

$40,000 in drugs goes up chimney

OFFICERS OF RUIDOSO'S Criminal Investigation Division Wednesday inventoried a quantity of marijuana, heroin, cocaine and other drugs, with a street value of $40,000, that had been seized as evidence, before throwing the contraband into a refuse burner.

THE FLAMES FLICKED within the burner as the seized drugs were destroyed, creating a pungent aroma along with the intense heat generated.

Fort Stanton crisis rages

The controversy is still brewing over why Larry Don Harris, a convicted felon who was serving six consecutive prison terms at the state penitentiary for rape and assault, was transferred to Fort Stanton Hospital and training school for the mentally retarded.

While admission procedures at the hospital were being tightened by the administrative staff over the past week, investigations have been continuing in an attempt to determine culpability, if any, by state agencies who arranged the transfer.

Harris was arrested on the grounds of the school March 10, in connection with the alleged rape and severe beating of an employee. He was detained in the Lincoln County jail for about a week before being transferred to Las Vegas State Hospital for evaluation, pending his trial in district court on charges of criminal sexual penetration, aggravated battery and aggravated burglary.

Following the incident, over 200 Fort

Stanton employees, county residents and other interested parties signed a petition demanding an investigation of the case and asking for assurance that similar events would not occur again.

Dr. George Goldstein, secretary of the Health and Environment Department of the state of New Mexico, has now made a reply to the signers of that petition.

In a letter, dated March 21, Goldstein said Harris was transferred to the school "because of the lack of an appropriate program for him in the criminal justice system," and that "multiple evaluations showed no signs of a tendency toward violent behavior."

The letter continued: "I assure you that we are actively exploring the facts and are reviewing all aspects of this situation. We have already begun to investigate what changes should be made in existing policies and procedures so that such incidents are not likely to occur again."

"While occasionally we may make errors in judgment about placement of individuals, particularly those whose needs do not fit neatly into one service setting, we must be as certain as possible that we are not exposing our staff or residents to potential harm or abuse."

Meanwhile, Fort Stanton psychologists and members of the clinic committee which screens incoming students, maintain that they were not told of Harris's criminal record at the time he was being evaluated for placement.

The criminal justice department, on the other hand, has stated that they made all pertinent information available to the school.

Goldstein, contacted by The News Wednesday, said that as a result of the incident, amendments had been made in a joint powers agreement with his department and the criminal justice department.

From now on, Goldstein said, "I will personally review all transfers to non-security facilities." He added that although he couldn't guarantee that such an incident would not occur again, since "we're dealing with human beings," he felt that the steps being taken now would "increase the probability of it not happening again."

He said the "other part of the investigation," being carried out by his office would attempt to determine if there was any culpability and if so, to determine where the responsibility should lie.

The tightening of admission criteria at Fort Stanton means that "all persons having criminal charges of crimes against persons, which could result in a felony conviction, or that have been convicted of a felony are excluded from on-site evaluation," according to a source at the school.

Evaluation of such persons will be carried out "at the place of referral," such as a prison or state hospital for the mentally disturbed.

Within five working days following such a study, the evaluation team will present observations and recommendations to the clinic committee, composed of about 15 Fort Stanton employees, for final review and determination.

PAVING/SEWER PROJECTS TO BE FORMED

Village improvements set

The Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening authorized Boyle Engineering representative Fred Burns to proceed with implementing the proposed paving/sewer special assessment districts, beginning with Pine Cliff Subdivision.

Burns advised the trustees that the Pine Cliff project will be forwarded to "bonding attorneys April 6," and that Town and County North, Units One and Two, will be ready for initial bonding action about April 27.

The first public hearing on the Pine Cliff improvements will be conducted the latter part of May, Burns said, with all property owners concerned to be advised of the hearing by mail.

Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., suggested that the trustees establish "a percentage rate of protests to reject the improvements" in each of the five proposed special assessment districts selected for sewer/paving projects. He further suggested that "projects include the entire length of individual streets" in each subdivision and that "residents be advised of the procedures prior to beginning hearings."

The purpose of setting the rates, Davis said, "would be to establish a definite percentage of property owners protesting, be it 50 percent or 80 percent," to give the trustees a guideline for accepting or rejecting the improvement districts.

The trustees will establish the protest percentages prior to conducting public meetings to establish the special assessment districts.

All action to form these districts in Ponderosa Heights, Glen Grove and Pine Cliff subdivisions; Town and Country North, Units One and Two; Paradise Canyon Drive west of Cedar Creek Road; and portions of Young Heights, the first, second and fourth additions to Wingfield; Homestead and Woodland Ridge, were authorized by the approval of Resolution One by the trustees in the fall of 1978.

The call for bids on the Pine Cliff project would be issued early in July with the bid opening to follow in about three weeks. The second public hearing could be early in August with the contract possibly being let the week of August 20.

Burns advised the trustees that sewer/paving improvements in Wingfield Subdivision, in the area previously known as "Music Mountain", are in the planning stages and set for completion early in the program.

WORK IS UNDERWAY, village attorney Ron Harris advised the trustees, on the draft of a proposed sign ordinance that will be "hand delivered" to each trustee to expedite implementation of the ordinance at the earliest possible date.

The sign ordinance, Harris said, "will be 20 or 30 pages," to comply with regulations and structural requirements of the Architectural Planning Review Committee.

"The ordinance must be extensive," zoning officer Emory Hatcher said, "as we've discovered there are more types of signs than we'd ever expected possible."

Following perusal of the new sign ordinance by the trustees, Harris said, "public hearings will be scheduled," to consider it prior to its adoption.

In other business, the trustees:

— Accepted, pending approval by the State Purchasing Agent and/or the village attorney, the low bid of $78,469.51 submitted by Service Contractors of Ruidoso, for improvements at Two Rivers Park. Federal/state funds allocated for the park project total $82,493 with the village's 25 percent of the cost to be provided through in kind services.

— Were advised by Davis that Step II, design and planning, of the Regional Wastewater System is awaiting approval at the federal level and that the contract for Step III, construction, has been signed with Daniel Engineering, Alamogordo, and has been submitted for state and federal approval. Under the terms of the contract the engineers are required to conform to a set time schedule for completion of the project.

— Approved advertising for bids for the sale of Lot 15, Block 6, Palmer Gateway (adjacent to Service Contractors on the north), at no less than the appraised value.

— Authorized village purchasing agent Frank Potter to call for bids to drill an exploratory well in the Upper Canyon and to test pump the existing exploratory well drilled near Eagle Creek on Ski Run Road.

— Authorized Potter to issue a call for bids for additional garbage containers, to implement the present pickup system.

— Were advised by trustee Frank Sawyer that preparation of a strict animal control ordinance should be completed within 45 days and then submitted to the trustees for consideration and action.

— Were advised by village manager Jim Hine that the first public hearing on the use of Revenue Sharing funds is scheduled for April 24.

— Authorized Hine to proceed with preparation of the proposed village budget for fiscal 1979-1980, using last year's guidelines.

— Were advised of a district meeting of the Municipal League, April 10 at 1 p.m., at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

— Set the regular April 10 meeting of the trustees for 10 a.m., in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

DECA schedules huge garage sale fund raiser

Members of the Ruidoso Distributive Education Club (DECA) are sponsoring a garage sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the First Christian Church in Ruidoso. Proceeds will go to help defray expenses for 18 Ruidoso students who will attend the national DECA conference in Houston, Texas May 7-13.

The students will be selling Pepsi and lunch items throughout the day.

Donated items for the sale are to be delivered to the church between 6 and 8 p.m., Friday or before 9 a.m., Saturday.

DECA students and members of the Gamma Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi are sponsoring the sale a reclining chair, donated by Don Dale of Dale's Furniture, where the recliner can be viewed; and two cords of wood, donated by Ralph Romero.

The wood, juniper, will be delivered and stacked, Eddie Parker, DECA sponsor, said.

A radiothon will also be held Saturday on KRNR to help raise money and will involve students telephoning and seeking donations or pledges.

The youths have to raise a total of $6,320 and have raised nearly $2,000 of that already. The money will cover registration to the convention, air fares, lodging and a tour package. The youths will pay for all food costs.

Besides touring the city, the youths will participate in the National Career Development Conference and enter a series of national contests similar to state contests held recently. "We know the competition will be greater, but it's really an opportunity for the kids," Parker said.

Downs 'hounded' by dogs

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs trustees once again tabled consideration of an animal services contract at their Monday night meeting, following a lengthy discussion of the "dog problem" which still exists in the village.

Mayor Norman Wheeler reported on his attendance at a recent meeting of the animal control committee, saying that in his opinion, the committee members were trying to "soft-pedal" the animal ordinance for Ruidoso, making it less harsh for violators. He added he thought that little was being accomplished in the way of solving the problem.

"Mike (Hernandez, animal control officer) doesn't have the answer, the animal board doesn't have the answer and we don't have the answer," he said. He added that he knew of "150 dogs running loose in the village now."

Wheeler advised the trustees he would be attending a second meeting of the committee Thursday and would report those proceedings to the trustees also.

Hernandez had proposed an animal services contract for the upcoming fiscal year similar to one he currently holds with Ruidoso. Payment of the officer would be based on a flat fee, rather than a per-animal charge, which is the present system in Ruidoso Downs.

The trustees discussed the desirability of shortening the length of time an animal is impounded before being disposed of. Currently, unlicensed dogs are kept for three days and licensed animals for five days.

Funds budgeted for animal control in the Downs last year were expended in a period of about six months. In view of this fact, trustee Vada Leighton suggested contracting for a shorter period, perhaps during the six months when the need is greatest.

"Why draw up a contract for the whole year when we don't have the money?" she said. Leighton also suggested amending the Downs dog ordinance by setting specific fees for violations.

Because of the controversy about how funds were to be appropriated for the service and since Hernandez was not present at the meeting for questioning, the matter was eventually tabled.

The trustees also agreed to place an order for a new Dodge automobile for the Ruidoso Downs Police Department. Chief Lynn Martin testified to the need for a new vehicle, "by this time next year," and informed the board that the deadline for ordering cars through a state contract plan was April 1.

Cost of the car will be $6,500, which will have to be budgeted for in the coming year. Martin said he had received an estimate of $7,800 for a similar Ford vehicle, but recommended the trustees order the Dodge.

Martin also presented a brief report on a vehicle take-home program followed by the Albuquerque Police Department, under which officers are permitted to drive the patrol cars for private use and are responsible for basic maintenance.

He said that although the initial cost of such a program was high, savings on maintenance and operation costs averaged just over $2,000 per year.

In other business, the trustees:

— Approved Ordinance 79-3, an emergency declaration necessary to allow the construction of a temporary bypass bridge at the entrance road to Ruidoso Gardens subdivision.

— Approved Ordinance 79-4, the open meetings law, which must be read and approved each year.

— Approved Ordinance 79-5, permitting condemnation proceedings to begin on property formerly owned by Roland T. Parker.

— Accepted the resignations of police lieutenant Fred Bernard and sanitation worker Milton Sanchez.

— Approved the budget of the Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department.

— Accepted a bid of $200 from Archie Kingston on a 1975 police car.

— Confirmed their plans to attend the District Six meeting of the New Mexico Municipal League, to be held April 10 at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

— Heard a report on occupational licenses from clerk-treasurer Virginia Spall. She advised the trustees that following the mailing of second notices to village businesses, $4,999.49 had been collected to date, with approximately $752 yet to be collected from a total of 10 companies.

— Granted occupational licenses to the following: Holsum Baking Company, Sundance Freight Lines, Chaparral Well Drilling and Services, Keeth Gas Company, Gene Brock Ford, Roy's Auto Service, Alamo Pipe and Supply, Ed Hazel Excavating, Mitchell Motel, Johnny Bean Turf Supply, Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated, Ruidoso Jockey Club, Pecos Valley Botling Company, Dial Electric, Timberline Motel, Powers and Sons, Sanchez Drive-In, Wood Welding Service, J.C. Capps Auto-Sales, American Motel, McCarty Construction, Spencer Trailer Park and Village Shopping Center, Black's Feed and Supply, Mountain Automotive Service and Ruidoso Mini-Storage, Cortez Gas Company and Ray Bell Oil Company and P&J Auto Clinic.

DUE TO SPARK ARRESTORS and emission control devices, the smoke from the confiscated drugs was barely visible, though the odor of the burning marijuana was noticeable on the ground.

Gymnasts can use school facilities

In a special meeting Wednesday afternoon, the Ruidoso School Board agreed to allow the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association (RGA) use of the White Mountain Middle School gymnasium.

The newly formed non-profit organization has appealed to the board twice before to reserve an area to practice. The school board has delayed a decision, awaiting more information and to learn how many children were actually interested in the program.

The special meeting was called to resolve the issue and to meet with several of the association's board members.

School board president Dave Parks said that the organization was asking for building use and there were "unique problems" involved, among them, scheduling, interest and equipment storage.

Parks also said he wanted to "emphasize that the RGA board approached us on a very professional level and we decided to call a special meeting." He said, "We want to get this resolved and we want people to know we are addressing the needs of the community."

Parks said he would "rather try to make a living betting on the ponies at Ruidoso Downs than try to guess what our school enrollment will be in two years." He said enrollment continues to be a stumbling block to scheduling more non-school functions in school buildings.

Sandy Harrison, president of the RGA pointed to the positive impact a gymnastics program would have on children in Ruidoso. Factors cited include:

- Providing instruction for interested children in Ruidoso who wish to learn gymnastics;
- The sport is year-round rather than seasonal and could involve both boys and girls of all ages;
- Now is a good time to start the program since it is nearly summer, and would give girls something to do;
- Provides physical conditioning for any other sports a child wishes to participate in and improves a child's coordination;

RUIDOSO GYMNASTICS ASSOCIATION [RGA] board members and interested persons appeared before the School Board in a special meeting Wednesday to discuss using the middle school gym for gymnastics practice. The school board agreed to allow the RGA use of the gym three nights and one weekend day a week.

- Offers competition to a child who would not otherwise be competitive;
 - Involves a lot of children who would not otherwise be involved in a sport;
 - Help from other gymnastic associations around the state in getting established and planning meets has been abundant.
- Harrison said the association felt if the program went over well, additional support from local people and civic groups would come later. "We have people who have volunteered to pay for any child whose parents can't afford the fee," Harrison said. She said there would be no child who would be deprived of the opportunity to compete if they wanted to.
- The RGA presented a list of more than 90 names of children who have signed up for gymnastics and whose parents are aware of the $20 per month cost involved.

Arrangements have been made to provide insurance for the children and all money collected would be channeled into supplies and equipment for the program.

School board member C.L. "Bones" Wright was concerned that the school may be held liable in case an accident occurred and the parents decided to sue the party at fault. The association said they would be at fault in that case because the program's supervisors would be responsible for the children.

Wright was also concerned that parents be aware of who is liable and that a cost is involved. The board decided that a release slip should be signed by parents and placed in school files to clear the school of any possible liability.

Parks asked if the association planned to lower the cost for the program in coming years, after all equipment costs have been met "so it would be truly non-profit" and the association said it probably would.

The board questioned where the equipment would go should the organization fail in several years. According to Tim Wadley, RGA board member, the equipment must go to a designated non-profit organization or to a government entity.

The board agreed to allow the RGA to use the middle school gym three nights a week and one day each weekend whenever possible, with times and a schedule to be worked out by the principals involved.

Following the meeting, Harrison was questioned about paying someone to coach the team full-time in future years. She told The News that a paid coaching position isn't foreseeable for several years. This item was not pointed out to the school board, Harrison said, because it is not in immediate plans. For now, all coaches and supervisors are volunteers.

Domenici airs oil price plan

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., Ranking Member of the Senate Subcommittee on Energy Regulation, March 21 outlined a multi-faceted energy package centering around price decontrol of all domestically-produced oil, and changes in tax laws presently favorable to international oil companies.

Domenici made his comments during a presentation on the Senate floor.

The main elements of the package are as follows:

- decontrol of prices on all domestically-produced crude oil, in phases, by 1981, with most of that oil decontrolled by the end of this year;
- use by President Carter of present authority to establish import limits on crude oil from foreign nations and the beginning of an import permit auction system;

—end of foreign tax credits for oil companies for that portion of the credit they claim as a result of taxes paid to foreign nations for crude oil purchases;

- merger limitations to prohibit mergers between energy companies or between an energy company and a non-energy business;
- approval of a new rationing scheme for emergencies and other mandatory conservation measures;
- renewed Congressional action on fossil fuel alternatives, especially nuclear and solar alternatives;
- consideration of measures like a refundable tax credit for the elderly, imposition of an additional gasoline tax for a fund to offset rising energy costs for the poor, and use of funds generated by elimination of the foreign tax credit for certain oil operations for programs aiding poor and elderly energy users.

Frank Wilson named new district attorney

Frank Wilson, 31, of Alamogordo, took over the office of district attorney for Lincoln and Otero Counties Wednesday. He is a former assistant district attorney and had been in private practice with the firm of Payne, Mitchell and Wilson just prior to his appointment, made by Governor Bruce King.

Wilson said Wednesday, "I'm thrilled to have been appointed. I'm looking forward to working with law enforcement again and seeing everyone in Lincoln County with whom I worked so closely for two years."

Wilson succeeded Robert Doughty, also of Alamogordo, who was appointed District Judge, Division II. Doughty replaced Thomas Sandenaw, who resigned his post to re-enter private law practice in Alamogordo earlier this month.

The new district attorney holds a bachelor's degree in English from Kenyon College in Ohio. He graduated in the upper quarter of his class from the University of New Mexico School of Law in 1976. From 1969 to 1973, Wilson served in the U.S. Air Force, including a tour of duty at Holloman Air Force Base near Alamogordo. He had attained the rank of captain when he received an honorable discharge in 1973.

A member of the Otero County, New Mexico and American Bar Associations, he has also served as a special prosecutor for the city of Alamogordo on a part-time basis.

In addition, he is secretary-elect to the Rotary Club of Alamogordo-White Sands, vice-president and secretary of the Alamogordo Junior Rifle Club.

Chamber to give service awards

In a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Awards Committee Tuesday afternoon, committee members decided to drop the number of awards to be given at the annual banquet from five to three.

The three awards which will be given May 1 are the Businessperson of the Year Award, the Community Service Award and the Promotion of Ruidoso Award. At the last general membership meeting, held October 24, the five awards given included Retail Merchant, Motel Service, Food Service, Community Service and Promotion.

The committee, in deciding to consolidate the awards, felt this route would be easier than creating another separate award for service businesses which were previously left out of any of the categories. Service businesses could include contractors, plumbers, pest control and maid services. Because there was a thin line drawn between these services and services such as motels and restaurants, all were put into one category.

Guidelines for selecting the three outstanding citizens were written by committee members. According to the guidelines:

- Businessperson of the Year should have a business in the Ruidoso trade area, take an interest in the people, offer a good product at a fair price and operate a business which leaves a good impression with its customers;

- Promotion of Ruidoso award should be given to someone who utilizes his/her talents and energy to promote the Ruidoso Valley on a year-round basis;

— Community Service should be given to someone who is an example to others for improving the community. This award could also be given to a group or service organization, and was considered the most "all encompassing award of the three," according to Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth.

Several ideas for nominating people for the awards were discussed. The committee decided to nominate five to seven people for each award and send ballots to full Chamber members to elect winners in the three categories.

This method was decided upon because it would be the fastest, fairest way, according to the committee. Nominations for the awards will be finalized Monday morning and the nominating committee welcomes any suggestions for nominees.

To submit a name for consideration, call Jungbluth at the Chamber office or Flo Wilson, Cliff Anderson, Morgan Clough, Eddie Parker, Herb Brunell, John Hall, Jerry Bigham, Katherine Finley, Ray Heid or Sunny Hirschfeld, committee members.

CID, police, make marijuana, burglary arrests

Members of the Ruidoso Police Department's Criminal Investigation Division (CID) and patrol officers this week made arrests on charges of possession of marijuana, burglary and possession of stolen property.

CID and patrol officers seized six pounds of alleged marijuana and a scale from the van driven by Robert A. Hagan of Ruidoso at 2 a.m. Sunday. In addition CID officers seized Hagan's van and $135 in cash.

Hagan's bond, on charges of possession of more than eight ounces of marijuana with intent to distribute, was set at $2,500 by Magistrate Jim Wheeler.

Hagan's preliminary hearing on the charges has been set for 10 a.m., April 16, in Magistrate Wheeler's court, Ruidoso.

Frank Flores of Tularosa, Lyster Connell of Ruidoso and two Ruidoso juveniles are being held in Lincoln County Jail, Carrizozo, in connection with burglary and larceny charges concerning an incident at Ski West.

Flores was charged with receiving stolen property, Connell with burglary and larceny of over $100 and the two juveniles on the same charges as Connell.

Acting under a search warrant issued by Magistrate Wheeler, local officials recovered $800 in turquoise jewelry, $1,000 in ski apparel and $228 of $400 in cash, allegedly taken from Ski West.

The suspects were being held in Lincoln County Jail Wednesday. In lieu of bond, pending a preliminary hearing set for April 6.

Also appearing before Magistrate Wheeler, March 24, was Arthur Bird of Fredrick, Oklahoma, charged with leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injuries. In an appearance before Wheeler, he pleaded nolo contendere to the listed charge as well as to a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road. He paid a fine of $20 on the second charge and posted a $300 bond, or 10 percent, on the first charge and was released pending completion of a presentence investigation.

On charges of receiving stolen property over $100, Curtis Portwood of Lubbock, Texas, posted $250, or 10 percent, of the bond set by Magistrate Wheeler. The charges concern two pair of skis allegedly stolen from A-Frame Ski Shop. Portwood's preliminary hearing is scheduled the afternoon of April 16, before Wheeler.

Adrian Evans, Mesquero, charged with two counts of burglary by CID officers, one at Nob Hill School and the other residential, is being held in county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. His preliminary hearing is set for April 5. Other arrests in these cases, a CID spokesman said, are pending.

Eagle Creek officers act on water use

Officers of the Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Users Association Tuesday evening approved the sale of untreated surplus water for irrigation purposes at Alto Lakes Country Club.

The group also:

- Authorized repair of the fire hydrant on the Capitán water line at the top of Alto Hill, with the work to be completed next week.

—Received a request from Fred Segal, Alto Village Services, to purchase 153 acres of land below Alto Dam. The property will be appraised prior to negotiating the sale. The association will retain rights to cross the land with water lines, should occasion require.

—Will request the state Highway Department to relocate water transmission lines, presently servicing Capitán, when Highway 37 is blacktopped from the junction of Highway 44 to the point where the highway hardensurfacing ends below Nogal. The slightly more than five miles of road in this project, Eagle Creek officers have been advised, is scheduled for resurfacing this summer.

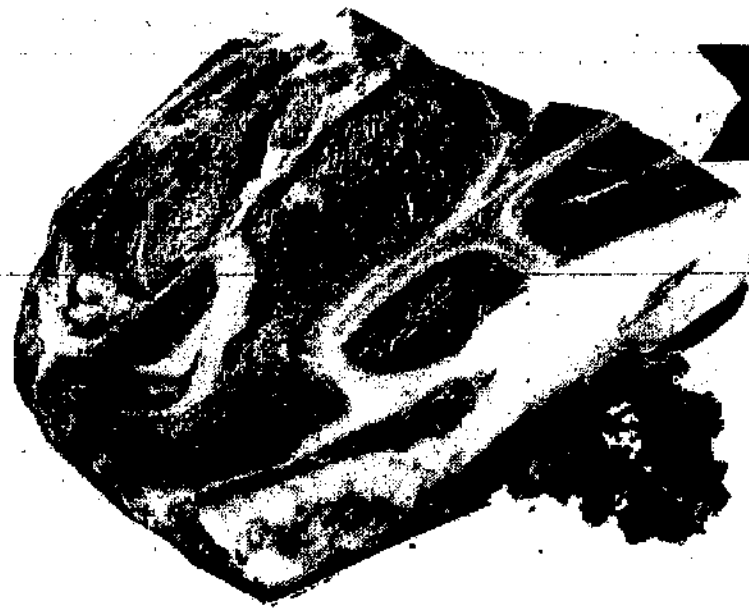

EVEN THE TEACHERS enjoy an occasional puppet show. The three shown in the background above were escorting their second grade classes from Nob Hill Elementary School on a field trip to the Ruidoso Public Library Tuesday.

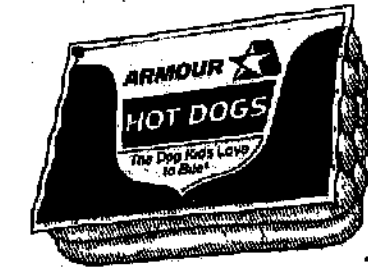

THIS ISN'T THE MOST SUBTLE way to break into a bank—In broad daylight with a jackhammer and steam shovel—but no one tried to stop this trio at Ruidoso State's main office Tuesday. Maybe they just got tired of waiting at the drive-through lane.

HELpline serves people

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer
(Second in a series)

If the infamous Mr. Murphy ever decided to revise and expand his basic law, "Anything that can go wrong, will," he would probably want to add that the problems of life never seem to arrive at a time most convenient for solving them.

It was with this last thought in mind that the 24-hour HELpline was established in Lincoln County in October 1978, when full-time counseling and a number of other mental health services were also being funded for the first time in the area.

Although the telephone service is often called a "crisis line," Sandy Taylor, marriage and family therapist and coordinator of the local HELpline, explained that it might be more accurate to describe it as a "listening and referral service." However, volunteer workers are trained to handle emergencies as well as less urgent problems.

The HELpline number is 1-437-8880. Taylor explained that calls are routed through an answering service in Alamogordo, since no such service is available here.

Once a person calls, at a cost of about 25 cents, the answering service immediately contacts the volunteer on schedule for that time of day, and the call is returned within a few minutes.

The greatest percentage of calls to the HELpline are engendered by family problems, Taylor said. Other callers may be suffering from varying degrees of depression, or they may be lonely and in need of human contact. In a few cases, the callers are troubled enough to be considering suicide. Problems might also involve drug or alcohol problems, child abuse or rape.

An important part of the service is referral to the proper source for help, and this is one of three major areas in which volunteers are trained. Taylor said all have a thorough knowledge of resources in the county and are provided with a list of available services. Referrals may be made to public agencies, the counseling centers in Carrizozo or Ruidoso, the clergy or private sources.

The other two major areas of training are in listening skills and "how to be non-judgmental." The first involves listening supportively without giving advice or personal opinion. Many times, Taylor said, people call because they simply "need someone to talk to," who will listen in this manner.

The quality of compassion is also important, Taylor said, and is closely linked with learning not to be judgmental. All volunteers also sign a statement of their intent to keep all contacts confidential, and callers and volunteers alike remain anonymous, to further insure that confidentiality.

The Lincoln County HELpline is staffed exclusively by Lincoln County residents, from Carrizozo, Corona, Nogal, Ruidoso and other areas. All have had at least 10 hours of training sessions before they began the work, and "most have had a good deal more," Taylor said.

Sessions focus on such topics as: Understanding marriage and family problems, the process of aging, and how to deal with older people. Tapes are used to simulate typical calls and possible ways of dealing with the problems. Volunteers are also trained in self-awareness, to give them a better perspective on their own personal problems, Taylor added.

Further training sessions are scheduled on a continuing basis. "In-service" sessions are held every six weeks to provide additional information in different areas. A recent session was led by county health nurse Hazel English to inform the volunteers on the services of her office.

"There's no way to measure the success," of a unique program like the 24-hour HELpline, "except in human terms," Taylor said. But perhaps that is also the best way.

It would also be difficult to assign a value to the supportive human contact it provides to lonely or troubled persons in need of help at an "inconvenient hour," she said.

ST. ELEANOR'S GUILD members were busily preparing exhibit items for the third annual St. Eleanor's Fiesta, at the Ruidoso church, April 29. The top group was making dried arrangements with those at the bottom preparing display pieces from costume jewelry mounted on cloth covered boards, suitable for framing. Details of the event will be announced.

graders from Nob Hill Elementary School, who made a field trip to the library Tuesday.

Debbie Jones member of honor society

Debbie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Jones of Glencoe, and a 1976 graduate of Ruidoso High School, has been elected to membership in Mu Beta Mu chapter of the National Honor Society for college seniors. She is a student at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. Membership in the organization is based on scholarship, campus leadership and contributions to the community. Jones is vice-president of the physical education majors and state president of the National Physical Fitness and Recreation Council. Her community service includes voluntary coaching of fifth and sixth graders at University Hills Elementary School in the girls' city basketball league over the past two years.

Community Center sets fund raisers

Capitan village and school officials, baked goods and variety of other interesting items and persons will be on sale this Saturday, at the Lincoln County Community Center's combination garage sale/bake sale/slave auction. A dinner for four at El Paisano Restaurant will also be given away during the event.

The sale will take place at the parking lot next to the ice cream parlor, and will last from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Coffee and lemonade will also be available at the sale. In case of inclement weather, the sale will be held at the Capitan fire hall.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit the center, which has been organizing free classes and activities in the county for the past three months. Information about upcoming classes and about the center itself will be available at the sale also.

The latest class to be scheduled is a combination Spanish and English class to be taught by Jane Allred. The class, open to all county residents, will begin April 9 at 7 p.m., in the Capitan Intermediate school building, and will continue on successive Monday nights for as long as the students determine.

A square-dancing class has also been tentatively scheduled to begin April 20. That class will be taught by Keith and Betsy Page. Location for the dances will be announced later. Another class being planned for after the Easter holiday is a basic course in auto mechanics.

At the regular Wednesday night meeting of the community center in Capitan, the group discussed results of a survey conducted throughout the county. They are now attempting to find volunteers to teach classes, as well as formulating plans for new activities.

Amaranth's enchilada feed Saturday

An enchilada supper will be served by Amaranth at the Ruidoso Elks Lodge from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., Saturday.

Proceeds from the $3 plate affair will be used in support of the Ministerial Alliance and selected Masonic charities.

INGRID SCHMITZ

Library employee planning summer children's programs

The newest face at the Ruidoso Public Library belongs to Ingrid Schmitz, who has been employed there part-time since March 18.

Schmitz is a native of Hannover, Germany but has resided in the United States for the past 14 years. A trained kindergarten teacher, she had been working in real estate in New Orleans, Louisiana and St. Louis, Missouri before coming to Ruidoso.

She has found the job at the library to be pleasant, since she enjoys "working with people," loves to read and had some training in library science at the University of Missouri. She said she is also enjoying Ruidoso's beautiful weather.

Organization of the summer programs of the children's library will be one of her major duties, along with the routine library chores.

She and her husband Jake have two children, Bettina, 13, and Sigurd, 9 years old. She is also active in Cub Scouting and teaches Sunday School at the Episcopal church.

A Weekly Activities Column Written by Ruidoso High School Journalism Students

Registration for classes during the 1978-79 school year was held this week.

High school students were offered a choice of 69 courses. In choosing for their six periods, students were given a career plan as to whether they planned for general, academic or business education.

The schedules are being done mainly by computer in order to resolve conflicts. The students had a chance to take their schedules home this year and have their parents help them plan.

Cheerleading clinic will be held April 2-6, and 9-10, for 22 girls who are to tryout for Varsity or Junior Varsity cheerleader. This year's Varsity cheerleaders will conduct the clinic. They are: Debbie Jo Almaguer, Robin Burrows, Susan Miller and Patti Neal. Tryouts assembly will be held April 11. This year there will be several changes, the girls will try out for only one squad and C-team will be voted on by the mid-school.

There will be a National School Assembly Monday, April 2. The assembly will feature Ray Romano and Claire, they will be giving information on how to keep fit and physical education. They will also perform various stunts and exercises. The admission price for students will be 50 cents.

One new student enrolled in Ruidoso High School this week. He is Rick Gallion.

Episcopalians sponsor family television show

The Episcopal Radio Foundation will present C.S. Lewis' "The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe", in two one hour segments, over KBIM, Channel 10, beginning at 6 p.m., April 1 and 2, Father Delbert Achuff, rector of The Episcopal Church in Lincoln County, announced today.

Of the presentation, Father Achuff said: "This is the first time one of Lewis' stories has appeared on television in this country. "The Lion, The Witch, and The Wardrobe" is one of the books in the Lewis series, "The Chronicles of Narnia." The world-wide rights to produce this film were obtained from the estate of C.S.

Lewis by the Episcopal Radio-TV Foundation, which then entered into a production partnership with Children's Television Workshop, producers of Sesame Street, to create this superb program.

"At a time when many people are condemning the sex and violence which comprises much of our current television fare, it is a joy to be able to call attention to a program that is both entertaining and substantive. A whole new generation is discovering C.S. Lewis. Perhaps this television fantasy will bring many more people into the circle of C.S. Lewis fans."

DAR will elect slate of officers

Election of officers for the Sierra Blanca Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) has been scheduled for the April 17 meeting at the home of Juanita Bush.

At a March 20 meeting of the Sierra Blanca Chapter, Mrs. Bush gave a report on the state DAR conference, which she attended as a delegate. Mrs. George S. Richardson of Roswell was elected new state regent, an office she will hold for two years. Other state officers were also elected during the conference.

Program for the March meeting, which was held in the home of Mrs. Hal Yoder, was presented by Dorothy Parnell. The program dealt with the history of the old Bonito City and mining operations in White Oaks.

The Ruidoso News SPORTS

JOHN NEYLAND Sports Writer

Start of fishing season not eyed by all

BY JOHN NEYLAND

Come hail or high water, one thing is certain. On Sunday, the opening day of the 1979 fishing season, people will crowd into the confines of Bonito Lake in search of a small piece of real estate from which they will cast their lines in expectations of making the big catch. That is a certainty.

It is also a certainty that Joe Dryden, fisherman of area lakes and streams for over 40 years, will not be on the banks of any water on opening day. He, like many before him, was lured to fishing in part because of the solitude it provides. He is turned off by the crowds that the sport attracts now.

"I stay home," Dryden said. "Too many people go to Bonito on opening day. You can't even park your car. It's not worth it. There are more people than there are fish. For about a week I stay home. I don't go on a Saturday or Sunday. Monday isn't a good day. There's too much bait in the lake (from Sunday)."

When Dryden does get around to going, another thing is certain. He knows what he's doing. A veteran fisherman of streams and lakes, Dryden knows a good spot when he sees one. He also knows a bad spot when he sees one. On account of the December flood, he said, there are few good spots from which to fish in the rivers and streams.

"There aren't many holes in the stream now," he said. "They're cleaning it out but they're making it straight. Back in the old days, you could fish in the river and catch your limit in one or two hours."

Since that doesn't happen often anymore, there is one ingredient that can shape the successful fisherman. That is patience. With a little patience and the right baits, Dryden said, fishing can be successful.

"I take corn, garlic cheese, salmon eggs and worms," he said. "If they won't hit on one thing, they'll hit on another. I don't know why. You just can't tell. You have to try them all."

"Lures are the same way," he continued. "Sometimes they won't even look at it. You just have to have patience. Most people don't have enough patience."

Patience is especially essential for lake fishing. The lake fisherman, Dryden said, mainly finds a spot and drops his line into the water and waits. Dryden likes to move around a bit. That's why his favorite fishing is stream fishing.

"It's more fun," he said. "It's more exercise trying to find a spot where they are. It's more of a challenge than just throwing a line out there."

Like most fishermen, Dryden doesn't go exactly by the book. Most successful fishermen are successful because they try different things, like bait, when trying to get the big catch. Although he has read that the fisherman should cast upstream while stream fishing, Dryden never does it.

"I've always cast downstream," he said. "I use just enough weight to keep it down. They rarely strike at the top. They'll come out from under a rock or a bank and hit it. They're going to get it. I never reel in until I'm ready to try again."

Dryden will be trying again later this season and he has one wish. He's hoping for bad weather. The worse the weather, the better the fish bite.

"The loudest day of the year is the best day to go fishing," Dryden said. "In summertime, it'll slow down. The best fishing I ever did in my life was years ago on Thanksgiving day. The snow was blowing, it was cold and windy and nasty. We built a fire and became warm and we caught some beautiful ones. Late fall is probably the best fishing at Bonito especially. And when they hit it, they hit it."

Raudenbush. Nunley recently competed in the Junior Olympics in Squaw Valley, California. Raudenbush was named the recipient of the outstanding graduating senior racer award by the Southwest Ski Council, which is composed of coaches in New Mexico and parts of Colorado.

President of the junior racers, Martin Rose, expressed his feelings concerning the junior racing program: "The value of the program should be felt by all, along with the problems that can arise. The most important thing is knowing the feeling of a young racer who has high hopes for the big win."

Board member L. Ray Nunley also expressed his feelings about the spirit of the junior racing program. He said, "Ski racing is expensive, but most of us realize that not one of our children was seen out on the streets looking for something to do."

Junior ski racers honored at end of season banquet

All 36 members of the Ruidoso Junior Racers received medallions honoring their efforts and accomplishments at an end of the season banquet Monday at the Texas Club.

Also honored at the banquet as special guests were Roy Parker, Dorothy Kinsey, Denny and Diana Grover and Paul and Janet Southwick.

Coaches Chuck Bent and Joe Bob McGuire made the medallion presentations along with compliments on the racers' efforts, accomplishments and dedication to the program which, along with the parents' aid, made the junior racing program a success. In addition to the medallions, Bent presented each racer with "memorable" moments of the season to carry into future racing seasons.

Bent also cited the outstanding achievements of Lon Nunley and Jimmy

Gas Capital Relays next stop for high school track teams

The Ruidoso High School boys' and girls' track teams resume action Friday at Jalisco for the Gas Capital Relays with realistic expectations and real problems.

Boys' coach Darrell Stierwalt's problem is senior Mark Dutton, last weekend's leading point maker in the Rose Invitational Relays. Dutton is suffering a case of shin-splints. As a result, he won't be able to compete in the hurdles and for the other events he competes in, relays, long jump and high jump, he won't be at 100 percent.

Stierwalt also learned this week that Truman Bob may not be available all season, due to illness. Stierwalt said last week he thought Bob had an excellent chance to win district in the shot put, discus and javelin.

"I don't know if we'll be able to use him at all this year," Stierwalt said.

Other than that, the only problems the Warriors face will be the competition. Stierwalt thinks it will be one of the toughest meets of the year.

"It will probably be a lot tougher than last week," he said. "There will be a lot of schools from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico."

Stierwalt thinks the competition will help his squad recognize the work they need to do to win the district meet later this year. That is what Stierwalt is pointing to. The other meets are only a tuneup for the district meet.

"I think it's an advantage," he said. "It will make them try harder. That's why we're going. We feel like if we're going to compete in district we need these tougher meets."

Ruidoso will get a chance to see how much they improved from last week. They'll also see how much work they still have to do. The track at Jalisco is a good one, Stierwalt said, and Ruidoso should "get in some good times."

Girls' coach Sergio Castanon also has some problems to contend with for the meet. Out of 22 girls that went out for the team at the season's outset, only 12 remain. Castanon doesn't know why some girls quit, he only knows it doesn't change his goals for the Jalisco meet.

"I just don't think they want to run," he said. "We're still looking for that experience. It will be a tough meet. The reason we're going is to get experience."

Junior racers earn top marks in Santa Fe

Five Ruidoso Junior Racers, competing in the ability division, placed in the top four of their respective classes in Santa Fe last weekend in the next to last race of the season.

Two Ruidoso racers, Nadine Walizer and Jimmy Raudenbush, took first place honors in Sunday's slalom runs. Walizer's win, in class "C", enabled her to advance to "B" class status. Raudenbush's win came in the "B" class.

Walizer also took a second place in Saturday's running of the giant slalom in class "C". Two other racers took second place honors in the slalom races of their respective classes. Mark Mohley's second place finish in the class "D" slalom race Sunday moved him a step closer to obtaining "C" class status for future races. Lon Nunley also took a second place finish in Sunday's slalom run. His finish came in the class "B" competition.

Rounding out the competitors that placed highly was Don Nunley, who captured a fourth place in the class "B" slalom race. Jack Walsh and Gracie Rose, two "F" class racers in their first year of competition, also competed in Santa Fe.

The racers will return to action in a week, April 7 and 8, in the Loveland Derby in the final scheduled race of the season.

SOME PEOPLE HAVE ALL THE LUCK. Dorothy Chapman (center) of Waco, Texas decided at the last minute to give fishing a go Monday at Alto Lake with friends Dr. and Mrs. Joe Rutherford. On her "first and only bite of the day," Chapman reeled this 21½ inch rainbow to shore, with help from the Rutherford. All three were here on their first day of vacation. Chapman wasn't sure if the catch was good or bad. Nothing else she catches on this trip will measure up to her prize catch, she said.

Hunting, fishing licenses allotted

Hunting, trapping and fishing licenses for the 1979-1980 season in New Mexico are being distributed to approximately 350 vendors throughout New Mexico by the state Department of Game and Fish.

The current licenses, good for another two weeks, will expire at midnight, March 31. The new season license will extend from 12:01 a.m., April 1 through March 31, 1980.

Cost of the general hunting and fishing license (deer, bear, fall turkey, squirrel, game birds and game fish) is $21 for state residents. It is not issued to nonresidents. Fishing licenses will be available to residents at $7.50. Trout-water validation at time of purchase of the license will be $4.

Cost of the fishing license for nonresidents will be $15.50, and trout-water validations are $5.

One-day fishing licenses will be $3.25 for both residents and nonresidents, with trout-water validations at $2.

Five-day fishing licenses will be $8 for both residents and nonresidents, with trout-water validations at $3.

Opening day spawns changes

April 1 marks the opening of the new statewide fishing season as well as opening day on some of New Mexico's most popular trout lakes.

With the new season comes the requirement of new licenses and knowledge of some new rules, including a double possession limit on trout, according to the Department of Game and Fish.

Bonito and Santa Cruz Lakes, and Lakes Alice and Maloya, open on April 1. Fishing trips to Bonito and Santa Cruz, especially, are traditional opening day rites for many New Mexico anglers.

Those fishing the newly opened lakes or the water that are already open will need the new 1979-80 fishing season license and should be aware of some other requirements and regulations, as well, the department reports.

The most significant change in angling regulations is the trout possession limit. Under it, a licensed angler may keep up to eight trout, which remains as the daily bag limit, and add another eight the next day or a later date. The department pointed out that because the daily bag limit remains at eight, an angler cannot legally take nine or more fish one day, then fill out the possession limit of 16 the next—or vice-versa.

With some few exceptions, fishing licenses are required of all anglers who have reached their 12th birthday, whether the water they fish is on public or private land. Anglers fishing in state-licensed Class A parks or within the boundaries of the Mescalero Indian Reservation, and those who are 11 or younger, do not need a state fishing license.

Possession limits are the same as daily bag limits for warm-water fish: largemouth bass, smallmouth bass and walleye, 12 fish; crappie and white bass, 40; catfish (except bullheads), 15; striped bass, 4; northern pike, 8. Limits for unlicensed anglers under age 12 are half those set for licensed anglers. There are no limits on yellow perch, bullheads, bluegills or sunfishes.

Size limits apply in only a few waters: There is a 12-inch minimum size limit on bass taken from Cochiti. Trout taken from the quality water section of the San Juan must be at least 15 inches long, and both the bag and possession limit is four; at Cabresto Lake, only two trout of the daily bag limit of eight, and four of the 16-trout possession limit may be more than 12 inches long.

Fishing hours are generally 24 hours per day, and exceptions are pointed out in the Game and Fish Department's fishing proclamation, "Fishing Information, New Mexico," for the 1979-80 license year.

The department urges anglers to pick up a copy of the publication when they purchase their license, and to study it before going fishing.

Water pollution research study launched in state

The yearly storm water runoff from a city the size of Albuquerque contains between 100,000 and 250,000 pounds of lead and between 6,000 and 30,000 pounds of mercury.

Those figures wouldn't mean much except for one thing: that lead and mercury laden water eventually finds its way back into our supply of drinking water.

According to Dr. Peter Wierenga, professor of agronomy at New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Agricultural Experiment Station, almost 90 percent of the water New Mexicans drink comes from ground water sources and, in many communities, 100 percent of the drinking water supplies come from ground water.

Because those water sources are located at varying depths beneath the surface, they could become contaminated with such things as dissolved solids, toxic metals, pesticides, boron, sodium and nitrates. The list is long and dangerous.

That's why Wierenga, in cooperation with the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Agency, has begun a comprehensive water research study.

"In the past we have worried about pollution coming from a definite source, such as a factory," Wierenga said. "But today we know that 50 percent or more of New Mexico's water pollution comes from diffused sources."

Also called non-point sources, diffused sources of water pollution come from urban areas, from construction sites, agriculture, forestry, mining and from residual disposal which includes sewage systems and even nuclear waste disposal.

"The problem with diffused pollution is that it is very difficult to quantify," Wierenga said. "Generally it occurs over large land areas, and its magnitude varies greatly."

For example, Wierenga said, "There are over 400 million acres of cropland in the United States that deliver two billion tons of sediment annually into lakes and streams."

That sediment obviously contributes to water pollution. The question is, just how much of the sediment runoff is part of the natural aquatic ecosystem and how much of it is pollution. Wierenga's research will answer that question as it relates to irrigated agriculture in New Mexico.

Another question the research will focus on is how much pollution comes from commercial fertilizers. According to Wierenga, 10 to 15 percent of the nitrogen entering the agricultural system via fertilizers may be lost to water runoff. These are estimated values which need to be verified in New Mexico.

Again the problem of quantifying pesticide pollution is complicated.

"We have to know how long it has been since the last storm. Were the chemicals applied to the soil prior to the storm. We even need to know what kind of soil the farm has. Each of these things affects the amount of pollution."

How will Wierenga measure the amount of pollution underway, Wierenga is studying the impact of irrigated agriculture on water quality in the Rio Grande below Albuquerque.

"There we are concentrating on dissolved solids, chloride, nitrogen and phosphorus," he said.

To check the levels of these concentrations, Wierenga has worked on a San Acacia farm.

"We installed monitoring equipment in 15 surface wells and four monitors on surface drains," Wierenga said.

Once a week samples are taken from the wells, drains and irrigated water. These samples are taken to Las Cruces where they are analyzed at NMSU's soil and water testing laboratory.

Similar procedures are used statewide to test water coming from other diffused sources.

The task of assessing New Mexico's diffused water pollution is enormous and vital, especially if you remember that New Mexico is classified as an arid to semiarid state. The Department of the Interior describes three-fifths of New Mexico as, "in all probability the most water-short major region in the United States."

Wierenga's research is also vital if you consider the fact that New Mexico's future demand for domestic water alone is predicted to increase from 75 million acre feet in 1970 to between 150 and 350 million acre feet in the year 2000.

What all this means is complicated, yet simple: New Mexico needs and will continue to need unpolluted water sources.

Wierenga's research aims at helping meet this need.

Real Estate Facts

a public service of the Ruidoso Board of Realtors

If the average homeowner could perch on Santa Claus' lap, what would he or she ask for?

Well, recent trends noted by the National Association of Realtors and the Ruidoso Board of Realtors indicate the jolly old man might hear a Christmas litany along these lines:

1. Reduced property taxes. This may be the hottest item in Santa's bag. Proposition 13 brought Christmas months early for California homeowners. Other states are toying with similar legislation to reduce "going through the roof" property taxes. Like Rudolph's nose, it is a signal that bears watching.

2. Additional incentives for home energy saving devices. Many feel there would be less reluctance to make financial outlays for solar heating devices, insulation, etc., if federal and local governments came through with more "encouragement."

3. An end to rising interest rates. Tiger than Scrooge's fiscal policy is the Federal Reserve's tight money policy which forces long term interest rates ever higher. And, some potential home buyers might have more than a ghost of a chance for home ownership if a variety of mortgage options were supported by government. Young families and first time homeowners would be especially grateful for trimmed home interest rates, or for lower monthly payments by way of a variety of alternative mortgage instruments.

4. Crackdown on vandals. It's estimated by the government that acts of vandalism cost this country $313 million a year. Much of it is done by young people. Realtors and concerned citizens in many areas of the nation are pushing legislation to make parents financially responsible for vandalism committed by their offspring. An effective anti-vandalism campaign could lead to reduced insurance rates in some areas.

5. Clearer profits. Lower federal taxes on real property will make this form of "punishment" less of a blow for those who invest in property to sell or pass on to their loved ones. Investment in this nation and its land should be praised, not penalized to the extent it has been. Only Santa can afford to work on a no-profit basis these days.

The Ruidoso Board of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors hope that homeowners and potential homeowners received some of these "goodies" Christmas morning.

"WINDOWS"

Properly installed storm windows are more efficient than double glazed because they provide an additional seal against air leaks around the permanent windows. The air space between the storm window and the permanent window provides some insulation. If it is done this way, the heat transmission of the window is reduced about fifty percent.

There are less expensive and easier ways to do storm windows. The easiest and least expensive is plastic sheeting which can be tacked or taped around either the outside or inside of windows.

Double track and triple track storm windows with attached screens are available from a number of sources, but are more expensive.

is lost or gained through the window than the wall. The thickness of the glass doesn't make much difference. Heat flows through thick glass as easily as through a single strength glass pane. What does make a difference is the number of layers of glass.

These unwanted heat losses and heat gains can add up to a significant expense to the homeowner but can be reduced. The most effective way to slow down the passage of heat through a window is with another layer of glass called a storm window.

It has become necessary for us to pay more attention to windows because of the price increases in gas and electricity. They work in our favor part of the time, but against us the rest of the time. For example, a south window that works in your favor during a winter day will begin working against you at sundown. An east window will let in a lot of solar heat on a winter day when you need it, but even more on a summer day when you don't need it.

A well insulated house will have about three to six inches of insulation in the ceiling and three in the walls. So, the greatest single source of wasted energy in the house is probably the windows.

Until a few years ago, a typical single pane window was installed in practically all new houses. These windows account for up to one-fourth of the heat loss in winter and the same amount of heat gain in the summer. A single glass window may allow up to fifteen or twenty times more heat to leave or enter a house than a comparable area of the well insulated wall. The resistance to heat flow of a wall with three and a half inches of insulation is about thirteen, and that of a single pane is one. This shows that thirteen times more heat

WHITE MOUNTAIN SCHOOLS look much smaller from atop the Ruidoso Lookout Tower, which helps make for prompt fire detection in the area by the Forest Service. The tower, coupled with the Mon Jeau Tower near Bonito Lake, offer lookouts a clear picture of the entire Smokey Bear Ranger District.

Forest fire personnel now undergoing training

Charley Mook, Fire Prevention Officer at the Smokey Bear Ranger Station, is readying his office for the spring and summer fire season by hiring and training additional personnel.

Mook said that preventing fires is his office's main concern during this season. He said the Lincoln National Forest is divided into four main units and each unit has a prevention officer assigned to it. "These officers have several responsibilities," Mook said.

A prevention officer's main job is to get with people and explain the proper and safe use of fire in the forest. They are responsible for fire safety inspections on forest lands and will conduct a total of 70 special use fire inspections including power lines, electrical sites and building on forest lands.

The officers also attend county and state fairs and speak to school groups and city groups about the safe use of the forest. They have developed an annual coloring contest in the local schools which is four years old this year. This and other programs have been very successful, Mook said, in alerting children to proper fire use.

"We have found that Lincoln County in general, is a very fire-conscious county. There is a lot of fire awareness here, especially among the permanent residents. There are a lot of awareness activities here, such as a ComFIRE (Committee for Insuring Ruidoso's Environment) and the volunteer fire department," Mook said.

He said he feels the main problem prevention officers face is in reaching absentee owners. "Perhaps because they don't live here year-round, they aren't as aware of the fire danger," he said. The use of the media has been an important factor in reaching these people. A steady stream of information is fed to the local radio station and newspapers in the region in hopes of reaching absentee owners.

Mook said the Forest Service has a cooperative agreement with the Lincoln County sheriff's office to hire a deputy to patrol National Land through the busy season. "He assists the Forest Service with prevention of fires by patrolling campgrounds and other areas of heavy use," Mook said.

In charting the effectiveness of reaching people, Mook said the district fire prevention officers spoke to an estimated 28,800 people last year, all of them face-to-face contacts. He said this figure will probably be the same this year.

Seasonal fire prevention officers are required to go through a three-week training period before beginning the season. This equips them for all their responsibilities, plus trains them in areas of law enforcement, fire suppression, fire investigation on fires caused by humans and wild fire detection to supplement tower lookouts.

Who are the Bahá'ís?

■Bahá'ís are members of an independent religion founded by Baha'u'llah. Although it originated in Iran just over a century ago, the Bahá'í Faith has followers in over 300 countries and territories, from India to Bolivia, from Ireland to Tasmania, from Sweden to Japan.

■Bahá'ís believe in the unity of God and accept the divine origin of religions, including Judaism, Christianity, Islam, and Buddhism.

■Bahá'ís advocate the unity of nations and races, the establishment of universal peace, the equality of the sexes, and the abolition of all forms of prejudice. Drawn from a wide variety of ethnic and religious backgrounds, the Bahá'í international community includes the members of over 1,600 tribes and minority groups.

■Bahá'ís propose the adoption of an international auxiliary language, the abolition of barriers to international, economic and cultural exchange, and the development of institutions that would ensure lasting peace.

■Bahá'ís abstain from partisan politics, refuse to assume hostile attitudes or to engage in violence, emphasizing instead the need to spiritualize humanity and to apply moral standards to institutions as well as to individuals.

Bahá'ís have built houses of worship, open to members of all religions, in Frankfurt, Germany; Sydney, Australia; Panama City, Panama and elsewhere. The one in Wilmette, Illinois has recently been designated a national historic site.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW-STORM

R. K. Knox
One of our most beloved citizens of Ruidoso, Roland Ketchum Knox, affectionately known as R.K., was called home to Our Lord on Saturday, March twenty-four. This message is being sent to you on Monday, March twenty-six, and I have just learned that services will be held at two o'clock Wednesday March twenty-eight at the Community Methodist Church. Mr. Knox was born May 6, 1884 in Rogersville, New York, a village named for his grandparents, early pioneers from Scotland.

Work on Panama Canal
In 1910 Mr. Knox went to work on the Panama Canal where he put in thirty-four years of service. When he first went down he was in charge of the machine shop in Gorgona in the canal zone. And after the canal was completed in 1914, he went to work on the Coaling plant where he became supervisor and worked in this capacity for many years until his retirement. At the coaling plant, coal is loaded on the steamers going through the canal.

Those who worked more than three years before the canal was opened were named "Diggers." As a digger, R. K. was presented the Roosevelt medal by our beloved president Teddy Roosevelt, the guiding spirit and dynamic force in the building of the canal. R.K. was a personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt, and would meet Teddy when he came to the canal and would show him around the construction.

A Great Neighbor
R.K. came to Ruidoso in 1948 and soon became widely beloved as a friend and neighbor. When I had my radio program he used to compliment me on my Irish songs and would call me "Saint Patrick". On account of his kindly wit, inherited from his Scotch forefathers, I called him "Scotty".

Scotty had many great gifts among which was a great way with growing things. He raised wonderful strawberries in his home garden right near the high school. And his vegetables of all kinds were famous.

He was a great lover of flowers, and they were the crowning glory of his yard and garden. He gave generously of his vegetables and flowers, carrying many of his most beautiful blooms to the hospital where they cheered many patients, helping them in their recovery.

R.K. has always been a man of great faith in his fellow man and in God. We all take comfort in knowing that our dear friend is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Bennie Roller Is A Silver Lining Boy

It has always seemed to me that the west wind always begins to speed up at Ruidoso Downs to get a good flying start down the vale. The other day I stepped into the new little store in Ruidoso Downs while the west wind was blowing a lively March gale. Inside I met Bennie Roller and his charming little wife.

Flashing his million-dollar smile, Bennie said, "Hello, Stormy," no doubt figuring that the strong March wind was in my honor, or that maybe I had brought the wind along with me.

Bennie is one of those fellows who always make you feel great when you see them. The pride of life, and gratefulness for God's blessings shine forth from him, casting a benediction upon all he meets. Your heart is lighter whenever you meet Bennie. He is a silver lining boy.

I said that I had been called "Stormy" all my life, and Bennie said, "I have a grandson named Stormy."

"And that is his real name," said his wife, Carol. "And we have son named Dannie."

I am certainly proud that I am represented by name in the beloved Roller family, great folks all of them, who bring much happiness into the world.

Signs of Spring

Now the Apricot blooms are in full flower, casting their Spring time spell all through the mountain world.

The apricot petals are so thin and delicate that the sun shines through them making them glow, so that the tree blooming all alone on the hillside among the evergreens and the golden meadows is like a giant bouquet of flowers dropped from Heaven.

The heart-cheering perfume of the apricot trees is everywhere on the spring-time breeze. And down from the hillside comes the gentle notes of the dove, the first of the year, echoing through the glen, bringing a blessing throughout the land and bringing into our soul a deep gratefulness to God.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahon

Do you find yourself staring off into space more and more each day? Is it becoming increasingly more difficult for you to make yourself go to work every morning? And, once at work, are you finding yourself losing concentration on your assignments?

A "yes" answer to all of these questions indicates you have the symptoms of a bad case of "Fishing Fever".

Fishing fever, caused by the nasty germ "Anglin-tis", is a non-fatal disease common to millions of Americans every year. In fact, last year in New Mexico alone, more than 300,000 individuals contacted this sickness.

However, if you are a victim of fishing fever, don't fret because there is a very reliable cure. All you must do is closely follow this prescription: "Take one fishing trip for each case of fever. More fishing trips may be necessary if recurrences of the fever are frequent. If the fever persists, or a rash develops, consult a fishician."

Unfortunately, not everyone can take these remedies to the extent necessary because of certain petty priorities such as money, marriages, jobs, money, pets, family, and money (not necessarily in that order).

But, whether you get to take several fishing trips a season or just one good one, there is a method of consolation between trips — Homework.

I don't mean homework in the sense of studying all the fishing articles in outdoor magazines. I don't mean cleaning your reels and reorganizing your tackle boxes. And, I don't even mean trying out all those cute little things with the flutter-tails in the bathtub.

Sure, all of these things are fit and proper and have their time and place. But, the real meaning of "homework" is to make sure you have a long, suitable list of excuses for not catching fish on those long awaited fishing trips.

You can't use the old excuse "the fish didn't bite because the barometer was too low or too high" anymore because several studies reveal barometric pressure to be an insignificant factor on fish feeding factors.

Nor, is "I didn't catch any because the winds were from the east and that's when fish bite the least" a good excuse anymore.

Instead, you must have some really GOOD excuses. Therefore, I would like to share with you a list of those excuses and when to use them that I have developed or learned through several years of doing my homework.

1. I really didn't fish very hard, I just like to get out ya know. (Good after long, unproductive trips.)

2. Oh yeah, I caught my limit but I gave them to someone that didn't catch any. (Good for one day trips.)

3. I caught three (any small number can be substituted here) but didn't want to clean just a few so I threw them back. (Good for half day trips.)

4. Nah, I didn't catch any cause there was a full moon. (Caution, use only when there is a full moon.)

5. I hung one big one but had to cut my line before the monster turned my boat over. (Use only if fishing big waters with small boats.)

6. They were hitting the only thing I didn't have in my tacklebox. (Good for increasing your tackle selection.)

7. Nobody on the lake was catching any, guess the fish just weren't hungry. (Good when you are the only angler on the lake.)

8. I had a basketfull ("stringer" can be substituted) of fish so heavy that it broke the tie rope and sank in the deepest part of the lake. (Good for all trips.)

9. My fishing line was so rotten that every time a fish got on he broke the line. (Good when fishing alone.)

10. No, not a bite, guess the lake's all fished out. (Good if you want to show your ignorance of fish management.)

Remember, the most important thing when using any of these excuses is practice. You must widen your eyes, lower your head, strut your shoulders, gesture slowly upward with open palms of the hands and smoothly state the appropriate excuse. Experience definitely helps.

One last thing, the women's liberation movement has finally affected fishing terminology. Now, when referring to baitfish, you must distinguish between minnows and womennows.

Inside The Capitol

Santa Fe — It's like a founding on his doorstep, that stack of bills the Legislature left behind for Governor King to dispose of. The pile, with 440 bills, is over two feet tall.

Fortunately the Governor doesn't have to decide specifically on every one. If he can't make up his mind whether to veto or to sign, he can just leave them lying there or let them slip down between the cracks. Anything he doesn't handle within 30 days after the close of the session is automatically dead, dead, dead.

You can be sure we'll get that shiny new tax on each gallon of gasoline we buy at the pump. There's no doubt that we need more money for highway improvements — anybody who bumps through the chuckholes knows that. But it's a shame the Governor who told us during the campaign that the fat surplus we had built up would make it unnecessary to impose any new taxes finds himself in the position of adding his signature to this one.

The surplus? Oh, that got eaten up with one thing and another — special projects powerful legislators are interested in, the Governor's capital improvements projects, that sort of thing.

But don't worry. We'll build it back up again, even with the $40 rebate we each get next year to make up for not taking the sales tax off our food. That's probably the biggest tax break the state has ever given, coming to something like $51 million in one fell swoop as it does. But all it really means is that the surpluses will build more slowly now.

It's kind of embarrassing for states like ours to keep on taking in more than they spend, while the federal government can't find a way to achieve that happy state. But it's an embarrassing administration and legislators can live with without too much suffering.

All you have to do to achieve surpluses is just keep underestimating revenues, since projections of what's going to come in are what next year's budget is based on. Then once a month, the tax collectors put out a press release which tells us of their surprise that so much more has been collected than they expected.

Most of the ordinary folks out there read about that in their paper and say, "How nice. How efficient these people must be to collect so much money." And the surplus goes on piling up.

Next time the Legislature meets, there's all that dough to play games with — a little for you and some for him — and those special projects get funded.

Oh, well. Maybe political office has to be fun and games, or we couldn't get anyone to run. Suppose they held an election and nobody came ...

Most of those Governor's Service Centers some citizens found so helpful when they were trying to get something — anything! — done by the state's bureaucrats will turn into a room full of telephones here in Santa Fe, which we can call toll-free when those nagging little problems with government arise. That may be a triumph for Ma Bell, but it's going to leave hundreds of people who need face-to-face assistance when they have troubles out in the cold. Talking into a mouthpiece somehow just isn't the same.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A frustrating montage of the extraordinary waste and fraud in government programs has recently emerged.

For example:
— more than $7 billion in waste in Health, Education, and Welfare programs;
— perhaps a full additional $1 billion in waste in the food stamp program;
— untold millions stolen and wasted in a widening GSA scandal, which may be the largest money scandal in American government history;
— more than $1 billion in fraud, waste, and unnecessary services through the Medicaid system;
— and, billions more wasted dollars in other federal programs and agencies.

We could balance this year's federal budget if we could eliminate the waste and theft that occurs in federal programs — and never have to cut benefits to those who deserve them.

But without those people with the courage and moral commitment to report what they observe, we can never correct the waste and fraud that cost millions of taxpayer dollars.

Fraud affects all of us. If the fraud and abuse rate is only one percent in the federal government, that means a $50 bill thrown down the drain for every working man and woman every year.

And I can't believe that there are many Americans today, if any, who can afford to throw money away.

You can help. You can join me in my fight against fraud and abuse in federal programs.

In my April newsletter to New Mexicans, there is a form you can fill out and return to me, reporting instances in federal programs that you feel are fraudulent, wasteful, or in any way illegal. Or you may write me at any time. I assure you, those reporting will remain anonymous.

Perhaps, with your assistance, we can begin to make a dent in the waste and fraud that continues to be a millstone around the necks of honest taxpayers.

Speaking of waste ... did you know that the federal government plans to spend $7.9 billion in fiscal year 1980 on transportation of persons and things? Of that, $3.1 billion will be for government employees' travel. That averages out to 22,000 government-financed trips per day, which means that nearly 20,000 federal government employees will be in the air (primarily) at any one time.

The General Accounting Office estimates that at least 15 percent of government-financed trips are unnecessary.

I have a feeling the general public would place that figure much, much higher.

LIVING STANDARDS

With the steadily declining value of the dollar comes not unexpected news that the U.S. standard of living is no longer the highest in the world. Depending on which statistics are accepted, the U.S. is now fifth or sixth.

The highest standard of living is found in the Scandinavian countries. A recent German government press release shows that among European Common Market countries, Denmark has the highest standard and Germany the second highest. Measured in buying power units, the ECM per capita buying power unit rank is as follows: Denmark — 8,448, Germany — 8,189, Belgium — 7,506, Luxembourg — 7,400, Holland 7,288, France — 6,942, Great Britain, 4,280, Italy — 3,316, Ireland — 2,855.

A sobering realization from these statistics is the extent of the fall of Great Britain, in per capita buying power. Their excessive trade union and labor union power, laziness and feather-bedding have almost wrecked the economy, and the standard of living. — Santa Rosa News

PARIS IN RUIDOSO

There's a certain aroma in Ruidoso, reminiscent of some of the nether regions of Paris ... more or less ... 'cause the Rio Ruidoso ... actually and comparatively ... is an open sewer.

Now ... by jinkies ... that's a health problem ... or could be ... and hopefully won't be ... but people should bear in mind that the Rio Ruidoso is polluted ... and act accordingly.

Act ... like advising your children that playing in, or near, the river's a no-no ... and, maybe, as adults, treating it the same way.

However ... if'n things go as planned ... chances are the aroma'll vanish ... and within a few short weeks, the quality of the water'll return to the point it was before the flood ... and once again it can be enjoyed ... like for soaking aching tootsies ... enticing a luscious and well fattened trout into a net to grace the bottom of a frying pan ... or just to sit by ... feeling the cooling breezes wafting therefrom ... and enjoy, enjoy, enjoy.

Meantime, though ... it might not hurt none to kinda treat that bubbling, gurgling, meandering creek as though it was truly a no-no ... 'cause no sense in anyone getting sick ... and, if'n nether regions are your bag ... there's always Paris in the springtime ... at which time, supposedly, the effluent is more pleasant ... and you can let the Rio Ruidoso be.

Now ... don't get all excited ... 'cause everything's being done that can be done ... as expeditiously as possible ... and the process will take time ... so ... be of good cheer ... everything'll be jake ... soon.

Meantime ... don't drink the water.

PEEK AND NO PEEK

Seems ... until recently ... them as was inside the Artesia pokey ... was peeking out at those as was on the outside ... and vice versa ... like, them as was on the outside was getting some sneak peeks at those inside.

And there was some complainin' ... 'cause ... allegedly some of them on the inside, as was peeking outside, was sorta makin' like September moon ... and some of those on the outside, peekin' in, took umbrage at the displayin' of those on the inside peeking outside ... or something.

Anyhow ... this peeking business ... both sides ... has come to a screeching halt ... 'cause all those peeking windows have been closed to prevent those peeking out from bothering those peeking in ... by the simple expediency of covering all the jail windows with a coat or so of silver paint.

And therein lies a bone of contention ... 'cause there are those contendin' it'd be a bean cheaper to close the peekers out by permanently closin' the peeking windows ... which may have left some piqued.

Anyhow ... there's the palaverin' splotchy goin' on down in Artesia ... about flashers in windows ... and peekers ... and the cost of cuttin' out the peekin' ... temporarily ... or permanently ... with the thought bein' painted windows are easier to break out to peek out, than steel louvers ... or other permanent closures ... with painting being a stop the gaping measure, as against permanent closures really stoppin' the gaping.

'Course no one said whether those peeking out had more fun than those peeking in ... and if'n the windows are permanently closed ... then maybe some action will follow ... 'cause someone's rights are sure to be violated ... which might not be the silliest action ever taken under the guise of protecting someone's civil rights.

Surprisin' ... those complaints from the peekers in against the peekers out ... why streakers didn't cause that much hassle ... and all them peekers out at them peekers in coulda been considered stationary streakers.

Gadzooks ... ain't it great livin' here in Harmony Valley ... where peeking in and peeking outta our jail windows ain't no problem?

PEACE, BY JIMMY

By jinkies, but Our Jimmy up and did it ... he got Begin and Sadat to sign on the line ... and peace shall prevail between Egypt and Israel ... and Our Jimmy did it ... so ... attention you Nobel Peace Prize givers awayers.

But ... by jinkies ... it's time Our Jimmy got crackin' ... and not with his Georgia crackers ... to do something about the price of gasoline ... and the supply of energy ... right here at home ... and considerin' the fact there's considerable oil to the south ... maybe he should try and make peace with Mexico ... and use Mexican oil to smooch our troubled waters ... na?

BRIEF BIT: Ere the cock crows, to greet the coming dawn ... those as is awakened by this raucous harbinging of daylight possibly sleep well ... CD

BY KAREN HALLORAN
EASY TAM, already a top money-earner, swept in with a crushing 4 1/2-length lead to set the top qualifying time for the upcoming $158,174 West Texas Futurity in Saturday's trials. The sophomore filly coursed the 330 yard distance in a rapid 16.80 seconds as the 1-2 favorite. That clocking proved to be twenty-five hundredths faster than the nearest of the 78 competitors. Owned by Darrell Kisse of Miami, Oklahoma the daughter of Easy Jet already boasts a $10,329 money line, largely a result of a third in the recent Blue Ribbon Downs Futurity at Sallisaw, Oklahoma.

THE OTHER QUALIFIERS for the April 1 finale in order by time are: Mitos King Bee (17.05), Rocket Jet Bug (17.08), Speedy Abe (17.13), Lets Do It Again

(17.16), That Lady (17.19), Moondreams (17.20), Make My Day (17.20), Ball Bondsman (17.31) and Manifestoh (17.25).

MAKE BY DAY dominated the seventh division of the trials by an impressive 1 1/4 length margin and is the only other hefty money earner in the 10 finalists. Owned by Tom Neff of Colorado City, Texas the colt knocked off a second by a head margin in a recent Lubbock Downs Futurity and holds a 3-1-0 record from four outings. His bankroll stands at $6,932.

WILLIE LOVELL, the veteran helmsman who won last year's West Texas Futurity on The First Edition, will be back in action this year. But this time as a trainer. The retired jockey-turned-conditioner sent out That Lady in the trials and the filly qualified with a time of 17.19 seconds. She barely missed the victory by a nose margin. It was her first start.

JERRY NICODEMUS will have his choice of three finalists since he qualified more than any other rider. His mounts included Mitos King Bee, Make My Day and Ball Bondsman. J.B. Montgomery was the only trainer to send out three qualifiers (Rocket Jet Bug, Speedy Abe and Manifestoh). Still, the Brooks brothers turned up with two starters. Jack Brooks, trainer of last year's All-American winner Moon Lark, hit with Lets Do It Again, while Monty Brooks sent out Ball Bondsman. Rex Brooks (no relation to Jack and Monty) scored with both Mitos King Bee and Moondreams.

ROANIE K., who's been settling in the second spot with uncanny regularity in his last five starts, finally hit the winner's circle in Sunday's second race. The gelding, chosen as the heavy favorite in all but one of his recent maiden ventures, took a mile tour Sunday with apprentice Joe Martinez in the irons and was again the 3-5 public choice. But this time he showed top form to win by an easy 10 lengths for a $3.40 win return.

A DUO OF MEDIA HORSES battled it out to the wire in the first race Sunday. Casey's Shadow (3-1), named after the movie about the All-American Futurity, and Big Time Four (2-1), given away by KDBC-TV last season, were separated by only a nose at the finish of the maiden venture. Casey's Shadow eventually snatched the victory from Big Time Four who'd held the lead throughout the stretch. Casey's Shadow returned $7.80 to win, while Big Time Four paid $16.80 to place.

APPRENTICE TIM ALEXANDER has taken only five turns around the Sunland oval since getting his jockey license a few weeks ago and he's already nabbed the second spot twice. The young helmsman, who originally hails from Florida, directed 6-1 outsider Prince Charisma to the second spot in Friday's ninth race. He then came back Sunday aboard 40-1 longshot Intent Voluntary in the second race for another runner-up finish.

THE HIGHEST WIN PAYOFF of the fall-spring meet turned up in Friday's eighth race when 65-1 outsider Jeff Billy went wire-to-wire for half-length victory. The gelding, directed by Jim Young, held an advantage from the outset in the mile route and returned $132.40 on a two dollar win ticket.

THE SUNLAND CLAIMING BOX had an unusually active day Friday. A total of seven claims were recorded. Bradley's Circle went for $4,500; Lady Dorado and Patsy Mark each went for a $2,500 tag; and Hshawkinsfaul, Saejour's Sunshine, Ostle and Ioneau each went for $1,500.

JAZZY HANK, the 5-5 favorite in Sunday's fourth race at 400 yards, encountered some bad luck right out of the gate. The seven-year-old gelding apparently pulled a stiff joint in a back leg and alert jockey Danny Summerow eased the horse immediately. The injury isn't expected to keep the horse out of action for too long. The winner of the bout turned out to be 15-1 outsider, Go Dandy Bar, who finished on top by a nose for a $32.40 payoff.

AFTER 28 DAYS of the current spring season, the daily wagering average stands at $256,592 — the highest in Sunland history. At the same point last year (36 race days), the average was $229,896. The current figure is a gain of 11.2 percent. Fans are now betting an average of $21,583 per race, as compared to $20,588 the same time last year. If the present strong trend continues, the 1979 spring season could wind up with a daily average in the $270,000 range.

THE MOST PRODUCTIVE post position over the weekend were the Nos. 1, 4, and 6. Each launched six winners. Here's the seasonal tally: No. 1-42 winners, No. 2-48, No. 3-78, No. 4-84, No. 5-90, No. 6-77, No. 7-89, No. 8-77, No. 9-68, No. 10-51, No. 11-0, No. 12-1.

A Safeway service in support of suggestions from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

"Recycling in the Kitchen"

Leftover meat and vegetables can make excellent additions to home made soups and stews. The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs suggests that you keep a supply of plastic containers on hand for storing leftovers. Freeze them for use at a later time in preparing imaginative, economical meals. Safeway stocks a wide variety of convenient plastic bags and containers in many sizes and shapes.

Leftovers needn't be boring the second time around. An economy-minded cook regards leftovers as a challenge to creativity. Even a leftover hot dog, sliced up, can add interest and flavor to scrambled eggs or soup.

Next week's Inflation Fighting Idea:

"UNIT PRICING"

together, we can be INFLATION FIGHTERS!

Wilderness Wisdom with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — For the last three or four years swans have migrated to our area in increasing numbers and it isn't unusual to see sixable fields literally blanketed in white. Still, I understand there is no legal open season. It would seem large populations of them would seriously compete with other waterfowl for food. Why shouldn't there be a legal hunting season? Sherman K., Maryland.
Dear Sherman — The United States Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) has been officially requested to provide a limited season for the whistling swan. The request was made by the Atlantic Flyway Council after concluding that the present population of swans represented probable damage to wetlands and field crops. The FWS declined to open a season at this time, stating that further studies were needed before doing so. It seems likely some form of limited hunting will be allowed in the near future if the population continues to climb.
Tip from reader — There is probably little that will render a human more disoriented and less comfortable than an insect which has entered the ear and proceeded to flit around and beat the eardrum with its wings.
The first instinct might be to insert a stick or other suitable instrument into the ear to evict the culprit. But — don't! The eardrum is a delicate instrument and the probing could cause permanent damage, resulting in hearing loss.
An easier and more practical solution is to pour the ear canal full of alcohol. This will kill the insect and render it harmless. It's then a simple matter to flush it from the ear. Nancy D., Vermont

Chino...A Friend of the Future

If you think "yesterday" was exciting, just wait until you see what "tomorrow" will bring.

Scientists are predicting strange, intriguing and marvelous things for us in the not-so-distant future. Things which will make us smarter and live longer, and medicines which will cure and even prevent cancer; we'll be wearing one-piece garments made of fabrics which respond to temperature changes, and even change color, and cities will be covered by plastic domes to protect us from pollution and the weather.

Yes, amazing changes are ahead of us, and copper will be right there doing its always reliable job of making things happen. And, Chino will be right here in New Mexico producing much of that copper to help make dreams of the future come true.
