Juvenile laws change July 1

Laws pertaining to the jailing of juveniles effective in New Mexico July 1 will, Jane Parnell, Lincoln County Children's Probation Officer, said Friday, "not drastically change the methods now employed by my office."

Parnell outlined the new procedures: JUVENILE OFFENDERS— Non-delinquents, including runaways, truants, kids kicked out of their homes and other non-criminal offenses will be placed in volunteer Shelterbed program homes in Lincoln County.

These juveniles will remain in the Shelterbed homes pending disposition of their cases, such as returning runaways to their homes.

JUVENILE CRIMES— This category includes juvenile activities coming under the Children in Need of Supervision (CHINS) laws. Offenders, when possible, will be released to their parents or guardians. "These offenses are not serious ones," Parnell said, "and are mainly petty misdemeanors, such as loitering, trespassing and disorderly conduct, that would be crimes if committed by an adult."

CRIMES OF VIOLENCE— Jailing is required for violent crimes and major felonies, or where there is probability of the juvenile doing bodily harm to himself, Parnell said.

"Contrary to reports being circulated," she said, "Lincoln County Jail, Carrizozo, will be certified to hold juveniles after July 1, following certain modifications that will be completed before then."

THE MAJOR CHANGE in the new law, Parnell said, concerns runaways from out of state.

"At the present time we must assign these runaways to Shelterbed homes, where they can't, obviously, be restrained," she said. "After July 1 we will be able to detain these runaways in county jail until they are released to their parents or guardian."

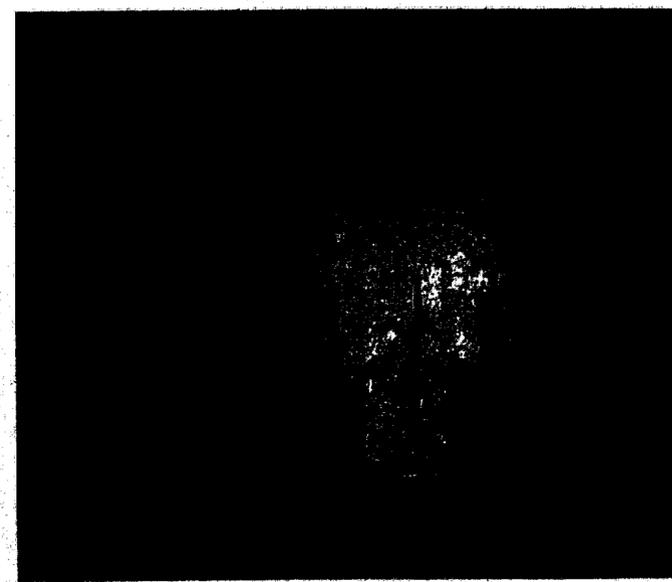

"After July 1 we will not be able to jail a juvenile for crime, unless that juvenile has committed a delinquent act considered a crime of violence."

The list of crimes for which a juvenile may be held after July 1, without danger of the offender filing a lawsuit for being held in jail, include violent crimes, robbery, burglary, shoplifting or possession of drugs, Parnell said, "according to interpretations of the law now available."

Parnell said that the Ruidoso case load of detained juveniles "averages about 50 a year," and that "about 6,700 are detained in the state each year."

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

Easy Move, 13 to 1 shot, winner of Kansas Derby

Easy Move, off at nearly 13-1, mowed down some classy competition while flashing to a decisive victory in Sunday's fourth edition of the Kansas Quarter Horse Derby at Ruidoso Downs.

The first leg of the Triple Crown for three-year-olds packed a gross purse of $139,100. The winner's slice came out to $67,050.

Easy Move is owned by Richard Barrie of New York, president of Faberge. Jackie Martin does the riding.

The trainer of Easy Move — and the man who gets the biggest share of the credit for the Kansas conquest — is Gene Tefertiller. Tefertiller also happens to be the genius behind Hot Idea, the winner of last year's $1 million All-American Futurity at Ruidoso.

Easy Move was bumped slightly by Bunny Mackay at the start of the Derby, but the block didn't impair his movement much. He settled down quickly and took off. In the early going, the people's choice, Real Easy Jet, was zipping along in command.

Biffy Pass, the top qualifier, was about a neck off the pace. The rest of the field was pretty well within range. As the field reached the midway point of the 400-yard thriller, it was apparent Real Easy Jet couldn't hang onto the stinging pace.

The classy colt gradually relinquished his position as Easy Move picked up momentum. The latter was full of run in the final 100 yards and went flying into the lead. Real Easy Jet gave up without much argument and sunk back into the pack.

Biffy Pass, getting stronger with each stride, had no trouble putting away the favorite. But the filly had no chance of catching the high-flying Easy Move.

SOME FANCY MOVES — Easy Move, a 13-1 outsider, stuns his foes in the $139,100 Kansas Quarter Horse Derby at Ruidoso Downs with a strong late attack. The colt won by 1 1/4 lengths and earned $67,050. Jackie Martin is the pilot.

Prize judging will be on a point system with five judges. Elimination contests begin June 2 in all categories.

Spectators will be able to observe the differences in costumes of the various tribes and also the different tempo of the northern and southern drums.

"These contests," Wyndham Runningwater, information director for this fourth annual event, said, "are among the most colorful in the southwest and will give spectators an insight into the cultural differences between the several tribes."

posts have the block numbers and street names routed into the surface of the wood, and the letters are then filled with white paint. The club started the first project with about $1,000 of club money, and now hopes to keep the project going with help from individual citizens in the areas where the signs go up. In addition, the Village of Ruidoso has budgeted a substantial amount to continue the street signing project.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

Wind in May
This is being sent to you on the seventeenth of May, and it is a little like March with the west wind coming down the vale. There are a number of unusual things about the weather this year, and one of them is this wind in the month of May. We wonder oftentimes why we need the wind; and especially right at this time when Mother Earth is trying to hold on to her moisture.

Dry, warm weather is normal for this month for many reasons. We need lots of sun for the new leaves and the grass and all the other growing things. Then too, all the song birds have flown in from many places in the world to make their nests and raise their young here in the trees of their favorite summer home.

High up in the walnut and oak trees along the river, you can see the robin nests if you look closely. They will be in the forks of the limbs up near the top. I used to worry about the young birds in these nests when the wind was blowing. However the birds know from long experience how to build their nests in the right place. The robin's nest is secure from the strongest blasts of wind.

The blue bird likes to build in a hollow tree or some other sheltered place. They appreciate bird houses that you build for them. And they love to be near your home, knowing that they are the birds of happiness.

Sometimes, though, you will see a bird nest away out near the end of a limb high up on an oak or walnut tree. You wonder if the birds who build these nests are sure of the weather and know that there is not going to be any wind. For generally, the time of the nesting of birds is still, warm and dry. You can understand why the very young birds need this kind of weather.

So now on a day like today with the west wind blowing about one-fourth of its speed, and some times in gusts a little faster, — you wonder if this will endanger some of those bird nests that are out toward the ends of the limbs.

Down by the river you look for one of these nests. At first you cannot find one. Surely the birds knew that the wind was going to blow during May a little bit. After a while sure enough you see one — a little nest in the forks of the branches away out toward the end of a walnut limb. The wind is blowing pretty lively, and yet the stout old walnut branches move very little.

The wind rocks the baby birds to sleep in their walnut tree cradle and hums them a lullaby through the bright new leaves all around.

Walnut Leaves Are Still Late

All along the winding course of the river, you can still see walnut trees with their branches almost bare; and when you look closely, you can see the new buds and small leaves. This is the first time I have seen some of the walnut trees so slow to leaf out.

All the other late leaves are out in full and growing fast. There is an old saying — "The Mesquite knows" meaning that the mesquite is the last to leaf out so as to be

Mesquite And Wild Grape

Over on the sunny side of the world there are some mesquite bushes on a little rocky bluff just up from the river. Every year I watch these bushes to be sure there will come no more frost. The mesquite has been out in its delicate new green, a delight to your eyesight every year in the late spring.

And along the river the wild grape blossom sends its delicate perfume — so welcome upon the dry air. The wild grape and wild cherry are the last to bloom of all the wild blossoms. And your heart gives a little leap of joy when their fragrance reaches you so pure and fresh in the warm air and on the gentle breeze. When you inhale the essence of the wild grape and the wild cherry it is a breath of happiness and new life more welcome each year.

The Wind Again

We know there are many reasons for this little wind in May. Surely it helps the walnut trees to bring out their leaves that are so late this year. It strengthens the limbs and branches of the trees and helps the running of the sap in the new growth.

And surely this time of year it brings a weather change. If the west wind keeps blowing for a while, then comes the east wind with some rain.

In just a few days the young of the birds and other creatures of the wild will be old enough to welcome a little rain. And maybe we will get some rain a little early this year thanks to the west wind.

Take care of yourself and enjoy the beautiful spring. Better and better days are ahead of us. So let us rejoice and thank God for all our blessings.

DURING THE AWARDS ASSEMBLY Friday at Ruidoso High School, science instructor Frank Silva presented an award for chemistry to senior Julie Gooch.

Alaska land use film set Tuesday

A film and slide show on the use of public lands in Alaska, "The Age of Alaska," will be shown Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., in the multipurpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library on Suddeith.

The presentation is sponsored by The Wilderness Society and a discussion will follow the program.

Picnic areas open for use

Though residents and visitors are advised of extreme fire danger conditions, all lakes, rivers, picnic and camping grounds in the Mescalero Apache reservation are now open to the public, according to Hopkins Smith, tribal public relations.

Following a year-long closure for expansion, the Eagle Creek Campground is open and ready for use, Smith said. New facilities include upgraded water and sewer lines, a bath house, new camp-trailer hookups and an access road that is nearly all paved. Smith said the Eagle Creek facility has been doubled in size and accommodations.

The Upper Canyon picnic grounds are also open for public use, he said. Special fire restrictions will be posted and enforced as appropriate.

Easy Move wins Kansas Derby

At the wire, it was Easy Move much in command with a 1 1/4-length lead. The son of Easy Jet stopped the clock in 20.34 seconds and gifted his mutual backers with sweet payoffs of $27.60, $8.80 and $5.40.

Buffy Pass, ridden by Bruce Pilkenton for E. Wayne and James Johnson of Lufkin, Texas, had to be content with the runnerup purse of $22,797. The tote returns were $4.20 and $2.80. Real Easy Jet hit the wire a nose behind Buffy Pass and took home the third-place slice of $13,410. The show payoff was $3 even.

Gary Sumpter piloted Real Easy Jet for the well-known owner-trainer, Walter Merrick of Sayre, Oklahoma.

Here's the way the rest of the field checked in, with purse money earned: 4th — Stoa Minga, $9,387; 5th — Shesa Easy Gypsy, $6,705; 6th — Bunny Mackay, $5,364; 7th — Triangle Pass, $4,023; 8th — Easy Kiss, $2,682; 9th — Mr. Big Wheel, $1,341; 10th — Ina Gates Gal, $1,341.

Ruidoso Downs will be dark Thursday, but action swings back into high gear with a five-day holiday weekend beginning Friday at 1:30 p.m.

BLACK LINDISMA, an 18-1 longshot ridden by Salustio Burgos, came flying out of the pack and scored a surprise victory in Saturday's feature sprint at Sunland Park. The filly was well out of the picture during most of the 5 1/2-furlong sprint on wet terrain.

With only about 50 yards to go, Nu And Crafty, a 26-1 shot, looked like a sure winner. But Black Lindisma closed with a sudden power burst and swept by Nu And Crafty to win convincingly by three-quarter lengths.

Fans who backed Black Lindisma collected a generous $39.60 on a $2 win ticket. The place price was $20.20, the show return, $10.80. Black Lindisma is owned by Carl Davidson of El Paso. The filly was clocked in 1:07 1/5 seconds in a track which remained fast despite a steady rain.

Nu And Crafty ended up second, returning $20.40 and $7.80. Smoothentangle got in third, paying $8.80. The two favorites, Jimmylin and Strate Miss, showed little.

SIX TE, A GELDING making the first start of his career, flashed to a length win in Friday's program at Ruidoso Downs and set the day's top qualifying time for the upcoming $500,000 Kansas Quarter Horse Futurity.

Six Te ended his 350-yard trial dash with a length lead and stopped the clock in 18.11 seconds. The work automatically advanced Six Te into the June 4 Kansas finale.

Six Te is leased by Anne B. Tandy of Ft.

Worth. Jerry Nicodemus is the rider. Don Farris does the training.

Friday's program covered 15 elimination trials, with the clock deciding the five who'll go into the finale. These five will join the five survivors from Thursday's stanza in the June 4 showdown.

Also making the grade Friday were More Excuses, 18.13; Flying Passem, 18.16; Trucklin Moon, 18.17; and Bug Tuff Johnny, 18.24.

All five qualifiers Friday won their respective heats.

TRASHEY MAN went into Thursday's program at Ruidoso Downs with a humble money line of $240 from two career starts.

He came out of the 15 race program as the leading qualifier in the first stanza of the elimination trials leading to the $499,700 Kansas Quarter Horse Futurity.

The colt, ridden by J. C. Wiley, won the ninth race by a half-length and stopped the clock at 18.16 seconds for 350 yards. That clocking held up as the best of the day — and advanced Trashey Man into the regionally televised grand finale June 4.

Trashey Man is owned by W. L. Edwards of Ruidoso. The colt paid $10 even to win. J. C. Wiley was up.

A total of five head qualified for the Kansas finale in Thursday's action. The others: Oh Jet Van, 18.22; Song of My Heart, 18.27; Gentlemens Feature, 18.27; Mito Easy, 18.28.

Friday. She was recently selected to appear in Who's Who in the West.

Mescalero teacher in Who's Who

A delightfully surprised Rufina M. Laws has been honored by Who's Who in the West in its 18th edition of 1978-79. Mrs. Laws, a member of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, is currently a teacher at the Bent-Mescalero School in the Tularosa School System.

She said she didn't expect the honor and was surprised when she was notified she had been chosen to appear in the publication.

During her career, Mrs. Laws has served as a teacher and counselor with the Bureau of Indian Affairs in New Mexico and Arizona. For the past three years she has taught at the Bent-Mescalero School, where her work in individualized education and drama has been reported to be outstanding.

Upon graduation from Tularosa High School in 1962, Mrs. Laws went on to complete her B.S. degree requirements at Eastern New Mexico University. She is the daughter of Gibson and Magdalena Fatty of Mescalero. Her sisters are Helen Klinekole, and Pansy Shendo of Mescalero, and Claudine Flett of Washington, D. C. Her brother is Cornel Gibson Fatty of Mescalero.

She is a member of the National Education Association, the American Personnel Guidance Association and the American Association of University Women.

The principal and staff of Bent-Mescalero School announced they are proud to hear of Mrs. Laws' honor and wish her continued success in her career.

honorable mention; Harla Webb, second; Scott Annala, honorable mention; Robin Burrows, honorable mention, and Lorena Herrera, third.

Dunagans give students outing

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Dunagan, the faculty of the Glenwood Elementary School 63 miles north of Silver City, Friday completed a three day tour with 22 of their students from the second through the sixth grade.

The tour included the animal science department at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces; White Sands; Aerospace Museum in Alamogordo; the Inn of the Mountain Gods and Ruidoso Downs Race Track; Carlsbad Caverns; Smokey Bear Museum, Capitan and the Malpais, west of Carrizozo.

The students spent two nights at guests of the Dunagans at their summer home in Ruidoso.

Completing the entourage were bus drivers Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lyon, school cook Janet Kelly and one parent, Mrs. H. G. McKeen.

"They saw, in comparison to their home on the Gila River," Dunagan said, "a lot of country that will give them something to talk about the rest of the summer. You never saw so many kids have so much fun."

Library Laurels

Kathy Moore

Passions and Prejudices or Some of My Best Friends Are People by Leo Rosten, "will delight anyone brave enough and honest enough to consider such startling ideas as 1) a brisk lesson on How to Hate — properly, sensibly, with justice 2) a novel way to save your marriage 3) a hilarious eulogy of the Press — with quotations you'll never forget 4) tributes to some brilliant scoundrels — including the genius who built a perfect replica of an overnight bank-deposit box, which he placed next to a real one outside a bank."

If you happened to have gone to Harvard, you'll know about Memorial Hall. If you didn't go to Harvard, Memorial Hall is a huge, red brick building, built in the 1870's. It's crowned with a bell tower and four giant clocks, and much of what goes on at Harvard takes place in or around the hall — even an occasional murder. The Memorial Hall Murder by Jane Langton is a "delightful, original and most suspenseful novel."

James T. Farrell, author of the classic Studs Lonigan trilogy, in his new book, The Death of Nora Ryan continues the story of the characters he introduced in his recent novel, The Dunne Family.

Thomas Whiteside in his book Computer Capers tells of "highly creative, often engaging simple schemes devised by gambling bank tellers, alienated programmers, brazen chairman of the board and clever debtors — and of how these schemes are occasionally foiled by sharp-eyed clerks, jilted lovers, and the SEC and fate. He discovers the motives that are peculiar to computer crime, and finds that sheer naked greed is only one of the motivating factors."

In The Wings of Peace by John Creasey, "an entire nation — perhaps even the world — is threatened with apocalyptic destruction. Dr. Palfy and the agents of ZS struggle with forces more dark and compelling than ever before."

Inside the Capitol

BY CARROL W. CAGLE

SANTA FE — Abortion. The state's politicians have found it's an issue seemingly with no middle ground and extremely strong feelings both ways. The issue, at the state capitol level, has been kicked and fumbled every which way and still is unresolved.

The process of politics tends to seek a general consensus on any issue where there's disagreement or the absence of a clear-cut majority for a specific course of action.

But that process really hasn't worked where abortion is concerned, on the national level or in New Mexico.

One part of the public believes plainly that abortion is murder of an as-yet-unborn child. They think the child, while still in the embryo, is the most defenseless of murder victims, and that killing is wrong no matter what the U.S. Supreme Court says about it.

Another part of the public believes that abortion is a form of birth control, or at least a regrettable but frequently necessary alternative to ruining the lives of women faced with bearing a child they can't love and properly care for.

The groups have had some noisy, intense confrontations, and there'll probably be more.

Gov. Jerry Apodaca heard bitter complaints from "right-to-life" people in his office suite a few weeks ago after he vetoed a portion of the state's General Appropriations Act limiting tax expenditures for abortions. There were hassles between pro- and anti-abortion groups during the 1978 Legislature.

Now, the question of state government's policy on funding of abortions for women who couldn't otherwise afford them remains unresolved.

Some background: The '78 session of the lawmaking Legislature put language in the General Appropriations Act similar to Federal restrictions issued by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Last summer, HEW told the states they could use Federal dollars to help pay for abortions in three instances:

— If the attending physician says the life of the mother would be endangered by letting the pregnancy continue to term.

— If the pregnancy involves "out-of-uterus" formation of the baby.

— If the pregnancy were the result of rape or incest reported before the fact of pregnancy was established.

In February, HEW added a fourth provision which allowed use of Federal funds if it were determined that having the child or continuing the pregnancy would cause severe and long-lasting damage to the health of the mother.

Meanwhile, the Legislature was putting those first three restrictions in the General Appropriations Act, which supplies tax dollars to various agencies, including in this case the new Human Service Department. HSD has to follow Federal guidelines in order to receive Federal funds for various programs it operates — in this instance Medicaid, a medical payment program for the poor, and "Title 20," which includes provisions for payments of abortions under the "family planning" category. But HSD adopts state-level regulations as well, governing state tax dollars.

The no-longer-existent citizen board of the department which preceded HSD prior to government reorganization held its last meeting in March and declined to take further action on the issue. At that time, Apodaca hadn't yet vetoed the language in the Appropriations Act — which would've had more legal power than a board-adopted resolution anyway.

Now it's up to the cabinet-level secretary of HSD, Fernando C de Baca, to decide what the state restrictions on abortion funding should be. Hearings were held in various New Mexico cities, but not widely advertised or publicized.

C de Baca is not expected to make a decision until transcripts from those hearings are printed for him to study.

NEW CLOUD FOR OLD

Dismissal of charges against John Kearney, a New York FBI agent accused of illegal wiretappings and mail openings, have dispelled some of the gloom hanging over the bureau. However, federal grand jury indictments against former Acting Director L. Patrick Gray and two of his assistants have created a new cloud.

Kearney's plight had been blamed for deteriorating morale in the agency, since it was almost universally accepted that he had acted under orders.

The action against Gray and the other two, unprecedented in the history of the agency, have stirred new controversy and produced an unlikely event — a demonstration by about 100 agents, who stood silently on the steps of the federal courthouse where Gray and the others were indicted. The agents were there to show their support for their former superiors.

The sticky point in all this is that the mood of the nation was far different in the late 1960s and early 1970s, when the alleged civil rights violations occurred, than it is today. Bombings by the Weatherman terrorists then were drawing public outrage, and the capture of members of the group was an FBI priority.

A spinoff problem of this divergence in public opinion and activity within the intelligence community is that recently several FBI agents have refused to implement wiretaps ordered by the office of Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell. It's alright now, the agents insist, because the attorney general wants the taps. But who will be around to protect them a few years hence when a different government in a different mood decides to prosecute them for this "illegal" activity?

Gray and his former aides do not believe they are guilty of misdeeds. They rejected plea-bargaining offers that would have allowed them to plead guilty to less serious charges than the conspiracy charge returned by the grand jury.

That is good, we believe, because it will give the defendants a chance to air all this business in the full glare of the news media.

New FBI Director William H. Webster summed the whole matter up rather aptly recently, when he said, "The sooner this is completed, the better it will be for all concerned, and certainly for the FBI as an organization." — News-Bulletin, Belea

Takes some doing to figure a budget. The village trustees have to estimate their income before guessing at their expenditures for the fiscal year, a tricky situation. The school board is told exactly how much money they have to spend and, apparently, they have to spend it all before they can get any more the next time around. So, which governing body gets ulcers? —CD

FOTO CONTEST MIXUP

The past two/three years The News and KRRR have piqued the interest ... and stirred the enthusiasm ... of amateur photographers, by promoting a spring foto contest ... which indeed created more'n a modicum of excitement ... with the jointly sponsored event even offering the professionals a chance to win.

As to this year's no contest ... Ken Green, his nibs at The News ... and Ed Hyman, his nobs at KRRR ... didn't nib/nob about such a contest this spring ... with both nibs and nobs claiming business interferences to the extent that the contest slipped their minds ... singularly and collectively.

This, his nibs and his nobs concur, is much to their chagrin ... and to this, nibs and nobs nod in accord ... smacking, verily, of a varying degree of verisimilitude, this nibs/nobs nodding acquiescence to the foibles of fate contributing to their admitted malfeasance in not placating the chomping at the bit photographers who have been wearing their shutter finger constantly at the alert for so long there're complaints of arthritic afflictions afoot.

Then there's the good news ... the nibs/nobs duo have agreed that while spring's beautiful ... it's fall that's gorgeous ... and that's why there'll be a fall foto contest ... duly announced, planned and carried out by nibs and nobs. Which is just a hint that those long secreted and cherished prize winning fotos of the beauties of spring must remain hidden ... until the nibs/nobs spring foto contest ... which'll come ... as do horseflies to the cowbarn.

So what all you foto contestants do ... see ... is lurk in your favorite fall haunts ... prognosticating but not procrastinating ... and sorta size up what the situation'll be ... with the aspens aglow ... so that you can decide ... in advance ... which colorful scenes of "Fall in Ruidoso" you wish to record for posterity ... and even monetary reward ... and, by jinkies, you'll be able to hie away to your secluded site ... sight your scene ... fire away ... and enter your prize picture ... and who knows, the winning color print might be printed by his nbs ... as to his nobs ... well, he talks a lot.

OSHKOSH B'GOSH

Ah, what memories "Oshkosh B'Gosh" stirs up in the recesses of this skin covered cranium ... such as the day back in 1932 when the superintendent of schools stepped forth into the high school assembly, facing the students assembled, with a brand new suit ... prompting the masses to promptly appear at the next morning's assembly all decked out in our new Oshkosh B'Gosh overalls.

And Oshkosh ... that's in Wisconsin ... is again in the news and the residents aren't truckin' to the turkey trot in their overalls ... 'cause their truck assembly line ... ostensibly assembling huge trucks destined to rumble over Lybian ... even other ... roads ... has been advised by the State Department that selling trucks to terrorists cannot be condoned.

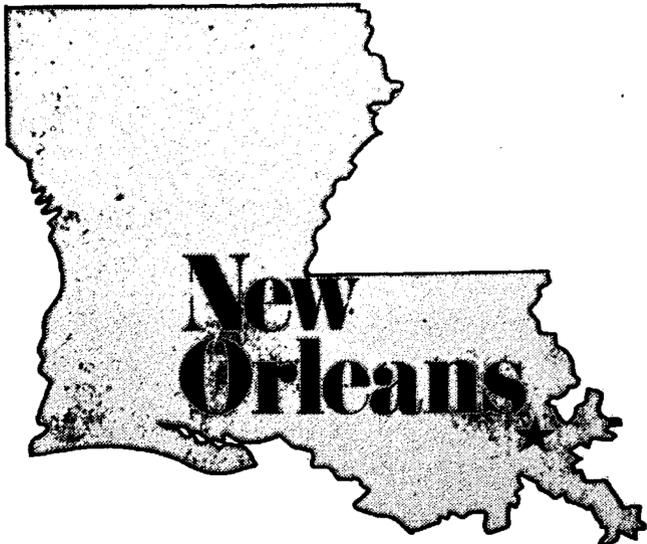

This is a low blow for the Oshkosh truck assemblers ... 'cause some time back ... two times, even ... the State Department approved the contract for Oshkosh to sell their trucks to the Lybians, b'gosh.

So ... there the Oshkoshians sit with their trucks ... and that leaves the Lybians sitting without trucks ... which ain't costing the Lybians anything ... but it's leaving the Oshkoshians figuring their assets'll lead them into bankruptcy ... and so much for the way the State Department encourages international trade ... to say nothing of relations with the Lybians.

Seems ... from deep within these hills ... that the State Department should get the Oshkoshians off'n the hook ... by bailing 'em out of their sinking ship ... 'cause them Oshkoshians were operating in good faith ... building good trucks ... trucks that ought to be good enough for some State Department bigwigs ... and conniving to be bigwigs ... to tool around on their missions of promoting whatever it is State Department bigwigs promote.

And think how happy that situation'd make our Oshkoshians ... b'gosh. BRIEF BIT: Investigators have concluded there's no organized crime in New Mexico 'cause they saw no signs: Mafia Headquarters, crimes organized ... CD

CARPET COSTS seem to be one of the few things a homeowner can choose that haven't skyrocketed over the last generation or so. The reason is not that manufacturing costs haven't gone up, along with distribution and sales costs. They have, just as they have in every area.

Technology has created a whole new family of carpets in low and moderate price ranges that did not exist a generation ago. So there is a new choice in just about every price range.

The very top grade of wool carpeting, for instance, costs more than it did, say, twenty years ago. Technology has made possible treatments to create richer colors, mildew-proofing and other qualities to make that wool carpet better, however, and for those who cherish its warmth and luxury it remains a happy choice even at a higher price.

But there's a whole new selection of space-dyed nylons, solution-dyed acrylics that are resilient, stain-resistant and sunfast, polyesters and polypropylenes unheard of until recent years, priced so that daughters can carpet a home for about what Mom did when she was starting out.

Visiting our showroom now is a good way to keep your carpet costs within your budget... without losing beauty or quality. See us... for selection, service and satisfaction... at the right price!

Mrs. J. F. Murray has recently been appointed State Chairman for the promotion of the "National Gardener."

Mrs. Roy Avery, president, conducted the business meeting, where plans for the flower show in August, the Bazaar during Ascencade and the prospect of a pilgrimage to view local gardens were among the items discussed.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT Success—in varying degrees—has soured the close friendship that once existed between John Travolta and Henry Winkler. Ever since the day they both tried out for the part of "The Fonz," Winkler and Travolta had been the best of buddies. Today, however, that friendship has taken on a decided chill. The two actors achieved equal acclaim on TV, with Henry starring as Fonzie and John as Barbarino the lovable sweatog. Then both reached out for the grand prize Hollywood has to offer—movie superstardom. With the spectacular success of "Saturday Night Fever," Travolta made it. Henry starred in two pictures, "Heroes" and "The One and Only," which excited neither the critics nor moviegoers. The result? "They never see each other anymore. They hardly even talk on the phone nowadays," a Hollywood insider told me. "It's a pity because Henry and John used to think the world of each other." For the record, both young actors—John's 23 and Henry 32—deny that the vast differences in their big-screen impact is killing their friendship. "Henry and I are good friends," John told me. "Our paths have gone in different directions, that's all." And Henry told me, "John and I will always be friends. If we don't have time to see each other, it's only because he's got his work and I've got mine."

INSIDE THE TUBE: "Rhoda" star Valerie Harper is divorcing her hubby of 13 years Richard Schaal. Val's problems with the comic actor are many—too much success (hers), too little time together, a vast age difference (he's 50, she's 33) and the lack of children Val desperately wants. Friends admit that since both took est, their fights are meaner, following the est rule of "letting it all hang out." Singer Barry Manilow thinks Penny Marshall of "Laverne and Shirley" is one of the sexiest women he ever met! That should get rid of Penny's famous lack of confidence. Her insecurity has become a joke around town but now that hubby Rob Reiner is home more, maybe he can restore her spirits. The new installment on the romantic life of Cher: Her No. 1 guy is rock star Gene Simmons but there's a bit of a situation with producer Jon Peters. They were having a lot of dinner dates, explained as necessary discussions of a picture she may do for him. But Barbra Streisand got upset and laid down the law to Jon, so now he does his discussing with Cher strictly by telephone.

TV INSIDERS Luscious Suzanne Somers of "Three's Company" did the impossible. She signed a $1-million contract for six TV movies with her rival network CBS with the help of hubby Alan Hamel. No wonder she smothers him with kisses in public places. Pamela Sue Martin is taking time out from her save-the-seals fight to make a wet T-shirt poster and to do a photo spread for "Playboy." Pam was a nude model before hitting stardom as TV's Nancy Drew. Edward Asner may seem like a strange candidate for the role of sex symbol but that's exactly what the people at CBS television say he is. Alternately described by former co-stars as a "teddy bear" and "a pussycat," the folks at CBS say that they get a surprising amount of mail from female viewers who see Asner as "sexy." Handsome Michael Gregory, who plays Dr. Dick Webber on "General Hospital" for ABC, used to be Dean Martin's personal bodyguard before making it big on the little screen. Angel Jaclyn Smith and boyfriend Dennis Cole were seen sipping White Rum Screwdrivers at a recent Hollywood bash.
