Flood recovery underway

Emergency measures to repair sewer and water lines is continuing here in the aftermath of the December 19 flood.

Efforts of the village water department to provide service to Upper Canyon residents is continuing with water superintendent Jim Goodman saying Sunday, "The service was restored to some of the Upper Canyon residents in the lower areas and we expect that all users will again have water by Tuesday night."

Major water problems developed in the areas served by the low pressure system, Goodman said. One major water main break was not located until Sunday and emergency action was taken to make temporary repairs.

Valve, pipe and fitting problems plagued water department personnel, Goodman said, "however we have installed temporary ground lines to try and provide at least some water for household use."

Street superintendent Jack LaMay completed a preliminary examination of bridge damages Thursday and released the following estimates that he said "were on the conservative side," pending a full assessment of the cost to fully repair them:

Sewer Plant Road	$25,500
Reese Drive	1,600
Cedar Creek Drive	62,050
Robin Road	14,700
Riverside Drive	50,000
Juanita Avenue	10,430
Grindstone Canyon	1,300
Hart	3,600
Highway 37	1,800
Main Road No. 1	5,870
Sleepy Hollow	44,000
Coyote Lane	27,300
Main Road No. 2	13,000
North Loop	4,670
Martin Road	30,700
Cedar Creek Drive	10,820
Hull Road	3,760
Cree Meadows Drive	4,565
Alamogordo Street	3,500
Flume Canyon	6,000

"This puts the initial estimate of bridge and street damages at around $335,065," LaMay said, "and includes replacement of some bridges."

A preliminary estimate of residential damage within the village, according to figures available at the office of village manager Jim Hine, indicate they total $450,000.

"I wish to stress," Hine said, "that we expect the final figure of residential damage to be substantially higher once the owners of second homes here complete the survey of their property."

Village officials are now making application for disaster funds from state and federal sources.

"We qualify for substantial aid," Hine said, "but it will be several weeks before we can determine the exact extent of damage and the amount of assistance we can obtain."

"It's obvious we have to look at completely replacing extensive sections of our water and sewer system in addition to the expense of replacing bridges and the cost of repairing streets and bridges."

Private property damage in the village is extensive from the Mesalero Apache reservation line along the Rio Ruidoso to the village limits as well as throughout the length of Cedar Creek in the village.

Ruidoso police patrolmen observed structural damage to 36 residences along the rivers, in a visual check of the outside of homes conducted on foot throughout the village limits Thursday and Friday.

"You must remember these men are cops, not contractors," Chief of Police Paul Lukens said, "and the observations were made to the best of their ability. We are making every effort to contact the owners of these homes to advise them of possible severe damage."

The only main bridge that was impassable Saturday was Coyote Bridge.

This will be temporarily repaired by the end of the week, street superintendent Jack LaMay told The News Saturday. All other generally used damaged bridges are passable, LaMay said.

A preliminary estimate of damages, made as the flood waters were receding, indicates $335,065 to bridges and streets, $204,980 to the sewer system, $52,500 to manholes and $136,800 to 11,400 lineal feet of sewer pipe.

"These damage estimates are speculative," village manager Jim Hine said to The News Friday, "and we anticipate they will rise sharply as the full extent of damage becomes known."

John Rogers, state director of Red Cross Disaster Services, will return to Ruidoso Tuesday to aid flood disaster victims and to complete his survey of damages qualifying for assistance from the Red Cross.

Rogers may be contacted through Ruidoso's village hall, telephone 257-4014.

Though damage to the village's sewer system is extensive, the treatment plant is functioning normally. The examination of the sewer lines is being continued and residents of affected areas will be advised of developments.

HEIGHT OF FLOOD WATER is apparent in these during and after photos

Bonito area flood damage extensive

Flood waters in the Bonito area have receded leaving an aftermath of destruction to county roads estimated at about $1 million.

In addition to the damage to the roads, there is an undetermined amount of damage to private homes, property, roads and bridges.

Les Olson, Lincoln County manager, and Tom Ward, Lincoln Engineering Company, surveyed the damage Friday in efforts to prepare a technical sketch of remedies for the roads and for use in applications for aid in reconstruction.

Main areas of damage are washed out sections of road near Bonito Lou's cafe and past Southfork turnoff, plus the approaches to the Southfork bridge which were washed away.

The bridge was unharmed and is free standing in the middle of Rio Bonito.

No description of the damage past Southfork turnoff is available as sections of the road were washed out completely; isolating the residents of Runnels subdivision.

Crews from the county roads department were partially repairing road damage and cutting new sections of the road Friday.

After viewing the damage in the Bonito area, Olson said, "There's about a million in damages, just guessing."

Other county roads needing some repair because of the flood Tuesday are Cedar Creek and Nogal roads.

Cedar Creek should be repaired in the near future Olson said, adding the Bonito road "will take some real engineering and sub-contracting work" lengthening the time period "till it is completed."

A VERY STURDY BRIDGE was built on the Bonito Road leading to Southfork Campground; so sturdy, in fact, it is still standing while the road was washed away in Tuesday's flood.

THE BODY OF FLOOD VICTIM Dean Luker, 76, Alto, was recovered at this point on the Rio Bonito early Saturday afternoon, about one-fourth of a mile from where he was swept into the current Tuesday evening when the river bank collapsed as a result of the flood.

Flood victim's body recovered

Members of the New Mexico State Police, Lincoln County Sheriff's office and volunteers early Saturday afternoon recovered the body of Dean Luker, 76, from the bank of the Rio Bonito about a quarter-mile from the point where he had fallen into the flood-swollen stream Tuesday night.

Mr. Luker and his son, Rudolph, were working to remove a fallen tree from the stream when the bank collapsed and both were swept away by the current. His son managed to grab a tree, about 100 yards from where he'd fallen into the water, and scramble to safety.

An intensive search of a length of the Rio Bonito continued through most of Wednesday, when it was called off to await receding waters.

Mr. Luker's body was discovered about 12:30 p.m., Saturday by Ira Young, a neighbor, about 300 yards south of Highway 37, to the west of the Highway 48/37 Junction.

Young notified the State Police and, with the aid of Lincoln County Sheriff's officers, White Mountain Search and Rescue members and volunteers Mr.

Luker's body was recovered shortly before 2 p.m.

Memorial services for Mr. Luker were conducted Friday from Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, Ruidoso.

He was born at Comanche, Texas and was a carpenter and contractor in the Brownfield, Texas area until moving here about eight years ago. He had owned his property on the Rio Bonito for about 10 years.

Graveside services will be held at 2 p.m., Tuesday in the Angus Cemetery, with Kenneth Stone officiating.

Survivors include his wife, Merle Luker; two sons, Nealon Luker of Hobbs and Rudolph Luker of Ruidoso; two daughters, Billye Dean Boyd of Dallas, Texas and Reba J. Extor of Ruidoso; two sisters, Ethel Price of Brownfield, Texas and Georgia Allen of Burleson, Texas; three brothers, Walter Luker of Portales, and Robert and Rallegh Luker of Brownfield.

Ski report

Sierra Blanca Ski Area reports surface conditions as hard packed and icy with the Mighty Mile, Poma and three chair lifts operating.

Work is continuing on the gondola which was damaged when trees knocked the cable off some towers during the severe windstorm Tuesday night.

Ruidoso Ski Area reports excellent skiing on beginner and intermediate slopes, with three inches of new manmade snow.

All lifts are operating. Monday's high was 55 degrees and Tuesday's low was 10 degrees.

For skiing condition reports, call Sierra Blanca Ski Area, 257-9001, and Ruidoso Ski Area, 336-4211.

Chamber's Coffee Cart Wednesday

This Wednesday's Chamber of Commerce Coffee Cart will be at the Chamber office on Sudderth between 9 and 10 a.m.

"These Coffee Carts are open to the public," Chamber executive secretary Ed Jungbluth said, "and Chamber officers and directors are always in attendance to discuss any matters anyone desires to propose to help the Chamber better serve our area."

Chamber directors okay new information center

The board of directors of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce approved a $3,000 project to enclose the Chamber office porch to provide a 24-hour, self-service information center at their meeting Wednesday.

Included in the center will be pockets with brochures and varied information on the area, a message center and a large map of Ruidoso.

The Chamber hopes to fund the construction by selling permanent location markers on the large map to area businessmen for $25.

In other business Wednesday, the board: — Heard a report the Chamber has a general fund bank balance of $6,432.66. — Heard a report the Chamber has 318 members in good standing and Jungbluth plans to contact delinquent members. — Heard a report the health insurance committee could not find a local company able to write a large program for the general Chamber membership.

Information on the project will be sent to larger companies and the committee is expecting a response in the near future.

— Were notified Dora Baca has been hired to replace Emma Redmann, who retires January 8.

A longtime resident of Ruidoso, Mrs. Baca and her husband own Ruidoso Music.

— Heard a report from Jungbluth the Lodger's Tax Committee approved the Sun Country Tours advertising promotion concept but tabled a decision because the package "is geared for summer and has no provisions for winter and the off-seasons."

— Heard a report the "Dating Game" promotion provided by the Chamber, Sierra Blanca Ski Area and Holiday Inn will be aired on national television in late January.

— Heard a report the special interests groups within the Chamber have formed.

The retail merchants, lodging, restaurant and ski shop groups will "provide a sound foundation for broad involvement," Chamber president Dave Wilson said.

In conjunction with the report Alden Deyo presented guidelines for the standing committee organizations, giving the committees a procedural outline, but allowing flexibility.

— Heard a report the "State of the Village, County and State" luncheon will be held at noon January 10 at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Speakers for the program have been contacted, but no firm plans have been made.

— Were notified the State Highway Department will present a program on the Highway 70 project at 2 p.m., January 9 at the Inn.

— Referred a television promotion presentation by Glen Pike to the advertising and promotion committee.

The next Chamber board meeting will be at noon January 17.

Village board meets Tuesday

The Ruidoso trustees will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening in the Ruidoso Public Library.

Agenda items include a report on the preliminary assessment of damages sustained in the December 19 flood; authorization for village clerk Jim Hine to apply for state and federal disaster relief and consideration of Resolution 78-16, authorizing use of the Emergency Medical Services grant.

The Ruidoso Downs trustees, due to the Christmas holidays, will meet at 7 p.m., Thursday in Municipal Hall.

A breast lump does not always mean cancer, says the American Cancer Society. But if you have one, see your physician at once. Only your doctor can tell for sure what it is.

Man arrested in Brunell's store

Bernard Miller, 19, Mescalero, was charged with criminal trespass and possession of marijuana, less than one ounce, after an apparent break-in at Brunell's Department Store Saturday.

Officers of the Ruidoso Police Department and Criminal Investigation Division (CID) in addition to sheriff's deputies arrived at the scene about 9:45 p.m., when the department store's silent alarm was triggered.

According to a CID spokesman, investigation into the incident is continuing as other suspects were involved.

Miller entered the store through the front door which apparently was broken out with a heavy instrument.

"No such instrument was found on this person or in the store," the spokesman said, adding Miller said he was walking down the street and found the door already broken out.

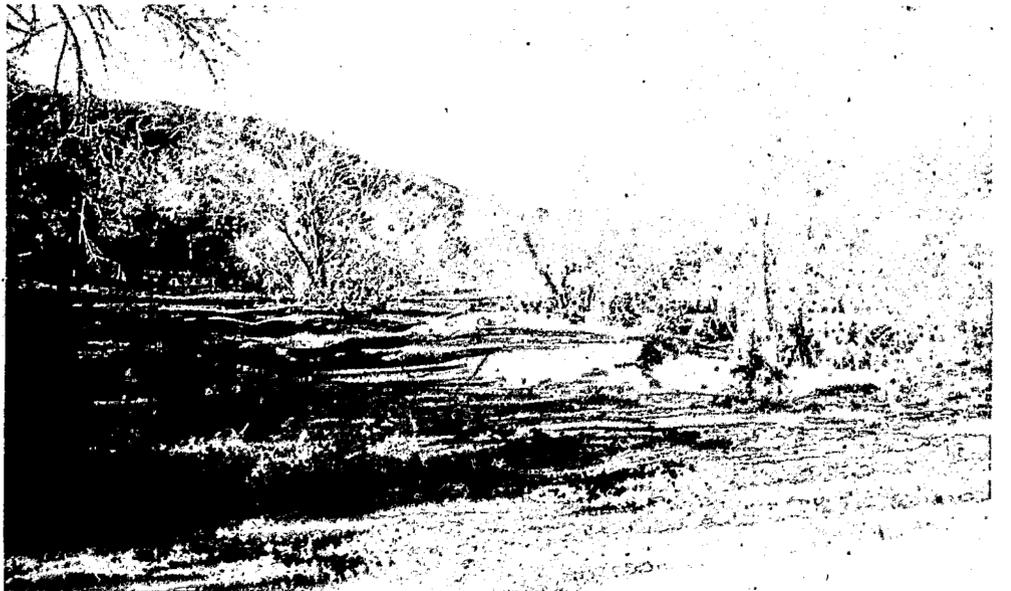

Miller, who apparently was intoxicated, alleged he walked into the men's room of the store and then fell asleep until he was awakened by the police officers.

On the recommendation of the district attorney, Miller was charged with the two misdemeanors and the investigation is continuing.

He was released on his own recognizance by Magistrate Judge Jim Wheeler Saturday night and will have his first appearance hearing Tuesday.

UPPER CANYON BRIDGE fell victim to Rio Ruidoso's flood waters

SUE CHAPMAN was third to be hauled across the river in the litter.

Five flood victims rescued

After several practice sessions in recent months, Ruidoso's State Guard regiment and White Mountain Search and Rescue were able to smoothly rescue five persons stranded during last Tuesday's flood.

Rescued were Jack and Tommy Armstrong, residents of the Upper Canyon, and guests Iva Wilhite and Sue and Jeff Chapman.

Ropes were thrown to Chapman by John R. Stogden, Community Public Service, who manipulated the basket portion of a bucket truck over the water to be closer.

After Chapman tied the rope to a tree, Major Rex Skellett, State Guard Troop A, Fourth Squadron, Fourth Regiment, crossed the rushing water on a pulley.

Working with members of White Mountain Search and Rescue and the State Guard, a tyrolean network of ropes was set up by Skellett, Chapman and Paul Holcombe, Ruidoso Ambulance attendant, who also crossed.

A Stokes litter filled with additional ropes was then pulled cross the Rio Ruidoso.

Holcombe demonstrated the rescue method and the five were hauled across to safety.

PREPARING THE STOKES litter to cross the river are, left to right, Skip Hazel, Ruidoso Police Department; Paul Holcombe, Ruidoso Ambulance; Larry Simon, Ruidoso police lieutenant and Jim Paxon, sheriff's deputy.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS State Deputy Joe Kogler, Ruidoso, left, with retired Bishop Charles P. Greco, Alexandria, Louisiana, center, and John Makkal, general agent, Tucson, Arizona, discussed details of a membership drive to honor Bishop Greco's sixty years in the priesthood at a recent Cincinnati, Ohio, conference. "The Knights hope to add more than 100,000 new members to our ranks," Kogler said, "and thus increase the effectiveness of our various projects to aid our communities, country and churches. Last year the Knights, nationwide, donated more than eight million man hours of volunteer service and more than $20 million to various charitable, educational, civic and religious projects."

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY RAY ANGERMILLER

Arnett/Angermiller vows said

In a 4 p.m., November 25, ceremony at the First Christian Church, Ruidoso, wedding vows were exchanged between Sherri Lynn Arnett and Bobby Ray Angermiller. The Reverend Ken Cole performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Arnett of Ruidoso and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Angermiller of Uvalde, Texas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white Qiana, fashioned with long fitted sleeves and lace inset at the neckline. She wore a floor length hooded lace cape. The bridal bouquet was an old fashioned arrangement of daisies, tan carnation, baby's breath and autumn leaves.

In keeping with tradition: for something old, the bride wore a wedding ring that belonged to her late maternal grandmother, her bridal outfit was new, she borrowed a pair of gold and pearl earrings from Lisa Williams, something blue was her garter and for good luck she had a penny with the year of her birth in her shoe.

Peggy Hatcher served her sister as matron of honor. Also attending was another sister, Linda Morris. Both wore floor length dresses of autumn colors fashioned in a peasant style with velvet belts of contrasting colors. They carried bouquets of tan carnations, bronze daisies, baby's breath and autumn leaves.

Serving his friend as best man was Terry Walker of Hobbs. Also in attendance was Monte Barnes of Uvalde, Texas. Ushers were Bobby Arnett, brother of the bride, Emory Hatcher and Mike Morris, both the bride's brothers-in-laws.

A reception honoring the newly married couple followed the ceremony in the home of Charlotte Williams. Serving were Deb Clark, Debbie Fenton and Julann Angermiller. The guest book was kept by Donna Dutton.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Angermiller, Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Monte Barnes and Mrs. Robin Clark all of Uvalde, Texas; Sharon Wells of Alpine, Texas, Debbie and Biddie Mae Fenton of Portales, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sims of Durango, Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Arnett, Randy, Melanie and Michael of Sunray, Texas, Lois, Glenda and Tina Hutchens of Alamogordo and Don Hatch of Las Cruces.

After a wedding trip to Red River, the couple is at home in Hobbs. The bride is a graduate of Ruidoso High School and had been employed by the Ruidoso Hospital until the time of her marriage.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Uvalde High School and attended the Southwestern Junior College in Uvalde. He is employed by the C&H Farms in Hobbs.

The bride was honored November 5, with a shower in the home of Mrs. Gregg Wilson with Mrs. Briscoe West as co-hostess.

MR. AND MRS. S. EAGER Uihlein, Eager vows spoken

A reception-open house will be held for Mr. and Mrs. Steven Eager from 6 to 9 p.m., December 28 at Dan Dee Cabins, hosted by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Uihlein.

Friends of the couple are invited. The couple was married in an evening ceremony November 8 in the First Christian Church of Waxahachie, Texas. Parents of the couple are Bill and Lori Uihlein of Ruidoso and Donald and Marge Eager, Fort Lupton, Colorado.

The couple will make their home in Waxahachie, where they both are attending Southwest Assembly of God College.

The bride attended Ruidoso High School and the bridegroom, a 1969 graduate of Golden High School in Golden, Colorado, is a minister with the Assembly of God Church.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

This is being sent to you on December 22. The river has gone down quite a bit and the weather is mild, with the sun shining through very light clouds. No snow is in sight here in the vale and yet there is a sacred charm in the outdoor mountain world that lets you know we are in the season of Christmas.

Yesterday, December 21, I got to the other side of the river by the old road, after the longest time of being water, mud and snow bound.

Down at the Glencoe Post Office I met Lloyd and Ula Gipson who told me their grandson Raythe Gipson is home and doing well, recovering steadily from his accident back in the summer. The Gipson family thanks God for this great blessing and wish to extend their gratitude to all friends for their prayers.

In the next message or so I will tell you something of our dear friend, Andy Randolph, pioneer citizen of Ruidoso, who was called home to Our Lord a few days ago.

My heart is full of thankfulness for so many who have helped me recently and all through the years and I know Our Lord will bless us all during this happy and sacred season.

May the blessings of Our Lord and Savior abide with you this Christmas season and always.

Report From Sweden

BY MELANIE MCGUIRE
Rotary Foreign Exchange Student

Dear friends:

Today is December 13, and quite an exciting day for Swedes. This is the day for Lucia. Tonight I will be Lucia for my family. In school they have a Lucia Celebration and it is always pretty and today was no exception. They had seven girls, six attendants and one Lucia. The attendants wear crowns and the Lucia wears a crown with candles, and they sing several Christmas songs. It was really beautiful.

Unlike Donna, I have had no speaking engagements because of the language. I shall speak to Rotary in January. And who knows, after that I may make many speeches.

This last weekend I went to Stockholm to the Nobel Prize. I didn't get an actual ticket but I got to go in another room and watch on a big TV screen. There were 130 exchange students there. Mostly, the same ones that were on my plane. It was really quite fun. Stockholm is known, by exchange students, for the many broken telephones, and unfortunately for the telephone company, there was one in our hotel. I talked with three of my friends but didn't get to call every one I wanted to.

It has rained all day today, but has just now started to snow. YEA!! If I'm lucky I will have a white Christmas. I am going to learn to ice-skate this weekend. Sure am glad nobody will be here to see me. It should be funny.

I almost forgot, when I was in Stockholm, we toured the King's palace. It is beautiful! I've never seen such beautiful furniture and rooms. We also saw "the crowned jewels." They are also very pretty.

I would like to thank all of you, whom I received a birthday, Thanksgiving or Christmas card from. They were very nice. I'm very sorry, but I don't have the time to write each and every one of you.

I wrote this letter earlier than usual so I could wish everybody a Very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year! Hope the Holidays are nice.

Melanie McGuire
P.S. Met a Swede the other day who has skied at Sierra Blanca and he loved it. Naturally!!

NYLON was the first of the man-made fibers found to be ideal for carpeting, and it is still the largest-selling of all the "miracle fibers," since it is in everything from toothbrushes to stockings to drapery fabrics.

Nylon carpet fibers come in two forms. The "continuous filament" nylon you've heard about uses long, smooth continuous lengths of the fiber. These longer fibers have the advantages of reducing pilling or fuzzing. "Staple" nylon fibers are simply shorter fibers, usually about six inches. These are used effectively in the twisted yarns in cut-pile or mixed cut-and-loop nylon carpets.

The greatest plus of nylon is its resistance to abrasions (or wear), which is the highest of all fibers. For this reason nylon is often coupled with other fibers to give extra abrasion-resistance.

Nylon fibers offer great versatility in color and texture. While less soil-resistant than some, it cleans very easily, resisting water-borne stains especially so they can just be wiped up.

You'll love the way the new nylon carpets take to colors both brilliant and subtle. Look over our big displays, and let us help you choose the right color, texture, and style that's perfect for your home... and your budget.

Chris Wynn: 'I like hitting other guys'

BY JOHN NEYLAND Sports Writer

Chris Wynn is like most eighth grade kids. Put him in front of a camera and he begins to giggle at the attention he is receiving. But he also likes it.

Chris, 13, is currently in the midst of basketball season at White Mountain Middle School where he also played on the football team. He has been playing basketball for four years. His reasons for getting involved in sports are simple.

"I watched the guys on television," Chris said. "I just like to play." Chris likes to play especially when there are people watching him. Talking to Chris, one gets the impression that he is used to attention.

"I like the competition," he said, referring to what he likes about basketball. "I like to play in front of fans."

Chris, a blond headed kid with a nice smile, also likes to play football. But he likes to play football for different reasons than his smile suggests.

"I'd like to play professional football," Chris said. "I like hitting other guys."

Despite his affinity for hitting other guys, Chris doesn't have an affinity for getting into fights.

"I don't get in that many fights," he said.

That may be one of the reasons for picking Robert Newhouse and Scott Laidlaw as his favorite players.

"They seem nice," he said. "They're good running backs."

Chris also looks up to his brother, Randy, who plays football and basketball for Ruidoso High School.

"My brother plays football and basketball," Chris said. "I like watching my brother play. I'd kind of like to be like him."

Some of the other things Chris likes to do are ride his bicycle and read books. Although when it comes to reading books for school, Chris only likes them if they're easy to understand.

"I like stuff when it's easy to do," he said. "When it's hard and complicated and I don't understand it, I don't like to do it."

That's probably why, when Chris is asked what kind of grades he makes, he smiles that smile of his; the one that shows that he is used to being the center of attention. In this case, however, the smile said he doesn't want his grades to get any attention.

Ames to toughen practice sessions

The Ruidoso Warrior wrestling team will take a break from practice until December 27, and although coach Gerald Ames would rather have them practicing, he admitted the rest could do his squad good.

"It'll give the guys a chance to get their heads together," Ames said. "They'll be able to set their minds straight."

It won't all be rest and relaxation for the wrestlers, however. Ames has asked his squad to make the largest of sacrifices during the holiday season. They can't feast on turkey and dressing every day like everyone else.

"I told them to watch what they eat," he said. "I told them not to overeat and to run some. I also have them squeezing rubber balls to build wrist strength."

Ames is merely preparing them for the second half of the season when he promises to be nothing less than tough.

"It'll be pretty bad," he said referring to practice. "We'll go at it. I'm going to get them ready. They'll love it."

School Board grants approval to ski program

The Ruidoso Board of Education has approved the continuance of the ski program for area schools this year.

School will not be dismissed on the days of the program. Instead, students in grades four through 12 wishing to participate in the program, will be excused from their classes after lunch on the days the program is in effect. Those days, all Wednesdays, are January 24 and 31, February 7, 14, 21, and 28.

The students will be required to pay a two dollar fee at either ski area. This fee does not include ski rental. Students will be required to rent their ski equipment from local ski rental shops for another two dollar fee.

CHRIS WYNN

Capitan to host boys, girls in Smokey Bear Classic

The Capitan High School will be the host for the 1979 Smokey Bear Classic basketball tournament.

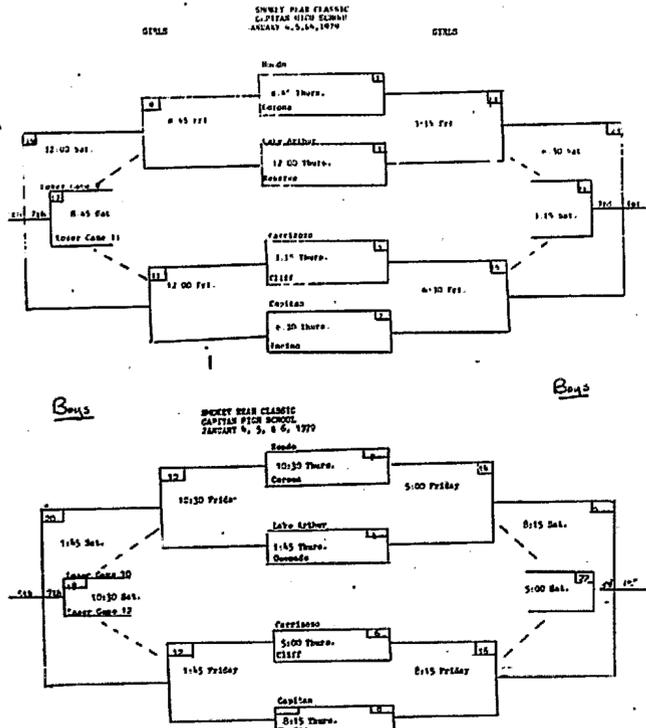

The tournament will run January 4 through January 6. The Classic is both a girls' and boys' tournament.

Boys' teams that are entered in the tournament are: Hondo, Corona, Lake Arthur, Quemado, Carrizozo, Cliff, Capitan and Encino.

Girls' teams entered are: Hondo, Corona, Lake Arthur, Reserve, Carrizozo, Cliff, Capitan and Encino.

Tournament officials released the pairings, printed below, for the tourney last week.

A YOUNG SKIER MAKES THE TREK across the temporary footbridge erected by the Ruidoso Ski Area. The area took advantage of the tourists in town who had not been able to ski for a few days by erecting the bridge Wednesday following the flood so the skiers could get in a half day of skiing.

New ski area services community

BY JOHN NEYLAND

The Ruidoso Ski Area can appropriately be termed an opportunistic enterprise.

Anyone in the past who has ventured to Ruidoso to ski at Sierra Blanca would have said that this area did not need another ski area. And, for all practical purposes, they would have been right.

But not needing another ski area is not the same as not being able to use one. And this area could use one. And now that there is another one here, it is being used.

The Ruidoso Ski Area did not try to steal Sierra Blanca's business. What they tried to do, and it appears successfully, is provide an alternative to the beginner skier.

Traditionally, beginners have been somewhat timid about hitting the slopes with a bunch of dazzlingly dressed "expert skiers" around. Their tendency is to be a bit self conscious.

At the new area, however, beginners are the rule, not the exception. The new Jean-Claude Killys are able to learn the tricks of the trade without the old Jean-Claude's relentless gaze stalking their every move.

Not only is the atmosphere suited to the beginner, but the degree of difficulty is also. The baby slope is suited to the first time skier. It not only allows an easy run to learn on, but it allows the skier to gain some confidence in himself.

The intermediate and advanced runs also allow the new skier the opportunity to accustom himself to steeper slopes. But the runs are so short that the skier never feels like the only way to the bottom is in the ski patrol's basket.

While the new area has all of these things going for it, there should be no mistaking that, for the better-than-beginner skier, it is no substitute for Sierra Blanca. But, of course, it isn't trying to be. It merely took advantage of an inch, a small opportunity that presented itself to the aware businessman.

That is not the only example of opportunism by the new area. The most recent occurred Wednesday, the day after the flood. Speculation was that the new area would be set back to day one, what with all the warm weather we had the preceding few days before the rain. The rain was to be the straw that broke the camel's back.

But that is not what happened. Even though the bridge leading directly to the area had been washed out, the new area was back in business by 1 o'clock Wednesday. The old area, Sierra Blanca, was still closed because the road leading to its snow was impassable.

Workers at the new area built a footbridge so that skiers could cross, one at a time, to the slopes. This exemplified a bit of shrewdness on the area's officials' part. They could have remained closed all day, waiting until the bridge could be replaced.

Instead they built their own for walkers. With all the skiers in town who had been turned away from Sierra Blanca because of the rains, there was a demand for some skiing. Any skiing.

Even the better-than-beginner skiers were eager to ski the Ruidoso Ski Area. It may not have quenched their appetite. It satisfied it somewhat.

Whereas many skiers would have been turned away from Ruidoso without skiing at all, they at least were able to get a little skiing in. They may not have left thrilled, but they didn't leave completely disgruntled either. Which means when they talk of Ruidoso to friends, their words won't be disgruntled.

The story of floods past

BY GWYN JONES
Staff Writer

Once the immediate danger of a flood or other natural disaster is over, comparisons are inevitably drawn by those who have witnessed similar events in the past.

In Ruidoso, Tuesday's inundation is being compared specifically to floods which occurred here in 1941 and 1965.

Dave Parks of Pertee Parks and Associates was only seven years old in 1941, but the memories of that September flood are still vivid.

He recalls, "There was a slow steady rain for four or five days, then one weekend there was a cloudburst that washed out most of the bridges." The weekend cloudburst was followed by another slow steady rain throughout the next week.

The cumulative effect was that all the bridges in town were washed out by the following weekend.

"There were 43 cabins washed away, I believe," Parks said. His mother, Nell Parks, who worked as a school teacher, braved the weather to take numerous pictures of the damage as a historical record.

The Parks family lived near the present site of Whispering Pines. He watched a cabin being washed away near the bridge there, leaving only a metal bedstead and cookstove to mark the former location of the house.

He also remembers that he spent his time "walking up and down the river banks, watching things wash down." Since the town was totally cut off, "there was no place to go," he said. A frightening aspect of that flood was that "you could hear the rocks beating against each other before you heard the water coming," he added.

Marie Rooney of White Mountain Road remembers the 1941 flood also. She and Parks concurred in their recollections that the biggest problem in that flood was that the river's channel was much narrower and there were many more trees near the stream.

Rooney said the large pines lacked tap roots and consequently many fell into the riverbed, trapping debris and causing more backup of water.

That was the case near the Mechem bridge, she added. The bridge itself was stable, but the accumulating water "washed out the approach," making it impassable.

Utility breakdowns were not a problem then, Rooney said, because "there wasn't any sewer system, and not that many people had running water."

The town was then "strictly a summer resort," Parks said, so most of the residential damage was limited to summer cabins, which he and Rooney add, were not as well constructed as today's cabins.

The June 17, 1965 flood was more destructive of the valley east of Ruidoso.

According to The News files, $12½ million in losses were incurred, including damage to 3,500 homes and buildings, fruit crop losses and 52 bridges destroyed or damaged.

The most severe destruction in Ruidoso was the result of what Parks termed, "a terrible, terrible hailstorm . . . the most catastrophic we've ever had up here." The hail moved up the valley to Ruidoso, stayed over the town for some time, then moved back down the valley, Parks said.

"It hailed in Ruidoso Downs for about an hour, which is an unusually long time for a hailstorm," Parks said. Another unusual aspect of the storm was that some of the ice fell in "jagged, odd-shaped pieces," along with the normal round stones.

Landmarks like the old Bonnell ranch house and fishponds in the Biscuit Hill area were destroyed in that flood, Parks added, but damage in the village was primarily limited to roofs.

He had the opportunity to inspect that damage firsthand, since he was engaged in "running all over town adjusting hail claims."

As for the Tuesday flood, Parks and Rooney agreed that the water damage was lessened because the previous floods had widened the channel and cleared it of trees.

"I was never so surprised to find that there was so little damage," Rooney said. "I'm just amazed, because there are houses and trailers all up and down the river. It shows that it (the channel) can take care of a lot of water."

She also credits the village officials and organizations with preventing a major disaster. "This time," she said, "there was so much help. They got organized very quickly. No one even had to use the shelter."

The communication systems were also a benefit, Rooney said. "In '41, we didn't have the communications, or Search and Rescue. We didn't realize anything had happened."

"The situation was different this time. Everyone in the valley was notified and alerted," Rooney said. "Everyone was really taken care of. Seems to me like it was great."

THIS HAPPENED shortly after the season was over and most of us here spent hours along the riverbank, watching the raging waters. It was hard to believe — so sudden and so destructive.

Flood damage deductible on federal income taxes

Area residents with house or property damage from the rains and flood probably can deduct the loss on the federal income tax return to be filed in January. However, it is important to document losses now in order to substantiate deductions of uninsured losses on income tax returns.

According to Marry Morris, H&R Block manager in Ruidoso, damage to a house, trees, shrubbery and landscaping around the house is treated differently from damage to a car, appliances, rugs and other personal property when estimating loss and preparing income tax returns itemizing the losses.

A loss because of the flood on the value of real estate — damage to the house and what is around it — can be deducted on the federal income tax return.

What can be deducted is not the cost of repairing a house or replacing whatever landscaping the flood wiped out, Mary said. What is deductible is the decline in market value of the property because of the flood damage.

For example, if flood waters uprooted and destroyed the evergreens in front of a house, the cost of new evergreens is not a deduction. However, taxpayers can deduct the difference between the market value of the house when the evergreens were there and what the house would sell for without the shrubs.

Or, let's say some siding was torn off the house. The homeowner can't buy new siding and call it a deductible expense for income taxes. He must figure what the house would have sold for with the siding and what it would sell for in its damaged state, deducting the difference. The change in the value because of the flood is the key.

To figure out the change, Morris suggested calling a real estate agent or appraiser. He can determine what the house would have sold for before the damage and what it will sell for in its damaged state. The appraisal should be in writing, and the cost of the appraisal is a tax deduction.

A loss in the fair market value of personal property damaged by the flood — a car, contents of a house and other personal items — can be deducted in figuring taxes.

The Internal Revenue Service requires that every individual item that was damaged be inventoried or itemized. Such a list should include the item, the amount originally paid for it, its estimated fair market value before the flood and the estimated fair market value after the flood (which could be zero if it was a total loss).

For example, you might list a clothes dryer with an original cost of $229; fair market value before the flood, $50; fair market value after the flood, zero (it was destroyed). That would be one item on your list and the deduction would be $50.

When you have listed all the damaged items, add up the loss in fair market value of each and the total amount figures into your deduction.

Several costs are excluded from deductions and include the following:

— The cost of cleaning up, hauling off damaged property and the like isn't deductible.

— The first $100 of loss, after you add up losses on real estate and personal property, isn't deductible. For example, if your total loss figured by the methods above is $900, you deduct only $800.

— If insurance pays for some or all of the loss, subtract that from the total loss to determine the amount to be deducted on the income tax return.

— If you had to move to a motel or other temporary quarters because of the flood, the temporary living expenses cannot be deducted.

Rio Bonito flooded ravishing the valley

While Ruidosoans were beginning cleanup operations Wednesday in the aftermath of Tuesday's flood, Mr. and Mrs. Arville Runnells, owners of Bonito stables, were still stranded by waters rising near their cabin residence four miles past the Bonito Dam.

During their stay, they watched the Rio Bonito rise out of its banks to cut new channels, taking with it many of their outbuildings, corrals, sections of the road and portions of the foundations of their neighbor's homes.

The Runnells managed to get down the mountain by midday Thursday, traveling on horseback, and picking their way through mud and around the new streambeds.

At one point, Mrs. Runnells' horse fell chest-deep in mud, but managed to struggle out with no apparent injuries. They were met at Bonito Lou's store by friends, who brought her back to Ruidoso, where they maintain another home.

Apparently, Mrs. Runnells told the News Thursday, not many people realized they were at the Bonito cabin during the storm and flood.

"It's a funny feeling to be up where you can't get out," she said. They first realized the severity of the situation Tuesday morning when they noticed that a number of small trees which normally block their view of the road leading to Big Bear Canyon, were no longer there.

Mrs. Runnells said the water "came down from Big Bear Canyon where the Bonito and Turkey Creek meet," and spread out in their area. The current dropped the road three or four feet. Their fish ponds and one at the home of Dorsey White were washed out.

She said the river would have to be rechanneled or diverted. They calculated the amount of rainfall there at more than five inches.

Within a block or two of the Runnells' home are two others, whose owners were absent during the flood. Water hit the corner of the Bettis' home, washing out concrete blocks and steps and pieces of steel, she said.

After hitting that house, the water curved again, and washed out the land "about halfway under a three story home belonging to the Clary family. The ground is also washed out underneath the road "this side of Bonito Lou's store," she added.

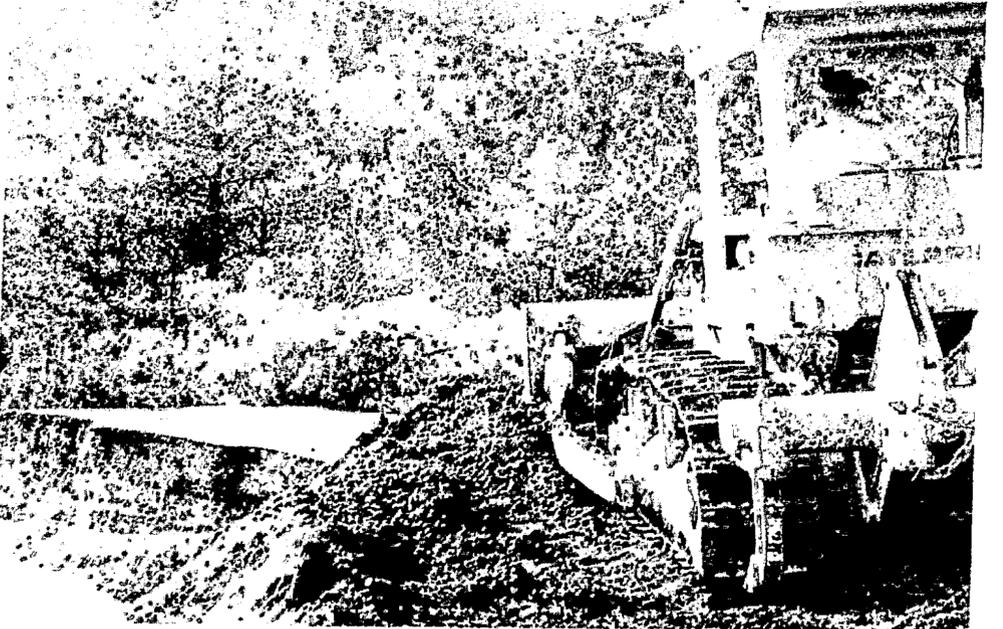

Their horseback trip out was also necessitated by their "running out of dog food," she said. They had recently bought several blue tick hounds. The Runnells had concocted a grain mixture for them, but the dogs' reaction to the food was less than enthusiastic.

"This was my first experience with high water," Mrs. Runnells said. "It flat washed Bonito Stables away. Mrs. A. N. Runnells Sr. (her mother-in-law) says Bonito will never be the same," but Margaret Runnells is more optimistic. "We'll be back (with the stables open) this summer," she said.

LARGE SECTIONS of the Bonito Road were washed away in Tuesday's flood, isolating residents of Runnells' subdivision. County road crews were out Friday carving a new road to those persons.

COUNTY ROADS SUPERINTENDENT Guy Henley nears completion of a bypass of a washed out section of Bonito Road. Damage estimates on the road are about $1 million.

The efficiency displayed by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce directors Wednesday in launching a media blitz in the major cities of Texas Thursday is most commendable. If this blitz rights the wrongs in the adverse media coverage given conditions here in the aftermath of Tuesday's flood, perhaps all of us will have a little more appreciation for the efforts made by the Chamber to benefit our community. — CD

Stuph & Junk

... by

DIRTY SOX AWARDS

On rare occasions ye Stuph & Junker does confer upon certain individuals ... for performances of extreme merit ... Stuph & Junk's Dirty Sox Award ... for good guys and gals only.

This is the first instance of the Dirty Sox Award being presented to just whole herds of good guys and gals ... as there's no way to name them ... and it's being given to all those performing yeoman services during the flood December 19 ... and also because no one directly involved in any of the operations hit the panic button.

An example ... Al Lobato, State Planning Director, advised village officials that the reason he came to Ruidoso before going to the Silver City area flood ... was because "Ruidoso is so well organized" ... and that disaster crews preparedness was exceptional ... and that every phase of the disaster defense plan launched early Tuesday morning was being carried out with a most impressive efficiency.

Some of the people involved in the various emergency operations looked a mite peaked Wednesday afternoon ... 'cause many of them were starting to gain on 40 straight hours of strenuous duty ... but there was nary a complaint uttered ... at least to me ... and nary a soul I talked to even muttered one peep about wanting to leave his/her post and hit the sack.

It was the total commitment of those performing their tasks that was impressive ... situations were handled in stride ... action was quick on dire emergencies ... but so well planned it almost seemed like a rehearsal ... small wonder so many are now the recipients of the Dirty Sox Award ... for good guys 'n gals only.

There were times ... especially when sight/thrill seekers were cluttering up the landscape ... when these hard working guys/gals could have blown their tops ... and said some naughty words to the nuisances getting in the way ... and ogling ... and driving where they shouldn't ... and making asinine comments and suggestions ... but no tempers flared ... these Dirty Sox Award winners stayed cool ... and it's a great tribute to the calibre of guys/gals responding to this emergency.

Another for instance ... take the guys/gals taking telephone calls. Now there's a 'n instance where keeping calm paid off ... 'cause some of the callers had hit the panic button so hard, the button'll never lose the fingerprint impression ... but those listening maintained the ability to be polite ... a fact which might not have rubbed off on some of the insensate clods making ridiculous demands for immediate help of a strictly private and playunish nature.

Yup, by jinkies, it's a mighty fine bunch of people that did everything in their power to ease us through Tuesday's flood ... and may all of them wear their Stuph & Junk Dirty Sox Award with extreme pride.

KEGLER HIT IT BIG

'Twas a spell back that kegler Jack Kannady Jr., left Ruidoso for a bit of a go at a big bowling tournament in Texas ... and man did he ever give it his all ... not only that, he won third place money for individual achievement.

Now the big news about Jack's performance is ... in official competition ... he rolled two 300 games ... putting his total to date at something like six perfect and sanctioned games ... and, ere long, he'll have another ring attesting to his skill ... though he's admittedly starting to run a little short of fingers to put them on.

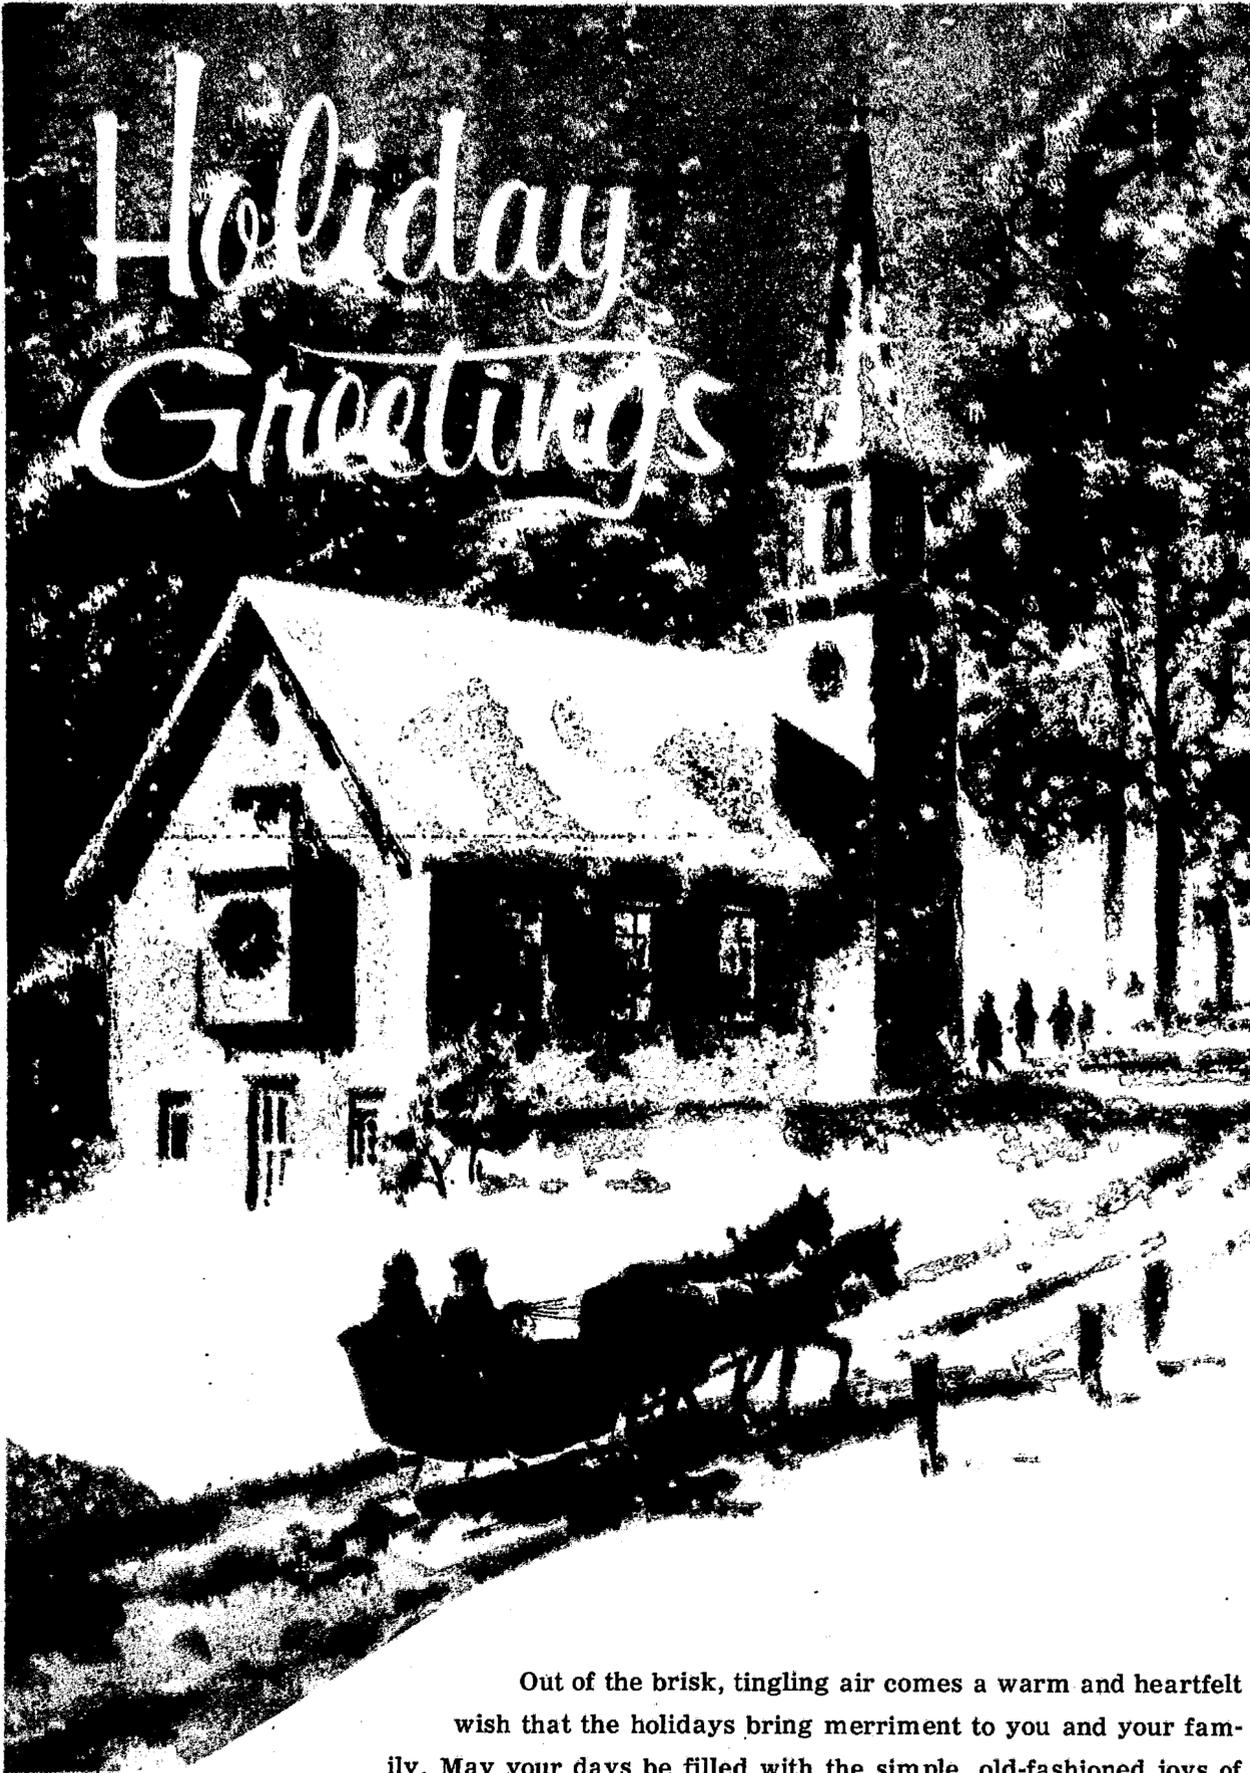

Seems Jack told me about his feat some days ago ... and said he's show up to look into a camera lens ... and provide us with all the details ... and let us touch the ball he rolled them 300's with ... and maybe even touch the soles of his bowling shoes ... but keep our cotton pickin' fingers off'n his bowling hand ... but Jack didn't show.

Anyhow ... now you know ... and if'n you're into pot bowling ... maybe you'd best find a softer touch than Jack ... the 300 bowler ... and, Jack ... as belated as it is ... congratulations.

CONSERVE WATER

Though there was plenty of water in the Upper Canyon ... and on down stream Tuesday ... the water supply in the pipes ain't all that plentiful ... and maybe everyone can save a drop or two ... so the other guy might get more'n a sickly drip outta his faucet. Like, man, share the fluid.

BRIEF BIT: 'Tis too bad that all of the adults in the world can't see Christmas as seen through the eyes of an open-mouthed three-year-old ... CD

Holiday Greetings

Out of the brisk, tingling air comes a warm and heartfelt wish that the holidays bring merriment to you and your family. May your days be filled with the simple, old-fashioned joys of Christmas, complete with all the love and good will of the season.

PIONEER SAVINGS & TRUST

Capitol Comment

by Ernie Mills

Santa Fe — Must Reading Department: Dorothy Cline, Professor Emerita at the University of New Mexico, has just completed a publication, which gives an in-depth look at New Mexico's reorganization legislation.

And for anybody who intends to spend much time in the Capital City during the upcoming Legislative Session, they better glom onto a copy in a hurry because just about everything that has been written about re-organization in published form to date is now out-dated.

Besides, there probably is no one around who knows quite as much about reorganization as the cigar-puffing Dorothy. She was a member of the Constitutional Convention of a couple of years ago and has closely tracked even minute changes in State Government since that time.

The new publication, which is entitled Reorganization of the Executive Branch of State Government, contains material gleaned from hours of personal interviews with key officials involved in the reorganization process.

The interviews cover a wide range, including those involved on the "inside" of reorganization as well as observers and reporters who watched the process from the "outside."

There are some interesting tidbits for those just skimming through the publication. Dija know for example, that it cost $434,000 to implement the reorganization plan during the years from 1976 to 1978 ... and a good chunk of that dough was Federal dough?

The author gives plenty of credit to incumbent Gov. Jerry Apodaca for the reorganization push.

She states, "the single event that energized the executive (branch) was the election of a governor who decided that it was time to cure a festering sore", adding, "a strong governor, a rarity in New Mexico politics, Apodaca took charge of the reorganization project." While explaining Gov. Apodaca's deep involvement in the reorganization project, Miss Cline uses the verb "masterminded" to detail the Chief Executive's commitment to bringing the proposal to fruition.

The Cline work includes a quote from Gov. Apodaca made on March 31, 1978, when the State's first executive cabinet was sworn into office. At that time, Apodaca said the restructuring would be an opportunity for future administrations to see this "as an opportunity to keep New Mexico current."

Pat on the Back Department: This item is not news, but certainly deserves mention here. Late this week, Gov. Bruce King named Jill Marron of Albuquerque as his press secretary — a post which the sharp television reporter will assume on January 8th.

Several names were thrown into the hopper for the news secretary post, but the announcement that Ms. Marron got the job was received with plaudits by the regular Capitol Press Corps.

And, for those who have covered the Merry Round House with Jill in the past, it's nice to add that she didn't get the post because she's a "woman person", but because she's a darn good newspaperwoman with much respect from her colleagues.

Crystal Ball Item: Usually by the time the Christmas Holidays arrive the Legislative interim committees have wrapped up their work in time for the mid-January session.

But ... not so this session ... and there could still be a couple of more surprises.

The Legislative School Study Committee has set two days of hearings next week for a final look at that committee's work ... and ... our birdies say don't be surprised to see the Legislative Finance Committee schedule one more public session to go over proposed legislation.

Colorful poinsettia originated in Mexico

Most people think Christmas poinsettias are as American as Christmas turkey and pumpkin pie. But in reality, poinsettias are a gift from Mexico, says Rick Gomez, Extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University.

The poinsettia (Euphorbia pulcherrima) was introduced to the United States in 1825 by Joel Robert Poinsett, the first U.S. Ambassador in Mexico. He was a keen botanist and gave this native Mexican plant as gifts to friends in the United States.

The poinsettia you choose this year as a gift or home decoration should have large bracts — the red leaves of the plant. The bracts should be at least one and one-half times larger than the base of the pot and have a symmetrical growth pattern.

Multi-stem plants should have at least three stems. Choose the deepest colored plant you can. The older the plant, the more likely the colors are to fade. The deep color also shows that the plant has had good care.

Buy early because the new varieties can last up to four months if they receive proper care.

Poinsettia plant owners should remember that it is a tropical plant and should be kept at around 70 degrees during the day and no lower than 60 degrees at night. Keep the plant out of a draft and away from doors that are frequently opened. Place the plant where it will receive as much light as possible.

Watering is most important in caring for a poinsettia. Overwatering is a more frequent cause of failure than underwatering. When watering, put enough water in the pot so that water will run out the bottom, but make sure there is plenty of drainage.

As soon as frost has passed in the spring, take the plant outside and plant the pot to the rim in soil or some moist mulch. Repeat the plant at this time into a larger container if it is pot bound.

Keep soil moist, and soon new branches will appear, Gomez says. Pinch out the tip of all new branches when they are eight to 10 inches long through August.

Take your poinsettia plant inside before the first frost in the fall. Place the poinsettia in a sunny window as before.

To flower your poinsettia, you must keep the plant in complete darkness between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. daily from the end of September until color shows in the bracts (almost mid-December). The temperatures again should remain between 60 and 70 degrees. This should make your poinsettia flower for Christmas.

Many people prefer to use Christmas poinsettias for cut flowers. They combine nicely with such greenery as holly, pine, cedar, mistletoe or juniper.

When used as a cut flower, make small slits in the stem and let the plant "bleed" for at least 24 hours. Then cut the stem, and place in boiling water to seal and stop loss of sap. Or, burn the cut end with a candle flame.

Tumbling tumbleweeds treacherous

Tumbling tumbleweeds may seem serene and harmless as they gracefully glide across open lots and roadways. But let them accumulate around fences and buildings and you're inviting a treacherous towering inferno, Rick Gomez, extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University, said.

Tumbleweeds burn with an intense heat and the flames can make a bonfire out of almost any structure. Therefore, you need to remove and dispose of them quickly, Gomez said.

Tumbleweeds are a real problem in urban areas, mainly because of the high population and congestion. If you live in town and decide to burn your tumbleweeds, notify the fire department first, Gomez said.

Spring is the time to control these plants when they first start to grow. After they have reached maturity, it is hard to get rid of them, Gomez said.

But even if the fall winds have blown all the tumbleweeds from your property, your problems aren't over. Gomez said tumbling tumbleweeds are reproducing! As they go around and around, they are spreading seeds for next year's weeds.

Wilderness Wisdom with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne - On the subject of canoe paddles, wood versus aluminum, does one have decided advantages that make it better than the other? Carl B., Oklahoma

Dear Carl - Aluminum paddles don't fit the outdoor mood as well as wood, but they have enough practical advantages to make them a good choice.

Aluminum's light weight is an important asset on a long canoe trip, or during a grueling race. The energy saved by using a lighter paddle is certainly significant. And aluminum is practically maintenance free, which is more than can be said of wood.

The one disadvantage of paddles with aluminum shafts shows up during cold weather. The shaft is an excellent conductor and transmits the chill of the water directly to the hands. Of course this problem can be lessened with a pair of insulated gloves.

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce to area residents. The Ruidoso News makes no charge for this public service to members of the Chamber. To arrange this special coverage of your business, telephone 257-4001 and ask for "editorial" and an appointment will be arranged at your convenience.

BRUNELL'S, 2316 Sudderth Drive, has been a member of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce since 1946, joining five years after the Chamber was begun in 1941. The history of Brunell's began when Herb Brunell Sr., a Kansas school teacher, moved to Alamogordo in 1935 and began working part-time in a dry goods store. He later purchased the business, named it Brunell's and then began expanding. The Ruidoso branch of Brunell's began in 1946 as a general dry goods store. The building was expanded in 1962 and modernized in 1972 with new store fronts. Brunell's presently offers men's and women's clothing and shoes. The store is owned and managed by Herb Brunell Jr., who is pictured right, with Marge Garner, employee since 1950.

BIG T FAMILY RESTAURANT is owned by Bamma and Company, and managed by Gary Anderson, pictured. Big T, which has been in operation and a member of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce since May 1975, offers a varied menu including dinners, the Big T quarter pound hamburger, chicken, shakes, splits, parfaits and sundaes. Located at 340 Sudderth Drive, the restaurant is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., daily.

talking about TV

PRIME TIME SCHOOL TELEVISION

"You must not indulge him. Use strict discipline from the beginning. Your son must become a man of profound and comprehensive understanding." These were the instructions for raising the future King of England, Edward VII, given to his parents, Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, by their advisors when Edward was only a few days old. This advice was closely followed as you will see in the first of 13 episodes of EDWARD THE KING, the Mobil Showcase presentation beginning Jan. 17. Check your local listings for time and station.

EDWARD THE KING is a fascinating series about the life and times in England during the heyday of British colonialism and imperialism. It is filled with all the pomp and pageantry of the period and illustrates how the concept of "duty" controlled the lives of the ruling class.

The first program focuses on the months just prior to the birth of Edward and shows the relationships between his mother, Queen Victoria, and her husband, Prince Albert and the other people that will soon influence his life. Lord Melbourne and Baron Stockmar. We see Prince Albert struggling to overcome the frustrations of being the Queen's husband and the conflicts he often finds himself in, which in turn cause friction between himself and Victoria.

We also learn that Queen Victoria was less than pleased when she discovered she was pregnant with her second child, having only two months earlier given birth to Princess Royal. However, when Albert, the Prince of Wales, is born on Nov. 9, 1841, his parents and the people of England are overjoyed with the birth of a male heir to the throne. Little do they realize then that it will be 60 years before "Bertie," as he is called, becomes King.

Bertie's childhood is a lonely one; he is isolated from the companionship and influence of other children. "His character must be molded and his mind must be developed morally and intellectually," is the advice Baron Stockmar gives to Queen Victoria and Prince Albert. How the young prince reacts to this regimen of study and discipline, both mental and physical, we will discover in the episodes that follow in the award-winning British television series.

To help you and your family fully appreciate this program, Prime Time School Television (PTST), with a grant from the Mobil Corporation, has prepared a special study guide. For your free copy, just write to: EDWARD THE KING, PTST, 120 S. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60603.

If you would like to receive all of PTST's regular monthly program guides on television specials, just send $10 to PTST at the above address. PTST, a non-profit organization, received the 1974 Action For Children's Television Award.
