VOLUME NO. 83 IN OUR 32ND YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1978

A STROLL BY THE RIVER on a rainy, drizzly day can be rewarding as you listen to the Rio Ruidoso living up to its "Noisy Waters" name. Other pictures of this famed trout stream appear on inside pages of this issue.

Forest Service requests village water and sewer

Two letters of "formal request" from Ray S. Page, district ranger with the Smokey Bear Ranger District, were submitted to the Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening for village water and sewer service for the proposed Cedar Creek Group Campground and at the headquarters site.

The proposed campground is a project slated for completion about six, or more, years in the future. The facility would offer group campgrounds and picnic areas as well as family picnic areas.

Page estimated the total sewerage use maximum at the campground would be 507,000 gallons, other water usage 130,600 gallons, with the total pegged at 637,600 gallons.

The operational schedule at the campground would be geared for maximum capacity at the group picnic area of 30 days, 100 days at the group campground and 137 days at the family picnic area.

Under Page's proposal the Forest Service would be responsible for acquisition and financing of all labor and materials, as well as maintenance costs.

The trustees approved the campground concept, with the provision that the village water and sewer facilities are adequate to service the area upon completion of the project.

A second letter from Page requested village water service be provided the Smokey Bear Ranger District headquarters complex. Page estimated the annual consumption of water to be 657,000 gallons.

He also stated that all necessary costs of tying into the village water system would be borne by the Forest Service.

The trustees unanimously approved the second request.

In other business the trustees: — Adopted Ordinance 78-3, Amending Chapter V, Article I of the Ruidoso Code, raising the salary of the Municipal Judge from $500 to $750 per month, effective July 1, 1978.

— Approved, for inclusion in the 1978-1979 fiscal year budget, a portion of the operational deficit of $3,700 requested by Verna Adams, R.N., manager of the Home Health Services (HHS) office in Ruidoso. Village manager Jim Hine was instructed to seek participation by Lincoln County, prior to budgeting $1,200 for the village share. Mrs. Adams advised the trustees that the proposed HHS budget from September 1978 to September 1979 is $37,000.

— Were advised by village purchasing agent Frank Potter that the Navajo sewer extension problem is still being assessed.

— Postponed action on opening of bids on the lease of village land for a Teen Center building, pending obtaining additional information on land desired for parking.

— Were advised by Tom Mann, Mann Engineering, Roswell, that plans for road construction, tower installation and changes in the dam are under consideration by various agencies involved.

— Received a letter from the Noon Lions Club requesting the village to name a full time youth director to manage the Club's proposed Teen Center. No action was taken on the request, pending compilation of the next fiscal year's budget.

— Approved instituting legal proceedings to obtain a quit claim deed on property owned by "Doc" and Tina Chester at Evergreen Road and Carrizo Creek.

— Accepted annexation of the Robert E. Wells property, 10.25 acres, known as the "Brown Air Force Tract", adjacent Municipal Airport on the west side.

— Were advised by Hine that both front and back doors of the library would be open for voting from 8 a.m., to 7 p.m., March 7.

— Approved the official holidays for the balance of 1978.

State girls' cage classic underway

The state girls' Class A and Class AA basketball tournament will be held in Ruidoso today through Saturday in the Ruidoso High School (RHS) and White Mountain School (WMS) gymnasiums.

"This is the first time Ruidoso has hosted a state tournament," activities director Doyle Howell said.

"We first checked scheduling with Pat Vaillant, superintendent of schools, Tom Hansen, principal of the high school, and Sid Miller, principal of the mid school, and then applied to the New Mexico Activities Association.

"They looked into location, restaurants and motels and awarded the tournament to Ruidoso," Howell said.

The Class A schedule:

THURSDAY AT WMS

Cathedral vs. Floyd, 2 p.m.

Santa Fe Prep vs. Reserve, 3:30 p.m.

Melrose vs. Roy, 7 p.m.

Weed vs. Mountainair, 8:30 p.m.

Second round play at RHS is Friday at 2 and 7 p.m.

Consolation and championship games at RHS Saturday at 3:30 and 7 p.m.

The Class AA schedule:

THURSDAY AT RHS

Clayton vs. Dexter, 2 p.m.

Penasco vs. Moriarty, 3:30 p.m.

Jal vs. Ft. Sumner, 7 p.m.

Estancia vs. Escalante, 8:30 p.m.

Second round play at RHS is Friday at 3:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Consolation and championship games at RHS Saturday at 2 and 8:30 p.m.

Downs trustees held routine session Monday

The Ruidoso Downs trustees voted Monday evening to adjust two water bills, condemn a building and grant occupation license renewals in addition to other business.

Jack DiPaolo and Olin Jobe, both of Ruidoso Downs, had leaks in their water lines which ran unchecked for several days causing substantial water bills.

The council approved, at the mayor's recommendation, the two bills in an average of the previous three months' statements and a letter recommending emptying of water pipes be attached to Jobe's adjusted statement.

The trustees also received notice of confirmation of condemnation of the Ray Neil Jefferson home in Ruidoso Downs.

In other business, the trustees:

— Approved occupation license renewals for Carter Tobacco Company, Chaparral Well Drilling and Services Incorporated, Desartaire Oil and Gas, Sanchez Drive In and Truett Ball Realty.

— Approved appointment of Albert Richardson as an election judge alternate to replace Mrs. J. V. Perry, who is unable to serve for health reasons.

— Approved hiring of Louis Ellsworth of Arizona as a patrolman for the Ruidoso Downs Police Department. He will assume his duties in late March or early April.

— Were told by Richardson, who will step down from the board of trustees following the March 7 election, "It has been a pleasure to work with you although we've had our ups and downs."

Shane Watts wins slalom gold medal

Shane Watts of Ruidoso, skiing on one leg, won a gold medal in Class A competition by finishing first in downhill slalom in International Handicapped Ski Tour (IHST) racing Wednesday at Winter Park, Colorado.

Shane will join a team of skiers sponsored by Sierra Blanca Ski Area to compete in IHST events in Canada soon.

Robbie Strohline of Alamogordo was first in Class CP and in Class MR Jesus Galloza was first, Richard Peterson second, and Marcie Thompson third, all from Fort Stanton.

Team members placing well in the international races will go to a world competition in Japan.

The handicapped skiers' team is coached by the Ski School at Sierra Blanca Ski Area.

Bonito road bridge to be replaced

The first bridge on Highway 37, west of the junction with Highway 48, north of Ruidoso, will be replaced, with work beginning Monday.

Joe Nail, project supervisor with the New Mexico Highway Department, told The News Wednesday, "A detour will be opened Monday, weather permitting, and the bridge replacement work will take about six to seven weeks."

Nail was the project supervisor for the resurfacing of Highway 37 through Ruidoso last June.

Cedar Creek camp area planning study underway

A study of the feasibility of a group use campground, to be located in the Cedar Creek area, presently is being conducted by the Forest Service as a preliminary step before possibly beginning construction in the summer months of 1980.

"We felt there was a need for a group use area," recreation and land use forester Joe Spehar said.

The proposed campground will have three self contained pods which can accommodate two groups of 40 persons and one group of 80 persons. Each pod will have tables, cooking pits, fireplaces, work tables and toilets.

Also included in the plan is an amphitheatre capable of seating about 150 persons. "It will be on a hillside, with a screen and slide show below, when it is used for our visitor information service and it also will be available for organizations" including groups interested in Easter sunrise services.

A long range concept, the plan calls for group use picnic areas in the future and individual family day use picnic areas.

"The group use areas will be for daytime use only by organizations such as the Elks, schools or banks," Spehar said.

"This year we will conduct a feasibility study" presenting the plans for the proposed campground to the Chamber of Commerce, Ruidoso village council and at a public meeting.

When the study is complete, an "analysis of need with public input will be submitted to the Region III offices for approval."

Spehar said approval will be sought if there are "no breaks in the sequence of the feasibility study" and funding will be granted if it is ranked as a high priority need for the region.

"It may be of high priority in Lincoln County, but in Region III which includes New Mexico and Arizona, it may be down the line which could delay the funds."

If the project receives funding next year, survey and design of the area, actual pinpointing of locations and boundaries and road layout will be conducted.

"The summer of 1980, if it all falls into place, is the earliest we will have development on the ground," he said.

Elks schedule benefit dance

The third annual Elks' National Foundation Benefit Dance is scheduled March 11 at the Ruidoso Elks Lodge, with western music by the Traveling Countrymen.

Proceeds from this event are forwarded to the Elks' National Foundation for disbursement to needy handicapped youth throughout the nation.

Ruidoso Elks' records show that New Mexico's handicapped youth received $13,000 from this fund last year, dispersed to cerebral palsy projects, educational programs, scholarships, most valuable student awards and emergency education fund grants. Nationally, funds distributed by the Foundation totaled more than $1,300,000.

Admission to this annual dance, with the public invited as guests of the Elks, has been set at $3 per person.

Junior Racers fund raising party tonight

The annual Casino Party, to raise funds supporting the Sierra Blanca Junior Racers, will be held this evening at 7:30 in the Miner's Camp of the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club.

The minimum tax free donation for the party will be $10.

Villages' holiday schedule

Business offices for the villages of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs will be closed, in observance of official New Mexico holidays, on the following dates during the balance of 1978:

- Good Friday, March 24, beginning at 12 noon.
- Memorial Day, Tuesday, May 30.
- July 4, a Tuesday.
- Labor Day, September 4.
- Columbus Day, Monday, October 9.
- Veteran's Day, Friday, November 10.
- Thanksgiving Day, offices closed from Thursday, November 23 to Monday, the 27th.
- Christmas Day, offices closed from Friday, December 22 through Monday, December 25.

"COTTON" MCKNIGHT

McKnight candidate for commissioner

Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight has announced his candidacy for Lincoln County commissioner in the June 6 primary election on the Republican ballot.

McKnight, 25, Picacho rancher and lifelong county resident, said he is "offering my name to the voters because I am intimately acquainted with the problems confronting the interest of the citizens of Lincoln County."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe McKnight of Picacho, he and his wife Judy live with their son on the McKnight ranch in the southern part of the county.

Mobley wins A class ski ranking

Junior racer Greg Mobley won an A Class mark by placing third in B Class slalom and 13th overall at A-C Class races held Saturday and Sunday in Vail.

By moving to Class A, Greg, who is sponsored by Sierra Sports Club and Ski West, will compete with the best racers in Colorado, coach Chris Collier said.

Jim Raudenbush, El Paso, also competed for the junior racers in Vail, placing 25th in a field of 60 Class B skiers.

In age and ability slalom races held Saturday at Red River Ski Valley, Capple King placed third in girls' class IV; Lon Nunley won first in boys' class II; Pam Raudenbush, El Paso, won first in girls' class F, and Crystal Rogers, Cloudfroft, won second in girls' class F.

In the giant slalom races held Sunday, Capple King was second in girls' class IV; Don Nunley was eighth and Mark Mobley fifth in a field of 39 in boys' class III; Pam Raudenbush was first and Crystal Rogers third in girls' class F, and Stacy Rogers, Cloudfroft, first in boys' class F.

Coach of the ability and age class racers is Gary Vogel.

The next races for the teams are a dual slalom fun race at Los Alamos this weekend for the age and ability racers and A-C Class races March 24 in Aspen for Raudenbush and Mobley.

Chris Collier. Mobley, who is sponsored by Ski West and Sierra Sports Club, placed third in Class B slalom and 13th overall.

Sierra Blanca Skiing Action

From the top . . . with Roy

by Sou' Garrett

When I first started skiing I was found mostly "in" the snow, rather than "on" the snow. I would look up and around me and wonder how in the world all those people could DO it? Naturally everyone looked as if they were experts. . . anyway, after being at Sierra Blanca, I now realize how they DO it. Lessons!

Sierra Blanca teaches an incredible number of skiers. Within the last 4 years, the least has been 15,000 a season, the most, 24,000. Plus, the majority of these people always return.

I feel the explanation of the returns is due to the highly professional staff of Rick Vincent, Ski School director. His crew is not only highly trained but, they are friendly and personally concerned with each of their students. This is so important during those first few self-conscious days on skis.

The Ski School consists of 60 instructors that spend many hours training on how to present the skills of skiing in order to make the easiest progression. Their primary interest is that their students have a good time, while learning "safely." I stress safety because Ski School is taught "on the hill" and not in a classroom.

Rick also has an extremely competent staff of supervisors. One of their functions is to distribute the classes evenly, especially when it comes down to ability levels. If a student progresses faster than his class, the supervisors are usually around "shadowing" the lesson and will transfer that person to another class of his ability.

Most of the staff is constantly working to become a Certified Professional Ski Instructor. This year we have eight more teachers participating in the certification examination in March, and possibly others will attend the Colorado examination in April. This verifies the fact that Ski School is trained to teach all levels of skiing. The best lessons I've had are the one I took after I had the basics down. Many times people pick up a bad habit or forget one little thing. With a quick refresher course, the problem can be corrected.

The school is a member of PSIA (Professional Ski Instructors of America) and RMSIA. (Rocky Mountain Ski Instructors of America). Therefore, the standards of teaching are co-ordinated with all the major ski schools in the Rocky Mountain Division. This means that you can take a lesson here, go to another area in the Rockies and be able to pick up where you left off.

Ski school is not just for beginners. However, if you are a beginner, ski school is for you. Believe me, it saves a lot of time in the early stages and is the safest, and hopefully the most enjoyable, way to learn.

Ski report

Skiing conditions are excellent at Sierra Blanca Ski Area with a machine-packed snow depth of 48 inches and five inches of new snow Wednesday night, making a total of 13 inches of new snow in the last week.

Motorists are advised to watch for "Chains Required" signs on the road to the area.

High temperature Wednesday afternoon was 49.

Low temperature Wednesday afternoon was 35.

CBers should monitor Channel 3 for information.

ILL LITERACY

The report on the undergraduate curriculum at the nation's universities by the Carnegie Foundation is not likely to inspire anyone's confidence in higher education. Specialization is the vogue; easy elective courses flourish. General education wilts from lack of care. Few institutions require courses in English composition, mathematics, or foreign languages. Test scores for graduate students are down, and the foundation blames the results on the undergraduate curriculum, which it terms a "disaster area."

Treating that area alone would be job enough, but the overall task is much bigger, according to the report. Most undergraduates and most faculty members, it says, are satisfied with the way things are. "How," asks Clark Kerr, chairman of the foundation's council on policy studies in higher education, "do you get a reform when most everybody thinks everything is all right?"

By preaching the need for reform, that's how. Certainly that seems the rational way to proceed. And clearly there is missionary work to be done. The Carnegie report has pointed out a reason that reform is necessary: general education is "poorly defined and is so diluted with options that it has no recognizable substance of its own."

The way it should be defined, according to the report: is by the ends it produces, and these should be the abilities to attack an unfamiliar subject, an understanding of how people are affected by world problems and an appreciation of the quality of life, and a historical view of civilization.

Wisely, the report does not specify the content of the courses under the umbrella of general education; this is left to the curriculum engineers — to construct the courses and thus the means to the ends of general education.

These values are pertinent to the shape of a good undergraduate curriculum in the way that clothes are pertinent to the well-dressed person; they do not make the curriculum, but they suggest much about it. If the Carnegie report can stir debate on the undergraduate curriculum, it will be a good sign if in that debate there is a respect for facts and careful analysis, civility in argument, and a careful consideration of alternative points of view. The Carnegie report presents just such an alternative view on the undergraduate curriculum, and we recommend it. — DeWing Headlight

Wheaton-Hazel vows said

The marriage of Peggy Wheaton and Skip Gordon "Skip" Hazel was solemnized January 14 in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hazel. The Reverend Dale W. McCleskey of the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso, Downs officiated.

The bride wore a long gown of beige polyester crepe with lace inserts in the yoke and front of the gown. The bouquet she carried was of white daisies, highlighted with baby's breath. For something old she wore a necklace that belonged to the bridegroom's great-grandmother.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Kathy Graham, sister of the bridegroom. Her gown was of blue polyester crepe and she carried a bouquet of white daisies.

The best man was Kenneth Hazel, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony with a three tier wedding cake and a chocolate cake for the bridegroom being served.

The couple is making their home in Ruidoso where the bride is employed as secretary in a law firm and Hazel is a dispatcher for the Ruidoso Police Department.

The Innocence of Spring

captured in watercolor pastels

Flower-fresh shades designed to put a porcelain luminosity on the faces of blondes, brunettes, redheads or silver. You can do it with the wistful magic of Spring Peach, Spring Pink, Spring Rose (for blushers and lips), Spring Mist, Spring Blue and Spring Periwinkle (for eyes) like watercolor tints that begin pale and go deeper where the brush strokes stop. This is makeup spun out of the INNOCENCE OF SPRING.

The soot and creosote that has accumulated in your flue is highly flammable and it hangs there like a fire bomb waiting for a chance spark to ignite it.

The resulting fire spews balls of fire over your roof and yard, and a small crack in your flue, from settling or thermal shock, is all a chimney fire needs to enter your home.

WE HAVE IT ALL

At the Cree Meadows Townhomes

Our SMALLEST unit is 1500 square feet and we have two other styles that are LARGER. We knew that some of you hot blooded Texans would think you needed an air conditioner so we put in a large 3 1/2 ton unit. We also thought a garage would be nice so we added one with an electric door. A fireplace is a must so each unit has one and it's beautiful. Our kitchens are a delight — and complete — Refrigerator with icemaker, dishwasher, disposal, trashmasher, electric range with continuous clean oven, 3/4 inch thick Corian counter tops and Westinghouse IXL cabinets. We knew you would want an energy efficient home so we gave the ceilings an R factor of 33 and the exterior wall an R 21.

We think you will like our Townhomes . . . We do!

Buck Meyer Realty

TODAY we toured an impressive, 2500 sq/ft home [in a beautiful view location] with a qualified appraiser. He carefully assessed the quality features of the fully furnished layout. Then he measured the garage-work room and found it half as big as the living area above. By utilizing existing ductwork off the 2 CFA natural gas furnaces, this could be converted to heated area. With a total square footage of more than 3700 sq/ft under roof, and with some handsome furnishings to boot, we think this home is a terrific buy at $90,000. Why not call OLLIE TURNER to see it?

PRICE JUST REDUCED! Don't let Winter get you down — good buy available on well-maintained 1100 sq/ft, 3 bdrm/2 full bath home. Living room view of the Peak. Lots of storage underneath. Call OLLIE TURNER about financing it to your advantage. Now $31,500.

SERENE ALTO ACRE is level with good tree-cover and a view you can relate to. A pretty spot for that cabin or home you've been wanting to build. Priced at $8000 with good terms. Call PAT FLANARY who also can show you good acreage buys in the Nogal-Bonito area.

CONDOMINIUM PLUS — You probably won't find a better buy than this 2 bdrm/2 bath at exclusive Alto Alps and an Alto Village regular membership lot for $58,000. Contact DOUG DeCOURSEY, our man on the slopes for all you mogul masters!

Food coding mysterious

Open dates on food was once a real mystery to food shoppers. But now the secret is out and research shows that most shoppers say they always look for open dates on food products. Sadly enough, even when they find that familiar "2-15" there still seems to be a lot of confusion about what the "code" actually means.

There are at least four different types of dates that stand for four totally different messages. A recent USDA survey found that almost all open dates carried no explanation code by the date.

Probably the most serious misconception is that open dates always represent the last day a food item should be used, and that the food is unsafe to eat afterwards. This, of course, is not true, says Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food specialist at New Mexico State University.

Research shows that about one-third of the food shoppers who look for open dates have thrown out food because of the date. These were usually items such as dairy and meat products which carry a pull date, sometimes marked "sell by." This means that the food will be good even after the date if it is handled properly. Pull dates are really to help the grocery store keep fresh produce on the shelf.

The only date in the grocery store that truly means a warning flag for shoppers is the expiration date, almost always marked "exp." These dates are placed on foods like yeast and canned biscuits and are a close indication of the last day that the product should be used to assure quality. After that date, biscuits start popping out of the can like dough boys and the bread you spend hours making with the expired yeast has a good chance of being declared a "flop."

Stores usually never try to sell expired products. But if you happen to see a great sale on expired items, keep walking.

Boxed cereals and products like mayonnaise often carry quality assurance dates or freshness dates. These sometimes say "best if used by." After this day the product is not likely to be at peak quality. Check boxed products carefully because the store may not always pull these products after the date.

Finally canned foods carry packing dates. These indicate when the food received final processing. However, this is usually in code that can only be read by store clerks.

It is probably inevitable that shoppers will still stretch to reach that back carton of milk so they can leave the store feeling just a little bit smarter than the other guy who just jerked up the first carton on the row.

But the fact of the matter is that dates really have little value if the food is not cared for properly when it leaves the store. You leave freshly dated milk and canned biscuits for hours in a hot car, you will still have "doughboys serving cottage cheese" when you finally take the food into your kitchen — regardless of how smart you were to select the right dates at the store.

Cereal box labels offer information for buyer

The label on a cereal box is more than just something to read while you eat your breakfast, says Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food specialist at New Mexico State University. If you are a compulsive label reader you probably know that most packaged foods today have a section of the label designated "Nutrition Information."

"Nutrition Information" is interesting reading, but it makes more sense if it is read before the product is purchased. Nutrition labeling was developed to help the consumer make wise choices in buying food.

The first thing a nutrition label tells you is the size of a serving of the food in the package. Next it indicates the number of servings in the package. With this information, plus some simple arithmetic, the buyer can figure the cost per serving.

Next on the label comes information about the amount of calories, protein, carbohydrates and fat. The label will probably give the same information about the cereal when it is combined with milk. The same holds true for other foods which are usually combined with something else before eating. The consumer can now compare the calories or amounts of these nutrients in different foods.

The lower section of a nutrition label may need a little explanation. It is "Percentage of U. S. Recommended Daily Allowance." This is a recommendation for the amounts of specific nutrients needed for good health. It is based on current research and previous findings.

The percentage on the label is based on the amounts of nutrients recommended for an adult man, except for iron. Since adult women need more iron than men, the recommendations for women is used.

This portion of the label must show the U. S. RDA percentage of the following nutrients:

Protein, vitamin A, vitamin C (ascorbic acid), thiamine (vitamin B-1), riboflavin, niacin, calcium and iron. Other vitamins and minerals may be indicated if the food is a particularly good source.

Of course, there are many more nutrients in food and they are all important. However, those that always appear on the label are indicator nutrients. Foods that contain these nutrients are likely to also be good sources of the other necessary nutrients.

Reading the nutrition label before you buy can help you find foods which are good sources of particular nutrients. The label will also help you compare nutritional value of different brands, select food for special diets, count calories and compare new foods with familiar ones.

News from the County Agent

The livestock industry has a better outlook now as compared to a year ago. Cattle prices are up as well as sheep prices. Light weight steer calves are selling for 60 cents per pound or better. Fat cattle are bringing from 43 to 45 cents per pound.

I received a report today on a fall contract for lambs. They were bringing from 55 to 56 cents per pound. Sales of fat lambs range from 65 to 70 cents per pound.

There have been very few wool sales but I anticipate a steady market comparable to last year. The clean prices quoted on the wool indicates about the same as last year with the exception of the medium wool grades. The three eighths and quarter blood wool are higher than a year ago.

Many homeowners love the taste of sunspiced fruit fresh from the tree. If you're one of these people, but are afraid you don't have the space or the time to grow the fruit yourself, dwarf or semi-dwarf fruit trees may be the answer. Dwarf fruit trees have several distinct advantages over standard or full-size trees.

Many varieties, especially apple and pear, can be trained or espaliered against a wall or fence. Because they're restricted in size, dwarf fruit trees are easier to spray, prune and pick. In addition, they usually begin to bear earlier than standard trees — often within three years of planting. Dwarf fruit trees have the same excellent ornamental value and fruit quality as standard trees. They produce masses of beautiful blooms, have attractive foliage and bear generous quantities of tasty, full-size fruit.

There is no single chemical herbicide that can be used to control weeds in a vegetable garden, but there are other alternatives to hoeing. Mulching is a desirable practice, both from the standpoint of protecting the soil and shading out weeds.

Place the mulch around garden plants — don't cover them up. The mulch prevents wind and water erosion, holds moisture in the soil and "smothering" weeds.

In small gardens, black plastic is a good weed-controlling mulch. It also warms the soil and hastens maturity of the vegetable crops. Mulching will not completely eliminate the need for hoeing, but it can sharply reduce your weed problem.

Injured doe finds way into forest

Ron Strassburg of Town and Country Estates reported a young doe resting in his carport Monday to Ruidoso Animal Control.

"There was some blood visible on its left hip," Strassburg told animal control officer Mike Hernandez Jr., "possibly it was hit by a car."

He also said the doe had run into the woods after resting and before Hernandez arrived.

Hernandez and assistants David Hernandez and Frankie Montoya climbed the hill behind Strassburg's home and spotted the doe, but let it go because "it didn't seem to be hurt badly."

Two men guilty on wood charges

Ruidosoans Richard Chaves and David Montes were found guilty February 14 by U.S. Magistrate John Darden, Las Cruces, of cutting firewood on Lincoln National Forest under a free, personal use fuel, wood permit and then attempting to sell it, December 1.

The two were sentenced with a $500 fine, suspended, 178 days in jail, suspended, 40 hours of community work in Ruidoso and six months probation.

They were brought to trial through a cooperative investigation by the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service and the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

ATTENTION RUIDOSO CONCERNED CITIZENS

When you are deciding how you should vote REMEMBER:

1. We need leadership that can continue to carry the ball in Santa Fe. The kind of relationship that our present mayor has with the necessary representatives, senators and committee heads is ABSOLUTELY necessary if we are to continue to grow and prosper in our great village.

2. Our $1,050,000 Water Treatment plant that doubles our capacity for treatment will be IN USE this summer. Our present administration can be thanked for this giant step.

3. $1,000,000 Grant from the Farm Home Administration has come about through our present mayor's efforts. He and his administrative assistants have also received a promise of more funding when we get to the final construction.

4. The new Master Plan that was so badly needed in past years is finally becoming a reality and the people who are functioning on these committees have worked hard and taken this facet of our development very seriously. THIS AFFECTS THE VALUE OF YOUR PROPERTY AND IS A PROTECTIVE MEASURE FOR PROPERTY OWNERS!

5. Have you noticed how quickly snow has been removed from our main traffic arteries and business can be carried on as usual and our tourists can enjoy our village?

6. Think hard and long before you cast your vote for a "new" mayor or councilman. We NEED experience. We HAVE experience. For a better and continued growth in the right direction, CAST YOUR VOTE FOR LLOYD DAVIS JR.

OPINION PAGE

Yours and Ours

BY ROBERT E. HUBER and CARROL W. GAGLE

SANTA FE — Freshman Republican U.S. Sen. Harrison Schmitt has a very low opinion of President Carter and his Administration.

Asked to give an assessment of the President, Schmitt said in an interview with us:

"The first word that comes to mind is 'amateur.' He's a very rigid amateur. He doesn't leave himself any options.

"He's bright. There's no question about it. He can assimilate information very, very rapidly. But he doesn't leave himself any maneuvering room.

"So all he can do is turn around and go backwards. I don't say you ought to be wishy-washy. But he's an amateur. I hope he learns fast. I really do."

Schmitt, who defeated veteran Democratic Sen. Joseph Montoya in 1976 and is now in his second year of a six-year term in Washington, has a similarly low opinion on Carter's White House staff.

"They're thoughtless," he said. He said Carter's aides show "no courtesy at all" in dealing with members of Congress.

Schmitt said Carter has "green people around him in the White House and close friends around him in the Cabinet." Thus, he said, Carter has "set himself up with the same situation Nixon had."

The former astronaut said he believed Carter's victory in 1976 was due primarily to public disenchantment with red tape and bureaucratic policies.

"People are dissatisfied with big government and Carter's reneging on his (campaign) promises," Schmitt said. "He's making government bigger."

Despite this, Schmitt expects Carter to be the Democratic nominee for president again in 1980. Referring to a potential opponent within Carter's party, Democratic Gov. Jerry Brown of California, Schmitt said: "He'll make a lot of noise but I can't see him being an alternative the people will turn to."

Schmitt does expect public dissatisfaction with government to have some effect on the congressional level, to a certain extent this year, but especially in 1980 when Carter is up for re-election and when there will be twice as many Democrats in the U.S. House and Senate facing the voters as Republicans.

At this point Schmitt sees the leading Republican presidential prospects as Sens. Bob Dole of Kansas and Howard Baker of Tennessee.

Asked whether he himself might consider shooting for the vice presidential slot on a 1980 ticket, Schmitt replied, "I'm not in a position to think about these things. In theory the options are there but I wouldn't want to exercise them at this time."

It wouldn't surprise some legislative veterans if the "inferim" committees that operate during the year between annual sessions virtually grind to a halt in 1978.

"We both have vetoes now," said one House member. He referred to the Senate leadership's insistence on a provision which would allow a majority of either senators or representatives to veto an interim legislative proposal — even if an overall majority of committee members did favor it.

Since the 1978 legislative session saw the House-Senate feud reaching new heights — or depths, as the case may be — those same sentiments could carry over to the interim committees and result in a continuation of the stalemate that kept the session's "feed bill" in limbo for so long.

GALLIVANTING JIMMY

Our Jimmy's bound and determined ... bound for South America and determined to get the heads of state there thinking ... thinking as Our Jimmy thinks they should be thinking ... especially about him and us.

This upcoming junket is an ambitious undertaking ... being's it's on the heels of his triumphant ... uh ... catastrophes in Poland, India and among the Arabs and Jews ... which, according to reports, were something less than sensational ... except for the Polish translation.

Instead of gadding about South America ... maybe he should try to acquire a bulldozer to push Congress into line ... 'cause it's obvious that the fresno he's using ... even with all the mule power he should have ... isn't getting the job done ... the job he wants Congress to do for him.

Now Our Jimmy's a good old boy ... sincere, honest, determined ... even if he does just after Poles ... but the manner in which he's failed to woo Congress strongly indicates that the qualifications for being President should be modified to the extent that a minimum of six years in Congress should be mandatory for any candidate ... and that wouldn't preclude anyone from holding the Presidency. Yup ... a fellow can't be captain of a clipper if'n his experience on water is limited to row boats.

THINK CHINOOK WIND

Chinook wind? That's a hot south wind that sweeps through North Dakota ... sometimes ... in the dead of winter that turns fields of snow into seas of mud ... and helps confuse the anglers.

Which is beside the point. The point being I ogled a newspaper photo taken in New Salem ... a hamlet more or less in west central North Dakota ... showing a man digging a car out of a 18-foot snow drift deposited by the last blizzard that terrorized the natives. He started digging on a Sunday morn ... located the tail lights of the missing vehicle by dark ... and had said car out of the drift and running on the Tuesday following.

Not that it's been all that cold in North Dakota this winter ... probably got into the mid-forties once or thrice ... and that's not on the sunny side of zero ... and -45 doesn't faze a hearty ... even hoary whiskered ... North Dakotan ... what's been cutting into the sales of street vendors of ice cream cones is the 80 mile per hour winds. And 45 below with an 80 mile wind'll quick freeze a pot of boiling chili before you can snatch the spoon out. Besides ... the egg farmers wind up with coyotes in their hen house.

CUT'N DRIED ISSUES

Come March 7 voters in Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs are to go to the polls ... to express the public's opinion on who'll be holding down the seats comprising the governing bodies. And there are lots of bodies in both villages hankering for a seat ... which is good.

The issues are the same in both villages ... streets, water and sewer.

Ruidoso's street woes will gradually be solved ... the present trustees have arranged that. Things in the Downs, streetwise, aren't quite so bright ... but looking up ... and improvements should come by summer.

Waterwise, Ruidoso's antcipating getting going on Eagle Creek Dam ... with bids to be let soon, providing no one dreams up more delays. In Downs, the situation might be more crucial ... but the chances for having ample water are good ... if'n some deals can be made ... and they can.

Sewer ... now that's a bit more of a problem ... and it'll take a bit of arm twisting ... horse trading, maybe ... to get these woes resolved. However, there must be water in every commode ... and there will be.

What this means is that the to be elected mayors and trustees will essentially be following through on programs underway. Leaving, as the question voters should be asking the candidates ... what do you propose to try to do to insure future controlled development ... and at what cost to the taxpayer?

editorial

In Hitler's Germany citizens were urged to inform on each other. Neighbors were threatened with fines and imprisonment if they failed to report that other neighbors were Jews. Children were urged to inform Nazi officials about unacceptable behavior by their parents.

In Stalin's and Khrushchev's and Brezhnev's Russia neighbor is urged to inform on neighbor. Relative against relative. Child against parent.

In Mao's China the same.

In all totalitarian states, rule is through fear, and part of that fear is instilled through the threat of neighbor informing against neighbor.

Is the concept any different when we attempt the same thing in our democratic society?

What is the philosophical difference between telling the local Nazi leader your neighbor is a Jew and telling the IRS that you think your neighbor is cheating on his taxes?

What's the difference between telling the local Communist leader that your neighbor is straying from the party line and telling the Game and Fish Department you think your neighbor shot a deer out of season?

What's the difference between telling the local government puppet your neighbor has a Bible hidden in his house and a teacher telling the principal that you're abusing your child?

Let me say quickly and emphatically that I'm offering no defense for tax cheaters, game hogs or child beaters. And, I acknowledge that the examples of both governments and offenses that I've chosen are extreme.

There is no question that in a free society, it is a citizen's duty to report wrongdoing. The police in all towns report that their job would be made much easier and more effective if people would just report suspicious activity.

In Tucumcari recently some parents shaved their 13-year-old son's head to discipline him for lying. A teacher reported the incident as possible child abuse. New Mexico state law requires the teacher to do so or face possible misdemeanor punishment of up to a $100 fine.

I don't know about the possible merits or demerits of a shaven head. In our house an appropriately sized paddle for a 13-year-old's behind would be standard procedure.

But what about the Tucumcari parents' argument that they are now down in somebody's records as possible child abusers?

Where do we draw that fine line in a free society between a free citizen's responsibilities and totalitarian snooping? —kg

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I believe there is a need for a Community Mental Health Center in Ruidoso, to provide a resident coordinator for drug abuse and alcoholic treatment as well as DWI school.

At present Donald K. Hoover, Alamogordo, is doing this work locally with 10 percent of his total patient load in Lincoln County, the large part of which is from Ruidoso.

Hoover, a therapist, works closely with Doctor Hickey, a psychiatrist.

The center in Ruidoso would be funded by the Department of Hospitals and Institutions for Economic Counseling.

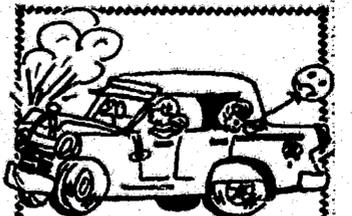

Services that could be offered by the center include counseling to individuals, couples, families and groups and consultations with the schools, clergy and public agencies.

If the general public will write letters, requesting the location of such a center here, to: Donald K. Hoover, 809 Delaware Avenue, Alamogordo, New Mexico 88310, it is possible those persons now having to travel to Alamogordo could work with Hoover here.

Should additional information be desired, call Grega, 257-7744.

JOCKEY CHARLES MUELLER turned in one of the finest performances in Sunland Park history Saturday by scoring five victories from seven mounts. The experienced rider started the sweep by capturing both halves of the first-Big Q. The triumphs were aboard Whidderman ($13.40) in the first and Harmon Lane ($13.00) in the second. He then turned in a ten-length score on Sun N Splash ($5.40) in the fifth, a five-length victory in the sixth on Pocket Coin ($4.80), and finally in the feature he urged Chili Pepper Pie to a head win over favored Freeman M. for a $10.60 payoff.

margin. Three of his previous victories have also been in tough allowance company.
THE LARGEST WIN MARGIN of the weekend was set by Sun N Splash in Saturday's fifth race. The gelding who went sharply to the lead of the 5½-furlong sprint, galloped easily down the stretch, ten lengths ahead of his nearest competitor at the wire.
HARMON LANE, making the first out of his career in Saturday's second race, held on impressively for a half-length win. The Scout Leader colt withstood a late charge by the favorite High Flying Crow, in the 5½-furlong encounter for a $13 return.
WHEN DO BEE A LADY (No. 8), a 20-1 shot, took the runnerup slot in Friday's second race, she threw a wrench in the works of the first Big Q and the payoff had to be divided. Only four ticketholders matched the longest with any other number in the second half, so each ticket was worth $1,526. The alternate combination of My Gallants Jet (No. 4) with any other number returned $132.60 to 35 ticket holders.
STEWARDS' RULINGS: Jockey Gilbert Villescas was fined $100 for failure to control his mount Sailing Scouter leaving the starting gate in the second race, February 19. Apprentice Don Howard was charged $25 for misuse of the whip after the running of the sixth race, February 19. Jockey Angel Jacobo took a $50 bite for failure to control his mount, Jeff Billy, while leaving the starting gate in the 11th race that same day.
HERE'S A RECAP of claiming activity over the weekend: Top Royal was taken by Valentin Fuentes for $1,500; My Friend Jack (A. P. Frazzini) $3,500; Grey Issue (H. E. Allen) $2,500; Vested Gift (Myrl Dalton) $2,500; College Payne (Odie L. Dunn) $2,000; and Mark's Kid (J. C. Greenhaw) $5,000.
THE NO. 5 POST POSITION produced seven winners over the weekend to lead in that category. Here are the seasonal totals: No. 1 — 66 wins, No. 2 — 83, No. 3 — 62, No. 4 — 74, No. 5 — 81, No. 6 — 80, No. 7 — 87, No. 8 — 47, No. 9 — 31, No. 10 — 33, No. 11 — 0, No. 12 — 1.

THE FASTEST TIME for 350 yards was set by Jazzy Hank in Saturday's third race at 17 and 32/100 seconds. That time is only five one hundredths off the track record set by Going Ladybug in 1974. The palomino gelding, who was making his first out since 1976, led from the first jump to win by 1½ lengths.
DARRELL BLEVINS guided Whatta Brisk Bug to victory in Sunday's third race, the season's second 330-yard test for two-year-old maidens. The filly, trained by J. B. Montgomery, launched an early attack and came through with a head margin for a $20.60 payoff. The team of Blevins and Montgomery also accounted for last weekend's two-year-old triumphs in both the quarter horse and thoroughbred categories: Tarlo captured the first 330-yard bout, while Royal Wood scored in the four-furlong venture.
BETTERS HAD THE MUTUEL machines humming over the weekend setting two mutuel highs for the '77-78 season. Saturday, 3,900 patrons wagered a total of $302,380 to surpass last Sunday's mark of $301,336. But Sunday saw another record-breaking total of $308,990 with an attendance of 4,500.
THE SECOND FOUR — FURLONG spin of the season for maiden two-year-olds went as Saturday's sixth race. Pocket Coin, a Master Hand colt, got off as the heavy favorite in the No. 10 post and proved to be worthy of the attention. He led from wire to wire for a five-length score and a $4.80 payoff.
CHILI PEPPER PIE chalked up his fifth win of the '77-78 season winning Saturday's feature race. The colt who was never far off the lead, put forth a tremendous effort in the stretch to catch stakes-winner Freeman M. for a head margin. Three of his previous victories have also been in tough allowance company.

THE LARGEST WIN MARGIN of the weekend was set by Sun N Splash in Saturday's fifth race. The gelding who went sharply to the lead of the 5½-furlong sprint, galloped easily down the stretch, ten lengths ahead of his nearest competitor at the wire.
HARMON LANE, making the first out of his career in Saturday's second race, held on impressively for a half-length win. The Scout Leader colt withstood a late charge by the favorite High Flying Crow, in the 5½-furlong encounter for a $13 return.
WHEN DO BEE A LADY (No. 8), a 20-1 shot, took the runnerup slot in Friday's second race, she threw a wrench in the works of the first Big Q and the payoff had to be divided. Only four ticketholders matched the longest with any other number in the second half, so each ticket was worth $1,526. The alternate combination of My Gallants Jet (No. 4) with any other number returned $132.60 to 35 ticket holders.
STEWARDS' RULINGS: Jockey Gilbert Villescas was fined $100 for failure to control his mount Sailing Scouter leaving the starting gate in the second race, February 19. Apprentice Don Howard was charged $25 for misuse of the whip after the running of the sixth race, February 19. Jockey Angel Jacobo took a $50 bite for failure to control his mount, Jeff Billy, while leaving the starting gate in the 11th race that same day.
HERE'S A RECAP of claiming activity over the weekend: Top Royal was taken by Valentin Fuentes for $1,500; My Friend Jack (A. P. Frazzini) $3,500; Grey Issue (H. E. Allen) $2,500; Vested Gift (Myrl Dalton) $2,500; College Payne (Odie L. Dunn) $2,000; and Mark's Kid (J. C. Greenhaw) $5,000.
THE NO. 5 POST POSITION produced seven winners over the weekend to lead in that category. Here are the seasonal totals: No. 1 — 66 wins, No. 2 — 83, No. 3 — 62, No. 4 — 74, No. 5 — 81, No. 6 — 80, No. 7 — 87, No. 8 — 47, No. 9 — 31, No. 10 — 33, No. 11 — 0, No. 12 — 1.

Capital Illusion
 "The real trouble is that a great many in Congress seem to harbor the delusion that there exists a large reservoir of excessive profits which government can tap and spread around to all comers. Or that government can simply tax corporations endlessly to pay for its compassionate social programs. Both assumptions, of course, are untrue. The level of profit earned by business organizations is not over 30 per cent, as many believe, but around 5 per cent. And the hard fact is that corporations can't pay taxes; they can only collect them—from you, me and everyone else who buys the firms' products. Yet, the Washington debate goes on swirling around ways of carving up and redistributing the economic pie rather than on ways to increase its size to give everyone a bigger slice. Non-producers are favored over the producers, non-workers over the workers—an almost sure recipe for ruin."

SOLICITS YOUR VOTE TO SERVE ANOTHER TERM AS MAYOR OF RUIDOSO IN THE MARCH 7 ELECTION.

During my present tenure several vital projects have been launched. I have devoted much time and effort to bring these improvements to their present stage of development. I believe that I am in the position to speed these projects to completion because I've helped build confidence in the Village of Ruidoso with the various government entities involved.

Of greater importance, the major projects currently underway are the issues of this campaign . . . issues with which I am totally familiar.

EAGLE CREEK RESERVOIR

This project, to provide adequate water to serve our community for many years, will go to bid this spring.

NEW TRAFFIC SIGNALS

The State Highway Department has advised the village that new signal lights for Sudderth Drive are under review. This response indicates favorable consideration.

REGIONAL WASTE SYSTEM

This project, for which funding is being negotiated, will solve the village's sewage disposal problems. This project will become a reality in 1979, according to the engineers.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS

The village, through purchase of new equipment at a savings to the taxpayer, will improve streets this spring and summer.

ADDITIONAL SEWER LINES

The trustees are presently considering the feasibility of adding new sewer lines to serve our growing community. Once the needed funding is available, this service will be provided.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

My familiarity with Ruidoso, and my years of working for its progress, will enable me to keep an open mind on new developments to make Ruidoso a better place in which to work and play.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

A Light Touch Of Early Spring In The Late Winter

This is being sent to you on February twenty-seven the next to the last day in the birthday month, and the eve of the birthday of our brother, Joe.

It seems that each February day is more beautiful than the one before, and this next to the last day is one of the most uplifting to your spirits that I have ever seen. The white mountain shines softly bright and then brilliant and glistening by turns, as the clouds of white and gray float over the top and then down below the peak, so that the Sierra Blanca is in a playful mood saying,

"Now you see me - now you don't."

Our sacred mountain is in its glory, knowing that it is our pride and joy, our long-treasured land-mark of our home in the mountain land, always in our hearts and clear in our inward vision though we may be far away — and welcoming us always from afar as we journey back towards home.

There is a joyful glow to the white mountain now, for our mountain is always happy when its mantle of snow has increased in abundance through the late winter — for then Mother Earth's creatures, near and distant will receive the crystal streams of life flowing at full tide, all down through mountain, foot-hill, prairie, and plain.

The mountain is glad that its majestic white cone, towering into the blue heavens, can signal us from half way across the world, it seems lighting the way back home.

And though you may catch this first glimpse of our Sierra Blanca outlined white, clear in the dim distance — though your eye may catch this sight times without number you can always feel your heart give a little jump of joy within you.

This year, our mountain will be able to give its white flashing signal into the lower country far up into the summer like in days of old. The mountain all in white with the blue sky of summer above and the green and flowery world all below mile on mile — this is a sight that brings joy to your mind's eye forever and a day.

Colors and Sounds
Of Approaching Spring
I started out to tell you about a few signs of Spring. Although this has been a very mild winter, the winter season is lasting longer than usual. This is the first winter in a long time that the temperature has not reached at least down to zero. The coldest has been four above. And yet the west wind blowing off the snowy mountain has kept the valley colder than ordinary. The snow is melting very slowly here at the place. And the signs of Spring are very careful and cautious.

Long before this on most years you can see the apricot trees beginning to bloom — or at least swelling their fruit buds and the weeping willows are out in full leaf.

This year the weeping willows are just beginning to leaf out, and the Apricots are still deep in their winter beds.

The very earliest signs of Spring are now showing. The Apple trees are showing a dark maroon color in their twigs and branches blending with the winter purple. And there is a vermillion red tinge to the willows along the river, blending with the winter gold. There is a bronze color to the cedars and, the Junipers have a light copper glow. The pinons have the faintest touch of gold. All these colors are the advance signs of the trees awakening from their winter sleep.

This is still winter, since Spring does not begin until March twenty-one. It looks as though we are going to have a long winter, but still very mild winter weather; so that there will be a little mild season, all its own, between the winter and the spring.

Then, you see on account of all the snow moisture, when the true Spring bursts forth it will be like something from Heaven, with flowers blooming all in a day, violets with their little faces of gold and purple smiling on the edge of the melting snow, sending their joyful perfume into the pure air, like in Alaska.

March, The Month Of The Spring

By the time this reaches you it will be March the second, the day I landed in Australia in 1943 during World War II. This time of year I remember the beautiful country of Australia and the wonderful Australian people.

Also I think of our good friend Andy Haddix, the great leather artist and all-around great fellow. We have a grand time remembering about Australia. And Kenneth Nosker also carries pleasant memories of the land of the Southern Cross. Kenneth and I often talk of Australia and sing a few lines of Waltzing Matilda, the beloved Australian Folk Song. In Australia they are now looking forward to their winter time. There is a bright green tree with bright red flowers that blooms in December in Australia that they call "Christmas Bush."

I hear the song sparrow singing his song of early Spring. You can hear these resounding along the hill side, telling us of many spring-in-winter days ahead. Let us rejoice in this joyful time of the year, and thank God for all our blessings.

Fort Bowie worth the long walk

The pages of America's national march are preserved at many historic forts in the National Park System, famous names familiar to every school kid: Fort Necessity, Fort Stanwix, Fort Laramie, Fort McHenry, Fort Davis, Fort Raleigh, Fort Union, Fort Sumter . . .

But few kindle the interest of youngsters so much as a remote 19th century outpost in southeastern Arizona. Fort Bowie ticks the imagination because it is associated with the names of those famous Apaches — Cochise and Geronimo.

Today, Fort Bowie is a national historic site, managed for your use and enjoyment by the National Park Service. It is located 12 miles off Interstate-10 from the town of Bowie over a graded dirt road, 24 miles from the New Mexico state line.

The road will take you into Apache Pass, a part of the historic site where there is a parking area and the beginning of a 1 1/2 mile trail to the actual site of the old fort.

But you don't have to walk a mile and a half before you see something of historical interest. Apache Pass itself, which separates the Chiricahua Mountains to the south and the Dos Cabezas range to the north, was a center of activity long before Fort Bowie was constructed in 1862.

Because the spring in Apache Pass was an unfailing source of water, it drew a long procession of Indians, emigrants, prospectors and soldiers. And in the middle of the 19th century with the Anglo-American frontier moving rapidly westward, a convenient way to get to California was through Apache Pass. The Butterfield Stage had a station in the pass, part of the territory the Chiricahua Apaches had called home since the 16th century.

The increased activity in the area caused some hard feelings between the Chiricahuas and the United States. Fort Bowie was built as a result. The fort is the story of Indian agent Tom Jeffords and one-armed Gen. O. O. Howard riding into Cochise's stronghold to negotiate a lasting peace. And it is the story of a determined Gen. George Crook struggling to cover a vast territory to catch an embittered Geronimo, fighting valiantly against overwhelming odds.

A foot trail, which generally parallels the military wagon road, takes you the mile and a half from the parking lot to the fort and it passes a number of historic features, including the Butterfield Stage Station ruins, the post cemetery, Apache spring and the first Fort Bowie. (Actually two forts occupied the area during the 32-year period the fort was active).

Trail guidebooks are available just beyond the trailhead and a park ranger is normally on duty at the small ranger station-museum.

There are no camping or picnicking facilities within the park, but there are stores, trailer parks and campgrounds in the nearby towns of Willcox and Bowie.

Another campground is at Chiricahua National Monument, a fascinating natural area 25 miles southwest of Fort Bowie.

If you are planning to visit a National Park Service area on your vacation, write the agency at P.O. Box 728, Room S, Santa Fe, N. M. 87501. You'll be sent a free trip planner which lists NPS areas within an easy drive of your home and charts facilities and services available at each.

I-N-S-I-D-E the Outdoors

by Gary Dolan

Lea Lake may just have the best winter trout fishing in the state right now. Over 1200 catchable-size rainbows were released late this week in this, the largest of the Bottomless Lake chain. Special preparations were made to insure the survival of this large number of fish.

Lea Lake always has been a marginal fishery due to the excessive salt concentrations found in its water. Most of you who have tropical fish, know that when you move fish from one aquarium to another, you have to let the fish adjust to the new water gradually. Because fish are cold-blooded organisms, their body temperature and chemistry relate very closely with the water in their environment. By a process called osmosis, water and certain chemicals such as salt, pass between the fish and his environment. When fish are moved from water with low concentrations of salt to water with high concentrations, they must be tempered gradually to reduce chemical shock, which could kill them.

This was accomplished at Lea Lake by pumping the lake water into the fish distributor tank, while simultaneously draining the tank water into the lake. Over a 35 hour period this water exchange reduced the stress on the fish that occurs when fish are stocked directly from the distributor to the water.

The fisherman will benefit from this technique, as the fish stocked will be lively and should be ready to catch. Special lures are particularly effective right after stocking, and prepared cheese baits fished near the bottom will entice many an unsuspecting fish.

Just as a reminder, boats with motor (3 hp or less) are allowed on Lea Lake year-round and must be inspected by an officer of the State Parks and Recreation Department. A life preserver is required for everyone riding in a boat. Further details and information about boating requirements may be obtained from Parks and Recreation personnel at Bottomless Lakes State Park.

Kite flying is fun!

(The safe kite is the one flown right!)

Teach these important kite-flying safety rules to your children so that kite-flying can be a more enjoyable and safe experience for them.

1. Use dry string . . . never use wire or metal.
2. Use wood and paper in your kite . . . not wire or metal.
3. Find an open field in which to fly kites . . . well away from power lines, radio or TV antennas.
4. Don't fly a kite during rain or thunderstorms.
5. Stay out of streets and away from busy highways when kite-flying.
6. Call us if your kite gets snagged in a power line . . . do not attempt to retrieve it yourself.

GOING Strong

Meet An Unusual Monument Maker

After living for 63 years near Boston, Massachusetts, Gordon Carr says, jokingly, that the New England Yankees, noted for their slowness in accepting non-natives, are finally starting to say hello to him. Born 65 years ago in New Jersey, Carr lacks only the New England accent to qualify as a full-fledged Yankee: try as he might, he can never quite manage to say, 'pahk the cah,' the way the Kennedys, Cabots and Lodges do.

When Carr was three, the family moved to Quincy, a suburb of Boston. His father was the assistant general manager of the New Haven Railroad, although Carr is more apt to mention his career as an army colonel, and the fact that his father was a friend of the illustrious General George S. "Blood and Guts" Patton.

As with many breadwinners of his generation, Carr's choice of career was influenced by the Great Depression, which began not long after he was married and looking for a job.

"You don't have to have been alive to know what the job market was like back then," Carr told a writer from The National Council on the Aging. "It disappeared."

As a result, Carr went to work for his father-in-law in 1933, selling cemetery monuments for the family business.

"That might seem like an unusual profession," Carr said, "but it was quite natural for Quincy when you realize that at the time, the world's largest granite quarry centers were located there."

Those quarries have long been depleted, Carr said, with Vermont now supplying the monument industry with most of its supply of granite.

"I started out as just another salesman in competition with a lot of other representatives of other companies," Carr said. "It occurred to me, however, that if I could offer some assistance in designing a monument, I would be a step ahead of other salesmen."

Carr was born with a knack for drawing, so he managed to fit some art classes into his schedule of appointments.

"Initially, I was probably motivated by youthful ambition," Carr said, "but the greatest profits from my artistic talents have been emotional rather than monetary."

Carr feels that among the most important aspects of his profession is the consoling of the survivors.

"Let's face it, people are at their most vulnerable immediately after the death of a loved one," Carr said, "and I suppose there are some unscrupulous operators around who take advantage of this. Personally, I've always felt that anything I can do to ease a person's time of crisis is part of my job. In a way, I act as a bereavement counselor, and so do a great many other monument makers I know."

In recent years, medical experts have been delving into what Gordon Carr has intuitively been doing for decades: they are confronting the effects of death head-on and devising ways to ease the time of bereavement. Carr doesn't see what he does in exactly the same terms.

"I just know that people feel better if you let them talk about their loss," he said, "and I've learned that what really makes death grim is avoiding it."

"I also feel very strongly that a lasting monument is a great comfort," Carr continued. "You know, the idea of memorializing the dead goes back to the Bible. In Genesis, there's a reference to Abraham buying a cave for Sarah so he'd know where she lay."

For a man who deals with death every day, Gordon Carr is remarkable good-natured and optimistic.

"I don't know why that's such a surprise," he said. "Death is just the last step in the life-cycle, after all. If you accept that, your life will be much fuller. I can't imagine my life being any more satisfying than it has been so far."

PERSONS 65 and older who are planning a trip should check with a travel agent or the airlines about possible discount fares. A number of airlines have submitted proposed discounts or are considering them.

Rabies consultation-vaccination being continued in New Mexico

The rabies consultation-vaccination program has worked well and will be continued, Fernando E. C. De Baca, Executive Director of HSSD, announced at the end of the four-month test period.

He also announced New Mexico has been selected by federal health officials for field-testing of a new anti-rabies vaccine which requires fewer "shots" than the present vaccine. It has worked well in European nations and is being field-tested in a number of areas in this country before being approved for general release and usage.

The rabies consultation-vaccination program was designed to reduce the number of persons given the lengthy series of rabies vaccinations after being bitten by an animal and to furnish free anti-rabies vaccine to those needing it. The program started, on a trial basis, on Sept. 6.

It has succeeded well in both objectives, according to Dr. Jonathan Mann, Chief Medical Officer of HSSD. Dr. Mann or his assistant, Dr. Ted Gardiner, has 42 telephone consultations with physicians during the four months over whether a person who had been bitten should be given the anti-rabies vaccine. Of the 42 bitten persons, the physicians gave the vaccine to only four.

"Had it not been for the consultations, I'm certain at least 20 or 30 persons would have had the shots," Dr. Mann said. Estimates, made before start of the program, were that 150 to 200 persons in New Mexico were given anti-rabies vaccine every year.

An additional bonus of the program, Dr. Mann said, was shortening of the time required to get the vaccine to the physician needing it. Time of delivery from stockpiles in Santa Fe, Las Cruces, Albuquerque, Clovis, Farmington or Roswell ranged from 15 minutes to six and a half hours. Ordering the vaccine through commercial channels — which a physician otherwise would have to do — took up to two days for delivery.

The consultations were on 15 dog bites, eight cat bites, three squirrel bites, two bites each by bats, horses, rats and mice, and one bite each by ermine, skunk, rabbit and even a pet monkey. In eight of the cases, Dr. Mann or Dr. Gardiner advised against vaccination because the animal doing the biting does not carry rabies. In 28 cases, the animal either was quarantined for the required 10 days and did not become ill or the animal's brain tested negative for rabies. The remainder of the cases on which consultations were held involved non-bite situations, such as a scratch by an animal.

Dr. Mann said the new type of vaccine to be field-tested in New Mexico has worked well in European countries without the side effects of the vaccine presently used here, which is made from a virus grown in duck embryos. The new vaccine, he said, is made from virus grown in a laboratory culture of human cells.

The procedure, he said, will be to offer the physician treating a patient determined to be in need of anti-rabies vaccine the choice of using the new type or the duck embryo type.

The new type, Dr. Mann said, eliminates the danger of giving the vaccine to a person who might be allergic to the duck embryo type. It also requires only four injections of the vaccine, instead of the 23 required by the duck embryo vaccine.

Eggs can be a bargain for the careful shopper

Shoppers who always buy one particular size and quality of eggs without really understanding the difference could be missing some real bargains. So says D. W. Francis, Extension poultry specialist at New Mexico State University.

All eggs normally sold at retail weigh over one pound per dozen. Extra large eggs average about 27 ounces per dozen. So if one dozen extra large eggs cost 68 cents, the cost per pound is only 40 cents.

Large eggs average around 24 ounces per dozen. If a dozen large eggs sell for 60 cents, the cost per pound is also 40 cents. If a dozen medium eggs sell for 53 cents a dozen, the cost per pound is 40 cents. Medium eggs weigh about 21 ounces per dozen.

Now say your store has large eggs for 80 cents and medium eggs for 66 cents — which are the best buy? The medium! This is because the medium are only 50 cents per pound while the large are 53 cents per pound.

So much for size, now what about quality? Although all grades of eggs contain essentially the same nutrients, those of higher quality are better for cooking purposes.

A clean, properly-shaped shell, required by all grading regulations, is an indication of good exterior quality. However, the shell color has no bearing on the egg's freshness or nutritive value. The color is determined by the breed of hen laying the egg, and may vary from white to deep brown, or in some cases bluish green.

The color of the yolk also has no relation to freshness or nutrient value of the egg, the NMSU specialist says. Although most consumers in the Southwest prefer a light yellow yolk, the color may vary depending on the diet of the hen. Eggs produced today tend to have uniform color because the hens are fed a controlled ration and are not allowed to run out on pasture.

The interior quality is also subject to grading standards. Each egg must be checked for external and internal defects before being shipped to consumer outlets.

During a process called candling, the inner structure and condition of the egg is determined with the help of a strong light. The term candling originated from early times when candle light was used for this procedure.

The eggs that meet grading requirements are then weighed and packaged according to size and sent to the retail outlets.

Interior quality is more difficult for the consumer to judge, but an understanding of the egg structure will make it easier to determine quality when the egg is broken.

From the outside in, an egg consists of a shell, two shell membranes, the air cell, a thick and thin white layer (or albumen), the chalazae and the yolk.

At the time the egg is laid, the contents fill the shell. As it cools the interior contracts, forming an air pocket between the two shell membranes, usually at the larger end of the egg. A high quality egg will have a small air cell. Size of air cell is best observed when hard cooked eggs are peeled.

Thick, cloudy albumen is also an indication of a high quality product. This cloudiness, naturally present in the fresh egg, is a sign that the carbon dioxide has not yet escaped through the shell. As the egg ages, the white becomes clearer and thinner, and the air cell becomes larger. When broken onto a plate, the albumen and yolk in an older egg will not stand up as high.

This week on the CB by The Band Aid

The CB Club's "Coffee Break" on the Ski Run Road this past weekend was such a success that it will definitely be repeated several times during the remainder of the ski season. Special thanks go to the Chain Link for the use of his camper, Bluejay I and II for donating the donuts, Termites for the coffee, and the hard work of Shotgun, Tweetle Bird, Mother Nature, Stripper, Deerslayer, and the Galloping Goose.

It warms our heart to see the generosity and concern of members of our CB community put into action. Last week, a club member became aware of a family that had just moved to our fair village from out of state, and was experiencing a difficult time finding employment. Their money had run out and the cupboard was bare. Word was passed to club officers, and within three hours, a big food basket had been made up and a job secured for the breadwinner. Now that's caring!

Another middle-of-the-night rescue was accomplished Friday... seems a call for help came over channel 19 from a motorist who had broken down; Mother Nature answered, and after a quick land line, the Grey Rat rolled out of his warm bed to transport a family to their destination. Good work, G. R.!

It was a treat to get eyeball to eyeball Saturday morning with Daddy Bill and the Brass Nail from Houston. They, along with the Golden Gate Eagle, bring luxury-busloads of skiers up here each weekend from the Lone Star state. Ruidoso CBers have been modulating with them on channel 3 for several weeks now. It's time to toss some roses to several other "regulars" who keep local ears informed on mountain conditions... among them are the Rag Man, Big Tex, Silver Streak, Snow Bunny, Big Cactus, the Hillbilly, Ski Devil, Body Packer, and the Mountain Doctor.

Last week KRRR Base broke on channel 3 to give all of us an evening weather update straight from the teletype... hope they make it a habit, as it drew lots of good comment from both locals and visitors. The CB Club's Monday night meeting was particularly interesting. Guest speakers were State Patrolman Kent Waller and Dave Travis of White Mountain Search and Rescue (WMSR). Officer Waller, who is Search and Rescue Initiator for Lincoln County, explained the state police's responsibility in search operations and how the governor's plan works. Four field co-ordinators from our area have been appointed and trained to work with state authorities; they are Paul Lukens, Rex Skellett, Dave Travis and Alden Deyo. At this time, all help is voluntary, as no state funds have been allocated for rescue work. This brings into play organizations such as WMSR. Dave Travis explained WMSR's purpose and presented a program consisting of slides with narration. This presentation put together by Herb Brunell, Dave Wilson and Dave Travis, and is well produced, informative and a delight to see. Officer Waller (better known to CBers as Running Bear) reminded everyone how vitally important it is to tell someone exactly where you're going when you set off hiking, backpacking, hunting or fishing. Then if you are lost or injured, at least rescuers know where to start. An excellent program, gentlemen; thank you. An interesting note: a count was made Sierra Blanca Ski Run Road last Sunday to see how many cars going uphill had ears. Of the 200 vehicles observed within 25 minutes, 41.5 percent had CB antennas. We heard it on channel 19, after a lengthy conversation between a disgruntled trucker and a novice CBer: "By the way, Mr. Trucker, are you what they call an 18 wheeler?" "Negatory, I'm a 4 wheeler with 14 training wheels, don't you know?!" "Til next week, the Band Aid's clear and standing by...."

RE-ELECT JUDGE SAM NUNNALLY

MUNICIPAL JUDGE OF RUIDOSO

QUALIFIED —

I have completed the Institute for Municipal Judges each year from 1973 through 1977. This institute keeps judges abreast of the latest changes in municipal and state law, of which there are many each year.

EXPERIENCED —

In conducting this court since 1972, I have never failed to maintain the dignity of the bench. It is the result of my years of training that I am able to maintain the confidence of those persons appearing before me.

IMPARTIAL —

In my court every person is treated alike. I judge the cases solely on the evidence presented to me. Since serving as judge, my impartiality has never been questioned.

HONEST —

My integrity, on the bench, has been proven over the years. The defendant is always given every opportunity to state his or her side of the charges. After handling nearly 12,000 cases, my honesty in finding the defendant guilty as charged, or innocent, has been accepted by all concerned.

THERE CAN BE NO CONFLICT OF INTEREST IN ANY CASES APPEARING BEFORE ME.

I AM SOLICITING YOUR SUPPORT FOR THE OFFICE OF MUNICIPAL JUDGE OF RUIDOSO IN THE MARCH 7 ELECTION.
