

Tax breaks and Indian relations aired at luncheon

State senator John Conway and state representative John Bigbee agreed Wednesday a tax break was in the future for New Mexico taxpayers.

Speaking to over 200 persons attending the State of the Village luncheon sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, Bigbee said state residents are "over taxed and over regulated and hopefully we can do something about it" in the upcoming legislative session.

He said the state had about $40 million surplus adding "the state is in the position where it gets fat on inflation which is really the reason for the surplus, not frugality."

Conway agreed with Bigbee's statements, stating "I don't foresee any increases in taxes, just decreases" and that he hoped the surplus could be returned to the taxpayers.

Both touched on removal of the gross receipts tax on food, with Conway stating the same tax on prescription drugs should be abolished as a much needed benefit to the people.

In answer to a question from the floor, Conway said the ad valorem tax would not be abolished and if it were, the state portion probably would be "picked up by another governing entity" such as schools or county.

Also during the luncheon, Bigbee and Conway touched on upcoming issues in the legislative session including bills concerning employee income tax withholding, liquor licensing, and right to work.

Bigbee said he was drafting a bill to repeal a law requiring employers to deduct income tax from the employee "which is an added burden and the individual should have the use of the money during that period of time until (income taxes) are due."

Conway said a bill "which is probably long overdue" allowing restaurants to serve beer or wine with meals would be introduced and "stands a better than 50/50 chance."

If passed the legislation would go into effect on January 1, 1980, he said.

On right-to-work, Conway said the issue would pass probably the house, but that opinion is about evenly divided in the Senate.

ALSO SPEAKING WEDNESDAY were president of the Mescalero Apache tribe Wendell Chino and Ruidoso mayor Lloyd Davis Jr.

In his forceful presentation Chino spoke on community relations between the tribe and Ruidoso, suppression of Indian rights and distribution of federal dollars.

Chino was pleased relations between Ruidoso and the tribe were peaceful, unlike other areas of the state where "there is constant friction between groups of people."

"We have the philosophy it is good business for our people to engage in commerce with you," he said.

"This is why when our people go to an auto dealer, I want to see the auto dealer continue ethical behavior."

"As an alternative, we are prepared and capable of becoming a self contained community and if we so desire, we can acquire dealerships for automobiles, dealerships for furniture, dealerships for appliances and so on."

"Looking down the road, we believe it is good business to engage in commerce and trade with non Indians as long as our people don't become victims of deceit, deception and other practices unbecoming of a businessman."

Also, during his speech, Chino charged "city, state legislature, the halls of Congress, the Supreme Court of the United States... every branch of the federal government, every branch of your government and mine is part of... an effort to deny expressed rights of the Indian people."

He also charged that there was little reaction when non Indians received federal funds, but when it went to a project of an Indian tribe "eyebrows are raised."

"Everyone goes to the federal trough, not only Indians. Some people entertain the idea that Indians are always at the trough."

"We all go to the same barrel, some take from the top and some take from the bottom."

Ruidoso Mayor Davis told those attending, the village was seeking funding assistance from the state to improve roads including Cree Meadows Drive to Hull Road, Country Club Road to Mechem Drive and Wingfield and Juanita streets.

"We're aware of the problems with the streets... and this spring we hope to go many miles down the road toward repairing the streets."

U.S. Senator Pete Domenici was scheduled to speak at the luncheon, but was unable to land at Ruidoso Municipal Airport because of poor weather conditions.

Trustees held routine session

The Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening met in a routine business session with the following action taken:

—Approval of Resolution 79-1 authorizing Ruidoso Ambulance Service director Ross Schwarz to apply for grant monies from state and federal sources, on a 25 percent local participation basis, to assist in operation of the service.

—Authorized the formation of a Fire Commission, with membership consisting of the incumbent Ruidoso Fire Department chief, all past chiefs in residence here and one member of the village trustees, to be named by the mayor and approved by the trustees. The commission, requested by fire chief Bill Seelbach, would serve the department in an advisory capacity.

—Adopted Ordinance 79-1, amending the civil preparedness code; and ordinance 79-2 annexing approximately two acres of land owned by Tut Shaw in Tract Two of Airport Tracts.

—Received a letter from Jim Germany, residing on county property surrounded by the village limits, requesting assistance in providing him an ingress and egress road to his property. The matter was referred to village attorney Ron Harris, assistant village administrator Frank Potter and village clerk Jim Hine for investigation and action.

—Took no action on a letter from Police Chief Paul Lukens dismissing Patrolman Bill Cantu from the Ruidoso Police Department. Cantu was advised by mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., to meet with Harris and to follow normal procedures to protest his dismissal.

While recognizing the need for improvements to Highway 70 to handle future traffic demands, Ruidoso area residents, in a Tuesday meeting with state Highway Department officials, also emphasized a desire to preserve the natural beauty and unique environment of the area.

Assistant chief highway administrator John Whitman presided over the informational meeting, held at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. He said the purpose of the meeting was to obtain citizen input to determine what the local needs are in regard to the highway.

Ruidoso Mayor Lloyd Davis Jr., drew applause with his comments that "the aesthetic value (of the area) is important to us." He cited an example of a highway through Vail, Colorado, the construction of which had necessitated removal of large numbers of trees. He said a similar construction project here would "eliminate" much of the picturesque appeal of the area.

Norman Wheeler, mayor of Ruidoso Downs, said he would recommend using the present highway with the addition of overpasses and underpasses at congested areas, such as the racetrack entrance, the "Y" and the Sierra Blanca turnoff.

Because, as Whitman said, "There are fewer federal constraints on this highway than any other we've worked on," he assured the group that their suggestions would be given consideration.

WENDELL CHINO, Mescalero Apache tribal president, spoke during an informational meeting with highway department officials Tuesday, citing safety as his number one priority in the upgrading of Highway 70 to a long distance four-lane facility.

Downs eyes sewer project cost

Ruidoso Downs trustees Monday night received pre-application forms for funding of the planned sewer project. It will be the task of the trustees to come up with cost estimates for construction of the village's portion of the project.

In presenting the application forms, village clerk Virginia Spall said she had estimated the amount at $300,000 for the necessary two years of work. An early estimate of $170,000 was inaccurate, she said, because large sections of the village were not included.

Acquisition of land was also incomplete, she added, and would have to be revised because the recent flood had changed the course of the river, and consequently, property lines.

The trustees also discussed the necessity of appointing a new member of the Joint-Use (Sewer) Board, because of the recent death of Jim Roberts, who had served on that board.

A federal grant application for funding of improvements to the All-American Municipal Park was also approved for submission. That application had already been approved in its preliminary form by the state.

"We've just scratched the surface on this, (park improvements)" mayor Norman Wheeler said, "and if we can get this (funding) it'll be great."

Correspondence from United States Representative Harold Ruml and Senator Pete Domenici regarding the flood was reviewed by the trustees. Spall reported that Ruml's office had also telephoned the village. Both officials said they would do what they could to assist the village in recovery efforts. It was noted that no reply had been received from Senator Harrison Schmitt.

Wheeler said federal disaster funding "all rides on the governor. If he declares the village a disaster area, we'll get federal funds; if not, we won't."

In other business, the trustees: —Approved accounts payable, with three exceptions. Payment will be withheld pending an itemized billing from village attorney Richard Parsons, and statements from Ruidoso Flowers and Clowe and Cowan, Inc.

—Gave final approval to Ordinance 79, which limits the cost of occupational licenses to a maximum of $600 per year. The license cost is based on one dollar per thousand dollars gross receipts of each business, with a minimum of five dollars per year. —Tabled review of holidays for village employees for 1979, pending further study.

—Granted an occupational license to the Domino Club.

Downs committee named to combat dog problems

A five-person committee formed Wednesday night at the Ruidoso Downs "dog problem meeting" will soon begin work on what they hope will be practical means to solve the animal control trouble in that village and surrounding areas.

The committee, formed at the suggestion of public health veterinarian O. J. Rollag, will consist of animal control officer Mike Hernandez Jr., veterinarian F. Lynn Willard, Don Harrison, horse and dog trainer and carpenter, Alison Walstad and Vicki Niederhauser, both animal technicians.

Rollag, who was the principal speaker at the meeting recommended the committee use an approach that has worked in New Mexico cities. Key areas of concern for the group will be improvement of or strengthening of animal control ordinances, advising on budgeting matters for an animal control program and guiding the operation of the program.

Another responsibility of the committee would be to educate the community as to responsible pet ownership in selection of a pet, care and training, and legal responsibilities.

Ed Jungbluth, executive secretary of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce was asked by Ruidoso Downs mayor Norman Wheeler to help the committee "get started," in its work.

Rollag listed several other components of an effective animal control system, including cooperation between municipalities in the county, monetary investment and trained animal control personnel, preferably with the authority to issue citations and enter private property, though not residences, to collect untagged or unregistered dogs.

The problem of wild dog packs in areas surrounding the villages will be another concern of the committee. Mayor Wheeler said he would like to investigate the possibility of having federal trappers enter into that problem.

There was some disagreement among those present as to whether control programs should deal first with strays inside the village or with the wild dog packs. By the close of the meeting, however, the consensus was that because the problems were interrelated, both would have to be dealt with equally.

TV series filming set

Sequences in a new television series, "President's Secret Service," are scheduled to be filmed in the Ruidoso area, Sheridan D. Reid, location manager for QM Productions of Hollywood, California, has announced.

Reid, who was referred to Ruidoso by the El Paso, Texas, Business and Convention Bureau, toured the area and Sierra Blanca Ski Resort to view possible sets.

Portions of the series require curving and steep roads and scenery similar to that in Switzerland and Reid said, "I find the roads, buildings and general scenery ideal for the segments we have in mind for this area."

Present scheduling calls for filming at MacDonald Observatory, near El Paso, with skiing scenes to be shot here during February. Reid also said that Ruidoso's scenery will be used while filming summer sequences for the year-long series.

The new show, Reid said, is based on the development of a ray gun that will remove moisture from clouds and, if turned on human beings, turn them into mummies. "It is," he said, "to be an ala James Bond series."

Warrior band uniforms bid ok'd by board

The Ruidoso Board of Education voted to accept the bid of Sol Frank, Clayton, of $14,982.50 for 75 Warrior band uniforms at their Tuesday evening meeting.

The company, which will provide 75 marching and 75 concert uniforms, must make some modifications to the overlay of the marching uniform and then resubmit a pilot uniform to the board in February.

Other bids were received from De Moulin, $12,831.75, Fruhauf, $15,468.75, and Medallist-Stanbury, $16,491.

Also during the meeting, the board retired into executive session for routine consideration of superintendent Pat Valliant's contract and teacher evaluations.

After the two hour closed session, board chairman Dave Parks reported simply Valliant's contract was renewed and "we have a good bunch of teachers."

In other business, the board:

—Was notified by Leonard De Layo, state superintendent of Public Instruction, December 19 and 20 would be considered as full teaching days although classes were suspended because of the flood.

—Heard a report from Terry Jones, Nulf Jones, the school district budget was satisfactory, but he suggested a standard accounting procedure be adopted.

Jones said, the Department of Finance and Administration and the state auditor have different accounting methods, which causes a problem and "almost requires two accounting systems."

—Set noon February 8 as a special school board election meeting to canvass the results.

Incumbent W. R. "Stormy" Edwards is the only official candidate.

—Adopted the revised board policy handbook.

—Accepted the low bid of $5,584 from Perceet-Parks to renew the present automobile fleet insurance policy.

—Accepted the resignation of Paula Skirmen, Nob Hill School secretary, who is studying for a real estate salesman license.

—Hired Janet Gesting as Nob Hill secretary, and Tommy Yang as high school science and math teacher.

—Accepted $853.60 from former county sheriff Bill Elliott for use in a drug abuse education program.

—Received a "thank you" from mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., for the school system's help during the flood.

—Approved checks.

The next school board meeting will be at 7 p.m., February 13 in the administrative offices.

Search/Rescue meets Tuesday

White Mountain Search and Rescue will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the American Legion building to discuss finalization of the communications equipment project.

All persons interested in attending are welcomed.

Restaurateurs may hold food tasting fest in June

A food sampling festival, complete with exotic specialties and unusual delicacies, has been tentatively scheduled for June by the restaurant committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

At their meeting Monday, the committee discussed sponsoring "A Taste of Ruidoso" to give residents and visitors an opportunity to try restaurant specialties and uncommon dishes.

Through the project, the committee not only hopes to increase their own businesses, but also to encourage restaurants not in the Chamber committee to participate in the project and possibly later participate in the regular committee meetings.

Also, during the meeting, the committee elected Junior McManus, owner of Isase's Restaurant, and Cliff Anderson, owner of Nob Hill Restaurant, as co-chairmen, and then discussed objectives of the committee.

Gary Hall, owner of Nottingham's Deli, said the committee should concentrate on "the restaurant industry as a whole" and ignore the category differentiations such as those restaurants serving food versus those serving food and liquor or full service restaurants versus fast service.

"If we step out of the scope of the restaurant industry as a whole, and apply to individual restaurants, we'll draw up sides," he said.

Committee members agreed, adding the concept has not been tried in Ruidoso and organization will take time.

In other business, the group discussed a project of printing table tents explaining good service was occasionally difficult to give when a restaurant becomes overcrowded with customers.

"We realize the customer deserves a better break than you can give sometimes, and it happens unfortunately too often in Ruidoso," Anderson said.

Melinda Hall, owner of Nottingham's Deli, said such a table tent was "an apology before the fact" and such delays in service "have always been a part of the restaurant problem" and it's found in both resort and metropolitan areas.

She added, use of the tents was "a cop out."

The committee agreed to continue the project, with some restaurants planning to use the tents and others declining.

In other business, the committee:

- Heard a report from Ed Jungbluth, Chamber executive secretary, on the retail merchants committee plan to begin a check alert system.
- Members questioned how much the system would help their businesses, concluding "if it benefits the majority of the Chamber of Commerce members then it's a good project."
- Discussed using the committee structure to serve as a "clearing house" for trade information.
- Discussed briefly the Aspenaude meal and concessions for the Arts and Crafts Fair.

The next restaurant committee meeting will be at 3 p.m., February 5 in the Chamber office.

Some Labels List Amount of Liquid in Canned Food: Opening canned fruit to serve for a quick dessert can be a disappointment if there isn't enough to go around. "It's more liquid than food" is a complaint some consumers have voiced at one time or another. However, the liquid in the can is not an attempt to deceive consumers. A packing medium, usually liquid, helps assure a safe product. In sterilizing canned food, if there is too much solid food in the container, the inner contents could be under processed.

Recently, commercial food processors have started to label canned fruits and vegetables for solid content, as well as net weight which includes both liquid and solid. Solid content is the weight of the fruits or vegetables placed in the container before the necessary liquid for processing is added and before the product is processed. Because the solid weight labeling is a voluntary program, many processors may make the change when new label printing is done. You can expect a gradual changeover to solid content labeling.

Solid content labeling will not increase the proportion of solids in canned foods but it will provide a uniform control of solids to liquids and give you a better basis for comparison among brands.

Embezzlement charges filed on local man

Charges of embezzlement of over $2,500 have been filed against David Sanerelli, Ruidoso, by Criminal Investigation Division (CID) officers of the Ruidoso Police Department.

The charges stemmed from the alleged taking of a 1975 Corvette owned by Lana Wickward, Ruidoso, by the suspect about four months ago a CID spokesman said. The missing vehicle was recovered here January 7.

In a first appearance hearing Monday before Magistrate Jim Wheeler, Ruidoso, bond on the embezzlement charge was set at $5,000 and Sanerelli is free on bond pending his preliminary hearing here later this month.

Without chains on such days, some motorists skid off the mountain or become stuck, tying up traffic, he said.

Waller has worked of-and-on in various areas on the road, from the chains sign to the top, turning back vehicles without chains.

December 31 he turned back 75 to 150 vehicles, but a seven-hour traffic jam still occurred.

Officers cannot make a motorist put chains on a vehicle, but can issue a citation because the motorist continues up the road without chains and in violation of a traffic control device, the "chains required" sign.

But, in spite of his and officer Jeff Darden's efforts, traffic jams still occur because "we're short-handed" and can't patrol the road every day the sign is posted and because "we can't enforce it totally."

"If we're not there and don't see (violators), then we can't enforce it."

Members of the lodging committee suggested the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department and Mounted Patrol assist Waller on such days, turning back violators.

But, according to Waller, the traffic problems will continue despite the needed additional help because the road requires improvement.

"The road needs work, including a proper guard rail, signs, widening and pull off areas," he said.

The construction isn't likely because State Road 532 is a secondary route and "as long as it's a secondary road it will be a secondary everything," Waller said.

The committee discussed starting a campaign including personal visits to the State Highway Commission meetings, requesting redesignation as a primary road "which it is as one source of Ruidoso's income," Slover-Caps, chairman, said.

Waller also said some visitors, but

Woman rescued from back side of Sierra Blanca

BY MARY WORMLEY Staff Writer

After the rescue of two persons who skied away from Sierra Blanca Ski Area Sunday and were lost in the wilderness, area manager Roy Parker warned such action is "very dangerous."

Ken Hayes, 27, Wickett, Texas and Paula Caylor, 22, Tucson, Arizona were rescued by ski patrol members Monday after the two skied off the northwestern trail, Ambush, and down the backside of the mountain.

Parker said their action was "unfortunate, but deliberate" as the pair went through ropes closing off the area and through a dense thicket of trees.

Hayes, who apparently intended to ski cross-country down the western side of the mountain, was equipped with proper ski gear, clothing and a pack including food and beverage.

Parker said Hayes apparently convinced Caylor to accompany him, although she was wearing "ski clothes for an afternoon of skiing" and alpine or recreational skis.

"We have no control — although we have ropes and barriers — if a person wants to go through, they'll do it," Parker said.

"It's very dangerous to ski out of bounds; the mountain can be very unforgiving."

He added, the back of the ski area is "some of the roughest country I've seen in my experience, other than just plain cliffs."

"They had no business going in there, although Hayes got himself out."

The pair doesn't face any charges although they were on a closed portion of Mescalero Apache tribal lands.

Parker said Caylor was with a party of four from Arizona, who reported her missing Sunday after the ski patrol had "swept" the mountain for stragglers.

Patrol members performed a "hasty" search of the three ridges where skiers can go out of bounds and found their tracks before dark.

Equipped with rescue packs which included "sleeping bags, cooking kits and all the necessary equipment for bivouacking on the mountain," Rick Vincent, ski school director, and Kevin Hayes, ski patrol director (no relation to Ken Hayes), started down the mountain about 8 p.m.

By midnight, they found Caylor, who was exhausted and had wrenched her back falling.

According to Parker, the pair had separated when Hayes decided to "go for help."

Vincent, Kevin Hayes and Caylor continued down the mountain until 2 a.m. when they bivouaced.

They arose at about 7 a.m., and continued the descent about 8, Parker said.

"To some degree they followed Hayes' tracks, keeping them in sight at least," said. "But Hayes was traveling at night and since they were traveling in daylight, they took easier routes."

Ken Hayes also slept on the mountain, continuing his descent Monday morning. He was met below the snow line in Indian Creek area by Herb Brunell and Dave Wilson, White Mountain Search and Rescue members (WMSR) about 9:45 a.m.

Ski patrol members and Caylor was met by Hayes and members of WMSR about 5 p.m. after a daylong walk punctuated with rest stops.

Caylor finally was brought down the mountain about 7 p.m., on a horse belonging to Sonny Wright, Three Rivers area rancher.

She and Hayes were taken to Ruidoso Downs Valley Hospital in good condition.

Ski area personnel also helping with the rescue were Tim Hannigan and Dennis Grover.

Others assisting were the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department and WMSR members Dave Travis, Walt Rawley, Harvey Foster, Greg Surmick and Richard Saldin.

Four lane road plan aired

The only requirement set down by the federal government, he said, was to "get from Amarillo, Texas to Las Cruces, New Mexico with a four-lane facility."

He also advised those present that $1.8 million in federal funds had been received, to be used for financing the preliminary environmental impact statements. An additional $20 million could become available for construction, he said.

Although the primary benefit of the highway project was seen originally as a shortcut route from Interstate 40 to Interstate 10 for west coast traffic, Mescalero Apache tribal president Wendell Chino and other local citizens raised the point at this area would also be a destination point because of the recreational activities available.

"I see Mescalero and Ruidoso as terminal points," Chino said, rather than simply points on a through route.

Origin and destination surveys were recommended by Ed Hyman, owner of radio station KRFR, as a tool to determine the percentages of through traffic and traffic bound for the Ruidoso area. He too said he was "torn" between the need for a new or improved facility and the preservation of the environment.

Comments were also heard from a Honda Valley apple grower, who said that those who depended on roadside fruit stands for a livelihood would be put out of business by a superhighway through that area.

Jim Tully, chairman of the Ruidoso Water Users Association, suggested that highways 69 and 70 be "combined up to Honda." He said such a move would avoid disturbing the valley, would be welcomed by Capitan residents and would "enhance the finest recreational area in the Southwest."

Whitman presented diagrams showing cross sections of highways planned for rural and urban areas along the route. Width of the median, which would be much larger in rural areas, was the basic difference in construction plans.

The highway department representative also presented charts outlining the probable effects of both a "relief route" which would involve a bypass of the town, and a through route, on which traffic would flow directly into the town, as is the case now in Ruidoso.

The latter, Whitman said, would take advantage of existing roadway and right of way, could be a shorter route and would provide better service for anyone coming to the town as a destination.

The urban through route would also tend to concentrate new development, provide less change in accessibility and patronage of established institutions, business and industry, and would not require construction of a totally new facility, Whitman said.

Advantageous effects of a relief route, according to Whitman, would include reduction of impact to neighborhoods and business, less traffic congestion, greater safety and faster flow of long distance traffic.

Other benefits of a relief route would be reduced impact to the existing facility and adjacent land, a tendency to open up new areas for development of commercial activities, reduced effects of noise and air pollution, and less disruption and relocation of homes, utilities and businesses, he said.

Whitman added that the department hoped to establish "partial control" of access in the Ruidoso Area. He explained that the term means interchanges will be built in high traffic areas, and access ways in rural areas would be one-fourth to one-half mile apart. Access within a town would be much closer, he said.

Ronald Ripley of the public affairs office of the highway department said the department would be appearing before the highway commission Thursday, and he was hopeful they could convince the commission to hire a consultant to make the environmental impact statements. The hiring would save time and money necessary to train a large group of people to do the work, he said.

Ski area road problems discussed here Tuesday

Immediate and long range solutions to traffic problems on State Road 532 to Sierra Blanca Ski Area were discussed at the Tuesday meeting of the lodging committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

According to Kent Waller, New Mexico State Police, traffic problems are being caused in part by persons who ignore the "chains required" signs when road conditions necessitate the use of tire chains.

Without chains on such days, some motorists skid off the mountain or become stuck, tying up traffic, he said.

Waller has worked of-and-on in various areas on the road, from the chains sign to the top, turning back vehicles without chains.

December 31 he turned back 75 to 150 vehicles, but a seven-hour traffic jam still occurred.

Officers cannot make a motorist put chains on a vehicle, but can issue a citation because the motorist continues up the road without chains and in violation of a traffic control device, the "chains required" sign.

But, in spite of his and officer Jeff Darden's efforts, traffic jams still occur because "we're short-handed" and can't patrol the road every day the sign is posted and because "we can't enforce it totally."

"If we're not there and don't see (violators), then we can't enforce it."

Members of the lodging committee suggested the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department and Mounted Patrol assist Waller on such days, turning back violators.

But, according to Waller, the traffic problems will continue despite the needed additional help because the road requires improvement.

"The road needs work, including a proper guard rail, signs, widening and pull off areas," he said.

The construction isn't likely because State Road 532 is a secondary route and "as long as it's a secondary road it will be a secondary everything," Waller said.

The committee discussed starting a campaign including personal visits to the State Highway Commission meetings, requesting redesignation as a primary road "which it is as one source of Ruidoso's income," Slover-Caps, chairman, said.

Waller also said some visitors, but mainly local residents, complained about being turned back for not having chains, although they were in four-wheel drive vehicles with snow tires.

He said he understood their point of view, but his duties were enforcement of the sign, which makes no exceptions for such vehicles.

He added, the sign could be changed to exempt four-wheel drive vehicles.

As a point of interest, Waller added the decision whether chains were required or not was made by a State Highway Department representative who checks the road between 6 and 7 a.m., daily.

He also suggested motorists always have chains in their vehicle in case the roads were clear in the morning and a storm moved in that afternoon making the roads snowy.

Also, motorists should always have a full tank of gasoline as traffic jams do occur and the car may idle for long periods.

DURING THE MEETING, Chamber executive secretary Ed Jungbluth reported he would work closely with the State Highway Department on road condition reports.

If an erroneous report is being broadcast about area roads, he will contact the highway department, which has agreed to cooperate to correct the reports.

The next meeting of the lodging committee will be at 1:30 p.m., February 5 in the Chamber offices.

FAREWELL, OLD TIMERS — It was farewell time at Sunland Park over the weekend as five race horses, now 12 years old, were officially retired. The parade was headed by Fast Gas (left), the one-time handicap sprinter who developed a tremendous following at Sunland Park, Ruidoso Downs, Santa Fe and the New Mexico State Fair. Also bidding adieu were Hy Divy, Fleet Bar Sunday, Kid Billy and Truckle Can. Each of the retirees got a blanket, a sack of carrots and a final four of the winner's circle.

Merchants planning check alert system

The retail merchants committee agreed Monday to poll the general membership of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce to assess interest in starting a check alert system.

The system will notify businessmen of persons writing hot checks, using bad credit cards or using stolen credit cards, checks or money orders.

Chamber executive secretary Ed Jungbluth will present the project to the board of directors and, if approved, final plans will be made at the February 5 meeting.

Also, committee vice presidents Mary Myers and Ralph Bellon were directed to study and make tentative plans for an "Eastertime/Welcoming Horsemen" promotion for the village April 12-14.

Other items of business discussed at the meeting include:

- Numbering of businesses on Sudderth Drive, which are in consecutive order, but in unusual block lengths.
- "The town needs numbering and signing," a committee member said.
- "With the way Ruidoso is growing, if a system isn't set up there will be a bad situation later."

- Replacing Doris Bacs, who resigned her committee position to become Chamber office manager.
- The committee agreed to find a member from Ruidoso Downs if possible because "so far, the Chamber of Commerce only represents the town of Ruidoso," committee chairman Richard Sandoval said.
- The next meeting of the retail merchants committee will be at noon February 5 in the Chamber office.

Counseling Center scheduled to open here

A February 1 opening is planned for the newly created Lincoln County Counseling to work in that capacity, some of whom will be attending training sessions this weekend.

The center is part of a five-county mental health program which began last fall, funded by the state Health and Environment Department, Lincoln County and other sources.

The purpose and goal of the center was summed up by Dr. Hickey. "We're here to help people who are having problems in living."

Local staff members will include Don Hoover, director; Sandra Taylor and Paul Gallegos, therapists; Carrie Raventon, nurse; and Susan Pfeiffer, secretary-receptionist. Dr. Mike Hickey will serve as consulting psychiatrist.

Garden Club meets Tuesday

Hoover said Monday the center will not be set up according to a "packaged program," but will be responsive to the needs and wants of the community.

The Ruidoso Garden Club will hold a combined December/January meeting January 16 at 2 p.m., in the multipurpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library with the outgoing executive board as hostesses.

Hickey added that the center "will charge according to ability to pay - no one will be refused services." Counselors and other staff will "adhere to strictest confidentiality."

Agenda items include:
- Installation of new officers.
- Discussion of programs for the upcoming year.
- The program will be: "The World is in my Garden," a preview for the year's theme: "The World in my Garden."
- Receiving member's snapshots for the scrapbook.

Also scheduled to begin February 1 is the Lincoln County Crisis Line, a 24-hour telephone counseling service. Taylor said a total of about 20 persons had volunteered

State received $1 million a day in 1979 oil and gas revenues

New Mexico received $389.3 million in 1978 as a result of direct taxes and other direct revenues from oil and gas production activities according to Peter Hanagan, executive vice president of the New Mexico Oil and Gas Association. That averaged more than a million dollars a day, and was more than 3 times the $130.5 million the state received from these sources in 1971. Total direct taxes and revenues over the 8-year period exceeded $1.6 billion ($1,680,728,501), Hanagan said.

The $389.3 million total for the year included $159.8 million from the six taxes the state assesses directly on the oil and gas industry, and $215.5 million from other sources, such as leases, royalties and earnings from state Permanent Fund Investments.

The $159.8 million total from the six direct taxes imposed on the oil and gas industry (severance, emergency school, conservation, ad valorem production, ad valorem equipment and natural gas processors) was a $117.7 million (32 percent) increase from the $38.1 million paid eight years ago.

The severance tax alone during this period rose from $12.9 million to $77.5 million, an increase of 50 percent. Similarly, the conservation tax, which funds the state Energy and Minerals Department, increased from $700 thousand to $3.3 million, a 322 percent increase.

Tax growth for the eight year period also included: Emergency School Tax, $13.2 million to $44.5 million, 237 percent increase; ad valorem production tax, $7 million to $20.8 million, 197 percent increase; ad valorem equipment tax, $1.4 million to $3.9 million, 179 percent increase; and natural gas processors tax, $300 thousand to $3.8 million, 322 percent increase.

The $215.5 million from direct revenues other than taxes marked a 235 percent increase over the $61.4 million collected from these sources in 1971. The 330 percent rise in oil and gas lease rentals and bonuses (from $4.7 million to $24.9 million) reflected the growth in exploration and drilling on state-owned lands made possible by higher oil and gas prices in recent years.

Other gains from non-tax sources include: Royalty from oil and gas production on state-owned lands, $78.1 million, an increase of 188 percent; the state's share of federal royalty from oil and gas production on federal lands, $53.7 million, an increase of 363 percent; earnings on permanent fund investments, $52.6 million, an increase of 182 percent; and earnings on the severance tax fund, $9.3 million. This fund is only two years old so there is no comparable 1971 figure.

While the rise in taxes and other revenues has been dramatic, Hanagan pointed out that oil production continued to decline in 1978 at it has every year since 1969. From 1971 through 1978, oil production decreased 29 percent. The 1978 decline was four percent for a total year's production of 83.6 million barrels. Natural gas production in 1978 was 1.15 trillion cubic feet, a 2.69 percent decline from 1977.

New Mexico ranks fourth in the nation in natural gas production and seventh in oil production. The petroleum industry is the state's greatest single source of tax revenues and ranks second in the state's general fund revenue sources, exceeded only by gross receipts (sales) taxes.

Nor does it fillon figure for direct taxes and revenues attributable to the oil and gas industry in 1978 does not include the additional large amounts of indirect taxes on the industry arising from gross receipts tax on goods and services, income and franchise taxes, and property taxes on 41 natural gas processing plants, eight refineries, 25,000 miles of pipelines and other oil and gas facilities.

Education center meeting slated

A group of citizens interested in starting a community education center for Lincoln County will hold an organizational meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the staff conference room at Fort Stanton Hospital. All interested persons are invited to attend.

A press release prepared by the group stated, "community education stresses an expanded role for public education and provides an approach to individual and community improvement.

"A community education center offers lifelong (one minute to 100 plus years of age) learning and enrichment opportunities in education, recreation, social and related cultural services with the programs and activities coordinated and developed for citizens of all ages, ethnic backgrounds and socioeconomic groups."

Lorraine Sanchez, director of staff training at Ft. Stanton and one of the organizers of the group said Wednesday they are seeking citizen input at the meeting to select a board of directors or perhaps a community council to direct the main programs of the center. A focus or direction for the programs will also be under consideration and open to discussion.

Sanchez said she hopes courses will be taught by volunteers, in which case there would be no charge to the community for participation. Courses might be scheduled one night a week in each community in the county, she said, and car pools might be formed if a group from Carrizozo, for example, wanted to participate in activities in Ruidoso.

Sanchez urged public participation in the first meeting, saying the purpose would be, "to open it up . . . to see where it can go."

Anyone with questions or needing directions to the meeting location should contact one of the following persons:

Bill or Jane Allred - 354-2274 (Capitan)
 David Lynch - 640-2845 (Carrizozo)
 Elliot Topper - 354-2650 (Fort Stanton)
 Lorraine Sanchez - 354-2211 (Fort Stanton) 257-7026 (after 5 p.m. - Ruidoso).

The Ruidoso News SPORTS

JOHN NEYLAND Sports Writer

Herrera fits wrestling mold

BY JOHN NEYLAND
Sports Writer

Whoever invented the sport of wrestling must have had Ruidoso's Ray Herrera in mind. Wrestling demands strength, skill and patience. Although brute strength is an asset in the sport, it will not always win out over a weaker opponent. Technique is an essential ingredient, if one is to win.

In a sport of that nature, Ray Herrera is a perfect specimen. He is not heavy — he weighs only 128 pounds — but he's strong. He played guard on the football team, a position that requires many of the same talents as wrestling. A guard must be either quick or strong to be successful. If he possesses both attributes, so much the better. The same goes for a wrestler. Ray Herrera possesses both, although he does not necessarily agree.

"If I really tried, I could be a lot more dedicated than I am now," he said. "I could be a little quicker and a little smarter."

One might suspect that, due to the physical nature of wrestling, opponents lose their tempers at times. That is not the case. Like boxing, or any other sport, a cool head is the best kind of head to have. For Herrera, anger is not something to carry out onto the mat. Herrera carries a professional attitude onto the mat when he wrestles. Calm, not anger, wins wrestling matches.

"I just want to go out and wrestle," he said.

Up until a year ago, Herrera didn't even want to do that. If it hadn't been for the coaxing of head coach Gerald Ames, Herrera would not be wrestling today.

"I didn't really want to go out," he said. "I was working a little bit at the time. Coach Ames talked me into going out for the team. I finally decided to go out."

For Herrera, a senior at Ruidoso High School, the decision was one that he has never regretted. In fact, when he graduates this spring, he'd like to attend a college that has a wrestling program. But he also wants to go to a college that offers a sound agriculture program, which is his main interest after sports.

"It's fun," he said. "Practice is pretty rough for awhile. It's not like football. You don't have to go against anybody bigger than you.

"The only two schools I've looked at are Fort Lewis and New Mexico State," he continued. "I'll probably go to state. I'd like to keep on wrestling. It helps with fitness. It feels pretty good to be in shape."

"I'd like to go into the agriculture business," he said. "I like farming and ranching. My grandfather has a ranch in Hondo. That's where I spend most of my time on the weekends and summers."

Herrera was born in Hondo. He lived there until his family moved to Roswell when Ray was in third grade. In fifth grade, the Herreras moved to Ruidoso where they have lived ever since. Although Ray likes Ruidoso, he would like to live in Colorado after college.

"If I do alright in college and there's a chance for a good job, I'd like to go to Colorado," he said. "I like it over there. I've got some pretty places."

Work is not alien to Herrera. Besides working on his grandfather's ranch whenever he can, Ray also tries to set an example for his younger brothers and sisters. He is the second oldest of six children. His older sister doesn't live with the family anymore, so Ray is essentially the oldest.

"Right now, my sister moved out," he said. "I'm the oldest in the house so I have to help out. I have to tell the younger ones what they do wrong."

"I like to set an example for my little brothers," he continued. "I'm not much of an example just yet, but I'm working on it. I wish I could spend more time with my little brothers. I give them a lot of hassle."

Which is what he gives his opponents on the mat. As far as they are concerned, they wish Ames never would have talked Herrera into becoming a wrestler.

Ames shuffles lineup for weekend bout

The Ruidoso wrestling team will have a new look when they entertain New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) Saturday at 6 p.m., in Warrior Gym.

In an effort to gain more strength, head coach Gerald Ames has reshuffled his lineup. He has moved Danny Rascher from the 132 pound class to the 121 class. In addition, he moved Keith Sullivan from the 121 class to the 107 pound class.

"This should give us a little more power," Ames said. "We'll still have to forfeit the 180 pound class."

Ames is concerned with NMMI for more than one reason. Besides the fact that they will be tough, as most opponents are, their best wrestlers are in the same weight classes as Ruidoso's best wrestlers.

"Their best weights are against our best weights," Ames said. "So it will be our studs against their studs. They're gonna be tight matches."

Despite this, Ames is confident the Warriors can up their dual match record to 2-1.

"I think we can beat them," he said. "It'll be tough because of forfeits. If we can have some good support, with a lot of fans, we can win it. I'd like to win this one."

Bowling league forming Friday

Anyone interested in joining a scratch bowling league is invited to come to the Holiday Bowl Friday night at 7:30.

KELLY COTHRUN [right] SHOOTS OVER THE outstretched arms of a Carrizozo player during Tuesday's 47-36 Warrior win. The Warriors rallied from a 22-16 halftime deficit to top the Grizzlies at Carrizozo. The Warriors take the court today at 2:30 against Reserve in the Cloudecroft tournament.

Ruidoso downs Grizzlies; eyes Cloudecroft tourney

Kristi Perryman tallied 25 points, 17 in the second half, Tuesday evening as the Ruidoso Warrior girls' basketball team rallied to defeat the Carrizozo Grizzlies 47-36, at Carrizozo.

The first period belonged to the Grizzlies. They delighted a home crowd of 65 by jumping out to an early six to nothing lead. The cold shooting Warriors couldn't find the range. The only scoring they could muster came from Lori Swain, who hit three free throws to make the score six to three at the end of the first period.

Both teams' shooting hands heated up in the second period. After Ruidoso took the lead eight to seven in the second period, Carrizozo pulled to leads as big as ten points. Ruidoso trailed by 10, 22-12 with less than two minutes remaining in the half, but scored four unanswered points to cut the margin to 22-16 at halftime.

The third period belonged to the Warriors. After Lisa Shaw picked up her fifth foul with more than four minutes remaining in the period, Ruidoso, and in particular Perryman, went to work on the Grizzlies' press. With Patsy Almager taking Shaw's place in the lineup, Ruidoso had little difficulty breaking the press. Perryman repeatedly broke the press herself and wound up driving for uncontested layups. Still, after three periods of play, Carrizozo clung to the lead, 30-28.

The Warriors picked up the tempo even more in the fourth period. Ruidoso tied the score early in the fourth stanza and then, with 6:04 left in the game, Perryman hit a 10 foot jump shot to put the Warriors in the lead for good.

With Carrizozo pressing even more fervently now that they were behind, Perryman and company had more opportunities for uncontested layups. Perryman made the most of these opportunities. Ruidoso was going away. The win capped Ruidoso's season mark to 4-5.

Perryman led Ruidoso scoring with 26 points. Lori Swain was the only other Warrior to hit double figures. She tallied 11. Cathy Jones added five points, including three crucial free throws early in the fourth period. Patsy Almager added four and Kelly Cothrun scored two points. The Ruidoso junior varsity didn't fare as well as their older counterparts, falling to Carrizozo 28-25.

The varsity travels to Cloudecroft today through Saturday for the Cloudecroft basketball tourney.

In their opening game today, the Warriors meet Reserve, a team head coach Sergio Castanon labels "one of the best teams in the tournament." In spite of that, however, Castanon thinks Ruidoso can win the tournament if "we play likewere did last night (at Carrizozo)."

Should the Warriors defeat Reserve in their 2:30 p.m. contest, they would meet the winner of the Wood-Hatch game Friday at 6 p.m. If they lose, they meet the loser of that game Friday at 1 p.m.

Cagers entertain NMMI; meet Silver City on road

The Ruidoso cagers host New Mexico Military Institute Friday at Warriors Gym. Saturday, the Warriors travel to Silver City for a contest with the Fighlin' Colts.

Warrior coach Barry Nelson hopes the Warriors fare better than they did in their first encounter with NMMI. In that game, the first of the year for Ruidoso, the Warriors fell 93-56.

In that contest, Ruidoso ran a fast break offense and a pressing defense. The press paid off, Nelson said, with Ruidoso forcing many turnovers. But their failure to capitalize on them and poor field goal shooting led to the Warriors' downfall.

Due to the departure from school of Clay Blank, Nelson has been forced to shuffle his lineup. Expected to start both games are: Bode Williams, Jeff Elliott, Stan Cape, Sean Mound and Rodney Thomason. One of Nelson's biggest concerns is, with the departure of Blank, he has only three substitutes to choose from. They are Tim Riley, Greg Jones and Joe Almager.

Friday's contest with NMMI will feature a junior varsity game beginning at 5:30 p.m. Varsity play will follow. The game at Silver City also features a junior varsity contest prior to the varsity game. The games are set to begin at 8:30 p.m. It is the only meeting of the season for Silver City and Ruidoso.

My Easy Credit killed Saturday

My Easy Credit, a racehorse who won the Triple Crown here as a three-year-old in 1977, was reported killed Saturday. The horse, owned by Harold Burford of Milton, Kansas, apparently suffered a broken neck in a fall on an icy patch of ground.

The horse took victories in the Kansas, Rainbow and All-American Derbies and placed "in the money" in numerous other races. At the close of the 1977 racing season, a meeting of track officials and members of the press voted My Easy Credit Quarter Horse Champion of the year, as well as best three-year-old colt.

Ruidoso C.B. Club Doings

BY THE ZOOKEEPER

After a very busy Holiday Season, the first meeting of the new year was held Monday night at K-Bob's. There was a good turnout and the events of the past year were discussed. The Club birthday party will be held Monday, January 15 at K-Bob beginning at 7 p.m. We will have a Dutch Treat with the election of officers to follow the meal. Every member is asked to be there. If you want to have a say in who runs our club, be there and cast your vote. Nominations of officers will be made from the floor, so be thinking about who you would like to have in office.

Mother Nature is finishing her second year as president of our club, and she has sent an open letter to our community.

Dear friends: As our second year comes to a close, I would like to take this opportunity to say a heartfelt word of thanks to the community at large.

To the wonderful people in my home town, I want to give a special thank you to those that have received calls from The Mother Nature, and have offered, and given unreservedly your assistance in all kinds of situations.

This month marks the end of my two years of leadership of the Ruidoso C.B. Club. It has been a pleasure to serve you as individuals, business, service organizations and public service.

I especially want the members of the Ruidoso Police Department, Ruidoso Downs Police Department, State Police, Sheriff's Department, wrecker service, ambulance service, community public service, gas companies, car parts dealers, service stations, motels and restaurants and anyone else that I might have missed. These people, even though called at any hour of the night, were glad to leave a warm fireside and help when help was needed regardless of the time or weather.

I want all these people to know that I personally, and all the members of the club, have needed and appreciated your help. Without your unbridled help our job would be useless.

I will still be active in our club and when we need help from anyone you will be the first to know it.

Thanks to all of you, again you have my deepest affection and total appreciation.

When you need me, you will find me 10-10 on One Nine.

Affectionately,
Betty Bennett
The Mother Nature

Get well wishes go this week to Oklahoma Annie in Room 361, St. Mary's Hospital, Roswell.

If you were at the meeting Monday, everyone was glad to see you but if you were not able to come, we missed you. See you soon.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Jack Frost Creates A Rare Winter Scene

There is an old pioneer American fiddle tune called "The Eighth of January." Surely the composer of the tune must have had in mind something special that happened on this date.

Well, on the eighth of January this year the world awoke here in the vale to a winter scene that you see only once in a great while.

For two days the sun had been hidden by freezing mist carried by the north wind. Then on the eighth of January, in the morning you looked out on a world of just two colors: blue and white. The sky was pure blue and the sun shone down upon a mountain land all covered with a thick coat of pure white frost. The sun shone bright, but the cold north wind held the mantle of frost on field, hillsides and evergreens and river trees.

About mid morning, suddenly the north wind stopped still in its tracks and immediately you could feel the warmth of the sun.

In the twinkling of an eye, the frost on the sunny side began to glisten and the tiniest droplets began to form on the Cedar and Pinon foliage. Numberless tiny hands were holding the shining drops. The snow under foot was solid. With the melting of the frost on the sunny side during the lull in the north wind, the drops on the Pinon needles and cedar boughs began to grow — you could see them growing — into the size of a large rain drop. They stayed on the trees, surely with some purpose in mind, wishing to do some favor to the world before dropping to the ground.

With the help of the sun, they seemed happy in decorating and adorning the evergreens with round sparkling diamonds. This was only on the sunny side. You noticed that the shady sides of the trees were just as they were before the sun came up — completely covered with a coat of heavy frost.

The large Apricot tree and the river trees like magic were turned into pictures of leafless winter trees of melting frost on their branches and limbs in all stages of rapid melting, with water running down the twigs and making sparkling streaks of silver light as the drops became large and released their hold on the tree and fell through the tree to the ground. Other drops stayed on the branches turning them into a tree of jewels.

Out of the stillness, the North wind moved ever so little. The melting drops ceased immediately at the whispered voice of the north wind. The light breeze was not enough to tumble the drops from their hold on the trees, just enough to make them dance happily on their beloved twigs and branches of pinon and cedar, so that the sun, smiling upon them in their dancing, and shining through them, turned them into beads of jewel colors: ruby, emerald and amethyst and all the rainbow and star colors.

The gentle movement of the drops caused them to change, in the magic of the sun, from one color to the other, crimson, gold, Christmas red, aquamarine and lilac.

You never saw such a celebration of sunny drops changing their jewel colors. Like tiny sparks, fire, and Christmas lights. There is a touch of reverence in the celebration of the snowy drops, something like Christmas.

What made this such a wonderful sight so seldom seen was that all up and down the vale the evergreens were half rainbow-colored beads of melting snow jewelry, and the other half on the shady side, pure white frost.

You could not get enough of looking at this spectacle of God's own display of winter beauty. The scene holds you in its spell.

Another lull in the north wind, and the sun feels warm. On the shady side of the evergreens, the frost begins to melt ever so slowly and, the little drops form on the frost making silver jewels on pure white frost.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

By Karen Haloran
JOCKEY GILBERT VILLESACA took a thumping in the gate from his mount, Sena Moon, prior to Saturday's Winham Lad Purse and had to take a trip to Providence Memorial Hospital. After undergoing X-rays however, Villesaca was diagnosed as having a severely sprained, swollen ankle (rather than fractured as was originally thought) with a probable two week recuperation period. Sena Moon was scratched from the race by the track vet after her fractious performance.
THE FASTEST TIME for 350 yards of the fall-spring season was turned in by Charge Rocket in a quick-allowance trip Saturday. The four-year-old, owned by Maxine Lee of El Paso, Texas carried 122 pounds and hit the wire with a brisk clocking of 17.88 seconds on a sloppy track. Charge Rocket now carries a career bankroll of over $48,000. Leroy Coombs was at the reins Saturday.
FAST GAS, ALONG WITH five other 12-year-olds, took his final tour of the winner's circle in Sunday's retirement ceremonies. The exceptional New Mexico star won 37 races, including 16 stakes, in his lengthy career and earned close to $100,000. He equalled the five furlong track record at Albuquerque twice and set new track records at Santa Fe for 6 1/4 and 7 furlongs. Fast Gas recorded 20 wins at Sunland and picked up his biggest paycheck of $4,280 in the Liberty Handicap at Santa Fe when he was 10 years old. Those who watched him race will long remember him.
OTHER RETIREES, who each received a farewell blanket, a sack of carrots and a bottle of champagne for their owners, included crack 870 yard performers Moby Killian and Hy Divy; Kid Billy, who scored 24 victories in sprint events in his career; and high powered claimer Fleet Bar Sunday and Truckee Can.

SUNDAY'S FIRST RACE turned out to be a first in a lot of ways. The winner of the six furlong tour, Bo, was making his first career start and picked up his initial victory with plenty of room to spare. The freshman romped in with 11 lengths at the wire. Apprentice Joel Sherman was at the reins to pick up his first win at the Sunland oval. And A.E. Cree, Bo's trainer, earned his first win with the first horse he ever trained.
FORMER JOCKEY BOBBY HARMON was back in the winner's circle Friday, but this time as a trainer. The retired rider sent out Noble Dan in the allowance feature and the colt rambled in with a breezing 6 1/4 length victory with Bobby Don Harmon in the irons. The elder Harmon, who still maintains the position as all time jockey champ at Sunland Park with 133 wins in a single season, quit riding in 1977 for health reasons.
THE JOCKEY COMPETITION Saturday was really spread out as 10 different riders found their way to triumph during the 10 race card. Friday's slate produced only one helmetman with a pair of wins to his credit on that day and that was apprentice Joe Martinez.
BIG TIME FOUR, the gelding given away by KDBC-TV last spring at Sunland, made his racing debut in Sunday's first race. The sophomore went to the gate with some swift workouts under his belt, but seemed at odds with the muddy track condition and tired in the stretch to finish out of contention.
IN STEWARDS' RULINGS, Jockey Betty Harless received a seven day suspension (January 1-7) for careless riding which caused her mount, Be An Easter Baby, to be disqualified in the third race, December 28.
HORSES BREAKING from the No. 9 slot were the most successful over the weekend, reaching the winner's circle five times. Here are the totals for the 1978-79 season:
 No. 1 — 48, No. 2 — 48, No. 3 — 35, No. 4 — 46, No. 5 — 34, No. 6 — 33, No. 7 — 59, No. 8 — 53, No. 9 — 34, No. 10 — 28, No. 11 — 4, No. 12 — 1.

Dear Wayne — Why do so many lure manufacturers make lures in every color of the rainbow while almost ignoring natural, bait colors? Are fish attracted more by these bright colors than by a bait of natural color? John R., West Virginia

Dear John — Most accomplished anglers believe the manner in which a lure is fished is more important than its color. No doubt some of the beautifully painted lures are more pleasing to the fisherman than to the fish. Under the poor light conditions of deeper water, many colors and lures lose their identity and dissolve into a dark, low visibility mass. An attractive, multi-colored lure becomes something quite different when fished deep.

There are times when a certain color seems to produce better results than other colors. This may be due to part of its high visibility under existing conditions.

The most popular lure colors are black, white, yellow and orange.

I believe most anglers are overstocked in the lure department. If you throw out all except about ten or fifteen of the best producing lures, the decision of which to use would be much easier, and your net catch would probably be just as good. But you won't do it, and neither will I. Besides, who could resist just a couple more? Especially when they are so pretty. And, ah yes, how about that new design you saw at the outdoor show. Bet you don't have one like that — yet.

by Ernie Mills

Santa Fe--And... Away We Go: It was an easy prediction to make that Governor Bruce King would have his "house" in pretty good order by the opening of the Legislature--but that doesn't hold true for the lawmakers.

Here's the key: In any Legislative session there are funds among individual members, feuds between the Republican and Democratic members of each House and feuds among factions of each party.

But, during the session each party to the final hour, there is a period of reckoning when members of each House band together and come up with the leadership that can take care of two major responsibilities.

The first is to have the power, wisdom and authority to name the bottom line. That's the term the insiders give to the lowest possible bending point in compromise negotiations between the House and Senate.

The second responsibility is to have the type of leadership in each House to produce when they get to the bottom line.

Believe it or not, the Senate and House leaders are just as anxious as anyone to have that kind of leadership in the other body.

And... this reporter may be sticking his neck way out... but as this column is being written, we do not see that kind of leadership--effective leadership--in the House of Representatives.

That spells big trouble for lobbyists, big trouble for concerned citizens interested in specific pieces of legislation and big trouble on the horizon two months from now when the session draws to a close... for just about everybody except the news media that should have a heyday covering the infighting.

We'll repeat it again. Despite all the headlines in the opening days of the session, try and single out the couple of guys in the Lower House who are going to be able to produce when negotiations come down to the wire with the Senate. If they surface early, there's hope. If not--then it's Katy Bar the Door!

Energy Conservation: A report issued at the end of the Apodaca administration suggests that New Mexicans can save 32.6 trillion BTU's of energy by adopting recommendations contained within the State Energy Conservation Plan.

The New Mexico State Energy Plan, a 57-page document developed by former energy leader Nick Franklin and the Apodaca people, says such a savings would represent six percent of all energy consumed in New Mexico during 1976.

Meanwhile, the first week of the Bruce

King term saw the Energy and Minerals Department conducting a workshop on solar energy as it ties to business places in New Mexico.

Energy official Tom Cunnings says that solar energy is useable on many New Mexico businesses--both new and old.

While the State Energy Plan drew criticism for being released just days before the conclusion of the Apodaca administration, it does contain a number of eye-opening comments and displays the large number of areas taxpayers are funding in the area of energy.

If you're a taxpayer wanting some of this energy-saving information for your personal use, call toll-free 1-800-432-8783 in Santa Fe, and you will be directed to the proper energy division.

Wild Item Time: When a memorandum is circulated within the State Taxation and Revenue Department, it could go to so many places it's almost unbelievable.

We saw a late December memo which contained FIFTY possible boxes to check when dispatching the memo--and most were in government abbreviations or jargon.

The memorandum could go to: Secy, Adm Asst, Res & Stat, Legal, Mgmt Audit, Adm S Dir, EEO Off, Mgmt Anal, Fin Ser, Budget, Mail, Supply, Pers Bur, Comm Bur, Tech writer, Word pro, Mgmt ser, Sys ser, EDP, Xerox room, Rev Dir, Rev D Director, Hearing Off, Dist 1, Dist 2, Dist 3, Dist 4, Dist 5, Tax Fraud, Rev Act, RP chlef, Rec & Reg, Oper, ERR Res, Spec Pro, Tech S Chlef, TS Audit, TS Coll, TS Comp, Prop T Dir, Prop T D Dir, Appr, Del Prop, Cen Assess, O&G Dir, O&G D Dir, Sev & Res, Data Pro and two of the boxes were blank. Whew!

Maybe Taxation and Revenue can give this old-timer a lingo course on some of those gems.

By the way, those boxes take up about 1/3 of the memo sheet. And at the bottom of the memo--there's 10 possibilities regarding the memorandum. The author has the following options: For your action, please furnish info, for your approval, for your signature, for your comment and return, see me, for your information, please circulate, file and an empty box for some other unlisted category.

After seeing the memo, this writer couldn't help but remember Taxation Revenue Secretary Fred Muniz' words before the Legislative Finance Committee. Sharp Fred said his department was being strangled with paperwork. And now we believe it!

The Bernalillo County Democratic party will sponsor a get-together of several top state and city leaders January 13 in the Big

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

In a recent article in The Ruidoso News I was given credit for the creating of the Emma Redmann Appreciation Fund.

The fund was actually set up by my wife, Esther Junge, and I have just assisted in calling on many of Emma's friends here in Ruidoso in her behalf.

We want to thank you who have given so generously to this fund and ask those who we did not contact and who want to contribute send their contributions to: The Security Bank - Emma Redmann Appreciation Fund - Ruidoso. This fund will remain open during the month of January.

OIL FOR OUR FOOD

A fascinating sidelight on the oil shortage is set forth in a report, "The Energy Crunch," just issued by L.G. Cook

Duke City.

Senate Finance boss Aubrey Dunn, and the House Speaker Walter Martinez, are expected to talk turkey with the mayors of New Mexico's three largest cities. David Busk of Albuquerque, Art Trujillo of Santa Fe and Albert Johnson of Las Cruces will present their legislative priority list to the state leaders.

The theme of this year's forum is "Cut Back of State Government - What does this mean?"

Associates in Summit, N.J. The usual supposition is that gasoline use in our millions of cars and trucks, plus fuel for domestic heating and industrial use, pretty much account for U.S. oil consumption. The Cook report gives the lie to that in a way which may come as a surprise to many who consider themselves reasonably well read.

Think about food. More precisely, think about the processes that go into producing food and bringing it to the table.

Think about all the tractors and trucks involved in farm operations and in bringing crops to market. Think about the enormous amounts of petroleum that serve as the raw material for fertilizer; think of the energy for refrigeration as perishables are hauled across country. And finally, think about the gas and electricity used for home refrigeration and cooking.

If you think up, it mounts up so much that, according to "The Energy Crunch," 10 to 12 calories of oil are burned up for every calorie of food on the table. Quantitatively, this is outclassed by the amount of oil consumed in traffic and for heating and the manufacture of consumer goods. Still, it's clear that a large quantity of this finite resource goes to put food on our plates. - Alamogordo Daily News

FISHERMAN JIMMY

Our Jimmy did a fishing go... and... according to his picture in the paper... did catch a fish... long enough to cause him to put the stretch to his arms... sideways... for a palm-to-palm measurement... and thus his expertise in Izak Walton endeavors is proven.

Now Jimmy... about those big ones that got away... like peace in the Midwest... balancing the budget... winning the confidence of fellow Democrats... keeping on good terms with Taiwan...

FLUCTUATING DOCKETS

Municipal Judge Sam Nunnally has been doing a lot of pencil pushing of late... to determine how many culprits have appeared before him to have justice dispensed... and interesting were the figures.

In 1972 Judge Sam had 771 cases... 1,085 in 1973... 2,294 in 1974... (twice a busy year)... 1,149 in 1975... 1,925 in 1976... 1,830 in 1977 and 1,065 in 1978... indicative of exactly what, his honor isn't too sure.

Judge Sam also allowed as how he was also a mite confused about what's baffling drivers on Ruidoso streets... 'cause he determined... from checking police records... that 54 accidents occurred in the village during December... and that he had a total of 15 speeding tickets on his dockets... which could indicate that our drivers aren't getting involved in accidents due to having their feet stuck in their carburetors.

But Judge Sam's philosophical about the whole thing... and continues to temper justice with mercy... though some of the culprits aorta figure that there's mighty little difference between the cost of justice and mercy... even though, mercifully, Judge Sam does at times... when circumstances are extenuating... levy fines below the maximum allowable by law... which the culprits may or may not appreciate.

But there's this much about Judge Sam's court... it's drivers don't do anything that breaks the law... or don't attract the attention of the patrol officers... they don't get the opportunity to watch... first hand... how the judge dispenses justice... which can be a costly experience. On the other hand... in the event of fines for driving infractions... the pain isn't excruciating until the points lost total 12.

A YEAR TO REBUILD

Our village fathers... and county dads... can feel pretty much like coaches this year... and make sounds like... "It's our year to rebuild"... rebuild things like roads, bridges, sewer mains and water lines... seeing's the December 19 flood removed some of these conveniences.

And it's for certain that the new county commissioners... with the present two to one day have the third member appointed by Governor King... will get their share of lumps as they pursue the various avenues open to them to obtain financial help from state/federal sources to rebuild roads and bridges in the upper reaches of the Rio Grande watershed... and that small creek shed considerable water in the recent flood.

So there our commissioners are... smack dab up to their eyeballs in flood problems... possibly champing at the bit to get repairs started... and facing the frustrations sure to ensue as they start wading through neck deep red tape to gain their goals. Yup... there's isn't an enviable lot... but think of the opportunities existing for them to gain an immediate insight into the intricacies of things politic... like trying to get the loose ends of the ball of twine that ties governmental agencies together... to the end that they'll soon get their knotty road/bridge problems unwound... and the resulting traffic snarls straightened out.

Then there's the problems to be faced by our village fathers... who've had considerable experience at trying to fathom the problems of dealing with the bureaucracy... collectively and individually.

The Ruidoso trustees may approach solutions to the flood problems with more of a jaundiced eye than the new county commission... 'cause they've waded through mazes of red tape before... sometimes to persevere... sometimes to come a cropper of that feeling of being had.

However... the trustees have the situation as well in hand as is possible... considering the situation is well out of hand... and ere long the good word'll come... and... like all good coaches... they can get about the serious business of coping with the problems in their year to rebuild.

With the comforting thought being... they'll all get the job done... in due time.

BRIEF BIT: Somehow, knowing it's 60 below zero in Montana isn't a warming thought as you set about thawing your frozen water pipes here... CD
