yearling who could turn into a runner, there was that giant jackpot at the end of the line.

But the first exercising of this idea, as conceived in the Hilton Hotel, was no earth-shaker. That first purse amounted to around $15,000. Ruidoso Downs went along with the idea and chipped in some added money. About 15 horses were originally nominated, and about five were around to run in the race. Outside of the breeders, the world pretty much ignored the whole idea. That first race was won by Segura Miguel, who was out of the great mare, Stella Moore.

But the idea stirred up the imagination of the horsemen and got the industry schooled to the idea of making long-range nominating payments. At the time, quarter horse racing in general was beginning to take hold, and Ruidoso Downs had already bridged the gap from a stop on the leaky-roof circuit to a going operation. Each year, the wagering handle grew by leaps — and each year, profits were turned back into the operation for massive improvements.

From a horsemen's standpoint, Ruidoso Downs was no palace. For example, the track, in its early days, represented a 12-foot lift from one end of the homestretch to the other. And the turns weren't banked — which means a horse who didn't know the way could find himself careening off into the parking lot.

That epic race won by Segura Miguel soon evolved into the Ruidoso Quarter Horse Futurity. But the format was based on an original nominating payment coming up a few months or so before the running of the race. This eventually led to a purse of about $20,000, which wasn't had in those founding years.

Now that the main spawdwork was over, the stage was set for the most crucial evolution. The Ruidoso Quarter Horse Futurity was re-modeled into the All-American Futurity, and Ruidoso officials really put their shoulders to the wheel in getting the new race off to a big start. The format reverted back to those long-range nominating payments used for that breeder's contest won by Segura Miguel.

So instead of making the first payment a few months before the race, horsemen started shelling out about 20 months in advance. In order to stay eligible, payments had to be made regularly. When that first running of the All-American in 1959 yielded a $129,000 purse, the quarter horse industry was knocked on its ear.

And racing in the Southwest has never been the same.

Not only has the All-American grown at a rapid clip, it also served as the model for a host of other big-money events — both at Ruidoso and throughout the quarter horse world.

Not only that, the same format has been applied to thoroughbred racing in the Southwest, and the formula keeps working. For example, there's the Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland Park, which is expected to top out at around $300,000 in 1978. For the thoroughbred folks, that's an awfully big hunk of cash.

But the growth of the All-American

Futurity purse is still unreal. If you were to sketch this growth on a chart, the pattern would look like a General Motors profit sheet gone berserk.

The All-American needed only three runnings to break the $200,000 barrier. In 1964, it surged over $300,000. In 1967, the figure was up to $426,600. The next year, the All-American treasure chest was loaded down with an unbelievable $623,000.

The 1971 running hit the target to the tune of $763,910, and track officials expected the bedazzling $1 million plateau to be reached in 1973.

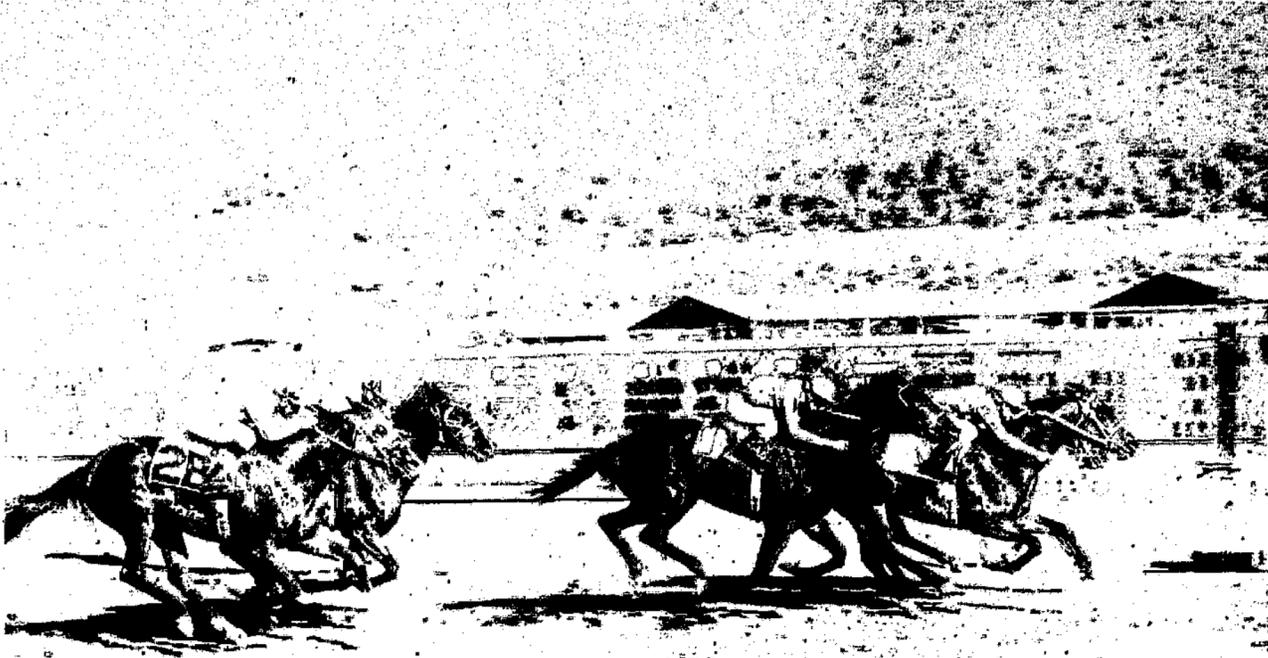

But they were wrong. The All-American turned itself into a millionaire a year ahead of schedule, and disgorged $1,835,990 in 1972. That was the year the longshot, Rossumjet, won by a slim margin and earned $336,829.

Since 1973, the All-American purse has been restrained by a ceiling of $1,030,000. All cash over that figure goes into a spinoff the following year. That's the All-American Derby — a race which has also grown into giant-size potatoes. The purse for that one, in its '77 running, was a bell-ringing $760,000. Of that amount, $813,976 was carried over from money generated for the '76 All-American Futurity.

So what happens to the All-American Futurity now? Is it destined to remain a muscle-bound giant, restrained by a built-in ceiling? Not at all. Al Rosa, maestro of Ruidoso Downs, sees tremendous potential — and lots more national attention — in boosting the All-American.

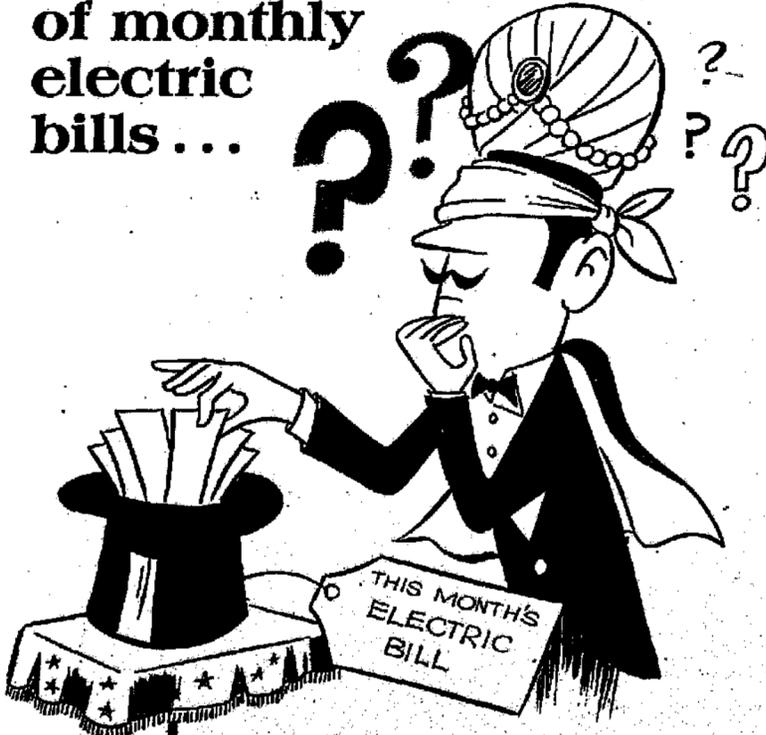

Starting next year, the ceiling will be raised to $1,280,000, and the winning owner will collect $437,500. The thought of such a purse is enough to make even the Kentucky Derby look a little anemic.

THIS IS THE KIND OF ACTION that puts the photo finish sign on the tote board in Ruidoso Downs and keeps the fans hanging onto their tickets until the film is studied and the winner announced. In the $1,030,000 All-American Futurity running Labor Day, with only 28/100 of a second separating the top qualifier from the tenth place qualifier in the 40-start dash, anything from a dead heat to a win by a nose to an out and out three length win is possible. That's what keeps the fans on their toes as the winner of the World's Richest Horse race is decided Monday.

I-N-S-I-D-E the Outdoors

BY GARY DOLLAHON

BY RON PORTER Area Enforcement Officer

The field of Wildlife Law Enforcement is not really new to the residents of New Mexico. Before the cession of New Mexico to the United States in 1848 there were no wildlife laws in effect, but in 1851, New Mexico was organized as a territory and on February 9, 1880, the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of New Mexico, in its 24th session, enacted certain laws pertaining to the protection of fish and game in New Mexico.

After 1880, other conservation laws were passed, but it was not until 1903, however, that the Territorial Legislature established the first game and fish department in New Mexico. The entire staff of this new department consisted of one warden and one secretary. Funds for the newly organized department were limited since no license fee was required until 1909 when the Territorial Legislature saw fit to pass a law requiring hunters to pay a fee for hunting protected game and requiring licenses of non-residents over the age of 12 to fish for warm-water species. Wildlife protection by enforcement of laws presented about the same financial problems in the early 1900's as it does today: the vast and sparsely settled areas of the West took days to patrol by any mode of travel available.

In 1909, the New Mexico Legislature closed the season for six years on antelope, pheasants, pigeon and bobwhite quail. Up to now, very few restrictive game laws had been enacted. As more people moved West, the populace became aware that the game herds were being exterminated by market hunters and that restrictive laws were needed to prevent a complete loss of a valuable resource.

The extermination or the near extermination of certain species of wild animals in the early 1900's was not entirely due to habit depletion. The failure of early lawmakers to provide adequate protection for wildlife was also a contributing factor. Some species of wildlife could not survive the slaughter by people who were unrestricted as to the firearms they could use or the numbers of birds or animals they could take.

As the human population expanded, the depletion of habitat did become a primary threat to wildlife. Today, wild game has been pushed out of the best natural ranges in some areas, and the pollution of streams and waterways threatens successful fish management. Enforcement alone cannot provide an adequate solution to these problems but it can however, minimize the damage and provide an incentive for the solution of the problems. The most modern scientific approach to game management must be backed up by a modern enforcement program to control the take during periods of harvest and to insure protection during breeding and nesting seasons.

Why should the average citizen be concerned about the enforcement of laws for the protection of game animals, particularly if that citizen neither hunts nor fishes? Because the wildlife belongs to him, and regardless whether he personally uses or enjoys wildlife, as a co-owner it becomes his or her responsibility to protect it for this and for future generations.

The role of legislation to control reduction of publicly owned game to an individual's possession is a recognized fact and legal tradition the early colonists carried with them to America. Ultimately, most of the policies and techniques developed by all professions concerned with the management of publicly owned resources find their way into law. Law is the basis of conservation, for without it, there is complete anarchy, or at most mere moral force. And a law that is not enforced is of no use whatever. Wildlife Law Enforcement depends on public sentiment. With public sentiment nothing can fail; without it, nothing can succeed.

"WILDERNESS WISDOM"

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — I will say right off that I am not an authority on wildlife, but why do most of the pictures you see of moose show them knee deep in water? Eileen B., Florida

Dear Eileen — All living animals are apt to frequent areas which hold their food supply, and so it is with the moose.

The moose is very fond of the various water plants which lie below the surface of ponds and lakes. He will stand in the water for hours, frequently poking his head and neck below the surface to gather a mouthful. Particularly in summer, these underwater plants make up a large portion of his diet. He is also a browser and will nip off branch tips and buds.

In summer, this water haven serves the added benefit of offering relief from the swarms of flies and mosquitoes which plague the moose.

Dear Wayne — I have a 25-06 rifle that is very accurate but it appears that the stock is too long for me. How can I determine what length it should be? John A., California

Dear John — Most rifles and shotguns are made to fairly standard stock specifications. Their aim, of course, is to fit the "average" person. If you are taller or shorter than what might be normal, the stock often needs modification. The "once in a while" shooter most often accepts the stock as it is. The shooter who burns many cartridges or shells is much more apt to insist on proper fit.

One of the best ways I know of determining proper fit is to visit a gun dealer or gunsmith and try various lengths. When the correct length is found, get the stock measurement and have your stock altered accordingly.

Winning prestigious Futurity horse trainers' main dream

Winning the All-American Futurity is something quarter horse trainers dream about. Most never come close to winning the biggest prize in racing.

Then there is the case of Don Farris, one of the most successful trainers in the business. This year will be the fifth year in a row he has qualified a finalist for the "World's Richest Horse Race."

But the dream remains a dream, even for Farris. In the last four All-Americans Farris has run fourth four times.

Notwithstanding Farris' record, this may be his year to make the dream come true. His filly, Stoa Minga, is a hot pre-race favorite to take home the winner's share of $330,000.

She was the fourth-fastest qualifier in the trials, but Farris shrugs off the omen of another fourth place finish in the finals. "I've got as good a shot as I have ever had, maybe better," he says. "Naturally you have to have a lot of luck," he continues. "But this filly doesn't make any mistakes. She is good in the gates, runs straight, and really tries. I think the horse to beat in the race is the California horse, Town Policy. But right now I wouldn't trade our filly's chances."

Ironically, the trainer of the other favorite in this year's All-American, Town Policy, is also successful. Best known in California where he does most of his racing, Blain Schvaneveldt is perhaps the leading trainer in the country at the moment. But like Don Farris, Schvaneveldt has never won the All-American.

"I came out here with Bobby's Angel a few years ago, but we ran sixth," Schvaneveldt recalls. "I think we've got a better shot this year."

"The owner bred and raised this colt and I have had him right from the start," Schvaneveldt explains. "The first time we blew him we knew he was the best we had."

"This colt's done everything we've asked of him. He's never made any mistakes. I'd have to say he's as good as anything we've had. Most of my top horses have been fillies or geldings, like this one. We geld a lot of horses as a matter of policy and he happened to be one. But we own the stallion and mare so there'll be more like him."

Having more horses like Town Policy coming along would brighten any trainer's outlook. But trainer Johnie Goodman's outlook couldn't be brighter. He qualified two horses for the All-American final, Biffy Pass, the second fastest qualifier, and Call Me Gotta, which ran the seventh best time.

Goodman has been in the All-American twice before. In 1975 he came close to winning, running second with the filly Chick Called Sue. But even with a second-place finish to his credit, Goodman is hoping for better.

"I think I've got a better shot than I have ever had," Goodman says. "I'd have to say Biffy Pass is the best two-year-old I have trained and as for Call Me Gotta there's no way to tell at this stage just how good he really is."

"Biffy Pass has given us some problems acting up in the gate. She's kind of a nervous filly. But she's alright now. I'm sure glad the owners have been patient with us. But I think it will all pay off. If Biffy gets away from the gate clean, he'll win it."

"I've only had Call Me Gotta about 45 days. He's a story in himself. The owners bought him in the Haymaker Sale last fall for $1,800. When we started working with him horses were beating him away from the gate by five lengths. But in spite of that, our jockey, Richard Vaughn, thought he was a runner. And really, it was kind of hard to overlook that for all his slow starting he was in front at the end of 330 yards."

Trainer Gene Tefertiller feels he can match stories with Goodman. His qualifier, Hot Idea, ran the third best time and like Call Me Gotta is undefeated in two outs.

"My owners bought this filly in the All-American Sale last year for $4,000," Tefertiller recounted. "From what I understand she was born with a real crooked leg and wore a cast for about six months. You can still see the marks the cast left."

"The leg is still not straight. My jockey, Terry Lipham, says she runs sound. You'd never know anything was wrong. But when he stands up on her he says he feels like he's running over a washboard."

"Probably because she's used to taking care of herself, she's a little bit of a devil to handle. She's like a kid, nipping and biting. But you know she's got to have a lot of heart. She walks in the gates and stands there. And when they open she gives it everything she's got."

"I'll tell you what kind of heart Hot Idea has. In her first out she chipped an ankle and still won the race with an 87 speed index. We nursed her up to the trials and she won that and qualified for the All-American. What more could you ask for?"

"With that kind of try I think we could win it all. She's the fastest mare I've trained and she pulled up real good."

Another qualifier with a history of overcoming injuries is Junes Feature, trained by Randy Howell. Bred and raised by the Howell family, the filly is in the first crop of world record holder, Truckle Feature.

"Junes Feature happens to have been the first Truckle Feature born," Howell laughs. "Maybe that's a sign from above."

"This filly has always been on the improve. She has yet to run her race. In the Kansas trials she was just coming to herself when she chipped an ankle. She was in front of Prissy Gold Digger and She Is My Native when she did it and still ran fourth."

"Coming off that injury she won a tune-up about three weeks ago and then won her trial for the All-American. I firmly believe that in the finals if we get a good get-away from the gates we'll win it."

Until this year, Trainer Charles Goad's dreams of winning the All-American were probably far back in his mind. "I've been training quarter horses for 25 years," Goad says. "But this is the first time I've run at Ruidoso."

Goad's filly Kita Bar None ran the fifth-fastest time to qualify for the futurity. "This filly wasn't paid up in the All-American from the start," he went on. "But after she ran so good for us back in Kansas we paid the $6,250 supplemental fee in May."

"This is a really nice-mannered mare. She almost trains herself. She breaks hard, runs straight and really tries. She's like a pet around the barn but she sure gets high when she gets on the racetrack."

"We feel lucky just to be in the finals but it would be especially nice if we won it. Her owner, Gregory Huckins, is an ex-jockey who was hurt in a racing accident. He used to ride her mother and after he was injured he bought her and bred her. It sure would be something if he won the All-American with her daughter."

Ruidoso Downs racing yesterday . . . today

In the very early racing days of Ruidoso, there was no organized betting. In town there were dice and roulette, but out of town in "the ole Miller cornfield" ranchers matched their fastest horses.

It wasn't rare for $50,000 or more to hinge on the outcome of a two-horse race over a bumpy up and down course cut through a meadow.

As one horseman put it, "There was hardly a week during those early summers at Ruidoso when somebody wouldn't pull into town from Carlsbad or Midland, get boasting over corn mash about the speed of his horse, and end up broke in Mr. Miller's meadow."

In 1947 organized racing came to Ruidoso Downs, and with it the pari-mutuel system of wagering. The public, by its wagering preference, decides the favorites.

But favorites in the All-American Futurity have won only five of the 18 races. However, all but five have finished in the top three.

Town Policy and Stoá Minga figure to be the co-favorites in Monday's All-American. An odds-on favorite, if it wins, would pay less than even money. Of three odds-on favorites, one has won, one came in second, and the other ninth.

Possunjet won with the highest odds in the 1972 edition. She went off at 21-1, and paid a handsome $44.60, $16 and $7.20. The only other high-odds longshot was Decketta in 1964. At 14.70-1 the few supporters earned $31.40, $9.20 and $6.40.

On the other hand, Tonto Bars Hank (1960), Goetta (1963), Easy Jet (1969), Rocket Wrangler (1970) and Real Wind (1976) won as favorites and returned the least amount of money to their supporters.

Of the favorites, Goetta paid the least. The return was $3.20, $2.20, and $2.20.

There are no sure things in racing. Tips come from everywhere. The trainers tout their friends. The experts tout the fans by way of tip sheets. Even the janitors "know" who's going to win. And for those that don't pick by colors, numbers, or how many white stockings a horse has, there's always the classic last resort — plain logic.

But few punters can resist a hunch — whether it be a favorite or a longshot.

Job Service saves state money

Efficient work by New Mexico Job Service in finding jobs for Unemployment Insurance claimants saved an estimated $3 million during the first three quarters of Fiscal year 1977. Employment Security Commission chairman William Anderson said this money would have paid further benefits to claimants who found new jobs, had they remained unemployed for longer periods of time.

Unemployment Insurance (UI) benefits run a maximum of 30 weeks in New Mexico; 3,730 UI claimants placed by Job Service received benefits for an estimated average of 16.5 weeks, rather than the full period. Job Service saved 50,355 weekly payments averaging $60.84, which totals more than $3,000,000.

Under State law, UI claimants must register for employment with Job Service when they first apply for benefits. This helps Job Service place unemployed workers quickly.

Anderson cited several benefits stemming from rapid claimant job placement. "Employer tax rates, which support the Unemployment Insurance fund, depend partially on the length of time former employees receive benefit payments," he said. "For this reason, employers pay lower taxes when former employees find jobs quickly."

UI benefits are tax-free, so claimants don't pay income taxes on weekly payments. For this reason, the state gained financially from workers who found new, taxable jobs, rather than remaining on Unemployment Insurance benefits.

Extended benefits, lasting nine weeks in New Mexico beyond the 30 week base period, ended earlier this year when overall unemployment fell below crisis levels. Such benefits are jointly funded by the state and federal governments. Though figures are unavailable, reemployed workers accounted for substantial savings under this program also.

The 3,730 UI claimants placed from October 1976 through June 1977 was slightly less than the projected Job Service total for this period. The agency hoped to find jobs for 4,000 claimants. However, Anderson believes Job Service will meet or exceed their quota of placements by the end of fiscal year 1977: "Placement statistics must be compiled on a yearly basis for total accuracy, since the number of available jobs varies on a seasonal basis."

Anderson said statistics and figures used to compute Unemployment Insurance savings are estimated averages, except for the number of claimants placed in jobs. Total savings might differ slightly if claim-by-claim figures were available.

"Job Service is steadily placing unemployed workers in satisfactory jobs," Anderson said. "Our network of area offices throughout New Mexico is finding openings skillfully and efficiently. Hopefully, workers will continue to return to work rapidly, helping themselves, employers and the state."

Japanese may buy New Mexico hay

Many Japanese firms are interested in finding new sources of alfalfa hay. Representatives of these firms will talk to hay producers during the New Mexico Hay Show, Sept. 2 in Roswell. The program will start at 9 a.m., at the Eastern New Mexico Fair Grounds.

"These firms are considering the purchase of New Mexico hay for export to Japan. The representatives are coming to see the quality of New Mexico hay and to consider conditions for setting up quality standards," says Dr. James Kirby, Extension economist for New Mexico State University.

Masao Shimomura, agricultural manager of the Japanese External Trade Organization (JETRO), will be coordinating the discussions. He will also show a film about Japanese agriculture.

JETRO is expecting several Japanese firms based in Southern California to send representatives to the Hay Show. The organization has also contacted hay associations in Japan and is expecting other organizations based in New York, Chicago and Houston to participate.

Dr. Kirby says an area will be set aside at the Hay Show for producers to talk to these representatives concerning the possibility of marketing their hay.

The day's program will open as Dr. Stan Smith, NMSU professor of Animal Science, explains how he uses NMSU's Infrared Reflectance Spectrometer to analyze hay for crude protein, acid detergent fiber and in vitro digestibility. The first 50 producers to personally enter hay in the competition will receive a free hay analysis valued at $20.

Dr. Richard McDonald, executive secretary of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, will present his organization's trading standards. Then a panel of various hay buyers will look at the advantages and disadvantages of the standards. Hay Show participants will also hear reports on NMSU's latest research in hay marketing and alfalfa variety developments.

Entertainment for the day will include a cow chip throwing contest, fiddlers and a demonstration of an antique, mule-powered hay baler. An old-fashioned tractor pull will follow the Hay Show at 7 p.m.

The New Mexico Hay Show is sponsored by the NMSU Cooperative Extension Service. Dr. Kirby, the show's program chairman, is also the editor of the widely circulated NMSU Hay Market Information.

Farm exports not growing

Many farmers tend to believe that the cultivation of the foreign market is the key to fair prices for their commodities.

In the past few years, the United States government has helped expand foreign markets by discontinuing set-aside acres. This has caused production to continue to expand, often setting new production records, says Robert Coppersmith, Extension marketing specialist at New Mexico State University.

Such abundant supplies have traditionally led to low prices. However, as the USSR, China, India and other countries have become customers, prices have been relatively strong and favorable to grain producers, the economist says.

However, it is unrealistic to expect farm exports to continue to grow at the recent rates, Coppersmith says.

While an average annual growth of three to four per cent over the next decade is expected, foreign demand will be erratic due to weather and worldwide economic conditions. Evidence of worsening weather conditions seems to point toward increasing world markets for American farm products.

The rising cost of energy is threatening the world's financial balance and the ready cash market. If America's customers find themselves too hard pressed, we may need to lend them more money or lose some sales, Coppersmith says. These factors will contribute to the characteristically unstable prices that have plagued farmers throughout history.

This country's grain farmers, in particular, will be subjected to price instability. Livestock producers also will have to contend with highly variable input costs and risk.

MATTER OF POLICY — The probable favorite in the $1,030,000 All-American Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs (N.M.) on Labor Day is the impressive gelding, Town Policy. He's shown here scrambling home by 2 1/2 lengths and setting the top qualifying time of 22.06 seconds for 440 yards. Altogether, there were 248 hopefuls battling in 25 trial races. Each horse was photo-electronically timed, and those chalking up the 10 swiftest times will meet in the Labor Day spectacle. Town Policy, undefeated in five lifetime starts, is owned by Ivan Ashment of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Jockey/Trainer of the week

Willie Lovell swept up eight wins over the weekend including a stakes victory and once again grabbed honors as Jockey-of-the-Week.

Lovell's highlight came aboard Noble Kingdom in the Ruidoso Sprint Championship Saturday. He then returned in the 12th race to win with Lelsure Landing.

Lovell notched three wins Thursday in the third, eighth, and twelfth races, grabbed one Friday during the All-American trials, and scored two more Sunday. He won with Purple Devil in the sixth race and hit with Diane's Star in the 12th.

Lovell, who's been steadily gaining on leader Carlos Rivas, went to the starting gate 37 times this week and wound up with an 8-4-4 total. Standing solidly in second place his season record now reads 59-54-39 from 341 attempts.

Carlos Rivas still remains the undisputed leader with a total record of 79-49-45 out of 316 tries. Rivas knocked off four wins over the weekend and is just one victory short of his last year's record of 80.

Richard Vaughn recorded five wins over the week. He made 26 trips and also scored five seconds and three thirds. His season total is 40-43-34 from 238 starts.

Trainer H. C. Werner Jr., tightened his hold on first place in the trainer standings by sending out 19 hopefuls and winning with five. He also recorded one second and three thirds. The Trainer-of-the-Week now possesses an impressive record of 39-30-36 from 232 outs.

Trainer Harold E. Nolen also turned in a fine week with a 4-3-3 tally from 18 starts.

All-American Futurity week begins today with the $8,500-added Roadrunner Stakes taking the top slot in the 12-race program.

Two stakes are on tap Friday with the Brigand Handicap grabbing the spotlight. The $8,500-added 870-yard sprint will most likely see Norgor, the "iron horse" of Ruidoso, going after his fifth win of the year. Also on tap Friday is the Third Consolation of the All-American Futurity. Saturday's program features the $120,000 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity and the Second Consolation of the All-American Futurity.

The Ruidoso Mile Handicap, with a $17,500-added purse, takes over as the main attraction Sunday. The All-American Futurity First Consolation is also in the offing.

The week and the season come to a climax Monday with the 19th running of the $1,030,000 All-American Futurity. The nationally-televised Futurity, which offers $330,000 to the winner, is the richest horserace in the world.

First post through Saturday is 1:30 p.m. Sunday action begins at 1 p.m., and Monday an early post time of 11:45 a.m., has been set due to the live telecast.

EIGHT TIME WINNER — Jockey Willie Lovell gained honors as Jockey of the Week at the Ruidoso oval after turning in eight wins over the weekend, including a victory in the Ruidoso Sprint Championship Saturday.

Ruidoso Downs Hoofbeats

By Rick Shapiro

Ruidoso Downs Publicity Department THE FIELD FOR THE 19TH running of the All-American Futurity is now set. Town Policy would up with the fastest qualifying time of 22.06½ seconds. The only horse to qualify from the Rainbow Futurity field is Jun Jun Ni. He ran second in the Rainbow to Miss Thermolark. Miss Thermolark won her trial for the All-American but missed the final cutoff by 4½/100 seconds. She'll go in the first consolation with Real Easy Jet and She Is My Native.

Here's the field in order of qualifying times: Town Policy (22.06½); Biffy Pass (22.10½); Hot Idea (22.11½); Stoa Minga (22.14); Kita Bar None (22.15); Gambling Streak (22.22); Call Me Gotta (22.24½); Medley Glass (22.27); Junes Feature (22.32); Jun Jun Ni (22.32½).

Five of the finalists are supplemental nominees. Town Policy, Medley Glass and Jun Jun Ni all paid $14,250 to enter the trials. Kita Bar None and Gambling Streak were entered after a fee of $6,250 was doled out.

JOCKEYS RICHARD VAUGHN and Kenneth Hart qualified two finalists each. Vaughn brought in Biffy Pass and Call Me Gotta while Hart won with Town Policy and Junes Feature. Hart will ride Town Policy in the final and Vaughn will go with Biffy Pass. Jerry Burgess, who won the 1975 All-American Futurity with Bugs Alive in '75, will once again go to the final. He brought Jun Jun Ni in with the 10th best qualifying time.

THREE TWO-YEAR-OLDS from last year's All-American yearling sale, qualified for the finale. Hot Idea was a $4,000 purchase. Biffy Pass went for $15,000 and Junes Feature was repurchased for $17,000.

C. L. SIEWERT became the first owner to have a horse in the All-American Futurity and the All-American Derby — in the same year. First up was Azure Three, who qualified for the Derby. Then came the colt's full-sister, Stoa Minga, who looked extremely impressive while winning her futurity trial heat by 3½ lengths and setting the fourth-fastest time. The papa of the two is the thoroughbred, Azure Te. The mama is Triple Depth. Siewert is a major pipeline contractor based in Lubbock.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in history of the All-American Futurity the ten finalists all won their trial heats. In the past, several horses have always come from one heat. The number of horses that went into the trials for the All-American was largest in the history of the race. The record 25 trials saw 248 head attempt to qualify for the 10 final berths.

IN WEDNESDAY'S EIGHTH RACE, five apprentice jockeys came in the first five positions. John Cushing won with Elgin's Song, Michael Jackson placed with Mr. Chainell, F. E. Urioste showed with Heavy Times, Terri Allen placed fourth with Harbour D, and Don Howard ran fifth with Princess Grillo.

FRANCIS MIDNIGHT, a two-year-old filly, set the second highest win payoff of the season with a victory in Saturday's third race. The filly went off at 56-1 odds and paid $114.80, $63.20, and $12.40. Larry Brooksher was up.

RUIDOSO DOWNS possesses the fourth highest all-time one day handle in New Mexico. Last year's Labor Day total came to $1,038,995 for 13 races. The other three high handles were set at last year's New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque September 18, 19, and 25.

TRAINER ROBERT D. HAY has been suspended for violating drug rules and his case has been referred to the New Mexico State Racing Commission. The official racing chemist of the State of New Mexico reported that a urine sample from the horse Madam President, which finished first in the 10th race, August 17, proved positive for the drug theophylline and its derivative. Madam President has been declared fit and capable of performing without medication after having been examined by track veterinarian Dr. William Pitt.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY Michael Jackson has been fined $50 for careless riding which caused interference to the inside horse during the running of the eighth race, Wednesday, August 24. Larry Byers was hit with a $250 tab for careless riding. His mount, Star I'll Be, was subsequently disqualified from first and placed second during the running of the 12th race August 24. Jockey Harold Romero received a $50 fine for misuse of the whip during the post parade of the fifth race, August 26. Jockey Willie Lovell also was tagged with a $50 bite for misuse of the whip during the post parade before the ninth race August 26.

REAL WIND, in running a neck second in the All-American Derby Consolation, picked up a check for $13,680. That lifted her career total up to $524,440 and dislodged Pass Over out of fourth place in the list of all-time quarter horse money makers. The filly's next target is Bugs Alive in '75, who holds down the number three slot with $550,970.

SANTA FE — Ex-Texas Gov. John Connally told 440 at a $50-a-person Republican legislative fundraising dinner in Albuquerque: "It's a simple struggle over who is going to make the decisions in America."

Conservative Connally said 4 percent of America's produce the U.S.'s food and fiber while 35 percent of the Russian people are committed to this effort. He said private versus public control is the key issue in the U.S. He said on 1978 campaign prospects: "How you operate at the local and state level will determine how you operate on the national level."

The dinner raised funds for the Republican Legislative Campaign Committee. Among members are Senate Minority Leader John Conway, Lincoln-Otero; Sen. Kenneth Schilenz, Tucuman; Sen. Willie Chavez, Belen, and Reps. Pat Heth, Belen; John Bigbee, Guadalupe-DeBaca-Lincoln Torrance; Von Rue Crawford, Hidalgo-Luna; Murray Ryan, Sierra-Grant; Vernon Kerr, Los Alamos; Colin McMillan, DeBaca-Chaves, and House Minority Leader Hoyt Pattison, Curry-Roosevelt-Lea.

State Engineer Steve Reynolds filed a Chaves County District Court suit to adjudicate interrelated water rights of the Pecos River and its surface and ground-water tributaries. A call issued March 11, 1976, by Carlsbad Irrigation District to Reynolds to administer Pecos River waters under the doctrine of prior appropriation sparked the suit.

Most Pecos River water rights were adjudicated earlier in Reynolds vs. Lewis in Chaves County District Court. Reynolds' new motion asks the court for leave to file a supplemental complaint in the Lewis case. Reynolds says this would be a basis to administer interrelated water rights on the Pecos River according to the New Mexico constitution and laws. Farmers, ranchers, cities and property owners on the Pecos River are affected by the complex, controversial issue.

The State Highway Commission called for bids Sept. 16 on a whopping 14 projects. Among the projects: Sierra County, 10.9 miles of Interstate 25 from 8.2 miles north of Truth or Consequences from north Mitchell Point interchange north; Mora-Colfax Counties, rehabilitation of Fort Union rest area and scenic overlook drive Thaxton rest area on I-25; Guadalupe County, 5 of one mile from Vaughn east on US-60-285; Quay and San Miguel Counties, 6 miles on NM-104 from about one mile west of San Miguel-Quay County line southeast to Tucuman.

Also, Taos County, 4 of one mile at NM-68-Holy Cross Drive intersection;

Guadalupe County, replacement of two wooden bridges and 2-lane construction, total length, 1.6 miles, from 3 miles south of NM-91-NM-203 junction south; Valencia County, 1.9 miles, County road 37, Chuckhole Lane and Village of Bosque Farms; Lincoln County, replacement of bridge and repairs to bridge on US-54-NM-37.

Albuquerquean Harry Saulsbury complained in a letter Aug. 20 to Senate Majority Leader C. B. Trujillo, D-Taos, against Continental Telephone Co. service at his summer home near Elephant Butte Lake. Saulsbury said formerly he could get phone service put on "vacation disconnect" in winter or summer, pay half price and then order full service restored.

But Saulsbury said: "No more. Vacation service is now limited to 4 months and a fee of almost $20 is charged to re-establish service." He added: "There is no repair service on Saturday or Sunday. My phone was out on a Saturday morning, I made four trips (5 miles round trip) on Saturday to report the trouble and another three on Sunday. The service was restored at 8:10 a.m. Monday."

The new corporate assessed valuation of Phelps Dodge Corp. in Hidalgo and Grant Counties is $115,596,583, up a big $33,987,049 over 1976 for property tax purposes. The State Property Tax Department said Phelps Dodge's Playas refinery went on stream and production was increased in 1976. The two factors account for the big valuation boost. Kennecott Copper Corp.'s valuation was $28,033,252, up $6,272,271.

Valuation of Molybdenum Corporation of America, Questa, Taos County, is $9,029,417; up $1,049,827 over 1976. Southwestern Public Service Co.'s new valuation is $19,281,573, up $693,865. It owns property in Curry, Chaves, Eddy, Lea and Roosevelt Counties. Lea County Electric Cooperative, Lovington, was assessed at $5,334,903, down $317,798 from 1976. Jemez Mountains Electric Cooperative, Espanola, was assessed at $2,814,775, up $70,831.

National Republican Chairman William Brock of Tennessee said in an interview at a Pojoaque reception hosted by national Committeewoman Frances Shipman that President Carter's energy program "is a disaster." Brock said: "We're going to work on state legislatures, local offices and governors."

Gov. Jerry Apodaca reappointed Dean D. Meyer, Espanola, a consultant at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories, to the Radiation Technical Advisory Council. Warren Petroleum Co. asked the State Environmental Improvement agency for a permit to build a new natural gas treatment plant 10 miles southwest of Maljamar. The deadline is Friday (Sept. 2) for comments to EIA on the Warren Petroleum application. A major meeting at Clovis centered on dealing with the threat of potential natural gas shortages in East Central New Mexico and use of state royalty gas in interstate pipelines to ease shortages.

THE ALIEN CONNECTION

President Jimmy Carter may soon declare amnesty for illegal aliens who have lived in this country for seven years. For the illegal aliens this proposal is great news. For the people who must implement the program, as well as those who have field duty, the proposal represents another mountain of red tape and frustration.

The misbegotten concept is that the agents of the Immigration and Naturalization Service could then concentrate on doing a better job of keeping new illegals out of the country. What they are more likely to find is that an illegal alien who has been in the country for one day will be able to prove that he has just completed his seventh year as a farm laborer and therefore is eligible for the amnesty program.

It is very probable that the declaration, if and when it comes, will create more loopholes and more problems with enforcement. Agents will find they cannot enforce the immigration law because of the immigration policy and the deftness of the lawbreaker. But as many problems as the directive may create as far as enforcement is concerned, it definitely represents a new twist in government's attitude toward the illegal alien. And it may be a more realistic attitude.

Illegal aliens have long been considered an annoyance because of the argument that they take jobs from Americans and that illegals siphon benefits from welfare programs.

The fact that aliens can find jobs in America is not an indication that they are taking jobs away from Americans. The case is that Americans are leaving jobs for the illegal aliens. The across-the-border flow would soon be a trickle if there were no jobs, but Americans have priced the aliens into making the chance worthwhile. The Immigration Service's effectiveness only reinforces.

If the flow were suddenly stopped by means of a ten-foot high wall, barbed-wire and more border agents, we would probably see a new underground labor market in this country where all legislation passed in this century to protect workers would be ignored.

So the government must continue to allow the flow to keep the system intact. Studies have indicated that aliens attempt to avoid contact with the government at any level and make remarkably little use of welfare programs. That will change with amnesty.

But that cost may not be anywhere near the cost of ferreting out illegals, giving them paid education in our prison system, or shipping them back to Mexico. By concentrating efforts on controlling the flow of new illegals, the Immigration Service can direct its energies on border crossings, rather than the inhumane and ineffective program of deportation.

Then in another seven years the government can establish amnesty. And so on and so on until either the law is changed and there are no illegals or the government is willing to back up the law and accept the consequences.—The News, Rupert, Idaho

VACILLATING MEANY

George Meany ... voluble president of the AFL-CIO ... is exhibiting his ability as an "off again, on again Finnegan", by throwing his support behind Our Jimmy to have the United States cease and desist in Panama Canal control come year 2000.

Incidentally ... AFL-CIO breaks down to American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations, which has little to do with Meany's backing the President in any manner, shape or form that will give labor whatever present and future advantages they'll keep on seeking.

Odd, though, it only took three months for old Meany ... and at 83 he ain't no young whippersnapper ... to change his tune about Our Jimmy ... which should be cause to worry about what Meany knows that'll happen at the Panama Canal in 2000 ... and from the way Meany's acting, he intends to be at the helm of the AFL-CIO to see that it does happen ... providing there are any US labor members working on the Canal at that time.

Yup ... when it comes to keeping wind in his sails, Meany isn't a bit fussy about from which direction the blowing comes.

BREATHIN' SPELL AHEAD

Practically everyone ... students in the Ruidoso school system excepted, especially little boys with more important things to tend to than lessons ... are fixin' for a let-down come September 6 ... 'cause the track'll be quiet ... those persons catering to our summer guests will be vacationing ... and driving up or down Sudderth, or angling across same by foot, won't be nearly as interesting ... or time consuming ... or offer as many hair-raising opportunities ... and, by jinkies, it'll be sorta comforting ... for a spell.

Brace yourselves, though ... along about Yom Kippur ... give or take a day or three either way ... the motorcycle conventioners will arrive ... and Till Thompson is expecting 3,500 and more money-toting free-spending cyclists to commence to begin to start gathering for the Aspencade festivities. Now that's a heap of cyclists ... but they're mostly fine folks, the kind you'd welcome as neighbors ... and it's for certain that those ponying up money for convention badges aren't the kind of people you wouldn't want for neighbors.

So ... go ahead, rest easy ... relax ... restock ... regroup ... and remember ... no sooner'n the cycles depart these hills for wherever, the jackasses will be gearing up for Mule-O-Rama ... and it'll be mid-October before you know it ... and then'll come that period of respite ... and it'll be sista time right here in Harmony Valley ... and all eyes can focus on Old Baldy of a morning ... and speculate on when there'll be sufficient snow to bring the sking Texans to our slopes.

Gadzooks ... it boggles the mind to think that the last carload of skiers'll probably meet the first of the horsemen's entourage smack dab atop of Apache Summit ... just before the '78 meeting at Ruidoso Downs gets underway ... which means it "down time" in the nation's business circles was the same as in Ruidoso the gross national product'd be in no danger.

FOR THE WEEKEND

For the non-horsy types, today's the day to lay in your supplies for the weekend ... 'cause the action at Ruidoso Downs'll have people on our streets in a super abundance ... and there's nothing like being off the streets and in your own back yard if'n you don't feel moved to venture out to the track ... and keep in mind about the only interesting developments you'll get involved with at home this weekend will be family discussions ... which might wind up with some noggin' crackin' ... but no bent fenders.

And who'll see the first golden aspen leaf ... and report the first frosted peony ... with or without benefit of a comforting glass of ice tea?

BRIEF BIT: You'd almost think that Attorney General Toney Anaya is genuinely interested in all phases of Fortuna's in-state operations ... CD

BEMIS HEIGHTS

While Washington was attempting to defend Philadelphia, the situation in New York was slowly reaching a crisis point. General Burgoyne, after his failure to capture American stores at Bennington, Vermont, found his situation getting more grave each day.

Burgoyne then resolved that he must push on to Albany to get the things he needed. On September 14 he crossed to the west side of the Hudson River. Since no bridges were available, he was stopped until he devised a bridge of boats that allowed his force to move across the river.

On the west bank he moved against an entrenched position that General Gates had established at Bemis Heights. This was the first test of Gates since he had replaced Schuyler as commander in the northern district. Gates had about 8,000 men under his command with additional state militiamen arriving daily.

The battle at Bemis Heights occurred on September 19 when Burgoyne attempted to gain high ground on Gates' left side. The American force at Freeman's Farm commanded by General Daniel Morgan and Colonel Henry Dearborn fought a spectacular holding action and prevented Burgoyne from gaining his objective. British forces did gain ground but were held off Bemis Heights.

The losses were high here as they had been at Brandywine Creek a week earlier.

At Bemis Heights British losses were about 600 and Americans killed numbered about 300. These were troops that neither side could really afford to lose.

Although Burgoyne had not been stopped in his planned southward march, he was finding the going much rougher than he had anticipated. The planned and coordinated attack on American forces had been seriously disrupted. He still had the opportunity to strike a decisive blow against American forces, but unless he made a major breakthrough soon he might lose the opportunity.

In Spanish New Mexico conditions remained basically calm. Attention was always turned to the problem of adequate water and the production of food from the often unyielding soil. Tensions were always present because of the possibility of serious conflict with the Indians. Economic survival and military protection were such overriding concerns that little time was available for social and recreational activities. Many of these types of activities centered on the Church since it played such a prominent role in Spanish colonial life.

The social activities carried on in New Mexico were a blend of Spanish customs and practices as modified by the culture and physical conditions of North America. Donald W. Whisenand, history professor, Eastern New Mexico University.

A Doctor Who Makes House Calls—At 90

In most respects, Dr. Robert C. Simpson of Amsterdam, New York, is much like other physicians: he makes hospital rounds in the morning and has office hours in the afternoon.

But Dr. Simpson differs from his fellow doctors in two ways: he makes house calls and he is 90 years old.

After graduation from Albany Medical College in 1915, Dr. Simpson enlisted in the military and served as a doctor in France during World War I. When his tour of duty was over, he practiced medicine in New York City for five years before returning to Amsterdam, where he was employed for the next 35 years as an industrial surgeon by a large corporation.

"I've always liked to be busy, so after I retired I returned to private practice," Dr. Simpson told a writer from The National Council on the Aging.

Because he believes in paying personal attention to his patients, Dr. Simpson's caseload is not as great as that of many contemporary physicians.

"I don't believe in seeing 40 patients a day," he said. "If a doctor sees that many patients in one day I don't see how he can do them much good. A doctor needs to spend time with an individual in order to help him."

Making house calls is in keeping with Dr. Simpson's philosophy of medicine.

"Nowadays, when people get sick they go to the emergency room of their local hospital and wait two or three hours before they see a doctor," he said. "The last thing a person with a temperature of 103 or 104 needs is to sit around in a drafty hospital where he can get pneumonia. A person that is sick should be home in bed and the doctor should attend to him there."

Over the span of his more than 60 years of practicing medicine, Dr. Simpson has seen the development and implementation of many medical innovations which in their day were considered miracles and today are taken for granted.

"I'd hate to be put on the spot and asked to name the one that's most important," Dr. Simpson said. "I do feel that the present trend in medicine is towards immunology. The recent swine flu program, even though it was controversial, is a good case in point."

He feels that the biggest change in medical care is over-specialization and considers it one of the main causes of rising medical costs.

"It's gotten to the point where a person has to go to a different doctor for each nostril," Dr. Simpson said wryly. "I remember the days when I used to perform an appendectomy for $10 and deliver a baby for $20."

"And my main concern was the health of my patients," he continued. "If a person couldn't pay for my services immediately, I still cared for them."

Because of his commitment to practicing medicine and the care of his patients, Dr. Simpson has no plans for retiring.

"People need doctors and I like to keep busy," he said. "I told a colleague of mine that when he sees me slowing down he should tell me and I'll quit. That hasn't happened yet and the way I feel I think I'll be making house calls for quite a while."

THE RETIREMENT PARTY

a segment of "The Jeffersons" will air June 13 on CBS (check local listings for time and station). The episode deals with retirement in a witty, informative way. To share your opinions about the show with the producers, write to: Don Nicholl, 5746 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Cal. 90028.

A RECENT income tax bill amendment would permit taxpayers to amend their 1976 tax returns to claim credit on either the old "retirement income tax credit" or the new "elderly tax credit" — whichever would be more advantageous. As estimated 165,000 older people could be affected by this proposal if enacted.
