

$1.5 million sewer bond vote Tuesday

The polls in the Ruidoso Public Library will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., tomorrow on the question of the village issuing $1.5 million in general obligation bonds to construct the Regional Wastewater System.

All registered, qualified electors from the three Ruidoso precincts — 11, 13 and 14 — will vote at the library.

A simple majority vote will decide the issue.

Bond funds will pay for the village's share of new main lines in the village and to the new treatment plant; the treatment plant at Biscuit Hill and all land acquisition costs. About half of the bond issue will be for new collection lines to the boundary lines of subdivisions not served, to enable private hookups at a later date.

Airport site still possible

BY GWYNETH JONES
staff writer

Prospects for construction of Sierra Blanca Regional Airport on Fort Stanton mesa have not dimmed, following disclosure that another on-site visitation is scheduled, and the raising of the possibility that the current land use lease of mesa lands might be questioned.

In a brief meeting Thursday afternoon, George Shoemaker of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) advised the other members that another inspection of the proposed airport sites will be made May 10, this time by a representative of the Department of Interior (DOI) regional office in Denver.

Shoemaker said the commission had been attempting to convince DOI officials in Washington to make an on-site inspection, but that the Denver representative, Bob Sanchez, was "the closest we can get."

The DOI is reviewing an appeal filed by the commission after their original request for use of land on the Fort Stanton Mesa was turned down by the Bureau of Land Management in October 1978.

Shoemaker added that he presumed the decision on the appeal would be "held in abeyance until Sanchez gets here," makes the inspection and reports back to his superiors in the capital.

Tim Morris, Ruidoso Airport manager, reported to the commission on a recent conversation with business consultant

Fred Heckman. Heckman, he said, believes that under federal records drawn up in 1955, the lease of the Fort Stanton land to New Mexico State University (NMSU) may be illegal.

Morris said he thought the records had been drawn up by the federal government at the time the BLM was acquiring the land, and were aimed at setting guidelines for operation of the land. He said Heckman thought the terms of the accord prohibited the BLM from "engaging in any long term agreements with any group." The 20 year lease of NMSU for grazing and other agricultural experiments would probably fall under that definition, he added.

According to Heckman, who worked closely with the tribe for many years, the Mescalero Apaches had lodged a formal objection at the time of the leasing of the land to NMSU.

The commission members agreed that they would research the matter further.

Shoemaker also gave a brief report on the on-site inspection of the proposed airport sites by Jim King of the state Natural resources division, NMSU officials and commission members.

He said no word had been received on a planned meeting of the same officials in Santa Fe. It has been hoped that such a meeting would result in a compromise of the various parties. The meeting will possibly be held following the DOI inspection, Shoemaker said.

No spring town cleanup

Members of the Service Club Council, meeting at noon Thursday, decided to call off the spring cleanup, formerly scheduled May 4 and 5.

The council did not feel enough planning or support had been given to the cleanup campaign. Jack Reed, committee member said "Each year there's less and less participation. Just a few people have really supported the thing." Reed said the cleanup was a good idea but "it needs support from everyone in town."

Ed Jungbluth, ex-officio member, said an alternative to the cancelled cleanup may be a campaign later in the summer, requesting total cooperation from the village to supply trucks to haul trash and a free day of dumping at the sanitary land fill.

A community calendar coordinated through the Chamber of Commerce office will be set up monthly to alleviate scheduling conflicts among service clubs, schools and the village. "Major events are planned far enough ahead of time that we should be able to avoid direct conflicts," Jungbluth said.

The calendar will be published at the beginning of each month in The News, with any additions publicized as they are scheduled.

Council chairman Rich Seeley said ComFIRE (Committee for Insuring Ruidoso's Environment) evacuation maps are available at all realtors' offices, fire departments in Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and Bonito, Chamber of Commerce office, KRRR Radio and The News.

Council members for the upcoming year include Alden Deyo and Ralph Bellon (Rotary), Mabel Johnson (Hospital Auxiliary), Walterine Hughes (Woman's Club), Katherine Finley (Altrusa), Bill Budens (Elks), Ellen Miller (Garden Club) and Dave McMath (Noon Lions).

The next council meeting will be sometime in July with date, time and place to be announced later.

Registrations for C-C annual banquet lagging

Registrations for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, May 14 at the New Holiday Inn, are "very slow," Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth said Friday.

"The response, to date, is 44 reservations," Jungbluth said. "This is very poor, indeed."

"We'll hold it, no matter how many reservations we get, but if the reservations don't pick up, we'll cancel the appearance of guest speaker Ken Scarborough, National Chamber of Commerce officer, who is scheduled to fly here from Dallas."

Jungbluth advised The News that he is contacting Chamber representatives to urge the attendance of all Chamber members at the banquet.

Trustees will meet Tuesday

Ruidoso's trustees will meet Tuesday evening, at 7:30 or after the election results have been tabulated, in the multipurpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

Agenda items include report on the opening of bids, May 8, on the Alto Pumping Station; proposed use of Revenue Share Funds; canvassing of the returns of the general obligation bond issue election May 6 and zoning changes previously approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Homebuilders support sewer bond passage

The Lincoln County Homebuilders Association (LCHA) voted Thursday to support the sewer bond issue and urged all voters to cast their ballots in favor of the bond.

The high costs of housing, shortage of money, methods of improving the quality of homes and the price of construction permits were major topics of discussion.

The LCHA is an affiliate of the National Homebuilders Association. Officials from the state and national organizations were also present at the meeting. Local membership now stands at 43, with 27 builders and 16 associate members.

Anyone interested in the construction industry is invited to become an associate member. The next meeting date of the group will be announced.

Man bound over on food coupon charge

Fred Fredrickson, Ruidoso Downs, was bound over to district court by Magistrate Jim Wheeler, at a preliminary hearing April 30, on four counts of unlawful dealing in Federal Food Coupons, in an amount over $100 but less than $2,500.

Fredrickson has posted a $5,000 bond, with no ten percent allowed.

Correction

In a story published May 3, the News incorrectly reported that Lincoln County commissioners had granted a request for vacation of a lot from the Holiday Hills subdivision.

That request, along with another asking for vacation of a lot in Sweetwater Hills, was tabled pending the drafting of written criteria for such action by the county Planning and Zoning Commission.

Ruidoso's gas stations open

May 17 - 20

A Ruidoso News survey of approximately ten area service stations indicates that most stations will be open May 17 through May 20.

Many stations around the country plan to close on those days as a protest to federal controls on their profits.

Although some area stations said they hadn't decided if they would close or not, the majority plan to be open.

For visitors to Ruidoso, finding open stations will not be any problem, the survey indicated.

Bonito's ambulance exploded

The Bonito Ambulance, stationed at the J&J Mini Market on Alto Hill reportedly exploded and burned early Sunday morning. The ambulance was not in use at the time of the incident.

No information was available early Monday morning as to the cause of the explosion. The Sheriff's department is investigating. The Ruidoso ambulance will be handling all ambulance calls in the Alto area until further notice.

CID arrested four local men

Officers of the Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department May 1 arrested four area men, originally from California, on separate charges.

Ronald W. Riddle and Gary Cooper were charged with burglary and larceny; with Kenneth Conklin and Eric Rosati charged with receiving stolen property.

The four were taken to Lincoln County Jail, Carrizozo, Thursday.

School board meets Tuesday

The Ruidoso Board of Education will meet Tuesday evening at 8 at the school administration building.

Agenda items include a superintendent's report on drainage at White Mountain school grounds, and opening of bids for individual student picture packets for the 1978-80 school year, the seal coat on paved school grounds and a 16 mm camera.

James Sanchez, school counselor, will give a report on testing and a letter from Al Clemmons, state public school finance officer, will be read.

Architectural committee OK's bank sign

The application of Security Bank to erect a plastic, interior lighted sign at their branch office on Main Road was approved by the Architectural Plans Review Committee at a special meeting May 2.

The bank's request had previously been twice tabled by the committee.

During this special meeting member Rex Skellett resigned, effective that date. Skellett cited possible "conflict of interest" in remaining on the committee, as he is now associated with Stanley J. French, Architect, also a committee member.

Although the Rio Ruidoso is reportedly running 400 percent of normal and the Hondo and Rio Bonito rivers are also swollen by spring runoff, area geologists, conservationists and forest service personnel believe that the possibility of severe flooding this spring is unlikely.

Greg Haussler, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) called the December disaster a "50-year flood," meaning the chance of a recurrence was only two percent.

Snow accumulations throughout the state, also much greater than normal, have caused the excessive runoff, compounding the effects of the flood here and creating hazardous conditions elsewhere.

Last week, Lieutenant Governor Roberto Mondragon signed an executive order declaring 11 northern New Mexico counties disaster areas because of "potential damage" as well as some damage to bridges and levees which has already resulted from the rushing streams.

The flow figures for the Rio Ruidoso were supplied by Lloyd Wait of the U.S. Geological Survey office in Carlsbad, who makes readings on the stream. Such readings have been made for the past 25 years, and are averaged to determine the "normal" runoff. Although the 400 percent figure, applicable to March and April this year is high, Wait said the record of 400 percent was set in March of 1978. Excessive runoff, therefore, doesn't necessarily mean flooding is imminent.

Depending on the weather conditions, Wait said he felt this year's stream conditions would be similar to those existing last year, although the runoff would be muddier because the December flood had disturbed the sediment.

Haussler said Friday his department is engaged in several projects aimed at stabilization of the stream beds in order to prevent further damage.

Stabilization is especially needed in areas where irrigation or pipeline systems were damaged, Haussler said. Several revegetment systems — three on the Rio Bonito and one on the Rio Ruidoso — are being constructed by the SCS.

The revegetment is a post and wire mesh structure which works by reducing the flow of water, thus slowing processes of erosion and gradually diverting the streams to their original courses. Haussler said several revegetment systems previously built on the Hondo and Rio Ruidoso had proved effective.

Channel work is also being carried out in the Rio Bonito subdivision, where some homes were endangered by the change in the course of the river. Haussler added that the SCS is making surveys and aiding private citizens in repair of irrigation, diversion and other ditch systems.

The effects of the loss of streamside (riparian) vegetation in the flood are still being felt, according to both Haussler and Joe Spehar, Lands and Recreation Manager for the U.S. Forest Service District in Ruidoso. Streamside vegetation includes willow and cottonwood trees and streamside brush.

Spehar said the entire food chain would be affected by the loss. With less vegetation to shade the stream, water temperatures will rise, killing some microorganisms on which insects feed. In turn, fewer insects will be able to survive and the decrease in insect life will be a threat to the survival of fish, Spehar said.

Other factors have also affected the fish life. Stream system damage was extensive in both the upper and lower areas, Haussler said, but in the upper systems, flooding was "more intense." Fish habitat in those areas suffered more, he said, because the channel was "gulled", leaving it with a gravel and cobble bottom.

The increase in sediment in the stream is also destructive to fish life, and the exposed banks (with little vegetation) will cause sediment to remain at high level, he explained.

The marine life picture is not totally bleak, however. Haussler said much spawning takes place in Carrizo Creek, which was less extensively damaged, and a sampling of the Rio Ruidoso below Fox Cave revealed "quite a number of brown trout."

Few fish have been noted in the Bonito below Fort Stanton, but a spot check of the upper Bonito found several small fish, he said. "They haven't all been washed out."

Though Haussler expects "no serious problems" with the runoff this year, he said it would be "quite a while" before things were "back to normal." Pointing out that willows and other vegetation would begin to sprout this summer, Spehar agreed that the return to the original conditions would be a lengthy process.

A REVETMENT of the Rio Bonito, above, has helped change the river's course through a gradual buildup of one bank. The mesh slows the velocity of the water, allowing silt to accumulate. Several revetments are planned in the area to help restore streams to their pre-flood state. The structure above has been in place for 20 years.

South Fork Campground flood repairs scheduled

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer/Photographer

Repair work will begin in earnest on the bridge washout leading to South Fork Campground around May 10, according to Forest Service Engineer Jerry Adamson. Surveyors have started working at the site but Adamson said actual repair work is being held up because the river flow is still too high to replace cement footings on the river bed. "As soon as spring runoff decreases a little more, we can move in and start working," Adamson said.

Repairs completed in preparation for South Fork Campground's June 1 opening included installation of a new generator, which supplies electricity for toilet pumps. Other work which will be done between now and September 15 consists of repairing the road from Highway 37 to South Fork Campground which was damaged in the December flood.

Forest Ranger Paul Gordon said Forest Service crews will work with Adamson's employees on general cleanup of the whole area to remove debris from the Rio Bonito. $375,000 has been received in Federal Highway Department assistance funds to repair roads damaged in the flood. With repair work being done by the Forest Service and the Lincoln County Road Department.

Smokey Bear Ranger District Lands and Recreation manager Joe Spehar said the State Department of Highways will be involved in paving parts of the road to Bonito Lake which were not paved before the flood. He said work would probably begin on those sections by late June. "When it's all finished, the highway to Bonito Lake will be entirely paved," Spehar said.

Meanwhile, Young Adult Conservation Corps (YACC) employees, working with Forest Service personnel, continue rehabilitation of Cedar Creek Campground, which is being transformed from a campground into a picnic site.

A sewer line is being installed to equip a flush toilet, which will not be useable until next summer. Until then, Spehar said, four portable chemical toilets have been rented by the Forest Service for use in the picnic area.

The site will feature seven or eight new fireplace and picnic table units which will bring the total capacity of the grounds to 115 people. "This is based on about five people per unit and we have 23 units," Spehar said.

Three parking areas will be developed within the grounds and the road, which has already received a base coat, will be chipped and oiled by July.

Cable "T" beams, formerly used, will be replaced by "more aesthetically pleasing" wooden posts, Spehar said. The picnic sites will open May 26. Spehar said projected cost of the project is $35,000.

DEBRIS left in the river from the December flood will be cleaned out by Forest Service workers in time for South Fork Campground's June 1 opening.

SURVEYORS are doing preliminary work at the bridge washout near South Fork Campground. Forest Service engineer Jerry Adamson said the bridge will be repaired by June 1, so South Fork campground can be opened for public use.

SMOKEY BEAR DISTRICT Ranger Paul Gordon and engineer Jerry Adamson made an on-site inspection of work progress at Cedar Creek Campground Friday. The campground is being converted to a picnic area and one major improvement will be a flush toilet.

A CANAL which will house sewer line servicing a flush toilet is being constructed at Cedar Creek picnic area by Forest Service personnel and Young Adult Conservation Corps employees.

To: Ruidoso

From: Ollie and Betty Cuddy

Of the many wonderful blessings we've enjoyed during the 6 years of our life in Ruidoso, we count each one of you as the most important part of those rewarding years.

As you selected gifts from the Casa de Regalos for those close to you... the gift you gave us was a portion of your life, your warmth, your friendship.

You became the living day-by-day satisfaction behind our owning and caring for a shop in Ruidoso. The 'work' of running our store was really more love than labor because of you.

On May 1st, the Casa de Regalos was purchased by Jim and June Dutton, who have owned and operated the Apache Village Motel/Cabins for the past six years. We are pleased that the shop is being entrusted to a young couple who we believe will also serve you with the same interest and personal attention you've received in the past. Gift wrapping will continue to be free, too.

We hope you will drop by the Casa de Regalos, meet Jim and June, and extend to them a warm, warm welcome.

Thank you Ruidoso!

Sincerely,

Ollie and Betty

THE TEAMSTERS

by Steven Brill
Simon and Schuster, N.Y. 1978

Steven Brill's investigation into the Teamsters Union required more than journalistic skills. It required a large amount of courage. Now he has placed before us the lurid details which make up much of the history of the Teamsters Union. It would not have been too unexpected to have read of his disappearance, or that he had fallen from a tall building, or been found in forty feet of water wearing concrete fins. That Brill is still alive might suggest some denial of his own conclusions, but I prefer to believe that the people he wrote about cannot read. In any event, there is little about the Teamsters that Brill does not know or hasn't told us. And he has done it skillfully and in the finer traditions of investigative journalism. To which one might question whether there is any other form of journalism.

At the beginning of this century, the Teamsters were a loose confederation of horse and buggy delivery men. Even then one union leader boasted that no industry could carry on its business if the teamsters lay down their reins. Today the Teamsters are the largest union in the country with one out of every hundred Americans paying dues to its treasury. Their power to strangle the economic life of the nation comes from the fact that almost everything we eat, drink, wear or use is handled by the Teamsters Union.

Brill's method of presenting the Teamster story is by means of profiles. His chapters on Hoffa, Fitzsimmons, and lower echelon figures such as Provenzano, Dorfman and Presser give insight to the corruption and strong-arming which has been for so long a part of the Teamster image. These are the men who draw the high salaries and carry nepotism to new lengths. They wear the silk suits and the pinky rings, and talk that special vocabulary from the side of the mouth. There is a strange brand of trade unionism that is practiced along with loan sharking, numbers running, cargo pilfering and sweetheart contracts.

Although Brill gives an account of the Teamsters that speaks of corruption and crimes - and without which there would hardly have been a story to tell to a publisher - he forces us to a wider perspective. He also tries to explain how all this came to be and why. He has driven through the night with the working trucker and talked at length with the warehouseman. So he tells us something about the men at the other end of the scale, those who do not get invited to play golf at the La Costa Country Club.

Brill has puzzled over the failure of some of the good and honest men to break the traces. He devotes a chapter to Ron Carey, president of the United Parcelers local in New York. Carey is an officer of high integrity who works hard for the people he represents and does his job well. Yet Carey's good works have left him isolated from the union leadership and thoroughly disillusioned.

Quite fittingly, Brill reserved the last chapter to Harold Gibbons. Gibbons is the second vice president of the International. He is the man who could have challenged Hoffa and Fitzsimmons and done something about ridding the Union of its corruption. Brill thinks he is the one who might have made the difference. At age 67 Gibbons himself can not help but think about what might have been. What held Gibbons in line no doubt was the thought of a short life.

Much of the material Brill has used has been written previously. The strength of this book comes from the force of the more than 300 interviews he conducted. Some of which can hardly be seen as routine.

In summation, Brill finds few parts of Teamsters that are untarnished and he sees little hope that the future will bring any change.

Altrusa's Sunday home tour Successful

"There was something for everyone," June Rawley, chairman of the "Turquoise Tour of Homes" committee, said.

The Altrusa Club of Ruidoso sponsored the tour of six homes Sunday afternoon and received support from more than 200 people who viewed the Stroemer home, Travis home, French home, Affirmative House, Scribner home and the Liddicoat home.

"We will have reached our goal for the scholarship fund with this project, but we won't know exactly how much we made until Tuesday," Rawley said.

Final touches were added to the homes by local florists who donated flower arrangements for each home, Leroy Wilce of Roswell, who lent hand dyed, hand made tapestries to adorn the walls of the French home and Walter Rawley, who also lent bronze sculptures to the French family.

Bus service was provided by Dick Cull and Rawley said, "The families who so graciously opened their homes to us for this worthwhile cause made it a wonderful success."

Money received from the tour of homes will be used to fund community services and to aid women in pursuing educational or vocational skills.

LIVING IN A BARN can be a treat, if it's designed like the Liddicoat home, which is actually a remodeled barn. Using warm browns and autumn colors, the decor of the home harmonizes well with the natural wood of the barn structure. Above, a child's bedroom features barn doors opening into a clothes closet.

IT LOOKS LIKE a log cabin on the outside, but a tour of the inside of the Affirmative house yields many surprises, one being this round bathtub with original porcelain designs on the tile, enclosed by stained glass windows encased in folding doors.

Eta Chapter scholarship awarded to Debbie Jones

Debbie Jones, an education major at New Mexico State University, has been awarded a $400 scholarship by the Eta Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa. The vote to donate the money came during a business meeting of the chapter held April 28 at the home of Carrie Godley.

The meeting was preceded by the annual dutch breakfast which was held at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. Chapter president Greta Cabot opened the meeting, and initiation ceremonies were held for Cathy Norman and Charlanne Cooper.

Hostesses for the September meeting will be Nellie Jones, Greta Cabot and Kathy Weems. Date and place for the meeting will be announced later.

Those present at the meeting included Hazel Arthurs, Greta Cabot, Louise Ferguson, Carrie Godley, Nellie Jones, Elsie Kimbrell, Cathy Norman, Charlie Cooper, Darla Lathan, Maurine Leonard, Nancy McCarty, Louise Morgan, Leota Pfingsten, Angeline Provine, Ofelia Salas, Myrtle Williams, Kathy Weems and Jan Hickerson.

DANNIE STORM

On The Eve Of Our Father's Birthday

This message is being sent to you on May second, the eve of the birthday of our father, Lynn Whippo Storm. And all the mountain world is shining in the most beautiful springtime glory that you ever saw, in celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of our father's birthday.

The last few days some freshening sprinkles of rain have fallen here in the vale, and the air is filled with mellow moisture blowing in from places where good showers have worked their magic just close by over the hill.

I have been looking over some of the photographs our father took in and around Valdez, Alaska more than seventy years ago. Some of these taken almost seventy years ago show myself, Mother and eldest brother John, and brother Mark all out in front of our little house in Valdez.

Our grandfather, Francis David Storm was a pioneer photographer, in Denver, Colorado and father learned much from his father about photography.

Alaska Photographs

The art and science of taking photographs was in the pioneering stage back in the Valdez days, and yet the photos that Father took are remarkably clear and vivid. Now that the earthquake, that struck on Good Friday 1964, destroyed most of the old historic village of Valdez, these pictures that our father took are in a class by themselves. Besides scenes of Valdez, the photos picture glaciers, many forests and mountain scenes, native canoes in the bays, and early mining operations. There are some photos of the Alaskan Indians, and of an Easter service at the old Russian Church on Kodiak Island. I still have Father's camera with which he took the pictures. I will tell you some more about the Valdez photos and the early days of Valdez later on, one of these days.

The World Glows In Mid-Spring Splendor

I cannot remember a more wonderful springtime in all my years here in the vale. Today there is a brisk west wind, something rare for the month of May. The late showers and winds have made the leaves burst out more rapidly than usual. There is a magic in the world of new green below the sky of blue and white, that brings all the joy of years past up to join in with the light-hearted happiness of the day. At the same time we feel bright hope in all the days ahead.

Oak Brush

On the hillsides, you never saw the oak brush so bright and glowing amongst the pines and cedar. The wind on high makes the pyramids of leaves glisten and glimmer in the afternoon sun so that all the mountain seems lighted from the inside.

On enchanted days like this, the happy memories of years past are clear as this moment. The world is in a joyful lull. In these wonderful days in the full flood of new springtime life, God takes us close to Heaven. And the spirits of all our dear ones are lovingly near us.

With the white clouds flying in the blue sky, and the breeze waving the golden leaves along the river, and the mountain all aglow, there is a song of joy all through the world and your heart is in harmony with this happy song.

New Flowers

New flowers are blooming day by day brought out by the winter moisture, the April showers and the west wind.

Along the way you will see a little patch of bright vermillion red, nestling on little rocky banks, or out in fields or under the shadows of the pines. This is the Indian Paint brush, a favorite American flower and a pride and joy of the American West.

Let us thank God for these wonderful spring days, for friends and loved ones and all our many blessings.

Floor Fashions

"CHILD-PROOFING" is not yet built into today's carpets, which can be made mothproof, static-free, sunfast and mildew-proof. Easy cleaning and stain-resistance are a big plus, of course, where children are wreaking their normal havoc in the home.

The presence of active children and pets should be a factor in any carpet choice. Medium tones rather than very light or very deep colors might be advisable, helping to make the carpet look soil-free between cleanings. Or specify a carpet fiber that is known for soil-resistance, such as a treated nylon pile.

An even better choice would be a multi-color carpet, popular today and available in an ever-wider range of mixes. The combination of two or more colors tends to "hide" spots and soil, the eye being deceived by the varied shadings in the carpet. Patterned carpets also tend to hide soil, and are available even in relatively low-priced prints.

An olefin, or indoor-outdoor type carpet makes a good budget choice for hard wear. A "budget" carpet, however, isn't always the wisest choice for wear. Remember, the more yarn that is packed into a square inch of carpet [its density], the more it will wear well...and better carpets offer this greater density of construction.

Let us advise you on the choice of the right carpet for your family's needs...for tomorrow as well as today. We have the selection to give you the best choice at the best price.

EIGHT WARRIORS EARN STATE BERTHS

Thinclads take fourth place

The Ruidoso High School track teams, despite placing four members each in the state meet next Friday and Saturday at Albuquerque, wound up the season with a fourth place finish in the district meet Friday in Animas.

For the boys, Stan Cape, Mark Dutton, Joe Almager and Jovian Smith earned spots in the state meet. Kristi Perryman, Tammy McCulley, Toni Scarborough and Ruta Bob qualified for the girls.

Friday's meet in Animas came on the heels of a four hour bus ride, which boys' coach Darrell Stierwalt said was a detriment to his team's spark.

"The kids were just tired," he said.

Ruidoso did win some events, although finishing behind Lordsburg, Animas and Hatch in the final meet standings. Stan Cape posted a first place in the 440 yard run with a 55.3 sprint. Mark Dutton leaped 29'11 1/2" to win the long jump. Joe Almager, as expected, took the mile run in 4:46. Other than those top finishes, the Warriors were shut out in the win column. Stierwalt was counting on some solid performances.

"Everyone wasn't up to par," he said. "We didn't do what we thought we could do. We won a few things. We were disappointed."

What really hurt the Warriors' chances was the mile medley relay, an event they won but were disqualified from. Ruidoso made the pass of the baton on one of the legs outside of the exchange lane, an automatic disqualification.

"It was just a bad day for us," he said. "The kids feel like they could have done better."

It wasn't a bad day for the mile relay team of John Cabot, Cape, Borde Williams and Jeff Elliott. They ran their best time despite losing.

"They had the best time we ever ran," Stierwalt said. "But Lordsburg and Animas just ran off and left us. We got beat by six or seven yards."

Ruidoso did have some other high finishes. Jovian Smith ran a 10:55 in the two mile for second place. But that disappointed Stierwalt.

"That was another disappointment there," he said. "He just got beat by a step at the end."

Cape took a third in the high hurdles with a 17.9. Dutton took second in the high jump with a leap of 5'11". He also took a third in the 100 yard dash in 10.8. Craig Sullivan took a third behind Almager in the mile run in 5:25. Steve Cox took a third in the javelin with a heave of 141 feet.

In the end, it was the lack of points in the field events and relays which caused the fourth place finish, Stierwalt said.

"It was a terrible day for us," he said. "The thing that really hurt us was we didn't have anybody do well in the field events. The shot put and the discus hurt us. And not being able to run in the relays. That put a damper on us."

"If we had had one good sprint man and a good weight man, that would have made a difference," he said. "We were real close but not close enough."

The girls, while placing four girls in the state meet, didn't fare any better than their male counterparts. Only Ruta Bob, in the 880 yard run and the mile, made it into the winner's circle.

The reason no one else placed first in the meet, girls' coach Sergio Castanon said, was because the competition was stiff.

"The competition was tougher than we thought it was going to be," Castanon said. Castanon also said the fact that he only had ten girls on his team hurt.

"I had to run my girls in three or five events," he said. "It was real good for what we had. Some of our relays were impromptu."

The girls did have some top finishers. Tammy McCulley placed second in the discus with a toss of 86'8". Toni Scarborough placed second in the 880 yard run, which qualified her for state. Perryman compiled four second place finishes: the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 110 hurdles and the long jump. She placed fourth in the 80 yard low hurdles. Lisa Delhotal and Ellen Blizell placed third in the discus and shot put, respectively. Debbie Joe Almager and Jenny Delhotal placed fifth and fourth, respectively in the 110 low hurdles. Almager also tallied a fifth place in the 80 yard lows. The best the Warriors could do was fourth in the relays.

"The relays were a big key," Castanon said. "That's where they got 10 points and we got three or four. Relays were impromptu. It was a matter of adjusting all year."

Ruidoso finished fourth in the meet, behind Animas, Hatch and Lordsburg. Castanon pointed out that the difference between second place and fourth place was 12 points. Unlike Stierwalt, Castanon wasn't disappointed with the fourth place finish.

"All the girls looked real good," he said. "For some of them, it was their last time so they were going for it. They did a good job."

DESPITE THE GUSTY WINDS Sunday, this foursome managed to tame the Cree Meadows Country Club golf course with an eight under par 63. The score came in the season's first tourney

Out-of-towners pace team to win at club

They had to recruit two out-of-towners to do it, but the strategy paid off for the team of Dave Mason, Jim Beall, Lillian Silvers and Jim Davis.

Silvers, from Morton, Texas, and Davis of Kendallville, Indiana combined with the Ruidoso natives to post an eight under par 63 to win Sunday's 18 hole scramble at Cree Meadows Country Club.

Their total edged by three shots the team of Tom Hornbuckle, Jim Baker, Phil Walzer and Royce Russell, who fired a 68. They were the early lead in the clubhouse and many thought that score would stand considering the gusts of wind spreading over the course.

One shot back at 67 was the team of Denny McCoy, Bill Hirschfield, John Massey and Andrew Bass. Tied at 69 was the team of Tom Battey, Hal Cliff, Cale Dickey and Sunny Hirschfield and the team of Joe Segoni, Harry Ray, Bill Brooks, Marge Massey and Bobby Bales.

Three other teams also broke par: Howard Hassell, John Shivey, Georgia George and Claudine Morrison and Leroy Gooch, Bill Schwetman, Denny Loverin, Marilyn Bloodworth and Mary Levins posted 70 as a team. Button Silvers, Frank Loop, Kaki Schwetman and Wayne Sivage posted 70.

Other teams in the hunt were: Dave Krezer, Paul Dean, Bob Levine and Adam McGill (73); George McGill, Kent Battey, Sue Reeves and Shirley Loop (72); Stormy Edwards, Kyle Kannady, Bob Little and CeCe Suddeth (71); Larry Runyon, Buck Morrison, Wally Jankawak and Diane Sivage (73); Doug Bass, George Shoemaker, Jim Carpenter and Shirley Cliff (74) and Bob Dunn, Buck Meyer, Wayne McGuffin and Roz Krezer (78).

Directory provides information on campsites

From Alaska to Baja California and from the Pacific to the Rockies, Western campers can select the campground with the facilities they want from 8,500 areas listed in the 1979 edition of Sunset Magazine's Western Campsite Directory.

The hefty 392-page publication, completely revised and updated each year, gives complete information on everything from 250-space resort-like recreation vehicle parks to nearly primitive campgrounds in remote wilderness areas.

Each site is pinpointed on locator maps, and listings provide data on location, access roads, facilities, fees, attractions, and the surrounding country. Phone numbers and mailing addresses are included for campgrounds which take reservations.

Supporting the maps and listings are dozens of articles which provide ideas and directions for sightseeing and outdoor activities through the 12 Western states, as well as western Canada and Mexico.

The Sunset directory also includes regulations for backcountry hiking, recipes for campground meals, and suggestions for campers going to Canada and Mexico.

"If gasoline is in short supply, and expensive, it will be more important than ever for campers to carefully select the

New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) took advantage of playing in its own backyard to take a nine stroke win over Portales in their golf tournament Friday. Ruidoso, although Kyle Kannady's 84 was one of their lowest scores in tournament play this year, was in last place with a 366 total.

Paul Kirkwood added a 92, Randy Wym, a 93 and Mike Dale a 97 to the Warrior cause. Ruidoso finished 11 shots behind Eunice.

NMMI's 305 total edged Portales by nine shots. Jal was at 323 while Lovington struggled to a 333, two shots better than Artesia.

The Warriors' next and final tournament of the season is Tuesday in Artesia.

places they want to visit, so as not to waste time and gasoline, or be disappointed with their camping experience," said Kris Valencia, editor of the Sunset Directory. "We know people will still want to travel, and we want to help make sure their trips are pleasant."

Among the travel suggestions in the 1979 issue are details on the salt water highways of the Pacific Northwest, California's Channel Islands, the Picket Post Trail in Arizona, excursions on the lakes of Glacier National Park, and discovering the Old West around Cody, Wyoming.

A companion to the camping directory is Western Travel Adventures, an annual Sunset publication which provides details on dozens of weekend and vacation ideas, from river and backpacking trips to unusual museums and quaint little inns.

Little League begins tonight

Little League baseball kicks off today at 5:30 at the field on Gavilan Canyon Road. The minor league game will be followed by a major league game at 7 p.m. under the lights.

Warm water lakes getting hot

The state's warm water lakes are where the most fishing action is, according to Game and Fish Department reports from around the state.

Crappie and white bass fishing seem to be hottest, with heavy stringers being reported from Elephant Butte, Conchas and Ute Lakes. Live minnows are good baits for both species, as are yellow and white jigs. Catfishing with trotlines baited with cut baits or minnows is also good at the heads of most of the major warm water reservoirs, where the cats are concentrating to feed in the incoming flows.

Walleye fishing is good in the upper Canadian arm of Conchas Lake, and knowledgeable anglers are setting trotlines for catfish, then spending days and evenings filling their ice chests with crappie, white bass and walleye, says the department.

Trout fishing is variable. Conditions, especially in the streams, are changing almost daily. Although catch rates remain good to very good in somewhat high and murky water, most anglers prefer not to fish the streams once the waters become too swift and muddy.

Lakes, although they will also be dark from runoff waters, will nevertheless continue to yield trout to bait fishermen and, unless extremely dark, to those using spinning and trolling gear as well.

Anglers wanting to stream fish for trout should watch weekly recreational reports and check each stream individually.

Game department survey underway

More than 15,000 anglers, randomly selected from among those who purchased New Mexico fishing licenses last season, have been mailed questionnaires and can help the Department of Game and Fish help them to better fishing by filling out the cards and returning them.

"This particular questionnaire gives us one of our most nearly complete pictures on the number of anglers, number of days fished, and the numbers and kinds of fish caught," Bob Patterson, research biologist with the Department's Fisheries Division, said.

He said the form asks anglers to remember, to the best of their ability, where and for how many days they fished, the species caught—rainbows, browns, crappie, bluegill, bass, etc.—and the number of each kind caught.

The first New Mexico fisheries survey of this type yielded a 21 percent return of the questionnaire cards, which Patterson said was sufficient—but could be better.

"The big game card surveys yield about a 50 percent return, which helps increase the reliability of the information," he said. "I'm hoping that anglers can do as well or better than hunters, since the information they give us helps us plan such things as fish stockings and hatchery production, and to measure the success of past fish stockings and introductions in various waters."

LUNKER TROUT CAUGHT — John Wilson and son Cody of Capitan pose with the 20 inch trout the senior Wilson pulled from Alto Reservoir Saturday afternoon, using worms for bait. Wilson made the snag in mid-afternoon, about 20 feet off shore. Wilson said he made the catch on his own but Cody intimated he might have had something to do with making the catch successful.

Things to watch to prevent forest fires

THIS TREE'S LIFE could be endangered by the utility wires and cables which run rampant through the tree's limbs. Forest Service Fire Prevention Officer Charley Mook urges homeowners who may have this problem to contact proper utility companies to have the problem corrected as soon as possible. Dry periods and high winds could spark a fire, Mook said.

PINE TREES WHICH overhang roofs have shed many needles since last summer. Charley Mook, Fire Prevention Officer at Smokey Bear Ranger District, urges homeowners to rid their roofs of any needles which may still linger from the winter. They could be a hazard if a fire should happen to get near the home, Mook said.

FIREPLACE WOOD should be stored away from the house and buildings close to the house during the summer and dry spring months of the year, according to Charley Mook, Fire Prevention Officer at Smokey Bear Ranger District. He said that wood stored as it is in the above photo would be a fire hazard to homeowners.

IF YOU'RE TEMPTED to store firewood, building materials or lawn grooming items under the upstairs patio, as the homeowner in the photo above, resist the temptation. Smokey Bear Ranger District Fire Prevention Officer Charley Mook warns that items stored under decks can be fire hazards, especially during summer months.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—What are you looking for in a candidate for office? Let's say—just to choose a post at random—governor of the state of New Mexico.

The incumbent (who serves till 1982) cannot succeed himself. He is reportedly grooming his nephew, the state's Cabinet Secretary for Finance and Administration, to be his successor.

But the fact of the matter is that he does not get to choose his own successor. You and I—thoughtless old voters that we are—actually have that power in our own hands.

Of course, it's now only 1979, and not even mid-year at that. But the thought crosses some of our minds that, rather than waiting till the last minute, like we usually do, maybe we ought to begin thinking about potential sources for New Mexico's next governor now.

Hence this, the first in a continuing series of columns on men and women we might want to consider.

This seems like a strange guy to start with.

That's because, when we first came to know him, more years ago than either of us like to remember, he seemed like a man whose career was on the upswing. Lately, if we look only at the surface of things, he seems like a man whose promise may have begun to decline.

So why mention him now as a potential candidate for governor?

Because the very circumstances of his humiliation may have served him to do what, in the old days, he might have drifted past doing.

His name is Raymond Sanchez. He is the majority leader in the House of the New Mexico Legislature—which, in present circumstances, is like saying nothing at all. (The very words "majority" and "minority" have taken on strange and unrealistic significances in the New Mexico Legislature in recent months. Nonetheless, he holds that job.)

Background: A Valencia County boy—Helen born and bred. Learned politics in that part of the Rio Grande Valley where they don't teach it anymore like they did in those days. Went to the big city—Albuquerque. Most New Mexicans hate that name, but can't ignore it.

Finished UNM, got law degree there, set up Albuquerque practice. Ran for office from Big City's North Valley, racially and economically mixed area—ricos here, pobres there; to be successful, must appeal to both. Now nineteenth in seniority in House—right behind Gene Samberson of Lea County, who led group of southern and austere Democrats, never noted for sensitivity, who threw in with Republicans to take control of the House. (The problem they face now: If a few more Republicans win next time, Democrats who made this deal get eaten alive; if Democrats gain more seats, Republicans who made it possible go down the toilet. Plus one more thing. Suppose a guy like Ray Sanchez, whom they humiliated, gets elected to office...)

So Ray, capable, intense, devoted, may decide those things he learned in Belen as a boy are true; he may run for governor, not despite the humiliation he has been put through, but because of it.

We'll keep you up on his plans and progress, as well as on those of everyone else who may be thinking of running for governor.

As of mid-1979, it's just possible that the next state-wide election may be one of the most interesting and vital ones our state has ever had.

REFORM POSSIBLE

By enforcing the state liquor laws, State Liquor Director Jim Baca may inadvertently bring about some reform in the state's tangled liquor laws. In the past, liquor dealers were reluctant to change the laws because things were operating as they wanted anyway.

Dealers who wanted to sell to minors and sell on Sunday, did so without fear of arrest, under previous liquor administrations. Those who didn't want to, didn't have to. If the legal age to drink were lowered to 18, and Sunday sales were allowed, it meant more work for them.

And those funny club licenses were a catch-all for any kind of organization that wanted a liquor license at a minimum fee.

But suddenly, things are not going as smoothly as in the past. Reports are one Espanola liquor dealer, who was counted on for Sunday emergency sales, is turning business away, and dealers like that who counted heavily on profits from those illegal sales might agree to get some sensible liquor laws in the state.

We're not saying Sunday sales should be legalized or the drinking age lowered—just that the laws we have now be enforced. And if we enforce some of the dumb laws we have, the legislature might be forced to straighten them out. — The Rio Grande Sun, Española

UNLEADED GAS SHAM

PSYCHOLOGY is a major factor in marketing. The statistical difference between $1.00 and 99 cents is usually insignificant, but it can and does make a big difference in the marketplace because the difference SEEMS larger.

As gasoline prices rise steadily toward that three-digit mark, a major psychological test is ahead. The stock market found out it could not support a Dow-Jones of 1,000. Will gasoline retailers find that $1.00 a gallon is the turn-off limit for car owners?

We won't have long to wait and see on that one. It's just around the corner.

The spread between leaded and unleaded gasoline is getting wider. It started off at just a penny or two when the federal edict came out in 1975. But now it's usually at least four cents a gallon, and ranges all the way up to 10.

When unleaded hits $1.00 and regular is 90 cents, what do you think will happen? The government is scared silly over the prospect. Surveys show that hundreds of thousands of car owners are ready to toss their catalytic converters into the trash can and switch to a cheaper fuel. Most of them are convinced that unleaded isn't doing what it's supposed to do in the first place.

The gasoline mixup is a beautiful example of government at work in the marketplace. The feds have forced car manufacturers to go unleaded all the way. This means that as new cars replace old ones, the demand for unleaded is growing very rapidly, by about 25 percent a year.

Over-all gasoline consumption, on the other hand, is increasing only 1 to 2 percent a year.

Since refiners have been under price controls, and unleaded is more expensive to produce than leaded, what do you think they've been making the most of? It doesn't take much brains to figure that one out.

When the shortage of unleaded that is sure to come is coupled with a higher price for it, the guy who is paying the bill is liable to kick over the traces and convert his car to using leaded.

The Environmental Protection Agency has just sent us a brochure on the gasoline situation. It is pure government propaganda, headlined, "Unleaded Gas... the Way to Go." It appeals to the citizen's patriotism and civic spirit, and then reminds him that he may go to jail if he isn't patriotic.

We think most people will quickly see through this officious duplicity. — Hop Graham, The Lovington Daily Leader

THEY USUALLY SURVIVE

President Carter is now caught up in a controversy and possible scandal about his campaign financing in 1976, including some astonishing borrowing for his peanut business. He'll probably survive. Presidents usually do.

Lyndon Johnson survived many scandals, including his first election to the Senate, his FCC and broadcast station controversies, Senate wheeling and dealing, etc.

John Kennedy was dead, however, before a book by his confessing mistress hit the newsstands; likewise, Dwight Eisenhower. And both Franklin Roosevelt and Johnson were also the subject of mistress sensations. So was Warren Harding.

Harry Truman had his flaps with aids and alleged favors, but no mistress sensation. Neither was President Nixon burdened by mistress revelations. Nixon, however, was an exception to the rule. Presidents usually survive. And Mr. Carter, born-again, can always smile and say: "The Devil made me do it." — Santa Rosa News

MENTAL ILLNESS UP

The stress of living under the conditions imposed by 20th century civilization is often cited as a cause of mental disorder. Thus few will be surprised at a United Nations agency's conclusion that mental illness has reached disturbingly high levels in the world, and continues on the increase.

According to the International Labor Organization, some 120 million persons throughout the world are afflicted with serious mental disorders. Its survey anticipates a further dramatic rise in such problems; we are told that by the turn of the century the number will stand at about 200 million. That grim forecast argues for heightened effort, at both national and international levels, to develop and maintain effective mental health programs. — Alamogordo Daily News

editorial

Tomorrow, with the $1.5 million general obligation sewer bond election, is a mighty important day in the lives of Ruidoso's citizens.

Indeed, the entire future growth of Ruidoso depends upon the passage of that bond issue. That's how important the Regional Wastewater System is to the village — if it doesn't pass, there'll be an end to progress.

Non-passage will put a stop to increasing property values. This, in turn, will eventually result in an ever increasing tax rate. It is the assessed valuation that controls the tax rate — the higher the valuation, the lower the cost per $1,000 of taxable valuation to the individual taxpayer.

Passage of this bond issue will insure an adequate treatment plant to serve the village's present needs, as well as the projected growth for years into the future. This is because the new plant, with a treatment capacity of three million gallons of sewage daily, can be easily enlarged to handle double that gallonage.

The bond issue will provide funds for larger sewer mains, eliminating the present seepage and overflow problems of overloaded mains and inadequate feeder lines leading to an inadequate treatment plant.

The cost to taxpayers will be less than $3 per $1,000 of assessed valuation and that bite will probably be less than $1.50 the first two years — as half of the issue can be withheld from the market for that period of time.

If this bond issue passes, the Regional Wastewater System will be built, because Ruidoso Downs has the funding for their share on deposit. The upcoming half-million dollar sewer bond election in Ruidoso Downs has no connection whatever with the Regional Wastewater System that will serve both villages.

The important thing about tomorrow is to go to the Public Library and vote — the polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. — CD

LOOKING AHEAD, BEHIND

It's this way ... last Thursday's column was written a week ago today ... ergo ... on Monday, Wednesday was ahead ... and my remarks on the Planning Zoning Commission's meeting was the upcoming Wednesday ... putting my perception a week ahead, thus a week behind ... and, even at this late date, that's confusing ... to me.

Anyhow ... as you now know from reading about the demise of the proposed "sign ordinance" ... you know that the "signs of our times" in the times ahead may be a sign of other colors, shapes and sizes.

Which leaves the future ... and those charged with producing a sign ordinance in conformance with the wishes of those wanting signs in Harmony Valley will come up with one ... one that will insure a life of peace, accord, tranquility, serenity and harmony here ... which is as it should be.

ON AUTO GASOLINE

The nation's gasoline station operators have flat and gone and got their dander up ... and it'll be said stations' customers that'll suffer ... whilst our friendly gas pocketers quibble over restrictions on the mark-up currently imposed by Uncle Sam.

If'n the nation's gas stations start closing Friday through Monday ... there'll be a lot of hollering ... from drivers ... but who'll pay any attention to them? Leaving as a question ... can the stations peddle enough gas in three days to accumulate the profits of a seven day week ... if so ... the founder of this idea can look forward to being perpetuated in bronze ... as the guy who dreamed up the three day week. But, where'll he buy gas if'n he's away from his own pumps?

This proposed four day ban on gas has nothing to do with any shortage of the stuff ... it has to do with the gasser uppers wanting a little more profit ... and, if'n their profit per gallon is frozen, it follows they want it thawed ... and if'n the drivers ... their customers ... get froze off the highways in the process ... what can they do but mumble and grumble ... unless the self-serve stations keep open ... in which case, they'll have so much volume they couldn't afford to make any more profit ... besides, it might tend to make Americans more self reliant and self-serve minded ... no?

DRIVING THRILLS AHEAD

Come Friday ... that's May 11 ... them ponies'll be runnin' ... and right on their heels, if'n all goes well, the tourists'll come ... which will again serve to make driving mighty interesting here in Harmony Valley.

That means that us'uns as drive here the year around gotta shake our lethargy of the past few months ... and start paying some never mind to our driving ... if'n we don't want to become involved in fender benders.

Some of the things we should maybe watch a little out for include ... if'n you remember last summer ... and summers past ... is to look both ways before making a U-turn ... 'cause our guests won't be paying as much attention to what's ahead of them as they should be ... besides ... where they come from ... such maneuvering's probably frowned on.

Then there's the blinker lights ... them's for announcing you're thinking, maybe, about turning left or right, somewhere ahead ... which sorta gives the guy ahead and behind a clue that you might not be continuing more or less straight ahead. On the other hand, blinker lights are something, it seems, that are generally not used ... 'cause they might not work, if'n they're used so much they wear out, should an emergency arise ... like some joker not giving you a break 'cause you didn't signal you was about to turn ... until you're past the point of no return.

The speeds driven also enter the picture ... 'cause there's those as drive 15 in a 40 zone ... and them as cruise 70 in the 30 zone ... either of which should serve as notice that you ... if'n you're there ... should beware.

'Course there's our first-time tourists ... they're the ones that's liable to stop and gawk ... sudden like ... with no warning ... leaving you with the problem of stopping ... 'cause you're headed for trouble if'n you back-end a car ... even if'n it's backing up ... which, in the case of our tourists, sometimes happens ... just to help make driving here interesting.

Which means ... stay in your lane ... if'n there's one to stay in ... and hang in there tough ... summer don't last as long as it seems.

BICKER BIT: Gasoline rationing probably wouldn't keep RVs off the road, but it'd go a long way toward keeping their drivers in line ... (1)

Downs gearing for 1979 meeting action

About 500 horses are stabled at Ruidoso Downs, but the headcount will be up to around 1,000 by the end of the week. The running surface — completely renovated at a cost of some $60,000 — opened for training Monday.

According to general manager Woody Erwin, the entire base has been checked, and re-structured and re-leveled, as needed. "The running surface will be in the best condition it's ever been in," Erwin said.

Horses will continue to arrive at the mountain track in a steady stream. When the current Sunland Park meeting closes May 6, there'll be a final surge of horse traffic to the mountain country, and Ruidoso's stable population will be at the maximum of around 1,700 when the new season kicks off May 11.

The demand for Ruidoso stall space, according to racing secretary Gordon Graham, was "extremely heavy." Graham was kept busy in recent weeks sifting through some 3,300 requests, and okaying 1,700. The quality of horses shipping to Ruidoso, Graham said, "looks terrific in all areas."

Heading up the list of top-name trainers who'll be campaigning at Ruidoso this season is Jack Brooks. The standout in his bunch is Moon Lark, the brilliant All-American Futurity winner of 1978. Moon Lark has now earned over $635,000 and is the second-best money-maker in quarter horse history.

Bubba Werner, the defending trainer champ, will be shipping in with a 35 head group. Included in his lineup is Gentlemen's Feature, the upset winner of the 1978 Kansas Futurity. Werner also plans to bring in Johnny Mito, winner of last spring's Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland.

Joe Merrick will be back at the mountain track, and his brand will include the perennial star, Real Easy Jet. The colt is aiming at the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic.

Trainer J.B. Montgomery will be campaigning a 35 head group. One of his two-year-olds stars is Rocket Jet Bug, winner of the recent West Texas Futurity at Sunland.

Numerous trainers with big reputations in thoroughbred circles in the Southwest are headed to Ruidoso.

Included among these is Doyal Roberts, who'll bring in, once again, the top handicap and allowance sprinter, Barrister Sib. The Roberts team also includes Dyanamo Mac, who recently won in allowance competition at Oaklawn Park. Another Roberts workhorse is Barbijay, who excels in allowance routes.

Jim McClanahan will be shipping in with a 14 head group which includes: the stakes star, Jerimi Johnson, and the former stakes standout, Tracy Dias. Gib McClanahan will be delivering some stiff blows with his stakes ace, Mr. Clyde.

Downs purses $6.5 million

Over $6½ million in purses is expected to be dished out to horsemen during the 1979 Ruidoso Downs meeting.

That's the word from general Manager Woody Erwin, who reports that figure is the highest in the track's 33-year history.

In fact, Erwin said, Ruidoso has set a record for purses each year since 1972. That year, the figure was $3,237,154. Last year, the total topped out at $6,347,585.

The new season, covering 68 race days, gets off the ground Friday, May 11 and extends through Labor Day. Some 500 horses are already on the track grounds. The equine population will pick up steadily, reaching a full house situation of some 1,700 by opening day. A major renovation of the racing surface was completed last week. Horses will be on the surface this week for exercising and workouts.

Of that $6½ million earmarked for purses in the 1979 meeting, big hunks will go into the world's two richest races. Biggest of all is the All-American Futurity, which packs a purse of $1,280,000, and will be renewed before a national TV audience Labor Day. A week earlier, Ruidoso will stage the three-year-old counterpart of the world's richest race — the All-American Derby. The gross purse is projected at $1 million.

Thus, Ruidoso Downs will be in the enviable position of offering two million-dollar-plus races.

Once again, the heart of the Ruidoso stakes schedule will be the famed Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses, and the Triple Crown for three-year-old quarter horses.

The two-year-old set is topped by the All-American Futurity. The classic is preceded by the $525,000 Kansas Futurity June 3 and the $450,000 Rainbow Futurity July 22. No horse has yet to sweep all three legs.

The most sparkling jewel in the three-year-old Triple Crown is the All-American Derby, August 28. Leading up to it are the $200,000 Kansas Derby May 20, and the $450,000 Rainbow Derby July 8.

There's only been one winner of the three-year-old Triple Crown. The trick was pulled off by My Easy Credit in 1977.

Once again, action will be staged in a basic format of Thursday-through-Sunday racing. First post will be 1:30 p.m., except for Sunday cards, which will get going a half hour earlier.

Here's a re-cap of the Ruidoso stakes schedule:

PLAYBOY'S 25TH ANNIVERSARY

25th Anniversary Playmate Candy Loving (left) and Debra Jo Fondren (right), 1978 Playmate of the Year, join Playboy founder and publisher Hugh Hefner (center) in celebration of 'Playboy's 25th Anniversary' television special, May 7, on ABC-TV.

Hosted by Hefner, Jimmy Caan and Tony Curtis, the program commemorates two-and-one-half decades of significant social change, much of which was initiated and fostered by Hugh Hefner and Playboy magazine.

The special looks at the last 25 years through the eyes of news-reel cameras, events and interviews, with tribute paid to Hefner by such notables as Sara Vaughn, Bill Russell, Chevy Chase, Bing Crosby and Flip Wilson (as 'Bunny' Geraldine) in a provocative retrospective, the essence of which is "If Kinsey gave the American male permission to change his life-style, Hefner showed him how to do it!"

WILD WILD WEST REVISITED

'The Wild Wild West Revisited,' reuniting Robert Conrad (pictured) and Ross Martin in the starring roles of James West and Artemus Gordon, will be broadcast as a movie special, Wednesday, May 9, on CBS-TV. The intrepid team of 19th-century government underground intelligence agents were made famous on CBS' 'The Wild Wild West' series of 1965-69.

Guest starring are Paul Williams, Harry Morgan, Rene Auberjonois, Jo Ann Harris, Trisha Noble, Jeff Mac Kay, Susan Blu and Pavla Ustinov. Robert Shields and Lorene Yarnell make a special guest appearance.

In this far-out adventure, West and Gordon are brought out of retirement, after 10 years, by Robert T. Malone (Morgan), now the Director of the U.S. Secret Service. Malone has received guarded information that clone-like impostors may have been substituted for the crowned heads of Britain, Spain and Russia and that there may well be a bogus President Cleveland in Washington, D.C. That prompts him to send for the famous retired agents.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Andy Kaufman of ABC's 'Taxi' isn't always a TV comedian. On Monday nights he's a busboy. From 10:30 p.m. to 1 a.m., he throws off the coveralls he wears as Latka—the strange foreigner who makes a living repairing hacks—and throws on an apron to clear tables at the Posh Bagel, a West Hollywood eatery. But why does he do it? "Being a busboy was the first job I ever had after graduating high school," Andy said between wipes. "I like to keep in touch with my roots. And it's something I can fall back on." "He's really funny," one waitress chuckled. "Sometimes a customer will ask for water and Andy will bring coffee. The customer starts complaining and Andy pretends he doesn't speak English. Then Andy gets all flustered and nervous and grabs the cup, but he'll come back with the coffee and say 'Thank you very much'—just like he does on TV." It's difficult for Kate Jackson to do any shopping without being noticed, but she managed it the other day on Hollywood's Rodeo Drive. Fixed up with hair in a bun, dark sunglasses and an ankle-length granny dress, she didn't look at all like an Angel.

TV INSIDER: Doctors have warned Jack Klugman to give up acting for at least six months or run the risk of permanently damaging his throat. Now the actor (who underwent surgery for removal of a malignant growth on his larynx in 1973) tells me that in the week since 'Quincy' has completed its season's shooting, the condition has improved. "I'm resting my throat and it's feeling better. But I don't think I can do a full season of 22 shows in the fall. I should have a year off—with maybe no more to do than an occasional 'Quincy,' and a movie or TV project or so." Jane Fonda on her TV interview with Barbara Walters: "I'm rehearsing for the 'Dick Cavett Show.' He probably won't ask me the right questions, but he'll be better than Barbara Walters. She had a terrific opportunity. I'm real disappointed. We were expecting—wow! Barbara Walters has a way of asking questions that make it sound like what she's asking is important, but it's just institutionalized meaninglessness. What was left, after editing, was gossip."

INSIDE THE TUBE: Bernadette Peters is now wearing a diamond engagement ring to match the diamond engagement necklace given to her by ever-loving steady boyfriend Steve Martin. Joyce DeWitt is negotiating with four record companies now that she's finished her first LP. Back on Jan. 1, Gavin MacLeod of 'Love Boat' and his wife, Patti, were jolted by a quake that rocked Hollywood. They promptly moved out of their sky-high apartment in the Sierra Towers, and found themselves in a low home in Santa Monica. But now they are moving back into the Towers, only this time they've decided to take an apartment on the ground floor. Alex Haley is distressed and depressed over a report in a national publication which alleged the Pulitzer Prize Committee is considering stripping him of the 1977 Pulitzer he earned for 'Roots.' The author terms the report "utter rubbish!" A spokesman for the Pulitzer committee informs me, "The report is unequivocally, absolutely untrue." And Haley reveals the Pulitzer people will be issuing an official statement refuting it. But as Alex notes, "The damage has already been done. Some people who read it will have accepted it as the truth and will keep spreading the lie." With the recent addition of six new stations, 'The Merv Griffin Show' has been sold in 94 markets, including 45 of the "top 50." The announcement was made by Metromedia Producers Corporation.
