

Traffic safety devices to be installed here

Plans for the installation of the long awaited plowable markers on State Road (SR) 37 through the village and traffic signals at two locations in the village are continuing, according to officials with the State Highway Department.

According to Charles Armijo, road design section of the department, the raised plowable markers, intended to separate opposing lanes of traffic should be installed on SR-37 by October 14.

He said the contractor, Dallas, Texas based Pavement Specialists, has until that date to make sure the markers are in, before it becomes financially penalized by the highway department.

Contractor Gardner-Zenke, El Paso, Texas is awaiting delivery of the components for the traffic control devices before the firm begins installation. Highway Department District Construction Engineer Cecil Gilbert said.

He said the firm, under the terms of a state contract, will have 90 days after reception of the materials to install the stop lights before late penalties are assessed.

He said he expects delivery of the materials within the month.

"It shouldn't be too much longer before they're in," he added, "it shouldn't take anywhere near 90 days."

The traffic signals are slated for installation at the intersection of Cedar Creek Road and Sudderth Drive (at the mouth of Paradise Canyon), and on Sudderth Drive where it joins SR 37, across from the Big-T Drive In.

The bid was awarded to Gardner-Zenke on June 16.

The raised plowable markers are to be installed starting north of the First Baptist Church on Mechem and extending south and east for the remainder of SR 37 to its junction with Highway 70.

The markers will be spaced about 80 feet apart and are designed to rise above the pavement surface. Each end of the marker is beveled to deflect a snow plow. However, highway department officials warn the markers can be uprooted by a plow striking the devices from the side.

Pavement Specialists' bid of $36,492.30 was low out of three bids submitted by contracting firms from New Mexico and Texas.

The project will receive 100 percent federal funding under a federal traffic safety program.

Officials said the raised plowable markers are being installed on an experimental basis. They added that if they don't work, a special epoxy based paint may be applied as a center line for SR-37 in Ruidoso.

August construction pegged at $643,740

August construction growth in Ruidoso was pegged at $643,740, as indicated by building permits retained in the Ruidoso Village Hall.

The figure dipped from the $966,210 July total and is down from $756,600 worth of construction initiated in the village during August of last year.

Of the total figure, $531,960 went toward the start of construction for 15 single-family housing units, establishing the average construction price of a home begun during August at $35,464.

The remainder of the figure went toward remodeling, commercial and storage shed projects including, $48,300 declared for the value of a new sid shop being constructed in Town and Country North by Steve Kessler.

The 26 building permits issued last month generated $1,204.50 for the village in issuance fees.

For a complete list of building permits, by subdivision, issued by the village, see page two of today's Ruidoso News.

Youth dies after cycle, car mishap

Ronnie Looten, 17, Ruidoso, died at 12:50 p.m., Friday in Providence Hospital, El Paso, Texas, of head injuries following a 5 p.m., Thursday motorcycle/car accident near the west entrance to the Ruidoso Post Office. The youth, who was not wearing protective head gear, was taken to the El Paso hospital by helicopter.

A motorcycle ridden by Mr. Looten, the investigating Ruidoso police officer said, collided with a car driven by Daisy Davis, 82, Ruidoso, as the Davis car was making a left turn. Davis has been cited for "vehicle turning left at intersection, including driveway."

Services for Mr. Looten, son of Dixie Looten of Ruidoso, are scheduled for 2 p.m., today at First Christian Church, Ruidoso, with Clarke's Chapel of Roses Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Hospital seeks ICU update

Members of the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVH) medical staff presented a request for community support to update the intensive care unit (ICU) during the Thursday Service Club Council meeting.

"A patient in the hospital has the best care we have to offer, which is a great deal, but we have had to send patients to other towns because what we have is not adequate for their cases," Dr. Michael O. Stone said.

"We give good care, but we could give better."

The situation "could be rectified by equipment. We have the nurses and we have the docs" though a little structural change at the hospital is needed.

Stone listed necessary equipment as new monitoring systems and beds, which cost approximately $40,000 to $60,000, RHVH administrator Ken Moore said.

"The facility has been adequate until now," Dr. William Doell said, adding the most necessary change is an ICU nursing station with a constant attendant. "Presently, we have a two bed ICU with a monitor at the main nursing station, but there is no one to watch it constantly," he said.

"Heart attack is the number one killer," Dr. Stone said. "Arythmia or dysrhythmias, irregularities of the heart beat causing insufficient blood to the brain, are easy to handle, but it has to be visible in a certain period of time."

The two physicians agreed the need for a updated ICU has arisen because of the rapid growth of Ruidoso.

"It may be a village, but it has city pathology," Stone said. "I'm astonished with the wide variety of diseases."

"We have cases similar to those in Albuquerque, El Paso's William Beaumont (Army Medical Center) and Virginia because of the number of people who pass through the town."

"This is a plea for more decent equipment for the ICU in an effort to keep up with the progress of Ruidoso." The medical staff and RHVH administration has requested community support because "we don't have the money left after expenses and we can't generate it internally, so we must go to the outside," Moore said, suggesting a community panel to spearhead a fund drive be organized.

In other business, the council: — Selected September 28-30 for the semiannual village clean-up drive.

Included in the drive activities are compilation of a list of objectional areas in the village, a pick up day by the Salvation Army and continued free dumping at the sanitary landfill.

— Heard an invitation from Cathy Annala, Lincoln County Coordinator for the Joe Skeen campaign, to attend the September 21 fund raising dance in the Chaparral Convention Center.

construction of the airport would impact a much larger area, but I do not accept the suggestion that the construction of the airport would totally destroy the NMSU project.

"New Mexico is a growing state and the research being conducted by NMSU also should take into account the practical impact of the new development. As our state grows, the amount and the remoteness of grazing lands will be less and we will have to learn to raise our livestock under such conditions."

Runnels wrote, "The economic benefits to Lincoln County in the construction of a new airport, in my view, far outweigh any benefits provided area residents by the NMSU livestock research. It has been emphasized in political campaign after political campaign in our state that new jobs must be provided in order to develop many areas of the state that presently do not have the economic base to support new growth. Lincoln County is one area with a growing need for new job opportunities for its young people.

"The construction of this new airport offers the promise of new economic benefits to communities such as Ruidoso and Capitan in addition to the Mescalero Apache Tribe which has been actively seeking new economic development with federal assistance.

Runnels concluded, "There is a

Conventioners to hear politicians

New Mexico's candidates for governor will be featured the second day of the 51st Anniversary Year Convention of the New Mexico Savings and Loan League here September 21.

Democrat Bruce King and Republican Joe Skeen will both make brief speeches and field-questions-during the noon-luncheon Thursday, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods according to league president Bill McAlpin, president of Pioneer Savings and Trust Association, Roswell.

The candidates will be preceded by Elliot Gregg, Southwest Savings, Santa Fe, who will present his award-winning five minute speech sponsored by the Institute of Financial Education.

Friday morning United States Senator Jake Garn, Utah, will be featured speaker at the league's breakfast.

McAlpin said Garn has gained national prominence as an advocate of fiscal conservatism, protection of small business and a critic of government over regulation. He said Garn, as a member of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, had successfully sponsored legislation to revitalize urban neighborhoods and to simplify the credit procedure for real estate settlements.

McAlpin also noted that all critical legislation affecting the savings and loan business goes through the Senate Banking Committee.

Thursday morning, John Hardin of Rock Hill, South Carolina will give a keynote talk for the convention. He is the immediate past president of the United States League of Savings Associates and a nationally recognized industry leader, McAlpin said.

He added that Hardin will be followed by James A. Coles, President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock, Arkansas; Arthur Edgeworth, United States Savings and Loan League Vice President in charge of Washington operations, and Dr. Ron Schillereff of Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Thursday's program also includes an annual business meeting plus cocktails and western party.

Following Senator Garn Friday will be Alvis Vandygriff, president of the National Association of Savings and Loan Supervisors and commissioner of the State of Texas Savings and Loan Department. Cecil Peters, executive vice president of S&L Communications, Incorporated, and affiliate of the Texas Savings and Loan League will present a talk following Vandygriff.

A regulatory panel consisting of Glenn Bassett, vice president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock, and Art Ortiz, Director and Snider Campbell, savings and loan supervisor, both with the New Mexico Financial Institutions Division, Santa Fe, will end the Friday morning session.

McAlpin said the convention will conclude following the Friday luncheon which will feature Charley Willey, Moline, Illinois, one of America's top 40 speakers.

The three day convention is expected to attract more than 350 men and women in the savings and loan business in New Mexico and nearby states, McAlpin said.

He added that this should be the league's biggest convention ever.

The league convention starts Wednesday with golf and tennis tournaments and the president's reception that evening, McAlpin said.

Fall cleanup program set

The fall cleanup campaign in Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, to prepare the twin villages for Aspencade's activities, is scheduled for September 28-30, Barbara Duff, president of the Service Club Council, announced today.

"During these three days," Duff said, "we hope to remove all unsightly piles of debris, get rid of abandoned cars and discarded major appliances and, generally, have the villages really clean for our fall visitors."

Duff outlined procedures to be followed in this drive:

— Anyone with a truck, or trucks, available to haul refuse September 30, with or without a driver, should contact Mark Mullholland.

— Unsightly areas should be reported to the Chamber of Commerce.

— Abandoned cars or other vehicles should be reported to Frank Potter at Ruidoso Village Hall.

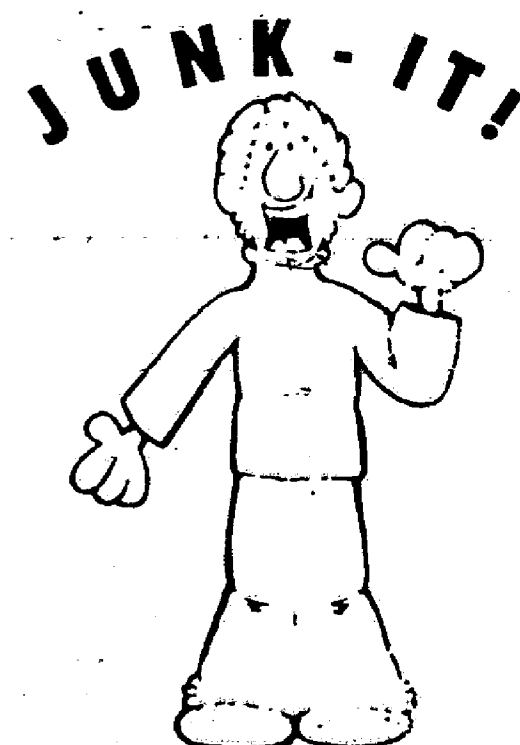

— Persons with equipment suitable for towing abandoned cars should register with Potter.

— Discarded refrigerators, stoves, davenports and other large items should be reported to the Chamber of Commerce.

— Used, but serviceable, clothing should be saved for pickup by the Salvation Army of Roswell. Details on this pickup will be announced.

"If everyone concerned will cooperate as they did during the spring cleanup," Duff said, "we'll have the cleanest twin cities in New Mexico, going into our beautiful and busy Aspencade season."

FRITZ WEAVER and SALOME JENS are featured in the Jolly Corner, by Henry James; one of nine short stories on film in the series titled The American Short Story. These stories will be presented at the Ruidoso Public Library on nine consecutive Monday evenings starting September 18. The Altrusa Club in cooperation with the Public Library is sponsoring the program which is made possible by a grant from the New Mexico Humanities Council. The story: Spencer Brydon returns to New York from England 35 years after fleeing the Civil War. At once repelled and attracted by the American lust for profit and power, he wonders what he would have been like, had he never left the United States. On one of his frequent visits to the home of his youth, he encounters his other, ghostly identity — a grotesque variation of himself. The experience shocks him, yet it opens up the possibilities of a future that includes love.

legitimate need for both new growth and additional livestock research. In my opinion both of these goals can be advanced and I don't see the construction of a new jet capable airport as detrimental to the overall research program being conducted by NMSU. Approval of this application for the use of public lands would be in the best interest of the vast majority of the area residents of Lincoln County, outweighing the special interests of New Mexico State University in maintaining control of all the land.

"Therefore, unless overwhelming evidence can be provided that indicates that the research program of New Mexico State University will be seriously damaged by the proposed airport, it would be my recommendation that the BLM approve the request for the FAA for use of this land."

During the hearing State Senator John Conway said, "NMSU has taken a rather hard line which is not tenable with the growth of Ruidoso. (I would) urge NMSU to work with the community of Ruidoso."

Opposition to the airport was presented at the hearing by ranchers and representatives of various cattle and wildlife associations. Written comments were available from various organizations including the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association.

In opposition to the site, Bob Scribner, High Mesa Ranch, said, "We have a good airport, if you are a competent pilot. If you're not a competent pilot you don't belong."

"I spoke with a county commissioner who is strongly in favor (of the project) and he had no idea of the cost to run (an airport)," Scribner said, adding the commissioner had "no fiscal responsibility."

If the airport site were approved and the project begun, Scribner said, "Our tax dollar will eat us alive."

O.R. Lamb, Capitan, said he opposed the project because it represented "economic gains for a few, not the majority."

He also expressed concern about noise impact. "We live within four miles of the (proposed airport) and we want to live in peace and quiet and that's the way I want to keep it."

President of the Chamber of Commerce Dave Wilson said, "Winter tourism is Ruidoso's largest potential growth area, and transportation, especially for tour packages, is an important key to realizing this potential. Air transportation on the scale necessary is impossible with the current Ruidoso airport, and any site more remotely located than the proposed Fort Stanton facility would be of greatly reduced benefit due to problems with arranging effective ground transportation support."

Wilson said the airport would give Ruidoso a competitive edge on the increasing skiing market from Mexico which makes connections through El Paso. "The benefit (of the airport) reaches far beyond the money spent in Ruidoso businesses. The state receives more in tax dollars from our tourists than it spends in Lincoln County, and people introduced to New Mexico through easy air transportation are potential return visitors to other areas of the state.

"To wrap up the viewpoint of the Ruidoso Valley chamber of Commerce in this matter, let me make the following points: 1.) We agree a new airport is urgently needed. 2.) We can demonstrate that a site close to Ruidoso is necessary and that the Fort Stanton mesa is the only possible locale meeting that criteria. 3.) We feel that the NMSU research project is putting on a front of inflexibility, perhaps hoping superior political muscle and inside contacts with the BLM will carry the issue their way."

"We don't want to destroy their (NMSU's) project and we sincerely hope they will not be permitted to destroy ours."

A. D. Brownfield Jr., Deming, wrote, "Let us suppose that the cities of Santa Fe and Taos should determine that they must combine their efforts to establish an airport capable of handling the largest jet aircraft of the major airlines. In their evaluation of possible sites, the one determined most suitable was occupied by the Los Alamos Meson Physics Facility. Would they have the temerity to propose the elimination of the research in progress there, to better accommodate those who might travel from New York, San Francisco, London or Paris?"

"I think not. The labors of the scientists at Los Alamos are of a nature which gives them a great deal of public exposure and recognition. The labors of the scientists at Fort Stanton gain little recognition in comparison, but are of no less importance to the future of mankind."

Hop Smith, representative of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, said, "We support the airport and we are one of the biggest cattle owners in the southwest. The airport would be good for the economy of the whole area and the surrounding (counties)."

"Most of you here (protesting the site) don't live here, yet you oppose what the residents want. How many of you have been to the site and have seen it?"

Ed Hyman, Ruidoso, said, "We are more than a one crop state. Another crop (in addition to cattle) is tourism and the Ruidoso area is a prime location for our tourist crop."

"Ruidoso is second to Albuquerque for tax revenue," he said, adding the proposed airport would generate more tourist dollars and more revenue for the state.

Patrick Uhr, Ruidoso, said, "Unlike many of you here, I live here and I work here."

"Ruidoso is the year 'round playground of the southwest which attracts a great deal of tourist revenue ... The present airport is smack-dab-in-the-center-of-town, primitive, in an area which has the best horse racing and finest skiing."

"You are considering feeding Africa. Think about us and what (the airport) could bring to the area."

Uhr questioned "such organized opposition from organizations outside the area" to the regional airport proposal.

The BLM office in Roswell will accept written comment until September 29 on the proposed airport site, Smokey O'Connor, regional director, said at the hearing.

P & Z sets workshop

Members of the Ruidoso Board of Trustees will attend a special work session of the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Wednesday night in order to help provide input and clear up some of the special problems that have confronted the commission in recent months.

Topping the informal agenda will be discussion of the growth potential of the Ruidoso area as regards to the availability of water and sewer services.

The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m., in the Ruidoso Library.

According to P&Z chairman Mike Waldron, the meeting is a fact finding endeavor.

"We're just trying to get our heads together to find out what the trustees want," he said, "We're having problems all the way from zoning to trying to clean up the town."

Among the topics Waldron listed as possible points of discussion were, definition of zoning variances, the possibility of drafting comprehensive ordinances regarding mobile homes, recreational vehicles, and signs; the possibility of increasing public hearing fees, and the possibility of establishing several types of districts within commercially zoned property.

Man stabbed

A 21-year old Ruidoso man was admitted to the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital last night for treatment of multiple lacerations of the arm following a knifing incident in front of the Buckaroo Lounge.

Danny Carter was held under observation through the night in the hospital. He is slated to be released today.

A spokesman for the Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department said no suspects have been arrested in connection with the incident. He added that an investigation is continuing.

'Hap' Dalton truly Fair oldtimer

The long-running 41-year-old history of the New Mexico State Fair has been paralleled by a 70-year-old, blue-eyed and still youthful L.C. "Hap" Dalton, who has worked at every fair since 1938.

Since 1946, Dalton has been in charge of the Youth Hall, the Junior livestock and Junior Exhibit at the fair and since 1942 has supervised the fair's Swine Department.

"When I first came to the State Fair," Dalton said, "we had three buildings and about 150 kids showed up. They lived in tents and we happened to keep the hogs in tents too. One night, the tents blew down and we had kids and hogs running around all over the place."

Last year, Dalton supervised more than 1,100 youngsters who stayed at the Fair's Youth Hall and this year he expects a couple of hundred more boarders.

"We can accommodate about 800 young people at a time," Dalton continued, "but not everybody stays for the whole show."

When he's not at the fairgrounds, Dalton is the executive director of the New Mexico Vocational Association with headquarters in Las Cruces.

"I used to teach at New Mexico State and was state superintendent of vocational agriculture for 25 years," Dalton said. "Now, I'm president of the Senior Center in Las Cruces, so I guess you can say I've switched partially from the young folks to the older folks."

Dalton looks on his long association with the New Mexico State Fair with fond memories.

What's most enjoyable, he said, "is seeing the youngsters of years gone by come back with their kids and grandkids to the new fairs. It doesn't make me feel old. In fact, it keeps me young."

Dalton said that today's youngsters are better behaved than their predecessors.

"In the old days," he said, "we had a lot more pranks and practical jokes being played by the kids. Today, they don't give me any trouble."

"I hope I'll be around for a long time to come, but maybe somebody will decide I'm too old and decide to kick me out."

With his outstanding record of service to the New Mexico State Fair, "Hap" Dalton should see many more years of service at The Biggest Show In New Mexico.

Death and grief topics of area seminar here

Death and grief were the main topics of discussion at the death and dying seminar Tuesday sponsored by the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital auxiliary and Southwest Health Care Corporation.

Aspects of death discussed by the panelists and brought up by members of the audience dealt mainly with the various ways of coping with death, factors which affect the way a person copes with death, death in a hospital versus death at home and preparation for death.

"Death is not something to fear... what (persons do fear) is the period of dying," Dr. Daniel Dansak, director of Rehabilitation and Continuing Care, New Mexico Cancer Control Program, said.

"Progress is being made on lessening the fear of dying," the Reverend Frank Crown, First Presbyterian Church, said. "But, when the time comes, we are still unprepared."

Dansak listed factors which help determine how a person will cope with death as: age, sex, social-cultural, occupation, education, religion and interpersonal relationships.

Crown said there were stages of coping with imminent death which terminal patients have experienced.

These stages include denial or "No, not me," anger or rage, envy or resentment, an attempt to bargain or "If I do the right thing, maybe I won't die," a sense of loss and a state of acceptance.

"Some accept dying from the beginning," Dansak said. "They've played the game of life and know the score."

"Some stay at the same stage until they die and some go through the stages," Dansak said occasionally patients will go through the stages and finally accept imminent death, have a remission and begin to live their lives again.

Then, the person may be struck again and be unable to cope with death approaching.

A person's attempts to cope with imminent death are "very fluctuating," Dansak said.

"The composite describes reactions and an individual's reactions vary."

He compared the stages to acceptance of death with music.

"It's like music. We make up our own symphony, changing our tune here and changing our tune there."

"It's interesting and inspiring," Dansak said some people die without accepting their coming death.

"We should make sure they are comfortable in whatever stage they're in and shouldn't feel we've lost when they die without accepting."

The Reverend Dale McCleskey said "from the viewpoint of a pastor and not a psychologist," he had found "everyone facing death faces guilt."

"For some things the dying should feel guilty and for some things they shouldn't."

"There are principles of Christian faith to help (a person experiencing guilt): forgiveness if they are truly guilty, where possible, restoration to make up for the wrongdoing and immediacy or disposition of guilt immediately, if possible."

During the seminar, the group also discussed dying in a hospital versus dying at home.

Dansak said in New Mexico 72 percent of the deaths occur at hospitals and 10 percent at home.

He said most terminal patients prefer dying at home.

"A hospital staff can only perform so much and often a patient is left to languish."

"At home there is a familiar environment and spontaneous (affection). With the family probably is the most comfortable place to die," Dansak said.

"Some patients need a hospital's care, but they are at home because it is best psychologically."

The group also discussed preparation for death, not only by the terminally ill patient but by healthy or young persons.

"We should make preparations although it probably won't happen tomorrow," Dansak said.

"The worst time to discuss a cemetery lot is at death."

Two important areas of preparation are decisions on donation of the body and on "heroic or extraordinary measures to save a life."

"On donations of the body, it should be a decision between the couple," Dansak said, adding "some churches are against donation, seeing it as mutilation."

The group also discussed signing a "living will" instructing the physician or family to use their discretion "not to perform heroic measures to save your life."

In addition to discussing death and dying, the seminar also touched on grief.

"We need to give support to a family after death" as they go through stages of grief which closely parallel the stages of dying, Dansak said.

After a death, the living will experience "shock, denial, guilt, a sense of loss, hostility and acceptance."

"During the bereavement period encourage appropriate grieving, help them get their lives together, be available and don't abandon them in grief."

"Do what you can to help, but don't make false promises."

Dansak said loss is traumatic to some. "Some people's entire meaning for existence is tied into another person."

He added, "After six months of grief, if a person doesn't begin to pull the pieces together, you might begin to worry about excessive grief. Sometimes a person might need therapeutic involvement."

As in dying, Dansak said "preparation for grief should begin before death."

"One of the best ways to care for a patient is to care for his family. Sit with the patient and family and help make them comfortable with death and grief."

The Reverend Ken Cole said, "The most trying time in my ministry has been sudden death" and resultant grief.

He gave the example of a healthy man in his 70's who was a rural farmer.

One Sunday, he was to join his wife at church and when he didn't arrive a group went to search.

They found him dead, an apparent heart attack victim.

"Although he was elderly, the death was unexpected and his wife had a difficult time accepting the death because she had hoped to die before him, resented his death with a 'how could this happen to me?' attitude and although she was a regular churchgoer, had no deep, personal, spiritual faith to help her through," Cole said.

Other topics of discussion were: — Funerals and touching the dead.

The theory of the funeral rite is certainty," Dansak said. "Every (cultural) rite has the body on display."

"Some find it upsetting... and you should judge according to individual needs."

Dansak said touch is occasionally necessary, often as a last possible affection.

— Explaining death to children.

"Most kids under the age of nine believe people have gone away and will come back. After the age of nine, they know people have gone away and don't come back."

He said if a child asks "Can this happen to me?" the only answer is "Yes."

"There's no good answer to 'Why?' The Bible and religion try to answer," Dansak said.

Young adults occasionally die violently and usually because of a "stage of omnipotence."

"They feel they can come to no harm and so drive 90 miles per hour or drink and drive."

Associate pastor named at First Christian Church

The Reverend Ken Cole, pastor of First Christian Church, has announced that Bob Street, Ft. Stockton, Texas, assumed his position as associate pastor August 15 and said that his "duties will be with youth and Christian education."

Street, a licensed lay minister, who holds a BBA from Sul Ross University, Alpine, Texas, served as associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, Ft. Stockton, the past 18 months.

Library Laurels

Kathy Moore

Starting in October of this year CBS Network's Emmy winning children's program, Captain Kangaroo will be presenting a new five-minute daily segment called Picturepages — a twenty-week program which will allow audience participation.

Picturepages "lessons" are designed to help children develop fundamental — but vitally important — learning readiness skills which are known to underlie intelligent learning behavior.

Picturepages come in a weekly 8-page booklet in 4-color on newspaper stock. There is a sample picturepage booklet on display at the library. Each booklet contains (1) five daily lessons which coincide with the television presentations (2) a section explaining the "lessons" to the parent or teacher (3) a list of activities which can be done in the home or classroom to supplement the concepts and skills presented by Captain Kangaroo.

The total cost per child is $1.00. That is, for $1.00 a child will receive 20 booklets. If you want your child to participate in this program you must stop by the library before Saturday, September 23 and pay the $1.00 fee.

RUIDOSO MUSIC, owned and operated by Doris and Bernard Baca, pictured, opened its doors for business in Ruidoso in mid-March. Featuring a full line of classical, acoustic and electric guitars and general musical supplies and accessories, Ruidoso Music is able to perform factory certified warranty repairs on most musical instruments with the exception of Martin and Gibson guitars which, Bernard said, should be sent to the factories for repairs. Ruidoso Music carries some band instruments. "We can get almost any instrument within one to seven days," Bernard said, "factory orders will take longer." The music store is now signing students for guitar lessons by Jerry Walker. Ruidoso Music is located across from the main post office and is open from 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m., closed Tuesdays and Sundays. DON RIERISON MOBILE HOMES, located across from the Chaparral Motor Hotel in Ruidoso Downs has been in business for about two years. Featuring single and double wide mobile home sales, Rierison employs a qualified staff of four to provide free delivery and set up and complete service after the sale. He said mobile housing sales have risen 47 percent in the last year in New Mexico because of costs of about half that of conventional housing. Owner/manager Don Rierison and his wife Charlott, bookkeeper and office manager, offer Redman, Chickasha, Fleetwood and Cameo (built by Lancer) mobile homes. Don Rierison Mobile Homes is open from 8 a.m.-6 p.m., seven days a week, and has been a member of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce for about six months. (Ruidoso News Photo)

Inside the Capitol

BY CARROL W. CAGLE
SANTA FE — Are the companies of the energy resource and mineral industry in New Mexico paying as much in taxes as they should to help take care of problems caused by their activities?

Strip mining, boom towns, roads and transmission lines, uranium mill tailings — all these and more are the results of the energy search being carried on by the giants of the energy industry in various quarters of the state.

In some places, the results have included plentiful jobs and instant prosperity for some. And the tax income to the state treasury has increased rapidly in recent years, both as a result of the specific "severance" tax on minerals "severed" from the earth and the more general economic spin-offs.

But are the industrial firms being taxed at a level high enough to compensate for the fact the resources will be depleted in 20 or 30 years?

To this question, some critics say that no level of taxation would produce income sufficient to compensate for the damage to New Mexico's land, water and air.

That's an answer few legislators would give, however, and it is these 112 elected officials who decide on such issues. Among the state lawmakers, the answers would more likely be divided between those who think the tax rate is okay where it is and those who think it ought to go up somewhat.

That's why, while most voters who are interested enough to check out any of the races are watching King-Skeen and Domenici-Anaya, energy company officials and other capitol lobbyists are watching places like Legislative District No. 70 in San Miguel County, District 8 in McKinley and Valencia counties, and Districts 14, 17 and 29 in Bernalillo County.

These are districts within the 70-member State House of Representatives which might produce the next chairman of the House Taxation and Revenue Committee.

The committee often has life-or-death say-so over tax legislation, and its current chairman, Representative Edward Lopez, Democrat-Santa Fe, was defeated in the June primary election.

The five districts being watched by insiders are the home base of Democratic incumbents, all members of House Speaker Walter Martinez' ruling coalition, each of whom has expressed at least a private wish to take over the tax panel.

Taxes were raised on the "severance" of uranium and coal during the 1977 legislative session. Whether these or other resources will be subjected to higher levels will be largely dependent upon whom Martinez and his top allies — should they retain House power — name to take Lopez' place.

Three of those being mentioned are assured of reelection to two-year terms starting in January, since they have no Republican opponents. They are Representatives Fred Luna of McKinley and Valencia counties, Robert N. "Bobby" Garcia of Albuquerque (vice chairman under Lopez), and Samuel F. Vigil of San Miguel County.

Also reported to be prominent contenders for the House taxation chairmanship are Albuquerque Representatives Adele Cinelli Hundley and Abel McBride. Mrs. Hundley, like Garcia, is a member of the committee now and a friend of Lopez.

McBride has been assistant Democratic floor leader and could be in line to replace Floor Leader David Salzman, who's not seeking reelection, but authoritative sources say he's also considering the tax post if he wins a tough reelection battle.

Little changes are expected in the Senate panel that handles tax bills, the Senate Finance Committee. Chairman Aubrey Dunn, Democrat-Otero, doesn't have an election this year and will be back in January.

THE KID CARVED TREE

It was whilst tooling up a byway ... above Gold Canyon ... more or less en route to the Great Western Mine site ... to eyeball the aspen whereupon it is alleged that Billy the Kid did take knife to hand to carve his name for posterity ... at the very least, an adventuresome posterity ... in four wheelers, on four loggers or on two good legs ... that mine host, Dorsey White, confided that an El Paso historian had allowed as how that particular tree could be 210 years old ... and further ... that the carving could be authentic.

Now ... there's no doubt but that the carving is authentic ... even down to the 1881 ... March 17 ... and the Billy Bonney The Kid ... 'cause I seen with my own eyes the carving. Yup ... it's authentic carving ... 'course there could be considerable doubt as to who carved on that tree ... and when.

But ... back to the bottom of the road leading up to that tree. 'Twas there good ol' boy Dorsey and I ... complete with vehicle ... paused to inspect what appeared to be a muddy spot with a solid bottom ... 'twas about three car lengths by three car lengths in size. Whilst pausing there ... on solid ground ... surveying the situation ... we uns decided ... if I got the four wheel drive into grandmaw ... and stuck my foot in the carburetor ... we'd sail through that slickery old mud, quicker'n a hen getting off'n a hot johnny cake.

Anyhow ... with all four barrels barreling ... we hit that mud ... and ... with all four wheels grabbing ... got to within one car length of the far side ... which'd be about that far from the near side ... and there we sat ... all four wheels idly spinning away ... soggly cushioned on high center. Sure hate it when I come a cropper of these continuing attacks of the stupids.

It's not exactly the place to get stuck ... 'cause it's a far place to anywhere ... but, 'twas a day for the leprechauns to make magic ... 'cause, just up the hill there was a feller ... and where we was stuck was a beautiful cat ... and out of kindness of heart this feller ... Leland Machen, who's busily engaged in boring holes into the mountain and taking core samples therefrom ... done come down and snaked us through and onto dry ground. 'Twas a happy day in the boonies ... at least for Dorsey and me ... 'cause from the looks of that mud, it'll be a spell before it turns to dust.

Now ... back to that authenticity bit. It could be. Seems the carving coulda been done March 17, 1881 ... and it's a fact that Billy the Kid was done in July 13, 1881 ... though what he was doin', takin' out time for that carving session ... when he knowed Pat Garrett was gunnin' for him ... is a moot question.

But ... 'twas a grand day to be stuck ... 'cause it was nice 'n warm ... and there was this patch of wild raspberries nearby ... and man, was they ever good. And then there was the coffee ... back at Dorsey's house ... with his lovely wife joining in on the idle conversation ... and enjoying every moment she spent 'needing me about drivers that can't find their way through a "little-bitty old mudhole". Why ... she even hinted ... strongly ... that perhaps I should limit my driving excursions to blacktopped roads ... a hint I'm now giving serious thought.

Anyhow ... after ogling that tree ... I'm convinced The Kid just had to be a patient man ... and real cool ... and maybe a little tall ... 'cause the top of that carving's better'n six feet above the trail ... and was the trail there then?

A SHAKIN' A FOOT

By jinkies but Joe Skeen has flat up and taken a liking to Ruidoso/Ruidoso Downs ... so much that he'll be fetchin' his Mary ... to do a little man/wife shakin' a foot ... to some toe tappin' music at the Chaparral's Convention Center ... come and commencing along about 8 p.m., this coming Thursday.

And what Joe 'n Mary'd like ... is to have just whole herds of you folks sorta join them in dancin' and prancin' or whatever ... on that huge floor ... 'cause, if'n lots of folks join in the fun ... Joe and Mary won't be so conspicuous in their rug cuttin' session ... besides ... anyone as can run a successful sheep operation in those hills back of Picacho ... and find time to pollic for governor ... and all ... and still find the energy for dancing ... has got to be a pretty good old boy.

So ... if'n you're of a mind to mix a bit of pollicking with some dancing ... at $5 a head ... Joe 'n Mary ... and some other politicians ... would like to see you there.

BRIEF BIT: If'n you're kept ignorant about things ... and if'n ignorance is bliss ... it explains why there are so many blissful ignoramuses running around loose ... CD

Eddy paces Panther win

Animas quarterback Jody Eddy rushed for two touchdowns, one a 69 yard romp, leading the Animas Panthers to a hard fought 12-10 victory over the Ruidoso Warriors Friday night at Warrior Stadium.

The first time the Panthers touched the ball, Eddy engineered a seven play 65 yard drive and it appeared the Warriors were in for a long and dismal evening. The big play in the drive was a sweep around left end by Eddy that netted 20 yards. Eddy scored on the next play from the one. The extra point failed.

Ruidoso's defense stiffened from there. And midway through the second period Ruidoso took the lead 7-6 on a one yard plunge by halfback John Cabot. Mark Dutton's extra point was good.

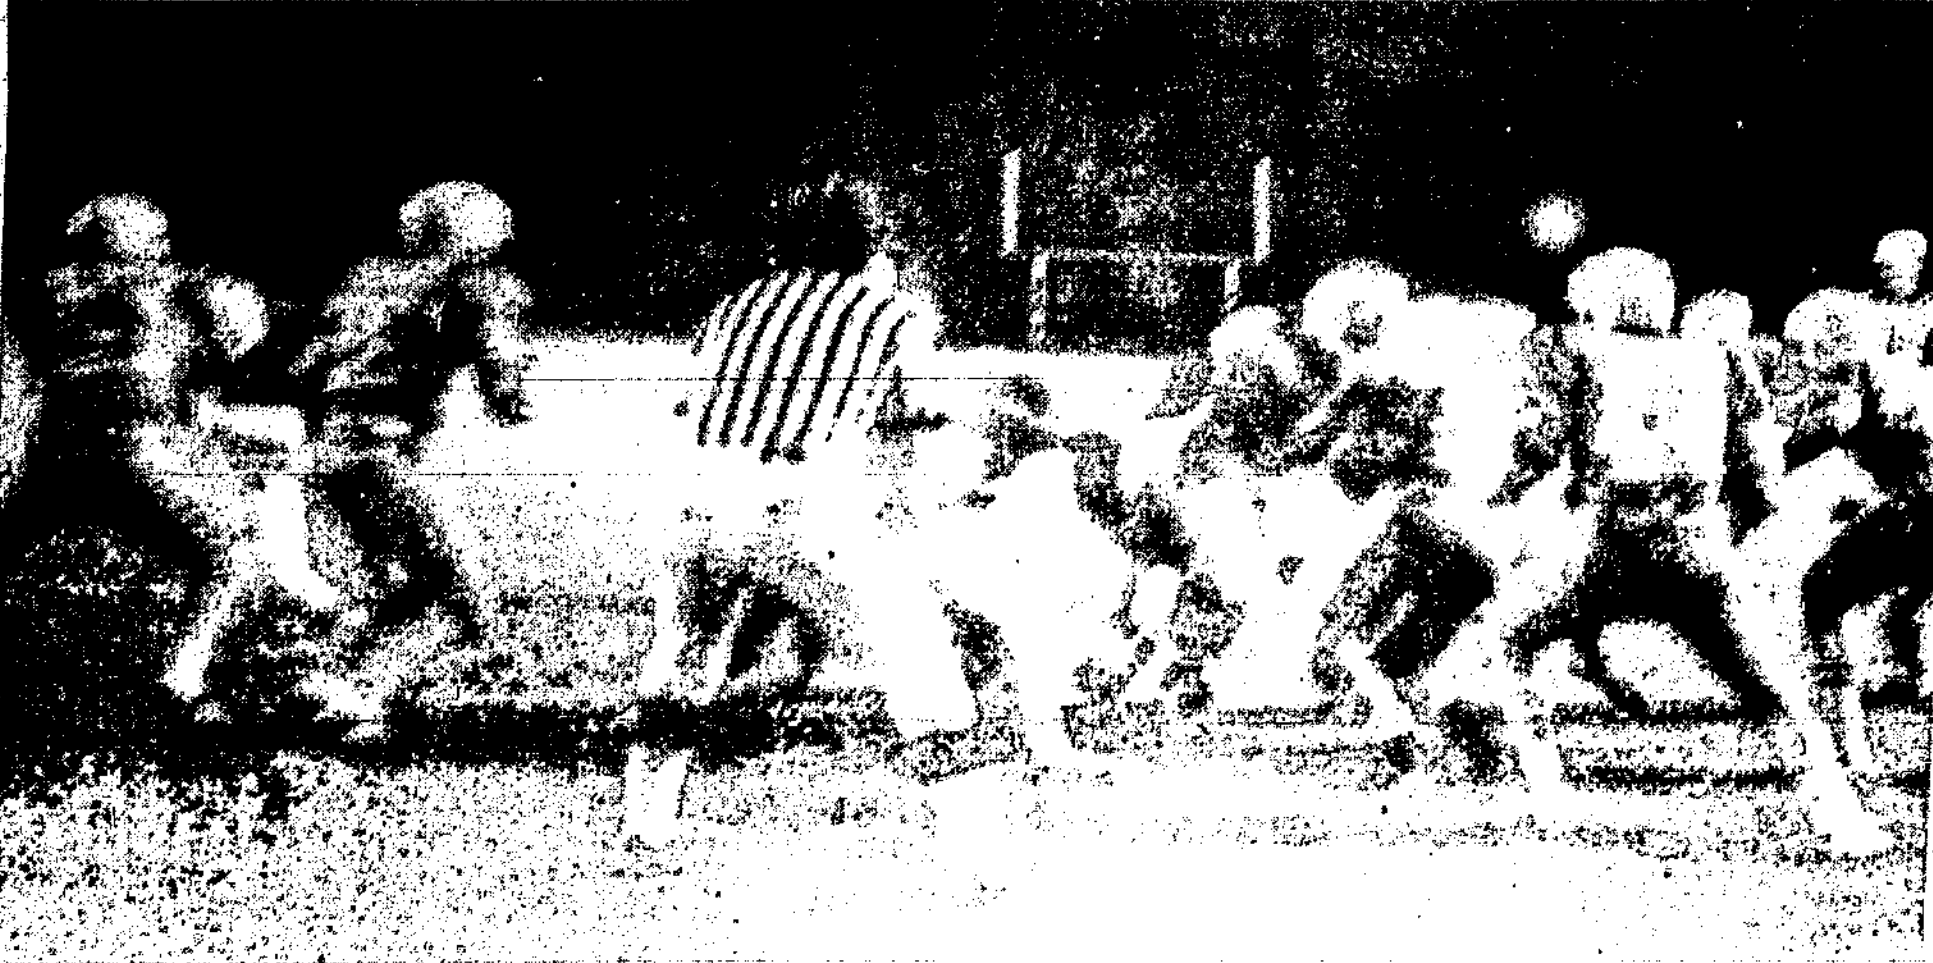

Ruidoso increased their lead when Dutton kicked a 21 yard field goal later in the period after Ray Herrera recovered a fumble at the Panther 11 yard line.

Animas took the ensuing kickoff to their own 31 yard line. On second down Eddy dropped back to pass but was forced out of the pocket by the Warrior pass rush. He rolled right, cut back to the left behind a wave of blockers, and outraced defensive back Joe Almager to the end zone for the winning points.

Warrior head coach Darrel Stierwalt was disappointed but not all that surprised by Eddy's run. He had nothing but praise for the senior quarterback.

"Jody Eddy hurt us. He can really run. We knew if he got out of the pocket he'd hurt us. Thank God he's a senior."

Despite his acknowledgment of Eddy's superlative skills, Stierwalt was disappointed by the Warrior defense. They gave up 307 yards in total offense to the Pan-touchdown on a one yard sneak. Eddy later scored on 69 yard run.

WARRIOR DEFENDERS STEVE COX [44] AND RANDY WYNN [28] arrive too late to stop Animas quarterback from scoring first quarter

"I was disappointed in the defense," he said. "They (Animas) shouldn't have gotten that much against us. They didn't do anything fancy. We let them get too many crucial first downs." Stierwalt also doesn't like the defense giving up so many yards in the middle of the field.

"We ought to dig in when they're in a hole, not after they have gained good field position."

Stierwalt had praise for the offensive line's pass blocking but not for the passing game as a whole.

"We had good pass blocking. But we're not running our patterns correctly. The receivers are not running hard enough. We dropped too many passes. We lacked a good passing attack tonight," he said.

Still Stierwalt remained optimistic. "Linebacker Steve Cox made some big tackles for us. And if we improve as much this week as we did last week we'll give Dexter a run for their money."

Rue's touchdown carries Braves

Running back Tony Rue rambled around right end with less than one minute left in the first half to lead the White Mountain Middle School Braves to a 12-6 victory over the Carrizozo Grizzlies Thursday at Warrior Stadium.

"I was impressed with our play," Brave head coach Terry Wharton said. "We eliminated almost all of our mistakes. We had only four penalties and that helped us out a lot."

Wharton was particularly pleased with the offensive and defensive line. In last week's opening game tie with Capitán, the Braves didn't have many substitutes for the line and Capitán was able to wear them down. Wharton was especially concerned about the lines before the game with Carrizozo.

"I was real pleased with the offensive and defensive lines. If it hadn't been for them we wouldn't have been able to do it (win). We just outlasted them. Everybody was in better shape than last week," Wharton said.

With the win the Braves remained unbeaten, upping their record to 1-0-1.

Volleyballers hit road tonight

The Ruidoso Warriors girls' volleyball team opens their bid for a district championship tonight at Tularosa at 6.

Coach Sergio Castanon thinks his squad is the team to beat in district play if they can gain the mark of champions — consistency.

"Consistency is the only thing we lack," Castanon said. "We've had two scrimmages and we looked good in one and bad in the other."

Other than that, Castanon said his team is strong.

"I don't think we have any weaknesses. The girls play well together. We have a good spiker and two girls who play the net very well. The serving is good. We are pretty strong in everything," he said.

Castanon counts five players from last year's squad to carry his team to the district title. Of those five, only two are starters. Still, Castanon is optimistic.

"I think we should be tops in our district. Animas is our main competition."

The Warriors open their home schedule Tuesday against Capitán A-B at 5:30 p.m.

Elk deadline set

It's deadline time again. This time it's for the application of New Mexico elk licenses. The Department of Game and Fish will not accept any applications received after 5 p.m. Wednesday September 20.

Applicants should be sure to enclose the correct fees and sign the completed application form. Fees are $22 for residents and $127 for non-residents. Applications may be obtained from any game department office or license vendor.

Everyone who applies by the deadline will receive a license as long as they did not hunt elk in New Mexico last year.

A WHITE MOUNTAIN MIDDLE SCHOOL BRAVES' running back struggles to elude the grasp of a Carrizozo tackler. This action came early in the third period of Braves' 12-6 victory at Warrior Stadium.

Wildlife tradition to be observed

The Seventh National Hunting and Fishing Day tradition will be observed at Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge September 23. An open house will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., which will feature free bus tours of the refuge, wildlife displays and demonstrations.

Bosque del Apache Refuge located 22 miles south of Socorro, is the wintering grounds of the experimental whooping crane flock. Though the whooping cranes have not yet started to arrive, visitors September 23 will be able to observe an abundance of mule deer, marsh and shore birds, plus be treated to displays by the United States Forest Service, Audubon Society, wildlife artist and others.

The free bus tours will be given at 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

TODAY, no room is complete without the carpet treatment and its popularity is well justified. It not only is a great decorating tool but carpet's contribution to the quiet of the home alone makes it deserving of the gold-star treatment.

Carpet provides safety in many areas throughout a home, particularly on stairways, in bathrooms, kitchens and in any area where a fall could lead to injuries.

The durability of carpeting as well as ease of care, gives it a special spot in the home where the action is. And why not? No more back breaking chores of scrubbing, waxing and buffing. It's certainly more comfortable to walk on and it's far less fatiguing.

With winter coming it also helps to insulate your home and eliminate those cold floors. . . Now is the time to buy and install your carpet and at Barnett Carpets, Inc. our personnel are well qualified to help you choose the correct carpet. They can also help with any decorating problems you may have.

Build our home and stop heating the great outdoors.

It's nice to know that a Lindal Cedar Home is just as practical as it is beautiful.

Take insulation for example. Every Lindal Home is specifically designed to keep you warm in the winter and cool in the summer. First of all, cedar is a natural insulator and, as our name implies, we use lots of cedar when putting together a home for you.

And then there's our outside walls - nearly 7 1/2 inches thick, with interlocking cedar on both sides and double layers of insulation in between.

Our roofs are well insulated too, and you can choose exactly the amount you need to minimize heat loss even further.

You can also get thermal windows, low-cost subfloor insulation and practically anything else that keeps your heat in and your energy costs down.

Come in and let us show you how sensible a beautiful Lindal Cedar Home can be. Or send $2 for our all-new Planbook and Design Guide featuring 60 original Lindal plans - each one flexible enough to change with your particular needs.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

Fall Whispers
A Little Song
Through The Land

The full chorus of the song of summer is more tuneful and melodious each day, as the West-wind awakens the chords on its tree-harps, the pine, the fir, the pinon and the cedar.

At sunset the songs of the wind begin to grow softer and more like a gentle lullaby, until early in the gloaming the tree frogs in the trees by the river side begin their early evening chorus, a hymn of praise to the last blending colors high in the sky, a cheerful good night sent by the sun, now beginning its journey beyond the hill top.

As the gloaming deepens into twilight and dusk, the tree frogs increase the volume of their steadily drumming elfin band; and the pulsing waves of their music echoes from river-trees out across the mountain meadows and up along the nearby hillsides, blending with the evening serenade of the crickets, strumming and singing in the ripening grass and under the pinon and cedar trees.

The golden moon is ready in the sky, and now shines its mellow light down upon the world awakening the joyful hosts of tiny music makers to happier strains of harmony.

The leaves of the oak, walnut and box elder trees now shine in soft brightness reflecting the light of the moon above.

In the moonlight the leaves move ever so slightly, dimly glistening in the early night, and you feel the gentle breeze and hear its whispered song among the moon-lighted leaves.

This is a long beloved sound, full of joyful rapture. The voice of our mother and all the loved ones is in the whispered song.

Now in the moonlight the meadow of ripening gramma grass moves in gentle waves; and the quiet little-song of the soft night breeze brings you a dreamy message.

It is the spirit of fall, the autumn and Indian Summer — whispering to you through the gladsome early night time of late summer.

And for a little while, you feel the happiness of summer and the heart-lifting joy of autumn, both together in your heart.

How kind of the Spirit of the Fall to bring just a whisper of its glorious song into the rejoicing music of late summer.

Meeting Time

Of Fall and Summer
Fall begins on the twentieth, so now we are in that little season within a season, when the summer and the autumn are with us together bringing us the blooming of the summer flowers and the ripening of the autumn fruit, and many other charms together.

We are in one of the most enchanted times of the year, with many wonderful days ahead.

Let us rejoice and thank God for our blessings.

Behind the Scenes

by Bud Tenerani

It turns out that the professional career of Joe Namath is about as well-charted as some of those passing plays that made him the most celebrated quarterback in the history of the National Football League.

Joe's move from superstar on the football field to TV star as the lead in NBC-TV's highly-touted half hour comedy series 'The Waverly Wonders,' premiering Friday, Sept. 22, didn't just happen.

"I'll never forget my first day in the Jets training camp," Joe recalled recently during a break in production. "I was just out of college and pretty much on top of the world as anyone would be I guess after signing his first contract to play professional football."

"Don Maynard, who was to become one of my close friends and already one of the Jets top receivers, came up to me in the locker room to welcome me to the club. And then he reminded me that things were rosy now and would continue to be only as long as I produced."

Preparation is a strong suit with Joe Namath. "It's just one of the many things I learned from football. No way for anyone to get by much less succeed in that game without doing the homework. So it's no big deal for me to have a knack for it. It's part of my way of doing things," Joe shrugs.

Joe's first efforts in the acting field were less than earth-shaking. But he enjoyed the work, the people and the challenge. So years before his retirement from football, he began laying the groundwork for what was to be a new career. In addition to accepting numerous TV guesting and movie offers as a means to become more comfortable in front of the cameras, Joe quietly studied drama and acting with professional coaches.

No question but the name and the incredible Namath charisma has much to do with this man's new and lofty status in the entertainment world but for any lasting success, Joe knows better than anyone else, he must produce as an actor. Thanks to a former teammate and a brief locker room conversation, Joe's ready.

PBS in the spotlight

Mehta, Serkin and the New York Philharmonic

The gala Pension Fund Benefit Concert of the New York Philharmonic, conducted by the orchestra's new music director Zubin Mehta (right), will be televised live nationally on the first LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER special of the 1978-79 season on PBS Wednesday, Sept. 20. In many areas the concert will be simulcast in stereo on FM radio stations.

The concert, featuring the first major television appearance of pianist Rudolf Serkin (left) as guest artist, will originate from the stage of the beautiful Avery Fisher Hall at Lincoln Center. The program will include Wagner's 'Rienzi' Overture, Prokofiev's 'Romeo and Juliet' excerpts and Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 5, called the 'Emperor.' Mehta will be interviewed during breaks in the telecast.

Mehta, who assumes his duties with the orchestra just six days prior to the concert, comes directly from 16 years as music director and conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Born in 1936 in Bombay, India, the son of Mehtil Mehta, the founder of the Bombay Symphony, the charismatic young conductor admits that he was "brainwashed with classical music from the cradle."

In 1958 he made his conducting debut in Vienna and later that same year won first prize in the first International Conducting Competition in Liverpool, England, earning him the position of assistant conductor of the Liverpool Philharmonic. He also served for a short time as music advisor of the Israel Philharmonic before his most famous appointment in Los Angeles.

Serkin, who this year celebrates his 75th birthday, has performed more than 100 times with the New York Philharmonic, more than any other soloist, and since 1972 has been an honorary member of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society. Internationally recognized as one of the world's great musicians, Serkin was born in Eger, Bohemia (now Czechoslovakia), in 1903 and educated in Vienna. At age 12 he debuted with the Vienna Symphony and at 17 began concertizing with a Berlin debut.

LIVE FROM LINCOLN CENTER, the recipient of two Emmy Awards, is presented by WNET/New York.

Check your local PBS station for broadcast day and time.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT. Kathy Prinze finally broke her silence for the first time to tell of the tragic life and death of her husband Freddie Prinze, who killed himself in the prime of his career, a hopeless drug addict. She believes that when Freddie put the gun to his head, "He didn't know what he was doing. He was so stoned he had no idea the gun was loaded. His death was an accident, not a suicide. Stoned on what? Cocaine and Quaaludes." Prinze, the hottest comedian in America, shot himself in January of last year. For Kathy, some of the best memories are painful now. Some of the worst times, oddly, seem funny. But she was determined to tell the whole story. For openers, Freddie Prinze was a drug addict. Drugs dominated his life. Even his marriage took second billing. At times it seemed their existence together was one long tug-of-war, Freddie wanting drugs, Kathy trying to stop him. There was other trouble too. After the birth of their only child, Freddie had an affair with his leading lady Brooke Mills, from an NBC-TV movie. And through it all, also, were the guns. Freddie was fascinated by guns. He loved to scare people and he loved to scare himself. Once, jokingly, he held a pistol to his head and pulled the trigger. Another time during an argument, he put the gun to Kathy's cheek and squeezed the trigger four times. In the end, she believes it was this morbid sense of humor in lethal conspiracy with the drugs that cost him his life.

INSIDE THE TUBE: Suzanne Somers is praying that her supersmash TV show 'Three's Company' will flop quickly in its second season. "Suzanne fears that one more year like last year will drive her over the brink into insanity!" an ABC-TV spokesman said. "The sex pressure, the hysterical fans, the super-heated stardom all are getting to her and she fears she may be on the edge of a crackup!" ... Joe Namath must figure his new TV series 'The Waverly Wonders' for a sure hit. He's just gone and plunked down $750,000 for the Neil Diamond house in Beverly Hills. What's more, he's going to have a second swimming pool installed. This one will be indoors in the basement so he can get in a swim on cool mornings. ... When the name Anson Williams appeared on a marriage license application, everybody figured it was wedding bells for Lorrie Mahaffey, longtime friend of the TV star. But now it turns out the Anson Williams who took out the license is somebody else, a Los Angeles mechanic.

TV BACKSTAGE: In suburban Hidden Hills, Bruce Boxleitner and wife Kitty Holcomb, who co-star in 'How the West Was Won,' have bought their first home. It's on an acre, comes equipped with a corral and stables and cost a mere $250,000. ... The latest word is that Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin are calling together their old buddies and forming softball teams that will play for charity. ... No use looking for Nancy Drew on 'The Hardy Boys' show next season. Janet Louise Johnson, who replaced Pamela Sue Martin midway through last season, was informed the character has been written out. ... The producers of television's 'Family' imported young Leif Garrett to become Kristy McNichol's boyfriend. Now, Leif is her boyfriend off-camera, too. It's not puppy love, either, but the real thing, insists Kristy, 15, a year younger than Leif. Got that, you sophisticated adults laughing up your sleeves? Don't be surprised if Kristy and Leif get the last laugh. ... House-hunting. That's how Bernadette Peters and Steve Martin spent a recent weekend in Beverly Hills. It could mean their romance is approaching the altar stage. Either that or they're playing Monopoly with real estate. ... Laird's Apple Jack is making great plans for National Apple Jack month come this October.
