EPOXY MIXING—Richard Rogale, Dallas, Texas, gets down to some serious epoxy mixing preparatory to installing a series of raised plowable markers on the east end of Sudderth. A diamond saw cuts a groove in the pavement where the markers are glued in place. Three rows of the markers will be installed on State Road 37 beginning at the Y, and extending two-tenths of a mile north on Mechem. See additional picture on page 2. RAISED PLOWABLE MARKERS—State Highway Department Engineer Tim Basler shows an installed reflectorized marker on State Road 37. The markers are installed in three rows. An amber reflector on the markers separates opposing lanes of traffic while red and white reflectorized markers separate lanes headed in the same direction. The markers are made of cast iron with metal protectors extending above the reflectors. They are beveled on both ends to deflect snow plows. (Ruidoso News Photo)

Campgrounds closing today

Southfork Campground will close today because of power plant failure, Jim Paxon, Forest Service recreation forester, announced Friday.

"The campground will close because the power plant blew up and there's no water. The plant was just worn out after 15 years of pumping 400,000 to 500,000 gallons a year," he said.

"We have no funds to replace it now, but hope to have it replaced by next summer." The campground, the only fee area in Smokey Bear Ranger District of Lincoln National Forest, usually closes November 30.

Oak Grove campground also will close today, which is the normally scheduled closing date.

Flying great grandfather proud of ancient Stinson

BY VICHOGSETT
Staff Writer

It must be a love affair. What else could explain a relationship that has spanned nearly half a century, endured a near air disaster and in spite of it all seems to be stronger than ever. Some might say it's just the traditional fascination man has had with flight machines.

But watching 78 year old Ed Fletcher, San Diego, California pour over his vintage 1947 Stinson Voyager, and listening to him recall the tales that have led him from Alaska to Mexico City, to the high mountain airfields of Colorado and the deserts of southern Arizona, one knows it just has to be more.

"I bought it new," Fletcher said, "I flew it away in a snow storm." He took no pains to conceal his obvious pride. He likes his airplane and he enjoys flying it. You can tell that by his willingness to take this reporter to see his bird after he landed at the Ruidoso airfield Friday despite the fact that an otherwise more attractive offer of an iced libation beckoned.

He talked about his 700 mile trip from San Diego much like a man with his first new sports car. It took him and his son, Larry, less than seven hours. En route he passed more modern machines like a twin engine Mitsubishi Mu2, the fastest production propeller craft made, that landed several minutes after Fletcher. The Mu2 was part of Fletcher's aviation club.

"Where'd you pass Bud?" one of his cohorts asked.

"I must have been over Casa Grande, wasn't it Larry?" Fletcher asked.

"Yes, he was on the ground when we passed him," Larry replied.

"Well that's the only way you're going to pass Bud," Fletcher said.

Like every love affair, Fletcher and his Stinson have had their stormy moments.

In the late sixties he attempted a landing in a 50 mile-per-hour crosswind at University Park, Michigan, a feat that would have turned much larger aircraft to more pleasant climes.

When asked what happened he replied, "We crashed."

"I sold the plane as junk for $850," he added, "My sons turned around and bought it, restored it and gave it to me on my 70th Birthday."

He said the plane, after it was restored, was none the worse for wear.

"In fact they put a metal skin on it," he said. The original Stinson came with a cloth surface.

He chalked the entire experience up to "pilot error," shrugged his shoulders and proceeded with his story.

"They call me the flying great-grandfather," Fletcher said.

"Among other things," his son piped in.

"I've got two sons," he continued undaunted, "ten grandchildren and a great-grandchild."

He was in town over the weekend along with about 20 members of the California Aviation Country Club.

The group has been engaged in what is known in aviation circles as a fly in.

"We have a tour about every month or so," Fletcher said, "we try and get out and

NMSU officials say airport would nix experiments

BY MARY WORMLEY
Staff Writer

Officials of New Mexico State University (NMSU) oppose the proposed Sierra Blanca Regional Airport, stating its construction would negate experiments underway on Fort Stanton Experimental Ranch.

The experiment perhaps most affected is the grazing rotation study, a system of pastures on the mesa grasslands.

"The airport would go through the middle of the area required for the experiment," Dr. Arnold Nelson, head of the department of animal and range science, NMSU college of agriculture, said Thursday.

"The airport would run east-west and the pastures generally are perpendicular (north and south). The center of the airport would take all the mesa grassland and leave only the north and south slopes within the pastures."

The grazing rotation study is being conducted to determine more efficient methods of using forage.

"Instead of grazing year long on one big pasture, you simply divide the pasture, as in our case, into four," he said. "The entire group of cattle grazes in one fourth of the area at a time until most of the forage is consumed. Then you move them to another area."

The rotation pastures are compared to other control pastures, which are not rotated.

NMSU is operating the experimental station under a cooperative agreement and memorandum of understanding with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) which administers the land.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has applied on behalf of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) for 3,043 acres from Fort Stanton mesa.

Controversy has arisen because SBAC claims 588 acres (new estimates show 278 acres) are needed for initial development of the jet capable airport, but NMSU claims the acreage is in the heart of their experiments with grazing rotation.

NMSU officials said not only the grazing experiments but other studies as well will be affected.

"We have several other studies in the area such as vegetative transects where we study the amount, count and kind of vegetation affected by grazing systems," Nelson said.

"We also have small plots where we study the effects of fertilization, clipping and burning of forage, muledeer habitat, movements and populations."

Nelson said construction of the airport would destroy some experiments and have an impact on others.

"The part where the airport will be located would be lost. I'm quite positive (the nearby sites) would be lost also."

"We don't expect deer to react normally (near) a control tower. The question which concerns us considerably is the total effect of the disturbance caused by construction and operation of an airport on behavior of livestock and wildlife."

Nelson said the university was in opposition to the airport because the site had several unique qualities including the lifezone, period of time without grazing and the number of years the experiments have been underway.

NMSU officials said, "Fort Stanton ranch is the only major range research facility that represents mid-altitude, delicate range ecosystems in the West... (but) scientific results are applicable to most western ranges."

"Time is a fact which is unique (with the experimental range)," Nelson said.

"The area was not grazed for 12 years and we obtained base line data stating what the range conditions, vegetation and wildlife were and additionally (it also is important) that the experiments have been going so long."

"We began the research with the intention of conducting the research over a long period of time. In terms of long term study, as each year goes by the results become more valuable and useful," Nelson said.

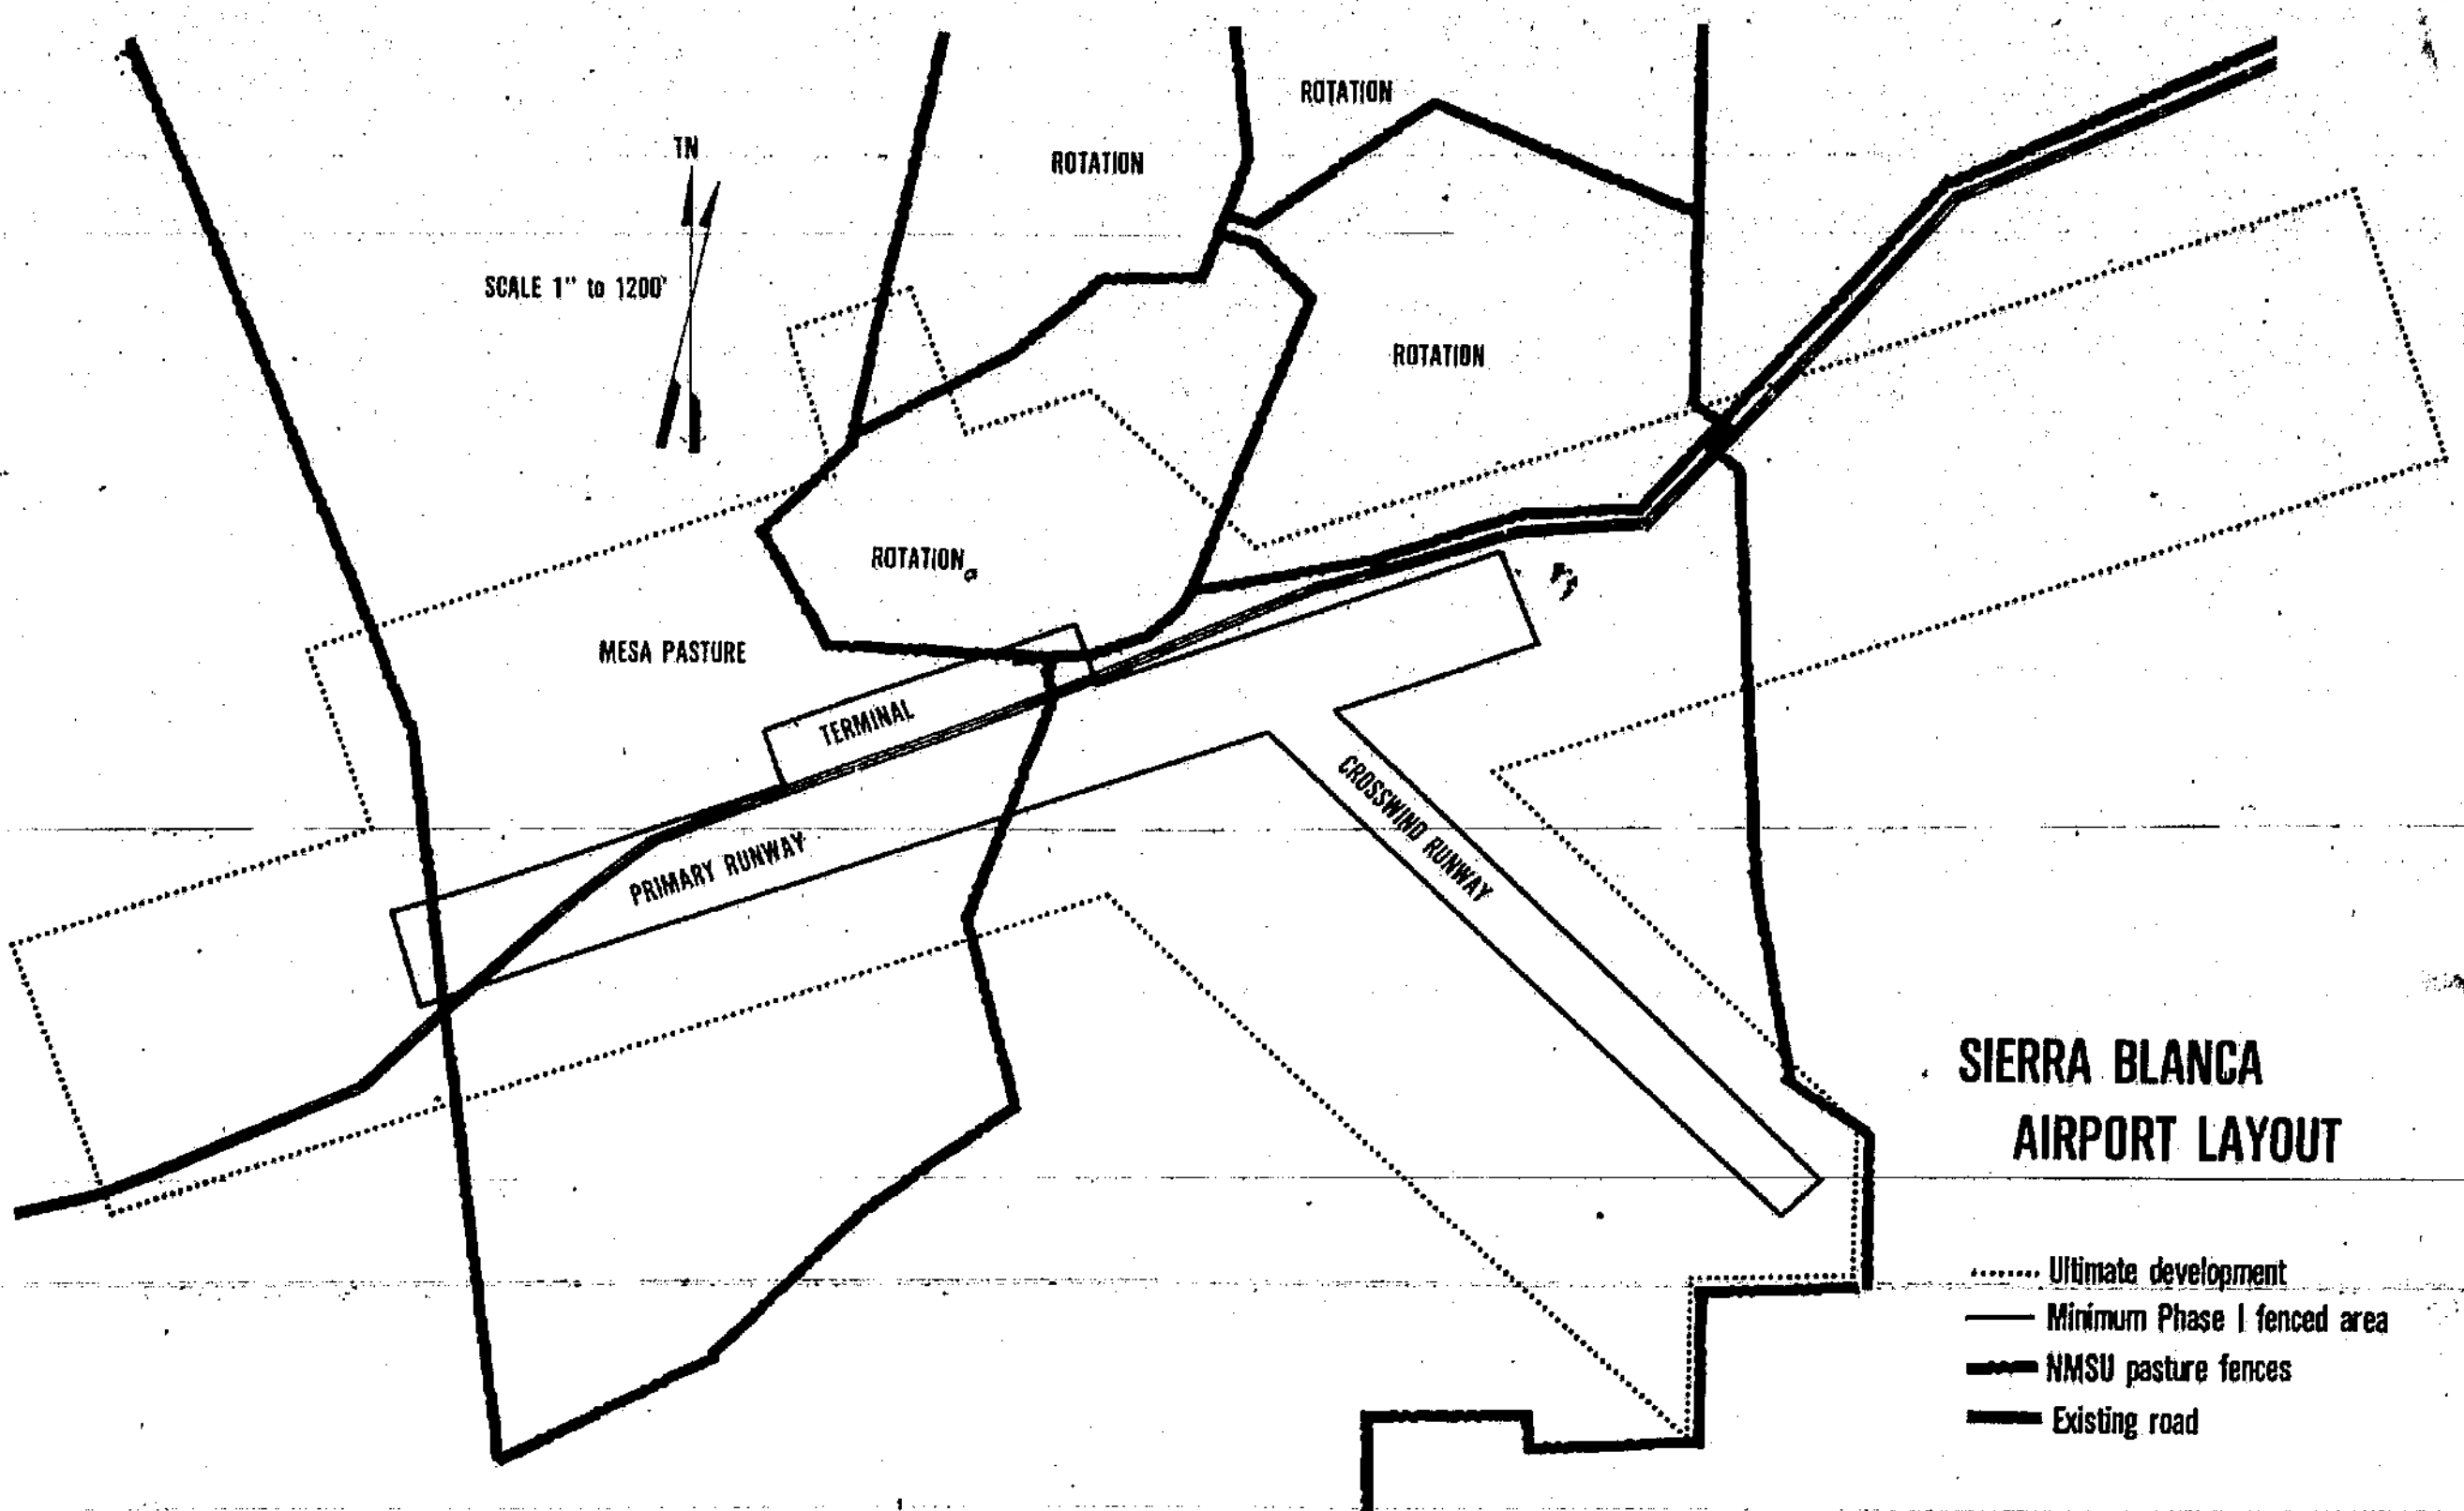

"It's a case where in the next 10 to 20 years we will start reaping dividends."

"Some results are available now, but because of variations in climate (we need to) study a long period of time."

"We expect changes in rainfall. These changes could be subtle and not really recognizable except over a period of many years."

Discussing the controversy over the site Nelson said, "NMSU is really representing the taxpayers of the state and surrounding states. It's not a case of the Ruidoso area vs. NMSU. We are simply representatives of the state and federal government because the monies we use are those furnished by New Mexico and other federal funds."

A decision on the FAA application for the land will be made by the state BLM director, Art Zimmerman, October 28.

A NEW MAP SUPERIMPOSING the plans for the proposed Sierra Blanca Regional Airport over the present experiments at Fort Stanton Mesa was drawn up last week in a cooperative effort by Herkenhoff-Parsons engineering consultants, New Mexico State University and Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC). Previously, a map which was out of scale had been used, leading to confusion. The new map shows 278 acres would be needed for the minimum Phase I development, which formerly had been estimated at 588 acres. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has applied on behalf of SBAC for 3,043 acres on the mesa, enclosing the approximately 2,000 acre ultimate development demarcation, above. The ultimate development has a tentative construction date of 20 years after completion of Phase I. A decision whether or not to grant the FAA request will be determined by Art Zimmerman, director of the Bureau of Land Management which administers the land, by October 28.

seen new places."

"Boy it's pretty around here," he offered, "we went to Colorado Springs, (Colorado) not long ago, it's beautiful there, but you know, I think I like it better here."

The Aviation Country Club of California or as members say, the ACC, has been in existence since 1938. Fletcher said it is one of the oldest clubs of its type in the country. He's been a member since 1947, the year he purchased his Stinson.

His personal aviation history does not date the Wright Brothers but much.

They started flying in 1903; he started in 1917.

"During World War I, I went to ground school at Berkeley (California) for the old Signal Corps. That's who flew the airplanes then," Fletcher said, "I learned to fly off Rockwell Field in a Jenny."

He said the war ended before he was able to get in it. He flew for a few years before the Depression made him turn to the responsibilities of keeping his family going.

"I didn't fly again until 1946," Fletcher said.

To many that may seem like a long time, and 78 an old age, but looking at Fletcher and hearing him talk of his experiences one is forced to the realization that age does not have to be any sort of barrier to enjoying life.

That thought is substantially driven home as one watches Fletcher bound down the runway to his waiting refreshment. There is no stoop to his step nor slowness to his gait.

"My son," he said, "wanted to get in most of the flight hours out here."

"He has a bad back so I did a lot of the flying," he added with a wink.

MARKER INSTALLATION STARTED — Pavement Specialist, Dallas, Texas, began installation of raised plowable markers on State Road 37, Friday. Work crews will be active on the east end of Sudderth working toward the stop light. A state of Highway Department spokesman said the center 1.5 lanes of 37 will be closed where intersection is occurring. He advised motorists to be on the lookout for workmen and advised caution while traveling through work areas. He said the project will take eight to ten days to complete. (Ruidoso News Photo)

BY DONNA CLARKE
Rotary Foreign Exchange Student

(This is the first in a series of letters from Donna Clarke, Foreign Exchange Student sponsored by the Ruidoso Rotary Club, who is presently in New Zealand. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clarke of Ruidoso.)

I am in New Zealand now and have been for a month.

I left El Paso August 19. I was supposed to have a five hour layover in Los Angeles, but the plane was late leaving. I had a great time at the airport. There were 25 exchange students going to New Zealand and 93 going to Australia on the same flight. I met several students going to the same district I am in now.

On the plane we were served two meals. A movie was shown but not many people watched it since the flight left Los Angeles at 11:30 p.m., so everyone was very tired.

We arrived in Auckland at 7 a.m., August 21. Our flight was nonstop, taking about 13 hours.

We were met after we went through immigration by Rotarians. They sorted us out into groups as to where we were going. No problems at customs.

The Rotarians took us over to the domestic terminal. I had my first cup of New Zealand tea while waiting for my flight to Palmerston North.

I was met in Palmerston by Paul Walshe, president of the Donnyville Rotary, his wife Juliet, daughter Louise and youngest son John. They are my first host family. At home I met the rest of the family, Martin, Gregory and Tim. The Walshe's live about five miles out of Donnyville on a sheep and cattle farm.

I arrived on the first day of the August holidays, so had three weeks holiday before school started.

I've been to Rotary Inter Wheel and Rotaract meetings. I visited Napier, about 80 miles north, about two weeks ago. I gave my first speech last night at Rotary.

School started last week. I am taking economics, history, accounting, French, English and geography. School is going very well. Everyone is studying for their exams next week.

Tonight's library film features Irene Worth

Irene Worth, featured in Flannery O'Connor's "The Displaced Person", one of the nine short stories on film in the American Short Story Series being held at the Ruidoso Public Library on Mondays at 8 p.m.

"The displaced person" is a hard-working Polish refugee who arrives with his family at a Georgia farm in the late 1940's. An elderly priest has arranged for the family's placement. However, their vastly different cultures and experiences make it impossible for the people on the farm and the refugees to adapt to each other. Suspicion and hostility grow until all are brought together in a tragic act of violence.

Featured in the cast are renowned stage actress Irene Worth and Academy Award winner John Houseman. The entire film was shot on the farm where Flannery O'Connor lived and wrote.

The Short Story Series is sponsored by the Altrusa Club and the Ruidoso Public Library and is made possible by the New Mexico Humanities Council.

Altrusa sets workshop on literacy project

Altrusa Club will sponsor a workshop to train teachers to instruct illiterate adults and teenagers October 28 and 29 as part of a literacy project.

Two tutors from Roswell will teach the Dr. Frank Laubach "each-one-teach-one" method at the workshop held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., both days at La Junta Guest Ranch.

No previous teaching experience or knowledge of a foreign language is necessary "only a sincere desire to serve your fellow man in a most rewarding way," Donna Willard said Friday.

For more information contact Donna at 257-2889, Gloria Clarke at 257-5320 or the Aspen Tree at 257-4088.

Limits of 15 teachers minimum and 85 teachers maximum have been set.

Belly dancing classes set

Belly dancing has returned to Ruidoso. That ancient middle eastern dance that has entranced many a man will be taught by Sayieda at the adult Recreation Center every Wednesday night, beginning October 4.

The cost of the lessons will be $2.00 dollars each. The lessons will be taught on both the intermediate and beginner level. Intermediate classes are at 8:30 p.m., and the beginner classes will begin at 7 p.m. Both lessons will last approximately one hour.

There is no size limit for the classes since Sayieda expects many to drop out after the first day of exercises. But, she said, that is one of the main reasons people should take belly dancing — to stay or get in shape.

"It may not actually take off pounds. That has to do with what is eaten at those polluck luncheons, parties, etc. But it will help whittle away the useless, shapeless pouches and dreary paunches and help cure waistline hangovers," she said.

And although men suffer these drawbacks as much as women, there will be no classes for men.

"I had a men's class once but nobody showed up. That was the end of that."

For more information call Joyce McMath at 257-5292 or the adult Recreation Center at 257-4555.

4-H activities family affair

"4-H'ers have several things going for them," says 4-H program leaders at New Mexico State University. "One of the strongest is the way 4-H encourages family unity," they say. "While much of our society pulls the family apart — sending children off to school or special events and parents off to work-and-meetings — 4-H strives to bring families together." Since 4-H members are encouraged to work on their projects at home, the entire family gets involved. When a 4-H member selects a project, it is with the family's knowledge and support, 4-H leaders say. The project is completed at home. Mother and Dad share the 4-H'ers worry over a sick animal or a banquet program. "Since so much of what children learn in terms of lifestyles and attitude is caught rather than taught, 4-H provides an excellent media," the specialists say. "It is easier, to keep the lines of communication open through the teen years when the ground work is laid and parents and youth have a mutual respect, similar goals, and similar interests," the NMSU youth workers say.

Many a nine-year old with a curiosity about many-legged creatures has convinced his mother to help with a 4-H entomology project, the specialists say. Together they have explored the "wilds" of the backyard tomato crop and worried over a fellow member who is afraid of bugs. Through their mutual concern they have developed mutual understanding.

Colts grab narrow win

The Ruidoso Warriors gave the Silver City Fighting Colts more than they bargained for Friday night before falling in a tight defensive struggle 13-0.

Silver City scored early in the first period on Jaime Valenzuela's 44 yard run. From then on, however, the Warrior defense held and the Warrior offense began to move the ball between the twenties. They never were able to push a score across because of that old bug, penalties and fumbles.

Silver City managed a short drive late in the fourth period to seal the Warrior's fate. Considering that Silver City was an overwhelming favorite, the loss was something of a moral victory for the Warriors.

"The kids played a good football game," Warrior head coach Darrel Stierwalt said. "Once the kids realized we could play with these guys we did alright."

The Warriors did better than alright. Twice they pushed the ball inside the Colt 20 only to be stifled by a penalty or a quarterback sack. The pass blocking continued to be an eyesore for the Warriors.

"You can bet we'll be working on that this week."

Perhaps one of the reasons for the ineffective pass blocking was the absence of tackle Steve Cox and end Jeff Elliot. They missed the game because of the flu.

"If we can play that well without two of our key players I know we are getting better," Stierwalt said.

This week, like all of the past weeks, Stierwalt was proud of the Warriors. Before the game, he said, many of the Silver City fans were offering Ruidoso fans 50 points on a bet. When you only lose by 13, a victory party is in the offing.

"I'm proud of these kids. They never quit. They go into every game thinking they can win. Even when we fell behind Friday night we came back. These kids aren't quitters," he said.

Stierwalt is also still high on the possibilities being shown by quarterback

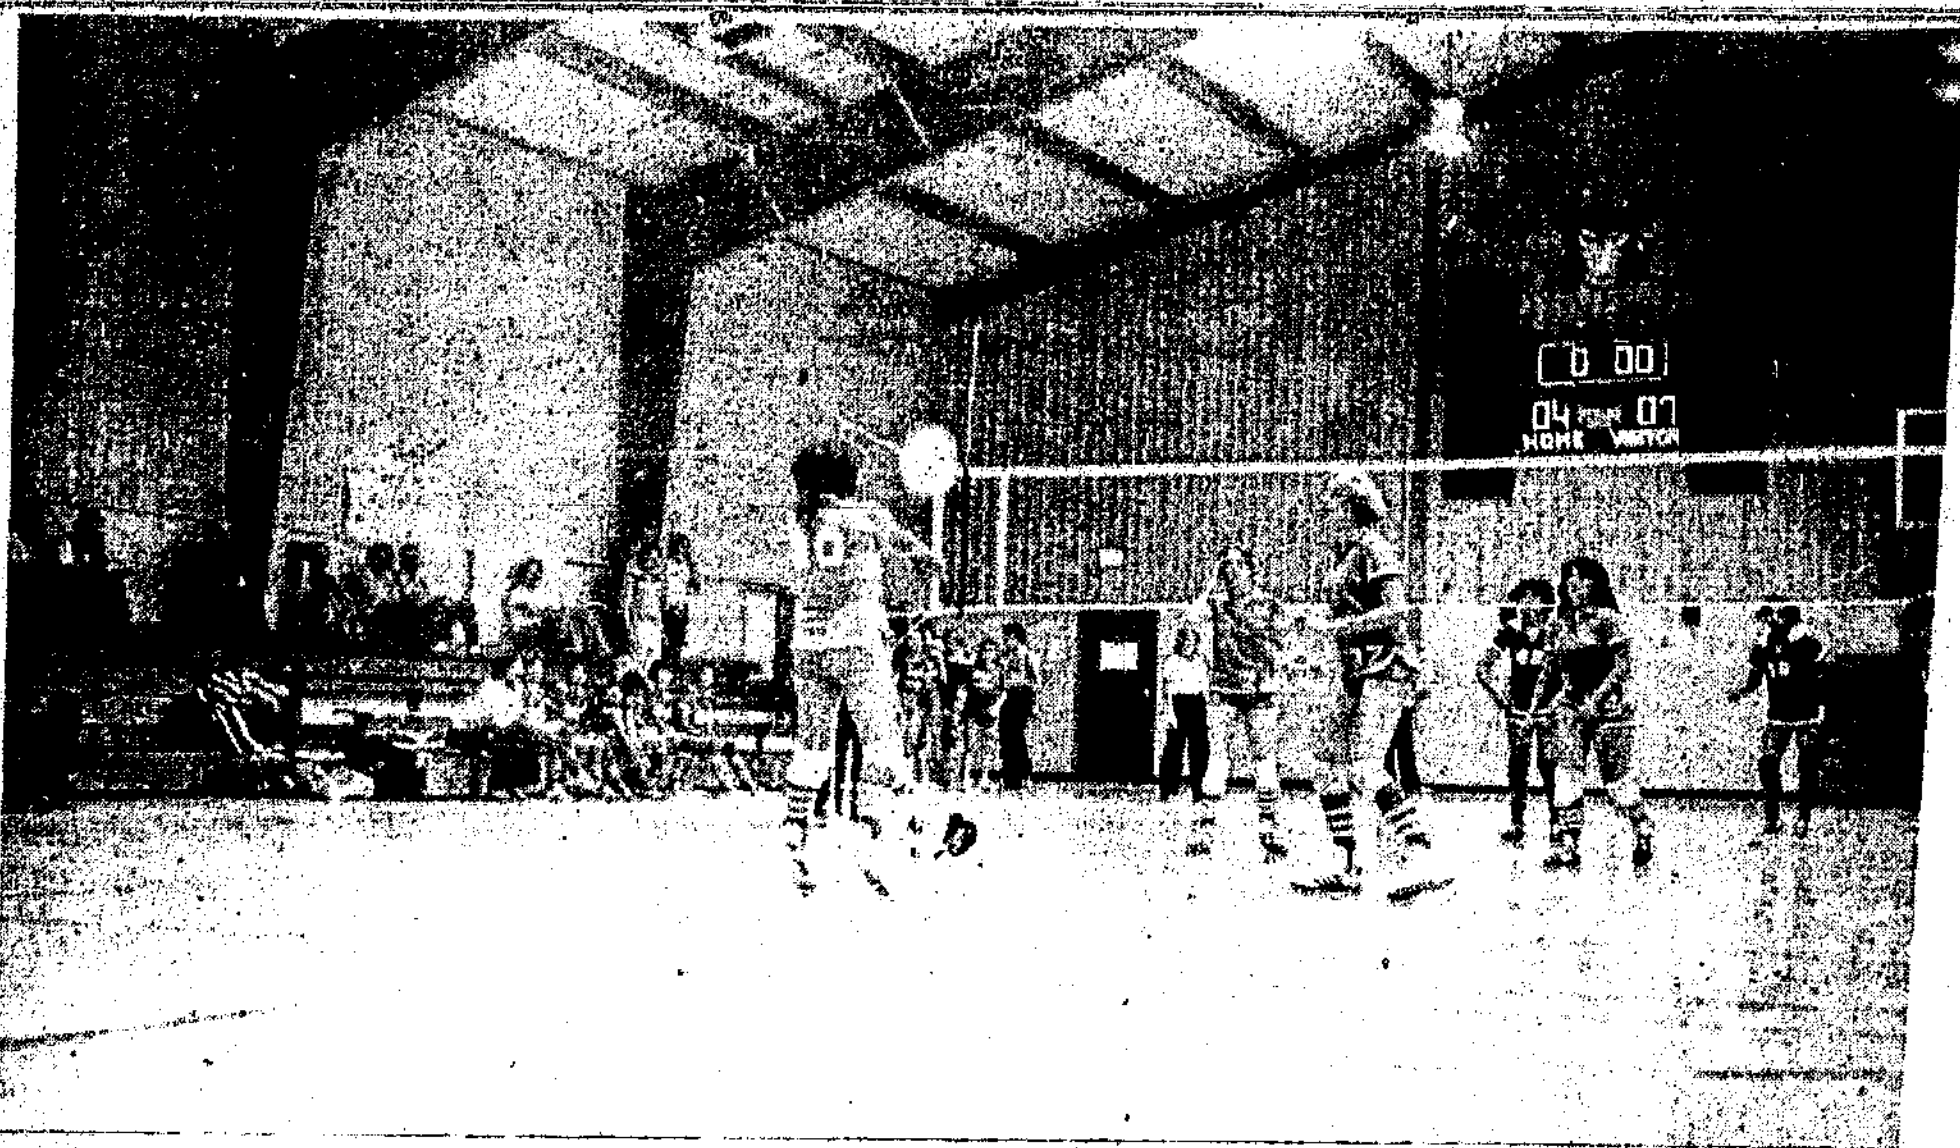

Borde Williams. Despite some less than dazzling passing statistics, Stierwalt thinks he is one of the best. If the pass blocking ever gives Williams enough time to set up and look for receivers, Stierwalt said, the Warrior offense will improve tremendously.

"The offensive line isn't giving him enough time to look for receivers. It's hard to make a good throw when the defense is draped around your ankles. It's hard to remember the goal was to drain the swamp when you're up to your rear end in alligators," Stierwalt opined.

The one thing the Warriors have been up to their tails in this year is bad breaks. Stierwalt thinks if they could get a couple of breaks in a game they could get on the winning side.

"We haven't gotten many breaks this year. If we get a couple, then win a couple we could be on our way. There's always hope."

The loss dropped Ruidoso to 0-4 on the year. Silver City upped their record to 2-2.

THE SCOREBOARD TELLS THE STORY as Ruidoso Warrior Dolores Herrera (30) tries to rally the Warriors from a 7-4 deficit to eventual tournament champions in the Capitan Invitational Volleyball tournament. The Warriors had better success with Hondo in the consolation bracket Saturday morning but fell to Encino in the consolation finals 15-8 and 15-12. Watching Herrera are Donna Pippin (32), Cathy Jones (22), and Ellen Bizzell.

Drawings draw nigh

SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO — The Game and Fish Department and several thousand hunters are preparing for the last of this year's drawings for special licenses and permits. Hunters can contribute refunds, if unsuccessful in the drawings, to Operation Game Thief.

Deadline is October 4 at 5 p.m. for applications for oryx, ibex, javelina and public Barbary sheep license, and for entry permits into special deer hunt areas, according to the Department of Game and Fish. The deadline also applies to a recently set late-season hunt in the Sacramento; designated C-5.

Applications should be made on Form K, available from Game and Fish offices and from more than 300 license vendors around the state, and accompanied by the correct amount of license fees plus vendor's and application fees.

All but the $1.00 application fee is refundable if the applicant's name is not pulled in the drawings. If the applicant has checked the box allowing his refund to be given to Operation Game Thief, it will be transferred into the OGT reward fund.

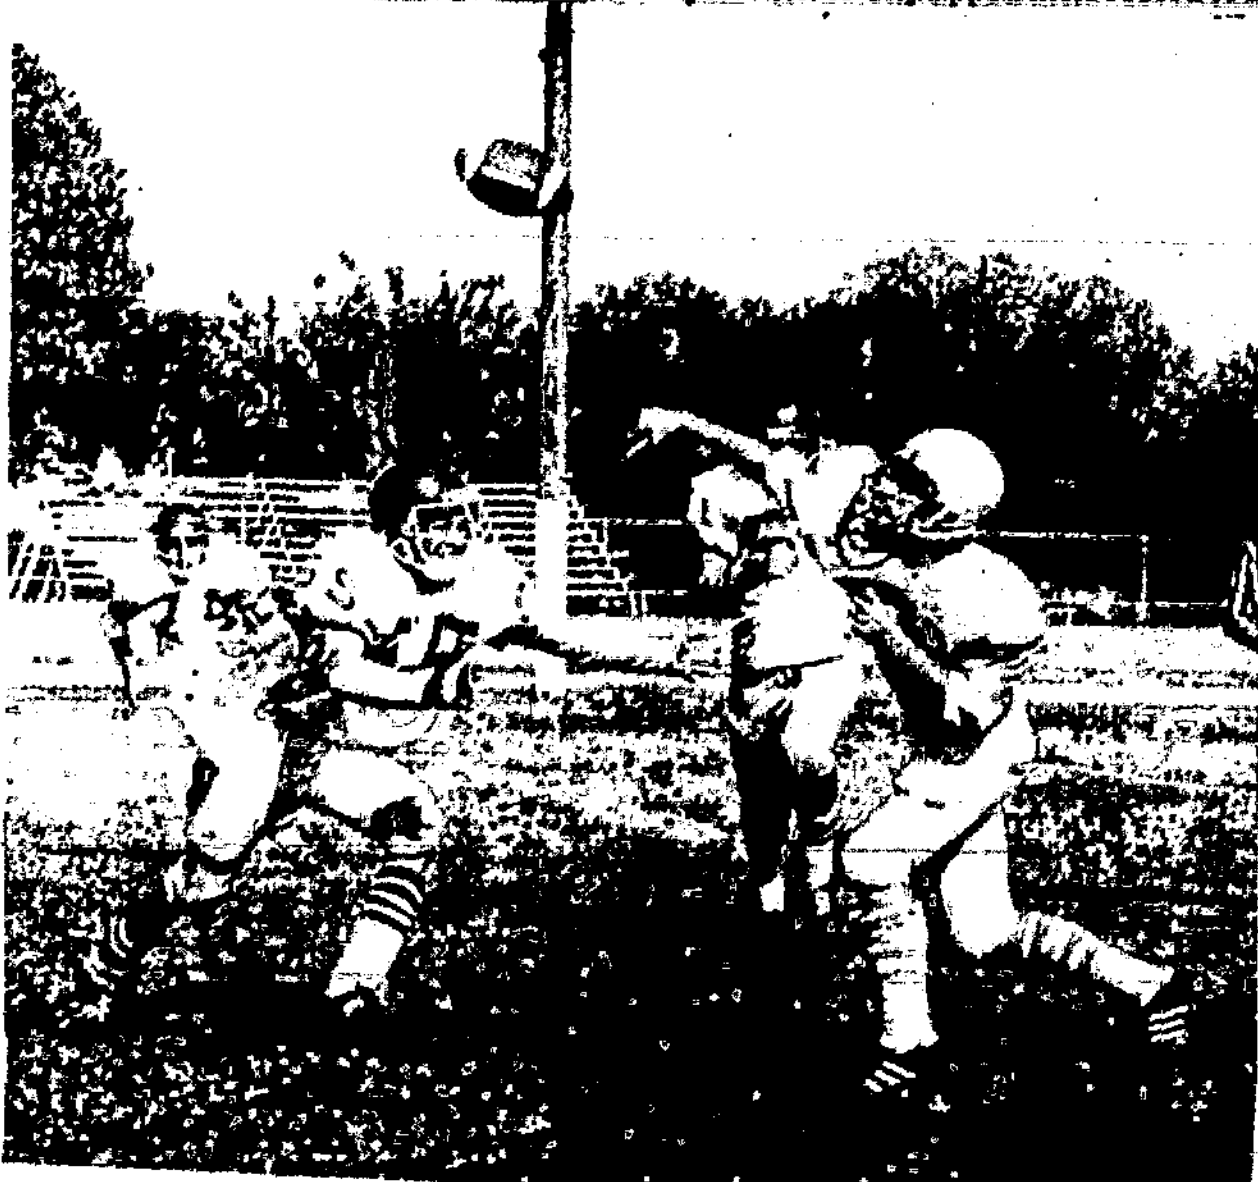

Total fees necessary for Barbary sheep, oryx and ibex are $27 for residents, $302 for nonresidents; for javelina, $16.50 for residents and $52 for nonresidents. Only the $1.00 application fee and a current deer license are necessary for entry into the deer entry permits drawings.

The department will issue up to 350 javelina licenses, 20 oryx and ibex licenses and up to 105 public Barbary sheep licenses.

Up to 600 permits are available for the C-1 (Corona area) deer entry permit hunt; 500 for C-2 (Salinas); 600 for C-3 (San Andres — Organ Mountains); 800 for C-4 (McGregor Range), and up to 500 for C-5 (Mayhill).

The C-5 hunt was recently set by the State Game Commission, at the Game and Fish Department's recommendation, to alleviate deer depredations on apple orchards and other agricultural products. Hunt dates are January 6-7, 1979, and it is an antlerless-deer-only hunt.

Applications can be made in person at Game and Fish offices. Mailed applications should go directly to the department's Santa Fe headquarters.

RUIDOSO JUNIOR VARSITY QUARTERBACK Scott Neal releases the ball just before being hit during Saturday's game with Tularosa. This play typified the entire ball game as the ball was picked off 20 yards downfield. After scoring on the opening drive to take an early 6-0 lead, the Warriors did little else, falling by the score of 35-6.

Memorial tournament crowns first champs

The best ball team of Tommy Hornbuckle and Eric Lieberwirth fired a seven under par 64 to overtake second round leaders Roy Peden and Mike Emerson to win the championship flight of the first Johnny Williams Memorial Golf Tournament at Cree Meadows Country Club last weekend. The duo split $380 for first place.

In the first flight, the team of Stormy Edwards and Ed Mayer rode their first round one under par 70 to the title. They defeated the second place team of Joe Kizer and Brooks Blain by four shots. The Edwards-Mayer team split $210 dollars for their efforts.

In the second flight, the team of Rusty Robinson and Charlie Stalcup built a big lead in the first two rounds and coasted to the title despite a final round 81. They split $175.

Here's how they finished:
— Championship Flight: Hornbuckle-Lieberwirth 72-68-64-204
Lane Holder-Terry Franklin 68-71-69-208
Roy Peden-Mike Emerson 73-64-72-209
LeRoy Gooch-Charlie Edwards 72-70-67-209

— First Flight: Edwards-Mayer 70-73-73-216
Joe Kizer-Brooks Blain 73-73-74-220
O.M. Reeves-Robert White 74-75-72-221
— Second Flight: Robinson-Stalcup 76-81-232

Frank Able-Richard Hale 81-79-76-236
Ken Braden-Dailey Morgan 76-83-79-238

Warriors fall; seek winning combination

There was one bright spot. Kristi Perryman made the all-tournament team. Other than that, the Ruidoso girls volleyball team stammered inconsistently through the Capitan Invitational Volleyball Tournament last weekend.

"We didn't play very good," head coach Sergio Castenon said. "We play well at times. Our front line will play good and our back line will play good, but never at the same time."

Castenon has been saying this ever ever since the season began. He was beginning to sound like a broken record. At the

"I changed the lineup drastically Saturday. I will keep changing it until I can find the right combination."

The right combination seems to be keeping Perryman as active as possible. Castenon plans to use her as a main spiker when she is on the front line and the main setter when she is on the back line. Castenon hopes this will bring some consistency to the Warriors.

"We still lack consistency. We aren't playing like I know we can play."

Consistency wasn't the only thing the Warriors lacked in the tournament.

Strength could be added to that. In the opening game of the tournament for the Warriors, Mountainair, the eventual tournament champion, simply overpowered the locals with a tremendous exhibition of setting and spiking.

The Warriors came back to defeat Hondo Saturday 15-5 and 15-10 to advance to the consolation finals. There the Warriors lost to Encino 15-8 and 15-12.

Next game for the Warriors is Tuesday at Dexter, who Castenon calls "one of the toughest teams in double A".

USUALLY IT'S THE COWBOYS THAT do the riding, but that wasn't the case when the Cowboys met the Broncos by the score of 58-0. It was the opening game of the season for both teams. The other four teams involved in Little League football got underway Saturday as well. Most were luckier than the Cowboys.

Five teams went into the second week of bowling action in the Ruidoso Ladies League tied for the top spot, but when the dust had settled following the second week only two teams were sharing the throne: Valley Plumbing and Casa De Regalos each held onto a share of first place by ripping their opponents 3-1 for the second straight week, upping their record to 6-2.

Moving into second place with the most profitable week is Apache Music which downed their opponent 4-0, upping their record to 5-3. K-Bob's also won their match 4-0 to improve their record to 5-3 and into a tie for third with Apache Music and Pioneer Savings and Trust, who split their match with Ruidoso State Bank.

Ruidoso State Bank, 4-4, shared sixth place with Hughes Body Shop and Pioneer Savings and Trust.

Brunell's and Barney Rue Sand and Gravel held eighth place with identical 3-5 records. Mini-Mart was all alone in ninth with a 2-6 and Las Tres Tiendas was even lonelier in last with a 1-7 record.

RARE BREED of orange cayenne peppers are displayed by Tommy Bolack of the B Square Ranch near Farmington. The chilies, shown at this year's New Mexico State Fair, turned up in a field of 400 normal bright red pepper plants being grown on the experimental farm.

Accident produces new pepper

Even an accident becomes a research project at the B Square Ranch and Experimental Farm which former governor Tom Bolack and his son Tommy own and run in the San Juan Valley near Farmington.

This year's B Square exhibit at the State Fair in the Agriculture Building included a string of orange cayenne peppers — a rare color for the spicy vegetable.

The chilies were the offspring of a single "sport" plant that turned up in a field of 400 normal red-podded plants on the famous experimental farm.

The plant was taken to their greenhouse, and when it came time to re-plant, seeds from the orange cayenne were sown. The special planting produced 80 percent orange peppers — in five shades.

"We're anxious to see what the third generation will bring," the younger Bolack said. The mutation is just as hot and tasty as the normal red cayenne, he added.

Using a combination of natural and commercial fertilizers, the Bolacks plant and nurture thousands of crops — both usual and unusual.

Their State Fair exhibit included such oddities as pink banana squash — in the giant economy size — and miniature banana eggplant, and flowering cabbage. In the ornamental category, Chinese dates and a pencil plant draw attention. The loofah sponge, which is becoming a widely-used cosmetic item, is grown on the farm too.

The Bolacks have supplied more than 500,000 plants, shrubs and trees to communities and conservation projects all over the southwest.

Wildlife group appeals dismissal of budget

Despite a legal setback, the National Wildlife Federation (NWF) will continue its fight to force the Carter Administration to explain why it has cut the United States Forest Service's budget request by 25 percent.

NWF has announced it will appeal a ruling by United States District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, in the Washington, D.C., dismissing its suit against President Carter and the Office of Management and Budget.

The suit, filed in June, 1978, charged that the Administration violated the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act (RPA) when it cut the Forest Service's 1979 budget from $1.4 billion to $1.1 billion. According to the NWF, the nation's largest citizen conservation group, the law requires the Administration to explain whether its proposed budget would carry out Forest Service policies already set by Congress, and if not, to give the reasons for requesting less money.

In his decision, Judge Gesell agreed that the budget request failed to disclose the extent to which the budget achieved RPA goals. However, since this information was supplied to Congress during hearings earlier this year, the judge ruled that no further disclosure was required. As to NWF's charge that the Administration failed to explain why the budget was cut, Judge Gesell said that the law's "ambiguity and uncertainty" prevented him from ordering President Carter to issue a special statement of explanation.

Judge Gesell noted in his ruling that "Congress may well have had in mind an expectation that the President's report or budget message would contain a fuller statement of reasons." The judge went on to urge that the President make "a more detailed" explanation of reasons for any future cuts.

"Our reason for pursuing the suit," NWF attorney Peter Kirby said, "is to make the President more accountable for the imbalanced and short-sighted priorities of the 1979 Forest Service budget."

The Administration is seeking 85 percent of the Forest Service's request for timber cutting, but only 54 percent of the agency's request for wildlife, and only 50 percent for reforestation and timber stand improvement, Kirby said.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

The Clouds Roll By

This is being sent to you on the twenty-seventh of September, and by the time this reaches you we will be over into the month of October.

Today the morning awakened the world with a blue sky washed clean by five days of rain. All the green mountain land shining in the clear air. The mountain tops all around and the blue sky seem closer to you as you feast your eyes on them, looking through the rain-purified air.

I cannot help but remember that my birthday is one month from today, October twenty-seven. My memory is full of treasured scenes of my life — and the days of the past seem very close to the present. At the same time, my soul is full of hope as I look forward to the glorious days of October, that time of year when so many promises of the spring and summer come true. The leaf colors will be making a brighter autumn picture for us day by day. And the apples will be turning a more brilliant red and gold, shining in the Autumn sun.

October is a favorite time with all of us. You can feel new life within you with each breath of the pure mountain air, so fragrant with the bright autumn flowers of purple and gold and the incense of the coloring leaves and the ripening apples. The wild cherry, Elderberry, Cedar berry, Juniper berry and wild grape send a touch of their flavor into the October air blending with the incense of pine, spruce, cedar, Juniper and Pinon.

During October there is peace and gratefulness in the air, and your heart is filled with joy each day so that you feel you could almost fly up and join the pinon birds flying through the vale overhead. And your spirit, light with the happiness of October is in harmony with all the birds in the air singing joyfully.

The crow, slowly circling overhead, the Pinon birds flying in little bands of sparkling blue, and the blue birds dancing in the air — all these and many more have a special song as they join in the gladness of October.

Our hearts overflow with happiness in October and we all draw closer together in the great joy of these days and in thankfulness to God.

The apples are growing and coloring into full ripeness and flavor. So we might have a few words about some of the main varieties.

The Double Red delicious is one of the favorite apples for eating raw and salads, and is also good for applesauce and pies.

The Golden Delicious is one of the best all-around apples to be found in the world. It is good for eating raw, and great for pies and applesauce or most anything made from apples.

The Jonathan is a long-time favorite because of its special juicy flavor; and this special sharp flavor makes it great for baking pies.

The Winesap ripens later than the varieties just mentioned, and is great for cider and eating raw and pies and cobbles. The winesap is a fine keeper and will retain its crispness and flavor late into the winter if you store it in a cool dry place.

The Rome Beauty is the latest to ripen of these five main varieties and is famous for baking. It is also good for applebutter and applesauce.

All of these varieties are good all-around apples. They all have a special flavor. So make a trip to the orchards and fruit stands along the way and get acquainted with the different kinds of apples, and renew your friendship with the orchard people.

Let us all do all we can to make each other happy during the joyful month of October, and let us thank God always for our blessings.

4-H Week October 1-7

The 4-H program has a proud heritage, and the upcoming National 4-H Week observance Oct. 1-7, provides a good opportunity to reflect on its history, its current status, and the new horizons that lay ahead, says Ken Sabo, 4-H program leader at New Mexico State University.

More than 20,000 New Mexico 4-H boys and girls will join the 5.5 million 4-H'ers across the nation in special events and activities keyed to this year's theme, "4-H — Freedom To Be."

"But in looking to and planning for tomorrow, 4-Hers are also reflecting on the past," Sabo says.

"In 1912, the Boys' and Girls' Industrial Clubs were started in New Mexico schools. Projects included crops, bread and sewing. In 1913 new projects in pigs, poultry and cooking were added.

4-H grew out of a need to make education more practical and interesting to farm youth. It provided enriching, real-life learning experiences through the "learning by doing" concept.

Today 4-H offers young people a variety of "learn-by-doing" opportunities to grow into self-directed, productive and contributing members of society, Sabo says. Projects and activities range from pre-diverting to economic education, from community service to international exchange, all geared to the specific interests, abilities and age levels of participants.

As the nation's largest youth-serving program, 4-H appeals to youngsters no matter where they live. "During National 4-H Week we salute these 4-Hers, their involved parents and volunteer leaders, Cooperative Extension Service personnel, and representatives of American business, who work together to make possible the broad outreach and effectiveness of contemporary 4-H," Sabo says.

"4-H has indeed come a long way since 1912!" Sabo says.

Capitol Comment

by Ernie Mills

Santa Fe — Fireworks Coming Up: The three-days of Legislative Finance Committee hearings that start next Monday will kick-off a series of twice-a-month sessions for the powerful interim group that will not wrap-up until just before Christmas.

The initial session Monday could be almost as ho-hum as the Statewide political races with the exception of the hearing for the Miner's Hospital when the hearings get underway.

A million dollar item could be at stake when the lawmakers go over the Minders' Hospital proposals with a fine tooth comb.

Also ... at almost any time ... the purchase and proposed useage of the Old St. Vincent Hospital site by the State could garner the spotlight.

Months ago, this column suggested that the Department of Educational Finance and Cultural Affairs had an eye on the old St. Vincent property as a headquarters.

What's interesting to the wall-leaners is that while the site is being eye-balled by the Cabinet Secretary for Educational Finance and Cultural Affairs, Harry Wugalter, as an umbrella for all of that agency's employees, the State Board of Educational Finance is getting ready to move into a brand new building at the New Mexico School for the Deaf in the Southern part of Santa Fe.

Our sources say the BEF plans to move into its new headquarters building on October 10th.

The tag line is that with all the planning for consolidation of State agencies under Government Reorganization, we end up with agencies having similar functions spread all over the Capital City!

And just wait until someone finds a way to add up the costs of all State agency moving from one headquarters to another over the past two years.

We'll bet the totals will be mind-boggling!

Dija Notice?: This column recently predicted that the University of New Mexico would make overtures toward Albuquerque's TVI to work out some common ground on which the two institutions could better serve community higher education needs.

Sure enuff, this week, UNM proxy Bud Davis told a Duke City Chamber of Commerce meeting he was naming a task force to work with a similar group from TVI to ascertain how the two institutions can work together to meet the educational needs of the community.

The C of C meeting was called in the wake of the whumping the Bernalillo County community college proposal took from the voters.

The wall-leaners figure — if nothing else — the community college proposal defeat awakened UNM to some of the community responsibilities it should have been addressing years ago.

Winding Down Time: Three months still remain before Gov. Jerry Apodaca leave office, but the Administration already is starting the housekeeping that leads up to turning the keys over to a new Chief Executive.

Boxes of official files from the Fourth Floor Administrative offices are being carted over to the State Archives where they will be kept for posterity.

The files of the Governor's Press Secretary already are down to the bare minimum.

Pat on the Back Department: Next Wednesday, the Legislative Finance Committee will get a report from a committee named to catalogue the State's paleontological resources, the committee headed by Harry Wugalter, Cabinet Secretary for Educational Finance and Cultural Affairs.

Our sources say the report that will be presented to the LFC is of the "highest caliber" — a top notch job from a committee that took its job seriously. Watch for it!

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Cale Dickey's Stuph & Junk column has a way of giving a light touch to heavy issues, and God knows we need a light touch now and then.

I feel, however, that I must take issue with Mr. Dickey on his "Television Grips" article of September 25th.

"Television sets do come equipped with an off button" Mr. Dickey aptly points out. And many of us who object to the "cheap, violent and vulgar programming on television" use that "off button" quite freely. Still, the "off button" concept, while valid, is in my opinion an oversimplification of the issue. Why? In the words of old Ben Franklin after signing the Declaration of Independence: "We must all hang together or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

And Americans have been "hanging together" in the midst of their diversity ever since and before because for a society to be a society it must have a basic moral direction.

If someone likes "dill pickles atop his chocolate sundae" more power to him, but let's not compare that to moral issues that can shape national attitudes.

I ask: can even a democracy afford to base all its moral attitudes on a majority mentality? I'm sorry, but I don't think 51 percent always makes right.

"When in Rome do as the Romans do" implies the theory of moral relativism. But, I ask, what happened to Rome?

Those programmers who peddle smut simply because the majority appears to like it are irresponsible and therefore such organizations as the National Federation for Decency ought to put the pressure on.

Jack Leavitt

The problems of a growing Ruidoso facing the village planners are multiple. Water, sewer and paved streets must be provided all subdivisions not presently served; with the same demands to be met in annexed, but undeveloped, subdivisions as well as those areas that will surely one day be annexed. The time is now for these planners to forget "tomorrow" and start worrying about the next 10, 20, 30 and more years, to keep the expansion as centrally located as possible to existing and future services the village must provide. — CD

Stuph & Junk

... by
Cale Dickey

PUTT-PUTTS PUTTING

In case you hadn't noticed, there are almost as many motorcyclists in these parts as there are Texas license plates when the ponies are running.

Which is but a harbinger of things to come ... like Saturday's Aspencade parade ... headed, but of course, by motorcycles ... with New Mexico State Police Deputy Chief Steve Lagomarsino as parade marshal ... which should tend to keep parade units moving under the speed limit.

These Aspencade Motorcycle Convention delegates ... true family types ... will be on the streets ... to say nothing of the highways in this area ... until they hit the road for home about Sunday noon ... so, watch a little out for them ... 'cause they might be ogling our famed scenery instead of watching the road ... and no sense in banging up these tourists ... seeing they spend money.

Then this weekend ... at Ruidoso Downs ... there'll be a mule hijinks as Mule-O-Rama ... ramrodded by Bill Ward ... kicks loose ... with more kicking and braying and mule antics October 13 to 15.

Why ... you'd think ... if'n you think about it whilst quaffing an ice tea here in Harmony Valley ... that there's going to be considerable excitement ... and stuff ... in these parts during the upcoming fortnight.

OUR JIMMY SCORES

The announcement Thursday morning that the Israeli Knesset ... that's not a diplomat, but the parliament that sometimes backs Prime Minister Menachem Begin ... voted 85 to 19, with 16 abstentions, to try and get together with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and his lawmakers ... to bring peace to the embattled nations and lands in the war torn Mideast.

Now ... by jinkies ... Our Jimmy can put his best foot forward ... break out his famous smile ... and say: "I did it" ... so far as getting the Israeli Knesset to agree to try to work for peace with Egypt.

Whether Sadat's policy makers ... whatever ... will be in accord remains to be seen ... but, Our Jimmy sure did himself proud to win round one.

Maybe he should let Secretary of State Vance tackle problems domestic ... and we can turn Our Jimmy loose on those recalcitrant Palestinians ... so ... what's to lose?

And ... by jinkies ... the Knesset came to this agreement after just over 17 hours of debate ... plus Begin's speech urging the chamber to unite ... it's amazing ... 'cause our own august bodies in Washington, D.C., have hassled each other more hours than that over how large the swimming pool should be in the new recreational complex for the high mucky-mucks to frolic in.

OUR JIMMY'S WOES

On the other side of Our Jimmy's success coin in peace matters international ... is a whole passle of problems ... the railroad strike ... the unhappy state of mind of the postal workers ... the General Service Administration scandal ... the minorities demands ... his problems within the Democratic party ... his problems without the Democrats.

But ... by jinkies ... you must admit that Our Jimmy's smile is still broad ... and getting broader ... and maybe ... just maybe ... things'll start jelling for Our Jimmy ... and the demand for eating crow might exceed the supply.

And that'd give Our Jimmy something to really smile about.

THE COUNTY PEACEFUL

Up in Rio Arriba County ... that's where Emilio Naranjo is boss ... there's a chap by the name of Matt Hamilton of "Freedom" ... that's a newspaper published by the Church of Scientology ... who must have lots of money ... 'cause he's offering $10,000 reward "for crooked county officials" ... why an offer like that should produce a line of job seekers reaching from Espanola to Santa Fe.

Kinda makes you feel proud ... doesn't it ... when you consider that all of the problems plaguing Lincoln County's officials are insignificant ... in comparison to the alleged political chicanery that has rocked Rio Arribans for years.

Yup ... there might be a law suit involving county officials now and then ... or a county official might be taken to task for something done, or not done ... but our elected and appointed officials aren't faced with the problems of Rio Arribans ... which must mean us Lincoln County folks are pretty good people.

BRIEF BIT: If there was an outside chance any politician could make good on his campaign promises, someone would be looking for a cross to nail him to ... CD

Behind the Scenes

To Telly Savalas, work has always represented a growing source of challenge, pleasure, opportunity and fulfillment, tempered by an occasional disappointment or unplanned detour.

All of which makes him pretty much like the rest of us and eminently qualified to host a segment concerning the effect of imagination on the work ethic, in "A SALUTE TO AMERICAN IMAGINATION," the star-filled entertainment special celebrating the 75th anniversary of Ford Motor Company, to be broadcast Thursday, Oct. 5 on CBS-TV. Savalas is pictured with co-host Madeline Kahn.

What makes Savalas different from most of us is his lifelong pursuit of the unpredictable, the new and the untried, while accepting the conventional necessity of working for a living.

"Work is a necessity for most of us," Savalas says in his introduction. "But each year, imagination makes it less of a trial and more of a pleasure."

A young Telly Savalas inherited an enthusiasm for challenge and a bent for "giving new things at least one good try" from his Greek immigrant father who, the actor says, got into every kind of business from investments to lunch counters, and whose fortunes ran, alternately, from wealth to want. "He taught us," Savalas recalls, "to think big and to do everything with spirit."

Savalas, who gained worldwide fame as "Kojak," followed the premise willingly and to this day he admits to finding life "quite unattractive" when it becomes predictable.

During the past couple of years, Savalas has added several new dimensions to his work experience. He created and performed in a cabaret act, became a top-selling recording artist with a gold record to his credit and wrote, directed and starred in a feature film. No wonder he can advise, as he does in the special, that "it's never too late, and it's never too early, for imagination to turn up new possibilities."

Please check local station for exact air time.

NETWORKS AND STATIONS RESERVE THE RIGHT TO MAKE CHANGES

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Hal Linden of 'Barney Miller' never dreamed he would be a huge success. "The most I ever thought I was going to be was a good solid character actor, a latter-day Eli Wallach or Martin Balsam. I'd be someone respected by my peers, unknown by the public." When he started his career, the times were different, Hal claims. "It was a time of pretty boy actors. They didn't care if you could act or not which led me to believe that a guy with an Armenian rug peddler's face was going to have a hard time becoming a star." Henry Winkler used to be one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors until Stacey Weitzman came along. Winkler admits his self-criticism and desire for the perfect woman kept him from forming a lasting relationship. Henry feels his relationship with Stacey is different from any other he has ever had. "I'm very lucky. As frightening as an emotional relationship is, I cannot lie about this one. It's changed my life, calmed me down."

INSIDE THE TUBE: Jack Albertson, formerly of 'Chico and the Man' and now in the new series 'Grandpa Goes to Washington,' makes at least a six-figure annual salary. But Jack went through some rough times before becoming a star—sleeping on park benches in New York and even stuffing newspapers in his clothes just to keep warm. It's hard to believe but Farrah Fawcett recently checked into a hotel under the name Marjorie Schickel. She sure has a lot of imagination. Kristy McNichol of 'Family' and brother Jimmy McNichol are working hard to become the next 'Donny and Marie.' They recently released a new single 'He's So Fine' and like the Osmonds, Kristy and brother Jimmy exude wholesomeness.

TV BACKSTAGE: Sandy Duncan and husband Dr. Tom Caltarra have agreed to divorce. Friends say it's the old Hollywood story—career conflicts and long separations made the marriage unworkable. Bobby Vinton, the 'Polish Prince,' has taken out a half-million-dollar insurance policy with Lloyds of London against getting seriously hurt by over-zealous lady fans. Ron Glass of 'Barney Miller' has shaved off his mustache for the first episode this season to play a decoy on the N.Y. Police Department's mugging detail. John Beradino, Dr. Steve Hardy in 'General Hospital,' will appear in the Steve Hardy movie 'Guide For the Married Woman,' which stars Cybill Shepard. Yes, John is playing a medic. Erin Moran, who will be seen a lot more in upcoming episodes of 'Happy Days' lost 18 pounds and looks terrific.

TV INSIDER: Though Margeaux Hemingway enjoys the outdoor life like her novelist grandfather Ernest, she admits she could never be a big game hunter. While fishing in the Amazon River for a TV film, she would try to release her hooked fish unharmed. As for hunting: "I like to shoot birds but only if I can eat them. I could never shoot a big animal. It would kill me inside." Actor Leonard Nimoy wants to set the record straight about himself and Mr. Spock his 'Star Trek' character. He says he has never suffered an identity crisis with the Vulcan of the TV series and movie now in production. "All this stuff about Spock dominating my life is a myth. You've seen the headlines. 'Is he trapped by the character?' I've been reading that stuff for years and I just laugh." Jaclyn Smith and boyfriend Dennis Cole had Vegas jodeling waggling when they checked into a hotel requesting separate rooms. The Vegas people were stunned.
