TO ISSUE BID NOTICES FOR EAGLE CREEK DAM

Village eyeing bond refunding

The Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening received two proposals for refunding $3.9 million in General Obligation Water Bonds, issued for construction of Eagle Creek Dam and a new distribution system to handle the water.

The offers were made due to changes in federal laws that will eliminate normal refunding of this type of bonds after September 1, 1978. Refunding of the bonds, selling the present ones and buying government bonds to refinance the issue, must be completed prior to July 1, 1978.

The presentations, made by A.D. Fowler of Stern Brothers, Albuquerque, and Steve Jeffers of Bosworth Sullivan and Company, Denver, Colorado, were not acted upon.

Fowler's proposal offered the village a new rate of 6.368 percent interest through 1995 that would result in a net saving, over the present 6.98 interest rate being paid on the bonds, of $157,378.62. The new interest rate, Fowler said, would include a "$39,564.74 discount on the bonds." His plan would provide for a call of the bonds at par, after July 1, 1988, with no penalty, "to take advantage of better interest rates."

Jeffers' offer, under refunding, a new overall interest rate of 6.82 percent providing a net saving, over the present bond cost, of $96,251.07. He included a provision that the bonds would be "callable after July 1, 1982," though there would be a "$38,000 penalty," to call the $3,800,000 bond issue outstanding at that time. He also said his refunding offer would give the village $4,000 in annual savings and estimated that overall savings to the village would amount to $513,000, depending on prevailing interest rates if the bonds would be called after 1984.

Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. took exception to both plans and ridiculed the Stern Brothers original offer because it did not contain a call clause until 1988 and told Jeffers, as his presentation began, "You are speaking to closed ears," regarding himself, "Speak to the other four members."

Later, after vigorously condemning both proposals, Davis said, "We should accept the Stern proposal as an addendum to the original $4 million bond issue."

Trustee Frank Sayner, in supporting the Jeffers' proposal, said, "We should pay our loan with a new issue," and take advantage of the 1982 call feature as a new option to obtain greater savings in the cost of interest on the present bonds' maturity date of 1995.

Trustee Sherman Atwood said, "On the surface, I think we should go with the 6.368 percentage rate, but Stern Brothers are on the top of my . . . list," in referring to the lack of a call date provision in the original sale of bonds through Fowler.

Trustee George White's motion to "accept Stern Brothers proposal if the bonds are refunded," and Sayner's motion to "take advantage of advance refunding and accept the Bosworth Sullivan proposal," were both lost for lack of a second.

Atwood then moved to "have Stern come up with a refunding plan similar to Bosworth Sullivan," for consideration by the trustees. The motion was seconded by White. On roll call, trustees White, Atwood and Ab Gunter voted Aye; Sayner, "naye" with Davis recording a "naye" vote.

Village manager Jim Hine was instructed to notify Fowler of the trustees' action and advise the trustees of his decision to conform with their demand.

Hine advised The News Wednesday morning that "there's a possibility a special meeting, to decide the bond refunding issue, will be called next week." He also said that all local arrangements would have to be completed prior to June 15 "to get in under the deadlines for refunding" under present laws.

THE EAGLE CREEK DAM status report by Tom Mann, Mann Engineering, Roswell, advised the trustees that "the plans are being held by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in Portland, Oregon, and their comments are due June 10."

Mann also said, regarding the plans for the dam, "All questions have been answered, every requirement met," to enable "SCS to make their recommendations to the Farmers Home Administration." Mann also said the same question/requirement demands of every other agency involved in plans for the dam have also been met.

Mayor Davis read the trustees a letter from James P. Abbott, Forest Supervisor with the Lincoln National Forest, Alamogordo, concerning the start of dam construction and road relocation, saying, in part:

"A Department of Agriculture easement is to be issued to the New Mexico State Highway Department by the Regional Forester for State Road No. 532. Prior to the issuance of the easement the construction plans, specifications, and construction stipulations are to be approved and signed by the Highway Department, the Village of Ruidoso, and the Regional Forester. A delay in this step will cause a RECREATION GUIDE for Lincoln County, developed by the county Planning and Zoning and Parks Commission (PZPC), released for distribution Wednesday, is displayed by Les Olson, county manager; Guy Henley, county road superintendent and Bill Seelbach, commission chairman. The guides are available in Ruidoso at the Chamber of Commerce.

County P & Z has issued new recreation guide

The Lincoln County Planning and Zoning and Parks Commission (PZPC) has issued a "Lincoln County Recreation Guide," depicting the highlights of the county for visitations by tourists.

A total of 40,000 of the guides will be distributed county wide, with supplies being located at:

- Chamber of Commerce, Ruidoso
- County courthouse, Carrizozo
- Smokey Bear Museum, Capitán
- Village Hall, Corona
- Village Hall, Ruidoso Downs, and Museum at Lincoln.

"Area motel managers and operators," PZPC chairman Bill Seelbach said, "may pick up a limited number of the guides for their businesses at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce office on Sudderth Drive.

Information in the Guide includes:

- Listing of area campgrounds
- Fishing areas
- Sports facilities
- Picnic and park areas
- Scenic and historic sites

Attractions detailed on the back of the guide include:

- Ft. Stanton, Jicarilla, Valley of Fires State Park, White Oaks, Old Lincoln Town, Ruidoso and Ancho with a brief history of Lincoln County and a listing of emergency care facilities available and emergency numbers for fires, medical emergencies, ambulances and law enforcement.

"This is our first major project," Seelbach said, "and we hope that it will enable our tourists to really enjoy their stay in Lincoln County."

County Commission sets $1.5 plus million budget

An estimated total county budget of $1,541,733 was approved by the Lincoln Board of County Commissioners, during a regular meeting, Monday.

According to county manager Les Olsen, the budget has been firm for weeks, awaiting the formal blessing of the commissioners.

The budget, according to a county release, allows for a net unencumbered balance of $243,480. The figure is broken down to include a contingency reserve of $160,617 to provide for unforeseen capital outlay; $42,000 held in reserve for the county's emergency medical service, (EMS) and $40,863 as a net net unencumbered balance.

Olsen said the EMS fund will be held until a federal grant can be secured for the purchase of additional emergency equipment. He said if the federal money is not secured, the reserve money will be spent for already established needs.

Other Monday commission action included:

- Appointment of John Hall to the property tax protest board.
- Award of a franchise to the Penasco Valley Telephone Coop, Incorporated. The franchise will allow the cooperative to bury its telephone lines underground. According to the attorney for the cooperative, Bill Siegenthaler, the burial project will take about three years to complete and will cost the cooperative about $2.9 million.

No formal action on a presentation by Ralph Dunlop, county extension agent, LeRoy McKnight and John Cooper in which they outlined a proposal to build a 30-mile electric fence north from U.S.-70 to Arabela. According to Cooper, the fence will cost about $16,000 to be paid by the ranchers who will benefit from the predator control, and will be used to protect sheep from coyotes.

Chamber drive nets 36 members

Exactly 36 area businesses joined the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce as a result of the membership drive Monday.

"I'm very pleased," Dave Wilson, Chamber president said Wednesday. "It's a good start. We got a lot of new businesses and got back some people who had dropped out.

"I hope this indicates a faith in the future of the Chamber."

Although 43 businesses joined the Chamber, Wilson said, "It's not as many as we had hoped to get. We set a goal of 400 total memberships or 67 new memberships and we got about half the goal, but it's a good start.

"We had a lot of businesses, which for some reason or another did not join Monday (but expressed an interest) and we will follow up on them."

The Chamber directors plan to immediately involve the new members, through an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m., June 8 in the multipurpose room of the library.

"We hope for old and new members to attend the meeting (to assist with reorganization and to provide an input). We also hope to get the Chamber auxiliary back into action."

IT'S AN UPSET — Mona Rae, much to the surprise of most fans at Ruidoso Downs Monday, held off the stakes star, Mr. Clyde, in the seven furlong headliner. Mona Rae returned $26 to win. Gilbert Villescas did the riding.

Mona Rae won Monday's feature

Mona Rae easily held off the fast charging favorite, Mr. Clyde, for a length victory in Monday's seven furlong headliner at Ruidoso Downs.

The fans didn't think Mona Rae stood much of a chance in the classy field and let her get away at 12-1 odds.

But those who did back the sophomore filly in the mutuels were well rewarded with returns of $28 to win, $6.80 to place, $5 to show. Gilbert Villescas was in the saddle.

Mona Rae is trained by J. Doyal Roberts for F. C. and Frankie McDougal or Berino. The filly stopped the clock in a bristling 1:26 2/5 seconds.

Mr. Clyde, ridden by Leroy Coombs, refunded $3 to place and $2.80 to show. Large John got in third under Salustio Burgos and returned $4.20.

In the early going, He's Our Pro, a 10-1 longshot, was allowed to expend himself in a quick pace. He's Our Pro held about three lengths of daylight going down the backstretch. Large John was in close pursuit, while Mona Rae, moving at her own pace, settled in third. Mr. Clyde was well off the pace.

As the field swept into the turn for home, the traffic began to jam up at the front end, and it became evident He's Our Pro was about to toss in the towel.

It was midway in the turn when jockey Villescas gave Mona Rae the green light and the filly quickly came alive and took off. The rapid acceleration probably caught Mr. Clyde by surprise. The latter was also flying at this point, and may have been a bit discouraged to find one of his prospective victims refusing to play dead.

Mona Rae shot into the lead and was about 1 1/2 lengths to the good. Mr. Clyde, having to circle plenty of horses, lost some ground in the turn. The classy colt tried his best in the straightaway, but Mona Rae had too much in reserve and easily fended off the attack.

The victory was Mona Rae's fourth of the year. It was also the most impressive victory of her career.

In the co-feature at six furlongs, Royal Minds, the 2-1 favorite, did a workmanlike job under the skilled handling of Richard Bickel. Royal Minds took an early lead, held it all the way, and had plenty left for the stretch. He sailed under the wire with a 1 1/2 length lead. The win payoff was $6.20.

JOHN E. CONWAY

John Conway candidate for state senator

Incumbent John E. Conway, Republican of Lincoln and Otero Counties, Wednesday announced his candidacy for reelection as state senator for District 39.

The senior Republican in the New Mexico State Senate, Conway was elected in 1970 in a district which included all of Lincoln and Otero counties and reelected in 1974, after reapportionment of the legislature, to serve a district of Lincoln County, La Luz, Tularosa and the northeast part of Alamogordo.

Conway said, "My past record has been one of service to Lincoln and Otero counties and to the state of New Mexico. I believe over the last eight years I have represented the views of my constituents in the New Mexico legislature and, if reelected, will continue to represent them to the best of my ability."

County polling locations set

- Polls in Lincoln County will be open from 8 a.m.-7 p.m., June 6, for primary election voting, in the following precinct locations:
- Precinct 1 — Fair building, Capitan.
 - Precinct 2 — Fire station, Nogal.
 - Precinct 3 — Otero Electric Coop, Carrizozo.
 - Precinct 4 — Commissioners' room, courthouse, Carrizozo.
 - Precinct 5 — City hall, Corona.
 - Precinct 11 — White Mountain School, Ruidoso.
 - Precinct 12 — Bonito Fire Station, Angus.

 - Precinct 14 — Ruidoso High School, Ruidoso.
 - Precinct 15 — Village hall, Ruidoso Downs.
 - Precinct 16 — San Patricio School, San Patricio.
 - Precinct 17 — Hondo School, Hondo.

A change in location of the polls effects two Ruidoso precincts:

Precinct 13 will vote at the Ruidoso Public Library, Junction Road and Sudrath Drive; not at village hall.

Precinct 14 will vote at the Ruidoso High School, not at Municipal Airport.

ELECTION NIGHT the Democrat Woman's Club (DWC) will operate a scoreboard at Whispering Pine Restaurant beginning at 7.

The scorecard, with Charles McClellan in charge of tabulations, will record the unofficial Lincoln County vote received by all candidates.

"We'll monitor state races on television," DWC president Coleta Elliott said, "and we're inviting the public to join us in obtaining the county results as well as watching the statewide trends."

A corrected county voter registration tabulation, released by county clerk Jane McSwane, increases the number of Democrats registered in Precinct 14 from 448 to 528, and total county voter registration by 80 to 5,550, instead of the 5,470 previously announced. The new figures peg the Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs registered voter total at 2,847.

corresponding delay in final approval to proceed.

"I will issue the special use permit for the dam and reservoir upon approval of the plans and specifications and the signing of the construction stipulations. Approval by all agencies involved will have to proceed without delay to issue the permit by August. The special use permit for the dam and reservoir will have a provision that will prohibit inundation of private land until the Village has acquired all land rights necessary for the entire project.

"The merchantable timber to be removed for the highway, dam, and reservoir will be purchased by the Village at a price established by standard appraisal procedures prior to authorization to begin construction."

Based on Mann's report, trustee Gunter moved "to call for bids for construction" of the dam and highway relocation, "with Mann to prepare the specifications." After a second by White, the council was polled with all registering an "aye" vote and Davis having his "aye" vote noted in the minutes.

Mann advised The News Wednesday that "preparation of the specifications will take only a few days," and that bids could be opened, based on final approval of the construction plans by SCS, to permit preliminary work at the site this fall.

ROTARIAN KEN GREEN outlined the Rotary's plan to install four by four-inch street name markers at all intersections in Ruidoso over the "next two to two and a half years." Green then said he had been advised that "there is $8,000 budgeted (in the next fiscal year) for street name signing," and requested the village "to take bids for cedar posts and 'Sacrete' to seat the posts, provide a man and machine to dig post holes and turn the remaining money over to the Rotary to engrave the posts and set them."

Green further said the Rotary "would set up four teams of seven to eight members each, set up a schedule of Saturday work days, advise the village of the schedule, and complete the project a section at a time."

White moved acceptance of the Rotary project, seconded by Gunter, with all voting "aye."

In other business the trustees:

- Accepted the bid of Beavers Sand and Gravel, Ruidoso Downs, in the amount of $43,000 for 8,000 cubic yards of 3/4-inch base course at $3.50 a yard; 1,200 cubic yards of 3/4-inch chips at $6.50 a yard and 1,000 cubic yards of 5/8-inch chips at $7.50 a yard, for village street improvements, with village trucks to haul the material.
- Accepted the bid of Sierra Blanca Motors, Ruidoso, of $7,200 for a four-door, four-wheel drive Jeepster for the use of village officials.
- Advised Bill Shrecengost, commander of the local American Legion, the village attorney would check the laws to determine if the $900 license fee, to dispense alcoholic beverages at the new Legion building, could be waived.
- Approved a replat of Lot 3, Block 4 in Cree Meadows Height, requested by Al Lane. The replat had been approved by Planning and Zoning.

- Rejected a request by H.F. Kannady that the "Nelson property," a five acre tract on Hull Road, be annexed by the village, because the property is not contiguous to the village limits.
- Were advised by Sayner of the receipt of a letter from Governor Jerry Apodaca, setting forth his "full support" of the proposed Regional Airport near Ft. Stanton and stating the governor had requested the "New Mexico Board of Regents to relinquish their claim to one percent of the land," that would be required for the proposed airport.
- Were advised by village purchasing agent Frank Potter that the village is now covered by tort insurance.
- Were advised by village attorney Ron Harris that a motor vehicle code ordinance is being prepared for adoption.
- Were advised by Harris that the village could declare a three month moratorium on the issuance of itinerant merchant licenses and outdoor sales licenses.
- Expressed support of a proposal for median beautification at the "Y", Sudrath and Highway 70, presented by Mitch Serven of Alley-Connell and Associates, Architects and Planners, Roswell. Should the $40,000 project be completed, Serven said the "village's obligation would be to provide 20 days of maintenance per year," and supply water to the site.
- Received a new franchise ordinance from Ruidoso Natural Gas Company, without taking action.

Carlsbad Caverns begin summer schedule June 4

Under the new schedule, which will remain in effect through September 4, visitors will be able to make complete cavern trips beginning anytime between the hours of 7:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., or Big Room trips anytime between the hours of 7:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. The complete tours are three miles in length and take approximately three hours, while the Big Room trips are one and one-fourth mile long and require approximately one hour and fifteen minutes.

country hiking, picnicking, roadside exhibits, scenic canyon and mountain views, and opportunities to observe native animals in their natural surroundings.

A nursery, kennel, restaurant, gift shop and underground lunchroom, all operated by the Cavern Supply Company, are available at the park to provide concession services for park visitors.

Persons wishing additional information about the park or desiring to make reservations for the New Cave lantern tours may call (505) 785-2233.

The park entrance fee of $3.00 per carload for private non-commercial vehicles or $1.00 per person for commercial bus passengers covers all available visitor activities. Annual Golden Eagle or Golden Age Passports are also honored and available at the park.

The Visitor Center will also open at 7:00 a.m., and remain open until after the evening bat flight programs. The bat flight programs are held nightly at the cavern entrance amphitheater, starting at about sunset.

Lantern tours through undeveloped "New Cave" in the southwestern part of the park will also be expanded to four daily trips for the summer. Times for the lantern tours, which are by reservation only, are 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., and 1:30 p.m.

In addition to the cavern trips and bat flight programs, the 48,700 acre park offers several surface nature trails, back-

Nutrient deficiencies damaging small trees

Extension county agents across New Mexico are getting calls about trees with small, yellow leaves. In most cases this indicates a nutrient deficiency, says Emroy Shannon, Extension plant pathologist at New Mexico State University.

He says nutritional diseases often appear when trees do not get enough nutrients from the soil. The most common deficiencies in New Mexico are lack of nitrogen, iron and zinc.

Symptoms of a deficiency disease may not be specific because the tree may lack more than one nutrient. Symptoms of nitrogen deficiency include small leaves and stunted growth. The most noticeable symptom of a zinc deficiency is small, bronched leaves at the end of branches. Iron deficient trees have yellow to white leaves, often with dark green veins.

A nitrogen deficiency can be corrected with ammonium sulfate, ammonium nitrate, urea or one of the many commercial fertilizers sold as lawn and tree foods. Apply these during the early spring, Shannon says. Late summer or early fall applications only encourage new growth that is susceptible to winter injury.

The rate of application depends upon the nitrogen percentage of the formulation. Ammonium sulfate containing 21 percent nitrogen is usually applied at the rate of one pound for each inch of tree diameter. Double the application rate with a fertilizer containing only 10.5 percent nitrogen.

Iron deficiency can be corrected with iron chelate, iron sulfate or other iron-containing compounds. These are applied as foliar sprays or to the soil around the trees.

These products are readily available at nursery and garden supply stores, the specialist says. Plants respond much faster to foliar sprays, but soil applications with iron chelates may be more permanent.

Zinc deficiency is corrected with foliage sprays of zinc chelate or zinc sulfate in early spring. Follow label directions. Repeat applications may be needed.

Zinc sulfate applied at the rate of two or three pounds per 100 gallons of water can be safely used on pecans. However, it may cause leaf burn on some trees.

While zinc chelate and zinc sulfate can also be applied to the soil, the results may be poor on highly alkaline soils. Zinc deficiency can frequently be corrected by driving galvanized nails into the trunk and large limbs of trees. Use about six nails for each inch of tree diameter, Shannon says.

Honor graduate

Kevin Bruce Crawford, formerly of Ruidoso, graduated with honors May 13 from Vail Mountain School in Colorado.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Crawford, Avon, Colorado, formerly of Ruidoso, he plans to attend Colorado Mountain College and continue to race with the Vail ski team next year.

He then will continue his studies at the University of Colorado in Boulder, majoring in mathematics and architectural engineering.

Former area pastor now church moderator

The Rev. William P. Lytle, former pastor of the Presbyterian churches in Ancho, Corona and Nogal, was elected Moderator of the 190th General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church which met May 16-24 in San Diego, California.

Mr. Lytle served for 15 years as missionary to the ranching communities in New Mexico under the Board of National Missions. After leaving New Mexico, he spent 12 years with the College of the Ozarks where he started an Ozarks Area Mission and was campus minister. Since 1973 he has been pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church in San Antonio, Texas. He has returned on several occasions to be one of the speakers at the Nogal Ranchmans Camp Meeting.

The Rev. Dick Brown, Executive Presbyter of the Presbytery of Sierra Blanca, will be guest minister at the First Presbyterian Church of Ruidoso Sunday, at 11 a.m., services. He will report on the election of Mr. Lytle and other matters that received the attention of the San Diego Assembly. Members and friends of the church are urged to be present for this first hand report.

Solar Heat Use Up, Oil Savings Are Small

The Federal Energy Administration reports that U.S. output of medium-temperature solar collectors, of the type used to heat homes, increased 400 per cent in the first half of 1975, to a total of 276,000 square feet.

However, the FEA points out that the maximum equivalent amount of energy that all 276,000 square feet of collectors could absorb would amount to only 108 barrels of oil per day.

Junior aerophysicists stage rocket launch

BY MARY WORMLEY
Staff Writer

A team of future aerophysicists at White Mountain Middle School launched a rocket Tuesday as a physical science class project.

Designed and built by the team of John Dingler, Bobby Knox, Sam Mize, Gayle Travis and Mike Atwood with "very little help" from instructor Page Hubbard, the eight foot rocket was the largest launched at the school and the first to have four commercial model rocket motors fire simultaneously.

Very few spectators from the student body were allowed to view the launching. All the students were invited to watch when the team attempted to fire the rocket last week, but weren't invited to watch Tuesday because "they laughed when it didn't go off," a member of the team said.

"We had trouble with the ignition last time," Hubbard said. "But we solved it this time by using a car battery."

Made of paper and cardboard, the rocket went up about 150 to 200 feet and plummeted to the ground.

"The rocket contained two parachutes built by Gayle Travis, but the ejection system failed" and the rocket crashed, Hubbard said.

"The idea and the project were the team's. That's the whole point of the projects class; the kids come up with a science project and get as far as they can on it in the nine week period," he said.

"Rockets are a very popular project; between the regular physical science class and the projects class, we've fired 100 or so rockets. It's a fine motivator. They enjoy doing it and it encourages an interest in science which we couldn't engender any other way."

Hubbard said, if the class didn't encourage future physical scientists, he hoped it would at least generate a long lasting interest in the subject.

The interest in rockets has been so enthusiastic, Hubbard said he was thinking of organizing a model rocket club next fall.

SAM MIZE, BOBBY KNOX and John Dingler connect the igniters just before the launch Tuesday.

AFTER THE LAUNCHING instructor Page Hubbard checks the inside of the rocket to determine what caused the parachute ejection system to malfunction and cause the crash.

MEMBERS OF THE TEAM fasten the eight-foot rocket to the launch rod.

Eve Ball will address Historical Society meeting

Author Eve Ball will be the guest speaker at the 6:30 p.m., June 10 meeting of the Lincoln County Historical Society.

A bring-your-own-covered-dish-supper, the meeting will be held in the home of Bill McCutcheon and his sister, Laverne Cole, on Highway 70 between Glencoe and San Patricio, across from the Ben Sanchez store.

A 29-year resident of Ruidoso, Mrs. Ball will discuss her present work, an Apache trilogy, which will be published and distributed in November by Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, and the possibility of a fourth book on Apache history to date.

Best known for "Ma'am Jones of the Pecos," written against the advice of a friend but a best seller, Mrs. Ball was a pioneer in the field of oral history.

Thomason sets workshop here

The Mill House Studio in Lincoln will sponsor a workshop by artist Ronald Thomason from August 14 through 18, Betty Martin announced Tuesday.

The five-day watercolor workshop will be held in the mill house behind the Isaac Ellis Store in Lincoln which is one of a very few examples of its type of adobe/wood architecture in the United States.

The workshop will include lectures, discussions and actual painting to expose those attending "to a broad spectrum of techniques and theory."

Thomason began his studies with John Chumley and the Wort Worth Art Center.

In addition to studying at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art, he studied with John McCoy, a National Academician trained in the Wyeth tradition.

Thomason, who usually works in watercolor and egg tempera, has returned to the southwest to study his native Texas in paint.

The student will be a full member of the home, sharing in the daily life of the family.

"Our goal is to help people discover realities and not the stereotypes received through television and other media, by way of the most fundamental and natural part of society, the family," Anita Sandoval, state field representative for the exchange league, said.

It has 2 bedrooms, one and a half baths, rock fireplace, den and kitchen combination plus a disposal, trash compactor, washer and dryer. IT'S NO SECRET that our townhomes are an excellent buy in a 3 bedroom, 2 bath, 1500 and over square foot home.
 IT'S A FACT that we have a new 3 bedroom, 1 1/2 bath Murphy built home ready to move in near the new lake and new ski run.
 IT'S A WONDER someone hasn't already bought this 3 bedroom, 2 bath, double garage, utility room, dining room, chandelier and basement. Only a year old in a fine section of town.
 IT'S A PROBLEM to find 2 nicer lots for mobiles or house close to town. Already approved for septic tank by the environmental agency.
 IT'S A POSSIBILITY on this 3/4 acre for a garden and orchard with this 4 bedroom, 2 bath home in an excellent location, well built and insulated. Reasonable.

Home weatherizing loans are available

Eligible rural homeowners can now apply for USDA home weatherization loans through participating public utilities, as well as rural electric cooperative associations. So says Bealquin Gomez, Extension community development specialist at New Mexico State University.

The weatherizing loan program was introduced last year by USDA's Rural Electrification Administration and the National Rural Electric Cooperatives Association.

As the USDA's rural credit agency, the FmHA serves low and moderate-income homeowners through any participating electric, gas or water system.

The FmHA also has programs in towns with populations up to 10,000 and up to 20,000 if the towns are outside a Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area.

Eligible homeowners unable to obtain credit except through FmHA may now arrange to have insulation and other weatherizing improvements financed through participating utilities. Borrowers may repay these loans by installments added to their monthly utility service bills.

The individual homeowner's loan limit is $1,500 in New Mexico, Gomez says. The maximum repayment term is five years. Loans will bear the prevailing FmHA rural housing interest rate, which presently is eight and one-fourth percent.

Loans may include funds to pay utility organizations for providing homeowners with weatherproofing technical service and inspection services. Service charges are limited to $25.00, plus one percent of the total improvement cost.

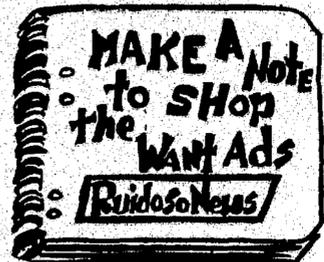

Gomez says utility organizations may enter agreements with FmHA state directors to provide the weatherizing service with FmHA credit. FmHA will reimburse the utility for any payments made to contractors for completed jobs. The utilities will relay homeowners' installment payments back to FmHA.

In New Mexico, $15,600 adjusted annual family income is the moderate-income eligibility ceiling for FmHA rural housing credit. To determine the adjusted income, start with the gross salary or net business income and subtract an amount equal to five percent of the income plus $300 for each minor in the home.

Gomez said that although FmHA home improvement loans for weatherizing purposes will still be available directly from FmHA county offices, it may be more convenient to get the loans through utility systems.

Very low income families and senior citizens unable to afford payments on the utility weatherization loan should check with the local FmHA about one percent interest loan for essential home improvement.

TO CURB AUTO THEFT

Over the years there has been much more talk than action on the subject of anti-theft equipment for automobiles. It is gratifying that the Department of Transportation has decided to cut through with some firm requirements for the manufacturers.

The safeguard systems proposed are simple and inexpensive; some already are routinely installed in many cars. The federal agency is proposing such sensible things as ignition keys different from door and trunk keys, door-lock buttons that cannot readily be opened from outside with a coat hanger or piece of wire, hood latches releaseable only from inside, protected ignition wires, to discourage hotwiring, and so forth.

There is ample justification for prodding the industry into further anti-theft measures. Joan Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, reports that during 1976 about a million cars were stolen in the United States. She spoke of the high toll: an estimated 130 deaths and 5,000 disabling injuries caused by stolen cars, and a monetary cost to society of about $2.9 billion a year.

Devices to make car theft more difficult will only have that effect; they are no absolute panacea. The goal of substantially reducing the number of such thefts is a good one. However, the proposed requirements promise to be a major step toward that goal. — Alamogordo Daily News

RECYCLED POSTAGE

In Sen. Edward Zorinsky's office they reclaim uncancelled stamps and use them again, thus easing up on the franking privilege. This example of frugality in high places warms the cockles of a taxpayer's heart.

Unhappily, there is a catch. It seems that re-using a stamp, even an uncancelled stamp, is illegal. Presumably Zorinsky has been unaware of this, but now that the word is out he can scarcely go on recycling postage. Pity, we say. There may be good reason for the law, but it goes against the grain to be told one must throw away a perfectly good stamp the mailman has unwittingly delivered. — Alamogordo Daily News editorial

Every aspirant for the $30,000 a year post of lieutenant governor is trying to make political hay by telling the voters what legislation he'll introduce to right the wrongs plaguing the taxpayers. Big deal. Any citizen can do the same thing, if he can find a senator or representative to sponsor his bill. Indicating, beyond a doubt, each candidate believes Barnum was right. —CD

TASTE OF TURMOIL

Didja happen to drive on Sudderth Monday... if so, did you have occasion to try to enter the traffic flow from one of the access streets, or parking lots... It was hairy... scary... and a refresher course in things... like tourists... to come... tourists gawking at the sights and sites... stopping, without warning, to ogle, gape and gasp at our awe inspiring attractions.

Which brings up the problem of driving in traffic... the traffic that'll be with us through October's Aspencade... posing the problem of how to drive safely. And that's a problem of considerable magnitude... 'cause if you drive sanely... meaning carefully... you ain't gonna get from where you're at to where you're going... unless you restrict your driving to between the hours of 2 and 6 a.m.

This leaves us with two choices... driving defensively... or offensively.

Should you choose defensively, you gotta look ahead, behind and sidewise... and there's two sides to this sidewise... and chances are, though you won't make time, you won't have occasion to visit with your friendly insurance man... your favorite body shop repairman... which is the

That leaves offensively... which is the way most of us drive... 'cause, if'n you have to get from here to there... like now

... you ain't likely to keep your appointment, if'n you're bashful... 'cause most of us don't give the guy trying to enter the stream of traffic a fighting chance... which causes those of us trying to get moving, to sneak out in front of those of us who are moving... offering everyone concerned the opportunity to test the efficiency of their brakes... so often that anti-acid stomach preparations are almost a way of life here.

A possible solution would be to extend the same courtesies to other drivers you'd appreciate having extended to you... which means giving the other guy a break... which can lead to having the radiator of the guy behind you occupying the trunk space in your vehicle... leaving you with whiplash and the other guy with insurance problems.

What we have to remember is that a tourist winding up with a banged up car... maybe even spending a few days getting acquainted with our hospital... ain't a live prospect for return business... and it's not likely a tourist involved in a traffic accident is going to be any ambassador of good will about the glories of Ruidoso when he gets back home.

There isn't any immediate answer... outside of each of us doing our best to avoid fender benders... and... if'n the Memorial Day weekend traffic is any indication of traffic to come... becoming a safe driver ain't gonna be as easy as falling off a log... a practice that can result in broken necks.

Leaving us with the trite expression... traffic accidents don't happen, they're caused... and if'n you, I, them, those, us 'n they don't cause accidents... we won't have any this summer... and wouldn't that be something? A FAST PEEK AHEAD

It's a little difficult, peering into our crystal ball, to realize that the "season" is fast approaching... the season of activities we've awaited with, possibly, mixed emotions... but the season that insures Ruidoso will continue as one of the Land of Enchantment's biggest attractions.

In addition to the ponies... there's the Indian dances... the Arts and Crafts Show... rodeos... County Fair... Old Lincoln Days... golf, tennis and trap tournaments... why there's so much going on, it's almost cause for concern... concern about treating all of our paying guests with the ultimate in courtesy... 'cause that's what it's all about... keeping a smile on our faces in spite of the aches in our feet from keeping on our toes.

'Course there's the happy thought that this year's tourism'll be small potatoes to next year... to say nothing of 10 years from now... ad infinitum.

Now, it isn't necessary to start thinking big... bigger'n we can possibly imagine... right now... but it's necessary to start getting ready to think big... 'cause, business wise, we've yet to scratch the surface of our potential.

BRIEF BIT: The one dietary problem all of us should be worrying about is who in the world is bound and determined to cook our goose... CD

CAROL W. CAGLE
SANTA FE — There are likely to be some ripple effects in New Mexico from the vote next week in California over the controversial ballot proposal to limit increases in property taxes.

That's because there's still an unresolved political issue in this state on placing a ceiling on the rate of increase on property taxes.

In fact, officials of the State Department of Taxation and Revenue say current laws on the subject are actually in conflict with each other. That fact already has been causing problems for assessment officials in populous Bernalillo County, in particular — and to a certain extent in the other 31 counties as well.

Taxation Department officials say the original law on New Mexico books calls for property assessments to be adjusted with actual market value. Theoretically, with rising real estate and property values, the ad valorem tax bill should rise accordingly.

In reality, however, it sometimes does and it sometimes doesn't.

Some property-owners, especially if they've been in one home for many years, keep paying the same amount for years. But someone next door, state officials say, may pay more because they've just bought an existing home and had the more recent value placed on it.

One reason the assessments aren't kept up to date is that it's not a politically popular thing to do. Another is that manpower and computerized equipment isn't always available to keep up with thousands of tracts of often-changing properties.

The uneven tax-collecting effort, plus the amount of increases paid by some taxpayers, helped spur enactment of a second state law which tax officials say conflicts with the first.

This law, whose chief sponsor was Sen.

John Irick, R-Bernalillo, put a limitation on the increase in assessment per year.

The result has been some confusion — and anger among many property taxpayers. Affected by property tax collections are many levels of government: the state, counties, cities, school districts, and such entities as the Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District.

State officials say New Mexico is one of the lowest in the nation — 47th among 50 states by one measure — in the rate of property taxation. They say latest figures show a U.S. per capita average of $265 a year paid on property taxes while New Mexico's per capita average was $102.

But they believe the uncertainty caused by the conflicting laws needs to be resolved. Fred Muniz, the new cabinet-level secretary of the Department of Taxation and Revenue, says his agency will be working during the year with the interim committee of the Legislature known as the Property Tax Code Study Committee.

Rep. Adele Cinelli Hundley, D-Bernalillo, chairs the committee. Its vice chairman is Sen. Ted Montoya, D-Bernalillo-Sandoval. The other senators are Albuquerqueans Michael Aiarid, D, Les Houston, D, and Joe Mercer, R, and Bob Wood, a Portales Democrat.

Representatives are George Fetting, D-Otero, John Hays, D-Curry, Leo Watchman, D-McKinley, Dennis Pena, D-Bernalillo, and Stuart Hill, R-Bernalillo.

The Water Resources Division of the State Natural Resources Department has received an okay from a district court judge to adjudicate the water rights of some 2,500 water users up and down the Pecos Valley.

Their rights, according to division officials, will be put in context with some 2,800 water rights already settled — but none of the more than 5,000 total have been placed in legal context with each other.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — Do you know how much land in the United States is under federal ownership? Glen B., Vermont

Dear Glen — Not exactly, but it's in the vicinity of one third of the country, give or take a few million acres. This includes National Parks, monuments, forests, wildlife refuges, seashores, and recreation areas, to name a few.

There is considerably more federal land in the western states than in the East. This is largely because the West contains larger tracts which are unfavorable for business and residence.

Dear Wayne — I have heard of a fish-finder rig for fishing. It has to do with the way you tie your rig and sinker. How do you rig one and how does it work? Paul R., South Carolina

Dear Paul — To rig a fishfinder, first fasten a snap swivel to the sinker. Run the line through the eye of this swivel then tie a larger swivel to the end of the line. The line swivel must be large enough that it will not pull through the eye of the sinker swivel. To the line swivel tie a leader and hook. Leaders of three feet or so are often used with this rig.

These rigs are frequently used when bottom fishing in the surf. The sinker can remain stationary on the bottom, while by slacking the line, the current can be allowed to move the bait to a different area because the line through the sinker swivel eye is free running.

Dear Wayne — I have a whitetail head, taken last year with a 45 lb. bow, that I believe may be eligible for recognition by the Pope and Young Club. How do I go about entering it? J. Howe, West Virginia

Dear Mr. Howe — The Pope and Young Club has headquarters in Basset, Nebraska. Why not write them for scoring rules for your trophy. If you still believe it qualifies after using their rules, contact them again to arrange for an official measurement.

Dear Wayne — The new take-down bows would seem to be a boon to the traveling bowhunter. I have been considering buying one, but a friend says they are not as accurate as the one piece models. I say there should be little difference. Ernest L., Washington

Dear Ernest — The difference in accuracy between a good take-down and a one piece bow is negligible, if any. Some take-downs come apart at the handle, using a system of dowels and holes, while others have limbs which are removable. Either type should prove satisfactory for the hunter.

FAITH HELPS US APPRECIATE A FATHER'S WISDOM

Despite a variety of unflattering images depicting a father as either too stern or too spineless, the true picture is more likely that of a kindly, hard-working provider and protective shield for his family; the wise arbiter of right and wrong; the author of firm but loving discipline; and a tower of strength at all times. A father tries to conceal his anxieties while setting the example of character and courage for his children, and must provide the answer to any physical or moral crisis that may arise. The Bible is filled with passages in praise of a father's wisdom and guidance, and you should learn to honor and respect your father at the Church of your choice; not merely on special occasions, but every day of the year.

Student-built Jeep for sale on bids

A JEEP CJ 5 built by the Power Mechanics II class at Ruidoso High School is shown off by instructor Bob Elder. Closed bids on the Jeep will be accepted in the administrative offices until June 13.

June 13 is the deadline for submitting bids for the red and white Jeep CJ 5 built by the Power Mechanics II class at Ruidoso High School, Bob Elder announced.

When the bid is turned in to the administrative offices, 10 percent of the amount must be enclosed. A minimum bid of $2,800 has been set.

The Jeep offers a rebuilt 289 Ford V-8 engine and Jeep 3-speed transmission, new brakes, white spoke wheels with Goodyear Tracker AT tires, high and low range four wheel drive transfer case, Saginaw steering, Opel highback bucket seats, three inch roll bar and additional metal top.

Built as a class project, the Jeep must be sold to enable next year's class to purchase another project.

Wrong Prescription

"In most cases, I have no personal quarrel with the objectives of the many advocates who advance their causes . . . I want a clean environment as much as anyone, and I don't like the idea of our dependence on other nations for energy . . . But the divisive effect of overly rigid devotion to causes is a sure prescription for failure in our search for solutions to our many problems."

Special plates for POW's

Governor Jerry Apodaca presented the first Prisoner of War license plate to representatives of state POW organizations in a pre-Memorial Day ceremony, making New Mexico one of the first states in the country to issue such plates.

The brightly colored red, white, and blue license plate has the words Prisoner of War embossed across its face with a sequential number and area for a county designation sticker on the top of the plate.

Any person who was held as a Prisoner of War by an enemy of the United States during a period of armed conflict is eligible to receive the plates, including POW's who served in World War I, World War II, the Korean War or the Vietnam War. Motor Vehicle Division officials expect the plates to be ready for general distribution after July 1.

Also attending the presentation in the governor's office were Michael Pulice of Santa Fe, State Commander of the Bataan Veterans Organization; Mel Madero, of Albuquerque, National Commander of American ex-Prisoners of War; and Ruben Miera, Secretary of the Transportation Department.

State and POW officials estimate there are about 500 New Mexicans eligible to receive the new plate. Officials say that New Mexico has the largest contingent of Prisoners of War per capita of any state in the nation.

The license plates will be issued to POW's at no additional charge beyond the regular registration fee. The legislation enacting the new plates, which was introduced by Rep. Thomas Foy of Bayard, appropriates $1000 to initiate the program.

Foy is an ex-Prisoner of War who served at Bataan. Receiving plate number 001 will be Virgil O. McCollum of Albuquerque, who in 1948 was the first national commander of the Bataan Veterans Organization.

FIRST PRISONER OF WAR license plate was issued to Virgil O. McCollum, Albuquerque, past national commander of the Bataan Veterans Organization (holding plate) by Governor Jerry Apodaca in a pre-Memorial Day ceremony in the governor's office. Present for the occasion were, from the left, Michael Pulice, Santa Fe, state commander of the Bataan Veterans Organization; Ruben Miera, secretary of the Transportation Department; Governor Apodaca; McCollum and Mel Madero, Albuquerque, national commander of American ex-Prisoner of War. Plates will be available to POW's after July 1.

THE RODEO CLOWN stuck with the bull during this thrilling ride

THIS STEER didn't escape the header's loop, though the heeler proved luckless.

Some won . . . some lost at Mescalero rodeo

VICHOGSETT
Staff Writer

Three days of action-packed rodeoing thrilled spectators and participants alike over the Memorial Day weekend at Mescalero.

Cool mountain air, warm mountain sunshine and a near-new Mescalero rodeo arena formed a perfect setting for bronc riding, bull riding, roping and barrel racing.

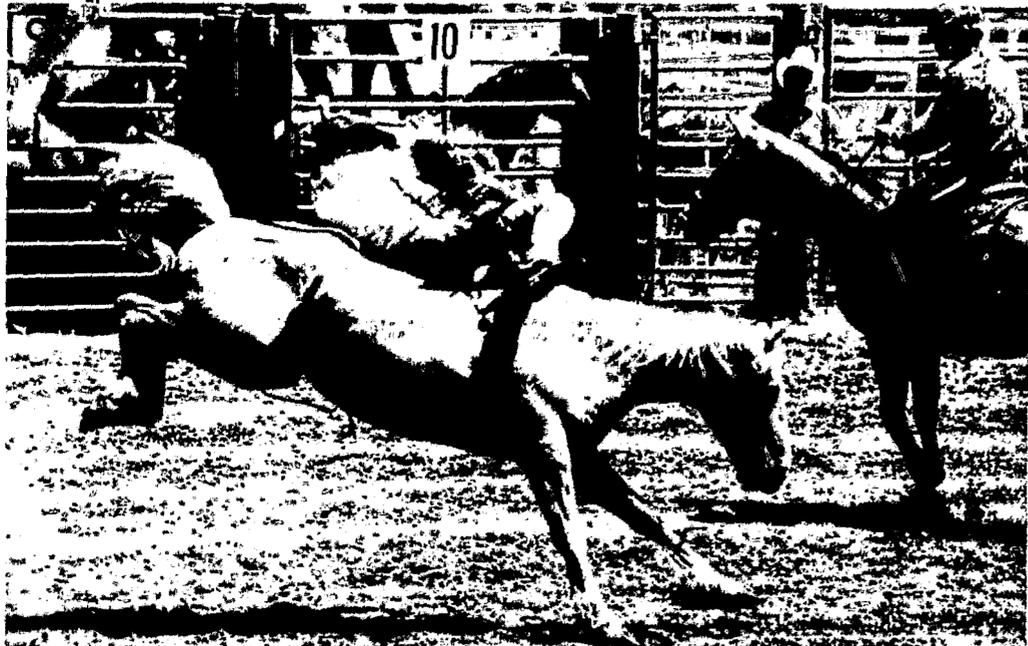

Good quality stock from Lubbock enhanced the show proving, in many instances, to be more than a match for regional contestants.

Prime Charolais and Brahma bulls managed to keep their rider's attention as the bulls bucked and twisted to free themselves of their unwanted burdens. Balance, skill and just plain guts proved to be the proper combination for the successful contestant in this event.

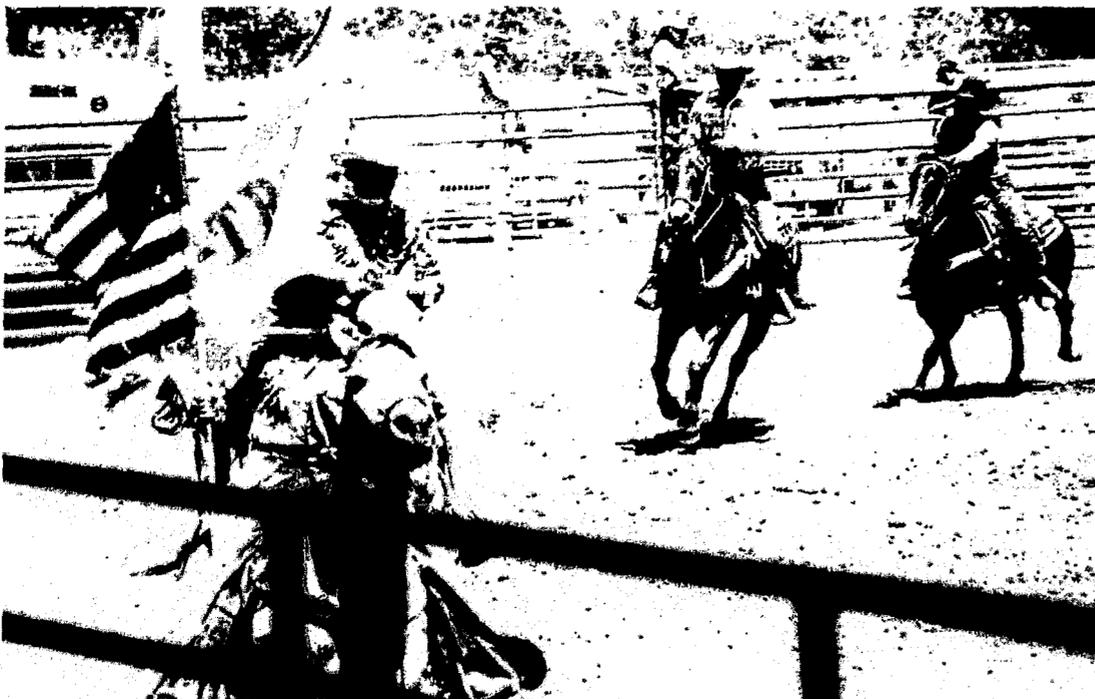

The ropers were out in force for two events: calf roping and steer head and heeling. In deference to safety, for the calves, a contestant was disqualified for unnecessarily jerking the young animals. In fact quite a lot of attention was paid to the safety of all the animals and the contestants. Mescalero Rodeo Club president and announcer Silas Cochise's benediction for the event was that all of God's creatures escape the rodeo unharmed, a blessing that appeared to be answered, aside from the usual scratches, and bruises, all a part of rodeoing.

The ladies had their moment as they guided their well trained mounts through the clover leaf of barrel racing, a contest of speed and training.

Bronc riding saw more than one hapless entrant eating dust and bidding farewell to the prize money before his ten second ride was up.

SCORE ONE for the horse in this contest between man and beast.

GRAND ENTRY riders kicked up a cloud of dust as they whirled their mounts round the Mescalero Apache tribal arena.

Jockey/Trainer of the week

Jockey Salustio Burgos notched a final victory in the 12th race on the Memorial Day program for his fifth win of the weekend to top Jockey-of-the-Week honors at Ruidoso Downs.

Burgos moved up to fourth place in the standings with a 9-2-5 record from 48 starts and a win percentage of 18.8.

His greatest triumph came aboard Freeman M. in Sunday's first division of the Memorial Day Handicap. Freeman M. got off as a 12-1 outsider, then came on strongly in the final stages of the 5 1/2-furlong test to win by close to two lengths.

Burgos also chalked up a second and three thirds.

Jockeys Jerry Burgess and John Cushing accounted for four wins each over the weekend. Burgess now stands in the fifth slot in the standings with an 8-6-3 tally from 59 starts and a win percentage of 13.6. Cushing has a 15.4 win percentage with a 6-6-6 record from 39 starts.

J. C. Wiley, who captured two victories and pushed his win total to 12, remains at the head of the standings.

Trainer J. Doyal Roberts sent out three victors over the weekend and took Trainer-of-the-Week honors by capturing the second division of the Memorial Day Handicap with The Drake.

Roberts moved up to fourth place in the overall standings with a 21.4 win percentage and a 6-9-5 record from 28 starts. Clifford Lambert, Fred Danley and William A. Thompson each had three victories to their credit as well.

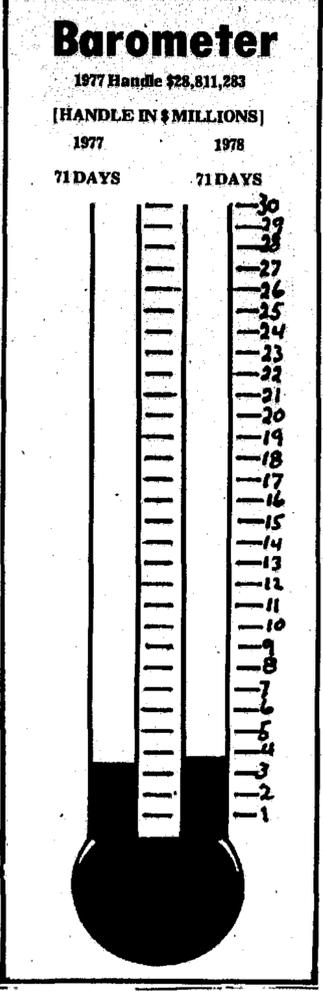

H. C. Werner Jr., holds the top spot in the trainer standings with 11 wins from 46 starts.

Racing resumes Friday for an abbreviated three-day weekend at the mountain track. Things get rolling Friday and Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, first post is set at 1 p.m.

Saturday's program highlights the Mesalero Apache Handicap at 6 1/2 furlongs for three-year-olds and older. Action culminates Sunday with the grand finale of the $499,000 Kansas Futurity, the first leg of the Quarter Horse Triple Crown for two-year-olds.

To our many friends in Ruidoso and to the students at Ruidoso High who have sent us so many kind expressions of sympathy while we were in Big Spring and since our return to El Paso — words are inadequate to convey our feelings. We will always remember with deep gratitude your kindness to us at the time of our deep sorrow in losing Sarah. Please always know how much we deeply appreciate all of you. May God bless each of you.

Mary Ann and Rowan Edwards, El Paso, Texas

AFTER TEN RACE DAYS the total handle is $3,867,930 for 126 races, with a daily average wagering of $386,793 and per race betting of $30,698. After 128 racing days in 1977 the handle was $3,439,143, daily average $343,914 and per race $26,868.

JACK WALLACE, who won the All-American Futurity aboard Savannah, Jr., in 1965, was back in action at Ruidoso Downs over the weekend after a retirement of several years and captured his first seasonal win Friday. The veteran jockey guided Foggy King to an easy seven-length score over maidens in the fourth race for a $11.20 return.

PRISSY GOLD DIGGER, winner of last year's rich Kansas Futurity, showed top form as she blazed to victory in Friday's 10th race. The Easy Jet filly got off to a flying start in the 400 yard allowance test against three-year-olds and older and breezed to a 2 3/4-length victory margin for a $5.20 return. Jerry Burgess was in the irons.

THE FASTEST TIME was set by Draconic's Loom in Saturday's sixth race as the snazzy colt led from wire to wire to defeat fellow two-year-olds by 5 1/2 lengths. He covered the distance in 46 1/5 seconds.

DAILY DOUBLE PLAYERS who like to pair their numbers made quite a profit over the weekend. Friday, the 8-8 combination of Miss Rich Hopes and Gala's Boy returned $97.20. Saturday's double paired the 2-2 combination of Boy Charge and On Lad for an $85.60 return. And the biggest payoff came Sunday when the 9-9 duo of Flight 8 Two (14-1) and Thirty-Five (6-1) each took a victory to return $431.20, the highest Daily Double return of the season.

ANNIHILATE 'EM AGIN, son of stakes winner Annihilate 'Em who took on such heavy foes in his career as Secretariat in the 1973 Marlboro Cup, got off to a slow start when he took his first career outing in Saturday's four furlong second race. But the colt made up plenty of ground under the guidance of jockey Salustio Burgos and flew down the stretch to miss the front-runners by only a length and capture third.

CREDIT REFERENCE made her Ruidoso debut in Sunday's sixth race and chalked up the fastest seasonal time for 870 yards. The stakes winning mare edged competitors by a nose in a time of 46.21 seconds.

FRIDAY'S BIG Q turned out to be a puzzle nobody solved. Not one ticket matched the winner, Benburnt (No. 10), with any other number. Benburnt got off at odds of 35-1. The resulting payoff went to six ticket holders who combined the runnerup horse, Lynn Ellen (No. 5) with any other number for a heady return of $2,075.60 each. Benburnt returned $79.50 on a $2 win ticket.

AILEGIANCE, a two-year-old colt trained by Marilyn Asmussen, missed victory by only a head in Sunday's four furlong second race. But the colt's record has been fraught with near misses. In five career starts, he's found the runnerup slot every time. He ran second in a trial for the Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park which qualified him for the consolation. Then he came back and ran second in the consolation.

THE MEMORIAL DAY HANDICAP, which was divided into two divisions Sunday, turned out to be pretty much a family affair. Trainer George H. Cospser Jr., sent his charge, Freeman M., to victory in the first division. Then his son-in-law, trainer J. Doyal Roberts, wound up in the winner's circle for the second division when The Drake snatched a neck victory.

GO GO GAY really poured on the steam in Monday's 400 yard sixth race and missed victory by a slight nose to grab second. The filly is a half-sister to Tiny's Gay who came close to snatching the Triple Crown for two-year-olds in 1974 when he triumphed in both the Kansas and Rainbow Futurities and took second in the All-American Futurity.

MR. DECK BOUND, a five-year-old gelding trained by H. C. Werner Jr., hadn't started since September when he took a 400 yard spin in Monday's eighth race. But the lapse didn't seem to bother him as he charged to a neck victory at 7-2 odds to beat Moon Dial Six and return $8.60. Moon Dial Six was voted Best New Mexico Bred Quarter Horse at the close of the Sunland Park spring meeting.

SECO MIA, winner of the recent Top Deck Stakes, was disqualified from all purse monies by order of the New Mexico State Racing Commission due to a positive drug test. Her trainer Tom Wiley has been suspended and barred from New Mexico racetracks. Seco Mia will be reinstated only upon written approval by a track veterinarian that she is capable of racing without medication.

TRAINER WILTON HOWELL was fined $25 for being late to the paddock for the ninth race May 21

Bob Ferguson, Democrat for Governor, why do you support Right-to-Work?

"New Mexico is now 45th in the nation in per capita income. That represents an improvement from when my opponent was Governor, but there is still much to be done.
Compared to the Right-to-Work states around us, who compete with us for clean, new industries, we are higher in unemployment, and substantially lower in new manufacturing jobs.
We know that the answers of the past have proven to be no answers at all. And I, for one, am willing and eager to search out new answers and new tools to help move New Mexico ahead.
One positive tool we can use to show new employers we're interested in them is Right-to-Work.
That's why I support it."

Bruce King, why do you so totally oppose Right-to-Work?

San Jose Mission loaded with history

The Spanish missions were frontier institutions that helped Spain spread its influence over two American continents. The chief function of the mission was to convert the natives, but these outposts on the frontier were much more than churches. Located an ocean away from Spain, the missions were virtually self-sufficient communities that included granaries, workshops and dwellings for Indian and soldier, all often surrounded by a fortified wall. Outside the compounds were farms and ranches.

Nowhere can there be seen a better example of the early Spanish mission in America than in San Antonio, Texas, where San Jose Mission, founded more than 250 years ago by Fray Antonio Margil de Jesus, continues to function as an active church.

In 1941, Congress designated Mission San Jose as a National Historic Site, although unlike most such sites, it is not administered by the National Park Service. NPS does serve in an advisory capacity but administration is a cooperative endeavor of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept., the Archdiocese of San Antonio, the San Antonio Conservation Society and Bexar County.

Actually San Jose is one of four missions within a few miles of each other that are open to the public and all can be toured by the public. For the four mission tour, the price of a ticket is $1 for adults, 25 cents for children. For those who have time to see only San Jose, the price is 50 cents and 25 cents.

The four missions — San Jose, Concepcion, San Juan and Espada — all have outstanding historical and architectural value. San Jose and Concepcion are among the finest examples of Mexican Baroque architecture in the United States.

Missions San Juan and Espada have simpler structural designs and are less ornate. Yet they have beautiful facades, each of which is topped by unusual double-tiered belfries.

There is a self-conducted tour trail through the San Jose complex, which contains some 25 points of interest. One of the most popular for visitors is Rosa's Window, considered to be one of the finest pieces of Spanish colonial ornamentation sculptured in this country.

Other attractions on the tour include an old grist mill with a turbine style horizontal water wheel and a winding stairway made of hand-hewn logs leading to the belfry and choir loft. Masses are held daily at 7 p.m. in the chapel, Saturday evening at 5:30 and Sunday at 9 and 10:30 a.m., noon and 5:30 p.m. in the church.

As fascinating as the missions is the Espada Ditch and Aqueduct which carries water from the San Antonio River downstream and over the river. Now an historic landmark, the aqueduct, about a mile north of Espada Mission, was a means of irrigating the mission farm.

There is a fifth mission in the city, San Antonio de Valero, that is also open to visitors. Most Americans know it by another name, The Alamo, and it is under the care of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

Visitors to San Antonio who hope to take a close look at the missions should plan to spend a full day.

If you are planning to visit a National Park Service area on your vacation, write the agency at P.O. Box 728, Room S-3, Santa Fe, NM. 87501. You'll be sent a free brochure that lists NPS areas within an easy drive of your home and charts the facilities and services available at each.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

It's fishing season for most people in northeastern New Mexico, and trout are the name of the game for many anglers.

There are basically five species of trout in New Mexico. They are rainbow, brown, brook, cutthroat and Gila. The most common in our northern streams are rainbow trout.

Originally, the rainbow trout was native to the waters on the western slope of the Rockies from Baja California to Alaska. It did not occur naturally in New Mexico, but was introduced to our state and now more than half the trout caught in New Mexico are rainbows.

Its name comes from the brilliant reddish "rainbow" streak found on the sides of this trout. The streak of color varies according to the season and the water in which rainbows live. The rainbow's back, tail and belly are speckled with numerous small black spots.

Rainbow spawn in the spring in New Mexico. The exact time depends on the altitude and water temperature.

Rainbows thrive in cool waters that are fast-flowing and well aerated. They do best in 50-55 degree waters and cannot tolerate waters warmer than 65-70 degrees. They feed on insects, crustaceans, worms, and smaller fishes.

Where there is access to a large body of fresh water, rainbows will travel down stream to lakes to grow. They may stay in the streams until they are about six to nine inches long. Then they run down into the big water where they put on weight. In the spring they return to the stream to spawn, or lay their eggs.

In states where there is access to salt water, these same fish will actually go into the sea to grow, and then return to their home stream to spawn. In these cases, the fish are referred to as steelheads.

Fortunately, the rainbow is easy to raise in hatcheries and is relatively easy to catch. More rainbow are raised and released in New Mexico than any other fish. Its fighting ability makes it popular with most New Mexican anglers.

Rainbow trout rise well to the fly, and large specimens are more likely to be taken on artificial flies than are large brown trout. Rainbows are likely to be good fighters and may make a number of jumps. It is caught not only with dry and wet flies but also by bait casting, trolling, spinning, and still-fishing.

According to some fishing experts, dry flies in early season, when water is high, colored, and cool, are a waste of time. Wet flies fished near the bottom and just off the main current may get you some fish. Insect larvae and nymphs used properly are better than either the dry or wet flies. However, the best early season lure for trout is the faithful worm or a small and lively minnow.

If the stream you select for your early season fishing is only a little higher than normal and not much colored, wet flies fished near bottom with a sinking line and leader should get some fish. For rainbows, try the colorful Coachman, Royal Coachman, and Grizzly King.

If you are using live bait, such as worms, fish close to the bottom in deep quiet water. Don't work your bait, but let it take a natural drift once you've cast the ball upstream.

Early in the season, trout in lakes and ponds may be in shallow water where it is warmer and there is a better chance of finding food. When the water temperature warms to about 55 degrees rainbows begin to feed. Again, use wet flies in sizes eight to 12, choosing patterns such as the Grizzly King, Coachman, Royal Coachman, Black Gnat, and Dark Cahill for rainbows. Also you might try bucktails and streamers such as the Gray Ghost, Edson Tiger, and Mickey Finn, particularly in trolling.

If after fishing at various depths, varying the speed of retrieves, and changing the fly patterns, you don't get a touch from a trout, move on and try another stretch of water. If you are cautious in your approach and have avoided noise or undue splashing in your casting, either there are not trout in that piece of water or else they are very unwilling.

Two more plums

Effective today, June 1, 1978, the Federal Home Loan Bank authorized savings associations to issue 8 year savings certificates at 8% interest compounded daily. The minimum deposit permitted is $1,000.

The other new certificate authorized for issuance today is a six month "money market" certificate with the interest rate guaranteed but based on the 182 day U. S. Treasury Bill Rate at the time of deposit plus 1/4% per annum. The minimum deposit permitted for this certificate is $10,000.

Regulation "Q", promulgated by the Federal Reserve Bank, continues to allow savings associations to pay a higher rate on savings than commercial banks including the two new issues described above.

In addition to insuring accounts up to $40,000 with the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, Pioneer Savings is pleased that its approach to business has allowed it to pay interest and dividends without interruption since 1901.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

The Rain Spirit Breaks The Drouth On Memorial Day Eve

This is being sent to you on Monday, May twenty nine. This morning began just like so many other days just at this time of year.

It seems that when I remember back through the years, in the many places I have lived, that the days leading up to Memorial Day are very dry and warm. And then the day before Memorial Day, the clouds gather in the morning, and there is a shower some time that day. Very often on Memorial day itself there will be rain some time in the day.

Today, the twenty-ninth, the clouds gathered all morning, and there was the smell of moisture in the air. In the tall dry grass, the crickets chirped, calling for rain. Robins, stationed in different places up and down the vale, sang their rain songs, answering each other back and forth, their notes resounding through the glen. The air was still, and warm; the cows lay in the shade of the river trees. The older calves were in the shade with their mothers, and the two very youngest were snuggled in the powder-dry sand soaking up the sunshine. It seems that the better the weather gets the better a young calf likes to lie in the sun.

With Mother Earth and all her creatures looking to the sky anxiously waiting for the clouds to keep their promise and bring a cooling drink of rain from the heavens upon the thirsty world, it seemed strange that these smallest calves were curled up right out in the sunniest spots they could find.

Later in the afternoon, I learned that the little calves knew very well what they were doing. They were storing up all the heat they could while there was still a chance. Toward the middle of the day, the floating clouds drifted mostly away, with just a few light ones passing overhead. The earth shimmered in the still air, and yet there was still a hint of moisture everywhere.

In mid afternoon the clouds gathered over Storm Mountain moving toward some more floating in from the North. Gentle thunder rolled, and the light pitter-patter of drops sounded on the roof of the house. How wonderful to lie in the little sun room and listen to the rain drops and inhale the cool air coming in the window from the clouds.

For an hour or so there was great lightning and thunder and just the lightest sprinkling of rain. During this light rain the robins and song sparrows kept up their singing saying,

"Don't quit. Don't quit. Keep it up. Keep it up."

This is the first time I can remember such a host of song birds singing through the rain.

Finally the rain stopped altogether, but the birds kept up their rain songs. Down by the river not a cow was in sight. Where had they gone?

The Calm Before The Storm

Wondering what happened to the rain, and watching the clouds fade in the west and north west. I happened to feel something cool coming out of the south east. There it was, a slow-moving cloud just coming over the hill where the sun first appears in the winter. First came a few very large drops of rain, and some scattered hail the size of a big rain drop. Then some large hail stones about the size of half a golf ball, came bouncing along the ground, and banging against the house and making a loud rap, splat, blam on the roof.

The cloud moved in, and down came the rain in torrents; and the ground was soon white with the hail. The road in front of the house became a stream bed for rain and hail.

The mountain fields, so dry just a moment ago, were swimming in rain water and the white hail.

The roof of the little sun room began to leak, and the wind from the storm cloud was cold just like winter. The heavy rain now made a cushion from the hail, so that it fell harmlessly on tree, field and roof.

You never saw a storm come in so suddenly; and just as quickly the rain and hail quit falling; and the cloud floated lightly away.

There is nothing quite like a sudden storm of rain and hail to lift your spirits after a hot summer day. The air is full of life, and your heart rejoices as you inhale the pure freshness.

The whole world is full of pinon and cedar essence brought out by the hail beating upon the branches and twigs.

Out comes the sun, and up from the ground comes a white smoke drifting all along the mountain fields — a mist rising from the melting hail.

It is evening now and the last rays of the sun cast a rose colored glow on the mountains to the southeast. There is not a trace of hail to be seen. The thirsty ground has drunk up all the hail and rain, and now the world is refreshed and contented. The robins and other song birds sing an evening song of thankfulness, and your heart gives thanks to God for the blessing of the rain.

It seemed most all the hail fell right here on the place. I hope the orchards got all rain and no hail.

So the little calves knew what they were doing getting warm out in the sun. And the mother cows took them to shelter in the lull before the storm.
