Ruidoso schools to offer gifted students' program

[Editor's note: In December of 1977, the Ruidoso School District achieved the distinction of receiving "accreditation with commendation" for all schools. Accreditation with commendation for an entire district is unprecedented in the State Department of Education's history. As a continuation of the school district's achievements in the field of primary and secondary education, the schools will offer, beginning in January, opportunities for the gifted child to pursue different activities over and above the regular curriculum. The following article outlines the opportunities that will be made available to the gifted students in the Ruidoso School District.]

BY MARY WORMLEY
Staff Writer

Throughout history, persons gifted with talent have been overlooked.

"It's difficult to identify the gifted," Karen Tillman, Ruidoso Schools diagnostician/counselor, said.

"Often we think in terms of academics and achievement but there are other areas of gifts, such as music or art."

Tillman added it is difficult to distinguish between high achievers and the truly gifted students.

"There are probably many high achievers, who fall in the 120 to 130 Intelligence Quotient range, but of the truly gifted there are not very many, perhaps two percent of the total enrollment."

AFTER CHRISTMAS, an extensive program of testing will begin in the Ruidoso School System to determine gifted children who will need special education.

"We'd like to find them before they become frustrated and turned off," Tillman said, adding parent referrals are encouraged.

Mental characteristics of a gifted student include an active curiosity or desire to know, deep and varied interest in abstract ideas, ability to recognize relationships and to generalize and capacity for logical thinking.

They also have the ability of rapid learning, requiring little repetitive drill, long span of attention, commensurate with a high degree of intelligence, original and creative ability and the capacity for self criticism.

Tillman also listed character traits of a gifted student as a child who is more often a leader than pupils of average mental ability.

They also make good social adjustments and are inclined to prefer association with persons of their own mental level or with those older than they, plus they are extremely sensitive to injustice to others and suffer keenly because of social conditions in the world.

Despite lists of mental and character traits, the gifted are still hard to identify because "many gifted kids are not going to be who you think they are," she said.

"You have to get past nonacademic behavior."

Once a gifted child has been identified, special education instructors will try to meet their needs, which include:

- Finding and understanding the similarities they possess and share with other children in order to feel comfortable with their social peers.
- Adjusting themselves to their differences so as not to develop feelings of inferiority.

- Understanding they do not need to cover up their superior abilities and achievements, so they will not sink into mediocrity in school endeavors.
- Developing a sense of self adequacy through association with their intellectual peers.

- Finding and defining purposes in the satisfaction of curiosity.
- Finding weaknesses in their stores of knowledge and in their personality development, but, more, they need assistance in knowing what to do to overcome the weaknesses once they have been identified.

- Understanding and accepting their ability to achieve, both quantitatively and qualitatively.

- Understanding the necessity of adjusting their means of communication with those less able than they, so as to be understood by those who do not possess their intellectual abilities.

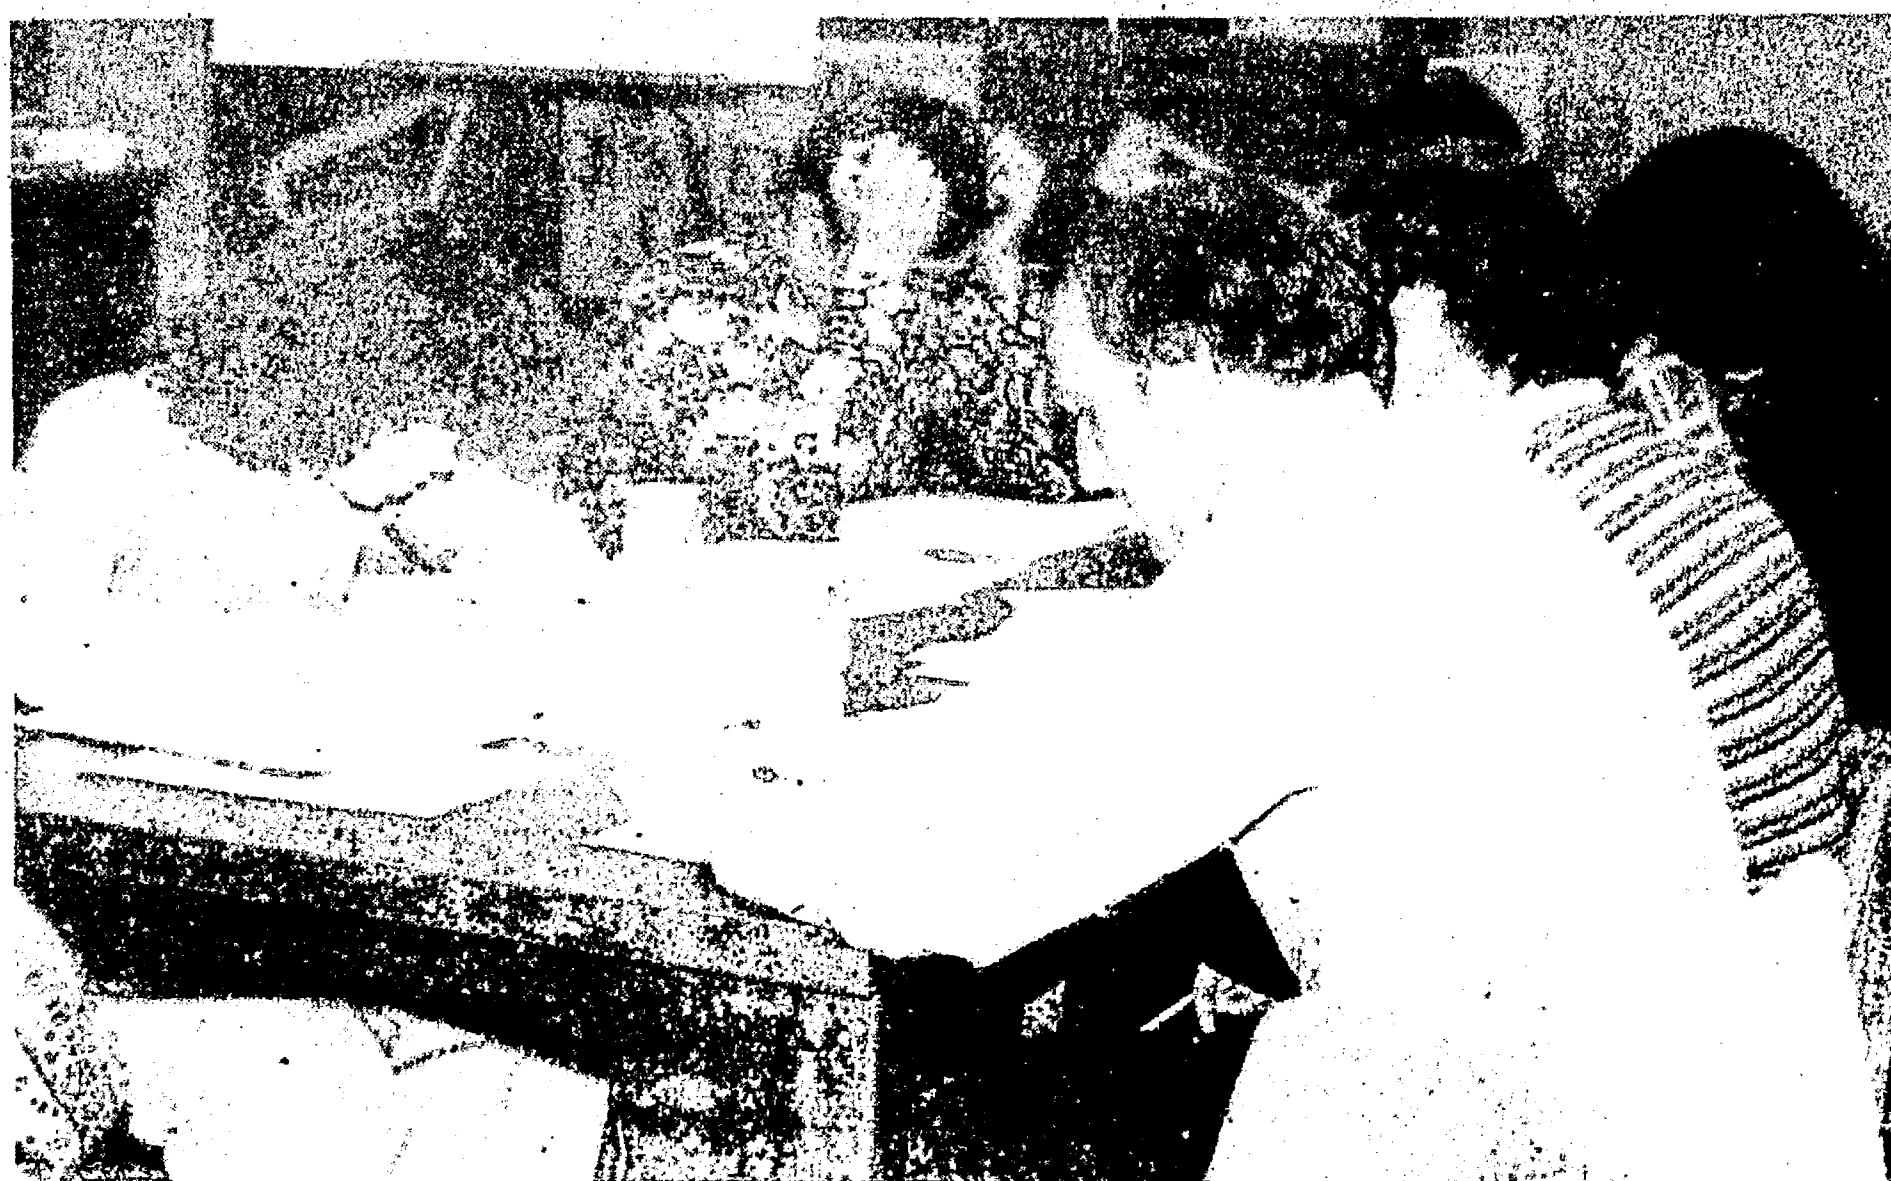

ONCE A GIFTED student has been identified in the Ruidoso School System, Tillman hopes to give him/her a "different kind of activity, not more of the same work."

After the program, which is scheduled to get underway next year, begins gifted students will work with a special educator one day each week.

Students will complete independent work under the supervision of the instructor or with tutors from the community.

WHITE MOUNTAIN MIDDLE SCHOOL instructors attended a workshop given by Karen Tillman, diagnostician/counselor, to help them in identifying gifted children. During the seminar, they were told to divide into groups and select three children who were gifted from a list of possibles and then the results of each group were compared.

Santa asking for letters

Say, kiddies! Santa Claus, from way up at the North Pole, called The Ruidoso News this morning, wondering why he hasn't been getting letters from all of you little boys and girls that have been good all year long.

Santa said, "My reindeer are all fat and sassy and getting mighty anxious to start pulling my sled Christmas Eve, when I'll be visiting Ruidoso with presents for all the good little girls and good little boys."

Santa also said, "All the little elves have been working so hard at making presents. You should see them. They hardly have time for a snowball fight, or to make a roly poly little snowman for me."

"Just write me," Santa said, "at Post Office Box 128, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345. Be sure to put North Pole on the envelope. And you have to mail your letter to me by Thursday, December 14. No later."

The News will send all letters to Santa's factory, up at the North Pole, just as he asked. This is how Santa will know all of the little boys and girls who have been good and there are lots of them here.

And, so everyone will know about the letters Santa gets from here, The News will print them along with other Christmas news and all of the good little girls and boys can see their letters in the paper.

Just to repeat, boys and girls, your letters must be mailed to Santa before 5 p.m., December 14, because it's a long ways up to the North Pole and he wants all those letters right away. Don't you miss out.

Those of you in school can write your own letters. But for those good little boys and girls that haven't started to school yet, Santa says it's alright if you have mommy help you a little bit with your letter.

Capitan school open today

A massive cleanup was underway by noon Wednesday at Capitan High School in the aftermath of a fire which gutted the old gymnasium and stage area early that morning.

Labor and supplies were provided by inmates of Camp Sierra Blanca (CSB), after School Superintendent Richard Clifton made an appeal for help.

Because all doors to the gym were closed, fire damage was confined to that area. The stage was destroyed, along with furniture which had been borrowed for a school play.

Heat and smoke buckled paint and discolored walls in adjacent rooms. A 1948 basketball trophy, displayed in a case at the front of the gym was partially melted.

Also lost were "two pianos, maybe three," Clifton said, including a $5,000 baby grand. Other instruments stored in the band room behind the gym were damaged by smoke and water, though some may be salvaged.

Clifton said Wednesday afternoon he expected to have the hallways and locker rooms surrounding the gym ready for use by Monday morning.

The CSB men scrubbed the walls and ceilings Wednesday in preparation for repainting during the weekend. Water was being pumped from the basement, where Clifton said "Eight or ten years of school records were stored."

He added he would not be able to determine the monetary loss until after an inventory was made for the insurance company.

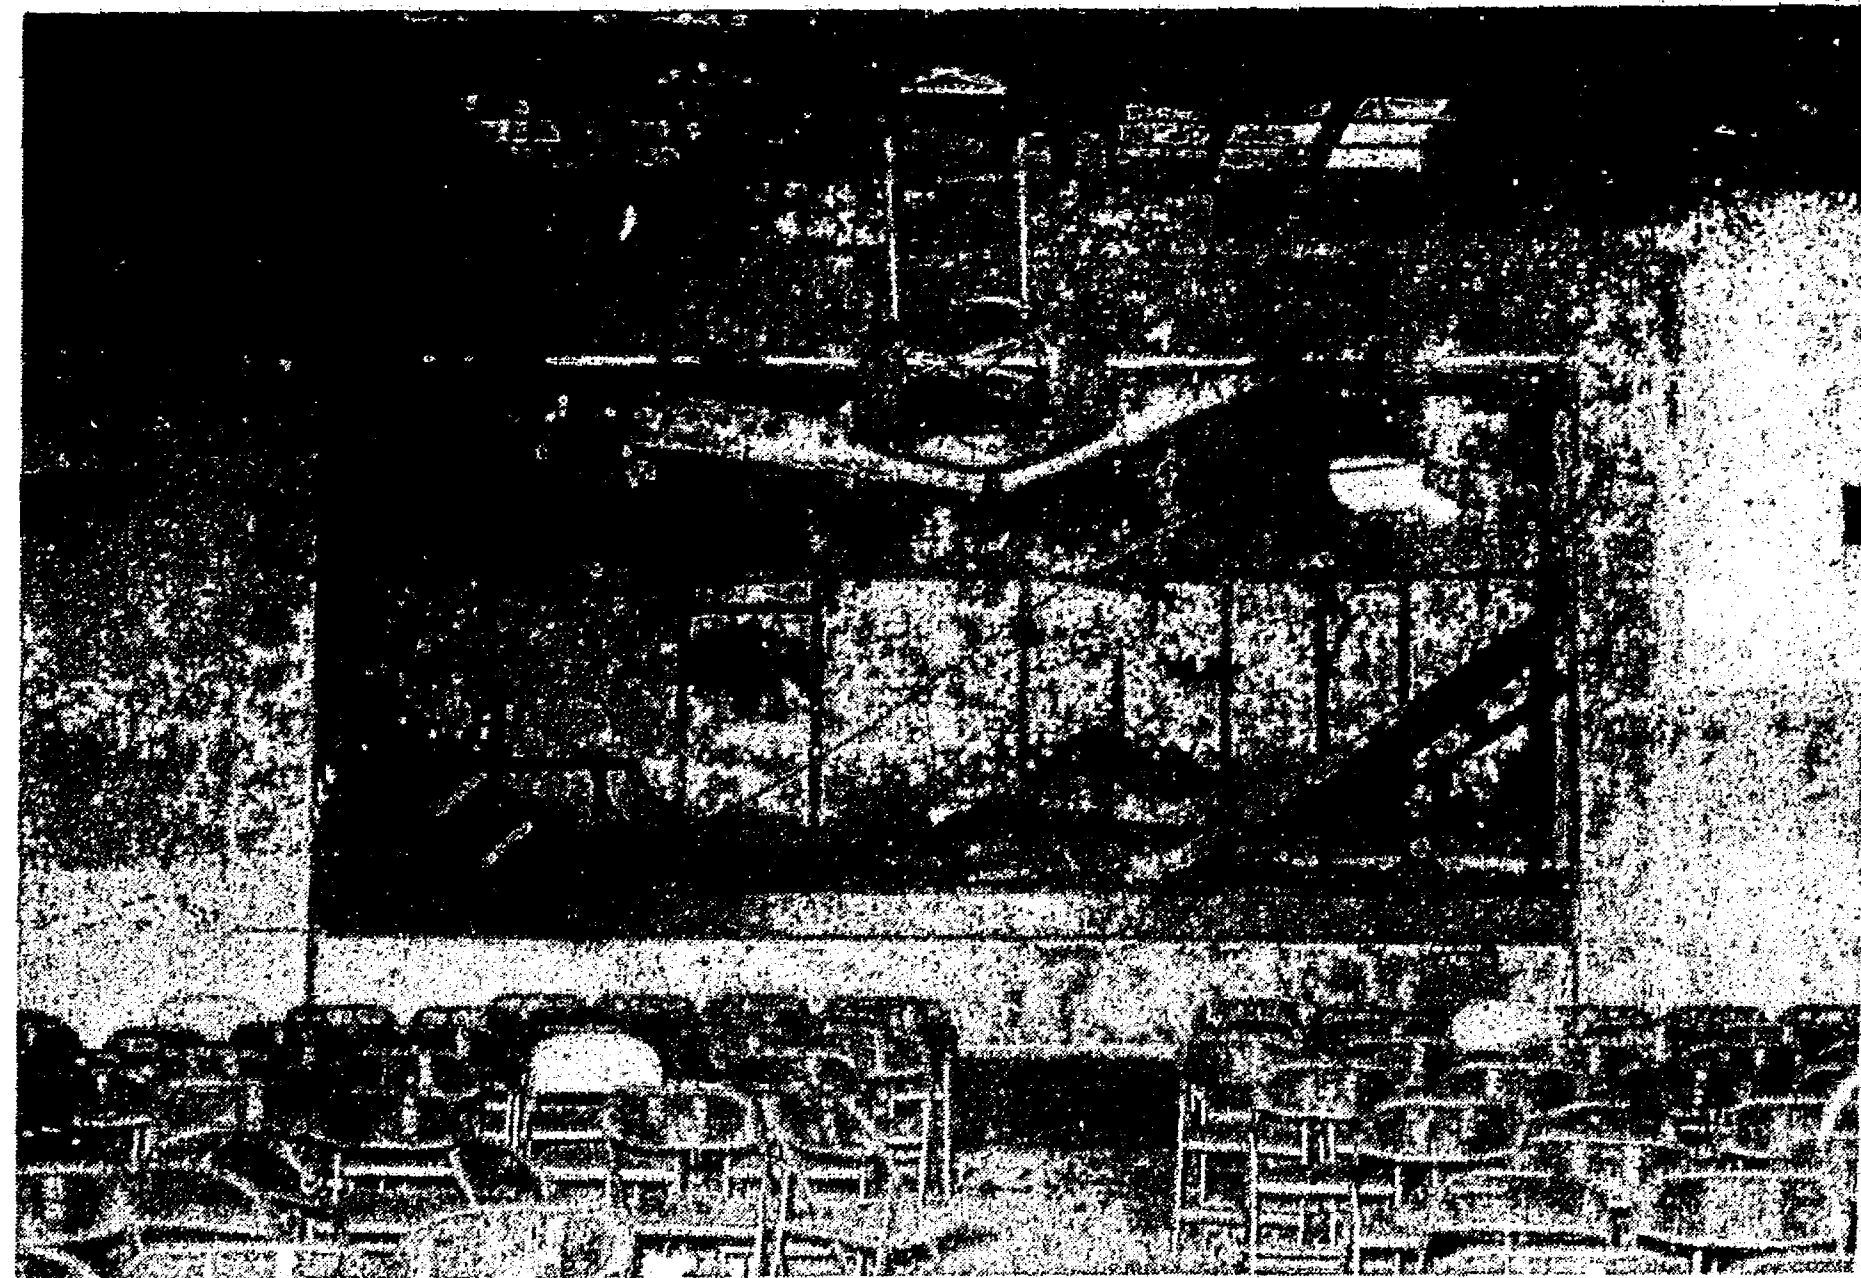

The school will definitely be handicapped by the loss, according to Clifton.

The blaze was discovered about 6:15 Wednesday morning by counselor Tom

Abbott, who attempted to enter the north wing door and was blown backwards off the steps by heat and pressure which had built up inside.

Fire fighting units from Capitan and Carrizozo answered the alarm and worked for two hours before bringing the blaze under control.

The band room, located directly behind the gym, suffered extensive smoke and water damage, but was not gutted, as originally reported. Clifton said the football equipment was also saved.

THIS USED TO BE the stage area of the old gymnasium at Capitan High School. A fire gutted the room last Wednesday and caused extensive smoke damage in adjacent rooms.

Villages' trustees to meet

The Ruidoso Downs trustees will meet at 7 tonight in Municipal Hall and the Ruidoso trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

The Ruidoso Downs agenda includes:

- Report from the Planning and Zoning Commission,
- Setting the date for a community-wide meeting to establish measures to control stray dogs in the village.

The Ruidoso agenda includes:

- Announcement of a call for bids, March 10, 1979, for improvements on Juanita Street, north to North Street, as an "off systems" road project under agreement with the state Highway Department.

FORTUNE TELLER Tim Hassell practices with madrigal singer, Diane Coulston in preparation for the December 9 Olde English Madrigal Feast to be held at 6:30 p.m., in Kings Supper Club. In addition to the madrigal singers and fortune teller, there will be instrumentalists, jugglers, dancers and witches. Ticket sales of $15 per person and $25 per couple will continue through Saturday at the Ruidoso Public Library. Those planning to attend the feast, which will include game hens and flaming plum pudding, should make reservations as soon as possible. Proceeds of the feast will go to the library special projects fund.

games such as palindromes or word descriptions and math problems.

Palindromes are words or sentences which read the same whether read front or backwards such as "Dennis sinned" or "Dennis and Edna sinned."

In lower grades, students are given a noun and told to list adjectives describing the noun, such as "Horse" which is "Handsone, Ornery, Roguish, Sweet and Elegant."

Or a student may be given a word, told to make a sentence from the letters and describe the word, then draw a picture to accompany the sentence.

An example would be Flab or "Fat Legs Are Beautiful" plus a drawing of fat legs.

An example of an unusual math puzzle for a gifted child would be, "Tom, Joe, Kate and Sam live in a row of houses with red, pink, blue and gray roofs. Sam's is blue, Tom has one neighbor, and Joe has two. The red roof is two houses away from the blue. The gray roof is on the end of the block. Sam's only neighbor is an old maid. Whose roof is pink?"

HISTORICAL FIGURES, who today are considered gifted, but were overlooked as low achievers or misfits include:

Albert Einstein, who was 4-years-old before he could speak and seven before he could read.

Isaac Newton, who did poorly in grade school.

Ludwig von Beethoven, who was told by a music teacher, "As a music composer, he is hopeless."

Thomas Edison, who was told by teachers he was too stupid to learn.

F.W. Woolworth, who had a job in a dry goods store when he was 21, but was not allowed to wait on customers because he "didn't have enough sense."

Walt Disney, who was fired by a newspaper editor because he had "no good ideas."

Enrico Caruso, who was told by a music teacher "you can't sing, you have no voice at all."

Madame Schumann-Heink, director of the Imperial Opera in Vienna, who was told to buy a sewing machine because she would never be a singer.

Leo Tolstoy, who flunked out of college.

Verner von Braun, who flunked ninth grade algebra.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who flew over both poles after retirement from the Navy because he was "unfit for service."

Louis Pasteur, who was rated as mediocre in chemistry in the Royal College.

Abraham Lincoln, who entered the Black Hawk War as a captain and came out as a private.

Louisa Mae Alcott, who was told by an editor she could never write anything with popular appeal.

Fred Waring, who was once rejected from high school chorus.

Winston Churchill, who failed the sixth grade.

Ski report

With three inches of new snow Sunday night, skiing at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort is on powder and packed powder.

Conditions are fair on the beginning slopes with one beginner lift operating and good on the upper intermediate/expert trails.

It was still snowing at 9 a.m., today at the ski area and motorists are advised chains are necessary on State Road 532.

This morning's low was 21 degrees and yesterday's high was 48 degrees.

For skiing conditions call 257-9001.

Chamber's Coffee Cart Wednesday

Wednesday's Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, will be from 9 to 10 a.m., at Dave Wilson Photographics and The Roadrunner, on Sudderth east of the dip.

Chamber officers and directors are stressing that these weekly Coffee Carts are strictly informal and that input from residents is being sought on any topic or possible project for the Chamber.

Harvey Foster heads Search, Rescue unit

Officials were elected at the Tuesday evening White Mountain Search and Rescue meeting.

Elected were Harvey Foster, president; Nick Griffin, vice president; Herb Brunell, secretary, and Alden Deyo, treasurer.

During the meeting the group also discussed the December 2 New Mexico Emergency Services Council meeting at White Mountain school. The all day meeting, which begins at 9 a.m., will be hosted by the local search and rescue group.

EID offers suggestions on handling food safely

Environmentalist Richard J. Perkins, of the Ruidoso office of the Environmental Improvement Division (EID), to facilitate proper handling of hot and cold foods in restaurants and in the home, has outlined the duties of EID personnel concerning the operation of food-service establishments and offers suggestions to the home cook to minimize the effect of bacteria on food prepared in the home.

"No person shall own or operate a food-service establishment without a permit issued by the agency for the establishment," So begins section 102 of the EID Regulations Governing Food Protection in Food Service Establishments. Among the responsibilities of the Ruidoso office of the EID are the issuance of Food or Drink Purveyor Permits to restaurants and bars in Lincoln County, and the routine inspections of these establishments to insure that no threat to the public health develops. Many of the regulations governing the food handling in restaurants restaurants should also be observed in the home.

For example, restaurants are prohibited from leaving potentially hazardous foods (milk, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, shellfish, or food capable of supporting rapid bacterial growth) out on a counter to thaw, if frozen, or to cool, if hot. The reason for this is that infectious and toxicogenic micro-organisms begin to grow and reproduce much more rapidly as their temperature approaches room temperature. At temperatures above 140 degrees or below 45 degrees, little if any growth occurs. So the idea is to minimize the time that potentially dangerous foods spend between these temperatures.

There are three good ways to thaw frozen foods: 1) Thaw them as part of the cooking process; 2) Let them thaw in the refrigerator; 3) Thaw them under cool running water.

Cooling hot foods properly is also important. Of course, it is best to serve potentially hazardous foods just after they have been cooked. But if there are leftovers, they should be placed in the refrigerator while still hot. Some folks will tell you never to put anything in the refrigerator while it is still hot because it will go bad. These potentially hazardous foods have a much greater chance of going bad if you don't refrigerate them while they are still hot.

Remember that many kinds of bacteria reproduce every twenty or thirty minutes. A conscientious cook will minimize the time that food remains at a temperature where this rate of reproduction is possible.

'College Day' visitation set for area high school students

Local high school students will have a chance to talk with New Mexico post-high school institutional representatives about their future plans November 30.

Representatives of 17 New Mexico colleges, universities and other post-secondary schools will meet students at Ruidoso High School at 9:30 a.m., with Captain, Hondo and Carrizozo students also in attendance.

The annual "College Day" visits at New Mexico high schools is sponsored by the statewide Coordinating Council of Secondary Schools and Colleges. Larry Faqua, Eastern New Mexico University (ENMU) director of admissions, is council chairman this year.

BY DONNA CLARKE

Rotary Foreign Exchange Student

Dear All,
Hi! Well, another rainy Saturday. The weather has been really warm and sunny all week while I've been at school and clouds up and rains on the weekends. Typical spring weather. I only have eight and a half days of school left before the summer holidays. Really only two and a half days of classes left. Then accreditting is November 15. All the kids who don't get accredited are off school to study for exams. The ones who are, still come to school and do odd jobs like painting fences and cleaning up the grounds.
I attended an Orientation Weekend for all exchange students currently in the district and all students who have applied to go overseas. I met the girl, Julie Turnbull, who will be coming to New Mexico in January. We had meetings and some of the kids went waterskiing but it was really cold. They were blue when they came out. We had a program put on that night by all the students who came over in January, 1978. They sang "Twelve Months in New Zealand" to the tune of the "Twelve Days of Christmas." We had a great time. We stayed up and watched the Rugby Test match live on TV. It started at about 1:30 a.m. So we didn't get much sleep.

I haven't had many speaking engagements yet. Only three so far, Rotary, Rotaract and Women's Institute. I'm speaking to another branch of the Women's Institute next month. My slides are working really nice. I would like to thank everyone who helped get them together.
I'm moving to the Cheers Thursday, November 16 (Val & Anne.) They have two boys, both married. Val is a signwriter and Anne is a primary school teacher. All the exchange students have another weekend away at Waverly, this time at a Pa, a Maori meeting house, for a Maori. We will get to take part in the traditional Maori activities. Sounds like a lot of fun.
I received my first Ruidoso News today, the November 6 issue. I guess it came airmail and the rest are coming surface. I really enjoyed getting all the news. I got a call from Laurie Durham the other day when they were in Auckland. I didn't get to see them as their tour was already arranged. It was great talking to someone from home. Well, it's time for "tea" (dinner) now. Bye,

Sincerely,
Donna Clarke

Following the tournament, players will be able to inspect an analysis sheet for a comparison of hands and bids of others.

A nominal entry fee will be charged and all proceeds will go to the American Contract Bridge League (ACBL) charity drive. For more information or to arrange a partnership, call Bill Wilson at 257-2501 or Becky Garner at 257-4145.

BRIGHT COLORS are making news everywhere on the fashion scene... including the new polyester fibers for carpeting. The development of new fibers has produced carpets that have great luster and depth of color and do not show soil as fast as the brights did in the past.
Polyester is a great favorite in the popular multi-level random shear stylings and in lush thick shags. The great versatility of the new fiber makes it easy for manufacturers to mix different types to create intriguing new effects of texture and color.
The easy cleanability and natural soil resistance of polyester means you can consider a whole range of lighter or brighter colors you might have shied away from before because you didn't think they were practical.
The bulk or thickness of polyester, its relative durability, and its bouncy resilience are well-known. These qualities go beautifully with the practicality of brighter hues and livelier rooms.
Come in and look over the bright ideas in new polyester shags and shears in our big carpet showroom. You'll delight in the vibrant range of color tones, in solids and multi-color weaves, and you'll like the practical installed prices!

Third annual middle school tournament tips off Thursday

The Third Annual Knights of Columbus Eighth Grade Basketball Tournament is scheduled for November 30 through December 2 at White Mountain Middle School.

The tournament is for both boys' and girls' teams. The boys' tournament is single elimination play while the girls' tournament will be a double elimination event.

There are five teams entered in the girls' tournament: Ruidoso, Weed, Holloman, Capitán and Carrizozo. There are six teams in the boys' event: Ruidoso, Holloman, Capitán, Weed, Carrizozo and Tularosa. Missing from the event is last year's victor, Alamogordo.

The tournament begins Thursday with the Weed-Capitán matchup at 2:30. That game will be followed by another girls' match, Holloman versus Ruidoso.

The boys open play following that game with Tularosa playing Holloman at 5:15. Carrizozo plays Capitán at 6:30. Both Weed and Ruidoso have first round byes.

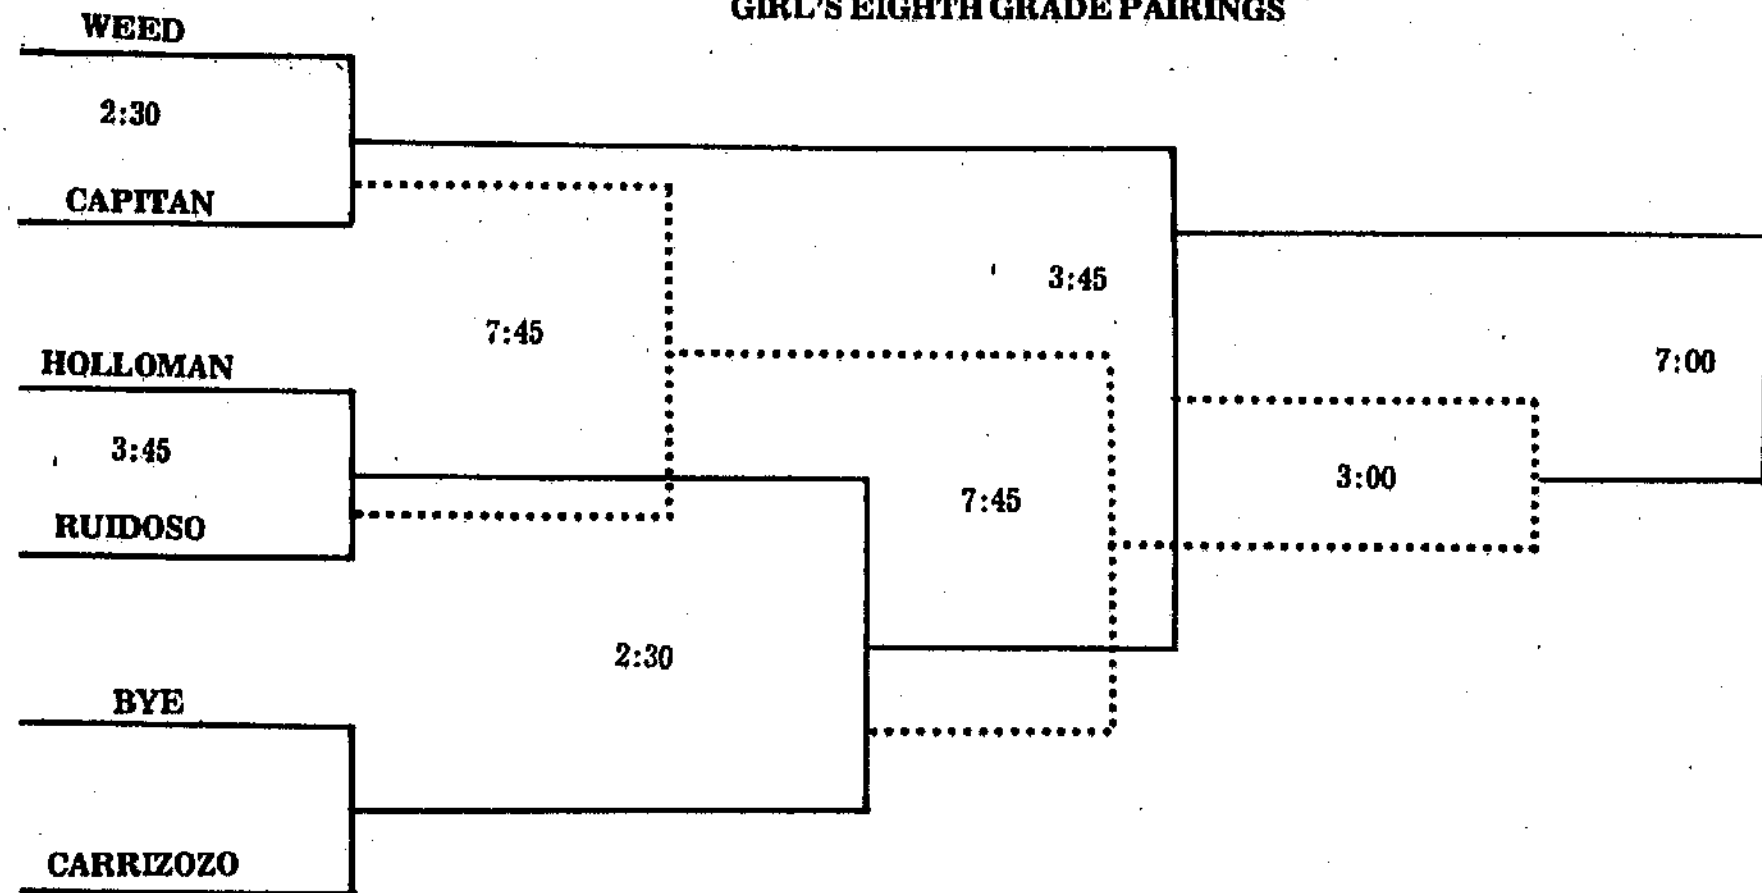

With the exception of a game between the losers of the Weed-Capitán match and the Holloman-Ruidoso game in the girls' bracket at 7:45 Thursday night, second round games in both the boys' and girls' tournaments are scheduled for Friday at 2:30.

Consolation and championship finals are scheduled for Saturday. The boys' consolation is set for 4:15, followed by the battle for third place at 5:30. The girls' finals are scheduled for 7 p.m., succeeded immediately by the boys' championship game at 8:15.

Pairings for both the girls' and boys' brackets are shown below.

Special hunt rewards disabled

It was a special hunt, and all eight hunters took an elk. The 100 percent success record is itself impressive, but more impressive is the fact that each of the eight hunters is confined to a wheelchair.

They were hunting with special licenses and permits made available through the Department of Game and Fish and Vermejo Park Ranch, owned by the Penzoll Corporation, according to the department's Northeast Area Supervisor, Jim Yarbrough.

The eight, selected by drawing, purchased a regular elk license and were granted free trespass privileges and antlerless elk validations by Penzoll Corporation, Yarbrough said. Seven of the hunters and their companions camped at Merrick Lake on the ranch, and one stayed at the lodge.

Each also held a special permit from the Department of Game and Fish allowing him to shoot from a vehicle. Such permits are available to any big game hunter who is permanently disabled and confined to a wheelchair.

The hunters took five bulls and three cows during their elk hunt.

Law violations costly to offenders

A Colorado man who crossed into New Mexico and killed an elk in closed season was nabbed by ranch employees and Game and Fish officers; he has forfeited a $1,000 bond and paid $300 in civil damages.

Two southwestern New Mexico men, cited in a case involving illegal killing of two javelinas after Game and Fish officers investigated an Operation Game Thief call, have been assessed $1,400 in fines and civil damages.

According to the Game and Fish Department, 22-year-old John N. Boatright, Fort Morgan, Colorado was approximately two miles inside the New Mexico state line and killed a bull elk on the Penzoll Corporation's Vermejo Park property. Charged by Game and Fish Officer Ed Sanchez with killing an elk in closed season, Boatright posted, then forfeited, a $1,000 bond before Raton Magistrate Glada Sanderson. He has also paid $300 in civil damages to the department for the state's loss of the elk.

In a separate case, an Operation Game Thief call started Game and Fish officers on an investigation into the illegal killing of two javelina during deer season. Officer Steve Harvill, Silver City, said 29-year-old Bernardo Gonzales, Deming, was convicted on two counts of killing javelina in closed season and fined $400 on each count, plus $100 civil damages for each javelina. Another Deming man, charged as an accessory in the case, was also fined $400 after helping Gonzales conceal the javelina.

Magistrate Y.B. Morales, Bayard, heard the case and assessed the fines. Operation Game Thief caller No. 118-F has collected a $250 reward for forwarding the information which started the investigation.

Operation Game Thief callers are not required to give their names or testify in court, and they are eligible for substantial rewards if their information leads to an arrest or issuance of a citation.

The reward fund is overseen by a citizen's task force and is made up entirely of donations from individuals, clubs and businesses.

The Game and Fish Department maintains a toll-free WATS line, 1-800-432-4283, which is staffed during business hours, and welcomes calls on all types of wildlife law violations, including big game, small game and birds, fish and protected nongame species.

Couple awaits Grey Cup tally

For most people, the Sunday sports page is an opportunity to catch up on all of the latest scores. For a pair of Ruidoso residents, the sports page is a week late and comes in the form of a letter or a phone call.

Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Hunt of Ruidoso would have liked to have had their eyes or ears glued to a communication box of some kind yesterday when their grandson took the field in the Grey Cup, Canada's version of the Super Bowl.

Since Canadian football isn't broadcast on television or radio, and since its scores don't often appear in the paper, the Hunts must content themselves with the knowledge that their daughter in California will call later in the week with news of their exploits on the field.

"We talk to our daughter once a week and she tells us how John (Olenchuk) is doing," Hunt said.

Keeping tabs on a professional football player who happens to be your grandson by long distance can be a frustrating thing, Hunt admits, but newspaper clippings from John's native California that the Hunts' daughter sends, keep the Hunts up to date, and to an extent, satisfied.

Despite the affection for their grandson ("every grandparent thinks his grandchild is fantastic," Hunt said), the Hunts have no intention of traveling to Canada to see him play.

"It's too far."

Capitol Comment

by Ernie Mills

Santa Fe—No Mystery: Just before the Capitol crowd left the Merry Round House for the "Turkey Day" holiday, latest figures were released from the office of the Secretary of State's elections bureau showing the vote difference in the Governor's race between Bruce King and Joe Skeen at 3,791.

Our prediction back in mid-October was that the difference between the winner and loser would be 4,000 votes or less. We're looking now to see what happened to the other 209 votes!

The State Canvassing Board is expected to meet Tuesday to certify the election results, but you can almost make bet the board will meet and recess until a later date.

The smart cookies know that elections take longer to certify any more because we have gone to faster, more accurate computers. Har! Har!

Crystal Ball Time: Stories can break at just any moment from the corridors outside the Bruce King transition offices on the Third Floor of the Merry Round House—and, they sure can leave columnists hanging.

But, just for the record, we'll predict that Governor-elect Bruce King will name at least two and maybe three Cabinet appointments at the very beginning of next week.

Crystal Ball Sidelight: Nobody should have been surprised that Fernando E. C. De Baca would be left out in the cold when Governor-elect Bruce King comes up with a new cabinet—and certainly Ferdie wasn't.

If you remember way back before the primary election, this column speculated that E. C. De Baca was considering making a run for the GOP Lt. Governor nomination.

It was never kept a secret and Fernando came within a "hair" of announcing.

Strictly Gossip from the Third Floor Corridor—Which Means You Have to Draw Your Own Conclusions: Among visitors to the Bruce King transitional office was Richard Heim, former director of the Health and Social Services Department, when King served as Governor previously.

Heim, who moved on to a top spot in Washington, probably was "consulting" with the incoming governor on that opening at the Human Services Department for Cabinet Secretary.

Another top hand in to see King before breaking for the Thanksgiving Day holidays was Attorney General Toney Anaya, who ran a bang-up race against incumbent United States Senator Pete Domenici for the Senate seat.

Some of the newcomers at the Capitol don't remember that Anaya was Administrative Aide to Bruce King during Big Bruce's last go-round as Governor.

Our sources say the King people are well aware that Anaya's race and performance against Domenici were a big help to King's race against Joe Skeen.

Out on a Limb Time: This reporter is going to predict that Bruce King will make a major change at the State Personnel Department—and that means Dr. Glen Gares will be on his way out as director.

No word at the time this is being written as to whom King will name to the post—one of the most critical in State Government.

Biggest Smile: Probably the happiest guy around the Capitol this past week was Larry Ingram of Tucumcari, the Demo State Chairman, who really pulled off a big 'un in his first go at the State job.

Ingram, by the way, got an invite from President Jimmy Carter to go back to the White House next week for some briefings on the President's anti-inflation policy.

Letters to the Editor

[EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was written to The News October 16 in response to an editorial that appeared October 12. The News did not receive the letter until November 21. We regret the delay in its publication.]

Dear editor:

The question raised in an editorial in the Ruidoso News as to the distribution of research results through the New Mexico State University system contains serious errors of fact. Indeed, the editorial challenged our entire system of publishing and distributing research information, particularly as it applies to the Fort Stanton Experimental Ranch. Results of Agricultural Experiment Station research are not placed in libraries to gather dust, but go into a vast distribution system in order to effectively place the information in the hands of the producer-farmers or ranchers. A simple call or visit to the County Agent's office in Carrizozo by any citizen of Lincoln County (phone number 648-2471) will place him in direct contact with our network, and will result in access to a free copy of every published research result on file in our statewide system.

Moreover, the 200 or more visitors at the Fort Stanton Experimental Ranch field day August 30, received copies of the latest progress reports on research results not yet published in bulletins or journal article form.

To further illustrate, let's use an example. An important recent publication,

"Chemical Composition and Digestibility of Important Range Grass Species" (New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin 682), came off the press in April 1978. A total of 2,000 copies were printed. Each county agent's office immediately received copies with instructions for ordering more. Further, the bulletin entered our state and national library distribution and into a national and international system whereby other researchers can benefit. Copies were displayed in county agent's offices, used at meetings and distributed by specialists. Results of pertinent research also enter the news media through radio and TV spots. We also have a special mailing list to people, firms and agencies that wish to keep current with the results of not only Fort Stanton, but other agricultural research. Articles appear in scientific journals and theses resulting from research. These may be obtained from the NMSU Library on loan. Indeed, the vast and effective network through which results of research are disseminated to the people of this state is one of the most complete and envied systems available — reaching into every county. This system, typical of those of every state in the U.S., is the envy of nearly every other distribution system and has really never been copied, or surpassed, in any other country. It is, of course, the base for our entire educational effort to assist farmers and ranchers.

ECONOMIC GAMBLE

There's good reason for continued concern over President Carter's handling of serious economic problems involving the dollar, U.S. foreign trade and excessive inflation.

President Carter, proposing greater federal spending in January, 1977, underestimated the seriousness of America's economic dilemma. He continued to do so for eighteen months. Last summer he was still saying interest rates were already too high. He currently still plans deficit-spending budgets, gambling he can — in spite of them — stabilize the dollar and check inflation.

President Carter is thus continuing a very risky gamble, so far unsuccessful, very late in the game. He has, moreover, already played his major shock card to bolster the dollar. Without drastic action to limit federal spending and balance the budget, he could unknowingly produce new runs on the dollar and perhaps even international monetary panic.

Foreign confidence in the dollar, and Washington are the keys to international stability. — Santa Rosa News

CONSIDERATION MERITED

While we would hope the legislature will consider cautiously any proposals by Governor-elect Bruce King to reorganize reorganization, there is one change we believe merits adoption.

At a just concluded New Mexico Conference on Libraries and Information Services, delegates adopted a resolution, with just one dissenting vote, urging the removal of the State Library from the Department of Education.

It calls for the State Library and "related cultural agencies", such as the Museum of New Mexico, to be collected into one department which would be given cabinet status in state government.

We were somewhat confused when in the reorganization process such agencies were included in the education department because we saw nothing to connect the Museum or the Library with educational problems. One gets the feeling reorganizers were uncertain what to do with these agencies and dumped them into the first convenient slot.

New Mexico's unique cultural background can best be served by a separate entity in state government, answerable of course to the legislature and the governor. But the department of Education has enough to think about as it is and we're afraid our cultural agencies will become financial stepchildren to the important task of educating our children.

We urge our legislators to seriously consider the resolution worked out by a cross-section of interested people from all corners of our state. — Rio Grande Sun, Espanola

Your attendance at the Olde English Madrigal Feast, December 6 at Kings Supper Club, to benefit the Ruidoso Public Library, is indeed indicated. The library offers reading ranging from the classics to the latest in contemporary writing and the employees will research reasonable questions for anyone. A FORTUNE FOUND

'Twas on the eve prior to Thanksgiving ... with conviviality abounding in the ice tea parlor ... over one of said parlor's famed salutiferous libations ... that good ol' Shaky Pete ... who worries more about things getting worse, than better ... got to wondering about the goings on amongst the members of the Jonestown cult down in normally somnolent Guyana ... or at least that portion somewhere near Georgetown, abutting on the jungle proper.

Shaky'd read that cult leader Jim Jones ... called him that funny preacher feller ... had about half a million bucks wortha gold and jewels ... and another half a million in various currencies ... laying about in Jones' quarters ... 'causing Shaky to further wonder ... whilst latching onto a refill of ice tea ... just how many quarters Jones had ... figuring it'd take quite a stack of quarters to contain, if not cover, that much loot.

Shaky ... you see ... wonders about a lot of things. He kinda wondered what'd happen to all that loot ... and he didn't express much interest in the bundles of uncashed social security checks ... and opined that he'd ran across a Jones in his family tree ... with Shaky's family tree being a huge oak in back of the house in which he was reared ... and that this Jones ... the one up in the tree ... just coulda been a relative ... and don't think that all that loot wasn't relative to Shaky's thinking. Shaky ... you see ... thinks a lot about his ship coming in ... and welcomes every opportunity to locate a port from which it could sail.

"Seems strange," Shaky mused, "that this preacher feller Jones ... welrd as he mighta been ... woulda up and shot hisself in the noggin ... just because some of the fellers in his cult acted up a bit."

"Course, there was the part about the rumor that maybe Jones did indulge in a smidgen of drugs now and then ... to which Shaky allowed ... "He probably could afford it." A mighty profound observation coming from Shaky ... who'd obviously been worrying considerable about all those alleged suicides that had him wondering if maybe "murder" was more apt.

'Twas early when Shaky left ... wonderin' if maybe two lawyers of a friend of his might not be buddies with a reputable genealogist ... 'cause, you see, Shaky's possessed of an unshakable faith that his ship will come in.

And the ice tea parlor door'd barely swung shut ... when it again swung open ... and there was Shaky ... who'd forgot to wonder if'n maybe those cult survivors ... those as didn't feed the piranhas in the jungle stream ... and as didn't succumb to any of the jungle's other deadly perils ... and eluded the fuzz type jungle searchers for said cult survivors ... and maybe found refuge with friendly jungle natives ... might not figure out some way to lay claim to all that loot.

"Better have another ice tea on that," Shaky said, "with the thought being maybe there ain't none to home ... and if'n there ain't ... that means I can't have no ice tea before Thanksgiving dinner ... which'd be terrible ... seeing's probably I'll not have much to be thankful for, anyhow ... especially concerning all of that Jones' loot ... 'cause, come to think of it, that young feller up in my family tree was named Smith ... and if'n that revolting development don't call for another refreshing ice tea, I don't know what would."

SKIING'LL HAPPEN SOON

'Twas a smashing ... and low ... blow that the snows to cover Sierra Blanca didn't materialize to bring whole herds of skiers here for the Thanksgiving weekend ... but there seemed to be whole bunches of drivers sporting Texas plates on their vehicles anyhow.

'Tis comforting ... on the thumb hand side ... to realize that our early snows are still hanging tough on Old Baldy's slopes ... forming the base ... and ready to let oodles of fresh powder build up ... opening the door to the fantastic skiing ... not to be forgetting the skiers with loot ... that's made Ruidoso's fame as the year around Playground of the Southwest a reality that makes some of us happy ... some of us sad.

But, by jinkies, ere long there'll be a lot of that fluffy white stuff on the slopes ... and it'll attract plenty of crinkly long green to our valley.

BRIEF BIT: Ever noticed, on a controversial issue, takes the guy with the smallest mind the longest to give the audience a piece of it ... CD

FIGHTING INFLATION

You can say President Carter's program to slow inflation isn't going to work, and even if you do, that will make it even more likely that it won't work.

Or you can say it is the only program we have as a nation, and it deserves support, no matter how small its chances of success.

We lean toward the second position. Sixty percent of the American people, according to the latest polls, now believe inflation is the nation's most important problem.

Fear of inflation is closely tied to rising prices. The inflation rate has been 10 percent or more most of this year.

Our gluttonous appetite for high-priced foreign oil certainly has been a major factor. We have been shipping billions of dollars overseas, more than foreigners can spend here or invest here. They have begun to sell their dollars cheap, and this has forced the value of the dollar down.

As imports become more expensive, our own producers can and do raise prices for domestic products which compete with imports. The fall of the dollar overseas has weakened the price competition, which is the best discipline for inflation.

President Carter got an energy bill that doesn't do much to solve the problem of oil imports. But it was the best that Congress would produce. And now the White House has turned its attention to a domestic program against inflation.

Voluntary wage-price guidelines — or standards, whatever you call them — have been tried before and haven't worked. But the Carter program backs them up with some indirect sanctions connected with government purchases and government regulations.

And the President promises to cut the federal budget deficit to $30 billion the next time around. That is commendable. It will require restraint by the Congress. Spending must be held down. Many federal agencies will feel the inevitable pinch.

Americans can best show their patriotism by tightening their belts and trying to comply with the President's program, no matter how ineffective it appears likely to be. — News-Bulletin, Belen

CONTINUITY

The decision of Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. to accept another two-year term as chief of U.S. forces in Europe is encouraging to America's allies.

In his simultaneous role as commander of all forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Haig has been able to smooth relationships among the often edgy NATO members.

Haig's tact and diplomacy came to national attention when he served as chief of staff in the beleaguered Nixon White House as the Watergate scandal unfolded. He was a visible, stable, confident figure in a crumbling administration, keeping the machinery of government in operation by serving as a buffer between the discredited president and a hostile Congress.

Presumably Haig has settled his differences with President Carter, which included complaints that he was not properly briefed on policy matters.

Haig's renewed assignment acknowledges the high regard he has earned during four years with NATO and reaffirms the commitment of the Carter Administration to keep NATO strong and effective. — News-Bulletin, Belen

THE CLASS OF 1959 — It was almost 20 years ago when Sunland Park Race Track (New Mexico) first opened for business. Track officials who were on hand for that first opening gathered in the clubhouse recently for a nostalgic get-together. Back row, from left: Publicity Director Dick Alwan; Mutuels Manager Jerry Knott; Starter Dean Turpitt; Photographer Clyde Jones. Front row: Mr. and Mrs. Woody Erwin; Mr. and Mrs. Doug Atkins; John Amodeo. During Sunland's grand opening in 1959, Alwan was assigned to cover the races as an El Paso Herald-Post sportswriter. Erwin, currently Sunland general manager, was director of racing. Atkins, now executive secretary-treasurer for the California division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, was Sunland publicity chief through mid-1967. Amodeo, currently commercial manager for KBCQ Radio in Roswell, was an account executive handling Sunland Park for the now-extinct White And Shuford Advertising of El Paso.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

Thanksgiving Eve
 This is being sent to you on the eve of that blessed day of Thanksgiving. And it is a day very much like the one many years ago back on the New England coast on that first Thanksgiving.

On that day, the wind was blowing and the grey clouds were thick overhead, and there was a light blanket of snow on the ground. The sugar maple trees, the elms and the beech, oak and all the other trees of the forest were bare of leaves, now fallen and covered by the snow. The air was cold and from a little to the east came the dull roar of the sea, pounding its waves upon the shore.

You might think that this was a somber and solemn day, judging from this kind of weather. Yet out under the wintry-looking oak and maple trees there were home made tables laden with pumpkin, potatoes, corn bread, turkey, cranberries, and many other good things to eat which the Indians had introduced to our pilgrim fathers.

Men, women and children raised their voices in prayers of thanksgiving to God for the bountiful harvest, and the promise of a happy winter.

Indian people of all ages were there to join in the grateful celebration. The laughter of children echoed through the wintry-looking trees blending with the song of the wind in the bare branches overhead. And the glad smiles of all these grateful people shone all the brighter in the cloudy day.

Surely these grateful people must have known that we would carry on their tradition of thankfulness.

Here in the vale the westwind is blowing, the cool breath from the snow-covered mountain is in the air. The oaks and walnuts are waving in the breeze, their branches having left the last of their leaves to go flying in the wind. The clouds of all shades of gray, are all through the sky. Just a little bit of snow can be seen amongst the shadows of the evergreens on the hill. The clouds gather closer to the earth, and the west wind increases its speed; and its song is louder through the wintry trees.

Still there is happiness in this wind song, and all the cloudy sky is filled with a spirit of thankfulness. And the spirits of our pilgrim fathers are close to us today as we thank God for all our blessings.

And our loved ones, in Heaven and on Earth join us in God's blessings on this sacred and happy season.

A Message From Jack Frost

Dear Friends In Lincoln County:
 Well, Well, to think it is already past Thanksgiving. I have been wanting to tell you that I am trying to bring you the best Indian Summer and winter I can.

I have been up in the Northwest around Seattle where the snow sort of got away from us for a while, bringing an early winter to that section of the country.

I tried to bring you a good Thanksgiving day with just a little snow and not too much cold weather. If things work out right, we will try to have a winter with snow for a while and then some clear sunny weather. Then we will bring some clouds to cover the sky at night so that it will not be too cold.

The Ridge Runner has told me that the ground is full of moisture — more than usual — this autumn. We had planned all this. We are going to try to bring you a lot of moisture this winter so we will have a green spring and a glorious summer.

We are still in the Thanksgiving season, so let us all be grateful for our blessings. I am certainly grateful to all you Lincoln County people for your friendship.

Remember, always. This time of year the weather can change all of a sudden. So, on a warm sunny day, be ready when you are out in the hills, or a long ways from home. Have some warm clothes along, something to eat, and matches and a flash light. And be sure and let someone know where you have gone. Because the warm spell is often followed by snow and cold.

Winter is a healthy and happy season, and I look forward to seeing you through the winter.

With every good wish, I remain,

Yours ever the same
