

BILL SHRECENGOST

Bill Shrecengost takes new post

Fire prevention specialist Bill Shrecengost will leave Smokey Bear Ranger District of Lincoln National Forest Saturday to take a position as a fire prevention officer with Tesuque Ranger District of Santa Fe National Forest.

Forest Service specialist with Smokey Bear District for four years, Shrecengost said, "I'm looking forward to Santa Fe, it'll be a challenge."

He felt his greatest accomplishment at the local district was fire prevention programs with kindergarten, first, second and third grades.

Radio spots and news releases are good, but the most effective way to prevent fires is to start with young people.

If you teach kids, they will in turn teach parents and adults.

Shrecengost felt the number of person caused fires had been reduced through education of children.

Originally from Roswell, he moved to Hondo in 1950 to farm. He joined the Forest Service in 1970, serving Smokey Bear District from 1974.

Shrecengost served in the National Guard for 33 years, has been in the New Mexico Mounted Patrol for 25 years, is commander of American Legion Post 79 in Ruidoso, and president of the Lincoln County Development Association.

He will move to Santa Fe and his wife, Betty, and daughter, Suzie, 17, will join him after her graduation from Captain High School.

Shrecengost and his wife have two other children, Bill Jr., 24, and Bert, 18, who is attending New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

A replacement for Shrecengost probably will be named in September or October.

Downs nixes dog collection bill

The Ruidoso Downs trustees Monday night voted to not pay an $1,175 July bill from the Ruidoso Animal Services for the collection of nuisance dogs when it was heard two dogs had been seen on the porch of one of the trustees the day after the trustee and verified the two dogs had been collected.

Discussion of the issue arose as the trustees sat in consideration of the village's current accounts payable. Under a contract the village has with Ruidoso Animal Services, the village reimburses the service for each dog collected, for care of an unclaimed animal for three days and for euthanasia and disposal expenses.

Trustee Lou Beavers moved to pay the bill. But before a vote could occur, mayor Norman Wheeler asked if anyone had seen an appendix to the warrant.

The trustees leafed through their work packets and took note of the $1,175 bill.

Beavers questioned how the village could verify collection of the animals.

Village clerk Virginia Spill said the animals were counted before a record was made for payment.

The only thing we have no way of verifying is if the animals have been disposed of," Spill said.

Trustee Ray Parnell agreed and said he had been called upon to verify collection of a number of dogs.

"Of course, I saw two of those dogs on my front porch the next day," Parnell said.

Wheeler chuckled and said, "Well, you can't really blame Mike Hernandez Jr., animal control officer. He's about to work himself out of a job. You know it's the old thing of what does a dog do that he does when he gets all the dogs rounded up."

Trustee Juanita Burke asked if the matter could be looked into before the bill was paid. Wheeler said yes and the board agreed to pay all the bills excluding the animal services bill.

The animal services bill was for the collection of 58 dogs and included care and feeding expenses of $3 per animal per day for three days maximum, secretarial fees and euthanasia and disposal fees. The bill also included fees for three unscheduled calls by the service, one to trap a cat in the Jockey Club, one for collection of a horse and one for a bound at High Country

Kennels.

Passage of a park ordinance regulating the use of the All American Park. The ordinance bans consumption of alcoholic beverages, animals and camping from the park, and limits vehicular access.

Passage of a resolution allowing a budget increase following a hike in village garbage collection rates.

Issuance of an occupational license for Seidel Repair Service.

Ruidoso's 1978 Arts and Crafts Show sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, opens Friday at Convention Center, Chaparral Motor Hotel, Ruidoso Downs, and continues through Sunday.

C-C crafts show Friday

Display hours will be:

July 28, 12 noon-10 p.m.

July 29, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

July 30, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

This year's show under a new C-C format features 107 booths under one roof.

Every effort show chairman John West said, was made to bring only the most skilled artists and craftsmen to Ruidoso this year.

In past shows some criticism has been made on the quality of the merchandise displayed by some exhibitors. Committee screening of applicants for this year's show, should have eliminated virtually every attempt to bring inferior products here.

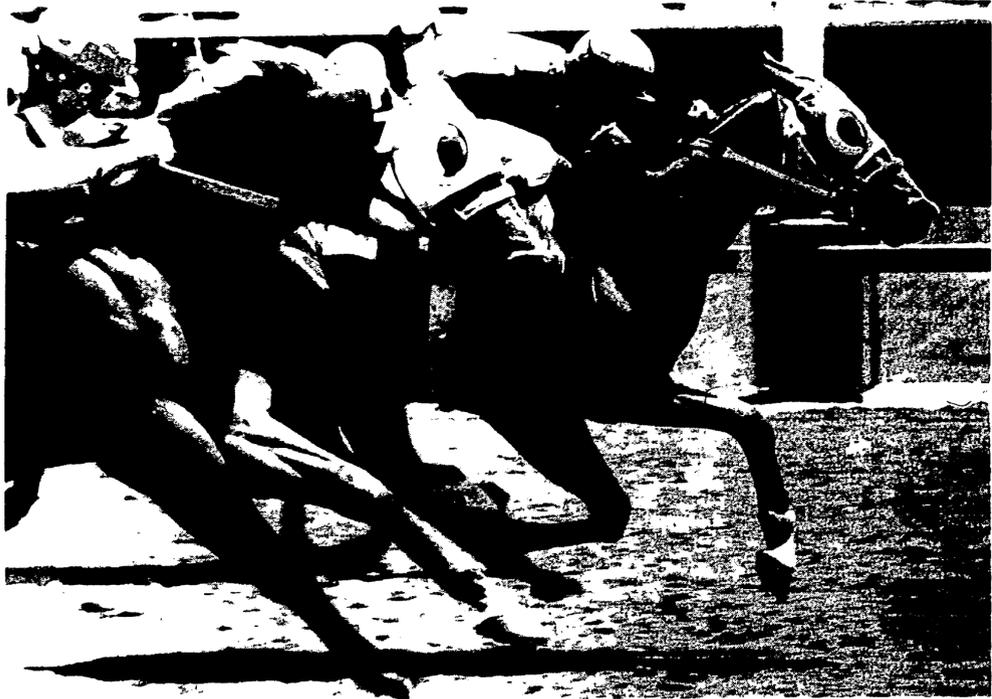

This is our first show under our new format and the C-C will be working to make each succeeding show superior in every way.

The floor diagram of booth layout, with the name of the exhibitor and product displayed, appears on page eight of the arts and crafts tabloid in this issue of The News.

Open house for artisans Saturday

The public is invited to meet the artists of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce Professional Crafts Show during an open house coffee at the Bear Claw Gallery, Saturday from 7:30 a.m.-9:30 a.m.

According to Gary and Mary Myers, Bear Claw Gallery owners, the coffee will be sponsored by fifteen local businesses and organizations including Artistic Beauty Salon, Denim Jims, Don's Pharmacy, First Christian Church, Gambles, Tony's Pizza House, Gulf Service Station-Gateway, High Country Insurance Agency, Bill Pippin Real Estate, Playland Nursery-Day Care, Stagecoach Motel, Security Bank of Ruidoso, Western Office Equipment and the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

CHASING RAINBOWS — Vespero, a gelding owned by Gordon and Juanita Crone of Lakin, Kansas, is a prime heavyweight in the finals of the $446,800 Rainbow Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs Sunday. In the action above, Vespero sweeps to a head win and sets the top qualifying time of 19.96 seconds for 400 yards. A win Sunday is worth $154,630. The Rainbow Futurity is the second leg of the Triple Crown for two year olds.

Sewage plant woes settled

The Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening took emergency action to clean the digester tanks at the Waste Water Treatment Plant, on the Rio Ruidoso, with the work to begin August 7.

The trustees under emergency procedures, authorized Tisdale's Sanitary Service, Incorporated, Central City, Colorado, to remove all accumulations of sand, debris and sewage from the digester tanks at a bid price of $17,022.

"It has been eight years since the tanks were cleaned," Blair Halladay, sewer superintendent, advised the trustees. "As soon as the tanks are cleaned, we can again handle the present flow of sewage into the treatment plant. Cleaning should not be necessary again for several years."

The material from the tanks will be hauled in 8,000 gallon tankers to a site approved by the Environmental Improvement Agency, (EIA) some 13 miles from Ruidoso. Brown Edwards, Ruidoso's EIA office, advised the trustees that he had inspected and approved the site earlier in the day.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT district policies, for village residents desiring streets, alleys, sidewalks, water, sanitary sewer and storm sewer projects, were submitted to the trustees by Fred Burns, Boyle Engineering, Albuquerque.

We requested these policies," Village manager Jim Hine said to The News Wednesday, "because of the requests we've had for new paving and other requests for services that can be supplied only through the creation of special assessment districts."

The trustees authorized village attorney Ron Harris to prepare a resolution that would enable Ruidoso residents to request the formation of special assessment districts for paving and/or other improvements.

The policies governing the formation of these districts appears on page two.

In other business, the trustees:

- Requested the Cemetery Board to meet to consider adjusting the cost of opening and closing graves at Forest Lawn Cemetery. The present cost is, Jack LaMay street superintendent said, $245.52 or $265.52 if a vault is used.
- Approved expenditures by the Ruidoso Tax Committee, to "advertise Ruidoso and area," of $700 per month for the next three months. All expenditures are to be submitted to the trustees for prior approval.
- Were advised by Jerry Campbell, Boyle Engineering, Ruidoso, that the pipe line work at Alto Treatment Plant is 95 percent complete and that work on the plant itself is 90 percent complete. Completion of the project, pending arrival of delayed parts, is expected in September or October.

- Authorized Campbell to prepare plans and specifications to call for bids on a new water pump to serve the treatment plants.
- Were advised by village manager Jim Hine that 29-year village employee LaVerne Walkup has tendered her resignation effective August 15.
- Environmental Improvement Agency officials, seeking greater village control over subdivision development in Ruidoso, were advised by mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., that the matter would be considered at the August 8 meeting of the trustees.

- Took no action on a request from Patricia Delhotal to assist in funding the proposed children's concert by the Roswell Symphony here October 30. The cost of the concert would be $3,000, Delhotal said.
- Authorized payment of $111 in membership dues to Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District.
- Heard Harris advise Eddie Collins, Pinecliff, that the village did not create a drainage problem on his property and that the village was not responsible to rectify the problem.
- Announced that a public hearing on a new ordinance increasing the water tap fee to $500, from the present $160, is set for the August 8 meeting.

Joint Use Board backs Daniel on sewer project

The Joint Use Board for the Regional Wastewater System project last night gave its confidence to Daniel Engineering, Alamogordo, and instructed the firm to proceed toward initiation of construction on the sewage treatment plant for Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs.

The action follows a July 10 meeting of the Ruidoso trustees during which Ruidoso mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. also a member of the Joint Use Board, recommended to the trustees that Daniel Engineering be terminated from its contract with the village and Boyle Engineering, Albuquerque, be retained to complete the project.

Davis charged that the firm had not dealt with all concerned agencies to avoid costly delays in beginning construction of the sewer plant.

Last night the Joint Use Board heard Quinton Daniel, Daniel Engineering, said that his firm is proceeding on schedule and will have the design features for the plant submitted to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) by the end of the federal fiscal year, September 30.

Ruidoso village attorney John Thompson said the Joint Use Board had a contract with the engineering firm.

"I don't think you're in any position to do so," terminate the contract," Thompson said. "Mr. Daniels is in a position to uphold the contract."

He added there had been some delays.

Ruidoso Downs mayor Norman Wheeler, also a Joint Use Board member, said most of the delays had been caused by EPA "red tape."

"You're not going to speed up the federal government," Wheeler said. "They work at one pace, slow."

Davis was not present at the meeting.

The board also:

- Ratified, by resolution, the state's open meetings law.
- Heard that Ruidoso Downs has its share of funds for the current phase of the project and Ruidoso does not.

Ski New Mexico advertising state

The president of Ski New Mexico Incorporated has released the corporation's advertising program and membership rate schedule for the 1978/79 New Mexico ski season.

Memberships in the corporation will follow a schedule running from $100 for individual and non-specified businesses to more than $500, one cent per skier day, $500 minimum, for a ski area.

Drew Judycki, Ski New Mexico president, said. Each listing will be represented in over 75,000 brochures mailed by the Department of Tourism.

The Department of Commerce and Industry has published a toll free number for ski conditions which is manned by a Ski New Mexico Incorporated representative. This individual must know where to stay, eat and rent skis, etcetera, at each ski area, he said.

Judycki indicated that individual member listings are needed by the organization.

He said the Department of Development (DOD) has agreed to match membership funds to Ski New Mexico on an at least two-to-one basis. He added that if the DOD's budget allows, the division will provide funds on a three-to-one basis as they did last season.

Judycki said funds from the membership will also be used to purchase advertising space in six regional and national magazines including Ski, Skiing, Glamour, Texas Monthly, Sunset and Southern Living.

Each ad will include a clip-out coupon inviting reader response. For an additional $75 Ski New Mexico members can receive a twice weekly mailing list of responses to the various ads. He said the mailing lists will include all information sent with the responses.

Also membership funds will go toward manning a Ski New Mexico booth at major trade and ski shows.

"New Mexico, as we all know, is a growing market," Judycki said. "We will have representatives from the ski industry at a trade mission the entire month of October where the brochure and listings will be distributed."

The membership cost schedule for the 1978/79 season is as follows:

- Airlines, $350.
- Banks, $300.
- Automotive rental agencies, $250.
- Bus lines, $250.
- Charter aircraft, $250.
- Restaurants, bars and hotels, $100.
- Ski shops and suppliers with rentals, $200 and
- Ski shops and suppliers without rentals, $100.

Three die in car collision

Three persons were killed in a head-on collision Sunday morning on Highway 70 six miles west of Ruidoso.

Victims were identified as Christopher R. Bray, 21, Tucson, Arizona, Ruthina Evans Randall, 33, and Marwin Randall, 9, both from Mesalero.

Two other persons in the Randall vehicle were injured.

New Mexico State Police officers said the Randall vehicle apparently swerved into Bray's lane, causing the collision.

Officers were unable to identify who was driving the Randall vehicle.

Services for Mrs. Randall and her son were held Wednesday at Saint Joseph's Mission with the Reverend George officiating. Rosary was said Tuesday.

Mrs. Randall's survivors include daughter Marinda Evans, Mesalero, brothers DeVerne Evans, Adrian Evans and Marwin Evans, Mesalero.

Mr. Bray's body was sent to Arizona.

Burglars grab coin collection

Burglars, in a weekend break in at Denny's Tire and Auto, Highway 70, Ruidoso, took a coin collection and some tires, owner Jon Denny reported to the Criminal Investigation Division (CID) of the Ruidoso Police Department early Monday morning.

A CID spokesman said Wednesday that Denny had stated the "coin collection has a face value of $6,000 and more like $25,000 when valued as a collection." Denny reported most of the coins were dollars and half dollars.

"We suspect entry was gained through a back door of a storage room," the CID spokesman said. "The office area was in disarray, the filing cabinet had been pried open and all drawers had been ransacked." The incident occurred sometime between 9 p.m., Saturday and the discovery of the theft at 8:15 a.m., Monday.

"As of Wednesday afternoon," the CID spokesman said to The News, "we have not received the total inventory of items reported missing."

The investigation is being continued by CID officers.

Special assessment district policies for Ruidoso outlined

Procedures relating to Special Assessment Districts must conform to State Statutes, specifically Sections 14-32-1 through 14-32-38, NMSA 1953. These statutes, while establishing basic criteria, allow municipalities considerable latitude in determining specific policies.

By State Law, improvement district assessments must:

1. Be levied against all property benefited by the improvements, including properties of charitable, religious, public and governmental agencies, except that of the U.S. Government. (14-32-1, NMSA)

2. Be no greater than the estimated benefit to the corresponding tracts of land. (14-32-14, NMSA)

3. Be levied on a front-foot, zone or other equitable basis. (14-32-4, NMSA)

4. Be enforced by liens on the assessed properties. (14-32-16, NMSA)

5. Be subject to public notice, public hearings, the right to court appeals, and other procedural requirements as detailed in the Statutes.

By State Law, improvement district assessments may:

1. Be levied for street, alley, sidewalk, water, sanitary sewer, and storm sewer projects including therein all related work such as excavation, grading, construction of intersections, etc. The assessed cost may also include fees for engineering, legal and administrative services directly related to said projects. (14-32-3, 14-32-4, 14-32-14, NMSA)

2. Be payable according to terms set by the municipal governing body, with interest not to exceed 8% per annum. (14-32-16, NMSA)

3. Be used by the municipality after liens are filed to guarantee unpaid assessments as security for the sale of negotiable coupon bonds or assignable certificates. (14-32-17, NMSA)

Within the limits imposed by the State Statutes, the Village of Ruidoso should use the following assessment policies. These policies have not been officially adopted.

1. When front-foot assessments are used, the property owner is assessed the cost of half the width of paving to be installed along his frontage, up to a half width of 28' (approximately 2 lanes). The Village Street Bond Fund pays for medians, turn bays, and arterial traffic lanes in excess of two in each direction.

2. If paving of arterial-type thickness is to be installed, the property owner is assessed the cost thereof up to a half width of 28 feet. The Village does not pay for extra thickness.

3. The property owner is assessed a share of the cost of paving the nearest intersection. The Village does not pay for intersections.

4. Curb, gutter and sidewalk, if not existing, are installed and the property owner is assessed the cost of these improvements.

5. No exemptions are generally given for corner lots or double frontage lots. Adjustments may be given for odd-shaped lots.

6. In computing benefits and assessments, no consideration is given to actual usage of properties, although some consideration may be given to zoning.

WATER AND SANITARY SEWER

1. Property owners are assessed the cost of a 6" water or 8" sewer line. The Village bond funds pay cost of excess size, if larger than 6" water or 8" sewer.

2. Properties with service available on one side of lot receive exemptions on other side. Fully developed properties receive full exemption on second side partially developed properties receive exemption proportionate to state of development; undeveloped properties receive exemption corresponding to 50-75 feet of frontage depending on zoning.

STORMSEWER

Storm sewer and drainage facilities are not assessed, although there is no prohibition against assessing such improvements.

GENERAL

1. Assessments are nearly always computed on a front-foot basis, although this is only one of several methods permitted by law.

2. Assessments are figured to include the cost of incidental work items: excavation and grading, water valves, fire hydrants, manholes, etc. Exemption: The Village should pay for the cost of removing existing improvements. Also included in the assessment charges are the engineering, legal and administrative costs normally encountered in the course of design, construction and assessment proceedings.

3. The Village, as a property owner, always pays the cost of improvements benefiting its own properties, e.g., that portion of a street abutting a Village park.

4. The Village share of the cost of improvements is paid out of Street, Water, Sanitary Sewer and Storm Sewer Bond Funds.

5. Individual assessments are payable over 10 years, but can be paid off at any time.

6. In determining the equity of a proposed assessment, the prime consideration should be whether the proposed benefit is commensurate to the proposed assessment.

VOLUNTEER HOSTS at South Fork Campground for three years, Bill and Laura Mae Riggs have responsibilities ranging from distributing information to chasing bears.

Two campground hosts find bear action exciting

BY MARY WORMLEY
Staff Writer

Campground hosts Bill and Laura Mae Riggs, Belen, decided they must enjoy summers at South Fork Campground because "we keep coming back."

In their third season at South Fork, the Riggs said Tuesday, "Every summer we stay a little longer. I guess we enjoy it."

The Riggs are volunteers who assist the Forest Service by "contacting people as they come into the campground to explain the rules and regulations, give general as well as lots of specific information such as where the fishing is good, location of facilities for dumping or where there's a grocery store or gas station." Jim Paxton, recreation forester, Smokey Bear Ranger District, said.

For their voluntary efforts, a federal act exempts campground hosts from fees and from the two week stay limit.

Bill said there were occasional problems with campers, but 99 percent of them were enjoyable people.

"We both like to talk to people," Laura Mae said. "Bill talks to everyone, whether they are seeking conversation or not."

And he remembers faces. When some of the campers return he recognizes them.

Some of them recognize us too and holler 'Hey Bill' as they drive in," Bill said.

"I guess I like people."

Bill said most campers cleaned up their areas and even cleaned up after other campers.

I give out pins to kids who help pick up pop tops from canned drinks. We had eight to 10 pounds last year," Bill said, adding the tops were turned in at a recycling center and the profits given to New Mexico Boys' Ranch.

"We've had people come here, who've traveled all over the western United States, who said this was one of the cleanest campgrounds they'd seen," he said, giving credit to the campers who come to South Fork for keeping the area clean.

HAVING A CAMPGROUND host adds to the security of the campground because someone is there all the time," Paxton said. "Although they have no law enforcement authority, they do have a radio and can contact the sheriff or Forest Service to report hot rodders, vandals or loud parties after hours," he said.

Bill has found the main problems to be "people parking on the grass or camping in a parking area and fires out of fireplaces."

I try to be reasonable and it's been fairly successful.

"People go camping to get away from regulations and they don't read. I explain the regulation and 99 percent of the time they comply with a request."

Bill and Laura Mae also have a variety of other responsibilities including chasing bears.

"We've had several bear incidents including one where a bear pushed a food cooler down the road until it opened and then made off with a ham."

We had another bear which was starting to get into the trash bins and a camper spotlighted him with a flashlight. The bear ducked down behind the bins and then popped up again when the camper turned the flashlight off," Bill said, adding the game of peek-a-bow continued until the bear gave up.

Bill also does a little maintenance work at the campground, and assists the recreation crew from the Forest Service.

I also pass out brochures and sell maps and if people come up to me and say 'Tell me something, I say 'Do you want me to tell the truth or tell a lie?'"

The Riggs have been hosts at South Fork campground since May 29 this summer and will return to Belen the first part of August.

"Who hot in Belen I hate to go," Laura Mae said.

Member of the Good Sam club and the International Trailer Club, they are typical snowbirds spending their summers in Ruidoso and winters in south Texas.

All the people that complain about Texans, I tell them to get even and go to Texas in the winter," Bill said.

A retired hoghead, Bill spent 46 years as a locomotive engineer and ran the last steam locomotive in the state for the Santa Fe System.

Bill, who turns 70 in October, said, "I'm not old, I've just been around a long time."

New Mexico package meeting held

Local representatives who will be selling New Mexico travel packages and attractions at the Discover America International Pow Wow met July 21 in Santa Fe to discuss the booth and booking arrangements. The Pow Wow to be held in Albuquerque September 9-13 is the international sales mart which is co-sponsored by Discover America Travel Council (DATC) and the United States Travel Service.

In order to sell the United States and New Mexico as a destination to the international travel packagers, tour operators, and travel agents, the suppliers conduct business sessions on a one-to-one basis in a concentrated series of appointments.

Attending the conference are 1500 delegates drawn from 65 countries on 6 continents, and include the sellers of U.S. tourism goods and services. With 20 million foreign visitors to the United States annually, this results-oriented, marketplace is an opportunity to create new wholesale business in particular areas.

There are 260 booths in the Albuquerque Convention Center to accommodate the sales personnel, and New Mexico will have 9 contiguous spaces. Plans for the Pow Wow comprise the sales meetings for three days, receptions at several locations, unity tours, a hot air balloon rally, El Paso steak fry and a New Orleans feast.

Also included in the activities, is Sunday night in Old Town which will provide a display of varied New Mexico atmospheres and events. This is also an opportunity for suppliers to meet informally with the tour producers to promote specific marketing areas.

The representatives from local areas attending the meeting were Diane Baker, North Central Travel Council, Don Bullis, Los Alamos Chamber of Commerce, Clovis Butterworth, Cumbres and Toltec Railroad, Dale Dawson, Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce, Bob Hodona, Inn of the Mountain Gods, Carol Jones, AAA Travel, Judy Leyba, Hilton Inn, Joyce Mills Farmington Convention Bureau, Bob Pool, Albuquerque Convention Bureau, David Santillanes, New Mexico

State Travel Director, Jim Thorpe, Bishop's Lodge, Ray Walker, Las Cruces Convention Tourist Bureau, Jack White, White's City, and Fran Heid, Ruidoso, representing Ski New Mexico.

Kenny Rogers headlining State Fair All-Star Rodeo

Kenny Rogers, currently one of the hottest names in the music business, has been booked to headline the opening night of the All-Star Rodeo at the 1978 New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque.

Rogers, who won a Grammy this year for his hit song "Lucille," will star at the Tingley Coliseum rodeo on Thursday night, September 14.

Life in the music business has been a roller coaster for Kenny.

"My life has been a series of plateaus," he says, "but I think that the key to success is slow, steady progress. I've been around a long time and I thought I knew all about the ups and downs, but 'Lucille' is the sweetest thing I've ever known."

"Lucille" is Rogers' tenth hit record. It was Number One of the country charts, in the Top 10 on the pop charts and Number One in five foreign countries.

But, making hits is nothing new to Kenny.

He had his first million-seller, "Crazy Feeling," when he was 19 and just breaking into the business in his native Houston.

After that cooled off, he fell into obscurity. But in 1966, he became a member of the New Christy Minstrels. A year later, he and three other members of the group broke away and formed The First Edition.

With the First Edition, Rogers had many hits including "Ruby," "But You Know I Love You," "Heed The Call," "Rueben James" and "Somethin's Burnin'."

After countless concerts all over the world and their own TV show, The First Edition folded in 1976.

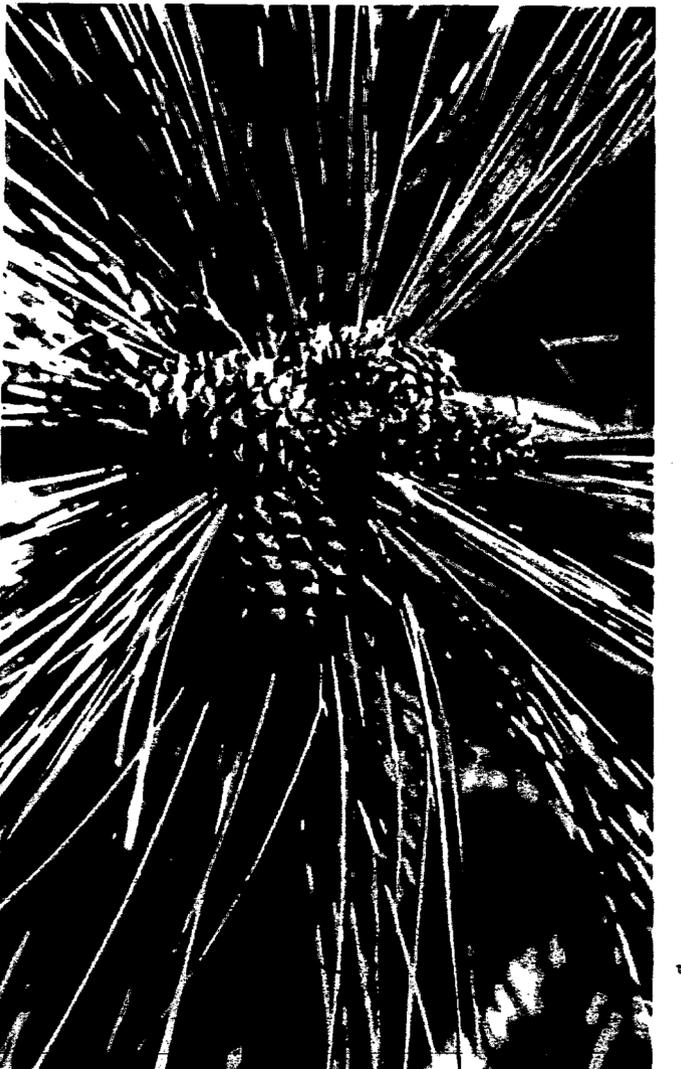

KENNY ROGERS

But, Rogers bounced back, signed on a soloist and made three LPs. Then came "Lucille" and the current high-riding success.

Rogers is an all-round entertainer — singer, guitarist and songwriter — and a popular favorite on TV variety and talk shows.

The 41st annual New Mexico State Fair — The Biggest Show In New Mexico — will be held in Albuquerque September 13 through 24, with pari-mutuel horse racing and quality horse shows staged for 17 days, starting Friday, September 8.

COUNTLESS PHOTOGRAPHIC opportunities present themselves with just a short walk through the tall pines of Ruidoso. Common pine needles and cones make a sunburst design of beauty. (Ruidoso News photo by Vic Hogsett.)

Don't throw free house plants out

You could spend a fortune on Lacy ferns, roaming vines and miniature palm trees. Or you could get them free from your own kitchen scraps, says Ricardo Gomez, Extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University.

Carrots produce graceful fern-like leaves. Cut a one-half inch section from the top of a carrot and plant it in moist sand with only the upper part exposed. Small leaves will soon appear and develop into an attractive fern-like plant.

Sweet potatoes produce vine type stems that are somewhat similar to philodendrons. You can produce these easily by planting a sweet potato root in a container of water with the top third ex-

small trellis

Pineapples can be handled somewhat like carrots. Cut off the top green leaves with about one inch of the solid fruit portion attached. Place in water with the green top exposed. When roots develop, transplant to a pot with soil and cover with a plastic bag for three weeks.

When your pineapple is removed from the plastic you will have a small, attractive cactus-like plant. Keep it well watered and in six to 12 months tiny pineapples should develop.

You can have small date palms from non-pasturized seeds. Be sure they are non-pasturized. This information will be on the labels of the package. Plant about three or four seeds in a four-inch pot. As your seedlings grow, transplant them into larger pots.

PASSIONS AND PREJUDICES by Leo Rosten

McGraw-Hill Book Co. 1978
Several years ago while researching a segment of the news media, I was introduced to Leo Rosten's "Washington Correspondents." Although it was first published in 1937, it was still twenty-five years later considered a classic in its field. It was the first careful study of the Washington Press Corps which to such a large degree shapes that mysterious goddess: Public Opinion.

At about the same time I was astonished to learn that Leo Rosten, under the pseudonym Leonard Q. Ross, had also written "The Education of Hyman Kaplan" - a bit of hilarious fiction. While Rosten was researching the Washington Press for his Ph.D. dissertation, he began writing the Kaplan stories in order to maintain an affair with a Model-A Ford. He assumed the pen name to keep the faculty from thinking he was being frivolous with his time.

Rosten has since been a favorite of mine. His latest, "Passions and Prejudices," is like spending several evenings with a friendly old philosopher, sharing a few bourbon, and listening to him express some strong thoughts on a number of topics. Rosten talks to us with humor and insight and we are challenged by his intellect and made wiser by his experiences. The extra ingredient is that Rosten is a gifted storyteller.

Rosten brings to the writing profession some impressive credentials. He studied at the London School of Economics and received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He was a senior staff member of the Rand Corporation, taught at Yale, and was a visiting professor of Political Science at the University of California at Berkeley.

In the late thirties he wrote a number of articles for the New Yorker under the lead "Reporter at Large," and his book "Captain Newman M.D." not only kept my daughter Kim up late making hysterical noises, but was also made into a successful movie.

"Passions and Prejudices" consists of twenty-six essays seemingly unrelated, except that they are all concerned with the human condition. Rosten admits that his favorite revelations of truth are found in parables, and so has included some of his favorites. The book also shows why it has been said of Rosten that "he has one of the most versatile minds around." He can discuss religion with Bertrand Russell, tell us how Spiro Agnew was chosen by Nixon, and then discuss art and reality.

Rosten has had a long love affair with the Press and in one chapter he shares with us some newspaper clips that have delighted him. One that seems particularly apropos to Ruidoso appeared in the Christian Science Monitor. Reporting on a western resort town, the Monitor wrote:

"This place is known as the preferred resort of those wanting solitude. People searching for solitude are in fact flocking here from all corners of the globe."

"Passions and Prejudices" should not be permitted long periods of solitude on the shelf of the Ruidoso Library.

Still A Dynamo At 75

Some people are so busy in retirement it's hard to tell they're not working anymore. Take Howard Reiche of Portland, Maine, for example, who was recently named "man of the year" by the Portland Kiwanis Club. At 75, Reiche is going in more directions than a one-man band.

A native of Portland, Reiche has been an educator for all of his working life. After graduation from the University of Maine, Reiche took a job teaching science at Portland High School in 1925. After teaching in a number of other cities, Reiche was named principal of Portland High in 1947, a job he kept until he retired in 1972.

"I could never stay out of education completely," Reiche told a writer from The National Council on the Aging.

That's one of the reasons he now counsels student teachers from the University of Maine who spend eight weeks teaching in Portland schools as part of their training.

Despite his love of teaching, Reiche is no shy, single-tracked scholar.

"I still ski every week during the winter," he said modestly. "I'm not as reckless as I used to be but I can still get down the mountain."

In reality, Reiche is still an expert, dedicated skier and was one of the founders of the Portland area's National Ski Patrol. He's no slouch in the water, either, having been a lifeguard and Red Cross water safety and first aid instructor.

If you call the Reiche home and Laura, his wife of 50 years answers the phone, you're likely to hear organ music in the background. If you do, it's Howard Reiche, playing what Mrs. Reiche refers to as "our morning worship service." Mr. Reiche will tell you that "I just like to get my fingers loosened up before I go to work."

During the 1920s Reiche, who also plays piano, had his own band. Today, he's much in demand to play for shurins at various institutions - requests which he gladly fulfills. He also plays in a piano quartet and is a member of the Sixty Plus Orchestra.

And one mustn't forget his activities on behalf of the Red Cross, the YMCA, service organizations, the Portland Public Library and his church. In his spare time Reiche pursues his interest in geology with the Coastal Maine Mineral Club and the Maine Mineralogical and Geological Association. Lately, he's been compiling information on early public schools in Portland.

Reiche's range of interests is enough to keep any two people - young or old - from getting bored or lazy. What does he attribute his seemingly boundless energy to?

He answers jokingly, as if embarrassed that anyone would find his activity-filled life unusual. "It must be the Yankee diet I've eaten all my life," he said. "I drink milk, eat beans on Saturday and eat a little Maine lobster."

Although he didn't say it, Howard Reiche has obviously been a dynamo all his life. To him, being busy isn't unusual at all. That's the way he'll always be.

IN DAYTONA BEACH, the Daytona Community Hospital, is extending until December 31 its experimental program designed to give financial assistance to older citizens by absorbing the current hospital deductible of $124 for Medicare Part A coverage.

"Our Senior Citizens Courtesy Program has been tremendously successful since its inception last February and has been of assistance to more than 500 patients," said hospital administrator Charles Duscha. The program originally was scheduled to end August 31.

Any person 65 or over qualifies for the program even if they are not eligible for Medicare benefits. The hospital subtracts up to $124 from that portion of the bill not covered by Medicare for qualified patients. This also applies to patients who have supplemental hospital insurance.

Hospital administrators interested in obtaining additional information about the program can write to: Charles Duscha, Daytona Community Hospital, 400 N. Clyde Morris Blvd., Daytona Beach, Fla. 32020.

Mistletoe threatening state's many conifers

A serious problem involving dwarf mistletoe is present in our forested areas, according to a member of the Soil Conservation Service, but it is not receiving the attention it deserves.

Ernie Hendricks said the long term effects of the tree parasite are slowly but surely killing many trees in forested areas.

He said dwarf mistletoe can severely weaken trees and make them susceptible to other insects and diseases. In many areas, he added, dwarf mistletoe has become so abundant as to warrant control measures, because forests heavily infested with the parasite do not produce top yields. He said the effects of infection on the host trees include premature death, reduced timber growth, poor seed production, poor form, low quality of wood products and increased susceptibility to attack by insects and disease.

Hendricks said, in a soil conservation service release, that mistletoe takes its name from the Greeks who recognized it as a problem as early as 305 A. D. He said the word literally means "tree thief."

According to a New Mexico Department of Agriculture prepared pamphlet, dwarf mistletoe attacks a full range of conifer trees. It varies in color from green to red green and can vary in size from an inconspicuous bud-like structure to shoots nearly a foot long.

Dwarf mistletoes are spread by explosive fruits which shoot seeds 20 to 30 feet into the surrounding area.

The pamphlet states that branches on mistletoe-infected trees may be pruned to reduce damage to the trees and to reduce further spread of the parasite. No chemical or biological controls are available for mistletoe control, according to the pamphlet.

Hendricks said anyone concerned about the deteriorating condition of their trees may contact the Soil Conservation Service or the New Mexico State Forestry.

Stained glass artisans find tasks satisfying

The stained glass produced by Stained Glass Studio, Ruidoso, is being used to adorn various residences and businesses in this area.

Owners Jerry and Janey Perry said their works, all from original designs, have been used for everything from shower enclosures to kitchen cabinets.

"(We) work closely with architects, contractors and interior decorators, although most of our work consists of commissions to individuals," Perry said.

In addition to producing both foil and lead came (channeled lead) panels, the two build such things as terrariums and sponsor classes in both stained glass techniques.

The Perrys say they have been involved in stained glass for about seven years, including four years as a hobby.

Perry said he started building stained glass panels for use in their own home. He was Director of Psychological Services for Dallas County's adult probation department in Texas, before he started producing stained glass professionally.

He got out of what he calls "the rat race" and along with his wife, moved to Ruidoso. "About the only thing I miss from Dallas is sailing," he said.

Mrs. Perry taught in the Job Corps program in Dallas before the couple decided to make the switch. She produces the designs the couple use.

Perry describes stained glass as a tangible endeavor. He said his work as a psychologist would sometimes take years before results became apparent.

"This is something that is very direct; very satisfying," he said.

The Perrys say their works include traditional, Victorian, contemporary, art nouveau, western, Indian, and free form designs.

SLAP YOUR OWN BRAND ON SOME RUIDOSO LAND

IN ALTO NORTH we have listed a double-wide mobile with several added rooms, some of which are not quite finished giving a buyer a chance to display talent with tools. Two lots are a part of this package — flat lots with good trees and soil that in the past has produced fantastic garden vegetables. A sale is being sought only because of the owner's ill health.

ON THE TOP of Ponderosa is a very small house with a view that makes you think you can step from the deck onto Sierra Blanca and be half way to the top. Two lots are a part of this package, on pavement and where the house sits the land is level. The house is small and so is the price.

Plump canned fruit need not be fattening

Thick, oozy syrup surrounding plump, ripe peaches may be some people's idea of the perfect canned fruit. "But sugar certainly isn't necessary or even always desirable for canning or freezing fruits or fruit juices," said Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food specialist at New Mexico State University.

Some people can or freeze fruit without sugar because they are on a "sugar-free" diet. Others just like the taste of natural fruit.

"However, since sugar helps preserve fruit's color and texture, don't expect your sugar-free products to have the same color or texture as sugar packed fruit," Mrs. Johnson said. "Since canning and freezing with or without sugar never improves the fruit's quality, start with the best and freshest fruit possible."

When canning fruits by the sugar-free method, use fully ripe, firm fruit. Prepare the fruit for canning in the normal way. Then add a little water and cook the fruit just until it is boiling hot.

Pack the hot fruit immediately into hot jars. If needed, add boiling water or unsweetened fruit juice to cover the fruit.

Adjust the caps and process the jars in a boiling water bath canner according to the time recommended for the fruit.

Most sugar-free freezing uses whole fruit. This works best with berries, figs, plums or rhubarb. Simply pack the fruit in plastic freezer bags, seal the top, label and freeze.

As an extra-bonus, you can create your own "loose pack" berries by freezing the fruit individually. To do this, place the fresh, raw berries on a cookie sheet in the freezer only until the berries are frozen on the outside. Then quickly pour them into containers. Seal and refreeze immediately.

When berries are frozen this way, you can simply pour out the amount you want. The rest remain frozen in the container.

Most fruit jams and jellies must have sugar to preserve the fruit. However, some recipes for frozen jams use sugar substitutes and gelatin. However, these must be kept frozen or refrigerated until they are used or they will spoil.

To make a low-calorie apple jelly from bottled juice, soften two tablespoons of gelatin in a quart of apple juice. Add two tablespoons of unsweetened lemon juice and bring the mixture to a rolling boil, dissolving the gelatin. Boil for one minute.

Remove the jelly from the heat and stir in two tablespoons of liquid sweetener and a few drops of food coloring. Pour the jelly into hot, sterilized jars and seal. Keep the jelly stored in the refrigerator or freezer. One tablespoon of this jelly has only about eight calories.

To make sugar-free jam, crush one quart of clean strawberries into a two quart saucepan. Stir in four teaspoons of liquid artificial sweetener, a few drops of food coloring, two ounces of powdered fruit pectin and one tablespoon of lemon juice.

Bring the mixture to a boil for one minute, then remove it from the heat. Continue stirring for two more minutes. Then pour the jam into freezer containers, cover and freeze.

After opening the jam, store it in the refrigerator. One tablespoon of this jam has only five calories.

BY CAROL W. CAGLE
SANTA FE—Those "automatic" cost-of-fuel increases in consumer utility bills are going to be reviewed by the State Public Service Commission; according to Commissioner Gary Blakeley.
 Blakeley, one of three commissioners, made his statement before a new interim committee of the State Legislature which is studying operations of the commission which has jurisdiction over electric and gas utilities.
 His was one of several statements by commissioners and staff presented to the legislative committee, which was created as a political response to rising public concern about utility bills.

In particular, opposition has arisen to the so-called "automatic" features of utility bills which allow utility companies to increase the amounts consumers must pay without going to the commission for approval.

Blakeley's testimony touched on both the "cost-of-fuel" clauses and the controversial "cost-of-service indexing" which is used only by Public Service Company of New Mexico (PNM).

Referring to the automatic fuel "pass-through" factors, Blakeley said:
 "We . . . use these pass-throughs on the assumption that fuel and gas costs are not controllable by utility management and that they increase more rapidly than other utility expenses . . . There is no profit involved. They were and are intended to minimize the frequency of formal rate cases."

He added, however, that "two things bother me about them now."

"First," he told the committee, "I'm no longer so sure that fuel and gas costs are increasing any more rapidly than are other costs, and second, we are getting requests for rate relief so fast and furiously that I'm not sure that the adjustment clauses are doing much to slow them down."

Blakeley's statement to the committee was the most forthright one made by commissioners in a public setting hinting that the "cost-of-fuel" clause may be on its way out.

Blakeley said the commission will soon begin an "investigative proceeding" to see whether the clauses should continue to be permitted.

He was less skeptical, however, of the "indexing" plan used by PNM. It doesn't apply to fuel purchases, but it does allow the big privately owned utility to make various purchases without prior commission approval and then add their expense to the rate base on which consumer bills are computed.

Blakeley noted that indexing is presently being reviewed by the commission, but added: "Our basic goal in this proceeding . . . is to attempt to make the system work."

Commissioner Eileen Grevey's statement to the committee referred to some reasons for the commission's review of both cost-of-fuel clauses and the indexing plan:

"The frequent increases in utility rates we are now experiencing have resulted in growing public distrust of the utility and increased public cynicism toward government. We, as you, have a growing need to be more responsive to the utility-related concerns of the ratepayers."

Senator Alex Martinez, D-Santa Fe, is chairman of the legislative committee. The panel plans to study the commission's operations this year and recommend needed legislative changes to the 1979 lawmaking session.

Clipped Comment

NOBODY

During the early days of television, a favorite skit of prime-time comedian involved a driver stopped by an officer who suspected him of imbibing.

In his defense, the driver insisted, "Nobody was driving, officer. We were all in the back seat."

The line is recalled by recent statements on the conflict in Zaire's Shaba province.

Accused by President Carter of encouraging the invasion of rebels from neighboring Angola, Cuba's President Fidel Castro insisted that he tried valiantly to bar the incursion when he was aware that it was planned.

Angolan President Agostinho Neto, too, disclaimed responsibility and pledged to disarm the rebels retreating to his country.

President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire dismissed as unfounded speculation that he had invited the attack with his own support of Angolan guerilla groups who took refuge in Zaire.

Mobutu may have been the most candid. He conceded that his army was cowardly.

His vow to retaliate against Angola by striking back with an elite military force, however, ranks with the fantasies of his adversaries.

Africa has enough troubles without the "let's you and him fight" mentality of its leaders and questionable friends. —Deming Headlight

GEORGE IS ALL WET

Senator George McGovern recently was quoted as saying that a taxpayer revolt, such as Proposition 13 in California, is "Un-American."

We contend that Americans objected to paying taxes before the Boston Tea Party was ever held and this objection has continued in varying degrees of emotion and desperation since the American Revolution. Objecting to taxes is as American as apple pie, hot dogs, etc.

When we are no longer able, or entitled, to launch taxpayer revolts we can forget about our democracy and George McGovern can forget about his senatorial seat because we no longer will have an elected senate but a bunch of appointed yes men.

It is statements such as this that cause us to reflect on the presidential election in which McGovern won but one state — Massachusetts — and failed to carry his own. How did he ever carry Massachusetts? —The Rio Grande Sun, Espanola

PORPOISE KILL

The declining porpoise kill related to tuna fishing did not come about by accident. Intensive scientific effort to improve fishing methods has been brought to bear as the result of agitation by conservationists. Another key element has been the American tuna industry's cooperation.

There is a reminder of this in word about the activities of the tuna vessel Queen Mary which has been contributed for one year by the industry for research on tuna-porpoise interaction. Scientists from the National Marine Fisheries Service Southwest Fisheries Center at La Jolla, California, aboard the vessel in the eastern tropical Pacific have been conducting a wide range of studies on porpoise impoundment gear. On other cruises marine biologists will focus on alternative fishing methods, studies of dolphin behavior, and so forth.

The incidental dolphin kill in tuna fishing is down sharply. The credit for that goes to government scientific work done with the tuna industry's help. —Alamogordo Daily News

editorial

Indian leader Vernon Bellecourt's threat Sunday in the nation's capital that the Indians "have an unquestionable right to armed struggle in the interests of their survival," could be viewed as seditious. It also introduces a newly dealt joker in the White Man/Indian stud poker game that should have the leaders of tribes benefitting from the largess of the white man taking a long look at their hole card.

HARDLY A HAS BEEN

There are those sports writers that have virtually insured themselves of a paycheck . . . the past three years . . . by trying to establish Jack Nicklaus as one of the great has-beens of the golfing world.

It'll be interesting to see how they react to the Golden Bear's tremendous victory in the British Open . . . followed by a most impressive win Sunday in the Philadelphia Golf Classic . . . picking up two championships in exactly seven days.

Jack's 38 . . . and establishing a win record that might last longer than the Babe's home run achievement. Considering the condition it's apparent that Jack keeps in . . . he should have several more opportunities to win the game's grand slam . . . as well as accumulate a few more green jackets . . . and claim a few more major titles.

The day will come when Jack will lay aside his clubs . . . secure in the knowledge that he'll have more golfing laurels than all the journalistic laurels earned by his detractors . . . who would probably do better picking on Johnny Miller . . . who'll prove than likely have them also eating crow.

SUCCINCTLY PUT

There might be a chance for error in guessing one Texan's politics . . . but there was no doubt about the feelings of this Texan regarding Our Jimmy . . . "cause prominently displayed on his bumper was this plithy sticker: "Eat Foreign Peanuts."

MORE DURN TRAFFIC

In case you haven't noticed . . . and if you haven't, you've been making like a hermit . . . there are lots of vehicles making use of Sudderth/Mechem drives . . . and seems to be about as many one day as another.

Some of the drivers are concerned with how the ponies are running . . . others are possibly just tourists . . . passing through, or lingering . . . chances are, few of them are skiers . . . unless they're looking ahead to winter.

In addition to the traffic problems these cars bring . . . they also bring people . . .

and most of them must bring money . . . 'cause the facilities for indigents can't be so attractive that the broke break their backs to get here. Giving rise to the thought that everyone standing a fat chance . . . even a slim one . . . of pocketing a buck from these people, should be backing every possible idea suggesting ways and means of getting more tourists to make Ruidoso the goal of their touring.

Which brings up the point that along about Mule-O-Rama time, there'll be two more traffic lights on Sudderth . . . which'll slow things down somewhat . . . and, at least at two intersections, will tend to keep the adventuresome . . . and short fused . . . driver from taking off across the street like a jack rabbit crossing a fox infested pasture to get to a carrot patch.

There's one thing we year around Ruidosians could do to help our tourists . . . that's watch out for them as they do their thing . . . besides, all the money you'll save from not having fender benders should be incentive enough.

Still . . . if'n you crave to have the respect of your fellow drivers . . . get yourself a thoroughly dented, debumped, defendered jalop . . . get out on Sudderth . . . drive as though you're the only car on the street . . . and take close notice . . . there won't be a single owner of any shiny new car that won't make it point of not arguing right of way with you. 'Course, you might wind up talking to the judge . . . but it could be the fun you'll have'll be worth the funds you'll have to come up with.

This summer's traffic though does lend credence to the need for a good bypass road . . . something to keep the vehicles that aren't about to stop, from having to . . . making it easier for those that want to. If'n you can twist any arms up at the State Highway Department . . . start twisting. And keep in mind that yesterday wasn't a moment too soon to begin . . . tomorrow, for sure.

BRIEF BIT: If it's any consolation to Jerry Ford, seems that Our Jimmy's less in demand as a candidate's campaign backer than he was . . . —CD—

Ruidoso Downs Hoofbeats

BY KAREN HALLORAN

HOPEFUL JOURNEY, a top money earning thoroughbred with a tendency to jet out of the gate at top speed, outdid herself Friday. The flashy filly, who chalked up her second win at the meeting against allowance company in the feature race, set such a burning pace she was never strongly challenged. She crossed the wire in an extremely impressive 1:05 3/5 seconds, a seasonal record for 5 1/2 furlongs. That misses the track record by only 2/5 of a second. Carlos Rivas was up.

JOCKEYS IN THE Jim Smith Memorial race Saturday contributed their total jock mounts of $440 to a trust fund for the late rider's son. A benefit dance at $5 a ticket was also held at the Chaparral Motor Inn Monday to beef up the fund.

THE SEASONAL RECORD for 400 yards resulted from the Zia Stakes Saturday as Madam President engineered a strong come-from-behind rush to cross the wire in 19.95 seconds. That's 1/10th of a second faster than Vespero's top qualifying time for the Rainbow Futurity.

APPRENTICE BOBBY ROLLER took his second victory at the meeting in Sunday's first race and did it in style. The young rider guided W. C. No Bo, a freshman colt who went off at 20-1, to a breezing wire-to-wire victory in a 5 1/2 furlong maiden test. Returns were $42, $14, and $9.40.

MAKE IT ME, a filly who'd shown tremendous potential at the current meet,

had to be put away after a rough spill in the 11th race Friday. The sophomore tried to jump the outside rail after throwing rider Gilbert Villescas early in the race and apparently broke her back. The filly had notched three victories plus a third in the Peter Hurd Handicap this season. Villescas was shaken up but uninjured.

AU VIN BECAME the "winningest" claimer at the Ruidoso meeting in Thursday's ninth race when he captured his fourth straight victory. The gelding, owned by Alma Miller of Anthony, came strongly from behind in the six furlong test to win by a head margin at 5-1 odds. Charles Mueller was in the irons.

BETTORS WHO CLAIM number seven as their lucky number had an easy time of it Friday when that post "finished" in the money seven times. The winning Daily Double combination paired Ciente (27-1) with Silver Bon Bon (6-1) for a huge return of $443.20. And both horses had the No. 7 post. Ciente's win return was $57.20, while Silver Bon Bon gave back $14.80. Greclan Jeannie, another No. 7, finished on top and returned $7, while Lucky Clay left the seven post, finished second and returned $23.20.

RIP RUSSELL, the well-known businessman who's also part owner of the Redman Club in Ruidoso Downs, is a familiar figure around the mountain track. And his namesake, a two-year-old gelding owned by Mack Yates of Ruidoso and trained by Bill Leach, made the fans sit up and take notice after his performance Thursday. The freshman, an 11-1 outsider, nabbed his maiden win by a near four length margin after leading the entire 5 1/2 furlongs. Gary Sumpter was up.

NO WINNING TICKETS turned up in the big Q Friday and the payoff had to be split. The 10-3 combination of Bay Signal (2-1) and Amber Cat (30-1) in the eighth race had to be matched with the 8-7 combination of Silver Vamp (10-1) and Lucky Clay (30-1) in the ninth. Eight with any number returned $326.80, while seven with any number returned $1,423.60.

TUNNEL OF LOVE, who looked outstanding early at the Ruidoso meet when he breezed to an easy 6 1/2 length maiden victory, took a successful trip to La Mesa over the weekend. The colt, the property of Marvin Warner of Cincinnati, Ohio, snatched the top qualifying berth for the rich Land of Enchantment Futurity.

STEWARDS' RULINGS: Apprentice Don Howard and jockey Walter Hodges each received a three day suspension for careless riding July 27-29. Hodges was astride Rare Mist in the first race July 21, when he was disqualified for interference and placed second. Howard's mount, Saucy Sammi, was disqualified for interference in the 8th race July 20. Trainer Gerald Rich was fined $25 for being late to the paddock for the second race July 18. Assistant trainer John Joseph was barred from the track grounds pending an appearance before the Board of Stewards for "financial obligation and pending charges by the Lincoln County Magistrate."

Jockey/Trainer of the week

Carlos Rivas, who captured the seasonal Jockey title last year at the Ruidoso oval, turned in an impressive performance over the weekend to claim the Jockey-of-the-Week title.

Rivas took 24 trips to the gate and fashioned them into seven wins, a second and five thirds to easily dominate the jockey competition.

His expertise was really in evidence aboard Hopeful Journey in Friday's feature race, when he guided the filly to a blazing wire-to-wire victory which set a seasonal record for 5 1/2 furlongs. The time was 1:05 3/5 seconds, only 2/5 seconds slower than the track record.

Rivas now holds down the 12th spot in the overall standings with a 13.9 win percentage from a 20-18-20 record with 144 starts.

Gary Sumpter maintained his commanding lead in the standings with a weekend tally of 3-5-2 from 30 trips to the post. All three of his victors paid substantial returns as well: Rip Russell ($23.60), Rushing Silver (8.20) and Mr. Top Hat ($25.80).

His record stands at 42-33-37 from 245 starts for a 17.1 win percentage.

Charles Mueller, who holds down the second spot in the standings, and Willie Lovell, who jumped from ninth to sixth on the overall chart, gave Rivas the most competition, turning in four wins each.

Carl White nabbed the biggest event of the weekend. Among his three wins was a victory aboard Miss Thermolark in the $102,910 World's Championship Classic Sunday for White's first stakes win at the meeting.

Whitney Nolen emerged as the Trainer-of-the-Week chalking up four wins and a third. That moved him to sixth in the overall standings for a 16-8-14 record from 96 starts and a win percentage of 16.7.

H. C. Werner Jr., continues to control the top spot with a 17.9 win percentage and a 31-27-18 record from 173 starts.

Turf action continues through Saturday with a 1:30 p.m. starting time. A $7,500-added purse in the First Lady Handicap Saturday is the reward for a 5 1/2-furlong battle among fillies and mares. The $24,502 Rainbow Futurity Consolation is slated on the same card.

Sunday, with first post set at 1 p.m., the grand finale of the Rainbow Futurity takes the spotlight. The 400 yard test, which will be regionally televised, lines up an elite crew of two-year-old quarter horses. The winner will take home a hefty sum of $154,630.

SEVEN BIG ONES — Carlos Rivas, last season's jockey champ at Ruidoso Downs, made a big move over the weekend. Rivas hit the winner's circle seven times and bagged Jockey-of-the-Week honors.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Edwin Northrup

Services were scheduled for Wednesday July 26 at 3:00 o'clock at the national cemetery in Santa Fe for Edwin Northrup, of Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, who was taken home by Our Lord on Sunday July twenty three.

Edwin was a frequent visitor to Ruidoso at the home of his brother-in-law, Floyd D. Haake. He was born in Nebraska over eighty years ago, and moved to New Mexico where he and his wife, the former Adalida Haake, have been residents of Truth or Consequences for a number of years.

Edwin was a very accomplished musician on the violin playing a great variety of music from old time fiddle tunes to popular songs of the day. I accompanied him many times on the banjo and guitar and it was delightful to see how he could reach back into his memory and play any song you could mention. For years he had a little orchestra in Truth or Consequences where he brought much happiness by playing for local dances and other occasions.

Local services were planned at Truth or Consequences for Tuesday July twenty-five, the day before the grave-side services in Santa Fe.

Edwin was a veteran of World War I. Besides his wife, Adalida, he is survived by their daughter, Mrs. Marian Lantz of Tucson, Arizona.

Our friend, Edwin Northrup will be kindly remembered by his many friends. And our hearts go out to these loved ones and friends, and we take comfort in knowing Edwin is safe and happy in Heaven where he has gone to meet loved ones and friends in our eternal home with Our Blessed Lord.

Birthday For Pappy Johnson

Sunday, July thirty will be the birthday of W. R. "Pappy" Johnson of Ruidoso Downs, who was born on this date in 1910 at Fort Chadbourne, Texas.

Every year Pappy's son and four daughters join Pappy and his wife's people in a family re-union at Sacramento. Kin Folks of Pappy's wife, the former Mildred Fore, will gather over the week end at Sacramento from California, Texas, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania.

This will be a combination re-union and birthday celebration for Pappy.

Pappy's son and four daughters and their children will make the trip from Texas. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are: Jack, Odessa; Mrs. Janice Anderson, Crane; Joann Mathis, Odessa; Joyce Webb, Houston; and Jeanette Riddle, Houston.

In looking back through the years, Pappy remembered his native home.

He spoke of the old house in which he was born on the farm at Fort Chadbourne. He says his uncle, Carl Kirkland was born in this house, then Pappy himself years later in the same room, and then years later his daughter Joann. This house was a landmark in the community until just a year or so ago. Mrs. Johnson has painted a picture of the old family home.

Recalling the early days Pappy remembers,

"We did not have a well at first. We got our water from a cistern. When the cistern went dry we hauled water on a sled in a barrel from the stock tank. One mule pulled the sled and we put a tub over the sled to keep the water from sloshing out. The water would be colored red from the red soil around the stock tank. So we would put prickley pear in the water to settle it."

We wish Pappy many happy returns of the day, and we know the family re-union will be long and happily remembered.

Rains Spreading Out Over Wider Mountain Areas

This is being sent to you in the afternoon of July twenty-four, and it is cloudy all around with sprinkling of rain. Up the river I hear thunder and see the streamers of rain, and I know it is raining steadily up around the mountain.

A good rain came yesterday at the foot of the mountain, and today the river was only slightly up and the water was clear. This is a good sign that the rain has soaked into the ground, all up through the hills and mountains.

Some folks came by from Texas last Sunday and said that it was raining steadily out at Tatum and all in the Cap Rock region.

So the rains are moving in to bring their welcome blessing to all the mountain country and the low lands all around. Let us remember to thank God for a green summer and all our other many blessings.

Range pest project begun

Range caterpillars, which have infested 18 million acres of prime rangeland and have cost ranchers $16 million since the 1960's, are the target of the nation's first rangeland pest management project. Designed to reduce the amount of pesticides used and the area treated by 25 percent, the project will reduce ranchers' insecticide costs from $1.50 an acre to 75 cents an acre.

The project was designed by Ellis Huddleston, head of New Mexico State University's Department of Entomology and Plant Pathology, and John Durkin, an NMSU Extension entomologist.

It has four goals—reduce the spread of range caterpillars; reduce the amount of pesticide used and the area treated by 25 percent; develop a data base for maximum suppression strategies; and encourage the use of natural and introduced biological controls.

According to Huddleston, "the project began during mid-March in Union County. It will take six years to test and expand the project throughout the entire infested area, including all or parts of 11 New Mexico counties, two Colorado counties, and one county in both Texas and Oklahoma."

Huddleston says the project's first stage began when "we sent 10 part-time scouts to virtually every section of land in Union county to count range caterpillar eggs. Obviously, the scouts didn't count each individual egg. Rather, they measured off a 100 yard transect and counted the eggs in that area."

Range caterpillar moths lay up to 150 eggs in one to one-fourth inch long clusters on stems of grass and weeds. The eggs are arranged in rows around the stem so they look like miniature corncocks.

Huddleston notes that, "the grayish white eggs are usually laid on snakeweed, sage or grass stems in the fall. The species overwinters in thick egg shells. Then in late May or early June, when the spring rains come and the humidity rises, they hatch."

"Range caterpillars are so perfectly synchronized with their environment that within a small area and even within a single egg cluster, there are sometimes two or three distinct hatches," Huddleston says.

"While some of the hatch is due to individual variation, we also know that early summer rains provide the moisture needed for hatch," Huddleston adds. "The timing of rains, coupled with the water holding capacity of soil, are thought to be the prime regulators of the size and amount of a range caterpillar outbreak."

After hatching, caterpillar worms are ravenous feeders. During this stage as many as 300 worms may congregate per square yard and extend from one to several miles in a slowly moving band called a windrow. As the windrow moves, the worms eat all green grass in their paths.

At about this time, the scouts return to each ranch to count the worms. "We combine the egg and larvae counts and calculate how many caterpillars will hatch and live to do enough damage to warrant the expense of spraying," Huddleston says.

The egg and worm counts also tell entomologists exactly which sections of land to spray. The costs of spraying is shared equally by federal and state governments and individual ranchers.

While this field work is going on, research entomologists are developing and evaluating techniques to chemically and biologically control the range caterpillars.

"New chemicals are first screened against laboratory grown larvae," Huddleston says. "Those chemicals showing promise are then evaluated in small plot field tests. Again the most promising chemicals are tested in aerial application tests."

Scientists are also monitoring range caterpillar populations throughout infested areas for active biological control agents, including parasites, predators, and microbial pathogens. Agents showing promise will be colonized and evaluated in NMSU laboratories.

One such biological control agent is a one-fourth inch long wasp which deposits its eggs in range caterpillar pupae. When the wasp eggs hatch, they eat the range caterpillar, chew their way out of the cocoon and fly away. The wasps are not dangerous to either people or the environment.

Huddleston concluded by saying that four range caterpillars eat as much per square yard as one steer. If the rangeland pest management program is successful, ranchers and entomologist have a program to dramatically reduce the population and spread of range caterpillars.

Follow these tips for better room cooling

It used to be that as long as a room air conditioner did its job of blowing out cool air, most consumers paid little attention to it.

However, with increasing electrical costs, it really pays to spend some time helping that room air conditioner do its job as efficiently as possible, says Charles Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer for New Mexico State University.

To help you get the most from a room air conditioner, be sure that the air flow of the unit is not blocked by drapes or furniture. Air flow on the outside is important too, so check that shrubs or bushes are kept trimmed and away from the unit.

Keep the air filter clean. Take it out and clean it about once a month. Its job is to screen out larger particles and airborne dust, dirt and pollen, so it should be periodically vacuumed or washed so it can perform its job efficiently.

Some brands of air conditioners need annual fan motor oiling and drain tube cleaning. If you're not certain about the instructions for your room air conditioner, check the owner's manual to see what is recommended.

Take steps to keep hot air outside and cool air inside. This can be done by weather sealing around the air conditioner, using blinds or awnings on windows in direct sunlight, or closing drapes on windows without air conditioners. Close fireplace flues and seal heating ducts so cold air will not flow thru open registers and be lost.

A good investment for the working family is an automatic timer which will turn the air conditioner off in the morning and back on late in the afternoon so the house will be comfortable when the family returns from work.

HOPEFUL JOURNEY, a top money earning thoroughbred with a tendency to jet out of the gate at top speed, outdid herself Friday. The flashy filly, who chalked up her second win at the meeting against allowance company in the feature race, set such a burning pace she was never strongly challenged. She crossed the wire in an extremely impressive 1:05 3/5 seconds, a seasonal record for 5 1/2 furlongs. That misses the track record by only 2/5 of a second. Carlos Rivas was up.

JOCKEYS IN THE Jim Smith Memorial race Saturday contributed their total jock mounts of $440 to a trust fund for the late rider's son. A benefit dance at $5 a ticket was also held at the Chaparral Motor Inn Monday to beef up the fund.

THE SEASONAL RECORD for 400 yards resulted from the Zia Stakes Saturday as Madam President engineered a strong come-from-behind rush to cross the wire in 19.95 seconds. That's 1/10th of a second faster than Vespero's top qualifying time for the Rainbow Futurity.

APPRENTICE BOBBY ROLLER took his second victory at the meeting in Sunday's first race and did it in style. The young rider guided W. C. No Bo, a freshman colt who went off at 20-1, to a breezing wire-to-wire victory in a 5 1/2 furlong maiden test. Returns were $42, $14, and $9.40.

MAKE IT ME, a filly who'd shown tremendous potential at the current meet, had to be put away after a rough spill in the 11th race Friday. The sophomore tried to jump the outside rail after throwing rider Gilbert Villescas early in the race and apparently broke her back. The filly had notched three victories plus a third in the Peter Hurd Handicap this season. Villescas was shaken up but uninjured.

AU VIN BECAME the "winningest" claimer at the Ruidoso meeting in Thursday's ninth race when he captured his fourth straight victory. The gelding, owned by Alma Miller of Anthony, came strongly from behind in the six furlong test to win by a head margin at 5-1 odds. Charles Mueller was in the irons.

BETTORS WHO CLAIM number seven as their lucky number had an easy time of it Friday when that post "finished" in the money seven times. The winning Daily Double combination paired Ciente (2-1) with Silver Bon Bon (6-1) for a huge return of $443.20. And both horses had the No. 7 post. Ciente's win return was $57.20, while Silver Bon Bon gave back $14.80. Grecian Jeannie, another No. 7, finished on top and returned $7, while Lucky Clay left the seven post, finished second and returned $23.20.

RIP RUSSELL, the well-known businessman who's also part owner of the Redman Club in Ruidoso Downs, is a familiar figure around the mountain track. And his namesake, a two-year-old gelding owned by Mack Yates of Ruidoso and trained by Bill Leach, made the fans sit up and take notice after his performance Thursday. The freshman, an 11-1 outsider, nabbed his maiden win by a near four length margin after leading the entire 5 1/2 furlongs. Gary Sumpter was up.

NO WINNING TICKETS turned up in the big Q Friday and the payoff had to be split. The 10-3 combination of Bay Signal (2-1) and Amber Cat (30-1) in the eighth race had to be matched with the 8-7 combination of Silver Vamp (10-1) and Lucky Clay (30-1) in the ninth. Eight with any number returned $326.80, while seven with any number returned $1,423.60.

TUNNEL OF LOVE, who looked outstanding early at the Ruidoso meet when he breezed to an easy 6 1/2 length maiden victory, took a successful trip to La Mesa over the weekend. The colt, the property of Marvin Warner of Cincinnati, Ohio, snatched the top qualifying berth for the rich Land of Enchantment Futurity.

STEWARDS' RULINGS: Apprentice Don Howard and jockey Walter Hodges each received a three day suspension for careless riding July 27-29. Hodges was astride Rare Mist in the first race July 21, when he was disqualified for interference and placed second. Howard's mount, Saucy Sammi, was disqualified for interference in the 8th race July 20. Trainer Gerald Rich was fined $25 for being late to the paddock for the second race July 18. Assistant trainer John Joseph was barred from the track grounds pending an appearance before the Board of Stewards for "financial obligation and pending charges by the Lincoln County Magistrate."

Jockey/Trainer of the week

Carlos Rivas, who captured the seasonal jockey title last year at the Ruidoso oval, turned in an impressive performance over the weekend to claim the Jockey-of-the-Week title.

Rivas now holds down the 12th spot in the overall standings with a 13.9 win percentage from a 20-18-20 record with 144 starts.

Gary Sumpter maintained his commanding lead in the standings with a weekend tally of 3-5-2 from 30 trips to the post. All three of his victors paid substantial returns as well: Rip Russell ($23.60), Rushing Silver (8.20) and Mr. Top Hat ($25.80).

His record stands at 42-33-37 from 245 starts for a 17.1 win percentage.

Charles Mueller, who holds down the second spot in the standings, and Willie Lovell, who jumped from ninth to sixth on the overall chart, gave Rivas the most competition, turning in four wins each.

Carl White nabbed the biggest event of the weekend. Among his three wins was a victory aboard Miss Thermolark in the $102,910 World's Championship Classic Sunday for White's first stakes win at the meeting.

Whitey Nolen emerged as the Trainer-of-

H. C. Werner Jr., continues to control the top spot with a 17.9 win percentage and a 31-27-18 record from 173 starts.

Turf action continues through Saturday with a 1:30 p.m. starting time. A $7,500-added purse in the First Lady Handicap Saturday is the reward for a 5 1/2-furlong battle among fillies and mares. The $64,502 Rainbow Futurity Consolation is slated on the same card.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Edwin Northrup

Services were scheduled for Wednesday July 26 at 3:00 o'clock at the national cemetery in Santa Fe for Edwin Northrup, of Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, who was called home by Our Lord on Sunday July twenty three.

Edwin was a frequent visitor to Ruidoso at the home of his brother-in-law, Floyd D. Haake. He was born in Nebraska over eighty years ago, and moved to New Mexico where he and his wife, the former Adalida Haake, have been residents of Truth or Consequences for a number of years.

Edwin was a very accomplished musician on the violin playing a great variety of music from old time fiddle tunes to popular songs of the day. I accompanied him many times on the banjo and guitar and it was delightful to see how he could reach back into his memory and play any song you could mention. For years he had a little orchestra in Truth or Consequences where he brought much happiness by playing for local dances and other occasions.

Local services were planned at Truth or Consequences for Tuesday July twenty-five, the day before the grave-side services in Santa Fe.

Edwin was a veteran of World War I. Besides his wife, Adalida, he is survived by their daughter, Mrs. Marian Lantz of Tucson, Arizona.

Our friend, Edwin Northrup will be kindly remembered by his many friends. And our hearts go out to these loved ones and friends, and we take comfort in knowing Edwin is safe and happy in Heaven where he has gone to meet loved ones and friends in our eternal home with Our Blessed Lord.

Birthday For Pappy Johnson

Sunday, July thirty will be the birthday of W. R. "Pappy" Johnson of Ruidoso Downs, who was born on this date in 1910 at Fort Chadbourne, Texas.

Every year Pappy's son and four daughters join Pappy and his wife's people in a family re-union at Sacramento. Kin Folks of Pappy's wife, the former Mildred Fore, will gather over the week end at Sacramento from California, Texas, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania.

This will be a combination re-union and birthday celebration for Pappy.

Pappy's son and four daughters and their children will make the trip from Texas. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are: Jack, Odessa; Mrs. Janice Anderson, Crane; Joann Mathis, Odessa; Joyce Webb, Houston; and Jeanette Riddle, Houston.

In looking back through the years, Pappy remembered his native home.

He spoke of the old house in which he was born on the farm at Fort Chadbourne. He says his uncle, Carl Kirkland was born in this house, then Pappy himself years later in the same room, and then years later his daughter Joann. This house was a landmark in the community until just a year or so ago. Mrs. Johnson has painted a picture of the old family home.

Recalling—the early days—Pappy remembers.

"We did not have a well at first. We got our water from a cistern. When the cistern went dry we hauled water on a sled in a barrel from the stock tank. One mule pulled the sled and we put a tub over the sled to keep the water from sloshing out. The water would be colored red from the red soil around the stock tank. So we would put prickley pear in the water to settle it."

We wish Pappy many happy returns of the day, and we know the family re-union will be long and happily remembered.

Rains Spreading Out Over Wider Mountain Areas

This is being sent to you in the afternoon of July twenty-four, and it is cloudy all around with sprinkling of rain. Up the river I hear thunder and see the streamers of rain, and I know it is raining steadily up around the mountain.

A good rain came yesterday at the foot of the mountain, and today the river was only slightly up and the water was clear. This is a good sign that the rain has soaked into the ground, all up through the hills and mountains.

Some folks came by from Texas last Sunday and said that it was raining steadily out at Tatum and all in the Cap Rock region.

So the rains are moving in to bring their welcome blessing to all the mountain country and the low lands all around. Let us remember to thank God for a green summer and all our other many blessings.

Range pest project begun

Range caterpillars, which have infested 18 million acres of prime rangeland and have cost ranchers $16 million since the 1960's, are the target of the nation's first rangeland pest management project. Designed to reduce the amount of pesticides used and the area treated by 25 percent, the project will reduce ranchers' insecticide costs from $1.50 an acre to 75 cents an acre.

The project was designed by Ellis Huddleston, head of New Mexico State University's Department of Entomology and Plant Pathology, and John Durkin, an NMSU Extension entomologist.

It has four goals—reduce the spread of range caterpillars; reduce the amount of pesticide used and the area treated by 25 percent; develop a data base for maximum suppression strategies; and encourage the use of natural and introduced biological controls.

According to Huddleston, "the project began during mid-March in Union County."

It will take six years to test and expand the project throughout the entire infested area, including all or parts of 11 New Mexico counties, two Colorado counties, and one county in both Texas and Oklahoma.

Huddleston says the project's first stage began when "we sent 10 part-time scouts to virtually every section of land in Union county to count range caterpillar eggs. Obviously, the scouts didn't count each individual egg. Rather, they measured off a 100 yard transect and counted the eggs in that area."

Range caterpillar moths lay up to 150 eggs in one to one-fourth inch long clusters on stems of grass and weeds. The eggs are arranged in rows around the stem so they look like miniature corn cobs.

Huddleston notes that "the grayish white eggs are usually laid on snakeweed, sage or grass stems in the fall. The species overwinters in thick egg shells. Then in late May or early June, when the spring rains come and the humidity rises, they hatch."

"Range caterpillars are so perfectly synchronized with their environment that within a small area and even within a single egg cluster, there are sometimes two or three distinct hatches," Huddleston says.

"While some of the hatch is due to individual variation, we also know that early summer rains provide the moisture needed for hatch," Huddleston adds. "The timing of rains, coupled with the water holding capacity of soil, are thought to be the prime regulators of the size and amount of a range caterpillar outbreak."

After hatching, caterpillar worms are voracious feeders. During this stage as many as 300 worms may congregate per square yard and extend from one to several miles in a slowly moving band called a windrow. As the windrow moves, the worms eat all green grass in their paths.

At about this time, the scouts return to each ranch to count the worms. "We combine the egg and larvae counts and calculate how many caterpillars will hatch and live to do enough damage to warrant the expense of spraying," Huddleston says.

The egg and worm counts also tell entomologists exactly which sections of land to spray. The costs of spraying is shared equally by federal and state governments and individual ranchers.

While this field work is going on, research entomologists are developing and evaluating techniques to chemically and biologically control the range caterpillars.

"New chemicals are first screened against laboratory grown larvae," Huddleston says. "Those chemicals showing promise are then evaluated in small plot field tests. Again the most promising chemicals are tested in aerial application tests."

Scientists are also monitoring range caterpillar populations throughout infested areas for active biological control agents, including parasites, predators and microbial pathogens. Agents showing promise will be colonized and evaluated in NMSU laboratories.

One such biological control agent is a one-fourth inch long wasp which deposits its eggs in range caterpillar pupae. When the wasp eggs hatch, they eat the range caterpillar, chew their way out of the cocoon and fly away. The wasps are not dangerous to either people or the environment.

Huddleston concluded by saying that four range caterpillars eat as much per square yard as one steer. If the rangeland pest management program is successful, ranchers and entomologists have a program to dramatically reduce the population and spread of range caterpillars.

Follow these tips for better room cooling

It used to be that as long as a room air conditioner did its job of blowing out cool air, most consumers paid little attention to it.

However, with increasing electrical costs, it really pays to spend some time helping that room air conditioner do its job as efficiently as possible, says Charles Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer for New Mexico State University.

To help you get the most from a room air conditioner, be sure that the air flow of the unit is not blocked by drapes or furniture. Air flow on the outside is important too, so check that shrubs or bushes are kept trimmed and away from the unit.

Keep the air filter clean. Take it out and clean it about once a month. Its job is to screen out larger particles and airborne dust, dirt and pollen, so it should be periodically vacuumed or washed so it can perform its job efficiently.

Some brands of air conditioners need annual fan motor oiling and drain tube cleaning. If you're not certain about the instructions for your room air conditioner, check the owner's manual to see what is recommended.

Take steps to keep hot air outside and cool air inside. This can be done by weather sealing around the air conditioner, using blinds or awnings on windows in direct sunlight, or closing drapes on windows without air conditioners. Close fireplace flues and seal heating ducts so cold air will not flow thru open registers and be lost.

A good investment for the working family is an automatic timer which will turn the air conditioner off in the morning and back on late in the afternoon so the house will be comfortable when the family returns from work.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

New Mexico Department of Game & Fish

Man, by instinct, is a hunter. Since earliest time, he has had to employ some form of a weapon to subdue his prey. Man's cunningness and ingenuity enabled him to overpower those animals which threatened his life or served him as food.

Hunting in America has been as traditional as have been motherhood, apple pie and the flag. People look back at the great hunters, such as Daniel Boone and Kit Carson, with awe and admiration. Their way of life was an envied one.

However, today, hunting as a sport has been threatened. This threat is the result of several factors, of which one is the greatest. This factor is the general public's lack of understanding concerning the concept of sport hunting.

Sport hunters should not be confused with market hunters and "slob" hunters. It was the market hunters and the slob hunters, those hunters that killed strictly for money, or showed no respect for game laws and limits, that were largely responsible for the big decline in wildlife populations around the turn of the century.

In contrast, it was America's sport hunters, now numbering over 20 million, that were among the first to realize that encroaching civilization was endangering wildlife populations. It was these same hunters that wanted to, and did, do something about it.

In the early 1900's bag limits, game laws, and permits were set forth and required. Game wardens were hired to enforce these restrictions. Eventually, each state began to regulate the game within their states accordingly.

At first, law enforcement showed an increase in populations. However, it was soon realized that wildlife management was more than just the enforcement of game laws, but that it was a technical science. State agencies began to hire trained biologists in the wildlife field.

Man, ever since his first appearance, has been a factor on other animal populations. As man's numbers increased, he had to have more space and utilize more natural resources to modify this space to suit his needs.

Wildlife, unlike man, is not capable of altering its environment to suit its needs. Instead, it must survive in the area it has available, or perish.

Today, man is still increasing in numbers, still occupying more space, and still utilizing natural resources. The difference is, there is a specific group of people, the sport hunters, that care what happens to the wildlife.

Therefore, certain areas have been set aside and protected in the form of refuges for wildlife. In addition, animals are transplanted and restocked into areas that they previously occupied, "before" someone cared. Habitat improvement by man for wildlife is also quite common.

But it's not the anti-hunters, the non-hunters, or the don't carers that pay for such places or procedures. It's the sport hunters.

This nation has been the best in the world to its wildlife legacy. Each year, American hunters spend more than 107 million dollars on licenses and permits. An additional 44 million dollars are raised annually by an excise tax placed on all gun and ammunition sold.

This tax money is then redistributed to the fifty states based on each state's total land area and the number of licenses hunters to be used for wildlife restoration.

The fact is, that over the last half a century hunters alone have paid a massive 2.5 billion dollars to the conservation cause.

Sport hunting itself has not hurt wildlife populations. Bag limits and seasons are set on biological data. It has been determined that the annual mortality for dove and quail, with or without hunting, is 75-80%, and experts say that an annual harvest of 40% of deer populations would not be harmful to the herds. Even so, dove and quail populations are high each year and the average deer harvest percentage runs about 15% in the states.

Not just the hunters benefit from their own efforts. Estimates indicate that nine out of ten Americans periodically take to the great outdoors for recreation. It will take all of these people, including those who are hunters and non-hunters, to work together to insure the future for wildlife.

Recipe for higher electric bills:

The first rate increase since 1969 went into effect at the same time that summer temperatures soared. Then, to add insult to injury, our supplier experienced a breakdown in a coal-fired generating unit forcing them to turn to alternate, more expensive fuels. The rate increase was necessary in order for us to continue providing dependable, quality electric service. The weather and the plant breakdown were simply two of those unfortunate, unforeseeable happenings over which no one had any control. As we always have, we'll continue giving you the best possible electric service as economically as business and other conditions allow.
